Camille aftermath

Epidemic threat seen

GULFPORT, Miss. (AP) — A threat of epidemic, spewing broken gas mains and a rising death toll Wednesday plagued the Mississippi coastal strip shattered by Hurricane Camille.

Gov. John Bell Williams said the number of known dead left by Camille, the most intense hurricane ever to hit the United States mainland, was "200 plus."

State Adjutant-General Walter Johnson tightened the limited martial law on the strip to ban sightseers and halt mounting looting.

Johnson said he would order the 3,000 National Guard troops who will be on duty by Thursday to seize looters.

Deputy Civil Defence Director Prentiss Baughman said he believed the death toll would keep going up.

Johnson said his troops, armed with either M-1 rifles or sidearms, would enforce the 6 p.m. to 6 a.m. curfew banning all travel on streets and highways in the three battered coastal counties. He said they would also crack down on price profiteers.

Vice-President Agnew made a helicopter inspection flight Wednesday over the area crushed by the big storm.

REPORT 7 DROWNED
Virginia reported seven drowning deaths and severe flooding Wednesday. Two were reported dead in West Virginia with thousands seeking safety in higher ground.

Rescue officials pleaded with refugees to avoid water systems in the damaged cities for fear of a typhoid outbreak. They cautioned that anyone who had used normal drinking water should take immediate typhoid immunization.

Governor John Bell Williams, who earlier noted estimates by others that the death toll could run from 500 to 1,000, ordered the evacuation of Pass Christian, located near the centre of the storm's fury. The evacuation area of 4,000 was engulfed by tides and Williams said the 1,000 who were still there "must be removed for their own protection."

FIGHT GAS LEAKAGE

Leaking gas was a growing problem in Gulfport and nearby Biloxi. Biloxi Mayor Dan Guice banned trash burning because of gas seeping from broken pipes.

H. E. Blakeslee, Gulfport public works commissioner, said the city's normal water supply was being treated with triple the normal amounts of chlorine. He banned garbage disposal, particularly that from meat packers, seafood processors and supermarkets. Whatever food supply residents had in freezers was either exhausted or spoiled. Electricity was knocked out Sunday night.

Long lines queued in front of Red Cross and Salvation Army stations, which served food and had water supplies. Food was arriving in such great amounts that storage became a problem.

Sidewalk toughs not a problem

SHERBROOKE — (RS) — Local police authorities said yesterday Monday's beating of a police officer in downtown Sherbrooke was an isolated incident.

Speaking to the Record, police Captain Armand Genest said there had been no complaints from citizens about any group of "roughies" who hang around on Wellington street.

It was members of such a group who last Monday assaulted police constable Marcel Guilbault, after the latter had asked them to circulate.

Officer Guilbault was not injured in the attack but one of the captured aggressors was sent to jail for a week.

Quebec army

QUEBEC (CP) — The possibility of making a virtual anti-terrorist army out of Quebec's police forces was apparently discussed by a bomb-conscious cabinet Wednesday.

Justice Minister Remi Paul hinted to reporters that the cabinet discussed the possibility of imposing special emergency provision of the Police Act to unify Quebec police forces.

However, there were strong indications that the Union Nationale government would opt for less police-state-like measures in its determined bid to end terrorist bombings in Quebec province.

Mr. Paul, who met four hours Wednesday with Director Maurice St. Pierre of provincial police, said he will announce the government's decision at a news conference either today or Friday.

Under the Police Act, a cabinet "of the opinion that public health or safety is endangered" can put all municipal police forces in Quebec under the command of the provincial police.

The measure, inserted in the police legislation with the view toward such emergencies as war, could give the provincial police director supreme command of all Quebec police forces for 30 days.

TODAY'S CHUCKLE — College football is fast becoming a game in which you need a degree to get a ticket.

BUSINESS SECTION IN SHAMBLES — A local police official stands guard in the downtown section of Pass Christian, Miss., as the main street is covered with wreckage from business and beach homes as hurricane Camille lashed the gulf coast yesterday with 20 foot tides and 180 mile per hour winds. The death toll in Camille's wake stands at over 100 and may reach as high as 200 dead.

Czechs remember on first invasion anniversary

PRAGUE (Reuters) — Demonstrators set up barricades in a main downtown street Wednesday night as tumultuous protests marked the eve of the first anniversary of the Warsaw Pact invasion of Czechoslovakia.

Hours of struggle in Wenceslas Square brought troops into the streets. Police swung clubs, used tear-gas and soaked demonstrators and bystanders with high pressure hoses.

The federal government, meanwhile, announced that criminal charges are being brought against organizers of the disturbances.

There was no word on how many persons were arrested in the fighting, which greeted several police attempts to break up crowds near the famous statue of Wenceslas, the saint-king and symbol of national resistance.

In busy Narodny St. a convoy of armored vehicles twice smashed through a barrage of stones and hastily-erected barricades.

FLEE BEFORE TROOPS

Troops with fixed bayonets moved down Narodny St. and shouting people dashed down alleyways to escape them.

The violence could mark a major stage in the process by which the Soviet Union has brought to hell the country which for eight months in 1968 tried to reform the Communist system there.

Observers have speculated that the government of Communist party leader Gustav Husak might be replaced if it cannot prevent demonstrations.

As tension mounted during repeated clashes Wednesday, there were occasional shouts of "Dubcek, Dubcek"—Alexander Dubcek, the reforming leader who was finally replaced by Husak in April as communist party chief.

Running fights with police developed during the evening. A youth stopped a police car by stepping out in front of it. He then threw a brick at the car window and police piled out and clubbed him to the ground.

As the car drove off more bricks were thrown.

A few minutes before the soldiers appeared in Wenceslas Square, the people's militia, which with the army is on standby to back the police, made its first show of strength. Members were driven round the area but remained in their trucks. People hooted at them as they went by.

Before the troops arrived at the square, police behind six or seven water cannon trucks charged a crowd which had started jeering at security forces posted in the area to prevent demonstrations.

The Communist party leadership of Husak promised that agitation during the anniversary period would be severely punished.

An estimated 30 to 40 persons were arrested by police following disturbances earlier Wednesday and Tuesday.

Many observers here believe that today, Aug. 21—the date stamped in the memory of most Czechoslovaks—will be the crucial day in the latest surge of unrest. Troops of the Warsaw Pact entered Czechoslovakia last Aug. 21.

Clandestine leaflets circulating here called for a countrywide boycott of stores, public transportation, restaurants and places of entertainment today to mark the anniversary of the invasion.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Low inflow

OTTAWA (CP) — Government spokesmen said Wednesday the high rate of unemployment and the status of French in North America were the reasons that only 10 per cent of the Czechoslovakian refugees to Canada last year settled in Quebec.

Representatives of the federal and Quebec immigration departments as well as the Czechoslovakian community said in interviews that of 11,153 refugees who arrived in Canada following the Warsaw Pact invasion of Czechoslovakia, 1,331 settled in Quebec compared with 5,745 who stayed in Ontario.

A federal immigration spokesman said an average of about 20 per cent of all immigrants to Canada each year settle in Quebec.

He said a recent study showed that 14.35 per cent of the refugees spoke English on arrival, another 2.41 per cent spoke French, and 1.85 knew both.

Silence

QUEBEC (CP) — Negotiators working on a contract for Quebec's 70,000 teachers agreed at a 10-minute meeting Wednesday night not to divulge the details of an agreement in principle reached last Friday.

Their silence was to be held at least until this Friday. The proposed contract, which would expire in June, 1971, has yet to be put to a ratification vote by teachers in what would be the first province-wide agreement in the field.

Teachers have been without a contract since June, 1968. Negotiators met Wednesday night with the national assembly's permanent cabinet committee, which will sit again next Wednesday if necessary.

Fair attendance is up this year and ETAA president is satisfied

SHERBROOKE — (SL) — Carlo Fabi, president of the Eastern Townships Agricultural Association, said yesterday he is "more than satisfied" with this year's presentation of Exposition-Sherbrooke '69.

The head of ETAA, which is sponsoring the annual event, lauded the active participation of public, press and exhibitors.

"I would like to welcome you all here in sincere appreciation of the efforts you have done to make the fair a success," he told a banquet meeting of industrial and commercial exhibitors in the Arena Building.

"I am more than satisfied with the attendance and exhibits," he added. Attendance to date from the beginning,

Friday, to midnight Tuesday was 81,767 compared with 32,55 during the same five-day period last year.

In an after-dinner interview, Mr. Fabi explained to the Record that he hopes for an even better fair in 1970.

"We have given a new Midway to the public, which is what they wanted, and we hope to improve on it next year," he said. Exhibitors are also pleased, he said. "With the recent renovation to the Arena Building many exhibitors have expressed satisfaction with the improvements."

As for the news media: "I have found the newspapers, radio and television in Sherbrooke have done an excellent job of covering the events of the fair," Mr. Fabi concluded.

Now they'll know where we are

SHERBROOKE — (RS) — After scores of phone calls and recent public agitation the proper procedures have been taken with the provincial government to make sure Sherbrooke is properly indicated at the intersection of Routes 5 and 55, to incoming American tourists.

The announcement, made by city alderman and tourist committee president, Gaston M. Roy, also calls for the existing sign situated at the intersection of Route 5 to be relocated.

"In cooperation with a specialized firm," Mr. Roy's statement says, "a location mark project is presently being prepared. The new illuminated location mark to be 35 feet long, will present Sherbrooke as 'The Commercial and Industrial Metropolis of the Eastern Townships,'" Mr. Roy said.

The project will be presented to Sherbrooke city council next Monday, the statement reads, "and I am sure council will support it."

"When I accepted to be president of the tourist committee," Mr. Roy said, "I realized there had been major accomplishments, but there are more to come."

In citing past improvements, the alderman mentioned the new look brought to the city's tourist map, with a printed circuit indicating the sites to visit, making it much easier for the tourist as well as the city dweller.

Indicator signs in the city with details on the history and the site to visit aroused interest inside Sherbrooke, Mr. Roy pointed out.

Endorsement of the Quebec Triangle, with personal participation to assure its realization, "helping not only to develop tourist potential in Sherbrooke, but in the entire region was another accomplishment.

Active participation has been given by local associations, namely, the ETERC, Sherbrooke Tourist Committee, representatives of tourists committees from both movements of the Chambers of Commerce, Mr. Roy added.

In addition, he said, the city received recognition from the Provincial Department of Tourism, with two $2,000 grants in the past four months.

Demands are getting greater and Sherbrooke must be up to standards, Mr. Roy continued. "I will continue to support and encourage local representatives, in order to increase the effectiveness of accomplished projects," he stated.

Tourism is part of the economic development of our region, Mr. Roy emphasized, since this phase of our industry helps business and stimulates industrial development.

"I realize the truth in this every time I visit Sherbrooke with outside industrialists. Our universities, our roads, and our tourist attractions are definitely an asset for Sherbrooke, the ideal location."

Mr. and Mrs. Mac Martin,

It's all about stamps and coins and those little toy soldiers

Its name may be a little ambiguous but The Collector pavilion at Man and His World is all about coins and stamps and little toy soldiers.

From the philatelic point of view, the visitor will be overwhelmed by the quality of the presentation. There are some 12,000 stamps under glass for the edification of those who appreciate such collections, along with bilingual notes of explanation.

Pavilion Director James Levesque, 66, has spent some 20 years among international philatelic exhibits.

Stamps tend to represent practically all human endeavors — from science to history, from ballet and the other arts to sports. The Hungarians celebrate their ballet artists, New Guinea shows its shells, Spain, its bullfights, and the Kingdom of Bhutan, near Nepal, issues stamps with the local mythical monster — the abominable snowman.

For some of the smaller nations of the world, sales of stamps to collectors is big business and a sizeable source of national income. Sometimes, when an error is discovered in printing, the joke may turn out to be a collector's dream possession. One recent example was the German issue on Schubert which contained the profile of Schumann. Such rejects could bring great sums to owners.

The numismatic section of the pavilion is so valuable that bullet-proof glass cases and refined alarm systems were utilized to protect the John S. Newman coin collection. The room is relatively small but the collection is big in terms of its $600,000 declared value. Coins from antiquity to modern times, from Victoria to Elizabeth II make up the exhibit, painstakingly built over a period of 10 years by Newman, a Montreal businessman. The collection won first prize at the Canadian Numismatic Congress of 1967.

Interesting facts and figures emerge from a slow perusal of these coins. The visitor will find, for example, that the first coins minted by the newly-formed Dominion of Canada were issued three years after the 1867 date of Confederation.

There's one peculiar coin worth examining closely — a 10-cent piece dated 1893, with a rounded number three, now worth $8,000 in green dollar bills. It seems the number three is generally printed with a straight-line at the top and a rounded semi-circle at its bottom.

my there is a decided difference. This time the correct play is the deuce from dummy, not the queen. In other words the play of second hand low is correct.

The difference isn't the fact that West held the king of spades yesterday and East holds it today, but rather that today we have given South the ace-10-four of spades instead of the ace-five-four.

When South plays a low spade from dummy today he is sure to have two stoppers in spades. If East produces the jack South wins the trick with the ace. This establishes the king for the defenders but the best that king can do is to catch the queen, whereupon the 10-spade will become high.

If declarer plays the queen from dummy today, then East's king will knock out the ace. Later on, East will gain the lead with the king of diamonds and the eight of spades lead will pickle South's 10.

Of course, the queen play wouldn't hurt if West had led from the king. However, when you have a sure thing play, why bother with one that represents only a 50 per cent chance?

MAGOG SHOW BACKGROUND — The huge 40 foot background being used in this Sunday's Policemen and Firemen's Festival at Magog's arena, shown above is both impressive and colorful. Built in sections, the setting will set the stage atmosphere for over two hours of top quality entertainment, from which proceeds will go toward the police and firemen's association, much of which is again returned to the community in welfare work.

US pollution fighters to discuss Memphremagog

NEWPORT, Vt. — (IH) — The men from Magog Conservation and Boat Association will hold an informational and formal organizational meeting at the top deck Friday noon.

The local organization is composed of interested citizens who want to help combat water pollution on Lake Memphremagog was organized from the former Memphremagog Yachting Club early this summer. Friday will be the new organization's second meeting.

Speakers at the luncheon will be Vermont water resources officials, Dave Clough and James Morse.

Both officials have exhibited a keen interest in pollution problems on this lake and Mr. Morse has been conducting summer long biological studies on the current algae problem here.

The meeting will be opened to any persons interested in conservation of the lake. The conditions of the lake are of great importance both to the area businesses as well as recreation. A parallel purpose of the new association is to concentrate on recreation purposes of the lake as well as conservation.

When it was formed early this summer Herb March of Newport was appointed interim president, George Buzzell of Derby as interim secretary and C. R. MacLean, interim treasurer.

The new organization hopes to conduct similar work currently being carried out by the Canadian Memphremagog Conservation Inc., in Magog. Funds from the former yachting club were transferred to the new association.

Information at the Friday meeting will include current studies of the algae problem and the purpose of the association.

The meeting is being held during a historic week for the area. On Monday, the Quebec Water Board officials joined in an all out effort with the Vermont Water Resources Department to conduct intensive studies of both algae and pollution problems on Lake Memphremagog.

Water resources officials said that this was the first joint effort between the Vermont and Quebec Department in making such a study.

Results from this study will be exchanged throughout the remainder of the summer. A local university biologist hired by Memphremagog conservation Inc., is also assisting in the study.

Whitey jumps off the Acapulco cliffs for laughs

By STU LOWNDES
 (Record Staff Reporter)

SHERBROOKE — That man who does a mean bellyflop from a 10-foot high tandem is a five-foot bundle of hilarious delight to the belly-aching audience at the Sports Palace.

And that man — Whitey Hart — proved to the 160-lbs of fun-loving cajolery when interviewed by this RECORD reporter.

The blond, green-eyed water comedian is now playing in the International Water Follies show until Friday at Exposition-Sherbrooke '69.

The Mickey Rooney of the water set has performed on the Ed Sullivan Show, Jerry Lewis, Mike Douglas, Steve Allan and Dave Garroway shows in the United States.

His first professional appearance with the International Water Follies, a Boston-based aquatic entertainment company staged and produced by Sam Snyder, was at Quebec City and Montreal in 1943. Whitey has since travelled around the world to such places as Australia, New Zealand, Japan, Hong Kong, England, Mexico and South America.

"Travelling is a lot of fun" he says when he is not acting as Director of Aquatics at the Americano Hotel at Bal Harbour, Florida.

Whitey also said he was "fascinated" with the sloping King Street West hill. "As you know, we are flat-bottomed down south."

"But," he said in drifting away from the city's structure to the physical dimensions of this town's lovely ladies. "I certainly can't say the same thing about your women."

His sense of humor is also combined with a "sense of survival" in his dangerous work. "The dives look easy but if I miss my cue I could break my neck," he says.

If he should happen to miss his cue, he explains, after diving from a 10-foot high tandem into only six feet of water of a portable swimming pool lined with a concrete bottom, he would float to the surface.

The key to success and survival is the "uplift." The diver must, within one-tenth of a second, veer left or right or arch his backside vertically and surface upon impact on the water.

The safest dive is the resounding bellyflop where Whitey submerges two feet, sometimes painfully, and surfaces to a "oh, that smarts" audience.

The cast-lined stomach of Whitey has withstood this torture for a number of years. "I drink prune juice — with the stones — and eat hard-boiled eggs for breakfast," he says.

And one of the most dangerous dives he does in his act is when he "competes" with Dick Gutting, world's champion acrobatic diver.

Gutting rises six feet into the air from the tandem, does a one-turn back somersault and rides Whitey down in piggy-back fashion into the water.

Looks easy, doesn't it? Try it the next time you are swimming in Lake Massawippi, but please, make sure you have a least 25 feet of water beneath you.

And, by the way, if you should bump into Whitey ask him what it is like jumping from the cliffs at Acapulco. He has "just for laughs."

August heat apparently unbalances Mr. Bellemare

Apparently the heat of early August causes not only dogs to froth at the mouth — some politicians apparently suffer temporary aberrations during the traditional "Dog Days," supposedly rational men coming out with wild declarations and comments on current events.

Charitably we will assume that provincial Labor Minister Maurice Bellemare was suffering from such temporary discomfort when he made his announcement in Quebec City that the bomb terrorism in the province today is the work of "certain Anglo-Saxon activists" who want to destroy French-Canada. The minister was quoted as saying that the tactics of the Anglo-Saxons have always been to "divide and conquer" and that "there are elements who are determined to force us to bow our heads in defeat, once and for all... elements bent on wrecking the Quebec economy."

As an alternative to believing that Mr. Bellemare suffered from some temporary condition resulting from the combination of the oppressive heat and humidity with the series of bitter strikes, labor unrest and violence which have marred his term of office, there is the conclusion that he is a racist, seeking to stir up trouble between the two major elements in Quebec — an attitude repugnant to any responsible cabinet minister.

Unfortunately for the stature of Mr. Bellemare, his charges are given little credence by police officials charged with investigating the bombing and other terrorist incidents.

Mr. Bellemare owes it to the English-speaking population of the province either to substantiate his charges or retract his statements. If he has definite information that the Anglo-Saxons are responsible for the terrorism it is his duty to make it public rather than to wage a campaign of hate by insinuation.

And he must also explain by what process of reasoning he has come to his conclusions.

There is nothing like a pretty nurse to make you realize how sick and/or old you are.

Reaching higher goals

The accusation is often made, especially by the younger generation, that the democracies are nations of hypocrites. It is charged that they proclaim a lot of noble ideas in their great charters and their bills of rights but fail to live up to them in practice.

Adolf A. Berle, professor emeritus of law at Columbia University, recently made a reply to that charge which bears repeating, even though he is well past 30 and is a senior member of the Establishment.

Addressing a gathering of school superintendents in New York, the former Assistant Secretary of State, ambassador and U. S. government consultant agreed with the accusation of these shortcomings.

"A good teacher far from denying this, would at once admit its truth," said Berle. "But he would add something surprising."

"He would say that no society is worth the price of admission if it did not proclaim ideals which are beyond its present realization. For that matter no man ever lived up to his ideals, either."

"If ever American society fulfills all its ideals, it would be because the ideals were outrageously low. Seeking goals beyond your reach is essential—in fact, it is the first principle of government."

History, said Berle, is the record of the painful attempts by society to seek levels beyond its immediate reach and, if ever it has realized them, to seek still higher goals.

Another way of putting it might be to paraphrase the words of the poet. A nation's reach should exceed its grasp—or what's a younger generation for?

Too many youthful reformers, however, blessed with instant wisdom, appear ready to throw out the baby with the bath water and the teachers along with their teaching.

Their reach, regrettably, exceeds their grasp of history or of human nature.

Some folk don't care for wine served cold and others can't hang onto it long enough for it to get cold.

Now forgotten Anguilla shows amazing progress during year

ANGUILLA (AP) — Remember Anguilla, the island in the Caribbean whose leader caught the ear of the world with his cry for independence?

Eight months ago headlines paid heed to the mouse that roared like a lion.

Enraptured, outsiders watched as Ronald Webster declared a constitution for his tiny island, and threatened to shoot anyone who denied him. Much of the world applauded. But that was last January.

Then the world forgot, or almost forgot, the tiny island, its 6,000 people and its 35 square miles of scrub brush and poverty.

This reporter has just revisited Anguilla and talked with the self-styled president, Ronald Webster, and the British officials who were sent to the island and took it over with paratroopers in March. They are the people who replaced the Webster vigilantes, the Anguillians who patrolled the beaches against invaders.

Anguilla revisited is a voyage of discovery, the discovery of a new Anguilla, whose leader has abandoned his cry of total independence and says he now would accept a "constitution under the British Commonwealth as good or better than my own."

What has happened to make the big change?

Much has happened. The British government has persuaded the independent and associated states of the Caribbean to act in concert. They are the same governments whose leaders asked the British to take over.

They have all agreed that a Caribbean commission of wise men, independent of governments, would recommend a future course for the tiny island.

The British have guaranteed that Anguillians will never have to live again under constitutional supervision they do not approve. And Robert Bradshaw, the wilful premier of St. Kitts-Nevis-Anguilla, who tried to force Anguilla to bow to his rule, has accepted the compromise of a commission of wise men.

The British government has tried to repair 300 years of neglect of Anguilla, neglect by both Britain and the Bradshaw regime.

BUILD ROADS
A system of direct aid now bypasses the treasury of St. Kitts-Nevis. Bulldozers and tractors roar through the island, making a long airstrip to accommodate huge British Hercules transports and carving out long strips of road to connect the few village spots of black top. The opening of the first 10 miles of solid road was the occasion for an island-wide celebration recently. They are building a new school, too.

British land rovers buzz through the island, taking military doctors to their field hospital, taking crews to help dig water wells, and scoop out water storage areas. Villages now are twinkling with low-tension electric power, power that once served only a few buildings, here and there. In the last year and a half, Britain has allocated $240,000 in direct aid to Anguilla.

The departing British commissioner, John Cumber, has persuaded the Anguilla Council to help administer island services, such as the Anguillian police, the civil service, and a return to Commonwealth and West Indian law and justice. Deputy Commissioner Simon Heman, in charge of this, says the islanders are working like Trojans to learn the arts of self-government.

Webster describes the process of change from the day in 1967 when the islanders decided they had had enough of being the tattered tail of St. Kitts' constitutional kite. They drove away Kittian police.

They allowed Britain a year to hear their pleas. And then, in Webster's words, they gave Mother Britain an ultimatum. They would declare their total independence, and they did last January.

SHOTS FIRED
There followed the brief withdrawal of British administration, a visiting British foreign service officer, William Whitlock, heard shots fired over his head. He accepted an Anguillian escort off the land. The British said Mafia-like corruption would come, and so they sent paratroopers on March 19. They landed without a shot being fired.

Webster is still chairman of the Anguilla Council, as he was before under British administration. He accepted this temporary arrangement until the Caribbean wise men make recommendations.

He says the people of Anguilla never wanted independence from Britain, only independence from the arbitrary grouping of St. Kitts-Nevis-Anguilla. He describes Britain as Anguilla's mother. He still insists that Anguilla was invaded by the paratroopers, an act that heaped coals of critical fire on the heads of the British government for "gunboat diplomacy."

Today, 100-odd paratroopers, and small squads of Scotland Yard police, are in the charge of defence, and law and order. Nobody objects, neither Ronald Webster nor Robert Bradshaw.

The mystery that remains is the question: Who wrote the imitation American constitution promulgated by Webster last January? Island gossip says an American investor wrote it, a man named Jack Holcomb of Fort Lauderdale, Fla. Neither Webster nor Holcomb is saying.

But articles 11 and 12 would surrender the right of eminent domain to private investors, and restrict the Anguilla government to public utilities. And the chief justice under the Webster constitution would not have had to have a degree in law from any recognized university.

WARNED OF MAFIA
That led the British government to charge that Anguilla was in danger of being ruled by Mafia-type corruption. It led some West Indian lawyers to charge that the Webster constitution was a mockery.

Webster disagrees. He says his document is still alive, until the wise men speak.

His political opponents on the island answer that the Webster vigilantes ruled the beaches under the Webster constitution, that it could not be a system of American law, and it was far from British constitutional law.

Arch-critic Alvin Harrigan, editor of the Anguilla Beacon, says the Webster constitution is dead. And Webster himself talks as if he is using it merely as a bargaining point.

The British Government now understands Anguilla's anguish. The only hope for the islanders in the past had been migration. Some 2,000 Anguillians are working in automobile factories near Wimbledon, England. Some 2,000 more are in New York and New Jersey with another 2,000 in the Virgin Islands and elsewhere in the Caribbean.

SENT MONEY
These 6,000 most of them breadwinners, send back money to relatives in Anguilla. Anguilla still sells a half a million pounds of lobster to the outside world each year. It issues postage stamps that sell well among collectors. The new Anguilla has found another profitable sideline, selling the national flag created by Ronald Webster. The three blue dolphins, chasing each other head to tail, on a field of white, fetch $2 each among flag collectors. And the British help, along by flying the blue dolphins on Government House.

But this is not enough to lift Anguilla out of poverty. This is not enough to meet the Caribbean-wide problem of defence and law enforcement, a problem created when Britain began to pull out.

COMMENT

by Lubor J. Zink

OTTAWA (TNS) — Visiting Saigon last month, President Nixon said the U. S. and its allies had gone as far as they can in seeking an honorable settlement of the conflict in Southeast Asia; it was now time for the Communists to do their bit for peace.

By this he meant that the allies had made the maximum concessions both at the negotiating table in Paris and on the battlefield in Vietnam, and that progress towards peace now depended entirely on the other side.

The Communists responded by reiterating their intransigent position in Paris and by ending the lull in fighting in Vietnam which some observers had begun to interpret as Hanoi's and Viet Cong's tacit response to Mr. Nixon's decision to start with drawing American troops.

While no one can as yet determine whether the new Communist assault on the cities of South Vietnam marks the beginning of a general offensive or is limited to creating additional pressures on Washington and Saigon for further unilateral concessions, there can be no doubt that the "other side" (which includes Peking and Moscow) is rejecting all the conciliatory gestures made over the past few months by Presidents Nixon and Thieu.

In other words, the Communists have interpreted the concessions the allies have made in their intensive search for a negotiated settlement as signs of weakness and vulnerability which could be aggravated and exploited by stepped up carnage.

President Nixon's offer of a political settlement in Vietnam was outlined in his speech of May 14 which envisaged an eight-point peace plan. The key provisions were mutual withdrawal of troops and a general election under international supervision.

Explaining his proposals, Mr. Nixon stressed that he, like his immediate predecessors in the White House, was not seeking a military solution, and pledged the U. S. and its allies to respect the result of the suggested election in which the Communists would field their own candidates.

Since the present constitution of South Vietnam rules out Communist participation in the political life of the country (a provision dictated by the fact of the Viet Cong resort to organized terrorism and military operations in conjunction with the war of aggression conducted by Hanoi), President Thieu subsequently elaborated on Nixon's election offer.

In his six-point peace proposal of July 11, Thieu envisaged the necessary change in the constitution and invited the NLF (the political arm of the Viet Cong) to take part in an internationally-supervised election, provided the Communists renounced violence and agreed to accept the decision of the electorate.

He went further than Nixon by offering the NLF representation on a mixed election commission.

Both Hanoi and the NLF (which now calls itself "the provisional revolutionary government") dismissed the Nixon-Thieu peace plans as "perfidious trickery," and insisted on acceptance of their two key demands — namely a complete unilateral withdrawal of American troops and the setting up of a coalition government in Saigon before any election.

These two Communist conditions are unacceptable to the allies. Unilateral withdrawal would be tantamount to surrender to North Vietnamese aggression which prompted their intervention in the conflict. And the setting up of a "coalition government" in Saigon on Communist terms would defeat the very purpose of the intervention which was, and still is, to give the people of South Vietnam a chance to choose and shape a form of government best suited to their needs and aspirations.

Had the people of South Vietnam been willing to accept Communist dictatorship, the conflict which has already cost more lives than the earlier struggles in Malaya and Korea would never have developed.

No one would have intervened had the South Vietnamese not resisted Hanoi's attempts to impose its totalitarian system on them after the partition of the country in 1954.

Intervention became necessary when the initially covert aggression from the North assumed the Moscow and Peking-backed proportion in the mid-1960s with which the South Vietnamese could not cope on their own.

From the very start, the aim of the assistance given to South Vietnam was not military victory but prevention of Communist imposition of their political system on South Vietnam by force of arms.

Man charged with clothing and cash theft

SHERBROOKE — (RS) — A Sherbrooke man will appear before the court today with his attorney to answer a charge of theft.

Clement Plante, 20, told the court yesterday he would not decide how he wanted to be tried before consulting an attorney.

The suspect was arrested by Sherbrooke Police early Wednesday morning in connection with a theft in a parking lot behind the St. Jeanne d'Arc Caisse Populaire.

A suit and some money were stolen from Roland Fauteux, a nearby Dominion Textile company employee.

Police found the suspect on a nearby street with a suit over his arm and money in his pockets.

A jobless teenager was ordered by the Court to sign a bond to keep the peace for a year yesterday as punishment for shop-lifting.

Ghislaine Vallee of Sherbrooke was charged with stealing a purse valued at $11.97 from Miracle Mart store last June 6th.

Prosecuting attorney Pierre C. Beaudry told the court the young girl had lost her job and had no previous record.

Irish PM avoids party split

BELFAST (CP) — Prime Minister James Chichester averted a major split within his Unionist party late Wednesday after some party dissidents had accused him of "selling out" to Britain on peacekeeping measures in Northern Ireland.

After a two-hour party caucus at Stormont Castle, former home affairs minister William Craig, a right-wing activist, told reporters: "The report given by the prime minister has satisfied us that he has not conceded the vital interests of Northern Ireland."

"The Royal Ulster Constabulary and the special constabulary will continue to be our bulwark." His chief concern was the agreement to put all Northern Irish security forces under control of the British army.

There was some confusion over the B-Specials, the Protestant auxiliary police force. Reports from London had indicated the B-men would be disbanded and disbanded. But Chichester-Clark apparently assured his Protestant government this would not happen.

The commander of British troops in Northern Ireland, Lt. Gen. Sir Ian Freeland, announced Wednesday night he was removing the specials completely from riot duty. But he said he was retaining them to guard vital installations and roadblocks.

PROTESTERS EASED This eased some of the political pressure from Chichester-Clark. Roman Catholics, who contend the B-Specials are anti-Catholic, were glad the B-men were taken off riot duty, and the Protestants were satisfied the B-men would not be disbanded.

Bride wears heirloom gown of ivory satin

MRS. DONALD LEE, formerly Janet Marion Dunsmore, whose marriage to Arthur Donald Lee took place at the First Congregational Church, Pembroke, N.H. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm J. Dunsmore, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John L. Lee, Sarnia, Ontario.

PEMBROKE, N.H. — A reception in the garden at the home of the bride's parents on Brickett Hill, Pembroke, N.H., followed the marriage of Janet Marion Dunsmore and Arthur Donald Lee, which took place at the First Congregational Church of Pembroke with Rev. Hubert Toppiff performing the ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm J. Dunsmore and the bridegroom, the son of Mr. and Mrs. John L. Lee, 633 Elm Avenue, Sarnia, Ont.

Escorted by her father, the bride wore an ivory satin gown styled with alencon lace inserts at neckline and waist. Her veil of silk illusion, edged with heirloom lace falling from a pillbox formed of silk illusion and trimmed with apple blossoms. Both the gown and veil were worn by the bride's mother and the bride's sister at their weddings. She carried a cascade arrangement of white roses, stephanotis and ivy.

Mrs. Norman Simpson of Bermuda was matron of honor for her sister, in a floor length A-line gown of maize pique with wedding ring neckline and front panel trimmed with white val lace. She wore a matching Dior bow and carried a cascade of yellow and white daisies, white roses and ivy.

Wearing gowns of mimosa pique, styled similarly to the matron of honor and carrying cascade bouquets of yellow and white daisies, baby's breath and ivy were the other attendants, Miss Helen Vilim and Miss Sandra MacGregor, Montreal, and Mrs. Michael Towle of Nashua, N.H.

Edgar Healey, Oldcastle, Ont., served as best man. Ushers included James Dunsmore of Pembroke, N.H., brother of the bride, John Flood of Sarnia, Ont., and Graham Moodie of Montreal.

Mrs. Michael Towle was soloist at the ceremony and Miss Nancy Walker of Concord, N.H., presented the guest book at the reception.

When the couple left on a trip to Bermuda, the bride wore an ensemble of moss green linen with beige accessories and a corsage of gardenias.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Dunsmore chose a mist green print dress in silk linen with coat to match and a corsage of phalaenopsis orchids. Mrs. Lee, mother of the groom, wore a light blue ensemble with white orchid corsage.

The bridal couple will make their home in London, Ont., where the groom will continue his studies at the University of Western Ontario.

Both bride and groom are graduates of Bishop's University and the bride has been a social worker with the Department of Welfare, Manchester, N.H.

The bride is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Payson A. Sherman of Sctctown and of the late Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Dunsmore of Sherbrook.

MONTREAL, August 21st — Do you realize that your money can make more money when you put it in two accounts instead of one? Where? At THE BANK OF NOVA SCOTIA, of course! To pay your bills, you set up a Scotia Chequing Account, which saves on the cost of cheques. Then put your savings in a "Blue Chip" Savings Account, which brings you healthy interest. The record of monthly payments I get through my Scotia Chequing Account lets me know where I stand with my bills. And who wouldn't enjoy watching interest and savings mount up in a Scotiabank "Blue Chip" Savings Account!

They call it "THE NEW NECESSITY" and I think that best describes a wonderful new product — DEMURE FEMININE HYGIENE SPRAY DEODORANT. Necessity? Yes. Because to-day's active woman needs more than a bath and more than an underarm deodorant to stay fresh and confident all day. Demure is a light spray mist specially made to eliminate odour from the external vaginal area. Safe and gentle to use, its delicate fragrance vanishes soon after application, so you can be confident that the Demure deodorant formula is really working — not just covering up. Try Demure Feminine Hygiene Spray Deodorant and you'll know why it's called "The New Necessity".

Red Sox in final; Senators-Indians play third game

The Red Sox won 16-10 over the Twins in their second game of the Sher-Lenn Little League semi-final of the play-offs and took the series in two straight and now await the winners of the Indians-Senators series which is tied at one apiece. Indians took the first game of this series by an 11-6 score but Senators came back last night with a 7-5 win to send the series into a third and deciding game to be played on Friday night at the Parade Grounds at 6 p.m.

The Red Sox in the top of the first inning on a base on balls and a single by Daniel Denault, his first of four hits in the game, sent the Sox off to a one nothing lead. The Twins went down in order in their part of the first.

A single by Jacques Gendron of the Twins was all for either team in the second inning. In the top of the third, the Red Sox with three runs made it 4-0. Two bases on balls, two infield errors, coupled with a hit from Denault scoring the runs. The Twins in the last of the third cut the lead to 4-2 as they tallied twice.

A home run with two men aboard by Daniel Denault and singles by Daniel Laroche and Daniel Roy in the first part of the fourth added six more runs to the Red Sox total. Twins were held to a single by James Legallais in the fourth. Three runs in each of the fifth and sixth for the Red Sox brought their total up to 16 runs. Daniel Denault came up with his fourth hit in the game.

The Twins in the last of the fifth threw a scare into the Sox as they came up with a barrage of six hits and eight runs. The Sox starting pitcher, Denault was lifted for Daniel Caron but before the end of the inning he too was relieved with Daniel Auger taking over.

The Senators pulled an upset in their 7-5 win over the favored Indians but in the end they were worthy winners. They were up for this one. Indians on the other hand seemed to play more loosely than they usually do.

Andre Gagnon, the Senator's hurler, held the Indians off the score sheet in the first three innings while his mates gave him a 2-0 lead. In the bottom of the first inning, hits by Claude Charpentier and Michel Bernier gave the Senators a run. They added one more in the last of second on a home run by Michel Murray.

The Indians got their first run in the top of the fourth with Jacques Lambert and Rejean Dostie hitting. The Senators in the fourth added three more runs. Gagnon Charpentier added his second hit.

Each team scored twice in the fifth. The Senators held out to win 7-5 and force the third game Friday. The Senators played well in this one and their stars were Gagnon, Charpentier and Bernier. Starring for the Indians were Lambert with three hits and Benoit with two safeties.

Red Sox 1-0-3-6-3-3-16-13-2
Twins 0-0-2-0-8-0-10-10-4
Denault, Caron (5); Auger (5) and Roby, P. Bishop and D. Hanson.
Indians 0-0-0-1-2-2-5-12-2
Senators 1-1-0-3-2-x-7-8-1
Lambert, St. Cyr (2) and Dostie, Gagnon and Morin.

Expos win slugfest, Dodgers in first

Baltimore Orioles always seem to hurt the other team, one way or another.

Just ask Andy Messersmith, Messersmith, a promising young California Angels pitcher, took a 3-2 decision from the Orioles Wednesday night, but didn't escape unscathed. He has the bruises to show for his encounter with the American League East's runaway leaders.

Messersmith's mistake was colliding with Baltimore's six-foot-four-inch Boog Powell—a mistake for anyone.

The collision occurred in the seventh inning when Messersmith covered first on Powell's bounce. Both players were forced to leave the game, Messersmith with an injured right shoulder and Powell with a sprained left ankle.

In other American League games, Kansas City Royals shut out New York Yankees 5-0, Boston Red Sox edged Minnesota Twins 7-6, Washington Senators clipped Chicago White Sox 4-1, Oakland Athletics edged Cleveland Indians 2-1 and Detroit Tigers dropped Seattle Pilots 4-3.

Ken Tatum relieved in the eighth and shut out the Orioles in the last two innings to save Messersmith's 12th victory.

How you gonna keep 'em down on the farm—especially when they're pitching like Chuck Taylor.

Taylor was a St. Louis farmhand at Tulsa until he was called up by the Cardinals last June.

The 27-year-old right-hander, who has spent eight full seasons in the minors, posted a two-hit 2-1 victory over Cincinnati Wednesday night that dropped the Reds into second place in the National League West, a half game behind Los Angeles Dodgers who beat Philadelphia Phillies 8-5.

The victory was the sixth against one defeat for Taylor, who has started six games and completed five of them, posting a 1.66 earned run average.

In other National League games, New York Mets trounced San Francisco Giants 6-0 and moved to within 6 1/2 games of the East Division-leading Chicago Cubs who lost 6-3 to Atlanta Braves while Pittsburgh Pirates edged Houston Astros 1-0 and Montreal Expos outslugged San Diego Padres 11-10.

Ron Reed, 12-8, pitched his fourth straight victory as Atlanta bounced back from Tuesday's no-hit defeat by Chicago's Ken Holtzman.

Rico Carty paced the Braves with a homer, double and single in four at-bats. Atlanta remained 2 1/2 games behind Los Angeles and a game ahead of Houston and San Francisco, tied for fourth.

MONTREAL (AP) — Ron Fairly drove in five runs with a pair of homers Wednesday night as Montreal Expos blew a six-run lead and then bounced from behind to whip San Diego Padres 11-10.

Both the Expos and Padres collected 15 hits in the loosely played game.

The Padres, behind 7-1 early in the game, finally overtook the Expos in the seventh, scoring three runs. Ollie Brown's leadoff homer put San Diego in front.

But the Expos bounced right back in the bottom of the inning. Rusty Staub, who had two singles, walked with one out and Fairly followed with his second home run of the game and seventh of the season, narrowing San Diego's lead to 10-9.

A walk, Ty Cline's third single and Ron Brand's second hit, loaded the bases and Kevin Collins delivered the pinch single that pulled Montreal back in front for keeps.

Pro-Am tourney

One of the largest fields on this year's provincial golf circuit, 575 amateurs and professionals including some of Quebec's best known names, have registered for the last of this season's O'Keefe tournaments, a pro-amateur competition, this weekend at the Ski-8-Eb club in Trois Rivières.

Touring pro Phil Giroux, of Cartierville, heads the list of 66 entries in the professional section. A weekend win at Trois Rivières will assure Giroux of the top $400 end of season purse in the provincial circuit points race. A total of $1,000 will be distributed to points winners.

Giroux, winner of circuit events at Mont Gabriel and St. Jean, as well as having the top pro position in the 1969 Ontario Open to his credit, leads the points race at 53.143. His nearest rival, Lew Taylor, of Lachute, stands at 37.5 points.

If Giroux finishes out of the top money at Ki-8-Eb however, the race will be wide open going into the September professional championship at the City of Montreal course, the final event on the points system.

Jean Guy Periard, of Boucherville, 1968 Quebec pro champion, has earned a 26.5 third position on the O'Keefe points scale and is followed, at 25.00 points, by Ken Fulton, of Richelieu Valley, winner of the season's first circuit pro-am at LaSalle.

Among the other well known names who will tee off in the pro field starting at 12:00 noon on Sunday are Jack Bissegger, Adrien Bigras and Norman Doyle.

The professionals will be preceded by 151 class A amateur men in the Sunday play. Again here the well known names such as Louis Michaud, Gordon LeRiche, Claude Dufour, Ed Ross, etc., are expected to dominate the final class standings.

Completing the three day event, 278 class B and C men will tee off from 6:30 a.m. on Saturday and 90 women, in all classes, from 10:00 a.m. on Friday.

The CPGA-Quebec member professionals will be playing for a share of the total $2,000 in purses, the amateurs for $1,000 in merchandise prizes plus O'Keefe class trophies.

Swimming events to Donna Gurr and B.C.

HALIFAX (CP) — Donna Gurr wound up four days of swimming at the Canada Games Wednesday night with enough gold medals to sink her to the bottom of Centennial Pool.

Miss Gurr, the 14-year-old sensation from Richmond, B.C., picked up her fifth gold medal in the final day of swimming competition by helping the British Columbia women's 400-metre freestyle team to victory.

It was also the fourth gold medal for team-mate Jeanne Warren of Vancouver and tied her for second place among individual winners with Angela Coughlan of Burlington, Ont.

Four other swimmers—Bill Kennedy and Jane Wright, both of Toronto, Bill Mahoney of New Westminster, B.C., and George Smith of Edmonton—collected their third gold medals Wednesday.

Kennedy was part of Ontario's relay team that won the men's 400-metre freestyle relay Wednesday night.

Wright won her third when she finished the women's 200-metre breaststroke in a dead heat with Sylvia Dockerill of Vancouver.

Mahoney won the men's 200-metre breaststroke and Smith captured the 100-metre butterfly.

Meanwhile, Nancy Robertson of Edmonton won her second gold medal by winning the women's 10-metre platform diving event with 331.35 points.

Susan Smith of Edmonton won the women's 100-metre butterfly in the other swimming event of the day.

Terry Fitzpatrick won the men's section of the 10-metre diving with 411.96 points, using his best dive to edge Ron Friesen of Moose Jaw, Sask., who finished with 410.46 points.

Meanwhile, Ontario captured the women's softball final, defeating Alberta 7-2 and Ontario and Quebec teams won their semi-final matches for the right to advance to the baseball final today.

Maureen Harris of Toronto smashed a grand-slam homer in the sixth and Arlene Best, also of Toronto, recorded 10 strikeouts to lead the Ontario softball victory.

In baseball, Quebec defeated New Brunswick 6-4 behind the hitting of left fielder Russ Ayoub, who accounted for four runs and Ontario walloped Nova Scotia 10-2 behind the six-hit pitching of Brian Murphy of London.

Belvedere Open

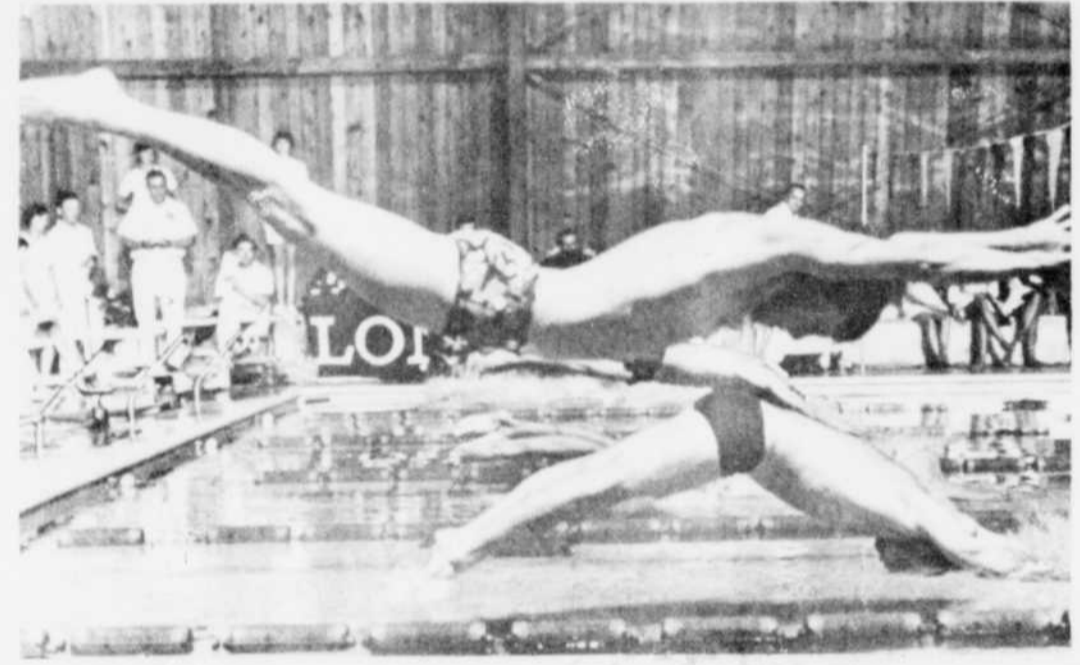

The Belvedere Golf Club will hold its annual Open Tournament, Saturday and Sunday, August 23rd and 24th, 1969.

The Belvedere Trophy will be awarded to the low net player and more than $400 worth of prizes will be given to the winners of classes A, B and C in the gross and net scores.

The course is actually in excellent condition and although it is not considered a long course, accuracy is required in order to score well.

Late entries will be accepted and foursomes will be made upon inscription at the Club. First starting time will be at 7:30 a.m.

A special invitation is sent to all those golfers who have not as yet visited this picturesque and challenging course.
