COUNCIL SENDS CHARTER AMENDMENT TO QUEBEC

World News In Brief

Paris, Jan. 24.—(AP)—France today proposed a two-stage plan for converting the four German zones of occupation into a federalized central administration both under and after military occupation.

The Foreign Office, said an official spokesman, dispatches two detailed memoranda on German government to the other members of the Foreign Ministers' Council for discussion in Moscow next month.

The first of these dealt with the establishment of state and federal government organs under the supervision of the allied military government and the second concerned Germany's post-occupation constitution. Both would grant a preponderance of power to the state governments and restrict the federal government to authority specifically delegated by the state.

Warsaw, Jan. 24.—(AP)—United States Embassy observers today reported to Ambassador Arthur Lane that the attitude of the Polish people to the parliamentary elections was one of "cynicism, hopelessness, fear and apathy."

The reports told of "frustration and resentment among the voters and attributed the condition of intimidation exercised by the pro-government bloc parties, aided by armed forces which produced what was described as mass open voting and a long list of violations of the Polish constitution and election laws.

Embassy personnel and other Americans visited all the important sectors of Poland before and during Sunday's election. These observers reported that everywhere they found voters feared to talk about the elections and felt the results were a foregone conclusion.

The Bloc parties won a large majority of the votes.

New Delhi, Jan. 24.—(AP)—India's Constituent Assembly selected today 50 members of a 72-member advisory committee to submit recommendations about constitutional provisions on the rights and protection of minorities and the fundamental rights of all citizens in an independent India.

The other 22 seats are to be filled later by representatives of the princely states and the Moslem League should they agree to participate in the Assembly's sessions.

Washington, Jan. 24.—(AP)—Rocket experimenters at White Sands, N.M., will take another step in the near future toward fashioning their space weapon into a true-guided missile.

Army ordnance officials said yesterday that attempts would be made to "wiggle" or change the axis of the stabilizing gyroscope in a V-2 while in flight.

Ratepayers Will Not Have Opportunity To Express An Opinion On Salary Issue

OPPOSES COUNCIL MOVE

ALD. WESLEY H. BRADLEY, who last night opposed the method being followed by the Council on the question of remuneration for the mayor and aldermen. Ald. Bradley suggested that the charter amendment be subject to approval of the ratepayers.

Judge Denies Defence Plea In Spy Trial

Motion for Dismissal of Case Against Dr. Henry Harris Is Rejected by County Judge A. G. McDougall.

Ottawa, Jan. 24.—(AP)—County Judge A. G. McDougall today rejected a defence motion for dismissal of two charges against Dr. Henry Harris, Toronto optometrist, laid in connection with the espionage probe. The trial then proceeded with calling of defence witnesses.

Harris was the 16th Canadian to go on trial as a result of the with conspiring to obtain false passports and conspiring to forge espionage probe, being charged false passports in violation of the Official Secrets Act of 1939.

At the conclusion of the Crown's case, defence counsel A. W. Beaumont of Ottawa moved for dismissal on the grounds that the presumption clause of the Act does not extend to a charge of conspiring to break that Act. Therefore the evidence that Harris came to Ottawa with an alleged Russian agent, Sam Carr, would establish no presumption against him.

Crown Counsel J. J. Robinette.

Decision Taken by Council in Committee of the Whole To Avoid Public Discussion—Aldermen Bradley and Bishop Oppose Move.

The City Council, sitting as a committee of the whole, last night approved the proposed amendments to the municipal charter, providing remuneration for the mayor and aldermen, and decided to send these on to Quebec without any public discussion of the issue.

The ratepayers who will be called upon to foot the bill will be given no opportunity to express their point of view one way or another on this contentious matter. The proposed amendment, as prepared by City Attorney Edouard Boisvert, K.C., provides for an annual salary of $2,000 for the mayor and $1,000 for each alderman, retroactive to April 1st, 1946.

BOURQUE'S CONDITION "VERY GOOD"

Quebec, Jan. 24.—(CP)—Hon. J. S. Bourque had a restful night and his condition today "is very good," it was learned from the Hotel Dieu Hospital where the Quebec Minister of Lands and Forests and Hydraulic Resources was taken Wednesday night when he became suddenly ill while attending a banquet here.

Hon. Mr. Bourque suffered an attack of acute indigestion on Wednesday night shortly after he had addressed some 400 curiers at the 34th Province of Quebec International Bospital in this city.

Decision to send the amendments to Quebec was not unanimous, however, and Alderman Wesley H. Bradley, representing the North Ward, spoke out against the method being followed by the City Council. Alderman Bradley presented an amendment to the resolution to provide pay for the Council subject to the approval of the ratepayers. If this had been accepted by the Council it would have provided for a straight vote and have done away with the necessity of a fifty per cent majority.

Alderman Bradley's amendment was supported by Alderman C. Guy Bishop, also representing the North Ward, but was voted down by the other members of the Council.

In 1935 when Dr. F. H. Bradley was mayor and A. C. Ross and Marcus Armitage, former mayors, and J. R. Sangster formed part of the Council, the Council was unanimously in favor of payment of salaries to the mayor and aldermen. The matter was submitted to the ratepayers, who turned it down.

This was the only time on record that the issue has been brought forward in a practical way and the only occasion that the ratepayers have been given an opportunity to express their will.

City Clerk Antonin Deslauriers said today that the matter could be discussed in public at the next meeting, and that it was always possible for a resolution to the government of this nature to be changed or withdrawn.

Alderman Bradley said today that he intended to bring the matter up at the next meeting so that no doubt would exist as to his position on the method being followed by the Council to obtain this remuneration.

Last Service Is Held For Late Cardinal

Cardinal McGuigan Celebrates Pontifical Requiem Mass—Many Church and State Dignitaries Attend.

Quebec, Jan. 24.—(AP)—The centuries-old rites of the Pontifical Requiem Mass were celebrated in Notre Dame Basilica today by James Cardinal McGuigan, Archbishop of Toronto, for his fellow prelate, Rodrigue Cardinal Villeneuve.

High dignitaries of church and state filled the historic, 300-year-old cathedral to its 1,200 seating capacity for the impressive service, replete with the elaborate ceremonies reserved for Princes of the Roman Catholic Church and performed only three times previously in Canada.

The mass was to be followed by the burial of Cardinal Villeneuve, 63-year-old Archbishop of Quebec who died in California a week ago today, in the subterranean crypt of the Cathedral, resting place of the bodies of two of the three Cardinals who preceded him in Canada.

As Cardinal McGuigan celebrated the mass before the great Cathedral altar, now draped in mourning, Francis Cardinal Spellman, Archbishop of New York, Archbishop Hildibrando Antonielli, Apostolic Delegate to Canada and Newfoundland, and high-ranking prelates of the church in Canada and the United States sat in the Chancel.

It was the second High Pontifical Mass for Cardinal Villeneuve, the humble son of a Montreal shoemaker who rose through the priesthood to become the fourth Canadian to enter the Sacred College of Cardinals. He was appointed to the purple 14 years ago.

Prosecution Ends Case Against Japs

Tokyo, Jan. 24.—(AP)—The prosecution today rested its case against former Premier Tojo and 25 other wartime Japanese leaders.

Today's was the 160th session of the international war crimes tribunal which began hearing the case April 29.

Only 25 of the original 28 defendants were in court. Former Foreign Minister Yosuke Matsuoka and Admiral Osami Nagano, one-time chief of the Navy General Staff, died after the trial opened. Dr. Shumei Okawa, a propagandist, was declared insane and confined to a hospital. Okawa is being tried in absentia on the possibility he later might be pronounced sane.

Nazi Leader Faces Court At Nuernberg

Franz von Papen Fails in Move to Deny Bavarian Tribunal's Right to Hear Case.

Nuernberg, Jan. 24.—(AP)—Franz von Papen went on trial before a German denazification court today after unsuccessfully challenging the Bavarian tribunal's right to hear the case.

The seven-man court brushed aside the ex-diplomat's contention that he belongs in the French or British zones of occupation, not in the United States zone, and proceeded with the trial on charges that von Papen was a supporter of Adolf Hitler in the days of the Nazi regime.

Conviction can mean 10 years at hard labor for the 60-year-old German diplomat, who once served as Hitler's vice-chancellor.

The trial opened in a building a mile from the court house where he was acquitted of war crimes charges by the International Military Tribunal four months ago.

Public Prosecutor Werner Fiebig told the court he intended to prove that:

1—Von Papen helped Hitler to power and "sustained Nazism financially and politically."

2—Von Papen, as creator of Hitler's first cabinet, promised the Fuehrer he would dissolve the Reichstag and lift the ban against the wearing of the uniform by Storm Troopers.

3—Von Papen dismissed 24 high administrative officials because they opposed the Nazis.

4—Von Papen "undermined" Kurt Schuschnigg's Austrian Government and thus paved the way for Anschluss.

However, there appeared little prospect of a settlement of the dispute which threatens a strike Jan. 31 of 13,000 miners, members of the United Mine Workers of America (C.C.L.). Both disputants, according to informed sources, have refused to give ground on their terms and the government has made known that it will not pay subsidies in order to finance wage increases asked by the miners.

The miners were understood to be still sticking to their original demand for a general wage increase of $2.50 a day, while the Dominion Steel and Coal Corporation, largest Maritime operator, continued to hold out an offer of graduated increases up to $1 a day.

Dosco has claimed inability to pay the demanded increases, stating that without subsidies, the company would have to add $4 a ton to the selling price of its coal.

The union delegates to the government-sponsored conference challenged the size of this suggested price raise and offered figures by which it claimed the additional cost would be considerably less than $4.

Freeman Jenkins, president of U.M.W. Local 26, said at the opening of negotiations this week that a general strike would be called Jan. 31 if satisfactory terms could not be met. The strike was authorized by an 80-per-cent vote of miners in District 26.

Moose Accompany "Mayor" To Town

Toronto, Jan. 24.—(AP)—One of Northern Ontario's more colorful figures, Joe Laflamme, self-styled "Mayor" of Gogama, northwest of Sudbury, will come to town today—accompanied by his three tame moose and a deer—which animals he hopes to exhibit to city school children while on his way through.

Mr. Laflamme, who is well over six feet in height, and has a luxuriant beard, was at one time a Montreal policeman and heavy-weight wrestling champion of Quebec Province. When he announced to the citizens of Gogama one day that he was now His Worship Mayor or Joseph T. Laflamme, not a dissenting voice was heard.

With his tame moose and deer, he is on the way to sportsmen's shows in Montreal, Boston, New York and other points under the auspices of the Carling Conservation Club.

Among Mr. Laflamme's more unusual hobbies are breaking wolves to harness and taming moose to use for plow animals.

Last Attempt To Avert Coal Strike Made

Company and Union Confer With Labor Minister at Ottawa Today — No Increase in Subsidies.

Ottawa, Jan. 24.—(AP)—Following two days of negotiations which apparently have resulted in deadlock, company and union spokesmen in the Maritime coal wage dispute were scheduled today to lay their cards on the table of Labor Minister Mitchell.

However, there appeared little prospect of a settlement of the dispute which threatens a strike Jan. 31 of 13,000 miners, members of the United Mine Workers of America (C.C.L.). Both disputants, according to informed sources, have refused to give ground on their terms and the government has made known that it will not pay subsidies in order to finance wage increases asked by the miners.

Boy Drowned In Sight Of Rescue Squad

Five-Year-Old Swept to His Death in Swirling, Icy Currents of Thames River at London, Ont.

London, Ont., Jan. 24.—(AP)—Search was resumed today for the body of five-year-old Bobbie Avery, swept to his death in swirling, icy currents on the Thames River here yesterday in sight of townspeople watching helplessly as firemen in a frail rescue craft came within a few feet of the child's bobbing head before he disappeared from sight under broken ice.

The boy, son of an army sergeant stationed in the city, was playing with his four-year-old sister on the fringe of a solid ice rim in the river when he fell into open water. A woman crossing the bridge under which the children were playing, gave the first alarm of the tragedy.

Soon a small craft, manned by Ed Hothersall, Fred Garfat and Mort Burns, members of the London Fire Department, made an attempt to come within reaching distance of the child.

Scores of people on the bank, unable to help the rescue attempt themselves, shouted directions and pointed out the position of the little head still showing as swiftly moving currents carried it out of reach.

The three men were within 50 feet of Bobbie several times, but each time they thought they could grab him out of the freezing Thames waters, a change of current swirled him out of reach.

With Task Force Frigid, Fairbanks, Alaska, Jan. 24.—(AP)—How much cold weather can a man take?

That's one of the crucial problems which the United States Army is trying to solve here in Operation Frigid. In case war ever is waged in the Arctic, at what temperature would the weather be so severe that an army could no longer fight?

Col. Paul V. Kane, commander of this task force of 1,575 officers and men, has a tentative answer. He has been watching his test troops living in tents in the forests in the last week at temperatures as low as 58 degrees below zero.

"I don't see how there can be any action if the temperature is below 60," he said. "A man simply cannot perform. He cannot breathe heavily, for the air freezes his lungs. He can't handle metal. He cannot remain in the cold for any prolonged time. If we were attacked in that weather, we would have to fight the best we could, of course, but no soldier could do very much."

A sentry cannot stand duty in extremely low temperatures for more than an hour, he said. Even when camping out, some men become "cold soaked." It has happened here. The man becomes so exhausted from the cold, even when well clothed, that he starts quivering, is feverish and useless. The medical officers estimate

Tears Shed By Churchill At Blind Fete

Sightless Ex-Servicemen Tender Huge Ovation to Wartime Premier—Snowdrifts Delay Canadian Veterans.

London, Jan. 24.—(AP)—Five hundred blind ex-servicemen of two world wars brought tears to the eyes of Britain's wartime Prime Minister Winston Churchill last night as they stood and cheered for several minutes after he walked on a platform to make a speech at the St. Dunstan's New Year ball.

Churchill was so moved by the ovation that he stood with his head bowed and tears came into his eyes.

The Conservative party leader had gone to Seymour Hall to make a presentation to Sir Ian Fraser, M.P., blinded in the First Great War, to mark his 25th year as chairman of St. Dunstan's—an institution for the blind.

Handing a token gift of an engraved walking stick to Sir Ian, Churchill said that it was a symbol of gratitude for showing the means to "hope and glory" and the way by which such injuries as blindness can be conquered.

The main presentation to Sir Ian of a table silver to replace his—destroyed by a German bombing—will take place at a later date.

Heavy snowdrifts prevented a party of 60 including three Canadians from attending the famed annual affair.

The Canadians who were to have been presented to Churchill were Norman Daniel, Verdun, Que., blinded in action while serving with the North Shovel Regiment in Germany in 1915; Harold (Perky) Perkins, Lethbridge, Alta., also blinded in action while with the Canadian army, and Miss Ann German, Toronto, of the Canadian Red Cross who is a Braille teacher at the Brighton centre.

Greatly disappointed, Daniel telephoned The Canadian Press in London asking eagerly: "How did it go? Was Churchill in good form?"

Officers Test Resistance Of Army To Extreme Cold

That a man loses two per cent of efficiency for every degree of temperature below zero.

Kane said he believes that cold primarily is a mental hazard. Men fear the Arctic rigors before they arrive here, but, once they are adjusted, nearly all of them get along all right.

Speaking of Arctic weather, the Boy Scouts up here love it. A patrol of Scouts from Fairbanks has been camping in the forests on Saturday nights for years. With a patrol leader to guide them, they cook and practise woodcraft in temperatures as low as 20 below zero.

Among the observers in the field today was Russell Apple, field Scout executive for Alaska. He is learning what he can from the Army's experiences, to pass on to the Scouts.

He didn't say whether the Scouts were offering any advice to the Army.

PITCHING HORSESHOES by Billy Rose

Five of us were sitting around Toots Shor's the other night, too full of talk to go home. Around the seventh cup of coffee, we got to chinning about Damon Runyon and his stories of Manhattan. From Runyon we segued to Paul Gallico, and from Gallico to Ben Hecht. When we got to O. Henry, we closed the book. You don't talk about home-run hitters after you've mentioned the Babe.

A fellow who makes a sweet dollar with a pencil spoke up. "Did you ever read O. Henry's 'Gift of the Magi'?" he asked. "I think it has the best trick ending of any short story I ever read. When it came to hitting you over the head with the last sentence, O. Henry was the granddaddy of them all."

"With one exception," broke in an old-time police reporter, who never banked more than $60 in any one week. "Who do you mean?" I piped up. "De Maupassant?"

"No, professor," said the old-timer. "I'm talking about a fellow around this town who uses the pen name of The Law of Averages. Every day he pulls trick endings out of his hat that make O. Henry read like the Congressional Record."

"As for instance?" asked a Hollywood writer, who had flown East for some life-giving psalmi. "As for a thousand instances," said the reporter. "Look at the recent Rocco case. A man picks up a girl, hands her what he says is a camera, and tells her to take a picture of his wife. The girl snaps the shutter, and a concealed shotgun tears his wife's leg off. Tricky enough for you?"

Danny Arnstein, the taxi tycoon who opened the Burma Road, took up where the police reporter left off. "A fellow used to hack for me who belongs in somebody's short story," he said. "One night he drove me home in a company cab. At Broadway and 50th, he made a turn against the light. A cop stopped him and bawled the bejabbers out of him. 'Let's see your license, wise guy,' he said to the hackie, reaching for his summons book. He looked at the license and then put the book back in his pocket. 'Watch yourself on those turns,' he said politely. 'Lots of careless drivers these days.'"

"What's the point?" said the Hollywood genius, spearing a cold cut. "The name on the license," said Danny, "was Reverend George Lutzjen, D.D., Bishop of the Church of Jesus and Watch Mission. He used to drive a taxi four days a week to support his little church in Long Island City."

One of Toots' waiters who believes in free speech chimed in. "Here's one for you," he said. "Years ago I worked down at the Cafe Royale on Second Avenue. It was a radical hang-out. The customers used to sit around, figuring how to get rid of the Czar. All night long, they'd mark up the table tops with plans to capture Moscow. Even the waiters got into the arguments. All except one. He never talked politics. He would just mop the tables with a damp rag and ask, 'More tea, gentlemen?' Serious little geezer. Used to hang his clothes in the locker next to mine. His name was Bronstein."

"Never heard of him," said the Hollywoodman. "Yes, you did," said the police reporter. "When he changed his name to Leon Trotsky."

"Point-killer!" grumbled the waiter, and went off to get more coffee. "These are pretty good stories," said the writer with the big income tax. "But the finishes don't compare with any of a dozen in O. Henry's 'Four Million.'"

"Kick this one around," said the police reporter. "You all know Arthur and Irving Caesar. When they were boys down on the East Side, they used to hang out at the University Settlement House. To keep the kids off the streets, the director arranged weekly debates. The subject of one debate was, 'Resolved: The pen is mightier than the sword.' Another pair of brothers—the Diamonds—argued the pen was mightier. Well, I guess the Caesars didn't talk as well then as they do now. The Diamond brothers won the debate."

"The Law-of-Averages fellow put a neat switch to this story. 'The boys who upheld the sword have gotten to be pretty well-known for their work with the pen. Arthur won an Academy Award in Hollywood for writing 'Manhattan Melodrama.' Irving has his name on 'Tea for Two,' a dozen good shows, and a music publishing firm. 'Morris and Joe Diamond, the boys who defied the pen, also got to be pretty well known. On May 2, 1925, they were electrocuted for murdering two men while robbing a bank.'"

"I know one that tops that," said the waiter...

H. A. BURBANK IS HONORED BY RAND COMPANY

Herbert A. Burbank, of Sherbrooke, was honored on the occasion of the thirtieth anniversary of his joining the Canadian Ingersoll-Rand Company, Limited. The presentation of a thirty years' service medal to Mr. Burbank was made by F. G. Ferrabee, vice-president and general manager of the company, at an informal luncheon attended by members of the Montreal Head Office, held in the Windsor Hotel.

H. A. BURBANK

Born at Danville, Mr. Burbank started his business career with the manufacturing and mechanical service division of the Ford Motor Company at Detroit, Montreal, British Columbia and Eastern Townships points. On January 2, 1917, he joined the Jencks Plant of Canadian Ingersoll-Rand Company as an inspector of munitions and was later appointed chief inspector of munitions production. Following the armistice, he was placed in charge of inspection of the various types of machinery built at the Jencks plant.

In 1919 Mr. Burbank transferred to engineering-sales work with headquarters at Sherbrooke where he covered mines, paper mills, construction work and similar activities in the Eastern Townships and New Brunswick.

In 1921, Mr. Burbank was appointed manager of the Montreal sales branch of the company and during this period worked closely with the engineers and contractors in charge of the early hydro electric developments on the Saguenay and St. Maurice rivers in August, 1923, Mr. Burbank moved to the Cobalt office where he pioneered in the introduction of mining machinery in the Gouanda, Rouvin and Noranda districts.

In 1928, he acted as special representative in Montreal, later to return to Northern Ontario to open a branch at Kirkland Lake. Since 1937 he has been managing the Sherbrooke and New Brunswick branch of the company.

During the early part of the Second World War, Mr. Burbank made a number of trips to Newfoundland in connection with the construction of Canadian and United States Navy, Army and Air Force bases, essential minerals production and ship repair and construction work.

In 1942, he was loaned to the manufacturing division at Sherbrooke and resumed his present duties as manager of the Sherbrooke and New Brunswick branch in 1943.

Magog Hotel Property Changes Hands For 4th Time In 3 Years

Marking the fourth time that the property has changed hands in the last three years, the Magog Hotel on Dufferin Avenue was sold by the owner, Arthur Bolduc, to Paul-Emile Raiche and Emilie Beauvige, of Asbestos, for an announced sum. The new owners assumed control Wednesday noon.

Contacted this morning, Mr. Raiche stated that while no major changes to the property were planned for the near future, various improvements would be made in the building. One of Sherbrooke's landmarks dating back to the early days of the city, the hotel, known until

5 WITNESSES ARE UNABLE TO PUT UP BAIL

Five Witnesses of Jehovah, three women and two men, apprehended by Provincial Police authorities one week ago yesterday, had failed to post bail up today when they appeared in Magistrate's Court and their case was remanded to January 30.

Presiding Magistrate Dorais Panmeton, who last week raised bail from $550 to $1,000 cash or $1,200 property bail, a jump of $200, stated today that a definite date for hearing of the case would be set next Thursday. Members of the sect who have already spent a week in the local jail are: Mr. and Mrs. H. W. MacDonald, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Nicols and Miss Marcelle Trudeau.

GIRL GUIDES ASSOCIATION HOLDS RALLY

The annual meeting of the Lennoxville local association of Girl Guides was held at the home of Mrs. C. Grier. The president, Mrs. R. Boright, was in the chair. Mrs. L. Gnaedinger (Brown Owl) reported that the Brownies had purchased ten gifts from their own funds and sent them to the Scout toy shop to be distributed to needy children at Christmas. Mrs. A. Rowat presided during the election of officers and the following slate was presented by Mrs. H. Downs Jr., chairman of the nomination committee. Honorary president, Mrs. R. Boright; president, Mrs. S. Hamilton; vice-president, Mrs. R. Blake; treasurer, Mrs. F. W. Day; secretary, Mrs. E. Tanner; badge committee, Mrs. T. Wells; social committee, Mrs. A. Hodgman.

This slate was accepted as read and a vote of thanks was extended to the two retiring officers, Mrs. R. Boright, president, and Mrs. R. Sterling, treasurer. Following adjournment tea was served by the hostesses, Mrs. C. Grier and Mrs. A. N. Langford.

W.C.T.U. SESSION Mrs. E. Seale entertained the members of the Lennoxville Women's Christian Temperance Union at her home on Park Street, where they held their regular meeting. Mrs. N. D. Mrs. R. H. Stevenson presented the slate of officers for the new year, which read as follows: President, Mrs. J. G. Trenholme; vice-president, Mrs. G. B. Christison; secretary, Mrs. Raymond McLeod; treasurer, Mrs. Ray Hunting. This slate was accepted. Plans were made to hold a tea to celebrate the 20th anniversary of this society and it was noted that Mrs. James Stewart had held the office of honorary president throughout these years.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. G. E. Christison, Church Street, with Mrs. Cleveland as joint hostess on February 18th. Mrs. H. Fowles, convener of Red Cross work, reported on the urgent need for workers and members volunteered to aid in the work on hand. Sewing and knitting were distributed by the convener. Following adjournment, the hostesses, Mrs. MacKenzie and Mrs. Trenholme, served refreshments.

WAR MEMORIAL TO BE STUDIED AT LENNOXVILLE

The Lennoxville and Ascot Community Association will hold a general meeting on Wednesday evening, January 29, at eight p.m., in St. George Church Hall, to acquaint members with the activities of the various committees. Particular importance is attached to the report of the War Memorial Committee, which will deal with the result of the meeting held with the town councils of Lennoxville and Ascot, last month.

Coming events will also be considered, including the proposed plan for a school of handicraft, to be sponsored by the Quebec Council of Community Schools in the spring. The association recently purchased a sound amplification system which is now being installed at the skating rink. The cost of this sound equipment is being born by the association and contributions which are now being received by the treasurer will be acknowledged. Plans for a skating carnival will be considered.

COURT ACTION FOLLOWS BRAWL IN BARROOM

Echoes of a barroom brawl which occurred in the New Windsor Hotel tavern on February 19, 1945, were heard in Superior Court this morning when Edmond Garneau brought action in damages against the proprietor and manager of the inn. In the action submitted to Mr. Justice Dalma Landry, Garneau demanded a total of $500 for physical damages, damages to his reputation and financial loss. He stated that on the date mentioned he had peacefully requested to be served in the taproom when J. W. Marcell, manager, without cause, threw him violently onto the street, beating him with his fists and feet.

Defendant Marcell declared that plaintiff had become obstreperous, had caused a general uproar in the beverage room and that he had been compelled to show him the door. He denied hitting plaintiff and said if he suffered damages it was his own fault.

Mrs. Marie Jeanne Hainault, owner of the hotel, was also named defendant and denied fault. Hearing is continuing.

OCCUPATION ARMY DANGEROUSLY LOW

New York, Jan. 24.—(AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower asserted last night that the American occupation forces in Germany and Japan had been reduced to such a level that "we have reached the point of danger." Addressing the bond club of New York, the United States Army Chief of Staff said he considered the present and continued occupation of these two enemy countries as among the greatest contributions the United States could make to future peace.

NEW ALMANAC HAS WEALTH OF INFORMATION

So numerous, far-reaching and diversified are the activities of Americans that it requires nearly 1000 pages in the 1947 World Almanac and Book of Facts to describe them. This book of essential information is published by the New York World-Telegram & Sun-Howard newspaper. The Atomic Age is here and the World Almanac records how, in the second atomic year, efforts are being made to assure a responsible use of its immense power to kill or cure. Again in the first full year of adjustments in the theatres of war after the surrender is filled with acts vital to our future welfare and these are reviewed clearly and comprehensively in the almanac. If it is true that the last decade has seen more people reaching for accurate information than ever before then the usefulness of the almanac is self-evident.

From our continent we jump to the Arctic and the Antarctic because there, too, our interests lie. Now that Adm. Richard E. Byrd is headed south again, we can find in these pages what he has accomplished, and here, too, we can get information about the Arctic, now vitally important to cross-polar travel. Speaking of air travel, it is likely that the comment on the air age, with the distances by air, will be among the most welcomed pages of the new Almanac. No less useful will be the information about the income tax and the U.S. public debt, which by 1945 reached $1910.97 per capita. These matters concern us daily.

Satisfactory Reports Tabled At Session Of Trinity Church

The annual congregational meeting of Trinity Church last night heard with gratification the report of Treasurer Douglas S. Howard and Envelope Steward C. E. Soles that the year's operations which started with a deficit of nearly $500 had closed with a surplus of nearly $1,000. Equal satisfaction was expressed in the reports of the Women's Missionary Society that topped its objective of nearly $600, read by Mrs. Fred Williams, and that of the Missionary and Maintenance Department, read by P. R. Pollock, that met its $1,500 objective and carried a substantial surplus.

The Sunday School report was read by the acting superintendent, Charles Rublee, and revealed a cradle roll of 103, plus the largest group for years in beginners, primary and junior departments of the school. Other reports were read by the Official Board secretary, George Braunt. Keen interest was shown in the report of the centenary renovation effort given in the report of the committee, and of Max Long, vice-chairman, as they told of the near completion of the work, that has left the whole church plant, inside and out, in the finest condition it has been in for years. A number of fine memorials have been added, including that of the bronze honor roll for the men and women of the Second World War, dedicated last year.

The reports of the Women's Association, the Women's Auxiliary and the Trinity Club, read respectively by Mesdames C. E. Soles, Owen Williams and W. E. Hodge, and the Misses Lou Farnsworth and Hilda Goodenough, showed totals that kept pace with the fine report of the treasurer. New members received during the year totaled 42. Some other interesting highlights marked the meeting. Miss Jean Search, of Lennoxville, and Prof. Gordon Moffatt, of Bishop's College School, delighted the audience with vocal and violin solos, respectively, with Mrs. Bertha Allen Bell at the piano.

Another feature of interest was the presentation of a large number of hymnals by Mrs. Sara Emmon, who, confined to her home by illness, was represented by her daughter, Mrs. W. E. Hodge, who presented the gift, in memory of the late Samuel Hole, to the property steward, Max V. Long. Votes of thanks were expressed to the various organizations and their leaders by J. W. McKee and George C. Hall, and messages of sympathy and cheer were ordered conveyed to a number of the church members on the seriously sick list. Elections were held for the ensuing year, with outgoing members of both boards returned for another term, and two vacancies filled by the election of A. H. Duchene and J. A. Allen. Later a social hour was spent around the coffee tables, under the supervision of Mesdames G. C. Hall, C. A. Simons, E. A. Tomkins, H. A. Moore, William Lavallee, C. D. Coates and G. L. Wilkin.

THE STRAIN OF PUBLIC OFFICE

The collapse suffered by Hon. J. S. Bourque, Minister of Lands and Forests and of Hydraulic Resources in the Provincial Cabinet, at the banquet of the curlers in Quebec City, only serves to emphasize the heavy burden borne by public men in the carrying out of their duties. The load which rests upon the shoulders of public administrators, whether they be in the Dominion, provincial or municipal fields, is seldom appreciated by the average person.

Not only do these men have the heavy burdens related to the actual working of their own departments or offices but they are called upon to attend numerous social functions, which often involve considerable travelling, sometimes under trying conditions. To the person attending one of these functions occasionally, they might prove something of a pleasure, but to the men in official positions they represent part of their duties and generally serve merely to lengthen an already hard day's work.

The Quebec dinner in question followed an unusually lengthy and tiring session of the Provincial Cabinet which forced one cabinet member, Hon. Laurent Barre, Minister of Agriculture, to leave the conference under the care of a physician.

Sherbrooke citizens, who are represented in the Legislative Assembly by Mr. Bourque, and the population of the Province generally will be pleased to hear that his illness is not considered of a serious nature and that physicians are confident of his early recovery. They will unite in extending him their best wishes for a restoration to health to meet the problems of the office which he has been filling so capably.

CODIFYING THE CIVIC BY-LAWS

The action of the Sherbrooke City Council in appointing two local attorneys to codify the municipal by-laws should simplify substantially many of the problems of civic administration. Under the proposed revision, oft-amended by-laws will be listed in their present form, laws bearing on a single item or group of items will be brought under a common head and certain obsolete measures will be expunged from the records. Over a period of years it is inevitable that any progressing municipality must revise various of its by-laws from time to time. When amendments and sub-amendments are written to any original measure it frequently happens that one of the earlier clauses will clash with some of the changes made at a later date. These might go unnoticed for years, only to create considerable confusion at some later date. This is especially true in connection with police regulations and building by-laws.

By this revision, these causes for confusion will be removed and the city will be provided by a modernized set of enactments which will materially reduce the amount of labor required on the part of such persons as may have reason to refer back to the by-laws. Coupled with the consolidation of the charter in 1937, this action should end the danger that some obsolete and long-forgotten regulation might be brought out of moth balls to interfere with some present-day project about which the framers of the original enactment knew nothing.

THE NEW FRENCH GOVERNMENT

The decision of all major French political parties to participate in the new government formed by Socialist Premier Paul Ramadier gives rise to the hope that the first completely constitutional administration enjoyed by the Republic in seven years will have the stability required to deal with the many serious problems facing the nation. France has many obstacles to surmount as a result of the war and the German occupation of the country.

In the field of foreign affairs, the new government will face the ticklish issue of adjusting the French views of German peace terms with the British and American concepts of the future German state. The French people are insistent that Germany be divided in such a manner as to prevent her resurgence as a military power capable of waging an aggressive war. The British and Americans, on the other hand, are hopeful of restoring a united Germany with a domestic economy capable of sustaining itself without outside assistance.

The French viewpoint is understandable.

Thrice within seventy years the country was overrun and devastated by German hordes and thrice France has been forced to rebuild its economic and political structure wrecked by the invader. But it is probable that an impoverished and denuded Germany would be a greater menace to the peace of the world than a nation which was able to maintain a limited standard of living for its people.

Despite the best efforts of the brief-lived Blum Cabinet to cut living costs, prices and wages are far out of line with the country suffering all the evils of inflation. This, alone, would provide a major task for any new government. Added to it is the critical colonial situation, the solution of which requires a strong central government with a long-term policy.

Interest during the next few weeks will be centered on the efforts of Premier Ramadier to hold together the somewhat discordant elements comprising his government. Upon the success of his efforts depends largely the extent of French recovery in the immediate future.

SCHWELLENBACH PLAYS IT SAFE

Secretary of Labor Lewis B. Schwellessbach isn't going to stick his neck out. No, sir, not him, even if there is a grand chance for a secretary to lead with his chin.

There are now more than 30 labor reform laws before Congress. Any congressman who hasn't dropped into the hopper or co-sponsored at least one bill to regulate labor unions isn't earning his pay and isn't carrying out last November's election mandate.

Reporters had been summoned to the secretary's paneled office to hear an analysis of all these measures. Filled on his desk were four fat notebooks. He said they were filled with copies of some 16 of these labor reform measures now before Congress. With each bill was a brief, drawn up by Department of Labor lawyers, telling what was right and what was wrong with each bill.

Here was the secretary's chance to open up the books. But he wasn't giving any. He wouldn't even tell what he thought about all the ideas to ban the closed shop.

He did inch out towards the end of one limb, cautiously. He said he was again any plan to set up a three-man or a five-man or any size mediation board, inside or outside the Department of Labor. Settling strikes, he says, is not a job for a board; it's a job for an administrator—somebody who can work fast.

Any time a national board is set up, there is a temptation to pile cases in on it. Pretty soon this board gets swamped. Then there is a demand to set up regional boards, and first thing anybody knows there is a docket full of cases waiting to be heard and none of them being settled.

READY IF CALLED

Secretary Schwellessbach says he speaks from experience on this one—experience gained in the year and a half he has been Secretary of Labor, and experience gained before that as a federal judge. Once, he says, he had to try a railroad case that had been filed nine years before.

As Secretary of Labor, he doesn't want to have anything to do with "labor courts," either.

The secretary also admitted that lawyers in the Department were now drawing up three more bills, as if Congress hadn't enough, intended to carry out President Truman's recommendations for banning jurisdictional strikes and secondary boycotts, and arbitrating disputes arising under contracts. The secretary says he will have these bills ready in a week or so, in case anybody asks him for them. To date nobody has asked for them.

One reason for Secretary Schwellessbach's cynicism on these things may be the fact that he was once a congressman—a senator, that is—himself. It was back before he was a Secretary of Labor, and before he was a judge. He knows what it is to have these bureaucrats telling Congress what it ought to do. But if and when they ask him, he has to be ready to tell them.

The secretary says it's too early in the session to tell what the sentiment of this 80th Congress is going to be. From every indication, however, the Republicans are going to pass their labor reform legislation first, then conduct the hearings afterwards. The secretary may never get a chance to tell what he thinks about these bills, if he doesn't do it before they're passed.

A TOUGH JOB

In the year and a half he has been Secretary of Labor, Judge Schwellessbach says he has had lots of chances to speak his mind but hasn't done so. There was a time when a certain labor leader wanted him to blast a certain industrialist who wouldn't come down to Washington and talk about his strike, unless he was invited by the President. Schwellessbach kept his mouth shut in all such cases. If he had let out a blast, he says, it would have ruined the reputation of impartiality and the value of his Conciliation Service.

It has been tough and go with this Conciliation Service ever since the secretary named Edgar L. Warren as director, to succeed John R. Steelman. There's been one strike right after another. Big ones, too. What people overlook, says Schwellessbach, is that 11,000 of the 12,000 cases that came before the Conciliation Service were settled without strikes. Only now is the service beginning to get its peace-time, reconverted strike-settling machinery to work.

But just as things are beginning to look up a little, what should drop on the doorstep of the Conciliation Service but a notice that the steelworkers will call strikes in 1000 steel, aluminum, and related industry plants, if their new, second-round wage increase demands are not settled by February 13.

A Secretary of Labor's life is not a happy one.

DEMAND FOR IMMIGRATION GROWS

CANADA AND THE BIG POWERS

Ottawa Journal

Having received a last-minute invitation from the Big Powers to write them a letter or something suggesting what she thinks should be done about Germany, Canada has wrapped her "middle power" cloak about her and said with offended dignity that she's entitled to something better.

This is understandable; a nation which in two generations has given of blood and treasure to save the world from Germany deserves something better.

At the same time, and before any of us gets too indignant about it, there are some things we should try to remember.

When the war ended, Canada volunteered to participate in the occupation of Germany and share in enforcing peace. Prime Minister King, speaking his determination, said he had undertaken to keep a force in Germany because we had "a direct interest in maintaining and safeguarding the peace of the world."

Canada did not keep a force in Germany. Canada decided (just what our allies thought about it, we do not know) to backtrack on Mr. King's words and bring her army home. The work of occupying Germany, of "maintaining and safeguarding the peace of the world" was left to Russia, Britain, France and the United States.

It may be—we do not know—that Russia, Britain, France and the United States did not want Canadians in Germany. It may be, on the other hand, that Canada's decision to quit Europe, to bring her troops home and disband them, was taken without leave of the Big Powers, in which case we can hardly blame them too much if they decided that we weren't too much interested regarding what happened to Germany.

Sometimes we think—there is much evidence to support it—that the Big Powers, however much they may talk to the contrary, are not overly inclined to give small nations like Canada too much say about the world's future shape, and perhaps even regard them as a nuisance. There are other times, however, when we think Canada too much inclined to talk like a big power and act like a little one—too much inclined to take on commitments which she is in no position to defend, and about which she seems indifferent.

Russia, Britain, the United States, all have vast armies and navies; Russia's 1947 military budget represents 16 billion dollars, and Britain is launching an universal military service. Canada's military budget, on the other hand, is being cut to $250,000,000; she has no universal military conscription; and her air, land and sea forces are relatively negligible.

In such circumstances, have we too strong a case when we say to the Big Powers that we should have a potent voice in determining Germany's future? We think the answer is "no." We think as well that that precisely is what will be said by the Big Powers. They, and not we, will settle the fate of Germany.

"FREAK" HAND TOP SCORE IS THREE CLUBS

Freak hands are always the subject of much discussion at a national tournament, because no two players handle the situation alike. I checked up on today's hand and did not find two pairs who bid it the same way.

North could not be blamed for expecting a game contract, and one North-South pair actually did get to six clubs.

However, Herbert Sherman of New York, who finished second with Miss Charlotte Sidway of Buffalo in the national mixed-pair event, said he was skeptical about the hand from the minute that West opened with one diamond. His one spade bid was quickly doubled by East.

Sherman felt that the hand would not produce a game, and deciding to buy the contract as low as possible, bid three clubs. West thought Sherman was out on a limb, which accounts for his double of three clubs.

Sherman trumped the opening heart lead. He believed that the clubs were bunched in one hand and the spades in the other, so his first play was a small spade toward the ten-spot.

West trumped with the deuce of clubs, and having no good out-

Empire Tilt Termed False By Delegates

Statement of Dr. Butler That Dominions Threatened Withdrawal of Allegiance Called a "Pipe Dream."

By WILLIAM STEWART Canadian Press Staff Writer

Sydney, Australia, Jan. 24.—(P)—William Morris Hughes, 82-year-old former Australia Prime Minister who attended the Empire Conference at London in 1921, today said there is no truth in a statement by Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler that there had been a threat of withdrawal from the Empire by representatives of Canada, Australia, New Zealand and India attending the 1921 meeting.

T. G. McCormack, whose appointment as treasurer of Dominion Stores, Limited, has been announced by President J. W. Horsey.

Purchase of Wartime Plane Plant Announced on Behalf of Reconstruction Minister Howe.

New York, Jan. 24.—(P)—The Canadair Limited plant at Cartierville, near Montreal, and production there of the four-engined transport plane "North Star" has been taken over by the Electric Boat Company of New York.

Financial arrangements were not announced but it is understood that the transaction is on the basis of a lease agreement.

Electric Boat, making its first entry into the aircraft industry, is a major builder of submarines, subchasers and other naval and pleasure craft as well as a variety of electrical and machinery products.

The "North Star" transport has been jointly created over the last two years by the Canadian Government and the Douglas Aircraft Co., Inc. of Santa Monica, Calif.

Eight thousand workers now employed at the Cartierville plant and the present schedule calls for production of three of the transports monthly. Last night's announcement said it is planned to increase this rate sharply.

H. Oliver West, and recently executive vice-president of Boeing Aircraft Co., of Seattle, will be president and general manager of Canadair, Ltd., under its new auspices.

The "North Star", powered by four Rolls-Royce Merlin engines, is a high-speed, long-range transport, supercharged and pressurized for high altitude flying, and was designed for use by Trans-Canada Air Lines in transoceanic and cross-Canada operations. It carries 40 passengers on long-range flights.

L. Y. Spear, president of Electric Boat, stated in last night's announcement that the market for the planes "will be international in scope."

Hopkins, who negotiated the transaction with the Canadian Government, is a former assistant to the secretary of the United States Treasury. He will be the new chairman of the board of directors of Canadair, which will be composed of Canadian and United States businessmen.

Beef Shortage Continues, Note Increase In All Pork Prices

Western steer continued scarce on the Lansdowne Market this morning and the general shortage of first quality beef, now in its third week, showed no signs of slackening with dealers reporting that they had been notified by a number of the larger packing companies that only cow beef was available for the present.

On the other hand, a number of butchers, who upon announcement by the Prices Board of increased retail prices on pork did not immediately boost prices, have done so this week. All pork cuts were up as much as seven cents at all shops and stalls at the market.

Poultry was plentiful, this being the season for killing off, and eggs were likewise in good supply. Egg prices, which dropped two and three cents last week, remained the same, Grade A-large selling for 52 cents, Grade A-medium, 43 and A-pullets, 45 cents per dozen.

All other prices remained steady and the supply of all fruits and vegetables seemed plentiful. Detailed prices follow:

New Violence Held Possible In Palestine

Continued Terrorism May Cause Ruthless Retaliation Measures - Arabs Seen Unwilling to Fight.

Jerusalem, Jan. 24.—(P)—A high Palestine Government spokesman said today that "continuation of Jewish terrorism may bring about ruthless searches and ruthless occupation of parts of Palestine, short of martial law."

The spokesman referred to a press conference to the possibility of new violence as "assured," and added: "If the Jews should get a Jewish state, the terrorists will turn on their Jewish government immediately and cause civil war. Why not have it now and stamp out the terrorists for good?"

The Civil Government, "which now stands between the military and the populace, may have to stand aside unless the deprivations come to an end," he said. "This does not mean martial law. It merely means handing over the country more fully to the troops."

Referring to speculation on the possibility of an Arab uprising if the London conference on Palestine reached a decision unfavorable to the Arabs, the spokesman said: "The Fellahs (Arab Peasants) are not anxious for trouble. They are better off than ever before and I doubt they are willing to go to battle."

Gold Issues Rise Sharply On Exchange

Toronto, Jan. 24.—(P)—Late afternoon sharp rise on heavy trade in senior gold issues on the Toronto Stock Exchange yesterday followed rumors circulating in brokerage offices that the government soon will grant a five percent bonus on gold and increase depreciation allowances for tax purposes from 33 1/3 per cent to 50 per cent.

The more prosperous mines were the first to react to the rumors and boarded the highest gains in today's trading since such an increase in the depreciation allowance will affect them especially.

The present law allows the gold mines to deduct the cost of sinking shafts and other expenditures entailed in developing a mine by amortizing the cost over a period of years. It also allows the usual 15 per cent depreciation allowance. The mining company, in addition, is allowed to deduct one-third of the net profits remaining, paying corporation income taxes on the balance. This one-third deduction is in consideration that the ore body is being used in making the profits.

When the Canadian dollar was brought to a parity with the United States dollar last July, provision was made that the one-third deduction would in no case be less than $2 an ounce of gold. An increase in the depreciation allowance to 50 per cent would help all mines which make a net profit of more than $4 an ounce, mining men here said.

Stockholders are allowed to deduct 20 per cent from the dividends from mining stocks in making income tax returns on the ground that their capital is being diminished by the reduction in the ore body.

A five per cent bonus on the current price of gold at $35 an ounce would cost the government $1.75 an ounce. Mining circles said some of this might be recovered by the government's sale of gold in United States currency, since although the Canadian dollar here is in the official exchange, it is below par in the open market in New York.

Dairy Men Hold Annual Congress

Winnipeg, Jan. 24.—(P)—The annual congress of the National Dairy Council of Canada entered its last day here today with a closed session devoted to discussions on ways and means of increasing milk production and other matters pertinent to the industry.

Yesterday's election of officers saw R. C. Smellie of Russell, Man., returned as president for his second term, with L. A. Marshall of Jarvis, Ont., and G. M. Carlyle of Calgary elected vice-presidents.

J. G. Taggart, chairman of the agricultural prices support board, told the convention that floor prices could logically be expected to aid in dairy production through the stabilizing effect they would have on the industry.

A reduction in the cost of transferring commodities from producer to consumer without the necessity for any government subsidy could also be expected, he said.

Parade Is Staged By Homeless Vets

Montreal, Jan. 24.—(P)—Members of the Homeless Veterans' League, protesting against what they said was the planned eviction of four veterans' families from quarters on St. Helen's Island, demonstrated yesterday at mid-town Phillips Square.

A group of about 100 members of the league, headed by Henri Gagnon, their president, paraded around the square, carrying posters and banners protesting the eviction, scheduled for today. There was no police interference.

A league spokesman said the families, whose names were not available immediately, had been notified by Wartime Housing officials that they must leave their quarters in former army barracks. The spokesman said the heads of the families have been out of work and unable to pay rent.

Love Has Two Faces

By Irene Lonnern Ernhart
Copyright, 1947, NEA SERVICE, INC.

THE STORY: Mike Carrig went off to war without saying anything definite to Cassie Fletcher. On his return, he proposes. But marriage to Mike means living in San Francisco and Cassie hesitates to leave the family of which she is the main support. They quarrel. Mike drives Carrie home, refuses her father's invitation to stay to dinner. He says he'll phone next day for her final answer.

her face red with perspiration and anger. Like a child coming to its mother, Cass thought with a twinge, instead of a mother coming to her child.

"I want you should see the bathing suit Leni went uptown and bought this afternoon. I want that you should see it, Cassie, nothing but a brassiere and a skimpy pair of pants that look like underwear. She might just as well go parading in her pink underwear every day!"

CHAPTER IV.
"I thought maybe you and him would get married, when he came back, Cassie," Papa said, squinting after Mike's car as he got out his pipe and little sack of tobacco and started shaking tobacco into the bowl.

"Bathing suit? Where did she get the money?" Cassie asked wearily.
"She charged it at the Fair on your account."
"Oh Leni!" Cassie said.

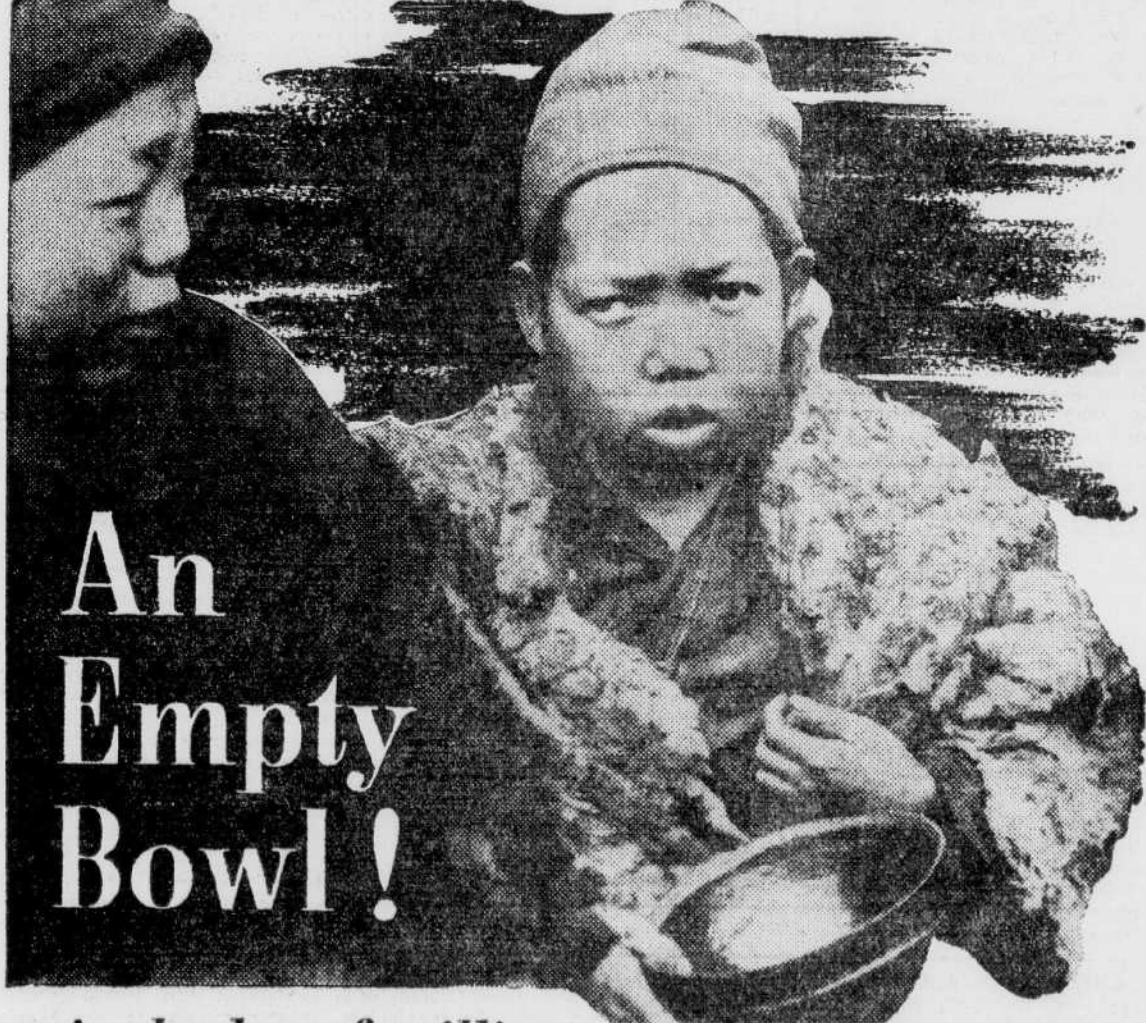

The rose linen dress fit Leni to perfection. Cassie hurried her dinner so that she could hem it up. Leni called for Leni at 8. She leaned and kissed Cassie on the cheek, before she skipped out. "Thanks for everything, Cassie!" she whispered. Her swimming things were in a little black overnight case. Her hair, upswep, had the usual flowers in it, white this time. White daisies. They looked like stars against the bright curls of her hair.

Quickly Relieves Distress of Sneezing, Stuffy Head Colds
A little Va-tro-nol up each nostril promptly relieves sniffling, stuffy distress of head colds—makes breathing easier.

"No, I don't think so, Papa," Cassie said. She tried to keep her voice even and casual, but her mouth started quivering and she turned away from Papa and walked swiftly into the house.

"I am a little old already," she thought. "If I don't marry Mike, maybe I'll never get married. Never." It wasn't very pleasant to think about—taking care of Mama and Papa always, even after Sid and Leni were grown up and gone. But she faced that possibility.

SLED ACCIDENTS OFTEN CAUSE BROKEN BACKS

The 33 spinal bones are linked together on the sides and back in complicated fashion, while the flexibility of the spine is maintained by ligaments and muscles and by a large between the vertebrae.

Dr. O'Brien.

When a sled goes over a bump the rider bends forward to keep from being thrown, and a jacking effect of the spine results. The body of one of the vertebrae in the middle back region may thus be crushed and the front of it compressed.

If the accident is followed by a good deal of pain over the injured area, proper first aid is important.

A patient with a broken back should be carried on a hard surface and on his stomach, to prevent injury to the spinal cord or further bone injury. The injured person should not be lifted until it is ascertained that he can move his legs or fingers, and he should not be allowed to sit up; it is best to remove him, on a litter in an ambulance, to a well-equipped hospital.

Many patients with fractured spines are in shock when first seen, and the shock should be treated before anything else. Abdominal distention, due to irritated tion of the nerves, also may be troublesome, and surgeons wait until this condition subsides before putting on a body cast.

To reduce the usual fractures of the spine, the back is gradually forced forward by placing the patient on a special bed which can be pumped up under the broken part. After a week of gradual pressure the patient is ready for his cast.

LOOK BEFORE YOU COAST
Body casts for broken backs are carried high in the front and lower in the back, with the lower margin over the hips. They are usually worn for three months, but they permit the patient to be up and about doing light work. After the cast is removed three months pass before the victim feels perfectly well.

Tobogganists are urged to use regular slides from which the bumps have been eliminated, and to look every strange hill over before going down. Broken backs often result from sliding accidents.

QUESTION: Our baby is nine months old, and we wish to protect him against scarlet fever. Is there a successful immunization against this disease?

ANSWER: Yes. It will protect your child against the rash, but not the sore throat, of scarlet fever. It requires five injections, and some of them may be followed by a reaction. It is used for nurses and others who are constantly exposed to the disease. Consult your physician about getting it for your baby.

Adolescents' Brainstorms

Supposedly Smart Girl Weds And Brings Lazy Mate Home

Dear Miss Dix: How clever or intelligent is a clever, intelligent girl? How smart is a smart girl? We have a daughter 17 years old who has apparently far more than the average amount of brains. We have given her every educational opportunity and she has had everything that is supposedly dear to the hearts of teen-agers. Her home life could not have been happier.

But what does this allegedly intelligent girl do but elope with a 20-year-old boy who is lazy, good-for-nothing, shiftless and entirely allergic to gainful employment, and whose mother has always worked and supported him. They kept the marriage secret until she found she was going to have a baby. Then she had to come home, bringing her husband, for us to support.

The boy takes it all casually. Apparently makes no effort to get any work and has just shifted his support from his mother to us. Can you tell us what, in your opinion, happens to a girl's mind who does a thing like that?

DEEP MYSTERY
The feminine mind works in a strange way its wonders to perform, even when it is functioning at its best. And this mystery becomes deeper and more unfathomable when teen-agers' brains go into action. Then they do weird things such as, for instance, talking a kind of jargon; wearing sloppy Joe clothes and dirty shoes; being boy crazy; imagining themselves in love with boys they do not even know and considering their parents as senile tyrants who know nothing of the facts of life, but who are trying to crush the joy of youth out of them by endeavoring to make them behave decently.

There is no way to explain the vagaries of the bobby-soxers except just to say it is their age. It has nothing to do with their intelligence, because apparently at that age their brains are scrambled; they have no reasoning power, and they literally know not what they do. But the tragedy of the thing is that so often, while they are in this state of mental eclipse, they do the things that break their parents' hearts and that wreck their own lives.

And this is what your daughter has done, and what thousands upon thousands of other 17-year-old girls are doing. They are simply sloshing over with romance and sentiment. They are in love with love. They imagine themselves experiencing the grand passion, and they marry any lad as silly as they are, without counting the cost, or asking how a boy, who has never even made his own pocket money, can support a family. And so we have over and over again the pitiful story of the adolescent girl coming home to Mother and Father, with her husband and baby, to be supported.

Dear Dorothy Dix: Why is it that when a girl gets married she wants to spend all of her time away from home visiting her people, instead of surprising her in-laws by coming to see them a little? Why is it that before she is married a girl will accept whatever amusement her boy friends offers her and go wherever he wants to go, but as soon as they are married she makes all the plans and they go where she wants to go? Why doesn't she give her husband a little leeway?

BEWILDERED BOY
ANSWER: The reason girls want to go to visit their own people more than they do their in-laws is because they are naturally fonder of their families than they are of their husbands' families, and more interested in what they do. They have more to talk about. I think that wives are often very unjust in this because they always want to drag their husbands along with them, on Sundays and holidays, and they forget that their husbands have the same reaction towards their own families that they have for theirs.

The reason girls yes-yes the boy friends before marriage and then boss him when he gets to be friend husband is because they are trying to catch him by being and doing just what he wants. After marriage they don't have to do it. Or so they think.

The Record will be pleased to receive any letters to this Dorothy Dix column. These will be forwarded to Miss Dix who will answer them as quickly as possible.

On Fashion's Spring Team Fullback Coat Is the Star

Far left, boxy cutaway with circular hemline in beige woolen suede. Center, fullback with hood in brilliant orange light-weight fleece. Above, parachute folds and bat-wing sleeves dramatize this fullback. To the flock of woollens boasting more scenic interest this spring, add crepes with new surface appeal, worsteds and novelty tweeds. In tweeds there are stripes as wide as floor boards and checks as big as tiles. Opposed to these extremes of design are narrow, muted stripes and shepherd, hounds' tooth and tattersall checks. Tattersall checks in navy and white are dramatized by Philip Mangone, who uses yards and yards of this novelty tweed to make a long fullback coat with bat-wing sleeves. On this coat, with folds as full as a parachute's, fullness takes the route most favored this spring—the path that leads straight from the shoulders.

lines the whole works with royal blue crepe. Speech-stopping colors like these brighten the outlook of many more casual coats. For the town coat, however, subtle pastel shades are about evenly matched with the ubiquitous beige which announces that its growing family takes in everything this spring from off-white to sunburn brown. These adaptable shades are designers' choices for the short boxy coat with circular hemline that helps create the new silhouette of fuller clothes. High-fashion choice of fabric for this coat with cutaway dip and yards of sweep is woolen suede, which has the feel of fine gloves, the eye-appeal of delustered velvet.

ST. PAT'S OUTFITS CAPTURE HOCKEY DOUBLEHEADER AT ARENA

Neither St. Pat's Team Has Lost Single League Game This Season

St. Pat's teams won both parts of a hockey double-header at the arena last night. The juvenile green and white outfit defeated Larocque Aces 4-1 in the opening match, and St. Pat's vanquished Sherbrooke Juniors 10-4 in the second tilt.

St. Pat's swamped Sherbrooke Juniors 10-4 at the arena last night in a scheduled Eastern Townships Junior Hockey League game. The fixture was the last part of a juvenile-junior double-header.

The win gave Pat Murphy's men a stronger hold on second place in the league standing. St. Pat's now has thirteen points, seven less than St. Charles Borromeo Seminary. Although it is in second place, St. Pat's is the only undefeated team in the league. The green and white crew has played one draw.

It was the second meeting of the current Junior League schedule between the squads. The first time they clashed, which was only a few days ago, they drew 4-4. The teams play each other again twice during the campaign.

After the first period, in which Parr of St. Pat's tallied the only goal, last night's game opened up. Theriault, Davies, and Mercier, raised the score to 4-0 for St. Pat's before Sherbrooke beat Jamieson, their netminder. More than half the game had been played when L'Heureux of Sherbrooke scored on a double relay from Pariseau and Faucher. Plamondon added another for Sherbrooke a few minutes later, but Cote countered for St. Pat's to make the score 5-2. Faucher scored again with the assistance of Pariseau and L'Heureux before the period ended. In the third stanza, the green and white scored five times before Sherbrooke got the puck past Jamieson. Gingues, Mercier, Cunningham with two markers, and Morneau all beat Bouduc, the Sherbrooke goaltender, in this frame. Plamondon scored Sherbrooke's goal with the help of Proteau.

At least four of the St. Pat's goals in the last period were scored when Sherbrooke was a man short owing to one of its players being in the penalty box. The line-ups of the teams, and the summary follows:

Sherbrooke—Goal, Bouduc; defence, Bourassa, Larkin; centre, Proteau; wings, Plamondon, Ellyson; subs, Faucher, L'Heureux, Pariseau, Laurendeau.

St. Pat's—Goal, Jamieson; defence, Parr, Bernier; centre, Davies; wings, Morneau, Cote, Gingues, Mercier, Theriault, Gingues, Cunningham, Lussier, Cote, Kenalty, McKinstry. Referees: O'Donnell and Dugre.

East Angus Girls Issue Challenge

To the Sports Editor,

Dear Sir—The girls of East Angus High School have a hockey team which was undefeated in six games last season. But this year they have not played any hockey games due to the fact that the teams we have played in the past do not seem to be interested in forming hockey teams this season.

Through the medium of your newspaper, we challenge any girls' hockey team in this district to a game and a series. Naturally we would prefer to play against high school girls, but if they are not interested, we shall play other teams.

Interested parties may contact either of the undersigned persons.

Thanking you for this valuable space in your newspaper.

Yours very truly,
JOAN ROWLAND,
SHEILA BELL,
(Co-Captains).

U.B.C. TEAMS WIN AND LOSE AT BASKETBALL

Two of the fastest and most exciting basketball games seen at Bishop's for quite a while took place last night at the university gym, when the girls eked out a 14-12 overtime victory over Sherbrooke High, while the boys were beaten 43-40 by the Kosy Sweets Seruff cagers.

Jim Blevins, high-scoring forward of the college quintet, proved to be the hero of the occasion. Arriving when only four odd minutes of play remained Blevins sank three baskets and two free shots to bring the collegians within a hair's breadth of victory. However, it was Squirt Johnston whose solid playing throughout the game marked him as the collegians' star. Johnston picked up 8 points in the first half and only one less than that in the second for a total of 15 points, making him the game's high scorer. Gordie McFarlane, Harry Andrews and playing coach Doug McVie also played well for the home team.

Rees Hunting made 6 baskets and 2 free shots for an aggregate mark of 14 to lead the Sherbrooke team's scorers. He was, however, closely followed by Harold Pye with 12 and Bill Fuller with 11 points. Bud Jackson, who made 6 points, was the other Kosy Sweet's scorer.

The collegians started the game at a fast pace and soon went into the lead. Play then slowed down somewhat and Kosy's managed to pull up and then pass the Purple and White just before the half-time whistle sounded. At this time they were at the long end of a 21-18 count. The Sherbrooke lads continued to press and slowly added to their lead. They were leading 40-30 when Blevins managed to tie the game.

The Purple and White started to climb but baskets by Pye and Hunting put victory out of their reach and they fell 3 points short of the Sherbrooke mark of 43.

The girls' game also proved to be a thrilling one for both players and spectators as the college girls came from behind three times before finally winning the game in the overtime period. Betty MacKenzie was greatly instrumental in this victory, as besides playing an outstanding defensive game she sank the pay-off basket. Besides this she picked up two more points during the regulation time to be second high scorer for her team. That honor belonged to Barbara Stevenson, who got 2 points on field goals and one on a penalty shot. Lila Pharo with 3 and Margot Mitchell with 2 points were the other scorers, and while both scored throughout the game Louise MacDonald turned in her usual dependable performance on the defence.

Sherbrooke went into an early lead and were 4-0 ahead at the end of the first quarter. Bishop's managed to cut this lead down to 2 points by halftime as they scored points in the second quarter. By the three-quarter mark things were even-Stephen with each squad having 8. Then the High School girls moved ahead and it was only in the dying minutes of the contest that Bishop's managed to tie the things up once more. Five minutes of overtime was called for and it was here that Betty MacKenzie's long shot paid off, when only about half a minute of playing time remained.

Lussier, Cote, Davies, Ellyson.
Third Period
9—St. Pat's, Gingues, (Theriault) 4:44
10—St. Pat's, Mercier, (Theriault) 5:09
11—St. Pat's, Cunningham, (Parr) 6:18
12—St. Pat's, Morneau, (Parr) 9:38
13—St. Pat's, Cunningham 10:49
14—Sherbrooke, Plamondon, (Proteau) 11:20
Penalties: Bourassa, Larkin 2, Parr.

Forbes Field Made To Order For Hank Greenberg's Long Hitting

New York, Jan. 24. — Henry Greenberg should be highly pleased to move to Pittsburgh.

Forbes Field has long been a happy hitting grounds.

One of Babe Ruth's last acts as an active combatant with the Braves was the blasting of three home runs in a game in Pittsburgh.

Before the World Series of 1927, the little Warner brothers stood awe-stricken as Ruth and Lou Gehrig, in batting practice, pumped ball after ball high into the Forbes Field right-field stands or over the wall and into the gulch beyond.

"Forbes Field is where I do my best hitting," Dixie Walker of the Dodgers frequently has said. "I have played in both major leagues and can tell you it is the best hitting park of the bunch."

"Pittsburgh beats them all," Augie Gaan, recently swapped by the Brooklyns, long has contended. "Cincinnati is second, St. Louis third."

"Pittsburgh offers three distinct joys to the batter," explains Walker. "A background of dark green trees behind the centre field wall. The batter's box is comfortable to the feet. A fast infield doesn't take the zip out of a sharply-hit grounder."

A batter gets a home run on the Harlem simply by poking the ball 25 feet down the right field line. Home runs at the Polo Grounds long since came to be known as being of the Chinese variety, meaning cheaply manufactured. In Pittsburgh the foul lines scale from 300 to 365 feet.

"I am not a home run man," asserted Walker. "Most of my hits are over second or shortstop. I hit straight away, let the hits fall where they may, dependent on the pitch."

"Whatever advantage the Polo Grounds offers with its close fences is lost by the bad background. The bleachers there are frequently a maze of white shirts, as in the case of Chicago's Wrigley Field."

"A good side-armed pitcher uses that in his favor, pitches out of the shirts, making it exceedingly difficult for the batter to follow the ball."

"They pitch to you differently at the Polo Grounds," Mickey Owen once said, "and those balking stands are not so easily reached as you might suspect. Every pitch is on the outside, away from the hitter. They will not give the batter an opportunity to pull the ball. When he gets an inside pitch, he had better smack at it, for he's gotten it by accident."

"Those Polo Grounds stands might as well have been a mile away when Carl Hubbell was pitching," recalled Walker. "Hubbell dangled the ball in front of your face, dared you to pull it down the line. I saw him only in declining years, but I saw enough to realize that a good pitcher is the batter's worst enemy—big park or small."

Hank Greenberg doesn't have to ask for any favors at the plate, but the old Tiger's aching dogs won't object to the Forbes Field batter's box being comfortable to the feet.

BEEBE DEFEATS S.W.C. 3-1 IN HOCKEY CLASH

(Special to Record)
Stanstead, Que., Jan. 24. — Beebe trimmed Stanstead Wesleyan College 3-1, in a hockey game at the College rink. It was Stanstead's first test of the season.

Although the weather was damp and the ice slow, a fairly large crowd saw the tilt. The lights of the rink flicked three times in the second period. Both teams were feeling themselves out and after this game more definite squads will represent Beebe and Stanstead College.

Hodge led off in the scoring for Stanstead with a goal in the first period. He was unassisted.

The second frame was by far the best and liveliest. J. Gaudreau tied the score for Beebe with the help of G. Gaudreau, shortly afterwards Dubois made it 2-1 for the visitors. The duel got rougher as time went on, three players going to the penalty box for sentences ranging from two to five minutes. Hamilton of Stanstead received a first two minor penalties and later, like Laro of Beebe, a major as a result of a fight which almost turned into a free-for-all. It was in this period that the lights of the College rink kept going out and spoiling the game.

By the third chapter the ice was so badly cut up that the pace of the tilt was quite slow. Laro tallied the third and last Beebe goal. The final count was Beebe 3, Stanstead Wesleyan College 1.

The line-ups of the teams are as follows:
Beebe—Goal, Sheldon; defence, Sheldon and Gaudreau; centre, Gaudreau; wings, Gaudreau and Gaudreau; subs, Couture, Dubois, Gaudreau, Laro, Seguin, Stewart and Morin.
S.W.C.—Goal, Walker; defence, Barter and Hamilton; centre, Moore; wings, Hodge and Chadcock; subs, Jenkins, Dean, Reed, Abbott.

First Period
1—S.W.C., Hodge
Penalties: Hamilton, Moore.
Second Period
2—Beebe, J. Gaudreau (G. Gaudreau)
3—Beebe, Dubois
Penalties: Reed, Hamilton (2 minors and a major), Laro (major).
Third Period
4—Beebe, Laro
Penalty: Abbott.

LOCAL CURLING RINK DEFEATED IN THIRD ROUND

Quebec, Jan. 24.—(P)—H. A. Peabody's rink of Sherbrooke won their match in the second round for the Laurentide Trophy when they defeated D. E. Kennedy's foursome, Guelph, Ont., 8-4.

In the third round Peabody's rink dropped a close match to J. Hackett's rink of Quebec City 8-6.

A Bathurst, N.E., rink skipped by D. P. Connolly and E. H. Pooler's Toronto Granite No. 1 foursome qualified for the finals of the International Goodwill Trophy early today, both winning their semi-final matches in impressive fashion at the annual Provincial of Quebec International Curling Club foursome.

Connolly's quartet defeated a Toronto High Park rink skipped by K. McKellar 9-6, while Pooler's crew had an easier time in disposing of J. Forgie's All-Military from Petawawa, Ont., 13-8 in the Goodwill, one of the main events on the Bouspiel program.

The Finals were also reached in the British Consols Trophy play, semi-finals of the Quebec curling championship, with one Quebec City rink and a Montreal aggregation qualifying for the match that will decide the Province's representative in the Macdonald's Brier Dominion title play.

They were R. C. Cream's Victoria No. 2 quartet and a Montreal Heat rink foursome piloted by W. E. Clarke.

Clarke's strong rink, who eliminated W. E. (Ted) Thompson's defending champion squad in a quarter-final match yesterday, were still hot as they downed a Quebec Curling Club quartet skipped by C. J. Whyte 10-8 in a closely-contested game.

Cream's crew gained the final bracket at the expense of a fellow townsman, winning 12-7 over a Quebec Curling Club rink skipped by J. K. McConomy.

In the Chateau Frontenac Trophy competition, a consolation event for rinks eliminated in the first round of either the Consols Trophy or Goodwill Trophy, the final stage was also reached in the early hours this morning.

The victorious rinks were H. A. Webster's Amherst, N.S., quartet and Judge W. Limerick's Fredericton Curling Club foursome. Webster defeated E. St. Amand's Quebec Curling Club rink 10-8, while Judge Limerick triumphed 12-5 over R. B. Nees of the Hawick, Que., Curling Club.

Play also continued yesterday for the Lieutenant-Governor's trophy, for rinks who reached the quarter-final in the Consols, Goodwill or Chateau Frontenac competitions, and in the Holt Renfrew, Price Brothers, Val d'Or and Laurentide Trophies, all consolation events.

Wings Stamp On Hapless Hawks In Prelude To N.H.L. Week-End Tilts

The die-hard hockey fans at Detroit's Olympia had an uproarious time last night—11,705 of them.

As their favorite Red Wings plastered an 8-2 defeat on the tall-end Chicago Black Hawks in the night's only National Hockey League encounter.

Pete Horeck rang up four goals against his former Chicago teammates, highest individual Detroit score since Adam Brown got three against Boston in the opening game on the 1945-46 campaign. Detroit had a 2-0 edge when the second frame started and Horeck's first goal came at the two-minute mark of that period, but a whistle was blown just before Horeck scored, and Red Hamill of Hawks protested so vigorously that he got a 10-minute misconduct penalty.

Linesman Ed Mephum won the ensuing debate by convincing referee Stan Pratt that the whistle was blown by one of the enthusiastic fans.

So Horeck's goal was allowed, on top of the first period scores by Jimmy and Roy Conacher. Moskowitz made it 3-1 and Horeck came right back with another.

Then Hamill scored, and Howe, leaving Detroit ahead 5-2 as the second period ended.

The third period was all Detroit, Reise scoring at 1:14 and Horeck at 12:32 and 13:04.

It simply left Chicago deeper in the cellar, now seven points behind Detroit.

The league-leading Toronto Maple Leafs meanwhile got right down to business in practice at Toronto for Saturday's home game against New York Rangers. Montreal Canadiens, six points behind the pace-setters, likewise concentrated on preparations to entertain the third-place Boston Bruins. There are two games each on Saturday and Sunday, the latter fixtures having Toronto at Chicago and Detroit at Boston.

That six-point margin Leafs enjoy over Canadiens, and their full five-day break between games this week, didn't mean Leafs were idle. Apart from strenuous practice various Blue Shift stalwarts have been hopping everywhere on banquet and talk assignments and visits to hospitals. Just the same, they're ready for Rangers Saturday.

How to Ski

Herringbone Method Is Similar To Climbing Stairs With Knees Bent

While the body is in an extremely awkward position, the herringbone is the quickest means of ascent.

It's like climbing stairs with knees bent and toes turned out. Lift the skis and bring the tails over each other in short steps.

At the same time turn the skis on their sides, that is, edge them, and push hard with the poles.

It is exceptionally tiring, but you cover distance rapidly. It will be phenomenal if you do not fall. In the event of a spill, in either the ascent or descent, first get the skis free, parallel and together. Put them below you on the hill, even if you have to turn a side somersault. Have the skis square across the slope or you will slide downward all the time you are attempting to stand up.

Fixing the poles firmly in the Herringbone. You can easily arise with the help of a strong push on them.

NEXT: Snowplough.

U.B.C. HOCKEY TEAM TO PLAY IN MONTREAL

Bishop's College hockeyists journey to Montreal this week-end where they meet Sir George Williams College in a regular Intermediate Inter-Collegiate game.

As the game between the two teams scheduled for last Saturday at Bishop's was cancelled due to transportation difficulties this will be the first meeting of the squads.

Bad weather conditions have proved a handicap to all teams in the loop and according to all reports most of the squads are short on practice. Bishop's will, however, have the experience of one league game behind them. And though this was a losing start it should still prove an advantage in meeting the, as yet, untried Sir George squad.
