BRITISH MAKE NEW MOVE IN MOSUL

FLAVELLE AVERS CANADA'S GREAT NEED IS LEADERS

Says Railways and Taxation Will Yield to Leadership

OPPORTUNITY SLIPS

No Government Since War Has Grasped the Situation

TORONTO, Sept. 22.—(Star Special)—In a plain talk to the Yonge and Bloor Business Men's Association here today, Sir Joseph Flavelle, speaking on Canada's Railway problem said that the only solution was more people, and more work for more people. Canada was allowing the day of opportunity to pass and the country was suffering from a reaction of the war which was most serious. Since 1918 neither Government at Ottawa had given any sign of leadership.

"The outbreak of the war," Sir Joseph said, "found two railway systems (Canadian Northern and Grand Trunk Pacific) incompleted and almost immediately involved financially through inability to sell their securities, as war expenditures demanded all available investment capital. Concurrently, they suffered from a shrinkage in earnings in those portions of the systems which were in operation, and both corporations each year asked for and received large sums from Parliament until they wore out their welcome and were refused further aid.

"No Government of Canada planned public ownership of these lines," said Sir Joseph. "If misfortune had overtaken the private corporations who owned and controlled these railways during normal peace conditions, the properties would have been sold under receivership proceedings 'to whom it might concern.' The holders of the outstanding securities would have taken a serious loss, but the enterprises would have been recapitalized upon a basis established by the potential earning value of the properties.

NO RELIEF SEEN.

"There was no relief, however, from the penalty of over-capitalized properties, embodying all the errors of railway construction in Canada, from the first, excepting only the railways incorporated in the Canadian Pacific Company. Singularly enough, no action has since been taken to correct this over-capitalization.

"It is fair to point out that the present administration of the National System, while showing continued heavy annual outlays, and continued deficits, exhibits an impressive betterment in operating results. The executive claims that in due course they will establish operating earnings sufficient to meet a fixed amount, determined by a revaluation of the property, and that annual deficits will cease. If, however, this further betterment is secured, not because more business is taken from other private competitor, the Canadian Pacific, it is proper that Parliament should inquire and answer why a State-owned railway should make further public expenditures, upon capital account, to take business from a private corporation with ample facilities for continuing to do the percentage of the country's business which they have hitherto handled.

"This reference to the Canadian Pacific necessitates added mention of that corporation. From the time Parliament determined to take over the several privately-owned properties, now incorporated into the National system, it has been clear that an inherent injustice was imposed upon a privately-owned railway, itself a great taxpayer. The fact is, the Canadian Pacific Railway is an asset of great national importance of which we should be proud.

PARLIAMENT'S DUTY.

"While I can see no relief from the injustice which is inherent in the original transaction," continued Sir Joseph, "it is plainly the duty of Parliament to see there is no light-hearted aggravation of it.

"Lord Shaw said, when here two years ago: 'After all, Canada is an empty country,' and an empty country, gentlemen, in which we have a great store of undeveloped wealth in uncultivated lands, in unworked mineral deposits, in forest reservations and in fish on both coasts and in northern inland waters. In an important sense these resources lie fallow, awaiting directing minds. They call for men, capital, administrative capacity, with devotion to daily duty.

"Are we not equal to the task? Is it that we have grown soft that we fail to bring pressure upon ourselves, and the weight of aroused public opinion to bear upon Ottawa, or is it that in this land of promise and opportunity there are none to point the way?

"Here lies the remedy in chief for all our economic need," declared Sir Joseph. "Railways, taxation, agriculture, industrial health and employment at fair wages, will all yield to administrative capacity, instinct with faith, hope, courage, good sense and enterprise applied to the development of the resources of which we are so abundantly possessed.

MORE WORK NEEDED.

"More work for more people, and more people at work with more business and more shoulders to bear taxation and more tonnage for railways will automatically stop the drain now experienced in annual deficits of formidable proportions.

"The bottom factor is capacity in leadership and co-operation in the country which resolutely determines to hold our own people through available occupation and employment and in equal resolution to command immigration of men and women to occupy and develop this, as yet, empty country.

"No Government at Ottawa, since the war, has shown imagination and practical grasp in this fundamental problem. Singularly enough, the press has not been aroused, nor public opinion awakened. We have had a 'wait-and-see policy. It will not do," Sir Joseph concluded.

Druse Tribesmen Suffer Heavily, Attacking French

PARIS, Sept. 22—(U. P.)—Druse tribesmen attacking the French in Messifrey, 132 miles from Soueda, in the French Syrian mandate, were badly defeated, according to a Foreign Office announcement today.

The Druse troops lost 500 killed and another 500 wounded, while the French losses were one officer and 60 men killed.

BALKANS SEEK NEW ALLIANCES

Attempt to Establish Treaties for Protective Purposes

BRIAND HELPS

Greece and Jugo-Slavia May Soon Resume Negotiations

LONDON, Sept. 22.—(Star Special Cable by J. E. Poole, Staff Correspondent)—The Balkan nations, under the pressure of economic conditions and the menace from Russia, are making fresh efforts to establish alliances among themselves for protective purposes, despite the failure of earlier conferences at Belgrade.

The London Times, commenting on this latest move, says:

"Belgrade messages indicate that negotiations for the renewal of the alliance between Greece and Jugo-Slavia will be resumed after the return of Nintchitch and Rentis, Jugo-Slav and Greek ministers, from Geneva, where they have discussed the outlook, with discreet assistance from Mr. Briand, in finding a channel whereby the Jugo-Slav and Greek claims over the Salonika-Ghevgeli railway may be harmonized.

"Behind the Foreign Ministers of the Balkans, and their delegations to the League, stand the popular assemblies which are still tempted with regard to inter-Balkan differences from a narrow national standpoint. Behind these again loom the occult conspiratorial groups, influential, though not officially recognized, and composed of or inspired by military elements. They are particularly strong in Bulgaria by no means a negligible quantity among the Greeks and Serbs. Finally, these Balkan people are war-weary, but less so than the Western nations, and they are often unwilling to abandon their picturesque historical feuds.

"There has been a marked improvement in the Greco-Italian relations lately, but against this must be set the obvious political flirtation between the Turks and Jugo-Slavs at Geneva.

"It is to be hoped that British diplomacy will second the French efforts to bring Athens and Belgrade together. The value of such a defensive alliance, as an insurance against inter-Balkan conflict, is obvious and moreover, it will enable the Greeks and Serbs to regard Bulgarian affairs with a greater detachment, and sobriety of judgment, than is now possible. The Greco-Jugo-Slav alliance is the first, but not the last step to Balkan peace."

REPORT A. B. COPP CALLED TO SENATE

Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen to Speak in Ontario Friday

SUSSEX, N. S., Sept. 22 — (Star Special by Staff Correspondent.) — The Conservative leader, who is speaking here this afternoon, and St. John on Wednesday, will put in two more meetings in Ontario before leaving for the West. He will speak at Napanee on Friday afternoon and Kingston on Friday evening and will then proceed to Ottawa, spending a day in his office, before leaving for Fort William.

It was stated this morning, in Westmoreland County, that Hon. A. B. Copp will not be the Liberal candidate against Dr. O. B. Price, and that he has been called to the Senate. This will make five Senators from Westmoreland county out of the 10 that represent New Brunswick in the Senate.

The Conservative convention for Royal County takes place here this afternoon when George Jones, the sitting member, will receive the unanimous nomination. It is stated that former provincial Premier W. E. Foster will likely be the Liberal choice.

BRIEFS AND JOTTINGS FROM OUR LONDON CORRESPONDENT

LONDON, Sept. 22.—(Star Special Cable by J. E. Poole, Staff Correspondent.)—A social writer, in an afternoon paper, says the Prince of Wales will visit Edinburgh early next year as president of the Caledonian Curling Club, in order to attend the functions connected with the matches with the visiting Canadian curlers.

During the past months 4,000 persons have been killed and 100,000 injured in road accidents in Great Britain.

Rev. H. R. L. Sheppard, vicar of the famous church, St. Martins, in the Fields, London, is sailing for Canada on the Empress of France for a holiday tour in the Dominion.

KING PROMISES TO SATISFY RIGHTS OF MARITIME PEOPLE

Indignantly Denies Rates' Judgment Concession to West

STRESSES MARKETS

Replies to Opposition Leader's Demand for Treaty Details

ST. JOHN, N. B., Sept. 22.—(Star-Special by Staff Correspondent).—More than 2,000 electors of this city listened in silence to the Prime Minister here last evening until he promised that the rights accruing to the Maritime Provinces through the Pact of Confederation would be honorably and equitably satisfied. Then, they cheered. The gathering was more serious than enthusiastic and patently more given to the noting of arguments than to partisan display.

The Prime Minister based his appeal upon two major points. First, the railway rate structure as it applies to the Maritime Provinces, and, secondly, the campaign for wider markets. The rate argument brought the first outburst from the audience. Mr. King read the order-in-council directing the Board of Railway Commissioners to give particular attention to the Maritime Provinces in the pending rate case to be heard at Ottawa and added: "I do not think that Chief Commissioner McKeown, who is a St. John man, will overlook the claims of the Maritime Provinces."

The people of the Maritime Provinces claim the International Railway, now part of the Canadian National, was constructed for the express purpose of providing access to the markets of Ontario and Quebec on a low rate basis. Mr. King met them by declaring that, "I will undertake to see that any basis upon which the Maritime Provinces can put forward will be recognized to the full."

DENIES CONCESSION.

Mr. King lead up to his climax by indignantly denying Conservative charges that the recent judgment of the Board of Railway Commissioners, granting westbound grain and flour equal rail rates with similar products eastbound, was a concession to the West at the expense of the Maritime Provinces. He repeatedly emphasized that the position of the Eastern provinces would be given full recognition and he reviewed the history of the Crow's Nest Pass agreement from 1897 down to the present as indicating the attitude of Governments, as such, toward low rail rates.

THREATENED MILY FAMINE IS AVERTED

St. John Still Drinking Supply from King's County Farmers

ST. JOHN, N. B., Sept. 22.—(Star Special)—Dissention in the ranks of King's County farmers, who supply St. John with milk, has averted for the time being, a milk famine which was set to commence tomorrow. Normally, the city dealers receive about 1,500 cans of milk from this district and a check-up this morning revealed that 1,200 cans had been shipped in.

The milk producers, at a meeting Saturday, declared their intention of stopping the milk supply Tuesday, but apparently the majority of them have since decided not to use drastic measures to secure an advance in price.

F. J. Donegani, manager of one of the local milk plants, said today that the dealers did not feel the farmers' demand was justified. During the summer time the dealers paid 35 cents for the eight-quart can, f.o.b. shipping point, and since Sept. 1 had been paying 40 cents for the same sized can.

He said the dealers were willing to pay the 40-cent rate during September and October, and November to May they were prepared to pay a still higher rate because of the winter season and the extra cost of feed. Mr. Donegani said that the farmers were asking the dealers to pay winter prices for nine months of the year, and if the demands of the producers were met the retail cost of milk must be advanced.

PROHIBITION LAW COST $100,000,000

Hundreds Injured and 46 Enforcement Officers Killed in Fights

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—(A.P.)—Enforcing prohibition laws has cost the Government nearly $100,000,000 during the five and a half years it has been in existence, figures compiled in Federal departments showed today.

In view of the opinion virtually expressed in the recent report of the Federal Council of Churches that "prhibition is still on trial," the United Press has attempted to survey the testimony of that "trial," both as regards costs and the effects.

In addition to the tremendous outlay of money for law enforcement, 46 prohibition officers have been killed and hundreds injured in line of duty.

IRISH COMMANDANT KILLED IN CRASH

DUBLIN, Sept. 22. — (A.P.) — Thomas Maloney, Commandant of the Irish Free State air force, was killed in a flying accident at Curragh today.

His machine crashed when he was flying low during an aviation tournament.

League Of Nations Voices Hope Chinese Parley Is Successful

GENEVA, Switz., Sept. 22. — (A. P.) — Carefully avoiding any embarrassing reference to the covenant clause which suggests revision of international treaties when they are found inapplicable, the League of Nations Assembly, today adopted a mild resolution, voicing hope that the forthcoming conference between the powers and China, will be successful.

Furthermore, the delegates deleted from the original draft of the resolution, all phrases drawing attention to the fact that the conference is for the study and remodelling of treaties, and contented themselves with an expression of deep interest in the plan of considering existing international conditions in China, according to the spirit of the Covenant.

REGISTRATION TO START THURSDAY

Provincial Election Lists Will Be Basis for Federal

EXPECT INCREASE

Machinery is Running Smoothly and No Large Extra Staff Needed

OTTAWA, Sept. 22—(Star Special by Own Correspondent)—If the normal ratio of increase has been maintained nearly 5,000,000 people will be eligible to vote in the coming general election. Last election the number on the lists aggregated 4,430,000. Of these, 3,119,000 exercised the franchise, the balance of over 1,250,000 staying at home.

Registration of voters in urban centres will begin all over Canada on Thursday and continue for six days. The enrolment of rural voters, which is a much simpler process, is to begin only on the first of October. The provincial lists are to be the basis of the new lists, providing they are not more than two years old.

In many cities and towns registration will double the number on the provincial lists. In Quebec, they will be more than doubled by reason of the fact that, provincially, women are not enfranchised. To a large degree the lists will be new. The law compels the use of provincial lists as a basis, where they do not exceed the age limit. As the Manitoba lists are something over two years old, probably a new one will be made.

There has been some criticism of the fact that no appeal is possible from the action of rural registrars, who make up the list and who, while adding names, may also leave some off who are eligible. A voter left off, however, may "swear in" his vote on polling day, if certified to by another elector of the sub-division. In cities or towns there is an appeal to a revising officer.

The process of removing "dead wood" from the lists has been much simplified. Heretofore, a registered letter had to be sent to the address of every dead elector and failure to respond was evidence of non-existence. Now anyone may cause a local registrar to send an ordinary notice and the revising officer will correct the list. In several other ways the act has been simplified and the election machinery is running so smoothly that the large extra staff, usually employed at headquarters to expedite the work, has not been necessary this year.

DEBT SETTLEMENT ATTRACTS INTEREST

Many Foreign Journalists in Washington for French-American Conference

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22 — (U.P.) — The debt settlement negotiations with France, which will start at the Treasury Department Thursday, are attracting international attention comparable only to that enjoyed by the Washington arms limitation conference here in 1921.

Not since that time have so many foreign journalists, for example, been in the capital at once to report the proceedings for the newspapers of their countries, which include France, Britain, Germany and Japan. Nearly a score of writers, many of whom were here for the arms conference, have arrived for the negotiations.

The settlement of the $4,000,000,000 obligation means far more to the world than the money the United States will get out of it, for the world's financial structure — and particularly that of Europe — is affected by it; and underlying the whole difficult problem is, as President Coolidge stresses, the broad matter of the sanctity of international obligations.

TO CALL GENERAL STRIKE IN MEXICO

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 22. — (A.P.) — The Regional Confederation of Labor has decided to call a general strike in protest against the Federal District Government's decision, that the walk-out of employes of the British-owned El Aguila Oil Company, is illegal. The date for the beginning of the strike has not yet been fixed.

The movement involves 90 labor unions in the Federal district and means stoppage of the majority of the public services, as well as a large number of industries.

BRITAIN MAY VOTE ON MINE PROBLEMS

LONDON, Sept. 22.—(Star Special Cable by J. E. Poole, Staff Correspondent.)—Hon. Mr. Jowett, Minister of Works in the Ramsay Macdonald Government, speaking at Merthyr, stated that it was possible that the Baldwin Government would be faced next July by a situation developing out of the mines problems, which, despite a big majority in the House of Commons, would force them to go to the country and ask for a further lease of power and a mandate to pass compulsory arbitration laws.

BRITAIN CAUTIOUS ON DISARMAMENT

Official Quiets Rumor That British Attitude has Changed

TURKEY BLUFFING

Says Government Does Not Believe Trouble Will Be Serious

LONDON, Sept. 22. — (Star Special Cable by J. E. Poole, Staff Correspondent.) — The cautious attitude of the British delegation to the League of Nations regarding disarmament, a world economic conference and compulsory arbitration, has resulted in so many rumors of Britain having changed her attitude of support of the League to one of opposition, that an inquiry in Government circles brought an authoritative explanation of the situation as follows:

"Implications on the continent, and the new world to the effect that the attitude of Britain towards the League has changed are entirely unfounded.

"The questions of disarmament, the economic conference and compulsory arbitration, are highly complicated in nature and might well prove disastrous to the League, and to all nations concerned, were action taken without the fullest and most critical examination. All these matters are at this moment actually under consideration by various commissions, but proceedings are not yet sufficiently advanced to permit of judgment being passed on the general attitude of the British, or indeed of any other delegation.

NOT OPPOSED.

"It can, however, be said that on disarmament, Britain, instead of opposing the Spanish resolution, heartily supported it and has even gone beyond its terms with the object of complying with the desire for preparatory examinations."

It was pointed out elsewhere that Great Britain has, in such problems, to keep in mind a series of potential issues of a kind not confronting other nations, for each self-governing Dominion in the Empire has its own special problems. Nevertheless, Britain has already signed over 200 arbitration treaties, governing special cases, and has submitted nearly as many if not more, disputes to the League than any other signatory.

Lord Cecil informed the press at Geneva that an agreement was reached with regard to a disarmament conference, to the effect that preparatory inquiry be instituted so that when a proper degree of security is attained a disarmament conference proper could be summoned.

I was also informed that the official feeling was that Turkey was putting up a bluff with regard to Mosul, and that she was probably encouraged by the outcry of a certain section of the British press against Britain retaining responsibility in Mosul, Irak, or Mesopotamia, and that it is not believed that anything really serious, let alone war, will result.

QUEBEC TO GREET PREMIER TOMORROW

QUEBEC, Sept. 22.—(Star Special)—Premier King will arrive here at two o'clock tomorrow afternoon from the Maritimes and will be given a demonstration. He will be officially received by the city. Prominent residents and leaders of the Liberal party will meet him.

The Premier will speak in the evening in St. Sauveur, the Labor division. Mayor Samson will read an address of welcome. Premier Taschereau will preside at the meeting.

In addition to the Premier, other speakers will be Hon. Ernest Lapointe, Hon. Senator Beland, Hon. A. J. P. A. Cardin, and Hon. Lucien Cannon.

MEIGHEN PLEDGES AID TO MARITIMES IN RAILWAY PLAN

ISOLATED ZONES

King is Charged With Not Keeping Election Promises

MONCTON, N. B., Sept. 22 —(Star Special by Staff Correspondent.) — The declaration was made here last night by the Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen that he would not sustain for an hour the British preference if the granting of it put out of employment the workmen of Canada.

The question of preferential treatment is one that has a peculiar interest for this district, for although it is a large railway centre, it also used to have a thriving woolen industry, but for the past year this has been steadily losing ground, and two mills have closed down within that period, throwing over 250 persons out of work, while the four industries that remain are working on half time and some had to pass their dividends. They cannot compete with the British woolen mills (where the cost of labor is little more than a third of what it is in Canada), particularly since the present Government increased the British preference by ten per cent and made the protection so low that many of the woollen mills have had to close their doors in the Maritimes as well as in Ontario, while others are holding on in the hope that conditions will soon be changed.

MAINTAIN THE TARIFF.

The Conservative leader told large audiences in the Capitol theatre, and in the city hall last night, that while he was in favor of giving preferential treatment to the other portions of the British Empire he would never give them a preference over Canada in her home market, and "would not sustain it for an hour if it puts in jeopardy the employment of our workmen; the children of our own country. "First of all," he declared, "maintain a tariff that gives us a solid safe protection in the land of our birth; give industry a chance to function in our own land; and then if we have to get things from outside give them a preference as within the Empire. That seems to me to be the sound policy. We have to stand in commercial matters for Canada first, all the time, and if not it will be impossible for Canada to hold up its head within the councils of the Empire."

U.S. NAVY AIR SERVICE UPHELD

Secretary Wilbur Urges Maintenance in Present Form, Before Inquiry

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22 — (A. P.) — Maintenance of the navy air service organization of the United States in substantially its present form, was advocated today by Secretary Wilbur before the Air Board, appointed by President Coolidge, as an outcome of charges of inefficiency brought by Col. William Mitchell, former Assistant Chief of the Air Service.

Called as the first witness of the day by the board, which yesterday inquired into the policy of the War Department and the army air service, Mr. Wilbur emphatically opposed creation of a department of national defence. Such a step, he declared, would be "wellnigh an irreparable mistake."

"Air forces," he asserted, "form an essential part of the fabric of the navy itself and its administration and its organization, like all other administrative problems, internal to the navy, will, if unmolested by outside influences, be solved with the same efficiency, and with the same happy results as has been obtained in similar problems in the past."

The Secretary likewise expressed opposition to establishment of the naval air service as a separate corps analogous to the marine corps and declared against a single air service, maintained for national defence but not under the army or navy.

The navy, he said, requires its own air force as "a vital element of naval battle," adding that if a "vitally component part of a navy is under the direction and authority of an independent air service, it removed from the naval commander that unity of command in time of battle and that uniformity of training in time of peace, which every war has proved to be essential to victory."

The Secretary then launched into a broad discussion of the tactical relation of the air service to other military arms.

FIGHTING STOPS ON MOROCCAN FRONT

French and Riffians Suspend Operations for Political Activities

FEZ, French Morocco, Sept. 22. — (A.P.)—For the time being military operations between the French forces and the Riffian tribesmen have given way to political activities, in which both sides are struggling to obtain the adhesion of wavering tribesmen.

Abd-El-Krim, the Riffian leader, is declared to be particularly active on the central section, where he is meeting with success. It is claimed by French officials, however, that the tribesmen in the west are submitting to the French in growing numbers.

All was calm today along the battle front, but the aviators were continuing systematically to bomb enemy villages and concentration points.

Chicago Doctors Clear Up Points Regarding T. B.

CHICAGO, Sept. 22. — (U. P.) — A great forward step in the fight on tuberculosis was announced today by Dr. Alexander Maximov, of the University of Chicago.

Dr. Maximov and Dr. F. J. Lang, of the University's anatomical laboratories, have been able to clear up many points which have remained obscured concerning the progress of the malady, the former said.

ASSERTS FARMERS "BOOTLEG" WHEAT

New York World Charges Canadian With Smuggling

MUST HAVE GRAIN

U.S. to Import Product or Must Use Inferior Bread

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—(Star Special).—Alleging that Canadian farmers are "bootlegging" their grain across the border. The World today says:

"The premium on American spring wheat, as compared with other grades, is so high at present that there is a prospect of large importation of Canadian wheat, in spite of the duty of 42 cents a bushel. Meanwhile, Canadian farmers, along our Northwestern border, are reported to be bootlegging their wheat into this country, in order to evade the duty. Because of the bulkiness of the product, this operation is more difficult than the smuggling of distilled grain products into the United States, and it will hardly attain the dimensions of that well-organized industry.

"This surreptitious export of Canadian grain seems, for some reason, to have strengthened the agitation of Canadian millers for an export tax on wheat. They argue that such a tax, pyramided on our present import tax, will lead this country to confine its imports of breadstuffs to flour, and thus increase the business of the Canadian flour mills. Incidentally, such a tax would result in the patrol of the border by both Governments, and thereby increase the difficulties of the grain bootleggers. Opposition of the farmers of western Canada, however, who have their bloc after the mode of their American neighbors, makes the adoption of any such duty highly improbable.

"Whatever the Dominion may do in this matter, we must continue to import Canadian wheat or flour, or else learn to eat inferior bread. The United States does not produce enough hard spring wheat to meet its domestic requirements for high grade white flour, and it imports a certain amount from Canada for blending with the soft grades. Of the latter we produce an exportable surplus, and for this reason the high duty does not protect the wheat growers where only soft winter wheat is raised. If the tariff on wheat bestows any benefits, they are restricted to the spring wheat belt of the Dakotas and Montana."

QUEBEC BIRTHS SHOW INCREASE

Figures for 1924 Total 84,815—Marriages and Deaths Also Gain

QUEBEC, Sept. 22.—(Star Special)—Based on figures from a report on births, marriages and deaths in the Province of Quebec in 1924, issued this morning by Col. G. E. Marquis, Chief Provincial Statistician, there was a slight increase in the number of deaths.

The bulletin is as follows:—

The number of births registered in 1924, is 84,815, of which 78,128 are Catholics and 6,687 Protestants and other denominations.

During the past 11 years; the number of births has not been below 80,000, but the figures have varied at different times as is shown by the following table:—1922, 88,377; 1923, 83,579; 1924, 84,815.

The number of marriages during 1924 is 17,696, of which 14,829 are Catholics and 2,868 Protestants and others.

The following figures cover the past three years—1922, 16,609; 1923, 17,361; 1924, 17,696.

The number of deaths registered in 1924 is 36,680, of which 33,797 are Catholics and 2,883 Protestants and others. This is an increase.

Taking as a basis the population, as estimated by municipal statistics, at 2,673,993, the birth rate, per 1,000 inhabitants, is 31.7; marriages 6.6, and that of deaths 13.7.

The natural increase is shown to be 48,135 or a proportion of 18.0 per 1,000 population.

REPORT CONVICTS IN GUN BATTLE

LONDON, Sept. 22. — (U.P.) — Swooping down upon the gun room of the penitentiary at Kielce, 400 convicts, according to a Central News Warsaw message, secured rifles and gave battle to the warders.

The latter resisted sharply, and 20 convicts and one warder were killed, the message said. Thereupon the convicts fled—with troops pursuing.

The soldiery succeeded in rounding up the fugitives after killing 5 and wounding 11 seriously, according to the dispatch.

LEAGUE COUNCIL IS ASKED TO SEND ENVOYS TO ZONE

British Delegation at Geneva Makes a Plea for Action

SERIOUS CHARGES

London Officials Express Surprise That Appeal is Made

GENEVA, Sept. 22.—(A. P.) — Great Britain made a new move in the Mosul controversy in a note addressed to the Council of the League of Nations today.

The British delegation asked that the League Council meet as soon as possible to consider the Turkish alleged deportation of Christians from the Mosul area and to dispatch league representatives to the scene to investigate the charges made by Great Britain and the counter-charges put forward by Turkey.

Dispatch of these investigators was urged as the most practical means of preventing fresh difficulties. The Turks have denied deporting Christians from Mosul and accuse the British of occupying points temporarily held by Turkish troops.

The British, in their communique to the Council, stated that not only had Turkish troops deported Christians from that section of Mosul provisionally held by Turkey pending the Council's decision as to the sovereignty of the entire territory, but that they had also exiled Christians living south of the so-called Brussels line, which is occupied by the British.

The communique says the British Government feels strongly that, quite apart from the humanitarian considerations involved in the forcible deportation of unhappy peoples, into a cold, inhospitable region, Turkey's latest action constitutes a distinct violation of the territorial status quo and the treaty of Lausanne.

The delegates to the Assembly again went on record today as opposed to any changes at present in the statutes of the permanent court of International justice.

Having induced Uruguay to withdraw its proposal for revision of statutes because such action might block possible adherence to the court by the United States, the delegates at today's session adopted a resolution postponing the Danish project to establish a conciliation commission as a branch of the court.

POLITICAL QUANDARY

LONDON, Sept. 22. — (B.U.P.) — The political quandary in which Britain finds herself, owing to developments of recent weeks, is arousing much discussion and not a little anxiety. The situation is summed up in a cartoon appearing this morning in the London press which shows a giant thug representing the coal industry, Mosul and other vexations standing menacingly, but unseen, by Premier Baldwin.

Similarly Lloyd George is depicted as "Little Boy Blue" who is using all his suavity and charm to coax at least ten Liberals and Farmers towards him, playing the song of his land campaign on his horn, but having little or no effect, while Ramsay Macdonald is fighting for moderation and saneness in Labor ranks against the radicalism of Messrs. Cook and Co. The tribulations of all three leaders added to the fact that all are opposed to one another, indicates the quandary in which the politicians find themselves, which is intensified in the case of "John Citizen."

Lord Beaverbrook and Lord Rothermere are endeavoring to outdo one another in their attacks on the Irak policy of the Government, in spite of the fact that such an attitude is generally regarded as unpatriotic and reverses the stand they took in 1919, when the same situation arose and all agreed that it was politic to stay in Irak at that time.

ATTACK PERSONAL

Lord Beaverbrook's attack seems to be purely personal and a vendetta against the Government, while Lord Rothermere is merely backing up his own Sydney Commission which enquired into Irak. Their stand, however, is believed to be responsible for a good deal of Turkey's bluff because Angora thinks that Britain will split, whereas all sensible people realize that the future of Irak, particularly the future of Bagdada, as the great air station on the India route, makes retention of the mandate a necessity. Added to this is the desire which the people of Irak themselves have expressed that the British should retain their mandate for the present since they realize that if they leave, the Turks will take the first opportunity to massacre more Christians.

British officials express surprise at the action of the League in referring the Mosul question to the Hague Court of International Justice when the need for an instant decision was so obvious. By this action the League has lost prestige in Britain and those who supported it have lost some of their enthusiasm.

There seems, however, little likelihood of an immediate clash as the Turks are in no position to make a move that would involve them in costly hostilities. If such an eventuality occurs it will likely be short and sharp as the East of Asia Minor would be demolished by the fleet, and the air force now in Irak could easily wipe out the Turkish force.

USE BOMBS TO DISLODGE FUGITIVE

PEORIA, Ill., Sept. 22.—(A.P.) — Joseph Spenras, a coal miner, who shot and killed Sheriff Orville Litchfield, of Marshall County and John Leonard, Toluca police chief, was surrounded in a farm house near Talera early today by a posse, which asked that tear bombs be rushed from Peoria to dislodge the fugitive.

Spenras previously had escaped from a house in Toluca in which he had barricaded himself after the shooting.

SOCIAL AND PERSONAL

Approaching Marriage.

The marriage of Miss Winifred Marion Tait, only daughter of Sir Thomas and Lady Tait, to Mr. John W. Forney, of Montreal, formerly of Philadelphia, son of the late General Forney, of the United States Marines, and of Mrs. Forney, has been arranged to take place on Wednesday afternoon, October 28, at four o'clock, at St. George's Church.

Abbott—Chisholm.

The marriage took place this afternoon, at half-past three o'clock, at the Church of St. James the Apostle, Rev. Canon Shatford officiating, of Mary Winifred, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Chisholm, 75 Aberdeen avenue, Westmount, to Mr. Douglas Charles Abbott, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Louis Duff Abbott, of Lennoxville. The decorations in the church were carried out with autumn flowers and ferns. The bride, who was given away by her father, wore an ivory ring velvet gown with circular cut skirt and rose point lace yoke, the girdle being of pearls. Rosepoint lace also adorned the court train which was lined with orchid georgette and a wreath of orange blossoms banded her tulle veil which was worn in cap effect. She wore the gift of the groom, a platinum bar pin set with sapphires and diamonds and she carried a shower bouquet of sweetheart roses, orchids and lilies-of-the-valley. Miss Helen Chisholm was her sister's maid of honor, wearing hand-painted yellow silk French voile finished at the waistline with a girdle of wild aster velvet ribbon, and a hat in vagabond style of wild aster velvet ribbon. The bridesmaids, Miss Alida Star, of Toronto; Miss Katherine Champ, of Hamilton; Miss Claire Musseil, and Miss Audrey Stewart, wore gowns of orchid hand-painted French silk voile, made with capes, and girdles of wild aster velvet ribbon. Their hats were similar to the maid of honor's and all four attendants carried arm bouquets of pink roses. The little flower girl, Miss Janet Speid, of Lennoxville, cousin of the groom, wore a dainty frock of apple green georgette with hat to match, and carried a tiny Colonial bouquet. Master Philip Goodfellow acted as page, wearing a white sailor suit. Mr. J. H. H. Robertson was best man, and the ushers were, Mr. G. R. McCall, Mr. W. F. Lighthall, Mr. A. E. D. Tremaine and Mr. G. W. Chisholm, brother of the bride. Following the ceremony a reception was held at the residence of the bride's parents, where autumn flowers and greenery were used to decorate the rooms. Mrs. Chisholm, mother of the bride, wore a gown of beige lace and a black hat and she carried a bouquet of orchids; Mrs. K. S. Le Baron, sister of the groom, wore powder blue crepe-back satin with a hat to match. Later the bride and groom left for New York and other points, Mrs. Abbott travelling in a crayon blue peach bloom cloth wrap over a dress of the same tones, the wrap being finished at the cuffs, collar and hem with Japanese mink. Her velour hat was in vagabond style. On their return they will reside in the Metcalfe apartments, Cote St. Antoine road. Among the out-of-town guests present were: Judge Chisholm, grandfather of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Foster, Mrs. J. Dennis, Mrs. Needler, Miss Mary Needler, all of Toronto; Miss Kathleen Dunbar, Miss Helen Guthrie, Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Keatinge, of Guelph, Ont.; Miss Robina Stewart, of Chicago; Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Abbott, Miss Abbott, Mrs. W. J. H. McKindsey, Miss Margaret McKindsey, Mr. and Mrs. C. S. White, Miss Dorothy White, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Speid, of Lennoxville and Sherbrooke, Que; and Mrs. K. S. Le Baron, of Dryden, Ont.

Entertaining Bride-elect.

Among those entertaining in honor of Miss Gertrude Fetherston prior to her marriage this week are: Miss Althea McLean, who gave a tea and kitchen shower last Wednesday. Mrs. Gordon McBoyle was luncheon hostess at the St. James Club on Friday, which was followed by a reception given by Miss Fetherston's sister, Mrs. E. Mead Clark. Yesterday Mrs. Thomas McMaster entertained at the tea hour, and this afternoon Miss Frances McMaster is entertaining at bridge. This evening Mrs. E. S. Jaques is giving a bridge in honor of her son, Mr. Lovel Jaques and the bride-elect.

Portwine—Philip.

The wedding is taking place at half-past five o'clock this evening at Calvin-Westminster Presbyterian Church, of Charlotte Milne (Lottie), youngest daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Philip, to Frederick William, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Portwine, of Montreal South. The Rev. Dr. Geo. Ross, Moderator, will officiate, and Mr. Barkes will preside at the organ. The church will be prettily decorated with palms, ferns and asters, the guests' pews being marked with silver gauze bows. The bride, given away by her brother-in-law, Mr. H. Musselman, will wear a gown of ivory flat crepe, trimmed with guipre lace and insertion. Her tulle veil will be held in place with orange blossoms and silver ribbon. She will carry a bouquet of Ophelia roses, white heather, sent from Scotland by the bride's aunt; and lilies-of-the-valley. The only attendant will be Miss Helen Reid, who will wear a georgette frock of pale yellow, over yellow satin, with insertions of guipre lace, and picture hat of black panne velvet with single rose of yellow. Her bouquet will be of sunburst roses tied with shaded yellow tulle. Mr. B. Portwine will be his brother's best man, and the ushers will be the messrs. Philip Musselman and Charles Rudge. Following the ceremony a reception will be held at the residence of the bride's sister, Mrs. H. Musselman, where the rooms will be decorated with ferns and asters. Later Mr. and Mrs. Portwine will leave for their honeymoon, the bride wearing a navy blue poiret twill suit, with black velvet hat and sand trimmings and amber fox fur.

Williamson—Hillary.

The wedding of Katheryn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Hillary, of Toronto, to Mr. Alexander Baptist Williamson of Guelph, son of Mrs. R. S. Williamson, of Montreal, and the late Mr. Williamson, took place on Saturday at 43 Roxborough East, Toronto. Dr. George C. Pidgeon officiated, and Miss Mary Gerden, of Vancouver played the wedding music. The bride, who was given away by her father, wore white georgette, richly embroidered in silver. The long veil hung gracefully from a coronet of Spanish lace and orange blossoms, which were worn by her mother on her wedding day. Heather and pearls added charm to the veil, and she carried a shower bouquet of butterfly roses, lilies of the valley and blue cornflowers. Miss Eleanor Aubin, the bridesmaid, wore a frock of beige lace over flame-colored satin, and carried a bouquet of garden flowers. Mr. James Alexander, of Guelph, acted as best man. After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Hillary, Mrs. Williamson and the wedding party welcomed the guests. In the drawing-room, amid the soft harmonious blending of high standards and baskets of asters, roses ferns and daintily-covered antique furniture, the bride and bridegroom received. The guests then entered the dining-room, where the bride's table was in white and silver, with masses of roses, lilies of the valley and silver candles. Mrs. Hillary wore a dress of orchid georgette, embroidered in crystal, and carried a bouquet of orchids. Mrs. Williamson, mother of the bridegroom, wore black lace and crepe, with corsage bouquet of crimson roses. Miss Williamson wore forget-me-not blue crepe, with corsage bouquet of pink roses. Mr. and Mrs. Williamson left later on a trip by motor for the White Mountains, Portland and New York, the bride going away in a brown ensemble costume, trimmed with brown squirrel, and strand of amber beads. Her brown velvet hat had yellow hackle feathers, and she wore a corsage bouquet of yellow roses.

Unionist Fete at Minto House.

Lord and Lady Minto are in Scotland in residence at Minto House, their place near Hawick, which they recently lent for a big Unionist fete, at which Sir Robert Horne was the principal speaker. Lord Balkeith, the member for the division, also spoke, and Lord Minto made a speech of welcome. Lady Minto wore lavender crepe de chine with hat to match, and Lady Balkeith had a coat and frock of rose-colored kasha and a rose-trimmed hat. She accompanied Lord and Lady Desborough, who are staying with her at Eildon Hall. Lady Desborough wore a pretty chestnut coat of satin kasha with the new side panels.

Lady Minto

Reiffenstein—Lightbourn.

St. Judges Anglican church, Oakville, Ont., was artistically decorated by the Chancel Guild, for the marriage which took place last Thursday afternoon, of Lesley, daughter of Mr. E. T. Lightbourn, president of the Oakville Golf Club, and of Mrs. Lightbourne, to Mr. John Christopher Reiffenstein, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Reiffenstein, of Elm avenue, Westmount. The ceremony was performed by Rev. C. E. Riley. The bride, who was given away by her father, wore her travelling suit, an ensemble of navy blue and rose cloth and crepe de chine with hat to match and carried a shower bouquet of sunset roses. Her sister, Ruth, acted as bridesmaid, wearing a smart frock of pencil blue crepe with hat to match and carried a bouquet of pink roses. The groom was supported by his brother, Mr. Eric Reiffenstein, of Westmount. Later a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents for relatives and intimate friends, of the bridal couple. Following a honeymoon trip up the Saguenay they will reside near Montreal. Out-of-town guests at the wedding included Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Reiffenstein, the Misses Reiffenstein, the Messrs. Reiffenstein, Mr and Mrs. Clement Reiffenstein, all of Montreal; and Mrs. J. A. Walker and Miss Evelyn Walker, of Winnipeg.

LADY MOSLEY IS SOCIALIST CHOICE

STOKE-ON-TRENT, Eng., Sept. 22.—(A.P.) — Lady Cynthia Mosley, daughter of the late Marquis Curzon, was unanimously nominated Monday, as the Labor candidate for a seat in Parliament to represent this constituency. She was the sole nominee, but is not likely to become a member of the House until the next general elections.

Lady Cynthia told her constituents that she accepted the whole program of the Socialist party.

The recent announcement that Lady Cynthia Mosley would stand for Parliament as a Socialist, caused considerable commotion among England's aristocracy, for her noted father was unalterably opposed to Socialism and the Socialistic view. Lady Cynthia, whose mother was Mary Leiter, daughter of the late Levi E. Leiter, of Chicago, has always shown a spirit of political independence. She was married in 1920 to Lieut. Oswald Mosley, who sat in the House as an Independent Socialist for Harrow and last year she announced her conversion to Socialism, saying: "I am heart and soul with my husband in this matter."

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D

IRON

The advertisements you see daily regarding the "iron" that certain foods, fruits, or proprietary medicines contain may well get you thinking about the value of iron in the blood. Our physiologists tell us that the life of the red corpuscle, the little iron carrying body in the blood is just six weeks, and that several million of these little bodies die every second. This gives us some idea of the tremendous demand for iron that the body makes, in order to keep the blood rich and full of life-giving qualities. Almost all the iron in the body—about 95 per cent, is in these little blood cells.

The natural way to get the necessary amount of iron into the system is by eating. Some foods are much richer in iron than others, and where one is run down, thin, anaemic as it is called, then the right kind of food is most important.

Now your leafy vegetable has its iron and under ordinary circumstances if you eat plenty of lettuce, spinach, cabbage and so forth you'll do all right. But in emergencies your best plan is to get the iron as manufactured from the grasses into beef, lamb, or pork. Rare meat is one of the richest iron foods we have.

Fortunately milk is usually easily digested and is an excellent form in which to secure the necessary iron. Eggs are also rich in iron.

You have been reading recently of a number of cases where the blood was deficient in quantity and in quality, and that a transfusion of blood was made from a healthy subject. Now as your blood is your builder, maintaining every tissue in the body, you can readily see that a quantity of rich pure blood put into the system, is going to have a real life giving effect thereon. In most anaemic conditions due to illness or loss of blood, this transfusion is wonderfully effective. In pernicious, the severe anaemia, it often helps the individual for some years. However, you and I can get all the iron we need in a well mixed daily diet. If you get run down get your iron in concentrated form as found in milk, meats and eggs. They are somewhat constipating, but hot water, stewed fruits, apples, oranges, and grape fruit should correct this condition.

LONDON, Ont., Sept. 22. — (C.P.) — Over one thousand young people of the London Conference of the United Church of Canada gathered in St. Andrew's Church last night, and recorded their condemnation of the liquor traffic, race track gambling and social impurity as they saw it existing in Canada today.

FROM THE STAR FILES

THIRTY YEARS AGO.

September 22, 1895, fell on a Sunday.

TWENTY YEARS AGO.

(From The Star Files, Friday, September 22, 1905.)

New York—Arrangements are being perfected for the mass meeting of Irishmen at Carnegie Hall, on Sunday night at which Mr. W. H. K. Redmond will speak. When seen today at the Hoffman House, Mr. Redmond said: "It is a mistake for Americans to believe that there is no longer an Irish question. There is an Irish question and there will be one as long as the Irish people maintain the right to make their own laws. The Land Act and other concessions, while acceptable in their way, only make the Irish people more determined in their fight for Home Rule."

Oyster Bay, L. I.—Secretary of State Elihu Root, Senator Lodge, of Massachusetts, and Joseph H. Choate, former Ambassador to Great Britain, who spent Wednesday night at Sagamore Hill, as guests of President Roosevelt, left Oyster Bay yesterday for New York. The conference between the President and his visitors was admittedly important. It is learned that the most important international question considered at the conference was that relating to the second peace conference to be held at The H—g—.

London — Colonel Francis William Rhodes, brother of the late Cecil Rhodes, died yesterday at Capetown, from fever. He was prominent in the Jameson Raid, and was arrested by the Transvaal Government, pleaded guilty to the charge of high treason and was sentenced to death. The sentence subsequently was commuted to imprisonment, followed by banishment. The Colonel served with great distinction in the campaigns in the Soudan and on several occasions was mentioned for bravery.

Montreal—On account of demands being made upon the city, by municipalities which are being annexed, as to their right of collecting school taxes, City Treasurer Robb has prepared a statement showing just what the school tax is, and how it would be extremely difficult to give new wards rights, in regard to collecting the school tax, which would make it almost impossible for the city to control the tax.

Ottawa—A morning paper announced editorially that Mr. J. M. Courtney Deputy Minister of Finance, had resigned and that he would in all probability be succeeded by Captain T. C. Boville, who has been chief clerk of the department since 1902, and who acted as Deputy Minister on a number of occasions.

WOMEN LIBERALS MET

The Women's Liberal Club of St. Antoine and St. Joseph Division, held a rally last night at the Liberal Club rooms on St. Antoine street, when 153 women voters were added to the list. Mrs. May O'Dell, president of the club, addressed the meeting.

URGES INTENSIVE EFFORT TO SECURE BRITISH SETTLERS

Sir Arthur Currie Believes Better Results are Possible

TELLS OF VISIT

Conditions Overseas Favorable for Expounding of Canadian Riches

That the people of Great Britain are still uninformed of the great resources and possibility of Canada and that sustained and sincere efforts to enlighten them are largely lacking, is the conviction of Sir Arthur Currie, Principal of McGill University, who has returned to Montreal after spending the summer in England.

"I don't think Canadians are making the effort they should make to keep the resources, the possibilities and chances there are for men in this country before the public of Great Britain," Sir Arthur said yesterday. "I don't think Canada is advertised the way she should be. One has only to read the London press to know that. The absence of Canadian news in the newspapers was such as to lead me to ask editors of newspapers what was the reason. Of course there were paragraphs of news events, but of real informative articles about Canada I saw nothing.

"I was not impressed that there was any sincere or outstanding effort to place the opportunities of our country before the British public in the light that a country of our richness and resources should be placed, if we are seeking immigrants. On the other hand, Australia seems to be losing no opportunity. I visited the Canadian exhibit at Wembley, and was most impressed with its variety, its extent, and its arrangement. It seemed to me to be a wonderfully fine exhibit. But there seemed to be a little more life and activity in the Australian Building. That may just have happened so on the two days I was there, but I wondered if it was because it was more popular.

NOT IMPRESSED

"I don't know what the Canadian immigration policy is, but whatever it is, I wasn't impressed by its effectiveness."

Sir Arthur is convinced that Canada has everything to offer to the courageous settler ,and that the Dominion has a great future before her as an agricultural country. "When one realizes the increased demand for farming products, and realizes that the land available for farming purposes is steadily being used up all over the world and cannot, when all is used up, be increased by as much as an ell; that farmers will use better and better methods, not only of farming, but of marketing and will tend to do away with the middleman who consumes too much of the profits, one cannot help feeling that there is a bright future before the agricultural industry of Canada."

Sir Arthur went to England this summer to recuperate after the operation he underwent in June of this year and to see old friends of the war days. "I saw a great many old friends and spent many happy hours with them, and I found they were the same sterling gentlemen that I knew during the war. They sent all sorts of messages to all who served with the Canadian troops, and they look back upon it, as I look back upon it, as the proudest experience of their lives. I found that the battles waged by Canadian troops had been closely studied in the staff colleges of Great Britain and in the staff colleges of France. I met French generals who told me they had devoted much study to the exploits of the Canadian troops, and that in the light of that study, Canadian deeds had lost nothing of the glamor that surrounded them."

FOUND NO OPTIMISM

Of the present situation in Great Britain Sir Arthur spoke with seriousness. He found concern and fear for the future permeating all ranks, and the "dole sapping the morale of the workers.

"The old country has always possessed a great charm for me. One realizes it as a country with centuries of splendid culture behind it and a splendid past. When you are in London, you are in the heart of the world. But there is a condition there now that is patent to every eye.

"There are the unemployed, whose numbers do not seem to grow less; the silent shipyards on the Clyde. But most pronounced of all is the feeling of concern that seems to permeate all ranks. In no quarter did I find any note of optimism. People felt that all was not well, and that something would have to happen before things would be right again.

"I won't say they were pessimistic, but they were full of concern and what I regard as fear for the future. Not that they were afraid that Britain could not weather the storm, but they did feel there were rough days ahead. I don't intend to venture a reason for that fear. But the great proportion of the population of Great Britain are laboring. They received high wages during the war, and they seem to be unwilling to make the necessary sacrifices to restore her trade, and her trade is her life-blood. I don't think all the sacrifices should be made by labor, but when I am told that two shillings and six pence a ton will give Great Britain back her coal markets it seems to me that between the miners, the operators, and the transportation companies, that two shillings and sixpence could be made up. Perhaps a saving could be made by better methods. I don't say the saving must be made by the cutting down of wages. It may be that it could be brought about by greater production and improved methods. But there is grave need for study in the situation.

CONDEMNED SETTLEMENT.

"I found universal condemnation of the method of averting the threatened coal strike in Great Britain. Some doubtless thought it was the only thing to be done under the circumstances. But it was no solution of the trouble.

"I also believe that the dole is sapping the morale of the workers, and that something must be found to render the dole unnecessary. In my opinion it is wrong to bring up young people to the idea that whether they work or not they will be provided with a living.

"While the dole is bad for the individual, it is equally bad for business. The dole for the coal-mining industry, which is what the subsidy really amounts to, is no solution whatever.

"The Old Country at the present time is like a Division whose morale wants watching. I feel that the issues involved have never been squarely placed before the people. Certainly they have never been made the sole issue in an election, and they must be, for the difficulties must be adjusted by constitutional methods." Sir Arthur concluded.

Caught

Sought

Ernest Bazanti, wanted with Mauro. His arrest at the coast is expected hourly.

TWO ARE INJURED IN AUTO SMASH

Montrealers Reported in Critical Condition at Notre Dame

Two Montrealers are in a critical condition at the Notre Dame Hospital as the result of an automobile accident which took place between Varennes and Boucherville, a few minutes after 11 o'clock this morning. The doctor who accompanied the ambulance on its run was unable to glean any details as to the cause of the trouble, beyond the fact that the car in which the two men had been riding was badly wrecked by the roadside.

Charles Stevens, aged 30, of 102b St. Urbain street, is a ward case at the hospital with a fractured spine, while his companion, Peter Basolas, aged 23, of 643 Dorchester street east, is suffering from a fractured thigh and severe head injuries, involving a probable fracture of the skull.

English-Speaking Prisoner Asks for All-French Jury

"The language of the defence is French," said Charles O'Reilly, charged with attempted murder, as he stepped into the prisoner's dock at the Court of King's Bench at noon today.

"Can you speak French?" queried Court Clerk Godin, in surprise.

"No, I can't speak a word of French," replied O'Reilly, "but I want a French jury."

"You may have a French-speaking jury if you want to, said the Court. "That is your privilege."

The charge against O'Reilly resulted from a brawl in a tavern on St. Catherine street east in which firearms were discharged. O'Reilly is represented by J. Wilfrid Pilon, K.C.

ALLEGED GUNMAN IN DREAMLAND MURDER ARRESTED

Montreal Detective Follows Trail to Vancouver—Makes Capture

ANOTHER SUSPECT

Orchestra Man Slain When Pair Held Up Dance Club

Alleged to be one of two men who shot their way to freedom when an effort was made to frustrate their attempt to hold up the Dreamland Dance Club, St. Lawrence Boulevard, on the night of July 22, when Donald Carragher, a member of the Belmont Park orchestra was murdered and E. A. Duffy, of Malone, N.Y., was wounded, Joseph Mauro alias James Corney was arrested in Vancouver, B.C., late Monday afternoon.

The arrest of Ernest Bazanti, who police allege, was the second member of the pair that planned and executed the midnight foray, is expected hourly. Vancouver police combed that city yesterday and expect Bazanti's capture by today at the latest.

Nearly two weeks ago, according to the local authorities, Sergeant-Detective Armand Brodeur, came across a clue that led him to believe the fugitives were hiding in Vancouver. He worked on the information for a week before finally making certain his quarry could be located in the Coast city.

Then he preceeded to British Columbia and with the help of police sought and found Mauro yesterday. Jack Kileen, Vancouver detective, made the arrest.

"There is no doubt as to the identity of the man held here," Detective Brodeur, at Vancouver, telegraphed his chief today. Previous to the murder, the wanted men were well known to police here. Brodeur, it is declared, positively identified Corney as the man known in Montreal's underworld as Joseph Mauro.

At least seven people who were in the Dreamland Club when the hold up took place could identify Mauro if he were brought back to this city, detectives who have been working on the case declared today.

On the night of July 22, two men who police assert were Mauro and Bazanti entered the Dreamland Dance Club with drawn revolvers and forced about fifty merry-makers and club employes against the wall while they began to loot the crowd.

A waiter was forced to pass a hat.

E. A. Duffy, of Malone, N.Y., a visitor to the city and guest at the Club precipitated the shooting when he refused to hand over his money and threw a chair at one of the thugs.

During the gun battle that immediately followed Duffy was seriously wounded and Carragher, a drummer, struck by a stray bullet that entered his stomach, died two days later.

With guns spitting a hail of lead the bandits fought their way to the front door of the club and on St. Lawrence Boulevard, commandeered a taxi-cab, pressed a revolver muzzle into the driver's neck and forced him to drive them from the scene.

When Carragher died, warrants for the arrest of Mauro and Bazanti were issued. A number of hold-up victims taken to detective headquarters picked photographs of those two men from a selection in the Rogues Gallery and declared that they were the ones responsible for the shooting.

Sergeant Detective Brodeur will remain in Vancouver until Bazanti is arrested or until it is made certain that he has left that city. It is expected that Mauro will be returned to Montreal by the beginning of next week, when he will be arraigned on a charge of murder ,according to Detective Captain Mercier.

GAUTHIER GUILTY OF WOUNDING SON

Jury Convicts Farmer of Wounding Step-son in Duel

ADAM FREED

St. Basil Le Grand Man Conducted Own Defence

Georges Gauthier was found guilty of wounding, in connection with his revolver duel with his stepson, Joe Adam on July 23. Gauthier was wounded by his stepson but the latter was discharged by the jury.

Claiming that he was looking for a cherished momento—an old sleigh which had been left him by his father—Georges Gauthier, accused of attempting to murder his 16-year-old stepson at St. Basil le Grand endeavored to explain his presence on his wife's farm on the day of the shooting.

Georges Gauthier took the stand on his own behalf and told of going to his wife's house to get a sleigh and, finding it was padlocked in a barn, he broke the padlock with a hammer. He said that he had never owned a firearm since 1914.

He testified that he knew his wife's barn had burned down but he denied that she had had to hire a special guardian to look after her property.

"He was no guardian," exclaimed the accused. "He took my place in my wife's affections. That's what he was doing there."

Two witnesses were called by the Crown who swore that they had seen the prisoner with a revolver during the past year.

The accused then addressed the jury calling its attention to the fact that he alone was wounded in the struggle. As Gauthier had no lawyer, the Crown waived its right to address the jury.

Mr. Justice Wilson explained the nature of the indictment and the different verdicts open to the jurors, attempted murder, wounding, assault or acquittal, and the jury retired and returned in 25 minutes.

Following this conviction Crown Prosecutor Ernest Bertrand declared that the Crown had no proof to offer against Gauthier's stepson, Joseph Adam. Charlemagne Rodier, K.C., solicitor for Adam, moved for his client's discharge and he was released from custody by Mr. Justice Wilson.

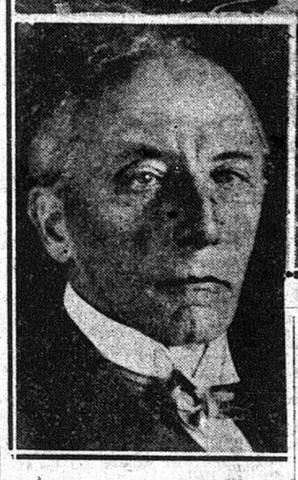

The trial of Josephine Laroche, accused of murder, was fixed for October 5, and that of Joseph Therrien, charged with the theft of a bicycle for October 6.

DIES SUDDENLY.

Complaining of feeling ill a few minutes after rising at 7:30 this morning, Nazaire Jevry, aged 64, of 2120 Harbour street, returned to bed, and was there found dead within a few minutes. The police were notified and the body removed to the morgue, where an autopsy was performed today, for the inquest to be held tomorrow morning. Death appears to have been due to natural causes. The deceased had been in indifferent health for some time.

ALLEGE DEATH THREATS USED BY FOUR TO GET RID OF WITNESSES

Eddie, alias Kid Baker, Michael Seager, Kid Oblay, alias Muckly, Dave Scheader, alias Eddie Davis, appeared this morning before Judge Enright, charged with intimating witnesses in connection with drug cases and helping them to defeat the ends of justice.

Mrs. Mildred Messier also appeared before the same Judge and was ordered held as material witness in the case of the accused until tomorrow morning, when the preliminary investigation will take place. No charge was made against her, and F. Philippe Brais, assistant-crown counsel, stated that she will be released as soon as she has given her testimony tomorrow.

The round-up of the four accused by the Canadian Royal Mounted Police last night, following the disappearance from the city of Fred Sebotsky and another witness, who was not mentioned, who were to appear for the Crown against Baker. The Crown alleged that these two missing men have been "shanghaied" out of the city by the accused with threats to kill and are now across the border.

At the special demand of Mr. Brais, the men will be conveyed this afternoon to Bordeaux jail instead of awaiting their re-appearance tomorrow.

Mr. Brais stated that on Friday evening last, Baker, who was then under arrest at headquarters was allowed to be visited by friends, and following this visit the disappearance of Sebotsky and the other witness against Baker took place. He asserted that the two missing men were conducted to a train bound for the United States by men armed with weapons, and that if the two men had not followed instructions given them to decamp, they would have been molested and probably killed.

Jos. Cohen, appearing for the accused, denied his confrere's statement, and asked that enquete be held at once. After some discussion, Judge Enright set the proceedings for tomorrow, and an entry was made in the record that under no circumstance should the accused be allowed on bail.

Following these incidents, enquete was made in the case of Kid Baker, charged with selling, and having in his possession narcotic drugs. After the evidence given by Sergeants Styram and Eld, of the R.C.M.P., who made the arrest, the accused was committed for voluntary statement also fixed for tomorrow.

Constable Reduces Sailor's Assailants From 25 to 1

Twenty-five husky denizens of the water front violently attacked Watson Powers, sailor, when he was on shore leave from his boat late Monday night.

This morning Powers woke up in the cells at Police Headquarters with a charge of drunkenness against him. One of his flashing blue orbs had been made bluer and black in spots by somebody's fist. Bruises on various parts of his body had been created with a piece of lead pipe, he claimed.

When arraigned before Acting Recorder Morrison, Powers was convinced the whole world had a grudge against him. He graphically related the story of his battle with the twenty-five men.

"They were one too many for me to handle," he said.

The policeman who arrested Powers told a different tale, and reduced Powers' quota of 25 attackers to one.

The accused paid $3 and costs for the privilege of battling 25 men at once and was permitted to return to his ship and the briny ocean.

Miss Margaret Ritchie Bell will also sing.

ARREST FUGITIVE, WOUNDED, SILENT

Miller, Alias Cleveland, Wanted in Connection With $20,000 Case

George Miller, alias Jack Cleveland, hunted by the police of Quebec and Montreal for over a year in connection with a $20,000 drug theft at Chicoutimi in September, 1924, was arrested by Montreal detectives here today. When taken to headquarters for examination, Miller was discovered to have a recently inflicted wound in his right arm, information respecting which he refused to divulge. He is being taken to Quebec late today for trial.

Four men are now in the penitentiary following conviction in the Chicoutimi case, one of them, Philip Fafard, an ex-detective, is serving five years. In addition to the arm wound, Miller bears a scar on one thigh, resulting from being shot by Buffalo, N.Y., police when he escaped custody last summer following arrest in connection with an alleged bootlegging enterprise.

Detectives Gauthier, Philip Belanger, Tourville and Maloney made the arrest here today.

The Political Situation In Canada

The Prime Minister added an interesting sidelight to his intimation of rate concessions to the East when he said that the increase in Sir Henry Thornton's salary from $50,000 to $65,000 was provided for in the original contract with Sir Henry, conditional upon improvement in the financial standing of the system. Mr. King further defended the increase by stating that when he took office two presidents were directing the affairs of the publicly-owned lines, each drawing substantial sums.

The attitude that relief for business in the Maritime Provinces could only come from the development of additional overseas markets was again stressed, Mr. King emphasized the trade treaties already in operation, and again, pointing to the West Indian Trade Agreement as evidence of good faith. In this connection, he replied to Mr. Meighen's demand for the details of the agreement by producing official bluebooks containing the information. Mr. King further pointed out that the Treaty had been published in the newspapers immediately after it had been negotiated.

"Mr. Meighen owes something more to the people," he said, adding, that while "Mr. Meighen was not a bad soul," he was always preaching blue ruin. Mr. King recalled that at a dinner to the West Indian delegates in Ottawa Mr. Meighen had joined in congratulations upon the completion of the new Treaty.

The West Indian Treaty had perhaps a greater value he declared in that it would tend to keep trade within the Empire and thereby prevent an economic union between the British West Indies and the United States.

Mr. King dealt at length with his policies on Senate reform and tariff. Hon. A. B. Copp, Secretary of State, and Hon. H. S. Beland, both criticised the Conservatives and urged the acceptance of the Liberal policies.

CLAIMS ORDER FAIR

ST. JOHN, N. B., Sept. 22.—(C.P.)—At the first of his two meetings in New Brunswick, Premier King last night sharply broke new ground. He warmly challenged reported statements by Mr. Meighen, Opposition leader, that the Government had legislated on railway rates in favor of the West and he questioned Mr. Meighen's further assertion that the Canada-West Indies Treaty was not before the country. Mr. King further expressed the view that the order of the Railway Commission granting Crow's Nest rates on west-bound grain and flour was "fair and just."

What the Government had done in the matter of railway rates, pressed the Prime Minister, was to instruct the Railway Commission to proceed with the work of equalization, making the only limitation that Crow's Nest rates should apply on east-bound grain and flour. He sketched the history of the Crow's Nest Pass agreement, observing that the rates it stipulated were fixed by statute in 1897 and not by the present Government. Then, referring to the situation of last session, he continued: "We said to our Western friends, conditions have changed. We think you ought to forego part of the Crow's Nest Pass agreement. We will leave the rates on grain and flour. In regard to the other articles in the Crow's Nest agreement—agricultural implements and the like—you have got to take whatever rates the Railway Commission will give you. That was the position we took. Far from legislating in a way that was fastening and rivetting certain obligations on the people of this country to the benefit of the West and the detriment of the East, we cut in half the obligation as we found it."

The whole of Canada, he argued, was bound up in the rates on grain and flour; and he appealed to his Maritime audience to consider the position of the farmer on the prairies, farther removed than anyone in the Dominion from the advantage of water-borne competition with railway rates. He turned to the "recent judgment" of the Railway Commission granting Crow's Nest rates on west-bound grain and flour. "That," he said, "is simply carrying out the doctrine of equalization of rates. That seems to me equally fair and just. In the meantime, the Commission is working on the general question of railway rates."

And, in this inquiry, the Prime Minister went on, one of the instructions to the Railway Commission was that it should give particular attention to the claims asserted on behalf of the Maritime Provinces that they were entitled to restoration of the rate basis which they enjoyed prior to 1919 and to the encouragement of traffic through Canadian ports.

WANT CERTAIN RIGHTS

Here he spoke of Maritime rights. "We hear," he said, "that the people of the Maritimes want certain rights which were theirs when they came into Confederation. I do not belong to the Maritimes. I belong to another part of the Dominion. But I for one will take the position that there is an obligation on other parts of Canada to see that any obligation under which the people of the Maritimes came into Confederation is duly and justly and honorably discharged. There is no desire not to act fairly with the Maritimes in regard to any obligation of Confederation. The desire is rather to live up to the full letter of the obligation. And I ask my friends of the Maritimes: Do your Maritime rights go beyond that? Are you asking for something other than that which you believe you are entitled to? If you are I would like to know what it is. If you are simply asking for justice, my wish and the wish of the Government is to give you the fullest recognition."

At the St. John meeting last night Hon. Mr. Copp held that the outstanding questions before the electorate were: Transportation, immigration, the tariff, and reduction of taxation.

Hon. Senator Beland asserted that under the present Liberal regime the public debt had been reduced five dollars per head of the population of Canada. "I would advise Mr. Meighen to get rid of a little of his gloom," counselled Dr. Beland, "and to rejoice with us in reduction of the public debt. We promised to reduce the debt and we have reduced," Dr. Beland pursued; "we promised to reduce expenditure and we have reduced it. We promised so to shape our fiscal policy that the trade of Canada would be revived, and trade has been increasing year by year in leaps and bounds, especially within the last three years."

Premier King spoke of difficulties which had confronted his Government—debt left over from the war, its technical majority of only one in the Commons. In the four years the Government had been in power, five administrations had succeeded each other in Great Britain. "And of those difficulties," said Mr. King, "the majority of one was probably the most embarrassing of all." But he had felt when invited to form a Government, Mr. King continued, that it would be possible to inspire the House with confidence in the Government so as to be able to carry on.

He spoke of a "hostile" Senate throwing out measures which had even been passed in the Commons without a division. "We are not of the opinion that the Senate should be abolished," Mr. King asserted, "but we do think they should not be in a position arbitrarily to block measures which are in accord with the popular will."

IN GREAT DIFFICULTY

The Senate had been a great difficulty, but the Government's greatest difficulty of all had been the public debt. Annual interest payments on that debt were $140,000,000, or more than it cost to run the whole administration of the country when Sir Robert Borden first took office. "These burdens along with the burden of the railway, were on our backs when we took office," added Mr. King.

"You hear criticism of Sir Henry Thornton getting an increase of salary. But we found two railway presidents when we took office, each drawing a larger salary than Sir Henry Thornton is receiving."

Mr. King discussed the recent statement of Senator Robertson that the 1923 operating surplus of the Canadian National was due to diversion of traffic over Canadian lines as a result of a strike of railway shopmen in the United States. "That," commented the Prime Minister, "may have been a factor, but the interesting fact is that not only was there an operating surplus in 1923, but also in 1924 and 1925."

Mr. King charged Mr. Meighen with continually harping on blue ruin. "Mr. Meighen," he said, "is not such a bad soul when you know him, but when he gets to talking politics he can't see anything but blue ruin when a Liberal administration is in power. That is not patriotism in its highest form."

In discussing railway rate revision, Mr. King observed that Judge McKeown, formerly Chief Justice of New Brunswick, was chairman of the Railway Commission, and could be entrusted with being able to understand the meaning of any claims asserted on behalf of the Maritime Provinces that they were entitled to the restoration of the rate basis in existence prior to 1919.

TALKS OF TREATY

He referred to the statement, reported to have been made by Mr. Meighen at Amherst, that there was no West Indies Treaty before the country. "I think the West Indies Treaty is of more importance to the Maritimes than any other single thing," said Mr. King.

"Mr. Meighen tries to make light of it and says there is no treaty because it was not approved." It was true, continued Mr. King, that the treaty did not become effective until it had been approved by Parliament. But the treaty had been signed by representatives both of the West Indies and Canada. So far from not being before the country, both the proceedings of the Canada-West Indies conference and the treaty concluded as a result of the conference had been published as official publications.

The Premier held up before the crowd copies of the two publications. "Is that the kind of leadership you are going to support?" he questioned, in reference to Mr. Meighen. "I think Mr. Meighen owes something more to the people of the Maritime Provinces than to come before the people without having read it. He owes something more to the intelligence of the Maritimes than to insult them by saying that no treaty exists.

"But we know that Mr. Meighen is given to denunciation. No matter what the Government does or does not do, he will denounce it and say that it is wrong. But this time he has been caught at his own game."

And the Prime Minister added that if Mr. Meighen did not have a copy of the West Indies Treaty he would be glad to furnish him with one. He closed with a reference to Mr. Patenaude. Mr. Meighen, the Prime Minister continued, was in a difficult situation. Here was Mr. Patenaude, the new Conservative leader in Quebec, saying that he was as free from Mr. Meighen as he was from Mr. King. "Heaven knows he is free from me," commented Mr. King.

LAVERGNE CHOSEN BY CONSERVATIVES

Declares King Policy no Longer Meets With Public Opinion

QUEBEC, Sept. 22.—(C.P.)—Armand Lavergne, former protagonist of Nationalism, last evening was elected president of the Liberal-Conservative Association of Quebec. Mr. Lavergne, in an inaugural address, lauded the utterance of Hon. Mr. Patenaude Sunday and declared the policy laid down by Mr. Patenaude for the guidance of the Quebec Conservatives to embody the principles which he himself had defended for the last score years.

Mr. Lavergne said:

"If we want Confederation to live and Canada to remain a free country, we must range ourselves under the flag of Mr. Meighen. It is incontestable that Mr. King's policy no longer meets with public opinion. In 1921 Mr. King appeared before the electorate and said: 'I have four problems to settle—put a brake on emigration; lower taxation; adopt a sane railway policy, and reform the Senate.'

"Today the same Mr. King appears before the electors and chants the same ritual," said Mr. Lavergne. "This is naively to avow that he has done nothing while in office."

Mr. Lavergne indulged in criticism of the Government in the emigration of Canadians to the United States, declaring it to be the most serious question at present and blaming the Government's policy of lower tariff for this.

MASSEY ASSURED OF FARMERS' AID

Announces Acceptance of Liberal Nomination in Durham

ORONO, Ont., Sept. 22.—(C. P.)—Hon. Vincent Massey, Minister without portfolio in the King Cabinet, yesterday announced his acceptance of the Liberal nomination of Durham riding, was assured yesterday afternoon of the support of the Liberals and Progressives of the constituency at the forthcoming general election, when, after a joint meeting of the executives of the two local party organizations, it was announced that the Progressives had endorsed his candidature. His Conservative opponent is F. W. Bowen, who represented the constituency in the last Parliament.

The following statement was issued by the Progressive committee:

"A meeting of the Progressive electors of Durham County was held at Orono, Durham County, on Saturday, September 19. The situation in the county in view of the approaching general election was fully issued. It was realized that in the entrance of the transferable vote, a three-cornered contest was inadvisable. The definite opinion of those present was that our action should be determined on principles rather than in any partisan spirit, and that if a candidate could be secured whose views were in substantial agreement with those of the Progressives he should be supported.

"The clearly-stated position of the tariff of Mr. Meighen, to whose support Mr. Bowen, the Conservative candidate, is committed, made co-operation in this direction impossible.

"The committee was instructed to interview Mr. Massey, the Liberal candidate. This was done, and in reply to a full statement of Progressive policies, with particular reference to customs tariff and electoral reform, Mr. Massey pointed out that he had always been opposed to the principle of high protection, and believed that in tariff matters our chief concern should be for the progress and prosperity of agriculture and other basic occupations (which low tariff assists) having due regard to the development of Canadian industry in general.

"On the question of electoral reform Mr. Massey expressed himself as being in entire sympathy with the Progressive contention that campaign funds should be a matter of public information and that so far as his own campaign in this riding was concerned, the accounts of both receipts and expenditures would be open to inspection by any elector, both before and after the election.

"After our conference with Mr. Massey, the committee recommends that 'members and friends of the Progressive movement in Durham County support his candidature.'"

Meighen Pledges Aid to Maritimes In Railway Plan

Mr. Meighen drove his protective tariff argument home with illustrations of the harm that had been done to Canadian industries through the nibbling, threatening policy of the present Government. Senator G. D. Robertson emphasized it by quoting the actual local conditions outlined above, with a suggestion to the audience that when the Prime Minister speaks in Moncton about the "Busily turning wheels of industry," and the benefits of a low tariff, he might be asked to prove his assertions by the woolen industry of Moncton and district.

WONDERS AT MEMBERS.

If the suggestions made at last night's two Conservative meetings are followed, Mr. King should have an interesting time, for local speakers, including Dr. O. B. Price, who was given the Conservative nomination for Westmoreland County, and A. J. Doucet, the member for Kent County, suggested that the Premier should be catechised to see if he really was serious when he confessed last week that he did not know what Maritime rights are. Mr. Doucet wondered what the 25 Liberal members from the Maritimes had been doing for the past four years that they had not let their voices be heard regarding a matter that had been a real problem for a decade, and both candidates gave the assurance that in the next session of Parliament, if they were returned, there would be quite a lot heard of Maritime rights.

Moncton is particularly interested in at least one of the Maritime rights; that regarding the railways, for the present Government moved from this section the audit office of the Atlantic Region, and this caused a couple of hundred families to sell their homes and move to Montreal or else leave the service of the railways. Further, they are not happy over the cutting off of the Atlantic Region at Riviere Du Loup, by what Mr. Meighen described as the political partisan board of directors of the National Railways, which the present Government had put in to replace the business board that was in charge when the consolidation of the Government lines was brought about, and which had declared its policy to be to make the Atlantic Region extend from Halifax to Montreal, with full headquarters in the Maritime Provinces.

Mr. Meighen also submitted a question, that might provide his opponent with an opportunity for explanation, when he stated that he had been described as a thief because he had put the Inter-colonial system in with the other National Railways and he wanted to know why the present Government, if they wanted to re-establish the intercolonial as a separate entity, had not passed an order-in-council immediately they got in power doing this? The Liberal leader had pledged himself to do this although he knew it was not common sense to have two Government managements for two branches of a national system. He charged his opponents with deliberately betraying the electors and urged them to ask the Premier why, and see to it that they got an answer to the charge, and not "a lot of musty generalities."

WOULD ASK PREMIER.

The rights of the Maritimes, under the Confederation Pact, to special treatment in regard to transportation rates was also emphasized as contrast to the action of the Government in usurping the powers of the Railway Commission and fixing special rates for the West, while denying the same privileges to the Maritime Provinces. The reason for this action was another matter that the electors were advised to ask the Premier.

Mr. Meighen was careful to point out to his audiences that he was not proposing, in railway matters, "to repeat the crime against the system that the present Government is guilty of" in naming a political directorate to carry out its wishes, and he would give no pledge regarding the Atlantic Region as that was a matter solely for the directors to decide. He promised to see if it was possible, in some way, to get the changes made. His judgment of indications in the Maritime Provinces was that "an outraged public opinion would serve on the present Government the penalty it merited for the betrayal of trust of which it is guilty before the people of this riding."

DEAL WITH DECREASE.

Both Mr. Meighen and Senator Robertson dealt with the heavy decrease in Canada's trade as the reason for the falling off of railway earnings, and Mr. Meighen remarked that despite the record wheat crop, a large part of which had already been moved, the returns for this year were down still further millions, compared with the previous year.

Senator Robertson brought out an entirely new point in immigration matters when he declared that members of the Canadian Government had gone to Washington and had pleaded with the United States to make it more difficult for Canadians to leave their country, the result being that they had made it compulsory, since July 1, 1924, for every Canadian-born citizen, desirous of seeking employment in the United States, to obtain from the American Consulate a certificate, for which he had to pay $10. This meant, he said, that Mr. King, not content with following a policy that had deprived 140,000 Canadians of their means of livelihood in the past year, had been instrumental in forcing them to pay into the United States Treasury no less than $1,400,000 of Canadian money, taken from the pockets of the poor Canadian workman who had been deprived of his employment at home, and forced to pay this sum, in addition to the regular head tax of $8, to get into another land where he could get a job.

Both meeting places were crowded to the doors and the audiences gave the Conservative Leader an enthusiastic reception and attentive hearing, only one interruption taking place at the City Hall, where an individual, in the rear, made a remark in a manner that indicated so clearly his condition that Mr. Meighen passed it by with the comment that evidently the official interrupter had been well primed before being placed by his opponents.

Tonight Mr. Meighen speaks in Sussex and tomorrow night concludes his Maritime tour with a meeting at St. John.

WILL BECOME SHADOW.

MONCTON, N.B., Sept. 22—(C.P.)—"Talk about annexation. There's no annexation as bad as the loss of our young men and women. If that continues, this country will become just a pale, anaemic shadow, a backyard, a feeding ground for the United States. This Dominion has no chance for its industrial life save under a protective tariff." Mr. Arthur Meighen said last night.

Mr. Meighen remarked that it was "with pleasure unalloyed that he returned to Moncton after four years of waiting."

He paid a tribute to Dr. O. B. Price, nominated yesterday afternoon as candidate in Westmoreland.

"What about Maritime rights?" interrupted a voice.

"I am not in the position of saying I know nothing about them" said Mr. Meighen. He did not need to come back with excuses for his conduct in 1921.

He was not in Moncton to "castigate" his foes. "The people of Moncton can do their own castigating on election day," he said. But if any constituency in Canada, had a right to feel outraged it was the people of Westmoreland, he asserted.

There were one or two further interruptions which could not be clearly distinguished.

"It is apparent that the official trouble-makers of our opponents have been in the rear of the hall, but no trouble-makers can trouble us," said the Conservative leader.

He turned to transportation.

"Above all things I want to be the friend and helper of the National system," he said.

He reviewed the series of events which led up to the acquisition of the various railways now combined in the National system.

"I am the enemy of waste on the system," he said, "and I think there should have been no pouring of millions into the system by way of new capital expenditure," he declared. "This Government by evading it with new expenditure ran it into the swamp."

"Hold back their new expenditures—that is the first thing to do," he said.

Secondly, there should be a decrease in the cost of management. Last year, while 9,000 men were laid off the cost of superintendence of the system had gone up to $499,000.

He favored low rates to all parts of the country, but he opposed any interference with the function of the Railway Commission.

SHOULD BE ASSISTANCE

His policy on the matter, he declared, provided for no interference with the Commission, but when that body had fixed the rates, there should be assistance from the Federal Treasury to those parts of the Dominion located far from the great markets of central Canada. Such assistance would enable the Maritimes and the west to ship their products into Ontario and Quebec.

It would implement the contract of Confederation and it would bind the Provinces of the Dominion into closer union.

The tariff policy of the Government had resulted in "contraction and in parts stagnation." Canadians have gone from Canada in tens of thousands, he said, "and they are going today just as they have for the past three years."

"You've lost your people and you've lost the best we've got," said Mr. Meighen, referring to the exodus from Canada. "We're losing the Canadian-born, and you cannot replace them from European countries." He repeated his previous statement in regard to the expenditures on immigration and their results. Canada had spent $8,800,000, and had secured but 111,000 immigrants.

"It was no explanation to say that a million of the amount expended was for the Wembley Exhibition.

"Our immigration this year won't be sixty per cent. of last year," he declared. "We can't hold them all. We've never held them all, but they've gone from Canada three times as fast during the past four years as they did before."

"This Dominion has no chance for its industrial life save under a protective tariff," Mr. Meighen insisted.

Lying beside the United States Canada must be protected if she was to live. The Government, while claiming reduced taxation, was pursuing a policy which meant industrial depression, loss of population and unemployment.

He referred to the Australian treaty, which, he claimed, was causing grave injury to the Canadian farmer.

Of all nations in the world Canada needed a tariff. Unless it was given the whole country would be drained of its best population.

A. J. Doucet, Conservative candidate in Kent, expressed the greatest surprise that the Prime Minister did not know what Maritime rights were. Surely Liberal supporters of the Government in the House of Commons had been "asleep at the switch."

HON. E. M. MACDONALD ACCEPTS NOMINATION

PICTOU, N.S., Sept. 22.—(C.P.)—Hon. E. M. Macdonald, Minister of National Defence, who represented Pictou county in the last Parliament, announced last night that after consultation with Premier King and with leading Pictou county Liberals, he had decided to accept the nomination tendered him over a week ago by the Liberals of the dual constituency of Antigonish-Guysboro. He will commence his campaign at once. Both Antigonish and Guysboro counties adjoin the minister's former constituency.

TARIFF EXPERTS NEEDED, SAYS ROBB

J. A. Letellier Chosen Liberal Candidate in Compton County

BURY, Que., Sept. 22—(C.P.)—Instead of raising the tariff wall higher—the policy of the Conservative party—or making it lower until it vanished, which was the policy of the Progressives, the matter of tariff must be given careful study and the Government propose to establish a court of experts who will unearth information to see which way and in what manner the tariff should be adjusted. This policy was pronounced last evening by Hon. J. A. Robb, Minister of Finance, at a Liberal rally following the nomination of J. A. Letellier, of Lake Megantic, as candidate for Compton County.

The Finance Minister also discussed the National Debt, claiming a reduction of $78,000,000 since the advent of the Government in 1921. Economy was also dwelt on.

"I believe in economy," said Mr. Robb "Canada must practice it for many years as a result of the war. I am in favor of strict economy and of co-operation to effect economy not only between our railroads but also between the Federal and Provincial Governments."

Other speakers were Hon. Georges Boivin, newly appointed Minister of Customs, and Hon. Jacob Nicol, Quebec Provincial Treasurer.

Dependability
VALVES that control water for fire protection must function when required. They may remain idle for years but when the emergency arises, they must be ready. Property and human life depend upon these valves.
In most of the large buildings and institutions, you will find JENKINS VALVES controlling fire protecting equipment. They are selected because of their dependability. They hold back the water without leakage, but when required they function instantly.
Whether for radiators or steam pressure control, for air pressure or water, it is good economy to insist on JENKINS VALVES. They never leak and they never fail to work. The peace of mind inspired by JENKINS VALVES is worth making sure of.

ST. ANTOINE DIVISION

Conservative Meeting

Bell Chosen Again With One Dissenting Voice

Praises Patenaude

Leslie G. Bell was yesterday chosen Conservative candidate for St. Antoine division unanimously except for one dissentient voice, by a convention of delegates from all the polls of the division.

Following a suggestion by Fred W. Stewart, a motion was made to have the convention adjourn for a week, in order to dispose of the invitation extended by another Conservative group to Ald. T. O'Connell, to which the alderman had promised to give a reply on Wednesday next. When the motion to proceed with nominations was brought in, an amendment to adjourn for a week was offered, but when put to the vote, found but five supporters among the accredited delegates.

Ald. O'Connell's name was put in nomination along with that of Leslie Bell, but had to be withdrawn, insofar as the proposers had not obtained his permission to put the name forward. This left Mr. Bell alone in the field, and the chairman had called upon the secretary to cast one ballot making a unanimous vote for Mr. Bell, when W. Pitfield, the delegate who had moved the adjournment, insisted on registering his dissent.

O'CONNELL SITUATION.

Shortly after the meeting opened, the chairman noticing F. W. Stewart, president of the Liberal-Conservative Association, in the hall, invited him to speak. After a few general remarks regarding the position in the different English-speaking divisions of Montreal, Mr. Stewart pointed out the rather delicate situation that arose in St. Antoine division through Ald. O'Connell having been asked by a group of Conservatives to allow his name to go before a convention. He was personally of the opinion that Ald. O'Connell did not want to run in St. Antoine, but was much more desirous of being a candidate in St. Ann's.

Nevertheless, since Mr. O'Connell had been asked, and had been given until Wednesday in which to give a definite reply, he thought it might look rather strange, to hold a convention and choose a candidate before Mr. O'Connell was able to give that reply. It seemed like telling him he was not wanted. He rather regretted that the central organization had not been invited to consult with the St. Antoine Conservative Association before action had been taken, and if it were possible to postpone the convention for a few days, until Mr. O'Connell's reply was received, he thought it would be a very fine thing to do. However, he left that entirely in the hands of the meeting, and did not wish to ask them to do so.

Mr. Stewart then withdrew, having a committee meeting to attend. J. Brophy pointed out that the hall had to be vacated by ten o'clock and they had no time to lose in further speeches. He moved that nominations proceed. Dr. Levigne seconded.

Mr. Pitfield then rose to urge the advisability of postponing the meeting for a week, out of courtesy toward Ald. O'Connell. W. Soden seconded. Mover and seconder were challenged to show their credentials, and were able to satisfy the credential committee that they were accredited delegates. The amendment was put to the meeting, and received five votes. The motion was then carried amid cheers.

Scrutineers were appointed, but had no work to do, as the only names put in nomination were those of Leslie G. Bell and Ald. T. O'Connell, and the latter name was withdrawn as the mover had not obtained the alderman's permission to put it forward.

BELL ADDRESSES DELEGATES

Leslie G. Bell was then sought out by a delegation and brought to the hall in brief time. After thanking the delegates, he said: "I accept this honor. I challenge the Liberal party to re-elect any candidate to the drifting policy of Mackenzie King. I stand, as I have always stood, as you know very well, for the election of a straight Conservative in old St. Antoine. We have made a fight from the last time of defeat. We have kept up the fight, and we are going to keep it up to the very end.

"I know of no person yet who has challenged me on the principle of carrying the Conservative banner, that would keep me from accepting this honor as the will of the people of St. Antoine. That is the reason, and the only reason that I accept it tonight. And I am going to fight on, feeling that you people and the rest of the good people of St. Antoine are behind me.

"It has been said, by those who possibly challenged my right to this high honor, that I am young. It was said by Napoleon, 'Old men for council, young men for battle.' And it certainly must be the opinion of the Conservative party that we need to do battle to win St. Antoine.

FAITH IN PATENAUDE

"Perhaps we needed a leader. Possibly that leader has been found. I listened to the many thousands of people hearing Mr. Patenaude's speech yesterday. I feel that the young men of Canada have faith in the leadership of Mr. Patenaude. I feel that he preaches principles that will appeal to all true Canadians, and I for one will stand by those principles because I feel they are the principles of Sir John A. Macdonald, and George Etienne Cartier.

"Those principles are good enough for me. (A voice "You bet" and laughter). This is no time now for parleying. All that is wanted is unity in our ranks, a little faith in ourselves, a united front, no more disgruntling, and victory is ours.

"I am not afraid of whatver Liberal candidate the other party may put into the field. I am relying solely on my association with the people of St. Antoine division, not for a day or a week, but for over a year, working among the people. Let me thank you once again. I will do all in my power to win St. Antoine for you, and I know from the loyalty you have given me in the past you will not fail me."

The singing of "O Canada" brought the meeting to a close. J. A. Anderson presided.

AROUND THE THEATRES

By S. MORGAN-POWELL

Dancing is Principal Ingredient of Bill at The Princess This Week

DANCING seems to be the main feature of the vaudeville bill at the Princess theatre this week. In fact, it rather overbalances the comedy, though there is plenty of laughter to be heard. Miss Grette Ardine, a graceful and resourceful dancer, well known here and deservedly popular, is associated with John Tyrell and Dave Kaye in a playlet told in dance medium. It is entitled "The French Model," and is attractive alike in design and execution. It serves not only to reveal Miss Ardine as an artiste of grace and versatility, but brings to the fore her two assistants, whose work is very little less praiseworthy than her own. They are both dancers of unusual skill and agility. The Apache dance is adequately melodramatic, and the finale expresses the quintessence of jazz in picturesque style.

"Arms and the Girl" brings Genevieve Houghton and William Sully forward with Edwin Forsburg in a smoothly presented musical playlet. Humor, dance and song all play their part, and Miss Houghton's dainty personality and the efficient manner in which the trio cooperate mark the interpretation effectively. Miss Houghton is a dancer of distinct ability.

* * *

Miss Rae Samuels is back with a new series of the jazz songs that have won for her such popularity in the vaudeville field. There is a certain similarity about all her numbers, but those who like jazz are prohibited from complaining about monotony. Miss Samuels has her own clientele, and to them she is always appealing. Personally, I should prefer a little less slap-dash in method.

Lew Murdock and Mildred Mayo in "Footloose" show themselves to be accomplished in intricate dance steps, and succeed in investing their work with no little comedy. Mulroy, McNeece and Ridge contribute a fast roller-skating and dancing act, and Fred and Mae Henry are seen in aerial feats. Val Harris returns in his "rube" study, —an elderly village shopkeeper trying to behave like a skittish youth. Miss Vera Griffin provides the attractive foil for his humor.

* * *

Joe Browning, the eccentric monologuist, also pays a return visit, but with entirely new material. He descants upon the speed of the times, and his little sermon contains a wealth of humor and a number of pithy witticisms that find their mark. This is one of the principal hits of the bill.

The film comedies that have been added to the regular program this season are proving very popular with both matinee and evening audiences.

"Watch Your Step" at Gayety Combines Fun With Scenic Effects

There are several attractive features to be noted in "Watch Your Step," the attraction presented by Leo Stevens at the Gayety theatre this week. It is marked by an abundance of effective comedy, plenty of witty dialogue and dry repartee, and a series of scenic effects obtained by artistic designs and ingenious lighting that go far to lend the show an atmosphere above the average of burlesque.

"In "The Highlanders" the chorus is seen to notable effect, and with picturesque costumes and admirable lighting, performs its drill smartly, with Miss Edna Green the outstanding spirit of vivacity. Mr. Lorenzo and Miss Munro contribute a duet that arouses considerable enthusiasm. The main scenic feature, however, is "20,000 Leagues Under the Sea," shown as a series of cleverly posed tableaux, with accompanying dances.

There is plenty of good singing, plenty of humor with a punch in it, and plenty of color and action. Numerous unexpected elements that enhance the spectacular quality are to be noted throughout. The clever work by various individual members of the chorus is another feature worthy of note.

"Pretty Ladies" at Capitol Provides a Good Entertainment

Following the example set by writers of jazz music, film producers have now invaded the field of grand opera to obtain material for picture plays. Hence we find that "Pretty Ladies" at the Capitol Theatre this week, bears a strong resemblance to the well-known "Pagliacci." The plot, which is well worn and flimsy at times, contains many spectacular scenes depicting life on the musical comedy stage and the sorrows and joys of the theatre.

Canlo, the clown of the opera, is changed to Maggie Keenan (Zazu Pitts), comic of the "Follies" who, while popular as a comedienne, fails to kindle sparks of love in masculine hearts. However, Maggie finally secures an admirer in the person of Al Cassidy (Tom Moore), also of the stage, who conceives a violent affection for the Follies clown.

But the course of true love does not run smooth. Al, inspired by his love for Maggie, writes a musical number which becomes a success through Maggie's ability to "put it across." Al becomes famous and is eagerly sought after by more beauteous dames than Maggie, including Selma, (Lillyan Tashman). Being human, Al naturally succumbs to the charms of Selma, and Maggie's heart is broken. But she dare not stop her clowning and continues, with a breaking heart, to make the Follies' audience laugh. Al, of course, ultimately returns to her and all's well that ends well.

* * *

Zazu Pitts makes the role of Maggie stand out, and Tom Moore, a veteran of the screen, who knows all the tricks of his trade, is effective. The audience is also shown brief glimpses of Ann Pennington, Will Rogers, Conrad Nagle and Norma Shearer.

Florence Rogge and her ballet, an overture by the Capitol Orchestra, a comedy and Felix the Cat, assist greatly in the success of the program.

Monologuist Feature of Imperial Show; Also Good Dance and Song Act

It is not always the advertised headline act that makes the biggest hit in vaudeville. The ways of audiences are peculiar. At the Imperial theatre this week a popular monologuist, Garr Lynn, easily leads in popularity. Truth to tell, he has such a plentiful supply of comedy, and he present it in such an intriguing fashion, that it would be difficult for him to fail with any audience accustomed to the routine monologue of the American stage. His stories are pungent, at times. His best work in my view consists of a series of amazingly life-like imitations of animals and birds, accomplished with uncanny ease and smoothness. The man has a positive genius for mimicry and a stream of good stories of an unusual type.

"A Banquet of Song and Dance" brings a quintette of girls who, in a succession of picturesque costumes, sing and dance in a manner that gives thorough satisfaction to the audience. Some of the solo dances are remarkably well done, particularly those involving the latest extremes in eccentric and adroit trick steps. There are good singers, too. The pony ballet is uneven in its work, but thoroughly capable, and with more rehearsal would accomplish very effective dances.

* * *

Wilbur Sweatman and four other colored youths provided a jazz musical act which proved to be swiftly moving and rhythmically attractive. Sweatman is an accomplished executant on clarinet and saxaphone, and in one solo plays three clarinets at once. All the five understand jazz. They give an example of first-rate syncopation in their work, and a couple of dancers also prove to be dexterous and facile, though the principal exponent of pedal dexterity should carefully refrain from song.

"Meat—the Wife" is a diverting bit of low comedy presented by Eddie Gaffney and Tess Walton, and derives most of its humor from the striking contrast between the diminutive man and the giant-like girl. There are some pithy bits of dialogue.

Alvine and Alvin are foreign tumblers and head balancers with a series of exceptionally clever tricks and feats. The denouement to their act is one of the funniest seen for a long time.

Tommy Van and Sara Vernon present a study of hokum—material which is used to demonstrate how easily an audience will laugh at nothing. They do their work effectively.

* * *

The feature film is "The Fighting Heart." George O'Brien and Billie Dove are the featured players, but the man who makes the hit is Victor MacLaglen as the villain. His work is a notable example of effective characteracting for the screen.

Richard Barthelmess In "Shore Leave" Has Good Role at Palace

Richard Barthelmess, who has done much in the film world, is seen to good advantage this week at the Palace theatre, in his latest release, "Shore Leave." As a graduate of the Griffith school, Barthelmess is, perhaps, for a young actor, the nearest approach to the finished product of the film world that can be obtained.

The plot is woven around a sailor of the U. S. Navy and a little seamstress in a small American port where the ships of the "dry navy" are accustomed to put in. The plot follows conventional lines and deals with romance of the sailor and the little seamstress. The sailor is young, headstrong and ambitious, and on learning that the object of his affections is the proud possessor of a small schooner, he leaves so as to be independent of the "rich woman."

The producers could not allow the picture to end in this unsatisfactory manner, however. How the seamstress, Connie Martin (Dorothy Mackaill), finally brings her lover back is well told.

* * *

The setting is quaint, and the leading roles are well taken by Barthelmess and Miss Mackaill. Barthelmess does not over-emphasize his part and it is well-suited to his type.

A comedy, several violin solos by Jean Dealauriers, a dance by Malsie Hilleson and selections by the orchestra, from the ever-popular Gilbert and Sullivan's opera, "H.M.S. Pinafore" round out the program, which provides an excellent evening's entertainment.

Miami Beach Man to Tackle Development Of Long Island Tract

NEW YORK, Sept. 22. — (United News.)—Carl G. Fisher, developer of Miami Beach, Fla., has acquired 9,000 acres of land on the eastern tip of Long Island at $2,500,000, which he will begin developing. The spot is a short ride from New York.

Three hotels, churches, and schools are promised for the near future. Golf links, tennis courts, a bathing pavilion, driving track, bridle-paths and a small lake for winter ice-skating are among the plans, as is a radio broadcasting station.

The 1,000 Fisher employes at Miami Beach will be transferred to Long Island for the summer season.

"The Love Hour" One Of the Best Films at Strand for Some Time

In "The Love Hour," the photoplay heading the program at the Strand theatre, presents one of the best features it has shown in many weeks. It is called a romantic drama, but the comedy situations form the most entertaining part of the picture. The leading players are well cast. Huntley Gordon, one of the gentlemen of the screen, plays the role of the hero effectively. Ruth Clifford makes an appealing heroine, but the honors go to Louise Fazenda and Willard Louis. These clever comedians are seen at their best.

The story is of Rex Westmore, young, wealthy and bored, who falls a happy victim to the youth and beauty of Betty Brown, a shop girl. They meet at Coney Island in a most unconventional manner, when the hero rescues the heroine from the unwelcome attentions of a masher. A swift courtship is followed by a wedding and trip to Europe. The happy young couple return to take their place in society, and everything is working out nicely when the villain enters. He is supposed to be a friend of the husband, but he inveigles the heroine into a dramatic situation that threatens to ruin her happiness. Everything is straightened out, however, with the arrival of Westmore's attorney.

The other feature picture, entitled "The Bad Lands," is a tale of romance and adventure in the days when brave-hearted cavalrymen outwitted the Indians. Harry Carey is the featured player. There is also a comedy called "The Hot Sheika."

Venetian Gardens to Open Fall Season With A Gala Show Tomorrow

The Venetian Gardens will celebrate the seventh Fall opening tomorrow night, September 23rd, with a gala entertainment, and Meyer Davis, noted for his orchestra organization and his judgment of dance music, will present Simone Martucci and his orchestra of seven. Jerry Bergen, the drummer, is one of the cleverest entertainers in the profession; Angelo Carmen, bass player, is an eccentric juggler, and was formerly with Eva Tanguay. Anthony Morella, banjoist, is also the vocalist of the band. Carl Throm can certainly make his feet step on the dance floor. Joseph Beers is the violinist, and Jules Aaron the pianist. Martucci himself is very well-known around Montreal.

Meyer Davis, on the occasion of the Prince of Wales' last trip to Canada, dispatched an orchestra to his ranch in Alberta.

The Venetian will present an entirely new environment created by a complete change in the scheme of decoration. The artists for the opening will be Miss Olive McLure, who has recently completed an extensive tour of the U. S. A. playing many of New York's leading clubs, such as the Silver Slipper and the Knickerbocker Grill, in acrobatic and Oriental dances, and Miss Helen K. Booth, who completed the past season with the Broadway Company of "Rose Marie."

Hollander Troupe at Monument National in A Successful Opening

A capacity audience was roused to enthusiasm at the Monument National by the Hollander troupe of Yiddish Players, in their opening performance of "Who is the Mother?" on Sunday night. The general opinion was that seldom, if ever, in the history of Yiddish plays here, has such a high standard of individual acting been seen. Mr. and Mrs. Hollander, whose work last year is still fresh in the memory of playgoers, are once again in the limelight. Applause was plentiful. As a particular mark of public appreciation, a bouquet of flowers was presented to each actress in the cast.

* * *

The story tells of a man whose wife received a telegram on the night his daughter was marrying his partner's son. The wife's objection to his opening the message is the starting-point of a series of tense situations, in which a child to whose parentage mother and daughter alike lay claim plays a prominent part. The manner in which the whole situation is cleared up, the blame laid in the right place, and the lesser offenders forgiven in orthodox manner, provides the theme of an interesting and well acted play.

Mr. Samuylow, as Samuel Goldman is an artist of genuine ability. From the outset he kept his audience in suspense, until the fourth act, when the mix-up between his wife and his partner was set forth in its true light.

Mr. and Mrs. Hollander proved consistently adequate. Goldie Margolin made the best use of a fine voice. Ida Grafer played her part in easy, natural style. Jacob Zanger proved to be a comedian of a high order. Mr. Yabla koff and Adela Schwartz were pleasing in a song and dance number. Leon Seidenberg as the partner in business played his part well.

Miss Dina Goldberg, who has won laureis during the past few seasons at the Lennox Theatre, New York, has been induced to join the Yiddish Players at the Monument National, and will be taking leading roles in future plays this season.

From The Movie Theatres

RICHARD DIX, Neil Hamilton, Clair Adams and Robert Edeson play the leading roles in "Men and Women," which ends its engagement at the Regent tonight. The story is one of a young bank cashier, whose wife has ideas far beyond his modest salary. He makes use of some bank bonds to take a "flier" in Wall Street. The bottom falls out of his stock and he is held as a thief. The other attraction is "The Awful Truth," featuring Agnes Ayres. A comedy called "Sherlock Sluuth" rounds out the bill.

* * *

The Rialto will screen "Lost, A Wife," and "The Chechakos" tonight for the last time. The former picture tells a story of a young man who, because of his weakness for gambling, wins, then loses and succeeds in winning back again "the only girl in the world." The scenes are laid in France and America, and contain many big laughs. In the cast are such clever players as Adolphe Menjou, Greta Nissen and Robert Agnew. "The Chechakos" is said to be the first and only picture ever filmed in Alaska. The Lewis-Gunn wrestling bout is also included on the program.

* * *

Ben Lyons and Viola Dana are featured in "The Necessary Evil," which tops a good bill at the Papineau. "Black Cyclone," with Rex the wild horse, in the name-part, is the other photoplay. A comedy, "When Dumbelles Ring," is also included on this program, which will have its final presentation tonight.

* * *

A dancing revue will be staged at the Corona tonight in addition to the photoplay attractions, which include "One Way Street," and "Beauty and the Bad Man." Anna Q. Nilsson and Ben Lyons play the leads in the former picture, and Mabel Ballin and Forrest Stanley in the latter. The comedy is "Boobs in the Woods."

* * *

Colleen Moore and Douglas MacLean are the principal entertainers on today's bill at the Mount Royal. Miss Moore appears in "The Desert Flower," and Mr. MacLean is seen in "Introduce Me." The Trocadero Dance Orchestra proves a popular added stage attraction.

* * *

The Belmont are showing a well balanced double program, comprising a romance of the sea, "Rugged Waters," and "Chalk Marks," an absorbing society drama. In the first-named picture the leading characters are portrayed by Lois Wilson, Wallace Beery and Wraner Baxter. Marguerite Snow and other capable players appear in "Chalk Marks." A comedy subject, "Daddy's Gone a Grunting," is also included.

* * *

"The Sky Raider," with Captain Nungesser in the title-role, supported by Jacqueline Logan and a large cast, will close a successful three days' engagement at the Plaza tonight. Sharing honors with this production is "She Wolves," with the principal roles capably handled by Alma Rubens and Jack Mulhall. "Thundering Landlords," a diverting comedy, is also shown.

PRINCE'S TRAIN IN DANGER OF WRECK

BUENOS AIRES, Sept. 22—(U.N.)—An attempt at train wrecking, which may have aimed at the life of the Prince of Wales is reported by unconfirmed private advices from Junin.

It is said that the stationmaster there discovered that someone had tampered with the engine which was to have picked up the Prince's train.

The cylinders were said to have been opened and pieces of metal inserted in such a way that the use of the brakes and the escape of steam would have been hampered.

The Junin police chief denied Monday that the engine had been tampered with. Efforts to obtain confirmation of the story elsewhere were unsuccessful.

SELL LEVERHULME'S TREASURES IN N.Y.

Art Sale Transferred on Account of Bitter Opportunities

BRITISH RIGHTS

Can Buy Any of Immense Collection Before Auction

LONDON, Sept. 22 — (Special Star-World Cable, Copyright.) — The sale of the late Lord Leverhulme's immense collection of art treasures, which was to have been held here next month, has been cancelled and will be transferred to New York where it will take place early next year, it was announced here Monday.

Messrs. Knight, Frank and Rutley who were to conduct the sale here, said they had received such an advantageous plan from the Anderson Galleries in New York that they were forced to advise the executors of Leverhulme's will to accept it, and the two firms will therefore join in conducting the American sale.

The right is reserved, however, for the executors to purchase anything they desire for the British nation before the works of art leave this country.

Leverhulme gathered an immense and in some respects unique collection embracing pictures, tapestries and needlework, a huge library containing first editions and various caricatures, rare old furniture and a group of Chinese porcelains said to be among the finest in the world.

The sale was ordered by the executors to meet the enormous inheritance tax and death duties levied on the estate.

The paintings include works of most of the famous artists of the last 150 years—Millais, Burne Jones, Orpen Leighton, Shannon, Alma Tadema, Reynolds, Morland, Gainsborough, Hoppner, Lawrence, Brangwyn, Constable, Poynter, Rossetti, Raeburn, and Romney. Among the tapestries are wonderful Aubusson, Gobelin, and Flemish panels. In the library are first editions of Dickens' "Pickwick Papers," and of Thackeray and George Eliot; while the furniture includes famous pieces from the Charles II. period to the end of the eighteenth century.

SHERIFF AND CHIEF KILLED BY GUNMAN

PEORIA, Ills., Sept. 22—(A.P.)—Sheriff Orville Litchfield, of Marshal County and John Leonard, chief of police of Toluca, Ills., were shot and instantly killed by John Spenraz, a former coal miner, whom the officers tried to capture at Toluca. After the shooting Spenraz barricaded himself in his home and defied capture.

MUSIC

Rosa Ponselle Next Week

The recital at His Majesty's Theatre next Monday evening, 28th, will bring to Montreal, for the first time, a voice which produced one of the most rapid jumps to success in all the history of opera. Rosa Ponselle did not climb up slowly, in the usual way, by long special training or work in the chorus. She rose by four steps,—first a church choir, next a small town movie theatre, then a tour on a vaudeville circuit with her sister Carmela and then straight to a leading part at the Metropolitan Opera. The beauty of her voice was discovered by Caruso, who was certainly a good judge of a voice; he introduced her to the Metropolitan and it was with him that she made her first appearance there, in "La Forza del Destino," and had an immediate success. She has been established ever since then,—seven years ago,—as one of the leading sopranos at the Metropolitan.

The program of Monday's recital will contain both songs and a number of arias from Miss Ponselle's many operatic parts.

INQUEST ON LEG; IDENTITY OF BOOT

LONDON, Sept. 22.—At Llandudno, Carnarvonshire, an inquest was held on a man's right leg, cast up on Llandudno beach.

Mrs. Roberts identified the boot on the leg as one of a pair worn by her husband, a master tailor, when he disappeared in December, 1923, a dealer corroborating her statements.

It was stated that the tailor was last seen sitting on a wall at the top of a cliff, where his cap was subsequently discovered, and the jury found that the leg was part of his body and that he was dead.

The coroner accordingly issued a death certificate.

The largest known electric light bulb is a 40,000-watt giant.

TWO DEATHS FROM MOSQUITO BITES

BARRY, Glam., Sept. 22—Lawrence J. Manogue, secretary of the London Irish Golfing Society and the Irish Club, and winner of many cups in the Olympic Games, died in Barry Hospital from the effects of a mosquito bite. He had been bitten on the face by a mosquito while playing golf a few days previously.

Mrs. Kathleen Woodward, of Penarth, who was sung on the lip by a mosquito while travelling from Belfast to South Wales, on holiday, died in a few hours.

The bite caused her intense suffering.

The Annual September Oriental Rug Sale

Sending Our Buyer Direct to the Orient Resulted in a Remarkable Series of Purchases

$400,000.00 Worth of Rugs to be Sold Wednesday $260,000.00

SIDELIGHTS ON THIS SALE

The Beauty of the Orient Made Possible for Every Home.

For as low as 8.45, you may possess one of these priceless examples of Oriental art. There are dozens of them — little mats to scatter here and there—colors that picture Oriental sunsets and sunrises—midnight blues, old mellow yellows and reds as warm as Omar's wine.

From Ancient Persia

For centuries this storied land has led the East in rug weaving. Its rugs, distinguished by medallion and plain centres, bear names that are full of romance — Sehna, Sarouk, Bidjar, Kerman, Kermanshan. Treading their soft, deep pile, evokes vivid pictures of the wild mountain fastnesses that were their inspiration, and the atmosphere of the East, with all its beauty and wonder, is transferred to your home through the possession of one of these — bought at a decided economy, at this sale.

From Anatolia and Kurdestan

Vivid reds and primitive greens characterize some of these rugs, while in striking contrast are others of lapis-lazuli blues and peach blossom tones.

From China

Gorgeous, deep-piled rugs in deep mulberry red, gold and taupe. Glowing tones in designs that are many of them accurate copies of Ming pictures—"Grains of rice," vine tracery, and the citron, known as Buddha's hand.

Selected Right in the Rug Market of Constantinople.

THE unrest in Asia Minor coupled with a favourable exchange worked to the benefit of Montreal Homes.

The tribesmen of North Persia and Asia Minor had been incessantly at war. The Rug caravans were consequently held up—and huge stocks of Rugs accumulated. Peace came, the Rugs reached Constantinople—Our buyer was there at that psychological moment—For Cash, he bought the choicest selections of all the most wanted weaves, and assisted by our resident buying agents, secured an incomparable assortment.

Beautiful Rugs, on whose excellency of wool and purity of dyes, the master hand of Time will put the finishing touch.

And NOW—Wednesday next, from this world of Romance—you may choose these precious gems of the Orient—So low in price that every home may become the proud possessor.

A ROMANTIC JOURNEY

from the Handlooms of the Mystic East, to This Store—To Your Home!

Oriental Rugs

Through Mountain Passes, over scorching deserts — assailed by warring tribesmen — the rug caravans wend their way to the ships of Montreal.

Here are rugs full of symbolism — rich with the life history of an ancient and living people—the expression of their hopes, aspirations, ideals, beliefs — potent witnesses to their artistry — their love of color—with the very fabric of their being woven into them.

A practical aspect, too, to these rugs. The excellency of their wools and dyes guarantees a lifetime of service and beauty — "Age cannot dim, nor custom stale their infinite variety" —they grow old gracefully, and their colorings assume softer and more lovely hues with time.

In addition, the vastness of the Morgan purchasing resources enables you to purchase any Oriental rug in this Sale at most decided savings.

WITNESS MAY FACE SERIOUS CHARGES

Fire Commissioner Quinn Hears Conflicting Evidence in Involved Case

LAUGHS ON STAND

Material Witness Under Restraint Regards Proceedings as Huge Joke

Threatened with criminal action on three different charges which might net him a number of years in jail, George Ushko, laborer, held as a material witness in connection with a fire which took place in his house at 413 D'Aragnon street, August 19, laughed his way through the hearing of his case in the Fire Commissioners Court yesterday afternoon. Ushko has been held since the court adjourned last Friday afternoon. He was placed in the cells at Police Headquarters then and has remained there since.

Mary Pilischuk, aged 21 years, of 253 Sixth avenue, Lachine, whom Ushko had employed as his housekeeper at a salary of $25 a month, was the only witness heard at yesterday afternoon's session of the court.

Questioned regarding a list of articles destroyed by the fire, submitted to the underwriters by Ushko, the girl swore many of the things had been greatly overvalued. Included in the list were articles she knew were non-existent, she declared. She was unable to tell the Court whether or not Ushko had moved any of his property from the house before the fire.

A story of virtual slavery was related by Mary Pilischuk, when she gave evidence Saturday morning. Though she had been hired by Ushko as a servant, he had told everyone she was his wife, she alleged. Besides the regular duties of a servant that Mary was forced to perform, she also had to submit to periodic beatings from her master she swore. These beatings became so frequent that she was at last driven to leave Ushko's house and return to her mother in Lachine. She left Ushko a few days before the fire took place. Under further cross-examination the girl declared that Ushko's story of going to Longueuil to see her the night of the fire was false.

DOES NOT CARE.

On the witness stand at the inquiry yesterday, Ushko held to his original story in the face of denial from Mary Pilischuk. So far he appears to regard the entire proceedings as a huge joke. Asked his address he told the court he lived in jail. Threatened with deportation and criminal action he replied that he "didn't care."

Just what action will be taken against Ushko has not yet been determined. Officials of the Fire Commissioners Court believe there are three courses open to them. These are to charge Ushko with perjury, arson or attempting to defraud an insurance company of $800. It is probable that at least two of these charges will be pressed.

The case will be resumed Wednesday afternoon. Seventeen witnesses will be heard then, it is announced.

CHARGE OUTCOME OF FAMILY DUEL

Georges Gauthier in Court on Charge of Attempted Murder

Georges Gauthier, charged with attempted murder, was interrupted in the midst of an impassioned speech to one of the witnesses when Lord Buckmaster, former Chancellor of Great Britain, visited the Court of King's Bench and took his seat at the right of Mr. Justice Wilson. The former Chancellor seemed to take great interest in the examination of the witnesses by Crown Prosecutor Ernest Bertrand, following each answer attentively. The trial was conducted in French before a French-speaking jury.

Gauthier had no lawyer and conducted his own cross-examinations with the assistance of Mr. Justice Wilson, who re-constructed the speeches of the prisoner into simple questions. The trial arose out of a duel on a farm in St. Basil le Grand in which a number of shots were exchanged between Joseph Adam and his step-father who is the prisoner. Adam is also charged with attempted murder in the same connection, but the lad, who is 16, is out on bail while Gauthier, his step-father, has been kept in jail "like a rat"—to use his own expression — since the date of his arrest.

The only witnesses heard yesterday were young Adam, his 14-year-old sister Hannah, and his mother. All told of the dispute on July 23. Gauthier and his wife had become estranged some 15 days before, and Gauthier had come back home for a scythe. Adam ordered him off the premises, and in the fight which followed shots were exchanged.

Gauthier's shots went wild, but a charge from Adam's shot gun struck the older man in the hand, the back and the loins. He was in hospital for some time, and was then taken to jail on the charge laid by his stepson. In the meantime he, in his turn, charged the boy with attempted murder. The trial of the lad will take place this afternoon. He is defended by Charlemagne Rodier, K.C.

Before giving her evidence, Mrs. Gauthier was informed by Mr. Justice Wilson that she could not be compelled to testify against her husband, but she said that she wished to do so as "he was always threatening Joe."

There are eight varieties of poisonous mushrooms, according to recent investigations.

MARCOTTE GUILTY OF TWO CHARGES

Will be Sentenced for Wounding Imbault and Debrowsky

Pierre Marcotte, charged with attempted murder, was found guilty of wounding Joseph Imbault by a jury in the Court of King's Bench yesterday afternoon. The jury was out for 20 minutes.

Marcotte was immediately charged with attempting to murder Alphonsine Debrowsky and pleaded guilty to wounding. This plea was accepted by the Crown and sentences in both cases will be pronounced at the close of the term.

A third charge of having procured Rodolphe Deschenes to commit murder was abandoned by Crown Prosecutor Ernest Bertrand.

Damase Barrette, sergeant, detective, told of arresting the accused and of finding a revolver under his mattress in a room at 217 Cadieux street. The accused had made no comment when the warrant was read.

The accused then took the stand in his own behalf. He said that from Feb. 10 to Feb. 20 he was in bed with inflammatory rheumatism in a house at 142 St. Urbain street. He said he left his place at 33 Vitre street in charge of Deschenes and his sister. He swore that the revolver belonged to Deschenes. He declared the only time he had discharged a firearm was when fighting with the Royal 22nd Regiment during the three years he was in the trenches in France. He admitted that he sold beer to all and sundry but denied that he had ever kept a rendezvous, and declared that he had never had any woman customers for beer or anything else.

He told His Lordship that a man had been robbed at 33 Vitre street by Imbault on Feb. 26. A man named Charlebois was called into the court room and the accused identified him as the man who was robbed.

TRAIL RIDERS ON SCREEN.

The private view of the film of the trail riders' expedition in the Rocky Mountains was given last night in the city before an audience that included E. C. Gill, chief of the Canadian Pacific Railway Publicity Bureau in England, who was a member of the party; J. Murray Gibbon, and Harold Eustace Key and Mrs. Key, who also took part in the Rocky Mountain ride. Mr. Gill has been on a coast to coast tour of the Dominion, and will return to England on September 30.

PASTOR GIVEN PURSE.

The congregation of St. Matthew's Presbyterian Church last evening tendered a farewell social to their retiring pastor, Rev. Dr. George E. Ross and his wife. R. D. Smith, chairman of the board of managers, presided over the gathering. After music, recitations, etc., R. W. Glass, senior member of the board of session, on behalf of the congregation, presented Dr. Ross with a purse of money and Mrs. Fraser presented Mrs. Ross with a fur neckpiece. Rev. Dr. R. W. Dickie, moderator pro tem, spoke briefly, after which the members of the Ladies' Aid Society served refreshments. Dr. Ross will be inducted tonight in pastoral charge of Montreal West and Lachine.

Books Kept Right

"There are bookkeepers and there are bookkeepers," a business man once remarked, "but, in all the years of my business experience, the best bookkeepers I ever had were those that I got through the aid of the Star Want Ads."

That is pretty strong testimony, but it is not unusual. In fact, every day, testimonials are pouring in telling of the superiority of users of the Star Want Ads, for they are the bright, intelligent, thinking class.

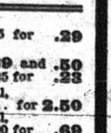

Get in touch with this grade of workers, Mr. Business Man, for it will mean much to you and your affairs.

Lovely teeth

—would the X-Ray show they're safe?

This X-Ray shows tooth socket destruction by pyorrhea

YOUR teeth may be white and free from decay, but they are in danger unless your gums are firm and healthy. The X-Ray shows how the root sockets, which support your teeth, are weakened when pyorrhea attacks the gums. The teeth fall out—or must be pulled—if pyorrhea is not promptly checked.

Bleeding, soft gums

give warning that pyorrhea is developing

DENTAL clinics since 1908 have proved that Pyorrhocide Powder is a most effective dentifrice for checking, as well as preventing, pyorrhea. Its tonic and stimulating qualities aid in correcting bleeding gums, strengthening tender gums, hardening soft gums.

It keeps the teeth white and clean. It is medicated with Dentinol, a gum-tissue healing agent used by dentists in the treatment of pyorrhea.

The daily use of Pyorrhocide Powder will help you to avoid pyorrhea. The economical dollar package contains six months' supply. At all druggists. Send for free sample and booklet on causes and prevention of pyorrhea.

Protects—Deodorizes

-but food did not seem to nourish baby as it should

"For months I worried about baby's food. At eighteen months he should have had a good appetite. At each feeding time he seemed hungry and anxious for his meal but invariably refused it after he had taken a few mouthfuls.

"We tried various things until at the doctor's suggestion, we gave him 'JOURNET'S FOOD WITH VITAMINES' in milk before every meal. Baby took this with relish and in a week I noticed a marked change both in his vitality and in his appetite. I have no cause to worry now. He is gaining in weight and his color shows a marked improvement. Besides — he eats almost anything we give him."

If your grocer or druggist cannot supply you immediately, write us, giving his name. We will send you an ample sample free.

TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 22, 1925.

KING FOR McKEOWN AND AGAINST MONTREAL.

IT was hardly to be expected that Quebec would be given so prompt a proof of the necessity of putting a Patenaude party on guard at Ottawa as Mr. King obligingly furnished last night at St. John, N.B.

Mr. King, at the present moment, is the official guardian of Quebec. He was chosen by Quebec votes to lead the Liberal party. He was hailed as the heir of Laurier. He was given an undivided Quebec delegation to establish him in the Premiership of the Dominion.

Quebec could not possibly do more for him than she has done. She could not earn a greater claim upon his gratitude or secure a firmer grip upon his fears. Nor could she catch him at a moment when he should be more sensitive to her righteous demands, or even to her possibly disputable desires, than in the midst of an election when every hope he has in the world rests upon an ability to keep an unbroken Quebec.

If Quebec, with its solid sixty-five Liberal members and with polling day in sight, cannot persuade Mr. King at least to refrain from sacrificing her plain interests and from excusing an entirely novel and unprovoked blow at one of her oldest established enterprises, then Quebec never can reckon with confidence on the friendship of the Ontario politician she lifted out of obscurity and raised to power.

* * * *

What is it then that Mr. King has done?

He went out of his way in the distant Maritime Provinces to commend the astonishing ruling of Railway Commissioner McKeown and Hon. Frank Oliver that the grain and flour rates from the Prairie Provinces should be reckoned at precisely the same rate per mile whether the grain was carried east to Montreal over the flattest country in the world or west to Vancouver over the Rocky Mountains! ! !

The ruling when it came out was regarded as incredible. No railway company—no matter how eager it was for business in both directions — had ever dreamed of trying to haul freight over the barrier of the Rocky Mountains at the same rate that it charged for running along the level grades of the prairies and the lake shore. It was not business. It was not economically sensible.

Then the ruling was immediately disowned by the other three Commissioners. They were not compelled to speak. They could have kept silent and let their rash colleagues bear the blame. But so outraged were they by this amazing action in advance of hearing the whole freight rate case that they promptly penned and published a strong protest. Under the law, they could not upset it—though they were a majority. But they made their opinion clear.

Montreal moved immediately to avert the blow, if at all possible. The railways, already heavily enough burdened, prepared to fight the order. The struggle is still on. The ruling that the Rocky Mountains do not exist—which would be irresistably ridiculous if it were not so tragic—will be attacked by the full power of this Province.

* * * *

But Mr. King will not attack with us. In spite of our sixty-five King Liberals sitting docilely behind him, he has come out boldly for the McKeown order—an order which will inflict tremendous damage upon the Port of Montreal and the St. Lawrence grain route.

But Mr. King's gratuitous endorsation of it may get him a British Columbia seat or two. Having Quebec buttoned securely in his pocket, he goes fishing in British Columbia.

But what if the button comes off? Then Mr. King cannot deliver Quebec, all parcelled up and neatly tied, to his Western masters. Then Montreal's grain trade, which has been the chief factor in building up our magnificent Port—and which no one ever challenged before —will remain to enrich Montreal and Quebec Province.

* * * *

But the only people who can "unbutton the pocket" and let Quebec's deceived and betrayed "solid sixty-five" out, are the people of Quebec. They know now that, if they vote for King, they vote for the perpetuation of the McKeown ruling. To elect a King supporter to Parliament is to elect a man to support a Premier who publicly declares that the McKeown ruling is "fair and just."

The only way they can escape from this intolerable position is to vote against King, McKeown and Company, and vote for Quebec. The man who offers them this opportunity — the man who is no more bound to Meighen than to King—the man who stands stoutly up for Quebec—is Patenaude.

Patenaude will not support or tolerate the McKeown order. He will not go out of his way to strike a blow at his home Port, the Port of Montreal. He will not "abolish the Rocky Mountains"—on paper — in order to kill the grain trade of the St. Lawrence, beside which he lives.

In this time of danger and official threats against established Eastern interests, Quebec should put only loyal Quebeckers on guard.

MEDDLESOME MERCENARIES.

TO the impartial and disinterested observer, the action of the United States Government in warning the American aviators at present fighting with the Moroccan forces against the Riffians that they are guilty of a misdemeanor and liable to a fine and imprisonment will doubtless appear as a dignified and highly proper procedure. In the good old days —which were very much simpler than our own —the mercenary was part and parcel of almost every army. He was a professional soldier, hired to fight, fighting for the highest bidder, and caring not a whit for whom he fought so long as he was well paid. But fighting in those days was largely an individual matter. Treaties and pacts and international law had not become the highly complicated, profoundly intricate maze of prohibitions, inhibitions, warnings, penalties and barriers to quarrels they are today. Every ablebodied man was a fighter, but every ablebodied man did not fight promiscuously. The gentleman adventurer obtained his letters of marque and swept the seas in search of the enemies of his country, to be sure. But he did not secure letters of marque under a foreign flag without running open risk of being hanged. The mercenary was a recognized professional soldier who could fight for any employer he chose; but the position of the private adventurer who elected to go afighting for its own sake was always subject to considerable debate.

With the coming of modern methods in the shape of specialized warfare conditions changed, and today the mercenary is no longer recognized as a legitimate soldier. When nations fight, they declare war first. All parties to a quarrel signify their stand before the world. The nation which has no quarrel with any belligerent naturally does not want to enter the conflict, and, therefore, is naturally anxious that its own nationals should refrain from any overt act of an unfriendly nature that might be interpreted as bringing it into the war. The United States has no quarrel with the Riffians. It is not an ally of France against the Riffians. Yet American airmen are fighting against the Riffians, and by so doing are laying their country open to a charge of unfriendly action through their own warlike activities.

The Americans have no place in this galley. The outcome of the fighting is no concern of theirs. Very properly Washington takes the stand that no American national has any right to enter the ranks of the Moroccan forces. It is, of course, impossible to prevent any person from exercising his own free will and enlisting in any army he likes, so long as he renounces his own citizenship and takes the oath of allegiance to the country for which he is fighting. But to fight as a national unit against an enemy with whom your own country is at peace is a very different matter indeed, as the American airmen in Morocco may yet find out to their cost.

LORD BUCKMASTER.

THERE was a double significance in the address delivered by Lord Buckmaster, an ex-Chancellor of the Exchequer, before the Bench and Bar in the Montreal Court House yesterday. The distinguished jurist, who is also an orator of unusual power, has a grace of expression that lends to his words an added felicity. His reference to the inspiration to be found in the fact that there are always to be found within the limits of the British Empire communities like those of French-Canada clinging to old traditions, warmly attached to old beliefs, yet remaining loyal members of the British Empire, was no less tactful and apropos than his emphasis upon the British flag as a symbol of justice and equal rights to all men, of all classes and creeds, without regard to wealth or birth. It is a good thing that a statesman who has held one of the highest offices within the gift of the Crown should come here and pay such a tribute to French-Canada in the same breath as he extols the flag to which French-Canada is outspokenly loyal. Lord-Buckmaster is no juggler of words. His reputation as a shrewd and penetrating thinker is clearly established. His gift of putting his thoughts into the happiest of phrases is known. But of his sincerity fortunately there is also not the slightest doubt. He has paid us rather a lengthy visit, as the visits of British statesmen to Canada go. He will return with a broader conception of the roots that feed Canadian loyalty, and he will leave us with an abiding impression of his own sympathetic understanding. Nothing is better calculated to foster mutual faith and trust than such visits by such men.

Flowers seem intended for the solace of ordinary humanity. Children love them; quiet, tender, contented, ordinary people love them as they grow; luxurious and disorderly people rejoice in them gathered. They are the cottager's treasure; and in the crowded town, mark as with a little broken fragment of rainbow, the window of the workers in whose heart rests the covenant of peace.—John Ruskin.

When all is done, human life is, at the greatest and the best, but like a forward child, that must be played with and humored a little to keep it quiet till it falls asleep, and then the care is over.—Sir William Temple.

Life is not so short but that there is always time enough for courtesy.—Ralph Waldo Emerson.

The Gold Standard.

London Times (Cons.): Although academically interesting, the controversy over the restoration of the gold standard has lost much of its practical importance. The Gold Standard Bill is on the Statute-book, and for better or worse—all history indicates that it is for the better—this country is committed to a policy which the common sense of the greater part of the nation has approved. That policy, simply stated, is the policy of keeping faith.

Death Duties.

London Sunday Express (Beaverbrook, Ind.): This particular tax is sure to increase, because it is one of the best methods of exacting taxation. That the maximum death duties have not gone forward under the last two Governments is a pure accident of personality. Mr. Philip Snowden is a Gladstonian Liberal rather than a Socialist in finance. And if Mr. Churchill has any fixed conviction at all it is a belief that the landed interest must be preserved.

Eyewash.

London Daily News (Mod. Lib.): For sheer audacity the report of the British women trade Unionists who have been visiting Russia would be hard to beat. Reading this astonishing document one might suppose that the delegates were describing not the known phenomena of one of the most ruthless and sanguinary experiments in human history, but a beautiful and beneficent Utopia. That is apparently what they went out resolved to see, and they have seen it with a vengeance.

Balance of Power.

J. A. S. in the Westminster Gazette (Mod. Lib.): Unless Germany makes up her quarrel with France and comes on equal terms into the League of Nations, . . . it is almost certain that she will one day make common cause with Russia, and establish a formidable equipoise to the French group of Powers. This may look remote, but so did the Franco-Russian Alliance in the days of the Drei-Kaiserbund, when all the wise men were convinced that the union of Czardom and French democracy was a total impossibility.

"Education."

London Sunday Times (Cons.): Anyone who realizes how little book-knowledge has to do with culture or happiness or usefulness in life, can hardly help being appalled at the thought of the dreary treadmill of lessons to which the youth of the country is condemned. All these plastic minds and natures driven through the same curriculum without reference to such special aptitudes, inclinations and characteristics as they may possess or whether they possess any at all—it is a revolting parody of what education should be.

Sound at Heart.

London Daily Express (Beaverbrook, Ind.): The British people are absolutely sound at heart. The majority of trade unionists are far more sensible than their leaders—and the majority of the leaders are far more sensible than the minority. Only they do not talk so much. But then Englishmen of all classes do not in moments of grave crisis like, trust, or follow men whose only title to distinction is the habit of irresponsible loquacity. So that the Red revolution to be accomplished through the medium of the trade unions is a myth.

Workshop and Schoolroom.

London Daily Mail (Rothermere, Ind.): The true object of education should be to build up character and promote intelligence, energy, and mental discipline. The workshop and the farm may often be a better school than the class-room for all but the exceptional pupils who have a real bent for learning and study. By all means let us give due scope to these latter, but let us recognize that they are not typical, and that it is futile to proceed as if all children have an aptitude for book-learning and need as much of it as can be supplied to them.

Pounds of Flesh.

London Referee (Cons. Weekly): Compared with the United States, Shylock stands out as a distinguished altruist who came to the rescue of very insolent Christians in distress. His bright example has stirred up the Americans to emulate and surpass him. Every red cent lent to Europe to keep them out of the blood and the mud until they could sing "The Star Spangled Banner" to an enemy in retreat must and shall be paid. Not an ounce of the pound of flesh shall be remitted. Poor Shylock! If he were ever to revisit the pale glimpses of the moon the contemplation of American business methods would surely turn him green with envy and despair.

The Recovery of Russia.

Leeds Yorkshire Post (Cons.): The Western Powers, with either the co-operation or the friendly approval of the United States, should endeavor to reach a joint agreement as to their common attitude to Russia. The basis of that attitude should be an avowed readiness to consider favorably the question of offering special credits and facilities towards the economic and commercial recovery of Russia, if and when Russia denotes her own readiness to receive a representative Commission of Inquiry. No country which seeks credit can object to those from whom credit is sought asking to be allowed to examine the assets of the would be borrower. If the Soviet would back its requests for credit by such a proof of genuine purpose, the other Powers might then be able to assist materially in Russia's recovery.

Unfulfilled Promises.

London Daily Chronicle (Lloyd Georgian Lib.): It is the settled conviction of Mr. Baldwin and his Government that there is nothing much which a Government can do to restore trade and check unemployment. Leave things to time and individual effort, is the ceaseless refrain from the front benches in Parliament. But why is it impossible for Governments to promote trade when they have proved that Governments can so easily smash it? At one blow, by the precipitate restoration of the gold standard, they have wiped out British foreign trade at the rate of 80 or 90 millions sterling a year. A Government which has one plan for such drastic destruction might surely be asked to evolve another to undo its own mischief. But not a word, not a scheme, not a single original suggestion for helping trade and promoting employment!

She Was a Never-Failing Well.

She was a never-failing well.
The tragedy—if tragedy there was—
Was only this;
He had no need, nor liking even,
For things too permanent,
The brook that would run dry before September,
But make a crazy rumpus in the spring,
Could break his heart—and did.

And she, who had no fountain suddenness,
No turns and tricks of rivers,
No great waves to comfort him,
Could only stand
A never-failing well beside his door,
Knowing that her tranquillity
Would never even overturn a pebble
To catch the eye of his distracted grief.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

A great many interesting letters received by the Editor of The Star are too long for publication. Our correspondents would do well to study brevity.

WHY NOT WOMEN SENATORS?

The Editor, Montreal Daily Star.

Sir,—Can anybody explain why we have no woman in our Senate? Should not the mentally liberated, be they men or women—those conscious that public service is a nobler ideal than private profit—all be eligible for appointment? On these should fall the duty of government. . . . When the "Senatorial sugar plum" system is obliterated from our public life, and prejudice is thrown in the discard, think you, shall we as citizens of no mean country, be prepared to play world "cricket"?

FLAG AT HALF-MAST.

The Editor, Montreal Daily Star.

Sir,—The reply to "Puzzled" in the Answers Department of The Star a week ago, while quite correct as to the meaning of the term "half-mast," does not, I think, fully explain the expression. A flag at half-mast should be the width of the flag only from the ball or mast-head, and before being placed in that position should first be hoisted to the full height and then lowered. The custom originated by the commander of a defeated army lowering his flag its own width, so that the victor could then place his own colors over that of his enemy, and so the custom arose later on of showing mourning by placing the flag at half-mast.

St. John, N.B. FLAGSTAFF.

PARENTS AND CHILDREN.

The Editor, Montreal Daily Star.

Sir,—Do children love their parents? Of course they do, and if they do not it is not the fault of the children but of the parents, most of the time in most cases. As the parents measure out to their children they, the children, will likely return in like measure. If you impose on your children they will sense the injustice and lose trust in you. If you are grouchy, impatient, selfish in the home, the children must imbibe the unpleasant atmosphere that exists, and so such parents cannot expect pleasant, patient, and unselfish children. If you are rarely seen to smile you must not be surprised to find a bored look on your children's faces. They are going to take after yourselves and not your neighbors. You are their character-moulder and their example. What you are, they will be. You may love them although you are unpleasant towards them, but actions always speak louder than words. Again if your children get to fear your presence it is because you have not been affectionate nor sympathetic toward them. What expression on an adult's face did you love to see when you were children? Was it the smile or the frown? Certainly the smile. Then if you have been neglectful in these regards, try a smile for a change, and see how your children will welcome you with open arms. PATER ET MATER.

THE KNOWN AND THE UNKNOWN.

The Editor, Montreal Daily Star:

Sir,—Regarding Mr. G. G. McPherson's letter on "Science and Life," recently published, may I say hat Mr. McPherson is serious, to argue with him is useless. He says science has its limitations and cannot bridge the gulf between the known and unknown. Does he realize that, by asserting a thing to be unknowable, he claims to know it is unknowable, and, therefore, he knows everything about the unknown? He says correctly that science has never created anything since science never claims to make something out of nothing, nor is it proved to have been done. He assumes a personal God who created everything by a perfect design and that this is proved by the phenomena of nature. Apart from the fact that there is not an iota of scientific evidence for this, I should like to know if the laws for combating disease were revealed by his God, or were discovered by science; if any of the laws of nature were revealed by his God or were discovered by science; if he can point out anything perfect in nature; and why innocent children are afflicted by diseases through no fault of theirs? Let him think of the words of N. Field, said to have been a member of Shakespeare's company:

"Man is not the prince of creatures.
But in reason; fall that, he is worse
Than horse, or dog, or beast of wilderness."

Montreal. G. A. FIELD.

OUR CROWN PROSECUTORS.

The Editor, Montreal Daily Star.

Sir,—Mr. M. M. Campbell would do much better if he could persuade the Attorney-General for more efficiency rather than ask for innovations in the office of the Crown Prosecutors. Administration and interpretation of justice is not a matter of creed, but a matter of law—and this is what every citizen should seek to establish. The misfortune is that the citizens cannot control these appointments, and the Quebec authorities insist on looking upon Montreal through Quebec spectacles. Mr. R. L. Calder, by far the most conscientious and most efficient Crown Prosecutor that Montreal has ever had, resigned for two reasons. These reasons were never given out, but were tacitly understood. The first reason was insufficient remuneration. The Attorney-General expects twentieth century work for nineteenth century remuneration. Why cannot the Attorney-General, like a private corporation reorganize for efficiency? The second reason was the lack of authority of the Public Prosecutors here in Montreal. Every order must come from Quebec, and if by any chance the directing authorities are out of town—and often they are—no action can be taken by the local Prosecutor. It is unbelievable that the Prosecuting Attorney for the metropolis of Canada cannot institute proceedings without the consent and the approval of Quebec—which often needs coaxing. If the Deputy Attorney-General will not delegate some powers to his representatives here, let him move his office to Montreal; if he cannot move his office to Montreal it is his duty to relinquish a little of that authority. We have a Deputy Chief Justice here, and we should have a Deputy Attorney-General. Montreal needs a Crown Prosecutor with all powers of an American District Attorney, or a French Procureur, with perfect and absolute control of Municipal, Provincial and Federal police.

If Mr. Calder could be induced to resume the office of Chief Crown Prosecutor, Montreal would be served faithfully. He is a true Canadian, and his love for his country makes him a most ardent defender of the law of the land. He is a true Britisher, and this makes him a most zealous practitioner of fair play. He is a soldier, and he knows how to carry out his duty without question. As a lawyer he is rivaled by very few and excelled by none. In Mr. Calder the Jews, the English-speaking, the French-speaking, every creed and every race would be properly represented.

THE PASSING HOUR

Little grains of powder,
Little daubs of paint,

Look as though they ain't.

An amusing incident occurred at Charing Cross Station during Ascot week. An American drew up at the station in a taxi, and jumping out before the cab had hardly stopped started to haul away his baggage. Noticing a porter standing by, he called out to him:

"Come along, man, and take my luggage. What time is the next train to Ascot?"

"Oh, you've come to the wrong station, sir," said the porter with a smile, "you want Waterloo."

"Then fetch me a taxi at once, and don't stand there like an idiot," the now excited Yankee exclaimed.

The taxi duly arrived, but by that time the American had worked himself into a towering rage, and roared at the driver, "Waterloo, as fast as blazes!"

"The station, sir?" quietly asked the unperturbed driver, a remark which put the finishing cap on the American's temper. "No, you fool," he screamed, "the battlefield."

Noble Lord (roused by his valet as the house is on fire)—Confound it, Simpson, where have you put my other spat?—London Opinion.

"There, you've missed him. I cert'ny am surprised. How came you didn't hit that rabbit, Uncle Bill?" "It was this way, boy. You see, dat rabbit he was runnin' zigzag. I aimed at him when he was in zig, and 'fore I could shut my shootin' eye, dat rabbit had shifted into zag! Dem critters is gettin' more eddicated every day."

Johnny: "Aren't you ashamed to wear such old boots as those and your father is a bootmaker?" Bertie: "Well, your father is a dentist, and your baby has only one tooth!"

"Why did you allow young Gaybird to kiss you in the parlor last night?"

"Because I was afraid he'd catch cold in the hall."

"I didn't know you were back, Mrs. Jones," said the neighbor's little girl. "Did you have a good time?"

"But I've not been away, my dear," replied the other, in a puzzled tone.

"Haven't you, really? Why, I heard mother tell father that you and Mr. Jones had been at loggerheads for a long time."

A lady who took great interest in her servants and their welfare recently engaged a new maid.

"Have you any special interest, Mary?" she asked, in her kind way. "Anything you are taking up or that you care about?"

"Well, mum," replied the simple Mary, "I have been taking up with the baker's boy, but I don't know as I cares for him much."

Pat was engaged to do a job of painting for Mr. Smyth. After a while he came in saying the job was completed, and asked for his money.

"But, Pat, I wanted two coats on the building. I'll pay you after you have finished the second coat," said Mr. Smyth.

"You've got it," said Pat. "I mixed the first coat with the paint for the second, and put on both coats at the same time. 'Speed' is my motto."

"When I put the coat on for the first time and buttoned it up, I burst the seam down the back."

"Yes, that will show you how well our buttons are sewn on."

"I say, Harry," said a workman to his mate, "what's a cosmopolitan?"

"Well," replied his mate, "suppose there was a Russian Jew living in England, who had an Italian wife, smoking Egyptian cigarettes, near a French window, in a room with a Turkish carpet on the floor. If this man drank American ice cream sodas, while listening to a German band playing 'Come Back to Erin' after a supper of Dutch cheese made up as a Welsh rarebit, then you might be safe in saying he was a cosmopolitan."

"They tell me you love music."

"Yes, but never mind; keep on playing."

"Won't you join me in a cup of tea?" she asked gushingly.

"Well, you get in," he answered, "and I'll see if there's any room left."

A farmer was accused of having libeled his neighbor.

"Did you call him a rogue and a liar?"

"Yes, I did!"

"And did you call him a thief?"

"No, I forgot that."

A very poor golfer had been pressed into service to play for his club in a match on a strange course.

He was rather nervous about his opponent's capabilities, and when, at the first hole, that player began with a whizzing 250-yards drive, the poor player turned in consternation to the local caddie.

"Good heavens!" he asked in a whisper, "does he always play like that?"

"No," said the boy, scathingly; "it's all right, mister, 'is foot must 'ave slipped."

Father-in-law:—"Didn't you tell me when you married my daughter that you were worth forty thousand pounds?"

Son-in-law:—"No; I said that I could lay my hands on forty thousand pounds. But had I done so I should now be in prison."

Teacher—"Now, Tommy, give me a sentence containing the word "gruesome?"

Tommy—"Er—my grandpa grew some (gruesome) whiskers, sir!"

Smith was heartbroken and dejected. He had bought the store as a going concern. Six months later he was astounded to find that it had failed.

Later on, happening to meet the previous owner, he accosted him and said:

"You remember that business that you sold me as a going concern"

"Of course, I remember perfectly."

"Well, it's gone!"

Does Jack go with Katherine enough for her to let him kiss her?"

"He doesn't kiss her enough for her to let him go with her."

"My dear Murphy," said an Irishman to his friend, "why did you betray the secret I told you?"

"Is it betraying you call it? Sure, when I found I was not able to keep it myself, didn't I do well to tell it to somebody that could?"

Heckler (to orator): "Hi, Guvn'or, do you support early closing?"

Orator: "Certainly I do, my friend."

Heckler: "Then shut up."

Uncle: "George, what are you going to be when you grow up?"

George: "I'm going to be a philanthropist, uncle. Those people always seem to have a lot of money."

Tourist Said to Have Picked Up Gems Worth Huge Sum

IN HOTEL GROUNDS

Mystery Surrounded Disappearance—Owned by Hon. Mrs. E. J. Blyth

If Miss Duffitt, of Vancouver picked up in a C.P.R. hotel garden, a necklace of pearls worth a fortune, and has solved the mystery of Hon. Mrs. Blyth's missing pearls, local representatives of the Cunard company have not been informed to this effect. Officials of the C.P.R. also were not told of the discovery. However, should the report prove true, it will solve a Scotland Yard investigation which involved the Cunard Liner Ascania, the Quebec ofice of that company, and a Quebec hotel.

The Hon. Mrs. E. J. Blyth passed through Canada some weeks ago on her way to the Old Country from Australia. She was accompanied by her soon, who carried her jewel case. It is said that when the son reached Quebec he took the casket and placed it for safe-keeping in the office of the steamship company until the party should board the Ascania. The box was called for, taken aboard ship and placed in charge of the purser. The owner of the jewels is said to have been under the impression that the pearls were with other gems in the casket. She disembarked without opening the casket and went to stay with friends in the west end of London.

DISCOVERED LOSS.

There she discovered that her valuable necklace, a rope of 127 pearls of graduated sizes was gone from the box. She at once reported the matter to Scotland Yard, and detectives were set to work on the case. The ship was searched without result. Enquiries were made at Quebec to find out whether a declaration was made of the box's contents when it was deposited at the Quebec office of the company.

A report given to the London Daily Mail says that the pearls were safe in the possession of Miss Duffitt on July 26, a month before the owner discovered her loss. The report says that Miss Duffitt picked them up in the garden of the Chateau at Lake Louise and reported her find to the management; but this statement was doubted at C.P.R. offices this morning. No information regarding the find could be obtained from the hotel department, where it was stated that A. Allerton, director of hotels was at Banff and would investigate the case. The Department of Investigation likewise had no report on any such find.

The explanation of the loss, in view of the reported recovery was given by Mr. Summers, of Summers, Henderson and Company, London, Eng., assessors who are quoted as saying "It is beyond all reasonable doubt that they are the missing pearls. When Mrs. Blyth's rope broke she wrapped the pearls in a handkerchief, and must have inadvertently pulled it out of her pocket when walking in the grounds.

"Consequently the jewels could not have been in her jewel case when she turned it over to the purser of the Ascania."

Mrs. Blyth is the daughter of Sir John Brunner, and the widow of the second son of the first Lord Blyth. Her son is heir to the title.

DIVISION OCCURS IN LIBERAL PARTY

Lotbiniere Convention Fails to Name Successor to Vien

QUEBEC, Sept. 22.—(C.P.)—The first convention to be held in the County of Lotbiniere for 27 years took place yesterday at St. Croix, when representatives of the Liberal party sought to name a successor to Thomas Vien. The meeting failed to select a candidate, a division arising as to whether Hon. J. N. Francoeur, Speaker of the Quebec Legislative Assembly, or Omer Langlois should be nominated. The matter was undecided when the convention adjourned.

Mr. Francoeur was the choice of the convention, but this was refused by Mr. Langlois, who stated that he would not accept the selection. Mr. Langlois attempted to address the delegates, but was refused a hearing, while Mr. Francoeur left the meeting before the convention suspended its session.

Mr. Francoeur declared that he "reserved the right to enter the fight. If he had to sacrifice himself to go to Ottawa, he would do so, but he would go through to the finish."

Mr. Francoeur charged Mr. Langlois with attempting to split the Province "at a critical period." He stated that he would give his own decision in the course of the next few days.

ARMED MEN KIDNAP CHICAGO GAMBLER

CHICAGO, Sept. 22. — (A.P.) — Ransom or revenge were police theories today on the kidnapping, by two armed men, of Henry Belford, known as a wealthy real estate dealer, but identified by his wife as "Hickory Slim," one of the biggest gambling plungers in the country.

The revenge theory suggested that some heavy loser in Belford's operations as a bookmaker, which raised him from the crap-shooting class, to the millionaire rank, may have decided to punish him.

Mrs. Belford told the police of the kidnapping, early last night. She and her husband were returning from a theatre, a short distance from their fashionable hotel, when two men halted their automobile, demanding money and jewelry. She threw jewelry valued at $2,000 on the floor and stepped out. The men drove off with her husband.

CATHOLIC SCHOOLS MAY TEACH HYGIENE

QUEBEC, Sept. 22.—(Star Special) — The advisability of teaching family hygiene in all primary schools in Quebec, to girls over the age of 13 years, was considered this morning by the sub-committee of the Catholic Committee of the Council of Public Instruction. Two reports were prepared and will be taken up tomorrow at a meeting of the whole Council. Hon. J. J. Guerin, Montreal, president of the sub-committee, will submit the resolutions.

FIRE DESTROYS TIJUANA BLOCK

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Sept. 22.—(A.P.)—Flames starting in the Vernon Club in Tijuana, early this morning, swept through an entire block that included some of the best known resorts, causing a loss estimated at nearly $1,000,000.

The orange has reached its present state as a result of 1,200 years' cultivation. Originally it was a pear-shaped fruit about the size of a cherry.

Sure Way to Get Rid of Blackheads

There is one simple, safe, and sure way that never fails to get rid of blackheads; that is to dissolve them. To do this, get two ounces of peroxine powder from any drug store—sprinkle a little on a hot, wet cloth—rub over the blackheads briskly—wash the parts and you will be surprised how the blackheads have disappeared. Big blackheads, little blackheads, no matter where they are, simply dissolve and disappear. Blackheads are a mixture of dust and dirt and secretions that form in the pores of the skin. The peroxine powder and the water dissolve the blackheads so they wash right out, leaving the pores free and clean and in their natural condition.

MARGARET CURRIE'S MAIL

All correspondence in this department should be addressed to Margaret Currie.

Please address legal and other questions to Editor, Notes and Queries, and not to this department.

Theatrical and motion picture questions should be addressed to the Dramatic Editor.

GOOD DAY, GOOD-NIGHT.

I was interested to see one of your correspondents asking for translations of Leon Montenaeken's charming little poem, "Peu de Chose". From time to time I have seen translations which I have copied out and which follow here. The one he quotes is by James Terry White and is the best known among them.

A translation by E. B. Roberts is called "Good-Day, Good Night," and is as follows:

Ah, Life is vain:
We love, we say;
Or hate again—
And then, Good-Day.

And Life is brief;
Our hopes take flight,
Dreaming's relief—
So then, Good-Night.

Louis Chandler Moulton has translated it thus:

Ah, brief is Life,
Love's short, sweet way,
With dreamings rife,
And then—Good-Day.

And Life is vain—
Hope's vague delight,
Grief's transient pain,
And then—Good-Night.

I wonder if your correspondent is also familiar with the "L'Envoie" of George du Maurier's "Trilby," which, while not a literal translation, has been inspired by the same source. In the editions illustrated by the author it appears above a drawing of an open book, with "Finis" scrawled across its last page, and a guttering candle, pens, etc., and a pair of spectacles pathetically darkened in one eye.

It is as follows:

A little work, a little play
To keep us going—and so, good-day!

A little warmth, a little light
Of love's bestowing — and so, good-night!

A little fun to match the sorrow
Of each day's growing—and so, good-morrow!

A little trust that when we die
We reap our sowing! And so—good-bye!

One of your interested readers,
"MARPESSA."

Ed. Note—Thank you.

LOVES AN INDIAN GIRL.

I turn to you for advice about a mixed marriage. I have fallen in love beyond the barriers of race and religion. I am 23, of a good English family, and belong to the Church of England. This summer while working surveying some land partly cleared and abutting against wooded land I one day heard a female voice in the woods speaking in a strange language and receiving no replies. I decided to investigate. A few steps in the woods brought me to a point where I could see around a turn in a path, and there stood a girl, her back toward me, holding by the head, petting and talking to a magnificent black horse. The horse was saddled, and I noticed the girl wore breeches, riding shoes and a middy blouse, with a red handkerchief loosely about her neck. I stumbled on some limbs and the noise made her turn quickly, and I got the shock of my life. Facing me was a totally different girl than I had thought. Jet blue-black hair braided at either ear hung almost to her knees, and about her forehead was a red band, beaded and embroidered. A squaw, but undeniably beautiful. I had to come forward and she was the first to speak, regarding me suspiciously. "What do you do on the Indian property?" she asked in English that conveyed a hint of lisping. After I satisfied her that I was harmless, she told me she was the Chief's daughter, that the black horse was hers and that she came that way riding each day. It was love at first sight for me and I lost no opportunity to see her. She took me to their humble hut about three weeks later and her father, after satisfying himself that the white man's intentions were honorable to his daughter, was friendly to me. After three months the girl admitted she cared for me in answer to my pleadings. My company later ordered me back here, and when I told my parents of this affair they were horrified and threatened to disown me if I mentioned it again. The girl, too, realizes the gap of race, but I will not hear her speak of it. It is sufficient that we love one another. I love her as I shall love only one, and I will love her no matter what happens. No white girl can replace her in my heart. I will never be ashamed of her. She has a fair education and her quiet manner is refined in itself. She is an accomplished horsewoman. Each week in reply to my love letter I receive a humble little note showing how she too realizes the difference of race.

What, oh, what am I to do? Shall I cast love forever from my heart — or my parents, who have always been so kind to me? I am torn between these two emotions. I cannot see why true love should be interfered with by race, religion and social position. But my kind parents—should I abandon them?

I just want your opinion, Margaret Currie, and that of your readers.

"AGONG."

Ans.—My own opinion is always that it is wiser to marry in your own race and religion, but perhaps some of our readers will give us some definite advice, based on experience, either personal or by observation.

CRITICISMS

(To No-See-Um.)

No-See-Um's criticism of Roughneck's article was futile. He attempted to falsify the picture of courage Roughneck paints by offering one of his own of a totally different canvas. Roughneck's portraiture was logical and rang true. Just as youth knows no defeat so will every living thing hold out to the last whether maimed insect or fearless man, and in spite of honeyed noble sentiments what is more natural than the adolesent or flapper wanting to live? Why this finality of resignation while there is hope of recovery? Considering the colossal importance of the mind in such matters God help the unfortunate who has not a cheerful philosophy in such a crisis, and to the hopeful your suggestion is scarifying. Your own portrait of courage is noble and beautiful, being widely held, but it is best in its own place and I would not like it as a fashion, while on the other hand, it can be overdone. My chum's mother, a sophisticated Frenchwoman, once lay ill in a religious institution, where custom told her to resign herself to death. She resigned herself to get well instead and today is not far from the century mark. As for fear, which, by the way, is not found in Roughneck's little group, fear is natural, it has the ear-marks of sanity. The beginning of wisdom is the fear of the Lord, fear is the protector of the weak and the frail, fear of poverty, of danger, of wrong, even of retribution are among the greatest mental-stimulants to ward off error and wrong and finally most are agreed that the heroism of the coward crowns the supreme ultimate of heroics. Your analysing was careless, No-See-Um. I think you like to be opposite; nevertheless, I like your article, even if I don't agree. I've noticed your lengthy article on Aestheticism today, your mental technique and marshalling of arguments, which I liked very much. I intend to give it the once over to see where we all stand, but I believe in the subject you have more scaffolding than in the courage poem.

PERCYVAL PRECIOUS.

"CHEERIO !" FROM ROUGHNECK

"Wild West," I am glad you wrote and I appreciate your confidence. I think your outlook is fine. If you have "never known a gay time," or used powder," or followed the shallow majority, I devoutly hope you never will. Simplicity, grace, and dignity are the keynotes to splendid womanhood. And yet, don't be too serious, Miss Eighteen. There must be a healthy balance, you know. Dance awhile, laugh a lot, love wisely and be just yourself—happy, irresponsible eighteen. You say you are in a little world of your own—well, it sounds very nice as you describe it. May I come in?

Many thanks, "Smiling Thru," for your good wishes and for such a sympathetic letter. So you have trodden Sacra Via too. Then indeed, my letter would have a special meaning for you. If you alone had read it, I would feel amply rewarded. I have not been through the Rocky Mountains, unfortunately, but have ambitions of doing so. It is fine to hear that you have won through and are fit and well. May you always remain so.

Bravo! "Sally Ann." And you, too, "Ina." Did ever a fortunate being have such stout defenders! A plague upon this "Sweet Al"; And yet, I am indebted to him for having revealed two loyal hearts. It's an ill wind——. So you care, "Sally Ann," where Roughneck rests his weary head. I hate to appear mushy and sentimental but your remarks touched me deeply. In the anonymity of the page I seem to have stumbled upon more sincerity and affectionate fellowship than I ever knew in real life. It is a touching thought. By the way, did you see what "Oliver" said about "The Roughneck" grooming down "Ora Pro Nobis'" horse? Ha! Ha! that was a good one. I'm pretty good at grooming little dogs, too. In fact, when they get too saucy and grubby, I "Currie-comb" 'em.

I am sorry, "Diana," but I have not travelled the South Seas—at least, not the South Seas you are thinking of. I have "crossed the line" and been as far south as Montevideo and Buenos Aires, but not in the Southern Pacific. However, I can, and will, write of other seas and a sailor's life generally. Listen for my hoinpipe, shortly.

"Oliver," it wasn't necessary to apologize. My former letters might easily have been misleading. You see, in the first place, my only excuse for writing at all was to answer an appeal for travel articles, a fact which I couldn't lose sight of. Also, at first, I wanted to be strictly impersonal—to rigidly exclude, as beginner should, all personal coloring, opinions and prejudices. The result was a deplorable, though inevitable, stiffness of style, which, as "No-See-Um" put it, read like a tourist's guide book. I was merely faithful to my subject. I still believe in impersonal writing—I cannot believe that my opinions, thoughts and "soul experiences" can have much weight—but since the demand has arisen—I offer them for what they are worth.

"Hidden Garden," you are very flattering, but I value your good opinion tremendously. When are you going to give us another peep into that beautiful Treasure Trove?

Two or three months ago, an article appeared on the page, headed, I think, "The Meditations of a Maid." It was labelled "Unsigned," the commencing phrase being, "I am a woman———" and concluded with —— "The glories of the possible are ours!" I blush to think of how that article intrigued me, and still does. I have waited longingly for more, but in vain. This leads me to suspect that the writer is one of our present leading feminine contributors — the style is so familiar, and too expert to belong to a casual writer. Naturally, she would hide even her nom-de-plume from such an intimate article and while I hope she always will, (to preserve my ideal) may I suggest that she write again and often, using, perhaps, "P.S.W." as a signature?

Cheerio! and best regards to "Fern Glade," "Nellie Gray," "Zenana Swan," "Wonderful One," "Dreamer," "The Orchid," Plain Brunette," and others of our happy little band.

THE ROUGHNECK.

FOR MERIMBA

Well, Merimba, you have come forward and have given your opinion on kissing. You are a girl of twenty years and you are proud to say you have never been kissed, yet you admit you attend those all-night dances and get home in the early part of the morning. You don't believe in kissing Tom, Dick, and Harry just because you supposed they kissed some other girl before they did you. Even if they did, are their lips not as pure and as clean as yours are? Is a person to be condemned as unclean just because they were kissed by someone, probably a friend or relative, or dearest of all, a mother or father or lover? Oh! no, dear Merimba, there is no harm in a kiss, if you don't make harm out of it. Of course, I am like you, I don't believe in lavishing your kisses on every one who wishes to kiss you. It is not good for your health and you would cheapen yourself.

How do you know there are after effects from a kiss when you say you have never kissed anyone? If so, you really can't speak from experience. My opinion is that there are more after effects from those all-night dances than there are from a simple little kiss.

Frankly, I don't believe you are an old-fashioned girl. I believe you are a new fashioned one, for kissing always was and always will be condemned by some, and favored by others just like the fashion of dress and bobbed hair of 1924 and 1925. Merimba, live up to your motto. It is all right, and blessed is the man who chooses a wife for himself such as you claim yourself to be.

But remember, a kiss is a token of affection and has made many happy in this rather unfair world.

BROWN EYES.

FAIRIES

Did you ever watch the fairies sliding down the moonbeams? The good fairies are dressed in silver and they slip from the moonbeams into our rooms on a summer breeze. They fill our rooms with a misty light and sing of happy fairy lore. They flicker through the sleeping morning glory vines and fall dancing on the hammock cushion at my head. They whisper close to my ears the story of the perfume of the Cedar Tree, of the song of the meadow lark, and of the music of the Pines. They tease me and tell me that "He" is coming soon, and then I hear the soft purr of the engine and see the sweep of the head lights along my brown road, which is white in the moonlight; and I lift my fairies close to my heart and carry them with me out into the night, and as we speed through the blue, dusky night they sing soft, little songs of promise.

The bad fairies are dressed in yellow, flaming yellow, and they taunt and torment me. They visit me when the night is calling and must stay in the house; they tangle themselves in my hair; they sit at my elbow and play haunting waltz music until my feet are aching for a polished floor and my heart for a crowd of merry happy people. The bad fairies bring only discontent and longing for the reality of memories. "DIANA."

FLIRTING

Will you tell me if there is any real or ultimate harm in flirting? I am twenty-one and engaged to a good girl who objects to my flirting or fooling with other girls. I seem to enjoy the sociability of other girls at times, but never carry it too far.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

PETER GETS AN ACHING NECK

By Thornton W. Burgess

Knowledge is, we must confess,
Often but a lucky guess.
—Old Mother Nature.

Two and two make four. You know that. You also know that this is only another way of saying that two known facts added are sure to give a certain result. Peter Rabbit may not know any arithmetic, but he does know the above truth. So when Peter discovered that Ol' Mistah Buzzard had brought Ol' Mrs. Buzzard up from the Sunny South with him that spring, and when a little later he saw Ol' Mrs. Buzzard only now and then, he put two and two together, as the saying is.

"Those Buzzards have a nest," declared Peter. "That is why I see so little of Ol' Mrs. Buzzard. All the feathered people have nests now, or are getting ready to have nests. Of course, that is what Ol' Mrs. Buzzard came way up here for. Ol' Mistah Buzzard must have told her what a fine place it is up here, so she left the Sunny South to make her home here with him. I wonder where that nest is? I would like to see it. It must be a great big nest. Yes, sir, it must be a great big nest! Any one as big as Ol' Mrs. Buzzard would need a big nest. I wouldn't be a bit surprised if it is as big as the nest of Plunger the Osprey. Anyway, it must be as big as the nest of Redtail the Hawk."

So Peter began to spend a great deal of time looking for that nest. He had thought he would find it very easily. He couldn't imagine how such a big nest as he was sure that must be could possibly be hidden. Of course he thought it was near that favorite tall, dead tree on which Ol' Mistah and Mrs. Buzzard delighted to sit. So Peter went about all around there with his head tipped back looking for a great big nest. He looked in every tree for a considerable distance around. Failure to find that nest made him only the more eager to find it.

His neck ached. It did so. He had tipped his head back so much that he had made his neck ache. But he hadn't found that nest, nor any sign of that nest. Early one morning he met his cousin, Jumper the Hare. As usual, Peter was hopping along with his head tipped back. He almost bumped into Jumper before he saw him.

"It seems to me, Cousin Peter, you are carrying your head very high in the air," said Jumper.

Peter grinned. "I'm looking for something," said he. "I wonder if you have seen it?"

"Perhaps so. Perhaps not. I can tell you when I know what it is you are looking for," replied Jumper.

"I am looking for the nest of Ol' Mrs. Buzzard," replied Peter.

"Oh!" exclaimed Jumper. "Has she a nest? I didn't know it."

"Of course she has a nest!" replied Peter rather testily. "Isn't it the middle of the nesting season? What do you think she came way up here from the Sunny South for if it wasn't to build a nest and raise a family? Why does she disappear for ever so long at a time unless it is because she is sitting on eggs? Of course she has a nest. But though I have looked until my neck aches I haven't been able to find it. She and Mistah Buzzard are such wonderful flyers that it must be that they have built their nest a long way from here. I wonder if it can be up on the Big Mountain?"

"Why don't you watch them and see if they fly over there? That ought to be easy," replied practical Jumper.

"It's a good idea. I'll try it," replied Peter.

MINT SAUCE

Will you kindly publish in your page the recipe for making mint sauce, (the kind to be served with roast lamb). V. A.

Ans.—Mint Sauce:—Use one-fourth cup finely chopped mint leaves, one-half cup vinegar, and one tablespoon powdered sugar. Add sugar to vinegar; when dissolved, pour over mint and let stand thirty minutes on back of range to infuse. If the vinegar is very strong, dilute with water.

Life and Character Reading

SEPTEMBER 22

Children born under this sign are true children of Nature. They have strong likes and dislikes, with a domineering manner, a dominant will power, quick discrimination and understanding, and very early in life show a talent for business careers.

Virgo governs this sign and the governing planet is Mercury. The astral colors are black and gold. The birthstone is a pink jasper.

There are certain stomach troubles and nervous conditions which these people are subject to, but if they only realize that mind is master and that the body is the servant of the mind, they may overcome these ills and all others.

Stenographers and bookkeepers are certainly under good planetary ruling this month, and if they will use the Star Want Ads they will be surprised at the offers contained therein.

THE FLAPPER WIFE:

By BEATRICE BURTON

Gloria was furious with Miss Briggs for bringing Dick home.

He could have come alone in his taxi, just as well as not! . . . . . But no, she must be a Ministering Angel to Dick! That was her pose, Glory thought angrily.

. . . . Why couldn't these secretaries realize that their jobs began and ended in the office? Gloria, herself, had never been interested in her employers when she had worked, except as employers. She was sure of that!

"Miss Briggs didn't come into the house," Ranghild said. "She paid the taxi driver, and went away. He and I got Mr. Gregory upstairs, and put him on his bed . . . . . Oh, ma'am, what do you think is the matter with him?"

Ranghild was almost in tears.

"Oh, nothing much, but the flu," Gloria answered. "He's had it twice this winter. . . . . and he gets right over it. He'll be all right in a day or two."

"I tried to telephone you all over town," the maid went on. "I phoned Mrs. Seymour, and Mrs. Gail, and Mrs. Hough, and Mr. Gregory's mother. . . . . "

"Don't ever do it again!" Gloria cried sharply. "I'm usually down town shopping, so it's no use trying to get me by phone, anyway . . . . Let's go up and try to get Mr. Gregory into bed before the doctor comes."

They were unlacing Dick's shoes when Dr. John arrived.

Deftly as a nurse, he undressed Dick and put him into bed. He took out his stethoscope and listened to Dick's back and chest. Then he gravely nodded his head as he timed Dick's pulse.

"Just what I told him he'd have if he didn't take better care of himself," he remarked dryly. "It's pneumonia. I think I'd better telephone Mrs. O'Hara right away. She's the best pneumonia nurse in this town."

Gloria stood like a statue in the middle of the room. In a dream . . . . a nightmare. . . . . she heard Dr. John call Mrs. O'Hara, and send a taxicab for her.

She listened to him ordering things from the drug store. . . . camphorated oil, cotton, brandy.

And all at once, it was brought home to Gloria why it was that Dr. John couldn't go with May to all the parites and dances . . . . . People needed him, as Dick needed him now! Their very lives depended on his not going to parties with his fun-loving wife . . . . . on his sticking to his job.

* * *

Glory had never thought of it in just that way before. She had always pitied May because she was a doctor's wife. Well, she still pitied her, and yet—

"Now, then, Glory, the best thing you can do is to move all your things out of this room! and I want you to stay out, yourself!" Dr. John said briskly.

Glory gave a nervous little laugh. "No need to ask me to stay out of this room," she said. "I'm frightened to death of sick people."

Her eyes were wide with fear.

"What makes him breathe like that?" she asked. She had been watching the quick rise and fall of Dick's chest under the bed clothes. He breathed as if he had been running a long way and was utterly exhausted.

"Fever and the disease, both," Dr John said shortly.

Gloria gathered together her belongings. . . . . her clothes, her negligees and powders, all the silver things from her dressing table . . . . and took them into the guest room.

She stood looking out of the window. A taxicab was coming down the street. It slowed up before the house and stopped.

Gloria opened the door for the woman who descended from it and came up the walk toward the house.

The woman's face was vaguely familiar. And when she spoke, her voice was, too. Gloria was sure she had met her somewhere, before.

"How do you do? I'm Mrs. O'Hara," she said, as she came up the front steps. "I feel almost as if I know you. Mrs. Gregory. My sister, Sue Briggs has worked for your husband for a good many years."

Miss Briggs' sister! This woman! . . . . . That was why she had looked so familiar to Gloria! She had the same shadowy blue eyes and delicate features. Her voice was as low and sweet as Miss Briggs' own lovely voice.

"Will you go right upstairs" Gloria asked with cold politeness. "Dr. Seymour is waiting for you."

Without another word, the nurse disappeared around the turn at the stair-landing.

* * *

Gloria went out into the bright kitchen. Ranghild, in her black dress, stood at the sink washing lettuce leaves in a colander.

"Will we have dinner at the usual time?" she asked chokily. Her eyes were red-rimmed.

Without warning she began to cry, covering her face with her wet, red hands. Gloria stared at her.

"What in the world is the matter with you?" she asked. "You've just got to get hold of yourself, Ranghild! Mr. Gregory's not dead, yet, you know!"

"Oh, I know that pneumonia! My man, he died of it five winters ago in Sweden. . . ." Ranghild sobbed. She took a handkerchief from her apron pocket and wiped her swollen eyelids.

"That's how I happened to come to this country. I couldn't bear to stay at home without my Henrik. Everything made me think of him . . . . the pine woods where we went for picnics, the light from the blast furnace where he worked. . . . . Shall we have the potatoes baked or mashed for dinner, tonight, Mrs. Gregory?" Ranghild asked, with a mighty effort for self-control. She could see that Mrs. Gregory was not interested in her story.

"I didn't know you were a widow, Ranghild," Gloria said, "And bake the potatoes, please."

She went back into the living room and picked up a fashion magazine.

"Mrs. Gregory!" came Mrs. O'Hara's voice from the stairway.

Gloria went out into the hall.

The nurse had changed into her white uniform and cap. She was bending over the bannisters.

"Your husband is calling for you," she said softly.

"I thought he was delirious. He didn't know anything a while ago," Gloria answered.

She did not want to go upstairs to Dick. She hated the thought of seeing him breathe in that terrible, hurrying way. It frightened her.

The look of his face had frightened her this afternoon. . . . . the skin flushed, the eyes bright with fever. No, she was not going to go upstairs and see him again, if there was any way out of it!

"Dr. Seymour told me to keep out of Mr. Gregory's room," she said to the nurse. "He made me take all my things out of it, even!"

Mrs. O'Hara smiled gently.

"Dr. Seymour is still upstairs. He told me to call you himself," she said.

With slow, reluctant feet Gloria went upstairs.

* * *

From behind the closed door of Dick's room she could hear a low moaning sound. It was not like Dick's voice. And yet it was his voice.

"Glory," it said over and over.

With her hand on the knob of the door, Gloria turned and faced Mrs. O'Hara who had followed her upstairs.

"I can't go in!" she protested again, "I simply can't! You don't know what you're asking of me . . . . "

She darted across the hall and into the guest room, closing the door behind her.

She threw herself down on the blue silk cover of the bed, and covered her ears with her hands to shut out the sound of Dick's moaning. But she heard it, anyway. I went on and on in her brain. . . . "Glory . . . . "Glory . . . . Glory. . . . . "

At last she got up and tapped on the door of the sick room. Mrs. O'Hara opened it at once.

Glory tiptoed into the room.

* * *

The silk curtains had been taken down. A newspaper shrouded the rosy shade of the reading lamp. A white towel had been laid on the top of her own dressing table. And on it was a whole row of bottles. A hospital chart hung at the foot of Dick's bed.

And on it Dick lay, breathing in those short terrible gasps.

"Is he going to die?" Gloria whispered to Mrs. O'Hara.

Mrs. O'Hara studied Gloria with her serious eyes.

"How can I say?" she asked very gently, "He's a very sick man, Mrs. Gregory, but I've seen worse cases than his. . . . Don't worry. Pray."

Gloria couldn't remember the last time she had prayed. It was so long ago. . . . .

She had been so busy living life that she had forgotten all about the Giver of Life!

She went lightly to the side of Dick's bed, and took his hot, dry hand in hers.

At her touch Dick stirred. He half-opened his eyes.

"Rikky-Tikky-Tavy," she said, calling him the foolish little pet name that no one but herself ever used for him.

He closed his eyes.

A feeling of pity swept over Gloria. Dick seemed so alone in his pain — in his struggle to live.

Had she ever really given him any comradeship? Any happiness? She wondered.

Of course, she had . . . . she told herself. She had been his wife. He had had her kisses, hadn't he? He had held her in his arms. . . . and what else was there to love but love-making?

. . . . Dimly, Gloria knew that there was something else in Dick's love for her. But what was it? Unselfishness, perhaps.

The sick man moved again. He was trying to say something.

"Glory," Dick moaned.

She stroked his forehead. He put up both his hands and thrust her away.

"I want Glory," he moaned again. Glory rose and turned away from the bed. Angrily she faced Mrs. O'Hara.

"He doesn't even know me," she said. "Now don't ask me to come in here again! Because I won't!"

DISCOURAGING OF FILM GIRL STARS

If Los Angeles continues in the way it has chosen to adopt, the number of girls whose ambition is to become film stars is likely to decrease.

It is reported that the terms in Lois Moran's contract forbid her to bob her hair, to use a lipstick, or to smoke cigarettes; that Vilma Banky must keep her weight within definite limits; that Shirley Mason must not take part in motor racing; and that Jobyna Ralston must continue to cultivate long curls.

Even at the magnificent salary which a film star is supposed to receive, such restrictions as these may be more than the girl of today, unless she be quite exceptional, can be expected to tolerate.

How to Keep Well: By Dr. W. A. Evans

Questions pertinent to hygiene, sanitation, and prevention of disease, if matters of general interest, will be answered in this column. Where space will not permit, or the subject is not suitable, letters will be personally answered, subject to proper limitations, and where a stamped, addressed envelope is enclosed. Dr. Evans will not make a diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases. Requests for such service cannot be answered.

THE PREVENTION OF DIPHTHERIA.

In the prevention of diphtheria it is very important that unvaccinated susceptible children should not be exposed to cases of diphtheria nor to convalescents. Exposure to chronic carriers is not so important.

Notice first the reference to unvaccinated, susceptible children. Almost one-half of all children could not have diphtheria if they tried. They are not built that way—biologically nor anatomically. Any ordinary dose of diphtheria bacilli passes them untouched. The Shick test—a simple procedure—shows which children cannot have the disease.

Those children who can have it can be proected against it by vaccination.

Coming now to the main question. From whom do children catch diphtheria? Doull and Lara answer: "Principally from people who have it and who have recently had it." Studying nearly a thousand cases of diphtheria in school children in Baltimore they found that about one-fifth of the about 3,000 children in the families of the sick developed diphtheria within one month.

Comparing the risk of living in the house with a case to that of living in the house with a carrier, they concluded that the danger of the former was about ten times that of the latter. Convalescent carriers and other carriers are more dangerous than old, chronic carriers.

In some instances children contract diphtheria in school from carriers, but no cases are found to be spreading the disease. But when investigation is carried further, it is found that there have been cases in the school within a short time previously, or else there are typical mild cases attending school at the time. The diphtheria carriers spreading the disease in school at such times have only recently become carriers.

These conclusions by Doull and Lara represent the rule according to the laws of probability. There are many exceptions.

In order to prevent goiter in cities in the goiter belt, Dr. Hathaway advocates adding iodide of soda to the municipal water supply. Rochester, N.Y., and Sault Ste. Marie, Mich. are already doing this. Rochester has been doing this for a few years.

To iodize the entire water supply they spent about $3,000 a year, or about 1 per cent per person per year. The amount added is about one pound for each 100,000,000 pounds of water, or about one-tenth of a pound for each million gallons of water. This quantity is way below the amount required to change the taste, odor, or appearance of the water. It is a long way below the level of harmfulness for either well or diseased people.

The common objection to the method is the fact that only a small proportion of a municipal water supply is used for drinking purposes and that the iodine in all other water is wasted. To this Dr. Hathaway replies by showing the total per capita cost of adding iodine to a municipal water supply—1 cent—and compares that dual user when iodine is given in candy, in salt or as a drug.

Furthermore, he says some of the municipal water goes to water vegetables and to supply domestic animals and both of these groups need iodine.

CHEAP CUTS OF MEAT.

C. J. G. writes: The 1925 year book put out by one of the packers, shows how to use inexpensive cuts of beef, lamb and pork. They include rump and round steak, shoulders of lamb, and shoulders of pork.

1. Are these as nourishing as the cuts of meat more commonly used?

2. Have they sufficient nourishment to be a desirable purchase at the usual prices, which are considerably lower?

3. Brides might be grateful for your opinion.

Reply.

1. They are.
2. They have.
3. Why limit this information to brides? Others read this column.

Cleans and leaves the surface clean. That's why fine china, silver and glass glisten so brightly when washed clean with Gillex. There's no soap film left to speed tarnishing or collect dust. The surface is bright, for every last bit of dirt is gone.

Gillex cleanses by dissolving the oil or grease that holds all dirt to the surface it soils.

Unequalled for pots, skillets, roasters and dairy pans.

Cleans bathtubs, paint, linoleum—everything—in half the time with quarter the effort.

Gillex contains no grit or harmful acid. Use no more than quantities specified in directions.

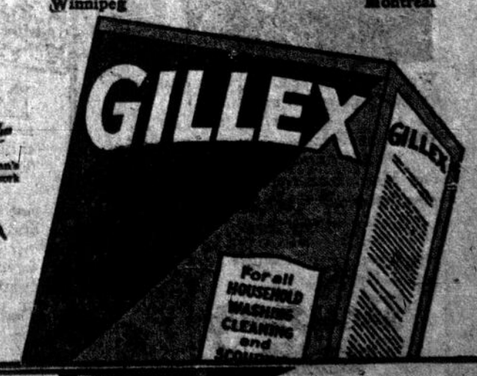

Paint and linoleum are restored by just wiping over. Gillex merely dissolves the oil, frees the dirt to be rinsed or wiped off without harm to delicate surfaces.

The labor of laundering is greatly lessened by Gillex. Hard, back-breaking rubbing is unnecessary, for dirt and grease are gently dissolved and float away in the rinsing water, leaving the clothes fresh and clean.

ANNOUNCE OFFICES FOR REGISTRATION IN MOUNT ROYAL

First List to Be Issued Given Out by Returning Officer

HEADQUARTERS OPEN

Both Parties Busy Arranging for Coming Election Fight

To J. H. Lauer, returning officer for Mount Royal Division, belongs the distinction of being the first to make public his complete list of registration offices for his division.

Mr. Lauer communicated to The Star today a copy of his printed list, such as must be made public by the returning officer of each division. In each of the districts of every division the returning officer is required to open a registration office, at which electors can consult the electoral list to see whether their names are inscribed thereon, and claim registration, if their names are not on the list. These offices will be open from September 24 to September 30 inclusive, from 10 a.m. onward each day, with one hour closed for lunch and one hour for supper. After September 27, when daylight saving ceases, the opening hour will be 9 a.m.

DISTRICT OFFICES

In Mount Royal ward, the district offices will be as follows: Montreal West, Town Hall; registrar, E. J. Bedbrook; N.D.G., 6071 Sherbrooke street west, registrar Harry Cole; district No. 3, between Montreal West boundary, Cote St. Luc road, Melrose avenue, and Sherbrooke street, 5550 Sherbrooke street west, registrar W. E. Eddy.

Similar lists will be made public within the next few days by the returning officers of the other electoral divisions. At each of the registration offices announced, residents of the district are entitled to consult the electoral list in order to see that their name is on the list, and if not, to claim registration. After the close of the period of registration, revision offices will be opened in each division, at which it will be open to anyone to challenge the right of any person on the list to vote in the district.

ELIGIBLE VOTERS.

Any adult person who is a British subject, has resided in Canada for one year and in the electoral district in question for two months, has a right to claim registration, and vote in the coming Federal election. As no women's names appear on the Provincial list, which is the only one in existence at present, all women desirous of voting must claim registration during the period from September 24 to 29.

Both political parties are busily engaged preparing their local organizations for the coming struggle. The Conservative organization opened campaign headquarters yesterday in the old Home Bank office in the Transportation Building.

Liberal headquarters will be opened tomorrow morning, on the opposite side of St. James street, in the offices until recently occupied by a firm of commercial auctioneers.

Hon. Rodolphe Monty, K.C., has opened his local headquarters, for the campaign in Laurier-Outremont division at 1954 St. Lawrence boulevard, and will open branch committee rooms at an early date.

The Liberal convention to be held in St. Denis ward this evening is expected to give some interesting developments. Dr. Denis, the sitting member, has a strong force behind him, ready to give him the nomination again, but Leonce Plante also has aspirations in that direction, and it is understood that he also has a powerful following, so that the contest for the nomination may prove to be lively.

The convention of Liberals in Chambly-Vercheres will be held on Monday afternoon at Longueuil to chose a candidate in place of Mr. Justice Joseph Archambault. Amongst the likely nominees are Armand Lebeau, ex-Mayor Alex. Thurber and Salluste Lavery. It is thought likely, however, that Mr. Thurber will not go ahead with the candidature, as there is strong opposition from Quebec to the opening up of provincial seats. Mr. Lavery counts on the fact that he is a resident of the county to help him considerably in his candidature. Armand Lebeau is also spoken of as a possible candidate in Laurier-Outremont.

Amongst the Conservatives, Lucien Gendron is one of the strong possibilities in Bagot County.

Joseph Descoteaux was yesterday chosen as the Liberal candidate in Nicolet county. There is possibility that in Brome-Missisquoi both A. R. McMaster, K.C., and Fred Kay may stand aside to make room for Dr. F. H. Pickel, farmer-Protectionist.

CIVIL SERVICE GUILD.

A special meeting of the Veterans' Civil Service Guild will be held in Stanley Hall on Thursday, at 8:30 p.m. The program for the coming winter and other important matters are to be discussed.

TARIFF IS VITAL EMPIRE QUESTION, IS WEBSTER'S VIEW

Sees a Growing Consciousness of the Need for Protection

NECESSARY HERE

Considers Conditions in Britain Better Than as Pictured

"The average person in Great Britain gives very little serious thought and certainly does not appreciate the sacrifices and the disadvantages that Canadian industries sometimes suffer through the British preferential tariff" said Senator Lorne C. Webster, during the course of an interview this morning, in which he reviewed his impressions of Great Britain and the Continent during his recent tour.

"The tariff question in the British Empire is a very vital one nowadays," said the Senator. "While I was in England news was received from Australia of the changes which the Commonwealth Government has just recommended to the Australian Parliament. In framing these proposals the Commonwealth Government has set up as its first object the protection of Australian industries from too severe competition from whatever source it may come, and as its second, to secure the British manufacturer against foreign competition in the Australian market.

"That seems to me to be a good indication of how feeling is working in the Empire in regard to the necessity of protecting the home industry against the foreign product, and it is as necessary in Canada as it is in Australia. They are gradually realizing the necessity for protection in Great Britain itself, and I should not be surprised to see some move made towards protection on the part of the British Government in a short time."

Referring to conditions as he saw them in Great Britain, Senator Webster said that although the situation was undoubtedly serious it was perhaps better than it was sometimes made out to be.

"But there are evidences of depression almost everywhere. Sailing down the Clyde it was pitiful to see all the shipyards that at one time were working night and day now closed down and showing no sign of life."

ON IMMIGRATION.

More effort should be put forward by the Canadian authorities to securing immigrants both from Great Britain and certain continental countries, said Senator Webster, when speaking of the prospects of increased immigration from the "Old Country."

"I understand that after 1926 only 150,000 people will be allowed to enter the United States every year. Why should not we have some of the European peoples who will thus be in need of another outlet. We could do with agricultural peoples from such countries as Poland and Czecho-Slovakia.

"It is noticeable in Great Britain at the present time that Australia and South Africa are doing all that they can to attract immigrants and it seemed to me that more might be done by Canada, in this direction.

Speaking of his impressions of the continental countries in Europe, Senator Webster pointed out that there had been a great increase of manufacturing in many of these countries and that in many cases they were manufacturing where previously they imported.

"And these countries are going to demand and are going to get proper protection for these new industries and are going to keep out foreign manufactures, and while it is no doubt proper for us to look to such markets it would show better judgment to secure our market at home and thereby retain our own people.

CANADA'S INTEREST.

"We in Canada have a distinct interest in the industrial development in these European countries," continued Senator Webster, "The steel industry in Great Britain at the present time is in a very deplorable condition and is suffering very badly because of foreign competition, and steel can be brought into Canada at a cost less than it can be manufactured here for, due to depreciated currencies in the country of manufacture and to some of our trade treaties with these countries.

France, Belgium, Italy and Switzerland, countries that he visited during his trip abroad, were all working hard, said the Senator, and seemed to have settled down to regaining their old positions.

Discussing unemployment in Great Britain Senator Webster said that he was of the opinion that the dole system was unsound and that it was destined to end sooner or later. With many of the recipients it was having a demoralizing effect and making them less and less inclined to work when the opportunity offered.

The dole unemployment and the general depression existing were responsible for a feeling of unrest throughout the country, but while Communistic principles were perhaps more widely spread through Great Britain than some people cared to admit yet the country was still in a strong position. Money seemed plentiful, the debt question with France had been settled and when foreign trade had a chance to expand there should come an improvement in conditions that should do much to wipe out some of the present ill feeling.

"While in Great Britain and on the continent," concluded Senator Webster, "I saw some wonderful places noted for their beauty and their grandeur, but all the same it was good to come back and see the even finer beauty and grandeur of the St. Lawrence once again."

UNITED CHURCH PRESBYTERY MEETS

Bodies in Church Union Convene to Appoint Committees

The three courts of the old churches that were Methodist, Congregational and Presbyterian, met together for the first time this morning in Emmanuel Church, Drummond street, under the name of the Montreal Presbytery of the United Church of Canada.

Presiding were Principal J. Smyth, Principal D. L. Ritchie, and the Rev. S. T. Martin, D.D., the convenors appointed by the General Council of the United Church. The sacrament was administered by Rev. Dr. W. H. Warriner, Rev. Dr. R. Smith, and Rev. W. J. Clark.

The business of the morning consisted of the appointment of committees to nominate other committees for the purpose of nominating officers of the Presbytery, and standing committees. The Rev. Dr. Smyth and the Rev. Dr. Martin were chosen to bring names for a nominating committee on officers, and they reported as follows. Rev. T. W. Jones, Rev. Dr. Rose, the Rev. A. C. MacKinnon, A. O. Dawson and W. B. Wood.

The following committee was appointed for standing committees: Rev. Dr. Robert Smith, Rev. Dr. G. A. McIntosh, Rev. I. Norman, Rev. O. B. Brown, J. A. Ewing, W. H. Goodwin, Rev. T. W. Jones, A. R. Grafton, J. G. Fuller, Rev. J. U. Tanner, Rev. A. G. MacKinnon, and the Rev. Dr. W. R. Cruikshanks.

A committee comprised of Rev. Dr. Cruikshanks, Rev. Mr. Runnells, A. R. Grafton, A. O. Dawson, and W. R. Wood were chosen to look after public meetings connected with the coming Conference, when the five presbyteries in the district will meet in Montreal on October 13.

A resolution, that the members of the Churches within the bounds of the Presbytery, be urged to take an active part in securing the election of candidates who will publicly declare their promise to support the question of national prohibition of the liquor traffic, was submitted and referred to the committee on nominations.

PRESBYTERIANS OF ST. LAMBERT MEET

A congregational meeting of the recently formed Presbyterian Church in St. Lambert was held last evening in the High School Auditorium. The Rev. Allan S. Reid, acting as chairman. The meeting, which was well attended, unanimously resolved that the future name of the church be known as St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church of St. Lambert. Expressions of gratification were made on the very generous response to the every member canvass, as revealed in the report of the board of managers.

It was also unanimously resolved that the church being now in a position to call a minister, arrangements to be made to that effect.

NOTED PEOPLE TO ADDRESS FORUM

Henderson, Angell, Tolstoi and Colum are Among Them

The Rt. Hon. Arthur Henderson, British Labor leader, Norman Angell, the writer on war and peace, Count Ilya Tolstoi, son of the great Tolstoi, and Padraic Colum, the Irish writer are among the galaxy of prominent speakers who will address the People's Forum, Church of the Messiah, during the coming autumn and winter.

It had been hoped to secure Ramsay Macdonald, first Labor Prime Minister of Great Britain, but the secretary of the Forum, William Fraser, has received a letter from Mr. Macdonald, expressing his great regret that the political situation does not permit of a visit to Canada at the present time, though he hopes to be able to fulfil his engagement to speak in the United States. Mr. Macdonald, however, expressed his intention of visiting Montreal as soon as the opportunity permitted.

Some of the speakers and dates of meetings are: Rt. Hon. Arthur Henderson, October 11; Padraic Colum, December 6, on "The New Ireland; Norman Angell, January 10; Cecil Roberts, English author and journalist, January 31; Count Ilya Tolstoi, March 21; Mrs. Forbes Robertson Hale, March 28; Captain Alexander Haronson, of Jerusalem, Palestine, authority on the Jews in Palestine, November 16; Walter Lippmann, editor of "The World," New York, and former editor of "The New Republic," December 13. Dhan Gopal Mukerji, author and lecturer on Indian affairs will also speak.

Wrecks Door in Effort to Recover His "Missing Rib"

A fugitive wife, a serpent tongued neighbor and an angry husband bent on recovering his runaway rib was the combination that drew two warring factions to the Recorder's Court this morning to see justice done Bernard Lavalliere, Bourbonniere street, who spent the night with iron bars between him and the world and a charge of damaging eight dollars worth of front door and window pane, levelled at his head by a neighbor.

Lavalliere pleaded guilty to the charge of kicking down a neighbor's front door, breaking a lock and simply ruining a perfectly good pane of glass. But, he said, he had been justified.

His wife, with whom he had lived in comparative peace and quiet up till a few weeks ago, had lent an ear to neighborhood gossip and as a result acute alienation set in. The husband lay the brunt of the blame on a cynical woman who resided not far from the former love nest in which he had found so much domestic bliss.

A week or so ago Bernard went home and found his wife had fled. Discreet inquiries led him to believe she was lodged in the home of the neighbor whose front door was subsequently wrecked.

The deserted husband set out and after somewhat of an argument persuaded his love to come home. But his troubles were only beginning. Every day after the same thing happened and it became harder and harder to persuade friend wife to return to her place as queen of Bernard's heart.

Last night he went home and found a home without a wife. A sudden gust of passion shook his frame and he rushed out with the avowed intention of avenging himself for the wrongs done him. So he proceeded to kick in the door that blocked his progress towards his wife. By the time police arrived the damage amounted to $8.

This morning the court sympathized with him in his positon as a wifeless husband. The neighbor who caused the trouble was scored for her part in the tangle and warned to mind her own business.

Lavalliere went home with his wife after providing a $100 bond to keep the peace for a year.

CHAMPAGNE, RIEL'S SECRETARY, DIES

Registrar of Montreal East, Succumbs at Age of 76

Charles L. Champagne, registrar, of the division of Montreal East, died last night at his residence, 995 Sherbrooke street east. He was born on the 25th July, 1849, at St. Augustine (Two Mountains); he was admitted to the Bar in 1873. He was private secretary to Louis David Riel when the rebellion in 1870 broke out in the North-west. About the year 1886, he was elected as member of the Provincial Legislature for the division of Hochelaga. He was registrar for the division of Montreal East for about 35 years. He was the father of F. V. Champagne, of the editorial staff of La Presse. The funeral will take place at Rigaud after the arrival of the train which leaves Windsor Station tomorrow morning.

Great Britain this year has 200,000 more unemployed than last year.

Tremendously Popular

INTRODUCED a year ago, these grate-type, portable Majestic Electric Heaters have sold by the thousand. Their unique beauty of appearance pleased everybody, while their power to throw out heat, like a grate fire, caught the fancy very strongly.

Many people now own both types, the above for "grate fire" heat, the reflector-type Majestic for concentrated heat.

This heater has a double back, which keeps the handle cool, the outer back being enamelled and the ends a two-tone bronze finish. It stands firmly and securely on the floor.

It Spreads Heat in All Directions

Observe the arrangement of the heating elements. They diffuse the heat in all directions, quickly taking the chill or dampness from a room. Makes a cosy companion when reading or for the nursery, living-room or sick-room.

There are six separate elements, well protected, easily removable and can be replaced at trifling cost.

Mass production makes the low prices possible—$9.00 to $10.80. See Majestic Heaters at any store.

The Most Powerful Heater Made

The twin-coil Majestic Electric Heater pictured above is without doubt the most powerful and effective electric heater manufactured in the world to-day. It generates and casts a powerful ray of concentrated heat that rapidly warms up a room, dissipating the cold or dampness.

Directs the Heat Where Needed

Note how the spool-shaped elements lie in the very back of the bowl-like copper reflector. Heat is intensified by reflection. This is an exclusive Majestic arrangement of elements. The tilting arrangement enables you to direct the heat where it is needed, which is, after all, the chief beauty of a portable electric heater.

The Majestic Heater has a double back, with air space in between, which makes the back and handle cool to the touch. It is strongly made of selected materials and is absolutely trouble-proof.

In the chill days of Fall and Spring one of these heaters is invaluable in the home. The prices are low, from only $9.50 to $12.50. Ask any dealer for a demonstration.

GERMANY'S ARREST OF FLYER SERIOUS

France Claims Elementary Laws of Humanity Not Observed

SEEK RELEASE

Foreign Office Dealing with Incident and Hope for Action

PARIS, Sept. 22.—(Special Star-World Cable, Copyright.) — That Germany has failed to observe the elementary laws of humanity in detaining the military aviator Diemdonne Coste as a prisoner because he flew over German territory, is the opinion expressed by officials of the French air service as well as the whole French people.

Coste was injured September 13 and his companion, Robert Thierry, was killed, when the plane in which they were attempting to fly to Bagdad crashed in a fog near Frieburg, in the Black Forest.

It is declared that if Germany theoretically had the right to arrest Coste, she abused the right and it is hinted "she will realize the clumsiness of her gesture very soon." Germany claims documents found in the airplane prove that Thierry and Coste deliberately planned to fly over Germany.

In any case the incident, which is considered grave here, raises a difficult problem affecting all the Entente Powers. The Versailles Treaty gave the Allies the right to fly over Germany for a certain period, after which it was stipulated definite arrangements should be negotiated. The period expired, however, without any agreements being reached and the Germans decided to forbid their airways to all Allied machines differing from the type imposed upon Germany by the Allies in the Versailles Treaty. As a consequence the important French air line connecting Paris with the Balkans, Austria and Hungary recently had to modify its itinerary and leave the easier plain routes for the mountainous route of Switzerland and the Tyrol.

The French Foreign Office is dealing with the Coste incident and hopes to obtain the aviator's release in a few days. It also doubts whether the Germans will impose such a heavy fine as was announced.

ADVERSE BALANCE OF TRADE DOUBLED

ROME, Sept. 22.—(A.P.)—Italy's adverse balance of trade during the first seven months of 1925 was approximately double that for the same period of 1924, it is shown by an official treasury report issued yesterday.

The adverse balance for January to July this year, inclusive, amounted to 6,315,000,000 lire, compared with 3,388,000,000 lire for the same period last year.

WHERE "SHINGLING" BECOMES DIFFICULT

LONDON, Sept. 22. — Women holiday-making on the Scottish moors are finding the trimming of shingled heads a difficult problem.

Skilled barbers are not to be found near a shooting box so that journeys of 40 or 60 miles to such towns as Aberdeen, Inverness, and Perth are by no means rare. In other cases the hairdresser is summoned to country houses.

ITALIAN PRINCESS TO WED FOR LOVE

Pope Grants Special Dispensation to Celebrate Nuptial Mass

PRINCE PROTESTANT

Two Hundred Poor Folk Chosen to Attend Banquet

RACCONIGI, Sept. 22.—(U.N.)—A royal wedding which will shatter a tradition of hundreds of years' standing will occur within the walls of the Summer Place Wednesday when Princess Mafalda, second daughter of the King and Queen of Italy, will wed Prince Philip of Hesse, nephew of the former German Kaiser. Prince Philip is a Protestant, a member of the Lutheran Church which takes its name from the arch-foe of the Holy Roman Church.

In all the years since the Italian House of Savoy has flourished none of its daughters ever has married a Protestant. That, and the fact that Prince Philip is a Prince without a principality owing to the effect of the war upon royal Germans, is sufficient proof that pretty Mafalda is entering into a love match.

In this she follows the lead of her sister, Yolanda, who chose to marry an army officer a couple of years ago when several more exalted males would have been glad of her favor.

A pretty gesture harking back to the time when royal largesse was a greater matter than now will be the prelude to the wedding. From among the poor folk of Racconigi, 200 persons have been selected as guests for a banquet today, at which they will be served by the titled ladies and patronesses of the Royal Italian Court. That will be about the extent of public participation in the bridal celebration for Mafalda is a Princess of simple tastes and has chosen to be married before a company composed of members of the two families most concerned. The entire business of Wednesday willl transpire within the palace walls.

The Royal Chapel has been hung with simple decorations, tapestries, palms and lace. The bride will wear a lace costume which has been in the House of Savoy for many years. Small as the attending company will be, there will be royal guests from all parts of Europe. Prince Paul of Serbia, Prince Danilo, of Montenegro, Prince Charles of Rumania, Prince Christopher, of Greece, the Archduke Joseph of Austria, and Princesses from Rumania, Greece and Orleans already have arrived.

The townspeople are enjoying such of the preliminaries as occur in public. Each arrival of a prince or a princess has been the occasion of a grand display of royal carriages, and the thoroughfares are busy with hurried movements of less ornate royal equipages as supplies are rushed to the Palace.

Final touches were put on the chapel Monday night and the stage for the great event is virtually ready.

By permission of the Pope, the nuptial mass will be celebrated at the wedding, although one of the contracting parties is a heretic from the standpoint of the Vatican. Never previously in modern times has such a papal dispensation been granted a mixed marriage.

Prince Philip is 29 years old. The prospective Princess of Hesse is 23.

TELEPHONE AND TELEGRAPH SERVICE CUT OFF IN FRANCE WHEN EMPLOYES STRIKE

PARIS, Sept. 22 — (Special Star-World Cable, Copyright.) — No telephone bells were rung in the cities of France between 11 a.m. and 1 o'clock Monday and no telegrams were delivered. Not only were all Government offices without communication, but stock trading in the Bourse was paralyzed and thousands of business organizations were thrown into disorder by the sudden lack of ordinary conveniences.

This was the drastic method employed by Postoffice employes (telephone and telegraph are part of the Government service) to signify their irritation at a revision in salaries which in their opinion treats certain categories of telephone operators better than others. A few minutes before 11 printed slips were passed around to the women in all Paris telephone exchanges.

"Cease work for two hours," it read. "Show the Government you won't tolerate injustice. Women instructors are about to receive 2,800 francs a year more than you operators, who work 300 days a year against the instructors' 200. In Paris the difference really means 5,000 francs. It is a scandal. So strike from 11 to 1."

Immediately the girls took off their head pieces and from then until one not a single call was answered. Telegraphers joined the strike. Government officials tested the situation and found they received no privileged treatment. Perturbation was most serious in the capital and big cities like Marseilles, Lyons, Lille, Toulouse and Boredaux.

The Postoffice employes threaten to repeat the strike unless the alleged injustice is removed. The Government has not yet made known what action it intends to make in the face of the movement, which shows how the life of the nation could be paralyzed at the bidding of the recently created Federation of Postoffice Employes.

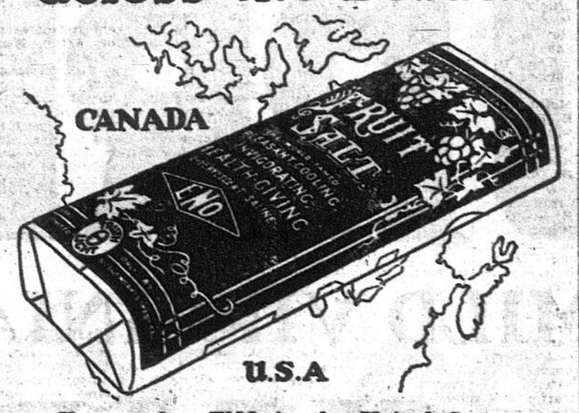

Because of the beauty of its suburbs, Springfield, Ill., is sometimes called the Flower City.

DECIDE HARLTON KILLED OFFICER

LONDON, Ont., Sept. 22.—(C.P.)—A coroner's jury, meeting in inquest at the police station last night, held Edward Harlton responsible for the death of County Motorcycle Officer Jack Waddell, shot in a laneway beside the Harlton home on Egerton street, on Saturday, September 12. The jury's verdict, brought in after only six witnesses had been heard, reads: "That the deceased, Jack Waddell came to his death on September 12 as the result of a bullet discharged by the hands of Edward Harlton."

Just out! The Renfrew

and already a hit!

Only shown a few days, yet already a hit!

Everyone who sees the Renfrew wants this new Tooke Starched Collar.

To our minds, nothing smarter has ever been designed by us or any other collar maker. It has a trimness and neatness that you will admire. And it's exactly the right cut to wear with the new styles of Autumn clothes.

Two rows of stitching add to its smartness and reinforce it. Plenty of space for the tie to slide through easily. Notice, too, how beautifully a four-in-hand tie fits into the straight-line ∧ front.

You'll want to be among the first to wear this new collar, so remember the name:—RENFREW, Tooke's newest Starched Collar.

The RENFREW has GUARANTEED UNBREAKABLE KABLE KORD buttonholes

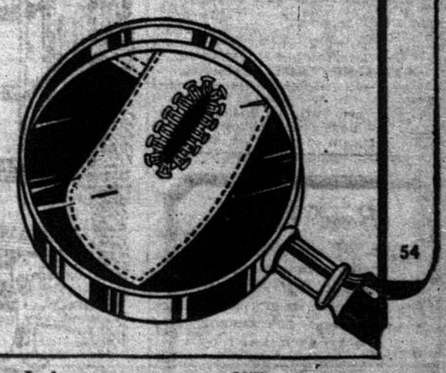

No man who has worn collars with these buttonholes wants anything else.

A thick, strong linen cord around the buttonhole under the stitching makes the buttonholes unbreakable.

They will stand all kinds of abuse, such as yanking your collar off in a hurry or jamming it on over a big-headed stud.

Many dealers are featuring our WINDOW DEMONSTRATION, showing that KABLE KORD BUTTONHOLES will stand a test of over twenty-five pounds' strain without breaking.

Your Dealer is authorized to give you a new collar, if any KABLE KORD Buttonhole breaks.

Built in Canada to meet Canadian Conditions

IN the new "R" Series, DeForest & Crosley presents a complete new line of radio receiving sets, each model designed expressly to meet the long-distance requirements of Canadian conditions.

Drawing on the laboratory research of its two powerful American associates, the DeForest & Crosley organization in Canada has developed circuits which in efficiency, in simplicity and tone quality represent a distinct Canadian achievement.

The many refinements and improvements embodied in the New Radio, as interpreted by DeForest & Crosley, renew the miracle of radio—give the most experienced radio fan a thrill of surprise and delight. Comparison, test and examination only enhance the perfection, the superiority, the extraordinary value built into Radio by DeForest & Crosley engineers.

PARTY VISITS BOSTON

BOSTON, Mass., Sept. 22—(A.P.)—Premier W. S. Monroe, of Newfoundland, headed a party of officials of that Colony who arrived here Monday. They are on their way to Washington to attend the Inter-Parliamentary Conference and will visit New York today.

UNIONISTS PLAN TO APPEAL DECISION

KINGSTON, Ont., Sept. 22.—(C. P.)—It was announced by Rev. D. I. Lancaster, minister of St. John's church, Pittsburg, that it had been decided to appeal the decision of Mr. Justice Logie refusing to grant an injunction forbidding the continuing Presbyterians from taking charge or interfering with the service at the St. John's church.

Mr. Lancaster said that the Unionist members of the congregation were not satisfied with the ruling, and would have the case carried to the Appellate Court.

The continuing Presbyterians, it is understood, claim that the decision of Justice Logie last Wednesday gives them the right to the church and disposes of the order made at Toronto, which in their view, was only temporary or until the case was heard at Kingston.

ALLEGE INTENT TO DEFRAUD.

I. Mitnick, manager, 5191 Park avenue, Apt. 10, appeared before Judge Enright yesterday, charged with obtaining the use of a theatre by false pretences, and with intent to defraud the St. Denis Corporation of $250, on January 4, 1924. The compiaint is signed by Joseph Prendergast, an employe of the said corporation. Bail was fixed at $500 until preliminary investigation set for September 29.

POPE CHOOSES PROTECTOR

ROME, Sept. 22—(U.N.)—Cardinal Scincerco was appointed by the Pope Monday to be protector of the Knights of St. George in the United States.

Silver Toned

For rich full tone without distortion, the Brown Loud Speaker stands unequalled. From the soft delicate notes of the violin to the thundering bass of the cathedral organ each tone reaches you in its original purity. The Brown is a distance getter too—clear and loud on far-away stations. Brown—standard of the British Navy.

"The Doctor's" Golf Story

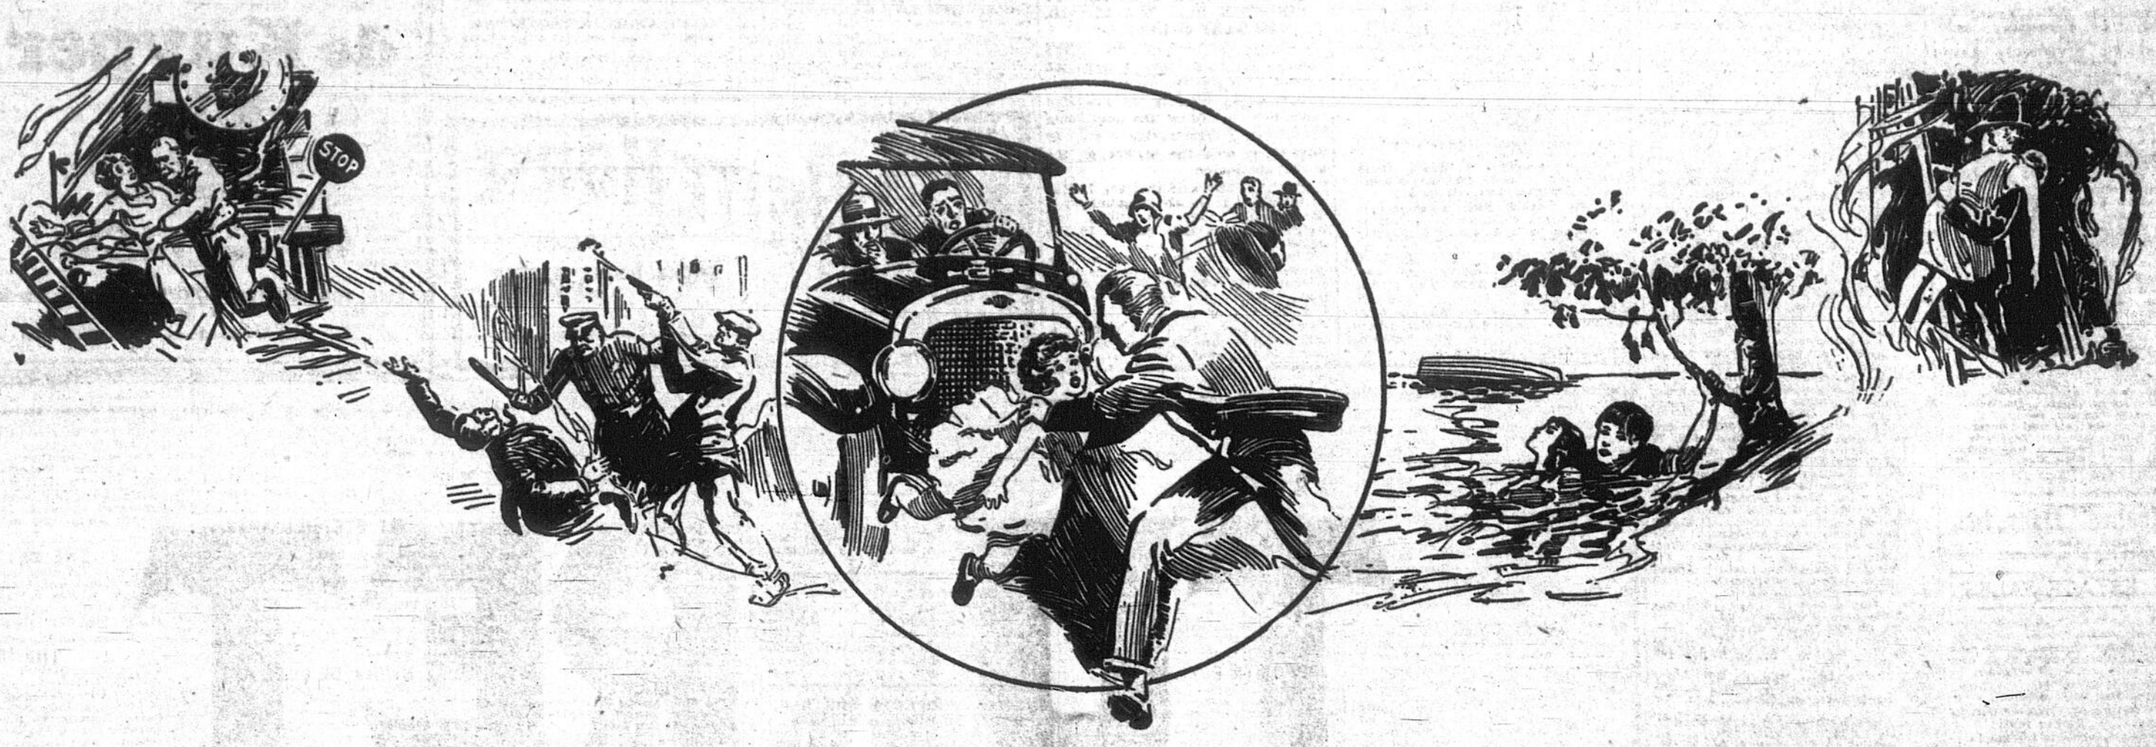

One of the keenest members of a Golf Club not far from Montreal, in the old days, was a well-beloved banker who much enjoyed an occasional spot of "DOCTORS' SPECIAL" Old Scotch Whiskey.

Our friend used to lie in the heavy grass near a blind hole while his friends drove merrily for the cup. Then he stole across and placed one ball or other in the hole.

Warmly he welcomed his victim: "Holed out in one. Well I'll be dashed!" Gladly the Golfer paid the traditional penalty of a bottle of "DOCTORS' SPECIAL."

Though the banker's prank was eventually discovered all golfers still maintain a high respect for his excellent qualities; and DOCTORS' SPECIAL. It always makes good friends.

In addition, a gold medal will be presented to each hero.

Do you know of any one who has performed an act of bravery? This is your opportunity to see him or her properly rewarded.

This amazing offer is open to every man, woman, boy and girl. There is no age limit. It applies to the worker, the statesman, the policeman, the fireman, the sheriff, the school boy—everybody!

This handsome medal in 18K Solid Gold will be presented to each winning hero in addition to the $1,000.00 in cash

There are no restrictions as to the kind of deed. Liberty wants to know about any brave deed you did yourself, or any that you saw, or which you know about.

Extra!!! $100.00

will be paid each week for a letter

To encourage the public to notify Liberty of all deeds of bravery, Liberty makes this further offer: $100.00 in cash will be paid each week to the person who sends the best letter informing Liberty of the winning deed.

This is the most unusual offer ever made by any publisher of a weekly magazine. It offers an opportunity to everybody. Full information telling the kind of letter to write, where to send it, and how the awards will be paid, will be found in this week's Liberty—out today, at all newsdealers, 5c.

The names of the heroes will be published in Liberty every week, together with stories of the winning deeds.

$1,000.00 More!

The Zonite Products Company, being in complete sympathy with the forward looking plan of LIBERTY to reward heroism in civil life, is offering an additional thousand dollars to one of the first twelve LIBERTY heroes.

Full particulars of the plan will appear in later announcements in LIBERTY

MOTHER AND FOUR CHILDREN BURNED

Miner Finds Remains of Family Huddled Together in Ruins

NANAIMO, B.C., Sept. 22.—(C.P.)—A mother and her four children lost their lives in a fire which destroyed the home of John Hunter, a miner, of South Wellington, near here, Sunday night. The victims are:

Mrs. John Hunter, 27; Isobel, aged 9; Dorothy, 7; Lona, 5; Lillian, 2.

Believed to have been caused by the explosion of a gasoline lamp, the fire quickly consumed the four-roomed structure. When the fire started, Hunter was absent from home, having gone to a store a short distance away to purchase some tobacco. In less than ten minutes he returned and found his home a mass of flames.

The mother had made heroic efforts to rescue her children, asleep at the time of the outbreak. Their charred remains were found huddled up on what had been the stairway, with her four little ones hugged up to her as closely as possible, all burned beyond recognition. Charred pieces of bed clothing still adhered to some of the children.

Hunter lost his father and brothers in the South Wellington mine disaster in 1921.

NEW YORK, Sept. 22. — (U.P.)— Five men who raided the Seventh street restaurant of Benjamin and Jennie Weinberg last night, met with such resistance from the proprietors, armed with knives, that in a ten-minute fight they were put to rout after both Weinberg and his wife had been injured.

Two of the five were later captured by the police.

NATIONS OF WORLD PREPARE TO HOLD PARLEY ON ARMS

Sub-Committee of League Reaches Agreement on Security Proposal

LORD CECIL SPEAKS

British Delegate Declares Britain Will Support Organization

GENEVA, Sept. 22 — (Special Star-World Cable, Copyright.) — The League of Nations will begin immediately preparations for disarmament, but a conference will not be called until the Council considers security assured, Lord Robert Cecil of Great Britain said Monday.

Lord Cecil announced that complete agreement had been reached by the sub-committee which for more than a week had been arguing over the proposal of Count Quinones De Leon of Spain, as amended by Count Apponyi of Hungary, for technical preparations in order that the nations may be ready for disarmament when security is achieved. This came as a surprise, as Sir Cecil Hurst, as well as Australian and Italian spokesmen, had criticized the proposal.

Despite a difference in phraseology, it is evident from Lord Cecil's statement that "inquiries will begin at once" that Apponyi's proposal for "immediate preparation" has triumphed.

Lord Cecil also stated that "it will be a matter of profound surprise and greatest disappointment if tomorrow does not find Mr. Loucheur and the British delegation in complete agreement upon the proposed economic conference."

It had been generally understood that Britain was attempting to kill not only plans for a disarmament conference but also the proposal of Louis Loucheur of France for a conference to adjust production and consumption among nations, interpreted by some as a revival of the project for pooling the world's economic resources. Lord Cecil pointed out that Great Britain is completely and wholeheartedly inclined to support the League by every means in her power. He said Britain's attitude had not changed and was not negative, but the delegation had simply advanced justifiable criticism against various League activities. Britain has no disposition to slow up or postpone action on arbitration, disarmament or security, he declared.

Disregarding Saturday's disruption of the Mosul boundary negotiations, the League is going ahead to attempt a settlement. The World Court has been asked to convene in extraordinary session to deliver an advisory opinion as soon as possible on the Council's duties under the Lausanne Treaty. A League official, outlining the situation said:

"Three rulings are possible. First, the court can say the League is acting as a simple arbitrator outside of the Covenant and under the Lausanne Treaty. In this case the Council's findings are binding on both parties. Secondly, it may decide that the Mosul dispute is merely referred to the Council under Articles XII to XVI of the Covenant, whereupon the decision would be binding to either party. Thirdly, it may decide that the Council under the Lausanne Treaty is merely acting as a mediator, extending its good offices in an effort at conciliation."

It is pointed out, however, that if the Court rules the Council was acting under Article XV, of the Covenant then the position will be that, if a unanimous vote on the boundary is made, (excluding, of course, the contesting parties from the vote) then the disputant which accepts the finding will be protected against the other party in the sense that the party which resorts to force will be considered as an aggressor by the members of the League.

On the other hand, if neither party should accept the findings or, if the Council should fail to make a unanimous award, then both parties would be free to make war after a three months period had elapsed; and League members would not be committed.

WARD GAINED CLOSE DECISION OVER GATES; 4 INTERESTING BOUTS

Morris-Mandeville, draw, 8 rounds.
Goethe beat Rioux, 8 rounds.
Cossette beat Clay, 8 rounds.
Ward beat Gates, 10 rounds.

Four bouts constituted the boxing card staged by Promoter Billy Moorehouse at the Mount Royal Arena last night, and while no knockouts were registered in any of the engagements, a good brand of fighting was offered in each.

Both the fight fans who prefer the active boxing of the lighter weight performer, and those who enjoy the slow-moving, hard-hitting of the lumbering heavyweight were rewarded for their time spent in Oscar Benoit's North End building. Two fast bouts between boxers around the 140 pound weight provided the action of the night, while the heavyweight contests between Elzear Rioux, the local boxer, and Billy Goethe, of Albany, and the final tussle between Jack Ward and Leo Gates were interesting from gong to gong.

The Ward-Gates fight, which was classed as the feature on the card proved to be the feature also in the class of battling, and was the best event of the bill.

CROWD VERY LARGE.

The crowd, which was a decidedly non-partizon one for every bout, was also the largest to attend a program at the arena this season, and they appeared well pleased with the brand of the sport. About 3,500 turned out for the bouts. Every boxer had his following, with the colored fight fans being well represented.

When Leo Gates, the big Indian slugger who lost a close decision to Jack Ward, climbed into the ring he received a good cheer from the representation from the Caughnawaga Reservation, who were present in a group to encourage their fellow Red Man.

To gain the decision over Gates in the feature bout Ward showed a great final spurt, and for that reason only gained the verdict. The event was no tame affair from the start. Both boxers took a great deal of punishment from the start, and it did not lessen as the bout progressed.

For heavyweights the fighters showed a good turn of footwork, intermingled with plenty of slugging. Ward opened a cut on Gates' face in the early rounds and the wound bled profusely throughout the latter rounds.

Near the fifth round the pace seemed to be telling on the veteran Ward, while Gates kept up a consistent battle, but missed many wild swings at his opponent which carried plenty of power, but never landed effectively.

Ward ran up a substantial margin of points on infighting, using left and right jabs to advantage, while Gates relied on a left jab coupled with an occasional wild right swing.

The local man in the closing three rounds did practically all the leading, which gained him enough points to carry off the verdict. Neither boxer were off their feet during the encounter, and after the second round it was apparent that the fight would go to a decision. There was no doubt as to the correctness of the judges' decision in favor of Ward, and although it received a number of "boos," was well received.

GOETHE PUZZLED RIOUX.

Billy Goethe, who won the decision over Elzear Rioux in the second bout on the program, an eight-round affair, had the former lumberjack puzzled from the start with his peculiar crouching style, which was indeed hard to fathom. Goethe held a slight edge over Rioux in every round, while the stance of the winner made the bout rather slow from a spectator's standpoint.

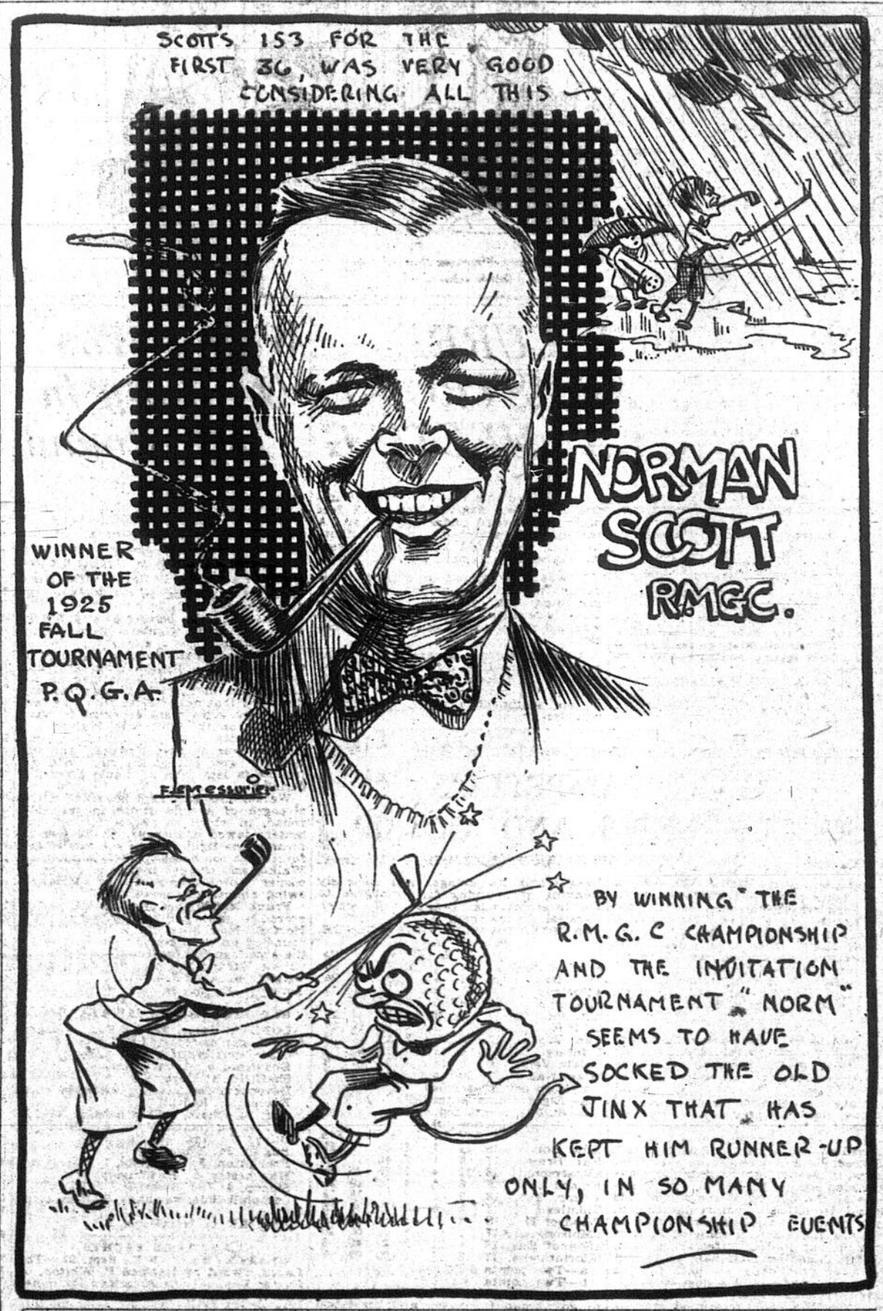

Rioux's offensive tactics consisted of a right to the body, while Goethe relied on a somewhat similar left. The boxers did little infighting, but sparred at long range in every round. Neither boxer appeared to be able to get a clear punch at the other. Rioux made a great effort to punish the Albanian with body blows in the final stages, but the punches carried little weight, and did not worry the smiling Goethe, who retained a confident attitude throughout and led all the way.

Ted Cossette scored an impressive victory over Charlie Clay in the semi-final contest. The bout produced the most action of the night, and both fighters showed good speed and punching power, with Cossette landing the most blows, which had a telling effect on Clay. The letter missed many hard swings to the head, which the lithe Cossette always managed to elude, and ran up a margin of points which easily gave him the verdict.

The first bout on the card was the most evenly contested of the night, and the two colored boys, Johnny Morris and Marty Mandeville staged an interesting fight. After eight even rounds the judges called the contest a draw.

Mandeville conceded his opponent over ten pounds in weight, and despite this disadvantage outboxed his opponent at intervals, but near the end the difference in weight began to tell, and Morris held the upper hand, but Mandeville gave a game exhibition and rallied strongly. The fighters used little footwork, but fought consistently from close in.

The show was well handled.

First Step In New York Fight Probe

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—(U.N.)—Harry Segal, manager of Charlie Phil Rosenberg, the bantamweight champion of the world, was suspended by the New York Boxing Commission late yesterday as a furthermore in the commission's investigation of alleged crooked work in several recent prize fights.

Segal is manager of Phil Kaplan, who received a draw decision in a fight with Willie Harmon last week, although Harmon gave him a bad beating and almost knocked him out.

Persons interested in Kaplan's success were said to have threatened to beat up or shoot officials who handled the bout if the decision went against Kaplan. Two of the officials were later benched by the commission, with the announcement that they would retain their licenses, but would not be given any more assignments to officiate in the ring.

In suspending Segal, the commission said he would not be allowed to function as manager of Rosenberg, Kaplan or his third fighter, Johnny Drew, until suspicious circumstances of the Kaplan-Harmon bout were cleared up.

Simultaneously, the commission added several names to the list of gamblers and other characters deemed "undesirable," who are to be refused admittance to any New York arena. Ownie Madden, a famous gangster and one-time terror of Hell's Kitchen, was placed on the list yesterday.

Rosenberg figured in a suspicious fight several weeks ago in which he apparently knocked out Eddie Shea of Chicago. The fight was investigated, but no action was taken. At the time, Shea was quoted as saying he took the knockout because he was warned that if he beat Rosenberg he wouldn't leave the ring alive.

Segal, the suspended manager, shot and killed a man in a midnight affray last June. He was exonerated on his explanation that the men had tried to rob him.

NOTES OF THE PRO. BOXERS AND WRESTLERS

WELL-KNOWN sportsmen from the Lower Provinces were in this city today to try and get "Kid" Roy to fight in St. John and Halifax.

"Jerry" Jones writes from New York about Roy:

Now that Leo Kid Roy is back in service, I wonder how much longer he will persist in avoiding a match with Eddie Brady, the Brooklyn featherweight?

For the past year I have made repeated efforts to envelgle Roy into the ring with Brady, but the Canadian champion has thus far displayed no overwhelming desire to tangle with the rugged Brooklynite.

I have seen Roy in action on several occasions, and while I am willing to admit that he is one of the best featherweights in the profession at present, I am positive in the belief that Brady would whip him.

By the way, I understand there is a general impression prevailing in Montreal's fistic circles that Brady is Jackie Brady, of Syracuse, who, I believe, has boxed once or twice in Montreal. I assure you that there is absolutely no connection between the two. Jackie is an Italian lad—Eddie is Jewish. Jackie is only a preliminary performer, whereas Eddie is one of the recognized topliners of the featherweight ranks.

Eddie holds decisions over Babe Herman, Bobby Garcia, Kid Sullivan, Joey Sangor, Jack Hausner, Eddie McKenna, Johnny Shugrue and Freddie Jacks, and has held off Louis Kid Kaplan, Sid Terris, Sammy Mandell and Jack Bernstein. Fighting six years, and in approximately 100 ring engagements, Brady has never been knocked out.

If Roy still persists in sidestepping a match with the Brooklynite, then I am prepared to consider as an opponent any of the other Canadian featherweights. This goes particularly for Curley Wilshur, of Toronto.

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—Johnny Dundee, who gave up the world's featherweight championship because he couldn't make the weight, has announced that he will re-claim his title and demand a bout with Kid Kaplan, recognized now as the champion. Dundee is to meet Babe Herman at the Polo grounds on October 5 in his first comeback fight.

CHICAGO, Sept. 22.—(A. P.)—Ad Stone, of Philadelphia, had little difficulty after the third round, in overcoming Ernie Owens, Los Angeles light-heavyweight, in a 10-round contest at East Chicago, Ind., last night.

Owens, who looks like Jack Dempsey and is managed by Jack Kearns, appeared to tire rapidly after a slashing attack in the first three rounds and was cautioned for stalling in the ninth. He weighed 180 and Stone 182.

Tiger Jack Burns, Oakland, Calif., won over Jimmy McDermott, Terre Haute, Ind., bantamweight, in a 10-round semi-final.

WHEELERS TRAIN FOR TUSSLE WITH QUEENS; 2 NEW PLAYERS OUT

The moon had risen high in the sky accompanied by the stars before Coach Nicholson called his M.A.A.A. Rugby players from the gridiron last night at the conclusion of one of the stiffest practices the club has had so far.

Two new players appeared on the field with the regulars and intermediates during the course of the workout which was attended by well over 40 players. Earl Whittal, last season with C.N.R., made his first appearance with the Wheelers and will try for a place on the senior squad. The athlete has been kept from the game so far through an injured knee, but is ready to get into action now.

Carr-Harris was another new player to show up last night. He played with the Royal Military College squad last season and will try for a place with Eddie Crain's intermediates.

The senior club is training hard for the coming game with Queen's on Saturday here. Four of the searchlights stationed at the clubhouse were used last night for a short while after dark and will come in handy until the floodlights are put in place.

PRACTICE GAME OFF.

The game which was expected to be played between the Wheelers and the C.N.R. team on Wednesday night has been called off by the latter club following a meeting of the officials of the team last night.

Every precaution is being taken to prepare the club for its first game with Queen's next Saturday.

The M. A. A. A. office, at 250 Peel street, is being rushed for reserve seats, both for those holding season tickets and those wishing tickets for this game alone.

Coach Nicholson is giving special attention this week to the kicking game and coaching a defence to stop the plays of the Dominion Champs. The players are working like beavers, seriously, lively, knowing that the odds are against them, but still not giving up hope for a victory.

Queen's have practically intact the great team which has won three straight Dominion honors under the able coaching of Bill Hughes. Hughie's teams have never been defeated during his three years at Queen's.

In commenting on Montreal's chance Saturday, Coach Nicholson says "Of course I feel that the odds are against us, but I believe we have a sporting chance to win. Montreal has no particularly bright stars, but neither can I see from the short time I have been with them, any particular weak spots. Given the time and opportunity a coach could make a fine aggregation of them. Whether I can do this under the handicaps of time, incident to club football, only time itself will tell. Saturday's game will tell a lot."

It will be worth going miles to see the great work of that fine offensive trio, "Pep" Leadley, Harry Batstone, both half-backs, and "Red" McKelvey.

GREAT BACKFIELD PAIR.

Leadley and Batstone are named as the greatest backfield pair who ever played on one team. Both are heady and experienced. Both have wonderful ability to catch and pass the ball, and both are wonders in a broken field.

Leadley was a star on Hamilton "Tigers" in the Interprovincial League before going to Queen's, and this is his fifth year at the college. He is also one of the greatest drop kickers the game has ever known.

Harry Batstone is equally as good as Leadley in any department of the game except at drop kicking, this is his fourth year at Queen's, and he also was a star with the Argonauts of Toronto when they were champions.

"Red" McKelvey, middle wing, is one of the outstanding linemen of all time in Canadian football. He has great bucking power, has the accuracy in handling the ball of a half back and is a fine interference player. He is the product of Queen's University Football.

KINGSTON, Sept. 22.—Frank "Pep" Leadley, Canada's premier kicking halfback, arrived in the city on the week-end and yesterday afternoon was out for the first time with the tri-color players. Leadley looks in perfect condition and is keen on getting into action again with Queen's. He will be ready for the exhibition game in Montreal on Saturday with M.A.A.A.

Art Lewis, snap-back of the senior team, also arrived on the scene, thus practically completing the senior team. Lewis has summered well, and looks bigger than ever.

Details Of The Opening Run of the Montreal Hounds

The opening run of the Montreal Hunt took place as usual since the Kennels have been moved to Fresniere on the lawn there. The hunt was again favored with beautiful weather and after the delicious al fresco breakfast was partaken of, hounds moved off to draw the Petite Riviere Cedars. A fox was soon found and with a crash of deep music the dog pack pressed him to the Ottawa Highway, when he was headed by a motor and turned right-handed to Lalond's sugar bush, when he went to ground under a large rock.

After a short delay he was bolted from this hiding place and ran back through the Cedars turning towards the Quarry Farm, when he was again headed at the Highway and made the same turn as he had earlier, but on this occasion hounds made short work of him. The going from the Cedars to the Highway is rough, the rock outcropping in many places.

Hounds then drew Skinners' Cedars and the Chapelle Monte Coverts, but without success and on reaching the Monte, the Master called off.

Among the field were noted: H. Hampson, M.F.H.; Lt.-Col. G. R. Hooper, Miss D. Shepherd, Robert Hampson, J. F. Davis, Geo. E. Ross, Mrs. E. Bedford Jones, Miss Ruth Cowans, Alex Paterson, Wm. Brodie, A. L. Caron, L. McI. Spackman, E. Ethie, Jean Ethier, Ward Pittfield, H. B. MacDougall.

LAWN BOWLING

The lawn bowling season is drawing to a close but members of the Westmount Club look for two or three weeks' play yet if the weather continues favorable. Following a meeting of the executive last night it was announced that a special meeting of members had been called for Monday, Sept. 28, at 8 p.m., in the club house on Kensington Avenue.

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 22. — Peter Maltby, the year's most sensational two-year-old trotter, won the Horse Review Futurity of $2,500, the feature event of the opening day program of the ten-day Grand Circuit meeting.

The favored Dr. Strongworthy took the 2.10 trot in straight heats, although Red Top all but won the first heat.

The King Stake for 2.07 pacers, raced at three different distances, brought about the defeat of the favored Theodore Guy, which won third money. The first and third heats went to Phil O'Neill.

JOTTINGS OF COMING WORLD'S SERIES

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—"Washington will win the world's series from Pittsburgh," Miller Huggins, manager of the New York Yankees, said today. "The Senators have better pitchers, a better infield and more experience. They have shown that they are better in a short series."

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Sept. 22.—No more reserve seats are left for the world's series games that are to be played here, officials of the Pittsburgh club announce. All applications that are now being received for seats are being returned.

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 22.—(A. P.)—Hustle and harmony, with a punch at the right moment, put the Pirates out in front in the National league pennant chase, in the opinion of leaders of the fast flying Pittsburgh club.

As they watch the team, composed for the most part, of young men, go into the home stretch with an eight game lead, Barney Dreyfus, the owner and Bill McKechnie, the manager, feel confident that harmony, hustle and punch will bring the flag to this city.

"We have no stars out there," said McKechnie. "Our success is founded on harmony. Pulling together put these men where they are."

By PLUS FOURS

Montreal Thistle curlers showed their supremacy on the links yesterday when they won the Eaves Shield from the Royal Montreal Curling Club team which won the silverware last season. The match is an annual event between the two clubs, being played every fall.

The Thistle team won by 18 matches to 9, with six of the matches ending all square.

Following the match the victors were the guests of the losers at a dinner in the clubhouse. President A. B. Wood, of the Royal Montreal Curling Club, presiding at an enjoyable function. Captain W. W. Walker, of the Royal Montreal curlers, handed over to Captain J. I. Rankin of the Thistle curlers' golf team the Alfred Eaves Shield, the trophy of supremacy.

Al. Watrous, of Grand Rapids, yesterday led in the qualifying rounds of the Professional Golf Association championship at Olympia Fields Country Club by scoring par 70 on both the third and fourth courses for a total of 140. Bill Mehlhorn, of Chicago, with a 69 on No. 3 this afternoon, made a good bid for second place with a total of 143.

Others who made sure of qualifying were Gene Sarazen, of New York, and Jack Burke, of Houston, with 146; Morte Dutra, of Aberdeen, Washington, 147; William Leach, of Philadelphia, and Leo Diegel, of New York, with 149 each.

Sixteen of the thirty-two qualifiers were destined for elimination today, in the 36 hole match round.

In the other outstanding contests Gene Sarazen met Jack Burke, and John Farrell competed with William Creavy, Ray Derr with Abe Espinosa, Leo Diegel with Laurie Ayton, Harry Cooper with Jack Blakeslee, Bobby Cruickshank with William Leach, and Mike Brady with Joe Collins, Emmet French with Bill Mehlhorn, Al. Espinosa with George Howard and Tommy Armour with George Griffin.

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Sept. 22.—A one-day, 36-hole open golf tournament, with $2,000 in cash at stake, will be staged here in January in connection with the great $10,000 Los Angeles open championship which is to be played January 7, 8 and 9.

The added money, which will give professional golfers more than $12,000 to shoot at over a period of less than seven days, has been put up by officials of the Virginia Country Club at Long Beach, one of the most exclusive golf and country clubs in California.

Definite plans for the special one-day event, which sets a record in point of prize money for single day open tourney competition, are now being worked out.

It is planned to hold the $2,000 affair just previous to the $10,000 play and over different Los Angeles links. This will give all visiting professionals the opportunity to play in both events without any undue waste of time.

The prize money for both tournaments is now in a Los Angeles bank, the two events having been underwritten by prominent Southern California sportsmen.

Plans for the $10,000 tournament are coming along nicely. Officials in charge have received word from many of the star pros of the East that they will be here for the play and the event is expected to be one of the greatest links classics staged in recent years.

Both tournaments will be open to all professional players.

The Ladies' Kanawaki Golf Club will play a medal round for the Eaves Trophy tomorrow (Wednesday) morning, Sept. 23, on arrival of the 8:50 train.

A competition for ladies with a handicap of 36 will also be played at the same time.

The closing tea and presentation of prizes of the Ladies' Kanawaki Golf Club will be held on Friday, September 25.

A medal round will be played in the morning of the same day with a drawing, approaching and putting competition taking place in the afternoon.

The inter-club match played between the ladies of the Kanawaki and Summerlea clubs yesterday at the Summerlea course, resulted in a victory for the Kanawaki ladies.

The visiting players were entertained at tea following the match.

Lovell C. Carroll won the junior championship cup of the Kanawaki Golf Club with a net 75. H. K. Stinson, 1924 junior Kanawaki champion, was runner up with a net 76.

Spalding Juvenile Rugby Meet

The first annual meeting of the Spalding Juvenile Rugby League took place yesterday afternoon at 411 St. Catherine street west, with Champlain Provencher in the chair, the following clubs were represented: Verdun A.A.A., Notre Dame de Grace and Maroon A.C.

After the adoption of the secretary's report, the selection of officers took place and resulted as follows:—Hon. patron, Thomas Wall; hon. president and treasurer, Clarence D. MacKerrow; hon. vice-president, Leo Prendergast; president, Champlain Provencher; vice-president, R. Leitham; secretary, James McDonagh.

It was unanimously decided by the delegates to raise the age limit of the players from 16 years to 18 years, so to enable the club members to have stronger line-ups in the field this coming season.

It was decided to hold a special meeting on September 30 for the drafting of the season's schedule, and make all arrangements in connection with same.

If another club enters the league before the special meeting takes place, a four-club series will be arranged instead of a three-club one. Application for membership should be sent to 10a McGill College avenue.

Race track promoters in Cleveland have cancelled their fall meetings, explaining the game has been overworked. What they mean, of course, is that the public purse has been over-worked.

PITTSBURGH WILL BE REPRESENTED AT N. H. L. MEETING AT NEW YORK

Pittsburgh is to be represented at the next meeting of the National Hockey League, which is to be held in no less place than the Biltmore, New York, next Saturday.

The representatives will probably be Messrs. Townsend and Rigby, of the Duquesne Gardens Arena. Nothing has been heard as yet of Cleveland being represented.

DOINGS OF THE QUEBEC RUGBY UNION CLUBS

With the exception of the Montefiores, the Q.R.F.U. intermediate squads all have a game behind them, and have seen how their aggregation behaves under fire. Workouts are the orders once more and all are preparing for the resumption of hostilities which will take place next Saturday afternoon. The Montefiores drew a bye last Saturday, but all will have a chance to prove their mettle this week end. The hardy C.N.R. twelve that vanquished the M.A.A.A. squad last Saturday will take a trip out to the Royal Avenue Park gridiron this week, where they will be entertained by Doug Kerr and his Westward footballers. Thus the champions of last autumn will attempt to add a second victory to their triumph over the M.A.A.A. on Saturday. Westward, however, took a win last week when they defeated the Columbus outfit, and with Donnie Hodges playing the brilliant game he did on Saturday last, they expect to merit a better fate than the Winged Wheel team. Columbus and the Montefiores will mix it up on their own home grounds, the Shamrock gridiron, where they both will play all home games. The Montefiores are said to have a team to cause an upset to the C.N.R. gang that won the honors last season and got off to such a good start in the current season.

The Columbus Club, which is newly formed this autumn as far as football is concerned, has seen the faults it has to contend with as a result of their match with Westward last week. The spirit of the boys, however, is not dampened by defeat, and they are figuring on tightening up the loose parts and tearing ahead in the race. Though they are greatly aided by the presence of the ex-Loyola contingent in their backfield, and especially with Montagu barking the signals, they are a bit weak in the line, and the primary defence around the two ends of the front rank is a bit ragged. Charlie Lynch, the man who surprised the fans by his appearance in a Columbus uniform last week, is certainly going good, especially in his punting. He can boost them way down the grid without apparent effort, and is a quick man on his feet. There was some report of an official investigation into his playing status, since he was supposed to be just about on the line-up of the Rideau Rough Riders in Ottawa. Though the Westward boys made no complaint last week, it was rumored that the Q.R.F.U. would make an investigation. Manager Pat Lynch states that he has no worries about any investigation on Charlie Lynch. Charlie has been working down here since the 21st of June, but is seldom around as he is "on the road" for his employers continually. Nevertheless he has been signed up with the Columbus squad since the second of September, and will continue to play for them.

M.A.A.A. Intermediates are scheduled to make the train journey to Quebec this coming Saturday, and will clash with the new Quebec Intermediate entry, which is rather a dark horse. The new club is the Quebec Swimming and Athletic Club, and is entering a junior team as well. M.A.A.A. was in a bad way on Saturday when they were beaten by the C.N.R. squad. Their team was a pick-up affair chosen the evening previous to the game, and consequently several players were a trifle hazy on the signals. Coach Nicholson is in need of intermediate material. He hopes to have a better team to send to Quebec this week.

The Westward Intermediate squad held a workout last night. All the boys of the Intermediate squad came through the fray on Saturday in good shape with the exception of Jack Porteous, who bruised the cartilage on his left ribs. Porteous will be all right in a day or two.

Doug. Kerr spent the greater part of the period in improving the formations, drilling the squad thoroughly in the weakest points and correcting obvious faults. Saturday's tussle gave the coach a good idea of the comparative strength of his squad. A new arrival to the squad was Frank "Red" Kelland, who played on the crack junior team of '22. Red has been playing up at McGill this past couple of years with the juniors and intermediates.

AT McGILL'S LATEST PRACTICE ALTIMAS LOOKED PROMISING

The McGill boys were at it hard again yesterday after a temporary relaxation on Saturday, due to the absence of their coach, who was away for the week-end, and if, at this early date, any opinions may be formed, this year's team looks as if it might go far in the race for the intercollegiate championship.

Practices were held both in the morning and afternoon, and some of last year's squad, who have been absent so far this season, were on hand. Amongst these were Eddie Hanna, stellar half back, who arrived in town this morning; Bruce Spears, "Dessy" Walsh, and Hammy Boucher, all of whom have filled line positions on the senior squad before. This almost completes the line of senior string players, and from now on the team will begin to shape up. It looks as if it would be no easy thing for anyone to make a place on the squad, as there are many for every position, and those who are fortunate enough to be on the first line string will only accomplish this after a hard fight.

The practise yesterday consisted for the first part of the afternoon, of the usual physical training and running up and down the field, kicking to the half-backs, etc. "Shag" then took all the linemen and put them through some hard work on the dummy, while the halves were kicking amongst themselves. He then divided the squad into two teams and scrimmaged for about three quarters of an hour.

Jack Mickles was again calling signals for the team which consisted mainly of senior men, with one or two new additions such as Sullivan, a freshman who played last year with M.A.A.A. He was holding down the position of snap in a very competent manner. He is a husky lad and has a very accurate pass ,and one who stands a good chance of holding on to the position. Bruce Spears, the big boy from Sarnia, who was out for the first time yesterday, was at the inside position. "Noolie" Philpott was playing outside with Millen, Art, Manson and Dessy Walsh were also in the line, while the backs were Cameron, Murphy and Gorrie.

HANNA WAS OUT.

Eddie Hanna was out for the best part of the practise yesterday, but did not enter the scrimmage, as it was his first day out, but limited himself to kicking and catching. The Sarnia boy has lost nothing of his old-time speed, in fact he seems faster than ever. He has at the same time developed quite a kick, and yesterday was getting away some nice long spirals. Joe Cameron and Herbie Murphy were also doing some very good kicking.

It was learned with regret that Taylor, who played as outside wing for 'Varsity last year, would not be able to play this year in accordance with the new ruling which states that in a case where a man goes from one university to another, he cannot play with the first team until his second year at that university.

Jery Altimas, Loyola star of last year, was out at yesterday's practise. He is a good line plunger and can run well. He should show up to advantage this season.

Ralph St. Germain was present at the practise, having arrived from Ottawa in the morning. He was in uniform for most of the time, but confined himself mostly to kicking. He has got a wonderful punt and was kicking from sixty-five to seventy yards.

He brought with him the news that Young and Laishley, who were expected to come with him had definitely decided to go to Queens, and had left that morning for Kingston.

Pirates Need Three More Victories

NEW YORK, Sept. 22. — (U. N.). — Three more victories out of nine games remaining on their schedule will deliver the National League pennant for 1925 to the Pittsburgh Pirates who haven't heard the gentle rustle of this celebrated muslin from the top of their flag-mast since 1909.

The Pirates won from the Phillies Monday, 9 to 7, after a bing-bang battle, in which there was much loose hitting and looser fielding considering that the Phils got 11 hits and the Pirates a dozen; the Phils one error and the Pirates three.

Even if the Giants should win of their remaining 11 games they can't win if the Pirates win three. The Pirates therefore need only two victories in 9 games to tie even if the Giants sweep along to the end without losing a game of ball. The Giants were idle Monday, by the way, because of rain in St. Louis.

The Reds dropped another one, losing to the Braves 7 to 6, but the Cincinnati club seems pretty certain of third place and third money. The Dodgers probably will run fifth. They lost to the Cubs 3 to 2.

In the American League the situation isn't changed because the Senators were idle Monday, while the Athletics won from the Tigers in Phila ten to seven. If the Senators play .417 ball and win five of their remaining 12 games they will be "in" even if the Athletics win 11 in a row.

The one between the Athletics and Tigers was Monday's only game in the American League.

SIR ARTHUR CURRIE AND GEN. ARMSTRONG AT M.A.A.A. MEETING

General Sir Arthur Currie, and Brigadier General C. J. Armstrong, will be the leaders of the ceremonial in connection with the Dedication of the Flagpole and tablet in memory of those members of the Montreal Amateur Athletic Association, who served in the Great War. The ceremony will take place during the Queens-Montreal football game, Saturday afternoon.

General Sir Arthur Currie will have charge of the unveiling, and Brigadier General Armstrong will be the guest of honor. This was announced today by Brigadier General W. O. H. Dodds, vice-president of the M.A.A.A., also a veteran of the Great War in high office, and who has charge of the arrangements for the dedication.

The flagpole is one of the most imposing in this district, being 125 feet high, and erected under difficulties. A tablet will be attached to it as a tribute to more than 1,000 M.A.A.A. members who served for Canada and the Allies.

It was first planned to have the dedication during the Junior City Championships, but later the date of the Queen's-Montreal Football Rugby game was felt to be a more appropriate occasion.

A great throng is expected at the game and unveiling as judged from the demand for tickets, and the game itself will be the more hard fought because of the sentiment attached to such an occasion.

Walker Won On Rally In 15th Round

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.— (U. N.)— Mickey Walker, welterweight champion of the world, is still champion by virtue of a strange decision rendered by Referee Patsy Haley and two judges, George Kelly and Dick Nugent, at the end of his 15-round fight with Dave Shade of California, in the Yankee stadium Monday night.

It was a terrific scrap for the full duration and both fighters were nearly out at times.

As the last round ended a big force of city policemen, civilian bouncers and private matchmen took stations at the aisles near the ringside to suppress any disorders that might arise from the fact that huge sums were reported to have been bet on the bout with Walker a 7 to 5 favorite.

There was no row, however, and the fighters got out of the ring without trouble in less than a minute after the decision.

Walker probably kept his title on the strength of a wild finish in the 15th round, in which he almost stopped the lantern-jawed challenger. Shade seemed to have the fight won at the end of the fourteenth for he had widely outpointed Walker and slugged him from corner to corner with disregard for Mickey's swing almost all the way.

Frank Moody, heavyweight of Wales, scored a technical knockout over Kid Norfolk, New York negro, in the fourth round of an eight round match, flooring the American fighter three times. Johnny Grosso, Mount Vernon, N.Y., heavyweight, defeated Joe Silvani, of New York, in six rounds.

The series now stands three to two in favor of the United States.

RACING ENDS TODAY AT DORVAL TRACK; HORSES MOVE AWAY

Horse racing in the Province of Quebec comes to an end today with the closing of the meeting of the Dorval Jockey Club.

Today is not only get-away-day at Dorval track, but it is get-away-day for the whole of the province. There are a couple of more meetings in Ontario, and then the Canadian season will be over until next spring. The horses have already started to move from Montreal, bidding this city good-bye for this season.

Dorval during the past meeting has had its usual share of bad weather luck, but the last few days of the meet have been fine at least. The racing has been good out there despite the way the rain fooled around with the track. There have been some thrilling races, some long prices to delight the heart of the long-shot seeker, and the public has had the pleasure of seeing many of its choices step down in front of their fields.

Racing yesterday was not without its surprises. The greatest of these was Morganatic in the opening race. The three-year-old bay colt owned by the local owner, Mrs. A. Monast, romped home to an easy victory in this 5½ furlong dash, and returned the substantial dividend of $42.40 for the usual investment of $2.

The place price on the winner was better than $12, while the place price on the second horse, Orpheline, was $15.40. Tarascon was third. Morganatic was in front right from the lifting of the barrier, and was never in serious danger.

Another barrier to wire victory came in the second race when Dear Variety broke on top and led all the way, winning by six lengths. The three-year-old filly owned by C. Rolland and ridden by Munden made a show of the rest of her company.

The winner was better than 2 to 1 in the wagering, paying $6.65 for a straight $2 ticket.

H. B. Larvey, who put across such a good priced winner as Chloris on Saturday had another one to his credit when his Warehouseman captured the third affair at 5½ furlongs. Warehouseman took the lead after the start and from then on was on top to win without a great deal of trouble. War Tank after being almost left at the post came up with a rush at the finish to take second place. Brevet was third.

Warehouseman paid $10.30 to win for a $2 ticket.

Another outsider scored in the fifth when the 2-year-old Double Rainbow just lasted to beat the favorite Tease. The winner's score was made easier by the fact that Romanelli took the odds-on favorite Tease too far back off the pace in the early stages, and lost much ground at the turn, but through the straight the mare closed gamely, and was a length back in third position.

The outstanding race on the card was the fifth at a mile and a sixteenth, which went to Frank Gallor. He had a substantial margin at the end over Dick Whittington, while Warfare was a distant third. All in All, was first to show, drawing into a lead of over a length after going six furlongs, with Frank Gallor leading the rest of the field. Dick Whittington made a determined bid but wasn't good enough.

Frank Gallor paid $19.60.

The run of winning outsiders was broken when Miles S., well backed in the wagering, handily beat a fair lot, going a mile and seventy yards. Jacques chased the winner in the early stages, but was shaken off at the far turn and the winner drew into a safe lead, winning by three lengths from Jacques with Joose a distant third.

Oakomine won the last race, going out on top at the break and showing a clean pair of heels to the remainder of the field. Myrtle X Crown was second and McTab third.

The Seagram stable in charge of Trainer W. H. Bringloe, were shipped to Toronto yesterday.

Jockey Arthur Collins will leave here at the close of the meeting for Havre de Grace, where he will do the riding for Charles Caffarelli.

The horses, the property of J. H. Shea, C. L. Whiting and Mrs. T. J. Donohue were shipped to Havre de Grace.

Henry McDaniels will load the horses of the Ross stable tonight for shipment to Toronto.

Half hatched duck eggs, boiled in the shell, is the most popular food in many Philippine Island delicatessens.

CRAIG CAMPBELL'S SOCCER NEWS AND GOSSIP

What may be the last of the evening games takes place tomorrow evening on Viau Park, where Maisonneuve will meet the "Letitia" in a fight for possession of a cup presented by J. C. Gagnon, the popular Maisonneuve sportsman. The two previous encounters have ended in draws, so tomorrow evening is expected to be a fight to the very finish.

The Letitia's pipe band will be in attendance, and the kick-off is timed for 5 p.m.

George Collyer, the ex-Can. Railroader player, is still in the city, awaiting word from Washington that will give him permission to enter the United States. Collyer is booked for J. and P. Coats, Paul Nelson is already over the line, having linked up with New Bedford.

Canadian Nationals, by reason of last Wednesday's decision of the Montreal League in deducting 16 points for playing a man named H. Brown, find themselves at the bottom of the table. This additional deduction of points does not in any way affect championship honors, as these are in the safe keeping of Sons of Scotland, but it does affect relegation, and for Canadian Nationals to be put into what practically amounts to the Second Division, would almost be a calamity. The club has appealed to the P.Q. F.A. council, stating very good grounds that they played Brown after he had appeared with two local clubs. This man was an unreinstated professional, when C.N.R. played him, and as a quid pro quo for protesting the brothers Campbell and Martyn, C.P.R. drew a bit for tat, by producing conclusive evidence that Brown, as a professional could not operate in that select circle of "amateurism" as recognized and upheld by the Montreal League, hence the loss of two points in every game Brown played, which were eight, and twice eight is sixteen.

It would not be surprising if the P.Q. F.A. upheld Canadian Nationals' protest, as it would be a most dangerous practice to go back into the antecedents of players who have already been accepted by clubs and leagues.

It is said that Canadian Nationals, "fed up" as it were, with the Montreal League and its doings, are seriously thinking of applying for admission to the Interprovincial League, of which Carsteel are members.

There is an old saying that one has to go abroad for news, and the latest item of interest, which by the way comes from Scotland, is that Johnny Rooney, one of the greatest soccer soccer favorites in Montreal is about to cross the Atlantic to fulfil an important engagement on October 16, that of getting married.

Johnny is of a retiring disposition, and this announcement is not made by way of causing embarrassment, quite the contrary, for there is not a soccer player, official or supporter of the game that does not wish Johnny and his bride, every possible luck in the world.

In an exhibition game of football played on the fair grounds at Richmond, the local C.N.R. team met and defeated the C.N.R. team from Turcot members of the Montreal Mid-week League by the score of 4-1. The return game will be played at Turcot, Saturday, September 26th.

Soccer Affairs From An Old Country Point Of View

By "JACK"

By a coincidence, or if you prefer it, owing to the strangeness of Saturday's results, the leadership has been changed in all three leagues. In fact, the general formation has been changed, and this is all to the good. We want to be uncertain who is going to be at the top of the league next; we want to see a close fight for the place of honor; we want to get a thrill out of these frequent alterations, and to all appearances we will get all of these things in the next few weeks.

Leeds United, as I anticipated they would, took both points from West Ham, and so knocked them from the place of honor and glory to the more humble position of fourth from top. Incidentally Leeds United jumped to the third place, just above their opponents.

Two home clubs that unexpectedly were down were Birmingham and Bolton Wanderers. The former was only beaten by one goal, which, however, gave Notts County a welcome two points. The latter lost, 3—1, to Aston Villa, making this the Villa's second win after four games running without a victory. One consolation, however, the Villa have only been beaten once.

Tottenham H. secured the leadership by holding Huddersfield to a draw. For such a stiff contest the scoring was remarkably free. Each club put on five goals. Ten goals in ninety minutes being served up to the excited spectators.

Preston North End have wakened up at last and secured another victory. Stoke were their unlucky opponents. If Preston only keep going now, everything in the garden will be lovely. Their position is quite strong, and though not so high up as we should like them to be, they are not so far down, coming fifth from the top.

Nottingham Forest failed once again and suffered a 4—1 defeat from Wolverhampton W. Even admitting that Wolverhampton make formidable foes, the Forest are terribly disappointing this season so far. Ten games without a win for a team so lately connected with the first division! It would be no surprise to see them adorn the foot (they are nearly there now) in another week. Unless changes are made in the team very soon the bottom position is theirs in at the most a couple of weeks. Let us hope there has been an alteration in the team, and wait and see.

By the odd goal in three Barnsley took the leadership from Hull City. This was Hull City's sixth game, and up to then they had not been beaten, and had only lost one point, so that victory for Barnsley against such a team was entirely unlooked for.

The most astonishing result of the day occurred in the first division of the Scottish League.

Dundee U., with one single victory to their credit, met the league leaders, who so far had won every game. Being a second division club last season, and not having put up a great show since the beginning of this season, it was a foregone conclusion that both points belonged to Celtic; but that conclusion proved erroneous.

Such is the uncertainty of football that Dundee United accomplished the seemingly impossible by defeating the mighty Celtic, 1—0.

After their defeats last week Rangers and Airdrie both managed wins, and in no uncertain fashion. Airdrie piled on seven goals to St. Johnston's one, and Rangers scored four to St. Mirren's one. This moved St. Mirren from second top to seventh top of the league, while it placed Rangers three places higher up.

The victory meant much to Airdrie, placing them right at the head of affairs.

Second from the top come Falkirk. This team has been doing exceptionally well, and beat Raith Rovers on Saturday quite easily, when a draw seemed the probable result.

Last week Aberdeen surprised Rangers, but, as I thought, they couldn't keep it up, and beat Clydebank, having to be content with a division of the points.

Nobody expected Hibernians to go under to Partick Thistle since the game was played in Edinburgh, but Hibs only scored three goals to Partick Thistle's four, and so one more surprise was registered in this division.

The feature game in the second division was the meeting of last season's first division clubs, Ayr United and Third Lanark. The game, fittingly enough, ended in a draw, no goals being scored.

Let it be noted that this is the first point Thirds have dropped so far this season.

VERDUN LADIES' BOWLING LEAGUE

The preliminary work in the formation of this league for season 1925-26 is now well advanced. It is gratifying to the officers to have so many of last year's teams again entering this year. There, however, is still room for more ladies, or teams of ladies. Those desiring to enter are given a cordial invitation to attend their next meeting, which is being held at Stephen's Bowling Academy, Wellington street, Verdun, next Wednesday night, Sept. 23rd, at 8 o'clock. The financial condition of the league through the good work performed by the officers and members of the league last season, coupled with the aid and interest of their Verdun supporters, is better than was anticipated and they are this year introducing many more prizes for competition this season. Many of the ladies may be already seen at practice, which speaks well for the friendly rivalry among them for the cups offered. The new accommodation provided for the ladies' special benefit in the new alleys erected this year is of the best and shows considerable thought by the owner for their comfort in every way. The closing night for entries this season will be Wednesday next, Sept. 23rd, if sufficient teams present themselves at the meeting; if not, it will be extended one week to Sept. 30th. The competitions will open on Thursday night, October 15th, at 8 o'clock, and will continue on Thursday night each week until the spring.

MOUNT ROYAL LADY BOWLERS UNDECIDED

The Mount Royal Ladies' Bowling League held their meeting last night but have not definitely settled on a playing night as yet. The girls do not want to play on Saturday afternoon this season, and of course they do not want the scheduled fixtures to be staged on Tuesday or Thursday nights. After a lot of discussion it was finally decided that the important decision of a playing night should be left until the next meeting, which will be held at the Mount Royal Hotel next Monday night, at 8.15.

It is expected that at least eight teams will be in the race this year, but the executive say that there is still room for a few more teams, providing the entries are in for next Monday nights.

It was hinted that there may be a few changes in the rules that will bring them more in keeping with those of the M.F.A.

The election of officers was left over until the next meeting so that the entire representation of teams will have a voice in the selection.

Nap. Dorval, the well-known friend of sport, attended the meeting and saw to it that the girls were served with refreshments. He proved so popular that he was asked to permit his name to be placed in nomination for the office of president over the young ladies' league, but he blushingly and gracefully withdrew from the proposed honor.

Writing ink, made of lamp black, is believed to have been in use for 5,000 years.

Aquatc Polo Teams Have Been Announced

The Aquatic Polo Association held a meeting last night and drew up a list of the teams for this season. The M.A.A.A. came forward with five teams. One new senior team was admitted, but its team name was held back until next meeting.

A committee composed of Clem Anson, W. H. Laidley and Walter Foran were appointed to pass upon the referees for the season of which there were thirty-two names submitted. A meeting of the referees will be held at the K. of C. Hall next Monday night. The president, Clem Anson, was empowered to draw up a schedule which is to be brought up for consideration at the general meeting which will be held at the K. of C. next Wednesday night. The teams entered for this season are as follows:—Senior—M.A.A.A., 2 teams; M.S.C. and one new team. Intermediate — M.A.A.A., Y.M.C.A, M.S.C., C.P.R.A.A., McGill, Nationale. Junior—M.A.A.A., 2 teams; M.S.C., McGill, Y. M. C. A., C.P.R.A.A., Columbus, V.A.A.A. The starting date has not yet been decided.

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—Jack Zivic, Pittsburgh welterweight, won a 12-round decision from Willie Harmon, of New York. Frank Moody, English middleweight, knocked out Kid Norfolk, negro light-heavyweight, in the fourth round. Johnny Gross, of New York, heavyweight, won a six-round decision from Joe Silvani.

'VARSITY'S RUGBY TEAM MAKES PROGRESS

TORONTO, Ont., Sept. 22. — University of Toronto football candidates are making rapid progress, and after a few days more of preliminary work the squad will be divided with the most promising players going to the Intercollegiate Union senior team, and the second choices to the O. R. F. U. entry. The Intercollegiate Union intermediates and juniors will also be organized and the players sidetracked in the grand shuffle will go back to the Mulock Cup series.

At this early date it seems likely that the senior backfield will be composed of Warren Snyder, Frank Trimble, Mackenzie of last year's Toronto Canoe Club, and Kirkpatrick, last year's smart flying wing. Other players who will likely make the grade are Bruce King, the Stollery Brothers, Cliff Weber (captain), Bales, McGibbon, Dundas and Morgan.

Each day finds the players making headway and prospects for a good team are getting brighter.

Cozy Dolan was in Chicago recently telling newspaper men it is only a matter of time before he will be back in the big leagues . . . This reminds us that Ad Wolgast still thinks he's going to get another crack at Bat Nelson for the lightweight championship.

VERDUN 500 FOURTH ANNUAL ROAD RACE

The fourth annual five mile road race for P. A. Lafleur championship cup, will be held Saturday, September 26th from the club house, corner Third avenue and Lasalle Road. Entrants must be bona fide members of a Verdun club with at least three months' standing and registered with the A. A. U. of Canada. All entries must be turned in tonight with the entrance fee of twenty-five cents, to Tom Brown, 343 Second avenue, York 6676W, or R. E. Walsh, 76 Gordon ave., York 5728W. Cups, medals and prizes will be distributed immediately after the race.

The "500" will wind up their summer season with a dance at Wood Hall Monday evening, September 28, 1925, at which all cups won during the summer months in various branches of sport, will be distributed.

M. A. A. A. NOTES

The finals of the "Granger" Memorial Lawn Bowling Trophy will be held Wednesday evening at the M.A.A.A. Westmount grounds. All club games will also be started then and must be finished by Saturday.

French Davis Cup Men Stop Off in Montreal

Two members of the French Davis Cup team, Jean Borotra and Jacques Brugnon, stopped off in Montreal yesterday and then went on to Toronto last night for exhibition matches with Canadian Davis Cup stars, including Willard Crocker and Leroy Rennie.

One singles exhibition set was played at the Indoor Tennis Club, when Borotra beat Jack Wright, 6-2. Borotra and Brugnon met E. H. Laframboise and Jack Wright, and the latter pair won in two sets.

TIMELY TURF TOPICS

LEXINGTON, Ky., Sept. 22.—From Middleburg, Va., comes the information that Walter L. Goodwin's imported bay, Keen Jane, by Javelin—Plain Jane, by Mauvezin, is dead at his Goodstone Farm.

AURORA, Ill., Sept. 22.—For assaulting Starter Morrissey at Aurora after the fourth race on September 18, Jockey V. Swanson, who had the leg up on Dancer, has been ruled off the turf.

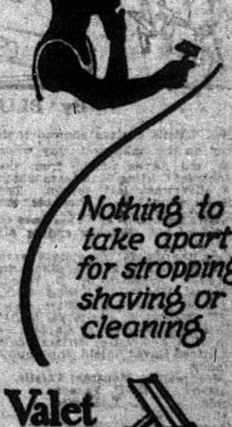

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 22. — Peter Maltby, the year's most sensational two year old trotter, yesterday won the Horse Review Futurity of $3,500, the feature event of the opening day program of the ten day Grand Circuit meeting.

The favored Dr. Strongworthy took the 2:10 trot in straight heats, although Red Top all but won the first heat.

The King Stake for 2:07 Pacers, raced at three different distances, brought about the defeat of the favored Theodore Guy, which won third Monday. The first and third heats went to Phil O'Neill.

The 2:18 pace was another split heat event. The well-liked Norman Grattan won the first heat, but was nosed out by Bonnie Watts in the second heat. The third and deciding heat went to Bonnie Watts.

Asbestos "Futures" Cancelled—Violent N.Y. Fluctuations—Local Tone Easier

MOSTLY SOFTER IN QUIET LIST; SOME WERE FIRM

There was a further reduction in volume of trading on the Montreal Stock Exchange this morning, and the general tone was easier, although a few firm spots developed. Brazilian Traction and Montreal Power were the active leaders and both recorded declines. The former eased ⅜ to 72⅝ after opening at 73⅜. The latter opened a point lower at 211, and reacted another ⅝ to 209⅜.

Among the strong spots were included Penmans with a gain of 4 points to the new high of 167, after opening at 164; Southern Canada Power, with a gain of 3 points to 80; General Electric preferred with a gain of 4 points to 56½ (ex-dividend), after touching the new high of 57; and Mackay preferred, up 1¼ to the new high of 71. Mackay common sold unchanged at yesterday's new peak of 139.

National Breweries was one of the comparatively active features and was off ¼ at 57½ after opening ¼ firmer at 58. Dominion Bridge touched the lowest level since September 8 by declining to 98 later rallying ¼ for a net reaction of ⅝. Asbestos issues were very quiet, the common being unchanged at 88, and the preferred appearing in odd lots only. Canadian Locomotive preferred, which has not changed hands in board lot for some months, appeared at the new low of 75 (ex-dividend), off 10¼ points. There was only one sale, being a single lot of 650 shares.

Other features included B.C. Fishing up ¼ at 47⅝, Steamships Voting Trust off 1⅜ at 10, Canadian Car off 2 at 37, Lyall off ½ at 214, Ontario Steel off 1 at 68, Smelters up ½ at 117½, Steel of Canada off ½ at 90½, Twin City up ⅝ at 60, Winnipeg Electric off ⅝ at 48, Connecticut Cottons preferred off ¼ at 44¾, and Royal Bank up 1 at the new high of 240. Paper stocks were very dull. Laurentide was off ½ at 77, Belgo preferred was up ¼ at 95¾, and Wayagamack was steady at 56.

Total number of listed shares traded in was 6,221, compared with 6902 yesterday morning.

EX-DIVIDEND TODAY

The following stocks became ex-dividend today:

Canadian Rubber preferred, 1¾ per cent.

Frontenac Breweries preferred, 1¾ per cent.

RE-ORGANIZATION PLAN FOR ARGONAUT CAPITAL

The annual meeting of Argonaut Gold, Limited, will be held on October 10, at which time full details of a proposed reorganization are likely to be outlined. Just what these are cannot be definitely ascertained, but it is believed that a new company with capital of about $5,000,000 will be formed into which outstanding shares are likely to be exchangeable on a basis of sixty cents a share. This basis would leave the company with $2,000,000 in its treasury even with the 600,000 shares put aside to take care of any conversion privilege bondholders might elect to take.

A deal of this kind would leave Argonaut in a position to finance any extensions to its Ontario development and the opening up of the Quebec property very comfortably. A further deal is afoot whereby the Quebec property may be developed by one of the big concerns operating there on quite favorable terms which, in addition to giving Argonaut a sizable interest, would bring in sufficient cash to retire outstanding bonds. In this case Argonaut would have its bonds taken care of and only about $2,500,000 new capital outstanding. The company is now reported to be almost entirely free from debt.

Argonaut has reversed its position completely in the last six months. Milling an average of 160 tons daily it has recovered approximately $160,000 from around 17,500 tons of ore, with average gold content of $8.44 and $4.50 of copper, making a total of $13.44 per ton. In addition more ore has been put in sight during the period than the mill handled.

Rumors of a $40,000,000 Rouyn mining combination to include Noranda, Amulet and Waite-Montgomery are persistent in the Street.

SEASONAL DECLINE IN BUILDING ACTIVITY

The value of the building permits authorized in 60 Canadian cities during August stood at $9,258,752, as compared with $12,641,651 in July, 1925, and $9,265,945 in August, 1924. There was, therefore, a seasonal decline of 26.8 p.c. in comparison with the preceding month, but of only one-tenth of one per cent. in the more significant comparison with the same month of last year.

Detailed statements were furnished by some 50 cities, showing that they had issued more than 1,100 permits for dwellings estimated to cost approximately $4,800,000 and about 2,500 permits for other buildings at a proposed cost of over $3,900,000.

All provinces except Nova Scotia and Saskatchewan showed reductions in the value of the building permits issued as compared with July, 1925. There were gains of 113.2 p.c. and 36.8 p.c., respectively, in those provinces. Of the losses in the remaining provinces that of $2,492,493 or 51.2 p.c. in Quebec was most pronounced.

As compared with August, 1924, Ontario, Manitoba, Alberta and British Columbia registered increases in the value of the permits issued, that of 37.2 p.c. in Ontario being largest. Quebec recorded the greatest decrease of $1,344,768 or 39.4 p.c.

The value of the building authorized in 60 cities during tre first eight months of this year was $86,563,152 as compared with $80,640,792 in 1924, $97,269,465 in 1923, $104,987,679 in 1922, $77,293,840 in 1921 and $86,145,140 in 1920. There were, therefore, increases of 7.3 p.c., 12.0 p.c. and 0.5 p.c. in 1925 as compared with 1924, 1921 and 1920, but the total was 11.0 p.c. and 17.5 p.c. lower than in 1923 and 1922 respectively.

SHARP REACTION AND BRISK RALLY IN WALL STREET

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—(Special to The Montreal Star From Our Own Wall St. Correspondent).—Irregularity characterized prices on the Stock Exchange at the opening this morning but the undertone of the market was steady. It was apparent that quite an extensive readjustment of position was in progress and that demand and supply were pretty evenly balanced. Traders appeared to be feeling their way cautiously pending developments. After the first few minutes the market became somewhat firmer as aggressive buying began in a number of issues.

The motor shares continued prominent in the trading, but the tendency was to switch to new favorites. Hupp Motor was an example of early strength. The trading in them was on an unusually large scale and resulted in advancing the quotation nearly two points above the previous close to a new high level for the year. Studebaker was persistently bought and gradually forged ahead. Willys-Overland was another active and strong motor. In the meanwhile General Motors churned about the 105 level without getting anywhere in particular, while Hudson Motor lost about a point.

Trading in specialties was active but lacked trend. Remington Typewriter was a strong spot, rushing up two points in the first hour. On the other hand, American Can was offered freely by the speculative element and reacted more than a point, only to regain its loss after a few minutes. Columbia Gas was active and strong with a gain of about two points. The buying movement in American Tobacco continued and advanced it about a point. Pullman reacted early but rallied nearly four points.

Market Street Railway second preferred and prior preferred, which advanced sharply yesterday, registered further gains today on buying in anticipation of a deal with the city of San Francisco. Chesapeake and Ohio, Norfolk and Western and one or two others were strong spots, but the majority of the transportation shares continued dull.

Stock prices continued to yield to selling pressure, inspired by yesterday's sharp run-up of call money rates, at the opening. Initial losses of a point or more were recorded by American Bosch Magneto, Hudson Motors, Pullman and Stewart-Warner Speedometer. Supporting orders were provided, however, for a number of the railroad shares, which are expected to benefit from the publication of additional favorable August earnings reports.

The selling movement soon spent its force, but not until after additional declines of a point or so had been recorded by over a dozen issues, including Mack Trucks, Calif. Packing, Westinghouse Air Brake and U.S. Realty.

Revival of activity and strength in the coalers and a selected list of public utilities steadied the list, and the market was again headed upward before the end of the first hour.

Trading in the motors quieted down somewhat, although Hupp was quickly bid up 2 points to a new record top at 24½. Norfolk and Western, Chesapeake and Ohio, Columbia Gas, Market Street Railway second pfd., and Prior pfd., Chandler and Air Reduction sold 1 to 2½ points above yesterday's final quotations.

Marking up of the renewal rate on call loans to 5¼ per cent was ignored by pool operators, who were apparently fortified with favorable long term loans and who regarded the stiff rates as temporary. Considerable buying developed in the low-priced motor and accessory shares, with Dodge Bros. and Paige Detroit, showing unusually prominence. A rapid drop of 4 points in American Can toward midday caused the general list to yield in sympathy.

A somewhat steadier tone prevailed in the early afternoon following the violent changes of the forenoon. Features up to 1:30 included: C. P. R., 148⅝ to 149 to 148⅜; Am. Can, 239 to 240¼ to 238½ to 236; Smelting, 111⅛ to 112¼ to 110⅝ to 111⅛; Int. Nickel, 11 to 11¼ to 10⅞ to 11⅛; Baldwin, 122 to 121⅞ to 123⅝ to 122 to ⅝; Con. Gas, 91⅛ to ⅜ to 90⅞ to 91¼; Chrysler, 160⅝ to 160 to 163½ to 162⅞; Col. Gas, 74 to 77 to 76½; Dupont, 186 to 185; Gen. Motors, 105⅜ to 106⅜ to 104⅝ to 105⅜ to ½; Gen. Electric, 318 to 317⅜; Hudson Motors, 82 to ⅛ to 81⅝ to 82½; Industrial Alcohol, 88½ to 87⅝; Mack Truck, 213 to 212⅝ to 216⅜ to 212⅝ to 214; N.Y.C., 122¼ to ⅞ to ⅝; Pullman, 159 to 158⅝ to 163 to 159 to 160⅜; Radio, 59⅜ to 60¼ to 59½ to 60; Studebaker, 56⅛ to ⅛ to 57¼ to 56⅜; Rubber, 57⅜ to 59⅛ to 57⅜ to ⅝; Steel com., 122⅝ to 123⅛ to 122⅜; White Motor, 85½ to 85 to 86 to 85¼.

NEW YORK BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—With prices fluctuating within a narrow area, interest in bond trading early today was overshadowed by the heavy volume of new financing, exceeding $77,000,000. Most of the new offerings were readily subscribed all of the $20,700,000 Argentine Government bonds and the $10,000,000 State of Bremen 7's being sold before noon. U. S. Government obligations, sensitive to tighter money conditions, declined sharply. Changes in the rest of the list were conflicting with railroad issues moving rather sluggishly.

REACTIONARY IN TORONTO

TORONTO, Sept. 22—A reactionary tendency set in on the Toronto Stock Exchange this morning, and some of the erstwhile strong issues suffered material losses. Brazilian, still prominent eased down to 72⅝, a loss of 1⅜, at the noon close, and Bell Telephone was marked down 2¾, at 138. C.P.R. also lost 2¾ at 148¾. British Columbia Fishing dropped a ¼ at 47½. Canadian Canners pfd. was active, but unchanged, while the common eased a ¼. Firmness of the Mackay issues was a feature, the common and pfd. both advancing a ½ point. City Dairy improved ¾ at 89⅝. Smelters at 117½, showed a half point loss.

CHEESE EXPORTS FROM LOCAL PORT INCREASE

Cheese exports from the Port of Montreal for the week ended September 19 shows a slight increase over those of the previous week as well as over those of the corresponding period of last year. During the week under review 60,435 boxes were exported from the local port, as compared with last week's total of 65,071 boxes and last year's total of 60,714 boxes.

Butter exports during the week under review show a slight decline, 11,222 boxes being exported as against 12,359 boxes, 75 tubs and 100 casks for the previous week and 15,821 boxes and 130 tubs for the corresponding week of 1924.

The following table shows the destination of the exports:

To	1925.	1924.
London	3,464	40,635
Liverpool	4,643	13,230
Bristol	.....	10,403
Belfast	.....	479
Manchester	3,115	3,123
Newcastle	.....	1,510

The following table shows the total amount of butter and cheese exported from Montreal from May 1 to the end of the period under review:

	1925.	1924.
Butter	255,157	106,847
Cheese	917,083	757,038

Topics of the Street

The volume of trading in the local stock market continued to shrink this morning, and there was a general feeling that nervousness and uncertainty with regard to Wall Street's next moves were an important factor in deterring traders. The remarkable bull movement in New York has wavered at times in the past few weeks, but the bulls have always been able to come back strongly and rout the bear traders.

The advance in many New York stocks has been regarded in conservative quarters as having discounted most good points, and the action of the money market has been interpreted in some quarters as intended as a warning to the over-enthusiastic bulls who have been sweeping everything before them, flushed with long standing successes.

This situation is giving local traders a good deal for thought as the Wall Street bears, if they once get securely seated in the market saddle, might perform in a manner which would change the complexion of the local situation.

Leaders were reactionary here as a general rule, the most important of which were in Brazilian Traction and Montreal Power, as they have been the most conspicuous in the trading during the past few days. Power repeated its former high of 212 yesterday, but at the close had reacted a point. Today's opening was another point lower, and in the later trading there was a fractional reaction to 209⅝, a decline of 1⅝ or 2⅜ from yesterday's top.

Brazilian Traction, which eased from 74 to 73½ yesterday, reopened easier at 73⅜ and later eased to 72⅝, making a net loss of ⅝. Considerable activity developed in B.C. Fish, which rose ¼ to a new high on the current movement at 47⅝. Several weeks ago, however, this issue touched 50, but was as low as 42⅝ in August.

Sharp gains of 3⅛ in Canadian General Electric preferred, four in Penmans to a new high at 167, and three in Southern Canada Power common to 80 were striking exceptions to the general tone of the market. The former high for the latter was 84, a record touched in April, but last month the price fell as low as 72. The present strength is associated with impending developments which are interpreted as of a favorable character.

Another strong spot was Mackay preferred, which moved up 1¼ to a new high for the year at 71, which repeats the record for all time created in 1924. The common was again traded in at the peak price of 139.

Other changes were less important and were mainly fractional, gains and losses being fairly well mixed. Breweries was a firm spot, but Bridge was off and Steamships issues reacted. Asbestos was unchanged while Smelters rallied to 117½. There was very little doing in the paper stocks.

Southern Canada Power, which is planning another customer-ownership campaign for next month, has been singularly successful in that direction in past undertakings of the same character. Briefly stated customer-ownership is the drawing closer together in the bonds of common interest, of the provider and the consumer of public service. In the case of electricity, which every member of the community must now use to a greater or less degree, it is considered better for the community to own the shares of the company providing the service, than for outsiders who have no more concern than to draw their dividends.

When the consumers draw the dividends it keeps the money in the community and gives them a pride in their company. Common interest and welfare animate both producers and consumers thus constituting a genuine community of interest.

With a growing company requiring plant additions from time to time, additional capital must be provided and it has been found that the community is ready and willing to supply a share when there is a friendly feeling and the situation is thoroughly understood.

Walsh-Katrine Shaft Reaches 375 Foot Level

COBALT, Ont., Sept. 22. — Work on Walsh-Katrine Gold Mines has been going ahead steadily with the sinking of their main shaft, and a depth of 375 ft. has been reached, and the station is now being cut at that point.

The mine manager reports cutting a body of good looking ore in the shaft at 360 ft., which appears to be No. 2 vein. This is being sampled and information in regard to same will be published as soon as results are obtained.

Supplies to last until sleighing starts are now being taken in to the mine, so that in the event of bad weather in the Fall, work will not be held up by road conditions. They are also negotiating with the Government through their Northern Development Branch for assistance in cutting out a new road to the steel on the Rouyn branch of the N. C. R., which will cut down the haulage distance to less than five miles.

Every effort is now being directed to the completion of the shaft to 500 feet, and the commencement of lateral development on that level. They hope to reach that depth by the end of October, and before the end of the year should be in a position to sample the main orebodies both East and West at 500 feet.

"FUTURE" DEALS IN ASBESTOS PFD. ARE CALLED OFF

The Street learned with considerable satisfaction today that as the result of a meeting of representatives of stock dealers, brokers and traders yesterday afternoon it was decided to call off "future" transactions in new Asbestos 7 per cent cumulative preferred "when, as and if issued" as no such stock will be available for delivery as the original Asbestos merger deal was called off and a new class of non-cumulative stock submitted for the one included in the original deal.

There was considerable perturbation among the various interests concerned in these deals when it was learned that there was a disposition in some quarters to insist that the original deals should be enforced in the belief that the "when, as and if issued" provision was sufficient cover for taking that attitude.

Wiser councils prevailed, however, and a mutually satisfactory solution was found by calling off the deals in the preferred, but allowing the transactions in the common "when, as and if issued" to stand. The original 200,000 shares of no par value common figures in the new negotiations as in the original, but some of the changes effected in the general terms of the new proposal might affect the standing of the common but it was decided to waive the point and hold those transactions binding.

It will be recalled that the original merger deal provided for an issue of $5,000,000 first preferred and $4,700,000 second preferred, but in the new deal, which is now believed to be approaching consummation the second preferred issue was dropped and the first preferred becomes a $7,700,000 non-cumulative and non-participating issue instead cumulative. The bond issue was increased but the common remained the same.

The original cumulative preferred sold in considerable quantity, under the "future" contract arrangement as high as 88, while the latter class of stock is worth more than ten points less.

The official statement issued by the parties interested is as follows:

"Transactions on the 'when, as and if issued' basis in the Asbestos 7 p.c. Cumulative Preferred stock which it was understood would be issued by the new corporation growing out of the merger of the asbestos companies, have been cancelled by unanimous agreement of dealers, traders and brokers. In view of the fact that the latest capital arrangement of the proposed company does not include a cumulative preferred stock, such an issue will never come into being and it is therefore impossible to complete trades in a security that will never exist.

"Such action is customary where proposed securities have never materialized; indeed, that is the purpose of the qualifying suffix—'when, as and if issued.'

"It was agreed, however, that transactions in the common stock continue to stand as no change has been made in the nature of this security."

WORLD WHEAT PRODUCTION

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—Department of Agriculture estimates production of 29 countries representing 85 per cent. of the world's wheat crop at 2,852,000,000 bushels against 2,634,000,000 last year.

BULLS RALLIED TO SUPPORT OF NEW YORK LIST

WALL ST., 1:30 p.m. — High money rates continued to provide a stumbling block of speculative operations for the advance in today's stock market, although strongly organized pools did succeed in lifting several of the automotive and public utility issues to new high levels for the year. The general list was under intermittent selling pressure, inspired by the belief that the technical condition of the market warranted a further reaction because of the apparently oversold position of many stocks.

Little attention was paid to trade news, the chief item of which was a decline in raw sugar prices to the lowest level since 1922. Reduction of the dividend on New York Air Brake common sent that stock down from 41 to 36½ despite the fact that rumors of such action had been widely circulated about the streets.

Sharp breaks of nearly five points each in American Can and General Electric which tended to curb bullish enthusiasm. Rails held firm with traders showing an inclination to await additional August earnings statements before extending their commitments.

A sharp run up of 5 points in Detroit Edison and the establishment of a new high record above 77 by Columbia Gas and Elec. were among the features of the afternoon trading.

Bulls rallied prices in the last hour. Features around 2:30 included: C.P.R., 149; Am. Can, 237¼ to 236¾; Abitibi, 67; Am. Loco., 112¾; Am. Can., 113; Baldwin, 122⅜ to 121⅞; Col. Gas., 77⅛; Chrysler, 163½; Dupont, 187; Gen. Elec., 312 to 313⅜; Gen. Motors, 106⅝; Hudson Motor, 83½; Mack Truck, 215½; Studebaker, 57⅝; Pullman, 162; Steel, 123¾; Pan B, 63; Int. Paper, 69¼.

Near the close leaders were: Abitibi, 67; C.P.R., 149; Am. Can., 236⅝; Smelting, 111⅛; Am. Loco., 117½; Am. Car, 113; Baldwin, 121¼; Con. Gas, 91⅝; Chrysler, 162⅝; Congoleum, 22¾; Col. LONDON STOCK EXCHANGE

LONDON, Sept. 22. — Trading was quiet and prices were steady on the Stock Exchange today. Bar gold 84s 11¾d. Money 2% per cent. Discount rates: short bills 3⅛ per cent; three months bills 3¼ to 3 9-16 per cent.

MACKAY STRONG; COTTONS HIGHER; TONE STEADIER

An improved tone prevailed on the Montreal Stock Exchange in the final hour's trading this afternoon. Mackay common and preferred were strong features; both touched new highs, the former at 142 and the latter at 76½. Both issues closed at the peak, with gains of 3 and 5½ points, respectively. Canadian Cottons also established a new high at 121½, up 2¾, and Lake of the Woods advanced a point to the new peak of 189.

Brazilian Traction was steady at around 72⅝ with sales fractionally above and below this figure. Montreal Power rallied ⅝ to 210. Asbestos issues were easier, the common easing a point to 87 and the preferred ½ to 109¼, after opening at 110. Dominion Bridge was off ¼ at 98 and National Breweries ⅛ at 57⅜. There was a sale of Detroit United at 1, which represents a gain of 20 cents.

Other features included Textile off ¼ at 87, Western Grocers off ⅜ at 11¼, and the preferred off 1 at 45; Steamships preferred off ½ at 52½, and Connecticut Cottons up ¼ at 43. Alcohol, National Brick and Shawinigan were unchanged.

ABITIBI PLANS FOR EXPANSION; BIG COAL SAVING

TORONTO, Sept. 22.—(Star Special).—Abitibi is carrying out comprehensive plans for increasing it newsprint output to at least 800 tons a day during the next twelve or eighteen months. The plans include the instalation of three machines in addition to the seven now operating with a combined capacity in excess of 500 tons daily. Plans also include the speeding up of four of the present machines by about 25 per cent.

These plans will be carried out as soon as power from the Island Falls plant purchased from the Hollinger is available. The transmission line will be ready by the time the snow flies, cables now being strung, and work is being rushed for a new 110,000 volt substation.

The first use the new plant will be put to will be to heat electric boilers, a battery of which are now being installed. Hitherto Abitibi's chief competitive cost has been for coal, which on account of the long haul, costs the company almost twice as much as southern mills pay. At the present time Abitibi is using approximately 300 tons of coal daily. Two hundred tons of this will be eliminated when the electricly fired boilers are in operation late this fall, involving a daily saving, it is understood, in excess of $5,000.

STANDARD MINING EXCHANGE

TORONTO, Sept. 22.—Considerable activity prevailed on the Standard Mining Exchange this morning with transactions totalling 132,917 shares. Lake Shore advanced 13 points to 6.73, and Wright-Hargreaves sold 5 points higher at 5.65, while Premier declined 3 points to 2.50. Castle Trethewey also declined 4 points to 1.15, and Mining Corporation was on the downward trend at 2.03, a decline of 2 points. Kirkland Lake, Keeley and Teck-Hughes each sold 1 point lower at 40, 1.66 and 1.58, respectively. Barry-Holly also declined 1 point to 22. Hattie preferred advanced fractionally under heavy sales to 4⅝, and Argonaut was 1⅛ points lower at 25½.

WASHINGTON MAY CUT FRENCH DEBT

American Commission Expects Agreement Within Next Ten Days

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—(U. N.)—The total of the French debt probably will be reduced by the American debt funding commission, through a new calculation of the accrued interest charges, in the negotiations which begin here Thursday, it was said at the Treasury Monday.

The rate of accrued interest, har been fixed at 5 per cent. Just what scaling down the American commission will accept has not been disclosed. Experts of the Treasury and Commerce departments, who have practically concluded their analysis of France's capacity to pay, have given considerable attention to this phase of the subject.

Secretary Mellon regards the inference, drawn by the Institute of Economics from its study of the French financial situation, that France can pay nothing on her depts now, as erroneous.

However, he regards the facts disclosed by the study as giving a true picture of France's financial condition, which he realizes is very difficult. He expects the situation will work out and develop favorably in time.

The expression from the French mission that France expected to begin paying the principal of her debt immediately is not contrary to the general expectation here, as any postponement or moratorium has been understood as being applied to the interest, and not to the principal.

Under-Secretary of the Treasury Winston left Monday for New York to meet the French Debt Mission which is due to arrive Tuesday night. He will welcome them officially as Secretary of the American Debt Funding Commission.

It appears now that the negotiations here will be short and a settlement is expected to be reached within a week or ten days.

FORD MAN HELD UP AND ROBBED OF $200

WINDSOR, Sept. 22. — (C.P.) — Police in Sandwich East Township and at Ford are searching for two bandits who held up and robbed Oliver Poirier, 35, manager of a grocery store at Ford, while Poirier was on his way home.

They searched them, Poirier told the police, and took more than $200 from his pocket.

SAYS IMMIGRATION DOORS NOT THROWN OPEN TO RAILWAYS

Hon. G. N. Gordon, Minister of Colonization, Discusses Report

HELP IMMIGRANTS

Regulations Not Lessened Only Eliminate Unnecessary Red Tape

TORONTO, Sept. 22. — (C.P.) — "There has been no letting down of bars, no relaxing of the restrictions as to the kind of imigrant that may enter Canada in favor of the railway companies," said Hon. G. N. Gordon, Minister of Immigration and Colonization in the Dominion Government. "All that has been done is to arrive at an understanding that will do away with a good deal of red tape, which the railway companies claim has been retarding immigration to Canada."

Mr. Gordon made this statement when his attention was drawn to a report that President E. W. Beatty, of the Canadian Pacific Railway, had stated in the course of a recent speech "that the settlement of the West would proceed more rapidly now, under a new agreement with the Federal Government, whereby the C.P.R. and C.N.R. have been given a free hand 'to select, transport and distribute all colonists who can be assimilated,' with the further privilege of issuing the necessary permits for their admission."

The Minister of Immigration said that during the present campaign he had on more than one occasion spoken of the new agreement with the railway companies to encourage immigrants of the proper type to settle in Canada. As to the quality of the immigrants to be brought to Canada under the arrangement arrived at with the railways, Mr. Gordon said that the railways are given no power under the agreement to bring to Canada any but immgrants of the quaity which the immigration laws and regulations now permitted to enter Canada.

RAPID SETTLEMENT.

TORONTO, Sept. 22 — The attention of Hon. G. N. Gordon, Minister of Immigration and Colonization in the King Government, was drawn to the report of the western speech of President E. W. Beatty, of the C. P. R., which quoted him as saying that settlement of the west would proceed more rapidly now, under a new agreement with the Federal Governmen whereby the C.P.R. and C.N.R. have been given a free hand to "select, transport and distribute all colonists who can be assimilated," with the further privilege of issuing the necessary permits for their admission.

The Minister was also shown a Globe editorial stating that the "people of Canada will receive the announcement with surprise and concern — surprise because the president of any railway should appear as the mouthpiece of the Government; concern because the intimation clearly is that the railways are to be accorded great freedom in respect of the quantity and quality of the immigration movement to be inaugurated."

"President Beatty is not, and has not been, the mouthpiece of the Government in this matter," Mr. Gordon stated. "Both at the Hanna picnic at Belleville on September 11, at which the Premier was present, and at Aspanola on Friday last I spoke of this agreement with the two railway companies to encourage immigrants of the proper type to settle in Canada. "As to the quality of the immigrants to be brought to Canada under the arrangement arrived at with the railways, they are given no power and are not permitted under it, to bring to the Dominion any but immigrants of the quality which the immigration laws and regulations of Canada now permit to enter the country.

SAME POLICY.

"The department will continue its policy of inspection abroad, thus removing any fear that undesirable immigrants might be brought in under the agreement."

Is there any possibility of the wholesale dumping of newcomers into the west, under the agreement?" Mr. Gordon was asked.

"None whatever," he replied. "The whole agreement with the railway companies is entirely subject to the Immigration Act, the orders in council of the Government, and the regulations of the Department of Immigration. We haven't opened the doors extending it to any other classes. In the main those who are permitted entrance under the agreement will be farmers, farm laborers and domestic servants from Great Britain and from northern European countries such as Norway, Denmark and Sweden. Besides that they must be people of such nature as can be assimilated into the life of the Dominion."

"What is the purpose of the agreement?" "One of the main purposes is to avoid duplication of activities of the immigration departments of each of the three parties to the agreement.

"Both railways have felt the material loss of revenue from the fact that few immigrants were coming from Great Britain and Europe to the west.

"Under the agreement now all colonists coming from European ports will come by means of the C.P.R. and C.N.R. steamship lines or agencies, and will, of course, be carried by those lines on their arrival in Canada. This will not only be of great benefit to the two Canadian companies, but will get rid of European emigrant runners and concerns that are exploiting intended immigrants, and over whom the Government of Canada has no control. It will result in better control of the immigration movement from Europe, which will come through these two Canadian channels.

RATE REDUCTIONS.

"To realize such a great movement as President Beatty evidently expects, I think the railway companies must contemplate a considerable reduction in steamship and railway rates from European points to the Canadian west. At present it costs as much for a family to come from Liverpool to Montreal as before the war it cost for them to come from Great Britain to Calgary or Edmonton.

"The widespread organizations of the railways, not only in Canada, but abroad can be of great value in the recruiting of settlers overseas and in the placement of these in Canada. The department will continue its policy of inspection abroad, thus removing any fear that classes not wanted here, may be brought."

Mr. Gordon pointed out that under an Act of two years ago no Chinese can be brought to Canada, except students for courses in Canadian universities and Chinese merchants to buy or sell goods on a large scale. These are investigated and must get a certificate before entry.

A SHAREHOLDER'S OPINION

Extract from a letter written to the President of Kirkland Rand, Limited, by a practical mining man of Philadelphia, in the person of Mr. W. J. Yeoell, who has been a shareholder from the beginning of the development of this property.

"I was North for a matter of 10 days and took occasion while there to visit the property of Kirkland Rand, Limited, at Kirkland Lake, Ont. I certainly congratulate you on the progress made and the wonderful showings which promise well for an early and successful opening of the mill. I was underground for about two hours with your Mine Manager, Mr. Osborne, and went very thoroughly over the new workings. While as you know I have disagreed with you right along in your policy, I now congratulate you on your persistent and apparently successful outcome of your own idea."

The above is convincing and really worth while giving serious thought to. Can you afford to pass it by without further investigations? Fill in attached coupon and we will send full particulars.

All funds raised will be used for development purposes now in progress. A limited number of shares are offered at 40c PER SHARE, Par value $1.00 each, after which the price will be INCREASED.

SPURNED LOVER BURNS SWEETHEART

Mrs. Sophie Poleski, N.Y., Thrust Alive Into Blazing Fire

MAN CONFESSES

George Symuk Beat Woman With Wine Bottle —Afraid of Poison

NEW YORK, Sept. 22 — (U. P.)— Beaten on the head with wine bottles, gagged and almost unconscious, Mrs. Sophie Poleski was dragged into the kiln room of a lumber yard and still alive, thrust into a blazing furnace here today.

George Symuk, special fireman and secret wooer of Mrs. Poleski, has confessed to the murder. He was captured by a policeman after a chase and a desperate hand to hand battle.

Policeman William Herrick pursued Symuk and fought him into submission.

"She was going to poison me," the fireman is alleged to have told the police.

After a recent quarrel Mrs. Poleski threatened to kill him, and last night when she brought him two bottles of wines he suspected that the bottles contained poison.

Symuk is a Roumanian, 44 years old, and attended two furnaces in one of which he is alleged to have placed the woman.

Herrick was strolling along his beat at 5 a.m. when he was startled by the screams of a woman. He walked toward the lumber yard and heard another scream.

Symuk and the woman disappeared as Herrick climbed over a high wall. The policeman searched vainly. Finally the fireman re-appeared.

MAN CAPTURED.

"What's going on?" asked Herrick.

"She's gone," said Symuk, and before another question could be asked ran toward the East River. Herrick sprinted after him and fired several shots from his revolver.

At the docks the policeman overtook his victim and a hand to hand fight ensued. Symuk almost bit off Herrick's finger during the struggle.

Other policemen came running at the sound of the shots. They took Symuk, dazed and snarling, back to the furnace room.

"There she is," he is alleged to have said, pointing to the furnace door.

The police found the body amid a mass of livid flames. Her features were still recognizable, but the lower half of her body was horribly burned.

Symuk is said to have confessed that he struck Mrs. Poleski on the side of the head with one of the bottles, and that when she screamed he lost his temper, struck her again and then pushed her into the furnace.

Mrs. Poleski lived with her husband, John, a waiter, and her son, Ladik. It was said that she and Symuk had been together frequently.

LONDON DISCUSSES BISHOP'S DILEMMA

LONDON, Sept. 22. — (B.U.P.) — The non-acceptance of Bishop Bidwell's resignation by the House of Bishops at Toronto yesterday is considered by his close friends here mainly as a "gesture."

It is believed he is determined that his resignation should stand. It is understood he has been offered a living at Wadham College at Oxford, but it is not known whether he has accepted or not.

REFUSE OPINION.

KINGSTON, Sept. 22. — (C.P.) — Members of the Synod executive will not state definitely what effect the refusal of the House of Bishops of the Church of England in Canada to accept the resignation of Rt. Rev. E. J. Bidwell, Bishop of Ontario, would have.

The executive is to meet on Oct. 6, when the matter will be taken under consideration.

It is understood here that the House of Bishops took the view that it would be quite in order for Bishop Bidwell to retain his post as head of this diocese, as they claim to have precedent in other bishops retaining office whose wives are Roman Catholics.

60 GRAIN BOATS ARE CHARTERED

To Carry Overseas Between End of September and October

RATES FIRM

C.G.M.M. Makes Slight Change in Schedule Affecting Three Steamers

After a period of comparative inactivity in grain movements through this port, official notification was received at noon today that sixty boats have been chartered to load grain in Montreal for European and Continental ports from the end of September to the end of October.

This indicates the annual Fall rush of grain from this port to overseas points and it will continue on a similar, and possibly larger, scale until the close of navigation.

Notwithstanding reports from New York today that grain freight rates show a tendency to soften, it was reported locally that the contrary is the case. Rates from this port continue firm and there is every likelihood, according to local reports, of them retaining the same tone, particularly as the heaviest crop movement is concentrated on the last two months of navigation.

LAKE AND RIVER LIGHTS

The Department of Railways and Canals has decided that the Canadian canal at Sault Ste. Marie will be kept open this year to lock through all vessels that leave the head of the lakes by midnight of December 14.

All vessel owners are requested to advise the Superintending Engineer of the Sault canal of the names of the vessels and the time of departure of their last vessels to leave the head of the lakes.

All Canadian lights and fog alarms on Lake Superior will be kept in operation this autumn until the close of navigation, with the exception of Caribou Island which will be closed on December 5; Otter Head, Davieaux Island, Quebec harbor and Michipicaten Island, east end, which will close on December 10; and Ile Parisienne which will close on December 12.

All Canadian lights and fog alarms on Lake Huron, Georgian Bay, Lake St. Clair, Lake Erie and Lake Ontario and connecting waters, will be maintained in operation until the close of navigation, excepting the Southeast shoal lightship, Lake Erie, which may be removed after December 1, and also Lonely Island light, Georgian Bay, which may be closed before the general close of navigation.

All Canadian lights on the St. Lawrence river will be maintained in operation until the close of navigation.

All gas buoys and other floating aids to navigation will be maintained in position as long as ice conditions will permit, except as elsewhere advertized and in cases where it is necessary to remove gas buoys before the close of navigation, the more important points will be marked by spars.

CHANGE SCHEDULE.

The Canadian Otter of the C.G.M.M. fleet has been taken off the West Indies and Demarara route for one voyage for repairs and overhauling, it was learned today. The Canadian Aviator will take her place on this route while the Canadian Settler will replace the Canadian Aviator on the Antwerp route for one voyage. The Settler will leave here tonight.

R.C.N.R. TRAINING.

Training for members of the Royal Canadian Naval Reserve will commence in Halifax on October 19 and continue throughout the winter, it was announced today by Capt. J. O. Grey, shipping master, and the registrar for the R.C.N.R. in Montreal.

There are about 500 members in Canada of which approximately sixty come from Montreal.

The training period covers fourteen days, but the men have the option of volunteering for further periods for which they are paid.

Men from Montreal will report to Capt. Grey for the purpose of filling in the usual forms and obtaining their transportation to Halifax.

GRAIN MOVEMENT.

Grain receipts for this season jumped over the 100 million bushels mark in the last 24 hours, the daily report showed today. Total receipts this year now amount to 100,263,813 bushels as against 89,662,591 at this date last year. Deliveries this year exceeded the 100 million bushels mark some days ago and now aggregate 102,238,286 bushels as compared to 84,828, 605 at this date last year.

Receipts yesterday amounted to 968,469 bushels of which 832,761 bushels were taken from ten grain boats.

Deliveries during the day totalled 400,916 bushels; there are orders on hand for 1,233,765 bushels while stock on hand amounts to 7,476,667 bushels.

There are twenty lake boats in the port waiting to unload, the total in lake bottoms amounting to 1,833,163 bushels.

The harbor level, which has gradually been increasing for the last few days, rose again today to 29 feet 7 inches, a gain of one inch since yesterday afternoon.

Hide-and-Seek Game Brings Instant Death To 13-Year-Old Boy

A game of hide-and-seek played outside his home, 21 Fulford street, last night, ended in instant death for Marcel Legault, aged 13, when he dashed in front of an automobile while racing across the roadway for the "base," a telegraph pole on the edge of the sidewalk.

Alfred Guay, of 35 Laporte street, driver of the auto, stopped his car within six feet and picked up the child, who had been run over by one of the front wheels.

Playmates of the deceased, including a small brother, told the Deputy Coroner of the fatal game. The automobile was only travelling five or six miles an hour at the time, they said, and on its proper side of the street. Greater speed was impossible as it had just threaded its way through a narrow passage in a barrage of red lamps, marking street excavations at the intersection of Workman street, only a few yards from where the boy was struck down.

Romeo Prevost, of Lewiston, Me., who was sitting beside the driver of the car, stated that he only saw the boy as he was struck by one of the mudguards. The driver himself did not see the child at all, and only knew he had struck somebody when his companion called out to him. The father of the victim, on the witness stand, expressed his conviction that his son's death had been a pure accident, and a verdict was entered accordingly.

PEONIES THRIVE ON CANADIAN SOIL

Amateur gardeners may have peonies in bloom for a month if the varieties are carefully selected, according to W. Ormiston Roy, landscape gardener, and advocate of the peonies. For this reason, Mr. Roy believes all Canadians, who have a plot of ground, be it ever so small, should plant this most satisfactory flower, which each year provides an abundance of gorgeous bloom. This flower can be grown anywhere in Canada.

When purchasing peony roots, at 642 St. Catherine street west, a set of instructions is issued, telling what kind of soil the plants thrive best in and also telling of the use of fertilizer.

Instructions are also given as to planting time and the best effect to be obtained from varieties, so that part of the plants may be in bloom throughout the summer. A hedge effect is suggested and minute orders are given so that anyone may follow the directions.

Instructions are also given as to the care of the plants when they are first placed in the soil.

EARLY CLOSING ISSUE DISCUSSED

No Decision Reached by Aldermanic Committee Today

The pro and con of early store closing were heard at length today at the city hall when a committee of aldermen received a delegation of store clerks and with them discussed the advisability of repealing existing closing restrictions and allowing stores to stay open as long as they wished.

At the outset the committee accepted the report of findings of the committee's secretary, Etienne Gauthier, on conditions existing in other provinces. This was given by boards of trade, merchants' associations, and individual dealers.

The local Chambre de Commerce sent a memorandum that it did not deem it advisable to intervene and had no statistics to offer. A canvass of opinions showed that local dealers and clerks wished the situation to remain as it is, or at least, wanted a reduction in the number of hours of business. In some instances writers would compromise and allow stores to stay open on two or three nights a week and close at six other nights.

In Prince Edward Island, there is no early closing, it was found. In New Brunswick the statutes provide that the cities and towns must enact early closing if asked for by ¾ of any line of trade.

Ontario has also Provincial statutes as New Brunswick and in addition the municipalities must enforce a weekly half-holiday if three-quarters of the business men ask it.

In Manitoba, most municipalities have an early closing by-law.

Several Quebec municipalities also submitted their early closing by-laws for the information of the committee.

J. B. Beaudoin, spokesmen for the clerks and who was founder of the Clerks' Syndicate, strongly urged against abrogating the early closing laws. To do so would be to enslave the clerks he stated.

Carbolic Acid Killed Him and Coroner Says Death Was Accidental

In perfect health when he left about ten minutes previously, Aime Loslier, aged 20, painter, of 1263 Dorion street, returned hurriedly to his mother's home a few minutes before 8 o'clock last evening, obviously ill, and gasped a call for his mother, and for milk. Relatives placed the stricken man on a couch, and summoned a doctor, who at once diagnosed the case as one of carbolic acid poisoning. Everything possible was done to aid the stricken man but he died within ten minutes.

This morning, the case was disposed of as one of "accidental death" by Deputy-Coroner Lorenzo Prince, who heard the story of the tragedy from relatives present at the time. The victim had been out of work for a couple of weeks and was living temporarily with his parents. He had never expressed any intention or desire to make away with himself, said his sisters and other relations, and they were equally sure no enemy could have forced him to swallow the poison.

Dr. Albert Remy, of 1065 Rachel street east, told of attending the sick man, who was already dying when he arrived.

That CORN!

Is it Coming Back?

If you merely cut the top OFF it certainly will. The business end is the root. You must get it OUT.

Cutting the top of a corn off with a razor or burning it off with caustic lotions, etc., doesn't do any good. It may do great harm by causing infection or even blood poisoning.

Also it hurts and the root just sprouts right up again, so your corn soon has a brand new top on it bigger and more painful than ever. The top is only dead skin anyway. Get at the little pointed part or core that extends down into the toe. That is what hurts when it presses on sensitive nerves, and it is the part you have to get out. A good handful of Reudel Bath Saltrates dissolved in a gallon or so of hot water will soften corns and calluses, like water softens soap. Just soak them in this for a while, then take hold of the corn with your fingers, and out it will come root and all. The refined Reudel Bath Saltrates costs very little, and any druggist will have it. A half-pound is sufficient to rid the whole family of all foot troubles.

Obtainable at most drug stores for 50c. or direct from the distributors, Macnamara Limited, New Birks Building, Montreal.
