Charge border rigging

OTTAWA (CP) — The fight over redistribution of parliamentary constituencies flared up again in the Commons Thursday when two Conservative MPs suggested that the Liberals are trying to rig the process. Two cabinet ministers flatly denied the charge.

Shouts of "lies," "discrimination" and "gerrymandering" rang across the chamber as the House concluded a three-part debate on a Conservative motion calling for publication of various electoral maps being drawn up by Representation Commissioner Castonguay.

The 51 Conservatives present drew support only from nine Creditistes and the motion was defeated 101 to 60. The move was opposed by 84 Liberals, 11 New Democrats and six Social Credit MPs.

Louis-Joseph Pigeon (PC—Joliette—L'Assomption—Montcalm) charged that the cabinet has agreed secretly to demands by Liberal backbenchers that maps prepared by Mr. Castonguay be revised to give a voting edge to the Liberal party.

He said two Liberal MPs—whom he declined to name—told him the "deal" was made at a caucus meeting May 6. Many Liberals had objected strongly to the way Mr. Castonguay's maps altered their ridings and the cabinet had invited recommendations for changes from the MPs.

"That's a lie, a falsehood," replied Justice Minister Favreau.

SAYS CHARGES SERIOUS

He said the charges were most serious and should be supported by evidence or be withdrawn. Mr. Pigeon refused to withdraw them or to identify his sources.

Privy Council President McIlraith said Mr. Pigeon's remarks were entirely inaccurate and deserved contempt.

He repeated a previous government statement that three sets of "sketch maps" showing tolerance levels of 10, 20 and 25 per cent are being prepared by Mr. Castonguay's staff for each province.

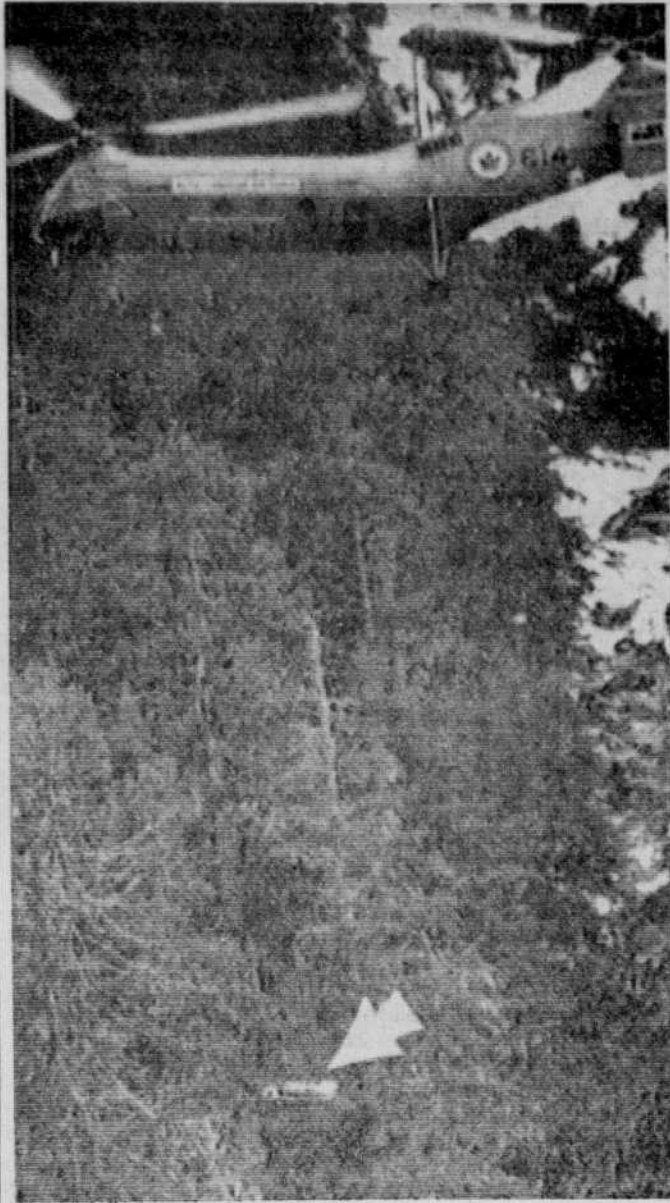

These maps were not final and would serve only as working papers for the 10 independent provincial commissions that would be named later to redraw the electoral borders in each province on the basis of population shifts. Mr. Castonguay thought publication now would be untimely.

Eldon Woolliams (PC—Bow River) said Conservatives, especially Opposition Leader Diefenbaker, have been the victims of Liberal gerrymandering in the past. They were naturally suspicious about government claims that the next redistribution would be above party politics.

The debate was a motion for the production of papers by Paul Martineau (PC—Pontiac—Temiscamingue). Under new rules, these motions must come to a vote after 2½ hours of discussion. The first two hours of the redistribution debate took place last Thursday and the previous Thursday.

Charges double taxation standard being developed

OTTAWA (CP)—A bilingual Conservative MP from Western Canada charged in the Commons Thursday that the Liberal government is setting up two classes of taxpayers in Canada—one in Quebec and the other in the remaining nine provinces.

And an English-speaking New Democratic MP, Douglas Fisher of Port Arthur, accused Prime Minister Pearson of being personally responsible for a deterioration in French-English relations since the Liberals took office 14 months ago.

Marcel Lambert (PC—Edmonton West) leveled his accusation after Finance Minister Gordon announced he is delaying action on amendments to the Income Tax Act arising from the extension of family allowances forecast in his budget last March.

In his budget Mr. Gordon said the government will pay a $10-a-month allowance to 16- and 17-year-olds who stay in school. That's $2 more than the present top family allowance rate which ends on the 16th birthday.

Prime Minister Pearson was expected to tell the Commons today when the government intends to introduce the revised allowances bill. He also planned to outline the legislation the government hopes will be dealt with during the rest of this second session of the 26th Parliament.

Thursday's sitting was devoted mainly to debate on a bill to implement income tax changes announced in the Commons. It received second reading approval in principle.

WANT MORE INFORMATION

Mr. Gordon said he was delaying action on Income Tax Act amendments relating to the family allowances because MPs appeared to want more information on what new taxing powers would be given to Quebec instead of the allowances.

Special aid for Thetford

QUEBEC (CP)—Premier Lesage Thursday expressed approval in principle of a request from Jean Marchand, president of the Confederation of National Trade Unions, for a $300,000 fund to aid miners losing their jobs at Thetford Mines as the result of fusion of two firms.

The amount and other details must be determined, however, Mr. Lesage said in reply to a question from Rene Lavoie (UN-Wolfe).

Some 100 men have already been dropped from company payrolls and another 500 are expected to be put out of work as a result of the amalgamation of the two asbestos companies.

Meanwhile, Natural Resources Minister Rene Levesque is holding talks with management, labor and municipal authorities in hopes of finding a solution to the men's problems.

Post office robbed

COWANSVILLE (Special) — Thieves this morning broke into the Cowansville post office and escaped with eight or ten registered mail articles.

The robbery occurred shortly after 5 a.m., at which time the mail from outside points had been delivered to the Post Office by truck and piled on two trucks.

The thieves apparently knew what they were looking for as only the sacks containing the registered mail were removed from the piles. These were cut open and the registered articles removed.

The amount of the loss has not been determined. It is being necessary to contact the senders of the packages.

Entry was made by the rear door which was forced open by two crowbars found on the scene.

This is the second robbery at the local post office in five years, the previous being in June, 1959, when the office was ransacked and everything of value, including stamps, being taken.

May limit BBC radio monopoly

LONDON (AP)—Two "pirate" radio ships may have opened the way for licensed commercial radio in Britain.

Postmaster-General J. Reginald Bevins told Conservative party legislators he had shelved plans for trying to suppress the floating stations, Caroline and Atlanta, broadcasting day and night from the North Sea.

Britain may soon licence its own commercial radio, as it did commercial television nine years ago.

Commercial television has proved so popular—and such a rich tax source—that powerful interests are pushing to commercialize radio.

Many radio listeners would like to see a competitor for the government-controlled, non-commercial BBC monopoly, which is supported by fees on radio and television sets.

Radio Caroline started broadcasting last Easter and Radio Atlanta joined it this week.

Conservative party legislators have warned the government it might lose many votes in this fall's national election if it suppressed the "pop pirates."

Some Britons criticize BBC's radio programs as too staid, even though it allots much time to disc jockeys. Listeners also seem to enjoy advertising. Commercial Radio Luxembourg for many years has held a sizeable British audience.

SAIGON (AP) — Slipping out of their jungle stronghold in "D" Zone north of Saigon, a Communist Viet Cong force smashed a government relief column in one of the bloodiest ambushes of the year.

From dug-in positions along Route 16, the Viet Cong opened up with heavy weapon and automatic rifle fire that killed 51 government troops. Another 30, including an American Ranger officer, were wounded in the engagement Thursday 22 miles north of Saigon.

Ten soldiers were reported missing.

"We make the same mistakes all the time," a frustrated American adviser commented.

There is an average of one major Viet Cong ambush every week. American advisers are concentrating much of their effort on making the South Vietnamese ambush conscious.

The Viet Cong laid their trap Thursday in traditional style by attacking three outposts, the district town of Tan Uyen, 25 miles north of Saigon, and a strategic hamlet before dawn.

The attacks appeared coordinated around Tan Uyen. By morning, three persons had been reported killed, 10 weapons lost and two radio transmitters stolen. A relief force headed up the road along the Dong Nai River.

RANGERS IN RELIEF FORCE

Elements of a Ranger and infantry battalion were in the relief force, which moved in vehicles, American sources said.

The Viet Cong had apparently moved in alongside the road Wednesday night. Reports of the ambush are still sketchy, but apparently the Viet Cong permitted part of the convoy to pass and then opened up.

The fact that 51 government troops were killed compared with 30 wounded indicated to American advisers in Saigon that the Viet Cong firepower was intense. Normally, there are three men wounded to one killed.

Other government units were rushed to the region but reported no contact with the Viet Cong.

Meanwhile, a Viet Cong company with heavy mortars attacked two outposts in the Tan Lap strategic hamlet near Tay Ninh Thursday and the frightened population of the hamlet fled.

A government spokesman said 100 of these civilians were rounded up and taken across the Cambodian border.

The ambush was the bloodiest incident since a three-day battle in Kien Long in mid-April in which 300 government troops were killed.

In Taipei, Nationalist China announced it is increasing both technical and economic assistance to South Viet Nam.

Lloyd delays

REGINA (CP) — The victorious Liberal party, their April 22 Saskatchewan general election triumph confirmed in a final count of ballots, waited today for word from Premier Woodrow Lloyd on when it will be given to government ministers.

Premier Lloyd gave no indication he was ready to make way for the Liberals despite a call by Liberal leader Ross Thatcher for early action on the mandate given his party.

But Turkish Foreign Minister Feridun Erkin told reporters he was satisfied with NATO's instructions to Stikker to conciliate.

Concerning French President de Gaulle's attitude toward the Americans, the U.S., Belgian and British ministers made plain to the French that the political and military shape of NATO should remain untouched.

They told Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville that if de Gaulle has any good ideas for recasting the alliance, they would be considered. But until these are presented they said, it would be better for France to stop rocking the boat.

Couve de Murville's reply brought reconciliation nearer. His general thesis was that France supports the aim of the alliance—to guard Western Europe against Communist aggression—but opposes its military structure. But he made no suggestions for change.

AUTHORIZE MOVES

NATO Secretary-General Dirk U. Stikker was authorized to help Greek and Turkish troops over Cyprus to avert a war within the alliance. But Greek Foreign Minister Stavros Kostopoulos challenged the interpretation that Stikker had been authorized to mediate, conciliate or take any initiative.

In suspended animation

THE HAGUE (AP) — The North Atlantic Alliance is in a state of suspended political animation until after the British and United States elections this fall.

Foreign ministers of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization left The Hague Thursday night after a three-day meeting that failed to solve basic problems menacing their unity.

On the most serious issues—the Cyprus powder keg and France's challenge to U.S. leadership of the alliance—the moment of truth and decision was deferred.

The expectation was that the British and U.S. governments which take office this fall—whether new ones or old ones—with reinforced authority—would generate fresh leadership to dispel the malaise that has seized NATO.

CAIRO (Reuters)—An informal Soviet-Arab summit meeting appeared in the making today as Soviet Premier Khrushchev and the presidents of Egypt, Yemen and Iraq gathered at the Red Sea port of Ras Banias.

Algerian President Ahmed Ben Bella was expected to join the party, whose official reason for being there was a fishing trip. Ben Bella arrived in Cairo by air from Czechoslovakia Thursday.

There was no official indication that the Russian premier also was to be the first private meeting between Khrushchev and Marshal Arif, who met for the first time Thursday at the Aswan High Dam dedication ceremonies.

Ben Bella arrived in Egypt too late to be on hand for the ceremony in which Khrushchev, Nasser and 750 pounds of dynamite diverted the waters of the River Nile through a series of conduits, marking the completion of the first stages of the gigantic $1,200,000,000 Aswan High Dam, being built with Soviet aid.

Tory chances improve

LONDON (CP) — The ruling Conservative party retained the seat in Bury St. Edmunds, an East Anglia district, to win its third seat in four parliamentary by-elections held Thursday.

It was the last major electoral test before the fall general election and boded well for Prime Minister Sir Douglas Home's government which had slipped badly in recent by-elections.

The Conservatives lost the Scottish constituency of Rutherglen to Labor as expected but surprised experts by holding on to its margin seat at Devozes, in southern England. The other Tory victory came in the safe government seat of Winchester.

The victory in Devozes embarrassed Opposition candidate Irving Rogers, who predicted he would win the seat by 2,000 votes. Instead, he trailed by 1,670. The Conservative majority in 1959 was 3,838.

Tory candidate Charles Morrison captured Devozes with 19,554 votes. Rogers had 17,884 and Liberal Michael Fogarty 4,281.

BIG WIN IN SCOTLAND

But at Rutherglen, Labor won with double the majority scored by the Conservatives in 1959.

Labor candidate J. Gregor MacKenzie received 18,885 votes to Conservative Iain Sprot's 15,138. MacKenzie's margin was 3,747.

In the 1959 election the Conservatives had a 1,522 margin in a straight fight with Labor. The Conservatives held on to the seat at Winchester, in the south of England near the port city of Southampton, where Conservative Rear-Admiral Morgan Giles polled 18,032 votes.

The gathering at Ras Banias also was to be the first private meeting between Khrushchev and Marshal Arif, who met for the first time Thursday at the Aswan High Dam dedication ceremonies.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

SOUTH SWINDLES TO MAKE GAME

Ernie Rovere, who writes books about bridge, points out that South really should have raised his partner to four hearts and that North would probably have managed to collect 12 tricks at that contract. All he would have to do would be to set up dummy's clubs for two diamond discards.

However, South did bid three no-trump and West opened the five of diamonds. South has to struggle along and he is not at all happy.

There is no point holding up a diamond. He will have to win the second trick anyway. The holding will merely give away his weakness so South takes the first diamond.

He can cash five hearts and hope for diamond discards, but the opponents have plenty of spades to throw away so that ideas should be abandoned. Then how is South going to make his ninth trick? Maybe he can try a little deception. South leads the ace of hearts.

Show Business

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The eminent scholar, Lucille Ball, visited the University of California at Los Angeles to present the annual Samuel Goldwyn Creative Writing Award.

Instead of academic robes, she wore a smartly tailored suit. Before the ceremonies, she donned glasses to pore over some notes. She was interrupted by a reporter.

"Dr. Ball, where did you matriculate?" She was asked. "I never did that in my life," she replied.

"But where did you get your degree?"

"Oh," she said. "Well, I graduated from the Goldwyn girl line."

"Let's see, that was class of 19—?"

"We won't go into that."

"Just how far did you get in school?"

"Me? I never even finished night school. I couldn't wait to get into show business, and at that time show business meant vaudeville to me."

ADMITTS BEING NERVOUS
She confessed a nervousness about the upcoming program. "These things terrify me," said the star of the Lucy Show. "How can I talk for 10 minutes? Now if it was an hour and a half, I wouldn't worry."

In a few minutes she turned on the bright Lucy smile and walked onstage in the UCLA Playhouse to applause from the youthful audience.

"I don't need these notes," she said, pushing them aside. She spoke instead from the heart, and her comments might give some testimony on what makes Lucy tick.

"You students are well protected here in this wonderful university where you get the best of instruction and advice. You are surrounded by love. But I know you must be worrying about what will happen to you when you go out in the world and there will be no one to guide you and look after you."

"I think it will help if you will member to recognize the small success that you will have."

About Television

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — Dusty Chuck Connors, whose contract with Universal and Revue Studios (the former makes movies and the latter TV shows) had a long time to run, has terminated both "by mutual agreement," as they always say.

Connors was under Revue contract for Arrest and Trial, which recently died miserably and undeservedly in a bad Sunday night ABC time slot, and was under a seven-year contract to make one theatre film a year.

The strike also halted production of CBS' new series The Reporter. The other two New York-based series, CBS' Mr. Broadway, and ABC's Patty Duke Show were not in production.

Michael Dann, CBS programming vice-president, said it could mean the end of New York production of dramatic shows.

Don't let the brightness of that big goal blind you to what happens on the way toward that goal. . . .

"Meet one wave at a time and enjoy what progress you make. . . ."

"Sure, it looks tough for you to make any headway as writers or actors or whatever you want to pursue. It is tough, but it's not impossible. There's room out there. There's room for all of you. . . ."

She then presented the $2,000 prize to young Larry H. Johnson for his play, Remittance Man.

Pipeline plan 'excellent' Quebec tells Sherbrooke

The last potential obstacle to the construction of a Sherbrooke-Lake Memphremagog water pipeline was removed yesterday when a delegation from the city of Sherbrooke was told in Quebec City it could go ahead with the project.

The delegation, led by Ald. J. M. Jeanson, chairman of the city's electrical committee met with officials of the departments of Natural Resources and of Health, and with Sherbrooke's MLA, Carrier Fortin.

Authorization for the project will be officially communicated to city hall next week in a document from the minister of natural resources.

With this last obstacle removed, the city can choose one of two projects proposed to supply the drinking water needs of Sherbrooke residents.

The pipeline is being considered along with a filtration plant as an alternative solution.

Ald. J. M. Jeanson said that department of natural resources has studied the pipeline project — the only one which requires provincial assent — and classified it as "excellent."

When asked about charges that the pipeline would reduce the power of electrical stations, Ald. Jeanson said that these changes, if they occurred at all, would be minimal.

"I am very satisfied with the results of my trip to Quebec City and will submit a complete report to city council, Monday night," Ald. Jeanson concluded.

Class not caisse, so bandits go next door

STE. JEANNE D'ARC — (Staff) — Two hooded gunmen shot and wounded a bank manager Thursday after they had entered what they thought was a bank, confronting a classroom of screaming terrified children.

The 25-year old bank manager, Julien Roy, was taken to hospital in Drummondville, about 15 miles from Ste. Jeanne d'Arc and the bullet was removed. He was still suffering from shock this morning.

The two men, with guns drawn, charged into a school building which until recently had been used as a Caisse Populaire.

The children frightened by the hoods and guns, began to panic and charged next door, where the bank now stands, smashed the window and shot the manager in the right leg.

The two men then fled, empty-handed, in a waiting car.

The car was later found abandoned in Ste. Marie d'Ely in Shefford County. Provincial police in Drummondville say the late model car was stolen Wednesday night in Roxton Pond.

This is the third holdup attempt in the Caisse which shares a building with the city hall and post office. In October and November the bank's safe was broken into and emptied of its cash contents.

No arrests have yet been made in either case. Drummondville provincial police are investigating.

Red Brick School has class

STANSTEAD — (Special) — Thirty-eight grade five students of Rock Island's Sunnyside High School are attending classes today in Red Brick Schoolhouse at Stanstead North.

The old schoolhouse was built in 1819 and was in constant use until 1929 when district No. 26 was consolidated with Stanstead College.

It was used for two years thereafter by the French-speaking Catholic School Board as a school.

The classes today are being held as part of celebrations marking the 100th anniversary of the PAPT.

Judge Turmel dismisses case

In dismissing a case yesterday against a Richmond man, Judge Benoit Turmel said, "certain police officers have a tendency to be over-enthusiastic in arresting young people involved in minor accidents and are too anxious to bring them to justice."

Maurice Sullivan who appeared in Court of Sessions was accused of hitting the rear end of a car parked in front of the Myra Theater in Richmond on April 4 of this year which resulted in $160 damages.

The car was the property of Edward Thompson of Bromptonville who had parked his vehicle while he went to the movies.

Mr. Sullivan's lawyer Marcel Roy proved that his client did not run but had stopped to look for the owner of the damaged car and when he could not find him had gone looking for a parking place and had found one about 500 feet distant. He then returned to meet Chief Paul Clair who had witnessed the accident, to arrange for payment of the damages.

Sherbrooke man stabbed

A Sherbrooke man is in satisfactory condition in Hotel Dieu Hospital today after being stabbed near his Montreal Street home last night.

Raymond Dansereault, 31, received two stomach wounds which required eight stitches for doctors to close, after being attacked by two men.

He said he was attacked by two men outside a restaurant where he had gone to buy cigarettes after returning from work. One of them, he said, hit him in the face with his fist while the other stabbed him twice.

Mr. Dansereault works as a waiter at a lodge near North Hatley.

Last July he was assaulted by four men outside a Sherbrooke hotel.

Radicals disrupt hearing

CHICOUTIMI, Que. — Separatists disrupted a hearing of the royal commission on bilingualism and biculturalism Thursday night.

Calls to order had to be issued a number of times.

The hecklers and their supporters appeared to number about 50 in a crowd of 400 at the session.

At one point, Rev. Eric Caulfield, an Anglican minister from Arvida, Que., rose to speak in English.

From the audience, came the derisive shout in English: "Speak white."

Earlier in Vancouver, French-speaking westerners told the commission they were sneered at for speaking their mother tongue and told to "speak white."

Paul Lacoste, co-secretary of the commission, moderated the Thursday night session in this Lake St. John community.

He issued a call for silence after the shouted remark, saying it was out of place.

MINISTER APPLAUDED

Rev. Caulfield continued, making no mention of the incident. He said English-speaking Canadians in the Lake St. John region are aware French is the priority language in the area and none wish to contest the fact or even oppose it. Prolonged applause followed his declaration.

Invites Queen

LONDON (AP)—Mayor Richard Daly of Chicago invited Queen Elizabeth to visit his city and bring her four children, he disclosed today.

The Queen just smiled and recalled how much she had enjoyed her 1959 visit there with Prince Philip, the mayor said in his hotel suite. This exchange took place Thursday during a brief visit to Buckingham Palace.

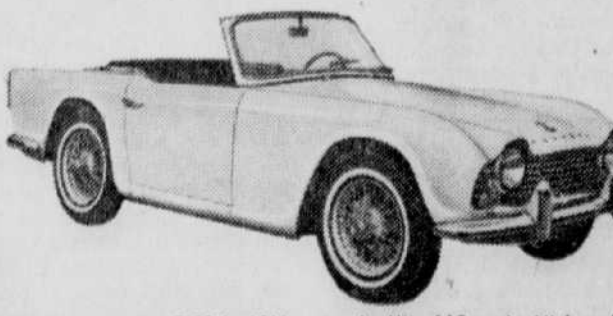

Child clinics

Child immunization clinics will be held in Lennoxville at the United Church on May 20 and in Sherbrooke at St. Peter's Anglican Church May 21.

Douglas Fisher case no exception

Judging from some of the remarks heard recently in the House of Commons, the practice by NDP member Douglas Fisher of writing a regular newspaper column is something new among parliamentarians and something to be heartily condemned.

But, actually Members of Parliament both in Great Britain and Canada for years have felt no conflict of interest in following up their House duties and column writing at the same time.

In Canada a former member of the Diefenbaker administration, Revenue Minister George Nowlan was a regular contributor to his home-town Nova Scotia newspaper and certain Eastern Townships MP's provided weekly commentaries on parliamentary affairs to the newspapers of the district.

Going back to earlier years, Timothy Anglin, a Speaker in the Mackenzie administration, continued to write for his New Freeman of Saint John. Charles Marcl, Speaker in the last Parliament of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, wrote a column for the Montreal Herald, now defunct. Hugh Clark, a veteran parliamentarian never ceased writing for his Kincardine Review. And many other cases could be cited.

Perhaps one of the greatest writer-MP's to contribute on a regular basis to the press was the Irish Nationalist leader, T. P. O'Connor who ran T. P.'s Weekly. His column, "Mainly about People," generally dealt with the sins and shortcomings of his fellow members.

Two reasons may be cited for the indignation expressed by his fellow members over Mr. Fisher's outpourings.

First his column has been accepted by a syndicate with the results that his opinions receive a much wider readership than if they appeared in a single newspaper.

Second he has the habit of expressing some rather blunt opinions about his colleagues, something many MP's might find disconcerting during the present goings-on in Ottawa.

One big trouble with triangles is that they so often turn into wrecked tangles.

Fireworks are fun, blindness is not

The ancient wonders of fireworks, and new variations, this weekend will bring squeals of delight and pleasure from children all across Canada.

The Canadian National Institute for the Blind, however, quotes Neil Tracy of Sherbrooke, who warns, "this year again, several children will lose their sight in one or both eyes while engaging in Victoria Day celebrations."

Fireworks are fun, but they are also explosives. They should be handled by responsible adults only, and with a few simple precautions.

Fireworks are sold in various sizes of family display boxes. Regardless of the size of your display, the order of firing should be planned in advance.

Select a site that is clear of overhead obstructions, such as trees or wires, and away from the house and shrubs. Prepare buckets or boxes of sand, or a wheelbarrow filled with earth to be used as the firing base.

Items such as roman candles and other long pieces should be buried firmly to half their depth in the container and set at a slight angle away from spectators. A piece of punk or a glowing cigarette makes a good igniter. Light at arm's length and stand clear.

Fireworks that have not been fired must be kept covered in the box and away from the immediate firing area. Used pieces should be placed in a metal container, such as a garbage can, and may be sprinkled with water to ensure all embers are out before disposal.

Read the printed instructions on each piece. Remember that no firework piece, except sparklers, is meant to be held in the hand when lighted and children should not participate in the actual firing of the display.

As the CNIB board puts it, "It is true that accidents account for only a small percentage of new cases of blindness in Canada, but is not every case of avoidable blindness one too many?"

University professor proves point

Frequently some university professor comes out with the results of some research project that merely confirms what any semi-educated individual could have told him before he started his work.

Lately a member of the Manchester University staff has informed the world that he has conducted experiments which prove that women speak faster than men.

Four groups of young women spoke individually for 30, 60, 90 and 120 seconds on any subject they liked. Four groups of young men made similarly improvised speeches.

The speeches were tape-recorded and each word counted. On every occasion, the women spoke faster than the men.

In 30 seconds, the women averaged 130 words, the men 50. In 120 seconds the women blurted out 214 words, the men 152.

US Senate civil rights bill debate

The bill which is supposed to guarantee the same civil rights for Negroes that white citizens enjoy to be debated in the U.S. Senate.

The discussions have remained statesmanlike and, so far, there has been no massive resort to the wearisome tactic of the filibuster.

Some understanding of the way the civil rights bill is viewed throughout the country may be gained by reference to the opposing views of Senator Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota, and Senator R. B. Russell of Georgia.

Senator Humphrey maintains that the equality of citizenship guaranteed by the U.S. constitution is being flouted, and he cites segregated schools as an example.

He sees in the passage of the civil rights bill a means of removing this barrier to equality and of overcoming the discrimination used by some businesses in their employment practices.

On behalf of all supporters of the bill, he poses this question: "How can we be firmly committed to a creed of equal opportunity, liberty and justice and yet effectively exclude Negroes from these blessings of citizenship?"

Senator Russell expresses the fears of the bill's opponents that it will start the U.S. down the road to Socialism by legalizing federal government control over private property. In his view the bill will empower a federal agency to dictate to business in matters of hiring, firing and promotion. Business men won't be able to select their own customers or clients, even if this interference causes them economic loss.

An impasse between these fundamentally opposite views at this time could be painfully disruptive to the social and economic life of the U.S. Fortunately, there are indications that compromising amendments will be worked out.

But even a compromise bill will not wipe out the current bitterness, or prevent more trouble in the future. Regardless of what kind of bill is finally approved by the Senate, there is bound to be friction until blacks and whites learn to accept each other in all relationships as a matter of course and without self-consciousness.

Legislation can point the way, but it cannot produce such a state of affairs alone. A fundamental change of attitude is needed.

HEALTHY ECONOMY

Gabon, whose average per capita income is about $110, is one of the few nations in tropical Africa that has enjoyed a favorable balance of trade.

French Canada says:

General Motors Quebec plant good for Quebec, good for GM

Montreal La Presse — The reasons for the Quebec government's satisfaction are obvious. Everything that can increase the number of jobs, reduce unemployment, stimulate the economy is greeted as good news. The particular kind of manufacturing to be installed in Ste. Therese is another ground for satisfaction. The automobile industry has existed in Canada since 1904. Quebec waited 60 years before this prestigious industry elected to take up residence on its soil.

More important still is the psychological advantage of which the government is assured by the recently announced decision. "What's good for General Motors is good for the country," an enthusiast once said. Good also for every other industry invited to come and set up shop among us. In this good news, the uneasy persons who see in the current intellectual ferment the promise of economic catastrophe will have a hard time finding any confirmation of their dire predictions.

One swallow does not make a summer. This did not stop Mr. Lesage from painting the portrait of a Quebec steel industry more radiantly than ever before.

In this news so joyously reported there is, all the same, something that jostles certain habits of thought. One had been led to understand that American investments in the province and in Canada had already reached a disturbing level and that it was imperative to diversify investment sources as much as possible. It behooves us once again to recognize that all the eggs are in the same basket. . . . —Guy Cormier. (May 4)

Quebec Le Soleil — When a Canadian prime minister himself urges the adoption of a distinctive national flag, that is certainly an encouraging note that indicates the country is finally on the way to getting what it ought to have had a long time ago.

Canada, which, in terms of facts and institutions, exercises all the prerogatives of sovereignty, has until now been inconceivably lax in proclaiming the external attributes of this sovereignty.

In the very stronghold of the partisans of the Red Ensign, which is not a satisfactory flag for Canada, English and French alike, Mr. Pearson put forward the idea of a distinctive national flag. In front of the members of the Royal Canadian Legion he stated that Canadians would be more united with the adoption of new symbols. . . .

What the majority of Canadians seem to want is a flag that would be unequivocally ours. Ought this flag to recall, by a few devices, that this country was French and English? It is not necessary. A typically Canadian flag, without any reference to this sort of past, could without doubt promote the unity of a country that has also exerted an appeal to all nationalities. One thing is certain. We must act without delay in this matter. Our national pride is involved. . . . (May 5)

Quebec L'Action — Thanks to the tenacity and courage of the minister of family and social welfare, the Quebec government has decided to end the advertising extravaganzas which distillers and, more especially, brewers have been committing for some months.

We note with satisfaction that alcohol advertising will in future be restricted in quantity and kind. The idea of the legislation is to permit producers and salesmen to compete for customers without increasing their total. One may thus be able to boast about such and such a brand of beer without endowing it with the imaginary virtues too generously ascribed to it now. The liquor board statute provided for such regulations but, notwithstanding the demands of a number of groups, among them the Lacordaire and Jeanne d'Arc (temperance) organizations, no one dared to carry out these good intentions. Without the constant and formidable efforts of Mr. Lafrance (the minister), to whom we already owed the committee for research and information on alcoholism, we should have had to wait longer still.

The excellent anti-alcoholic work of the committee will thus no longer be stultified by the disproportionate and bizarre advertising done for alcohol. In recent months the breweries have literally mobilized television and the best available talents to poison public opinion in this connection. To be sure, we are indebted to the brewing industry for the most popular and sometimes the most expensive programs but, cautious and discreet as it was in the beginning, brewery advertising became showy, indiscreet and dishonest to boot, therefore pernicious. . . . —Louis-Philippe Roy. (May 6)

Trois-Rivieres Le Nouvelliste — The news concerning the forthcoming establishment of the General Motors company in Quebec marks the turning point in our economic evolution. The projected factory will be the first for the manufacture of automobiles. It will not be an assembly line but a true automobile factory. Until now these enterprises were confined to Ontario. The people of that province have derived considerable advantages therefrom. To this circumstance can be ascribed the privileged situation in which our neighbors find themselves. . . .

All that has been claimed in respect to backwardness in education in Quebec, the alleged ineptitude of our people in business and their lack of initiative has no connection with the facts. The main reason why the neighbor province is ahead lies in the monopoly it has been able to keep on heavy industry, particularly steel and cars. Other things could be added, such as electrical apparatus and machine tools, but the essential basis of expansion is steel production and dependent industries, car-manufacturing among them.

The difference will have been noted between the stability, prosperity and dynamism of Ontario, which rests on a marvelous decentralization of economic life, and Quebec, where the economy is stagnant. There is a much greater number of cities of 70,000 people or more in Ontario than in Quebec. After Montreal and Quebec City there is but a host of small, deprived towns whose principal mission consists of producing human capital for the city of Montreal. Industry in these small centres is mainly

Suicide

U.S.-Soviet trade strengthens Reds

By LEON DENNEN

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Nicolai Lenin, founder of Russia's communist state and who had a grim sense of humor, once said that "if you give a capitalist enough rope he will eventually hang himself." He was, of course, echoing Karl Marx's famous assertion: "capitalism digs its own grave."

Are American businessmen, like their fellow capitalists in Britain, France and West Germany, eager to fulfill the Marxist-Leninist prediction?

The recent decision by the United States Chamber of Commerce to seek increased trade with the Reds warrants examination in the present state of international affairs. It strengthens the Communists, currently in the midst of a grave economic and political crisis. It undermines the American economic embargo against Fidel Castro's Cuba.

Lenin and Marx were convinced that the capitalists' urge for profits was far stronger than their attachment to principles. They saw this as the fatal weakness of democratic society based on the free enterprise system. Nikita Khrushchev is far less cultured than Marx and Lenin were. But in his own crude way, he is merely echoing the words of his masters when he warns the West: "We will bury you."

Two major reasons seem to underline the Chamber of Commerce's major policy reversal on East-West trade in nonstrategic goods.

One is fear—by no means unjustified—that the NATO allies are out to capture the "lucrative" markets in the Soviet bloc.

Like Sen. William Fulbright, some American businessmen consider the U.S. export embargo against the Reds a total failure. In their view, it has not served to deprive the Red countries of goods, but to divert business to Western European suppliers.

Another reason is that trade with the Reds is likely to help Russia against Red China and lead to a relaxation in East-West tensions. This is also the view of President Johnson's administration. It is backed, among others, by Britain's Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home, who believes that a "fat Communist" is likely to be less dangerous than a "lean" one.

But the fact is that the Communist leaders are Marxist-Leninist dialecticians. This means that they resort to different strategy at different times. They speak softly and cry for more trade with the capitalist West when they are in trouble.

This was their strategy in the famine years in the 1920s and 1930s. They used it again after Hitler attacked Russia.

primary, such as the paper industry here in Trois-Rivieres. . . . (May 7)

Montreal-Matin — Have we a business sense? Most certainly. And why shouldn't we? Why would such a thing be long exclusively to the Anglo-Saxon heritage?

Prejudices, like packaged ideas, are durable. Because we have not yet succeeded in making our full mark in the realm of great industries, you hear it said: "Oh, those French-Canadians, they haven't got the knack for business. They make excellent employees, for sure, but when it comes to managing an enterprise, that's another story. Let them therefore leave it to us, Anglo-Saxons, who have the experience, the money, etc. Let them attend to their cultural affairs and leave us to worry about business."

That's a short-sighted view, it goes without saying, and it would not be worth mentioning, were it not so widespread.

We are not such bad managers as they would have us believe, the old bankruptcy argument notwithstanding.

This argument has been exploded by a little investigation carried out by the council for economic expansion (a private Quebec business group), the results of which are published in its journal.

The investigation deals with the first three months of 1964. It reveals that 72 per cent of the bankruptcies in Quebec had no connection with French-Canadians.

Who would have believed it? When it is stated the number of bankruptcies in our province is higher than elsewhere, people think at once that the blame belongs to French-speaking Quebecers. Each of us feels a little ashamed and our complexes get worse. Nobody had ever thought of analysing the nature of these bankruptcies and determining who was responsible for them.

Well, it has finally been done and it is all to the good! French-Canadians have no vocation to be poor any more than Anglo-Saxons have to be rich. —Lucien Langlois. (May 7)

However, the Reds invariably gave the capitalists the boot after they regained their strength and felt powerful enough to subvert the free world.

Is this, then, the time for us to fatten up the Communists? History, alas, has shown time and again that the least worry of a Red dictator is the waistline of his slaves.

The fact is that at no time have the Reds been in such a state of disarray as they are today. The bitter feud between Russia and Red China has cracked the Red monolith wide open. The Russians, beset by economic and agricultural troubles, find it increasingly difficult to supply food to the undeveloped nations of Asia, Africa and Latin America.

Moscow's Eastern European satellites are restive. The Red leaders' claims of "economic plenty around the corner" have given way to appeals for hard work and personal sacrifices.

"Produce more for the same wages and in the same time," was the way the radio of Communist East Germany bluntly stated the case in recent broadcasts.

There is no doubt about it: Nikita Khrushchev currently needs economic help from the capitalist world like a drowning man needs air.

But why should the capitalists, especially American businessmen, pull his chestnuts out of the fire? Unless, of course, they have what psychologists call a "death wish."

Press Comment

(The Ottawa Journal)

Woolly, patronizing replies to his questions were offered on May 4 to Mr. Latipille, the Creditiste MP, who wanted to be assured that baby seals will not again be skinned alive in the Gulf of St. Lawrence.

In the name of Fisheries Minister Robichaud, Mr. Latipille was told that yes, indeed, there had been hundreds of letters of protest but the department could not say how many had been caused by people seeing films of the seal hunt. Yes, the hunt was supervised by Fisheries officers and reports containing information "on all aspects of sealing operations" had been received by the minister. More restrictive regulations would be in effect before the opening of the 1965 season but in the meantime no hunters had been fined or lost their licences.

On April 22 Mr. Robichaud was asked by Conservative Michael Starr whether he had taken any immediate action to stop the inhumane slaughter of baby seals. The minister replied sharply that this question had been brought before the House on many occasions and he hoped to present legislation which would be satisfactory.

These replies sound evasive to people who expect the Government to give a flat assurance that hunters will never again skin live seals with impunity. Great offence has been done to the public conscience by the revelation that such cruelty was possible and the Fisheries Minister and his officials are mistaken if they think their statements satisfy anyone but themselves.

Former Granby mayor H. Boivin speaks to Kiwanis on centenary

WATERLOO — (Special) — On Tuesday evening Mr. Horace Boivin, a former active member of the Granby Kiwanis Club, spoke to the Waterloo Kiwanis Club on the subject of the Centenary in 1967. His first remarks dealt with the fact that Canada is the only nation not to have its own flag. He stated that before the end of March in 1965, Canada would have a flag which would be completely new and distinctive.

"If this project is not realized, I will resign from my duties as president of the committee of the ceremonies and from the special projects for the celebrations of the centenary of confederation," promised the well-known speaker.

Mr. Boivin made known his approval of "O Canada" as the official national hymn for our country and expressed the desire to see it become recognized as such, as soon as possible. "It is an excellent song for the French Canadians, as well as the English Canadians," he said.

Mr. Boivin, who was introduced by Kiwanian Andre L'Abbe, referred to the spirit with which Kiwanians carry out their projects and the good work done by them in the community. He also remarked on the good English-French spirit which exists in Waterloo.

Canadians of all origins must work together to make Canada a strong nation. It is especially important that English and French-speaking Canadians work towards this goal.

He deplored the extremists who are trying to separate Quebec from the rest of the country. "Our richest heritage which we can pass on to our descendants is a united and strong Canada."

At confederation, French-speaking Canadians were guaranteed their right to worship, to retain their language and system of education. These have not been changed or denied.

The Hebert book said that at times during the trial, Coffin "begged" his lawyer to let him testify.

Mr. Gravel, 39, answering questions briefly in a low voice, was prodded at times by Mr. Justice Brossard as commission counsel Jules Deschenes sought information on the handling of the case.

Mr. Gravel said he had to draw up a list of witnesses to be called, but the evidence rested without bringing forth one of them.

Why?

The fifth scroll recipient was Mrs. F. O. Beatty; Mrs. F. E. S. Shelly read a citation stating that Mrs. Beatty was a transfer from a Montreal council and that their loss was indeed our gain and that Mrs. Beatty is considered a guardian angel by the senior citizens at the Sacred Heart Hospice and Youville, she is a constant visitor and they all love her. Mrs. Beatty has also given many hours of her time to the Cancer Clinic.

Miss A. Walsh was the recipient of a Past President's pin; Mrs. E. J. Wolfe read a citation pointing out that the Walsh name was synonymous with St. Patrick's Parish and that Miss Walsh in addition to her duties as Council president, continued her social service work and was the one instrumental in the Bring Christ Back To Christmas, movement. Following the presentation, Mrs. J. White accompanied by Mrs. O. Leveque sang the league song, Carry On, which was written by the late, Mrs. L. E. Codere, a beloved member of the C.W.L. Every facet of League work is covered in the words of Carry On.

Born in Montreal, she is the granddaughter of the Honorable Judge Napoleon Charbonneau, the daughter of the Honorable Judge Jean-Pierre Charbonneau and the wife of Claude P. Beaubien, vice-president of the Aluminum Company of Canada.

Madame Beaubien has studied extensively. Her secondary education, which was bilingual, was received at the Villa Maria Convent in Montreal. Her other studies include Camille Bernard's, Children's Little Theatre, eight years of piano and ballet, foreign languages and art appreciation at the University of Montreal. She has taken regular classes of painting at Montreal's Musée des Beaux Arts, working among others with Marian Scott, Lismer, de Tonnancour and Webber. DEAR POLLY — Recently, a hint was given for defrosting the refrigerator but I think I have a better solution to help with that unpleasant job. I simply place a few layers of newspaper in the cold oven and then place all the frozen food on the papers and then put more newspapers on top of the food. As the oven is insulated, there is no trouble with anything thawing out before you are ready to return it to the freezer section.

When making a lot of hors d'oeuvres for a party, make a tray out of two thicknesses of cardboard and cover with aluminum foil. So they can be stacked in the refrigerator, cut paper towel cardboard rollers into pieces that can stand up as supports for trays on top. Cover with plastic wrap and they will stay fresh until time for serving.

MRS. M. V. O. DEAR POLLY — Several years ago we bought a movie camera to take pictures of our children. The projector was necessarily acquired later and we still cannot afford a good green. A large white window blind, costing about $2, makes a fine substitute. Bracket holders were fastened to the rafters in the basement for use there but when we want to use it upstairs a string is tied to both ends of the shade and the string loops fastened over thumbtacks placed in the top of a door frame. — MRS. R. W.

DEAR POLLY — I am 94 and confined to a wheel chair in a pleasant home for the elderly. I make fracture pillows with worn-out nylon hose for the stuffing. Make them any desired size out of very soft material. Cut the hose into small pieces, fill the case full enough to be soft and comfortable. They are wonderful to ease the pain of a broken arm and so on. — M. A. H.

GIRLS — M.A.H. may be old in years but she certainly sounds young in spirit.

DEAR POLLY — Rubber-headed tacks spaced about two inches apart on top of a wood clothes closet pole will keep the hangers from bunching up. — ELLA

DEAR POLLY — Have you ever wished you could keep your carbon copies legible and nonsmearing? Just coat with hair spray and let dry. The copy will be safe and long lasting as the original. Please, Polly, just print my initials or my wife will find out what is happening to her hair spray. — R. D. M.

DEAR POLLY — When it is my turn to be hostess for the coffee hour at our church, I use clippings for my plants as the centerpiece and then offer these clippings to a new bride, a new family in the church or a fellow flower lover. This is a wonderful way to keep friendships green and growing. — MARY.

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet scientists hope to find a spot in the Kurile Islands north of Japan where they can drill through the earth's crust, a Russian scientist said Thursday.

The United States is planning to drill a hole in the floor of the Atlantic Ocean where the crust is thinner.

Scientists want to reach the mantle, the layer of earth below the crust, in order to learn more about its composition than seismic echoes and other present techniques can disclose.

Scientists from eight countries have discussed the subject here for the last four days. They belong to the international committee on the earth's upper mantle, set up by the International Geophysical Union.

The scientists were from the Soviet Union, the United States, Britain, Canada, Australia, Japan, France and Denmark.

The chairman of the meeting, V. V. Belousov of the Soviet Union, told a press conference his country is not planning to drill on ocean floors but is working on projects to drill in five land areas.

One is on the Kurile Islands in the Northwest Pacific, where the crust is of an intermediate type that is relatively thin.

ROME (AP) — An Italian government minister said Thursday he has a document showing the 1937 Pope Pius XI encyclical condemning Nazi anti-Catholic persecution was written by Eugenio Cardinal Pacelli who became Pope Pius XII.

Defence Minister Giulio Andreotti, who had frequent Vatican contacts during the Second World War as head of a Catholic University Students Association, wrote about Pius XII in the political weekly Concrezza.

He said the controversial Role Hochhuth drama The Deputy prompted him to seek in the Vatican archives documents relating to Vatican attitudes on Nazism.

The Hochhuth play criticizes Pius XII as failing to make a public denunciation of Nazism's persecution of European Jews.

Andreotti said he was given a photostatic copy of the original draft of the encyclical Mit Brennender Sorge with Burning Sorrows, issued by Pius XI in 1937. Andreotti said he recognized throughout the handwriting of Cardinal Pacelli, who became Pope Pius XII in 1939.

German circus trapeze artist goes east to wife and prison

BERLIN (AP) — An East German trapeze artist who crawled a high tension line to West Berlin 17 months ago was lured back by his wife and now is in a Communist prison, a close relative said today.

The wife has divorced him and married another man.

The relative said the circus performer, Horst Klein, went back to East Berlin last July after receiving letters from his wife, Sylvia, who said she could not go on living without him.

"As soon as Horst got back, he was arrested and last December he was sentenced to 30 months at hard labor," the relative, who asked not to be named, said in an interview.

"The worst thing is, Horst's wife obtained a divorce in February and last month she remarried."

Klein, who was 38, escaped to West Berlin in December, 1962, after he was forbidden to work in a circus because he was too outspokenly anti-Communist.

Klein climbed a pylon supporting power cables spanning the barbed wire barricades and the Teltow Canal.

USED ACROBATIC AGILITY — He did not know that the 110,000-volt line no longer was in use. Fearful of being electrocuted, he used his acrobatic agility to leap from the pylon to insulators and then from the insulators to the cable.

After easing himself onto the cable, Klein slid in a sitting position to the next pylon 70 yards away.

After moving about 30 yards toward the next pylon, he uncoiled a rope he had around his chest and flung it across the cables.

Demand of druggists rejected

QUEBEC — The Private Bills Committee of the Quebec Legislature decided Thursday that druggists should not have exclusive rights to sell patent medicines in the province.

The application was made in a private bill submitted to the committee by the Quebec College of Pharmacists. During a day-long study of the measure, lawyers representing manufacturing companies, grocers, chain stores and drug companies expressed a number of objections to it.

The druggists said they sell only 26 per cent of the patent remedies on the market today, and 75 per cent of their business is in toys and other non-medical articles.

They said it is a threat to public health when other stores are allowed to carry patent medicines.

But Premier Lesage, Opposition Leader Johnson and Pierre Laporte, Municipal Affairs minister, said they wanted proof of a threat to public health. Otherwise they were reluctant to restrict freedom of business.

"You want to deprive others of what they have, without giving up anything yourselves," Mr. Lesage commented at one point.

Other opponents said the price of patent medicines would

Record travel likely

Transportation companies are hurried under a landslide of travel reservations as Canadians plan a mass exodus to night to resorts and neighboring cities for the first long weekend of the cottage season.

At the same time many Victoria Day celebrants will travel by highway during the three-day holiday, handing a major problem to police and safety officials.

The Canadian Highway Safety Council did not make its customary death toll prediction this year, but an average of 38 persons have died in traffic mishaps in the three-day holiday during the last eight years.

Ontario Safety League officials, however, predicted 15 would die in the province.

While weekend holiday activities are planned in many areas, few will have any particular connection with Queen Victoria or the reigning monarch.

In fact, about 1,000 French-language students in Quebec are to demonstrate Monday to have school and government authorities designate the weekend in future as Dollard des Ormeaux Day.

DES ORMEAUX IS A HERO OF French-Canada who repelled an Indian attack at Long-Sault on the Ottawa River in the 17th century. The Indian attack was aimed at eventually taking Montreal.

In the Quebec town of Drummondville, another group of students plan to hold political studies rather than celebrate the Queen's birthday. Liberal MP Jean-Luc Pepin has been asked to address the group.

All banks, stock exchanges, federal, provincial and municipal court offices will close and about 95 per cent of commercial and industrial firms have indicated their staffs will get the holiday with pay.

The Doctor Says

HAZARDS ON THE GOLF COURSE DON'T END WITH SAND TRAPS

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT M.D.

Golf is not thought of as a dangerous sport. Several million persons enjoy it and profit from the exercise.

According to the National Safety Council, however, thousands of accidents do occur on the golf course and the number is increasing. Each year nearly a million newcomers take up the game and they are responsible for an overwhelming majority of the accidents.

Here are some of the hazards and ways to avoid them: Being struck by a golf ball is the commonest injury. It may result from an unfortunate slice, a ricochet off the trunk of a tree, overloading the links, or failure to warn other players of your drive or failure to heed such a warning.

Furthermore, the ball may stray into a neighboring fairway. It may hit another player in the process. Many experts today advocate protective helmets on the golf course.

Then there is the matter of the powered golf cart—truly a boon to many elderly players with chronic heart or lung diseases who would otherwise have to give up the game. Since these carts have only three wheels, they may tip easily, especially when a sharp turn is made and when driven on a slope or on rough ground.

Although they go only about 10 miles an hour on level ground, a person who is ejected from a cart traveling at this speed can incur a severe injury to his back or neck and, if his head strikes a tree or a hard surface, he may injure his skull or brain. When the vehicle scoots downhill a greater speed is attained and any injury sustained would be more serious. Because so many of these carts run off narrow bridges, some clubs are widening their bridges and providing them with guard rails.

Another hazard—one that claims the lives of many golfers each year—is lightning. Few golfers realize that the greatest danger of being struck occurs not during the storm but just preceding it.

When you see a storm approaching, don't wait for it to break and don't seek shelter under a lone tree because lightning always strikes the highest target in an exposed area. If there is a clump of trees, take shelter under one of the smaller ones. Otherwise crouch in a sandtrap or make it to the nearest building. Above all, get away from your clubs and don't use an umbrella. These are invitations to electrocution.

While you are about it, you should protect yourself from sunburn and heat exhaustion. And, if you haven't been playing regularly, work into it gradually to avoid overtraining.

Annual meeting of auxiliary held at Granby hall

GRANBY—The well attended annual meeting of the Granby-Abbotsford Auxiliary of the Wales Home, in Richmond, was held in St. George's Anglican Parish Hall on April 29, with the president, Mrs. C. D. Watson, in charge. Rev. C. W. Foggo opened the meeting with prayer.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and a letter from a resident of the Wales Home, H. Gendreau, who wrote on behalf of himself and other residents in appreciation of birthday and Christmas cards. The treasurer read the gratifying financial report and it was decided to continue to solicit donations by means of envelopes, as has been done for the past two years.

It was decided to send the usual donation of money to the Home, to be used according to the needs and wishes of those in authority, but with the suggestion that the smoking room be decorated to create a more cheerful atmosphere.

There are now 14 residents from Granby and vicinity who appreciate news from friends at home. It was also decided to ask the authorities at the Home to send pamphlets containing bits of history and some facts concerning the Home.

Archdeacon I. M. Lidstone closed the meeting with prayer and a short address and refreshments were served by the executives.

New officers are the following: Hon. president, Mrs. Lee Martin; president, Mrs. C. D. Watson; hon. vice-president, Miss M. Wiggins; first vice-president, Mrs. F. S. Mitchell; second vice-president, Miss D. Lewis; secretary, Miss M. Wiggins; treasurer, Gordon Clark.

Mays hitless, Giants lose, Dodgers take two

Bob Bruce held Willie Mays hitless for the first time in 21 games Thursday night, setting the San Francisco slugger down four times and slicing Mays' average 19 points to .449 as Houston Colts defeated the National League-leading Giants 4-3.

Mays hit into a fielder's choice with two men on in the first inning, lofted easy flies in the third and sixth and fouled to first in the eighth.

It was the first time Mays had been held hitless since April 16, when he was stopped by St. Louis' Curt Simmons in the third game of the season. In the last two games against Houston, Mays has collected only one hit in eight at-bats while his average has plummeted from .478.

Los Angeles Dodgers swept a doubleheader from Chicago Cubs 6-4 in 10 innings and 5-0. But ace lefty Sandy Koufax was unable to finish for the third straight game and was clipped for four runs in four innings of the opener. Don Drysdale, however, turned in a brilliant effort in the nightcap for the Dodgers, winning his fifth straight complete game with a four-hitter for a 5-1 record. Elsewhere, Richie Allen homered in the seventh inning for Philadelphia Phillies' 3-2 victory over St. Louis Cardinals and New York Mets drubbed Milwaukee Braves 12-4. Cincinnati and Pittsburgh were not scheduled.

SURRENDERS A TRIPLE
Bruce, 31, a right-hander who brought his record to 4-1 with ninth-inning relief help from Hal Woodeshick, was tagged for a two-run triple in the sixth inning by Tom Haller and went into the seventh trailing 3-2.

The Colts tied it when Bob Shaw was touched for singles by Eddie Kasko and Nellie Fox before forcing in a run by walking Al Spangler and Walt Bond. When Shaw walked John Bateman in the eighth, Billy Pierce came on, but it was too late. Singles by Kasko and Spangler got the winning run home.

The Cubs bolted to a 4-0 lead against the Dodgers in the first game, three runs scoring on Ron Santo's homer. The Dodgers caught up in the eighth on Jim Gilliam's homer and won it in the 10th when Tommy Davis singled and Frank Howard hit his 11th homer.

In the nightcap, the Dodgers provided Drysdale with a 3-0 lead in the first two innings, cashing in on four stolen bases and five walks by Fred Norman. Davis stole three bases.

Howard, who went five-for-eight for the day, wrapped up the scoring with a two-run single in the ninth.

Ernie Broglio was pitching a two-hit shutout for the Cardinals when the Phillies tied the score in the sixth with two runs. Singles by Tony Taylor and Allen across before John Herrnstein singled in another. Allen's homer then won it for Jim Bunning, now 4-1, with the aid of Ed Roebuck's relief help.

The Mets stroked 15 hits against Braves' starter Warren Spahn and three successors. Dick Smith slammed three key doubles for New York while Ron Hunt also chipped in with three hits. Spany, now 2-3, left in the fifth inning after Joe Christopher banged a homer. The score was the Mets' highest of the season.

for the Twins, one with two men aboard. Allison, Rich Rollins and Zoilo Versalles also connected.

Rollins wound up driving in five runs, three on his fifth homer and two on a double.

Despite the Twins' onslaught against Gary Peters and Eddie Fisher, starter Gerry Arrigo was forced from the game in the fifth inning after Chicago got to him for five runs and nine hits. Tom McCraw hit a two-run homer for the White Sox in the ninth.

Don Zimmer cracked a grand slam home run for all of Washington's runs as Baltimore's Robin Roberts suffered his second setback in three decisions. Zimmer's blast in the third followed Bill Skowron's single and walks to Don Lock and John Kennedy. Buster Narum held Baltimore to four hits in winning his third game against one defeat.

Mincher's recent slugging feats have made the veteran Power even more expendable than he was when Oliva's presence forced outfielder Bob Allison to first base.

Mincher hit his fourth home run in five games Thursday as the Twins clobbered Chicago White Sox 15-7.

Power probably is the best defensive first baseman in the American League. But rookie Oliva is hitting even better than expected while sluggers Allison, Jimmie Hall and Harmon Killebrew are producing at their usual home run pace.

With Mincher acting as though he wants in on a good thing, Twins' manager Sam Mele finds himself with five power hitters for four positions. That doesn't leave much room for Power, who conspicuously could bring Minnesota a badly-needed pitcher in a trade.

Mincher's .356 batting average is second only to Oliva's .414 for the Twins.

The first baseman has hit three of his last four homers with two runners on base. His blast Thursday, one of six for the Twins, was good for three runs.

Only two other games were played in the American League. Washington Senators downed Baltimore Orioles 4-1 and Detroit Tigers halted New York Yankees 7-3.

Killebrew clouted two homers

Canadiens' top-scoring centre wins Hart for second time, first half start payoff, Hull second

MONTREAL (CP)—The National Hockey League's premier award for individual performance—the MVP—has gone to a fellow who wanted to shuck it all before last season.

Jean Beliveau was named Thursday as the Hart Memorial Trophy winner for the 1963-64 season.

"I'll definitely be back next year," said Beliveau from Quebec City in a telephone interview. "It's hard to say how long I'll play hockey. I haven't set any definite limit."

The award—for the player "adjudged to be most valuable to his team"—was the second for Beliveau, who won the 1955-56 honors.

But he spent a troubled spring last year in the wake of a so-so season, gnawed by doubts of his own ability.

He wanted to quit. But he was persuaded to give it another whirl by Senator Hartland Molson, owner of the club.

Jean's wizardry, notably in the first half of the schedule, launched the club towards a surprise first-place finish. He injured his hand at the midway point. That made stickhandling painful for him. He continued to play, his effectiveness discernibly reduced.

SCORED 28 GOALS
He wound up the season with 28 goals and 78 points but the second-half letdown cost him a place on the first all-star team. Chicago's Stan Mikita beat him out.

The first-half bundle of points the 32-year-old Beliveau drew for the Hart was enough to push him in with room to spare in that particular competition.

He picked up 82 points of a possible 90 for the first 35 games and piled up 102 over all. Bobby Hull of Chicago was runnerup with 58 and Detroit's Gordie Howe was third with 50.

In fourth spot with 43 was Charles Hodge, the Montreal goalie who bounced aside Gump Worsley for his job after the Gumper was hurt early in the season. All 43 came for his second-half effort.

Other players to attract the selectors with points bracketed: Mikita (30); Glenn Hall, Chicago (25); Ken Wharram, Chicago (3); Terry Sawchuk, Detroit (3); Johnny Bower, Boston (3); Eddie Johnston, Boston game of a doubleheader.

Famous Lippizzaner Horses to be seen at Montreal Forum May 28-31

For more than 20 years, the Vienna Spanish Riding School which is now touring the United States and Canada and which will appear at the Forum May 28, 29, 30 and 31 has been under the command of Colonel Alois Podhajsky, a former cavalry officer of the Austro-Hungarian army.

Wearing the practically unchanged, 200-year old uniforms of the Court Guard, Podhajsky and his well chosen team of instructors have been leading the School to new triumphs in our modern age.

As a rule, the horses are brought up to maturity slowly and it is only at the age of four that they are initiated. During the first two years, their training hardly differs from that of any saddle horse, with the exception that a much higher degree of accuracy and thoroughness of performance is to be acquired. In the third year, with the "lower school" being completed, the graduates are admitted to the High School.

Further progress there depends entirely on the adaptability of the individual horse and on the degrees of perfection it is able to attain. The daily trainings now never exceeds 45 minutes in order not to overtax the "pupil." High School riding is partly based on the natural movements of the horse, partly on movements which date back to the medieval training of horses for tournaments or battle.

1964 award-winning gladiolus

Your bulb dealer, nursery or garden centre should have for sale right now the All-America award-winning gladiolus for 1964. These three new beauties are La France, Blue Sapphire and Snowsprite.

La France is large flowered while Blue Sapphire and Snowsprite are miniatures. All three are available for planting in the next few weeks.

La France is the first All-America winner for Winston Roberts, Boise, Idaho, an internationally known hybridizer who has produced many prize-winning gladiolus.

Its color is a fresh, cool, pure pink of a shade known as "dawn pink." The petals edges are a slightly deeper shade of pink while the centre of the flower is a clear creamy white.

LACY AS A SNOWFLAKE

Seven to nine of the intensely ruffled florets are open at the one time and are of a heavy substance with a frosty, glistening texture.

With its beauty of coloring, delightful ruffling and easy growing habits it will become one of the most popular new gladiolus whether for garden or show table, mass display or home decoration.

Snowsprite is as dainty as its name suggests and as lacy as a snowflake. Six to seven round, ruffled and recurved florets open at once in graceful, informal placement on willowy tapering spikes.

The color is a sparkling, crystalline white with a greenish tint in the throat. The overall effect is to be cool and refreshing.

You'll discover that Snowsprite is a lacy grower which is easy to cut and a joy to use.

Blue Sapphire is a bright new jewel that will sparkle in your garden. The color is like a reflection of a summer sky, a smooth, light blue with a cloud-puff throat.

This latest addition to the All-American miniatures is nearly four feet tall with slender graceful spikes and round slightly frilled florets.

In case you are wondering how a variety four feet tall can be classed as a miniature, the classification depends on the size of the florets.

FAMOUS FOR THEIR WINS

Six or seven of the 18 to 20 buds open at once. Here is the perfect variety for arrangements of all types.

Both Snowsprite and Blue Sapphire are the originations of Carl Fischer, St. Charles, Minnesota.

His previous All-America winners include China Blue, Apple Blossom, Horizon, Maytime, Goldilocks, Morning Sun, Emperor, Little Pansy and Victory.

The first All-America Gladiolus Selections were announced in 1956. Some of the most widely acclaimed are Ben-Hur, Joyous, Landmark, Rusty, Thunderbird and Frisky.

Landmark and Thunderbird have become famous for their record of flower show championships.

In each case the selection is made on the basis of testing new originations in numerous trial gardens across the United States and Canada. Judging is done by experts and the varieties are identified only by number.

The All-America awards are not given lightly. Some idea of the competition that lies behind the gladiolus awards may be gained from the fact that nearly 500 gladiolus originations have been tested but only 22 have won the coveted award.

CORMS ARE UNIFORM

Many home gardeners make little distinction between dahlia tubers, gladiolus corms and tulip bulbs. They'll speak of a gladiolus bulb or a dahlia bulb. The correct term for gladiolus is corm, as it also is for crocuses.

The word gladiolus is used for both singular and plural forms. This was decided by the International Gladiolus Society several years ago.

Corms are solid or uniform in their structure instead of having scales or layers enclosing a heart or bud. They do, however, contain all the elements necessary to produce the plant, including its food, just like a bulb.

But while a true bulb lives on indefinitely as a single unit or splits into separate bulbs, a mature gladiolus corm, after forming the leaves and flowers of the plant, slowly shrinks and dries or withers.

At the same time a new corm or several corms form to take its place.

Choose large, healthy corms over one and a quarter inches in diameter if you wish large-

GLADIOLUS EASY TO GROW

Medium-size corms three-quarters to one and a quarter inches in diameter will produce satisfactory flowers for cutting. Small corms will develop into large corms for the following season.

Under good growing conditions corms one-quarter to a half inch in diameter will grow to one and a quarter inches in diameter or larger in one season.

The planting time for gladiolus is any time after the danger of frost is past and continues every week or 10 days until July.

The number of days from planting to bloom can vary from 60 to 120 days, depending on the variety. Catalogues usually give the number of days to bloom right after the variety name.

Gladiolus are easy-to-grow flowers that thrive in almost any type of garden soil.

The best soil is sandy loam but almost any type can be put in reasonably good growing condition by the addition of a quantity of humus and complete fertilizer or plant food before planting.

For humus you have a wide choice of materials which include peat moss, material from the home compost heap, well-rotted barnyard manure, discarded mushroom manure or decomposed cow manure.

Make the soil where you plant your gladiolus one-third humus and you'll be applying the correct amount.

At the same time scatter over the surface of the soil a complete fertilizer or plant food at the rate of four pounds per hundred square feet.

ROOTS ARE FAST GROWING

Before you plant, dig the soil at least 12 inches deep, as this will make it much easier for the fast growing roots to spread out.

The planting depth will vary with the kind of soil and the size of the corms.

In light soils plant the larger size corms four to five inches deep, and the smaller ones two to three inches deep.

On the heavy clay soils the large corms are set three to four inches deep and the small ones two inches deep.

Country Notebook

By WALKER RILEY

The unusually fine weather at the beginning of the month put tremendous pressure on the seeding. I was in Arundel, north of Lachute, on May 1, seeding was well under way then even though there was ice in the swamps and patches of snow on the hillsides.

Those light upland soils may lack the built-in capacity of clay to hold fertility, but they make up for it in other ways. They are early, and they are easy to work. And if their fertility shortage is made up, they can produce excellent crops.

I was interested in Stuart Cooke's herd of crossbreds. He is using a Galloway bull on half-bred Angus cows. The steers are ready for market at eighteen months. I don't know how much credit for this excellent rate of growth goes to that particular cross, and how much to Mr. Cooke's feeding.

It is the first time I have seen Galloways; there are not many of them in the country. The first were imported from western Scotland in 1830, but they have never gained the popularity of the Angus, which they resemble.

The first field of corn went in at the College on May 4. That is ten days ahead of last year. It is on the Provincial Seed Farm, rows of the variety Wisconsin 7 which is the male parent for the variety cross, Algonquin. The female parent, Quebec 28 will be planted later, so that it will be in silk when the Wisconsin 7 is in flower.

Remember last year? There was a ten inch snow fall in the first week of May. Corn had been already planted at the Lennoxville Experimental station. It came through fine.

It seems that we can very well push ahead the date for planting corn. Traditionally, it was left until the oats were in the ground. But, compared with oats, corn is a high value crop. Perhaps, if we get pushed for time, the corn should go in first.

Corn is a heavy feeder; you just can't get around that fact. Few soils are able to release enough nutrients in one year to keep a heavy crop going.

A heavy coat of manure — 10 tons or so to the acre — will go a long way to supply-

Soldering irons and guns are for small, exacting jobs

If soldering jobs turn up around the house or if you are a hobbyist who likes to tinker with assemble - it - yourself hi-fi components, a soldering iron becomes an important part of your tool collection.

Among the more popular electric irons are the gun type tools. Such an iron has a pistol grip and a switch located where the trigger ought to be. Pull the trigger and you have heat.

Tin Art
Using such a gun is similar to using any soldering iron. Keep the soldering tip clean and well tinned. Tinning is a process by which you cover the copper tip of any gun or iron with solder.

File the tip clean so that it is free of dirt and oxidation. Then heat and coat with flux.

With the flux melted and coating the tip completely, apply solder which will cover the cleaned area. Tinning makes the solder flow more evenly.

With a gun, be certain that the tip is kept tightly fastened. Nuts at the base of the tip should be checked. Never make even plastic wall tile. Turn the tile over. Make your mark on the back side and run the cutting tip over it.

A tip with a flat blade that can be applied against a larger surface is a smoothing tip. With it you can mend plastic items, make smooth seams, heat-seal freezer packages. (In the latter capacity, however, keep paper between the tip and the sealing material so that it won't stick.)

One trick in repairing a dent in a furniture surface is to apply a wet cloth, then enough heat to swell the wood fibers so that they swell up and fill the dent.

Using an electric iron is cumbersome and not very exact. The soldering iron smoothing tip is far more practical.
