Channel Open In Chateauguay River

A channel has been cut and blasted out of the Chateauguay River from the lake to a point opposite the Lang farm. Mr. Zephirin Bouchard was awarded the contract for this project and stated in an interview on Monday, that the channel was now open and the ice higher up was breaking. The channel below the railway bridge is 100 feet wide and it gradually widens on its course to the lake. No trouble from jams is anticipated this year.

Mr. Gerard Bourdon, President Chateauguay County Liberal Association Meets The Press

Local representatives of the press met with Mr. Gerard Bourdon, President of the Chateauguay County Liberal Association, on Thursday evening, March 22, at the Rustik Restaurant. The first item discussed was the new road leading to the new bridge between the station and the basin. Mr. Bourdon informed the gathering that there would be four entries to the road, thus providing ample entry and exit to and from the new highway.

The unsuitable location of the License Bureau was brought up. It was noted that its location is far from central and is a cause of inconvenience to some residents. The fact that a bilingual person is not always present and that the bureau closed at 5 p.m. during the rush prior to the deadline for renewal of licenses was a cause for disatisfaction. Mr. Bourdon stated that the local license bureau came under the jurisdiction of the Minister of Revenue, Hon. Paul Earl, and that this department has chosen the location of the bureau. As for the closing at 5 p.m., orders had been received from the Montreal office to do so; however, the license bureau had re-opened in the evening for the convenience of the public.

The next subject discussed concerned the surrounding developments. When the present liberal administration came to power in June, 1960, Mr. Bourdon, as President of the Chateauguay County Liberal Association got in touch with the owners' associations of the developments and asked them to have a meeting and elect two representatives with whom he might deal. A meeting was held and Mr. H. d'Amour and Mr. Flanagan were elected as representatives. Mr. Bourdon has worked with these two persons.

The matter of the 3% Provincial rebate was brought up. This rebate is available to any person who can fulfil the requirements of the law. No self-appointed organization has any say or influence in this matter. All that has to be done is outlined in the law and no organization is needed to obtain the 3% rebate. In other words it is not a political matter. Some residents of the local developments were under the impression that the prior Provincial administration had assumed the cost of paving certain roads in the developments before the last provincial election. This is false, the Provincial Government will only allow grants on roads that exceed a certain width. That is, if the road has to be built wider than necessary for the residents of that street to bear traffic, that is not their responsibility. It was noted that some roads had been built at that time without authorization and that by-law 261 had been approved to pay for these roads after they had been completed. The only roads that are the responsibility of the Provincial authorities are the numbered roads, such as routes 3 and 4. Some roads are serviced by the government but no work can be done on them without the permission of the municipalities concerned. Consequently, the provincial government can not be expected to provide free paving of roads in the developments.

The content of Bill 16 which has just been passed in the Provincial Legislature was discussed. This bill permits a municipality to annex surrounding municipalities even if the local authorities of these municipalities oppose the annexation. This bill has been passed to counteract the opposition of petty town officials who oppose annexation for the sole reason that they may lose their office, and they thus hinder the progress of all municipalities concerned. The procedure for annexation is as follows: the municipality wishing to annex other municipalities informs the Provincial Government of its intentions, a referendum is then held in all the municipalities concerned and if the results are in favor of annexation it is carried out, even if the councils of certain municipalities object.

Another point of discussion was the supposed interference in local town politics by the President of the Liberal Association. Mr. Bourdon stated that when the Provincial Government helps towns financially is has the right to see that the grants are properly used. When no provincial grants are concerned, Mr. Bourdon declared that the Liberal Association had nothing to say. The Liberal Association in this county as in any other has only the right to make recommendations to the provincial authorities. It does not make any laws or legislation. This legislation is made in parliament, where the elected representatives discuss and vote. As for the county recommendations, this is not the field of the member of parliament. If he is a member of the local Liberal Association he can, of course make himself heard in it.

The establishment of a local outlet for the Quebec Liquor Board in Chateauguay is under consideration. No premises that are adequate as to space and reasonable rent have yet been found. Consequently, the Liquor Board is considering the building of a locale to house the store. Plans have been drawn and further action is expected in the near future.

The second span of Mercier Bridge is expected to be completed sometime in 1963. Mr. Bourdon said that the construction of this most needed span of the Mercier Bridge had been delayed for quite some time by the formr Union Nationale administration. Federal authorities had insisted that public tenders be called for this project. Unfortunately the previous administration was not in favour of this method of choosing contractors for erection of the bridge and consequently it was never built. However, Mr. Bourdon stated, that during his short stay in office the late Hon. Paul Sauvé was to be complemented for having started the widening of the bridge. An improvement has been made in the last few weeks by making the existing bridge one-way for certain periods of time during the heavy traffic hours.

The completion of the widening of Mercier Bridge is expected to bring a large influx of population to the Chateauguay area. Mr. Bourdon is of the opinion that considerable thought should be devoted to the problems that will be created by this large increase in population in this area. If this district is not ready to receive this additional expansion complete chaos will result. Now is the time to think about urbanism, new road construction, the setting aside of land for parks, churches and schools. Serious investigation should be made towards the acquisition of new industries for Chateauguay. These would certainly help to ease the tax load which will fall on the residents when additional expansion of public works is required. We should all look to the future and have constructive efforts made in this direction, setting aside petty politics.

The construction of schools is now of utmost importance. Local school boards should strive to get the best construction possible. The Provincial Government makes grants toward the building of the schools, however the autonomy of the local school boards is always respected. Mr. Bourdon gave St. Willibrord school as an example of sound construction. He informed the gathering that on three tenders for his school for a wooden building and for its present construction there was very little difference in price. English speaking schoolboards are to be congratulated for their forthought in building superior schools. Mr. Bourdon invited the people to visit a good building such as houses St. Willibrord school and then inspect some of the other schools in surrounding municipalities and see the great difference. School boards should see that the best work possible is done in the first place so that the work does not have to be redone.

Mr. Bourdon closed the meeting with a few words on the subject of patronage. The president of the Chateauguay Liberal Association urged the local newspaper to undertake a campaign to eradicate this menace. Although the present provincial government has done much to fight patronage much remains to be done. New laws must be enacted to do away once and for all with patronage. Mr. Bourdon gave as example the Hospital Insurance law, which has destroyed some aspects of patronage. Now one does not have to drag himself to the local member of parliament to benefit from free hospital care, as had been the manner with social security under the previous provincial administration. All citizens should encourage and help the passage of laws that would do away wth patronage.

Two Children Killed In Traffic Accidents In Beauharnois

Two tragedies occurred in the Beauharnois area during the past week that shocked and grieved the entire populace. Each was a traffic accident that resulted in the death of a child.

The first tragedy occurred Friday about 7.30 p.m. Alana Connolly, nine-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Neil J. Connolly, 12 Maple St., Maple Grove, was instantly killed when she was struck by a truck as she attempted to cross Route 3 near her home.

The second fatality occurred on Dupuis St. in Beauharnois about 11.30 a.m. Monday when four-year-old Christian Beauregard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerard Beauregard, 63 Dupuis St., rode his tricycle down a paved driveway onto the street and under the wheels of a passing truck.

In each of the accidents, the victims died instantly.

There were no eyewitnesses, but it is known that the truck was travelling well within the speed limit; the driver did his utmost to avoid the children and fortunately only one was struck. Little José is unable to explain how Alana was struck while he escaped, because they were practically together.

A crowd quickly gathered and although the Connolly family appeared on the scene almost immediately, there were frantic moments for many parents until they learned it was not their child who had been struck. Dr. Gustave Dubé was called but Mrs. Connolly ruefully told The Gleaner that she felt for her little girl's pulse when she first knelt beside her and found none.

Funeral service for Alana was held at 10 a.m. Monday at St. Paul's Church in Beauharnois, across the street from St. Paul's School, where Alana was a student. Prinicipal Sincennes gave the English students from Grades I to VIII permission to attend and Mrs. Morrissette, the English students from St. Paul's, said that every child had tear-filled eyes. Father Georges Quenneville, of whom Alana was especially fond, conducted the Requiem High Mass.

The sympathy of the community is extended to Mr. Connolly, Superintendent at Standard Chemical Ltd., in Beauharnois, and to Mrs. Connolly; also to Alana's sisters: Bernice, age 16; Melissa, 11 and the surviving twin, Kathleen.

Mr. and Mrs. Connolly and family have been residents of Beauharnois for the past twelve years. The twins celebrated their birthday on February 23rd.

-o-

Equally sad was the untimely death of four-year-old Christian Beauregard. Neighbors told The Gleaner that the handsome little blond boy was playing with his tricycle on the paved driveway below the upstairs flat at 63 Dupuis St., where the Beauregard family has been living for almost a year. For some unknown reason the lad did not stop his tricycle at the sidewalk but coasted onto the street at the moment a heavy cement truck was approaching. The driver of the truck had no chance to avoid the accident and the rear wheels ran over the little fellow and death was instantaneous.

Mr. and Mrs. Beauregard have one other child, three-year-old Richard. Mr. Beauregard was employed by the Aimé Sauvé Construction Company. They came here from Sherbrooke and friends say that the couple planned to return there to live next month.

The body of Christian was taken to Sherbrooke Monday evening, where the funeral will be held.

Action On Salaberry Boulevard

The Chateauguay Gleaner has on occasion brought to light the losing battle and the expense involved in attempting to keep the low lying sections of Salaberry Blvd., with a passable road surface. The sections in question are now being raised some three to four feet to the satisfaction of all concerned.

Work has also started on the elimination of the dangerous curve near the Lang Farm.

Emergency Measures Organization Needed In Chateauguay

(By M. McCutcheon)

Mr. William (Bill) Canvin, long time resident on the river front would like to see the formation of An Emergency Measures Organization to direct flood control and special action in possible emergencies. (We have had many). Its duties would include not only flood control but any eventualities arising herefrom. It should have authority to send out warnings when an emergency arises and when the regular channels of communication are either too slow or due to other factors may breakdown. (It has been suggested that more immediate and co-ordinated action could have been helpful during previous emergencies) This E.M.O. should alert Mayors of other Municipalities urging concerted action for protection of life and property if floods should occur, but emphasizing that it did not wish to alarm people unduly. This organization should be aware of the potential danger, and the following proposals might assist in dealing with it should there be a threat of flooding in our Municipality due to rapid melting of snow with the possible association of heavy rain and wind. A characteristic feature of the Chateauguay River is to experience a rapid melting which combined with the possible association of heavy rain and wind could create a too rapid run-off resulting in quickly raising water level, followed by very dangerous ice shoves and jams, which create flood conditions in a very short time and require the attention of the most experienced rivermen to handle.

Consequently if concerted action is to be of value, organization must be established and plans formulated beforehand so that assistance will be immediately available should a flood emergency arise.

Suggested is the immediate calling of meetings of civic departments, welfare agencies and other groups such as churches, service clubs and Women's Auxiliary and assignment of specific duties to each. Inventory of equipment, pumps, boats, etc., which could be made available quickly is also advisable as well as establishment of a corp of river watchers. When required assistance and relief in flooded areas is clearly beyond the resources available to the civil authorities, appeal should be made promptly through proper authorities of the Canadian Army, St. John's Ambulance and others to render assistance.

Our Lady of Perpetual Help Church — A Reality

(By A. Mulvaney)

The new English Catholic Parish in Chateauguay is now officially recognized. Father Desiré Beaulieu of the Franciscan Fathers has been appointed pastor. He will continue to officiate also at Christ, the King Church until his successor is appointed there.

The temporary location for Sunday Masses will be Chateauguay High School on MacLeod Avenue. The first Mass will be held on Sunday, April 8th at 9 A.M. and 11 A.M.

Elections for church wardens will be held in the near future. These men will assist Father Beaulieu with the business administration of the parish. All parishioners will be informed about the process of nomination and election of candidates.

A number of ladies in the new parish have formed an Altar Society. They have assumed the responsibility of financing and preparing the various needs for the celebration of Mass. Their work also involves acquiring funds for permanent altar facilities in the proposed new Church. This endeavor will require a money raising campaign. The ladies are adopting the "Cent-a-Meal" program used by the Church of the Ressurection of Our Lord in Lachine. Officers of the new organization have not yet been elected. However, the temporary president is Mrs. Brian Mulvaney; Secretary-Treasurer is Mrs. Clifford Mailhot.

Further news of Our Lady of Perpetual Help Parish will be forthcoming in the near future.

Police Blotter

At 2 a.m. on March 25th, a call was received from Mrs. Fernand Raymond, that a car was in the ditch on Chemin Lac St. Louis and requested towing.

Sgt. Desgrosseilliers investigated and found the driver without a drivers license and no registration permit for the vehicle. Further investigation proved the car, a 1962 Impala Chevrolet convertible, had been reported stolen. The driver, a juvenile, who lives in Chateauguay, was apprehended and turned over to the Montreal Police.

Once again, the Chateauguay Police were right on the job and were instrumental in returning a stolen car to the owner.

Chateauguay Centre Castors Cop Title In Chateauguay Valley Junior Hockey League

(By John McDonald)

The hard skating determined Castors Saturday night defeated the Caughnawaga Mohawks 4 to 3 in the deciding game in the C.V.J.H.L. finals to become the first winners of the C.C.R.A. Trophy.

J. P. Fradette put the Castors ahead at the sixteen minute mark in the first period while the Mohawks were short handed, then at the 19 min. mark J. P. Fradette notched his second goal of a hat trick to make the score 2 to 0, again the Mohawks were playing short handed.

In the second period the Castors dominated play throughout most of the period, but at the 14 minute mark Mike Ryce playing standout hockey on the defensive for the Mohawks beat Korb on a close-in shot to make the score 2 to 1 and the period ended that way.

In the third period the Mohawks shifting W. Deere to defense tied the score at the 8 sec. mark with C. Ryce notching the goal, then Walter Deere put the Mohawks ahead 3 to 2 at the 5 minute mark. J. P. Fradette got the Castors back on even terms completing his hat trick mid-way through the period. Then with the play in the Mohawk end of the rink, Norm. Simmons beat Williams with a partially screened shot from the point to give the Castors a 4 to 3 lead. The Mohawks tried desperately to tie the score but consecutive penalties to R. Snow and M. Ryce hurt them. The Castors content with a one-goal lead concentrated on killing time and did a good job of it

For the Castors J. P. Fradette, Norm Simmons, R. Drolet and Korb were the boys to watch, while for the Mohawks W. Deere, C. Ryce and Williams did a fine job.

The over 300 fans attending these final games shows the real enthusiasm the people of Chateauguay, Cote St. Catherine and Caughnawaga have shown Junior Hockey in it's first season. With the fine caliber of Hockey played this year, it is hoped that next year will even be better.

MOONLIGHTING

Everyone can appreciate that a man who holds two full-time jobs can't do justice to either. Everyone can appreciate, too, the feelings of the man who has no work and sees someone else holding a job and a half. But banning moonlighting isn't possible, and if it were it would do more harm than good. — Agassiz - Harrison (B.C.) Advance

ADAPTABLE EDUCATION

Our big battle to improve our own educational system is just beginning. We can only reach for victory when the least among us realizes the important part he or she can play, by supporting the progressive programs in education seen on the Canadian horizon. Our educational system must adapt itself, with greater speed if possible, to the new demands which are being placed upon it.—Lachute (Que.) Watchman.

INTERESTING TRIP TO WESTERN CANADA

Mr. Gordon Rennie, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Rennie of Brooklet recently returned from a thoroughly enjoyable eight weeks holiday in Western Canada. He travelled by bus, making several stopovers on the way. In Toronto he spent four days visiting relatives and in Hamilton two days with friends. From there he made a side trip to Niagara Falls. The bus route took him to Detroit, then to Chicago where he stayed two days and visited many of the interesting sights in that city. The route continued to Milwaukee, Emmerson, Manitoba and then west to Calgary where Gordon stayed several days with relatives. Here he met two former local boys, Tommy Thornton and John Keith and spent many pleasant hours with them. When Gordon arrived in Calgary the weather was a mild 50 degrees — the result of a chinook. However this didn't last too long and soon winter temperatures prevailed.

In Edmonton Gordon again stayed with relatives and also renewed acquaintances with Milt MacDougall, formerly of Ormstown. By this time Gordon was lonesome for the farm so he helped out on a dairy farm for two weeks. In contrast to the weather in Calgary the weather in Edmonton was cold - as low as 45 below zero with more snow than is usual in that city.

At Banff, Gordon went for a swim in the well-known Hot Springs pool and took a ride on the chair lift from which he had an impressive view of the surrounding countryside.

The return journey by bus followed the Trans Canada Highway route.

Sunday visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon McLean were Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Lamb, Miss Gertrude Cagney and Miss Leona Jones all of Montreal. Miss Joyce McLean of Montreal also spent the week-end with her parents.

SOCIAL WELFARE

The welfare state, social security, has nothing to do with socialism, nor with any other ideology. All that the welfare state means is that a portion of the national wealth is distributed among the least fortunate, transferred under what is called social security to old age pensioners, to the sick, to others among us of like need.—Campbellton (N.B.) BRUCE HAMILTON,
Route Boy,
188 Gardenia Ave.

We're all in a muddle
Bout many a puddle
That engulf our fair Terrace.
Could cause children to perish.

This is a mild way of saying HELP! Will someone please DO something! We have a town government. There must be some sort of water works department as we can boast the occasional man hole in our roads, (which incidentally, all seem to be located on the highest ground). Any phone calls to the town hall seem to be met with evasions, or excuses. If anyone has any suggestions about how to arouse some person of authority to action — short of attempted suicide — let's hear!

Bill Hanna of Gardenia St. was the center of some rather unusual activity last Saturday evening. His friends celebrated his 21st. birthday with a "Beat Nik Do". Some very odd creations were seen approaching the door at No. 184. Even the ghost of Ernest Hemmingway was present. The Poet Laureate of the illustrious group, Larry Richards, read verses. He was supported by a "skiffle" band, (musicians with instruments of questionable origin, i.e. wash tubs and broomsticks.) In attendance for this festive affair were Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hamilton, Mr. and Mrs. Larry Richards, Mr. and Mrs. Pete Gilbert, Mr. and Mrs. Ken Monk, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bemrose, Mr. and Mrs. Ron Bowner, Mr. and Mrs. Derrick Berry, all of Chateauguay; Mr. and Mrs. John Hanna from Verdun, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Guyler of Ile Perrot.

The Bill Hannas wish to thank all their friends for the various contributions that made the evening such a success.

A new resident came to town Tuesday. She weighed in at 7 lbs., 9 oz. The John Delhaes family of Tulip Street can boast a new baby girl. Our congratulations! We're happy to hear that Mom and baby are just fine.

The snow is melting and daffs are popping their shaky heads above soggy, cold earth. The Chateauguay District Horticultural Society is watching all actions with great anticipation. Fertilizers and peat moss are becoming by-words. Our local ardent member is Walter Hamilton, (who plants artificial flowers in the off season). Any Terracians interested in this organization may contact him.

Bowling news is quickly reaching its final stages. Friday evening will be the last night of regular bowling as the play-offs begin next week. The banquet is tentatively scheduled for May 5th. March 23rd results are as follows:

Ladies' high triple: Hank Gilbert, 328; high single: Louise Urbas, 146.

Men's high triple: Claud Noble, 420; high single: John Urbas, 183.

Church News

On Monday evening, March 26, a meeting was held at 111 Hillsdale Dr. for the purpose of forming a group of St. George's W. A. in the Parkview, Prudential and Chateauguay Park areas. Mrs. H. Airlie, President and Mrs. M. Johnson were in attendance to tell the Ladies all about the W.A. and what work they do for the church.

We decided to hold meetings in this area twice a month, the first and third Monday of each month. Our first meeting starts on Monday, April 2nd, at the home of Mrs. Curran, 108, Laurier. Having the meetings in the ladies homes will help out with the baby sitting, and husbands on shift work. So if there is any lady who is interested in this, just come along, you will be most welcome. For information call OX. 2-6534.

Reminder

That the P.L.C.C. membership committee, authorized by the board of executives, to canvass in their districts for the purpose of knowing how many proprietors will be in favour for the fee of five dollars a year, for a period of five years.

This money will be used to buy land for the future Recreational Hall for the community. This hall will be the property of all the proprietors in Parkview area. It will be used for all purposes for the community.

Sincerely: Fred Berry, Pres.

Weekly Cash Prizes For Shoppers Offered By Merchants Of Huntingdon Plaza

Now it's here — Huntingdon Plaza. No it's not the new name of a street, or an object. It is not a new building a theatre, or anything of that sort—it is part of a co-operative plan instituted by some thirty merchants in Huntingdon.

A series of meetings have been held over the past few weeks when ideas and suggestions were culled until a program could be outlined that would be workable. A committee was formed to be known as the Huntingdon Plaza Committee with D. Montpetit as President; Lou Marton, Vice-President; Jacques L'Ecuyer, Secretary; E. Simoneau, as Treasurer and an executive composed of John Thompson, G. Brisebois and Real Lalonde.

The plan is intended to boost shopping in Huntingdon both by having local residents shop at home and inducing other people to buy in Huntingdon rather than elsewhere. The opening date of the campaign is this Friday, March 30th, when an entry form will be given with every dollar purchase made in any of the stores coming under the plan. All such stores will carry an emblem showing that they are members, so there will be no guesswork. Boxes will be placed in all these stores and purchasers are asked to place their entries in these boxes. At the end of each week, a drawing will be made for three cash prizes of $25.00, $10. and $5.00. There will also be a "jackpot prize" starting at $25 which will also be drawn for. In order to win the latter it will be necessary for the person whose name is drawn to answer a question. There will be a choice of several subjects and the questions will be sealed. If the person whose name is drawn, answers the question correctly, he or she will win the "jackpot prize". If the question is not answered correctly, a consolation prize of $5.00 will be awarded, so you cannot lose. Should the person whose name is drawn, not be present at the drawning, they will be contacted by phone or letter and asked to be present at the next drawing. If they then answer the question correctly they will win the "jackpot". Should they not answer correctly, they will and the "jackpot" will be increased by $20.00 for the next drawing. In the event that the person does not show up, the question will be considered not to have been answered and the amount will be increased. If the question remains unanswered for several consecutive drawings, an amount of $20.00 will be added each time.

In the event that the "jackpot" has built up and then is won by someone, it will revert back again to $50.00 and the draw will start again. The "jackpot" will always be $50.00 in any case.

The first drawing will take 6th, at 10 o'clock at the Fountplace on Friday night, April tain in Town and each successive Friday night there after In the event of rain, the drawing will take place in Marchand Freres Store on Chateauguay Street.

Remember every purchase of $1.00 will entitle you to an entry form which is placed in the boxes provided in the stores under the plan. There will be three lucky winners each week and probably a fourth. You have nothing to lose and there are no strings as to what you should do with the money you win. You can do as you like with it.

An announcement of this plan appears in this issue of The Gleaner and you are advised to study it and learn what you have to do. Also the merchants will be telling you through advertising what they have to offer, there will be special buys from time to time and you will save money in this way as well as having opportunity to win cash prizes. It does not matter where you live, all can enter. You must do your shopping in Huntingdon in order to obtain your entry forms.

The plan is on a trial basis at present and it will depend upon the response it receives as to whether it will be continued after the period, or if a new plan will be put into operation. If the buying public shows good response, the plan, or another similar one will be operated for a further period. If you approve of this, you can show your appreciation by doing all your shopping in Huntingdon.

It could be possible by this plan to win enough to pay for a nice vacation, if you think of it in this way.

There is the plan, it is up to everyone to get behind it and see who the winners will be each week. Be sure to get your entry forms and then deposit them in the box. It is just as simple as that.

Officers Elected For Huntingdon Branch Red Cross

A meeting was called for Tuesday evening, March 20th, at the Court House for all those interested in Red Cross activities. Unfortunately the attendance was very small. The Pres. Mr. L. M. Kelly conduced the meeting. Miss Mesnard from Red Cross Headquarters in Montreal was present and during the evening gave much valuable information. In the unavoidable absence of the Secy. Mrs. L. Roy, Mrs. E.M. Wood acted as Secy. There was considerable discussion regarding the Blood Clinic and the forthcoming Campaign. At the Annual meeting held earlier in the month no Committees had been formed for these activities. It was left in the hands of the four local clergy, three of whom were at the meeting, to approach members of their congregations in an effort to secure co-chairmen for the Campaign.

A note of thanks for the loan of a hospital bed was read by Mrs. Hughes from the T.J. Graham family.

The Blood Clinic will be held on Monday, May 14th, and as is usual all districts will be canvassed for donors. All who possibly can donate blood are urged to do so, as the need is very great. The need of blood transfusions increases each year. Four thousand (4,000) bottles of blood are needed each week. Although blood is given free and transfusions are free it costs $4.65 to process and handle each bottle. 42.5% of the total Campaign money is alloted to Free Transfusion Service. Free blood can be obtained at 156 Quebec Province Hospitals. Those present were interested to learn that the Royal Victoria and Queen Elizabeth Hospntals are now members of the Free Transfusion Service.

The following is the slate of officers for 1962-63:

Hon. Pres. Mrs. E.M. Wood; Pres. Mr. L.M. Kelly; 1st Vice Pres. Mr. F. C. Moore; 2nd Vice Pres. Mr. George Renaud; Secy-Treas. Mrs. Louis Roy; Disaster and Relief. Mr. François Cleyn and Mr. Jon Proudfoot; Veterans Affairs, Mrs. O'Connor and Rev. R. Stote; Blood Donor Clinic Mrs. K. Cameron and Mrs. George Lefebvre; (co-conveners) Lean Cupboard, Mrs. Chester Hughes; Work Committee, (still vacant) volunteers will be welcome: Campaign Chairman, Mr. George Thompson; Publicity, Mrs. Nelson White; Refreshments for Blood Clinic Mrs. O'Connor. Home Nursing. Miss Lillian Rankin.

Miss Rankin will organize a Home Nursing Class later in the year.

Contributions Received For St. Mark's Reconstruction At St. John's On Sunday

An offering of $250.00 has been received to date toward the Reconstruction of St. Mark's Church, Valleyfield in connection with St. Mark's Day in St. John"s, Huntingdon on Sunday last. There is promise that this will be increased.

The Service was well attended. The choir in full force sang an anthem entitled "Thou wilt keep him in Perfect Peace".

The Rector spoke on the Rebuilding of the Church, referring to the people as "Living Stones fitly framed together into a spiritual house," stressing the urgent need for the spiritual rebuilding of the Church, even though the church building had not burned down.

As One Trouble Spot Dies Others Spring Up In Different Parts Of The World

France finally arranged a ceasefire with Algerian insurgent leaders and laid down guide lines for a political settlement that would result in self-government for Algeria's 9,000,-000 Moslems.

But the French - Moslem ceasefire March 19 — seven years, four months and 18 days after the insurrection erupted — was the signal for secret army die-hards among Algeria's 1,000,-000 Europeans to intensify armed efforts to disrupt the settlement.

President Charles de Gaulle's long-sought "peace of the brave," which resulted ni the release of five Moslem leaders from French jails, outlines Algerian independence in co-operation with France.

A combined French-Moslem administration will guide the territory towards a referendum on the settlement within four to six months and the election of an Algerian national assembly three weeks later. French military forces will withdraw within three years, except from a few leased military installations like the naval base of Mers-el-Kebir.

The ceasefire received quiet approval in a France wearied by the costly struggle. But in Algeria the Secret Army Organization stepped up violent opposition, planting bombs in government offices, enforcing strikes and fighting openly with the French army for the first time.

Last Convulsion

But the OAS revolt appeared to be developing only into the last convulsion of a lost cause. With the ceasefire a week old, the movement had failed to provoke Moslems into retaliation, aroused little sympathy in France and seemed to be alienating the French army when it had hoped to enlist its support, or at least its neutrality.

Moslem leaders managed to restrain their followers from replying in force to OAS attacks. Only a relative handful of French National Assembly deputies voted against the ceasefire, and even they did not speak in favor of the secret army.

The French army displayed its lack of sympathy with the movement at the end of the week by throwing jet fighters and armored cars into battle against the OAS in an effort to blast the extremists out of their suburban Algiers bastion.

The battle began Friday after six soldiers were killed and 12 wounded by OAS attackers.

Alfred Galipeau 103 Years Old April 3rd

Best wishes for a happy birthday go out to Mr. Alfred Galipeau, of Huntingdon, who will be 103 years old on April 3rd, next. Mr. Galipeau is still enjoying good health, able to walk around and to enjoy his meals. He has many visitors and enjoys their company. He is presently being cared for at Lacasse Nursing Home. His daughters Miss Rose Galipeau, Mrs. Danasse Brunet, Mrs. G. H. Rioux and Mrs. Emile Langevin also send their best wishes.

"You reporters often suggest we are sympathetic to the OAS," said one regular army officer. "Now you will see we are not going to take this sort of thing from them."

Conference Bogs Down

The 17-nation Geneva disarmament conference stumbled through its second week to deadlock among the Big Three nuclear powers and the meeting's first bitter quarrel.

Pressure from the non-aligned and smaller nations prodded the United States, Russia and Britain into a sub-committee session on banning nuclear tests. The Big Three reported deadlock Friday, along with outbursts of recrimination.

The United States charged Russia with bad faith, provoking countercharges that the Americans were guilty of aggression in their planned resumption of atmospheric nuclear tests in late April.

Canadian External Affairs Minister Howard Green said he did not agree with the statement by U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk that Russia wants to resume testing for military purposes, terming the statement "speculation."

The frustrated non-nuclear nations pressed for more negotiations among the Big Three — this time under the watchful eyes of neutral observers.

Peron Haunts Argentina

The spectre of Juan Peron plunged Argentina into political crisis last week, almost seven years after the toppled dictator fled into exile.

President Arturo Frondizi's regime was subjected to a threatening squeeze by an electoral victory of Peron sympathizers on one side and Army leaders who seemed set to stamp out what they saw as a Peronista menace.

The Peronistas led all other political groups in elections for congressional seats and provincial governorships with a vote count showing that about one-third of the electorate favors Peron. Military leaders were pressing Frondizi to freeze out the Peronistas, even to the extent of invalidating the elections.

Trying to save the democratic system from pressure on both sides, Frondizi at the end of the week shuffled his cabinet to appease the military while appearing to accept the verdict of the electorate.

Colombia, Cuba, British Columbia

In another South American county testing democracy, Colombia, a system of coalition government introduced after the overthrow of dictotorship in 1957 for a constitutional minimum of 15 years got lukewarm endorsement in congressional election.

The ruling National Union of Liberals and Conservatives retained a substantial majority in Congress, but a dissident Liberal group opposing the constitutionally-enforced coalition recorded significant gains.

The United States stepped up pressure on Fidel Castro's Cuba by expanding its embargo on Cuban imports to include products from any country that are made wholly or partly from Cuban materials.

Twenty-four Sons of Freedom Doukhobors were sentenced in Nelson, B.C., to prison terms ranging from three to 12 years for arson and bombings. Some of the accused suggested in an unprecedented move that spiritual leader Stefan Sorokin, now in Uruguay, and other sect leaders were behind the violence.

In 1961 there were 11,660 beekeepers in Canada and production of honey was estimated at 34.5 million pounds.

— Quick Canadian Facts.

Presentation Of Scriptures To Barrie Memorial Hospital

A simple but impressive ceremony took place Friday last in the Board Room of the Barrie Memorial Hospital, when Mr. Brodie Brittain, local bank manager and Zone Leader for the Province of Quebec of "The Gideons" presented to the hospital a number of copies of the Bible and of the New Testament bound with the Psalms.

The presentation was made to Mr. Norman Simms, Chairman of the Board of the Hospital, in the presence of Mrs. W. Fearn, Superintendent and Mr. C. V. Curtis Business Manager, all representing the hospital administration. The Rev. J. C. Hood, minister of the Ormstown Presbyterian Church, accompanied Mr. Brittain and gave the prayer of dedication.

In presenting these Bible and Testaments, Mr. Brittain expressed the thought and hope that these might bring comfort to many people while in hospital as the Bible had to so many countless thousands during the years, and Mr. Simms in accepting the gift on behalf of the hospital, said that he was sure this hope would be fulfilled. He added words of appreciation for the sustained efforts the Gideons had made throughout the years to make the Scriptures available in places where they could do the most good.

An eleven-year-old girl and a ten-year-old boy were the top competitors from Quebec in the Junior Judging Contest sponsored by the Holstein-Friesian Association in connection with the selection of the All-Canadian Holsteins for the current show season. The ten-year-old boy was Don Sproule of Ormstown, a member of the Ormstown 4-H Calf Club while the eleven-year-old girl is Rozlyn Wilson of Lachute, a member of the Lachute Calf Club. Rozlyn was tied for first in the province of Quebec last year in this same competition. She is a daughter of Harold Wilson, National Holstein Director for Lachute. Both she and Don Sproule had scores of 130 out of a possible 140 points.

This is Don's first year in 4-H work his junior calf placing third at Ormstown Exhibition and second at Havelock Fair. Rozlyn was second with her junior calf at her club achievement day.

A total of 562 4-H members from coast to coast took part in the competition. The top score of 132 out of possible 140 points was made by D'Arcy McGhan of Edmonton. Ten contestants had scores of 130 points, six scores of 128 points and fifty-three scores of 126 points.

Milk Price Minimun End Urged

Nolasque April, chairman of the Quebec Dairy Commission, said on Wednesday of last week, he favors abolition of minimum milk prices.

"Let's allow competition to work."

He was commenting on charges by Perrette Dairy Ltd. operator of milk stores in Chateauguay, Chomedey and St. Michel, that the commission is influenced by big dairies and that minimum milk prices are unnecessary.

Mr. April, who has been head of the QDC for about a year, called the minimum rate "an old habit."

"It's been like that since 1934 and things take a little time."

Charge is Denied By Chairman

He denied the commission is unduly influenced by big dairies, although "a lot of people can guess" otherwise.

He said he would favor the Ontario no - minimum - charge system.

Robert Bazos, owner of Perrette Dairy, charged the minimum price is "unfair" to consumers and added "we intend to call for a public inquiry."

He complained about the fact that the QDC fixes the minimum price paid to farmers as well as the minimum consumers must pay.

If the minimum the housewife is charged is decontrolled as it is in Ontario, Bazos says he can save Montreal shoppers about six cents on a quart of milk.

Three Quarts Sold For 51 Cents

In his Chateauguay store outside the Montreal area, Mr Bazos sells three-quart containers of milk for 51 cents In Montreal, the same product costs 68 cents, he claims.

The reason, Mr. Bazos says is that the QDC has set the minimum price at 67 cents.

He claims things are getting worse. Four days ago, the Commission brought in a new regulation that makes it illegal to sell three quarts of "two-per-cent fat" milk for less than 61½ cents. Bazos had been selling the hitherto uncontrolled milk for 43 cents.

Mr. Bazos and his father, Frank, who is chairman of the board of a milk company that owns 36 milk stores in metropolitan Toronto, claims the main reason their stores can sell cheaply is the lack of any delivery expenses.

The Bazos charge the Commission has five voting members — two dairy representatives, two farmers and a government official—but no consumer representative.

His specialty subjects are: English History; Psychology, and French Specialist Certificate. His interests are: History and books. In sports, he is an ardent hockey fan.

In conversation with Mr. Brockman, said he liked the rural centres as opposed to big cities like Montreal. That he is a Westerner trying to adjust himself to the East. The first time he drove his car in Montreal he was scared and says he is still scared while driving in that city. He puts it down to the fact that he is not adjusted to Eastern drivers.

During the summer months he has often taken a trip through this part of the country and he regards it as a very beautiful part. He loves the trees, as a prairie boy, and regards the people who live in these towns with such beautiful surroundings as being extremely lucky.

Mr. Brockman was here on Thursday to look over the school and meet the staff and pupils. He also met a few other townspeople, and he says he found the people very friendly. He says the school in a beautiful one, that the staff is capable and the students well behaved. He is looking forward to the time when he will be working with the staff and students and becoming more acquainted with the people of the town and district.

Notes and Jottings FROM Robert Sellar's Historical Writings

That winter the first death took place, an infant of 13 months, the daughter of Thomas Brown. She was buried in an island that lay near his house, and, by common consent, it was used for many years as the burial-ground of the settlement.

The settlers were in no way troubled by wild beasts. There were bears in the Teafield, but they never strayed their way, and wolves were equally unknown. Deer was abundant however, and vension in its season was a welcome variety to their monotonous diet. Of fish they had a fair supply, the lake at that period abounding in them. Black Bullard would come in with his canoe filled, and let the settlers help themselves without price. There was no Indian camp near them, and the only redman seen by them, was when one would pass on a hunting-expedition. A queer encounter with one was that of two of the settlers, who, while far down towards Valleyfield in search of a horse that a Canadian had stolen, came suddenly upon an Indian in full costume, with rifle and tomahawk — "a perfect picture" as they described him. They were abashed and somewhat terrified by the imposing appearance of the savage, and one of the canny Scots sought to propitiate him by offering "the piece" he had brought with him. The Indian graciously accepted the bread, and though he could not speak English showed his good-will by signs.

The hopes of the settlers as to a favorable solution of their land difficulties were revived in the summer by Bowron, who, by political influence, had got the appointment as land-agent which had been promised to James Brown, and who now left for Quebec, where he was engaged to build lighthouses on the island of Anticosti, and spent the remainder of his life in building and overseeing such structures on the St. Lawrence, dying at Quebec about 1845. Bowron sent for the settlers to meet him at Hunter's house, when he made a plausible speech, promising to faithfully fulfill to them all the assurances the governor had made to Brown. Soon after they discovered that their ostensible friend was in treaty to buy up the claims to the gentlemen who held grants for their land. This decided them to leave at once for the lots for which they held location-tickets. To the idea of moving they had become more reconciled on finding out many of the drawbacks of their present situation, the greatest of which was distance from mill. They had to go to Fort Covington, Williamstown, Coteau or St. Timothy, all of them involving long and dangerous voyages in frail canoes, which they were awkward in managing. Often were they overtaken by those sudden squalls characteristic of lake St. Francis, and not only had their bags of flour soaked by water but had hairbreadth escapes with their lives. Thomas Brown with a neighbor on one occasion went to St Timothy mill. In returning, a storm arose and they had to make for the shore of Hungry bay. There was no house near and the marsh on every side was full of water. By chance, a hunter passed the second day and gave them a light, so that they had a fire. For two days and nights they were compelled by the storm to remain, their only food a fish thrown up wounded by the gale. Another settler who had gone to Williamstown to buy a bag of flour, was detained 3 days by the wind. So great was the difficulty in conveying boards from Fort Covington, that they found it easier to saw them by hand. On a boat that went to the Fort for supplies, the settlers who held the paddle gave much uneasiness to the others by steering boldly across from headland to headland, instead of coasting along shore, and one of them repeatedly called out to him "Keep close to Crete; keep close to Crete." They brought back in their boat a young pig or two and other supplies.

It was true the lake had also its advantages, as it gave them water communication in summer and formed the best of roads in winter, but, on the other hand, the Teafield behind isolated them, except during sleighing, from the interior of the country, and by this time they had learned the soil was better along the Chateauguay and Trout river. Ellice's agent threatening to eject them unless they would buy their lots, the settlers almost unanimously determined upon leaving. The only concession they could wring from him was leave to return and cut the hay that might grow on their clearings until such time as new owners went into possession. The privilege was of no value, as their new lots were at too great a distance to allow of hauling it. In the fall (1823) they set out to see the lots provided for them in Elgin, and found a guide to them in a negro, Black William, who was an escaped slave and deformed from a timber having fallen upon him at a raising. He was unmarried and lived alone on 3, 1st concession, maintaining himself by hunting. Beside him there was only one other resident in the interior of the township, an American of the name of Palmer, who had temporarily left his own place in Constable in order to make potash in the Canadian woods. He had a shanty and a small clearance where the Presbyterian church now stands.

The poor man died in Malone poorhouse at an advanced age. On ascertaining their lots, the settlers put up shanties, and returned to their homes by the lake. All that winter was spent in preparations for moving, and early in the spring, while the sleighing was still good, they abandoned forever the clearings and betterments they had made with such incredible self-sacrifice. All did not leave that spring, a few remaining in the hope that the threat to eject them would not be acted upon, but they also, before other two years, had to follow, and only three remained and paid the claimants of their lots, and they did so because by this time they had livestock for which they could not get hay in Elgin.

Thus ended in disaster Dalhousie settlement, whose early days were so promising, furnishing an early warning, often since repeated, but of little influence upon public men, for the same mistake has been made in the Northwest, of allowing crown lands to pass into the hands of other than actual settlers. While the dispersion of the Old Countrymen led to the more rapid settlement of Elgin and the southern side of Godmanchester, it had a decided effect upon the future prospects of St. Anicet, for had they been allowed to remain, they would have spread over the muncipality, which would have become, like the others in the county, the seat of an English, instead of a French-speaking population.

The subsequent history of the settlement is so strikingly illustrative of the political changes in the province, that I give it, although it extends beyond the period to which this narative is designed to be confined. The lots wrested from their first settlers found, in course of time, purchasers, and again the land along the lake was occupied by about a dozen Irish and Scotch families, who plodded on quietly, redeeming the wilderness and converting it into desirable farms. They lived in peace for over half a century and might have gone on in the even tenor of their ways had not Mr. Ellice, in 1867, sold the seigniory and with it the land he owned in the county of Huntingdon. The company that bought his rights was active in realizing every dollar possible, and the portion of Teafield they had acquired, they sold, for a trifling sum, to the late Mr. Demers of Valleyfield. After taking off the scrub bush that covered it, sawing what was large enough and selling the remainder as cordwood, he conceived the idea of disposing of it for cultivation.

On Thursday evening, the regular monthly meeting of the Presbyterian "Women of the Church" was held at the home of Mrs. Lavictoire, Lockhart St. Twenty-five ladies attended. The devotional period was taken by Jessie Robinson, Rose Young and Betty Stewart. The business meeting followed. It was very gratifying to find that receipts to date from the "Make Believe Tea" were some $60.00. Also receipts for the Bake Sale were well over $40.00. Everyone is busy with knitting and sewing for the Fall Bazaar.

After the business meeting was adjourned the ladies put on their Easter Bonnets ready for the judging. This sounds all very simple but let's not forget these hats had to be made by the ladies and the things used had to be found in their kitchens. This little stunt proved very interesting and enjoyable to all.

Winners were 1st, Mrs. McMahon and 2nd Kay Cowper.

Delicious refreshments were then served by the committee in charge.

SPRING

Quite likely we shall have several spells of 'not so good' weather before the arrival of summer, but once again we have been very fortunate in having a prolonged touch of spring which has been very much better than most of the provinces, as for instance last Saturday's blizzard in the Maritimes. We notice many glimpses of lawns which have been invisible for months past. In no time we shall find the buds and sprouts in evidence.

HERE AND THERE

Mrs. Lucy Alloway on a long week-end visit to her daughter Betty Champagne of Pointe Claire, where she hopes to welcome her son-in-law, who arrives by air from France today. After a short vacation with his family, he will return to France by air, his family leaving Montreal by boat to take up their home with him in Paris on 2nd May. Mrs. M. Manks, also of "Amiens" has extended her visit to daughter in Springfield, Mass. for another month. Mr. Roland Stewart moving to new address this week. He will in future reside at "Amiens", Apt. 2. Dave and Mrs. Watson have not yet returned to "Cambrai" from their visit to N.D.G. to see their daughter and new grandchild. Mrs. Julia Robinson of "Sicily" is still away on visit to her daughter Mrs. Latham.

HOSPITAL

Allan Murray of "Arras" is a patient in Queen Mary Veterans Hospital for check-up and treatment. This very popular and obliging resident is greatly missed and all wish him a speedy recovery from the relapse he underwent as a result of his wound. Our very best wishes Allan and also to Mrs. S. Pugh of "Somme" who is still a patient in Lachine General Hospital. It has been a pleasure to see several old convalescents around again with the better weather, among them Walt. Ramsbottom; Tom Wilkinson and Ken. Fessenden. Another friend, N. Rabb of "Sicily" quite home with his old knee complaint, which we hope will soon be back to normal.

SOLUTION TO LAST WEEK'S POSER.

The King instructed that the division of the estate be carried out by one son only, and that the other son should then have first choice.

ANOTHER ONE!

A touring party about to travel 12,000 miles, much of it across unfrequented highways with no probability of being able to obtain new tires, after having the car thoroughly overhauled, were told that the four tires would be quite safe for 4,000 miles each, but no farther. To be sure that they had the correct number of tires to complete the tour. How many spare tires would the party be required to carry? Solution next week.

ACTIVITIES.

The results of the Carpet Bowling Tournament held on March 20th and 21st. were as follows:

20th. inst.

Winning Team skippered by Mrs. Archibald with score of 10.
2nd. Place Team skippered by Mrs. McKenzie S. with score of 9.

21st. inst.

Winning Team skippered by Mrs. Archibald with score of 13.
2nd. Place skippered by Mrs. McVeigh with score of 11.

Saturday 24th. inst. the usual well attended and successful Bingo was held in the Community Hall, sponsored by the Mens' Club. The Ladies' Sewing Circle and Wednesday evening Weekly Card Party was held as usual.

INCIDENTALLY.

It is sincerely hoped that the front page writer of the last issue of another newspaper who reported action taken by Dunver Road ladies regarding STOP signs etc. has attention to these remarks. Mentioning that McLeod Avenue has two schools (by my count three, seeing that the last one is practically ready for use) his facetious remark that there is also an "old peoples home" there also, is one of the many misleading and utterly incorrect and irresponsible statements which has caused Vetville residents to resent to the point that they are losing the pride once felt of Vetville. It has since been learned that a leading Gleaner writer, eventually managed after great trouble, to contact the writer of the article under review. He admitted his remark applied to this community, and was subsequently compelled to admit that he knew virtually nothing whatever about Vetville. Such irresponsible pen wielders, evidently feel no sense of responsibility, and apparently fail to realize that such remarks and references to Vetville have already created in the minds of many readers, the impression that this Royal Canadian Legion sponsored Housing Development, is a kind of charitable institution erected for elderly and needy veterans and their dependents. For the information of any interested parties who have been mislead in regard to Vetville, it is a project of apartment buildings containing 1½ and 2½ rooms rented to elderly and infirm veterans and their dependents. They are modern dwellings for which rentals are charged. Tenants have to provide their own telephones if they require them, pay for their electricity and provide their other needs in the same manner as if dwelling in any other apartment. The Community Hall was provided so that social activities could be arranged, and entertainment of various kinds were until the fall of last year, of regular occurrence through a number of Legion Branches who have continued since its inception to take an interest in the welfare of the residents. Several amateur talent shows also provided similar entertainment. Such social services were not given as a form of charity, but out of respect for elderly folk and old comrades. It is hoped these remarks will dissipate many false impressions which can only distress residents, who still retain their pride and independence even though they are not young or in poor physical condition as a result of their services in the Armed Forces. To make matters even worse, a letter to the editor of a Montreal paper by a visitor who came as a guest, and which has been the topic since, is considered by virtually all residents to be in extremely bad taste; irresponsible and undoubtedly will bring much undeserved criticism upon the whole community. It is sincerely hoped that prominence will be given any letters sent the local paper in rebuttal of the statements given in the letter referred to. It is felt by all that any legitimate grievance on behalf of a tenant by an outsider should have been sent to the Board of Directors and certainly not to the press. Some of the suggested remedies (?) were both inane, and would be intrusion in the personal lives of residents, most of whom resent any interference in their mode of life. But 'fools step in where angels fear to tread'.

COMING EVENTS.

Tomorrow evening the C.P.O. A. will hold an Executive Meeting at 8 p.m. in the Community Hall Card Room. Friday 30th. the Carpet Bowling will commence at 7.30 p.m. Saturday at 2 p.m. the Girl Guides and Brownies will hold a Sale of Work in the Community Hall On Monday next 2nd. April, the Bowling League will hold a Bingo starting at 7.30 p.m. The weekly Card Party (Whist) will be held as usual this evening.

BREAKING IT GENTLY?

A Road Gang at work had the misfortune to have one of the gang killed by a passing car. Seeking a volunteed to break the sad news as gently as possible to the deceased's wife, a member of the gang offered his services. Arriving at her residence he rang the bell and when the good woman answered, touching his hat he enquired if Widow Allsop lived there. Drawing herself up indignantly she replied "My name is Allsop, but I ain't no widder woman." "That's what you think, but just you come and see what we have here in this handcart" he told her.

"Oh what a beautiful morning!" The familiar song could have been echoed many times last week as we awoke to brilliant sunshine. Am I being too optimistic in saying good-bye to winter when there are still several days left in March? Maybe March will have its last fling and go roaring out like a lion. It seems it was a toss-up whether March came in like a lion or lamb. With April just around the corner, and spring in the air, why worry about March?

Mrs. Syd Mitchell, chairman of the Ladies Committee, and very well known in West End for all her undertakings on its behalf, has very kindly consented to replace me as Correspondent for a while. In the meantime would everybody please give Mrs. Mitchell the same co-operation they have given me in the past. Just call Oxford 2-6060. Thanks everyone for calling in news, keep up the good work.

Another appeal to all boys to please return their hockey sweaters to their coaches.

As usual our Grocery Bingo on Wednesday, was very well attended. Lady Luck hovered over one table in particular all evening, with Jean Ingram walking away with the grand total of four prizes. Won't mention who was the lucky winner of the bootees, maybe we should watch for further developments. These bingos are loads of fun with everyone joining in gay repartee. How about coming to the next one? Mr. and Mrs. J. Simmons kindly volunteered their services as conveners at the next Bingo to be held in Mrs. Mackey's home.

Ladies Committee Meeting — Monday, April 2nd 8.30 p.m. At the home of Mrs. L. Golden, 140 St. Denis Street.

The study period followed with Mrs. George Woodhouse continuing the Questionnaire begun at the previous meeting, "Where Are We". Seeone Pack

At the last two meetings of the pack, the programme proved to be quite eventful. The first and probably most important item was the presentation of a totem pole to Mrs. Rutherford who represents the pack at its Akela. The creation of a new future came about as Robert McManus, Norman Perry and Paul Fletcher were invested as new members in the pack. Along with these investitures four proficiency badges were also presented. Toymaker badges, three in number were given to John Lalonde, John Packer and Glenn Cawall, while John Lalonde was also presented with his Team Players badge as he is an active member of one of Chateauguay's hockey teams. Last but certainly not least, Hubert Janasch and Angus Bailey presented themselves in the hope of joining the pack.

Beaver Pack

Jimmie Eagles and Herbie Hart were the central figures at the pack at the last two meetings as Jimmie was invested and Herbie was presented with his Team Players badge. This badge is quite a popular one with the boys and it just goes to prove that this generation is quite an athletic and sportsminded one.

Panther Pack

The only presentation of the evening was that of a second star made to Steven Nash, who in the very near future is going to move up into one of the Scout troops in the surrounding district. Brian Timms and Stuart Ken, both members of the 1st Chateauguay Sea Scouts, are working on their Cub Instructors with the boys in the Panther Pack. This badge takes about two months and depends upon the ability to work with boys. It is a very worthwhile badge and once a person has it he may be called upon at any time to help out with a cub pack when assistance is needed.

Cheeta Pack

Two weeks ago Michael Gruczynski was received by Scoutmaster John Barnett as a member of the Maple Boy Scouts Troop. He went up as a second star cub which will enable him to wear his Leaping Wolf Badge in Scouts. At the last two meetings of the pack, Yellow was the Top Six each night. The pack still has room for four more boys. If you would like to have your boy join Cubs, you may either call Mr. Tom Stockdale at 692-6975 or attend one of the pack meetings on Friday evenings at the Heights Recreation Club on Carlyle Aveue.

That's all the news for this week but continue to watch for my column and I will try to keep you up to date on what is happening.

Jottings On School News

Protestant Schools of Chateauguay

In last week's report on the recent Career Conference held at Chateauguay High School the following names were inadvertently omitted. As well as Grade 8 student serving at the dinner, grade 9 girls were also very active. Mrs. Edith Bate, who was in charge of the dinner was capably assisted by Mrs. Stowkowski, Mrs. Harris and Mrs. Bickerstaff. All worked very hard and a vote of thanks is extended to them by Principal, Mr. Russell Mosher.

The presentation of two plays by the High School students on Friday evening, was well received by some one hundred people who were in attendance. The plays were produced and directed under the capable Mr. and Mrs. Don Patterson. Mrs. Patterson is the former Sylvia Gentry, who was a teacher at Maple School prior to her marriage. The Book Fair under the guidance of Mr. Eaman was also a success although another event of extreme interest to the Community possibly took away many who would have normally been in attendance.

-o-

The Julius Richardson Home and School Association meeting of last week was not as well attended as had been anticipated. Mrs. Jan Morgan, Principal of Howick High School presented an interesting program via tape recorder and commentary which was received with great interest by those in attendance. Hope there will be a greater interest shown in the Military Whist slated for this Wednesday evening. You can only show your interest by your attendance at these carefully planned affairs which take a great deal of time and effort by the various committees.

Hear that 10 ladies under the guiding hand of Mrs. Bill Barclay (Beverley) of the Heights, worked most of Saturday setting up the new Library at the Julius Richardson School. Beverley is an experienced and qualified Librarian at the Baron Byng High School in Montreal and the ladies are most assuredly in excellent hands.

St. Andrew's Observe 129th Anniversary

A Congregational Dinner at the Memorial Hall, marked the 129th Anniversary of St. Andrew's United Church on Friday, March 23rd. Over two hundred members of the congregation and friends gathered for the chicken dinner which was convened by Unit 6 of the United Church Women.

Master of Ceremonies for the entertainment which followed the dinner was Mayor David M. Currie of the Heights who is always enjoyed.

Dave Reid's rendition of a Drummond poem was a highlight of the evening but we hear that the Rev Fraser's cowboy music stole the show, Sorry I do not have a complete program to offer but from all accounts it was most enjoyable.

St. Andrew's Notes

A Ceremony of Dedication to Missions will be held at St. Andrew's at the time of offering next Sunday, April 1st. This service replaces the affiliation ceremonies in which the Explorer and CGIT groups formerly participated with the W.M.S. ## Let's Think

By Anne-Marie Pearson Côté

About Local History

"What is this life if full of care
We have no time to stand and stare."

How often when we are walking over the very new bridge that spans the river at Chateauguay Centre do we pause to consider that the old stone church of St. Joachim which was so carefully, painstakingly strengthened and re-roofed last summer was first built in the year 1774, making it one of the oldest buildings in this district.

How many generations of worshippers have passed through its doors in those two hundred odd years hurrying on foot or by horsedrawn cart or sleigh from the old field stone farmhouses and homesteads that line the riverbank?

By comparison with many buildings in Europe or the British Isles those of Canada are quite recent for back in the old country many churches and cathedrals date back to the beginnning of Christianity, some being rebuilt on the same site as the rough wooden structures of the Early Christians.

Inside we find elaborate tombs of knights and their ladies fashioned in brass and alabaster telling us a great deal about the local people, some of whom made history, some who were just plain folk like Frideswide Gilbert of Lathkilldale in Derbyshire, England, who lived in the reign of the first Queen Elizabeth.

A simple brass plate depicting Frideswide wearing the nuff and farthingale of her day was placed above her resting place by her orother John Gilbert with the following poem beneath:

'Frideswide Gilbert to this grave,
Hath resigned her earthly part,
Her soul to God, that first it gave
On angels wings went with her heart.
A virtuous maid she lived and died,
Hurtful to none, but good to all.
Religious, modest, hating pride,
These virtues crowne her funerall.'

Huntingdon Plaza

THE merchants of Huntingdon are to be congratulated for conceiving a plan to make Huntingdon a really up-to-date and live shopping centre in its own right. While not all have entered into the plan, the majority have and are quite enthusiastic about it.

The plan roughly is this: Those who have agreed, will operate under a plan called the Huntingdon Plaza. Each member will display a sign indicating that he is operating under the organization and rules of the plan. These merchants will carry advertisements in this newspaper each week to announce their offerings to the public. When purchases of a dollar value are made at any of these stores, an entry form will be given to the value of each dollar spent and this will be deposited in a box,' when a drawing will be made each week to determine winners of cash prizes. Also a jackpot will be established and if this is not claimed at the time of drawing, it will be added to until it is.

It is hoped by this means to attract many more shoppers to Huntingdon as well as the usual and regular trade. All the rules and full particulars of this plan appear in an advertisement in this issue and all will be well advised to study it and learn what is in store for them.

The plan will be on a trial basis at first and it will depend upon the response of the buying public, whether further plans will be put into effect when this one ends. We feel that the merchants promoting the plan are really trying to encourage shopping at home and in this they should be well supported. It has been pointed out that with this co-operative effort on the part of the merchants, that all lines of goods will be covered and the same advantages as offered by any shopping centre will emerge. Thus the name — Huntingdon Plaza. Huntingdon is well supplied with stores and services of all kinds if the people will only take the time to study them. By means of advertising, the merchants hope to make the people even more aware of what is being offered right here at home.

While the cry has been put up in the past that shopping could be done with more advantage at other points, an argument to the contrary has always been it costs money to travel to other points and when time is considered also, there is very little, if any, saving. The merchants intend to try and convince the shopping public that it will be better to shop in Huntingdon and in addition there will be an added advantage of several buyers each week winning cash prizes. The money so earned can be used as you wish, you can add it to your bank account as savings, or you can use it to buy other things you may need at any store, or in any other way you want. There are no strings attached, you do as you like with what you win. It does not matter where you live, if you do your shopping in Huntingdon and deposit your entry forms, you stand the chance of winning any of the cash prizes. What is more, all stand the chance of winning the jackpot prize which is in addition to all others.

Could you wish for more? You stay home and do your shopping, from time to time you will be offered bargains and every time you make a purchase you may be the lucky winner of a weekly cash prize, or the jackpot. The drawing for the prizes will be an event in itself each week and no one will want to miss it.

Disarmament Problems

FOR a long time the question of a decrease in armaments and the banning of nuclear tests has been the subject of the leading nations of the world as well as those of less status. While from time to time progress seems to have been made, we have never yet reached a stage that was really hopeful. Disappointment after disappointment have been registered and there has been akin to despair that the matter will ever be settled.

While the Western nations have been more than willing to make sacrifices in order to achieve the objective, Russia has always proved the stumbling block.

At this time however, another ugly monster has reared its head and may be the cause of any decisions being postponed. While China has never been considered at previous meetings, she may pose a problem unless conditions change. Recently it was announced that China is considering nuclear testing. This would seem to indicate that China has evolved a system of nuclear weapons which was not known previously. Another factor is that a break between Russia and China may be in the offing.

If these prove to be factors in world affairs, we of the Western nations may find ourselves facing two Communist blocks each with the same aspirations. It has been said on many occasions that Communist China has been considering herself as the stronger block. Russia it is said has stopped helping China and has asked for full payment of all help given to date. China is said not to be in a position to make repayment. If this state should continue, it will gradually build up friction and it could end in the two being at one another's throats. Disarmament would then be out of the question for there would be no telling the end result.

In such an event, would the Western nations go to the help of either one of the communist blocks, or would they let them fight it out? It would seem that whomever were supported and whichever won, that little would be gained for the world as a whole. While little is said about China, we might be surprised to know what progress has been made over the years. Russia at one time looked upon China as an ally to her cause, but of late notes of fear have been heard as to China and the possibility of attack upon Russia itself. Both are powerful nations as to resources in manpower at least. We know that Russia is powerful militarily, but we do not know so much of China. With the various equipment that Russia has supplied to China, it is possible the Chinese may have a powerful and efficient fighting force. If nuclear weapons are added, who knows how dangerous she may be.

It can be the unexpected quarter that can change the scene at the disarmament conference. If China-Russia overcome their internation difficulties and then if Russia will agree on something regarding disarmament and nuclear testing, then we may be able to think of disarming.

Algerian Ceasefire

THE ceasefire reached by the French army and the Moslem insurgents in Algeria means that France is free of war for the first time in more than two decades.

Continuous war since 1939 has sapped the human resources, the economy and the spirit of France. A nation counted as a major bastion of Western strength in the Cold War when the Atlantic alliance was formed a dozen years ago, France has been a weak link because of costly colonial conflict.

The Second World War, which cost more than 200,000 French lives in battle deaths alone, was followed immediately by the bitter, nine-year Indo-China war, which left some 92,000 dead and missing on the French side and cost an estimated $8,500,000,000.

Less than 15 weeks after Communist and French leaders agreed on truce terms in Indo-China, the Algerian insurrection erupted with a series of armed raids Nov. 1, 1954, All Saints' Day.

The Algerian war has cost France more than $1,000,000,000 a year, equivalent to the total current budget of the province of Ontario. Estimates of bloodshed in the guerrilla-style struggle run to 250,000 killed, including some 20,000 French soldiers and an equal number of civilians.

President Charles de Gaulle still faces major hurdles in transforming the ceasefire into peace, among them the opposition of rightwing extremists in France and the 1,000,000 Europeans in Algeria who fear the prospect of government by the Moslem majority.

But in the ceasefire the de Gaulle regime has brought off a settlement the mere hint of which in past years destroyed the Fourth Republic and triggered two mutinies in the French army.

Peace can free France to realize the rich potential of her economic strength, permit her to meet the demands of partnership in the Western alliance and allow her to fulfil the role of a great power in world affairs.

With the stigma of fighting a colonial war removed, France will speak with a stronger voice to neutralists as well as East and West.

France now can resume fully her centuries-old role as a fountainhead of western civilization and thought, a role ironically illustrated in the admission of Algerian insurgent leaders that their inspiration came from the philosophers of the French revolution.

Provincial Capital Report

QUEBEC (CP) — An attentive Legislature this week heard Natural Resources Minister Rene Levesque describe a situation that might mean catastrophe for the lower Beauce region of the Chaudiere Valley.

The Minister warned that a clay and gravel dam near Lac Megantic, 135 miles south of Quebec City, is saturated with water and might crack under the pressure of the spring run-off.

The Government had asked Quebec's Civil Defence Organization, along with the army and municipal authorities, to be prepared to evacuate towns and village that might be hit by a 30-foot wall of water if the Gayhurst Dam bursts.

Late this week, the water level at the dam was 20 feet below the critical point and break-up seemed at least a week away. The whole Chaudiere was ice-covered, as well as Lac Megantic and the dam reservoir, which can hold more than 4,000,000 cubic feet of water.

Bulldozers were plowing a run-off dyke to take the pressure off the dam when the water rises. Meanwhile, army engineers were dynamiting ice along the Chaudiere to allow it to flow more freely when break-up comes.

The $2,000,000 dam was built by Megantic Construction Company in 1954, with a five-year guarantee. An earth slide damaged it in 1958, causing $200,000 in repairs.

The two turbines at the power plant below the dam have produced only 40 per cent of their estimated capacity and the town has been forced to buy power from a private company.

Mr. Levesque said the dam has "degenerated progressively," though there were firm hopes it would not burst, the Government's duty was "to prepare for the worst."

The dam has been "badly planned and badly built," he added.

Meanwhile, the Private Bills Committee continued its far-reaching work.

The Montreal Charter Amendments Bill, now in its fourth week of study, saw permission given the City to use a subsidies system to get private firms interested in replacing slums with new buildings.

The Committee gave the go-ahead for construction of Montreal's 21-mile, $150,000,000 subway.

A number of amendments to the electoral system of the City were made law, among them provisions for Sunday election and a 45-member City Council. Present council has 66 members and until 1951, there were 99 members.

As the week ended, Opposition leader Daniel Johnson scalded the preparation of the Montreal Bill as "a scandal." His remarks came after Premier Lesage said next Wednesday and Thursday will be devoted to a second Montreal Bill concerning amendments to the Metropolitan Corporation.

"The (Montreal's Administration) should come with a better prepared Bill, "Mr. Johnson said. "It's a scandal. The Bill should have been better prepared."

A Bill that will allow businessmen to use their machinery as borrowing collateral also was criticized during second reading by Opposition Leader Johnson. He said it would lead to abuses by finance companies.

"The day the Bill receives Royal assent will be a holiday for finance companies," Mr. Johnson went on.

Attorney-General Georges Lapalme said Quebec is the only part of North America that doesn't allow such loans and businessmen have found this a hindrance to development.

Mr. Johnson said the Union Nationale favored the Bill in principle as it would aid small businessmen, however it's applications should be closely watched by the Government.

Statement on State Monopoly Of Electrical Power By Shawinigan Water And Power Co.

MONTREAL — The creation of a single state monopoly supplying the electricity requirements of the entire province would not be in the best interests of the province itself, or of the consumers of electric power, Chairman J.A. Fuller of The Shawinigan Water and Power Company said at a meeting on Wednesday March 21st.

"In our opinion, the interests of the public can best be served by maintaining the investor-owned utilities as a strong yardstick of comparison", he said.

Addressing shareholders at the Company's annual general meeting, Mr. Fuller repeated Shawinigan's suggestion for establishment of a permanent body of representatives of the investor-owned and government owned sectors of the power industry to study all aspects of the complex matter.

He said: "We are prepared to place our many years of experience at the disposal of the government and we believe that in close co-operation with Hydro-Quebec, any problems with regard to the provision of an adequate and reliable power supply at reasonable rates to all areas, may be solved."

The Chairman's speech dealt entirely with arguments advanced by proponents of nationalization.

He denied that Canada's largest investor-owned utility made large profits which, in the event of nationalization, would revert to the province.

"The so-called profits of investor-owned utilities simply constitute a normal part of their cost of capital," Mr. Fuller said. "In 1961, Shawinigan earned 5.12 per cent on its net investment in power operations, a rate of return considered low in comparison with generally accepted rates of return in Canada and the United States."

Mr. Fuller pointed out that both Shawinigan and Hydro-Quebec, the provincially-owned electric utility, must raise funds to pay for new facilities. The interest paid by Hydro-Quebec on the sale of its bonds is inevitably part of the cost of the power; the investor-owned utilities must realize a return on their investment which is sufficient to pay the interest on money borrowed or obtained, in their case, partly by sale of preferred or common shares.

"Our shareholders have invested their money voluntarily" he told the annual meeting. "If, however, the government acquires a business, every taxpayer becomes an owner, whether he wants to be or not, and without any control or voice in the conduct of its affairs. Under these circumstances, ownership, in the practical sense, becomes a myth."

The shareholders were told that the level of all Shawinigan distribution rates is lower than that of 1939 and that there was no true basis of comparison with the rates of Hydro-Quebec because the provincially-owned utility serves the densely-populated metropolitan area of Montreal where the cost of services per customer is far lower.

In spite of this, Mr. Fuller said, Shawinigan's rural rates are substantially lower than those of Ontario Hydro. And the city rates of Quebec Power Company, a Shawinigan subsidiary, are slightly below those of Hydro-Quebec in Montreal, even though Quebec Power Company also serves large rural areas.

The Shawinigan Chairman recalled that proponents of nationalization argued that the natural resource industries, including electric utilities, should be owned by "the people" and that the top administrative and technical posts should be held by French-speaking Canadians.

"The 'people' are owners of rivers which happen to be a convenient means of turning water wheels to make electricity, providing someone will invest the necessary millions of dollars to build the plants to produce the electricity and the transmission and distribution lines to carry it where it is needed," he said.

He reminded shareholders that Shawinigan had a gross investment in property, plant and equipment of about $500 million.

Mr. Fuller said: "We respect the perfectly legitimate desire of French-Canadians to be masters in their own house. At Shawinigan our policy is, and has been, to seek competent French and English Canadians for employment and to promote any employee, regardless of race or religion, on the basis of his ability to do the job required."

He said that more than half the holders of the Company's common shares live in the Province of Quebec and more than 85 per cent of the Company's employees are French-Canadian.

Mr. Fuller observed that the Company's business was highly technical and that two-thirds of the present executive officers are engineers, mainly electrical engineers. It had taken some years for them to reach executive ranks.

The first electrical engineers were graduated from French-Canadian universities in 1943, he said. Of the total number of graduate engineers employed over the last 10 years, 56 per cent were French-Canadian.

In addition, he said, three out of four division managers are French-Canadian as are the 15 district superintendents and all the division and district accountants. In the Shawinigan group, including Southern Canada Power and Quebec Power, 20 out of 44 directors, or 45.5 per cent, are French-Canadian.

Dundee

DUNDEE — Last Wednesday afternoon the Zion United Church Women met in the Church Hall, for their monthly meeting. Mrs. Franklin Cameron lead the devotions using the theme "The Church at large". She read a portion of Isaiah 55 and then read a commentary on it. Mrs. J. Clinton attended the Inaugural Meeting of the Montreal Presbyterial U.C.W. and she gave a very detailed account of the work done there. She said Dr. A. C. Forest, editor of the United Church Observer, urged women of the world to attack poverty, racial discrimination and prejudice with the evangelization of the world as their main duty. Mrs. Clinton then described in detail a pageant called "Yesterday, Today and Forever" portraying the work of the women in the church.

Miss Thelma MacMillan and Mrs. Franklin Cameron were named as representatives of the U.C.W. on the M. and M. Committee. Mrs. Clinton was named as representative on the Board of Steward. Mrs. R. G. Steven was named as Literature Secretary. Enough oil-cloth is to be bought to cover shelves and table in one of the Sunday School rooms to make it more attractive for the children. Old cottons for the Cancer Society are to be collected again this year as well as used Christmas cards for missionary work. A Proverb will be used as a roll call for the next meeting. $275 is the allowance for Zion U.C.W. to be used for missionary purposes. Light refreshments were served at the close of the meting by the hostesses, Miss Thelma MacMillan and Mrs. Franklin Cameron.

Report From Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP) — A consumer subsidy of 12 cents a pound to increase butter consumption and slice to size the government's bulging butter stocks was announced in the Common last week.

The subsidy means the government will continue to pay its current 64-cent-a-pound support price to butter producers but will sell it to wholesalers for 52 cents.

Loss in the transaction will be an estimated $34,500,000 a year from the public treasury but it will put butter on a more competitive footing with margarine, the vegetable-oil substitute which sells for about 20 cents a pound less.

The surplus March 1 amounted to 165,000,000 pounds and was expected to shoot up to 250,000,000 pounds later in the year if the government did not take action. The subsidy becomes effective May 1.

Butter prices now average 68 cents a pound in eastern Canada and 71 cents a pound in the west. With 12 cents off these prices, it is expected to halt the steady decline in consumption that started in 1953 when the government raised its support level to 64 cents from 56.

During the same period, sales of margarine have risen to 184,000,000, pounds a year from 145,000,000.

Sales Slump

Last year Canadian dairy farmers produced 350,000,000 pounds of butter but sold only 275,000,000. About 70 per cent of production is centred in Ontario and Quebec.

Farmer organizations, which have been urging the government for months to adopt a 14-cent subsidy, welcomed the plan. They bank on it to boost consumption, which stood at 34 pounds per capita a few years ago and in 1961 sank to 15.1 pounds.

Also announced last week were unemployment figures for February. There were 583,000 jobless, 38,000 more than in January.

The count was 136,000 lower than in February last year when unemployment hit a post-war peak of 719,000.

The jobless total represents 9.1 per cent of the labor force compared with 8.5 per cent a month earlier and 11.3 per cent in February 1961.

The big question was whether the February total would be the peak for this winter. In the last nine years winter unemployment reached its highest point twice in January, twice in February and five times in March.

Transport in Red

The plight of publicly-owned transportation last year was made public with the tabling of annual reports of Canadian National Railways and Trans-Canada Air Lines.

The public treasury will have to pick up the tab on $67,307,772 deficit for the CNR and $6,450,032 for TCA.

Government solutions that are still at the discussion stage could involve implementation of the MacPherson Royal Commission report on railway transportation and a scheme to get TCA and Canadian Pacific Airlines, its privately-owned rival, to co-operate on international routes.

The MacPherson report urged the government to overhaul its transport policies so that the railways would be free to abandon unused branch lines and uneconomic passenger trains as well as to set their rates in the market, subject only to a floor and ceiling.

Implementation of the report would involve a 15-year transition period, during which subsidies would start at $100,000,000 in the first year but gradually shrink to $22,000,000.

Flying Habits Change

TCA blamed its deficit largely on an unexpected change in flying habits. There was a sudden change to economy class travel from the more expensive classes. While TCA expected 69 per cent of its passengers to travel economy, the figure was 79 per cent.

The week also saw the start of discussions on the feasibility of a national power grid to transmit electricity from any one part of the country to any other.

Nine provincial governments — Quebec stayed away — met with federal officials and formed a working committee of experts to explore the technical, economic and policy problems involved.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker said some distant power sources will be outmoded unless development comes soon. In some cases it might be necessary to export some of the power.

Sees Policy Shift

Premier Bennett of British Columbia intercepted this as a change in emphasis in government policy which until now has been to avoid long-term export of large amounts of electric power.

The grid would provide for inter-regional exchange of power as well as long-haul transmission at extremely high voltage.

Quebec spurned the conference on grounds the federal government is meddling in provincial affairs.

The federal-provincial talks also served to bring together Premier Bennett and Justice Minister Fulton whose differences over development of the Columbia river have been sharp.

The Columbia river treaty, already signed by the United States, has been stalled because the Federal Government and B.C. are at odds over financing and disposition of power.

Message from U.S.

In the Commons, Mr. Diefenbaker admitted having received a message on the subject from Washington.

Although the Prime Minister would not elaborate on contents of the message, CCF-New Democratic Party leader H.W. Herridge suggested it was a letter from President Kennedy seeking "an indication of Canadian plans.

Mr. Herridge noted there had been press reports in the United States saying that the State and Interior departments had recommended that Canada be urged to ratify the treaty immediately and settle its dispute with British Columbia later by arbitration. The project would cost $458,600,000.

Another instalment of 1961 census figures issued Friday by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics shows that many rural districts have not shared in Canada's spectacular population growth during the past five years. Half the 1956-61 increase from 16,080,791 to 18,233,247 was recorded in only eight urban districts — Montreal Toronto, Vancouver, Winnipeg, Edmonton, Calgary, Ottawa and Quebec. By contrast, 28 rural census districts in six provinces showed population declines and many other rural areas recorded only slight gains.

LITTLE DENMARK FLOWER SHOP

African Violets

The African Violet is actually a member of the same family as the Gloxinia, and was originally discovered in the nineteenth century in tropical Africa, where it blooms abundantly in shady rock crevices.

Since that time many new varieties have been developed and the popularity of African Violets has increased immensely. They make ideal flowering plants for the home. They are moderate in size and bloom almost continously on an ordinary living-room window sill. They can be propagated by leaf cuttings, and so engage the interest of many home gardeners who enjoy watching them develop from a single leaf to a beautiful plant. There are many colours to choose from — whites, blues, purples, pinks and amethyst.

African Violets require a temperature of about 70 degrees in daytime, and about 10 degrees cooler at night. Make sure there is plenty of moisture in the air; the higher the room temperature, the more humidity the plants need. Try placing a dish of water near your plants, or placing the pots on a saucer half full of moist pebbles.

An east, west or south window is suitable for African Violets. They need plenty of light but should not receive the direct rays of the sun. It is better to keep a filmy curtain between the window and plants.

African Violets can be potted in the same manner as your other house plants, however bags of African Violet soil can be purchased inexpensively at most dime stores and it is advisable to use this special preparation for potting.

It is most important not to wet the leaves or crown of African Violet plants when you are watering them. This can cause the leaves to spot or the crowns to rot. Many people prefer watering from the bottom of the pot. Always be sure to use tepid water when watering African Violets. They will not stand very cold water, or sudden changes in temperature.

As African Violets get older they often form additional crows. For handsome, neat appearing blooming plants it is best to remove these crowns. They can be potted separately, thus adding to your supply. Many people enjoy trading these extra plants with friends in exchange for a different variety.

Butter Prices To Be Reduced May 1st

OTTAWA, March 22, 1962 — Cabinet has authorized the Agricultural Stabilization Board to drop the buying and selling price of butter from 64 to 52 cents a pound effective May 1, the Hon. Douglas S. Harkness, Acting Minister of Agriculture, announced in the House of Commons the past week.

While the selling price will be lowered by 12 cents a pound returns to producers will be maintained at the present 64 cent support level. The Stabilization Board will make necessary compensatory payments to producers of manufacturing milk and cream.

Mr. Harkness said the retail price of butter should emerge at between 56 and 59 cents a pound.

The price at which the Stabilization Board will buy cheese will be set in relation to the fifty-two cent purchase price for butter. Cheese milk shippers will receive the same compensatory payment as is to be made to those supplying milk for butter manufacture.

The revised purchase prices for butter and cheese, plus the compensatory payments, will provide the same measure of support to producers supplying milk for butter and cheese production as is provided under the present support program.

The compensatory payment will be in addition to the 25 cents per hundred pounds subsidy now paid to shippers of manufacturing milk. It will not be paid on milk used in the fluid milk market, nor on surplus milk from producers shipping to the fluid milk market.

The pricing of fluid milk and any control of surplus production in this segment of the industry lies within local jurisdiction in each province, Mr. Harkness explained.

Milk used for the production of concentrated milk products will continue to receive the present subsidy of 25 cents per hundred pounds, but will not be eligible for the additional compensatory payments.

The Stabilization Board has been instructed to enter into discussions with producer and industry representatives with respect to details of the new program, including arrangements for the price transition.

Details will be announced following these talks.

Shawinigan's Record Second To None

Address by J. A. Fuller, Chairman, The Shawinigan Water and Power Company at the annual General Meeting of Shareholders on March 21, 1962.

The year 1961 is now past history. Our Annual Report has given you the story in complete detail, and I therefore intend to discuss a topic which is obviously of great concern to our shareholders, and in fact, to all citizens of the Province. Recently there has been increased advocacy of nationalization of the investor-owned electric utility industry. This advocacy is partly on the basis that it is a natural resource industry. Admittedly, electricity is an essential commodity, and also admittedly, Quebec possesses an abundance of lakes and rivers which provide many sites where the falling waters can be utilized for power production. But this is only a beginning. To develop the sites, not only is there required technical and organizational ability of a high order, but also very large amounts of money. Although costs will vary considerably depending upon the size of the development and its geographical features, a fair average figure today is $200 per horsepower of installation. A one million horsepower development will therefore require $200 million of capital investment. The annual production cost would be, for carrying charges only, about $20 per horsepower, which does not include costs involved in carrying the power to the consumer. This is far from cheap power, and can be equalled or bettered by thermal plants in many parts of the world including North America, where coal, oil or other fuels are available at reasonable prices.

'PROFITS' ONLY RETURN ON INVESTMENT

With the foregoing as a background, let us examine certain arguments put forward by proponents of nationalization, which (other than the payment of Federal income tax on which representations have been made to Ottawa by the investor-owned companies) I believe to be essentially three in number. The first is that the electric utility industry makes "large profits", and that if nationalized, these profits would revert to the Province. "Profits" in this context appears to be defined as the amount remaining after all expenses, including bond interest. The implication here is that it is somehow immoral for the shareholders who have paid their good money to initiate these enterprises to expect—and in fact receive—some return on their investment. To take a specific example, the statement has been made that power produced by Hydro-Quebec plants is sold at cost to the investor-owned utilities, who then make the "profits". What are the facts? The Provincial Government decided some years ago that uncommitted hydro-electric sites should be developed by Hydro-Quebec. Incidentally, at that time Shawinigan had prepared preliminary plans for the development of the Bersimis No. I site. These plans were turned over to Hydro-Quebec, and Shawinigan undertook to buy 300,000 kilowatts from that plant, which facilitated its financing. The most important point, however, is this: When Hydro-Quebec produces power and sells it to an investor-owned utility for transmission and distribution to the ultimate consumers, both Hydro-Quebec and the investor-owned utility are faced with the heavy investments which are characteristic of the electric utility industry. In fact, the new and additional transmission lines, terminals and substations require a capital investment not much less than the investment in generating plant. To illustrate this, the Shawinigan Companies have, since 1952, spent over $152 millions on such facilities.

To finance a power development, Hydro-Quebec must sell bonds and pay interest on them at a rate today of about 5½%. This interest cost is inevitably part of the cost of power. By the same token, if Shawinigan purchases power from the development it must raise funds to pay for the new facilities which are required to transmit and distribute the additional power, and the financing cost is likewise part of the cost of power delivered to the customer. Thus, in both cases power is sold at cost, which includes a return on investment sufficient to pay interest on moneys borrowed or obtained, in the case of investor-owned utilities, partly by sale of additional preferred or common shares.

In this context it is interesting to note that, in 1961, Shawinigan earned 5.12% on its net investment in power operations, a rate of return considered low in comparison with generally accepted rates of return in Canada and the United States. In summary, the so-called "profits" of investor-owned utilities simply constitute a normal part of their cost of capital.

ELECTRICITY RATES

The second argument of those favouring nationalization has to do with rates as such and also uniformity of rates throughout the Province. The levels of Shawinigan distribution rates are all lower than they were in 1939. There is no true basis for comparison with rates of Hydro-Quebec, as it serves the densely populated metropolitan area of Montreal where the cost of service per customer is far lower. Shawinigan, on the other hand, serves many smaller cities, such as Trois-Rivières, Shawinigan, Valleyfield and Sorel, and scattered small towns and villages and extensive rural areas. In this connection, it is to be noted that Shawinigan's rural rates are substantially lower than those of Ontario Hydro. It may also be noted that Quebec Power Company's city rates are slightly below those of Hydro-Quebec in Montreal, even though Quebec Power also serves large rural areas. In any event, it does not appear to be generally known that the electric rates of all investor-owned electric utilities are, by law, rigidly controlled by the Province of Quebec Electricity and Gas Board. Rates must be such as to provide no more than what the Board considers a reasonable return upon the invested capital of the utility. Every single rate must receive Board approval, and the law provides that if any customer or customers of an investor-owned utility feel that the rates charged are unjust, or even if it is felt that the electric service provided is unsatisfactory, an appeal may be made to the Board for redress. Provision is made for public hearing of such a case, where the interested parties may present their respective arguments before the Board issues its decision and final order.

As to uniformity of rates within the Province, there appears to be an impression that uniformity would decentralize industry and bring new industry to presently underdeveloped areas. This is unlikely as electric power is not a significant factor in the total cost of product, except in the case of large electro-metallurgical or electro-chemical industries. Even in the newsprint industry, the cost of power is only about 5% of product value. For general manufacturing, the average cost of electricity is only slightly below 8/10ths of one cent per dollar of product value; it is less than this figure for secondary manufacturing and somewhat above it for primary manufacturing. The important factors in the establishment of industry, as determined by many surveys, are: a favourable atmosphere towards industry; the availability of raw materials and dependable labour; adequate and economical transportation to markets; and after these primary considerations, a dependable supply of electric power. This has been demonstrated time after time in Shawinigan's long years of active and successful experience in bringing new industries to the Province.

For domestic service, the cost of electricity to the average Canadian wage earner is about 1¢ of his earned dollar. In comparison, food accounts for roughly 35¢; clothing, for some 10¢; and shelter, for 15¢ out of every dollar spent.

OWNERSHIP AND MANAGEMENT

The third argument of the proponents of nationalization is that the natural resource industries, including the electric utility industry, should be owned by the people and that the top administrative and technical posts should be held by French-speaking Canadians. First, as to ownership, it is often stated that the "people" own the great natural resource—"electricity". This just isn't so. The "people" are the owners of rivers, which happen to be a convenient means of turning water wheels to make electricity providing someone will invest the necessary millions of dollars to build the plants to produce the electricity and the transmission and distribution lines to carry it to where it is needed. In the case of Shawinigan, our gross investment in property, plant and equipment is some $500 million and after depreciation, is about $355,000,000. Purchasers of bonds have invested $168 million; purchasers of common and preferred shares have invested $143 million, and $61 million of earnings have been retained in the business.

Over 50% of our Common shareholders reside in the province of Quebec. They have invested their money voluntarily. If, however, the Government acquires a business, every taxpayer becomes an owner, whether he wants to be or not, and without any control or voice in the conduct of its affairs. Under these circumstances, ownership, in the practical sense, is a myth.

As to operation and management, there has been criticism on the ground that French-Canadians are not given positions of responsibility in our business. Let me say that we respect the perfectly legitimate and understandable desire that French-Canadians be masters in their own house. In Shawinigan, our policy is and has been to seek competent French and English Canadians for employment and to promote any employee, regardless of race or religion, on the basis of his ability to do the job required. 85% of our employees are French-Canadian, and while it is true that there are not as many French-Canadians as English-Canadians in the top executive posts, this is largely due to a factor which is frequently overlooked. Our business is highly technical and requires a relatively large number of engineers, principally electrical. It is interesting to note that two-thirds of our present executive officers are engineers, nearly all of them electrical. Now it is important to note that it was only in 1943 that French-Canadian universities graduated their first electgical engineers. Some French-Canadians, it is true, had previously attended and graduated from English-speaking universities, but there were not many of them. It is also true that from French Canadian universities there were graduate engineers other than electrical but not an adequate number to meet the overall demand. That situation is now being gradually improved but obviously it takes some years for a graduate engineer to reach executive rank. Of the total number of graduate engineers employed over the last ten years, 56% were French-Canadians. It must also be realized that, whether French-speaking or English-speaking, there is only a small percentage of the employee body who possess the general all-round capabilities to reach top executive posts, and in addition to inherent ability, long years of experience are still needed. In other than officer ranks there are many important executive and managerial posts the majority of which are occupied by French-Canadians. In our distribution business, the Company's service area is subdivided into four major areas or divisions, and these divisions are further subdivided into fifteen smaller areas or districts. Three out of the four Division Managers are French-Canadian; all Division Accountants; the fifteen District Superintendents; and all District Accountants. The responsibilities and duties of these people are extremely important, and especially so in the matter of rendering service to our customers, which after all is our chief function. At the Board of Director level, it is worthy of note that in the Shawinigan group of companies, including Southern Canada Power and Quebec Power, 20 out of 44 directors, or 45.5%, are French-Canadian.

NO MONOPOLY

It has been stated that investor-owned electric utilities are also monopolies. While it is true that they operate within a recognized territory in order to avoid duplication of facilities, they nonetheless are subject to competition of various kinds. Today, both natural and liquefied gas are serious competitors, to combat which we are engaged very actively in promoting the sale of major electric appliances. In a different context, the utility companies are competing not only with each other but also with government-owned systems to render the most adequate and efficient service to their own customers. Without competition of this kind, there is no yardstick of comparison nor any incentive to provide the best possible service. In our opinion, the interest of the public can best be served by maintaining the investor-owned electric utilities as a permanent, strong 'yardstick' of comparison.

We sincerely believe that the creation of a single state monopoly supplying the electricity requirements of the entire Province would not be in the best interest of the Province itself and of the consumers.

We are prepared to place our many years of experience in the industry at the disposal of the Government, and we believe that in close co-operation with Hydro-Quebec, any problems in regard to the provision of an adequate and reliable power supply at reasonable rates to all areas in the Province can be solved. To this end, we believe that a permanent body of representatives of the investor-owned and government-owned sectors should be established to study all aspects of this complex problem.

POINTS OF VIEW

We have received much support for the points of view which I have expressed from among our employees, customers and civic officials in the territory we serve. The President of the Union of Office Employees says in a letter just received—(translation)—"We wish the management of the Company to know that we sympathize with them in the difficulties which they face at the present time. We also wish to assure them of our support and especially of our unswerving loyalty. Proud of our Company and confident in its future, we believe that it will come through this difficult period and emerge stronger and in an even better position to fill the important role it plays in the development and progress of our fine province of Quebec." The President of the Association of Employees of The Shawinigan Water and Power, in a letter dated March 8, says among other things—(translation)—"We wish to remain in the service of the Company, whose innumerable contributions in the territory it serves are recognized by each and every one. Moreover, our members wish to preserve the freedom of action and opinion which they enjoy within the Company. In the flow of new or warmed-over ideas in which the public is submerged, employees are aware that nationalization of electric systems would be only the beginning of gradual socialization whose consequences every free man cannot help but mistrust."

These two unions represent two-thirds of the total number of all our employees.

A recent editorial in the Valleyfield Gazette says: "This company (the Shawinigan Water and Power Company) has rendered valuable services to our entire community. When it came to good works, Shawinigan has always been in the forefront, not only with financial contributions, but also by the individual or collective co-operation of its staff and of the entire Shawinigan family. Its local rates, as far as we know, have never been in question. Shawinigan's local managers have done everything to serve our community well. Nationalization of electricity could not easily improve on the services furnished by the Shawinigan Water and Power Company in the Valleyfield district."

The mayor of an important city in our territory says in a letter—(translation)—"I thought I would send you these few remarks, Mr. President, if only to let you know that not all political men are at present out and out socialists and to urge you to continue fighting against this tendency."

In the mass of socialistic theory, there is too often forgotten those things which pertain to the human spirit. We know our employees, not as cogs in a machine but as friends and human beings; we believe in their loyalty to the Company and their dedication to the Company's motto: "Servir le Peuple". Not for nothing is our Company known as "The Shawinigan Family".

IN CONCLUSION

What, then, does this all add up to insofar as your Company—The Shawinigan Water and Power Company—is concerned?

1. Since its inception, your Company has made a tremendous contribution to the industrial and economic development of the Province, and can continue to do so.
2. Through careful planning in close co-operation with neighbouring utilities, it has never failed to fulfill its obligations to the Province and to the customers it serves.
3. It has contributed substantially to the development of the art of generating, transmitting and distributing electric power and energy in the public interest.
4. It is strictly a Quebec company, having been created by a special Act of the Provincial Legislature in 1898, and since that time has devoted all its efforts to the supply of electric power and energy within provincial boundaries.
5. Neither management no. staff are "étrangers", as has been suggested. The majority of Shawinigan personnel are Quebecers, whether of French or English origin. Employees form an "alliage", a close-knit group of which 85 per cent are French Canadian and 15 per cent are English Canadian.

All in all, your company's record is second to none and its past performance is the best possible assurance of its ability to continue to contribute in large measure to the future development of this Province.

The 'Pocket Rocket' at Hemmingford.

On Tuesday, March 20th, the members of the Hemmingford Intermediate Hockey League were delighted to welcome the noted Montreal Hockey player, Henri Richard, to their banquet and presentation of trophies.

The affair took place at the Frontier Inn, and was attended by around 175 members and friends.

The Reverend Gordon Ficko said grace and those present sat down to an appetizing cold buffet. Following the meal, Mr. Gaston Girard as M.C. introduced the guests at the head table, among whom were Mr. Henri Richard, Reverend and Mrs. G. Ficko, Reverend and Mrs. D. Rogers, Reverend Father LaRocque, Mr. and Mrs. R. Lee, Mr. and Mrs. L. Keddy, Mr. Ted Campeau.

Mr. Lee gave a short account of the formation of the League which includes players from 14 years of age up. Three teams were formed, each using an equal number of youthful and older players and some excellent games were enjoyed in competition with one another on Monday and Thursday evenings. Several exhibition games were played against teams from surrounding villages. This League, said Mr. Lee, received excellent support from the Hemmingford Athletic Association and their officers for the season were: President, R. Lee: Secretary, Gerald Smith; Treasurer, Gerard D'Amour; Organizer, Gilles Dumouchel. Mr. Lee spoke in English and Gilles Dumouchel followed with a few words in French.

The highlight of the evening was, of course, the presentation by Henri Richard of the trophy donated by Jacques 'Molson' Viau of Valleyfield, to the play-off champions, the team captained by R. Lee.

Mr. Richard, before the presentation, spoke of his pleasure at being able to attend this affair. The various Athletic Associations and Hockey Clubs were doing a fine job encouraging young players and he would always be pleased to help in any way he could. His audience was delighted when he consented to a question and answer period and many and varied were the questions fired at him.

Then followed the presentation, by Mayor Leo Fortin, of the Raoul 'Molson' Dumouchel trophy to the winning goal-keeper, Raymond Cookman. Mayor Alister Somerville awarded the Gilles 'Molson' Dumouchel trophy to the most valuable player, Gerald Smith. Roger Tobin awarded the Roger 'Pontiac' Tobin trophy to Gilles Gagné as the most sportsmanlike player and Marcel Fortin awarded the Lakeview Market trophy to Ronnie Lee as the best player in the League.

An enjoyable dance followed and the evening was voted a great success.

The Drama Club of Hemmingford High

On Friday and Saturday evening, March 23rd and 24th, members of the Drama Club of Hemmingford High School, put on their annual (we hope!) play to a capacity audience each night. Excellently produced and directed by Miss Ann Northrup, the English teacher at the High School, it told the story of the trials and tribulations encountered by an enthusiastic English teacher endeavouring to revive interest in School Dramatics. With limited finances, 'Mumps' a possessive (as far as his players were concerned) football coach, attacks of stage fright and a naughty Mama who demands the leading part for her spoiled brat of a daughter, the ensuing situations proved exceedingly funny.

The quick, well-timed, humorous asides, the various bits of funny business' brought hearty laughter from an appreciative audience and, despite the fact that for much of the time all fifteen players were on stage at once, the whole show moved along at a good pace with never a dull moment.

Isabel Wallace, as the enthusiastic English teacher, handled a long, wordy part excellently. A newcomer to "Dramatics" this year, Henry Nesvadba, brought down the house with his 'off-stage' acting and was even funnier when he lost his voice with stage-fright.

Joe Paré, another newcomer, and Rodney Rolph, two broad-shouldered football types eyed dreamily by the girls, were very well cast, as also were the girls, Sandra Clark, Susan Deery (both playing for the first time) and Mary Hebert. The doting Mama and her temperamental leading-lady daughter, played by Bettina Bychowski and Suzanne Palmer, were so well done one's hand ached!

Doreen Kyle as the sympathetic Home Ec. teacher, Lynn Radley, the football coach with the one-track mind, Nancy Clelland as the Prompter and Andre Landry, a rather pessimistic School Principal, all turned in excellent performances.

The ability displayed by two of this year's newcomers, Dale McNaughton and Karen Stonebridge deserves an extra word of appreciation. Karen, playing the understudy who stepped into the Star's shoes at the last minute, brought to her tiny part a real touch of dramatic and acting ability at the end. In the high, sweet tones of a sixteen year old one heard, perhaps, a future Juliette? Dale, playing a serious dependable stage hand, was just that. Always in the right place when needed, good movements, voice and enunciation. A good all-round performance.

A great improvement in the acoustics was noticed. This was, no doubt, due to the new wings and 'teasers' with which the stage was furnished. The material, purchased with Club funds was cut and sewn by Mrs. T. Clelland, for which the Club were very grateful. Mr. P. Pederson and Mr. Johny Laberge produced several excellent additions to the scenery gradually being acquired and all the members of the Club not on stage were very busily employed behind the scenes. The improvement this year in the make-up, Denise Boileau in charge, was quite noticeable.

A very nice gesture on Saturday evening, at the close of the performance, was the presentation by the Drama Club members of a corsage of roses and a gift to Miss Northrup.

Captain McCanse Guest Speaker on Vital T.V. Programme

An interesting programme on a topic which is exercising many minds at the moment is being broadcast on C.B.C. Television, Channel 6. Its title, '11 Steps to Survival'.

So much has been written and said on the subject of survival following an atomic explosion, much of it not very clear to the man in the street and leaving many questions unanswered, that one accepted the announcement of yet another discussion on the subject rather casually. But interest flared when the interviewer announced she would be discussing the topic with Captain Bruce McCanse.

Captain McCanse, who was born in Hemmingford and is the son of Mr. and the late Mrs. Roy McCanse, gave the second and third interviews in this series of eleven. On February 27th he talked on 'Fall-out' and gave a very clear, easily understood picture, in simple, lay-man's language of what happens should an A-Bomb explode and the resulting behaviour of the fall-out. He concluded by describing the measures which could be taken for survival. In the following programme on March 6th, Captain McCanse discussed the Alarm System.

The Emergency Measures Organizations sponsored this programme and requested the Army to give the first three 'Steps'. The remaining eight 'Steps' were handled by experts in other fields.

Captain McCanse is now stationed at Headquarters, Quebec Command, in Montreal and is able to spend his off-duty hours at his home in Hemmingford with his wife and small son.

Tragic Accident At St. Bernard

A fatal accident occurred on Sunday evening between 7.30 and 8 p.m. near the junction of Rte. 52 and the turn-off for St. Bernard, east of No. 9, when the car driven by Adrien Duteau, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Ovila Duteau, struck a stone abutment and rolled over several times into the field below. The driver alone in the car, was thrown out and, when help arrived a few minutes later, was found to be dead. He was just 21 years of age. He was the nephew of Mr. and Mrs. Delphis Duteau and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Duteau of Hemmingford.

Plans for Summer Church Vacation School discussed.

On Thursday evening, March 22nd, following the Lenten Service in the Presbyterian Church, a preliminary meeting was held of representatives from the three Protestant Churches, to discuss this summer's Church Vacation School. There was much to discuss and many suggestions were put forward. In the past the School has been held for one week with the children attending the whole day. Several have felt that this is quite a strain on both children and teachers. The suggestion that it be held mornings only was considered but the programme calls for a certain number of lessons which it would be impossible to fit into five or six mornings. Another idea put forward was that the school should be held mornings only for two weeks. This, however, would mean that more teachers would be needed. No definite conclusions were reached as it was felt that there might, perhaps, be others interested in this very worth-while summer project. Some who would not be able to spare a whole day but who could contribute a certain amount of part-time. There are many jobs for willing hands, lessons to be given and explained, handicrafts to be taught, assistance for a senior teacher or perhaps a little taxi work to get the children there and back. Anyone at all interested, please come to the next meeting in the United Church, after the Lenten Service, on April 5th. You will not be roped-in to work unless you have the time and are willing, and you might be able to offer some good suggestions for others to use. This invitation applies to the men as well as the ladies and an approximate age limit would be from High school up.

40th Anniversary Party

Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Cullen of Ormstown, were greeted by 350 relatives, and friends at the Ormstown Hotel, on Saturday night, March 24, to honor them on the occasion of their fortieth wedding anniversary. Sam and Elsie were met at the door by their son Lindsay and their daughters, Genevieve and Myrtle and escorted to the front of the hall amidst the cheers of the assembled crowd of well-wishers. After having greeted each of their friends, lunch was served and the M.C. of the evening the very capable Ken Aldridge called on several old friends of the couple to say a few words on their behalf. Dr. M. R. Stalker spoke very fittingly and kindly on behalf of the community, Mr. Wm. Greig, Sr. spoke on behalf of the neighbours of Sam as a young lad and many episodes of mischief making came to light. Mr. W. L. Carr (Sam and Elsie's friend Bill) gave an account of the Sangster family and "Pop" Dr. Glover of Guelph also spoke on behalf of the family. Rev. J. C. Hood, minister of the Presbyterian Church, opened the speeches in his usual subtle manner and wished the couple many more years of happy married life together on behalf of the church.

Lindsay Cullen was then called forward and made a presentation of a Westminister Clock to his parents, from their children. Robert Cullen of Montreal and Dale Gruer presented gifts on behalf of the family. During the course of the evening reference was made to Sam's latest accomplishment, the moving of the big barn and Elsie was challenged to try her luck at moving a barn, she was given the end of a piece of binder twine and told to pull, on doing so Elsie soon discovered that she too could move a barn, as that was what was attached to the end of the rope, a barn filled with good wishes on behalf of all their friends and neighbours. Both Sam and Elsie responded very graciously and thanked their friends for their thoughtfulness. A huge wedding cake made and decorated by Mrs. Ken Aldridge graced the table and was flanked by candelabra and mums. The walls were decorated with large cartoons drawn by Ken Aldridge and depicting various phases in the lives of Sam and Elsie.

Catholic Women's League Activities

(By Rena Piette)

A pot luck supper was held at St. Paul's parish hall, on March 17th, to celebrate St. Patrick's Day. This was under the auspices of the Catholic Women's League.

Over fifty people attended this function and all were amazed at the buffet table, gaily decorated with shamrocks and greens, which displayed quite an array of culinary talents that would have put a qualified chef to shame. Casseroles of every type and size were surrounded by salads and hors-d'oeuvres of every discription. Angel food cakes, jellos, strawberries and ice cream added the final touch to satisfy the sweetest palate. Father Quenneville, Spiritual Director of the league opened the supper with the saying of grace, than everyone approached the food table, helping themselves to about every item on display, while comments of approval could be heard all around. Once the meal was over the ladies hastily cleared the tables and everyone had a ringside seat to a quick trip around the world by movies graciously donated by Tougas and Nicholson of the Coca Cola firm in Valleyfield. Later the drawing of the Cine Camera was held and Father Quenneville drew the lucky ticket which belonged to Mr. Jimmy Foley of Maple Grove The League wishes to thank all who attended or donated towards the supper. A special vote of thanks is extended to Mrs. Courteau and Mrs. Thibault who worked so ardently to make this event the success it was.

Thought for Today

"Many people think they are thinking, when they are merely rearranging their prejudices."

April 1st

Coming up is the day that all children big and small seem to enjoy. None other than April 1st Fool's Day. As we all know that on this day, people play jokes on other people. No one knows how the idea of April Fool's Day began, people have played pranks on that day for hundreds of years. In France a person who has a joke played on him on April 1st is called "April Fish". So kiddies take it easy on Mom and Dad, let's have fun but don't overdo it.

Bicycle Riders

Seeing that Spring is here and the highways are almost all free of snow and ice, the children in our area that had to walk to school all winter, are now using their bicycles. I do hope, children you will all read, and keep in mind what I'm about to write.

You all must obey the rules of the road, just as automobile drivers are required to do. Now for some of the things to remember — Signal every turn. Give pedestrians the right of ing the curb. Obey traffic signals. And the "Don'ts" when riding. Don't stunt from one side of the road to the other. Don't ride two on a bike. Don't cut in front of cars. And don't ride two or three abreast. Always signal, stops and turns with your left hand. For left turn, put left arm out straight with finger pointing, if you want to stop, drop the left arm down with palm pointing back, for right turn, still with your left arm you raise it up to your head, elbow bent. Do try and remember all these rules. Make it a habit, because you are all the future car drivers of to-morrow so have fun this spring and summer, let's have no one doing foolish tricks just to see how smart they are and happy cycling to you all.

Planting Time For the Small Fry.

If you would like to grow a window garden that looks as though it belonged to a fairy story. Plant seeds in Eggshells pots, choose large eggs. At the pointed ends take off about one third of the shell by tapping eggs gently, picking shell off a little at a time, then dumping eggs out. Wash shells inside and out, dip gently into egg dye then carefully crack the eggshells on the bottom to permit drainage. Use aluminum foil to line each section of egg carton, which you'll need to anchor wobbly pots. You can paint the egg carton, dye your shells different colors. Fill with sandy soil, leaving about ½ inch at top to allow for watering. Sow a few seeds in each in no time you will have a garden of your own, and when the weather is good you can transplant outdoors. The dye can be bought in any dime store. Do hope children you try this. It will be hard on mother's eggs, but lots of fun.

Sap Collecting

I wonder how many parents are going through the process of sap collecting and the stoking of fires. The boys in this area have really gone all out. Of course, mothers don't think you are the only one who stands over a hot fire, watching the sap turn brown while the small fry disappear. Many years ago, Indian Women used the sap from the Maple Trees to boil the meat in. One Indian maiden had to wait so long for her Indian brave to return from hunting, that the sap turned to syrup. He liked it very much, that he told the whole tribe of the wonderful sweet water his Indian maid had discovered. This I believe may have been the beginning.

THE CHILDREN'S CORNER BY

Mrs. HAZEL FERGUSON

1294 LAKE ST. LOUIS VILLE DE LERY

FUR, FEATHERS AND FUN

Our story this week is about Toads and Frogs. These are very interesting animals. We have a couple of Toads that make their nome in our rock garden, and in the cool of the evening, they come out and hop all over the lawn. They are very tame. The children get flies and put them on the end of a straw and before you can count ten, his long tongue comes out and away goes the fly. Our dog at times tries to push him with his nose, but he only does that once and then backs away. It could be that the toad is the type that throws off poison and sometimes this could make a dog go unconscious. Toads are broader and darker than frogs. Toads like frogs when growing, often change their skin. It pulls its old skin off over its head and sometimes eats it. A Toad's skin is dry and rough while a frog is smooth and moist. Bullfrogs, make good pets, they live fifteen years or more, provided with a proper place to live. There are about 2,000 different kinds of frogs living today. The biggest frog grows to be a foot long and weighs as much as a fox-terrier, this one lives in West Africa. Some of the smaller frogs are smaller than a copper cent. Some frogs live in trees, they have little suckers on the end of their feet. It helps to cling to the trunk of the trees as they climb. Some frogs have learned to glide from tree to tree, much as some squirrels do. Many frogs have poison, for protection from their enemies, which oozes from their skin. Savage tribes sometimes use these poisons on the tips of their arrows. Frogs and Toads are called "Amphidrans". There are some frogs who spend their entire lives in the water, and never come upon land. Frogs are cold blooded animals. That is why many of them must hibernate or become inactive during winter. Frogs eat insects, minnows, earthworms and spiders. The frog has blood much like that of man, but its heart has only three chambers, instead of four. The adult frog breathes by means of lungs. Frogs have eyes that are large and stick up on its head, they also have two extra muscles in their eyes, which they can use to pull the eye-balls back in their sockets. In some frogs, the eggs are carried in tiny pits on the back of the mother frog. The young animals are hatched there. In other frogs the eggs are wound around the leg of the male frog. He carries them till they are hatched. In one species "Darwin Frog" the male carries the eggs and tadpoles in his mouth. These are amazing creatures, they all have a purpose on this earth.

Do hope you enjoyed this week's story.

If You're TIRED

Now and then everybody gets a "tired-out" feeling and may be bothered by backaches. Perhaps nothing seriously wrong, just a temporary condition caused by urinary irritation or bladder discomfort. That's the time to take Dodd's Kidney Pills. Dodd's help stimulate the kidneys to relieve this condition which may often cause backache and tired feeling. Then you feel better, rest better, work better. 81
