World News In Brief

Johannesburg, Dec. 8.—(AP)—The South African government said yesterday it is working on a plan for the mobilization of men in the event of a third world war. The government previously announced that plans are being formulated to switch industries to war production should a world emergency arise. No details of the mobilization plans were revealed.

New Delhi, Dec. 8.—(AP)—India is giving top priority to building up her defences. Prime Minister Nehru told parliamentarians yesterday. He told parliament the immediate problem is to end the drift toward a new world war.

Birmingham, England, Dec. 8.—(AP)—A sit-down strike by 2,000 workers halted production today at a factory turning out engines for Britain's new 50-ton Centurion tank. The plant is operated by the Rover Motor Company, where the strikers are backing 200 machine-tool operators in their demand for a new pay system.

Montreal, Dec. 8.—(CP)—More than 800 persons attending an election rally in favor of Mayor Camille Houde last night evacuated the building in orderly fashion when fire broke out in the four-story structure. Mayor Houde was speaking when smoke drifted down from the floor below. Under directions of the mayor the crowd filed out of the building.

London, Dec. 8.—(Reuters)—During the first six months of 1950, 7,307 Britons emigrated to Canada, 25,620 to Australia, 5,468 to New Zealand and 4,917 to South Africa. Patrick Gordon-Walker, Commonwealth relations secretary, gave the figures in a parliamentary reply yesterday.

London, Dec. 8.—(Reuters)—Britain's stocks of strategic raw materials are being moved away from dock areas, Trade Minister Harold Wilson told the House of Commons yesterday. A Conservative member had suggested this should be done because the docks were vulnerable and because of the possibility of sabotage.

Montreal, Dec. 8.—(CP)—Isaac Brown, 82, last night was found dead in his 81-year-old wife died a few minutes after their son forced his way into their north-end home. The son, Stanley, said he found two gas jets open.

Mount Etna Still Menaces Village

Catania, Sicily, Dec. 8.—(AP)—A deafening whistle shrieked from the depths of seething Mount Etna early today as a column of trucks bore the last frightened residents from tiny Milo village, menaced by the oncoming lava tide.

Volcano experts said the piercing whistle apparently came from a lava-blocked crater, as pent-up gases forced their way into the open.

Sidelights On Conflict In Korea

With the Canadian Destroyers off the West Coast of Korea, Dec. 8.—(AP)—The first Christmas mail has reached Canada's three destroyers now patrolling along the west coast of Korea.

The letters and parcels, many of them bearing cheering Christmas seals, were delivered to the Cayuga, Athabaska and Sioux at sea by an Australian destroyer acting as courier ship. It brought an outburst of high good humor in the messdecks, proving that nothing raises higher with a sailor than mail from home. The Australian destroyer also brought more than two tons of supplies for the Canadian ships, mostly meat, potatoes and other vegetables. These were transferred at sea.

Canberra, Dec. 8.—(AP)—Prime Minister Robert G. Menzies said today that latest reports of the campaign in Korea are more encouraging. "While the difficulties are real, there is no reason for defeatism of any kind," Menzies told the House of Representatives. Australia's aim would be to try to isolate the Korean campaign and make it clear to the Peiping regime that the United Nations does not want to harm Chinese lives or property. Rather, he said, they are engaged in a military operation in which the Chinese could become involved only by their own choice.

Washington, Dec. 8.—(AP)—Announced United States casualties in Korea have risen to 32,442, an increase of 1,414 in a week. The total is based upon the number of casualties reported to next-of-kin through Dec. 1, and does not represent all losses up to that time.

Tokyo, Dec. 8.—(AP)—Some British Tommies say the bugles and whistles used by Chinese communists to signal troop movements are more unnerving than the roar of artillery. A British public relations statement said 41st Royal Marine Independent commandos were nearly driven mad by the bugles and whistles in their first contact with the Chinese south of Haeju.

Sot. W. D. James of Portsmouth, England, said: "I fought against the Jerries during the last war, but those damned Chinese with their whistles and bugles were the worst experience I've ever had."

With U.S. Eighth Army, Korea, Dec. 8.—(AP)—A communist force of up to 40,000 well-armed men—mostly reorganized North Korean troops—is operating behind the Eighth Army line today. It is increasingly harassing the United Nations retreat south. For the last three months the Reds have slipped out of the hills and valleys with hit-and-run raids on villages and supply lines. The Eighth Army has been fighting a war within a war to control the menace.

The so-called guerrillas for the only only a short time before the attack against Bataan.

During a party on Bataan, an officer stuffed Esther under his shirt. Things went well until he was walking over the brow—down the gangplank. The photo fell out. The Aussie rallied their ranks and charged. Sioux's quarterback retrieved the photo and lateralled to another officer just before he was pounced on. The second man tore down the jetty He was tackled from behind but managed another lateral to a third man, who made Sioux with a nice sprint.

Probably the most dashing episode in Esther's history was the attack made by two officers of the U.S. destroyer Orleck on the Bataan in July, 1948. They paddled to Bataan's anchor chain in a punt, sniped up, walked by the watch, snatched the photo and departed the same way. Bataan has held the trophy five times.

The original photo was presented to an officer in the Bataan in 1942. At the end of the war, the Bataan put it in circulation for ships working in occupied Japan. The trophy cannot be taken out of this theatre. If a ship moves to another theatre or home, she must give up the trophy. The photo must be displayed in a prominent place in the wardroom so invading officers can get at it. There have been relatively few gory battles. "Exceedingly low cunning and vile stealth" are apparently preferred to "brute force."

Marines And Infantrymen, Fighting In Snowstorm, Cover Five Of 45 Miles To Escape Port.

Tokyo, Dec. 8.—(AP)—Twenty thousand trapped United States Marines and infantrymen crunched desperately down a steep, snow-covered canyon trail in northeast Korea today under blazing communist Chinese attack.

The going was slow and tough. Thousands of Chinese mounted on dominating ridges along both sides of the twisting road swept them with gunfire. A swirling snowstorm deprived the Americans of air support.

Forward elements of this bloody retreat from icy Changjin reservoir had covered five of the 45 miles from Koto to the escape port of Hungnam on the east coast. A relief column of the U.S. 3rd division was driving north in an effort to clear the road between the mountains and Hungnam and link up with the struggling survivors from Changjin.

This critical situation was rendered even more desperate by a Chinese attack on the Koto airstrip, the trapped troops' only link with the outside.

Hundreds of critically wounded men have been flown out and supplies flown in by way of the bumpy airstrip. U.S. 10th Corps headquarters reported the assault on it, but had no details. Far to the southwest of this bitter action, the U.S. Eighth Army consolidated positions on its newly-formed west Korean defence line.

SITUATION IMPROVED
Washington, Dec. 8.—(AP)—Gen. J. Lawton Collins, United States army chief of staff, said in his return from Korea today that "our forces there will be able to take care of themselves without further serious losses."

Collins told reporters he based his belief upon a personal inspection of the war front and conferences with Gen. MacArthur and his principal field commanders. Collins left hurriedly a week ago for the Far East immediately after the sudden reversal of allied fortunes.

At the airport where he completed the trip today, Collins said he could not disclose publicly the details of his findings or his conversations in Korea, but that he would report fully and immediately to the joint chiefs of staff.

Only patrol contact was reported with the forward units of an estimated 1,000,000 Chinese Reds committed to the intervention in Korea. The break-out attempt by the Marines and infantry came after they had smashed through one trap in a battling, eight-mile drive to Koto from Changjin reservoir Thursday.

At Koto, the weary 5th and 7th regiments of the U.S. Marine 1st division and the U.S. 7th division's 31st and 32nd regiments joined other elements of both divisions.

With them were about 50 British commandos who were rescued from the reservoir area Wednesday after being spotted by Marine planes. The push from Koto began early Friday, with elements of the Marines' 5th regiment fighting a rearguard action north of Koto. A tank-led convoy rumbled southward from the town. U.S. Eighth Army headquarters reported that forward elements of the convoy were nearing Pohjuang, about six miles south of Koto. The road ahead drops 1,800 feet in a few miles. High ridges providing excellent Chinese ambush positions make the road a death trap for some.

Elements of the U.S. 3rd division moving north to meet the forces from Koto were stalled by fierce Chinese resistance south of Majon. Majon is eight miles south of Pohjuang.

Even if they run this gauntlet, the Americans are threatened with envelopment of other Chinese forces gathering north of Hamhung for a drive on the escape port.

Gen. MacArthur's war summary estimated 5,000 Chinese occupying the town of Sinhung, 10 miles north of Hamhung and east of the Koto-Hamhung road. Another 1,000 were spotted digging nearby.

Also reported in that general area was a Red convoy of 100 motor vehicles and about 900 cavalrymen.

Farther to the northeast, the South Korean 3rd division was retreating south from Kichu. The war summary reported the Republican force ambushed and killed 200 Reds during the retreat Thursday.

There was no report up to Friday noon on the withdrawal by the South Korean Capital division, which had gone within 40 miles of Russia's Siberian border.

The Capital division was somewhere north of Chongjin, northern-most large port on the Korean east coast. The South Koreans could escape through that port.

In northwest Korea, a Netherlands battalion moved into the allied line and a Thai (Siamese)

Vishinsky Doesn't Like It

Warren Austin (left) of the U. S. and J. E. Coulson, of Britain, who's congratulating Austin, seem pretty happy about the U. S. delegate's speech to the UN General Assembly urging immediate action against Red China's intervention in Korea. But Russia's Andrei Vishinsky, who voiced vehement objections, seems glum about the outcome, in which the powerful UN planning group approved the action 10 - 2.

Truman And Attlee End Talks Today; Agree On Europe, Differ On Korea

Holiday Gives Ruest Trial Jurors Rest

Quebec, Dec. 8.—(AP)—The Roman Catholic feast of the Immaculate Conception today provided 12 jurors with a respite after hearing 10 days' evidence from 70 witnesses in the murder trial of Genereux Ruest.

The holiday interrupted the trial arising from an airline crash in September, 1949, and one of the French-speaking jury's outings from the guarded apartment where they live on the top floor of Quebec courthouse included a visit to church for Mass.

The Crown's 70th witness, a fair-haired girl of 21, appeared in Quebec criminal assizes courtroom late yesterday afternoon. She was Marguerite Lachance, who kept company with one of Ruest's brothers and house-cleared for the 54-year-old crippled watchmaker at his apartment-workshop in August and September, 1949.

The girl told of talks behind a closed bedroom door between the watchmaker and J. Albert Guay, jewelry salesman due to be hanged Jan. 12th as the convicted mastermind of a time bomb plot that brought death to his wife and 22 others in the plane crash Sept. 9th, 1949.

Another who talked in the bedroom with Ruest was his sister, Mrs. Arthur Pitre, who was arraigned yesterday on a charge of perjury at Ruest's trial. Mrs. Pitre also faces trial next January on a charge of intimidating the Lachance girl when she brought death to Ruest's preliminary hearing last June.

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
 Washington, Dec. 8.—(AP)—President Truman and Prime Minister Attlee are slated to end their historic Korean crisis talks today with wide agreement on European defence measures but less success in welding a common front of Far Eastern policy.

The two are understood to have decided that the precise next steps to be taken on Korea and communist China, aside from pending moves in the United Nations, must await evidence (a) as to whether U. N. forces can hold on there and (b) whether there is any chance of negotiating an acceptable settlement with the Chinese communists.

Britain is understood to have opposed various American suggestions for possible new measures against the Chinese communists, if the military situation concerning an evacuation plan. But there is no certainty yet that Seoul will be abandoned—or defended. There is no panic or disorder among Americans or Koreans. But there is mounting unease, as U. N. forces continue withdrawing along the North Korean front, closer daily to Seoul.

The American ideas for action, which might be taken through the U. N., were reported to include a blockade on the China coast.

The President and Prime Minister discussed their different approaches to the Korean crisis at length in yesterday's meeting. They hoped to conclude their talks in one session today. A summary communiqué was promised. Attlee tentatively planned to fly to New York this afternoon for an overnight stop with Britain's U. N. delegation, then to go on to Ottawa for talks with Canadian officials. If this schedule holds, he may leave Ottawa for London Sunday.

Residents Of Seoul Fear Evacuation

By TOM LAMBERT
 Seoul, Dec. 8.—(AP)—The first vapors of fear—fear of returning communists—are creeping through this South Korean capital, ruled by the communists from June 28th until it was retaken by United Nations forces Sept. 20th.

Anxiety broods over the dim-lit city by night and rustles through the battered buildings and along the dusty streets by day.

The United States army and State Department are known to be considering an evacuation plan. But there is no certainty yet that Seoul will be abandoned—or defended. There is no panic or disorder among Americans or Koreans. But there is mounting unease, as U. N. forces continue withdrawing along the North Korean front, closer daily to Seoul.

United Nations Members Hesitant On Korean Action

By STANLEY JOHNSON
 Lake Success, N.Y., Dec. 8.—(AP)—The American drive to rush United Nations condemnation of communist China ran into a slow-down today.

The 60-member political committee scheduled a meeting to debate the issue, but no country signed up to speak. A United States spokesman said, however, he still expected a vote by tomorrow morning.

A sampling of opinion here showed that the reluctance to go ahead is largely owing to two factors:

The British—and several other delegations—do not want to say anything until they know results of the conferences between President Truman and Prime Minister Attlee.

The 13 Asian countries, led by India, which appealed to the Chinese communist to stop at the 38th parallel for negotiations want to wait for an answer.

The Russians contend that there is no Chinese intervention in Korea and that the whole problem should be thrown off the agenda.

The United States, however, is determined that the U. N. denounce the new communist aggression in order to give its moral sanction to whatever new military steps may have to be taken.

E.T. Soldier Helped Keep PPCLI Trim

By BILL BOSS
 Canadian Press Staff Writer
 Canadian Sea With 2nd Battalion, P.P.C.L.I., Dec. 8.—(AP)—Regimental pride must be lived with to be appreciated.

Perhaps the best place for seeing it in action is in a tub full of seasickness. That, until two days before touching at Hawaii, was the Pvt. Joe P. Martinez, transporting the 2nd battalion, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, to Korea.

Living aboard the Pvt. Joe was a tight fit. With half those aboard seasick during gale winds early in the voyage, it also was uncomfortable. But ever since Seattle, Wash., where they embarked Nov. 25, "Hawaii" had meant for the men a route march. Lt.-Col. J. R. Stone of Salmon Arm, B.C., and Edmonton, their commanding officer, had said that if possible they would stretch their legs ashore in a march, and incidentally become the first Canadian battalion to parade in Hawaii.

The Pacific paradise remained something of a dream during the gale weather, but as the seas calmed and the air was balmy thoughts turned to that route march—and kit.

There was no room below decks for washing, ironing or pressing. But the men got operating by night, in relays. Those who had flat-irons in their packs brought them out and plugged them into sockets in the recreation room, which was busy with training and motion pictures by day but free for about eight hours by night.

A man would press his uniform, go back to his bunk and awaken the man next to him.

Then there was the linen problem. The Pvt. Joe has a small laundry with two washing machines. Each man was allowed to wash a shirt, underwear and a pair of socks. Lines were rigged up above the hatch covers for overnight drying.

In the company commanded by Maj. John Firth of Paris, Ont., ruled by the Csm. Harold Larson of Calgary, Cpl. Ken Campbell of Vancouver, L./Cpl. Donald Markell of Brockville, Ont., Ptes. V. C. Cooper of Regina, Anthony O. Thomlinson of Moose Jaw, Sask., and Rodney A. Howick of Coaticook, Que.

Meanwhile the one latrine in the officers' quarters became increasingly difficult of access for normal purposes. Batmen improvised ironing boards out of blanket-covered barrack boxes, hinged washing out to the plumbing for drying and set to with their flatirons.

They used toilet-seat space awaiting their turns to use their irons, and Pte. Willis di Sabato, 22-year-old belman from Trail, B.C., wound up the show at 3:45 a.m. Dec. 1 in the morning before Pvt. Joe nosed into Hawaii.

Other night workers were Pte. Jim Selman of Calgary, who rose to the deck, bare-chested in the balmy Pacific air, to gulp in the ozone and then duck back down to his iron, and L./Cpl. Harry Repay of Birch River, Ont.

Sgt. Bill Olson of Vancouver, army public relations photographer attached to the battalion, was so busy taking pictures of the boys doing their pressing that he didn't remember that his own had to be done.

"Holy smokes," he said to Pte.

New Retail Sales Tax May Cover Cost Of Pensions

By GEORGE KITCHEN
 Canadian Press Staff Writer
 Ottawa, Dec. 8.—(AP)—Canadians may soon get an improved old-age pension program, but they'll pay for it both through direct contribution and indirect provincial sales tax.

That is the probable result—of decisions carried through—of decisions taken yesterday by the federal-provincial fiscal conference after four days of study of old-age pensions and related financial problems.

Prime Minister St. Laurent, as chairman of the conference, announced that the provinces had agreed:

1. To give "early consideration" to a constitutional amendment allowing the federal government to inaugurate a contributory system of $40-a-month pensions for Canadians of 70 and over without a means test.
2. To give similar consideration to an amendment allowing the provinces to impose an indirect retail sales tax.
3. To establish a committee to consider legislation necessary for pensions of $40 a month—but with a means test—for needy persons of 65 to 69, with the federal and provincial governments sharing the cost on a 50-50 basis.
4. To consider federal proposals for new taxation agreements and indicate their positions later.
5. To suspend deliberations on methods of constitutional amendment until after the tax agreements and related matters have been worked out.

While Mr. St. Laurent did not so indicate in his prepared state-

After dinner, the Cratchit family drew 'round their hearth, while Bob prepared the Christmas punch.

When the punch was served, Bob proposed a toast. "A merry Christmas to us all, my dears. God bless us! Which all the family re-chood."

Dear Boss:
I sleuthounded it after Edmond O'Brien all over the bright neon glitter of Las Vegas, Nev., to find out how a hard-as-hickory movie lad acts when the cameras aren't whirring, and I've got a negative report to submit.
The guy's as soft as a marshmallow on the end of a campfire stick.
My notes don't show a single "Get lost, bub," spoken in the terse, tight-lipped screen style with tags like "So Long, My Gorgeous" and "Murder, My Asthma."
Unintended exponents of the raw beefsteak school of movie toughness like Humphrey Bogart, Lawrence Tierney and Howard Duff, I pointed out to O'Brien, are reported to be pretty obliging about giving out with a sneer and a snarl after working hours.
O'Brien looked blank.
"I'm not hard-boiled except at the studio," he sighed. "My wife would hit me over the head if I tried it."
Maybe Humphrey, Lawrence and Howard couldn't have done any better under the circumstances, though.
Authentic Background
O'Brien was carrying a tape recording machine to get some authentic Las Vegas gambling room sounds for his radio show, "Yours Truly, Johnny Dollar."
Three CBS press agents, a producer, writer, soundman and photographer were following him.
The star stopped at a dice table and held a small microphone to the clatter of the bones and the scrape of the stick over green felt. "Getting anything," Eddie? asked Producer Jaime Del Valle. "I think so," said O'Brien. "You couldn't get sounds like this in Hollywood."
Would the Johnny Dollar people, the proprietor wanted to know, like a stickman with a deener voice?
"Better get a blonde, too, Abe," the lens artist said.
A dish who looked like Betty Grable appeared and posed with O'Brien while the photographer worked.
"Is the lady getting her sex appeal registered on that machine?" a bystander queried.

"Brother," muttered a press agent "she doesn't need a machine."
O'Brien moved on to the roulette table and held the sound-catcher over the whirling wheel. Another blonde was summoned and the flash bulbs popped again.
"You understand, this is strictly for publicity pictures," O'Brien explained. "Harry Essman, our sound man, and Jaime here have been working all day on these sounds."
The blonde told O'Brien that she knew his wife, Olga San Juan.
"I worked with her in the line at the Copacabana Club in New York," she said.
"Wonderful," grinned O'Brien. "I'm always running into girls who worked with Olga at the Copa."
"Wonderful sounds," muttered one of the press agents. "Wonderful blonde, too."
O'Brien moved the sound equipment to a dollar slot machine.
"Are you going to hold that machine until a jackpot hits?" asked someone.
"I doubt it," quipped Eddie. "I've got to be back in Hollywood by next year, at least."
Dollar Is Favorite
O'Brien said that the Johnny Dollar show is popular with a lot of Hollywood stars and producers.

"Johnny's an insurance investigator, but we make him human. He makes mistakes. He's not always brilliant and infallible. Take George Jessel. He's nuts about the show. He even calls himself George Half-Buck."
"Is this going to make a sensational broadcast?" exclaimed a press agent. "Not just a bunch of radio actors pretending to be gambling and going mumble-mumble-mumble. Real people."
A Las Vegas deputy sheriff was introduced to O'Brien.
"Understand you Hollywood guys want to record the sound of a rifle being fired through a culvert," the sheriff exploded. "Man alive, you've got the best sound effects equipment in the world in Hollywood. What's the big idea?"
It was one of the press agents, not O'Brien, who ground it out with his teeth.
"Get lost, bub."
Parke Levy, who writes "My Friend Irma," writes:
"I am a little weary of seeing singers without heads and tap dancers without feet on television. It is my firm conviction that if some of the TV cameramen were in charge of our artillery, we would have been pushed out of Korea four months ago."

he added. "And why should I subsidize my benefice with a pension?"
London. — Persons using a telephone booth near a North London radio station were startled by radio music when they put their pennies in the slot. An official explained that coins suspended in a certain way produce a current capable of picking up radio waves.

Prince Makes Home On Prairie Ranch

Kisbey, Sask. — A ranch nesting in wooded hills in southeastern Saskatchewan is taking the place of a castle for Poland's Prince Peter Czartoyksi and his wife Countess Ann Mary Joanna Zamoyksi.
The Prince brought his wife and three children to Canada in 1949.

The Polish aristocrats said they thought about leaving Poland when Hitler moved in.
On the cattle ranch, the Prince is an ordinary cowboy. The fair-haired countess, slim, vivacious and 30 years old, shares the housework in the nine-room ranchhouse with her sister, Countess Sophia.
They have 200 head of hereford cattle on the 8,300-acre ranch. The Prince prior to the war managed the farms and forestry reserves of his family's estate.

Anglicans "Stingy" Rector Gets Tough
Ely, England.—The average Anglican churchgoer is not dropping enough into the collection plate to suit Rev. Arthur Beale, rector of Coveney, Cambridgeshire.
He told the Ely diocesan conference: "the whole standard of giving in the Church of England is disgusting. The attitude of the average member seems to be one of stingy meanness beyond relief."
A half a crown (37 cents) dropped into the plate, he said, was usually regarded as a good amount. But it only bought a seat for a movie or 20 cigarettes.
Mr. Beale, whose net annual income is around $1,200, said it was time the laity was told that if the Christian religion was worth having, it was worth paying for.
"If the Germans had not poked my eye out at Dunkerque, I could not live on my present income,"

Advice Given For Obtaining High Level Of Winter Egg Production

(Editor's Note: This article from the Experimental Station at Lennoxville was written by L. A. Gnaedinger, poultryman at the station).

To obtain a high level of winter egg production from even the finest flock of pullets, the conditions under which they live must be of a high standard. These conditions fall into three groupings: Environment, Feeds and Feeding, Management. Like the legs of a stool, all three are important.

Environment refers to the housing and general conditions under which the birds live. These must be such as to keep the birds in health and comfort. The hen-house must be well-built and insulated to retain warmth. A good ventilation system will replace the moisture-laden air by fresh air from

Two Killed In Accident Near South Stukely

A woman and her five-week-old baby were killed and two other persons were injured when a car in which they were riding collided with a truck on the highway near South Stukely last evening.

Those fatally injured were: Mrs. Anatole Leclerc, 29, of Magog, and her son, Rene.

The driver of the car, Benoit Castonguay, 25, of Magog, and Mr. Leclerc, 31, were taken to Granby hospital where their condition was reported as good this morning. Both are suffering from lacerations and bruises.

The car collided with a truck, driven by Lewis McAuley, 23, of Magog. The rear part of the car, where the two victims were sitting, was the most heavily damaged. The driver of the truck escaped without injuries.

It is believed that the accident occurred as the result of the icy conditions of the road.

Provincial Police Officer Honorius Boudry investigated the accident which occurred about a mile from South Stukely.

Has Sore Hand After Signing 1,200 Bonds

Antonin Deslauriers, Sherbrooke City Clerk for the past quarter of a century, feels that he had reason for complaining of a sore right hand. He did not meet with any accident nor has he been called upon to shake hands with too many visitors — the customary reasons given for such a condition.

Rather he has been signing his name—to one thousand dollar and five-hundred dollar bonds. In all he has affixed his signature to some 1,200 such documents during the past three days, representing total bond issues in excess of one million dollars issued under recent by-laws.

By the middle of next week, Senator Charles B. Howard, the municipal chief magistrate, may suffer from a similar complaint for he has to countersign each bond.

Fortunately the law permits the signature to be engraved on the interest coupons. Otherwise the task would be a real worry.

Lights On Sherbrooke Cross Will Go On Tonight, Others On Christmas Eve

At five o'clock this evening, unless there is some unforeseen postponement, the lights on Sherbrooke's 110-foot cross, said to be the highest in North America, will be turned on.

Constructed to commemorate the Holy Year, the giant cross atop Mount Bellevue in the west ward, will be visible for 25 miles.

The cross was built through the efforts of a committee headed by Paul Leclerc. It cost approximately $10,000, almost all of which has been raised by public subscription.

Sherbrooke's cross stands 70 feet above a 40 foot base, making its total height 110 feet more than that of the cross on Mount Royal in Montreal.

Canadian Press Staff Writer
Montreal, Dec. 8.—(AP)—As this Holy Year draws to a close Christmas Eve, thousands of huge crosses will be lighted for the first time throughout Quebec and other parts of eastern Canada to commemorate the year and as a reminder of the futility of blasphemy.

Ranging in height from three-quarters of an inch to nearly 100 feet and made of steel, wood or plastic, the crosses are painted a bright red to represent the blood shed by Christ on Calvary.

During the last six months, lamp and six-inch models were sold by the thousands in Quebec province while bigger crosses were erected in most parishes. The tall ones, usually of metal, will be illuminated for the first time following midnight mass on Christmas Eve.

Erection of the crosses in Quebec, requested by the Pope after he inaugurated the Holy Year, was launched June 5 by Msgr. Paul Emile Leger, Roman Catholic Archbishop of Montreal, during a ceremony atop Mount Royal at the foot of Montreal's famed lighted cross. At that time Msgr. Leger blessed 75 crosses of various sizes and later they were placed in prominent spots throughout the city. The campaign was directed by

Stanstead Teachers Form Discussion Groups To Air Educational Problems

Ayer's Cliff, Dec. 8.—Stanstead County Teachers' Association met Thursday afternoon and evening at the Ayer's Cliff High School. The group made significant progress along several lines in its attempt to promote the educational welfare of the 1,500 children in the schools under the Association. To meet at five p.m. and have supper together was an innovation for the Association but, with the assistance of the Ayer's Cliff students' council, it proved very successful. By six p.m. the long and fruitful business meeting had convened under the president, Lee Heath. In co-operation with the Provincial Association in its salary scale campaign, the teachers heard letters received by the secretary, Verna Gilbert, concerning the action taken by neighboring local associations. Then the group provided for the formation of an executive committee with representatives from each school to carry on the plans for co-operation with other locals on salary matters.

The policy of not signing contracts until after March 31, promoted by the teachers and the Department of Education last year, was firmly endorsed by the group for the coming year.

Of great potential significance was the establishment of discussion groups. As a response to numerous requests by the teachers, Dr. K. R. Willis, central board supervisor, proposed setting aside of an hour at meetings for group study of various aspects of education in the county. Five different groups were organized.

Conveners of groups on elementary methods, intermediate methods, High School methods, professional problems and public relations will be, respectively: Mrs. Mildred Wheeler, of Ayer's Cliff; Mrs. E. Davis, of Coaticook; Frank Stanton, of Stanstead; Gordon Samson, of North Hatley and Mrs. Frances Smith, of Beebe.

Further items of business concerned the raising of the membership fee to cover expenses of the delegates coming to the meetings, the setting up of a question box for miscellaneous problems and the co-operation with the Women's Institute to alter arrangements for the Stanstead County Schools there.

The teachers reconvened at eight p.m. in the Assembly Hall to join with numerous parents and pupils who had come to enjoy the annual public speaking contest.

Autopsies Show Babies' Deaths Were Natural

Results of autopsies performed on two babies who died in the Eastern Townships early this week revealed that their deaths were due to natural causes, Dr. Louis Gagnon, district coroner, announced today.

The autopsies were formed in Montreal by Dr. Jean Marie Rousset, provincial medico-legal expert and followed investigation into the deaths by Provincial Police.

Death of a six-day-old child at Stanstead was attributed to pneumonia, while the infant found dead at Lennoxville was still-born.

Electrical "Hands" make work light

Electricity is the handiest worker! It does everything better, more cleanly, more quickly.

An automatic toaster, for instance, gives you toast just the way each member of the family likes it... and does it while you are busy with something else.

And an automatic iron, thermostatically controlled, makes ironing a pleasure.

The more electrical "hands" you have to do your work, the more hours of leisure for you.

If you have a birthday or anniversary coming, why not tactfully suggest something from this list:

- AUTOMATIC TOASTERS from $45.00
- REGULAR-TYPE TOASTER from $4.50
- AUTOMATIC IRONS from $11.00
- REGULAR-TYPE IRONS from $6.50

A BETTER TONE APPARENT

Those who expected that the Dominion-Provincial Conference which has just been adjourned would produce miracles in the way of agreement on the financial problems facing the various governments undoubtedly will be disappointed at the apparent lack of progress resulting from these talks.

Unlike too many of its predecessors, the talks adjourned yesterday with the various interests still ready to continue future discussions. Throughout the public discussions at any rate there was a markedly better feeling than has been apparent in the past.

The alternative—a separate German army under a German General Staff—admittedly would be dangerous. But the answer is that a separate German army under a German General Staff is being created anyway—created by Russia in East Germany.

Insufar as the scheme of contributory old age pensions are concerned, both the Dominion and the provinces appear to appreciate the need of operating this on a national basis if it is to be administered efficiently and fairly for all the people of Canada.

Canadian agriculture faces a major problem today in adjustment to changing market conditions says the current issue of The Canadian Bank of Commerce Monthly Commercial Letter.

CANADIAN AGRICULTURAL PROBLEMS

Insufar as the scheme of contributory old age pensions are concerned, both the Dominion and the provinces appear to appreciate the need of operating this on a national basis if it is to be administered efficiently and fairly for all the people of Canada.

In the process of adjustment certain alternative courses of action were open to the farming segment of Canada's economy. One of these, reduced production, requires time to become effective, but has been achieved this year to some extent by reducing certain acreages.

The expansion of other markets was a second alternative. But for this to be effective, prices of Canadian agricultural products must be kept at competitive levels.

The clamping down of a silly and unnecessary censorship was a bit of officiousness quite out of keeping with the dignity and reputed intelligence of Canadian officers.

first eight months of 1950 agricultural exports to the United States were about $56 million above those for the same period last year. A decline in exports to the United Kingdom and other countries, however, resulted in a drop in total exports of agricultural produce of $57 million.

Domestic consumption has absorbed increased supplies of certain commodities, but per capita use of others, such as eggs, cheese and meat, has declined from levels reached during the war due to high prices at the consumer level.

Government aid has been extended to agriculture through a price-support program and through measures to facilitate the marketing of Canadian farm produce.

Press Comment

SCREENING TEACHERS

The Board of Education in Toronto has decided to screen applicants for teaching jobs for communist sympathies. Apparently the idea is a sort of school-board loyalty test.

The problems of communists in education, just as the problems of communists in any other segment of community activities, are thorny ones. Few parents would readily agree to have their children's mental guidance handed over to a confirmed Marxist or even a fellow traveller.

But, as the Winnipeg Tribune says with much logic, the Toronto approach to the matter is all wrong. The Toronto Board of Education at present has two Communist members.

Toronto voters can do that housecleaning job at the forthcoming civic election.

WISHFUL THINKING ABOUT GERMANIS

Apparently the Western powers are going ahead with the plan of incorporating German units in an army of Europe.

Perhaps the plan will work. For very many, however, the notion that German regiments may be merged into a European army, placed under the command of Frenchmen and Englishmen and be expected to fight with heart, for Frenchmen and Englishmen, their old enemies, must seem the height of wishful thinking.

The alternative—a separate German army under a German General Staff—admittedly would be dangerous. But the answer is that a separate German army under a German General Staff is being created anyway—created by Russia in East Germany.

ONE WAY TO KILL A DEER

The newspapers have told the story of a deer in this area which became entangled in a wire fence, and which was killed with a jack-knife by the men who found it.

Big-game hunting, we are often told, is one of the finest sports in the world, but sportsmanship demands, in the case of deer—which are no more dangerous than cows—that the animal have a chance to save its life by its speed, its agility, its cleverness.

To slaughter a deer in circumstances which deny it that small chance of survival is offensive to the spirit of sportsmanship if not to the letter of the law.

STRONG DEFENSE ACTION IS URGED

In the face of gathering dangers the Canadian Government remains calm. The war clouds are lowering, but the government, holding its telescope steadily to its blind eye, refuses to see them. It still pins its faith to voluntary service.

The Canadian Legion, which, at its recent convention, emphasized the need of "total preparedness," presented a brief to the government urging that compulsory military training be introduced in the reserve units of the three services, which are at present far under strength.

These are the reasons advanced for turning thumbs down on the Legion plan, but, according to Ottawa dispatches, there is another reason. The Cabinet is afraid there is a lot of political dynamite in the question of compulsory service.

It has not, apparently, been reading the results of the polls taken by the Canadian Institute of Public Opinion. These show that there has been over six years in Canada, a steady demand for compulsory military training.

There is no question that it will require sacrifices, but these sacrifices will be in the interests of national safety. The Canadian people will have to make them. Even the Canadian politicians may have to make them.

ARMY CENSORS

Army officers in charge of the hospital train bringing injured persons from the wreck on the C.N.R. main line to Edmonton grossly exceeded their authority interfering with the efforts of reporters and cameramen to secure news of the catastrophe.

What these officers appear to forget is that the Army and all its personnel are the property of the people of Canada.

The people of Canada pay them. The people of Canada cherish them. And when some of them died in this disastrous wreck, the people of Canada suffered with them.

The people of Canada, then, were entitled to details presented to them in the most graphic and informative manner.

The clamping down of a silly and unnecessary censorship was a bit of officiousness quite out of keeping with the dignity and reputed intelligence of Canadian officers.

OUR HILLS AND VALES

With Mother Earth resting under her thin white blanket, the lifeless trees, some of them as old as memory, and over all the frozen hush of winter, the peaceful twilight with its saffron glow, tell us that we have reached what Longfellow terms "the outpost of winter."

Ours is not a mountainous country, but the hills and vales add to the picturesque landscapes. Mount Orford, highest point in the townships holds its head high above sea level—2,860 feet, with Owl's Head a close second—2,404 feet, and Spring Hill is 1,630 feet, on the C.P.R. line, being the highest point between Sherbrooke and Quebec.

Other high points are Scottstown 1,185 feet, Hereford 1,085, Bury 1,065, Coaticook 1,006, Heights under one thousand feet are: Bulwer 920, Sawyerville 684, Waterloo 677, Dudswell Junction 697, Cookshire 684, East Angus 674 with a steep grade between it and Marbleton 684, making a climb of ten feet in 12 miles. All this is a wide variety of heights, which is exists in all parts of the townships covered by railway lines and highways.

According to a professor of geology at Harvard, one must travel 30 to 60 miles poleward to find a difference of one degree in mean temperature. The same is found in ascent of 300 feet. This makes four degrees between Sherbrooke and Spring Hill. There is time to turn up our collars, put on our mitts en route and of course reverse.

GEORGE IS CARELESS—JUST LIKE A FOX

When a kibitzer watches Generous George, he usually comes away from the table muttering to himself about careless play. "Why, he can't even count trumps!" one spectator recently complained. This complaint intrigued me, so I got the hand from George.

The bidding was enterprising enough, especially the final jump to four spades. This jump was made by George, who held the South cards. It happened that his partner was a very conservative bidder, and George expected to find a much stronger dummy than was actually put down.

West opened the eight of hearts. East put up the ten, and George won with the ace. He returned a low diamond, playing the king from dummy, and East took the ace. East then led two more rounds of hearts, and George was much relieved to find that he could ruff the second of these safely with a low trump.

Since it was now time to tackle the trumps, George entered dummy with a club and successfully finessed the jack of trumps. He then laid down the ace of trumps, dropping East's king. This left West with the lone ten of spades, which could have been picked up by dummy's queen.

Much to his kibitzer's disgust, George didn't draw that last trump. Instead, he cashed the queen of diamonds, ruffed a diamond with dummy's low trump, cashed the ace of clubs, and ruffed a club with his own remaining trump. He then ruffed another diamond with the queen of spades and gave up the last trick to West's ten of spades.

The Record Short Story

Star's Husband

By HOLLIS STARNES

"You found him for me, and I married him. Now he's left me, and—"

"I'm s'posed to get the man back for ye?" A grin spread over Katie Kilfeather's broad open features. Fortunately Devon Lee, weeping on the other end of the long distance phone, couldn't see it.

She hung up the phone in her linen-closet quarters, reached in the broom closet for feather duster, dry-mop and sweeper, and trotted down the dingy San Pedro hall.

There was only one vacant room on her floor. As she put the small, dark, bare cubbyhole in order for Wade's arrival, she asked herself guiltily, "Did I do a bad turn when I made that match?"

Her mind flashed back to the day the young pair first met in her linen room. Devon, a stage veteran at 20, was now enrolled for GI courses at a dramatic academy.

With his good looks and charm, Katie urged him to make the rounds of Broadway agents and managers. When he never got beyond waiting rooms, his morale sagged. Then Katie conspired to bring him and Devon together.

At that time the girl's money-mad mother was godding her into marriage, with a high-living, hard-drinking rich lad.

Katie said as she presented the young would-be actor, "Mebbe there'll be a part open in your show sometime, an' ye can speak a good word for Wade to my boss."

Devon said, "We haven't had a cast change since opening. Without Broadway experience I'm afraid there isn't much chance."

"How do you get Broadway experience, unless someone gives you a chance?" Wade asked quietly, and left without waiting for an answer.

"Fine way to treat a war hero!" Katie chided the girl. "I just told the truth."

"Ye could have been less rude an' cruder about it."

"I'm sorry. He looked like a nice boy."

"Wade Brown, a real man, with roots under him—sense an' character. The girl that gets him will be lucky."

Not long after, Devon reported that a small part might soon be open in her east. She already had spoken for Wade to her management.

He got the job, and when the play toured, was given a better role. Devon wrote from Chicago, "Wade is all you said. I'd like to be the girl's girl."

When they returned to town she confided, "I asked Wade to marry me. I love him, and he'd never ask me. I earn more, I'm further along."

"What did he say?" "The girl sighed. "Tried to let me down easy — by saying he didn't think he was cut for the role of star's husband. They're going to star me next season, you know. Who he meant was—he doesn't love me!"

Katie asked Wade for the truth. "Sure, I love Devon. At heart she's a sweet, simple kid. But—"

"If ye love each other, there's no buts!" Katie broke in. Racing to the door she called down the hall, "Dev, come here!"

The next week they were married. As the maid now creaked her carpet-sweeper over the faded rug in the gloomy court room, she thought of what Wade had lived through since his marriage. Steadily his bride through hectic days of rehearsal, tryout, the Broadway premiere of her first starring show. Freeing her from parasite parents and hangers-on. Selecting an settling an apartment. Devon's dream at last had come true.

"In odd moments I've managed to earn my keep in radio jobs," Wade told Katie wryly.

He had landed his first steady assignment in radio when Devon had a Hollywood bid in play her Broadway role in the screen version. It was a fabulous offer, she reported to Katie, but she wouldn't go unless Wade went with her — an' he didn't want to leave his new work. However, under pressure he went.

Now Katie heard his voice from the threshold of the little dark room. "Hi Katie, I'm home!" "When the porter left she said, 'Deevy's been on the phone.' He pulled off his coat, flung it on the bed. "Katie, I couldn't take any more out there. No job of my own, no name, no nothing—just a star's husband! When the chance came to get my old network job back, I grabbed the first plane. I must call the office and tell them I'm in!"

"He asked quickly as he crossed to the phone. "Is that the only reason ye left?"

"Isn't it reason enough? I was tough leaving Dev, but she's got her work. Soon she'll be back here or I'll land something there. When two people love each other enough, I figure even distances have to give!"

As he took up the phone she slipped out and sped back to her linen room. She was smiling, again. "I'll tell Dev I couldn't get back her hubby for her—because in his heart he never left her! I must get that straight about love an' distance. Praise God for a star of a husband!"

A HANDY GUIDE TO EASTERN TOWNSHIPS' MERCHANTS AND BUSINESS SERVICES

OPERATION MAY BE CONSIDERED FOR GALLBLADDER INFLAMMATION

By Edwin P. Jordan, M.D.
The gallbladder lies inside the abdominal cavity just under the liver and ribs on the right side. It is a hollow organ shaped like a small pear. Its purpose in the human body is to store bile which is manufactured in the liver and to empty this bile into a small tube which passes into the intestines. In the intestines the bile is helpful in digestion, particularly the digestion of fatty substances.

If the bile does not flow out freely, germs can grow inside the gallbladder and other irritations and troubles can develop. In addition to the formations of stones in the gallbladder which has been discussed at other times, the gallbladder can become acutely or chronically inflamed. If the inflammation or infection comes on suddenly the condition is called acute cholecystitis.

In this condition severe but not constant pain is the rule. The pain is generally felt on the right side of the abdomen and sometimes it extends through to the back under the right shoulder blade. Nausea, vomiting, slight fever and even swelling of the entire abdomen may follow a bout of pain. The area around the gallbladder is usually tender to touch.

The chronic form of cholecystitis has much the same symptoms as the acute variety but they are not so severe. Almost always there is some disturbance in the digestive tract and people usually complain of a "full feeling" gas on the stomach, of similar vague distress.

Jaundice, or yellowness of the skin, is fairly common in the chronic variety but it does not become obvious until the condition has been present for some time. One cannot really rely on it as a means of making a diagnosis.

Germs are not always found in the gallbladder in either acute or chronic cholecystitis. Sometimes certain chemicals appear to become so concentrated in this organ that they themselves are irritating. At present, however, the exact causes of gallbladder inflammation and knowledge about means of preventing it are not known.

Sometimes inflammation of the gallbladder can be removed by giving chemical substances by mouth which stimulate the emptying of the gallbladder. This is not always successful, however, and when it is not, operation to remove it has to be seriously considered.

In acute cases or when there is pus in the gallbladder, operation has to be done promptly; at other times it may be hard to decide whether to operate or not. Age, physical condition, severity of symptoms, and a number of other things have to be weighed and judged before resorting to surgery.

OBITUARIES

MRS. PERCY WHITCOMB, OF MASSAWIPPI, QUE.

Massawippi, Dec. 8. - This community was shocked and saddened on Nov. 30, 1950, by the sudden death of Sarah Louther Rudd, wife of Percy J. Whitcomb at her late residence in Massawippi. Born at Clarenceville, Que., Dec. 3, 1893, Mrs. Whitcomb was the daughter of the late Henry J. Rudd and Mary Jane Roy. In 1905 they moved to Way's Mills on what is now known as the McDuffee farm. She attended school at East Hatley. After completing her education she taught school in this vicinity, teaching in Massawippi during 1915-1916. In 1916 the deceased went to Janesville, Wis., to join her family who had moved there following the death of her father. It was here that her mother passed away. While in Janesville she married Percy J. Whitcomb on June 27, 1917, and returned to "Willow-lawn" where she had since resided.

Active in all church affairs Mrs. Whitcomb attended Beulah United Church, Ayer's Cliff and the Union Church, Massawippi. She was unsparing in her efforts to have the Union Church re-opened for services and realized her wish as two services had been held there recently. She attended all community functions and made friends wherever she went. The numerous floral tributes showed the respect and esteem felt for the deceased.

Funeral service was held in Union Church, Massawippi, on Dec. 2, 1950, following prayers at the house, where approximately three hundred friends and relatives gathered to pay their last respects. Rev. Harold Boomhour of Ayer's Cliff conducted the service assisted by Rev. T. W. Tyson of Rock Island. The Ayer's Cliff quartet - Mrs. Nelson Pierce, Mrs. E. J. Astbury, Mr. Fred Wyman and Mr. Lambourne sang two favorite hymns, "The Old Rugged Cross" and "Abide With Me" with Mrs. Willard Rexford of Ayer's Cliff as organist.

The bearers were Messrs. L. D. Schoolcraft, Gordon Shipway, Harry Armstrong, George Butler, Malcolm Gilbert and Fred Harris. Mrs. Whitcomb is survived by her husband; one son, Carelton, who is at home; one daughter, Charlotte, (Mrs. Bruce Hunt) of Chicoutimi; one granddaughter, Dianne; five sisters, Mattie (Mrs. R. A. Lake) of Clarenceville, Que., Charlotte (Mrs. A. M. Sherman) of Portland, Oregon, Bessie (Mrs. W. J. Beverley) of Des Moines, Iowa, Mammie (Mrs. Hudson Laforce) and Kathleen (Mrs. Lewis Wise) of Valley, Wash.; three brothers, Arthur of Framingham, Mass., William H. of Way's Mills, Que., and Harry J. of Nashville, Tenn.; three nieces, Marjorie (Mrs. Leslie Colt) of Rock Island; Cathryn (Mrs. James Sullivan) of Fort Worth, Texas; Dorothy (Mrs. William Dowling) of Santa Monica, Calif.; two nephews, William Beverley, Jr., of Des Moines, Iowa, and John Sherman of San Diego, Calif. Out of town relatives attending the funeral were Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Hunt of Chicoutimi; Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Lake of Clarenceville, Que.; Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Rudd of Framingham, Mass.; Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Rudd of Way's Mills; Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Colt of Rock Island; Mr. and Mrs. Jasper Rudd and Mrs. William Brouillette, cousins, of St. Johnsbury, Vt.; Miss Alice Whitcomb of Magog; Mr. and Mrs. N. C. Whitcomb and Ross, Mr. and Mrs. R. G. McHarg and Mr. Fred Wyman of Ayer's Cliff; Mr. William Whitcomb, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Whitcomb of Hatley; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Bean of Beber; Mr. John Isak of Montreal. Others attending were from Montreal, Sherbrooke, Lennoxville, Coaticook, Magog, Sawyerville, Stanstead, Rock Island, Beebe, Compton, Cookshire, Ayer's Cliff, North Hatley, Hatley Centre, Hatley, Barnston, Way's Mills, East Angus, Libbytown, Brown's Hill. Directors and members of the Stanstead County Agricultural Society and the Massawippi Town Council each attended in a body. Besides the many floral tributes from individual friends were those from the Massawippi Town Council; Massawippi Community; Stanstead County Agricultural Society; Christmas Club, of which the deceased was a member; Employees of Price Bros., at Chicoutimi; Chicoutimi Friends; Sawyerville Friends and Rebekah Lodge of Sawyerville. Mrs. Whitcomb's outlook on life is expressed in the following lines clipped from a newspaper by her a few days before her death:

ON MY LAST DAY With one more day to live, and only one.

I wonder on what task I'd work upon? Granted full strength for those last, fleeting hours.

I wonder on what deeds I'd spend my powers. And this thought comes—that I should run to see

The countless friends who have been good to me. And I should stop, the while I rushed along.

To beg another's pardon for some wrong. I know I'd waste no time on selfish deeds, But calmly labor for my spirit's needs.

As one about to journey far away; Good-bye to all I'd know I'd want to say.

I'd have no vain illusions as to fame, I'd see how cheap the things we strive to claim;

For that last day on earth allowed to me I'd be the woman I've oft wished to be!

Mrs. L. P. Durrell Was Hostess To The Foster Women's Auxiliary

Foster, Dec. 8. — The regular meeting of the Women's Auxiliary met at the home of Mrs. L. P. Durrell, one Tuesday afternoon, with the president, Mrs. Albert Griffin, in the chair. A welcome was extended to all present, and especially to the new member, Mrs. A. V. Beale, who afterwards read the "Litany" and members joined in the "Lord's Prayer" and members prayer.

The minutes of the last meeting held with Mrs. Fred Lacey were read by the secretary and confirmed and the roll met a response from six members and one visitor.

The treasurer, Mrs. J. N. Code gave an itemized report of the recent rummage sale, which showed a busy and successful day and $124.37 were realized, after all expenses were paid. It was voted to donate the sum of $23.70, which was realized through a kind gift from Mrs. Sims, to the Parish Hall building committee, to further the work that is being done there, and also to give $3 to Mrs. W. R. Durrell in answer to a promise that had been given to aid the Little Helpers. It was also decided to pay the balance of $35 due on the pledges.

Mrs. Code read a letter from Mrs. Pennington, regarding the sale requisition. A hearty vote of thanks was extended to Mrs. W. G. Knowlton, the former Dorcas secretary, for her very valuable services in the past. Mrs. Code and Mrs. Griffin will take charge of the sale for 1951 and Mrs. Beale very kindly offered to assist in the cutting out of the garments.

The World Day of Prayer will be held in February 8, and plans for this event will be made later. The monthly notes were read by Mrs. Code, and Mrs. Crowhurst read a letter concerning the "Living Message" subscriptions. In the absence of Mrs. A. L. Young, Mrs. Crowhurst continued the reading from the study book, "Dawn over Japan."

Church calendars for 1951 were in display and these will be taken over later.

A very pleasant feature of the afternoon was the excellent report given by Mrs. Beale, Deanery secretary of the Annual Deanery, held in Granby, on October 11, and to those who were not privileged to attend this was a very enjoyable reminder.

It was decided that the next meeting will be held on December 19. The place of the meeting is to be decided later. Mrs. Griffin thanked all those who had worked so faithfully in making the rummage sale such a success, which from a financial view point, was far in excess of other years.

No further business arising, the meeting closed with prayer, following the benediction given by Mrs. Crowhurst.

A pleasant social interlude was enjoyed around the tea tables, where delicious refreshments had been prepared by Mrs. Durrell, Mrs. Code and Mrs. Griffin. Thanks were extended for the kind hospitality.

WOMEN'S CLUBS

SIR JOHN SHERBROOKE CHAPTER, I. O. D. E.

The Sir John Sherbrooke Chapter, I.O.D.E., held its regular meeting in I.O.D.E. House, on Tuesday, December 5, at 8 p.m., the regent, Mrs. E. B. Sims, presiding. The Standard was raised, after which the Prayer of the Order was recited. Twenty-four members were present. The regent reported six members of the Chapter had sold poppies on Friday, November 10, and had collected a total of $93.80, for which the Canadian Legion were most grateful. Mrs. Sims also reported that twelve members had helped to staff the Red Cross Blood Donor Clinic held in Sherbrooke during the month.

On motion, all outstanding bills are to be paid, and five dollars sent to the Labrador Voluntary Educational League.

The educational secretary, Mrs. E. T. Harbert, presented her report. It was decided to give 16 I.O.D.E. calendars to the Mitchell School and two to the Sherbrooke Hospital. Motion was passed that subscriptions to Canadian Nature Magazine for classrooms at Mitchell School be renewed for the coming year, and considering the additional room, that subscriptions be raised to 13.

Mrs. H. B. Fletcher, Jr., reported 56 books had been given out from the Hospital Library last month. She also said that some members of the chapter had visited the new Hospital and were very enthusiastic about the room which will be given them for the library. As maintaining the library entails much work, the ladies appreciated this recognition of their efforts.

Motion made by Mrs. R. C. A. Waddell, child and family welfare, that a quart of milk be sent daily to a needy family, in addition to a pint each being supplied to two families, was passed. Five dollars was also voted to the Municipal Chapter for Christmas baskets, and Mrs. Waddell asked for helpers to buy supplies for and prepare the baskets.

The regent thanked the eight members who had given their time and assistance to the displaying of the Queen's Carpet, when in Sherbrooke during the past week. It was decided that the nomination meeting will be held on Monday, January 8, 1951, at the home of the regent, Mrs. Sims, 76 London Street.

Our friend Rosamond Chapin served us the smoothest, richest and most perfect all chocolate cakes we ever ate at any inn or at any home, our own included. So we're returning during Christmas week to the New Boston Inn, which she and Russell Chapin own. It's at the foot of the Berkshires where U.S. routes 8 and 57 meet. And do those gracious Chapins serve food!

The inn was founded in 1760, but this cake was founded with Mrs. Chapin. She hastened to give us her recipe to pass along to our friends, with her hopes for their happy Christmas.

"This is one of the best and simplest I have ever discovered and one of the most favored cakes at the Inn," she said. Melt four squares of unsweetened chocolate over 3/4 cup of butter in a saucepan over slow heat while stirring constantly to prevent scorching. When butter and chocolate are well blended, remove from fire and add 1 1/2 cups of sugar and two whole eggs and beat until smooth.

"Next add alternately 1 1/2 cups of milk, and 1 cup of well sifted self-rising cake flour. If you use all-purpose flour, use only a scant cup and sift it several times with 2 teaspoons of baking powder. Lastly add 1 tablespoon of good vanilla extract.

"This cake may be cooked as layer cake, cup cakes or in a sheet. Grease your pans well before filling and cook at moderate heat (350 deg. F.) as chocolate burns easily."

Here is Mrs. Chapin's favorite frosting for this cake: Chocolate-Mocha-Butter Frosting
Sift two cups of confectioners' sugar with 1/2 cup of unsweetened cocoa and 1/2 teaspoon salt into a bowl. Add a lump of soft butter the size of an egg and sufficient hot strong coffee to arrive at the proper consistency to spread.

Proceed cautiously with the coffee, however, as it melts the sugar very fast. Add a teaspoon of pure vanilla extract and beat the frosting until perfectly smooth and blended. Chopped pecans can be sprinkled over this frosting after it is on the cake.

simple police or occupation work, that period would be doubled to four months. Last week's allied reverses in Korea raised acutely in the men's minds their future role.

Would they be used right away to shore up some breach in crumbling U.N. lines?

Would the position have stabilized enough for them to settle down to training in South Korea or Japan with a reasonable prospect of completing it before being hustled into action?

The men aren't afraid of going into action—the news last week shook them into the realization that fighting was to be their business, after all—but they do want that training first.

The question: where? The consensus among the officers, who recall the Hong Kong disaster of 1951, is that if Korea stabilizes the original plan might as well proceed.

Once the two months' training in the field is completed, the battalion could be committed anywhere at any time with confidence—its heart is sound.

The men are confident that the Canadian government will be considering their position in the light of Korean developments and that policy will be determined by the time the Martinez reaches Japan en route to Pusan.

The International Community School Plans For 1951

Derby Line, Dec. 8. — Plans for movies in February, March and April 1951, ideas for classes and speakers, and a general survey of the past and future activities of the International Community School, were on the agenda of the first meeting of the 1951 Executive Committee meeting, held at the home of the president, E. J. Struthers, Stanstead, on Tuesday evening, Dec. 5. Lloyd MacPherson, Rev. E. H. Nickerson and Lloyd Kezar were named as a committee to have charge of arranging movie picture showings sponsored by the school, in February, March and April. Last winter the films were shown in Pierce Hall, and it is expected that the practice will continue this winter, with the exception that at least one showing will be at the Derby Line Village Hall. Announcements will be made well in advance as soon as the dates and subjects have been decided upon. Cards will be sent to all members of the school asking them what Interest Groups and Hobby Classes they would like in 1951. Besides listing the groups offered this year, there will be room for the recipients to suggest new classes. Lloyd MacPherson is chairman of the committee with the following assistants, Mrs. Carl Robbins, Heron Hudson, and Earl Heath. The following Interest Groups will be listed on the cards: French Conversation, Public Speaking, Behind the News and Reading For Fun. Hobby groups to be listed are Astronomy, Sewing, Painting, Leathercraft, Weaving, Rug Hooking and Knitting. It is hoped that those receiving the cards will return them promptly with their selections and suggestions. It is hoped to get the cards out very soon. In discussing the school for 1950, mention was made of the very large group that took the two classes in French Conversation, Miss Aline Ricard suggested on behalf of herself, Miss Denise Langlois and Jean Beasse, that an effort be made to contact the Provincial Government and see if some help in planning the course could be obtained that would relieve the pressure on the teachers and made the courses even more useful to those who take them. A sum of money was voted to Stanstead College partly to compensate them for the use of the building during the school sessions, and also as means of thanking them for their much appreciated co-operation. Dues of 25 cents per member were voted to be sent to the Quebec Council For Community Programs, to which organization the school belongs. It was also decided to try and find one or two members of the school who will be able to attend special courses at Macdonald College starting on December 26. Part at least of the expenses will be borne by the school. In discussing possible speakers for the 1951 sessions, it was unanimously decided that every effort would be made to get Professor Dimitroff, of Dartmouth, back again. It was also decided to try and arrange dates far enough in advance to make it possible to carry the speakers names and subjects in the school program. The feeling is that this would increase the interest of prospective members and make it possible for the school to inform the public when some special speaker was coming. Various members of the committee were asked to contact possible speakers and to report at the next committee meeting. A vote of thanks was extended to Rev. Harold Cole, of Derby Line, for his help in school activities the past two years, and expressions of regret at his leaving these communities. The next meeting of the committee will be held at the home of the president, the last Tuesday evening in January, when there will be further discussion of 1951 activities. Following the adjournment, refreshments were served to the committee. Those present at this meeting were the president, E. J. Struthers; vice-president, Rev. E. H. Nickerson; secretary, Miss Gertrude Ketcham; treasurer, Miss Madeline Poisson; registrar, Miss Aline Ricard; assistant registrar, Miss Denise Langlois. Rev. E. C. Amaron, Mrs. A. E. Arkin, Lloyd Bliss, Jean Beasse, Rev. H. R. Cole, G. Earl Heath, C. F. Hovey, Heron Hudson, Lloyd MacPherson, Miss Rita Poisson, Mrs. Carl Robbins, Miss Elsie McIntosh, Rev. A. Mc-

and Jules (Happy) L'Heureux, served by the members of the society, the meal provided by the Daughters of Isobel. The executive members of Council, No. 2873, are as follows: Chaplain, Rev. Members Differ On Car Exports

London.—The future of the small British motor-car in Canada was discussed by three speakers in a recent House of Commons debate on Anglo-Canadian trade. R. S. Russell, Conservative, said that British car exports now running at the rate of 70,000 a year had "knocked the bottom" out of the used-car market in Canada. He wondered whether the present scale of exports could continue without reaching the saturation point. Mr. MacPherson, Labour Member, said he believed Britain was paying too much attention to motor-cars and not enough to the kind of engineered goods and capital equipment that Canada would need in the future. But Sir Peter Bennett, Conservative, disputed any argument that Britain was exporting too many cars. "I do not agree that this is a temporary business," he said. "I don't see any reason why we shouldn't keep the market for the small car."

CHAMPION HUNTER

Boundary Rotary Were Guests Of Newport Club

Derby Line, Dec. 8.—The purpose of the Russians is to get us tied up in Asia so that it will be easier for them to take over Europe," according to Cliff Misskelly, of Fairlee, Vt., in an unusual talk before the Newport, Vt., Men's Club, at the United Church at Newport, Vt. The Rotary Club of the Boundary met with the Men's Club by invitation, and President C. R. Darby expressed the appreciation of the members for the opportunity of joining the two clubs and hearing the fine talk.

Elaborating on his statement quoted above, the speaker stated that it was impossible for us to pull out of Asia due to the fact that it would give the U.S.S.R., a free hand there that could easily result in an attack on Alaska, thence through Canada to the United States itself.

"So long as we can prevent Russia from taking over the oil in Iran and Iraq, we can prevent them from starting any major war," said Mr. Misskelly.

The speaker knows the Japanese language, had been one of the first to land in Nagasaki following the explosion of the Atom bomb there. He spent a considerable time in Japan both immediately following the war and later as a representative of the Pepsi-Cola Company.

Based upon his talks with many Japanese people, the speaker stated that he believed that Japan could be a real military help to us if they were needed. "The people of Japan almost worship MacArthur, and he is probably the man best suited for the job he holds. He is arrogant and egotistical, but he is magnetic and he does get things done."

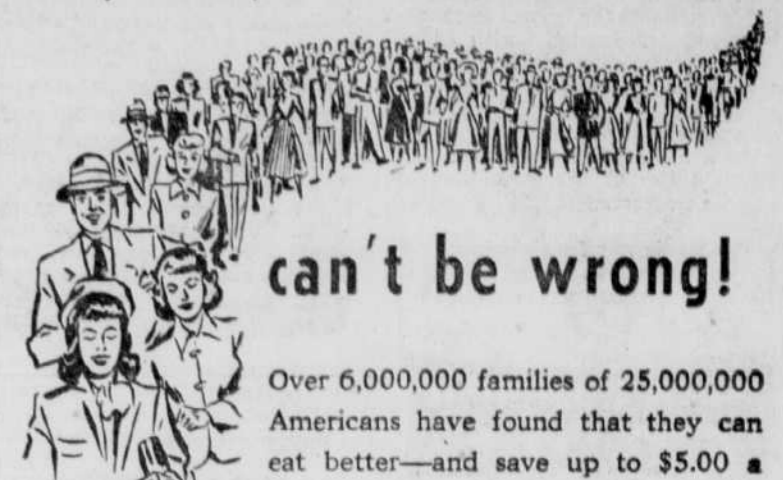

"Most of the opposition to him comes from political sources. The greatest thing that was done in Japan was giving them the right to vote, and it has resulted in a flood of goodwill that will inevitably react in our favor."

R. J. Bigelow, president of the Men's Club, presided at the meeting and thanked the speaker for a most fascinating talk. George Allison of Newport introduced Mr.

Misskelly. The ladies of the church provided an excellent supper, and music was played by the "Dream Pedlers." Visiting Rotarians present at the meeting were Henry Downs, Jr., and R. Linscou, both of Sherbrooke.

FREES MAN FROM SUBMERGED, OVERTURNED AUTOMOBILE

Fernand Cloutier, of St. Joseph de Beauce, Que., rescues driver after car plunges into swollen river

1. It had been raining throughout the chilly, late September day. The river was swollen and running swiftly . . . and the man in the automobile was having trouble seeing where he was going. With the rain beating against his windshield, he didn't notice that he had turned off the main road — and was heading for a demolished bridge! From a verandah, Fernand Cloutier screamed a warning.

3. When he finally succeeded in getting the door open, he found the interior a floating jumble of cushions. It was only after a terrific struggle that he was able to extricate the driver (who has only one arm) and bring him safely to the surface. We are proud to add the name of Fernand Cloutier to the list of those who have won The Dow Award.

2. But the driver didn't hear his cries . . . and Cloutier raced down the road towards the river. There, upside down, his wheels just above the surface, was the car! Knowing that the trapped man was doomed if nothing were done within a very few minutes, Cloutier did not hesitate. He plunged into the cold, fast-moving water and frantically tried to open one of the car doors.

THE DOW AWARD is a citation presented for acts of outstanding heroism and includes, as a tangible expression of appreciation, a $100 Canada Savings Bond. The Dow Award Committee, a group of editors of leading Canadian daily newspapers, selects Award winners from recommendations made by a nationally known news organization.

On one of the walls a winter scene was surmounted on a tier of evergreen boughs and an assortment of coloured lights.

a very capable job as mistress of ceremonies.

St. Andrew's Parish Bazaar Was A Grand Success

Sutton, Dec. 8. — The Roman Catholic population of this locality has reason to be well satisfied with the result of its annual Parochial Bazaar, which took place in the new Academy Hall, of St. Andrew's Boys' School.

Son Of Maritimes Building In West

Cranberry Portage, Man. — The son of an old-time Nova Scotia seafaring family is pioneering in farm development in northern Manitoba.

Forty settlers with their families are expected to move into the westland area next year as a result of the work of Major Roy Allan.

Roy's father, a builder of sailing ships, sent him west in 1903 when the era of wooden ships was on the wane.

He said it had been a family custom for the father to present each son with a square-rigger when he qualified as a master mariner. But about the time Roy became of age, the father went out of the business.

In the west, Roy taught school, later became a horse rancher. In the First World War, he was wounded in a cavalry action at Morieux Wood.

Twenty years ago Major Allan settled at Wanless, a tiny wilderness settlement 30 miles north of The Pas. Indians helped him build a cabin and he turned his land into an experimental station.

Years of good yields convinced him Wanless would be suitable farming land for war veterans. Eventually the department of agriculture's experimental station at Brandon advised him: "We can now state that (Wanless) has proven itself the best area in Manitoba for growing high-class oats."

Major Allan sold his idea to the government. Next year 40 war veterans will move into the area.

Christmas Table Centre

The Christmas table centre we used last year is illustrated. What could be more typically Canadian than the pressed oak or maple leaves and the collection of cones? Some of the cones can be dipped in bright red and bright green paint to add color to the arrangement. This year we plan to include evergreens to replace the leaves. In case you are interested in making the candle stick holders, instructions are also given along with a couple of designs.

Cone Place Markers

To complete the slogan "let's make it an evergreen Christmas", place markers are made from cones. Gather cones from the Austrian pine, larch and Jack pine when they are dry. Leave them in a sunny window or on top of the turnace overnight. The warmth will open them. Three types of cone place markers that have been used are illustrated. The whole family has a share in making them. This adds to the interest and the anticipation for that day of days so quickly approaching. It is fun drawing on one's imagination to help make the cones look as realistic as possible. It is surprising how closely some do resemble different types of birds when they are carefully selected, placed and finished. All I hope is that you have as much fun in your house as we have in ours preparing for Christmas.

S.H. Bachelder Honored On Retirement

S. H. Bachelder of Sherbrooke recently was honored by his fellow employees of the International Harvester Company on the occasion of his retirement after 40 years of service. At a banquet at the Social Club, Mr. Bachelder was presented with a silver cocktail set while Ernest Jette of La Patrie, a company employee for 30 years, was presented with a brief case. One of the organizers of the evening, Jean Paul Morin of Morin and Son, read an address in which high tribute to the two veteran employees was paid. Seen in the picture above, seated at the table left to right, are Hugues Morin of Sherbrooke, H. R. Standish of Magog, L. A. St. Catherine street east has never been so dressed up for the Yuletide. Colored lights—more than 14,000 of them—line both sides of the street from St. Lawrence boulevard east to Papineau avenue. Carols ring out from loud-speakers in stores and, as the shoppers surge about traffic gets completely snarled when passing motorists slow down to catch a view.

In the area bordered by St. Denis and Amherst streets, giant stars, brightened with yellow lights, top every second trolley-wire pole. Below the stars are bunches of evergreens tied together with huge colorful metal bows. Some poles are adorned with attractively-wrapped packages, red and white striped candy canes and other ornaments all done up with phosphorous paint. West Indies Colonies Are Seeking Help From Agricultural Economists Curacao, Netherlands West Indies, Dec.—(AP)—Representatives of West Indies colonies have asked for agricultural economists to help the islands' economic development.

Delegates meeting here, representing dependencies of Britain, France, the Netherlands and the United States, have passed a resolution urging the Caribbean commission to recommend obtaining the services of one or more agricultural economists. The four countries who have territory in the area make up the commission. The economist would advise and assist in the formulation and co-ordination of a plan for technical assistance and economic development in each territory.

The conference, called to deal chiefly with agricultural problems of the Caribbean area, recommended that the economists study foreign and Caribbean markets and the possibilities of expanding sales. They would make specific recommendations for the organization of markets in the various territories.

The conferees also recommended that the attention of all metropolitan governments be brought to the fact that agriculture, principal source of revenue and employment in the Caribbean, can not be maintained without the protection and preferential treatment accorded certain Caribbean territories by their metropolitan governments.

The resolution concluded with the recommendation that the Caribbean commission convene a conference as soon as possible to study inter-Caribbean and national tariffs in view of the expanding possibilities of agricultural production in the Caribbean, and that programs of production, trade and consumption of the area's principal agricultural products be formulated by a special committee under the auspices of the Caribbean commission.

A special study committee recommended, and the delegates approved these other two resolutions:

1. That the Caribbean commission investigate the possibility of the Food and Agricultural Organization of the United Nations sponsoring experiments with plants not now growing in the Caribbean area and which have possibilities of commercial products roam the decorated streets during business hours.

The idea of dressing up the street was the brain child of a department store, located in the heart of the district. They got together with nearby shop owners and formed a committee of 86 proprietors who agreed to share the expense.

Ship Carrying Special Force Is Jam-Packed

By BILL BOSS
 Canadian Press Staff Writer
 At Sea With 2nd Battalion, P.P.C.L.I.—(AP)—War was never like this.

Except, maybe, when it was operational.

The Pvt. Joe V. Martinez, the United States troopship carrying to Korea the 2nd Battalion, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, is packed. Really packed.

The Joe is a wartime-built, 9,000-ton Liberty freighter converted into a troopship.

There are some unoccupied bunks in the officers' quarters—where the higher-paid help are stacked in quantities varying from 12 to 30 to a "stateroom"—but one more man in the holds would bulge the bulkheads.

The ship carries soldiers. Nothing else.

No canteens. No lounges. No beer. No drinks. Only beverage stocked in the dry canteen is chocolate today—spike that, soldier.

No smoking—except in the latrines below decks, and on the decks during daylight. Because Pvt. Joe lost two men overboard on her last Pacific crossing, her decks are out of bounds after dark.

The theory is that if a man were lost overboard in daylight he would be spotted soon enough for a lifebelt to be tossed. He wouldn't have a chance at night.

The Patricia's (not, please, the "Pats") are contained in two compartments of the hold.

One holds 460 men. The other, directly below, holds the rest of the 1,000-man battalion and its ancillary personnel.

Bunks are in tiers of four, doubled into units of eight with two-foot intervals in between. They line the bulkheads and cross the hold. Apart from the limited deck space they are the only place aboard a ship a man can relax.

The ship's one recreation room is used for lectures, training films and twice-nightly showings of motion pictures for the Canadians

Flat-Top Bowlers Feature New Hats

Paris—Tiny flat-topped bowler hats called "Churchills" are the sensation of Pierre Balmain's mid-season fashion show here.

Worn for day or evening, they may be made in felt, fabric or minceho, but the shape is always the same: a short, two-pipe crown with rolled derby brim.

The model named "Winston Churchill" is in navy blue faille, trimmed in front with a life-size cigar.

Another Churchill style, named "Foreign Office" is in black-and-white pinpoint check. The rolled brims are fixed to the crown with a red pencil.

"Flying Saucer" is another hat shape for the late winter and spring. These are large cartwheels with crown studded to leave room for a huge chignon. Two large hat pins of the same material as the hat may be used to hold the chignon in place.

Although just back from the United States, Balmain has taken his inspiration from Britain again. Black watch tartan is the motive of his collection.

A white pique evening dress is worn with a sequin-covered wool shawl of this plaid. A matching bow trims the front of the gown.

For after-skiing time, there are tie silk slacks in the black watch tartan. A hand-knitted corduroy and red sweater completes the ensemble.

SIDE GLANCES

By Galbraith

"I've tried and tried, but the most I can get out of him is 'darn it!'" and the 400 United States troops also aboard.

Boat drill crams every inch of deck space, including hatch covers. Physical training, necessary to keep the men in some sort of trim, is handicapped. The brief stay in Hawaii was appreciated as a chance to stretch legs.

Even reading offers little distraction, so poor is the illumination.

With nothing to do except sleep and eat, it's important that soldiers' food be good. It is, and there's a lot of it. Morale, therefore, is tops.

After assessing the accommodation early in the voyage, officers and N.C.O.'s roared when Lieut. Ned Page of Edmonton joked: "The Canadian government must have got a low contract for this job."

Then they settled down to make the best of it.

Guildford, Surrey, England.—(AP)—The County Fire Marshal's office in a review said that in a single year, unstubbed cigaret butts were blamed for 363 separate fires in Surrey.
