Bank robber Karl Kyling sentenced to four years

By JOHN McCAGHEY
(Record Staff Reporter)

SWEETSBURG WARD — (Staff) — Judge Gerard Normandin sentenced Karl Kyling, 26, Bedford, to four years in penitentiary yesterday for his participation in the robbery at the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce, Mansonville, May 20, 1965, and a like sentence for robbery at the CIBC, Sutton, September, 1964, to be served concurrently.

Kyling was also ordered to two years for conspiracy to commit a theft, two one-year sentences for possession of contraband, and six months for threatening the life of an accomplice. All sentences are to be served concurrently.

Claude Noiseux, Q.C., Bedford District Crown Prosecutor, told Judge Normandin that Kyling had cooperated fully with the police since his arrest in March 1966. Noiseux added that a great number of Eastern Townships bank robberies would still be unsolved, without Kyling's cooperation.

The crown added that Kyling, from reports had excellent chances for rehabilitation, not only from his conduct since his incarceration, but from the accuracy of his word.

Members of the Quebec Provincial Police armed robbery squad, 360 McGill Street, Montreal, revealed that six accomplices and fellow bank robbers, have pleaded guilty, and have been sentenced, as a result of Kyling's testimony or revelations. Kyling opened the door to 51 ET bank robberies.

Judge Normandin told Kyling that he was still a young man, and that he had taken his cooperation with the police into account, prior to agreeing with the crown's recommendations on sentence. He said that he hoped he had not made a mistake in the light sentence, and urged Kyling to take his place as a peace loving member of society, on his release.

Kyling, during a court recess, indicated that he was penitent, willing to serve his time and then re-establish himself as a mechanic. This was corroborated by a member of the QPP armed robbery squad, who mentioned his study periods, plus the calibre of the reading material perused during his trips to court.

Strike site set

MONTREAL — (CP) — The St. Maurice district northeast of Montreal was named by a union spokesman Tuesday night as strike area for today for technical and office employees of Hydro-Quebec.

The Hydro workers began what they call a "rotating" or staggered - area strike Monday when 3,000 workers in the Montreal area walked off their jobs for 24 hours to back up wage demands.

Under pressure

BRUSSELS (AP) — Working under pressure of a Sunday deadline, cabinet ministers of the European Common Market assembled in Brussels today to discuss unresolved issues in the Kennedy Round tariff negotiations with the United States.

The tariff talks in Geneva recessed until Friday after William Roth, President Johnson's special representative, and Jean Rey of Belgium, the chief Common Market negotiator, failed to agree on a system for lowering U.S. tariffs on chemicals and on a worldwide grain agreement.

Greek charged

ATHENS — (AP) — Andreas Papandreou was charged today wth conspiring to commit high treason in the alleged Aspida plot to overthrow the Greek monarchy and make Greece a neutral, socialist state.

The charge was filed by the Athens investigating magistrate, Socrates Socratidis, after he questioned the 47-year-old son of former premier Gorge Papandreou at the hotel outside Athens where he had been confined since the military coup April 21. The maximum penalty for treason is death.

Protesting army doctor faces US court martial

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — An army doctor faced a court martial today for refusing to obey orders to train U.S. Special Forces for Vietnam duty.

Capt. Howard Levy, 30, of Brooklyn, N.Y., went before the military tribunal at nearby Ft. Jackson today after several efforts to get the trial transferred to a civilian court failed. The proceeding is expected to last a week.

The five charges against the specialist in dermatology include refusal to obey an order that he train Vietnam-bound Special Forces medics in the treatment of skin diseases.

A motion that precedent be shattered and the case be transferred to civilian courts was refused by the U.S. Court of Appeals in Washington Tuesday.

Anthony Amsterdam, lawyer for the American Civil Liberties Union, argued for the transfer and said a soldier's right of free speech overrides the military right to silence him unless national security is directly involved.

He asked that the appeals court overrule a district court that refused last week to take the case from the military tribunal.

Story denied

OTTAWA (CP) — The government stiffly denied Tuesday a journalist's claim that Canadians on the International Control Commission in Vietnam spy for the U. S.

In a three-sentence statement on the report by Gerald Clark, associate editor of the Montreal Star, External Affairs Minister Martin said Canadians "are not engaged in any clandestine or spying activities."

Levy also faces charges in connection with statements that he would refuse to serve in Vietnam if ordered to do so and his alleged references to Special Forces soldiers as "liars, thieves and killers."

Levy also is charged with "conduct unbecoming an officer and gentleman."

If convicted, Levy could be imprisoned for 11 years.

Levy has not been in custody except for the few days after the charges were first announced last December.

Irwin Goldbloom, arguing for the U.S. justice department, said the Levy case involved military discipline, not freedom of speech.

"Levy is asking unprecedented release, a release which no court ever has granted," Goldbloom said.

Belgium offers pavilion

MONTREAL (CP) — Belgium today became the third country to offer its pavilion to the city of Montreal after Expo 67 closes next Oct. 27.

Prince Albert, who represented his country Tuesday at its national day at Expo, made the offer at a press conference following the ceremony.

There was no immediate word of acceptance from Mayor Jean Drapeau but at the opening ceremonies of Expo April 27 he said he hoped it would be possible to preserve the "great structures and units" after the fair's end.

Previously, Ethiopia and the Indian Ocean island of Mauritius had offered their pavilions to the city.

The $3,000,000 Belgian pavilion is a three-storey structure of light-brown brick with large gold - tinted glass panels that make it largely transparent.

The theme of its exhibits, which include priceless masterpieces of art, is "Humani nihil alienum a Belga" (No human quality is foreign to the Belgians).

VISIT BELGIAN SHIP

Meanwhile, Prince Albert continued his visit to Expo with a planned reception aboard the Belgian naval training ship Kamina which docked Sunday.

The national day Tuesday was a personal triumph for Princess Paola who accompanied her husband, Prince Albert, to the ceremony. Photographers jostled each other fiercely to get good positions for photographing the lovely princess but she showed no irritation.

Later today, the royal couple leave for Quebec where they will take off for a five-day air tour of Northern Quebec, including Fort Chimo, Wakeham and Poste a la Baleine.

A drizzle and 40 - degree weather neither spoiled Tuesday's ceremonies nor kept the crowds away.

Attendance for the day was 135,934 compared with an expected 97,140. Total attendance at the fair to date is 3,277,677.

Flags fly at Expo

MONTREAL (CP)—The most flag-flapping place in Canada right now is Expo 67 with thousands of banners rippling from uncounted flag-poles across the 1,000-acre site.

Biggest flag-flyer is the Expo corporation itself whose protocol department must see to the maintenance of more than 800 flags and be ready to come up with unusual flags for the fair's special and national days.

"We are going crazy just trying to keep up with them," Paul Leblanc, protocol assistant, said Tuesday.

Next in the flag department is the United Nations pavilion which flies the banners of 122 member nations plus the Expo and Quebec flags.

The UN pavilion expects to change its nylon flags, measuring five feet by four, every six weeks. The wear and tear on the flags is heavy because they are unfurled 24 hours a day in all weather.

Mr. Leblanc said Expo is putting a man on the job next week with the sole responsibility of replacing flags that are worn or dirty.

In addition to the six-by-three flags of the 62 nations participating with Canada in the fair, flown at the main entrances at Place d'Accueil and on St. Helen's Island, Expo has scattered about the site 30 flags of Canada, 50 of Expo, 30 of Quebec, 150 of Montreal and 30 centennial banners.

Then there are the big six-by-12 flags of participating nations flown from staffs at Place des Nations where Expo holds its national days honoring participating countries and paying homage to various organizations such as the Red Cross or the St. John Ambulance Association.

Some flags, heavy with labor costs, may cost up to $200 apiece.

The flag that keeps Mr. Leblanc and his crew busiest, however, is Canada's own.

"It is light-colored and it gets dirty and it has to be replaced most often because it fades," he said. Mr. Leblanc said Expo soon expects to remedy this by using a Canadian flag with non-fading dye in the red maple leaf.

Prices and taxes up

Consumer price index jumps a point

OTTAWA (CP) — The consumer price index rose more than a full point to 147.8 in April from 146.5 in March, with a wide range of price increases topped by higher sales taxes in Quebec and Newfoundland, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported today.

Higher prices prevailed for butter, eggs, carrots, tomatoes, celery, lettuce, canned and frozen vegetables, canned fruits, beef roasts and weiners. There were lower prices, however, for coffee, tea, lard, shortening, citrus fruits, bananas, fruit juices, round steak, most cuts of pork, lamb, veal and poultry.

CLOTHING UP

Price increases were scattered through the rest of the survey. Most men's, women's, and children's clothing prices were up, as were footwear and cloth piece goods.

Both the cost of new automobiles and the cost of automobile operation were higher. Transportation fares in Toronto rose, along with a seasonal increase in rail fares across the country.

While contributing only a small amount to the over-all index, the cost of health and personal care jumped to 190.0 from 185.2 in the month, largely because of higher fees for medical, dental and optical services.

There were minor increases in the prices of sporting equipment, bicycles, toys and newspapers. But the prices of radios and television sets were down. Higher cigarette prices prevailed in some cities.

On a percentage basis, the consumer price index at the beginning of April was nearly one per cent higher than at the beginning of March. It was more than three per cent higher than in April last year.

STEADY RISE

The over-all consumer price index has risen each month since September, 1965, when it was 139.1. Its last dips were in August and September that year when it moved down four-tenths of a point.

The food index, however, reached a peak 148.1 last August and then declined to 143.3 in March and moved back up to 144.0 in April this year.

$75,000 fire hits Sherbrooke silk mill

Fire, causing damages estimated at $75,000, broke out at Sheer Silk Hosiery Mills, 181 Belvidere Street North, last night about 5.30.

Although the fire was under control less than an hour after firemen got there, and only the roof was badly damaged, there is heavy loss to the stock and machinery.

General Manager Jean Paul St. Jean said this morning that a skeleton staff was working at cleaning and mopping up the damages done by water and smoke.

A contractor is working to patch up a hole in the roof caused by the fire.

The fire broke out when most of the company were home or going home.

Mr. St. Jean said he saw the fire and one of the employees phoned the Sherbrooke Fire Department.

The fire whose cause is undetermined, broke out in the second storey of the two storey building. Damage is mostly to the stockings manufactured by the company and some boxes and material used in packaging.

Thieves rob clothing store

THETFORD MINES — (Staff) — J. A. Beliveau Ltd. clothing goods store on Notre Dame Street here was broken into and robbed of men's suits worth an estimated $30,000, last night.

The three thieves were seen in the act of stealing and took flight; two afoot, and one by car. Police have arrested one man in connection with the robbery.

About 75 men's suits were left strewn about, since the thieves were surprised in their misdeed.

Police are investigating.

Four die in accidents

ST. JEAN D'IBERVILLE — (Staff) — Four people died in and as a result of two separate accidents; one near here, the other near Magog.

The first of these accidents occurred about noon yesterday on highway 40 near St. Jean D'Iberville when a car hit the rear end of a truck.

Dead are Romeo Leboeuf, and his wife, both 59, of Sutton and their grandson, Daniel Therrien.

Mr. Leboeuf was killed instantly. His wife died at the Royal Victoria Hospital in Montreal. Daniel Therrien died at 4 a.m. at the Children's Merial Hospital in Montreal.

The second fatal accident occurred on the road leading to Plage Soutiere, a few miles from Magog.

The driver of the car, Real Dumas, 24, of 280 Sherbrooke Street, Magog, lost control of the car he was driving and went off the road.

His car, according to reports, skidded for 150 feet before it was finally stopped by a cement wall.

The accident occurred about 6.10 p.m. He was declared dead at 6.30 p.m. at La Providence Hospital in Magog by Dr. L. P. Pellerin.

Today is Dief's big day as he opens throne speech debate

OTTAWA (CP) — Parliament has but one item on its debating schedule today: John George Diefenbaker.

The Conservative leader was to launch formal debate on Monday's throne speech today, and he spent most of Tuesday in careful preparation for the opportunity.

Mr. Diefenbaker can expect to get the floor about 3:15 p.m. He is expected to use the remaining two hours and 45 minutes until the 6 p.m. adjournment.

The debate, which may last eight days, permits the Opposition leader full scope for attack on government policies, climaxed by a motion of non-confidence.

Prime Minister Pearson, who follows Mr. Diefenbaker, probably won't get a chance to speak until Thursday.

After him come leaders of the other opposition parties, who may also move non-confidence in the form of amendments to Mr. Diefenbaker's motion.

ANALYSED SPEECH

The Conservative leaders staff was at work analyzing copies of the throne speech even before Governor - General Michener finished reading it at the ceremony opening the second session of Canada's 27th Parliament. The throne speech is an outline of the government's legislative plans.

Mr. Diefenbaker has already delivered a biting critique by way of preliminary comment, promising he will have something to say today about a number of items left out of the speech.

In the Commons Tuesday, Newfoundlander Don Jamieson (L—Burin-Burego) stood without a note on his desk and eloquently moved the formal address in reply to the throne speech.

It was Mr. Jamieson's maiden speech in the Commons, delivered nine months after his victory in a Sept. 19, 1966 byelection, and the veteran broadcaster appeared to relish his opportunity.

He met his obligation to praise government policies, but he also called for reform in federal-provincial relations and warned that young Canadians demand a better set of values from their political representatives.

He made a plea to the federal and provincial governments to avoid constitutional hair-splitting in their common search for better cities, for freedom from the "stifling mediocrity" of urban Canada.

MUST ASSESS TV

The government's new broadcasting legislation must carefully assess the power of television for good and evil, Mr. Jamieson said.

The government should provice for comprehensive, objective research into what television is doing to society.

Expo '67
IT CAN BE DONE

Somebody said that it couldn't be done
But he with a chuckle replied
That maybe it couldn't but he would be one
Who wouldn't say so till he'd tried.
So he buckled right in, with the trace of a grin
On his face; if worried, he hid it.
He started to sing as he tackled the thing
That couldn't be done — and he did it.

Somebody scoffed, "Oh you'll never do that —
At least, no one ever has done it".
But he took off his coat and he took off his hat
And the first thing we knew he'd begun it;
With a lift of his chin and a bit of a grin
Without any doubting or quibbling,
He started to sing as he tackled the thing
That he thought should be done — and he did it.

There are thousands to tell you it cannot be done;
There are thousands to prophecy failure;
There are thousands to point out to you, one by one
The dangers that wait to assail you,
But this auspicious April day
Proves that a will can find a way,
For going far beyond duty's call
Mayor Drapeau is honored by us all.

WIN OR LOSE, FINESSE WORKS

All was not a bed of roses for the Mathe team in their winning of this year's Vanderbilt Cup.

In the final match Paul Levitt of New Orleans proceeded to make a fine four heart contract which his opposite number on the Mathe team failed to bring home.

Paul's play is worthy of study since he worked out a combination play that enabled him to take a trump finesse and not really care if it won or lost.

Plays of this type look mighty easy when you see them later on. At the table they are a different proposition.

Paul let the first spade trick go to East. East returned a spade whereupon Paul proceeded to cash the ace of clubs, ruff a club, ruff his last spade and lead a trump to his king.

Then he led a heart toward dummy and finessed the ten. When the finesse worked Paul's troubles were over. He did have to lose two diamonds eventually but he could afford to.

Let's see what would have happened if the finesse had lost. East would have had no satisfactory card to return. A spade lead would give Paul a ruff and discard. A club lead would allow him to make tricks with both the king and jack. A low diamond would allow Paul to play the eight and force West to play either the ace or jack while the ten of diamonds lead would give Paul a chance to play his queen and eventually finesse against West's jack.

Of course, Paul's play would have failed if East did hold the queen of hearts and West the ace, jack and ten of diamonds but the play made carried the best percentage available and it did succeed.

About Television

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — In its peep-show survey Monday night of the more sensational aspects of the rebellion against restraint, NBC may have struck a blow for old-fashioned morality, maybe even Puritanism.

The program, The Pursuit of Pleasure, made hedonism seem cheap, ugly and, most ironic, as full of conformity as a housing development.

There was a motorcycle mob —a dirty bunch — with its "broads and booze.' There were topless waitresses—filmed from the rear—serving self-conscious looking beer drinkers.

There were nude bathers—filmed from a long distance—on a California beach shown while the founder of Berkeley's League for Sexual Freedom argued in favor of complete freedom for everybody and everything.

Timothy Leary was there, defending LSD in a series of wisecracks. A publisher attacked his conviction on obscenity charges as the camera scurried over some of the art that got his magazine in trouble.

PERMS FOR MEN

There were shots of London's Carnaby Street odd balls, followed by a sort of "explanation" of British youth by Jonathan Miller who talked about "the breakdown of sexual distinctions." And there were pictures of men getting permanent waves and dye jobs.

At one point, Sander Vanocur, tour guide of the hour, asked some men considering the reasons for all this: "Are we not paying too much attention to sex —including this program?"

The answer, particularly in connection with the program, has to be yes. It captured only extremes and went to sources which already had received considerable publicity. The program seemed to be just a thin excuse to pull together a lot of material that television usually handles delicately.

Provincial meeting report given by president of Stanstead IODE

Chapter IODE met the afternoon of May 1, in the reception room at Stanstead College.

Plans were completed for a bus load of members and guests to travel to Expo on June 14 for the day. The bus will leave at 7:30 a.m. from Rock Island with a stop at Sunnyside School and in Stanstead at the bus terminus.

Miss Dorian Slessor was welcomed as a new member.

The president, Mrs. W. T. Greer, gave a report on the highlights of the Quebec Provincial annual meeting held recently in Montreal, which was attended by four members of this branch. Mrs. Ellen Wallbridge, Stanstead, a member of this Chapter, has been appointed a councillor and is also Provincial secretary for the Echoes Magazine. Mrs. Greer paid tribute to Mrs. Wallbridge on behalf of the Chapter members for it is an honor to have a Chapter member in Provincial or National office.

The knitted articles from Stanstead Chapter were included in the $36,000 shipments sent from the province to Korean, Eskimo and Indian children and wherever needed.

A report on the Centennial project of the Order in this province was noted by Mrs. Greer, a sum of $5,000 having been allotted to Quebec from the $50,000 subscribed by the primary Chapters in Canada. The money will be used for the training of English and French teachers to care for retarded children. There are, she said, three groups of retardation and many of these children with proper guidance and training, love and affection are able to live useful lives.

Mrs. Ivy Hatch was appointed as photographer for the Chapter in order that IODE activities may be recorded.

The June 5 meeting, the last of the season, will be held at the home of Mrs. J. C. Elder, Lake Shore Road, Beebe, with a supper.

In conclusion, the hostesses, Mrs. J. Anderson, Mrs. Hall and Mrs. McGregor served afternoon tea. Mrs. Leonard McGilton poured.

Sherbrooke Hussars to get colors from Queen in Ottawa ceremony

The Sherbrooke Hussars will receive their colors July 5 at Ottawa from the Queen.

Also being honored at the same ceremony will be the First and Second Battalions of the Canadian Guards, a permanent force unit; and three other Ontario militia regiments, the Ontario Regiment and 1st Hussars, both armored, like the Sherbrooke unit; and the Cameron Highlanders of Ottawa, an infantry regiment.

The Sherbrooke Hussars will send a 54-man color guard, plus officers and other personnel to Ottawa for the event. While at Ottawa, the regiment's special Centennial drill platoon will perform.

Scheduled arrival at Ottawa is June 29, where billeting will be at the Rockcliffe Airport during the five days at Ottawa.

Fire hazard lowered

Terrible weather forest boon

The rain, and in some cases snow, we have had in the last week have greatly aided in making the forests less vulnerable to fire.

A spokesman for the department of lands and forests in East Angus said yesterday that he had not heard of any more fires since the two minor ones May 1 and 2.

These two small forest fires — one in Paquetteville, the other near St. Cyr — charred strips of a mile and a half by a half mile before being stopped by volunteer firefighters.

The department of lands and forests has forest rangers throughout the Eastern Townships who keep a watch on the forest fire situation and have the equipment to fight them.

The spokesman there said that it was possible that the department hire a forest firefighting specialist within the next few weeks who would oversee the situation in the Eastern Townships.

Meanwhile periodic rain and careful watch are the only preventions while waiting for summer conditions, when greenery on the trees lessens the fire hazard.

Six requests were made, five for injunction and a writ of certiorari.

There were 536 seizures made during the year, of which 262 seizures were made after judgment; 227 seizures of goods; 12 seizures of lands and goods and six other briefs were executed.

Club depends on its members for true value, Rotary told

A Rotary Club is nothing but a group of individuals who have banded together to promote the ideal of service to others above self, Sherbrooke Rotarian Doug Stevenson told members of the Sherbrooke Rotary Club at their weekly meeting at the New Sherbrooke Hotel last night.

"We are not simply members of some organization we have happened to join," Mr. Stevenson said in his talk, My Rotary, which stressed the importance that Rotary places on the individual member. "Collectively, we are Rotary itself, and each one of us is an important and integral part in this vast Rotary complex."

Mr. Stevenson said that he sincerely believed that the vast majority of Rotary members joined the club out of a genuine desire to help others less fortunate than themselves. "Of all the thousands of projects that have been undertaken by Rotary clubs in the 134 countries where Rotary clubs now exist," he said, "every one of these projects was prompted by an initial desire to do something for someone else—something that would be helpful where help was needed."

Mr. Stevenson said that each Rotary member probably had an inward desire to help others before he was ever invited to join the club but, because of the pressures of his work and his limited capacities as an individual, he may have found himself powerless to translate this inward desire into something more tangible.

Rotary, he said, provides an answer to this dilemma by associating the individual with a group of men who would frequently be engaged in efforts to help others.

While Rotary appreciates the benefits that accrue to those it helps, the speaker said, the club also recognizes how these projects benefit the individual Rotarian in providing him with personal contact and experience in participating in these efforts to be helpful to others.

"We are all creatures of habit," Mr. Stevenson said, "and the more we are brought face to face with service to others, the more likelihood there is that it will become a habit with us, and will become almost automatic in our dealings with everyone.

He called the members' regular attendance at Rotary meetings and participation in the club's arranged activities only the training part of Rotary membership. "The results of this training," he said, "will be evident in how we apply what we have learned from Rotary to our home life, our community life and our business dealings with others."

It would be impossible to calculate Rotary's potential strength and influence, Mr. Stevenson said later, because Rotary has always insisted that its true strength lies in the extent in which each member has become a better citizen through his association with Rotary.

Only when each member thinks of Rotary as his Rotary and treats his membership as he would any other valuable possession will Rotary find the place it is intended to fill in his daily life, Mr. Stevenson said, "Rotary provides us with a usable pattern for a worthy way of life," he said; "but Rotary cannot do more than make this pattern available to us — we are the ones who have to accept it and use it."

Seated at the head table with Mr. Stevenson were: Rotary Vice-President Don Watson; Lee Watson, Bart Holtham, who introduced the speaker; Clarence Blake, who thanked him; Ernie Gilbey; Evans Jost; Forest Keene; and Paul Theobald.

Action, not promises, real issue

Probably the most cryptic and accurate comment by any of the political party leaders on the Throne Speech delivered at the opening of the second session of the 27th Parliament of Canada is that of Creditiste Chief Real Caouette who declared:

"It certainly isn't a Throne Speech for an election. The old routine is merely repeated time and time again. Apart from some plans for economic development it tells us nothing."

But in this respect the speech differs little from most of its predecessors which have been noted more for fantasy than substance.

For the most part they have been more vague expressions of the pious hopes of the government of the day than they have been of any clear statement of details of the cabinet plans.

The only difference is that because of an extended writing style, in which one word is never used when three will do, Monday's speech by Governor-General Roland Michener was about twice the length of those delivered at earlier sessions.

While a heavy legislative program is forecast, the average citizen will be more interested in finding out how the Government plans to go about implementing its proposals than in the actual proposals themselves.

Questions dominant in the minds of parliamentary observers are:

Does the Government intend to eliminate the poor planning of the past which has resulted in indifferently-drafted legislation, priority for wrong items and needless irritation of the opposition?

Do the Conservatives intend to end unduly protracted debate on some issues and say in a few hours what they have used days of debate to present in the past?

Can the parliamentarians agree on further revision of the House rules which will permit a speeding-up of House business while preserving reasonable examination of the various measures?

If these questions receive an affirmative answer, the people of Canada may expect much progressive legislation to result from the session now underway.

If there is a negative answer to any of these questions, parliamentarians are in for a long, hot summer and a cold, bleak winter.

Union registers a Pyrrhic victory

Organized labor has achieved another of its Pyrrhic victories in the New York City newspaper field.

After the typographers' union, Local No. 6, made a contract with the New York Daily News for increases totalling 21 per cent over a three-year contract, the leader of one of the other New York newspaper unions crowed:

"There has never been a settlement like this. It should stabilize things in the industry."

Another union's leader said:

"I hope the publishers recognize they have to offer us the same percentage formula."

The sequel is that the World Journal Tribune, representing 134 years of journalistic history, closed its doors May 5, because its losses had been running $700,000 a month and the promise of further "stability" on the basis of the union demands noted above was more than its backers could take.

Newspapers accentuate the positive

Newspapers sometimes are charged with shortcomings ranging from favoritism in photographic coverage to discrimination in municipal and magistrate court reporting.

One criticism frequently heard is that they are perpetrators of gloom, exploiting the sordid and the sadistic out of a desire to sell more papers.

Of course, the charges are untrue in most cases and grossly unfair to the industry as a whole.

Stung by repeated criticisms of this type, one newspaper in midwestern United States studied, measured and catalogued its own total news over a period of two weeks.

The result, it gleefully reported, was that something like 70 per cent of all news printed was of a positive nature, of human accomplishments and encouraging indications.

The much-maligned young by themselves fared every bit as well, and that did not even count the weekly youth supplement, which accentuated the positive completely.

The only real argument the average critic has is that sordid news sells papers, which is, in a way, a most encouraging fact.

It is encouraging because the unusual makes the real hard core news, the fat black headlines.

The mean, the base, the ignoble are, fortunately, unusual.

As long as crime, violence and all manner of negative deeds are uncommon enough to rate top page play, it means kindness, courage and positive accomplishments are what is really making the world go round.

When the latter become so rare that they make the big headlines, readers will have something to worry about.

Other papers say:

Churches must revaluate positions

Christian Science Monitor

A recent Gallup Poll asked, "At the present time, do you think religion as a whole is increasing its influence on American life, or losing its influence?" The same question asked four times in the past 10 years reveals that, steadily and significantly, public opinion sees a decline in religious influence.

Whereas 69 percent saw religious influence on the upgrade in 1957, today only 23 percent believe it is increasing. Correspondingly, in 1957, 14 percent thought religion was losing its influence, today 57 percent.

Tending to confirm the trend suggested by these statistics, church and synagogue attendance is down from 49 percent of adults in 1958 to 44 percent in 1966. While the over-all drop was 5 percent, there was a decline of 11 percent among young adults.

The churches can hardly afford to ignore these statistics. But the figures don't quite speak for themselves. Some interpretation is called for.

There are many signs that Americans, including the younger generation, retain considerable interest in religion. There are indications that many are waiting in the wings, watching to see whether the churches will find more meaningful ways to speak to the individual's immediate and ultimate concerns. Many are observing the ferment going on in the churches, the soul-searching reexaminations and reappraisals, and the growing determination that conscience find expression in action.

To the degree that religion has tended to become remote, rigid, sterile, withdrawn or hypocritical, it has lost its appeal to humanity. The young, especially, are searching for thoughtful explanations, for contemporary relevance, for practical social concern. Only as religion is found to be applicable to their present experience, only as it meets their need for a practical, deeper, more inclusive sense of love will they voluntarily embrace it.

It will have to provide frank, thoughtful, convincing explanations. And it will have to open ways for them to help alleviate the suffering of the world's peoples. At this straw-in-the-wind stage, it is too early to know whether certain present hopeful signs mean that organized religion will renew its appeal — whether religious reform will be sufficiently revolutionary to lead to genuine renaissance. But it is by no means impossible that the present statistical trend can be reversed.

PATSY FOUND OUT

BRESCIA (AP) — "I don't even own a car and I never have," Ugo Doria, a retired office clerk, told Italian police. He had been served traffic tickets for five different cars registered in his name. It turned out car thieves were apparently using his name to smuggle vehicles into Italy.

The Late Returns Are Finally In

Mao is everywhere

China's modern trains afford a view of an ancient landscape

By ANTHONY GREY

PEKING (Reuters) — Travelling through China today in a train with all modern comforts affords a view of a landscape little changed for centuries.

Peasants in wide-brimmed straw hats can be seen staggering along with baskets of earth slung from wooden yokes, or tilling the land with ancient one - furrow wooden plows.

The few Westerners who make the 1,500-mile journey from Hong Kong to Peking pass through the well-watered south with its rice - growing area green and sometimes lush, and the dry, dust-ridden —and this year drought-ridden — north where the wheat fields are hard and gritty.

Many of China's 500,000,000 peasants can be seen busily at work in the constant battle to feed a people who represent one-quarter of the world's population.

Young people and old wear baggy blue or khaki trousers and jackets, and many have white gauze face-masks over mouth and nose — a health precaution encouraged by the authorities.

Uniformed soldiers of the People's Liberation Army are in evidence everywhere on stations and on the train itself.

The only music or broadcast to be heard comes from relay speakers in every compartment.

MAO IS EVERYWHERE

It is an unending mixture of quotations from the writings of Communist party Chairman Mao Tse-tung and revolutionary songs.

A picture of Mao looks down from either end of the long carriage and a colored portrait is mounted before the front funnel of the steam locomotive. Every engine of China's railways displays a picture of Mao.

The martial strains of China's most popular song, When Sailing the Seas Rely on the Helmsman, boom from the station loudspeakers as the 12-coach train slides out of Canton at the start of the 38-hour trip to Peking.

The helmsman, of course, is Mao.

The carriages are painted green outside with yellow stripes and permanent slogans.

Sleepers are panelled with light veneered wood. Lace curtains hang at the window of each sleeper and a small table under it is covered with a white embroidered table cloth. A glass-stemmed table lamp with a scarlet shade casts a rosy glow in the evening.

A knob under the table allows the relay loudspeaker in the compartment to be turned down but not off, but one in the corridor outside keeps up the constant flow in Chinese except during the accepted sleeping hours.

SERVED TEA

As the train begins moving, an attendant brings in a huge colored thermos flask filled with boiling water, a porcelain mug with a lid and several small bags of tea to allow passengers to make tea for themselves.

The dining-car is clean and comfortable with a potted plant on every table. Good Chinese and European food can be chosen from a menu in English and Chinese.

At meal-times, there are always six to a dozen soldiers wearing revolvers eating in the dining-car or just sitting there reading to each other from their red booklets of Mao's quotations. The rest of the time, they patrol the train.

At stations and along the route, all buildings are covered with slogans praising Mao and his thought. Full-length colored portraits of him look down on every platform and frequently there are huge billboards depicting African, Asian and Latin American revolutionaries marching, eyes ablaze with bayonets fixed in rifles.

Many passengers carry their belongings in string bags dangling from the same bamboo yokes used in the fields.

Travellers on the train get down at most stations to stretch their legs, buy newspapers or a snack of dried chicken on sale from platform trolleys. After a comfortable night's sleep in the smoothly-moving train, passengers awake to a view of China as it must have looked hundreds of years ago.

Terraced rice fields cover the plain in which the track is laid. Bare grey mountains rise on either side of them. Ancient but effective irrigation systems nourish the shoots. Barefoot peasants plow, plant and carry earth for new dikes.

A woman washes clothes in a hollow where rain has gathered, two men pull a single-furrowed plow with ropes over their shoulders, where apparently no beast of burden is available; and a squad of 30 people hack at a small rice field with hand tools squatting on their haunches as they turn the soil.

As the train moves north, the terrain becomes flatter.

Crossing the mighty mile-wide Yangtse River at Wuhan provides the contrast of one of China's largest industrial complexes.

Hundreds of chimneys belch smoke and thousands of workers wearing almost uniform blue denim trousers and tunics swarm through the streets to and from the factories.

Shanty - type dwellings are packed on either side of the railway, emphasizing the sudden concentration of population.

The second dawn comes as the train speeds on, revealing troops helping in the dry northern wheatfields.

The dry dusty picture continues until the train pulls into Peking's modern station — right on time, after a 38-hour journey.

Deer, national pest

Deer farming advocated in NZ

AUCKLAND (CP) — Deer farming on a huge scale is being energetically advocated in New Zealand. The government has not yet given the green light but is discussing the idea with the sponsors.

Deer in the natural state have flourished so much since their introduction to New Zealand last century that they have become a national pest. They eat away undergrowth and young trees, causing erosion and flooding.

To keep them under control, the government encourages hunters to shoot any number of deer at any season and hires professional shooters to work through the forests killing as many deer as possible.

Most deer killed are in wild remote country far from transport. A thriving export trade in venison began a few years ago using the comparatively small numbers of carcasses which could readily be brought to abattoirs.

The demand has been so great that exports have soared. Today, fleets of helicopters are being used to lift carcasses killed in remote forest areas and bring them rapidly to treatment plants. Up to 1,000 deer carcasses a day are being brought from forests in the South Island alone by helicopter.

The export trade in venison, skins and by-products now is worth about $4,500,000 a year. In order of quantity, the main buyers are Germany, The Netherlands, Sweden, Australia and Switzerland.

The promoters of deer farming believe that exports could soon be lifted to $20,000,000 a year or more by the establishment of scientifically operated deer herds.

The scheme would involve fencing great areas of forest with deer-proof fences. Certain areas of private forest have been specifically earmarked as suitable, and there are reports that some commercial interests are keen to gain permission to use the huge state forests for the purpose.

Present government policy, however, is for eradication of deer as a noxious animal and major policy changes would be needed even to permit farming of deer in strictly controlled conditions in limited areas.

Movies about everything

Everyone in NY is making movies

By WARD CANNEL

NEW YORK — (NEA) — We got caught in a sudden downpour the other afternoon and ducked into the lobby of a handy office building where we nearly knocked over a sad-eyed fellow who was waiting for the elevator.

"Pretty wet out there," we mumbled apologetically.

"Yes," he said. "Are you a movie producer?"

"Certainly," we lied.

Over the past year or two, we have found it is much easier to get along in the present New York civilization by answering that question in that manner.

"I knew it," the fellow said. "So am I."

According to our observation of this island republic, there are at least seven million men, women and large children currently making movies in town or planning to begin production right away.

And if you tell people here that you are not a movie producer and, in fact, have no interest in making a movie, they simply will not believe you.

"Say listen," the fellow said as the elevator arrived, "I just finished a movie. You gotta see it."

"Of course," we said, noting that the rain was still coming down quite heavily, and followed him into the elevator.

And after all, why not?

In this city nowadays you cannot cross a street or walk out of the library without finding yourself part of a crowd shot in one nameless film or another.

In any municipal park on a warm day you are sure to stumble over some sort of Jane Fonda person waiting for the next take. Comes the first snowy day, and the avenues are alive with little film crews making miles and miles of footage—for heaven only knows what movies.

Each morning the streets are jammed with messengers hurrying about with cans of film.

In the afternoons, people are always out at screenings or looking at rushes.

There is usually one party a week given by a group trying to raise money enough to finance a scenario.

Even the dustman who works the garbage pails on our street before dawn has been signed up to push his cart through four movies this year.

But what they were, he does not know. Nor does anybody in the city really know what happens to all the film being planned, shot, reshot and edited.

A few are big-time, big-name films. A few more are television documentaries and commercials. Some are underground cinema. But as for the vast remainder . . .

"Right this way," the fellow said, leading us out of the elevator and down the corridor to his office.

It was one of the smallest offices we have ever seen, and was gaily festooned with film strips, cans, reels, splicers, viewers, and all the other leased holdings by which a man can make himself a movie producer nowadays.

There are doubtless thousands of tiny offices like this in the city, and hundreds of office corridors where you can hear the chirp and gabble of sound track being advanced and reversed for editing.

What these offices were used for before New York civilization was made of celluloid, we do not know. Nor do we know what people used to talk about at lunch, or do in front of the library or carry from building to building or accomplish on snowy days.

All we can say for sure is that there is available for immediate distribution a 30-minute film about a dance called the Monkey which was quite popular a few years ago.

By our calculation, this film cost this fellow about $15,000 and two years to make. And while there is no plot to speak of, it does have lots of action—a number of youngsters dancing the Monkey, a Monkey, and, as we recall, also a few sequences of a monkey dancing the Monkey.

"Well," he said when the movie was over, "what do you think?"

Well, it was hard to say what we thought. And it still is. However, we have this fellow's name, and phone number, which we promised to pass along to anybody who wants to see his film.

For our part, we can think of better vocations. Such as collecting 1928 calendars. After all, if 1928 ever comes back, at least you'll have all those calendars.

Man serving seven year term receives concurrent sentence

SWEETSBURG WARD (Staff) —David Quigley, now serving seven years for a series of armed robberies with the Miller-Kyling-Boomhower gang, opted for a speedy trial, instead of a preliminary hearing, on charges of having been an accomplice in the bank robbery at the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce, May 20, 1965.

Quigley's role in the event was having picked up Karl Boomhower, Werner and Karl Kyling following the robbery on a road in the Seigneurie of St. Armand East the evening of the robbery.

Crown prosecutor Claude Noiseux asked for a four year sentence, to be served concurrently, for Quigley's role in the robbery. Judge Normandin was quick to accede to the crown's request.

Leslie Crandall, released on two weeks parole, May 2, is back behind bars for another two years. Crandall had been released to find employment at the recommendation of Crown Prosecutor Claude Noiseux, and the benevolence of Judge Gerard Normandin. Crandall, released from penitentiary April 14, stole a truck April 15, and was arraigned on charges of auto theft and impaired driving on April 18. Through a switch in judges, he faced Judge Normandin on May 2, who took the crown's representations that "Crandall isn't a bad guy, he just hates walking after he's had a drink," into consideration.

Crandall was arrested on May 6 for auto theft and impaired driving. There was one month sentence, for the impaired charges.

Judge Gerard Normandin handed four Granby men, all 19 and 20, suspended sentences for their breaking and entering the Granby Apprenticeship centre in April. The youths took $55.00 worth of cigarettes and five dollars in cash.

The quartet: Gilles Lalumiere, Jean-Guy Roy, Andre Lamontagne and Reynald Deblois were ordered to post personal bonds of $500 to keep the peace for the next two years or face what Judge Normandin termed, "the heavy hand of the law." All were first offenders.

Clement Deshaies, Cowansville, pleaded guilty to charges of impaired driving and hit and run, May 8. Deshaies received the minimum $50 fine and costs, or 30 days, plus loss of his driver's permit for three months on the impaired charge, and was fined $50 for the hit and run. He was granted two weeks to pay.

Clement Gauthier and Pierre Fontaine, Farnham, pleaded guilty to charges of having disturbed the peace on April 29. They were fined $20 and costs, or eight days in jail.

Luc Domey, Farnham, pleaded guilty to having assaulted a Farnham waitress on May 3. He told the judge that the whole period was an alcoholic blurr and that to the best of his knowledge no damage had been done. He was given 15 days to pay a $15 fine, or spend as many days in cells.

* * *

Gaston Morin, Bedford, pleaded guilty to possession of an unregistered firearm. He was fined $10 and costs, or eight days in jail. The weapon was confiscated.

* * *

Philip Miller, Bedford, who was to have faced charges of armed robbery at the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce, Sutton, September 1964, yesterday, will be before the bench on May 16. The delay is due to an administrative error.

New dump hours set by council may not be convenient for town

By STEPHEN MORSON
(Record Correspondent)

KNOWLTON — (Special) — The Knowlton Village Council has taken steps that promise stricter control for the disposal of garbage within the limits of the village and the elimination of the present haphazard control of the local dump.

The first step taken by the Council is the employment of an attendant to supervise this disposal in the interests of public health.

The council has set hours at which the residents who remove their own refuse may use the local dump and at all other times the gate, now installed at the Village Dump will be locked. The hours allotted are not very convenient, though necessary and previously studied.

The open hours are as follows, Monday 8 a.m. to noon; Wednesday 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.; Saturday 8 a.m. to noon. Though these hours may be well thought out ahead of time, it must be said that they are not the most convenient hours, either for weekenders, or those who are employed during the usual working daytime hours. No longer can citizens go to the dump at night, after supper, or any time during the evening, as he will find his way barred and locked.

A partial answer to this thorny problem is to at least allow the free and uninterrupted use of the dump facilities one or two evenings a week, and also Saturday afternoons for the use of many weekenders who clean up in the morning and then journey to the dump. While it is a complete necessity for strict control of this garbage disposal problem, Mr. Knowlton Citizen has not been consulted at all, he is simply told that the hours of the dump facilities are so and so, and that is that.

Consider the hours imposed, Monday 8 a.m. to noon, everyone, except the retired and out of work are already at their place of employment; Wednesday, 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. does allow Mr. Citizen to go to the dump during this dinner hour. On Saturday, 8 a.m. to noon, many work Saturday mornings, Saturday afternoons and Sundays are out. While the Village Council is to be commended upon their action in the control of garbage in the interests of health, it seems they have not given too much consideration to the time element involved for those who dispose of their own garbage and do not feel financially able to pay a contractor to dispose of it for them. Until the taxpayer has been offered the service of free garbage removal, the open spurs of the dump should be very seriously considered.

Knowlton takes steps to end grass fires

KNOWLTON — (Special) — Knowlton is following Sutton's suit in cracking down on the annual danger of grass fires. The council has recently enforced a ruling which orders that grass burners pay the price of extinguishing any blaze they may start.

At least four major grass fires hit the town this year and one of them caused the destruction of a barn and all its contents.

The council hopes that the new ruling will serve as a deterrent for match happy grass burners.

The grass-fire problem, which arises every spring, seems to derive its greatest danger from hay left uncut from the previous season.

Once a source of revenue for the small property owner with a lot devoted to hay, there is no market any more for this hay and it remains uncut.

Two fires hit Sutton Township

SUTTON — (Special) — Although a new bylaw here calculated to minimize danger of grass fires in the town itself is paying off, the regulation fails to cover the township areas, so many fires are still set there and some get out of control. Then, the siren shrills to call Fire Chief Sheldon Davis' ever ready brigade into fast action.

There were two calls this past weekend. The first occurred on Saturday afternoon. Not a grass fire, it somehow caught inside an old shack near the Larose sawmill. The building contained only some old automobile tires and a few other stored articles of small value. Well ablaze before the alarm sounded, the shack burned down. No other buildings were damaged.

The second fire, grass this time, outside town, started on Sunday afternoon — and the brigade extinguished that.

Organizing car pool

COWANSVILLE — (Special) — A car pool is being organized for those wishing to attend the annual meeting of the Quebec Federation of Protestant Home and School Associations being held May 12 and 13 at Sir George Williams University, Montreal.

Anyone requiring transportation or willing to provide a pool car is asked to contact Warren Brown, Charles Brown, Maurice Hauser or any member of the local H. and S. executive.

MANSONVILLE —

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Dixon, Pocatello, Idaho, have been visitors of Mrs. Dixon's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Tinker. Mr. and Mrs. Tinker accompanied their guests to Frelighsburg, where they called on Mr. and Mrs. Lee E. Tinker. Other recent visitors at the C. R. Tinker home were Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Kemp, Bedford; Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Sweet, Mr. Vernon Redmile and Miss Valerie Ethier, all of Cowansville. Mr. and Mrs. Lee E. Tinker, of Frelighsburg, spent the weekend at the same home.

Mr. and Mrs. Ross McNeil and family were visitors recently of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Wilson, Iron Hill. They also called on Mr. and Mrs. Gesner Blenkhorn at Foster, and Mr. and Mrs. Keith Wilson in Knowlton.

Peterborough doctor reveals OMA preparing strike plan

TORONTO (CP)—Dr. R. M. Matthews, outgoing president of the Ontario Medical Association, said Tuesday the association is preparing a strike plan although no immediate strike action is contemplated.

"We just feel we have to have plans for any contingency," the Peterborough doctor told a news conference following a council session of the OMA annual meeting.

Dr. Matthews said the OMA council had asked its plan-of-action committee to prepare a draft for presentation at the next council meeting on "ways and means of organizing the curtailment or withdrawal of services."

He said the strike plan might be used in the event the federal government attempted to freeze doctors' fees, but only after all other forms of resistance had been tried.

WATERVILLE — The U.C.W. met in the hall on May 3. The devotional, conducted by Mrs. E. Swanson, was on Prayer.

Mrs. J. Brooks, program convener, gave a resume of the final section of The Church Grows in Canada. Mr. Brooks screened the filmstrip. Mrs. E. Parkinson, supply convener, read an informative article on Bare Shelves to Fill, telling how the shelves of the Toronto clothing depot were almost bare and asking the U.C.W. to donate good articles to be delivered to the hall before May 24.

Mrs. E. S. Sticklen, Conference Supply secretary, stressed the need for children's clothing and blankets. All shipments are at the direction of the Department of Inter-Church Aid of the World Council of churches.

New Brunswick topic on U.C.W. at Vale Perkins

VALE PERKINS — The U.C.W. held its May 2 meeting at the Church Hall. Mrs. Krausser, president, conducted the devotional period.

Mrs. George Jewett, led the New Brunswick tour, aided by the group. The political situation in New Brunswick, it was felt, was an interesting one. Two strong, colorful, men in opposing parties should make for good government and it will be interesting to watch the revolution in New Brunswick.

Mrs. J. King, Fredericton, and long time resident in New Brunswick, had forwarded much material and postcards, along with personal notes, which made the program most interesting. Mrs. King is Mrs. Jewett's aunt.

The U.C..W group will concentrate on the Province of Quebec in the month of May.

Eleven dollars and eighty cents was realized from the plant and slip sale.

Hostesses at the meeting were Mrs. William Milroy and Mrs. Roland Ethier.

Mrs. Alec McMurray, recently returned from Florida, showed the group several snapshots of the interior and exterior of their new mobile home in Daytona Beach.

Young people of area discuss part in church

COOKSHIRE — A group of young people from Lennoxville, Cookshire, Bulwer, Birchton, East Angus and Bury met at Trinity United Church on April 29 to discuss their part in the Christian Church of today, and to enjoy an evening of games, dancing and square dancing.

The afternoon program consisted of a thought - provoking film, followed by discussion and a panel shared by Dr. Curtis Lowry, Sawyerville, Mrs. W. Coates, East Angus, and Mrs. Gerald Lowd, Bulwer, leader of the local group of young people. The discussion was lively and well informed. The response and helpfulness of the panel members was appreciated. Subject matter had been suggested by the young people, who carried out the planning for the event.

Music for both worship and dancing was provided by players from the groups involved.

This get-together was the second of a series. Members hope to continue the same sort of thing from time to time with different churches acting as the host to the group. A number of different denominations took part.

Grand Chapter OES officers visit Owl's Head

MANSONVILLE — A meeting of the Owl's Head Chapter No. 35, O.E.S., was held April 29 in the Masonic Hall, Mrs. Margaret Irvine, Worthy Grand Matron of Quebec, and Walter Keddy, Worthy Grand Patron of Quebec, were present.

Grand Chapter Officer present included: Mrs. Amy Millington, A.G.M.; Mrs. Willow Lavery, Grand Trustee; Miss Hazel Alexander, G.M.; Mrs. May Durrell, Grand Martha; Miss Ann Denison, Grand Electa.

Owl's Head Chapter was observing its twentieth birthday.

Students' sale realizes $175 for Expo fund

MANSONVILLE — A rummage sale was held at the Intermediate School on April 29.

Students of M.I.S. began collecting rummage on April 15 and by the 29th they had accumulated numerous boxes of old clothes, shoes, hats, books, dishes, and many other articles.

Then Grades 8 and 9 started sorting the goods. Two racks, donated by Peter Aiken, were soon filled with dresses and coats. Clothes of all colors and sizes were neatly arranged on the eleven tables, which occupied the gym. The highlight of the sale was the selling of a victrola, comfortable chair and a hot plate.

Delicious food was sold by Mrs. Mossa in the smaller gym.

At the end of the day the grand total of $175 had been reached. The proceeds will go toward the trip to Expo 67, which Grades 3 to 9 will have the privilege of taking this year.

Drummondville wins Allan Cup

Dump Spurs to sweep series in 4 straight games

Claude Cyr registers his second shutout of series with standout 4-0 job, Andre Lagueux pots two

By LEN O'DONNELL
(Record Sports Editor)

DRUMMONDVILLE — Drummonville Eagles swept through the Calgary Spurs in four straight games to emerge Canada senior hockey champions and walk off with the Allan Cup, emblematic of the championship.

Calgary Spurs, Western senior champions, were no match for the high-flying Eagles, who held the upper hand in all four games. The Spurs were outplayed in all departments and last evening after the first ten minutes of play the Eagles flew around while the Spurs seemed to run out of gas trying to keep up with them.

Claude Cyr, who has been a standout in the nets for the Eagles, came up with another sizzling performance. Time after time he robbed the Spurs of sure goals, especially when the Western champs had the man advantage. Cyr has been a big factor in the Eagles' run for the title and the Allan Cup.

Michel Lapalme opened the scoring for the Eagles in the first period just after the fifteen-minute mark and from then on it was the host club who dominated the play. Andre Lagueux added one more a few minutes later while Ronnie Roberts potted the lone tally in the middle session and Andre Lagueux got his second tally of the evening to complete the scoring.

FIRST GOAL — Michel Lapalme (12) of Drummondville Eagles raises his stick in triumph after scoring the first goal of the final game of the Allan Cup final series in Drummondville. Calgary Spurs goalkeeper Dave Butts (3) looks at the puck in the net behind him while teammates look on. Drummondville beat Calgary 4-0 to take the Allan Cup in four straight games. (CP Wirephoto)

PREDICTS SWEEP

Before the best - of - seven Canadian senior hockey final even started, Drummondville general manager Roland Bolduc predicted his Eagles would drub the visiting Calgary Spurs in four straight games.

So it was to be expected following Tuesday night's game 4-0 Eagle victory that Bolduc donned that "I - told - you - so" mantle. Drummondville did dump the Spurs in four straight to win their first Allan Cup.

The Eagles, playoff champions of the Provincial Senior Hockey League, outplayed the Spurs in every game in the series and the Western club had little chance to organize against Drummondville's genacious checking and skating.

"We were beaten by a better club and they deserved to win it," general manager Ron Butlin of the Spurs said after the game.

FADE EARLY

The Spurs seemed to run out of steam after the first 15 minutes and, the Eagles came on with two goals late in the first period.

Andre Lagueux sparked the Eagles with two goals and Michel Lapalme and Ron Roberts added one each.

Claude Cyr turned in another sparkling performance for the Eagles, stopping 39 shots to register the shutout, his second of the series. He also blanked the Spurs 4-0 in the opening game last Wednesday.

The Eagles directed 45 shots at Calgary goalie Dave Butts.

Cyr, who has signed for a try-out with Philadelphia Flyers, one of six new clubs that will join the expanded National Hockey League next season, was mobbed by team-mates as the final buzzer sounded.

Drummondville's victory marked the 37th time in 59 years that the Eastern representatives in the final have won the award.

SMOKIES WERE LAST

The last time a Western team invaded the east and won the cup was in 1938 when Trail Smoke Eaters defeated Kirkland Lake, Ont., at Kirkland Lake.

The game was delayed five minutes at the half-way mark of the second period when Calgary's Jack Wilson lost his contact lenses and an attempt was made to find them.

Lapalme gave the Eagles a 1-0 lead at 15:58 of the first period when he scored on a deflection and Lagueux made it 2-0 less than three minutes later when he slid a 15-foot backhander under Butts.

Roberts increased Drummondville's lead to 3-0 at the one - minute mark of the second period when he and Lapalme combined on a two-way passing play. Lagueux closed out the scoring at the two - minute mark of the third period when he drove a low 20-foot wrist shot past Butts.

The Spurs were expected to leave for Calgary today.

AROUND THE RINK . . .

Lionel Fleury of the CAHA and Henry Crochetiere, president of the QAHA, who was in charge of the series, certainly got more than a warm welcome at centre ice when they made the presentation of the Allan Cup . . . THE ALLAN CUP has been in Drummondville since last Sunday but Henry had no key so early last evening he secured a hack-saw and went to work on the lock with precision of a real old-master in filing padlocks . . . RAY FORTIN, club captain, was one of the happiest players in the rink. It was Ray's second time on an Allan Cup team. He was with Sherbrooke along with Guy Black, Rejean Richer and Lionel Robidas. Jacques Begin was also a second timer as well . . . JACK WILSON lost one of his contact lens and players from both sides got down on their hands and knees to try and help him out. He finished the game with only one eye . . . THE EAGLES' dressing room, following the game, was worse than Times Square on New Year's eve. Everybody and his brother were in trying to get a drip of the bubbly spirit . . . CIVIC CENTRE looked like a meeting of the NHL was taking place there were so many scouts on hand . . . ROLAND BOLDUC, manager of the Allan Cup champions, was the happiest man in the rink. Roland took his precautions as he changed his suit prior to the end of the game. He was tossed in the showers along with President Gaston Boisielle. The boys had fun in doing it. Marshall Grenick came very close also but at the last minute the team dropped him. He certainly was putting up a brave battle but the odds were against him until Captain Fortin came to his rescue. YVES TESSIER, former whistle-tooter in the league, was on hand. Yves will work in the NHL next season . . THE EAGLES didn't waste any time in making a request for a trip overseas. . . OSCAR AUBUCHON who was the guiding light behind the Eagles was happy and he certainly deserves plenty of credit for his work behind the bench . . . MAYOR BERNIER was absent in Quebec City but the rest of the Council was on hand to offer their congratulations to the new champions, and worthy ones at that.

CITY OF DRUMMONDVILLE

CITY HALL

OFFICIAL DECLARATION

The Council of the City of Drummondville sincerely regret the personal declaration made by Ron Butlin, owner of the Spurs of Calgary, pertaining to the reception made by our population to the members of this team, on the occasion of their visit in our city.

Contrary to what was alleged, I am personally aware of the fact that on the morning of May 4, Louis Philippe Langevin, city clerk, made a visit to the local hotel where the team was lodging, to determine with Tony Schneider, coach for Calgary, of a convenient time for an official reception at the City Hall to the members of the team, which include among other things, the signing of the Official Golden Book of the City as a souvenir of their presence in the East.

This invitation was turned down by the coach alleging the numerous visits to be made by the players, and the rest and practice periods necessary for a good performance on the ice. It seemed that, in his mind, more than an official reception, without considering the prestige that it could involve, was contemplated.

It has been a habit for the City Council to officially receive at the City Hall, officials and personalities visiting or driving through our City, and our records include numerous documents of appreciation.

Again regretting such a misunderstanding, I here officially repeat the welcome addressed by the City of Drummondville, of the EAST, to the representatives of the City of Calgary of the Prairies and Western Canada.

ROGER PRINCE,
pro-mayor
City of Drummondville

Plenty of angles in heavy setup

NEW YORK (AP) — The eight-man heavyweight elimination tournament looks like a tidy little package, but in the wide world of boxing even the angles have angles.

This is the way Mike Malitz, president of the newly - formed Sports Action, Inc., has it lined up in his schedule book:

July 15 — Floyd Patterson, New York, vs. Oscar Bonavena, Argentina, at the Houston Astrodome.

Aug 4-5—Ernie Terrell, Chicago, vs. Jimmy Ellis, Louisville, Ky.

Sept. 2-16—Joe Frazier, Philadelphia, vs. George Chuvalo, Toronto.

Sept. 16-Oct. 7—Karl Moldenberger, West Germany, vs. Thad Spencer, San Francisco, in Frankfurt, Germany.

Tentatively the semi - finals would be held Oct. 21 and Dec. 2 and the finals in late January, 1968.

But no contracts are signed.

If things work out, the fights would be held late Saturday afternoon and would be carried on home television with the finals reserved for closed circuit television.

However, Cassius Clay still is not out of the picture.

Although he has been stripped of his title by the New York state athletic commission and other groups, he is out on bail after pleading not guilty to a federal grand jury indictment on charges of refusing to accept military induction.

Clay wants to fight Chuvalo in Montreal and there is talk of bouts with Leotis Martin in Stockholm and possibly Spencer or Patterson in Tokyo during summer.

Rod Carew swings heavy bat as Twins crush Senators 11-1 and Tigers edge Indians, Yanks win

Ron Santo, who started the season in a batting slump, recently had shown some signs of improvement.

But the hard - hitting Chicago Cub third baseman improved all over the place Tuesday with the first 5-for-5 game of his career as the Cubs pounded San Francisco Giants 10-2.

Early in the season Santo was hitting .086 and not until the Cubs returned for their current homestand did he start getting some hits.

Also hitting a lot better in Wrigley Field's familiar surroundings is Ernie Banks with eight hits—two of them homers—and eight runs batted in during the last five games. He had two hits, one a two-run double, in Tuesday's triumph.

In other National League action, St. Louis Cardinals topped Pittsburgh Pirates 6-3, Houston Astros beat Los Angeles Dodgers, 5-2, Philadelphia Phillies nudged Atlanta Braves 3-2 and New York Mets slipped past Cincinnati Reds 3-2 in 11 innings.

CLIP AIDS CAUSE

The Cubs scored four times in the sixth inning, with pitcher Ray Culp's two-run triple the big blow. Glenn Beckert homered for the Cubs and Tom Haller of the Giants extended his hitting streak to seven straight before grounding out.

Orlando Cepeda had four hits, drove in two runs and scored two himself in the Cards' victory. Roger Maris, who has been passing up the long ball for base hits, got his first National League homer.

Ron Davis' homer and run-scoring single led the Astros past the Dodgers and Larry Dierker picked up his third victory against two defeats with some ninth-inning relief help from Claude Raymond.

Reliever Dick Hall for the Phillies got Hank Aaron to hit a foul fly with the bases loaded and two out in the eighth, preserving the Philadelphia victory. Don Lock's two-run homer gave the Phils the margin.

Tommy Davis' 11th - inning homer gave the Mets their win and handed Mel Queen his first defeat after four straight triumphs.

BASEBALL STARS

Batting—Orlando Cepeda, St. Louis, collected two singles and two doubles, driving in two runs and scoring two as the Cardinals defeated Pittsburgh Pirates 6-3.

Pitching—Jack Fisher, New York, pitched a six-hitter in the Mets' 3-2 victory over Cincinnati Reds in 11 innings.

Fresno, Calif. — Mac Foster, 200, Fresno, knocked out Lou Phillips, 196, Boise, Idaho, 3.

Liverpool, England — Johnny Cooke, Britain, outpointed Shaun Doyle, Britain, 15. Cooke retained British welterweight title.

Black Hawks dominate All-Star squad, four on first and one on second, Habs fail to place

MONTREAL (CP) — Chicago Black Hawks won their first National Hockey League championship this year and players from the club are carrying this domination through the post-season awards.

The NHL announced today that four members of the Chicago club have been named to the first all-star squad, with a fifth holding down a spot on the second team.

Sports writers and broadcasters in the six NHL cities chose defenceman Pierre Pilote, left winger Bobby Hull, centre Stan Mikita and right winger Kenny Wharram to represent the Hawks on the first team. Glenn Hall, the veteran netminder who was cajoled out of retirement early in the 1966-67 season, was picked for the second team.

Two New York Rangers—goaltender Ed Giacomin, who recorded nine shutouts, and defenceman Harry Howell—round out the first team.

ORR MAKES STARS

In addition to Hall, the second team has Tim Horton from Toronto Maple Leafs and rookie Bobby Orr of Boston Bruins on defence. Centre Norm Ullman and right winger Gordie Howe of Detroit Red Wings and left winger Don Marshall of New York complete the second squad.

The four Hawks named to the first team have all been chosen before. For Giacomin and Howell it is their initial selection.

Mikita, who tied the record for most points in a season by scoring 35 goals and a record 62 assists for 97 points, was the lone unanimous choice of the selectors. He drew a perfect 90 points in each half.

Hull drew 174 of the possible 180 votes, Pilote 156, Giacomin 149, Howell 147 and Wharram 117.

Howe topped the second team with 96 votes, Horton drew 94, Orr 89, Ullman and Hall 62 and Marshall 59.

All teams with the exception of Montreal Canadiens placed a man on the two teams.

NHL governors set down rules for expansion draft

NEW YORK (CP)—The National Hockey League Tuesday set the rules for its expansion draft next month with the six new teams drafting players from the six existing teams at a meeting in Montreal June 5-9.

The league's board of governors made no change in the previously announced ground rules which allow each of the current teams to protect one goalkeeper and 11 other players in the first round of the draft.

A three-minute time limit on each selection was established.

Present teams—Toronto Maple Leafs, Montreal Canadiens, Chicago Black Hawks, New York Rangers, Detroit Red Wings and Boston Bruins—must file their protected lists by 5 p.m. Monday, June 5.

POST LISTS

Lists will be checked and posted for inspection by the six new clubs at 9 a.m. the next day. The draft will begin at 10 a.m. the same day.

The new teams are California Seals, Los Angeles Kings, Minnesota North Stars, Philadelphia Flyers, Pittsburgh Penguins and St. Louis Blues. They will operate in a separate NHL division.

Each expansion team will have three minutes from the time of the previous selection to make its player choice, including a 30-second warning. The current teams will have the same amount of time for filling their protected lists.

The first and second times an established team loses a player in the draft, it can add one man to its protected list. Then the protected list remains unchanged while three more players are drafted from the team. After that, the established team will protect another player, lose one in the draft, protect another and so on until the draft is concluded.

Each of the six new teams is guaranteed two goalkeepers and 18 other players, and each existing team has to giveup the same number of players.

About 350 players are eligible for drafting.

Marlies' mastery of faceoff is instrumental in their victory over Port Arthur last night

FORT WILLIAM, Ont. (CP)—Toronto's mastery of the faceoff circle was instrumental in their victory Tuesday night said Marlboro coach Gus Bodnar after his team's 8-4 win over Port Arthur Marrs.

He illustrated his point with a sheet of statistics which showed their big scoring line of Terry Caffery, Gerry Meehan and Doug Acomb controlled 25 of 36 faceoffs in leading Toronto to a 2-0 lead in the best-of-seven Memorial Cup junior hockey final.

That line also spearheaded Marlboro's opening game 6-3 victory Sunday.

Meehan and Acomb each scored three goals Tuesday while Caffery collected three assists.

"We're playing pretty well," Bodnar said. "Any team that can score eight goals is."

Richie Bayes and Frank Hamill got the other Toronto goals.

The third game in the series will be played here Thursday night.

"We played better and they did too," Bodnar said after the game. The Port Arthur dressingroom was locked to visitors.

Marlboros, hitting the scoresheet 40 seconds into the first period, wrapped up the decision late in the second half with four goals in the space of three minutes and 58 seconds.

Marrs, whose goal scorers were Ken Rodgers, Tim McCormack, Bill Fairbairn and Chuck Kelner, had reduced a 3-0 deficit to one goal just before the Toronto deluge.

Meehan opened scoring before more than 5,300 fans when his pass from behind the Marrs' net hit one of several players in front and bounced behind goalkeeper Johnny Adams.

Referee John McVey of Ottawa called 20 penalties, including fighting majors in the first period to Mike Pelyk of Toronto and Ron Busniuk of Port Arthur. Marlboros took 12 penalties.

WINNERS — Skip Henry Dixon of Drummondville Celanese, second from right, back row, is seen accepting the Sportsmen Trophy from Howard Gibson, president of the Danville Curling Club, for winning the main event of the Sportsmen Bonspiel held last week. They downed Lloyd Humbert's Lennoxville rink 7-4. In the consolation section H. Campbell's St. Ann de Bellevue rink won over Don Giles' quartet from Sun Life of Montreal 4-3. In the front, left to right, C. Gregoire, Dr. J. Taylor, B. Fuller and Skip Humbert. Standing, same order, L. Girard, G. Monty, Mr. Gibson, Skip Nixon and Rene Lefebvre. (Record photo by W. N. To eliminate Expo lodging control loopholes

MONTREAL (CP) — A recently - approved law designed to control prices and standards of accommodation during Expo 67 will be tightened to eliminate possible loopholes, says a Quebec government spokesman.

The move would block operators still trying to take advantage of visitors, the spokesman told a press conference Monday.

At least three amendments to Bill 19 would be submitted to the Quebec legislature, possibly this week "for the purposes of taking care of situations which are obviously not fully covered by the new legislation."

Although he declined to give the details of the proposed amendments to the bill, the official said they result from a "reappraisal" which took place at a meeting with Expo officials.

Among those present at the meeting were officials of Logexpo, the fair's housing service, and Jean Lacoste, director of the Quebec Lodging Service, Expo 67, which is charged with fixing room rates.

The spokesman said the chief areas of contention still plaguing Logexpo and the Quebec Lodging Service include:

1. Temporary motel units which still have not been completed despite their commitment to Quebec and Logexpo which booked reservations on the basis of these commitments.
2. Misrepresentation as to the actual features of the accommodations offered.
3. Inability to get deposits returned immediately when the accommodations turn out to be unsatisfactory to visitors.

The possibility of arranging for public financing to repay loans and finance an aggressive exploration program will be examined. For 1966 net income of $638,734, or 14c a share was 43% above $448,028, or 10c for 1965. Cash income was 38% higher at $853,313, or 19c a share. Gas sales increased 29% to $1,032,583 and oil sales 47% to $617,754. Crude oil reserves (proven and probable) of 28,545,449 barrels at Dec. 31-66 were 256% above 8,008,612 and natural gas liquids were up 97% at 5,108,014 barrels.

Working capital of Jefferson Lake Petrochemicals of Canada Ltd. at March 31-67 amounted to $8,080,982. This, along with net cash generation from operations, will be ample to finance the company's projected sizeable budget in 1967 for increased land acquisitions and drilling exploration developments, in order to evaluate and expand sour gas and crude oil reserves. The Calgary Petrogas Processing Ltd. plant expansion of acid treating and sulphur manufacturing facilities started operation on April 10-67. (Plant is operated by Jefferson Lake with a 31% interest). Preliminary testing of the facilities indicates that they will produce in excess of their designed capacity of 196 million cubic feet per day of commercial pipeline sales gas and 2,000 long tons per day of elemental recovered sulphur.

Sales and profits of Salada Foods Ltd. were more than maintained in the six months ended March 31-67 despite severely depressed citrus prices and intensified competition. Gross sales of $37,454,000 and net income of $879,000 (33c a share) compared with $37,341,000 and $864,000 (33c a share), respectively, for first half of year ended Sept. 30, last.

In Memoriam

PAGE — In loving memory of our dear father, grandfather and great grandfather, who left us four years ago May 10, 1963.

Time goes on with many changes,
Days of joy end in sorrow,
Pressing smiles push back the tears,
Your memories still are cherished,
With the passing of the years.
Sadly missed by,
LYNDALL AND HAROLD
(daughter),
ALFRED AND CECELIA (son),
DORIS AND FLORIAN (daughter),
JOYCE, HAROLD, CAROL, DENIS,
DAVID AND DEANA,
(grandchildren),
KEVIN (great-grandchild).

PAGE — In loving memory of my dear husband, John, who was killed four years ago today May 10, 1963.

This month is here with deep regret,
It brings back a day I'll never forget,
I wonder why oh why you had to go,
For you were too young to die,
I visit your grave, say a prayer,
Then go home to a vacant chair,
And at the table a vacant place,
You know no one can take your place,
I think of the things we used to do,
And places we used to go,
But wherever I go, whatever I do,
My thoughts are always with you.
It's lonesome here without you,
Life isn't the same to me,
To have, to love and then to part,
Is the greatest sorrow of one's heart.
Sadly missed by,
MARJORIE (wife),
Sutton, Que.

For unmarried mothers: a home of understanding

She was 17, attractive but not overly so. Her grades in high school were average. She came from an upper-middle class family, lived in a rambling ranch style home and the family had two cars. She liked nearly all the things that every teenage girl likes, clothes, pop records, dancing, sports, gossip sessions and good looking boys. For all her average everyday qualities she might have gone about unnoticed had it not been for one thing.

She was three months pregnant.

Sociologists psychologists and psychiatrists will pen many generalities as to why a girl with supposedly everything would find herself in this predicament. Reasons would vary from today's great emphasis on sex to a lack of communication between parents and their teenage daughters and sons. But in dealing with individuals it is almost impossible to generalize.

A couple of generatons ago, this girl would have had to bear her problem alone and without the expert guiding and counselling that is now available through the various social service outlets. In addition she does not have to be sent away to a strange city or to visit relatives that may be less than understanding. With the many maternity homes sprinkled throughout the country, she can wait out her confinement in a family atmosphere receiving the security and care she needs in her condition.

Today in Sherbrooke such a place exists. The Villa Marie-Claire at Montcalm and Belvedere Streets opened its doors to its first two boarders during the latter part of February.

Established by the Caritas Sherbrooke after consultation with the Centre de Service Social and the Welfare Court, the Villa Marie - Claire is operated by the Misericorde Sisters, a religious order dedicated to helping unmarried mothers. It is governed by a lay advisory board of nine members from various parts of the area and of different religious denominations and a corporation of at least 20 members Financial support is given through the Quebec department of health and welfare.

Organized to house up to 15 girls, the Villa is a home that receives and helps unmarried mothers without distinction of language, religion or nationality. It is a residence with a family atmosphere.

By MARGUERITE SMITH

(Record staff reporter)

Its director Sister Jeanne Mance is a former director of the order's creche in Montreal and has been a caseworker in a social service organization. Sister Mary Madeleine, a social worker, who is at the Villa on a temporary basis, was in charge of similar homes in Toronto and Chatham, Ontario for about 17 years. She was the first religious social worker in Toronto. Sister St. Jean who has had 11 years experience as a social worker will be group mother.

Girls entering the Villa are referred there by the Centre de Service Social on Queen Street, while the girls are at the Villa they are given counselling by the centre's social workers, who help them plan for the expectant child and their future.

Average admission time to the Villa is during the seventh month of pregnancy but according to circumstances involved, girls may come before that time.

The Villa is three storeys high and has 12 comfortable rooms to accommodate its borders. There is instruction in sewing, cuisine, decorating and pre-natal hygiene. Those who wish to seek outside employment, may do so if their condition and circumstances allow them to. Medical services are available to the girls from the doctors attached to Sherbrooke's hospitals. Expenses for medicines are assumed, if possible, by the girls.

Sister Jeanne Manse says she hopes to incorporate a school program into the girls' activities at the Villa, if they desire to continue their studies. The Regional School Board has already offered to help the sisters in this endeavor.

They are girls who are suffering from problems of social maladjustment. Broken homes are involved. Some do not get along with their parents and there are girls who come from well adjusted homes, but where there's a lack of affection, understanding, communication and attention.

"We don't get the tough ones," said Sister Mary Madeleine. "They wouldn't be able to put up with a normal way of life. The ones that come here feel guilty and want to get away — to save their family's reputation and their own.

"They don't trust men anymore, are doubtful of the sincerity of other people and feel rejected. We have to work hard to build up their confidence and make them aware of their hidden talents."

Reasons for getting into trouble, said the sisters, were just as varied as the girls' backgrounds.

Said Sister Jeanne Mance: "Maybe society has certain concepts of liberty as applied to unmarried life. The exploitation of sex today is a big factor. In secondary schools, students brag about having slept with this one and that one.

"Girls say my parents don't care what happens to me. Maybe this is a subconscious way to make them take notice.

"In broken homes the lack of affection of the missing parent sometimes plays a big role, or lack of moral balance and infidelity in marriage. Children may forgive the occasional adultery but if the mother entertains boyfriends, then the daughter might try and imitate her.

"Fifty percent of the girls in trouble are those that were searching for a father figure," said Sister Jeanne Mance.

"And" said Sister, "in many cases alcohol is involved. A boy takes a girl out and gets her to drink with the result that there is a lack of inhibitions."

Interjected Sister Madeleine: as a whole people don't seem to have enough respect for their neighbors.

"The whole concept of living has changed. Maybe our parents were misfits and this is the outcome — today's generation. We were raised very rigidly and we say our children are going to have it easier. This is the freedom of today."

The sisters agreed that besides underprotective parents, overprotective parents can also cause much harm to their offspring. The child becomes accustomed to having another person do his thinking for him and becomes unable to think for himself being easily influenced.

While the unmarried mother is at the Villa part of her time will be occupied with thoughts of what to do about the expectant child.

Sister Jeanne Mance says about 40 percent of the unmarried mothers keep their babies afterwards. Through the help of social workers at the Centre de Service Social, a resident at the Villa will analyse her circumstances and weigh carefully the factors involved before she arrives at a decision.

After she has had her child, the new mother is permitted to return to the Villa for convalescence of about a week. There are no provisions available at the moment to permit the child to also be accommodated at the Villa.

If she plans to keep the baby, the child will either remain in hospital while the mother is convalescing, or through the Centre de Service Social, be placed temporarily in a foster home.

Then the new mother is ready to leave the Villa.

DIRECTOR OF THE VILLA MARIE-CLAIRE, Sister Jeanne Mance is a trained social worker with eight years experience in her field. She is in charge of unmarried mothers at the Villa during their stay and works in collaboration with the Centre de Service Social who refer girls to the Villa. Here she talks to one of the girls.

Study establishes a need

The need for a home for unmarried mothers has been under study by the Caritas Sherbrooke for about three years.

At that time, said Assistant Director Jacques Johnson, there were about 200 cases of unmarried mothers in the St. Francis District brought to the attention of Caritas.

"It has been steadily increasing each year," he said to a present approximate known 250 cases last year.

"The main reason for having a home in a small area is that it helps the specialists in the rehabilitation work, because the social workers can achieve more results by a close consultation with the parents as well as the expectant mother.

"Before the girls would go to Montreal and Quebec City. After their confinement some would prefer to stay in the larger centers and this posed a danger that these girls would get into more trouble."

Another reason, said Mr. Johnson, was that the Centre de Service Social and members of the Welfare Court had to bring the girls to Montreal and then later return for them after their confinement and transport them back to Sherbrooke.

"They were spending a lot of good time on the road," said Mr. Johnson. "That was before the auto-route was established too."

And, said Mr. Johnson, the facilities to rehabilitate the girls at Villa Marie Claire are convenient. It is only about a few minutes walk from the Villa to the Centre de Service Social.

'But," said Mr. Johnson, "we don't expect too many from Sherbrooke itself because the girls and their families do not want to be identified."

However, Mr. Johnson said, girls from other parts of the Eastern Townships, including the many little rural areas will make use of the Villa's facilities.

The need for the Villa takes in the Eastern Townships two cultures. Miss Van Cornwall-Jones, a social worker at the Centre de Service Social, who handles the English-speaking cases mainly, affirmed this but was unable to determine statistically the numbers involved.

A great number of these expectant unmarried mothers, said Mr. Johnson, are from rural areas.

"The strong parental authority here could be a factor. The girls want to get rid of the parents' grip, so they rebel — either consciously or subconsciously."

But, he pointed out, "the specialists say the main factor is emotional disturbance within the family—bad identification with either the mother or the father."

FURNISHINGS ARE SOUGHT

The Misericorde Sisters who operate the Villa Marie-Claire are still in the early stages of decorating the home for unmarried mothers.

The sisters would welcome any odd bits of furnishings that Sherbrooke and area residents would care to donate.

Expert guidance given

Unmarried mothers are given guidance and counselling, if they so desire, at the Centre de Service Social, 894 Queen Street by a staff of trained social workers.

If an unmarried mother wishes to be housed in the Villa Marie - Claire, Sherbrooke's newly established home for unmarried mothers, the centre after studying the details of her case will refer her to the Villa as a resident.

The girl is given casework during her stay at the Villa and as well after she delivers her child. The decision as to whether or not, she will keep her child, is entirely the new mother's. However, social workers will help her evaluate the pros and cons of the situation.

Louise Dixon is a social worker at the centre who has been working with unmarried mothers since last October.

In addition to counselling the expectant mother, social workers also discuss the situation with the father of the child, if he comes forward to assume responsibility.

Miss Dixon says that only one out of every 10 men involved want to do their share and will marry the girl, if this is the solution.

She said that most of the fathers who come forward to accept their responsibility are willing to do their share and a marriage is worked out.

However, she said, it is mostly the men in their late teens and early 20s who readily accept their responsibilities to the unmarried mother.

But, Miss Dixon esimated that about half of the girls in trouble were involved with married men.

And, she said, about one third of these didn't know that the men were married . . some of the girls won't even tell their names.

"Many of these older men just disappear when the girl becomes pregnant," she said.

Why do these girls become involved with older men?

Miss Dixon said in the majority of cases something has been lacking in their family relations.

Perhaps they were seeking a father image, she said.

"Maybe they were missing the understanding of their own fathers."

Today's recipe

OLD-FASHIONED CRUMB CAKE

This unusually good version of crumb cake is from the sister of a very good friend, one of the best cooks I know.

- 2 cup unsifted pastry flour
- 1 cup granulated sugar
- ¾ cup butter, at room temperature
- 1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
- Pinch of cloves
- Dash of salt, if desired
- 1 cup currants
- 1 cup seedless raisins
- 1 cup (combined) broken
- 1 cup (combined broken nutmeats and quartered candied cherries
- 1 egg, beaten
- 1 cup sour milk or buttermilk
- 1 teaspoon baking soda

Work together flour, sugar and butter to make a crumbly mixture. Take out 1 cup of these crumbs.

With remaining crumbs, combine cinnamon, cloves, salt, currants, raisins, nuts and cherries.

Beat egg. Combine and add sour milk and soda. Add to fruit mixture, combining well.

Turn into well greased 8-inch square pan and top with the 1 cup crumbs saved out. Bake in moderate, oven 350 degrees, about 40 to 50 minutes. Cut in squares to serve.

Engagement

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Fregeau, Rock Island, Que., announce the engagement of their daughter, Celeste, to Mr. André Forcier, son of Mr. and Mrs. Conrad Forcier, Newport. A quiet summer wedding is arranged to take place in Burlington, Vt.

A BIT OF AFRICA moves into the summer collections of the designers of Texas. The lure of the complete costume is brought back alive when Justin McCarty tames a pseudo zebra print. A-line coat (left) with back inverted kick pleat slips over a sliver of jungle color that's belted low on the hip. The elegant casual shift by Donovan-Galvani (center) solves the seasonal problem. In Dacron double knit, the surface is bisected with vertical and horizontal bars. For a member of the wedding or a guest at a gala party, Clifton Whilhite of Dallas created the soutache-re-embroidered lace dress (right). Controlled formal flare is achieved by panel folds on the front and back of this elbow-sleeved skimmer.

Personals

Friends of Mrs. Amos Savage, Lennoxville, will regret to learn that she has had the misfortune to fracture a hip and is a patient in the Sherbrooke Hospital, Room 411.

Mrs. W. H. McGregor is a patient in the Sherbrooke Hospital, where she has undergone surgery.

Helpful hints

For cottons or linens stained by fresh fruits, pour boiling water through the stain or soak in warm water. Wash garment, then treat remaining stain by bleaching. If garment is made of silk, wool, rayon, nylon or other man-made fabric, sponge the stain with warm water then wash. Treat any remaining stain with mild powder oxygen bleach.

* * *

Old stains on serviettes and tea towels can usually be removed by soaking in a warm mild bleach solution, then washing.

Women's groups form committee to explore avenues for improving status of PEI women

CHARLOTTETOWN (CP) — Three women's groups have formed a committee to explore avenues for improving the status of women in Prince Edward Island.

The committee was set up at a meeting sponsored by the Charlottetown Business and Professional Women's Club. The club and two other local organizations — Zonta International and the Federation of University Women—are providing two members each.

One matter to be considered by the committee will be whether to hold a seminar in the fall on the status of women.

A recommendation from the meeting early in May was that the organizations present seek enforcement of legislation to guarantee equal pay for equal work.

Gladys MacMillan, a local officer with the federal government's Manpower Centre, said that with few exceptions women in Prince Edward Island are not protected by minimum wage laws that cover men. The exceptions are waitresses and laundry workers in the Summerside and Charlottetown areas.

Miss MacMillan, who took part in a panel discussion, said the prevailing wage for female sales clerks, for example, is $30 to $45.

J. J. Revell, head of the commerce department at St. Dunstan's University and chairman of the P.E.I. labor relations board, told the meeting:

"Women's groups must become involved. You must become knowledgeable . . . assist public opinion . . . complain."

Another speaker, Mrs. J. Lawson, said a minimum marriage age should be established in P.E.I. At present only the father's permission is required.

Mrs. Lawson said setting the minimum at 16 in P.E.I. and several other provinces would enable Canada to sign the United Nations charter on this subject.

For and about Women

Wacky idea but it works

Many women who start their morning with a coffee might be wise to start it with a beauty treatment.

Since the kichen is home base during the day, it's a good place to set up an emergency beauty depot. Then while hubby's shaving in the bathroom, she can spruce up between putting on the porridge and making the toast.

Most women don't feel it's necessary to beautify until their husbands come home so they spend the day looking like Josephine the lady plumber. After all, why waste expensive make-up impressing a door-to-door salesman who they'd rather not see anyway?

They owe it to their better halves to put on a good front in the evening, but don't they owe it to themselves to look good while their men are at work? Just putting on a pretty lipstick can boost a girl's morale and that's enough to make dirty dishes seem less like drudgery.

ESSENTIAL ITEMS

Hang a small shaving mirror at eye level and pack a sponge bag with your kitchen beauty kit. Include a washcloth and soap for quick washups after messy cleaning jobs. They'll be handy later for small chocolate smeared faces.

Add a small container of tinted moisturizer, press powder, a clean puff and a lipsick — a pale one if you find jungle red hard to take that early in the day. You might include a small bottle of cologne to make your spirits really sing.

If there isn't time to do your hair properly, tie it back with a bright ribbon and choose a pretty duster for your appearance at the breakfast table. As dusters lend themselves more to watching TV with your feet up than to getting on with the housework, make it a rule to get dressed as soon as hubby leaves.

Have a wardrobe of bright wash 'n' wear cotton shirts to team with your workaday slacks and wear a different one each day. Slip one of your husband's old shirts over it for really grimy jobs.

There's only one really satisfactory place for hair during housework and that's under a kerchief and preferably in curlers. Scurrying around a steamy kitchen can reduce the neatest set to rats-tails in no time and flying dust clings to uncovered hair. If running around in curlers does nothing for your worktime beauty plan, collect a selection of cheap headscarfs to tone with your shirts and make a set of fake bangs from a dynel hair switch to pin in place under the scarf.

TREATMENT TIME

Washday is the perfect time for a skin treatment. Smooth on skin food before you start and the steam will open your pores and allow the cream to deep-nourish your skin.

A kneeling pad is indispensable, not just for comfort but for pretty knees. That rough, murky skin comes from kneeling on rough, murky floors when you're polishing.

Now that warm weather's hopefully on the way, keep cologne or astringent-soaked cotton balls in a jar in the fridge, for a deliciously cool fresh-up.

Remember that your refrigerator contains auxiliary beauty booty. A leftover egg white makes a fine face pack, an egg yolk massaged into hair gives it body and vitaliy and a warm olive oil treatment improves dry, overpermed tresses. A cut cucumber rubbed over your face will refresh oily, overheated skin.

Your spice self also has beauty potential. For a beauty treatment that leaves your skin satin-smooth, add a heaped teaspoonful of rosemary to a bowl of boiling water and steam your face over it. Drape a bathtowel tent-style over your head to capture the vapors. Then use a complexion brush with bland soap and the cooled herb water to massage your face and neck. Rinse in warm, then cool water, dry gently and apply a little moisturizing cream.

ENCOURAGEMENT FOR WEIGHT WATCHERS — Mrs. Yola Carnacchia, 40, of Toronto who cut her weight from 230 to 150 pounds in a 21-month battle with the calories, has kept it there now for two years. She told the Canadian Public Health, Association conference in Ottawa that overweight is a psychological as well as a physical problem. (CP Wirephoto)

For equal rights

Organizer of Can. section of RC women's groups willing to challenge highest RC church officials

TORONTO (CP) — Cecilia Wallace, who describes herself as "a plain ordinary secretary", is willing to challenge the highest officials of the Roman Catholic Church to gain for women parishioners equal rights with men.

Miss Wallace is organizer of the Canadian section of St. Joan's International Alliance, a Roman Catholic women's group which recently released a report severely criticizing the church for its treatment of women.

The report was based on the results of a questionnaire asking members to comment on whether women are sitting on committees for schools, parishes and dioceses and whether Roman Catholic women feel they have real freedom in choosing a state of life.

In an interview Miss Wallace said she expects more criticism of the report from conservative Roman Catholics at the parish level than from the hierarchy.

QUIT CWL

She says that since she began her outspoken criticism of church laws, church officials haven't always agreed with her, but "they don't deny my right to say what I think."

Miss Wallace works at the centre for ecumenical studies at St. Michael's College, University of Toronto. She has made herself a student of theological texts, which, she says, enables her to keep a finger on the pulse of current trends for reform in the church.

She founded the Canadian St. Joan's last September because she was "appalled" at the effect of some theological teachings on women in the church. She says Roman Catholic women are timid and reluctant to criticize or get involved in controversy.

Miss Wallace says she lost interest in the Catholic Women's League because the organization is interested mainly in social action and resists the movement for equality for women. The CWL's withdrawal of support from the royal commission on the status of women has disappointed her.

SOUGHT THE VOTE

St. Joan's Alliance was formed in London as a suffragette group in 1911, but during the last decade has shifted its emphasis from demands for state reform to changes within the church. Its international membership is about 2,000.

Miss Wallace says she hopes Canadian membership will remain small. "We want thinking women, professional, nonconformist types."

She says the alliances criticism of the church is not heretical. Its war is against some canon laws—church regulations—which she says have grown out of incorrect interpretation of basic church teachings. She cites as an example the regulation that women must wear hats in church.

Miss Wallace says a paper will be submitted to a lay congress at the Vatican next fall asking that the priesthood be opened to women as a way of ending discrimination.

Young child potential victim of poisoning

NEW YORK — (NEA) — A mother with a child under five has a built-in exerciser.

Energetic and inquisitive tots get into more scrapes than a fiction writer can dream up. Such high spirits do keep a mother on her toes to protect the little one from serious injury or a fatal accident from falls or poisoning from toxic household products.

Children under five make up the bulk of innocent accidental poisoning victims. According to the Federal Drug Administration many a "soft drink" discovered by youngsters and served by them to their small friends proves to be a weed killer, cleaning preparation or liquid roach poison left enticingly within the reach of a child.

Since it is major housecleaning time in most homes, mothers can make use of the young one's energy and also start early to stress safety and neatness.

Working on her side is the fact that young children like to emulate their parents. So a small child becomes a wee homemaker, while kept in view and out of dangerous mischief while helping clean house.

Psychiatrists may not approve of such subterfuge but mother can make the young one happy helping out, according to the Council on Family Health.

Why do we need advertising anyhow?

ADVERTISING HELPS IMPROVE OUR LIVING STANDARD

You may remember the old-time huckster touting his wares up and down the block. You still see a few of them around. In season. And door-to-door salesmen turn up now and then.

But they're a vanishing breed. Replaced, largely, by a more efficient way of spreading news about products and services. Advertising.

With the development of mass production techniques, the need for mass selling techniques became evident. Advertising was already with us in those days, to be sure. But it had not become the dynamic force in our economy that it is today.

Manufacturers simply learned to use advertising more efficiently to sell the products they were making more efficiently. With the result that more people were able to enjoy the fruits of what has come to be known as the industrial revolution.

Today, advertising is still the best—and cheapest—method yet devised for spreading news about products and services.

INVERNESS — The pastor and congregation of St. Andrew's Church were pleased to have a large group of French-Canadian Roman Catholics, led by the Rev. Abbe Fournier, of Quebec City, join in the morning service on Sunday, April 30.

Mr. Mcarlane extended a sincere welcome to the visitors, which was graciously accepted by Abbe Fournier, who took an active part in the service.

Later on Abbe Fournier delivered a short but interesting address, in which he made a strong plea for a better understanding between religious groups, proving his point by showing that in a recent record breaking flight into space by two American astronauts, one of whom was a Roman Catholic and the other a non-Catholic.

Through complete cooperation, their combined efforts spelled a success which has never been equalled let alone surpassed so, why, queried the speaker, covered not such successes be brought about here on earth?

What is A Mother?

To her family, she's special.
She's understanding,
a banquet chef, a short order cook,
a fountain of love, a chauffeur,
warmth and security.
She's clean socks, starched dresses,
a mender of hurts.
She's scrubbed ears,
a tender nurse, a maid, a queen.

She deserves a day of honour and tribute.
She deserves the love of those she loves.

Yes, she's very, very special.

This Sunday, you'll tell your mother
how much you care.
We'd like to tell all mothers, "We Care, too."
