Next week's weather

By ERIC NEAL

August 21 to 27

Heavy dews or morning heat fog. Windy then mainly clear, cool bracing. Clouding for local thunder activity. Stormy along the seaboard, and tornado conditions in Ontario, then the Ottawa Valley. Clearing rapidly and warming again everywhere.

Generally pleasant, sunny and quite warm into the middle of the week. A wide temperature range with nights down to 45° and days 85°F with 55 sunny hours this week. Steady heat with high humidity and night storms would be normal for the south, and frosts in the north. Heavy storms for the Maritimes and gales inland to follow.

Pleasant although cooling for the end of the week with light evening thunder showers and warm sunny intervals. Morning fishing best.

Air Ways

The F-101 or F-104 — how about F-105?

By LARRY McINNIS

LET'S GET THE PICTURE: An announcement made this week concerning the possibility of the Department of National Defence selling, in connection with Canadair, CL-44's to the Military Air Transport Service of the U. S. Air Force, and the purchasing of F-101's (Voodoos) from the U. S. may leave a lot to be desired. The F-101's will, presumably, be used to re-equip some of Canada's home defence squadrons, now spread around various Air Defence Command stations. MATS, we are sure, are definitely interested in the CL-44, and with good reason. It is one of the best cargo planes to appear on the scene for some time.

THE PRICE: Apparently, the figures involved in the trade will leave a $50 million difference in favor of Canada. This is in addition to the favorable arrangement Canadair now has with Lockheed for the manufacture of some parts of the F-104, with which some of the overseas squadrons will be equipped. The general opinion seems to be that Canadair, a sub-division of General Dynamics in the U. S., is the last Canadian aircraft manufacturer. This, fortunately is not quite true.

THE CARIBOU: The U. S. Army has already bought some of DeHavilland's Caribou aircraft — a twin-engine short-field performance transport. The short-field characteristics will be improved even more, to make it a fantastic aircraft. Reversible props will be installed to cut down the landing roll, already fantastically short. Those "in the know" say the eventual purchase of this plane by the U.S. Army will run to about 300 aircraft — no small order!

MEANWHILE: But the question: is the F-101 the aircraft to buy, and if it is, then why buy the F-104? It will be remembered that the RCAF favored the F-101 in the first place, and were caught completely unawares by the announcement that the F-104 would be bought. Let's make up our minds, and let's have some form of standardization. Canada's part in North American defence, especially in the field of air fighter defence, will be necessarily small, so it should be considered what part the F-101 can play. Or, for that matter, the F-104. In any case, the old, tired CF-100's, never so hot in the first place, couldn't catch even a DC-8 or 707 if the latter didn't want to get caught.

ANOTHER POSSIBILITY: The Americans themselves seem to be completely bound up with another new aircraft, just appearing on the scene. The Republic F-105, which is in the Mach 2 (1500 mph plus) class, and can, in addition to being a top-notch fighter, carry more bombs than the World War II B-17, that 'famous' American bomber. The range is about 1,500 miles, but with mid-air refuelling the range is indefinite. The aircraft is also equipped to carry nuclear weapons, and just about anything else you can name. It is about the only plane in its class with an automatic pilot incorporated into its system, thereby allowing the pilot to get some rest on long flights. Well, it's a thought to ponder, and add to the already-growing controversy.

THIS, THAT AND JETS: While we're adding to other controversies, let's get another plug in for the jet noises. St. Laurent's Mayor Laurin is not happy with the new patterns established by DOT because they now come in over St. Laurent. As the Chinese say, "That's the way the egg rolls." Dulles Airport, under construction near Washington, D.C., will plant 80,000 trees around the field perimeter to deaden jet noises... the FAA, near San Francisco, is building a $5,000,000 radar-air traffic-control centre...

Westmount land sales hit third

Real estate sales in Westmount for the month of May showed a figure of $2,716,853 involving 35 transactions and placing Westmount sales third in the suburbs for the month and fourth on the island of Montreal, according to the latest report of the Montreal Real Estate Board.

The aggregate figure of real estate sales in Westmount from January to May of this year reached a total of $5,718,954 and involved 115 transactions.

In the suburban area, Hampstead showed a total of $4,213,763, topping all other municipalities, with the sale of the Hampstead Golf Club reported responsible for the high total. The City of Saint Laurent followed with 80 transactions amounting to $2,918,269.

A leveling-off tendency of real estate sales on the Island was noticeable, showing a sharp drop to the extent of some $34,000 in the first four months of 1960 as compared with the same period in 1959.

In the city wards, Ahuntsic showed a figure of $3,814,998 for 176 transactions, with the highest aggregate figures for the year so far amounting to $13,840,878 for 649 transactions from January to May. Notre Dame de Grace followed with 95 transactions totalling $2,463,991; Mercier, 109 transactions amounting to $1,797,730; and Mount Royal with sales of $1,646,935 for 47 transactions.

The overall figure for May real estate sales in the suburbs was $29,716,629 as compared with last year's $30,573,268, and in the city wards for the same month the total was $24,699,261 as compared with last year's $24,926,763.

Between 1941 and 1951, accompanying Canada's great industrialization, the urban population increased from 56.5 per cent to 66.6 per cent of the total population.

Fall inspection

Now is the time

"We are quite pleased with our In Service Inspections," Westmount Fire Chief E. C. Harper said this week, referring to the work his department has been doing all summer in acquainting residents with potential fire hazards in the home.

The inspections have been in process since May, and the plan is to visit every home and establishment in the City before the Fall season.

England this Summer?

You can be sure of your booking before leaving by calling HU. 1-2771.

"We should be finished by Fire Prevention Week," the Chief said. Fire Prevention Week traditionally falls during the week of October containing the 9th day of the month. This time was chosen to commemorate the famous Chicago fire, allegedly started by Mrs. McLeary's cow.

Discussing other safety arrangements in the City, the Chief also urged home owners to set aside a definite date before winter to check and clean all drains on roofs and eaves.

"We had a lot of trouble a few weeks ago," the Chief recalled, with dead leaves, and in one case with an old baseball.

He said dead leaves accumulate in drains and pipes, and when snow and ice forms around them, make a complete blockage of the drainage system.

"A January thaw with the drains blocked like this will cause a lot of damage," he said.

The Chief warned that a flooded roof, such as happened frequently during the July flash storm, could endanger the whole structure, making it dangerous for tenants and equally dangerous for firemen attempting to locate and clean the drain.

"If residents don't want to do it themselves," he suggested, "there are lots of genuine, and certified, firms who will be glad to do it — if the work is contracted now."

Still a further point brought up: inspection of furnaces, pipes and chimneys.

The In Service Inspections pointed out many defects in furnaces and related heating equipment, and the Chief recommends that these be attended to without delay.

In other cases, where defects do not actually exist to the point where they have become fire hazards, it is recommended that all equipment be cleaned and serviced.

"Now is the time to do, or have done, all this work," the Chief concluded.

Pedestrian hit by car

A 74-year-old pedestrian suffered two broken legs when he was hit by an automobile last Monday at the corner of Selby and Greene avenue.

Gunterberg Sven, 324 Selby, was taken to the Montreal General Hospital by Westmount Police where he was detained. He had two broken legs, unknown multiple head injuries, and a broken right cervical vertebrae.

The driver of the car which struck Sven, Martin Mayer, 21, 3434 McTavish, told Police he was driving south on Greene toward Selby behind another car, which started to turn right on Selby. Mayer pulled out to pass the other car, which did not seem to intend to complete the turn.

He said he had enough room to pass the auto, but Sven seemed to come out from in front of the stopped car. Mayer could not stop and struck the old man down on the opposite corner of Greene and Selby.

Police measured the tire skid marks of Mayer's car, starting about the corner of Selby and Greene, and found they stretched 78 feet to where Sven was lying. Hospital officials describe Sven's condition as satisfactory.

A smooth talker —

Fraud with a twist! Police give warning

A fraud is operating in Westmount, and this fraud has given a completely new meaning to the word.

Chief Edmonstone has issued a warning to all Westmount residents to be on the lookout for anyone calling in the middle of the night with a "sob story" about sick children out of town, and the lack of money for the caller to get home.

The usual 'modus operandi' is to call in the wee hours of the morning and claim some distant friendship to the person called, saying the caller is stuck in Montreal without money, and has just heard that his family is sick in some distant city. The caller then offers to exchange a cheque for cash to get home quick.

And the strange thing is, the ruse has worked at least twice within the past two weeks.

The Chief said the man first called a doctor in Westmount, explaining the doctor "had brought his son into the world about 20 years ago," and now the son lies sick in Gannanoque. Would the doctor give him some ready cash in exchange for his cheque?

The doctor said to come up and see him, which the man promptly did — in a taxi which he kept waiting.

Yes, the doctor gave him the cash!

"We believe he's a smooth talker," the Chief said, simply.

The cheques, always drawn on a fictitious current account, have been bouncing back like an India rubber ball.

The second incident, involving the same suspect, was when he posed as a stranded member of the Masonic Lodge. As in the first incident, his second victim was also a doctor, called at 2 a.m.

"But he always asks for small amounts," the Chief said. His general method of operation has been the same in both instances — he calls, explains his case, then arrives in a taxi, which he keeps waiting.

Following is a description of the man: The last name he used was Ian Stuart. He's about 40, 5 feet 10 inches, about 190 pounds. He has dark hair, is usually clean-shaven (although he has been seen with a length of beard), is

WE SAY YOU SAY

Why not a gallery for Westmount art?

LOAN by Westmounters to the Montreal Museum of Fine Arts of a number of privately owned early Canadian paintings has greatly enriched the museum's good work.

One can't help wonder what a treasure trove lies hidden from public view in both the mansions and the more modest by numerous affluent homes gracing Westmount mountain's slopes.

True, these are private possessions and their exclusive enjoyment is their owners' right and privilege. Also, sooner or later such treasures are likely to change hands and appear in places where they eventually may be enjoyed by many.

Meanwhile, in the here and now, Westmount's reputation as Canada's biggest single concentration of resident wealth might easily be immensely enhanced as a centre of art and culture by some form of communal sharing of the pleasures of privately held paintings, sculptures, tapestries, and other works of art.

A civic gallery, to which items might be loaned for temporary or permanent display, even eventual outright giving to the community, might be the vehicle.

Far fetched? Not at all.

Look at the municipal and privately-donated galleries of the U.S. and Europe. Closer to home, look what Lord Beaverbrook has done for Fredericton and New Brunswick, single handed!

Could not Westmount, which provides parks, builds rinks, contemplates swimming pools, has one of Canada's best local libraries, also provide an art gallery?

Remarkable summer but rain is needed

HAVE you stopped to realize what a remarkable summer we are having in these parts?

Sunny days have ruled nearly supreme since spring — wonderful for us city folk with little else to think about but long weekends in the country or up-coming vacations.

Not so wonderful for our

Enjoyable reading found in Examiner

Sir: — In my relatively long life as an average citizen, it has been my inestimable joy to have done lots of reading — good stuff, that is. It is therefore with much satisfaction that I here record the fact of some additional excellent reading in The WESTMOUNT EXAMINER (August 12, 1960).

I salute the delightful and learned literary contribution from The Venerable R. Kenneth Naylor, DD. (page 6); and from Judge Bernard Rose, QC. (pages 4 and 7). I assuredly did delight in repeatedly reading Dorothy Sproule's heart-warming poem entitled "Summer" (page 9). How much akin, I surmise, she is to her late colleague poetess, Martha Martin, of Montreal and New York, in her famous poem, "Here in the Woods"! Both seem to be of one soul! Both loved Nature loyally and lovingly! By the way, I would interject here, and would like to suggest that Miss Martin's grand poem ought to be cast in bronze, and as a metallic plaque be suitably landscaped and placed in a prominent position in Westmount's magnificently located "Summit Park." It would definitely be at "home" there!

To continue, and to conclude, I would add: In a sublime way, all the above citations are true tributes to the divine spirituality of our way of life. I do think that Judge Rose's ideas and observations on citizenship in general and government in particular (e.g., the Borough system, Westmount's form of governance, and Canada's eminence), are noteworthy, meritorious, and highly laudable.

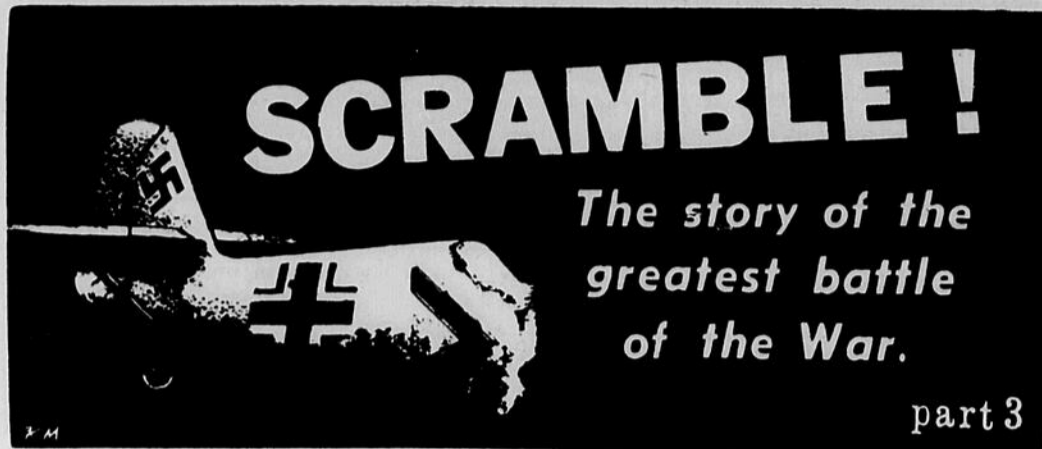

Abraham Jacob Livinson

country cousins. In many sections the fields are parched and milk production is being upset. Risk of brush and grass fires grows daily. Wells are getting dangerously low.

It is well for us to think about these things, occasionally, because for all our big-city sophistication and imagined self-reliance, we are ultimately just as dependent upon Nature as the countryman. The milk trucks, shipments of fruits and vegetables, the livestock headed for the abattoirs — all these originate in the rural areas which surround and feed us.

It's a beautiful, sunny

The playboy airmen

WE wore big brass A's on the lapels of our tunics, and no amount of official pressure would persuade us to remove them.

The Regulars insisted that the A's stood for "Amateur Airmen," or even for "Argue and Answer back." In fact they stood for Auxiliary Air Force.

Without the squadrons of the Auxiliary Air Force, the Battle of Britain could probably not have been won. For out of the 42 operational squadrons available on Dowding early in July 1940, 12 were Auxiliary units.

DOMINATING

We were lawyers and farmers, stockbrokers and journalists; we were landowners and artisans, serious-minded accountants and, unrepentant playboys.

We had one thing in common: we all had a passion for flying and we were all utterly determined that anything the Regulars could do we could do better.

The Auxiliary spirit had been born in White's Club in the 'twenties. It was fathered by a large and florid aristocrat — Lord Edward Grosvenor, seventh son of the first Duke of Westminster.

At the time when Trenchard conceived the idea of an Auxiliary Air Force, Lord Edward was in the habit of presiding, when in London, over the big table in the back dining room at White's.

The big table dominated the room, Lord Edward dominated the table. And his conversation, more often than not, was on flying. That was his passion; that had been his joy in life.

He had been one of the first Englishmen to own an airplane — a Bleriot, with which he had offered himself to the Royal Naval Air Service in 1914.

He had flown throughout the war, and in time of peace his voice had been raised loudly and persistently in demand of a Territorial air force.

And so it was that when the first Auxiliary squadrons were formed in October 1925, Lord Edward raised and commanded the celebrated 601 County of London Squadron. He recruited wartime comrades, in part from his friends at White's.

Simultaneously No. 600 City of London Squadron was formed.

These two London squadrons shared the flying field at Hendon, a few miles north of Marble Arch.

LIGHT-HEARTED

Inevitably, as new auxiliary squadrons were raised in various parts of the country during the 'thirties they looked to Hendon for their tradition.

And they saw at Hendon a group of enthusiasts, well laced with young men of great wealth, giving every moment of their spare time to the squadrons, many of them affecting an approach to their training which was so light-hearted as to appear almost frivolous, yet achieving a standard of efficiency in the air which surpassed many regular squadrons.

They saw the sacred cows of the RAF being laughed at and ridiculed. They saw conventions of dress and discipline being casually flouted. They learned, to their awed amazement, that regular officers at Hendon were openly referred to by the Auxiliaries as "colored troops."

Thus, in an atmosphere combining outrageous light-heartedness with an underlying deter-surreptitiously awarded his wings and allowed to stay.

On August 15, "Mouse" Cleaver, a young man of great wealth and one of the best skiers ever produced by Britain, was hit by a cannon shell which exploded against the bullet-proof windscreen of his Hurricane.

The inside of the windscreen shattered into thousands of tiny fragments of glass and Cleaver was instantly and totally blinded.

Groping his way out of the cockpit of his falling airplane, he baled out at 15,000 feet, waiting in his private darkness for the unseen ground to come up and hit him. He recovered from this shattering ordeal and now lives in Paris, his sight partially restored.

DISTINGUISHED

On August 16 Tangmere airfield was fiercely attacked. Billy Fiske, a well-loved American who had joined the squadron in peace time and had greatly distinguished himself in battle, was caught by the German bombers as he was landing. His Hurricane crashed and Fiske was terribly injured.

Next day he died — one of the first Americans to give his life in action in Hitler's war.

On August 31, the battered 601 Squadron shot down six Germans and damaged many more. But five of their own airplanes were shot down, with one pilot killed.

On September 6 the balance at last went against the squadron. Three Messerschmitts were destroyed. And 601 lost four planes.

Two pilots baled out. Two were killed. One of the dead was Willie Rhodes-Moorhouse, gay and mercurial son of the first airman who had ever won a VC.

Rhodes-Moorhouse had been, perhaps, the most delightful and popular of all the gay spirits in 601. He was almost the last of the old White's gang. His loss was a terrible blow.

The next day, at last, the exhausted remnants of the squadron were taken out of the line.

SAD DAY

In other squadrons of Fighter Command the Auxiliary spirit was manifesting itself in battle to no less an extent. But it was not only in the air that the Auxiliaries distinguished themselves in the Battle of Britain. It is a remarkable fact that at every sector operations room that time the senior controller in 11 Group bar one was an Auxiliary officer.

"Amateur Airmen" we may have been — but the gay, almost arrogant but intensely enthusiastic spirit planted and nurtured in the force by Lord Edward Grosvenor in the 'twenties paid off in 1940.

In all the history of Britain there never was a finer company than the Auxiliary Air Force. It was a sad, bad day for the country when the force was disbanded in 1956.

By Hugh Dundas DSO, DFC

mination to excel at operational flying, was born an developed the "auxiliary spirit."

STUFFY MINDED

When the Battle of Britain sparted, many Auxiliary pilots had already been killed, captured or wounded. By the beginning of July there were not, on average, more than eight or nine Auxiliary pilots left in each squadron.

And so about 120 auxiliary officers went into the Battle. Twenty-seven of them — nearly one in four — were killed between July 10 and the end of September.

Many more were shot down and seriously wounded. But they scored more than their share of victories for Britain.

No unit in the whole of Fighetr Command excelled, in 1940, the fighting record of London's No. 601 Squadron.

The men who had been regarded by some stuffy-minded regulars as a bunch of millionaire playboys now showed their spirit and their skill in battle.

Between the beginning of July and September 7, 601 Squadron shot down 81 German airplanes and damaged many more.

Led first by Max Aitken, who was decorated by Dowding with the DFC on Tangmere airfield on June 29, then by Eddie Ward, twin brother of the present Secretary of State for Air, and finally by Sir Archibald Hope, they played a glorious part in every phase of the fight.

Their own losses were grievous. On August 11, when the squadron claimed 12 German airplanes destroyed, they lost four pilots, including Richard Demetriadi — young who had not been fully trained when the war started, but who had pleaded so earnestly to stay with the squadron, and who was so popular with the other officers, that he was

Murray Bay Festivals formed by F.B. Common

A newly-formed corporation, the brain-child of Westmounter Frank Common, Q.C., and known as the Murray Bay Festivals Inc., dedicated to the encouragement of musical and other artistic endeavors around Murray Bay during the summer months, gave its premiere performance August 6 at the Manoir Richelieu under the musical direction of Raoul Jobin, Canadian-born Metropolitan opera singer of international fame.

The Festival programme included selections from Schubert, Gounod, Verdi, Faure and Ravel, and featured such up-and-coming performers as Jules Bruyere, Guy Plamondon, Rejane Cardinal and Colette Boky with accompanist Guy Bourassa at the piano.

Founded in July by Mr. Common after numerous consultations with Jules Bruyere and Raoul Jobin, the organization, to be called Murray Bay Festivals Inc. in English and in French Festivals de Murray Bay Inc., has received the official stamp of approval and was incorporated on July 28, 1960. It will operate as a Quebec non-profit group with the sanction of the Department of National Revenue at Ottawa.

Other founding governors are: The Hon. Chief Justice Albert Seguin, A. Sydney Dawes, C. Leo DeOrsey, Mark Donohue, Louis P. Gelinat and T. R. McLagan.

The first honorary patron will be Prime Minister Lesage. Mr. Common said this week: "I am convinced that it will expand through the years into something of substantial significance: firstly, in promoting and increasing the interest of the public in musical, dramatic, pictorial, dancing, literary, sculpturing and other related arts and secondly, in encouraging and promoting the creation and presentation of artistic works of all kinds and in affording students facilities for training and gaining practical experience."

Raoul Jobin, a member of the Paris Opera for 27 years and the Metropolitan Opera for 10 years, received the Legion of Honor of France in 1951, and the following year he received an Honorary Doctorate of Music Honoris Causa of Laval University.

Mr. Common paid tribute to him as a "man extremely interested in Canadian artists of all kinds, a real Canadian."

Mr. Common expressed his gratitude at the opening to Canada Steamship Lines for the loan of the Casino at the Manoir for the first concert, and thanked the many people who helped, including the founding governors, Mr. Fisher, Mr. Sheppard; Rene Dorais, who is secretary-treasurer; J. Philippe Tremblay; Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Bruyere and Pauline; Lucien Ville-neuve; Mayor Jean Warren, and Raymond; "Buddy" Maher of Quebec, who obtained a fascinating poster displayed at the entrance to the building in honor of the Festival.

Broken mains cause trouble

A complaint from the residents at 164 Edgemoor Friday afternoon that there was a "terrible smell of gas" in the area sent crews from Westmount's Fire Department, Police Department and the Quebec Natural Gas rushing to the scene.

While firemen checked houses in the area, Natural Gas men found several holes in gas mains beneath the streets.

Chief Harper said there was no danger, and there was no interruption of service.

The Natural Gas people were putting in new mains in the area all this week.

Accident at Elm injures driver

Gerard Denis, 1640 Panet, driver of a car involved in a collision last Friday morning at Elm and Western, was taken to the Montreal General Hospital for injuries to his right side.

The other car involved in the accident was driven by Roger Ouimet, 31, 81 Donald street.

Ouimet told Police he was travelling west on Western when Denis cut him off.

Denis said he was going north on Elm, stopped at the stop sign, and moved into the intersection when he was struck by Ouimet's car.

The Westmount Fire Department was called to send the salvage wagon to hose down the street, which had become covered with gasoline spilled as a result of the collision.

British scouts dinner guests in Westmount

Last Thursday, 17 Boy Scouts and a leader from Britain were the dinner guests of John H. F. Turner (118 Arlington avenue) as president of the Royal Commonwealth Society, the party being in town enroute home after attending the 5th American National Jamboree at Colorado Springs.

Also present were Earle T. Moore, president of the Montreal regional council, R. Cameron McCutcheon, vice-president of the Quebec provincial council, and Major-General A. E. Walford, regional commissioner.

The Scouts arrived in Montreal by bus on August 10 and were met and billeted at Central YMCA as guests of the provincial Scout council. On Thursday they visited Scout headquarters, were received by the mayor of Montreal at the city hall where they signed the golden book and afterwards visited the Chateau de Ramezay.

Later, they were the luncheon guests of the Kiwanis Club of Montreal when two of the Scouts addressed the club, and afterwards enjoyed a three-hour tour of the city. As already stated they were the dinner guests of the Royal Commonwealth Society and afterwards the party was taken to the Royal St. Lawrence Yacht Club for a swim.

After a free morning on Friday they were the guests of Henry Morgan & Company at lunch and later toured the store. That evening Dr. Thomas Primrose, vice-president of the Quebec provincial council, was host at a backyard barbecue at his home in Mount Royal. The Scouts embarked later on the S.S. Ryndam prior to an early departure on Saturday.

Baha'i talk Sunday

"The Real Treasury of Man" — which does not lie in material possessions or power, but rather within man himself, will be the topic of a joint talk given by Bill and Priscilla Waugh of Beloit at the Montreal centre of the Baha'i World Faith this coming Sunday, August 21, at 1548 Pine avenue, west at 8:15 p.m. The public is cordially invited to attend.

His car hit, man charged

A 32-year-old St. Antoine street resident was charged by Westmount Police with not possessing a driving licence, and operating a vehicle without the licence when he was involved in an accident last Friday afternoon.

The ironic part of the incident was that the car driven by Jean Paul Rizzoli, 2278 St.

Antoine, was struck from the rear by a car driven by Mrs. Cecile Lillian Thomson, 45, 3122 Trafalgar Heights.

Mrs. Thomson told police she was following behind Rizzoli's car, which just made it across Dorchester street on the green light. Rizzoli stopped quickly, but Mrs. Thomson could not stop in time.

The Word

— VIII —
DOERS OF THE WORDBy
The Venerable
R. Kenneth Naylor, D.D.,
Rector, Trinity Memorial Church

Before we leave these Summer meditations let me turn to something practical rather than meditative. St. James bids us receive the engrafted Word which is able to save our souls. Then he goes on, "Be ye doers of the word, and not hearers only." Can we be doers of the Word in the senses we have established, the Revealing Word, the Revealed Word, the Personal Word? The Revealing Word spoke through His prophets, and as doers of the Word we must cultivate the prophetic mind. It is not so difficult as it might seem.

I spoke of the prophet on the one side and the scientist on the other. The scientist is a man who is sensitive to Nature; a man who is thinking of Nature and her ways whether he is deliberately studying her or watching a football game. The Greek philosopher solved a difficult problem in mathematics while he was having his bath. Sir Arthur Keith was considered the most hopeless dunce in his school, but his headmaster found that he liked animals and he developed Keith into one of the foremost scientists in England. There may be a few who remember Dr. Tory who was my first Professor of Mathematics. He failed in his first examination in Maths and was so annoyed that he went on to be one of the best known scientists in Canada. He listened to Nature.

A prophet is a man who is sensitive to the words and ways of God. He is aware that God has a word to say to him. He may be dull of hearing. He may fail in his first examination but he persists: he is a doer of the Revealing Word.

The man who lives close to the mind of God has a noble company to consort with. There are the prophets and the historians, the poets and sages, the men who drew aside the veil and looked into Heaven; there are the Evangelists and the writers of wise counsel or stern reproof. They had been the means which God used to reveal His Word, and their efforts became His Revealed Word. And we can become doers of the Word by absorbing that Revealed Word into our souls, and into the very warp and woof of our character. We can bow to the eloquence of Paul when he sets out to show us the more excellent way of love. We can kneel in humility before our Lord and accept the way of the Beatitudes from Him. We can join John on Patmos to send a note of warning to a sleeping Church, or to blow a trumpet of defiance against the hosts of evil. There are many ways to be doers of the Revealed Word.

Can we be doers of the Personal Word? I want to change the translation slightly. The word "doer" is also the word "poet." I have been reading lately an essay by Prof. Leonard Hodgson who approaches the study of the Word from a somewhat different point of view. His concern is to see the event which the Word reports and then to consider in what terms we would express that event if it happened today. You have probably read that a new translation of the New Testament is to appear next Spring. The translation will be in current English with no re-

"ON BEING TRULY REFRESHED"

A warm welcome extended to all.

Organist and Choir Director
Doris Killam, A.R.T.C., L. Mus.
(McGill)

It is worth saying that some of the greatest parts of Scripture have been written in poetic form. It is quite possible that our Lord put His teaching into poetry. Other parts have inspired great poems. Caedmon was a cow-herd when he turned the Creation story into Anglo-Saxon poetry; Milton was Latin Secretary to Cromwell, but he turned the story of Creation and Redemption into the most sublime poetry. And, as a matter of fact, what we believe about the Temptation and the Fall, about the Devil and his angels, and their place of abode, is what we have learned from the two poets Dante and Milton rather than from the reticence of Scripture.

The poet — the doer of the Word — has an immense power to mould men's thoughts. Indeed, a great part of the influence of the English translation of 1611 may be simply in its poetic cadences. I wonder if a transplantation made by the most learned of professors in the most modern of prose will have the effect of the saving Word. I know it is impossible but I wish there were a great poet with a great knowledge of the Word and the language to compare with it who could worthily make the Divine Word known to this generation.

Rotarians get surprise by defeating Weredale

Thirty-five members of the Rotary Club of Westmount and their friends, under the leadership of president Ronald McKay, visited Camp Weredale last week for the holding of the 27th Annual Field Day.

Camp Weredale was one of the first major social service projects sponsored by the Rotary Club of Westmount, and the field day which has been conducted annually since the opening of the camp in 1934, has become a "must" for Westmount Rotarians.

One of the features of the day is the baseball game between the Rotarians and the campers, and last week for the first time in many years the Rotarians surprised both themselves and the boys by winning the game 6 to 3, the outstanding win being attributed to the excellent form shown by the pitcher Rotarian past president Bill Allison.

At the dinner, held in the boys' dining-room, at which Mrs. M. Craig, the lady superintendent of Weredale House was hostess, the president of Weredale House, Harold F. Kerrigan, DSO, DFC, welcomed the Rotarians and paid tribute to their long interest in the work. President "Ron" responded briefly, expressing the continued interest of the Rotary Club and congratulating the boys on the appearance of the camp and the good sportsmanship shown in the games.

Prizes were presented by Oliver Retalack, chairman of the Youth Service committee, assisted by Norman J. Kneeland, camp director. The prize winners were Senior: Geo. Keerewar, John Bourne, Cliff. Lammerin, Rich Owen, Peter Kneeland, Ernest Mickenlagen.

Intermediate: Eric Ramsli, Eddie Quesnel, Tom McCaughey, Steven Cakov.

Junior: Indrek Pringe, Kevin Emo, Harold Ramsli, Gerald McIntyre.

Gas odor caused by refinery

The Westmount Fire Department was swamped Monday evening by calls from Upper Westmount about a bad odor of gas permeating the entire area.

"We checked into it, of course," Chief E. C. Harper said, "but found it was from the oil refineries in the East end."

Last Friday Natural Gas people found some leaky mains on Edgehill road, but the latest incident has not connected with this trouble in any way.

Officials said the odor comes to Westmount occasionally because of the wind carrying fumes from the refineries. The fumes are close to the ground because of humidity, and are stopped by Westmount Mountain.

"When the wind shifts," the official said, "the fumes disappear."

Prevailing winds usually at this time of year blow from the opposite direction — towards the refineries.

The bride, who was given away by her father, wore a ballet length gown of white silk organza over taffeta appliqued with Chantilly lace, a fitted bodice, embroidered with seed pearls and crystal with a scalloped neckline and lace gloves which came to Sweetheart points over the hands. Her shoulder-length veil of tulle illusion was held by a crown of seed pearls and she carried a cascade bouquet of red roses and stephanotis.

Miss Marie McQueen, as maid of honor, wore a ballet length frock of blue silk organza and taffeta with matching bolera jacket and crowned headdress and carried a bouquet of white and yellow shasta daisies.

Miss Muriel Valdron as bridesmaid, wore a pink dress and crowned headdress identically styled to that of the maid of honor.

Mr. George Easdon, brother of the bridegroom, acted as best man and Mr. William Kierans, brother of the bride, ushered.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the Royal Suite and a luncheon was served in the Dauphin Room in the Windsor Hotel.

Later the bride and bridegroom left for a motor trip to New England States, the bride travelling in a blue and white ensemble with a white feathered hat and white accessories. The couple will reside in Mexico City.

The Perfect Plan

We should not think, that life is incomplete,
Or say "there is no meaning in its plan."
We shall not lose our way, if we but see
Creation's harmony, complete in man.

For though we stumble, even though we fall,
A hand, is stretched from out the dark, to guide
Which grasping without question we are led
Where flowers fade not and where dreams abide.

Invitation extended

The softball team of the Westmount Police and Fire Departments, winners of the City League last year, and confident of victory again this year, have issued a cordial invitation to all residents to see the playoff games next Tuesday and Thursday at Westmount Park.

The team will play the RCAF team from 401 (F) Squadron. "We have the trophies now," a policeman said, "and we hope to keep them."

Actual presentation of trophies to the winners will take place sometime in the fall at a dance held in the Armoury of the Royal Montreal Regiment.

Over-filled gas tank is great danger

The Westmount Fire Department has issued a warning to all motorists not to put too much gas in their tanks during the present hot spell.

Chief Harper said his department has answered numerous calls lately to clean up spilled gasoline on the streets.

"People forget," he said, "that an over-filled tank will spill, and a tank filled to the top will expand when the car is left in the sun."

Therefore, the Chief recommends that owners do not fill their tanks completely thereby preventing this unnecessary and dangerous spillage due to expansion in hot weather.

"A fire could start this way," he said.

SOME 99 ODD ATHLETES and officials, who made up the 120 members of the Canadian Olympic team took off from Dorval Airport last night at 7:15 in a special jet flight, on what this reporter considers quite an honor and a privilege. The team were in Rome about 2:15 this morning but makes the world pretty small these days with new jet travelling. The team, athletes and officials, are off to a great adventure, not only competing with the greatest from the rest of the World, but a chance to see how other peoples of the World live. Sports have done one thing, no matter how the commie countries use sports to their own advantage, they do some good, by meeting with other athletes from other countries, there maybe, just maybe we say, a way out from another World War.

BY YESTERDAY MORNING all athletes from the East and the West were in Montreal and with many things to be done before flight time, such as a luncheon by Molson Brewery yesterday afternoon. Athletes arrived during the past week and stayed with friends here in the city. After Rome Games, many of the athletes will want to take some side trips, and coming back to Canada, we believe will be by London, there will be several flights, leaving at different days. There will be swaps on later planes so as the boys and girls can have a few extra days seeing Europe.

And so it goes, in about three weeks, another Olympic Games will be in the record book. There will be arguments and public opinion will again arise from these Games on whether the best team was sent to Rome. But, you can bet your last bottom dollar that they will give their best and that is all anyone can ask of any athlete whether he be pro or amateur.

LAST YEAR WHEN the CRU raised the junior age by some eight months, this reporter went on record that the same such be done to at least the juvenile section, and maybe all the way down. The men behind the junior teams across Canada, especially the top teams, were thinking of 1959, when their club might be in the Little Grey Junior Cup final.

WE CLAIMED at the time that the raising of the junior age limit

Outremont knocks district clubs out in GG tourney

Outremont Lawn Bowling Club has earned a trip to Ottawa for the Governor General's Trophy final September 3.

Led by skips Bob Ogilvie and Art Dilley, the Outremont squad won the Quebec twin-rinks championship by knocking off Riverside Lawn Bowling Club 44-39 in final at Lachine.

Individual rink scores saw Ogilvie eliminate Alec Buchan of Riverside 22-17 while Dilley was playing a 22-22 draw with Riverside's other entry, skipped by Harry Coles.

Ogilvie had somewhat of an easy time at first as he had a 11-3 lead by the sixth end before Buchan started a comeback. The squads were deadlocked in the 10th and 13th ends and then Ogilvie moved in front to stay. Playing with Ogilvie were Ron Webster, Jack Plant, and Hugh Walker.

Meanwhile Dilley and Coles were staging a ding-dong battle with Coles holding the upper hand until the 19th end when Dilley fired home a two-count to tie up the game. Coles registered a single in the 20th end and then Dilley tied it again on the final try.

SECOND ROUND

Outremont won both of its matches in the twin-rink series as they downed Lachine, 43-29, while Riverside came through with a 45-36 triumph, despite a split in games.

A. F. Dilley's rink was the big gun for Outremont turning back J. McElligott's rink, 24-11 and R. F. Ogilvie's quartette nipped E. A. Franklin's team, 19-18.

A. Buchan's rink made it possible for the Riverside club to move into the final, when it toppled J. G. Brodie, 29-14.

In the other match, R. Porter of Verdun took a 22-16 decision from H. O. Coles.

On Dilley's team are H. W. Howell, J. Laurent and T. Arnott.

The Ogilvie squad includes R. Webster, J. L. Plant, H. Walker.

With skip Buchan are B. H. Ferguson, E. Morrissey and W. Tait, while Coles' foursome is made up of F. W. Patchell, C. L. Moysie and hurt the juvenile league, because many over age juvenile players were left out in the cold. There was no room on the junior teams as they have many carry overs, or they dropped the junior that was only filling a hole or a space on the bench and took in a juvenile age player.

The strange thing about the whole affair last year was the QRFU went on record that it was the CRU that ordered the junior age increase. Quite so, but the QRFU could also have raised the juvenile age, instead they told this writer that the CRU would not allow such a thing. That was for the birds, and big birds at that, for this past week, the juvenile section were given the right to vote for or against the raising of their age limit.

NOW, THE JUNIOR clubs, if a boy wants to remain another season in juvenile, will not be able to get that player. Another reason that several of the juvenile clubs believed that there would be many juvenile age players left out in the cold this year being no room on the Junior teams, or they were not good enough. Therefore, this fall, the slack has been taken up and no juvenile will be left out for one season, because he was too old to play this year.

THIS MOVE should have been made last year, but a year later has not done that much damage except, what did the QRFU wait one year to give the juvenile section a break like they fought for at the CRU junior meeting? And the QRFU were certainly not against the increasing of the junior age because NDG Maple Leafs came very close of winning that Dominion and they figured they could do it again and win the title, with the increase of the age limit. However, even the best of plans go up in smoke.

Westmount Examiner, Friday, August 19, 1960 11

Outremont with its winning margin defeating J. S. Riley's CNR crew 25-15 after CNR's A. L. MacAuley had taken the opening match 20-18 over A. F. Dilley.

Lachine ran up a 26-10 lead over Westmount when E. A. Franklin's quartet drubbed A. Holmes' crew, but the Lachine side hit to hold on by a whisker when St. Lambert's A. W. Greene scored a 25-13 triumph over J. McElligott in the second encounter.

The Westmount Fire Department has had a six-foot "tree" in its clerical office for about four years, the subject of much controversy as to its proper identification.

Some said it was a rubber tree plant. Others said it was some kind of a Chinese tree.

In any case, the tree grew, and grew. But it never contained more than 13 leaves — only the distance between the leaves and the length of the stalk kept getting larger.

"We may have to cut a hole in the ceiling," a captain had said, jokingly.

Last week The Examiner ran a feature story, with a picture, of the mystery tree, and results came in as soon as the paper was delivered Friday.

Chief Harper said this week that an official from McKenna Florists on Cote des Neiges, who had read the story, telephoned to say the plant could definitely be identified as a DIEFFENBACHIA PICTA.

Without comment, there seems to be a lot of similarity between the names Diefenbaker and Dieffenbachia Picta.

But, the mystery still exists to some.

"What in heck," we are asked, "is a Dieffenbachia Picta?"

District Governor lauds local club

"You are Rotary and you have a responsibility as such," was one of the important declarations made by District Governor L. St. Clair Holland to members of the Westmount Rotary Club at the luncheon meeting Wednesday.

Driving home his point, Mr. Holland said each Rotarian must consider and realize that he, as an individual makes an important part of Rotary; that Rotary is composed of individuals like himself; and that he has a responsibility individually to keep the Rotary movement going by his participation.

Mr. Holland, who was one of the founding members of the Westmount club and is at present an honorary member, also spoke of the value of the work being carried out by Rotary. He pointed out that in the field of international fellowship, Rotary was making a tangible contribution by the provision of scholarships.

Discussing Rotary in the community, Mr. Holland said one good work Rotary could do was to provide business assistance and advice to its members and even to others who might stand in need of such assistance. He spoke of extending Rotary's work throughout the community.

"In the past year 1,156 new Rotary clubs have been founded throughout the world," he noted.

Mr. Holland also noted his close association with the Westmount club and lauded it for its accomplishments.

He said: "You can get close to Rotary in a club such as Westmount," and he called upon members to continue the work they were already doing.

Mr. Holland was introduced to the meeting by past president of the Westmount Rotary, Frank Sharpe, and was given a standing ovation by the members at the conclusion of his talk.
