

City Council: NO POLL

Withdraws

Mrs. Helen Rochester

Mrs. Rochester is seen above last night as she presented the following statement to The Examiner:

After much thought and consideration and despite strong urging by many of my supporters, I have decided not to contest the WMA nominee for Seat No. 1 in the forthcoming municipal elections.

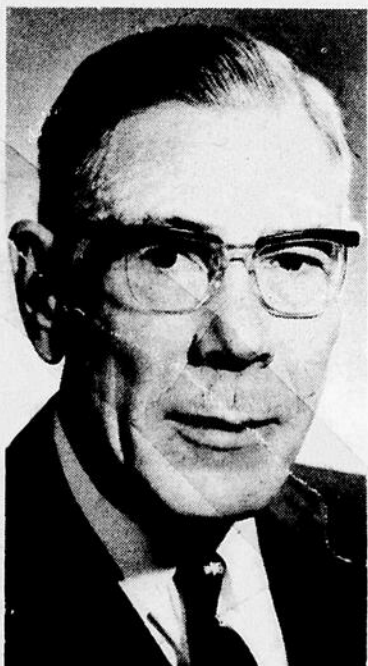

It is my opinion that the interest generated by the WMA meeting drew a fair cross-section of the population and that the vote recorded there was a true reflection of the wishes of the majority.

I also feel that the events of the past few months, the meeting itself and the strong support given me at it, represent no small victory. Many of the things my supporters and I were seeking have begun to materialize, if in a lesser degree that we would wish. It is my firm intention to continue to work toward these ends during the coming year and to anticipate next year's elections with interest and enthusiasm.

I thank warmly all those who worked so hard on my behalf, and hope that the interest they have shown in a more responsive, more representative civic government will continue and grow.

Helen Rochester

Retiring

Mayor M. L. Tucker

The first City Council election in nine years appears to be off and the first election in 50 years for the School Commissioners for the Municipality of the City of Westmount is on Monday.

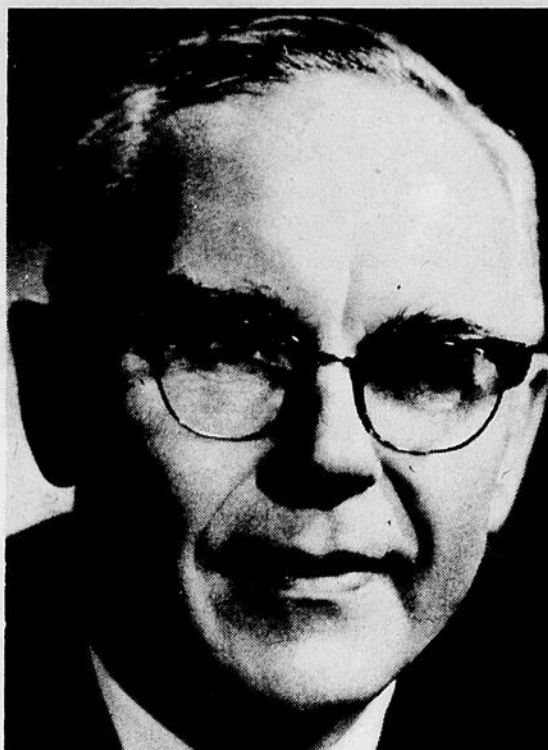

Last night Journalist Mrs. Helen Rochester, 311 Elm avenue, after weeks of indecision and the flu, presented a statement to The Examiner in which she said she would not be contesting City Council Seat No. 1, for which Architect Charles Aspler, 615 Roslyn avenue, was nominated by the Westmount Municipal Association Dec. 10 at an overflow Victoria Hall meeting. She lost to Mr. Aspler in a membership ballot at that time, 542 to 372.

Unless other, dark-horse challengers appear, it is anticipated that the WMA slate for mayor, three aldermen and one library trustee will, by tradition after all, be acclaimed on Monday, nomination day at city hall.

Meanwhile, official WMA wishes for the school board are not materializing. Last Monday, the association's candidate, McGill Physicist Dr. Elton R. Pounder, 21 Windsor avenue, won Seat 7 by acclamation but its other nominee, Lawyer James A. Robb, 9 Renfrew avenue, is faced at the polls by veteran commissioner (and Greater Montreal Board vice-chairman) A. Reid Tilley, 310 Roslyn avenue — who has refused the suggestion he should quit.

ADIEUS PAID IN COUNCIL

It's been farewell time, last week and this, in City Council.

The gun was jumped at the conclusion of the Dec. 30 Council meeting by Ald. Peter M. McEntyre. Having presented his 1969 budget, as finance commissioner, he filed his nomination papers for mayor with City Clerk R. B. Seaman and automatically effected his resignation as an alderman. Thus, before his anticipated assumption of the mayoralty by acclamation next Monday, he was able to say good-bye to his colleagues for a fortnight, during which he is a plain, ordinary citizen, known as "Mr." McEntyre.

He was not present at Tuesday evening's Council meeting, which opened with Mayor Tucker expressing appreciation for himself and Ald. Irving Backler of their nine-year association with Council and wishing all a happy 1969. This was their last Council meeting. They had both gained their aldermanic seats on the last occasion Westmount went to the polls, in January 1960, when the Westmount Municipal Association nominations of them both were contested.

Ald. Ian Craig, on Council's behalf, told both gentlemen they would be missed.

At the conclusion of the 15-

Car theft twin cities' newest link

The links between the "twin" cities, Westmount and Rimouski, this week became a little more hard and practical than contemplated in Centennial year by Mayors Tucker and Tessier.

Monday Westmount Police made a flying visit to the Lower St. Lawrence centre and returned with an 18-year-old girl and three juveniles, held in the common jail there for allegedly stealing here a week earlier a car belonging to Rev. H. Ray Ashford, minister of Westmount Park United Church, from his home at 305

5,300 eligible to cast votes at 16 polls

Some 5,300 Westmount residents will have the opportunity to go to 16 polls (see page 9 for who and where) on Monday to choose between two candidates for the Westmount School Board.

While voters will be placing an "X" beside either the name Robb or the name Tilley, it has become evident over recent weeks that the contest is between new blood in the time-honored Westmount Municipal Association and a retired business executive who devotes his full time to not so much the local board as higher echelons of Quebec Protestant education.

The protagonists are, in reality, Douglas P. Thomas, 455 Clarke avenue, peppery chairman of WMA's education and library committee, and A. Reid Tilley, who is just completing his fourth three-year term as commissioner and, representing

NEXT WEEK'S WEATHER

By ERIC NEAL

January 11 to 18

Mild air is drawn from the south as temperatures ease for the partial thaw normal for the Last Quarter of the January Moon. For the St. Lawrence valley, smog, freezing drizzle and 4" to 6" of fluffy, wet snow. Intermittent snow in the Laurentians, with morning fog or freezing drizzle.

Cold mid-week then more snow, possibly with thunder. Easterly winds veering to southwest will bring blizzard conditions for all the north country.

Clearing during the weekend, with zero nights. Days mild with gleamy sunshine and occasional flurries.

For the first time since 1919 there will be an election for the School Board in Westmount. Citizens who are interested in a truly vital democracy will applaud this, not only because it makes the general public aware of the great issues in education, but also, and equally important, it causes the candidates to state their views on these issues.

It's your School Board...

Why, one might ask, is this election being held now, and what are the issues?

To answer that it is necessary to understand that, here in Westmount, there are large numbers of parents who have young children in the schools, who are deeply concerned about the quality of the public education their children receive. They want the very best that is available, so their children can grow up and compete anywhere in the world. They also want their children, not only to be able to speak French, but also to participate fully in the whole community of Quebec.

More than that, they want to become involved in achieving these objectives. It is not good enough for the kindly administrator to pat them on the head, and assure them that all is well in the best of all possible worlds. They want strong lines of communication with those in authority, and they want those who represent them to be leaders in forming public opinion, and not just running pell mell after it when forced to take a position.

This is probably why we are having an election in Westmount. It is not only young people, it is middle aged people and older people who recognize a change is overdue. This is a force in our society that runs through all ages, and among all citizens who are generally concerned with the future of education in Quebec.

When an able, mature individual is prepared to serve on something as demanding as a school board, we should not be afraid of change, indeed, we should welcome it. The change we seek is the election to the School Board of Mr. James A. Robb.

Mr. Robb, a partner in the law firm of Stikeman, Elliott, Tamaki, Mercier & Robb, specializes in taxation and government law as it relates to the individual. A graduate of the Arts and Law Faculties of McGill University, where he was president of both the Students' Union and the Students' Council, he took post-graduate work in the Faculty of Law at the University of Montreal. A former secretary of the McGill Graduate Society, he is at present Chairman of the Martlet Foundation. Since his university days he has been keenly interested in all aspects of community affairs. Mr. Robb is married to the former Katherine Teare and has three children, two of whom attend Westmount schools.

Mr. Robb is typical of many parents who have children in our schools. He knows the strong underlying desires of these parents because he is one himself. He is in touch with the community, and he has the capacity to deal with the great problems of religion and language in a cool dispassionate manner. He is not tied to the existing administrative structure. He can be flexible in dealing with the major structural changes that will be taking place in Quebec over the next several years.

Mr. Robb, along with Dr. Elton R. Pounder, was elected as an official candidate to the School Board by the Westmount Municipal Association at an open meeting on December 10th, attended by some 1,200 people.

During this campaign, we have tried to discuss the major issues both in meeting and through the mails. We have not tried to repeat our views on all these major questions here, but to outline for you what we believe to be the strong underlying current of public opinion, which has given rise to this election.

It's your school board. To make it an even better board, we urge you to vote for James A. Robb on Monday January 13.

Westmount quietly becoming locale of national advertising business

Westmount is quietly becoming an important centre for Canada's multi-million-dollar advertising industry.

An even dozen firms, large and small, engaged in advising on, creating and placing of advertising have their shingles hung out here. And there are indications the number may increase.

The nationally-oriented industry, with its regional and local interests, traditionally has been centred on Montreal and Toronto, with branches of the large firms and more local independent practitioners in other principal cities.

Only a few years ago, most of Montreal's "grey-flannel-suit" set had their offices centred on downtown St. Catherine street as their "district", much as the financial fraternity made their workaday homes on St. James street. It was Montreal's "Madison avenue."

Decentralize

But the tendency to decentralize in a burgeoning metropolis has got to the marketing men, too; even as many of the industries they serve have moved out of the core area to spread themselves in the suburbs.

Of the approximately 200 agencies shown in the authoritative National List, seven have offices in Westmount. And five more firms listing themselves as advertising agencies are located here.

Something in the manner of Westmount's retail establishments, clustered in the Green and Victoria avenues areas, so with the ad agencies.

And there are two favorite locations — not, by the way, as one might expect in the posh facilities of Westmount Square, but nonetheless attractive setups. One is 4141 Sherbrooke street west, the Westmount Life Insurance company building, which houses three firms, and 310 Victoria avenue (the "Three-Ten Victoria Avenue Building"), the home of three others.

The agencies:
Advertising Associates Ltd., 4141 Sherbrooke;
Ardiel Advertising Agency Ltd., 310 Victoria;
Bowen, Mann, Korenberg Ltd., 4141 Sherbrooke;

We Say

Backler and Tucker - the elected ones

The Examiner precipitated the last public election in Westmount.

We were proud of it.

That was nine years ago.

The WMA had nominated two worthies by the names of Irving S. Backler and Michael L. Tucker for aldermen.

We did not oppose these two gentlemen.

We opposed the system whereby, without a feedback of views from the electorate except through the WMA membership, a self-perpetuating system, year after year, filled public offices by acclamation.

We felt that the democratic machinery of the ballot was overdue for a workout.

A series of editorials in this newspaper during 1959 bestirred a number of like-minded citizens. A "Westmount Voters' Association" was formed.

The Examiner sponsored a public meeting in Victoria Hall to hear and to quiz the candidates.

In the outcome, Mr. Backler trounced Frank Megan and Mr. Tucker handily defeated Mrs. H. L. Reusing. It was a good, clean fight.

As we commented in this space after, the experience made Messrs. Backler and Tucker the strongest men in city hall, not excluding the then mayor, because they were there with unassailable mandates.

Time proved us right. These two gentlemen have proved invaluable members of Council, and the mayoralty of Mr. Tucker has been one of the most conscientious and fruitful in Westmount's long history.

We bid them both a farewell from public office, just as Council came close to experiencing its first election since. We regret that the franchise is not to be exercised at city hall at this time, but fully expect the ferment in the city will not quickly die in these times of change. But just the threat to its ways has been good for WMA.

Meanwhile, there is no gain-saying that the School Board workout Monday is opportune. Half a century of no contest is some kind of outer limit which should never be repeated.

Our local railroad gets some plaudits

Full marks to Canadian Pacific Chairman N. R. Crump, or his speech-writer, for this grand and sweeping prose opening his forecast for the New Year:

"Canadian Pacific will strengthen its leadership in 1969 as the world's only total system for moving people, things, ideas and information."

Then again, further down, this reference to CP's new "multimark" - note, no commonplace "trademark"! "...a colorful symbol based on a square for stability, a circle for global operations and a triangle for movement."

For several years we have been a little sad that Canadian National, which doesn't pass through Westmount, seemed to be showing all the glamor of modern symbols, "red, white and blue" fares, Rapidos and Turbos.

Now it's CP's turn, and it is our guess good old private enterprise will outshine the government-owned system, not only in glamor but in global concerns.

Maybe next year you'll be mentioning outer space, Mr. Crump!

THEY SAY

People like ads - but not on TV

A coast-to-coast survey made by Brodie Snyder, assistant managing editor of The Gazette, shows that 63 per cent of those interviewed say their newspapers would be less satisfying without advertising. This is reported in Canadian Printer & Publisher.

Only 20 per cent make the same statement about television. And 50 per cent say they would prefer their TV without any commercial advertising at all.

You Say

Irish 'pub crawl' points disputed

Sir: After reading Stephen Schofield's article on Mr. Greenway's tour of Ireland on his bicycle, I must say I had a good laugh.

I was in Ireland last summer with four friends from the States and we all agreed that Ireland is the most wonderful country in the world. The people are so industrious and at the same time so friendly.

We did not see the pubs full from back to front with lazy people, and as for donkeys: we hardly saw one. Everywhere we went there were plenty of cars. And when we spoke to the old people they were all so happy; they told us they have a good health service, and when they travel on the buses there is free travel for all over 65.

I am sending this Examiner to my friends in the States. I guess they will be thinking my thoughts.

That Mr. Greenway must have over-indulged in one of the pubs and as he went in search of the donkeys, fell off his bicycle and got concussion of the head. What a shame. If he had to see the good things, perhaps when he returned to his homeland he could ask his MP to start some free services for the old people here in Canada.

I hope Mr. Greenway is fully recovered by now, and perhaps when he takes his next tour of Ireland, he will cut out the pubs.

Tilley supporter challenges Thomas

Sir: I wish to question the validity of Mr. D. Thomas's, chairman of the Westmount Municipal Association education committee, report on Mr. Reid Tilley, who is running for school commissioner on Jan. 13.

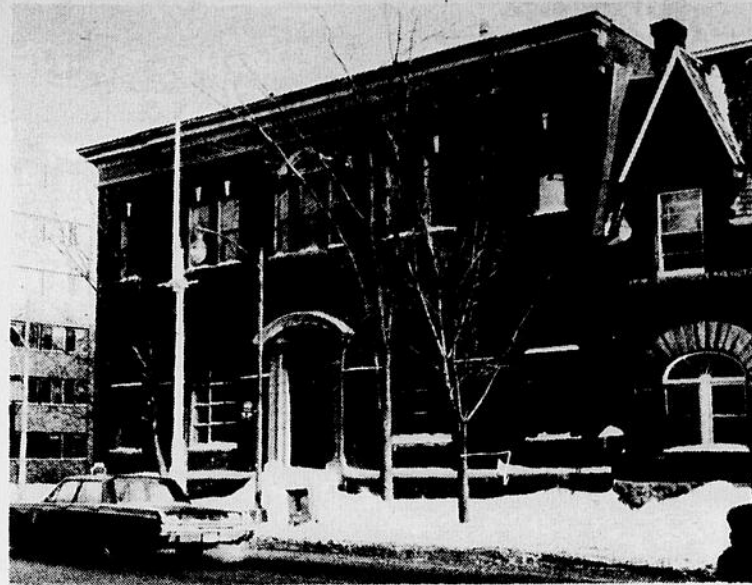

Having worked with Reid Tilley at the provincial level I know him to be the most progressive member of the Protestant School Board of Greater Montreal, and only his election by Westmount voters will insure his contribution to speed the democratization of English-speaking education in this province e.g., the replacement of the Protestant School Board of Greater Montreal by four elected regional boards.

This is why educators and school board members outside Westmount wrote asking the Westmount Municipal Association to re-nominate Mr. Tilley.

As parent committees will soon replace local school boards it is important to insure their effectiveness by electing a fair distribution of parents from each school under a local board. If Mr. Thomas had been aware of this, and of the make-up of our local board, he would have known that there is only one school commissioner who is a parent of children in Westmount Park School. The other four live in the Roslyn area and have children in that school or at the high school.

Both the Westmount Municipal Association's candidates, recommended by Mr. Thomas, also live in the Roslyn area. One will no longer have children in the school system after 1970. Why wasn't Mr. Thomas objective enough and in touch enough with the whole of Westmount to have suggested one eligible candidate at least from Westmount Park School?

EMPTY LANDMARK GETS NEW FUTURE

At least three generations of Westmounters will readily recognize this still-respectable building, on the southwest corner of Sherbrooke and Metcalfe, variously as the old Westmount telephone exchange or, after the Second World War, headquarters of No. 401 (City of Westmount) Squadron of the RCAF Auxiliary - which perpetuated the 1st Canadian Fighter Squadron in which a roster of dashing Westmounters flew their Hurricanes and Spitfires from the Battle of Britain onwards to VE-Day. After the war it also became the home of the veterans of No. 306 (Maple Leaf) Wing, Royal Canadian Air Force Association. The wing, at its December meeting, decided to proceed with purchase of the building from Crown Assets Disposal Corporation and soon work parties of members will be cleaning, painting and repairing for the wing to move back in, hopefully in March. Ultimate aim is to build a high-rise senior citizens' home on the site, which also will be RCAFA quarters and a memorial to 401 Squadron.

National Capital Commission

The National Capital Commission, although dating only from 1959, had its origins in the Ottawa Improvement Commission, created at the end of the 19th century. That commission, composed of a small unpaid group of prominent citizens, had an annual budget of $60,000.

Today, the National Capital Commission employs a staff of some 700 with a budget of $24,500,000 for the current fiscal year.

The one man who should be singled out for special mention is the late French planner, Jacques Greber. For it was he who formulated the master plan for the development and beautification of the Ottawa-Hull area.

Memorial Plan

In 1945, as a memorial to Canada's fallen in the Second World War, Greber was asked to prepare a comprehensive plan for Canada's capital. The Greber report was tabled in Parliament in 1951 and was subsequently adopted in principle by the Federal Government. It has, since that time, served as the commission's planning guide.

Mr. Greber's plan included five major proposals: The development of open space, the planned location of government buildings, the relocation of railways, Gatineau Park, and the green belt. This last proposal and its subsequent implementation are unique in land planning and development in Canada.

It envisaged a controlled ring around the perimeter of the Ottawa-Hull area. Its primary purpose was to prevent urban sprawl, a condition in which Toronto finds itself at present. Complementary to this aim were urban renewal at the city core and development of satellite communities.

A lack of enthusiasm on the part of municipal authorities on the Quebec side of the river precluded the establishment of a complete green belt. However, a semi-circular belt has been established on the perimeter of Ottawa by the NCC through the purchase or expropriation of land. It is about 2½ miles wide and the inner margin is approximately six miles from the city centre.

Those of you who are familiar with the Ottawa of 10 years ago could not be otherwise than visibly impressed with the relocation of the railway station and the railway yards outside the centre of the city. The area west of the Parliament buildings (the Lebreton flats) has been cleared of miles of railway tracks for purposes of redevelopment projects, one of which is for the

Vanier City juveniles nabbed here

The New Year started wrong for three juveniles from Canada's newest named place: Vanier City, Ont.

They made the mistake of being spotted Jan. 1 in Weredale Park by a Westmount Police uniformed patrol, stopped and questioned about the car they were in.

It turned out to be from Vanier City, named for Canada's late Governor-General.

And it turned out to be stolen.

That Lapin garage in Council again

That garage Murray Lapin, QC, is building at his home at 167 Edgehill road was back before City Council again Tuesday night.

Because of the terrain, Council last month granted permission for it to be built outside the normal building line.

This week Ald. John Birks moved the redivision of Mr. Lapin's four lots or parts of lots into a single new lot-to conform to a by-law which decrees: one building, one lot.

McIver assists Dawe

Westmount got an assistant general manager with the start of the New Year - the first in that post since General Manager Norman Dawe moved up to the No. 1 position in 1960.

He is John Mackay McIver, an impressively proportioned Scot with an equally impressive string of qualifications and experience for the task.

His appointment, though not unexpected by those aware both of his ability and of the long-due need to relieve Mr. Dawe of some of his heavy duties of running the city, was a surprise announcement at the close of the Dec. 30 meeting of City Council.

Mr. McIver was born in Stornaway, Scotland, Oct. 25, 1925, and came to Canada as a youth, completing his schooling at Scotts-town High School. He went on to get a BA and a BComm from Sir George Williams University and a MA in Public Administration and a DPA from Carleton University, Ottawa.

Refund of surplus meets no opposition

The new assistant general manager, John M. upon appointment as assistant city clerk, he held positions with the governments of Saskatchewan and Ontario.

Mr. McIver is married, has no children. He is a member of the Community Planning Association of Canada and of the Municipal Finance Officers Association, Quebec branch.

His new duties will not be an abrupt change. This week he was still carrying out duties under City Clerk R.B. Seaman and has been appointed the latter's election clerk against the possibility of a Jan. 20 aldermanic election.

Nor has there been a complete absence of support for Mr. Dawe's position. Miss M. J. Woolls has been serving as executive assistant in his department.

Church. Conducting the service and preacher will be the minister,
Rev. E. A. Kirker

Communion set for Scientists

The semi-annual Communion services will be held this Sunday in all Christian Science churches.
The lesson-sermon is on "Sacrifice" and the Golden Text is from I Samuel: "Behold, to obey is better than sacrifice, and to hearken than the fat of rams."

Appropriate selections from the denominational textbook will include: "To keep the commandments of our Master and follow his example, is our proper debt to him and the only worthy evidence of our gratitude for all that he has done. Outward worship is not of itself sufficient to express loyal and heartfelt gratitude, since he has said: 'If ye love me,
keep my commandments'."

CHRISTMAS TRIP

By Winifred E. Wilson

Dawn is, without doubt, the best time to go birding. In spring when we are anxious to see migrants as they pass through southern Canada, it is necessary to get up outlandishly early in order to be at the right spot to meet them. But at Christmas the sun is so late in rising that nobody should make the "early hour" an excuse for not going on the Christmas season trip.

As for weather, the birder must take a chance. Some years there is not a vestige of snow on the ground; other years there may be several feet. The snow may be packed down hard or it may be soggy. The temperature may vary from 40° above to 10° below zero. The sun may shine; rain may fall. Be prepared for almost anything.

Remember if the weather is fine the temperature will rise as the day goes on. If you have to climb, you will find it hot going up, but colder when you reach the level above. Light clothing is much the best; comfortable, waterproof footgear an essential. Be sure to wear something over your head that will not catch on branches. A strong wind is disastrous, because it not only keeps birds from coming into view but also prevents you from hearing any little sound they may make.

Now then, what birds should you expect to see? On a good day and in suitable terrain the number of species might be surprisingly high; a poor area for birds combined with rain and wind might bring down the count to a bare dozen per person.

Four hours' sightings

Four hours in an area combining trees, bushes and open fields might produce Great Horned Owls, Snowy Owls, Screech Owls, two or three kinds of Hawks, Ruffed Grouse, Pheasants, Flickers, Pileated Woodpeckers, Hairy and Downy Woodpeckers, Blue Jays, Crows, Chickadees, Nuthatches, Brown Creepers,

SNOWY OWL

NATIONAL AUDUBON SOCIETY

Robins, Cedar Waxwings, Pine Grosbeaks, Purple Finches, Siskins, Goldfinches, Tree Sparrows, Redpolls, Snow Buntings and various other land birds. The same length of time near a fairly large body of water might add to your list Cormorants, Mallards, Black Ducks, Scaup, Goldeneyes, Mergansers and several kinds of Gulls.

Is the trip worth the trouble? Fresh, early morning air with the rising sun, the expectation of coming upon an unusual species "just around the corner," the delight in being able to furnish information for the authorities collecting data on "what birds are where and when" — all this more than compensates for any discomfort encountered on a mid-winter trip.

Shades of 'The Etude'

My good friends, Lena and Gilbert Hill, (pianist and accompanist to Mme Erna Sack on her concert tours for many seasons) are Westmount residents interested in hobbies. Gilbert is well known for his knowledge in various fields through his commentaries when he gives talks with his color slides. Lena is an active curler and member of club teams. She also collaborates in helping with the slides.

New locks, exams mark re-opening after holidays

Westmount High students returned to school this week after a long, restful Christmas holiday which should have prepared them for 1969 and six more months of school.

They were welcomed back with a belated Christmas present from the school board — new combination locks to replace the old ones which were sawed off lockers over a month ago. The new locks also can be opened with a master key facilitating the checking of lockers whenever the need arises.

Examinations are scheduled to begin on Jan. 16, the estimated

For several years now, I receive a marvellous Music Calendar published by Edition Peters from these two musical people as a Christmas gift. Inside, after salutations and best wishes from Gilbert and Lena, they always add an interesting quote. This year's: "After silence, that which comes nearest to expressing the inexpressible is Music." (Aldous Huxley)

The pictures in this delightful calendar show all sorts of imagination by the compilers of the unique book. It can stand on a desk or be hung from the wall. There are old reproductions and up-to-date pictures. Every one fascinating. Having been specially ordered from New York by the Hills, it was beautifully wrapped on top of the hard covered enclosure it arrived in. Perhaps Gilbert and Lena did not open it completely because this year an added sheet, yellow in color with dark black print, was a new venture.

Were you wondering about the title of this column? The specially inserted page brought back memories of another special page.

The Westmount Examiner,

The other in "The Etude" a music magazine that ended publication a few years back, was called "A Master Lesson With —" then followed the name of the pedagogue.

"Learning With The Masters" is the same idea but done on a record. In The Etude the music was there of a celebrated composition and all details were given on the interpretation. Bars were referred to by number and it was easy to understand. Stephan Askenase, famous pianist who now lives in Belgium, teaches a student how to play "Berceuse" by Chopin.

Comments and suggestions are given by Askenase and an accompanying book has all these words reprinted. At the conclusion, the student hears the pianist give his interpretation of the Berceuse opus 57 which naturally is the most interesting point of the recording.

Will many people buy this volume?

Just how many serious students could afford $25 for each record?

In Canada it would cost more. Nice idea but much too dear!

Westmount YMCA on 'course' basis

Most activities at Westmount YMCA henceforth will be offered on a "course" basis. Even those provided at no extra charge to members will be clearly scheduled, with specific times and dates for completion.

The wholesale re-shuffle is part of a drive to encourage more of the branch's members to take fuller advantage of what is offered. Measurable objectives have been developed to give added incentive, "Y" offices say.

date the Hong Kong flu will hit Montreal full force. It is hoped that this will not interfere with the exams in any way but if attendance falls drastically the administration might be faced with a serious problem.

This is the first year Westmount High is having only two school terms (it previously had three) and these exams are of the utmost importance to graduating students applying to university and hoping for early acceptance.

Sports: Both girls' basketball teams have reached the finals and are prospective City Champions. The best of luck to them.

On Tuesday the senior hockey team played against West Hill High at the Westmount artificial rink. The score was 5-4 for Westmount.

City of Westmount was ready for election; candidates file

The City of Westmount was ready for an election, and this was still further affirmed Tuesday night when Ald. Ian Craig reported and City Clerk R. B. Seaman read to Council his declaration, as returning officer, that the electoral list was in order.

Availability of the list for examination by citizens was made known, according to law, some weeks ago.

minute meeting, at which principal business was final passage of the new, up-dated, bilingual traffic by-law, both Mayor Tucker and Ald. Backler shook hands with their colleagues and others present in the Council chamber.

This was the statutory January meeting, delayed one day from "the first Monday of the month" because this happened to fall on Epiphany this year.

There have been few inquiries, Mr. Seaman told The Examiner, and no omissions or errors have come to light.

In other respects, Mr. Seaman was prepared for a contest for City Council seats, with nomination day next Monday.

Monday evening, Dec. 30, at the close of 1968's last Council meeting, he received the nomination papers for mayor of Ald. Peter M. McEntyre. Tuesday morning of this week, Lawyer Douglas Robertson, Westmount Municipal Association candidate for alderman, came to Mr. Seaman's office accompanied by WMA President Leeds M. Nelson, and filed papers.

Aldermen Tuesday

Tuesday afternoon, the other two WMA candidates for alderman, Architect Charles Aspler and CN Vice-president Jean Richer — who is nominated for re-election for another term — also filed their papers with Mr. Seaman.

Thus, all vacancies are now covered and will be filled by acclamation unless, prior to 2 pm Monday, other hopefuls likewise produce the necessary documents at City Hall.

If there is an election, the city will have to get back in a hurry its ballot boxes, loaned to the Westmount Protestant School Board for its polling next Monday.

Also, Mr. Seaman would be grateful if he were to hear as soon as possible from men or women prepared to take a day's employment, if the need arises, on Monday, Jan. 20, as deputy returning officers or polling clerks. Interested persons should call his office at 935-8531, Local 255.

There you are trying to flag down a taxi and get yourself out to the airport.

You've already tried phoning... and phoning... and phoning. And when you finally got through it was: "Sorry, no taxis available."

And as you glance at your watch once more you know this is how ulcers are born.

If you're lucky, you've never lived this little horror story. But it is the kind of situation you can meet up with when weather or traffic conditions are against you.

Or to put it more happily, the kind of situation you can easily avoid with the help of Murray Hill.

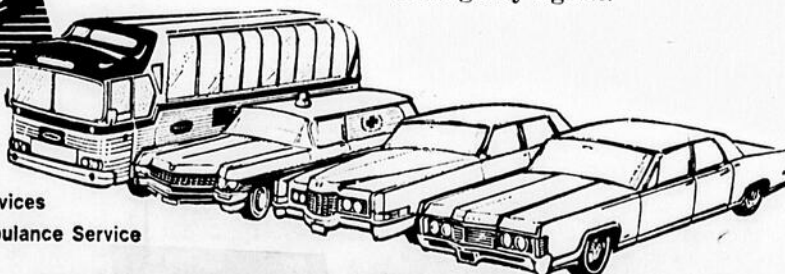

All you have to do is give us a call at 937-5311. Our chauffeurs won't be out "cruising" for business. They'll be standing by with spotless cars at our dispatch centre — ready to take you safely and comfortably out to the airport. And, of course, you can count on Murray Hill to provide the same superb service from the airport to the city.

So next time you've got an airline schedule to consider, give Murray Hill a call. We'll make sure you catch that plane — and we'll do it without causing you a moment's worry or anxiety.

It's our standing invitation to you never to watch the cabs go by again.

Westmount, is vice-chairman of the Greater Montreal Protestant board and president of the Quebec Association of Protestant School Boards.

Close fight

The fight promises to be a close one. At the Dec. 10 fall general meeting of the WMA, only 41 votes separated Mr. Robb and Mr. Tilley in the nomination balloting; they polled 510 and 469, respectively. From that moment, Mr. Tilley declared he would take the question to the voters.

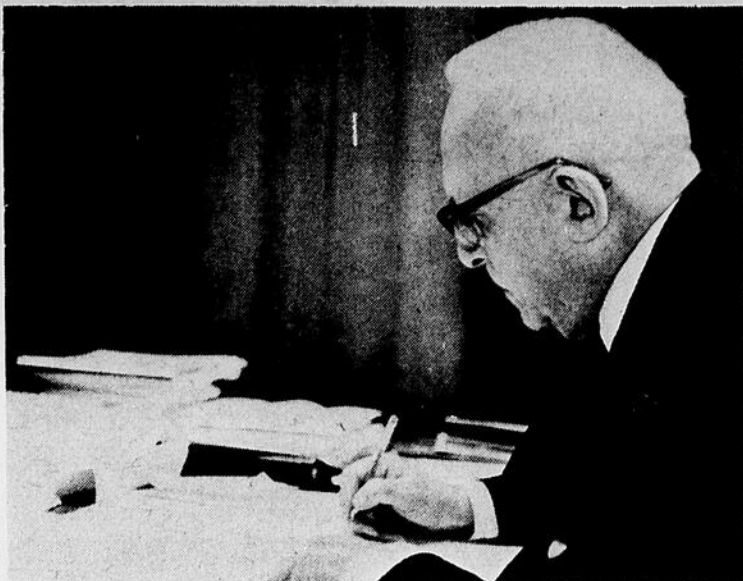

And on Monday last, nomination day, he did.

Nomination papers were first filed with Secretary-Treasurer Albert E. Mount by the two WMA nominees. Dr. Pounder, who tallied 630 votes Dec. 10, filed for Seat No. 7. Mr. Robb for Seat No. 6. This gave Mr. Tilley the opportunity to make his challenge against the less strongly supported of the two, Mr. Robb.

(On Dec. 11, day following the WMA meeting, the Westmount Board at its regular monthly meeting suddenly designated the board seats by numbers; otherwise, it would have been a three-way fight for the two vacancies.)

Time for change

The WMA position, forcefully presented by Mr. Thomas at the Dec. 10 meeting and since in meetings and campaign literature, is that it is time for a change to younger representation in closer touch with education needs and that it is WMA policy that no individual should hold public office for more than two terms except in special circum-

THE MAN ON WHOM THE BURDEN FALLS

It's one thing to have the first election in 50 years for the Westmount School Board. It's another to lay out the procedures and make the many arrangements to assure a smooth balloting. The burden falls on Albert E. Mount, secretary-treasurer of the board since 1963, seen here yesterday at his desk in the Westmount High School building on St. Catherine street. Extra work week-ends and evenings has made him confident all will be in readiness when the polls open Monday morning at 8 o'clock.

stances. Mr. Thomas' committee's stand was endorsed by the WMA executive and nominating committees and literature distributed over the name of WMA President Leeds M. Nelson urges citizens to turn out to vote for the WMA candidate.

Mr. Tilley's stand, which has been endorsed by an impressive array of persons in local public life, both within WMA and without, is that he, in fact, has had an important role in furthering progress and change in Quebec education, has amassed much knowledge of the legislative and administrative procedures affecting education and the personnel involved, and should be given the opportunity to complete the work to which he is devoted fulltime, in a period of vital change in the province.

Support obscure

The sources of respective support for the two candidates, or the two points of view, will not be discovered in Monday's election by virtue of the secret ballot, and those sources appeared this week to be obscure.

Yesterday, Mr. Tilley and Mr. Thomas met face-to-face by accident in The Examiner office, where they had come to place advertisements in this issue (see pages 2 and 16). There was an unresolved corridor debate over a daily newspaper report that the three Home & School Associations in Westmount supported Mr. Robb. It was agreed by the two, at least, that at best such professed support perhaps was only that of the presidents, personally, of the three bodies.

Which perhaps was not as relevant as it was, for a few moments, tense. The electors will decide on Monday.

Who votes, where

The 16 polls for Monday's School Board election will be open from 8 am to 6 pm.

Locations of the polls are in the three Protestant schools and City Hall. Secretary-Treasurer A. E. Mount has quartered the city and has published the advertisement at right from which voters may determine, by their home addresses, their poll locations.

Qualified to vote are all non-Roman Catholic residents of Westmount who are at least 18 years of age, are on the electoral roll, (or can show that they are qualified to be on it) are owners of real estate or buildings and so indicated on the roll to a value of not less than $50., and have been residents of Westmount for not less than six months.

Also qualified are the spouses of the above-mentioned, and fathers, mothers or tutors of a child less than 18 years of age on the preceding June 30 and domiciled in Westmount at least six months.

Voters must be Canadian citizens.

THE SCHOOL COMMISSIONERS FOR THE MUNICIPALITY OF THE CITY OF WESTMOUNT, QUE.

POLLING PLACES AND POLLS

I hereby notify the electors of the Municipality of the City of Westmount of the following polling places and polls with applicable residential areas for the election of School Commissioners on January 13th, 1969, if an election becomes necessary.

The foregoing, though accurate to the best of my knowledge, is subject to change.

Car theft...

Lansdowne avenue.

The three youths appeared in Montreal Juvenile Court Tuesday and the girl in Westmount Municipal Court Tuesday evening. All four are from St. Foy.

The quartet was arrested at Amqui, P.Q., on New Year's Eve by Quebec Provincial Police.

Meanwhile, our local constabulary recovered another car found behind Westmount Park Church which was reported stolen from St. Foy. It was out of gas.

Student scores teaching methods of universities

There are more effective methods of teaching than lecturing for universities, little or no study is being made of such methods, and in any event faculty members are increasingly oriented toward research rather than teaching.

This was the charge made yesterday before the Westmount Rotary Club, at its luncheon meeting in Victoria Hall, by Ian Hyman, vice-president of external affairs of the McGill University Students' Society, speaking on the subject, "The Campus from the Inside".

The complaint was made with particular reference to McGill.

"We wear different uniforms, we speak different languages, but the workload is always the same: heavy to carry."

Stamp Day or the "Day of the Stamp" is a yearly event commemorated in many countries with either special postage stamps or special date stamp cancellations; some of the countries use both.

In recent years the stamps issued for this day by Austria, Belgium, France and West Germany have been depicting the postmen and their uniforms of a bygone era. Those collectors interested in these stamps and who have been making a study of them would do well to acquire a copy of the "Revue des postes belges." This Belgian magazine has presented in consecutive issues an illustrated series of postal uniforms. The review is the first ever taken on such a scale and specifically a comparison of different clothing styles and ideas, which primarily derive from each country's needs and climatic conditions. It also provides an opportunity for comparing the postman's essential attribute — the different types of bag.

"The postman's uniform differs from country to country, but his motive spirit and his aim are everywhere the same: to be the speedy and faithful messenger of peace, goodwill and happiness among men."

National capital...

new headquarters of the Department of National Defence.

Greber thought it unwise to clutter the downtown area of Ottawa with government buildings. Consequently, more and more are being constructed in suitable areas throughout the city. A case in point is the National Research Council's huge complex on the Montreal road in eastern Ottawa. The question of open space and the Gatineau Park is a related one.

Breathing spaces

The NCC has set about to provide "breathing spaces" for residents of the Ottawa-Hull area through acquisition of park land and construction of scenic parkways. The forerunner of these parkways is the driveway along the north side of the Rideau canal. What undoubtedly aided Jacques Greber in his plan was the easy accessibility of the lovely Gatineau hills region. Today one can be driving through a virtual wilderness five minutes after leaving the Parliament buildings. This phenomenon may have persisted without the initiative of the NCC. This body, however, intends that it shall persist.

Stamp Judaica

A recent stamp from India will no doubt be of interest to the collector of Judaica on stamps. I refer to the Dec. 15 issue commemorating the 400th anniversary of the Cochin Synagogue. The Jews in Kerala are believed to have reached India after the destruction of the second temple in Jerusalem in 72 AD.

The first definite historical mention of the Jews in Kerala occurs in the famous Jewish copper plates on which is recorded the gift of a village from a local ruler to the settlers. Here they prospered, near Cranganore, until the 16th century when their settlement was destroyed by the Moors and the Portuguese.

The Jews then sought refuge in Cochin whose Hindu ruler granted them a site for habitation. Here was built the Jew Town in 1567 and the synagogue the next year.

Here we have a State that was happy to associate itself with the celebrations of one of their small ethnic groups, by issuing a commemorative postage stamp as part of the 400th anniversary celebrations of the Cochin Synagogue. The stamp in vertical format and printed in blue and maroon by photo-gravure process on unwatermarked paper, depicts the inner view of the synagogue.

Once again paintings by old masters are honoring the Feast of Christmas, this set of Christmas stamps, comprising four values, issued by St. Kitts on Nov. 27. The 12 and 40 cents denominations depict the "Mystical Nativity" as seen through the eyes of Sandro Botticelli and painted about 1500. The 25 and 50 cents values depict the "Adoration of the Magi" by Peter Paul Rubens. These paintings are now to be found hanging in the National Gallery in London, and King's College Chapel, Cambridge, respectively. Printing was by photogravure process on paper watermarked with the C. A. Block.

This year we saw many newcomers to the Christmas scene, most of whose stamps were reproductions of religious paintings by old masters — and there is no doubt that this list will grow in succeeding years. Each year will see a greater demand for the earlier Christmas issues. It is certain that this will always be a very popular theme, sought after by both the collector of Christmas stamps and the collector of "art" on stamps.
