BRITISH SHIP ATTACKED OFF SPAIN

Destroyer Not Hit When Unidentified Sub Fired Torpedo

British Warship Eighteenth Vessel to Be Involved in Submarine or Air Attacks on the Mediterranean Since August 1st—Believed Incident Will Bring Concerted Action by Britain and France to End "Piracy" Acts.

London, September 1.—An unidentified submarine fired a torpedo at the British destroyer Havock off the eastern Spanish coast today and the Admiralty dispatched two destroyers to her assistance.

The Havock was not hit in the attack, midway between Alicante and Valencia. Simultaneously, Spanish insurgent planes bombed and forced ashore the Greek cargo steamer Tsepo, twenty miles north of Barcelona. The helmsman was killed and one sailor wounded.

French quarters in London said they hoped the attack on the British destroyer would spur Great Britain to "take action," and added that "exchanges with this in view are proceeding between London and Paris."

France was bringing strong pressure to have the Spanish Civil War Non-Intervention Committee take up the attacks on shipping and the role of Italian volunteers in the insurgent capture of Santander. The Havock was the eighteenth ship to be involved in submarine or air attacks on the Mediterranean since August 1st.

The most important incidents involved the British ship British Corporal, bombed August 6th; the Campador, Spanish, torpedoed and sunk August 12th; the George W. McKnight, Panamanian, shelled and set fire August 14th; and the Noemijalia, British, bombed August 23rd.

On Monday the Soviet freighter Timiryazev was torpedoed and sunk off the Algerian coast.

Submarines attacked the French ship Parame on August 13th, and the Spanish ship Ciudad de Reus on August 30th. The Greek freighter bombed today was carrying ammunition to the Government of Spain and was being escorted by two Government planes, which were driven off by the attackers.

Powers Study Joint Attempt To Reopen Besieged Shanghai

British and United States Commanders Understood to Be Discussing Inauguration of Naval Convoys to Force Safe Passage Down River for Mercy Ships Carrying Refugees—Japan Threatens to Spread Blockade.

Shanghai, Sept. 1.—Japanese naval authorities warned all foreign shipping today to steer clear of the Japanese naval concentrations in the Whangpoo River and the Yangtze estuary, the only route to the open sea and safety for hundreds of foreigners marooned in Shanghai.

British and United States naval commanders were understood to be discussing inauguration of naval convoys to force safe passage down the river for mercy ships carrying refugees.

Under the proposed plan armed warship escorts would resist forcibly any attempts to molest foreign shipping.

The Japanese authorities further announced that developments might compel their fleet to take stringent action to stop shipments of arms and munitions to China from foreign nations.

Meanwhile fighting swept the Whangpoo's banks on the northern edge of the city of Woosung where it meets the Yangtze twelve miles north of the International Settlement.

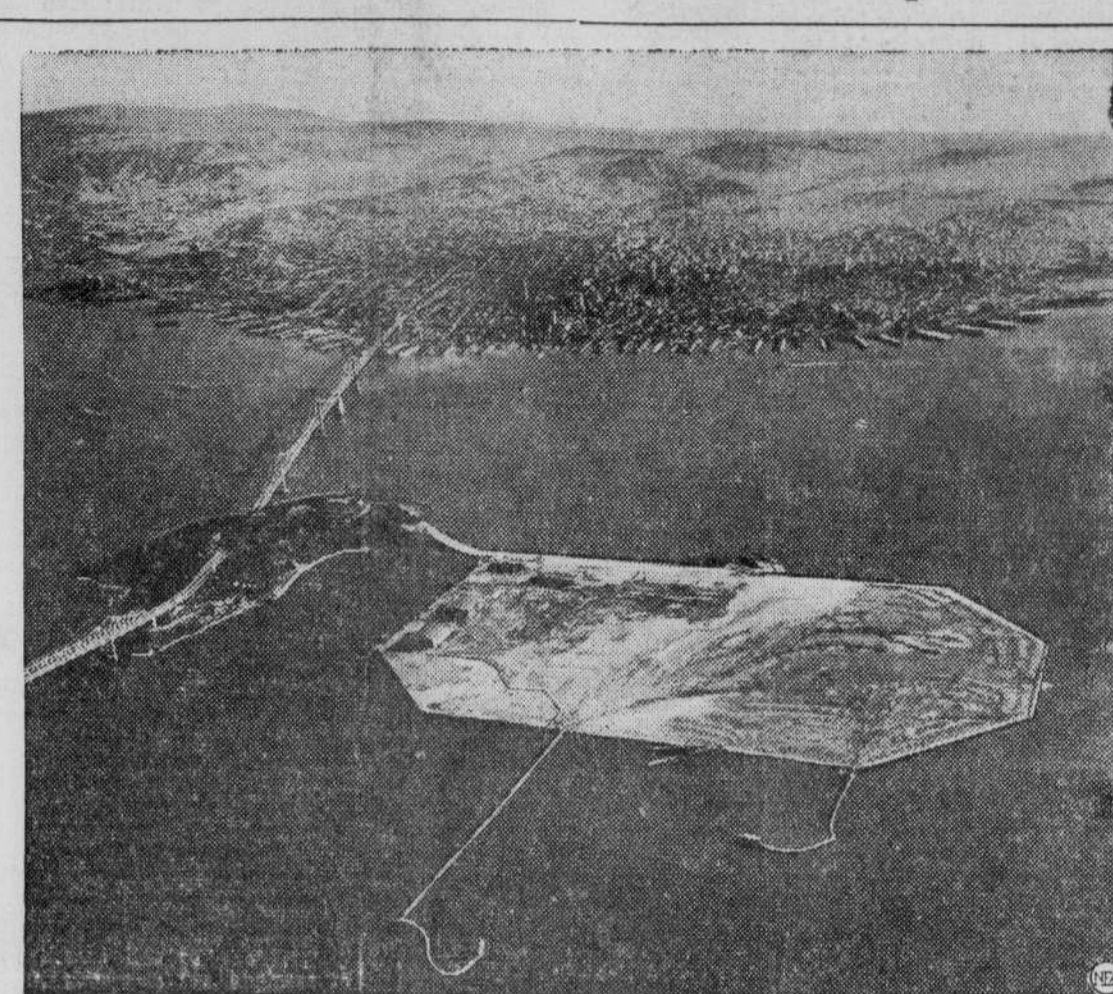

Chinese admitted heavy losses in the Changwahpang and Paoshan sectors, near Woosung, from Japanese naval shelling and aerial bombardment.

The Chinese were withdrawing slowly to prepared second line positions further inland and out of range of the Japanese naval guns. Japanese planes dropped eight bombs on Chinese positions near the British patrol lines on the northwestern edge of the International Settlement. British troops were forced to withdraw temporarily out of danger.

In the western sector the Japanese lines were broken in many places and Chinese resistance prevented the Japanese from solidifying their scattered forces into true front line positions.

This was further inland where the guns of the Japanese fleet were Continued on Page 2, Col. 6.

Man-Made Isle To Be Golden Gate Airport

Rising from the shoals in the shadow of the San Francisco-Oakland Bay bridge, "Treasure Island," shown in above air view, mile-square, man-made site of the Golden Gate World's Fair in 1939, will become one of the nation's major airports after the close of the exposition. Construction on permanent buildings, and administration building and two hangars, is nearing completion. The island was built of sand and silt dredged from the bottom of the bay. In the foreground are two dredges, constantly adding to the island, which now rises thirteen feet above the water level. A highway, at center left, connects the island with nearby Yerba Buena Island.

FIVE YOUNG PEOPLE SLAIN IN ACCIDENT

Minco, Okla., Sept. 1.—A brief leave ended in tragedy today for three United States soldiers as one lay near death after two companions and three girl friends died in a flaming truck-car collision near here on their way to a movie.

Private Odell Thomas, the only survivor of six young persons in the car was in an El Reno Hospital. Physicians gave him slight chance to recover. The dead are: Bernice Branum, twenty-one; Minco; Fern Brown, twenty, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Brown, farmers northwest of Minco; an unidentified girl; Private John V. Hawkins, about twenty-five, and Private Russell B. Hubbard, Jr., about twenty-five.

NO SETTLEMENT IN ACTON VALE MILL WALK-OUT

P. P. Demers, Proprietor of Silk Plant, Said to Be Opposed to Taking Back the Thirteen Workers Against Whom Charges Were Taken.

Acton Vale, Sept. 1.—The deadlock still existed here today in the strike that has kept the Acton Vale Silk Mill idle for three weeks. One hundred and twenty-five workers, affected by the walkout, expressed their willingness to return to their machines under the conditions that ended the Dominion Textile Company dispute.

P. P. Demers, proprietor of the Acton Vale plant, is said to have refused to take back thirteen employees against whom charges were laid during the walkout. It is over this matter that the controversy is being waged. Negotiations to end the strike continued today, and it was hoped that a settlement would be reached by tomorrow.

PETITION PRESENTED FOR WAGE BOARD

Montreal, Sept. 1.—The Dominion Textile Company took the first steps today toward implementing an agreement under which a month-long walk-out of its 10,000 employees was settled last week at conference under Premier Duplessis.

The company petitioned Quebec's new Fair Wage Board, which came into existence today, to take steps to determine wages, hours and working conditions to prevail in the company's nine plants spread through six Quebec cities and towns. Under the agreement the conditions and wages set up by the Board will be made retroactive to the date the workers returned to the mills.

The company named four plant managers—F. R. Daniels, H. D. Roberts, W. G. E. Aird and J. W. Yaxley—as its committee to meet with four representatives of employees and their unions with a view to negotiating a collective labor agreement by March 1, 1938, as provided in the strike-settlement agreement.

THE WEATHER

PARTLY CLOUDY; CONTINUING WARM.

Pressure is high over eastern Canada and the Atlantic states but low over the greater part of the western states and the north portion of Hudson Bay. Showers and thunderstorms have occurred in many districts of northern Ontario, Quebec and the Maritimes, but it has been fair with unusually high temperature over southern and eastern Ontario and southwest Quebec. Except for light showers in southern Saskatchewan the weather has been fair throughout the West.

Forecast: Light to moderate winds; partly cloudy tonight and Thursday with thundershowers in a few districts; continuing warm.

Two Thousand More Paralysis Cases Anticipated In Ontario

Health Department Officials Predict Infantile Paralysis Epidemic Will Not Reach Peak Until Mid-September—One-Tenth of Population Believed Susceptible to Disease as Authorities Take Concerted Action to Check Spread.

Toronto, Sept. 1.—A picture of Ontario's worst infantile paralysis epidemic was before the province today, etched in its broad outlines by the Department of Health so all precautions may be taken. Here were the blackest spots in the province.

Since early June 727 persons have "caught" the disease; twenty-nine have died.

The peak, health officials estimate, will not be reached until mid-September. Within the next two months approximately 2,100 more cases may develop.

Approximately one-tenth of Ontario's population of 3,500,000—or 350,000 persons—are "susceptible" to the disease.

In announcing these details, an authority of Health Minister Dr. J. A. Faulkner, public health officials stressed they were not taking an alarmist view of the situation. They merely emphasized the need for extreme caution.

"The schools should be closed where there is danger," Dr. B. T. McGhie, Deputy Minister, stated. Health officials generally were agreed parents should not be under compulsion to send their children to school.

In more than a score of Ontario municipalities, however, this precaution had already been taken and schools, scheduled to resume classes today, did not open their doors. In other places, even where the disease was under treatment, the view was held that children were better in school where they might be watched than allowed to congregate on the street.

Several municipalities made last-minute decisions to postpone school opening until after Labor Day.

Britain Turns Thumbs Down On Nazi Plan To Extend Propaganda Activity

Proposal to Appoint "Cultural Attaches" at German Embassies, Legations and Consulates Rejected by Government—Connected with Recent Expulsion of Journalists.

London, Sept. 1.—A proposal to intensify pro-Nazi activities of Germans living abroad, including the appointment of "cultural attaches" at German embassies, legations and consulates, was received coldly today by the British press and Government.

Sources close to the Government said the Foreign Office was unlikely to entertain a proposal for such appointments. Britain's recent expulsion of three German newspapermen for activities reported outside the field of journalism was linked by the press with the cultural attaché proposal. Newspapers saw a move to give dip-

Great City Of Shanghai Again Becomes Blazing Inferno Under Attacks

Twenty-One Japanese Destroyers Pump Shells into Northern Sections of City as Planes Co-operate in Grim Task of Turning City into Mass of Ruins—Hard-Pressed Chinese Hold Tenaciously to Important Positions.

Shanghai, September 1.—A terrific series of new fires roared in Shanghai tonight. The blazes, one of them in the Soochow Creek area facing the International Settlement, formed a lurid background for Japan's military operations.

Twenty-one Japanese destroyers and cruisers pumped shells into the Chapei and Kiangwan sectors of Shanghai's north end. Japanese aircraft bombed the Chinese positions.

Woosung, Shanghai's historic defence post at the wide river bend where the Whangpoo meets the Yangtze, already was in Japanese hands. But the hard-pressed Chinese, were fighting on with courage and tenacity, holding firmly to many important positions.

The Japanese offensive found British and United States naval commanders considering the possibility of uniting their protective strength to force a way to the sea for their refugees. This is the result of Japanese naval warnings to all shipping to steer clear of Japanese warships cramping both the Whangpoo and the Yangtze.

SEVEN SHOT FOR PLANNING REVOLT OF PEASANTS

Moscow, Sept. 1.—Seven Georgian officials, convicted of plotting a revolt of shepherds against the Soviet regime, have been shot, it was announced today.

Two others went to prison for ten years and two others were sentenced to eight-year terms. One of those executed was a woman. The Tiflis newspaper "Dawn of the East" said the group confessed membership in "Brightest-Terrorist" organization headed by G. A. Mgaloblishvili, deposed Premier of the Georgian Soviet Republic.

Margate, Kent, Sept. 1.—Mrs. Helen Pearson, of Margate, celebrated her hundredth birthday, being entertained to dinner by friends at a hotel. She reads and knits without glasses; goes out shopping and enjoys picnics on the sand.

RAINS AID CHINESE IN HALTING JAP ADVANCE

Peiping, Sept. 1.—Japanese advance on all North China fronts is being effectively held by Chinese resistance twenty-five miles to the south of Peiping and by rains that have made military operations all but impossible for the mechanized Japanese force.

For three successive days the Japanese army headquarters has announced no decisive change in the fronts north and south of Peiping. A force of twelve thousand Japanese, straddling the Peiping-Hankow railroad in the vicinity of Lianghsiang, twenty-five miles southwest of here, has been trying for a week to halt a strategic Chinese flanking movement in the western hills.

The Japanese are facing superior strength and their effort to relieve the pressure on their flank is seemingly meeting with meagre success. There are some 200,000 Chinese troops in southern Hopei Province, divided almost equally into two columns. One is based on Paochingfu, southwest of Peiping; the other is athwart the railroad running Continued on Page 2, Col. 3.

Demand Japanese Speed Reply To Great Britain's Protest

London Press Declares that Japanese Delay Aggravates Insult of Japanese Warplanes Shooting Ambassador to China—Note Marked Contrast Between Action of Chinese and Japanese Governments in Similar Incidents.

London, Sept. 1.—A demand that Japan speed up her reply to the British protest on the machine-gunning of Sir Hugh Knatchbull-Hugessen was made editorially today by Lord Beaverbrook's Daily Express.

Sir Hugh, British ambassador to China, was seriously wounded last Thursday when a Japanese airman strafed his automobile on the road from Nanking to Shanghai.

Under the heading "Please!" the newspaper contrasted the haste with which China apologized to the United States for the bombing of the liner President Hoover off Shanghai two days ago and added:

"We want an official reply to the protest about Japanese warplanes shooting our ambassador and the present Japanese delays aggravate that insult."

AIRCRAFT USED TO DRIVE BACK LOYALIST PUSH

Government Forces Claim However that Series of Attacks Failed to Halt Advance Designed to Strangle Belchite.

Hondaye, Franco-Spanish Frontier, Sept. 1.—Using numerous air squadrons for the first time against the Spanish Government's big push on the Aragon front, the insurgents were reported today to have made thirteen separate attacks from the air to crack the siege ring around Belchite.

Government forces, which threatened to strangle the strategic town in northeastern Spain, twenty miles south of Zaragoza, reported the aerial counter-thrusts failed to halt their steady advance.

The fall of Belchite would facilitate Government attempts to drive a wedge through the long Aragon salient, splitting off thousands of square miles of insurgent territory in the lower end from which Franco's forces weeks have threatened the lifeline roadway link between Madrid and Valencia.

IMPROVEMENT NOTED IN MINISTER'S CONDITION

Shanghai, Sept. 1.—The condition of Sir Hugh Knatchbull-Hugessen is improving daily, an official of the British embassy announced today.

The wounded ambassador cannot yet receive visitors, however, and it is too soon to say when he will be able to leave hospital or where he is likely to go to complete his recovery, the official added.

Resident Magistrate R. S. Holland produced a cigarette and lit one when the court at Donemana had been cleared for a case.

Representatives of Church and State at Funeral of Prominent Eastern Townships Citizen Who Was Mayor of St. Camille for Forty-Five Years.

St. Camille, Sept. 1.—A slight mound, banked with flowers, in the Roman Catholic cemetery here, today marked the last resting place of Joseph Hermenegilde Crepeau, prominent Eastern Townships citizen and mayor of St. Camille for forty-five years, who has ended a notable career at the age of seventy-nine years.

Mgr. J. E. M. Vincent, vicar-general of Sherbrooke Diocese, represented Rev. A. O. Gagnon, Lord Bishop of Sherbrooke, who was a classmate of the deceased at St. Charles Seminary.

Few men in Canada have paralleled Mr. Crepeau's municipal career. At the time of his passing, he had been mayor of St. Camille for forty-five years.

Calves were in good demand and prices stronger. The bulk of the live calves were sold in mixed lots at $9 for medium good to good kinds, with a few veals picked out weighing 170 pounds or better at $10.

Good ewes and wethers made $6.50, with culls and bucks at $6.50, sheep were from $2.50 to $4. Bacon hogs were stronger at $10 to $10.10, fed and watered, mostly $10.10.

These troops include regular divisions of the Central Army, irregulars and provincial troops that have stood the brunt of the intermittent fighting since July 7.

The units southwest of Peiping are the best equipped of the Chinese in the north and are favored by terrain best suited to defensive operations. The Japanese commanders expect the stubborn Chinese resistance to be most effective there.

Japanese officers announced that the railroad northwest from Peiping has been brought under their control all the way to Kaigan, one hundred miles to the northwest. The Japanese said seventy thousand Chinese troops south of the railway were retreating toward Shansi Province and twenty thousand in far northern Chahar Province had been cut off in the vicinity of Chiehcheng.

BRITISH CRUISERS ON VISIT TO VENICE PORT

Venice, Sept. 1.—The first cruiser squadron of the British Mediterranean fleet, including the Sussex and the London, arrived here today for an official visit.

Admiral E. E. Kennedy-Purvis, commander of the squadron, was visited by Admiral S. Sala, naval commander of the Upper Adriatic district, after the British vessels had exchanged salute with the Italian cruisers Fiume and Gonzia.

On September 5 Vice-Admiral Kennedy-Purvis will witness the royal races on the Grand Canal. The visit was the first since the tension in the Mediterranean at the time of the Ethiopian war.

DEMANDING CONCERNED ACTION TO END PIRACY

Paris, Sept. 1.—The torpedoing of the Soviet freighter Timiriyev in the Mediterranean Monday is additional reason for concerted effort by France and Great Britain to halt the "piracy" of "unknown" submarines.

Despite denials in French diplomatic circles that the Government was considering reconsideration of its entire Spanish policy, Leftist spokesmen intensified their campaign for stern action by Paris and London to halt continued intervention in Spain by foreign powers.

London and Paris will take the necessary initiative. They will not be alone. All Mediterranean states will join them to halt the criminal action of the "unknown powers."

Marcel Cachin in the Communist newspaper Humanite saw a change in attitude "among those who in their ministerial declarations treated us as war breeders."

"In French official circles, as in British, there is a demand for a halt in the odious mystification of non-intervention which for 13 months has cost the Spanish people their blood," the Communist writer declared.

PLAN INTENSIVE HUNT FOR ATTACKING VESSEL

Gibraltar, Sept. 1.—British naval units in Spanish waters today were ordered to make an intensive search for the mysterious submarine which attacked the destroyer Havock off the eastern Spanish coast last night.

The flotilla leader Hardy and the destroyer Hyperion were dispatched to the assistance of the Havock from this base immediately after the Havock was attacked.

An anonymous source here said that the destroyers Hereward and Hasty had been ordered to join the Hyperion and Hardy and other British units off the eastern Spanish coast in a determined hunt for the undersea "pirate" between Alicante and Valencia.

The Havock was attacked by a submarine of unknown nationality while on patrol duty off Cape San Antonio, midway between Alicante and Valencia. The Cape is about fifty miles directly west of the insurgent-held Balearic Island of Ibiza.

VICE REGAL PARTY HOMEWARD BOUND

Aboard Vice Regal Train, Sept. 1.—The touring Vice Regal party, homeward bound near the end of a nine weeks' trip through the Far North and West, was headed today for Jasper, Alta., and a half day amid some of Canada's grandest Rocky Mountain scenery.

On their trip across northern British Columbia yesterday Lord and Lady Tweedsmuir descended briefly from their train on three occasions, at the little town of Endako where they met Mr. and Mrs. J. M. McCormick, at Vanderhoof where they shook hands with a number of citizens who thronged the station platform to greet them, and at Prince George.

Two Thousand More Paralysis Cases Anticipated In Ontario

Hamilton reported two new cases overnight, a baby and a twenty-six year old woman. Schools there remained open, but with strict provision that each child be scrutinized for any symptoms of illness.

Three Middlesex county fair boards took the precaution of calling off exhibitions scheduled for next week, while a Boy Scout jamboree to be held at Goderich Labor Day was postponed. Kincardine banned a carnival that was to have opened September 4.

Preston children were having their nasal passages sprayed, one thousand already receiving this preventive treatment.

London still had fifty-three cases under treatment and a mass meeting of Oxford, Elgin and Middlesex health officers there heard Dr. J. T. Phair, Chief Medical Officer of Health, describe the situation. It was there Dr. Phair estimated ten per cent of the population was susceptible to the disease.

TWO CASES REPORTED AT PLESSISVILLE

Quebec, Sept. 1.—Two children suffering from infantile paralysis were brought to hospital here yesterday from Plessisville, fifty miles away. Physicians said the condition of the children was not serious.

EXTEND VACATION DAYS FOR MANY YOUNGSTERS

Toronto, Sept. 1.—It still was holiday time today for thousands of Ontario children. In more than a score of urban centres and rural townships school bells failed to toll the dirge that signalled the end of vacation days. The kids had another week—many of them a fortnight—in which to play.

For their elders, alarmed at the worst epidemic of infantile paralysis ever to hit the Province, had decreed that schools would not reopen today as scheduled. They feared congregating in crowds would spread the disease more quickly.

Already, more than 750 persons, most of them children, have been stricken. But the members of the various boards of education were not all of one mind as to the effectiveness of the measure. Many were of the opinion the children would be better protected in the schools where medical supervision is provided and that adequate supervisory steps could not be taken if they were scattered.

A survey by The Canadian Press disclosed that at least ten cities and towns re-opened schools today. They were: Brantford, Hamilton, Oshawa, Guelph, Galt, Windsor, Fort Erie, North Bay, Preston and Ottawa. In those places, educational heads felt no good would be done if schools remained closed.

DELAY RE-OPENING OF SCHOOLS AT CHICAGO

Chicago, Sept. 1.—Chicago health authorities, faced with the largest number of August infantile paralysis cases in city history, postponed reopening of school for 600,000 children today "until the peak of this disease has been reached and the sickness is definitely on the wane."

Public and parochial schools were scheduled to reopen next week. Postponement was ordered after the board of health found 100 cases of the disease were reported last month. The previous peak was ninety-nine cases in August, 1916.

Herman N. Bundesen, board president, said the disease rapidly was "approaching an epidemic stage" and the majority of cases reported were from school age group.

Powers Study Joint Attempt To Reopen Besieged Shanghai

From dawn the Japanese bombarded strongly held sections of Chapei and Kiangwan with naval guns and air bombs in an effort to drive out the Chinese concentrations.

Japanese planes ranged over the western sections of Shanghai, bombing Chinese communications with Nanking and other interior bases.

The Japanese navy announced today it planned to extend its operations to all China, launching air attacks against all Chinese air-dromes and military bases.

Chinese morale on the Woosung front as well as in the Far North was described as "magnificent" by General Feng Yu-Hsiang, vice-chairman of the Military Affairs Commission, after a tour of the various fronts.

"The morale of the Chinese forces in the face of incessant air bombardment and naval shelling is magnificent," he said. "Chinese soldiers travel their journey to death as if returning home."

There was a coffin famine in Shanghai where the undertakers were unable to care for the thousands of bodies awaiting burial. In some instances two hundred or more Chinese were buried in a single grave without coffins and with unmarked mounds the only clue to their resting place.

Four Ministers Expected To Attend Local Fair Tomorrow

Col. the Hon. Johnny Bourque, Hon. Bona Dussault, Hon. Martin B. Fisher and Hon. Onesime Gagnon Will Be Guests of E.T.A.A. Officials—Governor of Vermont Is City's Guest of Honor Today—Sherbrooke Fair Is Acclaimed Splendid Success.

The most successful exhibition in the fifty-three year history of the Eastern Townships' Agricultural Association will have four Ministers in the Duplessis Cabinet as guests tomorrow. Col. the Hon. Johnny Bourque, Minister of Public Works, Hon. Martin B. Fisher, Provincial Treasurer, Hon. Bona Dussault, Minister of Agriculture, and Hon. Onesime Gagnon, Minister of Mines and Fisheries, are expected to arrive in Sherbrooke at three o'clock tomorrow afternoon. They will proceed directly to the Exhibition grounds, where they will be guests of the E.T.A.A. officials.

The Ministers will tour the grounds, making an inspection of the numerous exhibits in the livestock departments, the industrial sections and the dairy and agricultural sections and elsewhere. It is probable that they will attend the banquet of the Provincial Calf Clubs in the Arvon Building at six o'clock tomorrow evening, after which they will witness the grandstand performance.

Today Sherbrooke is honored by a visit from Governor Akin of Vermont, who arrived here at noon. At the same time it is probable that the Fair grounds will witness a large influx of United States visitors. This has been styled by the E.T.A.A. as "Americans' Day," an appropriate gesture on the part of Fair officials when one considers the large number of guests from across the international border that visit the Exhibition every year. Close to ten thousand children, constituting a new record in attendance, had the time of their young lives on the Fair grounds yesterday. Admitted without charge to the grounds and accorded special privileges in the midway section and on the grandstand, these youngsters spent a thrilling and memorable day, and they were a weary, if happy, little army when they wended their way out of the main gates and towards home and bed last evening.

The Fair is always an exciting venture for any youngster. This year Art Lewis' midway offers especially fine entertainment with its numerous sideshows and rides, the grandstand performance is particularly good, and the other sections of the Fair offer a variety of amusement and entertaining features.

Livestock Parade Today
A spectacular livestock parade will be held this afternoon on the race track in front of the grandstand. It will supplement the usual vaudeville attractions and the harness races, and will, if one judges by the parades of other years, prove an enlightening and impressive feature. This parade will be repeated tomorrow afternoon.

Judging is now well under way and continued today in those departments which have not as yet been completed.
No visitor to the Fair should fail to visit the Poultry Building where 75 birds, 115 more than were entered for competition last year, comprise the finest exhibit of this kind ever seen in Sherbrooke. Judging in this department was completed yesterday afternoon by George Robertson, of the Dominion Experimental Farm at Ottawa. Mr. Robertson stated that he was very much impressed by the quality of the birds on display, and that they represented the best exhibit he had ever had the privilege of judging. C. J. Wright, chairman of the poultry division, claimed that yesterday more people visited the poultry show than on any previous Tuesday of Fair week that he can recall.

Fine Display in Children's Department
Many splendid exhibits are to be seen in the Children's Department. There are a number of excellent charcoal reproductions that indicate talent and a good knowledge of technique. Many pieces done in watercolor are admirable and the subjects appealing. One rather unusual exhibit is a little village constructed of cardboard and appropriately colored. The tiny church with its steeple, the little school house, an apartment house with its fire escape, and a fine residence, all placed in symmetrical order along the indicated streets, attracted hundreds of children who visited the Fair yesterday. The display of home cooking, fancy flasks that the modern girl still wears a taste for the culinary art and needlecraft. The judging of the Art Department was done by the Rev. Sisters of the Mont Notre Dame Convent. The entire section is in the capable charge of Miss Doreen Stewart, of Lennoxville.

Main Building Presents Gala Appearance.
The familiar rambling old Main Building presents an interesting and gala appearance for the Fair of 1937. Its corridors fairly hum with music, piano playing and the chatter of the numerous promenading visitors.

The decorations of the different booths were both artistic and ingenious, and the exhibits well up to par. Several new exhibitors were noted and several old ones were missed.
The booths which "give away" articles such as fans, paper hats, bags, etc., are most popular with the little folk, who swarm about the railings with eager faces and reaching hands for "a sample" and show the utmost satisfaction with the gift no matter how trivial.
The matter part about the returns is empty of exhibits but is serving a good purpose as a convenient place for people to rest and refresh themselves.

Increase in Sheep and Swine
A substantial increase is recorded in the number of sheep entered for competition, as well as a slight increase in the number of swine. Judging in these two classes was completed yesterday. Sheep number 106 as against eighty last year, and swine, fifty-four compared with fifty-one. The list of prize winners in the latter division was announced yesterday afternoon, and those in the former group will be made public today.
The increase in swine raised this division to its highest peak in the number of entrants since the competition was inaugurated at the Sherbrooke Fair. Exhibits were of an exceptionally high quality. Yorkshires topped in particular giving evidence of careful breeding and diligent care.
X. N. Rodrigue, chief of the Quebec Department of Agriculture in sheep and swine, officiated as judge in the swine exhibition, and Graham Walker, of Chazy, N.Y., acted officially in the sheep judging. Following is the official list of the prize-winners in the swine classes:

ARRIVAL OF THE STAGE COACHES

One of the most colorful scenes depicted during the historical pageant of Sherbrooke's centennial celebration was the arrival of the early stage coaches. Above are shown the two authentic stage coaches which were used and those who participated in this highly-pleasing episode.

E. T. HISTORY WAS TRACED BY ROTARY GUEST

Dr. John A. Dresser, Eminent Richmond Geologist Now Living in Montreal, Gave Interesting Address on Townships' Development.

Members of the Sherbrooke Rotary Club ended their noon meetings for 1937 yesterday in the New Sherbrooke House by listening attentively as Dr. John A. Dresser, F.R.S.C., addressed them on "The History and Development of the Eastern Townships."

A native of Richmond and a graduate of both McGill and Harvard universities, Dr. Dresser is one of Canada's outstanding geologists. At one time principal of St. Francis College, Richmond, he was later a lecturer on geology at McGill. For the past twelve years he has been an officer of the Geological Survey of Canada, during which time he has written on asbestos, copper, chromite and other natural resources of the Eastern Townships. Since 1929 he has been directing geologist of the Quebec Bureau of Mines.

Tracing the development of the Townships, the speaker, who is a Fellow of the Royal Society of Canada, said that the Indians, first to occupy the country, left several things which white men have been able to improve but little through the years, among them birch bark canoes and snowshoes. These original settlers also discovered the use of maple syrup.

Later people from Europe—France and the British Isles in particular—drifted to the New World's shores, many of those from the former country settling in the lower St. Lawrence Valley. The region that is today known as the Eastern Townships remained unsettled for many years, so that in comparison with other parts of the province, this district is still young.

Continuing, Dr. Dresser stated that when settlers began coming to this section of Quebec the region developed rapidly. Some of the immigrants came from United States, New England in particular, and still others were United Empire Loyalists. The speaker paid tribute to the Hyatt family, who played a prominent part in the founding of Sherbrooke.

According to Dr. Dresser, the manufacture of potash played a notable part in the settling of the province and the Townships. This composition is made from hardwood ashes and those engaged in the work moved from one spot to another where conditions were favorable and the proper trees plentiful. Each time they moved they left behind a farm at least partially cleared, while in the meantime the population of the lower St. Lawrence Valley was steadily increasing and pushing into this district, where they bought these deserted farms and settled.

By 1840 lumbering began and with the building of the Grand Trunk Railway the population was further increased, many Scotch and Irish being included in the influx. In his closing remarks Dr. Dresser declared that the farmer and the manufacturer are essential to one another and predicted a bright and prosperous future for the Eastern Townships.

The speaker was introduced by Vice-president George Ewing and thanked by Rotarian Ray Wood. President Rosaire Samson presided and guests introduced by Rotarian Emilian Gingras were L. C. Roy, of Montreal; Bill Brent, of Lawrence, Mass.; and G. O. Douglas, of Halifax, N.S.

Rotarian Bert Skinner expressed the members' regret at the loss to the club of Rotarian Leonard Prefontaine, who is leaving shortly to fill a responsible position in Montreal.

A Gorgeous Display Of Flowers At Exhibition

Premier Laurels Were Taken by C. A. Peterson, of Lennoxville, and Henry Woolleton, of this City—Well Arranged Experimental Farm Exhibit Was an Outstanding Feature.

In proud defiance of their plain surrounding, flaming gladioli, with other gorgeous flowers and plants, reared their stately heads to attract the attention of the many Sherbrooke Fair visitors to the Floricultural Building, where flower lovers annually congregate to revel in their beauty.

The major share of prize honors this year were won by C. A. Peterson, of Lennoxville, who registered the highest number of points in both the plant and cut bloom classes, with Henry Woolleton, of Sherbrooke as runner-up. Other outstanding exhibitors were Mrs. G. Hall, R. Loveland, Mrs. E. Bench, Mrs. W. W. Shaw, Morris LeMay, T. Hopkins, K. Campbell, all of Sherbrooke; Mrs. T. B. Vincent, of Sutton; Mrs. J. E. Desruisseaux and Fred A. Hodge, of Birtchton; Col. B. Morrill, of Stanstead, and W. Richardson, of Lennoxville.

There were only two large displays. The collection of plants exhibited by Henry Woolleton, which was most attractive, and the collection of cut bloom arranged by Mrs. T. B. Vincent, of Sutton, which was extremely pretty and very much admired. There were not as many entries in any of the sections as in previous years, nevertheless there were numerous beautiful flowers and some artistic and lovely made up designs. In this latter class Mr. Peterson won the premier laurels with a basket of cut bloom and first on table bouquet, while Henry Woolleton won out with his basket of gorgeous flame colored gladioli.

Among the potted plants, the tuberos, begonias and glonoxias were outstanding. In fact, the display of these two most popular plants in bloom was the best in many years. There were some very fine zinnias and good perennial phlox, but speaking generally most of the other sections were not up to standard. One missed the masses of fragrant sweet peas and showy asters of former years, but the hot dry season was perhaps responsible for the apparent failure in many popular sections.

One of the most attractive corners in the building was used by the Experimental Farm for a really creditable display of gladioli, phlox and other flowers, which were well arranged in tall standards and on graduated shelves against a soft green background, the whole being offset by a fine collection of potted plants and ferns placed on similar shelves. The tout ensemble presented a very pleasing picture and added greatly to the flower exhibition. The baskets and bouquets were arranged on the central stand, which was the Experimental Farm exhibit arranged by S. Mahaffy, Woolleton's plant display and Mrs. Vincent's collection of cut bloom, comprised the main features in the department.

The building was deplorably void of any attempt at decorating, which exaggerated the empty and unattractive appearance of the building which housed some really beautiful flowers, worthy of a far better and more appropriate setting.

George Carr acted as judge in both the plant and cut bloom classes.

SPIRIT OF WAR IS APPARENT IN JAPAN
Helen Keller, Back from a Recent Trip to Japan, Tells How War Fever Is Gripping Japanese Children.

Dallas, Tex., Sept. 1.—Helen Keller, resting here at her brother's home, after a journey to Japan, is troubled for Japanese children. "At every station stop children met my train waving flags," she said. "The spirit of war was everywhere apparent. I hate to think of these children becoming gun fodder."

Miss Keller, victor over the handicap of being blind, deaf and dumb, said "the Japanese people don't want war, it is the militarists who dominate who are pushing it."

AGED RESIDENT OF SHERBROOKE DIED SUDDENLY

Mrs. Samuel Newton, Victim of Fatal Heart Attack, Was Loved and Admired by All Who Knew Her.

The sudden passing away of Mrs. Samuel Newton at her home on Victoria street yesterday was a distinct shock not only to her immediate family and friends but to the community at large, for Mrs. Newton was for many years a familiar and much loved resident of Sherbrooke, and was also well known throughout the Eastern Townships. Mrs. Newton, who was in her eighty-first year, bore their weight so gracefully that few realized her age, so active and bright was her interest in her family, her friends and world-wide events.

She leaves to mourn her passing two sons, Robert Samuel Newton, and Stephen Gilbert Newton, both of Sherbrooke. Five grandchildren also survive, namely John, Dorothy and Victor, children of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Newton, Alexander, (Mrs. J. D. Millard) and Margaret Newton, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Newton.

Of distinguished parentage, Margaret Ann Nugent Watts, widow of Samuel Newton, who predeceased her in 1905, was born in Drummondville in 1857, the daughter of Robert Nugent Watts and Charlotte Shepard. Her father's father, Stephen Watts was a captain in the British army and fought in the American Revolution. Her sister, Polly Watts, who married John Johnson, son of Sir William Johnson, superintendent of Indian affairs near Albany and controlling northern New York State, was taken prisoner by the Americans, but escaped with her two children in mid-winter. She secured a row boat and crossed the Hudson River through treacherous ice floes to join her brother on the British lines.

After her husband's death, Mrs. Newton left the family estate in Drummondville, which had been decided to her husband's father for gallant service in the war of 1812, and came to Sherbrooke where for many years she lived with her son, Robert. Mrs. Newton was a devoted adherent of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, an active and enthusiastic member of its Women's Missionary Society and was prominent in welfare and all other charitable and good works. Her favorite pastime was driving, and only a few days ago this young-old lady was seen enjoying a trip about the crowded city streets driving one of the noble animals she loved and valued so highly. To her sons and all members of the family the sincerest sympathy will be extended in their irreparable loss of a devoted, unselfish mother whose first and constant thought was the welfare and happiness of those she so dearly loved.

The funeral service will be held at her late home, 150 Victoria-street, at 1:20 p.m., tomorrow, and interment will be in the family burial ground in Drummondville.

London, Sept. 1.—Take it from eighty-year-old Robert Buet—walking is the way to keep young. Buet, a Chelsea pensioner whose father fought at Waterloo, still walks fifteen miles daily. "If people walked more instead of buzzing around in motor cars, as they do today, they'd be a sight fitter," said the veteran.

SHERBROOKE, WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 1, 1937.

SEPTEMBER.

The morrow was a bright September morn; The earth was beautiful as if new-born; There was that nameless splendor everywhere, That wild exhilaration in the air, Which makes the passers in the city street Congratulate each other as they meet.

—Longfellow.

Situation More Reassuring.

It is encouraging to the citizens of Sherbrooke as a whole to know that the recent textile strike has been settled. The men are back at work, the company officials are satisfied at the arrangements which have been agreed upon and the citizens feel relieved that the shut-down, as unfortunate as it was, did not have any serious results.

In this connection, it is interesting to note that a special committee of the Chamber of Commerce of the State of New York, which has been investigating industrial problems and relations, finds that so far in 1937 the boom in strikes has at least kept pace with other industrial development. Never before in peace time, it reports, have there been so many strikes throughout the country, affecting so many workers. The peak year in number of labor disputes in the United States was twenty years ago—the year that country entered the World War—when strikes reached the total of 4,438. But for the first six months of 1937 the number of strikes exceeded that in the first six months of 1917. They reached a total of 2,312 as compared with 2,048 and with 4,077 in the same period of last year. The number of man-days of work lost was greater than for all last year. If the same rate be maintained in the second half of 1937, this year will set a new record for strikes.

The committee sets forth four chief reasons for the great increase in strikes. The first is the substantial progress in recovery from hard times. The second is federal legislation, notably the Wagner or National Labor Relations Act. The third is the activities of the C.I.O., as the committee puts it, "in capitalizing the pronounced labor leanings of the Administration"; and the fourth labor's conviction that shorter hours without reduction in wages is the way to solve the unemployment problem. The last one, in short, is a direct outgrowth of the unemployment experiences of the depression.

Now that the local situation has been settled and the troubled clouds have passed it is to be hoped that peace and contentment will reign.

Sherbrooke, as a whole, is extremely fortunate. Business generally is on the upward trend. There is a decidedly more encouraging outlook for the future and Sherbrooke and the Eastern Townships should face a prolonged period of prosperity.

Strikes and labor disputes are a hindrance to progress and it is unfortunate that workmen who have jobs and are receiving fair treatment should upset the smooth workings of a community or a city and at the same time bring hardships to themselves and their families.

Now that the trouble has passed let everyone get down to serious work. The fall season is approaching and soon the long winter months will be at hand. It is far nicer for the community at large to see its factories humming and satisfied workmen going home at the end of the week with their pay envelopes, instead of having to face a group of disgruntled workmen armed with sticks and stones ready at a moment's notice to wreck the plant from which they should be receiving their livelihood.

British Subsidy To Grain Growers.

An interesting effect in Great Britain of the higher wheat prices resulting from the decline in world wheat stocks is reported in the latest issue of the Commercial Intelligence Journal.

Owing to the increased prices for wheat, writes the chief Canadian trade commissioner in the United Kingdom, the British Government will likely be paying only fourteen cents per bushel subsidy to British grain growers during the current crop year under the "deficiency payments" of the Wheat Act. This measure was enacted in 1932 to guarantee to registered growers of wheat in the United Kingdom a standard price equivalent to $1.36 per bushel. In the year 1935-36 crop year the deficiency payments were equivalent to fifty-seven cents per bushel, so that the decline between the two years is of marked proportions. The money for these payments is obtained through a levy, known as the "wheat quota payment," payable by millers and importers of flour, whether home milled or imported.

The purpose of this subsidy was to increase home production, largely as a national protective measure. It has been measurably successful. In 1931, before the Wheat Act came into effect, the acreage under wheat in the United Kingdom was the lowest on record, amounting to 1,230,000 acres. Four years later, after a period of low world prices, it had increased to 1,882,095 acres. However, this year it has declined somewhat to 1,805,082 acres.

EDITOR'S NOTE-BOOK

Do not get the idea that Sherbrooke's Centennial celebration is over. The Sherbrooke Exhibition is a vital part of this celebration, which does not officially close until Saturday, September 4th.

Motorists would do well to observe the traffic lines which the Police Department went to the trouble to paint along the city streets. If auto drivers would just get in line and use a little commonsense everything would go along smoothly.

We had a friendly chat the other day with Henry G. Kidd, of Bishopton, widely-known writer and philosopher. Just as soon as we can get a day off we are going to accept Mr. Kidd's kind invitation to visit him at Bishopton. A visit with an interesting man is profitable at any time.

The Grandstand performance at the Exhibition Grounds is certainly one of the outstanding attractions of this year's Fair. The programme provides a wide range of entertainment. The numbers are well presented, the scenery is most attractive and the members of the large cast leave no efforts undone to please their patrons. We strongly recommend this programme and urge all visitors to the Exhibition to secure Grandstand seats.

Forgive us if we talk about ourselves, but we do wish to thank the St. Thomas Times-Journal, which had the following to say about our Centennial issue:

"The Sherbrooke special number was issued by the Daily Record, and marked the city's centenary. It reflects great credit upon the city, which is the garden spot of the Eastern Townships, and the sheet anchor of British traditions in the Province of Quebec, and also upon the Record, a paper which is excellently edited and which carries a great deal of weight far beyond the district in which it circulates. The Mayor of Sherbrooke, in extending greetings, congratulated the people of Sherbrooke and of the Eastern Townships upon having so 'splendid' a newspaper as the Record 'to cater to their needs and defend their rights.'"

THIRTY YEARS AGO TODAY

From the Files of the Sherbrooke Record.

September 1st, 1907.
Mr. James Flanagan, who had his pockets picked while attending the Sherbrooke Fair last year, found himself the victim of the same unpleasant circumstances while attending the Brome Fair this year. Jos. Allaire, of Sherbrooke, sustained a broken arm and other injuries when he was struck by the G. T. R. train while he was walking along the railway tracks. The home of Mr. Donald Morrison, of Marsboro, was the scene of a pretty wedding, when his daughter, Katharine Effie, was married to Mr. George Matheson, son of Mr. Peter Matheson, Rev. Mr. McLeod officiating.

Rev. William Barton, formerly curate of St. Peter's Church, Sherbrooke, has resigned from the mission of Bourz Louis and Lake St. John to take up work in the Diocese of Columbia.

St. George's Church at Little Metis, of which Rev. Dr. Farrock, Principal of Bishop's College, Lennoxville, has been chaplain this summer, was consecrated by the Right Rev. Dr. Dunn, Bishop of Quebec.

Rev. R. C. Tamba, for many years in charge of the mission of Waterville, and Rev. Rural Dean Parker, of Compton, have been granted pensions by the Central Board of the Church.

Deaths reported: Mrs. Jeremiah Cronin, of Compton; Joseph Blais, of West Shefford, and Shipley Wilson Snow, of Stanstead.

TOMORROW.

Today may be dark and forbidding: our hearts may be full of despair; But Tomorrow the hope that was waning will prompt us to do and to dare,

Today we may feel that life's sorrows outweigh all the joy that we crave, But tomorrow will teach us the lesson that life is worth while to the brave.

Faint heart is forerunner of sadness—despondency robs us of health; The man who is chock full of glandness is the man who makes most of life's wealth.

Today may be all that is mournful—our paths cannot always be bright, But Tomorrow we'll somehow take courage and trustingly enter the fight.

Tomorrow the sun will be brighter; Tomorrow the skies will be fair; Tomorrow our hearts will be lighter; we'll cast aside sorrow and care.

Remember when heartbreak and weary; the sunshine comes after the rain; Tomorrow is time to be cheery: Tomorrow we take hope again!

PRESS COMMENTS

WHY DON'T TAXES COME DOWN?

(Financial Post, Toronto)
The terms of reference of the Royal Commission on Public Finance are sufficiently broad to enable it to study any phase of the cost of government and the burden of taxation in Canada.

Businessmen will hope that the Royal Commission will have time to study the basic problem of the cost of government in Canada in relation to the income the people have to meet that cost. Such a study is not the most specific task allotted to the commissioners to perform but it is one of the most important none the less.

Present taxation in Canada exacts a very considerable drag upon initiative and enterprise. In a great many people, that condition excites alarm. They do not believe in initiative or enterprise except such as might be able to exist in a completely socialized state. But since the country has not yet committed itself to the policies of the scholarly reformers in the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation, it is well to assume that the free play of ambition and driving energy in the individual businessman will continue to be regarded as factors making for constructive national development and the well-being of all the people. That being so, such forces should not be repressed and deadened by wasteful and bureaucratic governmental expenditure and excessive taxation.

The theme "Why don't we get taxes down?" might well be an important subject for Messrs. Rowell, Daffoe, Turgeon, Angus and Mackay to look into.

ACROSS THE ATLANTIC IN FIFTY-SEVEN DAYS

(Watertown Times)

On the heels of the Normandie's boast that she crossed the Atlantic in a little more than three days across the quaint and interesting story of a German skipper who sailed his yawl from Hamburg into New York in fifty-seven days. Captain Ludwig Schlimbach gave New York something of a start Thursday when he calmly told of his journey over rough and calm water from the European continent to America.

Perhaps this age of speed has softened us. New Yorkers gaped at Captain Schlimbach, at his thirty-three-foot boat and marveled at his story. The veteran captain dressed in faded blue sailor pants and smoking his pipe seemed to take it all for granted. He left Hamburg on June 11, took his time moving Southward and then continued to the Azores. From there he moved straight across the broad water to New York. He laughingly said he expected to do some reading en route. He brought with him a dozen books and a bale of newspapers, but work on the sails and at the wheel took all of his time. He didn't even dare do any lengthy sleeping. He might run onto another boat or something might go wrong.

Captain Schlimbach's story is refreshing. A man of 60, long a captain on Hamburg-American boats, has sailed his yawl alone across the Atlantic. We hear of speed records being made by boats. We read that within a few months trans-Atlantic flight service will be available. New York will then be only seven hours from London. A slower voyage seems a thing of the faded past. Could anyone possibly have taken days and weeks and months to cross an ocean? Yet here Captain Schlimbach turns up, his white yawl spic and span, his pipe belching contented and steady hands hardened by fifty-seven days of sailing. Progress is not wholly dominating and omnipotent.

CO-OPERATIVE WORK IN NOVA SCOTIA

(Sydney Post-Record)

The co-operative movement has forged its way deeply into the channels of life in eastern Nova Scotia. From a venturesome beginning it has accelerated to an unparalleled scope. The annual Rural and Industrial Conference now in session at Antigonish has revealed progress of the "Christian revolution," surprising to the average layman who has not delved into the movement, but not to the farmers, fishermen, miners and adherents from all stations in life, who have solved their economic problems by application of the practical theories of the philosophy.

A vivid example of achievement comes from the little Cape Breton fishing village of Louisdale, where three years ago seven-eighths of the families were on relief. Leaders of the Saint Francis Xavier University Extension Department stepped in, provided the people with theoretical equipment to work with, helped the solve their own problems.

Credit unions were formed, co-operative enterprises established, the people grasped a new lease on life, economically and socially. Today, a spokesman reports, "Louisdale is a community of independent, free and contented people." This record is not an isolated one.

The basis of the movement, a conference delegate relates, aims "to prevent the rugged individualism of a few from running wild and destroying the individualism of the many."

Leaders in the movement, many of them raised through their own Cape Breton communities, contend their work has just started. To date it has been a job well done.

HUSH-HUSH POLICY ABOUT EPIDEMICS NOT A WISE ONE

(Sault Ste. Marie Star)

Toronto has been well advised in abandoning its proposal of a "hush-hush" policy in connection with the number of infantile paralysis cases in the city.

Publication of the number of cases may be looked upon as bad advertising, particularly with the exhibition now on. But on the other hand that is the only way in which to arouse the public to the dangers of the disease and to put people on their guard.

That was the old idea—that news of epidemics should be kept quiet because of the bad publicity it gave the community. But now recently it has been realized that the safety of the public demands publicity.

The Sault has in the past had some experience with the "hush-hush" plan and on one occasion, some years ago wakened up to find it had 600 cases of measles.

Last year, however, when infantile paralysis cases were numerous here, the health authorities made a point of keeping the public informed as to the progress of the disease and so probably prevented a more serious epidemic.

This year, fortunately, no cases of the disease have occurred in the Sault or in this region, and authorities are hopeful that the district will escape. The disease, experts say, comes in cycles and they hope that in view of last year's epidemic, there will be none here this year.

Still it is wise to be on the lookout. Medical science has developed a serum which is remarkably effective in lessening the ill effect of the disease, but it has to be administered in the early stages for proper result to be obtained, so watchfulness for symptoms is advisable.

The disease has always been most prevalent during August, September and October, when parents should be on the outlook for it. It is "catching" for about 10 days and any patient with suspicious symptoms should be isolated, but usually the onset is marked by fever. The child may be sick at the stomach, drowsy, complain of headache, stiff neck or back. Many of these symptoms may be present with la grippe or an acute intestinal upset, but important signs of paralysis which do not occur in other conditions are spinal stiffness, a tendency to drop the head backwards, a very rapid pulse. The thing to be emphasized is that the doctor should be called as soon as the slightest suspicion is aroused, if he is to be of assistance.

ITALY MUST LEARN

(Manchester Guardian)

Mussolini's Italy in 1935 and 1936, not to mention 1937, gave us a serious shock, and the same Italy alone can renew British confidence by showing zeal over a period in the cause of peace and European understanding. To say that we have no word for "vendetta" is to say that we never despatch of methods of reason in the future merely because unreason has prevailed in the past.

But for Italians, possibly profit by our open-mindedness if they open their own minds to a truth or two. When they have learned that this country joined in imposing sanctions in support of a system of collective security, and not in order to frustrate Italian ambitions, they will understand better not only the good points of our policy but also where we were unsure and vacillating and merited some measure of European derision.

LONDON CATS LOVE HER.

(Stratford Beacon-Herald)

Night strollers in London's fashionable West End have become accustomed of late to seeing a little old lady walking with a basket on her arm and, with good reason, followed by a growing procession of purring cats, mostly strays.

She is the Hon. Mrs. Helen Charlton, 70-year-old daughter of the third Baron Abinger. Her basket contains such things as minced salmon, pate de foie gras, minced beef and cartons of milk, which she distributes generously and impartially to any pussies, whether of high or low degree, she encounters which happen to be around after dark and therefore possibly may be hungry.

So engrossed is she in her charitable undertakings that she is said to have cancelled her summer holidays in case her wandering pets should suffer.

To a Daily Mail reporter who questioned her concerning her hobby she said: "I expect some people might think my practice odd, but that is the only way I can be sure the cats are fed. I have given up donating money to charities—I much prefer to spend it on food and feed the animals myself."

GOVERNMENTS AND THE LAW.

(London Free Press)

When Rt. Hon. Ernest Lapointe told members of the Canadian Bar Association that governments must set the example of law observance to their citizens, by observing the highest law of the land, which is the constitution, he was on firm ground. He had just made the same pronouncement in his official capacity in the case of Premier Aberhart of Alberta.

Many thoughtful men have deplored the recent tendency for governing bodies to stretch their law-making powers. Indeed, a committee of the Bar Association had already reported that "a revolution has been quietly going forward for a number of years within the framework of existing constitutional forms. The committee said "Because it can make or change the law, the state now comes forward as something which is above the law. Parliament and the provincial legislatures each in their respective spheres, have powers which no Tudor or Stuart would have dared claim."

Rightly we compare the security enjoyed by the individual in democratic countries with his complete lack of legal protection under a dictatorship where he is completely at the mercy of the whims of an individual or a party. But we are inclined to pay too little attention to the threat to the security of the individual which is contained in much recent legislation which extends the power of the state beyond what is sanctioned by British tradition.

Conception of the law as a power before which King, Lords and Commons alike must bow is an essential part of the British tradition. It is at the base of the British inborn respect for law, and is the chief reason why British democracy has been less subject to the storms and convulsions which have beset democracy in Europe and elsewhere. But this respect for law can only be maintained when it is universal. It depends on all being equal before the law. No Government which itself defies the law by which it should be bound, can expect its citizens to feel any particular obligation to observe laws which it makes.

Britain's constitution is unwritten, and British reverence is paid to the spirit of the law rather than to specific statutes. It is by the spirit of the laws that legislators as well as individuals are guided. In Canada, as in the United States, we have a written constitution. This lends itself to interpretations which exalt the letter of the law rather than the spirit. Quibbles over clauses and phrases tend to obscure the clear intention of the framers of our constitutional law. But Canada has also inherited the British constitution with its traditional obligations on all classes.

The disallowance of the Alberta legislation has established the right of the lowest citizen "even a banker" as Senator Ferris said, to lay his grievances before an impartial court.

SON OF AN ADMIRAL.

Important consequences are expected to follow Sir Robert Craigie's appointment as Ambassador to Tokyo.

The son of an admiral, he inherited a flair for naval matters, and played an important part in drafting the Anglo-German agreement and in naval talks with the United States. As Japan's naval intentions are of critical importance at present the reasons for sending him to Tokyo may be surmised. Sir Robert is fifty-three, and en-

HEALTHY FEET A SECRET OF TRUE BEAUTY

If you have waited until late to start your swimming season, look to your toes before you venture out onto the warm sand!

Feet that are pretty to look at, are sure to be well cared for and healthy.

Nervous irritability, headaches, backaches and other physical disturbances are often traceable to the feet.

Set aside one hour every week for giving the feet a good massage and attending to the nails.

General routine of caring for the feet is about the same as that for the hands, but there are a few points of difference.

Soak the feet in warm soapy water and scrub well with a foot brush.

If some of the cuticle adheres stubbornly, apply an oily cuticle remover, using a cotton-tipped orange stick.

Before applying polish to the toenails, buff them briskly and then separate the toes with one of the clever, little gadgets made of soft, spongy rubber.

The deep nail polish shades are especially popular for the toes when you go swimming or dancing.

If you prefer the latter, be sure they harmonize.

Start at the base of each toe. Grasp the toe between the thumb and finger and work along to the tip with a vigorous, twisting movement in spiral motion.

Then, with a strong pull, draw both hands upward over the ankle. Repeat five times.

Finally massage the back of the ankle at each side of the tendon, working well up the calf.

McKENNEY ON BRIDGE

TNT BLOCKS LOSING LEAD

Reaching Contract Quickly Prevents Opponents Getting Information Necessary for Setting

By Wm. E. McKenney, Secretary, American Bridge League.

Bridge players using the TNT (Tienery No Trump) system of bidding originated by Edgar F. Tienery, of Springfield, Mass., have been winning frequent tournament victories. This is the first of six articles showing their methods of bidding.

The TNT system of bidding, which I discussed last fall, has been attracting a good deal of attention, due to its successful use in championship tournaments by players from New England, where it has many adherents.

In this system of bidding, whenever a player opens with one no trump, the bid is forcing for one round, and the partner's responses are based both on honor strength and distribution, the design being to

Contract Problem (Solution in next issue)

North and South are using a system of bidding in which a "one over one" response does not force. After South's opening one club bid, how can North become captain of the hand and keep the bidding open until the best game contract is reached?

In today's hand, bid by Jack Snadd and Edgar F. Tienery, the author of the system, a major suit game was quickly and accurately reached. South for his opening no trump bid had his exact honor trick requirement, 3½ tricks. North's response, a jump bid in hearts, showed a minimum of two honor cards in the side suits and a five card

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Ripe to go

The liver should pour out two pounds of fluid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You get constipated. Harmful poisons go into the body, and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

A mere bowel movement doesn't always get it this time. You need something that works on the liver as well. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up". Harmless and gentle, they make the bile flow freely. They do the work of a catalyst but have no alcohol or mercury in them. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name! Stubbornly refuse anything else. See

SOUTHERN CANADA POWER COMPANY LIMITED
"Owned by those it Serves"

AIR LINES AND WATERWAYS AID ARCTIC MINES

Rapid Development of Aerial Transportation Fails to Halt Growth of Burden Carried Each Year by Great Mackenzie River.

Edmonton, September 1.—Three winding muddy rivers and the sky carry new life to a northland whose people look to the future with glowing optimism, confident that near the Arctic Circle lies wealth enough to build an empire.

"I believe the future of Canada lies in the north," Lord Tweedsmuir told an audience this summer at Fort Chipewyan. Ask Leigh Brintnell, a man of the north, and he will agree. "I think there are greater possibilities up there than in any other part of Canada," says Brintnell.

At forty-one, Brintnell, a native of Belleville, Ont., owns his own airline, Mackenzie Air Service. Last year his company carried more express and passengers than any other operating down the watershed of the Mackenzie River. This year it adds a mail contract to boost its traffic.

In 1933 Brintnell resigned as general manager of Western Canada Airways and moved west from Winnipeg. He had seen the start of the precious metal rush for the land that extends north to the Arctic ocean and he wanted to be his own boss.

Brintnell bought an airplane. His company now owns eight and has three more on order. It operates the Eldorado Radioplane, biggest aircraft in the north, which flies from Great Bear Lake rich pitblende concentrates to be turned at Port Hope, Ont., into life-saving radium to aid physicians in their fight against cancer.

In the country of Lake Athabasca, Great Slave and Great Bear Lakes fly prospectors and mining engineers, backed by rich corporations, to scour the earth for new wealth.

On the great highway, the Athabasca, Slave and Mackenzie rivers, they can cut travel below on the mud-colored water the beetle-like wooden stern-wheelers and the new steel tunnel boats, pushing along barges carrying supplies to build a new Bonanza.

The rivers are the main arteries of the north new commerce. On them go the building materials for new towns, the machinery for new mines, the oil to turn new wheels and the gasoline to feed airplane engines.

Lake Athabasca is as far north as Churchill, Man. — Hundreds of miles north of Ontario's new mining camps, yet the costs of sinking shafts at Goldfields on its northern shore is less than the cost in Northern Ontario. The answer is the waterway that gives cheap transportation.

"There are eleven potential mines in the Mackenzie country," says Brintnell, "all giving opportunities for new settlement, new employment and new wealth that is taken from the ground and not from another person."

With the mines other industries develop. There is an increasingly loud call for oil from the wells near Fort Norman, just south of the circle. A new market is likely for coal mined in an area nearby. New barges are being built at Fort Smith below the long portage on the Slave River.

There is an increasing demand for aircraft to be operated in a country which has never seen an airplane passenger killed or hurt despite the fact more than 15,000 have been carried in eight years.

Safety is the keynote of flying in this north country. The pilots are taught discretion and use it. In good weather a man may fly the 2,000 miles between Edmonton and Aklavik, on the Mackenzie delta, in thirteen hours. Pilot Archie McMillan did it this summer. But he may take a week or more if the weather is bad. The pilot will bring his passenger back alive. There is a tradition that says he must.

Aloft the air is full of chatter. Brintnell put two-way radio sets on all his planes. His pilot operate on fifteen-minute schedules, calling ground stations to check the weather. Other operators are following the example so pilots may know conditions toward which they are flying.

On the ground the Royal Canadian Corps of Signals, only military organization in the world operating a commercial radiotelegraph service, provides air pilots with weather information before they start their flights and maintains contact with them while they are in the air.

The signals men handle an increasing amount of traffic. Three hundred messages a day are common. Most of them come from the mines. Relay stations like Fort Norman or Aklavik are manned by four men with a non-commissioned officer in charge. They are the ears of the north. They send private messages, weather reports, press copy and bring in news from outside to a country that has little use for newspapers that arrive late except on the day the mail plane is in.

Last year Brintnell's planes flew 2,769 hours, carried 509,000 pounds of express and 1,668 passengers, most of them on round trips of 2,400 miles. Last year Canadian Airways carried into much the same territory 1,933 passengers, 842 pounds of express and 112,494 pounds of mail, some of which went as far north as Aklavik and east to Coppermine on Coronation Gulf.

This year both companies expect a heavy increase in traffic.

SLAVE SHIP by GOUVERNEUR MORRIS Illustrated by GORDON GRANT

The story of the 20th Century-Fox Picture starring Walter Baxter and Wallace Berry

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE:

Captain Jim Lovett, of the slave ship Albatross, marries a beautiful Southern girl, Nancy Marlow, after a whirlwind courtship in the year 1854. Keeping from her the secret of his trade, he orders his mate, Thompson, to fire the crew, flog the ship, and get ready for a legitimate trading voyage to Jamaica. With his bride aboard and the Albatross at sea, Lovett discovers that Thompson and the crew had tricked him. They take over the ship, tell Lovett they are returning to Africa for another cargo of slaves, and refuse to let him leave the ship at a way port. He is forced to confess to Nancy, and she, in horror, turns from him. Alone, he faces a mutinous crew. When the ship reaches Africa, Lovett, unwillingly, accompanies the mutineers ashore to arrange the slave deal. Then, they try to sell without him. He gets back aboard, and by a ruse regains control of the ship. He plans to surrender the mutineers to the authorities to be hanged, but at Nancy's intercession decides to put about, return to Africa and release the slaves. The mutineers notice the reverse of course, and when Lovett tells them his intention, they clearly show they are going to put him out of the way.

CHAPTER EIGHTEEN

"I SHOULD'N'T be surprised," said Captain Lovett, "and then what?"

"Why some of them may get hurt," said Thompson, "and then it will be over for you and the boy; but it won't be over for Mrs. Lovett, sir. I can promise you that."

Captain Lovett's eye glittered with anger. "You're not in a position to promise anything," he said, "and now get forward of that rope and stay there."

As the wind fell the Albatross kept taking on more and more sail. It seemed as if half the crew was standing with his eye to the sextant, an iron belaying pin hurled down aloft somewhere and missed his head by fractions of an inch. In an instant he had his revolver out and cocked.

"Grimes done it, sir," said the boy at the wheel.

Mr. Sydney Chamber, of Montreal, delivered a very interesting sermon on "Treasures," Mr. George Hore sang a solo, "I'm a Child of the King," and Mr. and Mrs. E. Y. Webb, of Asbestos, sang a duet, "It Is Jesus." Miss Fessenden gave the junior's story. The attendance was very good.

Miss Thelma Fessenden is spending a few days with friends in Lemesurier.

FARNHAM CENTRE

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Morrison spent a few days in Montreal recently with their daughter, Mrs. W. Newton, and Mr. Newton.

Little Miss Audrey Beane, of Springfield, Mass., is spending a few weeks with her aunt, Mrs. Arthur Mahannah and family.

Mrs. William Roy, of Montreal, is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Crawford, for a week.

Mrs. D. McElroy and Miss Ruth McElroy, of Chicopee Falls, were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. George Powers.

Mr. Montgomery, of Morse, Sask., is visiting his daughter, Mrs. Gordon Milmore, and family.

Captain Lovett carefully chose those who were setting up the main topsail, aimed, wondering if the new fangled weapon carried high or low, and fired. Grimes, shot through the knee, screamed with the pain of it, and weakened with the shock of it, let go and still screaming, fell all the way to the deck. Captain Lovett's only comment was to himself, "They shoot low and to the left," he said. "Anyway this one does."

He took over the wheel again. "Swiftly," he said, "such up the ammunition you took out of Thompson's."

"Like me to check up?" asked Thompson.

"You can't," said Captain Lovett. "Unless I lend you my sextant. Your own is at the bottom of the sea. Pity, to a fine instrument. Cost a lot of money, I bet. So you see, Mr. Thompson, there is now only one sextant on this ship and if that goes overboard, as it will if worse comes to worse, Mrs. Lovett has her orders, the survivors will find themselves in a very serious sea pickle. A ship without a navigator is worse off than a blind man in a strange city."

"That's the truth," Thompson admitted.

"You don't think so, now, Mr. Thompson, but it's a good thing for all of us that Grimes is out of commission. If you had been winged by the same bullet, I'd be easier in my mind. With both you and Grimes out of the way, I wouldn't have much trouble with the others."

"Nothing to prevent you getting rid of me right now," said Thompson. "You've got the weapon and you know how to use it. Why don't you? I would if I was in your boots."

"I'll tell you why I don't," said Captain Lovett. "It's because I'm trying my best to lead a decent life. Decent men don't shoot in cold blood, and besides, we've been together a long time and if you'd only wait a few days, I think there wouldn't be much to choose between us. On our records, we both de-son's cabin. I'd better reload. And tell Mrs. Lovett not to come on deck."

A group, among them Thompson, had been gathered by Grimes's fall. Apparently the man was not dead, because four of them got their arms beneath and about him, heaved him up and began to carry him forward. Thompson remained behind and with a shrug of his shoulder, turned and called to Captain Lovett:

"A pretty shot, sir," and added, "where do you make us out to be?"

"Come along art, I'd like a word with you."

Thompson stepped over the rope which divided the deck into two parts and approached Captain Lovett with a certain reluctance.

"I don't know just where we are," said the latter, "I wasn't able to finish my observation."

Revised Programme for B.C. Scholars

Senior High School Students to Give More Attention to Practical Courses Rather than Academic Learning.

Victoria, September 1. — When the summer vacations end next week, thousands of British Columbia senior high school students will start work under a revised programme studies intended to shift major emphasis from academic learning to more practical courses.

General science courses will replace the former specialized courses in physics, chemistry and biology. Specialized and technical phases of science will be reserved for the University.

The courses in mathematics will be reorganized into a new course in practical mathematics.

A compulsory course in health and physical education will be provided in all grades. Courses in music and art will be introduced. Home economics and technical courses will be reorganized as credits for university admission.

Michael Dwyer Will Marry in September

Nova Scotia's Minister of Mines to Take Honeymoon Trip to Chamber of Commerce Meeting at Vancouver.

New Glasgow, N.S., Sept. 1.—It will be a honeymoon trip for Mines Minister Michael Dwyer, of Nova Scotia, when he attends the Canadian Chamber of Commerce convention at Vancouver this month.

serve to hang."

"But we don't have to talk about that, do we?" said Thompson.

"Not especially. And just when do you gentlemen intend to rush me?"

"Maybe it won't come to that," said Thompson.

"If it does, remember that I won't be shooting in cold blood. And now, I guess we've talked enough. Thompson turned away puzzled and sour."

"By the way," Captain Lovett called after him, "what's all the hammering for? Unless it's doing some good, I'm about sick of it."

"We're hoping the hammering will do a lot of good," Thompson answered. "The carpenter is knocking together some shields just like the riggers carry when they go on the war path. He's making them of clean inch and a half oak planking and the chances are those little popgun bolts from me won't shoot through them."

"This was disgusting news. A rush by a lot of angry and determined men was enough; a rush by the same men protected by thick shields to discount the effect of his bullets, was far more serious."

Monro came to the galley with two pallisades. Having tossed the contents of these to leeward, he was just starting back for the galley when Captain Lovett called to him and asked for a pot of hot coffee. No one had the thought to countermand this order or to prevent the cook from executing it, and yet it would have been a wise piece of forethought if anyone had.

After a while Monro once more issued from the galley carrying this time a thick carpet from one hand and a steaming iron pot in the other.

"Thanks," said Captain Lovett. "Wait until I get it down and you can take the things back. Save a trip."

"Yes, sir."

"The coffee was too hot to gulp and it was some little time before Captain Lovett had sipped down a cup of it."

"Get plenty more in that kettle?" he asked.

"Plenty more, sir."

"Maybe the carpenter would like a cup," said Captain Lovett. "He's done so much sawing and hammering this morning, he must be tired."

"You want I give carpenter cup coffee sir?"

"Yes, Monro, and while he's drinking it, look about the ship and see how many shields he's making. Monro's eyes opened a little wider and showed more of the blue whites."

STRIKING BALL PLAYERS CAME TO AGREEMENT

Satisfactory Settlement Was Reached Between Officials and Players — Locals Face Sorel Today — Must Win Two of Three Remaining Games to Get into Play-Offs.

Peace has settled on Sherbrooke's strike-ridden baseball front and today the local lads return to the diamond in pursuit of a play-off berth in the Provincial Baseball League pennant parade, clashing with Sorel in a twin bill on the Victoria Park ball grounds, the first game of which is slated to start at three o'clock.

According to Roland Dugre, president of the Sherbrooke Baseball Club, the club officials and players affected an amicable settlement. By the terms of the agreement, the players will receive one week's salary after their game with the Drummondville Tigers here tomorrow night and the balance of their pay after the playoffs.

However, the dispute cost nine homesters their scheduled tilt with Three Rivers last night, the game going to the Trifluvians by default, and they must capture two of the three remaining games in order to win a place in the playoffs.

The final games on the regular schedule will be played tomorrow. Besides this afternoon's battles here, Granby mixes with the Panthers in a double-header, while tomorrow Sherbrooke takes on Drummondville in an evening tilt here and Sorel writes fins to their regular season at Three Rivers.

"Nippy" Joyce and Paul Ryan are expected to face the slugging Sorel crew this afternoon.

DRUMMONDVILLE TOPPED GRANBY

Drummondville, Que., Sept. 1.—Drummondville Tigers defeated Granby Red Sox by five to two in a Provincial Baseball League game halted at the end of seven innings here yesterday.

Cy Sialian allowed Granby two hits and struck out seven. Sialian, Dupont, Landry and Smythe hit two-base hits for Drummondville, while Fred Maloney's two-bagger knocked in all the Granby runs.

Score by innings: R.H.E. Drummondville: 001 022x 5 11 2 Granby: 002 000 0 2 2 2 Batteries—Sialian and Landry; Connell, A. Corrigan and P. Corrigan.

JONES FROM HURRY STREET

Bangor, Wales, Sept. 1.—Some amusement was caused when it was learned Edward Jones, fined here for exceeding the speed limit, came from Hurry Street, Liverpool.

THE KING OF THE WAVES

Sir Malcolm Campbell, famed British sportsman, who holds the world's automobile speed mark, today established a new speedboat record by piloting Bluebird over the waters of Lake Maggiore, Switzerland, at 125.795 miles an hour.

CAMPBELL SETS NEW MOTORBOAT SPEED RECORD

Sir Malcolm Campbell's Bluebird Cuts Waters of Swiss Lake at 125.795 Miles Per Hour to Better Gar Wood's 124.86 Mark.

Locarno, Switzerland, Sept. 1.—Sir Malcolm Campbell, famed British sportsman, added the world's motorboat speed record to his international automobile speed standard today.

The fifty-two years old Briton piloted his twenty-three-foot speedboat, Bluebird, over Lake Maggiore's smooth waters at a rate of 125.795 miles per hour to eclipse Gar Wood's five-year-old mark of 124.86 M.P.H.

Sir Malcolm already holds the world automobile record of 301.33 M.P.H., set at Bonneville Salt Flats in Utah in 1935.

Sir Malcolm's aquatic Bluebird—his record-smashing automobile was called by the same name—was powered by a Rolls Royce aero engine and travelled over the measured mile course in smooth and effortless fashion.

With the land speed record already among his trophies, Sir Malcolm built his motorboat with the idea of lifting the water speed record as well. With that now in his grasp, it is suggested the Briton might well turn to the air in his never-ending quest for new thrills. He was in the Royal Flying Corps during the Great War.

Bluebird's speed under the metric system was 202.57 kilometres per hour compared with Wood's 200.9. Wood established the former record at Algonac, Mich., September 20, 1932.

Bluebird, captured by Fred Cooper, not only captured the unlimited motor boat record but also set up a new mark for single engine boats. The previous record for this type of craft was 110.10 M.P.H., established by Hubert Scott-Paine's Miss Briton III at Venice, Italy, in 1934.

Bluebird, perhaps the lightest unlimited hydroplane ever built, develops 2,350 horsepower with the twelve-cylinder Rolls Royce engine. The engine, incidentally, is the same one that powered Sir Malcolm's automobile Bluebird.

Although a well-known yachtsman, Sir Malcolm had previously done little serious motorboat racing. He has been regarded largely as Great Britain's principle hope for the Harmsworth motorboat trophy, which Wood holds, but never had indicated any particular interest in the competition.

CUBS REGAINED LEAD IN MERRY FLAG SCRAMBLE

Cardinals Handed Bill Terry's Aggregation a Bad Trouncing Yesterday While Cubs Were Chalking Up a Victory Over Dodgers.

Bill Terry long since has discovered that when his ball club is in the thick of the pennant scramble, it can look for little or no assistance from its neighbors on the far side of Brooklyn Bridge.

Three years ago Terry was handed the bitterest proof of that credo. That was the year when, in the last few games of the season with the Giants and Cardinals in a "he's up—he's down" scrap for the bunting, the Dodgers invaded the Polo Grounds and won the undying gratitude of their constituents by casting the Giants out and the "Gas-Housers" in.

Now he's had a fresh example. His own outfit, of course, dropped an eight to one verdict to the sixteen-hit Cardinals yesterday. But even that wouldn't have wiped out their two-point first place margin if the Dodgers could have hog-tied the Cubs.

The Dodgers, however, lost the ball game by four to two, with the result both series were resumed today with the standings revised thus:

While the Cubs and Giants continue to go up and down on their personal saw, the American League has turned over the job of keeping its own doing interesting to Rudy York, the Tigers' backstop.

Rudy's latest fireworks display consisted of two homers and two singles that accounted for seven runs and won an elegant sufficiency to wallop Washington by twelve to three.

York thereby not only put himself right behind DiMaggio, Foxx and Gehrig in the home run race at thirty, but also bettered by one "Babe" Ruth's record of seventeen homers hit in one month. Ruth got that high on the way to his record sixty in September, 1927.

Meanwhile Danny MacFayden pitched a three-hitter that stopped the Reds by seven to two and Bucky Walters hurled a three to nothing, five-hit shutout against the Pirates.

Bump Hadley, aided by Gehrig's four-bagger with the bases full, beat the Indians for the Yankees by seven to three; the White Sox edged out the Red Sox by seven to six, and the Browns and Athletics split a double-header, St. Louis winning the first by two to one and the A's the nightcap by seven to three.

NEWARK CHALKED UP HUNDRETH VICTORY

According to the envious hurlers of seven other International League clubs, the Newark pitchers, who got the Newark double bill, beat the Syracuse Chiefs last night was one of those occasions and Maris Ugo Russo was the hurler.

Russo turned in a three-hitter to give the Bears a one to nothing victory, their one hundredth, over the brilliant but erratic Johnny Vandermere after the Chiefs had beat out a nine to two tattoo with their war clubs in the opener.

The Buffalo Bisons gained half a game on Baltimore in their battle for fourth place and a shot at the play-offs by shading the Montreal Royals by nine to eight. The Herd scored three times in the seventh to take the decision and reduce the Orioles' lead to two games. Truett Sewell, of the Bisons, wasn't around at the finish but he won his seventeenth game of the season, while the Herd combed Crip Polli and Jim Pattison for fourteen hits.

The Toronto Maple Leafs lost their tenth straight game when they bowed to the Rochester Red Wings by three to two. The wings jumped Joe Mulligan for three runs in the

SHINK REACHED SEMI-FINALS OF MEN'S SINGLES

Experience Counted as Gaetan Cote Went Under in Straight Sets, 6-2 and 9-7 — Bob Dunsmore and Ashley Hibbard in Doubles' Semi-Finals.

Bill Shink moved into the semi-finals of the men's singles in the city tennis championship tournament last night when he defeated Gaetan Cote in straight sets on the East Sherbrooke courts, 6-2 and 9-7; and Bob Dunsmore and Ashley Hibbard moved into the semi-final bracket of the men's doubles by topping Hector Prefontaine and Yvan Boisvert 8-6 and 6-4.

Experience counted heavily in Shink's favor as he drove to victory over his younger rival. Although taking the first set with ease, Shink was hard pressed to overcome Cote's great rally in the second, but his steadiness and experience pulled him through.

The one doubles match was a thrilling contest, the players giving a sparkling brand of tennis. Prefontaine and Boisvert were ahead 4-1 at one time in the first set, but Dunsmore and Hibbard tied it up and went ahead 5-4. Their rivals staged another rally to move out at front 6-5, but the effort to win was unsuccessful. Dunsmore and Hibbard overcame the lead and stroking to an 8-6 victory.

Although leading by 5-1 in the second set, Dunsmore and Hibbard were extended to the limit before they finally gained the laurels. Their fighting opponents rallied to put the match at 5-4, but were again unsuccessful in their attempt to win.

The four seeded players—Mac Dunsmore, Johnny Hibbard, Bill Shink and Majella Charest, in that order—have now reached the singles semi-finals, and on Saturday afternoon will play-off on the East Sherbrooke courts, Dunsmore facing Shink and Hibbard engaging Charest. At three o'clock on Sunday afternoon at East Sherbrooke A. W. Bishop will pair with Bill Shink against Bob Dunsmore and Ashley Hibbard, while on Monday the first in the men's singles matches will begin at 2:30 on the Boisvert courts.

GOLFER'S DREAM CAME TRUE

London, Sept. 1.—Talk about your coincidences. Last night I dreamed I holed out in one shot at Walter Gataway to his caddie as he walked to the first tee at the Bush Hill golf course.

"Which hole?" asked the caddie. "The twelfth," said Gataway. Two hours later his dream came true.

Edward's celebrations at the club bar were abruptly stopped when another golfer came in smiling and ordered drinks all round.

"I have just holed out in one," explained Ernest Smith. "Which hole?" asked Gataway. "The twelfth," replied Smith. The distance is 112 yards.

YOUNG MONTREAL GIRL FAVORED TO REACH FINAL

Winnipeg, Sept. 1.—Sixteen larksomen entered the second round of the Canadian women's open golf tournament today with Beatrice Barre of Minneapolis, and Montreal's Nora Hankin favored to meet in the thirty-six hole final Saturday.

The Minnesota State champion and the twenty-two year old Montreal girl led the way through the first round yesterday over the St. Charles Country Club course bordering the Assiniboine River west of Winnipeg.

Miss Hankin ended her match with Mrs. Theo. Kipp, Winnipeg, on the eleventh green, while Miss Barrett eliminated Mrs. Charles Wilson, Victoria.

Mrs. Eric Phillips and Willo Love, both of Toronto, Mrs. Rita Shuttleworth, Ontario champion from Hamilton, Mrs. H. W. Soper, Montreal, and Evelyn Mills, of Ottawa, complete Eastern Canada's surviving contingent.

With them in the second eighteen-hole round starting today are five Winnipeggers, Mrs. George Koester, Mrs. Douglas Laird, Heather Leslie, Mrs. John Rogers and Mrs. Gordon Konantz, three Vancouver women, Lillian Boyd, Kaye Farrell and Mrs. R. W. Renwick, and Daphne Allen, Calgary.

SPORT FLASHES

New York, Sept. 1.—Guess who's the highest paid manager in the majors? No, not Joe McCarthy of the Yankees ($36,000 per) nor Bill Terry of the Giants ($27,500). The lucky fellow is Mickey Cochrane of Detroit. We can't tell you what he draws down, but it is tops. The info comes straight down the baseball alley and will stand up.

We figure Mike Jacobs cleared $50,000 for himself out of the Farr-Louis brawl, which ain't exactly tin.

Tommy Farr took a man's sized swig of a concoction of brandy, port wine and sherry just before he left his dressing room. Yum, yum.

Finance dept.: Jimmy Johnston, the ex-Garden maestro, took one good look at Farr bobbing and weaving against Louis in the first round Monday night, then bet $10 on Tommy to last at three to one. He also induced former Mayor Jimmy Walker to do the same.

Bill Terry wants it understood he isn't about to accept a reported offer of $40,000 to shift from the Giants to Cleveland.

Top prize for Mike Jacobs' "carriaval of champions" in September with four-count 'em—four of them defending their titles, will be $16,500.

New York fight writers are baffled at Referee Arthur Donovan (one of the best in the country) giving Louis 13 rounds against Farr. That's one that doesn't make rhyme nor reason. Donovan said "Farr wasn't getting out of the way of Louis' left jab. Haw! They didn't hurt him, did they?"

AN OLD SHERBROOKE BOY

Several days ago the Record published the same picture which is reproduced today and asked if anyone recognized "An Old Sherbrooke Boy."

When this photograph was received at the Record Office a friendly letter was enclosed in which the writer said: "I have just been reading your special issue regarding Sherbrooke Century of Progress. As an old Sherbrooke boy, I am delighted. It is wonderful the way the dear old town has progressed from the time I was a boy on the first inter-crosse team, which was started in the old town. I remained in the town until the time of my marriage, which was September 13, 1881.

"I loved the game and we had a great time when we went to Montreal to play against one of their crack teams. If I remember rightly they were the only team who ever beat us during the six years I was on the Sherbrooke team, a pretty good record.

"I might say I recently passed my seventy-eighth birthday and still enjoy using my bicycle. Not too bad for an old chap.

The photo of "An Old Sherbrooke Boy" is that of E. M. Presby, of Brandon, Manitoba, formerly of Sherbrooke.

VON CRAMM IS AN EXAMPLE IN SPORTSMANSHIP

Baron Will Add Tone to United States Singles Championships Starting Tomorrow at Forest Hills — His Meeting with Don Budge Will Be Highlight.

New York, Sept. 1.—Baron Gottfried von Cramm, the slickest looking tennis player ever brought "Ah's!" from a feminine gallery, will add tone to the United States singles championships starting tomorrow at Forest Hills.

The Baron, even apart from his superb tennis skill, is the sort of fellow who could add tone to a dog fight. He has been one of the world's ranking stars for the last six years yet this is his first trip to the United States.

At twenty-eight he has just reached the peak of his game. There's only one game among the amateurs to compare with it, and that belongs to Don Budge. The redhead has beaten his German rival twice this summer, in the Wimbledon final and in the inter-zone final of the Davis Cup, and their probable Forest Hills meeting will be something to see.

On and off the court, von Cramm cuts a handsome figure. He generally carries a smile, and his tailor knows his business. Nobody has ever seen the Baron's slickly-brushed blond hair mussed, no matter how hard the struggle, nor his features other than calm.

He's as game as they come and a rare sportsman. Three summers ago he and his German partner, a big, uninspired fellow named Lund, nearly beat Wilmer Allison and Johnny Van Ryn in the crucial doubles match of the Davis Cup inter-zone.

In fact, when von Cramm swung at a job on game point and missed it, and it fell outside the baseline, Allison and Van Ryn ran to the net to congratulate their conquerors.

Von Cramm, though, walked over to the referee and told him something. His racket had barely touched the ball. Nobody else knew it. But the Baron insisted it had, so they went on playing and the American pair eventually won.

Heiner Henkel, who teamed up with von Cramm to win the United States doubles championship from Budge and Gene Mako last Monday, owes much of his skill to his older partner. They belong to the same club in Berlin, and von Cramm has for four years devoted himself to teaching Heiner the fine points.

FARR PROVED ELUSIVE TARGET

Bobbing and weaving around the ring, blond Tommy Farr made an elusive target for Joe Louis to shoot at in their heavyweight title scrap on Monday night. The Welsh wallower was still a weaving target and still aggressive at the end of the bout. In this picture Farr is seen slipping under a left jab while the champion poises his right hand in hopes of sending over a telling blow.
