PART THIRD.—THE REDEMPTION.

CHAPTER VI.

THE GO-BETWEEN.

A few days have elapsed since the conflagration of M. Hardy's factory. The following scene takes place in the Rue Cloutier, in the house where Rodin had lodged, and which was still inhabited by Rose Pompon, who, without the least scruple, availed herself of the household arrangements of her friend Philémon.

It was about noon, and Rose-Pompon, alone in the chamber of the student who was still absent, was breakfasting very gaily by the fireside when a low knock was heard at the door, which was bolted on the inside.

"Who is there?" said Rose Pompon.
"A friend—the oldest of the old," replied a sonorous, jovial voice. "Why do you lock yourself in?"

"What is it you, Ninny Moulin?"
"Yes, my beloved pupil. Open quickly. Time presses. I have something of importance to tell you—something that will astonish you."

"Give me time to put on my gown, great plague that you are!"
"If it is because of my modesty, do not think of it. I am not over nice. I should like you very well as you are."

"Only to think that such a monster is the favorite of all the churchgoers!" said Rose Pompon, opening the door.

"So you have at last returned, you stray-bird!" said Ninny Moulin, folding his arms, and looking at Rose Pompon with comic seriousness. "And where may you have been, I pray? For three days, the naughty little bird has left its nest."

"True; I only returned home last night. You must have called during my absence?"
"I came every day, and even twice a day, young lady, for I have very serious matters to communicate."

"Very serious matters? Then we shall have a good laugh at them."

"Not at all—they are really serious," said Ninny Moulin, seating himself. "But, first of all, what did you do during the three days that you left your home? I must know all about it, before I tell you more."

"It was not for my pleasure I went out. On the contrary—for, during my absence, poor Cephysse disappeared."

"Yes, Mother Arène told me that the Bacchanal Queen was gone on a journey. But when I think of Philémon you talk of Cephysse; we don't progress."

"May I be eaten by the black panther, that they are showing at the Porte-Saint-Martin, if I do not tell you the truth. And talking of that, you must get tickets to take me to see those animals, my little Ninny Moulin! They tell me, there never were such darling wild beasts."

"Now, really, are you mad?"

"Why so?"

"That I should guide your youth, like a venerable patriarch, through the dangers of the 'Storm-blown Tulip,' all well and good—I ran no risk of meeting my pastors and masters; but were I to take you to a Lenten spectacle (since there are only beasts to be seen), I might just run against my sacristans—and how pretty I should look with you on my arm!"

"You can put on a false nose, and straps to your trousers, my big Ninny; they will never know you."

"We must not think of false noses, but of what I have to tell you."

"Goodness, gracious! what full pockets you have got! what is there in them?"

"Something that concerns you, Rose Pompon," said Dumoulin, gravely.

"Me?"

"Rose-Pompon!" said Ninny Moulin, suddenly, with a majestic air; "will you have a carriage? Will you inhabit a charming apartment, instead of living in this dreadful hole? Will you be dressed like a duchess?"

"Now for some more nonsense? Come, will you eat the olives? If not, I shall eat them all up. There is only one left."

Without answering this gastronomic offer, Ninny Moulin felt in one of his pockets, and drew from it a case containing a very pretty bracelet, which he held up sparkling before the eyes of the young girl.

"Oh! what a sumptuous bracelet!" cried she, clapping her hands. "A green-eyed serpent biting his tail—the emblem of my love for Philémon!"

"Do not talk of Philémon; it annoys me," said Ninny Moulin, as he clasped the bracelet round the wrist of Rose Pompon, who allowed him to do it, laughing all the while like mad, and saying to him: "So you've been employed to make a purchase, big apostle, and you wish to see the effect of it. Well! it is charming!"

"Rose Pompon," resumed Ninny Moulin, "would you like to have a servant, a box at the Opera, and a thousand francs a month for your pin-money?"

"Always the same nonsense. Get along!" said the young girl, as she held up the bracelet to the light, still continuing to eat her nuts.

"Why always the same farce, and no change of bills?"

Ninny Moulin again plunged his hand into his pocket, and this time drew forth an elegant chain, which he hung around Rose Pompon's neck.

"Oh! what a beautiful chain!" cried the young girl, as she looked by turns at the sparkling ornament and the religious writer.

"If you choose that also, you have a very good taste. But am I not a good-natured girl to be your 'dummy' just to show off your jewels?"

"Rose Pompon," returned Ninny Moulin, with a still more majestic air, "these trifles are nothing to what you may obtain, if you will but follow the advice of your old friend."

Rose began to look at Dumoulin, with surprise, and said to him: "What does all this mean, Ninny Moulin? Explain yourself; what advice have you to give?"

Dumoulin did not answer, but replunging his hand into his inexhaustible pocket, he fished up a parcel, which he carefully unfolded, and in which was a magnificent mantle of black lace.

CHILDREN'S CORNER

"AND TO DO MY DUTY."

BY M. H. LARGE.

Willow & Willoughby had advertised for an office boy. There was nothing very remarkable about this. In fact, so often had the same "Wanted" appeared in the advertising columns of a daily newspaper that it had become a joke among the compositors employed to "set up" the various needs and lacks of their fellow citizens, and one of them had long ago suggested that it would pay them to have the "ad" electrotyped and ready for instant service. And now here it was again:

WANTED—A bright, reliable boy about fourteen years of age. Apply at office of WILLOW & WILLOUGHBY to-morrow at 8 A. M.

The hands of the great clock that hung in the office of Willow & Willoughby in such plain view from the street that he who ran might read the time of day, had barely passed the half-hour after seven before a motley group began to form itself in front of the office doors. There were clean boys and dirty boys, fat boys and thin boys; boys whose faces, to say nothing of their inches, gave evidence of many more than fourteen years of struggle with the problem of life, and boys whose painfully erect heads and mannish swag could deceive no one into believing them past their tenth birthday; whistling boys and laughing boys, shy boys and forward boys,—all sorts and conditions of boys came in answer to the advertisement, each anxious to prove that he was the one boy the firm needed.

The minute hand crept slowly up the dial while the group on the sidewalk grew larger, until scarcely room was left for passers-by, many of whom, whose business called them into neighboring buildings, smiled at each other as they pushed through.

"Willoughby must be looking for that boy again," one man said to another, as they worked their way past, and the two laughed at each other as men always laugh at a neighbor's hobby. At last the hour was reached, and as the first of eight strokes rang out the great doors opened. For everything about this mammoth establishment was carried on with the regularity and precision of the best of time-pieces. Punctuality was the motto of the firm,—a motto most rigidly enforced. The hour for the opening of the office was eight o'clock, and eight it must be. Woe, and a possible discharge, to the janitor who failed to draw back the great bolts and turn the heavy keys before the eighth stroke had died away.

It was on account of this wonderful punctuality, required from the least to the greatest of the employees, that the great firm, or rather the junior member and manager thereof, found it necessary to advertise so often for an office boy. For though a boy may have turned his face offward with the best of intentions, let a sudden rush and jangle tell of a newly discovered fire, or a blare and thump afar in the distance speak of an approaching procession, and it is so easy to forget that time will not even wait an office boy's pleasure. To be a few minutes behind time once meant in this case a severe rebuke; a repetition of the offence brought immediate discharge.

Four or five minutes passed while some of the waiting boys whispered in low tones to the others of the trials in store for the successful one, then the janitor beckoned them in, and, with a grim smile on his visage, led them through a running fire of jokes from the clerks and bookkeepers in the general office and on into Mr. Willoughby's private room. The keen eyes of that gentleman ran over their ranks as they came in like the eyes of a general reviewing recruits. Some were at once dismissed. Others were questioned and cross-questioned, while a deep line on the man's forehead darkened into an unmistakable frown.

"I am determined to find a satisfactory one this time if he is to be found," he was saying to himself as he dismissed one after another. "If I could only see traces of a good home about any of them, but most of these are from the slams of the city or from homes that are worse than none." "Ah!" his face brightening as a slender, intelligent-looking boy in a neat, well-cared-for suit made his awkward way up to the desk.

"Your name, my lad?"

"Ernest Eberling."

"Your reference?"

Ernest drew a slip of paper from his pocket and laid it in the man's hand.

"'Twas Mutterchen wrote it," he said, shyly. "We know no one else here, and she thought perhaps it would do."

"H'm, h'm," said the man, as he glanced over the note with its quaint German letters and prim little sentences. "Well, Ernest, you may stay and talk with me further. The rest of you can go." He added to the few remaining boys, who now hastily made their exit. As soon as they were gone, Mr. Willoughby continued:

"My boy, I think I will try you. I like your mother's note, and I feel sure that any boy with a good mother to help him on cannot go far astray. But first I must tell you just what I ask of every boy, great or small, who connects himself with this establishment. You may have heard of 'Willoughby's hobby.' Ah! you have, I see, as the boy flushed consciously. 'Well, it is not such an unreasonable thing as it looks. I want to see if I can make a full measure. If a boy agrees to furnish me with so much time per day, I want just that amount and no less. If he agrees to be here at eight o'clock in the morning, at eight o'clock I want to find him ready for work. If I send him on an errand that can easily be done in, say, an hour, at the end of the hour I want to see him back again. Tardiness in reaching here in the morning, loitering on the streets during the day, means scanty measure, and may and often has caused serious inconvenience to the firm. No one can calculate the trouble and loss that may be caused by even a few moments' delay where large business operations are conducted. A lost train, a delayed message, an unmailed letter, each may bring evil consequences. If you can fill your side of the bargain, we will give you four dollars per week for the first six months you are with us, and after that more as we see you can earn it. What do you say?"

"THE GLORIOUS TWELFTH."

THE ORANGEMEN CELEBRATE THEIR ANNIVERSARY IN A LOYAL AND PEACEFUL MANNER.

BROOKVILLE EN PATE.

BROOKVILLE, Ont., July 12.—The Orangemen of this prettily situated little town celebrated the 12th of July with considerable eclat. From an early hour in the morning it was evident that a celebration of some kind was in progress, and beyond question the celebration to-day was one of the most successful ever held here. One of the most important features of the day was the arrival, shortly after nine o'clock, of a special Grand Trunk Railway train containing over two hundred Orangemen, besides a large number of other excursionists. The Montreal brethren were received by the Brookville men in the most enthusiastic manner and escorted to the Orange hall, the streets being lined with spectators, who heartily cheered the visitors as they passed along. The Montreal brethren were accompanied by the Oddfellows' band (M.U.), twenty-five strong, in charge of Mr. A. McAllister, who were warmly welcomed, along with the (Annapolis) band, which was one of the features of the celebration. During the morning the brethren from other places, which included most of the lodges in the county of Leeds, as well as several from the immediate vicinity outside of the county arrived, the representation including members from some thirty lodges outside of the town. The following lodges from Montreal were represented:—

Derry Lodge, No. 224—Bro. A. Thulow, W.M.
Hackett Lodge, No. 304—Bro. A. Nicol, W.M.
Prince of Wales Lodge, No. 264—Bro. J. Foster.
Duke of York Lodge, No. 218—Bro. Geo. Barrows, W.M.
Dominion Lodge, No. 1263—Bro. William Simpson, W.M.
Lorne Lodge, No. 1317—Bro. D. Hadden, W.M.
Diamond Lodge, No. 1474—Bro. J. W. Hyde, W.M.

There were also present from Montreal Bro. R. McLaughlin, provincial grand secretary, and Bro. William Galbraith, county master. The Montreal brethren upon arrival were entertained at breakfast. About one o'clock the brethren assembled on Court House square, and under the direction of Bro. J. W. Hyde, of Montreal, and his assistants, the procession was formed. The procession, which included fully one thousand Orangemen, started at two o'clock, and after proceeding through the principal streets, arrived at the park, or the lacrosse grounds, as they are probably more generally known, where the speeches of the day were to be delivered. The chair was taken by Bro. C. F. Kolb, county master, and addresses were delivered by Bro. the Rev. Geo. Rogers, of Montreal; Bro. the Rev. G. S. White, of Brookville; Bro. Elliott, of Lansdowne; Bro. Kearns and C. H. French, of Brookville; Bro. Wm. Galbraith, County Master of Montreal; and Bro. J. P. Redmond, Past County Master of South Leeds. The speeches throughout were characterized by moderation, but the hope was expressed by a majority of the speakers that when the opportunity next offered itself for them to return a man to Parliament for the Local House they would put principle before party. The Montreal speakers were greeted with the greatest enthusiasm and were listened to with the closest attention. Shortly after nine o'clock the return journey to the commercial metropolis was made, and Montreal was reached at 2.10 on Sunday morning.

OTTAWA.

OTTAWA, July 13.—Delightful weather prevailed yesterday, when the "Glorious Twelfth" was celebrated by a demonstration of the city and county Orange lodges at Ashton. From 7 o'clock until the departure of the special train which conveyed the excursionists to Ashton, all was bustle at the Orange hall. The different lodges met at intervals, as required by the regulations of the order, but the business transacted was only of a formal character. The Orangemen of the Pontiac district celebrated the day by a demonstration at Shawville. Strong resolutions were adopted at Ashton condemning the passage of the Jesuits' Estates Act, congratulating the "Noble George" upon their election in Parliament, congratulating Messrs. Hay and Donaldson upon the good run they made at the recent elections, sympathizing with the agitation in Manitoba and the North-West against the separate school and dual language systems, and protesting against the continuance of separate schools in Ontario.

TORONTO.

TORONTO, July 12.—The Orange procession to-day commenced about noon and lasted about an hour. The men turned out in great force. The first part consisted of lady members of the order in carriages, and the members of the Lady Erne Lodge who were loudly cheered by spectators. The most prominent members of the order, including Mayor Clarke, Mr. D. Creighton, Ald. Bell, etc., were in line and a score of bands gave out music as they marched. The procession was between 4,000 and 5,000 strong, one of the strongest ever seen in Toronto. At the Orange celebration on the Exhibition grounds, Prof. Goldwin Smith said that although he was not an Orangeman he had read history and knew of what they had done in the past. He thought that Orangemen have still work to do in the contest opening on this continent. Happily the contest this time would not be with bullets, but the Orangemen would again have to prove their cause. They did not wish to deprive the Roman Catholic citizens of any rights, neither did they wish to lose any of theirs. They did not want to be ruled by the priesthood of any church.

HAMILTON.

HAMILTON, July 12.—The visiting lodges were principally from the counties of Lincoln, Welland, Monck, Brant, Halton and Wentworth, and the procession through the streets to the Dundurn park was one of the best of its kind ever seen here. At the head of the procession was about twenty carloads of ladies, the wives and daughters of members, and the members of Ladies' True Blue lodges. At the park speeches were delivered by prominent members of the order and a long list of games was gone through for valuable prizes. In the evening a concert by the Thirteenth band and a masquerade carnival were the principal features. The day passed without any disturbance worthy of note.

WINNIPEG.

WINNIPEG, July 13.—Yesterday's celebration of the 12th of July was the largest demonstration of the kind ever held in Manitoba. Nearly 6,000 visitors came into town, the great majority being brought by special and regular trains on the Canadian Pacific Railway. In the afternoon a procession was formed and paraded the principal streets. It was over a mile long. A large crowd assembled in Dufferin park after the parade and speeches were made by Mr. J. L. Hughes, of Toronto, Grand Master Blaney, Revs. Messrs. Grant and Roy and others. In the evening visitors departed for home.

ST. JOHN, N. B.

ST. JOHN, N. B., July 13.—Yesterday's Orange celebration passed off without a trace of ill-feeling. There were nearly 2,000 men in the procession which was fully a mile long. The men marched four deep, and what with gay banners and regalia, mounted marshals, numerous bands of music, and a large police escort, presented a fine appearance. There were 1,000 strangers in the city, and crowds thronged the line of march everywhere. By order of Grand Master Armstrong no party tunes were played, and when the proceedings were over the members divested themselves of their regalia and mingled with the crowds attending the baseball, lacrosse and other pastimes. In the speeches at the rink no marked political allusions were made, and no resolutions of any kind were moved. The demonstration was the most successful in the history of the Orange order in the Lower Provinces. There was not even a drunken fight to chronicle. There was no lack of vigor and enthusiasm among the brethren, but they neither gave nor received cause for bad blood. Some of the brethren were disappointed that no party tunes were played. Those who armed themselves for fear of some outbreak are now ready to sell out.

NEW YORK.

NEW YORK, July 12.—The Orangemen had a fine parade here to-day and wound up with a picnic at Jones' Wood. There was no semblance of disturbance. There were fifteen hundred men in line representing fourteen lodges, four of which were from Philadelphia and one from Brooklyn.

OTHER PLACES.

Celebrations were also held at Chester, Kingston, Madoc, Cobourg, Roslin, Newwood, Picton, Forest, Milton, Clinton and London.

A TERRIFIC CYCLONE.

MINNESOTA AGAIN SCOURGED BY ONE OF THOSE FRIGHTFUL STORMS.

ST. PAUL, July 13.—A few minutes before five o'clock this afternoon the clouds, which had been threatening a storm, began to collect over the region of Lake McCarron, two or three miles north of this city, soon taking on the rotary motion and the terrible appearance of the cyclone. Hundreds of citizens watched the clouds as they swept together and followed their course to the north-west, in which direction many friends had gone to spend the day at some of the little lakes that are scattered over this county. Anxiety for the absent drew many down town during the evening to learn the first possible particulars of what was thought to be

UNDOUBTEDLY A DISASTROUS STORM.

And so the reports indicated. A young man drove in from Lake Coleman soon afterward with the information that at least two persons had been killed and over one hundred injured at that point. He had been on there with a young lady friend, and, having gone after the buggy to drive home, on his return to where she had been standing he found his companion seriously injured by the storm, which had so suddenly come upon them. Other reports followed quickly, each being a little worse than what had preceded it. To the north and east of the city there are a great number of little lakes, which are sought by the multitudes every Sunday, and on the shores of these lakes many campers pass the hot months of the summer. Lake Coleman is one of these, and the damage there was very heavy. When the storm struck the little lake

THE BOAT-HOUSE WAS LIFTED UP BODILY and overturned in the water, and a boat load of persons were given similar treatment. Buildings were demolished or badly wrecked. Passing from the station point the cyclone struck Lake Joanna, Lake Gervais, Lake Valancia, Little Canada, and passed on about four miles to the east of White Bear Lake. The passengers on the St. Paul and Duluth train, which left White Bear at 4.45, were approaching Gladstone when they observed the cyclone forming and watched its whirling motion with interest rather than fear or excitement. Not so the engineer, however. He saw the threatening aspect of the sky, and with a startled look ahead to see if all was clear he took a firmer grip on the throttle, and the engine leaped forward. His judgment and quick action undoubtedly saved the lives of the whole crowded trainful.

FOR THE TWISTING AND TERRIFYING DEVASTATOR crossed the track scarcely more than a minute after the train had passed. The help that was then called for from the stricken districts was at once sent to them, doctors and other assistance going as fast as they could be taken. Ten bodies of those mentioned were brought to this city this evening and turned over to their friends. The place where the cyclone struck the ground and caused loss of life was on the shores of Lake Gervais, where J. H. Schurman, of this city, had a summer cottage in a little basin, where Simon Good was also located. The funnel-shaped clouds swooped down on them and demolished the dwellings and a number of other buildings in the same neighborhood. The camp of Col. Helleher, of this city, was blown down, but the large party in it all escaped injury. In the wreck of the Schurman House, however, five were killed, and there and at the Good Cottage ten were injured.

THE KILLED AND INJURED.

The following are the killed:—Mrs. J. H. Schurman and Rev. Mr. Phaeffer, of Brennan, Texas, who was visiting them; George Miller, of the First National Bank of this city; "Fete," Mr. Schurman's driver, whose name was unknown. The bodies of Mrs. Schurman, her son and Mr. Phaeffer have not yet been found. The injured were:—J. H. Schurman, scalp wound; Charlie Good, serious injury to scalp; Mrs. Phaeffer, shoulder broken; Thomas Barnard, not seriously; Mrs. George Miller, injuries to head, shoulder and foot; Miss Carrie Maes, wounded on the head and shoulder; Clark Hausen, bruised hip; Roy Good, three scalp wounds and an injury to the spine; Mr. Genter and Miss Minnie Maes. It is said that the cyclone was confined to a district only three and a half miles long, and that the worst damage was within a limit of half a mile.

OBITUARY.

NEW YORK, July 13.—General John Charles Fremont died at his residence, No. 49 West Twenty-fifth street, at four o'clock this afternoon. His death was sudden and unexpected, and resulted from an attack of peritonitis. Gen. Fremont was born at Savannah, Georgia, A.D. 1813, and graduated at Charleston College 1830. He served in various capacities in the U.S. navy, and was afterwards employed in exploration of the interior. In 1848 he fitted out an expedition at his own expense to find the best route to California, where he eventually settled. He was U.S. senator in California in 1849 and 1850. In 1856 he came to New York and in the next year was first candidate of the Republican party for President, but was defeated by Mr. Buchanan. When the war broke out Fremont was made Major-General and placed in command of the western department. He was afterwards transferred to Western Virginia, where he was out-generalled by the Confederate General Jackson. When General Pope took command Fremont retired and took no further active part in the war. From 1878 to 1881 he was governor of Arizona. Since resigning that post he has been practising law in New York.

KINGSTON, July 13.—Dr. O'Reilly, provincial inspector of asylums and prisons, who was struck with paralysis at Rockwood asylum yesterday, died to-day, aged 56. He leaves a widow and several children. He was to have gone off to Boston next week with the Prison Commissioner.

A NEW ORDER OF CONDUCTORS.

NEW YORK, July 13.—Thirty delegates, representing about three thousand conductors on eastern railways, the disaffected members of the Order of Railway Conductors, which became the victim of internal warfare at its annual meeting in Rochester because of the rescinding of a clause in the by-laws prohibiting strikes, met here to-day and organized the Independent Order of Railway Conductors. The new organization's by-laws do not touch on the strike question one way or the other. The following officers were elected:—President, C. S. Wheaton; Vice President and Secretary, E. D. Nash; chaplain, F. A. Hermance; marshal, A. H. Holridge; first conductor, L. K. Wood; second conductor, V. Pigeon; Chairman Executive Committee, F. J. Griffith. The next annual meeting of the new order will be held at St. Albans, Vt., the second Tuesday of June, 1891. The new order is described as a benefit, fraternal, insurance organization.

A BERRY PICKER'S SAD END.

SEBASTON, Pa., July 13.—Mrs. Marshall Henry, who started out from Foster yesterday to pick raspberries, was found dead in the woods last evening, death having resulted from the bite of a rattlesnake. The body was so swollen and discolored as to be hardly recognizable.

A COLLISION AVOIDED.

BY THE WATCHFULNESS OF THE "TERREBONNE'S" CAPTAIN.

There came near being a disaster on the river last evening. About 8.30 the "Terrebonne" was coming up the stream with some 400 passengers on board. She sighted the "Longueuil" leaving the city and sounded the usual signal, which was answered. The "Longueuil" came right on, however, and, instead of steering to pass in rear of the "Terrebonne," she came straight for the front of the latter, which was then on the "Longueuil" heading straight for their boat. One of the passengers stated to-day that the two boats almost touched and that if the "Terrebonne" had not reversed engines there would have been an accident. Captain Laforce, of the "Terrebonne," states, however, that there was 200 feet between the two—the "Longueuil" passing in front instead of behind the "Terrebonne." He attributes the mistake to the fact that the pilot of the "Longueuil," who is up in years, became excited and failed to act up to the signal given.

MR. FLYNN'S DEFEAT.

SOME OPINIONS OF THE FRENCH PRESS.

Speaking of the Gaspé election La Patrie says, referring to Mr. Flynn:—Thus disappears from the political scene the last of the group of five politicians who, in 1873, sold their votes to overthrow Mr. Joly. Mr. Flynn, who is a man of talent, can repeat to-day the words of the poet: "The mills of the gods grind slowly, but they grind exceeding small."

Le Moniteur says:—If the news of Mr. Carrier's victory is confirmed, it will lead to many comments, from which we abstain for the present. For to-day we simply say that the defeat of Mr. Flynn chagrins us as French-Canadians, but that as Conservatives the victory of Mr. Carrier rejoices us. Anyone who knows the two men will understand what we mean.

Le Presse says:—"In the connection of these two names, Flynn and Carrier, we find all the politics of the day. On the one side a man with unlimited capacity, on the other a haughty know-nothing, living without profession, without trade and also without scruple. Mr. Flynn was elected by acclamation in 1886, and by more than 800 in 1884. He was all powerful in his country. They have crushed him by money, whiskey and the influence of hoodlums, the esprit de corps of which body would have been deeply hurt had Mr. Carrier been defeated. Mr. Flynn, like Mr. Taitton and Mr. Desjardins, does not take his defeat to heart. The only strength which brings all the members of the ministerial body together is money, the money of contractors, the money of American manufacturers, the enemies of our country, and the money of all hoodlums. With such a high conception of politics, our Province can look forward to happy days."

BELLE ISLE STRAITS ICE.

The R. M. S. "Polyesian," Capt. Barrett, arrived in port at noon to-day. Her passengers numbered 35 cabin and 200 steerage, the majority of whom were landed at Quebec. The "Polyesian" left Liverpool at midnight on the 8th July and had a splendid passage. Outside of Belle Isle she was detained for twelve hours in a dense fog. Captain Barrett states that the ice in the Straits was extraordinarily thick. He saw two bergs about 30 feet high and each measuring fully a mile and a half in length. During the voyage a little German girl was born. The mother and the child got ashore at Quebec, each doing remarkably well.

To-morrow everything will be in full working order, and friends interested should drop in and encourage the ladies in their good work.

The Rev. W. J. Dart, of St. Lambert, has returned from a two months' vacation in Europe. While abroad he took occasion to visit Jersey, his place of birth. Mr. Dart looks the picture of health, having been very much benefited by his trip.

Kosuth, who is living at Superna, in Italy, is afflicted with slowly progressing catarrh, but he himself believes that death will arrive sooner than blindness. He lives in retirement. He declines to see visitors.

The Rev. Dr. Rose, of Toronto, one of the oldest and best known Methodist ministers, is very seriously ill. For some four years his health has been failing. On Saturday his son, the Rev. S. P. Rose, pastor of the Dominion square church, was summoned to his bedside, that he might be with his father in his last moments. Dr. Rose is but a few days short of eighty years of age, and his life has been a laborious and honored one.

THE WATCHDOG'S WARNING.

THE ACTING MAYOR AND THE CIVIC CONTRACTORS' PRICES—A VIGOROUS ATTACK UPON THEM.

The Acting Mayor is far from satisfied with the proposed contracts for permanent paving. "If they pass the Council," he said to a Witness reporter this morning, "I will never sign them."

He read the following at this afternoon's meeting of Council:—

To the Aldermen of the city of Montreal:—

GENTLEMEN,—It is my duty to lay before you a statement of facts which I believe are of such importance to the welfare of the city as to deserve your serious consideration.

The Road Committee awarded contracts during the past week involving, if sanctioned by you, an expenditure of

Wood pavements.....$237,500
Granite.....134,339
Asphalt.....146,194

Total.....$517,993

The prices tendered at and accepted by the Road Committee are in excess of the amount authorized by the Council, in amount $39,258.50, consequently the action of the Road Committee in accepting tenders for an amount not sanctioned by Council is illegal. No contract can be completed until application is made to the Council and the approval of the Finance Committee obtained for the amount in excess.

The estimates submitted to the Council were based on the contractors' prices of last year, taking the prices paid for William street, Craig street and the asphalt of last year. The cost of the work which the Road Committee proposes to give out if the contracts are approved by the Council will exceed last year's prices by the sum of $78,964.30.

The principle of basing estimates on a previous year's contract is entirely erroneous.

The surveyor's estimate should have shown to the Council what the work would actually cost, not what previous contractors had charged for like work.

For over half a million dollars' work there are only the following competitors:

For the wood pavements, James Cochrane and Bastien & Valiquette. For the granite blocks or laying, James Cochrane, Bastien & Valiquette, McKenna and Lawrence. For the asphalt, J. Cochrane, James Bros., and the Warren Scharf Co.

The contracts were awarded by the Road Committee as follows:

Wood pavements:—

Bastien & Valiquette—
St. Catherine—De Loraine
St. Catherine—Amherst to
St. Andre.....2,200 1.60 2.35 3.95
Dorchester—Peel to Fort.....15,000 1.65 2.45 4.10
Papineau—St. Cath. to
St. Paul.....50,000 1.60 2.35 3.95
(For Dorchester and Papineau avenue there is only one tender, that of Bastien & Valiquette.)
St. Lawrence—Craig to La-cauchetiere.....4,100 1.60 2.35 3.95

Total.....$7,300

Bastien & Valiquette's spring prices, 1890, for the same work were:—Blocks, $1.23; laying, $1.55; total, $3.08, or nearly 28 percent under their present tender.

James Cochrane was awarded the following streets for wood paving:—

Yds. Blocks. Laying. Total.
St. Catherine—University
to Peel.....6,300 1.75 2.40 4.15
Windward street.....1,900 1.75 2.40 4.15
St. Gabriel—Notre Dame to
St. Paul.....1,100 1.75 2.40 4.15
Total.....9,300

The stone block pavements were awarded as follows:

James Cochrane—
St. Lambert hill.....1,300 2.98 3.20 6.18
Place d'Armes hill.....1,000 2.98 3.20 6.18
Windward street.....2,800 2.98 3.20 6.18
St. Patrick street.....8,400 1.98 2.20 4.18
Total.....15,500

F. H. McKenna was awarded:

Parthenais.....7,300 2.59 3.15 5.74
Lacord street.....3,200 2.59 3.15 5.74
Barrack.....3,100 2.59 3.15 5.74
Total.....13,600

Last spring prices were $1.86 for blocks and $1.89 for laying; total, $3.75 per yard.

The asphalt pavements were awarded as follows, all with ten years' guarantee:—

James Cochrane—
Windward street.....3,97 per yard.....5,000 yards
Mountain street.....3.97 ".....3,300 " "
Peel street.....3.97 ".....3,300 " "
St. Peter street.....3.98 ".....1,800 " "
St. Theresa street.....3.99 ".....200 " "
St. George street.....3.99 ".....200 " "

Warren Scharf Company—
Notre Dame street.....4.43 ".....2,500 " "
Fortification lane.....4.43 ".....2,700 " "
".....4.43 ".....1,700 " "

Total.....13,900

There is no valid reason why James Cochrane should be paid 54c a yard more than the Warren Scharf Company, inasmuch as by the City Surveyor's report of 21st May last the Trinidad asphalt composition is equal in quality to the Sicilian asphalt composition.

I recommend, therefore, that the Council decline to ratify the action of the Road Committee, and award the contract to the lowest tender—that of the Warren Scharf Company, thereby saving to the city $3,559.

In regard to the wooden block pavement the price is too high.

The city laid by days' work on St. Francois Xavier street as good work as is to be done by the contractors, the wooden block paving at $1.98 per yard.

have not spoken to him the past three months. That was on St. Sulpice street when he was laying blocks."

EXPONING THE CONTRACTORS.

A gentleman interested in contract work says that prices should have been lower rather than higher than those of last year, labor being much more plentiful and easier to obtain than it was then. As for materials they are not any higher. Mr. St. George, when he made his estimates based them evidently on the ruling prices.

A LANDMARK REMOVED.

DEATH CARRIED AWAY A POLITICAL OF THE OLD REGIME AND LATER A PHILANTHROPIST.

Mr. Francois Antoine Chantier Alfred LaRoque, one of the leading French-Canadians of Montreal, died yesterday at his residence, No. 387 Dorchester street, at the age of 70 years. The deceased gentleman had been confined to his house for the last twenty months suffering with paralysis and epilepsy. Yesterday forenoon he was sitting in his library, after partaking of a hearty breakfast, when he died suddenly from syncope of the heart. Mr. LaRoque was widely known as a public benefactor, having spent a good portion of his large fortune on charitable institutions. He was born in Montreal in September, 1819, and after a course of studies was admitted to the Bar but never practised. He married the only daughter of the late Olivier Berthelette, commander of the Order of Pius IX., and inherited his large fortune, together with the Queneau and Cote estates. He went into politics in 1848, and was a candidate in the famous elections of that year when such men as Papineau, Dumais, Badgley and Young were in the mould. He was defeated by Mr. Drummond and afterwards became Postmaster of Montreal, succeeding the late Dr. Meilleur. This position he kept until 1854, when he went to Paris for treatment for epilepsy, of which he did not get cured, however, and with which he suffered until his death. During his sojourn in the French capital, his wife died there after giving birth to a daughter, who is now the wife of the Hon. Alderice Guimet, Speaker of the House of Commons. After his return, Mr. LaRoque devoted his time to helping his father-in-law, the late Commander Berthelette, in the latter's numerous works of charity. After Mr. Berthelette's death in 1872, his son-in-law continued the same good work. The Brothers of St. Vincent de Paul, who have charge of the Boys' Reformatory, were among those who received most from his liberality, and after adding a wing to their Mignonne street establishment, he contributed largely to the construction of their asylum at Longue Pointe. He was, with the late Archbishop Bourget, one of the founders of the City and District Savings Bank, and was vice president of that institution at the time of his death. Mr. LaRoque was also at one time an alderman of Montreal and a churchwarden of Notre Dame. He leaves and three children:—Chevalier Alfred LaRoque, Mr. Armand LaRoque and Madame Oumet. Notwithstanding his numerous charities, the fortune of Mr. LaRoque is said to be still very large. The funeral will take place on Wednesday next when Mr. Edmond Murphy, Judge Papineau, Mr. E. J. Barbeau and Mr. R. Belleme will be among the pall bearers. The flag is flying at half-mast over the City Hall in respect for the memory of the deceased.

CITY ORANGEMEN CELEBRATE.

Those of the Montreal Orangemen who were unable to leave town, celebrated the 12th at the Scandinavian rooms in the Ottawa buildings, St. James street. The tables were well filled and one extra had to be brought in to satisfy many who had come in late. Among the invited guests were the Rev. Dr. Smyth, of Calvin Presbyterian Church; the Rev. Chas. Tully, of St. Bartholomew's, and Mr. James Harper, Hon. Secretary of the Equal Rights Association. Mr. G. Alexander Ellis, of Boyne lodge, presided and opened the toast lists with a few remarks. The loyal toasts followed. Among the speakers were Rev. C. Tully, who responded very happily to the toast to the Governor-General. Dr. Smyth, grand chaplain of Quebec, responded to the toast, "The Great, Glorious, Pious and Immortal Memory of William III." Mr. Tener responded to the toast of "The Imperial Grand Master," and Mr. D. Grant responded to that of "Orangemen Everywhere." In reply to the toast of "Equal Rights," Mr. Harper dwelt especially upon the educational aspects of the Province of Quebec. The dinner was strictly temperate. There were very few examples of any kind, and had some representatives of those French Canadian newspapers present, who insult Orangemen, they would have learned some lessons in patriotism, and have seen that Orangemen are not the bigots and fanatics they represent them to be. The gathering dispersed at 11 p.m.

A PULP AND PAPER COMPANY.

Messrs. Wm. Angus, of Montreal; Francis P. Buck, Wm. B. Ives, of Sherbrooke; Rufus H. Pope, of Cookshire; and George Van Dyke, of Lancaster, New Hampshire, will apply to the Lieutenant Governor in Council for letters patent incorporating them under the name of "The Royal Pulp and Paper Company." The object of the new company is to manufacture wood and chemical pulp, paper and lumber, and to do a general manufacturing business at East Angus, County of Compton, with a capital stock of $300,000.

On Sunday morning, Special Constable Flood, of the Canadian Pacific Railway, counted twenty-two loafers carousing on the railway track between Montreal and Brock streets. He summoned Sergeant Hilton and two constables and they arrested six of the gang, who were to-day fined $3 each.

THE LATE SPANISH CRISIS.

LONDON, July 14.—The Standard correspondent at Madrid reports an interview with Senor Canovas del Castillo, the Spanish Prime Minister, in which he said that foreign influence had nothing at all to do with the recent ministerial crisis in Spain. It was due, he said, to the incapacity of the Leral. The Prime Minister stated that he was in favor of a moderate protective policy and a renewal of the treaties of commerce, which expire in 1892.

SNOW IN THE ALPS.

VIENNA, July 14.—Snow covers the central Alps and continues falling. In the district of Salzburg and the adjacent country everything has a wintry appearance. The rivers in the southern Tyrolean Alps have overflowed their banks. The Adige from Bozen downward has flooded the adjacent country. Half of the city of Trent, Austria, which is situated on the left bank of the Adige is submerged.

THE FALL OF THE BASTILLE.

PARIS, July 14.—The one hundred and first anniversary of the fall of the Bastille is being celebrated with great enthusiasm to-day. The city has a festive appearance and the streets are thronged with holiday makers. One feature of the celebration was the march past the statue of Strasbourg in the Place de la Concorde by a procession consisting of the members of a number of patriotic societies. M. Mary, a Boulangist member of the Chamber of Deputies, attempted to make a speech at the statue. He was warned by the police to desist, but persisted in addressing the crowd despite the warning and was taken into custody. Another feature of the celebration was a parade by the children attending the public schools, who defiled before the Hotel de Ville.

PRINCIPAL PUBLIC BENEFACTORS.

NEW YORK, July 12.—The London correspondent of the Times cables as follows:—Parallel with the unexampled labor troubles is running now a spirit of public benefactions which has never before been equalled in the munificence of its gifts. The details of Henry Tate's offer to present to the nation fifty of the best paintings which English art has produced in the last twenty years have been given already. This week two nameless gentlemen have guaranteed $150,000 if the Government gives $125,000 for the purchase for the National Gallery of three famous pictures from Lord Radnor's collection at Longford Castle. The pictures are Holbein's "Ambassadors," the largest work of his in existence; the portrait of Admiral Parry, by Velasquez, one of the two most important of his works outside of Spain, and the portrait by Moreau, whose picture of "A Tailor" is one of the chief prizes of the National Gallery. This is an average of over $50,000 each for the three canvases. It is unique in the history of modern picture buying, and there would have been difficulty in getting Parliament to ratify the bargain if over half the money had not come out of private pockets.

THE MINNESOTA CATASTROPHE.

A CHICAGO ROBBERY.

After overcoating two clerks, who were in charge, with revolvers the robbers secured between $5,000 and $10,000, and made good their escape. Much mystery surrounds the affair. The officials of the Company this morning admit that the robbery took place, but say the robbers secured less than one hundred dollars. It is admitted chloroform was used on the clerks.

FIRE IN TEXAS.

NEW ORLEANS, La., July 14.—A despatch from Dallas, Texas, early this morning says: Fire broke out in the Gould building at 12.10 o'clock this morning and is now spreading rapidly.
