gret, me, You will not re - gret; You will try to for - - get me, You can - not for - get; We shall hear of each o - ther, Ah! mis' - ry, to hear Those names from a - no - ther, Which once were so dear. But deep words shall sting thee, That breathe of the past; And ma - ny things bring thee, Thoughts fa - ted to last. Ma - ny things bring thee, Thoughts fa - ted to last. I rall. say not re - - gret me, You will not re - tempo.

The fond hopes, that cen - tred In thee, are all fled; The i - - - ron hath en - ter'd The soul where they fed. Of the chain that once bound me, The mem' - ry is mine, But my words are a - round thee, Their pow'r is on thine. No hope, no re - - pen - tance, My weak - ness is o'er, It died with the sen - tence, I love thee no more, It died with the sen-tence, I love thee no more. I say not re-gret me, You
