Loans Under Home Improvement Plan More Than $41,000

62 Separate Accounts Opened Under Dominion Government's Scheme—Residents Borrow Through Local and Downtown Banks—Considerable Increase Since End of June

A total of $41,943.00 has been borrowed in Westmount under the Dominion Government's Home Improvement Plan, up to and including November 20th, it was announced this week by Hon. C. A. Dunning, Minister of Finance. This amount was leased in 62 separate loans to local residents for the purpose of making repairs and alterations to their homes.

In the four-month and twenty day period from the end of June, loans in this city totalled $14,128.40, made to 21 applicants. At the end of June, loans numbered 41 and totalled $27,815.

The figures issued by the National Employment Commission, through whom the Government is operating the Home Improvement Plan, show that throughout Canada, more than 30,000 loans have been made. For the province of Quebec, 276 loans have been made since the beginning of November. Nova Scotia leads the provinces with a per capita rate of $1.518, this being the average loan per person; Quebec stands eighth, with a per capita rate of $.79. The average for Canada is $1.13.

In the group of cities whose populations stand between 20,000 and 40,000, Westmount stands 11th in point of value of loans made during the year. Kitchener, Ontario, heads the list with $88,414.45 for 343 loans.

Westmount is considered ahead of Verdun, where 95 loans for $35,350.12 have been recorded since the beginning of the year. These figures cover loans made in local bank branches for local use. A great many local residents deal with banks downtown, and consequently loans made there are registered under the Montreal district. Figures for Westmount, therefore, are probably considerably less than the actual amount of work being done under the Home Improvement Plan here.

Two men known as Gerald Lamoureux and G. Boyer, who gave Montreal addresses, were given time in jail Monday morning on bicycle theft charges, the offenses having been committed November 24th. Constable Williams made the arrests.

Two men giving the names of Gerald Labrie and A. Garceau were each given three months' imprisonment for having broken into the fruit and vegetable store of Gordon and Son at Greene avenue and St. Catherine street on the night of Sunday, November 21st. Broden and Talbot made the arrests in this case.

A fifteen day sentence for begging was imposed on a man giving the name of Jack Dolan, and one Gerard Garceau was given a like term on a similar charge. Giving the name of John Proulx, a man was sentenced to two months' imprisonment on a loitering charge.

The names of William Patrick O'Donnell, Adjutor Beaubien and Denis Jackson were given by three persons arrested on begging charges. Beaubien was given a 2 month term, and the other two were sentenced to one month.

Robert Edwards and Wife Presented With Gold Medal, Corsage, at Annual Event

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Edwards were honored Saturday night at the annual dance of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers held in the Windsor Hotel. Indian Life Is Described

Mrs. Harry Smith Addressed Girls' Hi-Y Meeting, Wearing Native Hindu Costume

The Girls Hi-Y was addressed at the Westmount Y.M.C.A. Thursday night by Mrs. Harry Smith, who had spent three years as a nurse in India. Mrs. Smith was dressed in a "sari" and wore several bracelets and a Maltese cross.

She described nursing in India and the many different types of patients she had met. Her talk was made interesting by the showing of different kinds of native jewelry worn by the people of India and also some of the gifts she had received from her patients.

Mrs. Smith concluded by saying that India was the most fascinating place to live in and that the people were most interesting to meet.

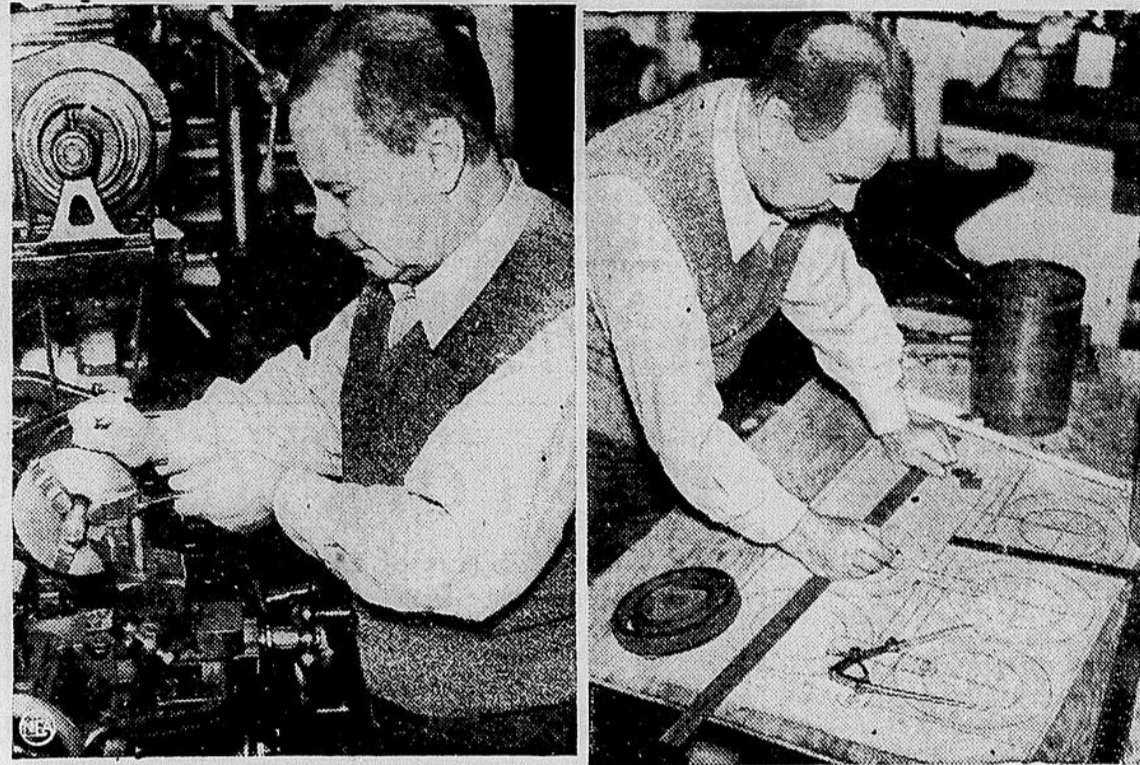

The speaker was introduced by Elaine Prince and thanked by Florence Goode. Business of the club was then discussed and after this the meeting was adjourned by the president, Janet Kingsland.

HIS REAL JOB IS PLAYING THE PIANO!

If Josef Hoffman weren't such a great pianist, he might have become a very famous inventor. And not all of his inventions would be tunes. Next to the piano, the machine shop in the cellar of his Philadelphia home is his chief interest—and a practical hobby, too. Out of his puttings has come a new device to lighten the touch of piano keys, for one thing. And at left you see Hoffman at work on plans for a new heating system for his home. He works at the lathe at right.

Appeal Against $350 Judgment Is Upheld

The Court of King's Bench Tuesday reversed a decision of the Superior Court which had condemned the City of Westmount to pay one John J. Miller the sum of $350 for damages incurred to his car when it struck a tree in Melville avenue the night of April 25, 1933.

The court ruled that Miller knew the street well and had no excuse for running into the tree, which was well protected by a curb. The court found that there was nothing to prevent the city from dividing the road.

The accident was Miller's own fault, the court ruled, partly because the lights on his car were poor, and partly because of the plaintiff's poor vision.

Miller had sued the city for damages following the crash, and had been awarded $286.90 and costs. The City appealed the case.

S. Engel Discusses Good Advertising At Rotary Meeting

Art Director of Ronalds Addressed Local Group Wednesday — Traced History of 'Salesmanship in Print' — Described Good and Bad Points in Ad Design — Illustrated Remarks With Posters Made on Spot

"Advertising is salesmanship in print," declared Stanley Engel, Art Director of Ronalds Advertising Agency, in addressing the Westmount Rotary Club's weekly luncheon meeting at Victoria Hall Wednesday. "Our task is to show the consumer that he should purchase a certain article because it is to his advantage to do so, and not simply because the producer wants to sell it."

Taking "Advertising That Pays" as his subject, Mr. Engel stated poorly managed advertising was an expensive luxury, while wisely managed advertising was a good investment. Advertising is a distinct commodity, he said, and today comprises one of our leading industries. The unadvertised product is a predestined failure, he added.

Mr. Engel traced the history of advertising, from the days when space was crammed as full of the smallest available type as possible to the present day, when white space is at a premium for advertising purposes. "What would Benjamin Franklin say if he could see his Saturday Evening Post today?" he asked.

Mr. Engel stressed the value of art in advertising, and stated that the artistic element in the design of an 'ad' makes or breaks the entire layout. Good taste is the first requisite, he said, but must be modified by what is called 'balance.' Formal and informal balance in advertising have their respective uses, and care must be exercised to see that an advertisement draws attention, is easy to read and is pleasing in appearance.

The speaker illustrated his remarks with large posters which he made up himself as he proceeded. He was introduced by past president Henry F. King and thanked by Tom Stokes, President Stan Neilson was in the chair.

A large number of the slides the lecturer showed were colored by his wife and showed the almost unbelievable beauty to be found in the valleys and on the mountain tops. There were a number of animal photographs, those of black bears being particularly interesting. Nor were the birds neglected, some of the slides being made from difficult-to-obtain shots of both rare and common birds. There were also a number of pictures of flowers in gorgeous natural colors.

H. Cockfield Was Speaker At Meeting

President of Royal Caledonian Club Addressed Members of St. George Club Saturday

H. R. Cockfield, president of the Quebec Branch of the Royal Caledonian Curling Club, outlined the history of that organization at a meeting of the St. George Club on Saturday. The club was first formed in 1838, he said, and the Canadian clubs became affiliated in 1840.

Teams of Scottish curlers will arrive in Montreal January 11th when they will play a series of test matches with local curlers, Mr. Cockfield announced. A large number of American curlers are expected to be here at the same time, when competition for the Gordon Medal will be held. The Scottish curlers will land at Halifax December 31st and will travel across Canada during the season.

Hon. E. L. Patenaude, Lieutenant Governor of Quebec, was elected an honorary member of the club.

A large number of the slides the lecturer showed were colored by his wife and showed the almost unbelievable beauty to be found in the valleys and on the mountain tops. POLICE, FIRE CHIEFS MEET AT SHERBROOKE

Chief William Wren was one of a party of police and fire chiefs of this province who visited Sherbrooke Monday to attend an executive meeting of the police and fire chiefs' Association of the Province of Quebec.

It was decided that the 1938 annual convention of this body will be held at Sherbrooke on August 9, 10, 11 and 12.

Must Make People See Stupidity Of Padlock Law, Says R. L. Calder

"Our job is to make the French Canadian listen to the clauses of the 'padlock law' and to see its stupidity," declared R. L. Calder, K.C., in addressing a largely attended meeting of the Westmount Hi-Y Grads in the local Y.M.C.A. Monday evening. "Any attack on the law is branded as being a communistic move; and thus the French Canadian dutifully refuses to listen."

Mr. Calder said in his opening remarks that it was easy to see the assemblage was of British lineage, and it was thus unnecessary to stress the importance of free speech. Free speech, he said, was not only founded upon fairness, but was a necessary part of any democracy.

The essence of the British and American constitutions, he went on, is that no law can be passed without its being proposed by a representative of the people, and then must be subjected to discussion. This, he pointed out, is a somewhat different system to the one which prevails in dictator-governed countries. And once a law is put into force, someone must take personal responsibility for any arrest, investigation or inconvenience caused to any other person under its clauses. A definite charge is necessary.

The "padlock law," he said, violates these concepts of democratic law enforcement. Any person, he said, can furnish information slyly to the attorney general to the effect that some one may be propagating communistic propaganda and the attorney general can then, under the terms of the "padlock law" cause the seizure and confiscation of the goods of this person—and the person, who may be entirely innocent, is not even entitled to an explanation.

Mr. Calder said that he intends to secure the original copy of the act after it has been declared unconstitutional by the Supreme Court or the Privy Council — the Civil Liberties Union is quite prepared to take the "padlock law" to these extremes if necessary to have it rescinded, he added. He felt sure that it would be worth "ten times its area in gold coins" as an exhibition piece for future generations to laugh at. It is the most stupidly drawn up act in the world, declared Mr. Calder.

Athens and Venice, he pointed out, lost their supremacy solely because of laws comparable to the present "padlock law," declared Mr. Calder.

He was introduced by Stewart Hamilton, president of the club, and thanked by Douglas Scott. Haston Scott was in the chair.

WESTMOUNT, FRIDAY, DECEMBER 3, 1937

TO SURVEY PROTESTANT EDUCATION

Most people will agree that the Protestant Committee of the Council of Education have done well in the choice of the personnel of the survey committee which is to investigate the broad question of Protestant education in Quebec. The following were named on motion of Mr. Howard Murray, seconded by Mr. Kirk Cameron: Captain W. A. F. Heppburn, M.C., M.A., B. Ed., Director of Education in Ayrshire, Scotland, who is chairman; Rev. Philip Carrington, D.D. Lord Bishop of Quebec; Peter Sandiford, M. Sc., Ph.D., Professor of Education, University of Toronto; R. S. Noble, Assistant General Manager, Royal Bank of Canada; Dr. C. L. Brown of Ayrescliffe; John Hughes, Professor of Education, McGill University; V. C. Wansborough, M.A., Headmaster of Lower Canada College; W. E. Dunton, C.A.; Mrs. Ruth B. Shaw, of the Junior Red Cross; Mrs. Florence MacStalker, M.A., of the McGill Alumnae; and A. D. P. Heeny, M.A., B.C.L., counsel and secretary. The only criticism that might be directed against the committee is that it contains no one actively engaged in elementary Protestant education in Quebec. This would seem to be a grave omission. The investigating committee would undoubtedly have been strengthened by someone actively engaged in elementary school teaching.

It is interesting to note, incidentally, that the coming investigation has prompted the Montreal Central School Board to issue a memorandum covering its activities since its formation in 1925—a memorandum that was long overdue. Even so, however, the memorandum withholds plenty of information that the taxpayers would like to know. How much, for example, was spent on the building program that the memorandum mentions but gives no particulars about. How much was spent on a palatial school building in a small suburban municipality, still largely unoccupied? The memorandum does not say.

However, it may be that the investigation now under way will result in a centralization of control of education in this Province—a centralization of control in the committee that some misguided politicians tried to oust. Most of the trouble with education in Quebec is that control has been too decentralized. Inexperienced local boards have made for poor schools, and lack of uniformity in the course of study. One central committee should set the course of study, collect all the revenue, and make all the disbursements. We would then be spared a state of affairs which permitted a local board like Montreal West to obtain from the finances sufficient to build a school out of all proportion to the size and importance of the municipality while school children in other districts have to get their education in wooden structures. As Mr. Cameron said in seconding Mr. Murray's motion for the formation of an investigation committee: "... nothing that this Survey Committee may report will ever carry my support that would in any way abridge or take away from this committee any of its prerogatives, or any of its control of Protestant education. And furthermore... I will oppose any movement that might be made either as a result of such report, or from any body whatsoever, anything that might hand over the control of Protestant education to any outside body or to any faction."

ANGLO-SAXON CO-OPERATION

That the Canadian people are solidly behind the movement for closer co-operation of the great Anglo-Saxon democracies was forcibly demonstrated by the results of the Victoria by-election. The proposed trade treaty involving Great Britain, Canada, and the United States was not the only issue of the campaign, but it far overshadowed the others, and indeed it was looked upon as so important by the Conservative leader, Mr. Bennett, that he crossed Canada to inject it into the campaign, denouncing the Canadian government's intention to lend all possible assistance to its completion. The result was the loss of a seat that the Tories had held for over thirty years, and by an overwhelming plurality. The answer of the people is plain—the answer of both Liberals and Conservatives—"Go ahead, Mr. King, bring the Anglo-Saxon democracies as close together as it is within your power and influence to do so."

WARNING BY SIR EDWARD BEATTY

When Sir Edward Beatty speaks on the public platform, it can be taken for granted that his words are well-weighted before they are delivered. Consequently, when he addressed the Canadian Club in Ottawa last Saturday, some of his remarks should cause every true Canadian to be on guard. Of the fundamentals of good government, Sir Edward said: "One of these is the maintenance of liberty. We look at other countries less fortunate than our own and see in them an almost total destruction of liberty—almost always based on a theory that only increasing power of the state over the individual can bring efficiency in the production and distribution of wealth. For my part I deny that absolutely. That is an assertion that we must go back to in history—for it is a matter of unquestionable record that the greatest progress of the human race, in every sphere, has always been accomplished when liberty has been at its maximum."

"We have not in this country taken more than the first steps away from liberty, but we have at least entered upon that road, and it cannot be too often impressed upon our people that even here liberty could be lost."

Sir Edward's warning should be taken to heart. Canadians should vigorously fight every moment, every tendency that impinges upon their liberty.

THE FORUM

In Which Subjects of General Interest Are Discussed

Conducted by Howard S. Ross, K.C.

NOTE:—The opinions expressed in these columns are not necessarily those of this newspaper and it does not accept responsibility for them. They are published for their general interest, variety and originality of treatment.

"Education in Great Britain and in Ontario—A Contrast," was the subject of a very fine address given by Dr. J. H. Putman before a meeting of the Ottawa Local Council of Women. In order to understand anything, we must know something of what has gone before. Dr. Putman said, and so opened his remarks with a brief outline of the history of education in Canada, and later in Ontario, and also an explanation of the development of the educational system in Great Britain, particularly England.

Dr. Putman said that although Canada started a program of public education well in advance of England, the system in Great Britain, with its population of about 40,000,000 there are 163 school boards, while in Ontario, with about 8,600,000 of population, we have between 25,000 and 30,000 school boards. "This is the reason why our school system is wasteful and inefficient," Dr. Putman claimed. "In Great Britain they have some unity to their system and in that lies their strength," he said.

It is a matter of deep regret to many people that the rural schools of Ontario are little better than they were 50 or 60 years ago. Dr. Putman said, but if we don't have good schools in our cities and larger towns it is our own fault for the machinery is all there.

One of the great advantages of the school system in Great Britain is the way in which they assist their very bright students making it far easier for them to attend college than it is in Canada. "We don't realize in this country how very important bright people are to the state," Dr. Putman claimed, continuing that "they should have all the assistance the state can give them and anything the state paid towards their education will be amply repaid in service to the state. In England the very bright child of poor parents not only gets free education by the state but pays his parents a sufficient sum with which to buy food and clothes for that student."

It is generally recognized today, Dr. Putman said, that between the ages of eleven and twelve the child's purely primary education ought to come to an end and they should be placed in different schools with a change of environment. Here the school authorities can differentiate a bit and take into account what the child's natural tendencies are. It is towards this goal that the Ontario educationists are working.

The person who refuses to defend his convictions for fear he may be in the wrong company has no convictions.—Archibald MacLeish.

He who establishes his argument by noise and command shows his reason is weak.—Montaigne.

Bruce Barton, U.S.A. advertising agent de luxe and public relations counsellor recently stated: "This nation is not materialistic at heart. It is the most idealistic nation on the face of the earth. It does not want to think forever of its belly and its purse. It awakens today the clarion call to fresh idealism and larger sacrifice." Fortunately there is no need of sacrifice on the part of anyone. We are in the age of plenty and all we need is an equitable medium of exchange, which will let the abundance through to all who do their share of useful work.

Rev. C. Ritchie Bell Spoke To F. W. W.C.T.U.

The monthly meeting of the Francis Willard W.C.T.U. was held on Wednesday afternoon in Dominion Douglas Church Hall. Mrs. E. J. McLelland presided. Rev. C. Ritchie Bell addressed the meeting. The subject of his address was, "The Church and the Liquor Traffic."

The statement was made that in 1925 The Christian Science Monitor had undertaken a survey as to conditions under government control of liquor in this province and the findings were, "That the sale of liquor had increased and that there was more drinking specially among the young people."

CALVARY CHURCH NOTES

An "In and Out" Tea will be held this afternoon at the home of Mrs. H. V. Driver, 61 Windsor Ave., from 3.30 to 6 o'clock under the auspices of Calvary W.M.S.

On Sunday morning at 11 o'clock, the minister, Rev. T. W. Jones, will continue the series of sermons on the life and work of Paul, with the theme, "Following the Gleam," telling of Paul's great and thrilling experiences before the Roman Governors and King Agrippa, in which experiences a Roman Governor seeks a "more convenient season" and the King becomes "almost a Christian."

This significant chapter in Paul's story, is a most vital and meaningful one for life and work today.

The church school will meet in all departments for regular sessions at 11 a.m. and 3 p.m.

At the evening service at 7.30 p.m. Mr. Jones will preach on the subject, "Changing our sunsets into sunrises," using a wonderful tribute paid by one of the first century Christians to the emancipating and transforming power of Jesus Christ. Many people are asking, amid the gloom of these present times, has Jesus Christ the answer to human problems today and can He lead us from the gloom into the clear shining light of hope and security?

This important matter will provide the theme of the pre-communion of the Lord's Supper will be observed. New members will be received into the fellowship of the church at this service.

On Monday at 8.15 the Young People will elect the officers for the Calvary Union for the year 1938.

On Wednesday at 8.15 the annual meeting of the Women's Missionary Society will be held in the Church Parlors. Reports of the work of the year 1937 will be given and the officers for 1938 elected.

CHOOSING A VOCATION

OPPORTUNITY

The father was marching up and down at midnight, with an infant in his arms, when there came a knock at the door. It was the tenant from below, carrying a pair of new shoes. "I say, old man," he said, "while you're about it, you might break these in for me."

Boy Scout Ambulance Is Seen Throughout District

A new ambulance made its appearance on Westmount streets a few days ago, and attracted attention with its unconventional shape and colour. Painted a cherry red, it looked remarkably like one of Santa's trucks, for it bore a large, bright sign, "The Boy Scouts' Christmas Toy Ambulance."

Every year at this time it is seen in the city busy collecting old and broken toys to take to the Scout Headquarters to be repaired and painted. Manned by a cheerful crew of Scouts, it works hard for a month or so at its task of making the kiddies happy at Christmas. A large red truck with a white canvas cover, with a band of willing helpers, it will soon be a familiar sight in the district collecting toys, games, dolls and books.

This is the one Ambulance which brings joy instead of gloom to those it visits, and it gladdens the hearts even of those who only see it in the streets. The "Hospital" too is not at all like most hospitals, — laughing and singing are heard everywhere. The hall at Scout Headquarters on Bishop Street is filled with tables surrounded by big Scouts with little pots of paint and by little Scouts with big pots of paint. Doll carriages, coaster wagons, trains, bicycles, rocking horses, automobiles and toys and games of every sort imaginable either waiting to be painted or else are standing neatly on benches drying before they are packed and sent out to some charitable society to be distributed.

The Rovers and some of the Senior Scouts are busy in their own workshop downstairs, where they do the heavier work, such as repairing mechanical toys or broken sleighs. Work is well under way at the "Toyshop," with troops of this and the other districts taking their voluntary turns of repairing and painting.

With a quota of 16,000 toys to be repaired by Christmas, the Scouts are working as hard as ever, and say that if they get hold of toys to fix, will do their part. A phone call to Scout Headquarters, PLateau 7951, will bring the "Ambulance" and its "Orderlies" to your home, or else the toys may be taken straight to Headquarters, 1523 Bishop Street, between Sherbrooke and St. Catherine Streets.

TRINITY YOUNG PEOPLE HOLDING DANCE DEC. 17TH

Christmas Activities at Local Anglican Church Group Planned

Christmas activities of the Trinity Memorial Young People's Association will take the form of a dance to be held in the Church Hall on Friday December 17, it was announced by the Executive of that organization today. Plans for the affair were completed at a meeting of the club leaders following the bridge held in the Church Hall Wednesday last week.

At that meeting Harry Trotter, chairman of the Dance Committee informed the president plans had been completed and tickets had been placed in the hands of the committee members for distribution. The organizers of the hop are Miss Nancy Drury, Miss Marjorie Chaplin, Robert Simon, Jack Bell and the chairman.

The music of Harrison Jones will feature the event and a group of club members have agreed to provide and serve refreshments.

The Executive session, too, heard expressions of thanks to the Bell Telephone company for the conducted tour of their building which T.Y.P.A. members enjoyed recently. The tour had been arranged by S. H. Beecher. It was pointed out, while Messrs. Easton and McMillan had led the visitors through the plant.

HORTICULTURAL SOCIETY NAMES 1938 OFFICERS

At the Annual Meeting of the West End Horticultural Society, held on Wednesday, November 24, in St. Luke's United Church Hall, the guest speaker, Alderman Leo McKenna, gave a talk on "The Care and Culture of House Plants." This was followed by a Question and Answer period.

Reports of the past year's activities submitted by Mr. Looker, secretary treasurer, revealed a marked increase in membership, and notwithstanding increased expenditures to meet growing obligations, a substantial bank balance was shown.

Mr. A. R. Brese Taylor, who occupied the chair during the election of officers, reviewed the growth of the Society, since its inception in 1933. The following officers and members of the Executive Committee were elected for 1938.

President, Mr. J. O. Senecal; vice-president, Mrs. J. G. McKay; secretary treasurer, Mr. W. G. Looker. Executive Committee: Dr. Gavin Chisom, Mr. F. M. Cornell, Mr. W. R. East, Mr. W. H. Kyle, Mr. A. R. Brese Taylor, Mr. Frank Read, Mr. E. C. Rive, Mr. T. R. E. Seale, Mrs. W. Claire White.

On behalf of the Society, the retiring president, Mr. Davis, presented Mr. Taylor with an illuminated address, and conferred on him a Life Membership in the Society, as a token of appreciation for his efforts in founding the Society, and for occupying the presidency for the first four years of its existence.

The new president, Mr. J. O. Senecal, thanked the retiring president and officers for the manner in which they had conducted the affairs of the Society during the past season, pointing out the increased membership, balanced budget, enlarged show program, and finally the staging of a successful Flower Show.

Train Service For Skiers Improved

Each year, hundreds are added to the already large number who take up skiing. Anticipating that this winter will see a still greater number going north to the Laurentians, the Canadian Pacific has given careful consideration to transportation needs of the thousands who will visit the Laurentians weekly, and offer a still further improvement over last winter.

Saturday and Sunday train service will show an improvement over last winter, and this season a special feature of the service will be a Ski Special on Sunday morning starting from Westmount at 8.10, stopping at Montreal West. The train will be placed at Westmount for occupancy twenty minutes in advance of departure. There will also be a Ski Special starting from Park Avenue at 8.20 a.m. and it will be placed for occupancy at Park Avenue twenty minutes before departure. FREDDIE WITH PARENTS HE CALLED 'STRANGERS'

Denying that he loved the mother and father he said were "strangers" to him, Freddie Bartholomew, shown above with his parents, Cecil and Lillian Bartholomew, and his aunt, Mylicent Bartholomew, was returned to the custody of the aunt, by court order upholding the legality of her adoption of the child movie actor. Up And Down The Corridors At Westmount HIGH

On Tuesday, December 14, Mr. J. M. Humphrey will give an illustrated lecture to the students on "The Maritimes." This is the first of a series of lectures to be provided by the new Lecture Fund. All the students contributed to this fund in order that worthwhile lectures and lecturers may be presented.

The Vienna Mozart Boys' Choir will entertain the students of the School on Tuesday. The Boys' Choir will include in their program the following operettas in costume: Bastien and Bastienne—Mozart. Tales from the Vienna Woods—Johann Strauss.

And medieval sacred songs, folk songs, Romances of many countries, and Viennese Waltzes.

The Dramatic and Debating Society will present a play and two choir recitals on Friday night, December 17, in the Assembly Hall of the High School. The presentation is being given to raise money for the Western Relief Fund.

The choirs are the Girls' Choir and a mixed choir. All members are students of the High School and both will sing Christmas Carols and other appropriate Yuletide music.

The play "Why the Chimes Rang" will show a finer and higher class of entertainment than that of previous Society presentations. The Society has been striving to break from the usual comedies and light drama, and they believe that with the presentation of this play on December 17 the audience will find their efforts highly meritorious. The Society is desirous of having the citizens of Westmount present at the production and feel that they will be well rewarded with a night of fine entertainment.

Boys Brigade Notes

First Westmount Company The First Company will be visited by Mr. John Phillips of the St. John's Ambulance Assn., who will make arrangements with boys who desire to take up both the St. John's and Boys Brigade Badges. It is found most satisfactory by all Canadian Companies for boys to pass both of these examinations collectively.

The Hockey sweater demonstrated last week won much favour, and it is expected every team player will be equipped before long. The company will also enter into the basketball field, playing the team from the 7th company this week.

The inter-squad medal will be presented today to Corporal Jack Jeffrey, having attained the highest points for his squad during the month of November.

The Life-Boys met yesterday, but will resume their Tuesday schedule next week. Boys between the ages of 8 and 12 are invited to join.

A delegation from the First Company were present at a Youth Service in St. Matthew's Church, where the Southern District Companies as well as the 1st Rushbrook Troop of the Boy Scouts

Canada's Name Derived From Old Iroquois Word

How Canada got its name has been a matter of controversy for a long time, but the historians now seem very generally agreed that the Iroquois word "Kanata" is the real derivation. Kanata is still used in the Iroquois language to mean a collection of dwellings or settlements.

Cartier, in one of his vocabularies of the Iroquois speech, says of it, "they call a town Canada." Its evolution into the place-name Canada can be fully followed in the narrative of the Explorer, where it appears first in his account of his second voyage in 1535. The two Iroquois Indians whom he had seized at Gaspé and taken to France the preceding year informed him on entering the Great River (now the St. Lawrence) that their home was in Canada, which proved later to be an alternative name for the village of Stadacona on the site of modern Quebec City. Cartier himself seems to have extended the word to the surrounding region as a convenient territorial name — much as the name of Quebec has been extended from the City to the Province. There have been other explanations of the derivation of the name, such as "Seguaga Canada," meaning in Indian "men seeking land," but they appear to be just guesses based on chance resemblance of words. Probably the view of the authorities is the correct one, that Cartier was the originator of the name, and that he took it from the Iroquois tongue.

No ready-made Christmas card can match the individual, personal quality of a card that uses one of your own pictures.

abilities is broad—an appealing scenic view, a friendside picture of the family group, the youngsters playing in the snow or beside last year's Christmas tree—indeed, anything personal that suggests the holiday season.

CHRISTMAS is close enough now for you to be giving thought to your Christmas cards—particularly if you want this year's cards to have the intimate, personal quality which your own favorite photographs can best give them.

And, as an active photographer, why should you entertain any other idea? Consider the difference, to your friends, between a formal stereotyped card and a personal one bearing a pleasing winter photograph of the family, the house, or some other near and dear reminder—and your own individual message.

Inevitably your file of pictures will contain an appropriate negative. Or, if you have one that nearly but not quite fits, there is still time to improve the idea in a new picture. And if you do not do your own developing and printing, the store that does it for you can also make your Christmas cards inexpensively.

BLUSTERY NIGHT, HUNGRY MAN BEAFSTEAK PIE---THAT'S A TRIO

Cold nights make men hungry. Beefsteak pie makes men agreeable. Chuck beef which has been boned makes the food costs stay in their lowly place. Put all these three thoughts together and you have excellent food for thought and dinner. This recipe comes from the chef in charge of all food for several well known medium priced restaurants

Sunday's Menu
BREAKFAST: Compo of stewed fruit, hot cereal, crisp bacon, nut coffee cake, coffee, milk.
DINNER: Grapefruit on half shell, beefsteak pie family style, parsley potatoes, cubed beets, apple salad, home-made chocolate ice cream, sponge cake, coffee, milk.
SUPPER: Fruit cup, eggs poached in cream, buttered toast, cake, strawberry preserves, tea, milk.

Beefsteak Pie Family Style keeps the spirits up and the food costs down. Chuck steak boned and a wide variety of garden vegetables all covered up nicely with tea biscuit crust result in grand eating.

throughout the country. He reports that men want beef despite its high costs. So he had to think up good beef dishes which use the less expensive cuts. He reports, and I have no reason to doubt him, that this recipe turned out to be the most successful with men diners.

Beefsteak Pie Family Style
(4 to 6 servings)
One pound beef (chuck beef after boning), 1-2 teaspoon paprika, 1 teaspoon salt, one pinch of pepper, 2 tablespoons shortening, 1-2 cup chopped onions, 1-2 cup tomato puree, 2 pieces of celery, pinch of thyme, piece of a bay leaf, one sprig of parsley, 2 cups cooked carrots (cut in cubes), 2 cups cooked potatoes (cut in cubes), 1-4 cup flour, tea biscuit dough.

Cut beef in one inch cubes. Mix beef thoroughly with paprika, salt and pepper. Heat shortening in a frying pan, add meat and chopped onions and braise until thoroughly browned and the fat is clear. Drain off the fat and keep it for making the gravy.

Add the tomato puree and enough water to cover the meat. Make a bouquet of the celery, thyme, bay leaf and parsley and add. Simmer until the meat is done, adding water when necessary. Remove bouquet. Strain off the stock and keep enough to make the gravy.

Make a paste of the fat and the flour. Add the hot stock and cook until smooth. Add more salt and pepper if necessary.

Cover the bottom of a baking pan with the cooked meat. Distribute the carrots and potatoes evenly over the meat and cover with gravy. Roll out enough tea biscuit dough to fit the top of the pan, cover and bake in a hot oven until the crust is done.

Biscuit Dough
Two cups flour, 4 teaspoons baking powder, 4 tablespoons shortening, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1 cup milk. Mix and sift dry ingredients, cut in shortening and add the liquid. Roll out on a floured board to fit the pie.

NOT SO CARELESS
The Scotsman couldn't find his ticket. On the conductor's second round it was still missing. "What's that in your mouth?" the conductor asked.
"Sure enough, there was the missing ticket. The conductor punched it and went his way."
"Ah weel," said Sandy, when several of the passengers laughed. "I'm nae so absent-minded. It was a very odd ticket and I was just suckin' off the date."

Keeping Up Appearances

By "GWENNE"

Are you looking forward to the gay holiday season when you can dress in your finest and look your best? This means short or no sleeves, low back and sheer stockings. Is your back smooth and white with all traces of suntan past and gone or are you rather reluctant at wearing a revealing gown?

Take your complexion brush in hand once more and scrub your back very gently with a nice bland soap and warm water, gradually getting colder until it is cold enough to close the pores again. If you do this faithfully every night from now until Xmas you will be very proud of your nice smooth skin.

If that neck is looking rather "crepey" these days, use plenty of creams. Wash your neck every time you wash your face and give it a thorough cleansing with cream every night; leave the cream on the same as you do with your face at night.

As the elbows will be in full view, be sure they are smooth and white. Here's where your cold cream comes into the picture again. Scrub them along with your back and use your cold cream as a softener with lemon juice as a whitener.

If you want to be very daring go ahead and wear those toeless shoes for evening so that your red painted nails can show through. If you don't wear your nails painted for evening this winter, there's not much use in painting them until you sport a beach suit next summer. Painted toenails come into their own in the winter when formal attire is worn. Aim at a groomed foot as well as a groomed head.

HUMOR AT KNEES
To the Osborne Enterprise notwithstanding as humorous as a considerably plump, past middle-aged woman trying to hide the dimples in her knees at the bathing beach.

Like Mae West, Rosie Brook, 38-year-old Huddersfield, Eng., woman, believes in curves — and she admits she has plenty for she weighs a quarter of a ton!

Miss Brook, whose upper arm measurement is 30 inches, and calf 40 inches, with eight feet as her maximum body measurement, is still putting on weight and is quite unconcerned about it!

There is nothing like a good round figure," she says smilingly. "Men like them. I wouldn't care to be thin, for, although I'm perhaps a little overweight, I think stout people live a fuller life."

"Besides," she adds, "stout people are much more pleasant. They smile and laugh their way along, and they are steadier in all ways than the more athletic type of person."

Bunny Writes Of Fashions To Betty

Dear Betty:—

As a woman changes her mind, fashions and materials change with it. For the past year Milady has worn only the most tailored lingerie, but this mode is gradually changing, giving way to lace-trimmed under-garments, and for evening wear all lace. There are laces now on the market made specially for this purpose, and they are really very beautiful. They are soft and lasting and will stand any amount of washing. This lace is admirable for the bottom of slips, it is very fine and will not damage the sheerest of stockings. It has been noticed, with great interest, that the leading New York stylists are featuring lace on all spring models, not only as a trimming, but in the making of entire dance sets. Even the most fastidious ladies will appreciate these garments. There are numerous designs to choose from, all having a flat smooth finish thus overcoming unsightly wrinkles under the evening gown. It will also be noted that negligees have gone lacey. Some of the nicest ones are made entirely of lace, and are an enjoyable change from the very severe styles that have been so popular.

Wedding Gowns

The brides of this year have all adopted lace for the most important gown they will ever wear and well they might, for there is no other material on the market that is so entirely feminine as lace. For a gown of this type, be sure to choose a distinctive pattern of medium size. Worn over a satin slip, it is truly a thing of beauty. Laces are adaptable to all the new styles, hence the reason for its growing popularity. Incidentally some of the nicest gowns seen at two of the recent and most popular social events of the season were lace. For dinner or evening wear the most widely used colours are black, brown and navy, for the matron; while the younger element like the pastel shades or the printed nets over a contrasting coloured slip. The designs that are worn the most are of the floral type, both medium and large. Usually Milady thinks that lace is only suitable for her mother or grandmother, but she is absolutely wrong; true there are many patterns for those generations, but it is amazing to see how many more there are for the debutante-age. Our mothers and grandmothers appreciated the fact that lace gowns added just that much more charm and femininity to a young lady.

One of the biggest things next summer will be the two-tone silk lace dresses, for street and afternoon wear. They are all in the nicer pastel shades, in floral and geometrical designs. This type of lace is also very soft and can be used for all styles that are sure to please Milady at that time of year. If you are planning a southern cruise be sure to include one or two of these dresses in your wardrobe. They are very easy to pack and launder.

If you have an old dress that needs new trimming, why not look at some of the new edgings? They are very dainty and delicate. Numerous designs are available in almost any shade desirable. Besides making the dress look new, it will also make a girl feel dressed up. The fact that it is so easy to put on and take off, to wash, is a great thing in its favour.

Here are a few interesting facts about lace that are not generally known. Most of the lace used in Canada and United States is imported from Nottingham and Calais. Nottingham supplies the majority of the markets in the world with this product. The women of India use more lace than any other country. They use it to make entire outfits. Lacemakers have to have years of experience in this trade, that is the reason why other countries who have tried to make it have not had any success, they lacked skilled workmen. Ladies appreciate better lace more now than ever before because of its wearing and washing qualities.

The glamour of old Spain—the intriguing allure of Italian maidens, the charm of the Egyptian girl, the savoir faire of the South American señoritas, all is wrapped up in the mystery of lace.

The Canadian and American women too—are discovering the bewitchery of lace and its many intriguing and flattering applications, either as trimming or as the basis of a dress, a shawl or a dainty bit of daring lingerie.

The story of lace is a story of romance, a story of glamour.

PILOTS IN TRAINING

The six pilots now in training for Trans-Canada Airlines service are all Canadians who have flown more than 1,000 hours, some of them as much as 5,000. Some have been in transport flying in the north country, some on schedule work, some in the fisheries patrol and others freighting. At present, they are getting their training out of Winnipeg, some flying to Lethbridge and others going as far as the Rockies checking radio range stations.

Peg: "Why didn't Molly vote at the election?"

Peg: "What has that to do with it?"
Jane: "She says the election posters were addressed to the plain people of Ireland!"

SCREW IN LUNG PERILS BABY

Pneumonia was an added hazard in the race against death that speeded 2-year-old Melvin Martin, held by his mother above, by train and plain from Wichita, Kan., to Philadelphia, for removal of a brass screw from his lung. The illness caused doctors to delay the delicate bronchoscope operation on the son of Maurice Martin, WPA employe.

WEEKLY SHORT STORY GRANDPAW

"You want to marry 'Livia Winslow?" Grandpaw asked George Little.
"Olivia's pretty nice, Gramp," George replied and kicked his big, young foot in the dust. He was close to six feet and twenty-one and very respectful and a great deal worried now.

"Mom wants me to. The Winslows, you know, are mighty fine people. And there's the National Bank that Mr. Winslow's president of."

"You don't go to bed with a bank," Grandpaw reminded him and stared at him out of his little eyes. Grandpaw was little all over now but he had been a big man once. Over six feet. "And the Winslows are all right this generation," he continued. "Two generations ago they weren't. Pete Winslow, John's grandfather, would steal anything that wasn't nailed down. I don't suppose John would, being president of the National Bank. But you'll notice that there is never a Peter in the Winslow family for the last two generations. That's because old Pete was such a disgrace. Now, look here, George, I figure you're going to marry 'Livia Winslow just because your mother wants you to. And I tell you you're making a mistake. What about you and Mary Lovett?"

"Oh, there's nothing between me and Mary Lovett, Gramp," George smiled. "We're just friends. If I tried to be anything else to Mary, she'd either laugh at me or crash down on me."
"George," Grandpaw's eyes began to twinkle with anger, "that's a damn lie. You know Mary's in love with you. She has been since you were knee high to ducks. And you love her, too, though that mother of yours has got you believing different. You ever tell her you liked her?"

"I don't have to," George admitted ruefully. "H'm'm!" Grandpaw grunted thoughtfully.

They were standing in the Turnbull barnyard, just outside the stables. Beyond them stretched Grandpaw's farm with rolling hills of corn stretching over the hill, the large garden patch not far from them, the great house on the roadside. This property had been in the Turnbull family for a hundred years. Grandpaw was dressed in overalls. George wore riding breeches, leather puttees and a white polo shirt.

"You're too soft, George," Grandpaw said. "Especially where your mother's concerned. That comes of being an only child. She's babied you and bullied you all your life until you don't know your soul's your own. You got to be your own man in this world, son. You can't have any woman telling you what to do, no matter how much you think of her. And 'Livia's one of the 'telling' type."
"What have you got against Olivia, Gramp?" George asked.

"Nothing except she's a Winslow and she's high and mighty. That family got their money in too big a hurry. She's like the rest of them. She's a snob. And I don't like snobs."
A long, low-slung roadster slid around the barn from the road. Behind the wheel was a blonde girl with arrogant eyes and a petulant mouth. She was pretty and "finished." She ignored Grandpaw.

"George," she scolded, "have you forgotten we were to go to Melrose? We're late."
"No," George drawled. "I hadn't forgotten. I got to talking to grandpaw."
"Oh," Olivia said, seeming to notice the old man for the first time. "How do you do, Mr. Turnbull."
"I'm doing all right," the old man said solemnly, although there was a twinkle in his eye. "I feel spry enough to get married again. I don't care what Clara, George's ma, says about it."

"But he never did get around to telling George. When they were together at the dinner table the three of them, he was too busy defending himself against Clara, his daughter, who resembled him greatly, even to her willfulness."
"What's this I hear about you going to marry, Father?" she demanded.

"How do I know what you heard?" he countered. "I've been out on the farm all day. Who told you?"
"George. Is it true?"
"Father! At your age, I should think you'd be ashamed. What will people think of us?"
"What the—what do I care what people think of us?" the old man inquired vindictively. "It's my money I'm getting married on and it's my wife I'll be pleasing, if I marry her. She's a fine woman."
"Who is she?" Clara asked breathlessly.

"She's Miss Glarys Bynd, that new young milliner in Mary Webster's shop in Melrose. Fine girl. Trifle young. She's only thirty-five. But she'll grow out of that. Clara, I wish you'd have Hannah put out my black suit and white shirt. I'm going into town to see her tonight."
"But you can't do that!" Clara wailed. "What will the Winslows think?"
"That a lot of my money is in the Melrose National Bank and they won't dare say what they think. So it don't make any difference."

The way Grandpaw Turnbull carried on for the next three months with Miss Bynd, the milliner, made Melrose a stage and everybody who lived in it and for miles around a member of an enthusiastic audience. The town became sharply divided into two camps, one cheering Grandpaw on, the other criticizing him because of his age. Clara began by telling Grandpaw he ought to be ashamed of himself. She ended by admitting she was still his daughter and she supposed he knew best. She was routed in a sharp engagement which rose when grandpaw announced he was bringing Miss Bynd out to dinner. Clara declared flatly that she would not only have Miss Bynd served but that she would not stay in the house to receive her.

"I didn't know that you figured on moving, Clara," Grandpaw said mildly.
"I don't intend to move," Clara told him defiantly.
"Then," Grandpaw pointed out, "you'll receive Miss Bynd. This is still my house, you know. And, George, I'd like to have 'Livia here too. Chances are Miss Bynd and I will be married before you do and I think 'Livia would appreciate meeting her stepmother." George grinned. "Sounds fine, Gramp, he said. "But she may have some objections. Fact is, I think she will refuse the invitation."

And she did. She not only refused the invitation, but she told George that she had come to the conclusion that it would be a mistake for them to marry.

"This is kind of sudden," isn't it, Olivia?" George asked. "Mother was kind of looking forward to having you as a daughter-in-law."
"Doubtless," Olivia said drily. "But I think I would be taking a chance in marrying into your family, George. Seems to me there is a strain of insanity in it. Look at the way your grandfather's acting."
When George got home that night with her message, he found Gramp and Mary and his mother on the porch. He delivered his message faithfully and waited. He only had to wait a moment. The thing that surprised him was the way his mother reacted.

"Insanity!" Clara said. "That sounds fine coming from a Winslow. And even if it's true it's better than thievery. Did Olivia ever happen to mention her grandfather, George. Old Pete Winslow. He was the biggest thief in the country. Look here, father, I've been thinking this thing over. Have you decided to marry this Miss Bynd?"

"Just about," Grandpaw said.
"Then we'll have the wedding here at home. And I'll be delighted to entertain Miss Bynd in the meantime."
That night, George drove Mary home in his car and pulled up at the roadside.
"Mary," he said, "I've been an awful fool. I don't know what I was thinking of ever to even considering marrying Olivia when I love another girl. It wouldn't have been fair."
"Who's the other girl?" Mary asked a little breathlessly.
George put his arms around her. "Any time you say," he said.

Which may explain the strange action of Grandpaw Turnbull in the millinery store the next day. He hustled in there shortly after 9.30 in the morning. Miss Bynd was arranging some hats in the window. She turned to serve him. Grandpaw pulled a large roll of bills from his pants pocket and counted them.
"Here you are, Miss Bynd," he said. "Five hundred dollars. It was very nice of you to act out this little piece for me. I hope it didn't inconvenience you much. How would you like to come to a wedding? My grandson's marrying the girl I picked out for him when both of them were no higher than ankle worms."

"I'd like to very much," said Miss Bynd.

"Thin Ice" Magnificent Musical, Glorious With Dazzling Loveliness

Few pictures produced during the past few years have been fraught with more original qualities and dazzling loveliness than "Thin Ice," Twentieth Century-Fox musical starring Sonja Henie and Tyrone Power, now playing at the Westmount until Saturday, and opening on Sunday at the Seville for three days.

Most films are easy to put into production. Of course, a certain period lies in the preparation of the story and budget, another in actual production, and still another in editing. But with a Sonja Henie picture, all precedence goes to the wind. Her specialized talent in skating requires more care and detail in the planning and production of her pictures.

As an example, there are three spectacular skating numbers in "Thin Ice." This meant the creation of a large rink suitable for the movements of eighty professional skaters. A refrigerating plant had to be constructed, which utilized miles of pipes, laid around the icy surface. The erection of an ice plant and a corps of engineers was necessary to accomplish it.

It was discovered the ice photographed too murky. To correct this the technicians spread skimmed milk over the surface, which produced a clear, white ice that photographed not only excellently, but economically as well. The white surface reflected the tremendous battery of lights focused upon it, increasing the light values, whereas the natural ice had tended to absorb this concentration.

The rink completed, a magnificent encircling set was created. Under the direction of William Darling, artist, the set created was one of the most impressive combination restaurant and pavilion sets yet seen in pictures. Treated in an ultra-modern style, its materials consisted of molded glass pillars, diffusing neon lights and trimmed with chrome metal. Over the set, and completely surrounding the ice rink, was a balcony for diners.

A further unusual quality in the picture's production was a location trip to Mount Rainier, Washington, for skiing scenes. During the company's three-week stay there, all nature let loose with its wildest display of temperament. Snow, ice and hail at times discouraged them, but they withstood it to film majestic backgrounds at Mount Rainier bathed in clouds, and long ski runs by Miss Henie.

The supporting cast features Arthur Treacher, Raymond Walburn, and Joan Davis, and includes Sig Ruman, Alan Hale, Leah Ray, Melville Cooper, Maurice Cass, and George Givot. Darryl F. Zanuck, production chief, selected Sidney Lanfield to direct with Raymond Griffith as associate producer. The screen play was written by Attila Orbok. Three of the picture's song-hits were composed by the ace song-writing team of Lew Pollack and Sidney D. Mitchell, and Mack Gordon and Harry Revel also wrote a hummable new novelty triumph.

Her Ideal "What is your ideal of a boy friend?" "One who is clever enough to make money and foolish enough to spend it."

Kenny Baker Cashing In On Ranch

The studio property department furnished the Japanese lanterns, the benches, cakes and other appurtenances of such affairs. Everything, in fact, was supplied except the strawberries. Kenny noticed the absence of the berries and made arrangements to furnish enough strawberries to make the festival authentic. The studio got the berries from the Baker ranch, which he bought as it stood, complete with berry bushes and trees. Kenny sold them for $4.35, at the rate of two baskets for a quarter. "Mr. Dodd Takes the Air," is now at the Seville until Saturday opening for three days at the Monkland Sunday.

Excellent Double Bill At Snowdon

An adventure picture offering a wealth of excitement, a tender romance, some of the most spectacular scenes ever photographed and entertainment which should find favor with father, mother, sister and brother comes to the screen of the Snowdon Sunday in "The Soldier and the Lady."

Besides its remarkable pageantry of drama and action, this noteworthy version of Jules Verne's mighty novel, "Michael Strogoff," introduces a new candidate for American picture laurels in the magnetic person of Anton Walbrook. The international stage and screen favorite offers a performance which skyrockets him into the ranks of our own top-notch screen celebrities.

Carefully woven into the plot and extraordinary enough to justify paeans of praise on their own account are the tremendous parodic scenes of the Russian army pitted against the barbaric Tartar hordes in two different battle episodes. These scenes far surpass anything of the kind ever filmed and they alone would make the picture well worth seeing for their sheer breath-taking effect.

As millions who have read Jules Verne will recall—and here, for once is a film version that faithfully follows the original plot—"The Soldier and the Lady" concerns itself with the perilous journey of its hero across Siberia and through hostile Tartar patrols to reach a besieged Russian army at Irkutsk with the Tsar's orders for the campaign. A beautiful woman spy is on his trail; a Russian girl be-friends him; he is trapped, battles river pirates, is captured and tortured by the Tartars, but with the aid of the loyal girl, attains his mission and a thrilling revenge over the Tartar leader.

For all its straightforward simplicity, "The Soldier and the Lady" reaches absorbing heights in its steady accumulation of dramatic tension, and in many ways it is a refreshing change from the conventional type of action film. Margot Graham gives an excellent performance as the spy, who, too late, tries to save Walbrook from the Tartars. Elizabeth Allan is charming in the role of the friend-ly girl whose shy romance with the courier provides the love interest, and Akim Tamiroff, as the traitorous Russian leading the Tartar rebellion, turns in a brilliantly convincing piece of villainy.

HIJACKERS CLUB PLANNING DANCE FOR NEW YEAR'S

Plans for the forthcoming New Year's Eve Dance were just about completed at a meeting of the Hijackers Club last week when the dance committee in charge of this affair met for their weekly luncheon meeting. Tom Lewis was in the chair and called for detailed reports from the various members of the committee.

The music for the third New Year's Eve Dance will be supplied this year by Blake Sewell and his Knights of a Knot, an orchestra which has gained a large following in the past year and which played, together with Jack Bain at the last Hijacker affair, the Coronation Prom which was held last May. The popularity of this choice was evident by the way in which the announcement was received. Blake has added some new members to his orchestra since last Spring and judging by the number of dances he has played at already this year the Hijackers will not regret their choice. The only regret voiced was the fact that one of the Club's staunchest followers would be unable to join the President's party due to the fact that he is now playing the piano for The Knights of Knot. This was in reference to Alf Stanway, an always popular pianist and also an enthusiastic follower of the Hijackers.

Plans for catering were not completed, announced Tom Lewis, who is looking after that important part of the dance personally, but it was thought that the business would be given to well-known north-end catering firm who seemed to have the best to offer of the eight tenders submitted.

The favours were already on hand and a large variety of noise makers will be given to all Hijackers—who always seem anxious to make a noise anyway" reported the Treasurer. The Floor Show and Entertainment was not com-

"Topper" Now Laugh Hit On Westm't Screen

Thorne Smith's uproarious novel, "Topper," which has made millions of readers laugh in every part of the world, now comes to the screen as the latest of the successful Hal Roach feature-length comedies.

Constance Bennett and Cary Grant are co-starred in the new picture which opens Sunday at the Westmount Theatre, and the outstanding cast also features Roland Young in the title role, Billie Burke, Alan Mowbray, Eugene Pallette and others.

The men "behind the production" of the new Roach feature are outstanding in their respective fields. Eric Hatch, who adapted the popular Thorne Smith novel to the screen, together with Jack Jevne and Eddie Moran, is the author of numerous successes, among them the original story of "My Man Godfrey." Norman Z. McLeod, who directed "Topper," has a long list of directorial hits to his credit, the most recent of which was the Bing Crosby success, "Pennies from Heaven."

The story of "Topper," dealing with the hilarious escapades of madcap gentry of another world, provides a plot that bursts all the bounds of high comedy. Constance Bennett and Cary Grant are seen as the wildest, fastest couple in town who meet death in an automobile accident only to mortally materialize and pursue an incredible series of adventures across a bewildered countryside.

Young is cast as the staid banker who becomes a rollicking playboy as a result of his meeting with the pletely lined-up either, but this is due to the fact that the Master of Ceremonies is determined to have nothing but the best on the floor New Year's and is busy searching for real talent—it is suspected that he spends many an evening "abroad" for this purpose.

At the close of the meeting the President summed-up the information received and also added that "as you all know, the dance will take place at Victoria Hall with dress optional, reservations are going fast!"

etheral couple, and Billie Burke is seen as his henpecking wife who finally learns how to hold her man. Alan Mowbray is the family butler.

"Topper" comes to the Westmount screen as the most ambitious and most hilarious motion picture made by Hal Roach during the twenty-three years in which this producer has created the reputation of being the greatest laughmaker in the film industry.

Dominion Douglas Scare Redmen Before Latter Win Victory By Single Point

First Loss of Year Due Solely to Inexperience—Redmen Struck Stride Late to Eke Out Lucky and Flukey Victory—Darling, Thomas, Jenkins Outstanding

A packed gallery watching the McGill Grads-Dominion Douglas big seven opener Wednesday night at Argyle School proved beyond a doubt that basketball interest in this city is not lacking. Another large turnout is expected tonight at the Intermediate loop double-header in Queen's school when Queen's Grads meet Montreal West, and Amicis hook up with the University of Montreal. The first game will start at 7:30 sharp.

Coach Wally Ramage of the Grads will probably start the front line of Bakin-Lewis-Solters, with Milt Cameron and himself as Guards. Jackie Forbes is rounding into form after a season of inactivity.

The Dominion-Douglas team can mark their first loss of the season down to inexperience. In their debut in senior league, the church team were nosed out of a win by the McGill Grads, last year's provincial title holders, by the score of 29-28. Unleashing a sensational long range attack throughout the latter part of the first half and the beginning of the second half, the local cagers erased an early Grad lead and at one time led the tit-lists by nine points. With seven minutes of play remaining and the game apparently well in hand, inexperienced church team made the mistake of allowing the red and white squad to carry the offensive, who then struck their belated stride to eke out a decidedly lucky victory. Showing no apparent defensive weakness and a real scoring punch, the defence due to Captain Bob Darling and Sid Thomas, along with Planky Phil Jenkins, were the outstanding players on the Dominion Douglas line-up.

Featuring the Grads play, who certainly need plenty of practice, was the sharpshooting of Johnnie Crombie, who was the high scorer of the game with eleven points.

Teams and Scorers:
Grads: Ferraro (5); Talpis (2); Hammond (6); Crombie (11); Schuler (4); Silverman (0); Jeffries (1); Wilson (0);

Dominion Douglas: Cochrane (2); Parker (0); Jenkins (6); Bevan (2); Scarffe (2); Thomas (8); McIntosh (0); Darling (8); Brunt (0);

Referee, Frank Ulley.

Amicis start their title quest in a weakened state, with Jack Caplan being forced to miss the first scheduled game through eligibility rules and the possibility that Reg Johnson will be lost to the team for the rest of the season for business reasons. Coach McCormick will have only two guards available, Earl Carney and Cliff McClay. The students headed by Cliff Melville may prove a tough nut for the blue team to crack.

The injury riddled Westmount Y team open their season at Montreal High tomorrow evening against McGill Seconds. Manager Johnnie Eaves of the Y team figures that barring an earthquake or some such catastrophe, his "able-bodied men" may outnumber

MEET TO DISCUSS STAYNOR HOCKEY

There will be a meeting Monday night at 7:30 at the Westmount Athletic Grounds for the purpose of getting further organization work on the Staynor Park hockey loop done. George Stewart is in charge of this league for the coming winter.

All young hockey players from the Staynor district who wish to be included on one of the teams now being formed should attend this meeting.

YOUR NATURAL CORSET.

By this, I mean your abdominal muscles. We have 3 kinds of abdominal muscles; the straight muscles, the transversal muscles and the obliques. The main duties of these are:

1. To hold the abdominal content.
2. To act slightly on the intestinal content.
3. To help correct posture.
4. To help the diaphragmatic breathing.
5. To help the abdominal blood-circulation. ("The veins of the abdominal viscera have no valves and unless they are performing their work efficiently it is inevitable that the veins within the abdominal wall will dilate and that circulation through them will be slowed down. There is only a certain amount of blood in the body and if any undue percentage of it is lying stagnant in dilated veins within the abdomen there must be deficiency elsewhere. Not only so, but the blood that remains in general circulation has passed through this stagnant area, and, no doubt, has absorbed undue percentage of undesirable material, thus the blood supply to the brain becomes poor both in quality and in quantity and it is a small wonder if persons suffer, from heaviness, sluggishness, headaches, etc.")

6. The prevention of constipation. Before going further in the why's and wherefore's of a well developed abdomen, let us consider a few facts about constipation, the mother of diseases.

Here are few factors responsible for it:

1. Insufficient bulk in food; 2. Hasty eating; 3. Irregular meals; 4. Insufficient fluid; 5. Weak abdominal muscles; 6. The ignorance of Nature's call.

Insufficient Bulk
After having read the chapter on diet you should be able to select your food in such a way to secure enough roughage to maintain the intestinal tone and assure yourself of a daily intake of minerals and vitamins.

Hasty Eating
Nothing is so damaging as hasty eating, gulping down food with the aid of liquid. Take your time to chew your food; you will eat less, but will assimilate more. Many have asked if mastication

COMPETES IN EMPIRE GAMES

Athletes, policemen and sport followers of Verdun are banding together to gather sufficient funds to have Pete Gavuzzi, trainer, accompany Walter Young, recent Boston Marathon winner, to the British Empire Games in Australia early in 1938. Young was chosen by the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada as only delegate in the marathon event at the Australia Games. He is a member of the Verdun police department and will leave Dec. 22 for the Antipodes. If Verdun supporters fail to reach their objective of $1,000, Gavuzzi will not accompany the Quebec delegate to the games. The Verdun police department is headquarters for the campaign.

should compel one to eat slowly and stay hours at the table. Not necessarily! One may chew food very well, but yet eat very quickly. Excessive chewing in the beginning is a good thing as it will lead to proper mastication and will later become a habit. The simple reason why we should strive to get pleasant surroundings, good topics, and still better if possible soothing music while eating. Never allow yourself to grow angry over discussion during meal; this is detrimental to proper digestion.

Next week I shall discuss further this subject of importance.

Exercise of The Week
A very good exercise to perform during the winter months upon rising in the morning is called the "jumping jack" and consists of jumping feet apart and flinging arms overhead, the return to the starting position being quick and repetition until tired being recommended.

Still a very good one is the imaginary rope-skipping. Go into it briskly and as long as possible. Rest, breathe freely and deeply as you have learned in previous article and enter your daily dozen in a better mood.

Fraser, Cartmel Pass Swim Tests

Hugh Fraser passed the Y.M.C.A. Junior Life Saving exam on Saturday, and Charlie Cartmel was awarded the Royal Life Saving Society's Award of Merit, consisting of a silver medal and a swimming suit crest. These boys were trained by Douglas Fairbairn, who coaches life saving classes every Saturday afternoon at the Westmount Y.M.C.A.

To date a large number of candidates in both Y.M.C.A. and Royal Life Saving Society tests have been successful. Life saving classes are proving popular this year.

Senior Cage Loop At 'Y' Begins

On Saturday, Senior League basketball at the Y.M.C.A. got off to a good start with two games, the first between the Hi-Y and the Handsomes. The latter were victorious 17-9; the game was featured by close playing. The Chown brothers and Lynes starred for the Handsomes and Rogers with the Hi-Y did most of the scoring.

The second game, a 28-14 win for the Highlanders over the High-Hatters, showed evidence of good teamwork on the part of the victors. Dickie, Mahon and O'Hara made stellar plays, helping to pile up the score. High-Hatter Swift did not belie his name, scoring four baskets under difficult circumstances.

The teams:—Rogers, Horne, Charters, Woods, Russel of the Hi-Y; McCulloch, D. Chown, Lynes, Wilson Clarke for the Handsomes; Lebeau, Ramsay, Swift, Cartwell, Mowatt, for the Hi-Hatters; Shippey, Jones, Dickie, Mahon, Schryer, subs: O'Hara, McNiven for the Highlanders. Referees—Schryer, Patterson.

HOCKEY

Dr. Bobbie Bell gave a very interesting talk to over sixty boys at the regular weekly hockey supper. He plans to lead a training course for coaches early this month.

Campbell Mussells is signing up prospective coaches in the Hi-Y Club. Jack Patrick, Marshall LeBeau, Ed. DeWit, Len Schryer, Ross Seaman, John Lewis and Stan Gilpin were on hand for the meeting.

Westmount Meets Villeray Tonight Undaunted By 3-2 Loss To McGill On Friday

Coach Norman Smyth Enthusiastic Over Prospects of His Team For Coming Season — Team Needs Practice — Henry Phillips Signed Up For Local Aggregation

Westmount's 3-2 loss before McGill Seconds Friday night at the Forum in their first game of the Montreal Intermediate Hockey Group is no indication that future games will run the same way. The boys showed remarkable form considering that they had been on the ice only three times prior to the encounter, and Norman Smyth, coach, is enthusiastic over their prospects for the winter.

The McGill team had the advantage all the way through, having had more practice time prior to the game. A number of poor plays made by the local team were traceable directly to lack of practice and were in no way due to carelessness or sloppy playing.

Tonight Westmount meets Villeray in the second game of a double-header at the Forum, with McGill playing St. Jerome in the first bout. The local lads are set to make a better showing than they did last week, and are out to win.

A big factor boosting confidence in Westmount is the return to local hockey of Henry Phillips.

Those signed up now include:—Phillips, Sid Patterson, Ted Glendinning, Harold Maher, John Saunders, Doug Small, John Phillips, John Pullam, Doug Merrick, Courty MacDonald, Billy Willock, Alistair McCaig, Bill Arbuckle.

BLACK HORSE ALE

OF MASKS AND MIKES AND THINGS

By JACK HIRSHBERG

IT WOULD SEEM — A SCATHING DENUNCIATION!

It would seem that Bliss Carmen was right—dead right—when he proclaimed several short years back that the worst evil which might befall a poet is that he be born in Canada. In our humble estimation, the nation's greatest poetic genius did not carry his broad and cat it unbuttered sufficiently far. With little trepidation or fear of contradiction he might have broadened his statement to include novelists and news writers, painters and sculpturers, dramatists and actors — yes, and radio folk, those individuals who earn their bread and eat it unbuttered because of unutterable apathy among dial twisters this side of the border and because of lack of foresight among those individuals who would eventually profit generously from any present cooperation they might extend.

It would seem, too, by constant perusal of passing kilocycles that dial twisters above the border suffer abominably from an acute plague of inferiority complex—a situation almost universally shared by their brethren of the press and podium. From all sides come complaints to this and other desks that programs produced here and regionally defy comparison with those of the most backward clan of African cannibals. "Intolerable," whines "A Listener." "All bunk—all!" chorus others. "Tripe!" yells "Constant Fan."

And so the gamut is run, our national broadcasters are put through the mill, our orchestras are damned, our announcers are cursed.

NUT IS LOOSE

It would seem that somewhere a nut is loose. The same derogatory slams that drove Walter Huston to the American stage, Norma Shearer to the American screen Edward Johnston to the American opera and Bliss Carmen to the American publishers are driving Soprano Jean Dickinson, Bandleader Guy Lombardo, Script writer Art Arthur and topnotchers in other branches of radio entertainment to the American radio networks and to fame and fortune below the border. Canadians all, they belong to Canada.

But Canada would not acclaim them until our neighbours to the south had stamped them with the mark of approval—which, in turn appears to be the badge of acceptance demanded by press and public in the provinces of this land.

There are at present at least three programs on the Canadian air today . . . put there by sponsors who believe in the future of Canadian broadcasting — that need bow not at all to any similar American program, produced with similar budget broadcast under similar circumstances.

"Spotlight Parade" and "The Red Ledger" are two. "Canada 1937" is a third. "Spotlight Parade" originates in a department store. "The Red Ledger" comes from local studios that until recently resembled unusable barns. "Canada 1937" is produced at several points within the city because no suitable studio is available—in fact because no suitable studio exists.

CONCLUSIONS

All draw fair mail response in Canada. All draw heavy mail response from the United States.

All employ Canadian artists, use Canadian stations, rent Canadian wires, cater to Canadian listeners.

All receive scant support from the Canadian press. All are suffering from growing pains—and maturing with amazing speed. Near-sightedness is costing many Canadians untold hours of enjoyment and robbing Canadian artists and producers of the living they so rightfully deserve. If you doubt our words, tune them in for a change. Tap your toes to their contagious rhythm, give your ears to the drama of their plays, digest the views which they present, applaud the efforts of their producers.

And don't sympathize with the folk behind the mike. Tune them in, listen, applaud or criticize. Give Canadian broadcasting a break—and help yourself to fine entertainment.

KILOCYCLE CHATTER

"Canada 1937" hopes to reach Bethlehem by shortwave Christmas Eve to bring Canadian listeners into contact with the Holy

More Bachelors In Canada Than Unmarried Girls

If every bachelor in Canada, between the ages of 20 and 35 made up his mind to marry but insisted that he would not enter into connubial bliss unless the young lady was a Canadian, or at least a resident of Canada, and providing also that all the young ladies in Canada between these same ages, were willing, there would not be enough brides to go around.

If all the bachelors really wanted to marry, those who found themselves in the rear of the procession ready to pop the question, would have to cross the border or board a ship to make the quest.

The fact is there are over 249,000 more bachelors between the ages of 20 and 35 than there are maidens, so the Canadian girl has quite a large field from which to choose, if she has any inclination that way. The bachelor, on the other hand, stands a greater chance of being the wallflower at the dance.

This is a disconcerting situation and one that is difficult to remain unattached like Queen Elizabeth in the days long ago. Domestic cares are not for them; that is, any more than those of Columbia Pictures' "Start Cheering" this week, making this the most pretentious musical planned by Hollywood in many a month.

DIAL DELIRIUM

Manhattan's correspondent for a local newspaper has turned out one of the snappiest tunes to tickle this observer's ears in ages. Titled "White Snow Drops," it is already in print and due for probable early release. Requests for broadcast tickets addressed to this department are answered in order of receipt. A humble admonition is hereby directed at those who constantly 'phone regarding seat reservations. Please don't 'phone—write. . . Richard Tyrrol, Viennese star at Chez Maurice, is due for a nationwide broadcast during his engagement in Montreal, though time and stations are as yet unannounced. . . G. R. Markowski, concert master at Hotel Queens, is heard currently below the border through network facilities of the Mutual Broadcasting System. . .

FINALE

CBS has already announced plans for gala New Year's Eve broadcasts, to be marked at midnight by street cheers and corner comment from major American cities as 1938 sweeps westward from Manhattan to Honolulu. . . Goodman, Duchin and Calloway will provide the midnight rhythm from New York. Other crack bands follow from Chicago, Kansas, Hollywood and Frisco. . . Marconi will be honoured in playlet form through CBS December 9 when Columbia's Workshop presents "Man and Wireless" through the nationwide hookup. . .

Bicycles More And More Popular

Every boy and girl loves a bicycle and that handy means of quick locomotion is becoming more and more popular. It is impossible to say how many there are in Canada, but some guessing can be done from the fact that about 49,000 were manufactured in Canada last year and there were over 27,000 made in 1935. A good bicycle well cared for will last for very many years, so the number in the Dominion must be enormous. The old ones are in many shapes and sizes, and even some of the high wheel specimens of the eighties and nineties are occasionally to be seen around. However, the modern safety bicycle has been pretty well standardized and the streamline idea does not appear to change very much.

Besides the home manufactured bicycles we import a great many, chiefly from the United Kingdom. Last year for example, about 14,000 were imported and about 13,000 of them came from Great Britain.

We don't see very many tandem bicycles nowadays. They were very popular a generation ago.

Robert Goodier Is In Cast Of MRT Vehicle

Returning to Elmer Rice after several years the MRT presents as its second major production of the season his "Judgment Day" which has proved one of the biggest successes of the year in London where it is still running at the Phoenix Theatre. "Judgment Day" will be played at Victoria Hall for five nights commencing Tuesday, December 7 and continuing until Saturday, December 11. The curtain will be at 8.45 p.m. sharp and those who arrive late will be asked to remain at the back of the theatre until the end of the first act.

In "Judgment Day" Elmer Rice depicts the conflict between democracy and dictatorship with a satirical pungency which excels anything he has done before. It is definitely propaganda, yet the dramatist, shrewdly remembering his calling, does not ask the audience to take sides. He allows the events of the play to speak for themselves—and all the events have actual parallels in the contemporary European scene.

The action takes place in the Hall of Justice of a South-Eastern European capital. A trial, closely analogous to the famous Reichstag fire trial, is in progress. George Khitov, Lydia Kuman and Kurt Schneider are on trial for their lives on a charge of attempted assassination of Grigori Vesnic, dictator of a Slav totalitarian state. The two former are acknowledged members of the People's Party; Alexander Kuman, Lydia's husband, is lying under sentence of death for political activities.

KEGS OF U.S. GOLD FOR FRANCE

Those little barrels which look like kegs of nails are really kegs of gold—$10,250,000 worth being loaded on the S.S. Normandie, which may be seen in the background, and is the first gold to be shipped out of the U.S. in years. That stern gentleman at the right is a treasury agent and he doesn't have his hands in his pockets just to keep them warm. The gold is being shipped to France.

Five judges are hearing the trial. Two of them are obviously tools of the government. Another is a legal buffoon, the fourth is struggling, somewhat bewildered to maintain an attitude of judicial impartiality, while the fifth upholds without compromise the democratic ideals of justice and honour. As the story unfolds it becomes clear that the evidence of the prosecution is a tissue of perjury. The prisoners make startling counter-charges until, alarmed by the flaws in the government's case, General Michael Raskovski, Minister of Culture and Enlightenment, appears in court to refute the charges and finally Vesnic himself, the dictator comes to give evidence. In a final scene of sheer melodrama the play arrives at an unsuspected but highly satisfactory conclusion.

To fill a cast which has thirty-two speaking parts, the MRT has called on many of its most experienced players. The five judges will be portrayed by Ruxton Byatt, Jack Ralph, Alfred Dann, John Loggie and Cecil West. Marjorie Brewer plays Lydia Kuman, with Robert Goodier as George Khitov and Murray Black as Kurt Schneider. A character sketch of exceptional interest is promised by Pauline Donald who appears as Mme Creveli, a prima donna. An opera singer herself and widely known in musical circles, Mme Donald is essaying her first dramatic role. The saturnine and relentless prosecutor is in the hands of John Ready, a newcomer to MRT ranks and the defence counsel will be Douglas Peterson, Fraser Macquodale and Edward Wilson. Reginald Genest will play the part of General Michael Raskovski. Among the witnesses for the prosecution are Hal Grindon, Louis Mulligan and Dorothy Danford. Others in the cast are Raela Robertson, Barney McCaffrey, John Farias, Kenneth Cully, Chester LeMaitre and Louis Crepeau. The single setting of the courtroom will be designed by Cecil West.
