Say 20 Austin deaths not 'out of ordinary'

Home is hit by measles

MAGOG (Staff) — The Provincial Health Department said today that a recent measles epidemic in a home for advanced mentally retarded children at Austin, 13 miles southwest of here during which about 20 children died was "nothing out of the ordinary for an institution of that kind."

Chief epidemiologist Dr. Roland Foley told The Record he has a complete report on the five-week outbreak that ended about a week ago, and that no blame could be attached to the institution "the Cecil Butters Memorial Hospital."

"Medical service at the hospital is first class," he said. "The institution is clean, and the attention given to patients is the best."

He said the patients, because of their conditions, have no resistance against disease, and die more easily than normal children. No formal investigation is planned, he said.

MRS. LILLIAN BUTTERS

Dr. John Bryant, one of two Magog doctors who serves the hospital said this morning that not all of the 20 children died as a direct result of measles or complications from measles.

"Some died from pneumonia contracted independently of the epidemic, and some died as a natural result of their conditions," he said.

He said about 50 of the private hospital's 225 patients contracted the disease, and more than half of these recovered.

He said the epidemic appears completely over.

"There are no cases now, and there have been no deaths for the past eight days."

Brome - Missisquoi county health officer, Dr. Elphege Jacques of Farnham, under whose jurisdiction the 15-year-old hospital comes, said he visited the hospital several times during the epidemic, and "everything possible was being done for the patients."

He said he had received only eight death certificates from the home during that period, but Mrs. Lillian Butters, founder and administrator of the hospital said this was because the remainder of the victims had been transferred according to parents' orders.

"All of the children who died were between two and seven years of age, she said, except for two who were 10 and 12 years old.

Dr. Bryant said a similar epidemic about 18 months ago took the lives of 10 children.

It is believed the latest outbreak was caused by the small child of a visitor from Abitibi, who, it was later discovered, had measles.

Both Dr. Bryant and Dr. Jacques praised Mrs. Butters for her work at the hospital.

"She's doing a wonderful job," Dr. Jacques said.

"I have nothing but praise for her," Dr. Bryant said. "The hospital is a labor of love for her."

Mrs. Butters founded the home in 1946 as a memorial to her son who was killed at St. Johns, Que., in 1943 while serving with the RCAF.

Opened as a combination convalescent home for elderly and hospital for retarded children, it was given over completely to children in 1947.

The hospital has a staff of 35.

It accepts children with a wide variety of incurable congenital defects that no other institutions in the province will take.

Glen Brown: Requests for aid refused

Glen Brown, Liberal MPP for Brome County, and a director of the Cecil Butters Memorial Hospital, criticized the Federal government this morning for turning down repeated requests for financial aid for the institution.

"If grants had been made available," he said, "the measles epidemic during which about 20 children died would not have been nearly so serious. The hospital could have built facilities for isolation patients with communicable diseases."

He said because money was not available for such facilities, hospital authorities had to "make do" when the epidemic broke out about five weeks ago.

"Under the circumstances," he said, "they did a wonderful job."

He said he visited the hospital himself during the epidemic.

Mr. Brown said both he and Mrs. Lillian Butters, founder and administrator of the home, have petitioned the Federal government on a number of occasions.

"I have even written to Mr. ...

N. Hatley Post Office is looted by vandals

NORTH HATLEY — The break-in was discovered about 8 a.m. Tuesday when North Hatley postmaster Francis Stone entered the tiny office.

Parcels and envelopes littered the floor while other pieces of mail were found outside the building and up the road leading to the community hall where only last weekend the Royal Philatelic Society of Great Britain held its annual convention.

Shortly before noon, police questioned a North Hatley girl who may have seen the vandals at work.

There was no serious damage reported to the building and no details of what was stolen or its value have been made available as yet.

SEOUL (Reuters) — A military coup today overthrew the South Korean government and American officials here immediately demanded that the lawful administration be restored to power.

The military junta, led by army chief of staff Lt. Gen. Do Yung Chang, seized power after a violent gunbattle around the central government buildings.

Some 25,000 troops occupied the capital and the junta appeared in firm control late this afternoon. The junta also claimed to have control over other important South Korean cities and over all airports and harbors in the country.

The junta issued a proclamation suspending the National Assembly and saying that all cabinet ministers and vice-ministers—25 in all—would be arrested.

(The Associated Press said all local government assemblies were to be dissolved also and that all government operations were to be taken over by 6 p.m.)

The junta said it was anti-Communist and wanted friendly relations with the United States. But the acting American ambassador in Seoul, Marshall Green, announced that he wanted to make it "emphatically clear" that the United States supported the legal government headed by Dr. John Chang.

Gen. Carter Magruder, the American UN commander in South Korea, ordered all military personnel under his command to support Chang's government.

Magruder issued a statement saying he expected "that the chiefs of staff of the Korean armed forces will use their authority and influence to see that control is immediately given back to the lawful government authorities and order restored."

Green and Magruder called on President Po Sun Yun, being held under house arrest by the junta, and assured him of U.S. support for the legal government.

A United Nations spokesman denied, however, that U.S. troops in South Korea were being mobilized to back up Magruder's statement.

'Kiss of death'

Senator blames U.S. jets

WASHINGTON (CP) — A few United States jet fighters that fell into Fidel Castro's hands after he crushed dictator Fulgencio Batista may have provided the kiss of death to the April 17 Cuban invasion attempt.

Contrary to reports by rebel fighters that Castro had "skillfully employed" Russian-made MiG fighters as well as Russian tanks to smash the invasion, Senator Wayne Morse says he has found "not a bit of evidence" of a single Russian MiG in Cuba.

The Oregon Democrat, chairman of a Senate subcommittee searching into the role the United States played in the abortive invasion, says he finds that the planes Castro used to thwart the invaders were American aircraft which the United States turned over to the former Batista regime some years ago.

The Washington Post adds that of Castro's total aircraft inventory, only three were relatively modern American jet trainers. The Castro forces used these with devastating effectiveness. One of them apparently sank an invasion ship that carried most of the rebel's ammunition and communications equipment.

LOST THEIR SUPPLIES

"The rebels lost their ammunition before they got to shore," Senator George Aiken told the Canadian Press. The Vermont Republican is a member of Morse's investigating group.

President Kennedy gave the go-ahead on the reported advice of the Central Intelligence Agency, the joint chiefs of staff as well as state department and White House advisers.

Morse and other members of the Senate foreign relations committee described the invasion as a terrible blunder. Most blame at first centred on CIA chief Allen Dulles. Now blame seems to be shifting towards the joint chiefs, particularly Gen. Lyman Lemnitzer, chairman of the joint chiefs, and Admiral Arleigh Burke, chief of naval operations.

The Morse subcommittee intends to question Lemnitzer closely. Morse has a feeling Kennedy fell for some bad advice given by military leaders who advocated a limited "preventive" war in a specific area where the United States would have an advantage.

Help Latin America is J.F.K.'s message

By HAROLD MORRISON

WASHINGTON (CP) — President Kennedy will ask Canada to consider opening her purse for impoverished Latin American countries while he is on a two-day state visit.

Kennedy will fly by jet to Ottawa at 4:35 p.m. EDT today. It will be his first visit outside the United States since he took office last January.

Informants said Kennedy, Prime Minister Diefenbaker talks will range from the future of the Columbia River Treaty to prospects for world disarmament.

They will touch on defence production sharing between the two neighbors, co-ordination of continental defence, hemisphere defence, future of the North Atlantic alliance, the outlook for a nuclear test ban and even look over the state of negotiations on a new Canada-U.S. agreement covering expansion of cross-border commercial air routes.

But one of the major subjects will be Latin America. Aside from the Cuban issue on which there apparently are sharp Canadian-American policy disagreements, Kennedy would like to see Canada give more to aid Latin American countries.

Informants said this doesn't necessarily mean that Kennedy would press Canada to join the 21 - country Organization for American States—though Kentheme that if the industrialized countries don't do the job, the Communists will.

Informants said they realize Canada is providing some economic aid, particularly through the Colombo plan. The United States would like to see Canada increase her aid to India, however. India has been offered $1,000,000,000 from the U.S. to cover the first two years of her third five-year plan. Canada is reported to have offered up a small share, on the general $36,000,000.

Nazi a 'block of ice' clergyman tells trial

JERUSALEM — A German clergyman who felt the Nazi whip confronted Adolf Eichmann in court today and called him a "block of ice" beneath which pulsed "demoniacal hate."

Dean Heinrich Grueber, 69-year-old Berlin Lutheran minister, testified he tried to help the Jews with frequent visits to Eichmann's Gestapo office from 1939 to 1953.

"He never said yes to anything," the cleric said.

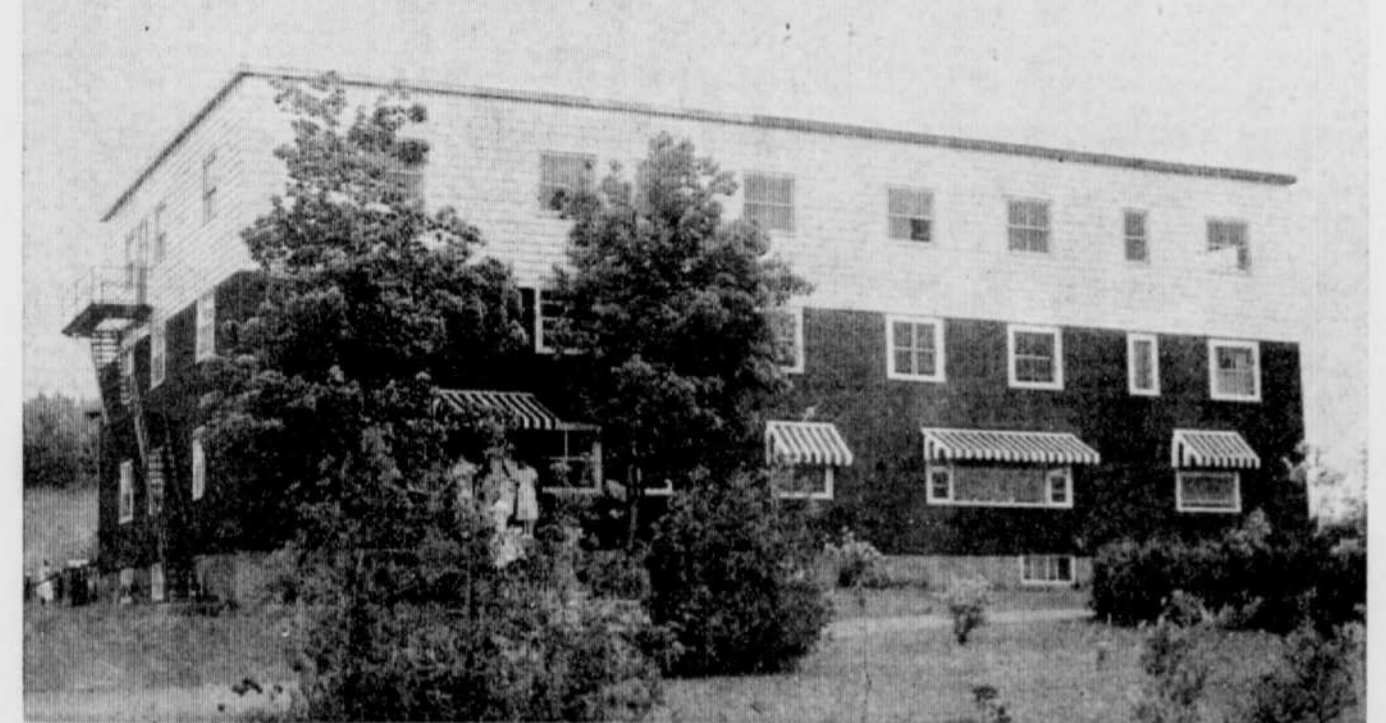

"Always he said either 'no' or kept the question in the air," Dean Grueber was himself sent to Dachau concentration camp by Eichmann in 1943 and underwent physical tortures. Nevertheless, the clergyman apologized to the defendant for calling him names, saying, "I do not come here out of revenge or hatred."

NAME A SAD SYMBOL

Of Eichmann, Dean Grueber said:

"I had the impression of a man who sat there like a block of ice or marble, not feeling anything at all. His name became a sad symbol . . . oblivious to the call of justice and his own conscience."

The prosecution, charging Eichmann played a key role in the Nazi extermination of the Jews, questioned Dean Grueber whether Eichmann seemed to be followed orders from above or whether he instigated orders.

Run into new snag over Laos at Geneva

GENEVA (Reuters) — The 14-country conference on Laos ran into a new snag today when the right-wing Laotian government delegation said it would not attend the conference's opening session unless it received fresh instructions from Vientiane.

The threatened right-wing boycott of the talks came some six hours before the conference was due to begin at 1 a.m. ADT.

Earlier, a spokesman for the right-wing delegation had declared his group would attend the opening session but would walk out if representatives of the pro-Communist Pathet Lao organization or the neutralist backers of former premier Prince Souvanna Phouma were given more than observer status.

Today, the spokesman revised his stand and said the right-wing delegation would not attend unless it got fresh instructions from Vientiane, the Laotian administrative capital.

Britain and Russia, co-chairmen of the talks that were supposed to have started last Friday, ordered the conference to begin today after the United States reluctantly agreed to a compromise formula permitting full participation by the neutralist and pro-Communist delegations.

COULD NOT AGREE

But the leader of the right-wing Laotian group, Luam In-siengmay, said today the government of Prince Boun Oum was the only legal one in Laos and that it could not agree to sit down at the conference on an equal basis with the Pathet Lao and neutralist representatives.

"We shall stay in Geneva awaiting developments but out-agreed to avoid raising issues that might put new obstacles in the way of negotiations in Laos between the warring factions for establishment of a single coalition government.)

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — A major reason for the film industry's recent ills is the fact that it refused to train new executive talent.

Hollywood in its prime was run by dictators who wanted no threats to their power around them. They are dead or deposed now, and the greatest deterrent to full production, outside of the lack of stars, is the scarcity of creative talent behind the camera.

Two progressive film makers have done something about it, but they are the only ones. The two are William Wyler and George Seaton, who have been partners for an amazing 24 years in making films like Miracle on 34th St., Country Girl, The Bridges at Toko-Ri and the forthcoming Pleasure of His Company and Counterfeit Traitor.

For the last eight years, Perleberg - Seaton have allowed graduate students of the University of California at Los Angeles Cinema Arts School to observe all phases of film production.

"Otherwise, these students now, and the greatest deterrent to full production, outside of the lack of stars, is the scarcity of creative talent behind the camera.

"We've had some exchange students, too," remarked Perleberg, the producer. "One of them is now manager of Japan's largest studio — the fact that his father owns it is coincidental. Instead of going back to Japan with scorn for Hollywood he is an admirer of what we do here."

Sixty students have so far gone through the on - the - job schooling.

COATICOOK — A meeting of the Coaticook Branch of the Canadian Cancer Society was held in the High School auditorium with Lyman Armitage presiding.

A report of the receipts of the recent financial campaign, given by the treasurer, R. Provencher, showed that the objective set had been surpassed by more than $200.

Thanks was expressed to those who had given of their time to assist in the door to door canvassing, and in other ways, ensuring the success of the first financial drive.

The work of the local committee will not end with the completion of the fund. Members will still continue to work for the Society in other ways. Ladies groups plan to make and pack dressings for cancer victims and others will help to educate citizens in the need for early detection and treatment of the disease, by means of film showings to local groups.

Magog council Request extension of Sherbrooke St.

A request has been made to the provincial department of roads asking that Magog's Sherbrooke Street be extended beyond the city limits to Boulevard Pius XII at the same time as the reconstruction of the Ruisseau Rouge bridge is undertaken.

This was announced following the weekly meeting of the Magog city council last week.

A letter was received at the meeting from the Chamber of Commerce asking that something be done about the heavy traffic on St. Patrick Street West. The council agreed that measures should be taken to allow parking on either one side of the street or the other and that heavy traffic should be prohibited on this street at all times.

Correspondence was read including a letter from Rene Poulin offering to keep the streets swept for $8,500 a year.

It was proposed by alderman Gagne and seconded by alderman Legare that the mayor, the directors of police, and members of the city council attend the provincial convention firefighters in Mont-Joli, July 1 and 2, as well as the convention of the Police and Fire Chiefs of the Province of Quebec in Jonquiere, July 3, 4, and 5.

Vosburgh case

Labels special appeal too much a precedent

COWANSVILLE — (Staff) — A precedent would be set here by the government should a special term of the Bedford District Criminal Assizes be held in June, Crown prosecutor Claude Noiseux said yesterday in a comment on a move by Abel Vosburgh's attorney John Gottlieb to have a special term called in this district to accommodate his client.

"A special term has never been called in this district," Mr. Noiseux said, "and I doubt very much that such a term would be held due to the expense it would entail."

Mr. Noiseux explained that a special set of jurors would have to be subpoenaed for the session while another group would go through the same procedure for the October assizes.

Gottlieb's request was made Monday, May 8, in the form of a letter to the attorney-general of Quebec, Georges-Emile Lapalme.

The regular session of the assizes are held at the Sweet'sburg court house during October.

Gottlieb claimed that the long delay his client would have to undergo would not be "beneficial to his defence."

Vosburgh is charged with the murder of his wife and 11 of their children as the result of a shanty fire at Noyan four days after Christmas 1960.

Bursary to local youth

A young Sherbrooke musician has won a scholarship to attend the Glen Eagle Musical Camp in Newport, Vermont this year.

Rene Pelletier placed first in the Class B section auditions of the Association of Amateur Bands of the Province of Quebec held Saturday morning at the St. Frederick School gymnasium in Drummondville.

Class B is the advanced group for musicians who won in Class C of last year's auditions. Rene plays the French horn.

In the Group C competition for young people up to 17 years Michael Tinker, trumpet; Robert Swan, trombone; Rene the Sherbrooke Harmony band, Bechard, saxophone; Rosaire Bolduc, clarinet; all students of participated although no prizes were given in this section.

Sunday morning, chamber music group auditions were held and first place went to a double brass quartet from Sherbrooke consisting of Jean Paul Belisle, Jacques Longevin, Jean Paul Malenfant, Rene Pelletier, Harry Tinker, Gilles Dion, John Pille, George Duchesne and directed by Marcel Marcotte.

Second place went to a trio for clarinet, oboe, and French horn consisting of Marcel Marcotte, Jacques Duford and Rene Pelletier.

The next event scheduled to take place in connection with the Association of Amateur Bands of the Province of Quebec will be the Band Festival to be held in Victoriaville on June 18.

The plan necessitates the starting of classes at 8:30 a.m. and the shortening of the noon recess to one hour instead of usual one and one-half hours.

By so doing, classes can be dismissed at 2:45 p.m. thus avoiding much of the intense heat and discomfort. This plan will be carried out right through to the end of September, Mr. Perry said.

For the few who cannot possibly get back in time, allowances will have to be made said Mr. Perry but lately the buses which bring in the students from out of Lennoxville have been arriving earlier than usual.

This new plan will not change the students study timetable to any extent said Mr. Perry. In the morning there will be five periods instead of four and in the afternoon there will only be three instead of the usual four.

According to Mr. Perry no other Eastern Township schools have adopted this plan as yet.

Lennoxville school to change hours

Starting Wednesday morning, students attending Lennoxville High School will have to set their alarm clocks just a little bit earlier to make an 8:30 a.m. class instead of the usual 9 a.m. one.

Last year, the principal of the Lennoxville High, Edward Perry adopted a plan which calls for school to be dismissed during the hottest part of the day. It was such an overwhelming success, parents, teachers, and pupils agreed to the same plan this year.

The plan necessitates the starting of classes at 8:30 a.m. and the shortening of the noon recess to one hour instead of usual one and one-half hours.

At Historical Society

Waterloo development told

The history of Waterloo and of Senator A. B. Foster and made a great contribution to the development of the town, was outlined by Father Georges Brosseau, priest of St. Bernard parish in Waterloo at a meeting of the Eastern Townships Historical Society Monday night.

The first settlers in the Waterloo area were United Empire Loyalists, Father Brosseau said. Land grants were usually made to an influential individual who then gave smaller grants to his friends and retainers.

John Savage and some 15 associates came to the Waterloo area late in the eighteenth century. In 1804 Shefford County was formed and about this time also there were uprising and unrest because Mr. Savage did not build roads and provide the other facilities that he had promised his tenants.

John Savage was forced to live up to his commitments and in 1808 Frost Village was incorporated as a town. It was actually founded by three brothers.

Also named to this year's executive are Lloyd Allen, of Sherbrooke High School as first vice-president; Doreen MacLeod, of Lennoxville High, as second vice-president; Janet Rose of Lennoxville High as secretary; and Mrs. Irene Howes of Mitchell School as Program Chairman. John Pille of Lennoxville High was elected delegate to the PAPT (Provincial Association of Protestant Teachers).

Guest speaker at this meeting was B. N. Holtham, O.C., Sherbrooke lawyer who spoke on the life of Philip Gosse, a world renowned naturalist who lived in Compton for three years (1835 to 1838).

In his spare time, Mr. Holtham enjoys digging up the past of famous men, who have at one time or another lived in the Eastern Townships.

An expert on the biography of Jefferson Davis, the famous president of the Southern Confederacy, who after the war lived in Lennoxville for eleven months, Mr. Holtham has spent more than three years tracing the life of this U.S. president. "I take great interest in people who have become famous and have left, in some way or another, their mark in the Eastern Townships," the speaker said. "I still have a lot to cover on the life of Davis, but what material I have collected has been fascinating," he said, "by visiting the museums, digging up old letters, manuscripts, etc. you find out so much about a person that the history books don't tell you," he said.

Tracing the life of Gosse has led Mr. Holtham even to the Department of Agriculture in Ottawa. "I know that Gosse wrote a book while in Compton in 1836 entitled 'The Entomologia Terra Nova' but it was never printed," the speaker said. "While in Ottawa I went to the Department of Agriculture with a slight hope that they might have it. I was a bit disgusted when the Department said they had never even heard of the book and returned home somewhat disappointed," he said.

Apparently Mr. Holtham's request sparked some interest at the department and old books, and manuscript were dug up. Later he received a letter saying his inquiry has been looked into and they had found the book.

Teachers meet

Hear story of early E.T. naturalist

Andrew Patton, teacher at the Lennoxville High School, was elected 1961-62 president of the Sherbrooke County Teachers Association at the annual meeting held Monday evening at the Ripplecove Inn in Ayer's Cliff. Mr. Patton succeeds outgoing president, Barton Carr, of the Sherbrooke High School.

To set policy

Aldermen meeting today on problem of tenders

Members of city council will meet tonight at five in an attempt to establish rules of procedure for calling tenders and awarding municipal contracts, Mayor Armand Nadeau revealed Monday night.

Several times since last fall, Mayor Nadeau has said that there was an urgent need for such a meeting and most or all of the aldermen have agreed with him. However, no such meeting was called and for the past six weeks, an average of one-half of each council meeting has been devoted to a discussion of tenders.

All ten aldermen have taken an active interest in the subject but no firm rules of procedure have been laid down.

Suggestions have been received from the Chamber of Commerce, the Citizen's League, the Proprietor's League, the Eastern Townships Builders' Association and the Junior Chamber of Commerce and Mayor Nadeau has asked the city clerk to prepare a report including all these suggestions, to be used as a basis for study at Tuesday night's meeting.

A suggestion by Ald. J. M. Jeanson that all tenders be opened at a public meeting several days before the Monday night council meetings was unofficially rejected by city council last night. Mayor Armand Nadeau expressed his opposition to such a move at his press conference Friday and a majority of the aldermen agreed with him.

They argued that if the tenders were opened on the proposed date of Thursday, the public would know the details of each bid before the alderman could discuss them. At present all "routine" tenders are opened in private at city hall prior to Monday's meeting and the prices compiled on a list. This is done in order to save time.

Chase starts in Drummondville, ends locally

Provincial police officers from Sherbrooke swung into action early this morning and arrested a man in East Sherbrooke after a wild automobile chase which was reported to have started in Drummondville.

Det. Sgt. Eugene Morin, head of the Sherbrooke QPP detachment, said a call had been received from Drummondville police asking for assistance in picking up a man wanted for reckless driving.

He was cornered in the East Ward, and immediately handcuffed to a policeman before being brought back to the police station for questioning.

Further details were unavailable.

Tenders for the street-sweepers and other machinery costing approximately $70,000, have been in the hands of Mr. Langlois, City Treasurer Olivier Routhier and the superintendent of the municipal garage for the past week. Those officials had instructions to check each tender and ensure that it met specifications before allowing it to be considered by council.

Ald. Gerard Berard announced in council that this week is the deadline for renewal of health cards for all those distributing food throughout the city. A total of 1,343 were issued last year. Every year, he said, the Hygiene and Sanitation department must also ensure that garbage trucks are carefully checked to prevent spread of germs and disease.

This course will replace one offered by the University of Montreal on water pollution.

Public works will be undertaken as soon as possible to prepare Esplanade beach for bathers. Preparations involved include repairing the wall alongside the river.

Scottish lace produced in Ayrshire, where the industry was first established in 1875, sells in 50 countries.

Calgary (CP)—Miss Valerie Smith, fired from her job for expressing pro-Cuban sentiments, said in an interview Monday that Canada's new Bill of Rights is "nothing but a scrap of paper with a few fancy phrases."

Miss Smith, 26, accused her former employer, Midwest Surveys Limited, of "closing the door on freedom of speech."

She lost her job as a draftsman after making a speech last week to the Knights of the Round Table in which she praised life in Cuba under Fidel Castro.

Frank Bodie, executive secretary of the 35,000 - strong Alberta Federation of Labor, said Monday the AFL will request the provincial government to enact immediately a fair - employment practices act.

Capital punishment

Opponents of capital punishment will not be satisfied by the Government's new bill limiting application of the death penalty in Canada.

But most of them will concede that it marks a step in the right direction.

The majority of Canadians will welcome the bill as a wise compromise between two extremes—total abolition and wholesale application.

As proposed by Justice Minister Fulton, the new bill sets out two types of "capital murder" for which the death penalty will be ordered.

napping, robbery, arson, piracy and jailbreak.

All other classes of murder would be considered "non-capital" and would bring mandatory life imprisonment. This sentence would also apply for juveniles under the age of 18 who are convicted of capital murder.

Much of the public opposition to capital punishment in recent years has been provoked by death sentences in these last two categories—the very young and accessories to murder.

The farm in a nuclear war

In the belief that the protection of food supplies is as essential to the continuation of the human race following a nuclear attack as is the preservation of the human race itself, the federal Department of Agriculture has issued a publication entitled "Fallout on the Farm."

It tells about the steps to be taken by the farmer to protect himself against fallout. Admitting that farms within a radius of 15 or 20 miles from the centre of the explosion will probably be destroyed by blast and heat, the booklet largely ignores these farms and concentrates on the situation on farms further removed but still in the fallout area.

The precautions suggested are expensive, even for a single farm, but apparently the authors feel they are essential if the food production potential is to be preserved.

While heavy, the expenditure involved may mean the difference between two lives and death. But the pamphlet does not tell how this expenditure can be worked into the ordinary farm operating costs. It does not even say if the cost of the installations can be deducted from income tax.

Sudden summer

It wasn't so long ago—the beginning of this month to be exact—that Townships residents were slopping with gloomy expressions through unseasonal snowfalls.

But as it turned out, that was winter's dying gasp.

In the past few days, temperatures have soared, and trees have suddenly sprouted greenery. It is as if there were really no spring at all this year, just a long winter, and then sudden summer.

Trout are running in the streams, golf courses are open and doing a roaring business, apple blossoms are just around the corner, and some hardy individuals have even been swimming.

It has been wonderful, warm weather, and you would think everyone would be thankful for it.

Up to a point most people are, but human nature being what it is, thankfulness is edged still with complaints. Now those who toil in offices and outdoors, students writing exams and studying for them in fact, just about all those who cannot give in to the promptings of spring fever, have a common gripe.

It's too hot!

Across The Threshold

(New York Herald Tribune)

Just as the voyages of Columbus and Magellan opened a new epoch for all humanity, so does the successful orbit of the earth by a twenty-seven-year-old spaceman Yuri Gagarin bring the entire world to a new chapter in its history.

That it was a Russian who was the first to make this mighty leap forward will hence seem of no greater moment than that it was an Italian who first sailed to the shores of America, or a Portuguese who first circumnavigated the globe.

What one man can do another can do; where one goes others will follow; and another would have done the work of Columbus and Magellan if these had never lived.

Yet to say that the fact of Gagarin is a triumph for all mankind is not to deny that it is also a triumph for the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics. For whether or not it has existed in fact, there has flourished in men's minds a competition between the Soviet Union and the United States, between the East and the West, to see who would go first and farthest into space.

By acknowledging that in man's surge towards the stars we have been, at least temporarily, outpaced and out-reached, we do not automatically yield to panic or despair. But we ought to face the fact, if we have not already faced it, that whereas this country after the war stood alone and unchallenged in its technological and scientific supremacy it no longer does so.

ways had and still have the capacity to maintain our leadership. But it is less than certain that we have always had the will.

Nor is there much comfort in reflecting that scientific advance and social betterment are not necessarily synonymous, and that in a dictatorship such as Soviet Russia, it is possible to ignore human needs to obtain a technological breakthrough. By our standards, modern Russia is an unfree society; it is typical of its police-state atmosphere that the first space flight should remain mysterious in its circumstances, secret in its details, preceded by rumors and followed by questions.

But from the invention of the airplane to the harnessing of the atom, this country, and other countries, have demonstrated that it is possible for a free society to lead the way for others, provided it has the resolve and the determination. It does not say much for Premier Khrushchev's manners that he should have greeted the news with open exultation and boastfulness, but it hurts our pride to have to listen to him.

It will be well for us if, even while saluting the Russian accomplishment as President Kennedy did in his prompt and sincere message, we recognize that today, as three and a half years ago when the first Sputnik was launched, we have a tremendous task to fulfill both in strengthening our national defense and in reasserting our traditional leadership in modern man's scientific march.

It will be well, too, if all of us, Russians no less than Americans, East as well as West, take this historic achievement as one more evidence that mankind advances together or not at all; that a globe which can be circled in less than two hours, like the atom itself, indivisible and irreducible, and that it is for us all to determine whether we share or shatter it.

It was written long ago of the stars "When the morning stars sang together, and all the sons of God shouted for joy." That day is within our grasp, and it is for us to say whether we reach it or not.

SOUTH AFRICA TRADE (St. Thomas Times-Journal) The attitude of the Government to the question of trade with South Africa has been revealed in the House.

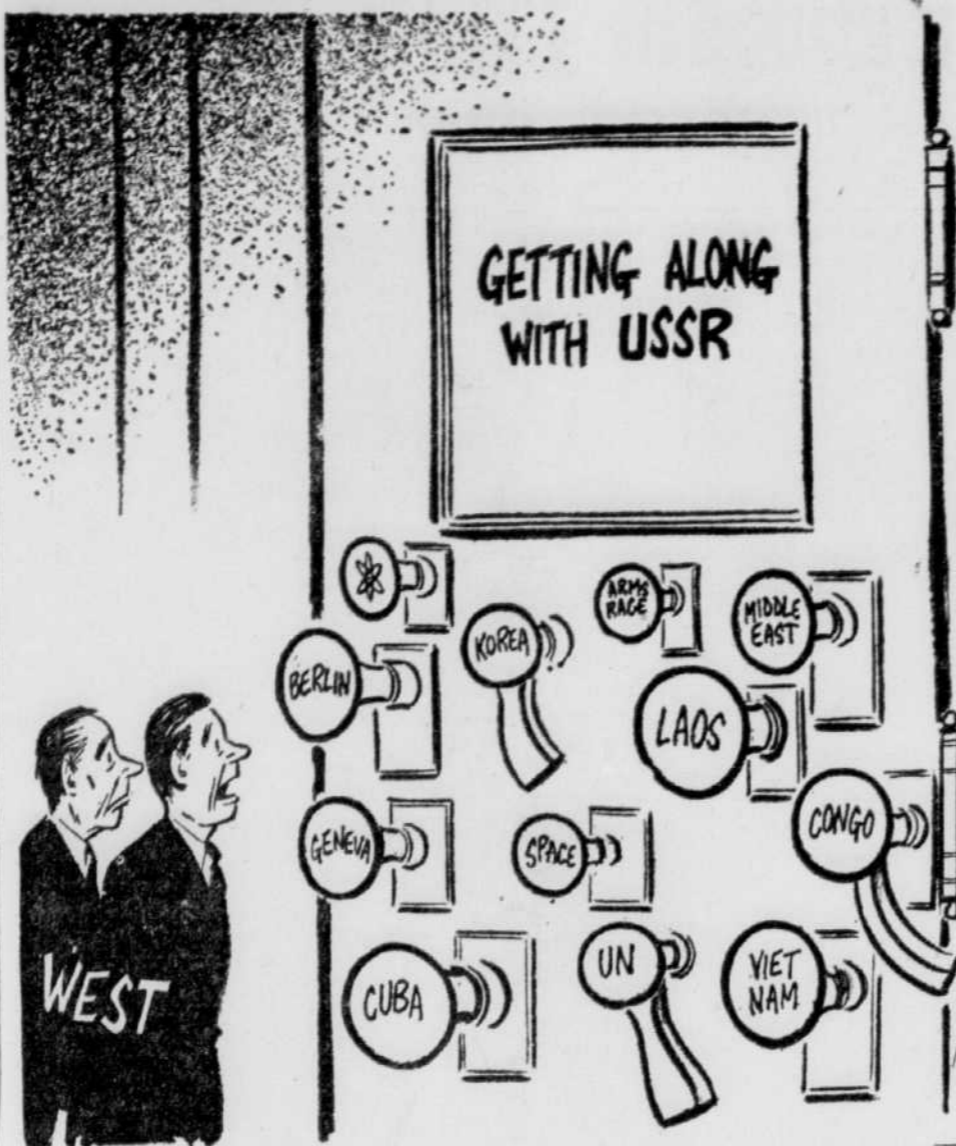

It is most comforting to note that existing trade agreements under "most favored nation" and other preferential categories will not be changed. Mr. Diefenbaker has made it plain that his Government does not intend to penalize South Africa for having been forced to withdraw from the Commonwealth. All of which proves that Diefenbaker can be as a Prairie lawyer when it comes to money and trade; but when it is a matter of principles, he gives way to a different performance.

Trade between Canada and South Africa is heavily in favor of Canada as far as value and quantity of goods are concerned. Our exports to South Africa in 1959 exceeded $451 million; South Africa was tenth in the list of countries taking Canadian exports. As for imports from South Africa, the figures are far less imposing. Why Mr. Diefenbaker should prefer to maintain present trade agreements is obvious and his decision sensible.

Apart from the trade involved, however, it is more important to note that the results of the Commonwealth Prime Ministers' Conference are not being allowed to interfere with relations between Canada and the Union of South Africa. Mr. Diefenbaker thought fit to express his convictions regarding apartheid in London, but is determined not to carry his antagonism into the practical arena of everyday life.

South Africa has left, or was forced to leave, the Commonwealth. This does not imply any stigma as far as relations between it and individual members of the Commonwealth are concerned. At least it should not; Mr. Diefenbaker is making it known by his trade policies with Capetown that, as far as Canada is concerned, it shall not

"I've Tried 'Em All—None of Them Work"

Spy or scapegoat?

What's behind the Blake case?

LONDON (TNS)—Many of Britain's top spies abroad are working in deadly peril.

Britain's agents in key cold war centres are known to the Russians.

The security bosses of MI6 can no longer trust reports from top agents because the Russians may be feeding them phony secrets.

BRITAIN'S SPY NETWORKS in East Germany, the Middle East and the Iron Curtain countries will have to be almost completely rebuilt.

This is the background to Prime Minister Macmillan's announcement of a sweeping investigation into Britain's intelligence services.

His statement brought a chilling realization that—with agents being recalled and no information that can be accepted at its face value—Britain is blundering in the dark. It is operating without a reliable intelligence system at a time when accurate reports from the East are most vital.

This is the staggering impact of George Blake's work for Russia on national security.

And Mr. Macmillan himself is accused of playing down the matter far beyond the needs of security. He is the man responsible for Britain's safety in this field, since he alone hears intelligence secrets which he does not even pass on to his Cabinet.

The Prime Minister's attitude is fanning Parliamentary fury into flames. The only new facts he has given were that he had taken no disciplinary action since the conviction; that Blake had no record before appearing in court; and that he himself was "reviewing all circumstances to see whether further measures could be taken to protect this country from treachery."

That, Parliament has decided, is not enough.

NOT ONLY PARLIAMENT is perturbed about this strange case. The British press has revealed the astonishing fact that papers were twice gagged by official censorship from reporting about George Blake's activities and background—yet the information British editors withheld from their readers was published in Continental and American papers which freely circulated in London. The British press now wants to know why.

Here is the background. George Blake was committed for trial on April 24 at Bow street after proceedings heard in camera.

ON MAY 1, two days before his trial, a "D-Notice" was sent to editors from Rear Admiral George P. Thomson, head of the services, press and broadcasting committee, a relic of the censorship board that Thomson ran in the war.

It asked editors not to mention that Blake worked for MI6, and it stated that the lives of certain persons were in danger.

Accordingly, the British press treated the Blake affair with restraint. There was only limited speculation as to what it was all about, and the impression was given that Blake had been brain-washed as a prisoner in Korea.

By JANE ARMSTRONG to print stories from foreign papers and hinting they were Soviet-inspired.

These stories revealed that Blake was a double agent, who betrayed the names of those working for British espionage.

CENSORSHIP WAS withdrawn at the week end, and the security clamp on the press fell apart. Reports were then published that at least six British agents abroad had been arrested. One claimed that four or five had died. Blake now is said to have denied this.

British papers at once struck out at the government's censorship. The Manchester Guardian asked how disclosures about Blake's activities could possibly endanger lives, since the other side must know from Blake more than the British press could discover.

The discrepancy was cited by Leonard Parker's claim that Blake rendered Britain's efforts "completely useless," and Mr. Macmillan's later statement that he "had not done irreparable damage."

Who is right, the papers asked. Parliament has yet to hear the truth about Blake's role as double agent. Only through the press was it revealed that he worked for British intelligence for 20 years.

He was recruited at the age of 18 in 1940, during the German occupation of Holland. Although born in Rotterdam, Blake held a British passport and until his arrest last March authorities never doubted his integrity.

He was moved to Naval Intelligence in 1943, when his life was in danger. After the war he was sent to Hamburg. In 1947 he learned Russian at Cambridge, in 1949 he went to Korea ostensibly as vice consul, but attached to MI 6.

After release from prison camp, he returned to the Foreign Office in 1954. The next year Blake was posted to Berlin, again in a cover job, where he probed the security of Iron Curtain countries.

Then, last September, he went to the Foreign Office school near Beirut to learn Arabic. He was brought back suddenly in March, and arrested.

HIS RECORD SHOWED Blake to be bold, resourceful, intelligent and above suspicion. Yet in his confession, he stated that more than 10 years ago his views changed. In 1951, he "held the strong conviction that the Communist system was a better one and deserved to triumph."

At this time Blake was a prisoner in Korea. Yet the Prime Minister told Parliament that he had not been brainwashed.

The disquiet many MPs feel over Blake's glib confession concerns doubts as to whether he was really an "ideological" spy—or more likely, a professional working for both sides, for reasons that can only be guessed.

IN EITHER CASE the implications for British security are grim.

Due to the confusion and incompetence surrounding the affair, questions are being raised on Blake's behalf which even hint he may be taking the rap for the inadequacies of others. Lord Parker's remark that it was "unfortunate" mitigating facts about his case could not be divulged has led papers to ask what facts could mitigate his crime if Blake were really guilty.

The Guardian suggests that he is "paying the penalty for the mistakes of others as well." THIS HAS CAUSED suspicion, voiced in The Observer, that Blake even undertook his dangerous dual role on orders from British Intelligence. A double agent passes genuine secrets in return for information from the enemy. If he muffs it—he pays the price.

The press also point up a curious fact in Blake's tangled story: That after he was summoned to Britain in the middle of his study course, he spent 10 days in Beirut a free man, perfectly able to slip into safety behind the Iron Curtain. Yet he did not do so.

IF HE WAS really Russia's top inside man in British security—why not?

MORE JOBS THAN MEN

(St. Thomas Times-Journal) New Zealand is in what many people would consider an enviable position. There is a great shortage of labor. There is absolutely no unemployment. There are more jobs than people to fill them.

The result, however, is that the economy of the country has been dealt a serious blow.

New Zealand, strongly labor politically, has always been cautious as regards immigration, the average in recent years being around 25,000, but last year even with stated-aid newcomers, the number dropped to a little over 10,000.

Immigrants from Britain and Holland, to the number of 3,000 a year can get state aid, but last year the number fell to the low figure of 2,594.

Employers are appealing for workers who aren't there. Even the Labor party feels that the benefits of state aid should be doubled and granted to immigrants from more countries.

Labor unions everywhere have this fear of immigration. But restrictions or quotas can be carried too far. New Zealand seems to have overdone it. It may be questioned whether a country loses more by surplus labor and payment of unemployed benefits, than by not having enough workers to produce goods for the export markets by which all countries live.

The Labor government was defeated at the polls last November, so, perhaps a more generous immigration policy may be expected.

Gerald Waring REPORTING

NEW LONDON, Conn.

Take a look along the waterfront here, and you see slip after slip with two submarines berthed in them.

All but one are American. The exception is a long, black, cigar-like hull flying the White Ensign of the Royal Canadian Navy from her stern.

Since Thursday HMCS Grilse, formerly USS Burrfish, has been the RCN's first submarine Flotilla. Late in June she will sail from New London on her long voyage to her new base at Esquimault B.C.

I witnessed the transfer ceremony here on Thursday, when Associate Defence Minister Sevigny accepted Grilse on behalf of the government, and Mrs. Sevigny—who appropriately is an expert skin diver—rechristened her "Grilse," a word that means "young salmon." Thus did the RCN re-enter the submarine business after a lapse of nearly 40 years.

Why?

The navy says it needs subs for the anti-submarine training of its surface ships. That's true as far as it goes. For years we've been borrowing US and British subs and crews to work with our ships, but they've been made available at their convenience. It would be more satisfactory if we had our own submarines to play hide-and-seek with our destroyers and destroyer escorts and sub-hunting aircraft.

But that's only phase one of the navy's submarine program. Phase two is the addition of at least six, maybe nine, and preferably 12 submarines to the fleet over the next few years. They are wanted not so much for teaching surface skippers how to sink subs, as they are for the grim purpose of doing that job themselves in case of war.

Vice Admiral Harry De Wolfe, now retired as chief of the naval staff, recognized three years ago that the best defence against enemy submarines is submarines of our own—Canadian subs to ferret out the enemy hiding under the sea and destroy him with torpedoes. The acquisition of Grilse, on indefinite loan from the US Navy, is the first step towards realization of De Wolfe's plan.

Grilse, built in 1943 and modernized since the war, is almost identical with a score of operational US subs along the waterfront here. Until recently she was a radar picket ship in the Atlantic.

Now with her extra radar removed, she's ready to slip below the surface to play tag—or to kill.

With the navy planning to add five more subs, the question arises: where will it get them? The answer the navy planners offer is "Build them." They want to set their architects to designing a Canadian submarine based on latest US and British plans, and they want Canadian shipyards to build them.

They estimate it would cost $20 million to build a sub comparable to Grilse's 1800 tons. That's a million or two less than a destroyer escort costs, and it's about $5 million more than it would cost to buy a sub from the US. But the navy wants to develop know-how in this country in sub design and construction.

Of course, when you come right down to it, what the navy really wants is atomic subs. But navy nerves still haven't recovered from the government's screams two years ago when the RCN put the proposal forward, along with an estimated price tag of $60 million per sub.

For atomic subs, the time isn't opportune. That's phase three of the navy's submarine program.

TURN-COAT TARIFFS

Ottawa Journal

In one column of Hansard here is Mr. Pearson in full cry after the Government, saying it is attracted by the idea of economic self-sufficiency. He says it ought to know it can't export unemployment. There's no cure in keeping goods from other countries out of Canada to provide work at home. In other words, let there be no protectionism on the R. B. Bennett pattern.

In the next column, Mr. Pearson puts forward with enthusiasm his plan for development of an Atlantic economic community, built stage by stage over a period that may be as long as 15 years, Canada helping. And during that time will Canada pursue the policy of the trade open door? Not at all. In this column, Mr. Pearson says steps will have to be taken to "protect" industries like tariffs, the commonest form of protection.

In one column of argument tariffs are made to appear the barriers that can keep Canadians from full employment. In the next column they are essential to Canadian protection for perhaps 15 years. The unemployed, reading what the Opposition recommends for their relief, must wonder.

TAKE OUT CALLS FOR CAUTION

How do you bid the North hand after West opens with one diamond? Naturally, you start by making a negative double and you are pleased when your partner responds with one spade.

What is your next bid? Should you give a single or double raise?

Your hand is clearly worth a spade raise. Your partner may have a very bad hand. After all, you have practically forced him to bid, but there are still distinct possibilities of game. In fact many people think game is so likely that they jump to three spades with this type of hand.

However, a mere raise to two is sufficient. In itself this immediate single raise shows a very good hand because you are inviting a game after forcing your partner to bid.

With seven high card points, two doubletons and a five card suit South should jump right to four spades after the raise. South won't be too happy with his contract after West opens the jack of spades, but because trumps break nicely and West holds both ace and king of hearts everything will come out all right.

A—Bid one spade. However, certain modern players will jump right to two spades in an attempt to preempt. This bid is not recommended unless you can be sure of your partner's understanding.

TODAY'S QUESTION You do bid one spade. West passes and your partner jumps to three spades. What do you do now?

Asbestos activities

By WILLIAM LUNAN (Record Correspondent)

The March of Dimes Campaign is now under way and the objective for the Province is $225,000. The organization is appealing to the public for continued support in the struggle against polio. The successes of the past have been memorable but they must be extended into the future. In the fight against polio the future needs to be looked after, it will not look after itself.

In the past years the citizens of Asbestos and Danville have been generous and it is hoped that this year the local March of Dimes Drive will receive the same support.

In the past year the March of Dimes cared for 3,435 polio victims in the province, 379 of these were new cases. One quarter of the 1961 budget is slated for rehabilitation and medical services for polio victims.

In District No. 8 (Que.) Royal Canadian Legion, which embraces Branches in Asbestos, Danville, Drummondville, Richmond and Victoriaville and Windsor Mills, $1,200 was spent on 22 polio cases in 1959. In 1960, 54 polio cases required $2,258 in assistance. Many of these cases still require extensive physiotherapy treatments and rehabilitation and will remain a financial burden for several years to come.

The Salk Vaccine cannot help people who have already contracted polio but you can. The effective work of the Quebec Chapter of Canadian Foundation for Poliomyelitis and Rehabilitation is dependent upon your generosity during the March of Dimes Drive. Help your local Legion Branch help others with your donation to the canvasser during the coming week or send donations to Quebec Chapter Canadian Foundation for Poliomyelitis and Rehabilitation, 1191 Mountain Street, Montreal.

The Town of Asbestos has been presented with a certificate of Merit by the Canadian Safety Council for having achieved a year's record of "no fatal accidents." This is the third consecutive year that the Town has received the award. Mayor J. Maurice Beauchesse and Chief of Police Adrien Larrievie received the award at a recent convention in Quebec.

An official tree planting ceremony was held at the St. Gerard Catholic School Wednesday afternoon when Mayor J. Maurice Beauchesse officiated. Among those present were:

BODY READILY ADJUSTS TO RARE AIR ALTITUDES

Q—I am 50 years old and have rheumatic valvular disease. I live at 7,000 feet elevation and frequently have dizzy spells. Recently I spent two weeks at 2,300 feet elevation, and found it unbelievably easy to breathe. In fact, until I spent some time at the lower altitude I did not realize how short of breath I'd been at home. Do you think the benefit from the lower altitude is sufficient to justify my moving home?

A—Ordinarily we adjust to altitudes up to about 10,000 feet without much difficulty. It's not easy to pull up stakes so I'd think a longer trial at the lower altitude might be distinctly worth considering before arriving at a decision.

It's just possible that some factor other than altitude is responsible for the apparent improvement. For example, if it were a vacation, it might have been relaxation from routine duties. Or it might have been the company. Or the influence of a dry spell. Like the increased appetite we sometimes enjoy when we go to a restaurant for a meal and smack our lips at food that's not as good or as well prepared as what's served at home.

Q—Is the Papanicolaou test necessary after a woman has had her uterus removed?

A—Because of the great importance of this question, I shall have to give a detailed answer. The uterus is usually described as having a body and a neck (cervix). The body of the uterus is entirely within the abdominal cavity. The cervix protrudes so that it is visible at the time of examination. And it is from the visible mouth of the cervix that material for the Pap test is taken.

Now cancers of the body of the uterus are very rare. But cancers of the cervix are very common. Indeed breast and cervical cancers make up the vast majority of malignancies affecting the adult female.

When the uterus is surgically removed (hysterectomy), the cervix is usually left. That's why the operation is called a supra-cervical hysterectomy, meaning that only the portion above the cervix is taken out. However, when both the body and cervix of the uterus are removed, the procedure is called a total hysterectomy. And, since the supra-cervical operation is simpler and somewhat safer than the complete removal, it is often favored except under unusual conditions.

Perhaps you can now see the need for full information before answering what appears to be a simple question. For if it were a vacation, it might have been relaxation from routine duties. Or it might have been the company. Or the influence of a dry spell. Like the increased appetite we sometimes enjoy when we go to a restaurant for a meal and smack our lips at food that's not as good or as well prepared as what's served at home.

Moon trip to solve the origin of life?

By IAIN FERGUSON

LONDON — (TNS) — Trip to information obtained from instruments in artificial satellites, scientists have changed many of their opinions about the conditions likely to prevail on other worlds. Many previous theories about the moon are now considered to be quite wrong.

And Soviet cosmonaut Yuri Gagarin, after his orbit around the world, said Soviet scientists were already building a space ship for a trip to the moon—and that the flight might take place soon.

The moon is the natural first space target for Man, it could also prove to be one of the most interesting.

its very deadness the moon may eventually provide the answers to important scientific questions about the solar system and the universe as a whole.

The air and water that support life on our planet are continually wearing down the mountains and other natural structures on the earth. But the dead surface of the moon probably has similar features formed millions of years ago and never subjected to erosion by wind and rain.

And upon this surface cosmic dust has rained down throughout the ages. Dr. Urey believes that this dust contains not only a complete historical record of the solar system but also complex organic molecules, the precursors of living matter, and perhaps even living spores that may have drifted in from different parts of the universe.

The moon may well provide a vital clue to the origin of life itself.

Recent geophysical and geological research indicates that both the earth's atmosphere and its water were originally formed by exudation from the interior of the planet.

A British scientist, R. Gillatley, maintains that a similar process probably took place long ago on the moon. And Professor Z. Kopal, of Manchester University, goes even further. He believes the moon is quite hot inside and gradually getting warmer.

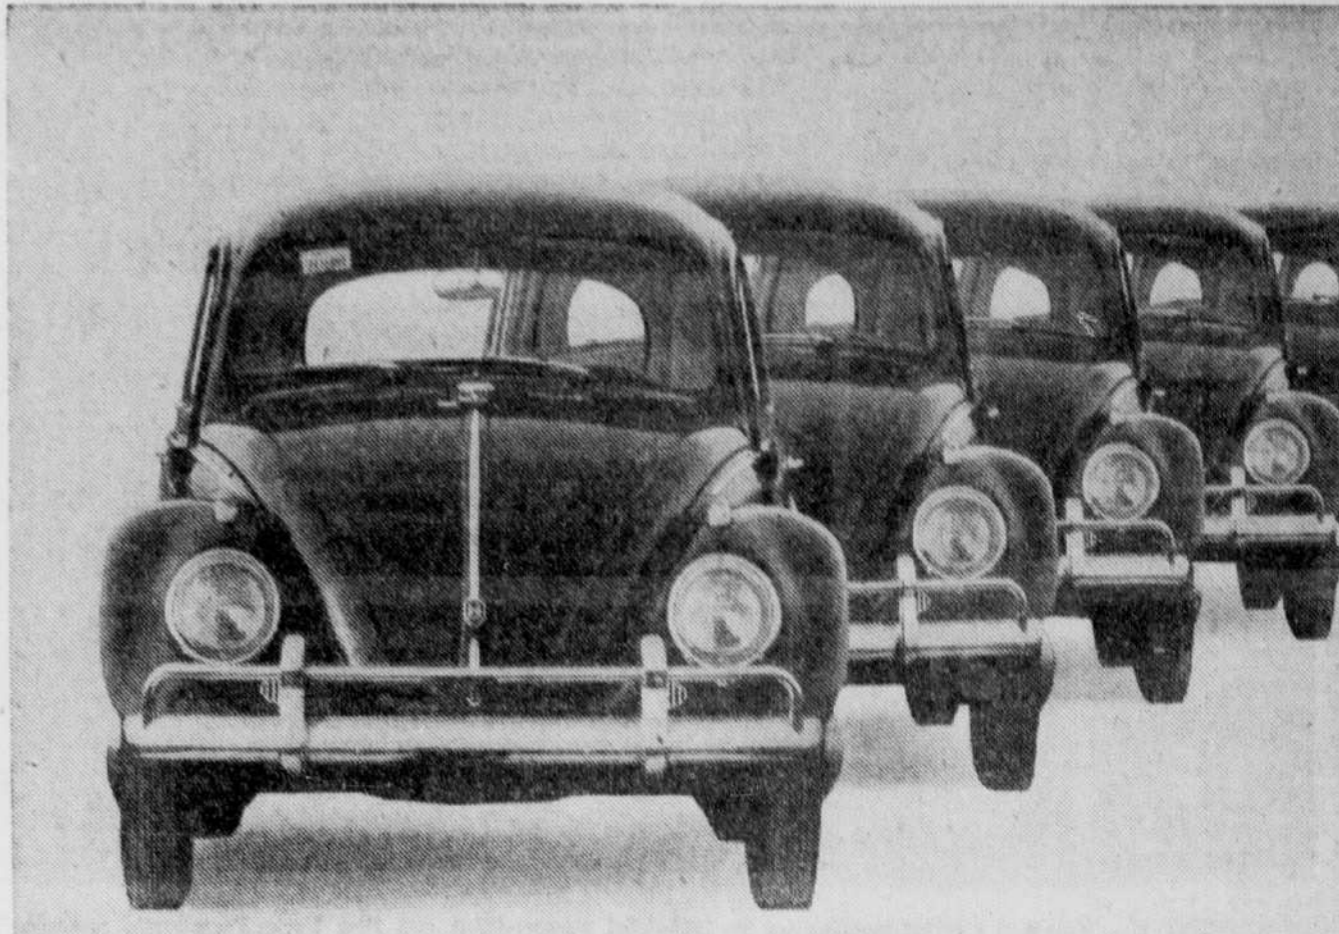

Occasionally, water may have escaped from this hot interior and reached the surface as springs or geysers. If so, it would have become frozen in the prevailing low temperatures.

LIKE OWN GLACIERS
At a conference held a short time ago in Leningrad for scientists to exchange theories about conditions on the moon, it was stated that certain features observed in the latest photographs greatly resemble dust-covered glaciers found today in Canada and Alaska.

Shopping for a new car? Be sure you slip into this one before you put your money down.

It's the new VW Custom Model. The best value ever offered, even by Volkswagen.

What's new about it? The engine for one thing. It's got more power to push you up hills, and past those big transports. (But it doesn't use a drop more gas than the old one.)

The transmission too. Now all four gears are synchronized. You slip into first without stopping the car.

You'll notice these improvements as soon as you drive. But there are others of equal significance. (The greatly enlarged luggage space, for example.) Your VW dealer will get a big kick out of showing them to you, one by one.

And what have we left off to get the price so low? Nothing.

You still get a spare wheel and tire, heater/defroster, tool kit, jack, windshield washer, two padded sun visors, directional signals, bumper over-riders, big 15" wheels and oversize tires.

See your Volkswagen dealer and drive the complete car with a lot missing from its price tag.

Annual "At Home"

Missionary prayer group holds conference

The Annual "AT HOME" of the Women's Missionary Prayer Group of Grace Chapel took the form of a Missionary Conference on Saturday afternoon and evening.

The Chairman, Mrs. A. C. Hill welcomed the one hundred and twenty seven guests from this city, the Eastern Townships, Montreal and Arvida.

After a song service the first speaker of the afternoon was introduced. Mrs. Ed. Harlow of New Jersey, and wife of the editor of "Fields" missionary magazine, gave a very instructive review of World Missions today. She informed us that the Christian Brethren Church of Canada has now one hundred and sixty missionaries in forty foreign countries. She took her listeners on a tour of these foreign fields, relating incidents in the lives of many whom she knows personally, and whom she has visited in their field of service. She stated that very little is known of the missionaries behind the iron curtain, but that Canadians and British missionaries are still free to go and remain in Cuba, though the American Missionaries have been forced to return home.

Mrs. Jim Godfrey of Cap de la Madeleine, sang a solo accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Walter Scott of Ayer's Cliff. Mrs. Raymond Taylor then spoke on the work she and her husband are doing among French speaking people in the eastern part of Montreal. She took as her text the story of Elijah and Ahab, telling of the importance of first setting our own lives right with God, then praying in faith, believing, obeying God's instructions and then giving God the glory when our prayer is answered.

Prayer was offered by Mrs. Jim Walker of Ayer's Cliff and Mrs. Wm. Buchanan of Grace Christian Home in Huntingville.

A social hour followed during which a delicious buffet supper was served under the able direction of Mrs. W. J. Klinck, and a literature table was displayed by Mrs. Arnold Baker.

The evening program commenced with a song service with Mrs. Allison Welch as chairman.

Miss Mary Poole of Sekaji school for Missionaries children told of her work there, stressing the importance of scripture memorization and how this has been a blessing to those who have become blind, or have found themselves behind the iron curtain where the scriptures are not allowed, and that we should not take our freedom to read the scriptures for granted.

After Mrs. Jim Godfrey sang a solo accompanied by Mrs. A. C. Hill, Mrs. Ed Harlow again spoke to the group. Her topic "God's ways are not our ways," was divided under three headings. "As for God His way is perfect." "As for man, his days are as grass." "As for me and my house, we will serve the Lord." The Lord asks the Christian today for utter and complete obedience, and each one should seek to know how best to serve the Lord wherever he or she may be, whether on the mission field or here at home.

Prayer was offered by Miss Doris Pitman, missionary on furlough from Angola, Africa; and Miss Hazel Benner of Lennoxville, thus bringing to a close a very enjoyable and challenging conference.

C.W.L. Mother's Day tea held

The Mother's Day Salad Tea sponsored by the St. Bridget's C.W.L. was held in the St. Patrick's Church hall on Saturday afternoon. The day was perfect, with glorious sunshine adding a touch to that very special day for mothers.

To the strains of organ music played throughout the afternoon by Miss H. Farrell at the Hammond organ the guests were greeted by Mrs. B. Drury and Mrs. S. Mayhew. Acting as cashiers were Mrs. G. Norris and Mrs. N. Haddon.

The deep wine purple stage curtains were decorated with the appropriate word MOTHER, each letter being covered with multi-colored flowers and below this were two large posies with sprays of pink sweetheart-roses tied with pink ribbon. Upon the stage, placed upon a table were the gaily wrapped door prizes which were distributed during the afternoon.

Pouring at the tea table covered with a white lichen cloth, centred with a very large glass vase of Talisman and American Beauty roses, flanked by white tapers in glass candelabra were: Mrs. M. McKenna, Mrs. J. St. Onge, Mrs. S. Veilleux and Mrs. W. Steele.

The individual tables were covered with linen cloths with centre-pieces of pink and yellow daisies covered with miniature daisies of multiple colours. In charge of these were Mrs. J. Dube assisted by the girls of Mary Mount high school.

Mrs. M. Branswell, Mrs. C. Owen, Mrs. E. Scallon, Mrs. S. Hall and Mrs. B. Paquet were in charge of the very attractive salad bar.

The food table was cared for by Mrs. J. Grandpre and the parcel post by Mrs. M. Maher. In charge of the hat raffle was Miss M. Beaudry, and the kitchen was convayed by Mrs. J. Potticary assisted by the members of the C.W.L.

Breakfast tips

Breakfast time is toast time—but don't get into a toast rut. Choose new kinds of bread for toast often. A nutty cracked wheat loaf, a plump potato loaf, a savoury caraway rye stick, or a mealy malt loaf—any of these will produce slices of crisp, tasty toast that are just a little bit different. And have you used sweet fruit loaf or rich egg loaf slices, lightly toasted to tempt lagging appetites?

Congolese struggles with independence

By PETER GROSE
LEOPOLDVILLE (AP)—One of the stories going the rounds of Leopoldville's cafes concerns Alphonse, a Congolese houseboy struggling to support his wife and five children, sighing to his white employer: "Oh, patron, when is the 'independence' going to end?" To the ordinary Congolese, the catchword "independence" once brought hope of a better, care-free life. By now the word means unemployment, insecurity and frustration. After nine months in the dream world of independence, Congolese in Leopoldville realize the austere and unexpected responsibilities they assumed when they insisted on managing their own country. Only gradually is this once-wealthy capital running down. Some of the outlying provinces are in chaos but Leopoldville's daily life retains its hot and sleepy routine. PRICES HIGH One by one, stores in the European city are closing because of lack of things to sell as well as lack of people with money to buy them. A half-dozen super-markets are still crowded with Congolese and European buyers, but the shelves are emptying. Prices are creeping up as difficulties of importing—and paying for the imports—increase. A familiar brand of American corn flakes is 23 francs (46 cents). A can of chicken soup is 15 francs (30 cents). Six small apples in a plastic bag sell for 43 francs (86 cents). Prices like these are far beyond the reach of Congolese workers. Alphonse, the Negro house boy, earns $44 a month and is doing well compared with his neighbors. He has five children. Monthly rental on a tin-roofed, three-room brick hut is $10.

PHILATELIC CONVENTION DELEGATES — Members of the Bishop's College School Stamp Club Saturday afternoon attended sessions at the annual convention of the Royal Philatelic Society of Canada in North Hatley. The boys are pictured behind some of the honored guests and executive of stamp groups attending, including Abbe Hector Lafrance, president of the E. T. Stamp Club; Hon. William Hamilton, Postmaster General of Canada, and Mrs. Hamilton; Dr. G. M. Geldert, president of the Royal Society, from Ottawa; and Stanley Godden, president of the Canadian Philatelic Society of Great Britain. The attendance at the convention was the greatest in the 33 years the convention has been held. (Record Photo by Doug Gerrish)

Many newer houses are going vacant because people can't afford the rents.

'GOOD FEELING, BUT'
Only in the quiet of their own little homes are the Negroes expressing doubts about whether it has all been worthwhile.

"Things aren't going very well," a Congolese electrical worker told a white visitor.

"There are so many things I don't know how to do. We have our independence and that's a good feeling, but now I am in charge of the business and the white 'patron' is no longer here to help me. . . . If only you white people had taught us how to do things before you left."

Ed Mathews, Who Was Hitting Singles, Slugging Homers

Has 14-Game Hitting Streak On Line, Bangs Out Pair Against Los Angeles, Giants Romp To 14-1 Win Over Cubs

Ed Mathews, who had begun to look like a slugger-turned-singles hitter, is back doing what comes naturally - hammering home runs and giving the Milwaukee Braves that old power look once more.

Through the first 20 games of the season, Mathews, No. 6 on the all-time National League home run list, had hit just one. Now he's tagged five in four games while running second in the batting race with a .378 average and a 14-game hitting streak.

Mathews' sudden return to power has overcome even the hoodoo of the Los Angeles Coliseum, that badly balanced ball-yard for left-handed sluggers whose power is to right and right-centre. In three years, Mathews had hit only five home runs there, no more than two in one season.

DROVE IN THREE
But he rifled a pair over the right and centrefield barriers Monday night, driving in three runs as the Braves defeated the Dodgers 7-5, handing sounpaw Johnny Podres his first defeat.

That dropped the second place Dodgers two games behind San Francisco Giants, who broke loose for a 14-1 romp over Chicago Cubs. The only other game scheduled in the NL, St. Louis at Pittsburgh, was rained out.

While Mathews was building his career home run total to 34, righthander Lew Burdette won two in a row for the first time this season - and also drove in three runs with a single and his first home run of the year.

It was the eighth straight success in the coliseum for Burdette, who gave up seven hits and now has sent five home runs over the right field screen in Los Angeles.

RETAINS LEAD
Wally Moon, retaining the NL batting lead at .384, tripled and scored the first run for the Dodgers by stealing home with two out in the second inning. The Dodgers then scored a pair of unearned runs before Charlie Southpaw Mike McCormick was the winner. He allowed eight hits, losing a shutout on four singles in the fifth, but put his earned run average at 1.32 for 41 innings this season.

The Cards and Pirates had played 1 1/2 scoreless innings at Pittsburgh when rain ended the game.

Basketball Scandal Spreads Into Two Major North Carolina Colleges

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) - A gambling scandal that has reached into two major North Carolina colleges may spell the doom of big time college basketball in the state.

Trustees of the Consolidated University of North Carolina will discuss the matter at their regular quarterly meeting here Monday.

Three North Carolina players, including team captain Stan Niewierowski, have been charged with bribing-taking in the point shaving scandal which earlier reached the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

The two institutions are under the control of the Consolidated University's board.

Meanwhile, district prosecutor Lester Chalmers said new warrants have been issued charging Joseph Green of New York City with bribing two N.C. State players to fix the N.C. State games at Duke and North Carolina. Green was identified as a co-conspirator with Aaron Wagman, charged earlier by New York authorities as a key figure in the scandal.

Chalmers indicated more warrants were still to come.

The three state players charged are Niewierowski and Anton Muehlbauer, both of Brooklyn, N.Y., and Terry Litchfield of Louisville, Ky.

Lou Brown of the University of North Carolina has been accused of being a go-between in basketball fixes, and Doug Moe was suspended for accepting $75 from Wagman. Moe said the money was for travelling expenses and was not implicated in point shaving. His suspension was for not reporting acceptance of the money.

Ray Washburn Hurls San Juan To 3-0 Shutout Over Richmond While Columbus Posts 4-1 Win Over Jersey

The San Juan Marlins, whose financial blessings seem to be almost non-existent so far in their first year in the International Baseball League, are picking up some dividends from what must be one of the richest players in the loop.

He's Ray Washburn, a 22-year-old pitcher who cost the St. Louis Cards $80,000 in bonus money last year - eight times more than the Marlins have collected so far in gate receipts.

Monday night, he picked up his lone defeat with a five-hit, 3-0 shutout over Richmond Virginia in one of two games that survived a night of bad weather.

League-leading Columbus beat Jersey City 4-1 while Toronto's doubleheader at Buffalo and Syracuse at Rochester were rained out.

Washburn in handing Richmond its first shutout of the season, faced only 30 batters and didn't issue a walk. He struck out nine, twice as many as in his previous appearances. His other victory was a shutout over Toronto, in his last appearance.

The Marlins scored all of their runs on four hits in their third inning splurge against loser Art Ceccarelli. Harry Watts homered in the inning while Julio Gotay singled home the second run and Johnny Glenn's triple scored the third.

Bob Veale ran his league-leading total of strikeouts to 49, fanning eight Jerseys in Columbus' triumph. Home runs by Johnny Schaive and Ed Sada, and Don Clendenon's two-run triple got Columbus its runs.

Diomedes Olivo and Earl Francis relieved Veale in the eighth and held a budding Jersey City rally to only one run. Mike Cuellar was the loser.

Perry Moss And Staff To Hold Football Clinic At Granby

A giant football rally will be held in Granby this weekend, May 19 - 20 - 21.

The rally is sponsored by the Eastern Intermediate Football Conference and will be the biggest affair of this nature ever held in the province outside of the Island of Montreal.

The weekend program will open with a supper at the Granby Hotel, Friday, May 19th at 7:00 p.m. Michel Normandin will act as master of ceremonies for this event.

On Saturday and Sunday, May 20th and 21st a clinic will be held at the Granby football field. This clinic is open to any player of the Townships wishing to benefit from the coaching abilities of the complete staff of the Montreal Alouettes.

Perry Moss, coach and general manager of the Alouettes will be in charge of the clinic and will be assisted by Leo Cahill, "Indian Jack" Jacobs and J. I. Albrecht.

Ted Workman, president of the Montreal "Big Four" Club will also be on hand as well as representatives from all the teams of the Eastern Football Conference.

Camilo Pascual And Pedro Ramos Back In Business And Twins Back In AL Scrap, Tigers Pad Lead

Camilo Pascual and Pedro Ramos are back in business and Minnesota Twins are battling for the American League lead again.

When the two Cuban right-handers each won their first two decisions, the Twins were on top. But when they slipped, losing five in a row between them, Minnesota tumbled to fifth.

Ramos (3-2) bounced back with a 5-4 decision over Los Angeles Angels last Friday. The win started a four-game streak, their longest of the season.

Pascual, after losing three straight, came back with a four-hitter at Chicago Monday night to beat the White Sox 5-0 and kept the now third-place Twins within four-games of front-running Detroit. It also pushed Minnesota within a single game of idle, second-place New York.

The Tigers padded their lead over the Yankees to three games by hattering Baltimore 10-5. Cleveland clobbered Boston 13-2, behind the three-hit pitching of Jim Grant, and Kansas City dropped the Angels 5-3 in the only other games scheduled.

NOBODY WALKED
Pascual (3-3) gave up three doubles among the White Sox four hits, but didn't walk a man. He fanned seven, taking over the AL strikeout lead with 41. It was his first shutout of the season.

Harmon Killebrew had two of the Twins' eight hits and drove in a run. That gave him a .373 average and replaced the .364 of Baltimore's injured Jackie Brandt as the best in the league.

Two runs in the first inning gave it to the Twins and beat Cal McLish (2-3).

The Tigers tagged 15 hits at Baltimore and broke a 3-3 tie in a five-run seventh inning, with Dick Brown driving in two runs. Dick Hall (1-2) was the loser. Right hander Paul Foytack allowed 11 hits, one a homer by Whitey Herzog, but squared his record at 2-2 with his first complete game.

Red Sox rookie Carl Yastrzemski hammered a two-run homer in the fourth inning. But Johnny Romano hit a two-run homer for the Injuns. Ted Williams (1-2) lost it after coming on in the first when starter Tom Brewer suffered a shoulder injury.

Kansas City manager Joe Gordon, sitting in the press box because general manager Frank Lane believes it to be a better vantage point than the dugout, telephoned instructions for a pinch hitter when the Angels loaded the bases on walks in the eighth inning, and Lou Klimchek came through with a tie-breaking single. Lefty Bud Daley (4-4) was the winner with reliever Ted Bowfield (0-1), a native of Ponticent, B.C., the loser as the Angels dropped their 11th in a row on the road.

Manager Solly Hemus Of Cardinals Blasts Two Umpires, Frank Dascoli And Frank Secory, Is Fined $150

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Manager Solly Hemus of St. Louis says umpires Frank Dascoli and Frank Secory are "arrogant" and Dascoli considers Hemus "a real busher."

The two men revealed their feelings about each other Monday night over Pittsburgh and St. Louis radio stations before a listening audience of thousands.

Hemus said "Heck, you can't even talk to some of them (umpires) any more. They just won't listen."

Dascoli said of the Cardinal manager: "Hemus was bush as a player and he certainly is bush as a manager—a real busher."

The rhubarb was touched off Sunday in Philadelphia when Hemus was ejected for arguing a decision by Secory at third base. He first made his accusations at a sports luncheon here Monday.

In St. Louis, the Globe Democrat said it learned Hemus was notified by telegram Monday night he was fined $150 by league president Warren Giles for his part in the Sunday rumpus.

The telegram said, "kicking dirt on an umpire will not be tolerated and any future offence will be dealt with by our office more severely than the fine imposed in this case."

"Hemus gets angry because he can't push us around," Dascoli said. "I got news for him he is not going to do it."

Dascoli, in his 14th year as an umpire, said he was thinking seriously of retiring at the end of the season. "Conditions for the umpires are the worst I have seen since I came into the league in 1948."

YESTERDAY'S STARS

Hitting—Orlando Cepeda, Giants, drove in five runs with two homers and a double in 14-1 victory over the Cubs.

Pitching—Camilo Pascual, Twins, allowed just four hits, didn't walk a man and struck out seven for 5-0 victory over White Sox.

FIGHTS LAST NIGHT

San Francisco—Al Medrano, 136, Sacramento, Calif., outpointed Harry Campbell, 137, San Jose, Calif., 10.

New Orleans—Dick Tiger, 161, Nigeria outpointed Hank Casey, 159, San Francisco, 10.

Chicago—Virgil Akins, 148, St. Louis, outpointed Billy Collins, 147, Detroit, 10.

Bye Bye BOGIES by BOB ROSBURG

Tips On Irons
There are essential things to remember about iron shots:

Keep the swing smooth and steep, but more compact and upright than for woods. Keep control of the grip throughout and the elbows, particularly left, close to the body.

Hit the ball firmly. Don't baby the shot. By the same token, don't try to knock the cover off the ball. If you've picked the right club for the distance and hit the ball properly, the club will do most of the work.

There's an iron made for each shot up to about 190 yards.

Be sure to use the iron designed for the distance required.

Camilo Pascual And Pedro Ramos Back In Business And Twins Back In AL Scrap, Tigers Pad Lead

Camilo Pascual and Pedro Ramos are back in business and Minnesota Twins are battling for the American League lead again.

When the two Cuban right-handers each won their first two decisions, the Twins were on top. But when they slipped, losing five in a row between them, Minnesota tumbled to fifth.

Ramos (3-2) bounced back with a 5-4 decision over Los Angeles Angels last Friday. The win started a four-game streak, their longest of the season.

Pascual, after losing three straight, came back with a four-hitter at Chicago Monday night to beat the White Sox 5-0 and kept the now third-place Twins within four-games of front-running Detroit. It also pushed Minnesota within a single game of idle, second-place New York.

The Tigers padded their lead over the Yankees to three games by hattering Baltimore 10-5. Cleveland clobbered Boston 13-2, behind the three-hit pitching of Jim Grant, and Kansas City dropped the Angels 5-3 in the only other games scheduled.

NOBODY WALKED
Pascual (3-3) gave up three doubles among the White Sox four hits, but didn't walk a man. He fanned seven, taking over the AL strikeout lead with 41. It was his first shutout of the season.

Harmon Killebrew had two of the Twins' eight hits and drove in a run. That gave him a .373 average and replaced the .364 of Baltimore's injured Jackie Brandt as the best in the league.

Two runs in the first inning gave it to the Twins and beat Cal McLish (2-3).

The Tigers tagged 15 hits at Baltimore and broke a 3-3 tie in a five-run seventh inning, with Dick Brown driving in two runs. Dick Hall (1-2) was the loser. Right hander Paul Foytack allowed 11 hits, one a homer by Whitey Herzog, but squared his record at 2-2 with his first complete game.

Red Sox rookie Carl Yastrzemski hammered a two-run homer in the fourth inning. But Johnny Romano hit a two-run homer for the Injuns. Ted Williams (1-2) lost it after coming on in the first when starter Tom Brewer suffered a shoulder injury.

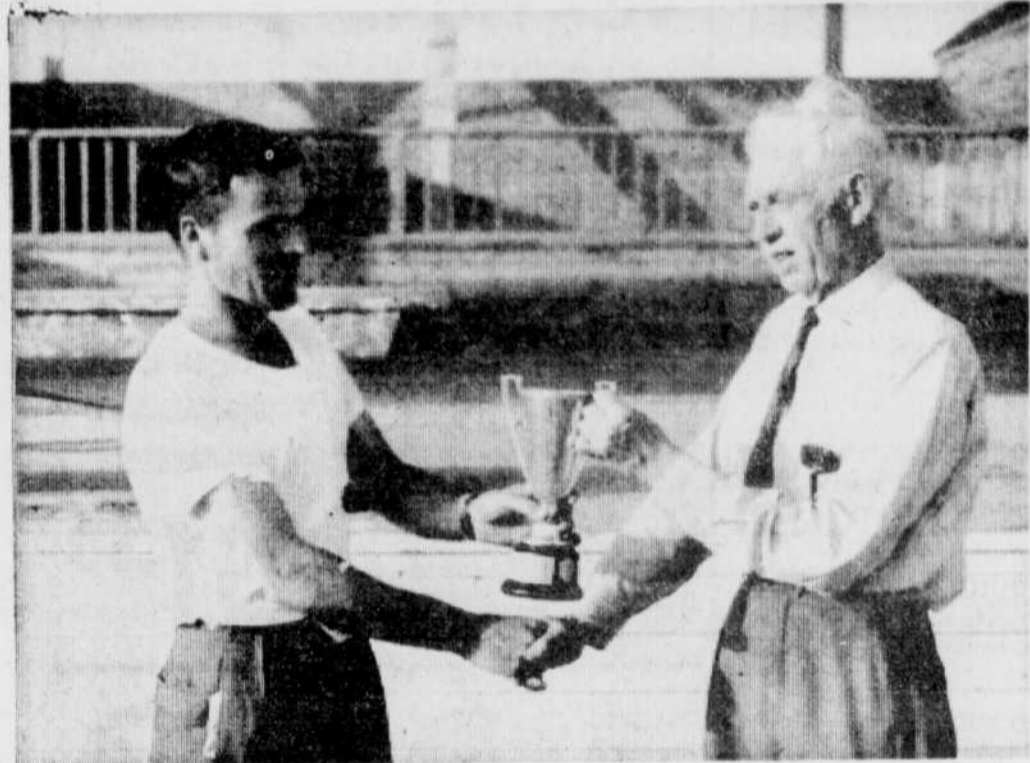

Kansas City manager Joe Gordon, sitting in the press box because general manager Frank Lane believes it to be a better vantage point than the dugout, telephoned instructions for a pinch hitter when the Angels loaded the bases on walks in the eighth inning, and Lou Klimchek came through with a tie-breaking single. Lefty Bud Daley (4-4) was the winner with reliever Ted Bowfield (0-1), a native of Ponticent, B.C., the loser as the Angels dropped their 11th in a row on the road.

Ray Washburn Hurls San Juan To 3-0 Shutout Over Richmond While Columbus Posts 4-1 Win Over Jersey

The San Juan Marlins, whose financial blessings seem to be almost non-existent so far in their first year in the International Baseball League, are picking up some dividends from what must be one of the richest players in the loop.

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal's failing hockey fortunes have prompted the Quebec Aces of the American Hockey League to offer Doug Harvey, winner of the Norris Trophy as most outstanding defenceman six of the eight years it was presented, said his decision was prompted mainly by family considerations. Floyd (Busher) Curry, 10-year veteran with the Canadiens and coach of Montreal Royals of the Eastern Professional Hockey League for the past three years, decided to move on. He has agreed to coach the Rangers.
