World News In Brief

San Diego, Calif., Oct. 4.—(P) The people of the United States were advised yesterday to eat fish heads, melon seeds and other things they throw away to maintain national health during the world food shortage.

Dr. Francis M. Pottenger, Jr., president of the American Academy of Applied Nutrition, said in an interview that the Federal government while sending food abroad, should help teach people to revise their eating habits to go along on what's left.

High prices, he added, have already "undoubtedly" led to some undernourishment.

Hamburg, Oct. 4.—(Reuters)—The statistical office of Wuertembergbaden has estimated that 1,500,000 known German prisoners of war and 1,600,000 soldiers whose fate is not known—a total of 3,100,000—have not yet returned to their country, the German news agency in the British zone reported today.

Peiping, Oct. 4.—(P)—A marked turn for the worse in the government's military position in Manchuria was indicated today in Nationalist dispatches reporting Communist infiltration to a point only ten miles south of Changchun, capital of the sprawling territory.

Describing it as a "critical period," a military spokesman in Mukden conceded that the vital government part of Yingkou on the northeast coast of Liao-Tung gulf was virtually immobilized.

The two government dispatches also reported an all-night battle on the outskirts of Kaiyuan, about 70 miles northeast of Mukden on the rail line to Changchun.

Associated Press Correspondent Harold K. Mills at Nanking reported that observers in the capital deemed unlikely a Communist frontal attack on Mukden. They look for an attempt to smash into Fushan, coal mining centre east of Mukden which also supplies that big industrial city with electricity and water.

Montreal, Oct. 4.—(P)—Two members of the witness of Jehovah sect face the possibility of spending a week-end in jail today as they await new bondsmen to bail them out.

The 41 men and 21 women, all awaiting trial on charges of distributing pamphlets without a city permit, spent last night in jail after Recorder Roland Paquette yesterday agreed to a request of Frank Roncarelli, wealthy former restaurateur, that he be allowed to withdraw as bondsman on condition that about 100 witnesses for whom he put up surety, return to custody of the court.

Roncarelli had applied for permission to withdraw his property bond in the case of eight of the witnesses so that sale of his establishment could be concluded. The bond he had deposited at Recorder's Court to free the eight witnesses was a $10,000 lien against his midtown Crescent Street property.

Quebec Premier Urges Meat Workers Return To Duties

By The Canadian Press
The wages strike by 12,000 members of the United Packinghouse Workers of America (C.I.O.) against Swift Canadian, Canada Packers and Burns and Company today enters its fourth week with settlement no nearer than when the Union called its members out of 21 packing plants in eight provinces.

Union insistence upon nationwide conciliation of its demand for wage increases averaging 17 cents an hour to bring the minimum hourly wage to 82 cents remained the stumbling block. Lack of jurisdiction holds up federal intervention.

So far the provinces have been unable to agree on concerted action and their settlement efforts have, in the main, been individual and sporadic. The latest provincial action came last night from Quebec where Premier Duplessis asked the

Absence Of Medical Expert Delays Preliminary Hearing In Alleged Granby Murder

Provincial Police Official Fails to Appear at Hearing of Granby Man Charged With Slaying of Daughter—Many Other Witnesses Heard.

Sweetsburg, Oct. 4.—The preliminary hearing of Toussaint Gilbert, 19, of Rural Route No. 3, Granby Township, charged with the "nipple murder" of his 51-day-old daughter, Denise, will resume in Magistrate's Court here on October 10 under Judge Anatole Gaudet after the hearing was laid over yesterday due to the failure of Dr. Rosario Fontaine, medico-legal expert, of Montreal, to appear in court.

Dr. Fontaine, who performed the autopsy on the body of the child, allegedly slain when her father forced a nipple down her throat to stop her crying, is one of the main witnesses in the case and the hearing could not continue until his testimony was heard.

Labor Body Asks Better Payments

T.L.C. Recommends Old Age Pensions Start at 60 for Men and Married Women.

Hamilton, Oct. 4.—(P)—Extension of workmen's compensation benefits to cover all workers in Canada was urged by the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada convention at its closing sessions.

The Congress, which wound up its 10-day meeting yesterday, also recommended that old age pensions start at 60 for men and married women and at 55 for other women. Delegates also asked that all blind persons be pensioned at 18.

The convention suggested that workmen's compensation guarantee workers "full earnings" when laid off for injuries. It also sought elimination of waiting time before payments start.

Another resolution called for full citizenship rights for Indians without requiring surrender of their collective rights to reservation property.

In his closing address, President Percy Bengough asserted the Congress never would be dominated by any political party. It was going to stay independent, he told the 600 delegates.

Longest debate of the day centred on the subject of dual unionism. The Congress labelled the Seafarers' International Union a dual body and instructed its Trades and Labor Council not to give that group affiliation.

The Seafarers' International Union is affiliated to some of the Congress Councils on the west coast, although the Canadian Seamen's Union is the organization the Congress recognizes as representing Canadian marine labor.

C.S.U. delegates called the American-headed S.I.U. a "disruptive" body which represented only a small fraction of Canadian sea labor, but Vancouver and Victoria council delegates defended their tie-up with the S.I.U. and said it would be preferable to try to obtain union with the organization instead of barring it.

strikers to go back to their jobs "with every protection afforded by the laws of the province."

Making the appeal at a press conference a few hours after Quebec Labor Minister Barrette urged strikers to return to work and assured them that provincial conciliation machinery would be placed at their disposal, Premier Duplessis said the province could not tolerate disrespect of its laws. The tie-up came at a time when foodstuffs were "more than ever necessary."

In Prince Edward Island where the provincial government has taken over operation of the province's lone packing plant—Canada Packers in Charlottetown—a carload of dressed hogs was loaded yesterday for shipment to Nova Scotia. Forty-five men were at work in the plant, including 14 hired yesterday.

As union members in 11 Western Canada independent packing plants voted in favor of joining the walkout to enforce wage demands similar to those of "Big Three" employees, President George Wright of the Saskatchewan section of the United Farmers of Canada said that if the federal government "continues to refuse" to act to end the strike within the next few days, the U.F.C. will seek "some other method" of ending it. He did not elaborate on the method.

Workers at 10 other independent packing plants have scheduled

The few witnesses heard all testified the child was killed by a nipple, surrounded by an ivory guard, which had been shoved down her throat. Other witnesses said Gilbert had been heard to express the wish his infant daughter were dead.

The alleged murder took place at Gilbert's home on September 21st and a police investigation into the affair continued up until September 30th when the youthful father was placed under arrest.

A coroner's inquest at Granby last night before found the accused criminally responsible for the death of the tot.

Patrick Delaney, Crown Prosecutor for the District of Bedford, laid a formal charge of murder against Gilbert at Sweetsburg where the young man was taken to jail the same day of his arrest.

During the inquest, Dr. Fontaine testified the youngster had died of asphyxiation, and that a great deal of force had been used to shove the nipple down the baby's throat. He added the ivory guard around the nipple was much larger than the child's mouth. It was not possible for a baby of that age to shove an article of that size far enough into its throat to cause strangulation, Dr. Fontaine stated.

Another witness, Mrs. Pierre Meunier, a neighbor of the Gilberts, said the father had not wanted the child to be born and had hoped it would die before birth. She said Gilbert had resented his wife "spoiling" the child.

Joseph Cadotte, another neighbor, said the accused had been heard to say he wished the child would die.

Julien Leroux testified the baby's father had come to his home on the day of the alleged murder, claiming his daughter had swallowed a nipple and asked what he should do. Leroux advised the summoning of a doctor.

Dr. James Hartford, of Granby, was called to the scene but found the source too far down the baby's throat to be removed with his hands. He rushed the apparently lifeless child to Granby Hospital where he and Dr. St. Jean removed the obstruction with the aid of surgical instruments.

The two doctors applied artificial respiration for nearly an hour after the nipple was removed but failed to revive the youngster.

Dr. Hartford testified that when he arrived at the Gilbert home, he found the apparently dead body of a child nearly two months old with a piece of string hanging out of her mouth and another attached to her clothing.

The slain girl, reported to be an only child, weighed about eight pounds.

The coroner's jury deliberated about 15 minutes before returning the verdict indicting Gilbert.

Canadian Line In Market For Ships

Liverpool, England, Oct. 4.—(P)—Prepared to place orders with British shipbuilding firms for two 20,000-ton passenger vessels if they can be built at a reasonable price, President W. D. Neal of the Canadian Pacific Railway arrived on the Empress of Canada.

Neal said in addition to making his first presidential visit to the company's United Kingdom offices he was concerned with placing an order for a new ship for the Atlantic route.

Conviction Maintained In Slaying

Stationary Engineer Faces Noose for Second Time for Killing of Nine-Year-Old St. Catharines Girl.

St. Catharines, Ont., Oct. 4.—For the second time, Sydney George Chambers, 35-year-old stationary engineer and father of a six-year-old girl, is under sentence to be hanged for the Christmas week strangle-laying of Marian Rusnak, nine, whose body was never found.

His second trial ended late yesterday when a jury brought in a verdict of guilty of murder. Mr. Justice Keller Maskay sentenced him to be hanged December 8.

The black-haired, heavy-browed Chambers, wearing a dark blue suit, was impassive as he heard the verdict which climaxed the 11-day hearing in Ontario Supreme Court. The jury deliberated 35 minutes.

Chambers, who said in a statement to police that he lured the child to his room as she carried home a Christmas present, apologized for the Christmas Eve, was convicted of murder last March 7 but on appeal won a new trial.

Testifying in his own defence Thursday, Chambers denied everything as evidence—and insisted he was innocent of any responsibility for the girl's disappearance or death.

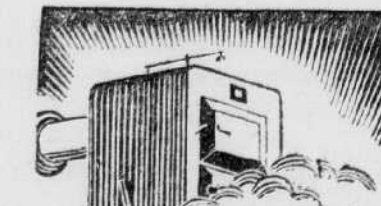

He said he confessed to the slaying last January 3 to further his own ends. He implied that he wanted to die. He gleaned from newspaper accounts the details of the girl's fate found in his statement or they were supplied by police, he declared.

Other witnesses testified that they saw Chambers talking to Marian Rusnak near the girl's home at dusk last December 22, that they heard him offer her a present for her baby brother and that they saw her walk away with him.

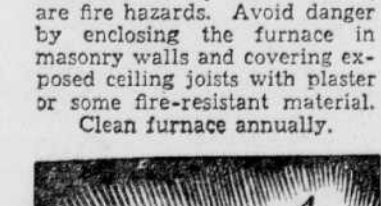

Six Leading Preventable Domestic Fire Causes

MATCHES carry the Red Terror. Don't throw a match away before it is out. Keep matches in metal containers and out of reach of children. Youngsters playing with matches cause 26,000 fires a year.

FURNACES, by their nature, are fire hazards. Avoid danger by enclosing the furnace in masonry walls and covering exposed ceiling joists with plaster or some fire-resistant material. Clean furnace annually.

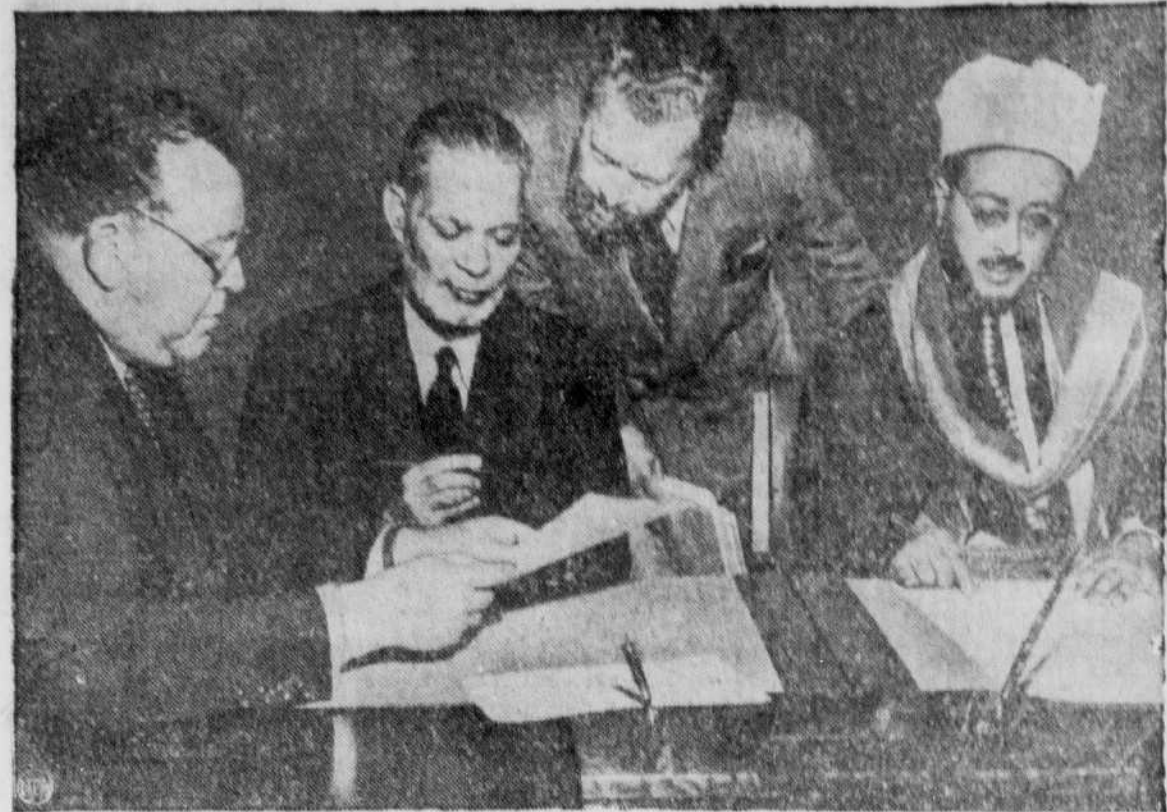

CARELESS SMOKERS are a principal cause of fires. Have plenty of ash trays. Never discard a burning butt and make sure a butt crushed in ash tray is really dead. And never, never smoke in bed!

FLAMMABLE ROOFING invites disaster. Protect your home from chimney sparks and air-borne embers with fire-resistant material, such as asphalt shingles. Repair worn or broken roofs promptly.

SEEK SOVIET FRIENDSHIP

London, Oct. 4.—(Reuters)—Demands for fresh efforts toward friendship with the Soviet Union dominate the agenda for the two-day annual conference of the British-Soviet Society opening here today under chairmanship of Rev. Stanley Evans.

A policy resolution submitted by the Society's National Council calls on the government "instantly to re-open trade discussion with the Soviet Government and to join with the Soviet Government, within the terms of the Charter of the United Nations, in pressing for disarmament and measures to free the world from the menace of the atomic bomb."

The conference also will be asked to "call on the entire British people to compel a policy of friendship between the two countries."

Churchill, Man, Oct. 4.—(P)—

Two small children at the isolated Moffat Inlet mission 1,000 miles north of here are looking eagerly skyward today, watching for the R.C.A.F. aircraft bringing medical aid to their seriously-ill father.

Their mother, a registered nurse, is busy in one of the three wooden buildings comprising the mission, tending to her minister-husband, Canon John H. Turner, injured last week when a bullet accidentally discharged from his rifle lodged in his head.

Watching the cold northern skies with the orbit of the Arctic Circle with the Anglican missionary's two children are Eskimos from a 75-mile radius.

They have been rounded up to assist in bringing in the 2,800 pounds of equipment and supplies which the Dakota aircraft will drop over the small mission in addition to four paratroopers, one of them an army doctor.

The aircraft, which left Rivers, Man., Thursday for Churchill, on the southwestern fringe of Hudson Bay, reached Coral Harbor on Southampton Island Friday. Bad weather delayed its 550-mile hop from there to Moffat Inlet yesterday.

But today, weather permitting, the specially-equipped Air Force plane is expected to complete the last four-hour leg of its mercy flight, dropping the doctor, Capt. Ross Wolloughby, veteran Paratrooper Capt. Guy D'Artois, formerly of Sherbrooke, and Signals Sergeant H. C. Cook and W. W. Judd.

Due to the rugged terrain of the country surrounding the mission—a jagged cliff varying in height from 200 to 500 feet stands immediately behind the buildings—the aircraft will not be able to land at this time.

However, within a few weeks—the weeks may stretch into a month—sufficient ice is expected to have formed on the waters at the Baffin Inlet to permit a plane to skim lightly down.

At such time the ailing minister will be flown to a medical centre.

Tenant Held In Slaying At Kingston

Police Unable to Obtain Coherent Account of Incident from Participants in Drinking Bout.

Kingston, Ont., Oct. 4.—(P)—Three hours after a shotgun blast ripped his head and face, Michael Kazma, 62, died in hospital without regaining consciousness and police today are holding 32-year-old Clarence Washer in connection with the shooting.

Police said Kazma, Washer's landlord, was shot at dusk yesterday as he dug a sewer at the rear of a house he was building on Montreal street within eight of Kingston's Canadian National Railways station.

Investigators quoted Fred Van Hooser, who lives in the area, as saying he heard a shot and found Kazma semi-conscious with blood oozing from his head wounds.

A trail of blood indicated that Kazma, father of nine children ranging in age from 16 to 31 years, had staggered nearly 50 yards in a vain attempt to obtain help. Nearby police found an empty cartridge case and a shotgun shell.

Half an hour later they took Washer into custody in a swamp a short distance from his home. Washer's house is adjacent to the partly-built house on which Kazma was working.

Officers found a 410-calibre shotgun leaning against a table in the Washer house. They said there were indications a drinking party attended by two women and five men had been in progress about the time of the shooting. Police said none of the quintet could give a coherent account of the circumstances.

Fuel Supplies Ample For Normal Use, Survey Shows

By The Canadian Press
Canadian householders, given a reasonable share of the breaks and exercising a degree of caution with their fuel supply, will be able to keep warm this winter.

A Canadian Press survey today revealed that fuel supplies expected to be able to meet their customers' need for the winter but that most expected it would be a tight squeeze.

Such factors as the amount of cold weather and labor and transportation problems may prove determining factors in keeping furnaces going, and most consumers will find their fuel bills running higher than in 1946.

Bemoaning the fact that few householders heeded warnings to lay in winter supplies during the summer, coal dealers are bracing themselves for the avalanche of orders expected when cold weather sets in. For some the avalanche has already started and there are running behind on orders. However, most feel the supply will meet the demand.

The situation across the Dominion:
Halifax: Coal supply a little better than last year; prices are higher. Fuel oil supply "tight" but dealers expect to meet their commitments. The price is up two cents to 13 cents a gallon.

Saint John, N.B.: The greatest shortage is expected to be in the fuel oil department. There is

Will Probe Prison Farm Disturbance

Reinforced Guard Patrols Maintain Vigil Until Late Hours — Deny Report Ringleader Escaped.

Sudbury, Ont., Oct. 4.—(P)—Reinforced guard patrols were on the alert today for any further disturbances at the Burwash Industrial Farm, with the situation described as one of uneasy quiet, while members of a special commission named by the Ontario Government worked on piecing together a report for the Department of Reform Institutions.

A reporter for the Sudbury Star watching from outside the farm for three hours last night, said guards at camp No. 1—trouble spot of the disturbances which broke out Wednesday night—kept a vigil until the late hours.

Ranks of the guards at camp No. 1 were reported to have been strengthened by a shift of some of the guards from camp No. 2. Denial was made by camp officials of a report that a ringleader of the disturbances had escaped early last night.

Also denied was a report that the entire institution had been virtually in the hands of the prisoners Thursday afternoon.

Knots of inmates of camp No. 1 whispered in the compound long after the "lights out" signal last night, and there was no apparent attempt to disperse the gatherings. The Sudbury Star's reporter said guards at camp No. 1 "freely admitted that their hands were tied by an absence of orders to enforce discipline."

Only those prisoners designated to do so by committees established by the inmates went to work Friday, it was reported.

A three-man investigation commission will investigate Tuesday's escape attempt by five prisoners, all recaptured, the subsequent harp among prisoners in camp No. 1, and the resignations of 11 guards who charged a "lack of discipline" at the farm.

Twelve guards who had been taking special training classes at Guelph were ordered to return to Burwash to replace the 11 who resigned and who termed the demonstration a "riot."

The prisoners were reported to have formed a grievance committee to present complaints to Supt. Ralph Ayers and C. F. Neelands, Deputy Minister of Reform Institutions. Supt. Ayers was said to have told them he would deal with their demands as presented by committee representatives, not by demonstrations.

The prisoners were said to have accepted a suggestion that damage done during the disturbances be cleaned up, but there was no attempt to put the men back to regular work on roads and in the bush around the reformatory.

REFRIGERATOR BREAK CAUSES TROUBLE

Rehoboth, N.Y., Oct. 4.—(P)—One woman was overcome, a score of persons were affected and six firemen were made ill when sulphur dioxide fumes from a refrigerator system filled a 20-apartment building here yesterday.

Sullivan, Ind., Oct. 4.—(P)—James R. Riggs, 82, who served as Assistant Secretary of Agriculture in the administration of Woodrow Wilson, died yesterday after suffering a cerebral hemorrhage.

Government Of Denmark Is Defeated

Leftist Group Forces Non-Confidence Vote on Policies of Kristensen—General Elections Called.

Copenhagen, Oct. 4.—(P)—Premier Knud Kristensen's minority government fell yesterday.

The Danish Parliament's lower chamber cast an 80-65 vote of non-confidence on a resolution blaming Kristensen for his attitude on the South Schleswig question as voiced in speeches outside Parliament.

Kristensen said he would ask King Frederik IX to call new elections and the King dissolved the lower chamber in preparation for such balloting.

Resolutions of non confidence had been offered by the Social Democrats, with 48 seats in the Lower House; the Communists, with 18; and the Radical Left party, with 11; representing together a majority in the 149-seat house. The Radical Left's resolution was the one voted on.

Kristensen, appointed Premier Nov. 7, 1945, as successor to Social Democrat Vilhelm Buhl, is the Hollywood, Oct. 4.—I knew it had to happen sooner or later. It's the letter I've been waiting for. From Portland, Ore., the lady writes: "My husband and I are among the candy and popcorn offenders at the movies. I'll confess it's a habit of which I am not proud, and one we've developed only in the last five or six years. I didn't even do it as a child. I've been asking myself 'why?'—and the answer is really very simple: Double features and very bad pictures. It's the only way to keep awake."

CONFESSIONS OF A POPCORN NIBBLER

Short Takes: Dick Haymes is dickering to purchase an interest in the St. Louis Browns. ... Ida Lupino's best beau, Collier Young, hopes she'll return to Warner Bros.—at least for "Act Violence," which he wrote with her in mind.

Harold Russell, despite Sam Goldwyn's objections, is collecting $1750 a week on an eastern vaudeville tour. Sam claims it's breaking the dignity built around him but Russell said "nuts to dignity."

Charlotte Greenwood's "Remember Mama" is the year's best out-of-type casting. After 40 years, Charlotte traded her familiar "So Long Letty" shenanigans for straight dramas.

Model-For-A-Day Gene Tierney worked as a model for a day in New York as a favor to her ex-husband, fashion designer Oleg Cassini. "But," says Gene, "please don't revive those reconciliation rumors."

Switch: Dan Duryea's 7-year-old son Richard, came home from school, started to cry. "What's wrong?" asked Dan. "Aw," wailed Richard, "all the fellas at school were braggin' about the great jobs their fathers have, and when they asked me what you do, I had to tell them you're only an actor."

Hollywood promises usually have the same value as Confederate money. But this promise was kept. In one scene of "The Bishop's Wife" you'll see, among other objects on a table, a small stone bust of a pretty young lady.

It's a statuette with a history that goes back to the time when Henry Koster proposed to Peggy Moran. He was an already famous director. She was a promising young actress. When he asked her to marry him they both knew it would mean her giving up her professional career.

"But if you marry me," Koster promised, "I'll see that you appear in every picture I direct." In every film Koster has directed, Peggy's statue has been seen in at least one scene.

Glamour Tips Frankie Van, the physical director who controls the pounds on the glamour gals at the Universal-International studio, has written a book, "Body by Van." It tells you ladies how you can put the right curves in the right places, or get rid of the bumps where you don't want them. I asked Frankie for some tips to pass on to you.

Don't. Don't diet on your own. See a doctor. Don't eat that sweet stuff between meals. Don't wear yourself out with exercises once a week. When you exercise, use muscle, not just motion. And don't get discouraged. It takes six months, not six days.

Do. On the Do side of Frankie's ledger, he says eat sensibly, not stuffily. Get out in the fresh air, go to bed early and get up early and get your husband's breakfast. Atta boy, Frankie.

Community School Told Of Close Link Of Art With The Spoken Word

Rock Island, Oct. 4.—Declaring that there is a remarkable relationship between the spoken word and picture making as defined by the art of painting, Miss Nora McCullough, of the National Art Gallery in Ottawa, speaking at the first Public Assembly session of the International Community School at Stanstead College Wednesday evening, said that "one can get a tremendous lift from the creative power expressed in the freedom of painting."

Speaking on the cultural aspects of painting, Miss McCullough told the assembly that "our gifts or talents are not developed enough" and that there should be more importance given to the participation in such creative powers to gain better understanding among peoples of the world. "Art is for everybody," the speaker said, "and pictures have played a great part in bringing realism of the past into the present, giving us clues of the way other people lived and thought, as shown through their contemporary artists of that day and age."

"In Egyptian art, the way of life in Egypt is shown to us today through discovery of these age-old works of art which the Egyptians used to tell their story by means of their own hieroglyphics or the art of picture-writing of the ancient Egyptians."

"Even the Indians used picture-writing to tell their story, and many a bit of history has been captured for us through the creative expressions of these ancient forms of talking or recording by means of art."

Tracing the development of the power of expression as shown in art, Miss McCullough displayed a number of poster-type paintings, done in freehand style, by youngsters between the ages of 6 and 16, in South Africa, where she spent seven years instructing in art work. The brilliant colors and originality of expression plainly showed the environment as envisioned by the respective boys and girls in their own understanding of life in Cape Province of South Africa.

All work shown by Miss McCullough was done by the children themselves, untaught, and given an opportunity to draw and express their own feelings and impressions. Each picture showed the creative expression brought out by the child to emphasize some part of their own background. The various works included striking pictorializations of such native ways and thoughts, and outstanding events as "Coon Carnival Days in Cape Town," "Street Scene," "Cape Town Flower Market," the "Elephant Procession," and what most impressed the young artist. Each picture was accompanied by a free-style running commentary by Miss McCullough, who through her own words provided a great insight into life in South Africa, especially among the natives of Cape Province.

The work of students from a hard-of-hearing class in art plainly showed their enthusiasm in this visual form of expression. Other works included original and colorful finely-detailed designs done by boys in a South African school similar to Bishop's College School.

FORMATION OF NEW SERVICE CLUB PLANNED

At a brief meeting held in Sherbrooke between a group of young men of Sherbrooke, and Charles Halpin, of Montreal, Lieutenant Governor of the 15th District (eastern) of the Optimist International, and president of the Verdun Optimist Club, it was decided to go ahead with the formation of a branch of the Optimist Club in Sherbrooke.

Mr. Halpin was very favorably impressed with the possibilities of organizing such a club in Sherbrooke and will return on October 19, at which time the club will officially get under way. A field worker is soon to be sent to Sherbrooke to interview prospective members and to carry out the necessary ground work for the formation of the club.

Immunization Campaign Is Planned For Coming Week

National Immunization week has been found that one dose given to children will restore their resistance. It is every parent's responsibility to see that their children are immunized either by their private doctor or at the local health clinic. Delay may mean disaster.

Diphtheria and whooping cough, uncontrolled, are perhaps the most terrible of all diseases of childhood, killing more children than any other infection. They are definitely preventable by immunization.

PACKERS' STRIKE AND EASTERN TOWNSHIPS' FARMER

While the first ray of hope for settlement of the packers' strike came with the announcement by Fred Dowling, director of the United Packinghouse Workers, that the strike might end within "a couple of weeks or less", the Eastern Townships' farmer is faced with a serious loss on his beef cattle and hogs.

Livestock in transit to the packing houses when the strike started have been shipped back to the Townships and are now feeding in leased pastures awaiting the end of the strike. Many young calves have died, being too young for grass fodder, representing, of course, a complete loss.

Farmers today are faced with the expense of continuing to feed their livestock that has long since been ready for market. Increase in the weight of livestock as a result of this extra feeding does not mean an increase in price for the farmer. For instance a hog in the 180 to 220 pound range is considered prime, but once over this figure is considered lower grade, and the farmer therefore must accept less per pound. The Government also pays a $2 bonus on top grade hogs, and if the animal goes overweight this amount is lost to the farmer.

Once the strike is over, although there will be an increased consumer demand, it will take the packing houses a certain extra length of time to be ready to accept animals, and the farmer will have to wait for a week or ten days after the end of the strike before he can send his animals to market. In the meantime, as winter approaches, he will be forced to sell his stock as quickly as possible, for the animals cannot be left out when cold weather begins.

In the end it will be the consumer and the farmer who will suffer most from the packers' strike. If inordinate wage increases are granted, then the consumer can only expect a further increase in the cost of meat. As for the farmer he is now losing money every day the strike continues.

It will be the moral duty of the packing houses not to take advantage of the farmers' position when the strike ends, and to pay a fair price for hogs and beef. The packers' strike has been declared illegal, yet the union continues to flout the law. This situation shows a great weakness in the Canadian system, which should be remedied at once.

THE HOME SERVICES CAMPAIGN

Three worthy Sherbrooke service organizations, the Salvation Army, the Y.M.C.A. and the Y.W.C.A., are making their annual appeal for financial assistance to Sherbrooke citizens during the coming week. Individually, each of these groups is performing a valuable service for the improvement of the general life of the community, while collectively, their value to Sherbrooke and its citizens is beyond measure.

In the field of youth activity, both the Y.M.C.A. and Y.W.C.A. are carrying on functions unparalleled by any other organization in this district. They provide meeting places where young men and young women, boys and girls can meet in healthy atmosphere for social, recreational and athletic pursuits. But they do not limit their activities to these particular branches of youth improvement, the spiritual development of the young people also being one of the important points of their platform.

The work carried on by the Salvation Army covers almost every branch of assistance to the unfortunate. To review the work of the Army would require almost a complete treatise on social service. Their functions embrace such widespread activities as direct relief for the poor, the maintenance of hostels for homeless men and women, provision of spiritual and material aid for those appearing before the courts or upon their release from prison.

The amount sought in the Home Services Campaign is comparatively small, $13,000 being the sum set to meet the needs of these three organizations during the coming twelve months. Certainly it would seem that few other small expenditures would provide the opportunity for as wide service as does the dollar or the ten dollars donated to the Home Services campaign.

CUT DOWN FIRE LOSSES

The annual National Fire Prevention Week opening today gives Canadians the opportunity to stop for a moment and consider the best means of cutting down the heavy toll of life and property taken each year by the fire demon. In Canada alone during 1946, W. L. Clairmont, Dominion Fire Commissioner reports, 408 persons lost their lives through fire while the property damage amounted to $49,000,000. Emphasizing the great value of fire prevention measures, the Commissioner lists the following as the chief cause of preventable fires:

1. Poor housekeeping.
2. Electrical hazards: It is claimed that twenty per cent of the fires in industrial plants are of electrical origin.
3. Smoking: Smokers' thoughtlessness is the cause of nine per cent of the fires in industry.
4. Hot bearings due to improper lubrication.
5. Handling of volatile liquids: Volatile liquids play an important part in modern manufacturing processes. Every employee handling such liquids should understand their hazardous character.

Forest fires are not covered by Fire Prevention Week activities, but it is timely to consider the heavy losses by woods fires during this week. Canada has approximately six thousand fires, large and small, in the woods every year. The annual loss is 2,500,000 acres of lumber or 400,000,000 cubic feet. Official records divide the causes of these outbreaks as follows: Campers, 18 per cent; lightning, 18 per cent; smoking, 16 per cent; settlers, 16 per cent; railways, four per cent; incendiaries, seven per cent, and unknown, 10 per cent.

With the exception of losses caused by lightning, almost the entire fire loss listed above was preventable and the country would have been infinitely richer in natural resources had the simplest rules of safety been applied in these cases.

DOOLITTLE BOARD CHECKUP

With the Chief of Staff's report on abuses of rank in Lieut.-Gen. John C. H. Lee's Italian theatre command due any day now, the Army has made available a progress checkup on what it has done to carry out the democratic reforms recommended by the Doolittle Board.

During the war, there were many loud complaints about Army brass and its lack of democracy. The Doolittle Board was created by Secretary of War Robert P. Patterson in March, 1946, to investigate these gripes and recommend what might be done about them to improve the relationship between officers and enlisted men, so as to make a better Army.

The Board was made up of two generals, a lieutenant-colonel, a captain and two sergeants. None was a West Pointer. All had risen from the ranks, and all had been discharged from the Army after service in World War II. Chairman was Lieut.-Gen. Jimmy Doolittle of raid-on-Toyko and Eighth Air Force fame.

The Board got over 1,000 letters of complaint, and it heard from 42 Congressmen. Its report, with 15 major recommendations, was made May 27, 1946. The Army can report back on progress it has made in carrying out the suggested reforms.

ORDERS MAY HAVE BEEN IGNORED

Mind you, these are orders issued from the Pentagon headquarters. They are in no way a check-up on how these orders have been carried out. In the field, as in the General Lee case uncovered by columnist Bob Ruark, it may be found that not enough attention has been paid to such things. It would be interesting to hear.

Perhaps the most important of all Doolittle Board recommendations called for definite equality of treatment for all ranks in the administration of military justice.

One bill now before Congress has a large bearing on this reform. Congress never got around to acting on it last session, but, if made into law, this bill would revise the courts-martial system to provide better means of appeal, to equalize courts. Complete modernization of the Army's Articles of War, its criminal code, is also called for.

Pending passage of this bill, Secretary of the Army Kenneth Royall last month issued orders to all officers to give personal attention to the improvement of military justice.

On the matter of improving leadership, the Army says it has revised efficiency reports and qualification cards to get a better selection of officers. This fall, all Army schools will start new courses in "Psychology of Leadership." Training courses in personnel management are being given some officers in civilian universities.

The last session of Congress passed a new law changing the system of promotion for Army officers, putting it on a merit basis.

PAY RAISES GIVE MORE JOB SECURITY

The Doolittle Board recommended that Army men needed more security in their jobs. First step to fix that was a pay raise ranging from 50 per cent for enlisted personnel to 10 per cent for generals. Congress gave enlisted men the same terminal leave pay as officers.

On the recommendation that military personnel off duty be allowed to pursue a more social and democratic way of life, the Army can report only that it provides clubs for officers, non-coms and enlisted men at Army posts. Signs, such as "Officers and Their Ladies," or "Enlisted Men and Their Wives," have, however, been dropped.

The Board suggested that the hand salute be abandoned off Army installations and off duty, except in foreign countries. This has been ordered, except that the salute is still required for ceremonial occasions, when the flag goes by and when the national anthem is played.

A fairer distribution of awards was recommended. A joint Army-Navy-Air Force Board will soon review the entire system of military decorations. Last June, the Army ordered the Bronze Star medal be given to all soldiers cited in orders or given service badges in the war.

Demand for improving the system of making complaints was met by General Eisenhower's order that every enlisted man be given opportunity to present grievances at least once a month. In the Italian theatre at least, this system apparently did no good.

The uniform of officers and enlisted men will be made the same, except for insignia, by July 1, 1949.

But on Doolittle's recommendation that the terms "officer" and "enlisted man" be dropped, and that Army personnel of all ranks be referred to as "soldiers," the Army has issued a flat "No!"

TODAY'S LESSON IN POLITICAL BOTANY

"NOW TAKE THE MUSHROOM, FOR INSTANCE, THE CURIOUS THING ABOUT THIS IS THAT IT SOMETIMES"

Wanted: Discoverers

By REV. B. S. MURRAY, M.A.

No one can deny it; we are adventurers born with the instinct of search and are accordingly never satisfied unless we are exploring. "The light from over the range" has always lured man. The unknown has always beckoned him. He ransacks every corner of the earth by land, sea and air, and is ever ready to start off, not always knowing whither. This urge was the magnet that drew Columbus over uncharted seas.

The sweet mystery of life beckons him to adventure, too. Utopia he would like. So he appoints research commissions to fathom and survey civil, industrial, moral, and spiritual problems. He investigates material things with hammer and chisel, test tube and laboratory retort. In the realms of the mind he employs psycho-analysis. If there is nothing at home he goes far afield—he is off to Africa in search of new diseases that he may eradicate. Unsatisfied by the present, he will delve into the hoary past and peer into the mysteries of the future. His archaeological spade will dig into ancient ruins. Vandal-like, he will pry open the lid of a King Tut's coffin or carry mummified dead from sarcophagus to glass case of museum.

Do you not agree that we are as members of Life's Long Procession, bent on the Eternal Quest, desirous of discovering those things that will enlarge our thinking and enrich our living? A thinking person desires to extend his mental and spiritual frontiers, enlarge his horizons and give distance to his sky-lines.

HISTORY SPEAKS

Now October is a splendid month to think on discoverers. For even in the realm of Nature we can daily go forth in the spirit of adventurers and discover new beauties in the woods and trees as they are bedecked in their coat of many colors.

Open the pages of history and you will find enshrined thereon such names as Columbus who discovered America; Copernicus the solar system; Bell the telephone; Edison the phonograph; Marconi the radio and Wilbur Wright the airplane. All these men had small knowledge and great faith and their faith increased their knowledge. Canadians delight to recall that John Cabot bearing the Cross and the flag of Mother England, landed on our shores in 1497—five years after Columbus arrived in the New World. But October also recalls that Jacques Cartier reached Montreal on his voyage of discovery on October 3, 1535. Loyal sons of McGill University recall their founder, James McGill, on October 6th. October 4th is a red letter day for Bible lovers for in 1535 the English Bible was given to the world. Columbus discovered America October 12, 1492. And on October 31 we have, as we celebrate Halloween, an opportunity to discover ghosts! I do think that the great need of the world today is not in science but in the discovering the way to peace. Faith can lead us to the true solution of our problems. Forward, then, adventurers!

CURIOSITY

Americans will recall on October 12th—Columbus Day—the discoverer's curiosity which led him to sail across uncharted seas in 1492. Having heard, as a lad, tales and whispers from sailors and others, Columbus had to satisfy his curiosity and find out for himself. I often think we need this spirit in things educational. More curiosity, more intelligent imagination "thinking without confusion clearly" as we project our minds into a future fraught with the possibility of peace on earth with good will among all men, our brethren, is imperative for progressive adventurous living. Seeing that as soon as the home goes the nation, let us, in the spirit of discoverers, go forth pioneering, determined to see the new possibilities of growth, fellowship and aspiration our modern home offers. If we become more imaginative we can make home life a glorious adventure investing it with the highest affections and noblest living; where God's presence shall be felt by all who come or dwell there. I challenge you, my friends, to make your home a place of self-forgetful Christ-centered living.

PERSEVERANCE

This, of course, demands perseverance. That, too, Columbus had for his path was long and hard, and, seemingly, hopeless. We need to relearn this now, don't we, as we face Tomorrow, knowing, believing that for us at the end of the voyage is new land? Like Columbus, we, too, must be ready for our opportunities. The Church of God challenges you to exert your full influence on the side of love and justice in the building of a new world, for is not the great need of our age a new social order based on a Christlike quality of life? Pray and work, then, that God's will may triumph in world affairs so that all nations will endeavor to do justice, love mercy, and walk humbly with Him. And our Canadian nation is but you and me writ large; this crusade must begin with you and me! Here is another chance for adventure, exploration, discovery!

PIONEER

Each of us, therefore, is a potential Columbus! There may not be new continents to discover, but there are opportunities equally great before those who have eager minds. There are no heights to which the man with an ideal may not climb, no oceans of ignorance he may not cross to find the unknown treasure he seeks. It is up to us to pioneer for we decide whether we voyage into unknown seas or not.

Pioneer days are not over; they are only beginning in the realm of the spiritual, for we have, as yet, only touched the fringes of the tremendous possibilities of prayer and sacrament. The Bible, the Prayer Book, the history of the Church, these team with adventure. Let us rediscover them as a corrective for our out-of-joint era. The world with its alarming gangsterism, juvenile delinquency, divorce, drink and undisciplined living needs to come back to God and the Ten Commandments! For the only way in which the paganism, which is eating at the heart of the modern democracies, can be overcome is by a return to the religion which gave them birth. This is a responsibility the Church shirks only at the peril of Her own soul.

YOUTH SPEAKS . . .

Christian youth which recently gathered at Oslo, Norway, issued a religious statement that makes challenging reading. Their first word breathes unity—ONE fellowship in Christ! Yet they are conscious of the disunity sin causes, for in their discussion of the deep things of the Christian Faith they felt that the selfishness and divisiveness of man were more powerful than God's will to unity. Yet one world gripped them. And as we suffer together so must we work together to build new bridges between people of different continents. The Bible seemed to open up new avenues for discovery for therein they saw Jesus the Discoverer. Who is the great believer in men. Simple, unlettered fisherman He called and said: "Ye are the light of the world." (Matt. 5:14) . . . we are the salt of the earth." Then Jesus made clear our relationship to each

THEY SIGN ANYTHING

Chatham News
In an Ontario town some time ago a petition was circulated, protesting against imposition of a fine on a young man for reckless driving. It was signed by most of the prominent citizens, but at the hearing the young man pleaded guilty and admitted that he had been caught only after a hard chase, going over 60 miles an hour. The trouble with the petition signers was that they had not read—or at least had merely glanced over—what they signed.

JUST WEAR AND TEAR

Wall Street Journal
Radio Star Jack Carson was recalling some very exciting fishing adventures. "My muscles of sinewy steel were more than a match for the denizen of the deep," he boasted. "Finally, after a three-hour struggle, exhausted but triumphant, I landed the ferocious monster."
"Ferocious monster?" sneered Nephew Tugwell. "I saw a picture of the fish you caught. At most it might have been six inches long."
"All right," conceded Carson. "But in three hours of fighting a fish can lose a lot of weight."

RAIN IN THE WRONG PLACE

Regina Leader-Post
There is the experience of the five farmers in Burlington, Iowa. These fellows were watching a heat wave but up their fine crops. They hired a pilot and his plane to drop dry ice in clouds over their 1,600 acres. And the rain came. Only catch was that it came down on a golf course, leaving their acres dry and dusty. The management of the golf course said "Thanks." What the farmers said is not recorded.

other and revealed our life together as a brotherhood. That we are not struggling animals in a jungle of selfishness He stressed for He showed, did He not, each to the other as a fellow child of one God, bound by one tie of humanity? Jesus' supreme discovery to human hearts is the revelation of God the Father. God is like a kind shepherd who has lost a sheep and goes out in the night and seeks until he finds it. He is like a woman who tirelessly hunts her one lost coin. God is like a Father who waits and mourns at home until his wayward boy returns.

OUR TASK IN THE CHURCH

You can become a discoverer if you have sufficient faith! Don't ask for more knowledge; ask for more faith, more courage to act upon the knowledge you already possess and faith to believe that if you go on, the knowledge you have shall be more. Our task is to share Christ with others, the nations, the world. To do this requires more than words. Rather must we live Christlike lives everywhere, so that others will take knowledge of us that we are His and He is ours forever. Witness, then, for Christ and His Cause, in a world which knows so little of Jesus Christ and has so often turned away from Him, as those who are of His company.

Again, I challenge you to rediscover Christ, others, and yourself so effectively that your friends will recognize that you are a Christian discoverer! This is what the Church needs—Discoverers!

McKENNEY ON BRIDGE

NEW RULE—WHEN IN DOUBT, LEAD SPADES

One of my own pet theories is, when in doubt lead a spade. This sounds silly, but it is surprising how often a spade is the correct lead on a hand. I want to call your attention to the bidding of today's hand, which occurred in the national men's pair championship. North started the bidding with a heart, and it was unlikely that he held four spades. South elected to bid two no trump, and having passed originally, this bid generally would indicate that he did not have four spades but was pretty well fortified in the minor suits. Now what suit do you think West should open?

Of course the general rule is to lead the fourth best of your longest and strongest suit. But if West leads a diamond, declarer will cash a diamond, five hearts and four clubs, making four no trump. When I saw this hand played, West reasoned that in all probability neither North nor South held four spades, and therefore his partner probably did have four spades.

He decided to attack the spade suit first, but he led the six, not the deuce. He was trying to tell East to lead the higher of the two obvious suits, in this case clubs and diamonds. East won the first trick with the ten of spades and led a diamond. This put West in again with the queen of diamonds, another spade was led, and as a result East was able to cash the rest of his spades. Thus East and West took four spades and two diamonds, setting the contract two tricks, while North and South would have made ten tricks if West had led the fourth best diamond.

Party Changes Indicate British Levelling-Off Policy

By
DEWITT MACKENZIE
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

The British Conservative Party's sensational concession to Socialism, in pledging to retain some form of nationalized industry if returned to power, means that Britain's daring experiment with this political creed has passed beyond the trial stage and that it has become an important part of the country's life.

Only three out of 5,000 delegates attending the annual meeting of the Conservatives voted against a resolution which pledged the party to retain nationalization of coal mines and the Bank of England, and to keep some sort of public ownership of railroads. This promise (challenged by Conservative opponents as "milk and water socialism") would of course be implemented if and when the public ousted the Socialists and gave the "Tories" another chance. The latter are wistfully hopeful, if not exuberantly optimistic.

But striking as is this moderate swing to the left by the Conservatives, it's only part of an intensely interesting development. The Conservative Daily Telegraph said the other day that the Government had been forced by the economic crisis to drop plans for further nationalization of industry for at least a year. The paper added that there might not be any more nationalization until the Socialists had a fresh mandate from the country. This report must be coupled with the fact that the Socialist party platform calls for nationalization of only 30 per cent of industry in any event.

Thus we find the Conservative move to the left apparently being accompanied by a corresponding Socialist concession.

The following fields in the Quebec-Sherbrooke Presbytery were still vacant, Sawyerville, St. John's, Goud, Fitch Bay, Cookshire, Beebe, Inverness.

The Rev. T. W. Tyson, of Ayer's Cliff, was elected secretary of the Presbytery to fill the vacancy left by Rev. A. B. Lovelace.

The nomination committee presented the following nominations for standing committees:

Business and finance: K. G. Neave, L. McAllister, L. R. Farnsworth, R. F. Cowan, Rev. S. Rowe, education and students: Rev. R. A. Mitchell, E. C. Amaron, T. N. Mitchell, Mr. H. F. to the right. In short, the indications are that Britain is manoeuvring into a middle-of-the-road position politically—a compromise which would seem to suit present-day ideas of Britons exceedingly well.

This lessening of the gap between the great political parties of course isn't an overnight development. The two world wars, in both of which Britain had to battle for her life, have been an enormous levelling-off force, not only politically but socially.

The political changes have been accompanied by a social metamorphosis in which the classes have been drawn closer together. The aristocracy of money has few notable representatives left, and they are on their way out by the taxation route. The aristocracy of birth also has seen sweeping changes, though it would be foolish to imagine that class barriers have been eliminated, or anything like it.

A generation ago the controversial idea prevailed that gentlemen were born and not made. The son of nobility was ipso facto a gentleman, no matter how much of a ruffian he might be, whereas the son of a tradesman never could become a gentleman under any circumstances. The old school life played a big part in life—so much so that a product of one of the great public schools (Canada and the United States call them private) almost invariably was given preference over the graduate of an ordinary school, no matter what the relative capabilities might be.

However, this is a new era. Just as Britain appears to be taking a middle-of-the-road course politically, so we see a similar—though naturally much slower—tendency socially.

first Premier to have served under King Frederik, who succeeded to the throne last April 20 on the death of his father, Christian X. Kristensen is a Liberal.

Kristensen's Liberal party won 38 seats in the 1945 election and formed a minority government, because no single party had a majority and no coalitions were forthcoming.

South Schleswig, which has been a controversial issue for some time, is in Germany just south of the Danish border.

quoted several sections of the Labor Act and the Labor Relations Act to prove his point.

The employees are seeking wage increases and better working conditions as well as a union checkoff which the City Council had previously rejected.

Police Chief Edouard Moreau said his department would require another 10 or 11 men before a 48-hour week could go into effect.

The City Treasurer presented documents showing the increased budget of the city during the past few years, and others showing salary increases awarded city hall employees since 1939.

Mr. Desaulniers, in cross-examining Mr. Cormier, asked whether municipal employees had the right to vote. Mr. Cormier replied that the 325 employees of the Public Works Department, who have signed a labor agreement with the city, had the right to cast ballots.

Mr. Leblanc asked the city official whether it was true that 15 to 20 per cent of municipal employees were not competent and were being kept in the city's service in consideration of their long service and as half pensioners. City Clerk Antonin Desaulniers objected to the question on technical grounds and the group went into a discussion involving "paternalism" on the part of the city, and Quebec laws.

Thursday the secretary-treasurers of the municipalities of Magog and Coaticook took the stand.

Alphonse Girard, the Magog official, reviewed the collective labor agreement signed between Magog and its employees. It revealed that Magog did not pay overtime rates to its salaried employees.

Rosario Dumont, secretary-treasurer of Coaticook, revealed that his municipality did not have an agreement with its employees.

Sherbrooke constables start at the rate of $27 per week and rise to $36 per week at five years' service. They are seeking a starting weekly wage of $28 and rising to $40 per week at the fifth year.

Mr. Leblanc presented a cost of living index, compiled by the Federal Department of Statistics, which traced the cost of living from 1939. At June of this year it registered 139.9 per cent of the 1939 index.

On the board with Judge Marier are Arcadius Denis, chosen by the city, and J. H. Guegnin, chosen by the employees.

Others questioned during the hearing included Fire Director Percy Donahue, Gaston Masse, Superintendent of the electricity and gas department, Roger Lavigne, president of the policemen's union, D. A. Vanasse and Roger Choquette, secretary of the National Brotherhood of Civil Employees.

Mrs. T. K. Doherty the former Adele Richard passed away last evening in Ottawa.

She was the wife of the late T. Keville Doherty and resided in Sherbrooke for many years. Her body will arrive from Ottawa on Monday and interment will take place in St. Michael's Cemetery. Funeral arrangements have not been completed.

HIBBARD'S WIN NET

The match was closely contested and some brilliant playing was witnessed.

votes on strike action. In all, the 21 independent plants employ about 3,500 workers.

The major companies are standing pat on wage offers they made before the union started its strike for a boost of five cents an hour from Canada Packers and Burns and three cents from Swift Canadian.

An Ontario Government spokesman expressed belief the strike will end "shortly." He said he expected a conciliator will be agreed on by both parties within the next week and that the strikers will return to work as a condition of conciliation.

Possibility of settlement also was seen by strike leader Fred Dowling, who said in Vancouver the union walkout might be ended in two weeks or less. He did not elaborate.

So far efforts of independent packers, small slaughterhouses and butchers with independent sources of supply have kept the strike from causing a severe meat shortage. It is believed a drawn-out dispute might sharply reduce supplies. Already overseas meat shipments have been hard-hit.

SOUTH BOLTON

The regular monthly meeting of the Women's Institute was held at "Highland Farm" during the afternoon of October 1, with an attendance of eleven members.

Several visitors, Mrs. Whitaker, presided over the meeting and notes were taken by Mrs. Bloomfield. In the absence of Mrs. Perkins, some correspondence from Mrs. Conley, provincial president, of Sherbrooke, was read during the meeting. The members were glad to welcome Mrs. C. C. Davis, back again. Plans were made for holding a box social in the South Bolton Parish Hall during the evening of October 22. The next meeting of November 5, will be held at "Spring Valley Ranch."

Around The Armouries

By The Sgt.-Major

With the crying of "Fall In!" synonymous with the falling of the leaves, we realize that fall is here and the fall drill season is in full swing at most units throughout the district. We only hope that every CO will fall in line and see that his unit gets the news of their own activities in this column every week.

How about detailing some member of each unit, officer or N.C.O., to see that a weekly report is sent to the Sergeant Major's column?

Consider "Around the Armouries" as your own bulletin board, and use it not only for weekly reports of training activities but for keeping your men informed about coming events and syllabus changes, etc.

Let's have a weekly "march past" of every unit in the whole Eastern Townships in this column every Saturday. . . . Rally "round" everybody, and "sound off" about your unit. Send your copy in to the Record, marked "Around the Armouries" column, in care of the Sergeant Major, by noon of Friday every week. I'm setting my sights on a perfect score for next Saturday. . . . your news is my ammunition. . . . this column is the target, and the score depends on every unit's co-operation. Let's set a record. Are you reporting for duty? O.K., fire away fire at will. . . or rather, fire at the Sergeant Major, with all the news you can dig up.

Recruits are needed, veterans and untrained personnel, and all interested should report to the Ordinary Room on any Tuesday or Thursday evening between 1930 and 2230 hours. New Sherman 37 ton tanks are expected any day now which will greatly add to the already interesting program which has been laid on.

BEDFORD

The bi-monthly meeting of the Guild of St. James' Church was held one afternoon at the home of Mrs. J. W. Cokerline, who was assisted in entertaining by Mrs. M. E. Horton. There was an excellent attendance of members.

The meeting was opened with prayer by the president, Mrs. John Ewing, after which the minutes of the last meeting, which was held at the home of Mrs. George Moody, were read by Mrs. William Taylor, in the absence of the secretary, Miss Jessie Blackwood, and were approved as read. Mrs. Ewing announced that the president, Mrs. Van Horne, of the Senior W.A. of St. James' Church, had requested her to invite the members to attend a quilting at the home of Mrs. Van Horn, on October 8, when the quilt for the W.A. would be completed.

The members were asked to give as many donations as possible to the annual rummage sale, which will be held in the Church Hall in the near future. The proceeds from two rummage sales, held spring and fall, are the means by which the Senior W.A. obtain funds for the carrying on of their work. A letter was read by Mrs. Taylor from Kathryn Shellen, secretary of the Girls' Auxiliary, thanking the members of the Guild for the help at the Girls' sale, when the proceeds from a food table, which was under the supervision of Guild members were donated to the funds of the Girls' Auxiliary.

The matter of holding a sale and tea was discussed, and was laid over for further discussion at the next meeting. The matter of making some repairs to the Rectory was discussed and also laid over to another meeting when further information regarding the matter would be presented. An invitation to the members to hold the next meeting at her home was given by Mrs. Allan Palmer. Following the business meeting refreshments were served by Mrs. Cokerline and Mrs. Horton.

Miss Betty Reid, who has been ill, has now returned to Middlebury, Vt., to resume her studies at Middlebury College.

Mrs. Ralph Van Horn together with Mrs. F. N. Williams was a guest of the latter's son, Mr. Arthur Williams, and Mrs. Williams, in Howick.

Mr. W. E. Bradshaw was in Montreal on Sunday to visit his father, the Rev. William Bradshaw, who is a patient in the Royal Victoria Hospital, suffering from a fractured hip.

Mr. Harold Deming returned from his holidays, which were spent on a fishing trip to the Maritime Provinces.

In a recent request received from the post war service committee of the Provincial Chapter I.O.O.F. of Quebec, the chapters were asked to contribute as much as possible on obtaining good, used blankets which can be cut down to approximately 40 x 60 inches in size. Also that concerted effort be made to knit as many afghans as possible to be used as children's cot blankets, approximate size 40 x 60 inches. Clothing is also most urgently needed for shipment overseas, especially used clothing, men's suits, overcoats, trousers and heavy sweaters, women's warm dresses, suits, topsuits and sweaters, girls' warm dresses, coats, skirts, sweaters, suits and warm dressing gowns, boys' suits, trousers, shorts, coats and sweaters, warm underwear, clean, mended and in good condition, blankets and warm bedding and practical shoes in good condition, wide width and low heels. All used clothing is admitted into overseas countries duty free, but new clothing is subject to duty. In view of the approach of winter the need for supplies for overseas shipment is vital, and every effort is being made by the I.O.O.F. Chapters throughout Canada to send as many supplies as possible. During the period from July, 1946 to July, 1947, the order paid freight and ocean shipping charges amounting to over $10,000. Included in this item were charges on overseas parcels shipments, sending wool and textiles from the National Depot to the provinces, also for land freight for food parcels sent by post. The order has recently undertaken a new branch of service, that of sending food parcels to Britain. Another branch of the Order's work, is that of providing seamen's amenities, which consist in the providing of warm clothing and blankets for the Royal Canadian Naval Mission to Deep Sea Fishermen and the British Sailors Society.

A. and Mrs. Stephens, at St. James' Rectory, where she is staying before going to Lacerte to join Mr. Reid, who has taken up his new duties with the Canadian Pacific Express in that town.

Born in 1866, the daughter of James and Eliza Armstrong, the former Mable Armstrong married William Hutchinson in 1891. He predeceased her in 1940.

A lover of nature and family life, Mrs. Hutchinson lived an active life, accomplishing her daily duties until practically the end. She was a lifelong member of St. Peter's Church, as well as an ardent supporter of the church of the Advent in its earliest days. She was a member of the Queen Mary Chapter O.E.S.

The funeral service was held in St. Peter's Church, September 24, the Rev. Clarence Jensen officiating. Earl Bartlett, nephew of the deceased, presided at the organ. The hymn, "My God, My Father, While I Pray," was rendered by the church choir. The solo, "One Sweetly Solemn Thought," was sung by Miss Annie Baldwin, accompanied by William H. Bishop.

Surviving are two sons, George, of Sherbrooke, and Raymond, of East Angus; one daughter, Irene, of Sherbrooke; one granddaughter, Margaret; two daughters-in-law, one son-in-law, three sisters, Mrs. R. U.S.-British Tariff Talks Face Failure

Discussions Between Two Countries at Geneva Appear Deadlocked as End Nears.

By JUNE BAINBRIDGE
London, Oct. 4.—(Reuters)—Discussions between Britain and the United States on tariff reductions may have to be considered in a state of permanent deadlock, or even as having broken down entirely, if no progress is made by the time the tariff negotiations in Geneva sponsored by the International Trade Organization are concluded the middle of this month.

Eric Wyndham White, executive secretary of the I.T.O. Preparatory Committee, expressed this opinion at a press conference here yesterday. The negotiations will be wound up to allow delegates to prepare for the Havana World Conference opening Nov. 21, at which the I.T.O. draft charter will be considered.

More than 100 different sets of tariff negotiations have been in progress here since April and it has been tentatively decided that the results of this labor will be published Nov. 18.

Wyndham-White expressed the opinion that the whole basis on which tariff concessions will function may have to be altered if Britain and the United States fail to agree.

The present basis is that the benefit of any tariff concession agreed by any one pair of countries will be automatically passed on to all participating countries.

If Britain and the United States, two of the world's major trading countries, do not make any concessions to each other, it might not be possible for them to receive the benefit arising from the lowering of tariff barriers by other countries, he intimated.

Between 50 and 60 countries have been invited to the Havana Conference, Wyndham-White said. Russia is the only country so far to signify that she will not be present. "Insufficiency of time to study the matter" is the reason believed to have been given by Russia for her refusal. This is the same reason given by Russia when she declined to attend the Geneva Conference which opened in April.

Answering criticism that the world trade charter drafted at Geneva would be unworkable in present conditions, Wyndham-White said: "One of the difficult questions about the Geneva Conference is indeed that it has been held under the shadow of acute economic difficulties, difficulties which so far as one can see will become increasingly acute during the winter and next year, but the charter which has emerged from Geneva is more realistic than the document with which the conference started."

Wyndham-White added that of the 108 different sets of tariff negotiations started in Geneva in April, 57 had been concluded and more were in their final stages.

"Even if it is impossible to reach agreement in all negotiations, I think a substantial reduction in world tariff barriers will have been made," he said.

Immigration Plans Given Close Study

Presbyterian Synod Plans Despatch of Ministers to Old Country and Holland to Boost Immigration.

Montreal, Oct. 4.—(C)—Procedure and practice within the Church itself touched off spirited discussion at the concluding session yesterday of the Montreal and Ottawa Synod of the Presbyterian Church in Canada.

After formulating its own recommendations on a committee's report dealing with subjects ranging from the Lord's Prayer to introducing of responsive reading, the Synod made rapid progress in deciding what part the Presbyterian Church should play in immigration and rehabilitation.

The General Mission Board will be asked to send two ministers overseas—one to Britain and Northern Ireland to encourage emigration to Canada of Presbyterian families, and the other to Holland where prospective emigrants would be informed about Canada and the Presbyterian Church.

Each representative would remain overseas for one year, and the minister sent to Holland would be a Dutch-speaking Canadian.

In its rehabilitation work, the Synod decided that the present housing shortage, productive of "dangerous agitation and a lowering of morals," shall be studied by each congregation in the Synod and a report made to government and labor authorities.

Ministers were asked to keep themselves informed on all pension regulations in order to assist war veterans.

During the long debate following the report of the Committee on Public Worship the Synod repeatedly stripped from the Committee's suggestions anything that might be construed as mandatory directives to its presbyteries. It recommended:

1. That "as far as possible" Presbyterian practice be followed in use of the word "debts" in the Lord's Prayer instead of "trespasses."

2. That there be reading of two lessons at each regular service, the Synod objections to "enjoining" ministers to adhere to the usual practice.

3. That the General Assembly be asked to study the Committee's suggestion for responsive reading at services.

4. That evening services, where regularly held now, be continued "with prayerful consideration to improve them"—in answer to the

TOMIFOBIA

Rev. W. J. B. Meloche, preformed a triple baptism on Sunday, September 28, in St. Andrew's Church. The infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward L. Cowlin, of Stanstead, received the names of Patricia Lee, and the son and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Keeley received the names of Lannie Ross and Jacqueline Ann. The sponsors were Mr. Harry Keeley, Mr. Edward Cowlin, Mrs. James Probert and Mrs. Gladys Buckland.

Mr. N. Arthur accompanied Mr. John Tilton, of Stanstead, and Mr. E. R. Burbank, of Coaticook to Mr. L. Tilton's camp at Lake Memphremagog, where they enjoyed a chicken dinner.

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Carpenter were Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Lunderville and Mr. and Mrs. Penn Paige, of Concord, N. H., and Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Lunderville, of Sherbrooke.

Misses Faith and Fay Ticehurst entertained Misses Keeley and Donna Embury over the week-end.

Mr. C. E. Harris, of Magog, was called to Mr. Hector Calloway's who nearly lost a cow from eating to many grown apples.

Mrs. Etta Manning was calling on friends over the week-end.

Mrs. Daisy Keefe is visiting friends in town.

Mrs. C. Morse, of Ayer's Cliff, was a guest over the week-end of Mr. and Mrs. R. Hatch.

Committee's request for specific recommendations to bolster attendance.

5. That preparatory services preceding Holy Communion be revived in the Synod and held Friday evenings "if feasible."

6. That the General Assembly be asked to appoint a committee to "study the possibilities" of a new hymn book.

7. That presbyteries "place greater emphasis on congregational singing."

Approval was given the camp committee's recommendation that a campaign be inaugurated next month to raise $20,000. The report told of first operation of the camp last August at the newly-purchased site on Lake St. Francis, near Lancaster, Ont. Two buildings, formerly part of an army camp at Cornwall, were bought from War Assets Corporation, taken down and rebuilt at the lake.

The report showed revenue still short $11,300 of total costs, but said the camp itself "was on a self-sustaining basis, with assets of more than $200 after three weeks of operation."

What is the Secret of Family Health

One family is always healthy. In the next family there seems to always be someone sick.

Why? It used to be customary to blame this condition on heredity.

But recent investigations show that far more depends on living and eating habits.

The underlying cause of low vitality is often traceable to a lack of vitamin B₁ and essential minerals derived from the food consumed.

As a result whole families may be found to be subject to a low condition of health which leaves them prey to serious and annoying ailments.

More and more intelligent thinking people are learning to depend on Dr. Chase's Nerve Food as a "pick-me-up" to help them out of a low condition of vitality.

It is usually the mother in the home who is largely responsible for the family health and most mothers know about Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and what it can do to help restore richness to the blood and vigor to the nervous system.

In most families, these days, there are excesses of work, worry and anxiety which overtax the nerves and cause headaches, irritability, loss of sleep and indigestion.

But these troubles do not need to get you down if you let Dr. Chase's Nerve Food help you.

School age children who have become pale, weak, languid and anemic are soon helped back to robust health by the use of this tonic treatment for the blood and the nerves.

Ask your druggist for the economy size bottle of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Daughter's Paycheck

Girls Often Foot Household Bills While Boys Keep Their Money

A girl of 19, who has a good job that she has filled competently for two years, writes me that her mother requires her to bring home her pay envelope unopened, and out of it she is given only $5 with which to pay her carfare, for her lunches, for all of her little expenses and for her clothes, if any.

But the girl's brother, who earns a bigger salary than she does, gets his wages intact. Mother doesn't dream of doing anything so high-handed as confiscating his earnings. Nor does she make him contribute anything to the family budget, and it occasionally he presents her with a pocket handkerchief, she brags to all the neighbors about what a good son Jimmy is.

This girl naturally resents such injustice, and she wants to know why she isn't just as much entitled to the money she earns by hard work as her brother is, and why the daughters of a family are supposed to have more obligation to support it than the sons have.

MOTHERS PARTIAL TO SONS

Well, of course, there are several answers to these questions. The one that first hits you in the eye is that in the average family mother generally handles the finances, and she can't help showing partiality to her boys. She wants them to have the sense of independence that having money in their pockets gives them. She wants them to have the kind of clothes that the other boys have and to belong to the clubs that their chums do. She wants them to be able to take their girls out stepping and to buy their sweeties corsages. And that takes so much of Jimmy's and Tommy's wages that it doesn't leave anything for the grocery bill, so mother has to impound Sally's paycheck.

It all tails in with mother's general attitude towards her daughters and the discrimination she makes between them and her sons. For mother expects Sally and Mamie to come home after a hard day's work in an office or factory and help get dinner and clean the house and take care of the younger children and wash their own clothes. But she wouldn't think of asking one of the boys to step into the kitchen and get supper, or take the baby for an airing and do a stint at the ironing board. And another and a very inclusive reason why mothers take their daughters' money instead of their sons' away from them is because the boys won't stand for it, and the girls do.

It is a queer thing that with all of our boasted modern progress, especially where women are concerned, that the old conception of the value of women's work and the right of the female laborer to the money she earns by the sweat of her brow has hardly changed at all. Women have achieved the right to follow every occupation, but not the right to handle the profits.

Husbands still consider that they support their wives as long as they toil in their homes, though the poor creatures live in a state of penance in which they only get their board and keep for their cease-

PLYMOUTH CHURCH GROUP MET

At a meeting of Plymouth Church Women's Association on Thursday afternoon, final arrangements were made for the first in the forthcoming Memorial Fund Lecture Series, at which Mrs. A. Davidson, C.B.C., will be the speaker.

Preliminary items for the annual bazaar and afternoon tea were discussed and the date set for Thursday, November 27th. Members of the different committees reported splendid progress made toward the event during the summer months.

Mrs. F. Sangster, the president, conducted the meeting. In the absence of Mrs. Z. W. Griffith, Mrs. H. B. Johnston assisted Mrs. T. F. L. Cochran as hostess. At the table refreshments consisted of a vase of snow-bonies, Mrs. J. A. Bourque poured tea.

less labor, and they have never a dollar they can call their own.

And again this stems back to the old ineradicable belief that while a woman may have sense enough to earn money, she hasn't enough brains to handle it, and that it is a positive kindness for some man to take it away from her. And that women have no desire for financial independence, but just dote on having to go to their husbands for every penny and explain what they did with the quarter they gave them week before last. And, above all, that it is just fun for a woman to wear her fingers to the bone doing housework.

They say that money and women don't mix. Maybe so. Certainly women are poor collectors.

The Record will be pleased to receive any letters to this Dorothy Dix column. These will be forwarded to Miss Dix who will answer them as quickly as possible.

MODERN MARRIAGE

WHY WOMEN GET WHAT THEY WANT

Dr. Paul Popenoe

Mrs. A. is a woman who wants what she wants when she wants it. "I wish you'd tell me why," her husband writes. "If she wants anything, she immediately sets her heart on it. She simply, positively, absolutely must have it! It may be nothing more than a new coffee percolator, but you'd think it was a matter of life and death!"

"Other men make the same complaint: If something seems even slightly desirable to a wife, it immediately becomes totally and vitally necessary. How come?"

A lot of men have wondered how come, Mr. A., and I don't know of any answer except speculation. But it is generally supposed—by men!—to be a fact. Was it not Bill Nye who remarked that his wife had "a whim of iron"?

It is generally supposed—again, by men!—to grow out of causes like these:

1. Women tend to take things more subjectively, more personally.

ly, than men do. (Don't ask me why, just now, I'll discuss that another time.)

2. From childhood they have learned to ask for anything they want, with a fair chance (at least in the United States) of getting it, just because they are girls.

3. They have also had to depend to a large extent, to get what they wanted, not on their own exertions but by appealing to some other person; and as they grow older this some other person is more frequently a man.

4. Since the other person has the say-so, the woman's main recourse is insistence and persistence.

5. Finally, from early years a girl comes unconsciously to feel that her wants are more important than they seem to be on the surface. A new blouse is not merely a new blouse, but the possibility of getting a good husband!

Thus she grows, through the years to think that anything she desires, no matter how trivial, is important; that she can get it if she keeps after it; and that she must get it.

And she does!

Questions and Answers

Q—Do you think that in the future most mothers will have their children cared for by some one else, so that they can be free to work outside the home?

A—It is obvious that if this plan were carried very far, the situation would be similar to that on the mythical island where all the inhabitants made a living by taking in each other's washing. There is no wisdom, says the great English authority, Havelock Ellis, in entrusting the care of children to women who do not have children of their own; it would be more sensible to educate the natural mother to care properly for her own child.

Q—My wife thinks we should give our oldest girl a musical education. It would mean a sacrifice for the rest of the family. Is this justified?

A—Not unless the girl is talented enough to justify it. A great deal of money is wasted in giving unsuitable musical education to children who are quite unfitted for it. Excellent tests of musical ability, devised by Dr. Carl E. Seashore, of the University of Iowa, will show whether a child has the capacity to profit by musical training. If she has not, it would be absurd to give it to her at a sacrifice to the rest of the family.

"Unreality," is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon to be read in Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, October 5th, 1947.
The Golden Text is from Psalms 97:5, 6, "The hills melted like wax at the presence of the Lord, at the presence of the Lord of the whole earth. The heavens declare his righteousness, and all the people see his glory."

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "And the Lord said unto him, What is that in thine hand? And he said, A rod. And he cast it on the ground, and it became a serpent; and Moses fled from before it. And the Lord said unto Moses, Put forth thine hand, and take it by the tail, and he put forth his hand, and caught it, and it became a rod in his hand." (Exodus 4:2-4).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "When, led by wisdom to cast down his rod, he saw it become a serpent, Moses fled before it; but wisdom bade him come back and handle the serpent, and then Moses' fear departed. In this incident was seen the actuality of Science. Matter was shown to be a belief only. The serpent, evil, under wisdom's bidding, was destroyed through understanding divine Science, and this proof was a staff upon which to lean. The illusion of Moses' lost its power to alarm him, when he discovered that what he apparently saw was really but a phase of mortal belief." (Page 521).

Majority Of Disastrous Fires Said Result Of Carelessness

Fire Prevention Week will be observed during the week of October 5th to 11th.

The chief reason for the annual observance of this week is to draw the attention of the public to the appalling loss of life and property by fire and the means by which this loss may be reduced.

Fire Prevention Week has become an accepted tradition in Canada and the United States since it inaugurated some twenty-five years ago. In Canada, it is given official designation by a Proclamation of the Governor-General and in the United States by Presidential Proclamation.

Every year fire takes a terrific toll of life and property in Canada. Deporable as is the loss to property, life loss by fire is nothing short of a crime for the reason that in the majority of cases it is so needless.

In 1946, 408 men, women and children died in fires and in the past ten years, 1,206 were children. The number of children who died by fire in 1946 was 164, the highest annual toll in the ten year period 1937-46.

Parents should not, under any circumstances, leave helpless little children or even children of any tender age exposed to the possibility of fire for even a few minutes.

During Fire Prevention week in this city members of the fire department will visit the local schools and give instructions on the proper use of the fire-alarm, what to do in case of a fire and how to prevent fires.

Fire Director Percy Donahue today issued a statement urging Sherbrooke manufacturers to conform with any suggestions by fire department officers who will visit their establishments during National Fire Prevention Week.

Officers will visit the plants to discover any possible fire hazards and give practical suggestions in eliminating them.

Chief Donahue said that the manufacturers, in abiding by the suggestions, would be contributing greatly to the campaign.

Common Sense Can Lead To Big Cut In Annual Loss By Fires

Every year fire takes a terrific toll of life and property in Canada and all other countries. "It is, however, an easy matter to prevent fires and save lives in our homes by simply being careful and using common sense," Chief Percy Donahue said today.

Fire Prevention Week will get underway October 5th and all citizens are urged to follow the following precautions during Fire Prevention Week and throughout the year.

Never leave young children alone. Keep chimneys and smoke-pipes clean and in good condition. Keep storage in attic or basement at a minimum and store neatly. Don't hunt for gas leaks with a match and put soap lather on suspected joints and watch for bubbles. Don't use inflammable insect sprays indoors and under no circumstances should gasoline be sprayed in closets as an insect spray.

Don't empty ash trays in wastebaskets. There may be a live cigarette among the ashes.

If the above precautions and many more were carried out thousands of lives and many buildings would be saved, Chief Donahue said.

Food is just as important today as during war time, possibly even more so. The whole world is clamoring for it. Competent observers tell us that there can be no cure for the world's ills so long as people are hungry. Hunger today is the greatest threat to democracy. It is therefore more essential that the products of the farm be safeguarded from fire.

In spite of the necessity to protect farm property, over $4,000,000 worth of farm buildings and food products were up in smoke in 3,550 fires last year and during the past ten years 41,200 farm fires have destroyed more than $31,000,000 worth of property.

Always use care, common sense and forethought and you will live longer.

The three boys attended a High School party at Coaticook, on Friday night. The infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Cass was christened on Sunday, at Way's Mills, by the Rev. Tyson and was given the names of Phyllis Joan.

Remove combustible rubbish — Never discard lighted matches, cigars, pipe-embers or cigarettes — Never smoke in bed — Keep chimneys and furnaces clean and in repair — Check electrical wiring — Use combustible fluids with care.

DODGERS WIN TO THE SERIES ON LAVAGETTO'S DOUBLE IN NINTH

Floyd Bevins Pitched No-Hitter Until Lavagetto's Fatal Blow With Two Aboard; Important Game Today

Ebbets Field, Brooklyn, Oct. 4. —(A)—Cookie Lavagetto's pinch double off the right field wall, the only Dodger hit off Bill Bevins, gave Brooklyn a 3-2 victory over New York Yankees yesterday in a thrilling ball game that squared the World Series at two games apiece.

Until Lavagetto slugged his pinch double over Tommy Henrich's head in right field, Bevins had a no-hit game in his grasp. It would have been the first dream game in series history.

With Bevins already past the best previous no-hit record, Lavagetto struck the dramatic wallop that ended the no-hit game.

Floyd Bevins Hugh Casey

Giofriddo and Eddie Mikis, to end one of the most exciting games in the long string of World Series since 1903.

The Ebbets Field assemblage, 33,443 strong, hummed with excitement throughout the climactic ninth inning as Bevins made his big bid. Three times catches by Yankee outfielders had saved him but there was no chance on the last one.

Lavagetto, sent up to bat for Ed Stanky, came through with this big blow that ended the ball game in one split second.

Bevins got the first man in the ninth, Bruce Edwards, on a long fly that backed Johnny Lindell against the left-field wall. He walked Carl Furillo and Manager Burt Shotton sent Giofriddo to run for him. Spider Jorgensen fouled out to George McQuinn for the second out, leaving Bevins just one away from the finest ball game ever pitched in series competition.

Giofriddo daringly stole second base, just sliding in on a close decision, and Pete Reiser, batting for reliever Hugh Casey, was passed intentionally. That in itself set a record for it was the tenth pass by Bevins and nobody else ever walked more than nine in a series game.

With men on first and second, two out, Shotton brought Lavagetto, one of the five holdovers from the 1941 club that lost to the Yanks, in to hit for Stanky. After swinging once and missing, Lavagetto drilled a hit off the barrier in right over the head of Tommy Henrich, who never had a chance to make a catch.

Both men scored to drag the Dodgers from a 2-1 deficit into a 3-2 victory that sends them winging into a fifth game today, all square at two triumphs apiece. Bevins had to pitch hard all afternoon despite his brilliant one-hit job. The Yanks knocked out starter Harry Taylor in the first inning when he retired with the bases full, one run in and nobody out. George Stinewiss and Tommy Henrich singled, Pee Wee Reese dropped a throw for an error and Joe DiMaggio drew a pass to force in Suranese.

Hal Gregg, coming to the rescue, pitched out of trouble and blanked the Yanks until the fourth when Bill Johnson's 400-foot triple, followed by John Lindell's double off the scoreboard, added a second

Billy Johnson Johnny Lindell

So eight Yank hits went for naught and one Dodger bingle meant the ball game that may provide the inspirational lift to send the club on to the championship. Although only one team in series history ever recovered to win after losing the first two, the Brooks tonight look very much like No. 2. Bevins passed Red Ruffing's record of hurling 8 2-3 no-hit innings for the Yanks against the Cardinals in 1942. That was the closest any pitcher ever came to a series no-hitter before today.

Hugh Casey, Dodger relief pitcher who won Thursday's game, also was credited with yesterday's triumph.

GILLES DUBE SIGNS WITH SHERBROOKE

Gilles Dube, formerly of the Canadiens Juniors of Montreal, signed a contract with the Sherbrooke St. Francis Hockey Club.

Dube, who lives in Sherbrooke, and last season was with the Montreal Canadian Juniors, until he was injured towards the middle of the season, is a home town product. Dube commenced his hockey career on the local rinks and then played with the Sherbrooke Indians, in the E.T.H.L., before joining the Montreal squad under Frank Currie.

At the time of his injury Dube was the top scorer in the junior circuit, and was highly rated by Coach Currie, he should fit in well with the local hockey squad.

BROOKLYN NAMES LAVAGETTO DEPUTY MAYOR

New York, Oct. 4. —(A)—Brooklyn today named Harry (Cookie) Lavagetto for Deputy Mayor (Mayor) of New York City.

Brooklyn called Mayor William O'Dwyer and said Lavagetto should be made "Deputy Mayor" or at least "Commissioner."

Replied the mayor: "He deserves anything he wants."

"SPORT SHOTS and POT SHOTS"

BY LEN. O'DONNELL

Judging from the reports that we have heard on the football game in Quebec Sunday when the locals swamped the Sherbrooke 23-2, it seems that Sherbrooke ran wild, and it did not look like the same team that performed here the previous week against the Rockland squad from Montreal. A few changes plus some additions made the whole difference. Bill Cote, the French lad, who is trying his hand at the game for the first time, ran wild as well as Charlie Clark, the boy with the basket, who was yanking in forwards from all directions. The whole team deserves a lot of credit, and if they keep up the same improvements, well, the clubs from Montreal had better look out. Fair warning.

The top shot makers from Granby failed in their efforts to top the Southern Canada Power golf trophy. They were edged out by Jacques Lagasse and company from the Country Club. If the Granby squad had been successful, they would have won every major golf title played for this season in the district. But Lady Luck let them down, or perhaps the tricky mountain course was a little too rolling. Both clubs were tied at the end of the day and were forced to play three extra holes before a winner was declared. Fred Kirby, the outspoken golfer from the Country Club, made sure of the victory for his team when he sank a birdie on the third hole to top the silverware. Nice going, boys.

We saw where Frank Dillo, of the Q.A.H.A., has issued a warning to the amateur players of the province to secure "release tickets" before signing for other teams. The penalty is one year's suspension. This warning looks alright on paper, but what we are wondering is how will this effect the famous SENIOR GROUP? It is a known fact in hockey circles that the senior group can do most anything they wish, in fact at times last year you would wonder who was the Q.A.H.A. president, Slater or Davies?

The local soccer season is drawing to a close, in fact today's game is listed as the last tilt of the season. Beale will hook up with Celanese in the finals for the Charity Cup, and the members of the executive have decided that the proceeds will be turned over to the V.O.N. So fans this will be your last opportunity to see the soccer boys in action and

LOU BOUDREAU IS FINISHED WITH INDIANS

Cleveland, Oct. 4. —(A)—The Cleveland News said yesterday that shortstop Lou Boudreau "is through" as manager of Cleveland Indians, and that President Bill Veeck of the American League club has attempted to work out a player deal with St. Louis Browns involving Boudreau and Vern Stephens of St. Louis.

In a story from Brooklyn, News baseball writer Ed McCauley said: "Boudreau's countless admirers in Cleveland may as well resign themselves to the fact that Lou will not be with the Indians next year. . . . Lou challenged a determined Dutchman when he tried to tell Veeck under what conditions he would sign a contract."

"Boudreau was offered a one-year term, he demanded a longer contract."

HAYMAN'S CREW MEET TORONTO ARGOS TODAY

Big question marks punctuate the action on the senior football fronts in Canada today.

Toronto Argonauts should provide the answer to one when they play the Alouettes in Montreal—whether their three straight triumphs mean that the Dominion Champions have really started to roll again in defence of their Interprovincial Crown.

Another answer is due at Ottawa where the leading Rough Riders of the Big Four meet up with the Tigers from Hamilton without the celebrated Frankie Filchuck. The Riders have to show whether that 7-0 setback they took from Argos a week ago was just a one-game slump.

There are other issues at stake in the six-team Ontario Rugby Football Union: Hamilton Wildcats lay their undefeated record on the line at home against Toronto Indians; Ottawa Trojans, seemingly hitting the stride they should have attained earlier, play Balmy Beach in Toronto; the rejuvenated Windsor Rockets ride a two-game win streak into Sarnia where they play the winless Imperials.

The Big Four action rounds out the first half of the Union schedule. Coach Ted Morris has his Argos, perched in second place two points ahead of the Alouettes, primed for their meeting with the Montreal Club.

Filchuck is definitely out of the Tigers lineup and it is expected that rookie George Festerga will replace the former New York Giants star, banned from United States football for failure to report a bribery attempt.

WORLD SERIES NOTES

Ebbets Field, Brooklyn, Oct. 4. —(A)—Veteran Hugh Casey yesterday had the easiest World Series working day on record when he was credited with Brooklyn's second consecutive victory over the Yankees. . . . The big pitcher threw only one ball to put out a dangerous Yankee fire. . . . With the bases loaded and one out in the top of the ninth, Casey made Tommy Henrich hit back to him for a double play that finished the Yanks offensively.

The bombshell blow that won for the Bums minutes later was Cookie Lavagetto's pinch-hit double with two men out. . . . But it was Casey who made victory possible and who got himself into the record books on two counts. He became the first pitcher in a World Series to win a game on one pitch and the first to win two World Series games on consecutive days. Thursday he won a relief victory, pitching only 2 2/3 innings.

One of the neatest plays of the game was right fielder Henrich's agile leap to spear Gene Hermanson's drive with one hand for the final out in the Dodger half of the eighth. It set the stage for the grand finale of what one spectator called "the most historic game ever."

Brooklyn followers went crazy at the incredible climax with triumphant hollering that must have been heard blocks away. One joyful fan, as he left the Stadium reeling in the twist of fortune that enabled the Dodgers to square the series, shouted "Rewrite the whole thing" to a sports writer hammering out his story in the press seats. . . .

Lavagetto caused Bill Bevins to become the first pitcher to lose a one-hit game. It was a heart-breaker for the Yankee right-hander. . . .

Bevins' achievement of completing 8 2/3 innings without allowing a safety bettered the previous mark of Red Ruffing by one full frame. Ruffing of the Yankees had two out in the eighth when Terry Moore of the Cardinals singled in the opening game of the 1942 series.

Jack McKnight Elected Head Of Lennoxville Golf Club; Miss W. Ray Chosen President Of Ladies' Section

Jack McKnight was elected president of the Lennoxville Golf Club, and Miss Wilma Ray was chosen to head the ladies' section of the club, for the 1948 season at the annual meeting held at the clubhouse.

Previous to the election the retiring chairman of the various committees presented their reports and then Jack Herold, the past president, made the presentation assisted by members of the club.

Larry Pergau was the leading prize winner in the men's section when he copped the Rosenbloom Cup, emblematic of the club championship, and the J. P. Stewart Cup. In the ladies section Miss Kay Thompson walked away with all three trophies. She won the Jean-Paul Perrault trophy for the ladies championship, with Miss Doris Ray as runner-up. In play for Mrs. Wright's trophy, Mrs. George Dunsmore was in the runner-up's position and in the ladies handicap cup competition, Miss Kay Thompson edged out

Miss Wilma Ray.

The other officers elected were: R. E. Blake, vice-president; Larry Pergau, secretary-treasurer; H. J. Moffatt, captain; R. S. Clarke and E. W. Gilbey were elected as co-chairmen of the greens committee; H. M. Brown, handicap chairman; L. G. Dwyer, chairman of the house committee; Leslie Pettigrew and Don Clark in charge of the entertainment, with A. C. Davidson elected as head of the membership committee.

In the ladies section Miss Wilma Ray was elected as president with Mrs. E. McGinty as first vice-president and Mrs. R. C. Clarke as second vice. Miss Kay Thompson was named as secretary-treasurer. Mrs. R. Provencher was elected as tea convener with Mrs. A. L. Vallee as supper convener. Miss Doris Ray was selected as team captain with Miss Emily V. Brg as her assistant. . . . house committee chairmanship was given to Mrs. H. Fawcett with Miss Nan Duncan as assistant.

Frank Leahy Pleads Lack Of Depth With Only 74 Handpicked Players

Coy McGee is a spot runner for Notre Dame.

New York, Oct. 4. —(A)—Starling of more accomplished backs. other football season, Frank Leahy practically breaks down completely admitting Notre Dame's prospects are good.

Coach Leahy snaps directly back into character, however, by naming what, according to him, could be weaknesses. The most in-scrutable Irishman ever to come out of Winner, S.D., points to lack of speed among linemen, the absence of a breakaway runner, no depth at certain positions and over-confidence.

Leahy spoke of the absence of a climactic runner a year ago, and figures during the season proved him correct. There were only two long runs in nine outings. Emil Sitko scampered 83 yards against Illinois in the opener and Coy McGee dashed 77 against Southern California in the curtain-closer. It was a long time between drinks, yet the Micks managed to do a bit better than all right.

As to depth, the South Bend roster lists seven quarterbacks, 14 halfbacks, six fullbacks, 12 ends, 13 tackles, 15 guards and a half dozen centers. Nearly all of the material is handpicked. Professor Leahy somehow will manage to field a team. As Red Blake of Army asserts, Notre Dame is so rich in resources opposing coaches scarcely know where to begin their calculations.

Some close observers give the Michigan material an edge on Notre Dame's at that, because They contend that if Johnny Lujack went out, the Celts might have some trouble going through a tough schedule unbeaten. That's how important they consider the direction, passing and defensive ability of the Pole from the coal country. The schedule is on the soft side, however, with Pittsburgh, Purdue, Nebraska, Iowa, Navy, Army, Northwestern, Tulane and Southern California. That's Notre Dame's only weakness—the schedule. The Micks are just too good to get a good schedule.

Outside of the supposed absence of a back who can go for the long one, this fall's edition is a typical Notre Dame squad, even to names, with Rudykiewicz, Ciechanowicz, (Zarobski, Zmijewski, Koskowski, Swistowicz, Sinkovitz and some more like that. But the Irish are there, too, with Flanagan, Michaels, McCarty, McGee, McGee, Sullivan, Fallon, Gaul, Lally, Walsh, two O'Connors and the brothers Brennan and Connor.

Leahy might borrow an idea from Art Pollard. Teammates report that Arizona's ace tailback uses a shoe horn to get into his game breeches, wears the smallest pair he can get into. Tight pants do much to ward off grabbing tacklers, he stresses.

A tight pair of pants might give Notre Dame the breakaway runner for whom Leahy professes to be searching.

SHERBROOKE HOME SERVICES CAMPAIGN

Oct. 6th to Oct. 13th

Opening

MONDAY★ OBJECTIVE: $13,000 ★

Can You Answer These Questions About The Sherbrooke Home Services?

Q—Why do we have a Home Services Campaign?A—Because it's the simple, sensible way to raise at one time the money needed by social welfare, health and recreational agencies of our community.Q—Do the Agencies like the idea?*A—Yes. It means the money is secured in an orderly fashion . . . rather than left to hit-or-miss individual drives.Q—How much money do we need?*A—$13,000.Q—Who says we need this amount?*A—A committee of our own local citizens which has studied the needs of the community and the budgets of each agency.Q—Who decides how much each Agency gets?*A—Our committee weighs the need for each service and allocates funds accordingly.Q—How do I gain?*A—Because you give ONCE and for all three services. Your doorbell isn't rung three times. And you can be certain that the money you give is wisely and effectively distributed among them all.Q—How do I give?*A—Some time between October 6th and October 13th a volunteer worker will call on you at your home. Give him the donation then. If you are overlooked, bring or send your donation to Campaign Headquarters in rear of the Canadian Bank of Commerce Building, Dufferin Ave.Q—What three services are included?*A—Salvation Army — Y.M.C.A. — Y.W.C.A.

On Monday morning public spirited volunteers will start ringing doorbells in town to collect funds for our Home Services. Come to your door with your hand digging deeply into your pocket—to help alleviate suffering among your neighbors. To help our community's incapacitated have adequate care. To help the sick and stricken get well and return to productive jobs, thanks to the Salvation Army. To help raise our community's standard of good health, good care and self sufficiency, through the work of the "Y" for the boys and girls.

It is imperative that we shall not be compelled to go back to the former system of almost monthly campaigns and their resulting overlapping of effort and curtailment of proper planning and service. We urge all citizens in every walk of life to take a dutiful and personal interest in their Home Services. If that is done we are confident that this urgent call for aid and succor will receive the response which it warrants and deserves.
