Panel of Speakers Make Appeal For Re-election Of Ian Watson At Meeting On Saturday

An impressive platform of speakers in behalf of Mr. Ian Watson, Liberal candidate for the constituency of Chateauguay-Huntingdon-Laprairie, gathered at Notre-Dame auditorium Saturday evening in what was the first, political rally held to date in Huntingdon in connection with the November 8 Federal Election only five more days from today.

Mr. Leo Cappiello, Mayor of the Town of Huntingdon, acted as Master of Ceremonies and introduced Mr. Ian Watson, Official Liberal Candidate, and the following: Messrs. John Turner, Parliamentary Assistant to the Minister of Northern Affairs and Liberal incumbent in the St. Lawrence-St. George riding of Montreal; François E. Cleyn, member of the Canada Economic Council; Donald E. Black and Jean Boucher, former Federal Members of Parliament for this constituency; Ken Fraser, Liberal candidate in the last Provincial election and Walter Smith, Mayor of Hemmingford.

François Cleyn

Mr. F. E. Cleyn said that Canada is enjoying the greatest and most sustained period of prosperity in its history under the Liberal Government of the Hon. Lester Pearson.

The target set by the Economic Council has been reached and in some cases surpassed. Indications of this growth are the bottle-necks that are developing in the labor market.

The construction industry is so buoyant that the Federal Government saw fit to put some brakes on and delay the non urgent construction projects.

Despite this prosperity the Economy is now in a very dangerous state and important decisions will have to be made in order to avoid the inflationary pressures that will burst the bubble or the boom and burst type of economy that we are trying to avoid will again be with us.

It is my honest opinion that the Prime Minister called a Federal Election on November 8th because in the best interest of the Canadian people, important and sometimes distasteful measures will have to be taken. It is easy to legislate on social measures that most parties have to accept and you can readily understand how difficult it would be for a minority government to face a hostile House of Commons when it becomes necessary to introduce measures that may well be in the long term interest of the Country but are unpopular at the moment.

If we want to prolong the prosperity that we now have then we have to have a strong Government, therefore I urge you to give Mr. Pearson a decisive Victory by re-electing — Ian Watson — in Chateauguay-Huntingdon-Laprairie.

John Turner

John Turner, a Rhodes Scholar elected to the House of Commons in 1962 and re-elected in 1963, is a forceful and dynamic bilingual orator who has been referred to in some circles as a future Cabinet Minister.

Mr. Turner explained that he wasn't a stranger to Huntingdon, having accompanied Jim Robb here on several previous occasions. He said it was a pleasure to appear on behalf of Ian Watson Liberal Colleague and a long-standing personal friend.

Mr. Turner called on the people of Chateauguay-Huntingdon-Laprairie to give Ian Watson an overwhelming majority next Monday, claiming that Watson had been accepted by both parties at Ottawa and that he had been named Chairman of the Department of Human Rights and Indian Affairs, had displayed leadership in plans for the young citizens and in general had been singled out for considerable more responsibility than any other member who had been sitting in the House for only 2½ years. Mr. Turner said Ian Watson had a promising political future in store and that the people of this constituency should be extremely proud of their young member. He said that when people were given the facts, the majority of them could be depended upon to use their prerogative of voting and emphasized that the Liberal Party was giving the facts.

Mr. Turner said that the people of Huntingdon, Ormstown, Howick and so on are undoubtedly interested in the problem of raising the water level of the Montreal harbour and the level of the St. Lawrence River and the Great Lakes: "It is a co-ordinated plan. There is study to divert flow of water from the Canadian northland to the Great Lakes — there is a possibility of supplying water to parts of the U.S.A. — but some of our own rivers, like the Chateauguay, originate across the border, so it is not only a matter of Canada supplying water to the States. Ian Watson has taken part in all discussions regarding this problem and the people of this area can feel secure that their interests are in capable hands."

"During the Diefenbaker régime, cooperation with the U.S.A. was limited and relationship strained," Mr. Turner reminded the audience. "Relationship between the two ethnic groups of our province was also at a very low ebb." Mr. Turner said that Lester B. Pearson had re-opened friendly dialogue in both cases and urged that voters bear these facts in mind when casting their ballots on November 8 and give Mr. Pearson the mandate necessary to make authoritative decisions.

"Parliament must be made more of a workshop and less of a theatre and this can be accomplished by the thinking person exercising his right to vote. It is the duty of Canadians to restore Parliament to public esteem and every person in this hall can help by urging people to vote," Mr. Turner concluded.

Donald E. Black

Donald Black said that he had been a public servant for the people of this constituency for 17 years and he urged the populace to support Ian Watson "who has proved himself qualified and efficient." He said that when Ian made an appointment with someone that appointment was kept.

Mr. Black said there is no place in Canada for a Diefenbaker Conservative government which would promote rifts between neighbours. "I know Mike Pearson as well as I know anybody in this gathering tonight and I say he is a strong and capable leader."

Politicking of yester-years was recalled as Mr. Black said that in the days of the late Messrs. Dan Faubert, Dennie O'Connor, Jack Leehy and others it wasn't necessary for the candidate to urge people to vote: there were enough sincere people to make sure that people got out and used that privilege. Today, the delegates and supporters must help because there is a feeling 'Let the other fellow do it, I haven't time and there'll be plenty without me'. If we want a stable and honest government after November 8 everyone must help. Mr. Black remarked that while he was a Member of Parliament he sat for four years while the country was being governed by a minority government and every time an important or distasteful issue arose, many of the members would disappear behind the curtains or into the corridors and bill after bill would be postponed and time wasted.

Jean Boucher

Jean Boucher said if the Liberal Party did not receive a clear-cut majority on November 8th, it won't be the fault of the Chateauguay-Huntingdon-Laprairie riding. He said that when he appeared on the same platform in 1962 and presented himself as the official Liberal candidate, he thought he would surely lose because only a couple of dozen turned out, "but on Election Day they turned out and gave the support this constituency is noted for." In 1963, the people of Laprairie turned out and gave Ian Watson the same support and in the forthcoming election his majority will be even greater. Ian has been completely accepted in Laprairie and also in Ottawa and Chateauguay - Huntingdon-Laprairie voters had no intention of supporting a Diefenbaker government that would jeopardize Confederation and strain French / English and American / Canadian relationships — relationships that can best be maintained and improved only by The Hon. L. B. Pearson.

Ian Watson

Ian Watson thanked the eminent orators who had appeared on his behalf, especially John Turner who expected to be a father for the second time at any hour and Jean Boucher who was suffering from la grippe and who had been in bed for two days until two hours before arriving in Huntingdon. He also

W.A. of Barrie Decides To Drop Membership In Provincial Association

The Women's Auxiliary of the Barrie Memorial Hospital met in the hospital boardroom at 8:15 p.m. on Monday Oct. 25.

Before the business meeting commenced, the members were addressed by the Mayor Mr. Bruno Beaulieu, who stated that he took particular pleasure in meeting the Auxiliary because of the excellent work done for the hospital by them. He praised the amiable working together of the English and French community in Ormstown, and cited Ormstown as an example of the kind of cooperation needed for Centennial Year.

Mr. Beaulieu was thanked for his speech by Mrs. Barrington, who continued by thanking all members of the Auxiliary, the Executive and Committee members for their hard work during her term of office, which will shortly be coming to a close.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read by Mrs. Clifford Moore, the secretary and translated for the benefit of French members present by Mme Eugène Sauvé.

A discussion then followed as to the desirability of the Auxiliary continuing its membership in the Provincial Association of Hospital Auxiliaries. For the coming year fees are to be trebled, being raised from $25 to $75 per annum. Mrs. Barrington stated that in the last few years very little information of any help to the Auxiliary has emerged from the Provincial Association. Mrs. J. Davidson served on the Executive of the Provincial Association last year, and said that the atmosphere prevailing there was far from pleasant. Money was being spent freely to send delegates to such far-flung points as Halifax and Vancouver, and in excessive long distance telephone calls. She recommended withdrawing the

ROBBERY AT HEMMINGFORD

(By Mrs. L'Esperance)

Thieves again broke into the showroom of W. Keddy and Son, Building Contractors of Hemmingford, sometime between 10:30 p.m. Friday evening and 8 a.m. Saturday morning. From the office, which is at the rear of the showroom, was taken a typewriter and various office equipment and several electrical tools are also missing. The total value is estimated at around $500. Mr. Edwin Keddy was, himself, working in the office until 10:30 and the window through which the entry was effected, is in full view and in the beam of one of the spotlights which burn through the night around the building. The Provincial Police are investigating.

Hunter Lost In Bush

(By Mrs. L'Esperance)

On Sunday Mr. Peter Hudon, Jr., with a young companion came from Montreal to spend the day at the family summer home which is just off Rte. 52, about 3 miles east of the village. The two young men went into the bush at the rear of the house about 3 p.m. for a short hunting expedition, each going his own way. Returning to the house around 6 p.m. Mr. Hudon expected to find his friend at the house but when he had not returned by 9 p.m. he went across to the home of Mr. Jim Laurie for help. Mr. Laurie and Mr. Glen Hadley, with Mr. Hudon, patrolled around the edge of the bush until midnight, calling and firing guns in the hope that the noise would provide a bearing for the missing hunter. It was a particularly dark, wet night and beavers further north with their dams have caused the Little Montreal river to flood this part of the bush, making a night search impossible. Early the next morning Mr. Laurie telephoned Mr. Walter Smith, explaining the situation. Mr. Smith, himself a keen hunter, immediately formed a search party and was on the point of starting out when he received another call informing him that the young man had walked out of the bush at the rear of Mr. Charles Barr's home. On learning who he was, Mrs. Barr phoned Mr. Hudon and, while waiting for his arrival, supplied the weary, cold, wet hunter with hot coffe. He said he had spend the night sitting in one spot as, whichever way he turned, he encountered swamp. Within a very short while he was on his way back to Montreal.

Social Service Opens New Offices In Huntingdon

Huntingdon branch of the Valleyfield Social Service Agency marked the opening of new offices at 47 Bouchette street on a full-time basis by a meeting held at Notre Dame School gym last week.

Mr. J. Valérien Montpetit, president of the agency, chaired the meeting which was also addressed by Mr. Maurice Painchaud, director of the agency in Valleyfield, Mr. François Cleyn, who was the Red Feather campaign chairman for 1965, and by the two social workers in the district Mr. André Egli and Mrs. Mary Sancton.

In his opening remarks Mr. Montpetit welcomed all present. These included representatives of the municipal councils in the county of Huntingdon and Ormstown and its immediate environs, which is the area covered by the branch agency. Also in attendance were clergy, both Catholic and Protestant, from local parishes, and representatives of the medical profession, service clubs and women's organizations.

Mr. Montpetit, speaking in both French and English, indicated that the agency, one of the organizations suppirted by the local Red Feather campaign, had been operating in this area for some years but only recently had it become possible to provide full-time service. Mr. Egli, he said, is in charge of the branch agency with Mrs. Sancton working four days a week to serve, particularly, the English-speaking part of the community. A full-time secretary is now at the office Monday to Friday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Mr. Egli in French, and Mrs. Sancton later in English, outlined the services the agency offers. They both emphasised that the agency no longer provides financial relief. Persons seeking financial aid should apply direct to the regional office of the Ministry of Family and Social Welfare at 70 Champlain street Valleyfield.

They spoke in some detail of the four categories into which the agency's services can be divided. Counselling is given on a variety of problems that confront people in everyday living, such as difficulties between married persons, between children and parents. Also help is given with special problems of unmarried mothers, alcoholics persons on probation, and families in exceptional situations arising from mental or physical illness are referred to the particular association or con-

Vandals Damage Ormstown High School on Hallowe'en

(By Bernice Cullen)

It would seem that some addle-minded characters need an excuse to prove to themselves that the lowest possible form of thinking is legitimate. These lame brains usually choose Hallowe'en as the one time of the year when they believe they are brave enough to perform their inane acts.

Some one broke a window of the Ormstown High School on Saturday night, went upstairs and plugged the wash basins and other receptacles and turned the water on and left the building. It was several hours before an inspection of the building was made. The caretaker went to the school about two-thirty as a precautionary measure to find several inches of water on the ground floor and a veritable river flowing down the stairs. Not content with turning on the water, the vandals threw several books and papers on the floor and these were ruined. It will now be necessary to use some of the taxpayers' money to purchase new books and to repair damage to tiles and possible other repairs to the school.

This sort of action is neither clever, excusable, nor amusing. It is the action of a deranged mind, someone whose reason is badly warped. During the past years, person used to baffle the school officials by gaining entrance to the school and pushing the button which allowed the siren to ring, this was no sooner corrected and the inspectors would leave only to have the whole procedure repeated, several times. While this performance was a nuisance it was never destructive. Let us hope the persons responsible for the flooding, are caught and severely reprimanded.

Howick Young Man Killed In Accident on Saturday

(By Mrs. Crawford)

Once again, this community sorrows with the family of a young man who died by accident early Saturday morning. Jackie Tennant, 4th., son of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Tennant was driving his car from Ormstown on Highway 4. About 2½ miles west of Howick the car left the road and hit a tree. Death may have been instantaneours.

His companion, Lyall McWhinnie was stunned and removed from the car. He was bruised and shaken but X-rays show no further injuries.

Mr. Tennant's funeral was held on Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock at Howick United Church.

The sympathy of the community is extended to the Tennant Family.

Social Worker Mrs. Sancton, Speaker At Huntingdon U.C.W.

The General Meeting of the Huntingdon United Church Women was held on Wednesday afternoon, Oct. 27 in the Church. A large number of ladies were in attendance.

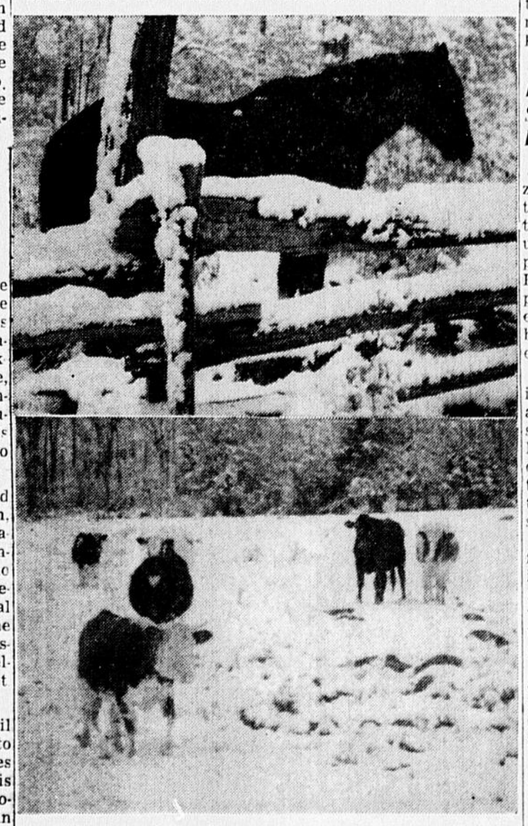
CAUGHT IN LAST WEEK'S SNOWSTORM



When people awakened on Thursday morning of last week it was to see a mantle of soft snow covering everything. The trees were particularly beautiful in their snow white cloak and against a background of blue-grey clouds. It was winter's first fall of snow and amounted to two inches or more. It soon disappeared however, but the weather remained cold. Above are a couple of scenes captured by the Gleaner photographer of the snowy atmosphere. Several farmers were caught with their animals out and top we see old dobbin in a wintery setting, while lower some cattle are still out in the pasture and came up to the photographer as though asking him to bring them in.

CURLING SEASON LAUNCHED AT ORMSTOWN

The Ladies Branch of the Ormstown Curling Club inaugurated the 1965-66 season with a card party, followed by the semi-annual meeting, on Wednesday evening, October 27th., at the Curling Club.

Forty-four members and guests played Bridge and "500". Mrs. A. Hughes and Mrs. F. Martin were the winners at Bridge, while Mrs. J. Lamb and Mrs. M. Greig were the high-scorers at "500".

Following refreshments provided by the Executive, the new president, Mrs. Frank Hope presided over the meeting. The treasurer, Mrs. H. J. McMahon, reported a balance of $453.79. This healthy state of the Branch's economy is largely due to the snack bar, operated by the women, at the Ormstown Exhibition in June. The meeting voted to buy six new card tables for the Club rooms and matting to be laid along the walk, skirting the rink.

It was decided to hold the McGerrigle Bonspiel commencing the week of November 22nd., to be open to O.C.C. members only.

Pomp And Circumstance

The composer of the stately Pomp and Circumstance OP 39 was born at Broadheath, England, on June 2, 1857. He was given the names of Edward William Elgar. Largely self taught, he wrote some of the world's most beautiful music and is considered to be the first important English Composer since the 17th century composer Henry Purcell. He wrote the music for Queen Victoria's Jubilee, being knighted by her in 1904. Much of his compositions were inspired by the great authors, including Newman and Keats as well as Biblical authors. One of his most loved compositions is Pomp and Circumstance inspired from and by "Othello". The main melody, March No 2 in A minor is world famous. Lyrics were written by Lawrence Houseman and became known as Land of Hope and Glory. This is intimately associated with the British Empire and portrays the pomp and circumstances of war. Milton Cross wrote in the thirties, "Land of Hope and Glory", is as British as "The King".

Large Local Group Shows Lively Interest In Campaign

Recapturing some of the zeal and dedicated purpose of the Christians of early times, to whom Saint Peter wrote urging every man to be a priest and missionary for the Faith (1 Peter 2:9), 82 campaign workers met Monday evening, October 25th in the basement of Huntingdon United Church.

To equip themselves for the important task ahead, they attended their first training session for "Partnership in Ministry" under the direction of Mrs. C. R. Reid. Divided into 8 groups with their captains there was a thoroughly enthusiastic participation by all.

The mounting fervor evinced for this work is highly gratifying to the campaign Chairman, Mr. Alex Fawcett and leaders, whose reward will be to see their efforts crowned with success.

Supervising and assisting in every department, the Rev. H. Lowenberger appeared very happy at the obvious enthusiasm.

Refreshments were served and the meeting was closed with the rousing gospel hymn. "Come let us sing of a wonderful love".

Ormstown

Several Sunday School teachers from Ormstown attended the District Convention of Sunday School Teachers held in Hemmingford on Sunday afternoon. Mrs. Willa Hooker was appointed Vice-President for the current year.

These Are The Candidates From Whom To Make Your Choice Nov. 8

Next Monday, November 8th, is election day here and throughout the whole of Canada. On that day will be decided what Party will form the government of Canada. On the other hand it may be that a coalition of two or three Parties will form a Government. This is a most peculiar campaign so it is hard to form a true opinion of just which Party has the lead.

It seems fairly definite that the two old line Parties, the Liberals and the Progressive Conservatives, will hold the larger number of elected candidates, but it is hard to figure how much the N.D.P., Créditistes and Social Credit may gain in other parts of the country. There are a large number of Independents in this election and they can affiliate to any of the Parties.

In our own area we have five candidates with four different Parties and one Independent, favoring the Progressive-Conservatives. Following are the candidates the voters in the Chateauguay-Huntingdon-Laprairie constituency will cast the ballots for on Monday next.

Roland de Montigny

is from Laprairie and favors the Progressive-Conservative Party. He was with F.M.R. and took part in the Dieppe Raid and was a prisoner of war. He has been employed with the Postal Dept. for the past 11 years.

J.G. Tremblay
New Democratic Party

His platform appears in an advertisement in this issue.

Robt. James Clarke
Progressive Conservative

Mr. Clarke is the candidate for the Progressive-Conservative Party and his biography and platform appear in an advertisement in this issue.

Marcellin Gagnon
Social Credit Candidate
for Châteauguay-Huntingdon-Laprairie

Born in St. Blaise on November 15, 1906. Married to Lucia Lavoie on June 24, 1936. Father of a 23-year-old son and of an adopted daughter. He was a farmer in l'Acadie until 1954. Mr. Gagnon was awarded the Bronze Medal and the Silver Medal of the Order of Agricultural Merit. He is now a carpenter in Montreal. Creditiste since 1935 and Knight of Columbus.

Ian Watson
Liberal Party

Needs no introduction, he was our sitting Member before the dissolution of Parliament. His home is at Howick and he was elected at the previous election for the first time.

The above then are the candidates from which you must make your choice next Monday, when you go to the polls to mark your ballot. Everyone possible should get out and vote in an effort this time to have a majority government in power at Ottawa.

Fire Dept. Commitee To Meet With Council; Winter Works Program To Be Submitted

The Sec.-treasurer read the minutes of the October regular meeting and of the special meeting held on October 20th. Those were approved and signed by the Mayor.

This was followed by the reading of the monthly bills. After study of them by the members of the Council, Alderman Gaw moved that they be accepted; he was seconded by alderman Brisebois.

A letter from Mr. Gilles Brunet, asking permission to install a sign in front of his store on Châteauguay St. Permission was granted providing Mr. Brunet assumes responsibility for any accidents thanked Mayor Cappiello for his remarks.

Mr. Watson then drew attention to the progress that has been made toward harmony between the two ethnic races, saying that a good start had been made and that Mr. Pearson required a decisive majority on November 8th to continue that progress.

Mr. Watson said that fantastic improvement had been achieved with regard to the country's economy during the Pearson régime. He said that since April 1963, the Liberal Government had, among other worthwhile steps: established the Canada Pension Plan portable across Canada; raised Old Age Security pensions to $75, available from age 65; increased disability and war allowances; increased employment by 600,000 jobs through effective fiscal and economic measures; established Canada's first minimum wage structure; introduced the $500. bonus plan for winter-built homes; integrated Canada's defence forces thereby reducing cost while increasing efficiency; established the $400 million Municipal Development Loan that had been of direct benefit to people in this part of the Chateauguay Valley; secured agreement leading to free trade in automobiles and automobile parts and already two automobile parts plant have been built in Lacolle; reduced the national deficit to the lowest level in years; established the Economic Council of which Mr. Cleyn is a member (a great honor and achievement and everyone in the Chateauguay Valley is justly proud that a man from Huntingdon was one of the twenty-five Canadians chosen to the Council); improved farm credit and increased support for sititution that can offer aid.

Secondly the social workers mentioned that placement of children in foster homes or institutions is made by their agency where such a step becomes imperative for the welfare of the children. Arrangements, also, are made for elderly or sick persons, who do not require hospitalisation but need more or better care than can be given at home, to be placed in nursing homes.

In some instances the Ministry of Family and Social Welfare asks the agency to administer the financial assistance that is given to individuals or families, but again it was emphasised that the agency has no say as to who is eligible for this assistance or — what amount should be allocated.

Fourthly the agency provides, through a special worker at the Valleyfield office, services in the field of adoption and temporary care for unwanted babies.

Mr. Cleyn in his remarks to the assembly mentioned that it was only as the result of increased support for the recent Red Feather campaigns in this area that the improved facilities could now be offered to the community by the agency.

In conclusion Mr. Painchaud spoke in broader terms of the problems of modern life in a democracy and the place that social agencies have to play.

Lively discussion then took place in a question and answer period. Mr. Bruno Beaulieu, Mayor of Ormstown, urged that more publicity be given to the work of the agency saying that the public should realize that there was no stigma attached to seeking help from an agency that offers help — to problems of all, be they millionaires or average citizens.

More conversation between individuals took place over the delicious refreshments provided by the ladies of St. Anne's under the direction of Mrs. George Lefebvre.

Mr. Watson said that the Liberal Government is proposing a Medical Plan that will ensure Canadians of free health services for a very small premium but which will maintain the independence of the medical profession.

The Liberal candidate for this riding then emphasized that although the average Canadian's income had soared the income of the farmer had not changed despite rising costs. He pledged his earnest endeavour to establish a Canadian Dairy Commission which will have as its immediate aim raising the price of industrial milk to four dollars per hundredweight.

Ian Watson further pledged to collaborate fully with municipal and provincial authorities to combat water pollution and encourage development of industry by a co-operative regional approach to industrialization.

Before concluding his remarks, Mr. Watson said that he wished to take the opportunity of thanking the delegates who went to Laprairie for his Nominating convention. Ninety-nine percent of the delegates attended and support like that is encouraging and deeply appreciated. While people appear lethargic because of three elections in four years, Mr. Watson said it is his opinion that everyone acknowledges the necessity of a government working with a good majority and that he is confident the Liberal Government will receive that majority at the polls on November 8th.

Griffith-McConnell Home in Montreal and contributions toward the purchase of Mission Study Books and other similar material.

Mrs. Gaw, programme convener, requested leaders of Units to prepare suggestions for programme material for next year to be given at the next general meeting.

Mrs. L.A. Sanderson introduced the guest speaker, Mrs Mary Sancton, whose work as Welfare Officer in this district is known to many people.

Mrs. Sancton, who holds a Bachelor of Science degree from St. Andrew's University in Scotland and a diploma in Social Science from the University of London, has had a varied and valuable background of experience in the field of work in which she is now engaged. During World War II she worked in England for the Ministry of Labour as an Inspector of factories and at the end of the war came to Canada, having married Mr. Sancton, who was at that time with the R.C.A.F.

The Sanctons have lived in various parts of Canada, including the Maritimes and during their Montreal period Mrs. Sancton worked for the Family Welfare Association. They moved to their present home between Huntingdon and Ormstown in 1960 and a year ago Mrs. Sancton started work with the Social Service of Valleyfield, being the first English-speaking Protestant worker employed by this agency. She was taken on the staff primarily to work with the English-speaking population of Huntingdon County and the Ormstown district.

Mrs. Sancton's talk was both interesting and instructive. She spoke of the work in which she is engaged and explained that the field that this agency covers is classified as follows: (1) Counselling; (2) Placement; (3) Administration; (4) Adoption.

The main purpose of the agency is NOT the disbursement of financial assistance, but rather to help individuals to cope with problems affecting their lives. Family problems may well include each member of the family; for example such problems are included as physical and mental problems; aid in securing jobs; care and placement of needy children; counselling and aid for the alcoholics; counselling and aid for the unwed mother and many other related problems. There are the delinquent youth and, even worse, the delinquent adult, all in need of right directing.

People are urged to present their problems and a Huntingdon office is now open at 47 Bouchette Street from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday to Friday and the office is also open on Tuesday and Thursday evenings. The telephone number of the Social Service Agency is 264-5326 and there is no doubt in the minds of those who heard her speak that the local office is in capable hands.

At the end of Mrs. Sancton's talk a hearty vote of thanks was voiced by Mrs. C. Reid and this was supported by all ladies present.

Mrs. Murray reminded the group of the date of the Autumn Bazaar and Food sale (see advt.) and the meeting closed by the repeating of the Lord's Prayer.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Howick, Que.
Nov. 2, 1965.

The Editor,
The Huntingdon Gleaner,
Huntingdon, Que.
Dear Sir:

To put the record straight with regard to the recent flag raising ceremony at Allan's Corners:

I was an invited guest together with other candidates and the Provincial members of Parliament.

I was not even aware of the proposal for the flag raising ceremony until long after the idea had been proposed to the Chateauguay Valley Historical Society by Mr. Thomas McDade of Chateauguay, and accepted by that organization.

I was not asked to participate in organizing this event and I was not involved in the planning or the organization for this ceremony.

Two days before October 24th I was contacted and asked if, in the light of the projected campaign visit of the Federal Ministers Pickersgill and Lamontagne to Beauharnois County, I would speak to Mr. Laniel, M.P. for Beauharnois-Salaberry and Mr. Joseph Laberge, Mayor of Chateauguay, to determine whether their itinerary would allow a brief visit by the ministers to Allan's Corners.

Mr. J. Laberge very kindly consented to cut short the civic reception at Chateauguay to permit the ministers to travel to Beauharnois via Allan's Corners to arrive at the battle site for 3:30 p.m.

Apparently in the rush of last minute preparations for the ceremony the band was not told that the ministers would be arriving at 3:30, one-half hour after the originally scheduled ceremony time of 3 p.m.

I regret very much the discomfort and inconvenience caused members of the Ormstown Band, Lindsay Cullen has done and is doing a magnificient job with his Ormstown group. The Ormstown Band is a credit to our District and their public-spirited support for any worthy cause is well-known to all of us and is appreciated by the entire community. Our thanks go out to them for their many appearances throughout the Valley.

Knowing the Ormstown Band's devotion to the interests of the Chateauguay Valley I am confident that this unfortunate incident will not in any way lessen their support for the objective of a National Historic Park at Allan's Corners.

As for the political aspects of the ministers' visit I suppose it is inevitable that any visit by a Minister of the Crown two weeks before an election does have a political tinge to it, but I would remind your readers that had Mr. Pickersgill and Mr. Lamontagne not already been scheduled for a campaign visit to Beauharnois County, a visit to the site of the Battle of Chateauguay by two Federal Ministers would not have been possible.

I was personally very pleased that the ministers were able to come on such short notice.

If our objective of a National Historic Park at Allan's Corners is to be realized we need both the publicity which a minister's visit is able to give us in the press and on radio and television together with the interest and support of a maximum number of Ministers of the Crown.

Mr. McDade obviously proposed the flag raising ceremony to obtain publicity for the Chateauguay Battle Site. Mr. McDade organized the entire event practically singlehandedly and deserves our thanks and appreciation for his initiative and effort.

Yours sincerely,
Ian Watson.

Dewittville W.I. Holds Successful Events In October

The October Meeting of the Dewittville W.I. was held at the home of Mrs. J. Leger on Thursday evening, October 21, with seventeen members and one visitor present. The Roll Call was answered by members naming the tree which they would like to plant for 1967 and the reason for their choice. The flowering crabapple proved to be the most popular with pine, spruce, maple, and weeping willow being mentioned. The Treasurer reported that the proceeds from the Nearly New Sale were very satisfactory.

Christmas cards are still available from Mrs. C. Bryson with the money being forwarded to the School for Retarded Children at Huntingdon.

A request for "Patterns" of crochet, knitting and sewing has been made. Any member having one or more to give away are asked to bring them to the next meeting.

A note of regret was expressed that Mrs. Bernhardt, a valued member of Huntingdon W.I. and County Convener of Agriculture, has left our midst but we are certain that her work in that capacity will be ably carried on by the newly appointed convener, Mrs. C. Reid also of Huntingdon Branch.

The Convener of Citizenship read an article relating to the Leadership and Development of Indians. Greeting Cards can be purchased and money forwarded to UNICEF.

The Convener of Education told about the Trip to the Botanical Gardens in Montreal, which several members had enjoyed recently and also reported on the success of the School Fair at Huntingdon High School when members of Dewittville W.I. worked with the Huntingdon Home and School Association.

The Convener of Home Economics stated that the Sewing Course given in connection with Huntingdon W.I. by Mrs. Wells of Macdonald College had been a success and was well attended by members from this Branch. A few members displayed their projects.

The Convener of Publicity mentioned a Headline from the W.I. Page of the September Macdonald Farm Journal that it was Good Publicity to wear your W.I. pin on every possible occasion, not just to W.I. Meetings.

The Guest Speaker for the evening was Mr. John K. Dickson from Ormstown, whose topic was Expo '67. Mr. Dickson gave much information on the situation of Expo '67, the Transportation which will be available and the accommodation needed for this great event. With a minimum of cost many will be able to visit this Fair whose theme is Man and His World. Mrs. C. Bryson thanked the speaker for the giving of his time to inform us on the happenings at this great Fair taking place in the not too distant future.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. R. Ruddock and Mrs. N. McLean.

This and That In Town

The vandalism at Ormstown High School Hallowe'en Night smacks of the mentality behind the burning of the bridges in this district exactly one year ago. If those responsible weren't apprehended within the past tewlve months, though, the instigators of Saturday night's wanton destruction will likely remain unknown too. It seems deplorable that these cunning but deceitful young people can't channel their energy to worthwhile goings-on.

From Lacolle: reports that a rattlesnake was seen last week.

And from Cazaville: someone 'thinks' he saw a small black bear near the St. Charles Road.

Congratulations: two of the six lights on the Henderson St. bridge in Huntingdon were working last week. That's a real improvement as generally only one glows.

If you like good food and plenty of it, read about the harvest suppers on the Coming Events pages.

The 'flu bug is bugging numerous families in the district these days.

Friends of Mrs. J. Ward McGill will be sorry to learn she is a patient in the County Hospital, having slipped and fallen in her home here, suffering a leg fracture.

Members of the Ormstown Lions Club are again offering delicious hodiday fruit cakes for sale. The cakes are the three-pound round type attractively decorated for the festive season. As usual, they are packed in tins that are useful for many purposes long after the cake has been eaten. The Ormstown Lions are taking orders now and cakes are available now, so please help this service club by ordering your fruit cake now.

Don't forget the annual turkey dinner at St. Bridget's Church, Trout River, Sunday, November 7. Dinner commences at 2 p.m. and continues until all are served. 100th Anniversary booklets on sale. This annual supper, sponsored by the parishioners, has gained an enviable reputation on both sides of the border. (Advt. See Coming Events).

Did you know that 17 (SEVENTEEN) deer were bagged by hunters in the Franklin/Covey Hill area over the week-end?

And the people of Howick were shocked to learn Saturday morning that 27-year-old Jackie Tenant was instantly killed when his late-model Rambler left the road and struck a tree. Jackie was well liked by young and old and was known to district hockey fans as a good goal-tender.

The heavy snowfall early Thursday morning caused a variety of expressions of surprise and at least twelve motorists slid off Highway No. 4 between Huntingdon and Chateauguay. Perhaps this taste of what's to come is a reminder for people to discard bald tires and get some with good treads. The snow-covered trees and landscape presented a beautiful sight but by Friday all signs of snow had disappeared, but it's going to be here to stay one of these days.

A survey by a British newspaper based on the number of households having central heating, refrigerators, cars, telephones and washing machines rates Canada 'the world champion of good living'. Fine. And just wait until we have free education at university levels, free medical plans, free $100-a-month incomes, free trade, free food, free housing, free love . . . whoops, we got carried away back there a few lines . . too many campaign speeches get confusing when one's tired

Since the Letter to The Editor from Mr. John Sancton of Ormstown, President of the Monitor Publishing Company Limited of Montreal, was published in The Gleaner of October 27 some information re. the proposed Protestant Regional School has been doled out. More facts are promised anon. Now we're wondering who can coerce some information about Route 4 out of Quebec?

Three Valleyfield teen-agers, brothers Gilbert and Pierre Gazaille, aged 16 and 15 respectivly, and their friend Pierre Lamanque, 16, drowned Saturday morning near Cedars when their boat capsized in the St. Lawrence River. A fourth lad swam to safety.

And Alfred Usereau, 35, of St. Chrysostome, lost his life near Chateauguay when his car overturned in a ditch near Riviere des Faivres.

ORMSTOWN: The winner of the free L.P. record given by the Gift Shoppe was Miss Raymonde Usereau of Ormstown. The second prize winner was Mrs. Rattigan, also of Ormstown. The Gift Shoppe sponsors a monthly drawing.

HEMMINGFORD: Read about Hunter lost in bush.

The Huntingdon Branch of the Canadian Legion is planning a Variety Show for December 4. It will consist of Vocal, comical and instrumental numbers and contain some surprises for the audience. Proceeds will go to the Retarded Children's School. More particulars later but meanwhile keep this in mind.

MALONE, N.Y. — Mrs. Lylian Shea was re-elected tax collector for Malone at elections held Tuesday. Mrs. Shea is a sister of Mrs. Hazel Patterson (Patterson Nursing Home) of Huntingdon.

SARATOGA, N.Y. — Mrs. Kay Williams of Huntingdon, Quebec, was unanimously re-elected New York State Grange Lecturer for the second consecutive two-year term. The annual convention was held October 24-28.

SOMETHING DIFFERENT!

CALENDARS

WITH LOCAL CHARACTER

Businessmen, Church Societies and others, before ordering your calendars for 1966, check with The Gleaner first. You can obtain calendars which will have local pictures, or even pictures of your own establishment, or church, to impart individual as well as local character.

Various sizes and styles can be obtained, which will make your calendar different from others. You can choose desk calendars, pocket calendars, as well as the hang-on-the-wall type.

Price-wise, the cost will be about the same as you would pay for other calendars, perhaps even a little less. And so you will obtain more individuality in your calendar that will make yours just a little bit different. It's worth investigating.

If you did not get calendars for 1965, we can make you something to fill in there too. Why not call us and talk it over. DO IT NOW.

NOTRE DAME HIGH NEWS
By Danny Sanders

Please permit me to introduce myself. My name is Danny Sanders, and I am in third high, English section of the school.

The big story buzzing around the school this week is the "magazine campaign". With a quota of $1000 for the school, the students managed to come within $58.00, from the goal with a grand total of $942. The highest selling group was Mother Saint Joanne's Class who sold $232.52 worth of magazines. A hearty congratulation to the campaign manager for the school, a fourth high student, Denise Lefebvre, who did a grand job of keeping things in order. Special congratulations to those who sold magazines, for without their earnest school spirit this campaign would have ended in disaster.

Some students were slightly disappointed by the loss of All Saints' Day as a holiday this year, but I am sure that the extra day is sorely needed by some students, for "First Term Exams" are rapidly approaching.

Quote of the week — (The lazy student's saying). "I like to work, it fascinates me. I can sit and look at it for hours" — Jerome K. Jerome.

that may be caused by it.

Mayor Cappiello asked that the Fire Department Committee meet with the Council at their earliest convenience to discuss matters pertaining to this department. Alderman Murphy will get in contact with the interested parties.

Alderman Murphy was named pro-mayor for the next three months.

Regarding the winter works programme, the roads department will prepare a list of the proposed work to be done and this will be submitted to the Government for approval.

Alderman Laplante proposed that speed limit in town be reduced to 20 miles per hour on all streets, and to 10 miles in Garden City where there are no sidewalks. Steps will be taken to change the signs.

The meeting was adjourned until November 10th, when the Council will meet the engineers and discuss the water works project that is underway as well as the requests of taxpayers from the north end of town regarding the installation of water and sewer services on their properties.

Valleyfield Toastmasters' Club Novelty Topic Session

A novelty topic session was provided at a recent meeting of the Valleyfield Toastmasters Club. Each member was asked to attend wearing a fancy dress costume, and to speak on some aspect of the character represented.

Seven members responded, and took part in the topic session. Costumes and originality were surprisingly good. Stan Glendenning appeared as a convict, Philip Tinker was a typical English-style golfer, complete with cloth cap, handle bar moustache, and "plus fours". Martin Linder was a typical tired domesticated male in dressing gown and pyjamas, whilst Eric Bouffard took advantage of the evening to appear in a Lions Club uniform, and made an appeal on behalf of a campaign conducted for the benefit of the blind.

Jim Childs was a very dashing "Zoro", complete with hat, cape, and mask, and threatening to run everyone through with his sword, or cut them into "Z" shaped pieces. Ken Scott was very artistically dressed as whistler, the painter and had a picture purported to be of his celebrated mother.

George Luney was dressed "Beatle" style, and treated everyone to a hilarious session on the guitar, as well as a dissertation on how to become rich overnight by going "a go go". Everyone contributed amusingly to the session and the novelty of the meeting had much to commend it.

The Club has recently lost some members, and is making a successful bid to recruit replacements. They meet in Valleyfield every Monday evening, and anyone interested in joining, or in attending as a guest, should contact either Philip Tinker, Ken Scott, or Ivan Mennie in Huntingdon.

Ann Landers...

Answers your problems

Dear Ann Landers: We have a six-room house. Our children are married and gone but we still don't have a guest room. Why? Because our home has been used as a dumping ground for all the junk our children "have no place for"

Our oldest daughter was married 15 years ago. What could be a guest room is loaded with paraphernalia she left here. Every time I threaten to clear out the room she says, "Don't you dare throw out anything until I look it over"

Last night she and her husband were here for dinner. I said, "Now is a good time to look over the odds and ends so I can clear out that room." Her husband replied, "We don't want to clutter up our house with that junk."

Our house they can clutter up, but not their own. I need someone who is smarter than I am to tell me how to handle this. — HORNSWAGGLED.

Dear Horn: Many people who write to me know darned well what they ought to do. They just need someone to tell them to do it.

Notify your children that they have till noon next Monday to decide what they'd like to take home. Let them know that on Tuesday the Salvation Army or the Goodwill Industries will be over to haul out whatever they don't take. And then stick by your word.

Dear Ann Landers: Last summer we encountered a depressing situation among the metallurgists employed by a large firm in Tennessee. It was the same story the summer before in Newark. The men make good salaries but metallurgists are so scarce and the profession so demanding that the men work six and seven days a week, often until 11:00 p.m.

The wives are frustrated and lonely. The children know their daddy only as a big person who walks in at odd hours, gulps his food, wallops them for being noisy and then leaves. Is it any wonder that many kids today are so frightened and insecure that they fail in school, cheat, steal and break down emotionally?

What can a wife do to make her husband cut down his working hours and pay more attention to his children? INCLUDE ME IN.

Dear Included: The father who works, works and spends little time with his family may insist he is doing it for them — but it isn't really true. He does it because he'd rather work than be with wife and children. Making him feel guilty about it won't help.

There is no cure, so cover for him, Mother, and do double duty. You belong to one of the largest sororities in the world and I am certain St. Peter has special crowns for all of you.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a girl 5'9" tall and engaged to the most marvelous fellow in the world. He is 5'6" but I couldn't care less about the difference in our height.

Mike calls me his great big beautiful doll and insists that I wear 3-inch heels because he thinks I look better in them. When we dance he rests his head on my bosom and sighs, "Everybody should have it so good."

Yesterday my office manager met my fiance for the first time. After Mike left he said, "I didn't know you went in for knickknacks." What should I say to clods who pop off like that? — STATUESQUE.

Dear Statuesque: Silence is often more devastating than anything you might say. A clod like your office manager should be given the fish eye and left standing there — with his foot in his foolish mouth.

Too many starry-eyed lovers do not know the difference. Do You? Send for Ann Landers booklet, "Before you Marry — Is it Love or Sex?" enclosing with your request 20c in coin and a long self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Howick High

scored approximately one-third of the senior team's points.

Honourable mention must be made of the fact that the school did not suffer as usual when the 30th rolled around. The witches and goblins saw fit to spare our fair school and hence, no Monday morning cross-examinations. This is a sign of the new Howick High — the Howick High sheltering model students with usually, model intentions.

The Hallowe'en party held in the United Church on Saturday night and the basketball game against the outsiders at the school were great successes. Everyone seemed to be in a gay, fun-loving mood and to have a dull time was downright taboo!

We welcome to our school this week, a new student, Cal Rivard, who already has shown interest in our school activities. Having worked on a newspaper at Verdun High and also having taken charge of the huge library at the same, Cal promises to be an asset in the development of Howick High's culture.

Soon, television will lose most of their ardent fans; exams being the cause. Because of these regularly occurring phenomen the next couple of weeks have every characteristic of being hectic for Howick High School.

Four Billion Loss Through Road Mishaps

Almost four billion dollars was lost to the Canadian economy in 1964 because of road accidents, according to John Atkinson of Toronto, President of Allstate Insurance Companies, Mr. Atkinson closed a two-year term as general chairman of the Canadian Highway Safety Council at CHSC's annual meeting in Ottawa, Friday (October 1st).

This net loss included five hundred million dollars paid out in cash by insurance companies, he said, plus the hidden factor of eight dollars for every one dollar known cost. Loss in human life last year was 4,655 and Mr. Atkinson expected road deaths in Canada would exceed 5,000 in 1965.

Reviewing his term, he saw, as major continuing projects for highway safety organizations, stronger legislation to control the drinking driver, mandatory vehicle inspection, a uniform traffic code, more attention to the maimed victims of road accidents, driver improvement programs, high school driver education and greater involvement of men and women at top levels of government and industry in accident prevention.

Mr. Atkinson said he, as CHSC's chief, had written to the leaders of Canada's political parties asking them to include road safety in their election programs.

He absolved youth from major blame for the traffic problem, but emphasized the need for adequately preparing the young person for a lifetime of driving by properly supervised education. "Ways and means must be found," he said, "so that every teenager in Canada will, through driver education in high schools, have the opportunity to quality for 60 years of resourceful performance as a driver or pedestrian." He called for proper training of school bus drivers not alone for the sake of the pupils' safety but "an equally important by-product of a well-trained school bus driver is student observation of his ability. Students will emulate driving examples of bus drivers, parents or any other person they drive with regularly."

Mr. Atkinson was succeeded as the Council's General Chairman by Keith H. MacDonald of Montreal, deputy general manager of the Industrial Acceptance Corp.

CENTENNIAL PROJECT

FRANK, Alta. (CP) A $800,000 project to mark Canada's centennial has been recommended for Frank, located 80 miles west of Lethbridge. Plans call for a hot sulphur bath, swimming pool, restaurant and campsite on the site of a hot sulphur spring that hasn't been used by the public since 1920.

The first census taken in Canada, in 1666, was the first modern census taken anywhere in the world and the population then was 3,215 exclusive of Indians and Eskimos. — Quick Canadian Facts.

YOU NEVER SAW YOUR
Copy of The Gleaner

Thrown into the gutter or a waste basket before it was read, did you?
But waste baskets and gutters are constantly being filled with unopened expensive direct advertising, sales ammunition shot into the air.
A newspaper always commands an audience with prospective customers. It is never thrown aside without first being read from "kiver to kiver". Then it is borrowed by the neighbors.
That's why intelligent, attractive newspaper advertising is accepted as the most effective form of advertising your business.
An advertisement in The Gleaner will reach over 90 per cent of the buyers in the local trade territory. The cost is very small, and besides, we do the mailing and pay the postage.

SOCIAL CREDIT CANDIDATE
MARCELLIN GAGNON

Due to the many problems confronting our modern world in all spheres, I sincerely believe that for the Canadian people, the Social Credit alone offers a solution, that is to render financially possible what is desirable, realizable and morally good. The duty of the elected government is to give the people the results it desires in the public administration.

The first suggestion is to attain initiative in the adjustment of the economical structures of the country. It is absolutely necessary to Quebec that the government controls credit, commerce immigration and fiscal laws. All that founded on a new constitution based on an association of equal and sovereign states; that is what we proclaim as the theme of our present campaign.

"It has lasted long enough, there must be a change."

Under new business Mrs Barrington called on Mrs. Fearn for any suggestions as to items needed by the hospital, and the latter stated that a fair amount of equipment was still needed for the Physiptherapy department. It was suggested that a lump sum be voted to this department to be spent as needed. This was moved by Mrs. E. Sault and passed.

A motion by Mrs. Etienne that $200 be placed in the Bursary Fund was approved, as was a motion by Mrs. J. Taylor that $850 be placed in the Expansion Fund. Mrs. Beaulieu moved the adjournment of the business meeting.

Members were then addressed by Mrs. W. T. Fearn, the Superintendent of the hospital, who spoke on the highlight of her recent visit to hospitals in Sweden and Russia.

She first attended the International Hospital Congress in Stockholm, which she described as truly international with costumes from many countries being in evidence. The conference had three themes: 1) Care and management of long-stay patient; 2) Study of psychiatric department; 3) study of out-patient departments. It was emphasized that careful planning of these departments would lead to a relief of pressure on hospital beds. Mrs. Fearn herself attended the out-patient sessions and found all the meetings highly instructive.

She made a point of visiting the smaller hospitals in Sweden, those of a size comparable to the Barrie Memorial Hospital, and found them most attractive and comfortable, but plagued by staff shortages. She also visited a training school for nurses which was run more on the lines of a university, the girls taking the practical training at nearby hospitals as part of their course.

The party's entry to Russia was through Leningrad. Their treatment on arrival was most courteous.

The pattern of each visit was similar in all the Russian cities visited. In the beginning they were taken to a Public Health office to meet the director of the area and his deputies, who alloted them guides, who accompanied them to all subsequent meetings, and acted as interpreters.

The Russians placed great emphasis on statistics. In all they stated that there were 520,000 doctors in the U.S.S.R. totalling a quarter of the world's population of doctors.

A grade of medical attendant who has the training halfway between that of a nurse and a doctor is named a "felcher" and they are responsible for much public health work, for work in rural areas and for ambulance services. Mrs. Fearn was impressed with the public health programme. Public health education is excellent, each doctor is obliged to spend one hour each week instructing the public in health education. In each city there is an House of Medical enlightenment for public health information. In Russia there was no shortage of hospital beds and the length of patient stay was longer.

The ambulance service in larger cities was particularly impressive and comprehensive. In a 24-hour efficiently run service they claimed that only three minutes elapsed between an incoming call and the despatch of a suitable ambulance, suitable, since ambulances are equipped differently according to the type of case they are being sent to help. Patients are brought back to the ambulance centre and there diagnosed and dispensed to hospitals.

In all Mrs. Fearn said she saw much to be praised in both countries, but some features which she would not wish to see initiated.

The meeting closed with the serving of refreshments by the refreshment committee.

ORMSTOWN HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

(by Joy Green)

Jim Sproule and Gary Wilthe physiotherapy departcampaign, report that it has been quite a success. The junior grades are to be commended, for it is they who have made it successful. The task of selling the magazines was left largely to them, as the seniors were preoccupied with numerous other activities.

A group of students, numbering about fifty, went on an excursion to Montreal to see, "The Greatest Story Ever Told." Mr. and Mrs. Hooker, Mr. and Mrs. Cullen and Mrs. Aldridge accompanied the group. We are indebted to them for giving us the opportunity to see such a magnificient film.

The first basketball games of the season took place at Ormstown High School. Seniors vs Grads. In both cases the grads came out on top, but the seniors put on a fine showing just the same. Then on October 29th., the Junior and Senior Boy's teams competed against Hemmingford High School. The Juniors were victorious with a score of 46-20. The Seniors were defeated the score being 42-32. Let's hope they win the next game!

News from Ormstown

COVERING THE ACTIVITIES OF THE "LITTLE ROYAL" EXHIBITION CENTRE

Anglican Church News

This coming Saturday, there will be a Social Congregational Supper for the St. James' Anglican Church members and their families.

On Friday, Oct. 29, the Young People met in the church hall under the leadership of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Peters. The Fellowship held their meeting on Wednesday last, when the guest speaker was Mrs. Tincomb of Lachine. Mrs. Tincomb has had a wide experience with the Eskimos in North Western Quebec and she explained to the group the details of her work both as a church worker and as an interested social worker. Mrs. Tincomb was accompanied by Col. Henry, who has spent more than thirty years in the north and his remarks were most interesting. Mrs. Tincomb said there is so much room for special efforts toward fellowship with the northern people and the church must do all it can to further this work.

The next Fellowship meeting will take place on the second Wednesday in November, when plans will be made for the annual Christmas Bazaar.

Mrs. R.E. Anderson of Toronto, Mr. and Mrs. John Horndorf and Dorothy of Montreal, were guests last week of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ovans.

Messrs. Alan and Lyndon Hooker spent a few days hunting at St. Columban last week.

Sgt. Maj. and Mrs. L.L. Skidmore and Miss Gali Skidmore of Val Cartier and A/S B. Skidmore of Inuvik, N.W.T. spent the weekend with Mr and Mrs. L. Cullen and Nancylyn.

Mr. and Mrs. Eric McMullen have returned to their home in Florida.

Mr. and Mrs. Eric Purdie of Montreal, called on friends in Ormstown, during the week.

Mr. and Mrs. M. Gartshore spent a few days last week with Mr. D. Gartshore in Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Harvey, Beryl, Ross, Alvin and Garth of Stanbridge East, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. A.A. McNeil.

Presbyterian Church News

These bazaar articles were to have been made or brought during the year at the rate of one a month. The Sunday School will hold its annual Christmas Concert the first Friday in December and the Young People are preparing to conduct a Christmas service. We are happy to report that the Y.P.S. President, Mr. Merrill Greer, has returned to his home after some time in Barrie Memorial Hospital.

UNICEF In Ormstown

The usual spooks were at large on the streets on Hallowe'en, this year it was on Saturday evening. A great many children carried UNICEF Cans and the response was good. Children from all three schools collected in excess of $208.00. There are still a few cans which have not been returned. The Lions Club of Ormstown awarded prizes to children for their efforts. Eight names are drawn from the UNICEF can labels and if the child is at home by nine o'clock (and his name is drawn) he receives a gift. Those who received the prizes this year were Linda Dandurand, Pierre Demers, Yves Paquette, Joanne Reid, Joanne Primeau, Jay Glover, Susan Borland and Michele Primeau. Grateful thanks are extended to all who made this venture a success. A donation of $5.05 was received from the Women's Institute, that organization always gives its October collection to UNICEFF and thanks also to Father Laroque who donated two dollars to the fund. It was interesting to learn from the press last week that UNICEF had been awarded the Nobel Peace Prize. This is another reason for the continued good work of all persons interested in the welfare of those in need the world over.

Mrs. Ernest Rennie, Mrs John Rennie, Mrs. Morris Winter and Mrs. Morris King were joint hostesses at a Baby shower in honor of Mrs. William Rennie at the home of Mrs. John Rennie. Mrs. W Rennie (Errolyn) was pleasantly surprised on arriving for an evening visit, to find forty guests waiting for her. She thanked all for the beautiful gifts. A social hour was spent and the evening came to a close after the serving of a delicious lunch. Among the guests was Mrs. Drysdale Barrington of Detroit, Mich.

Card Party

A successful card party was held on Thursday evening in the I.O.O.F. Hall. Prizes were won by Mrs. Florence Kilgour Mrs. Annette McAdam, and Mrs. Florence MacAskill.

Liturgie — Plusieurs chrétiens sortent de l'église la bouche amère et le coeur rance, parce qu'au prône le curé a "osé" parler d'argent. Bingo des Dames de Ste-Anne C'est mercredi de la semaine prochaine qu'aura lieu le Bingo annuel des Dames de Ste-Anne de notre paroisse. En plus du bingo, il y aura vente d'aliments. Ceux qui veulent goûter les bonnes pâtisseries de nos cordons bleus auront l'occasion de le faire en achetant les bons plats préparés par les Dames de Ste-Anne.

Vous avez toujours dans le passé encouragé cette organisation. Les Dames espèrent que vous ferez de même cette année.

Elles utiliseront le profit de cette soirée pour leurs oeuvres. Avec les jours froids qui viennent, nul doute que plusieurs familles s'adresseront à elles. Grâce à votre appui, elles pourront aider ceux qui sont moins favorisés que vous Merci d'avance de la part que vous prendrez à cette oeuvre.

Un autre succès pour la J.O.C

Vendredi soir, la salle de l'Ecole Notre-Dame était remplie de jeunes venus à la danse de la J.O.C. locale. Plusieurs autobus nous ont amené des jocistes des villes avoisinantes.

Les jeunes se sont amusés ferme et ont bien goûté la musique les Blue Jeans.

Bravo aux organisateurs.

A Howick dimanche dernier

Nos petits chanteurs étaient les invités de la paroisse d'Howick dimanche dernier. Comme toujours, ils ont été à la hauteur. Bravo, Petits Chanteurs de la Paix. Continuez votre beau travail. En plus de la culture que vous acquérez, vous faites honneur à votre ville.

Un beau bonjour à vous tous.

Eh bien la belle température que nous avons eue, semble finie pour le moment du moins, dommage que l'hiver vienne sivite, car l'automne dans ce coin du Québec est si beau.

Récemment à la Sollitude Ste-Croix, on y recevait 60 professeurs laiques et religieux, venus de la Régionale Chambly pour préparer leur programme de Catéchèse pour l'année. Parmi eux se trouvait M. André Hébert, neveu de Mme Clarisse Caza. Les cours furent donnés par le Rév. Père Van Caster S.J.

La varicelle fit des siennes ces jours derniers, si bien qu'on a dû fermer la 1ère année de l'Ecole Centrale pour quelques jours. Il y avait aussi des cas de coqueluche, alors il y eut vaccinations pour les enfants qui étaient venus en contact avec les petits malades. — Notez bien en passant que les cliniques de l'Unité Sanitaire sont discontinuées pour l'hiver alors, si vous avez des enfants qui ont besoin du vaccin Sabin ou autres, Garde Boyer se fera un plaisir de vous recevoir à tous les troisième mercredis du mois à Huntingdon.

Les enfants du primaire garçons et filles se sont formés des équipes et s'amusent de grand coeur aux récréations et au diner, au ballon chasseur.

Le 8 octobre, M. l'abbé Cartier célébra une messe en la salle de l'école pour le Secondaire, les jeunes y ont aussi pris une part active.

Notre quai à St-Anicet est en reconstruction et on s'attend que d'ici un mois tout sera fini.

M. Albert Tessier de l'Hôtel St-Anicet a déjà plusieurs équipes de formées pour jouer au Shuffle board. Si vous êtes intéressés, veuillez communiquer avec lui.

Je sais qu'il y a plusieurs équipes de quilles en marche Je vais essayer dans un avenir rapproché de vous mettre au courant de leurs activités.

Sympathies à la famille de Mme François Castagny, décédée dimanche à l'âge de 74 ans.

N'oubliez pas, si vous avez des nouvelles d'intérêt local je suis à votre disposition.— Merci de m'avoir lue, d'ici la semaine prochaine, Aurevoir.

BINGO DES DAMES

Samedi soir, le 23 octobre, à l'Ecole Centrale de St-Anicet un groupe impressionnant de personnes de la paroisse et des paroisses environnantes se réunissaient pour venir encourager les Dames de Ste-Anne de St-Anicet à l'occasion de leur bingo annuel aux profits des bonnes oeuvres.

Plusieurs parties se sont succédées et le tirage organisé du tourne-disque Fonovox — du $10 et du $5.00 rapporta la somme de $316.00.

Merci à tous ceux qui ont bien voulu participer à ce tirage. Mme Egide Robidoux fut l'heureuse gagnante du tourne-disque suivie de Mme Annette Dubois de Valleyfield pour le $10.00 et de Mme Léonard Brunet pour le $5.00. Félicitations aux heureuses gagnantes de ce tirage.

Un tour de bingo spécial qui rapporta la somme de $43.00, laquelle fut envoyée à M. Aldéric Tremblay pour la rude épreuve qu'il a subie, il y a quelques semaines.

Plusieurs prix de présence firent la joie de plusieurs membres présents.

Nous tenons à remercier tous ceux qui ont fait don de prix de bingo et prix de présences.

Aussi grands merci aux organisatrices et Collaboratrices Ensemble elles ont travaillé à la réussite de cette merveilleuse soirée.

Le tout se déroula dans un ordre parfait sous la présidence de notre distingué aumônier M. le Curé Paul Deguire qui sait si bien encourager l'oeuvre paroissiale.

Encore une fois félicitations à tous les heureux gagnants. Le tout fut grandement apprécié.

Une Dame de Ste-Anne de St-Anicet.

Par Mme Carmella Sanders

Samedi le 23 octobre avait lieu un bingo organisé par les Dames de Ste-Anne de St-Anicet. Environ 200 personnes étaient présentes. Mme E. Robidoux fut l'heureuse gagnante du tirage d'un tourne-disques, Mme Anette Dubois d'un dix dollars, Mme Marielle Brunet d'un cinq dollars et nombre d'autres chanceux. La soirée fut un réel succès; les Dames de Ste-Anne vous en sont très reconnaissantes et vous remercient de votre grande générosité.

Le 25 dernier, on avait l'honneur de recevoir en la salle de l'école, M. le député Gérald Laniel et sa charmante épouse Jeannine. Plusieurs personnes assistèrent à ce ralliement libéral, un goûter fut ensuite servi par le Buffet André de Valleyfield et tous se sont laissés confiants.

Le personnel de l'Ecole Centrale invitait les parents des élèves, jeudi soir afin d'expliquer et de remettre le bulletin des enfants; même s'il faisait très froid ce soir-là la plupart des parents se sont fait un devoir de s'y rendre et ce n'est certes que juste car la directrice Sr. Marie-Anne-du-Carmel c.s.c. et son personnel enseignant, se donnent tant de peine pour le bien-être de nos enfants que seule notre présence prouvait que nous coopérons entièrement et que nous n'avons ensemble qu'un seul but. — Pour vous parents, j'aimerais vous écrire cette citation en passant.:

"Nous n'existons vraiment
que par ces petits êtres
Qui dans notre coeur
s'établissent en maîtres
Qui prennent notre vie et ne s'en doutent pas
Et n'ont qu'à vivre heureux
pour n'être point ingras
de Emile Augier.

Dommage que je n'aie pû vous avertir la semaine dernière, on donne présentement de mardi à vendredi, 2 fois par jour, des cours d'art culinaire, gracieusement offerts par le gouvernement, à l'école Centrale.

Il y aura partie de cartes samedi soir le 6 novembre à St-Agnès organisée par les Dames Fermières de St-Agnès vous êtes tous bienvenus.

Mercredi le 10 novembre réunion générale des dames de Ste-Anne de St-Anicet en l'école Centrale à 8.00 p.m. ne manquez pas d'être présente et s.v.p. qu'on se le dise.

Le Club des loisirs de Cazaville organise une soirée à l'hôtel de St-Anicet le 13 novembre, le prix d'entrée sera de un dollar et tout le monde est invité.

M. et Mme Minor Aubin sont en voyage à Tupper Lake en visite chez des parents.

Dimanche dernier M. et Mme Renaud Caza, M. et Mme Roméo Caza ainsi que M. et Mme Maurice Caza se rendaient au Cross Road restaurant à Moira N.Y. pour y déguster un succulent souper au canard au son du pianiste Yugene Smith.

MARCELLIN GAGNON

Etant donné le grand nombre de problèmes dans notre monde moderne en ce qui regarde la finance dans tous les domaines, je crois sincèrement que pour le bien du peuple canadien, le Crédit Social offre une véritable solution à ses graves problèmes; c'est-à-dire de rendre financièrement possible ce qui est souhaitable, réalisable et moralement bon. Le rôle d'un gouvernement élu et responsable est de fournir au peuple les résultats qu'il désire dans l'administration des affaires publiques.

La première condition suggérée est donc d'obtenir pour les individus un tel degré d'initiative dans le rajustement des structures économiques et politiques du pays. Il faut absolument que le gouvernement dans le Québec soit capable de contrôler son crédit, son commerce, son immigration et sa fiscalité. Tout cela fondé dans une constitution basée sur une association d'états égaux et souverains. Voilà ce que nous proclamons dans notre thème de la présente campagne.

Editorial Notes...

Remembrance week

ONE might say that "Remembrance Week" belongs to the Canadian Legion, although any benefits that may accrue are for the disabled veterans and their dependents.

This week as far as Huntingdon is concerned, is "Remembrance Week" and the Canadian Legion is asking the citizens to join with them in remembering those who fought and died in three wars to secure peace and freedom for this day. Each passing year brings this fact more clearly before all citizens everywhere. It is up to the citizens to see that they shall not have died in vain.

You will say there is no peace in the world, there is fighting going on in various parts of the world all the time. This may be true, but as far as we are concerned we have been at peace. Many times the clouds of war have gathered, but have been dispersed and the sun has shone through. The new look toward war has had much to do with it. The fact that we have been kept aware of the suffering and death of those who fought in previous wars has had much to do with the continual cry for peace, the cry for throwing away the armaments, the ban the bomb marches and so forth. People are indeed fed up with war, they want other means of settling differences. Slowly the light is dawning and more and more are asking the abolition of arms and weapons of war more especially the atomic weapons.

Again you are being asked this year to buy a poppy, that flower of remembrance, and to wear it proudly. You are being asked to attend the Special Remembrance services which are sponsored by the various branches of the Canadian Legion throughout the Chateauguay Valley. In Huntingdon the date for the Poppy sale is November 5th, and for the Service, November 7th. Also at this Service of Remembrance, anyone who wishes may place a wreath at the Cenotaph. All you need to do is to signify your intention to the Canadian Legion.

The benefits of the fund raised by the sale of the poppies and wreaths has been told many times over so we feel sure everyone is aware that money goes to help the disabled veterans who make the poppies, their dependents, and needy veterans and their dependents. Surely there is no better way for the money to be used than to help those who fought and suffered in the three wars, that our way of life may be free. No one would want it otherwise.

Buy a poppy and wear it in "Remembrance".

The election – What will be the outcome?

WE are in the home stretch of the November 8th election, there remains just a few more days before that voting deadline and then we shall know the results. It has been a "meet the voter campaign." There have been few, or no meetings by the various candidates, but the countryside has been travelled and shaking hands and cheerful greetings have been bandied around. Generally speaking it has been quiet for an election and we are non-plussed to know what the outcome will be.

Five candidates are vying for the elector's vote each one hoping that he will be the chosen one elected. One and only one can win, who that one will be in this constituency or in the Beauharnois constituency, is anyone's guess right now.

Very little has been said of the platforms of the various Parties represented by the candidates in our circulation area, very little advertising has been done, so the public has relied upon what has appeared in the newspapers and other publicity media to date.

On Monday, we must all get out and vote, it is a duty to ourselves. It does not matter for whom we vote, as long as we vote. We can only urge that everyone does this, then at least we shall have done whatever we can to put a government in power that will have a working mandate and we hope govern the country with true statesmanship. We must all decide which is the candidate of our choice and vote accordingly.

"COUNTRY NOTEBOOK"

BY WALKER RILEY

"Country Notebook" by Mr. Walker Riley, Agricultural Extension Specialist with Macdonald College is a weekly feature which we trust will be of interest to all in the Chateauguay Valley.

Preservation of food by atomic irradiation may be closer than we think. An experimental unit has just been installed at the College, one of three in universities across Canada.

Outwardly, it looks for all the world like an overgrown barrel. But under the shell, it is almost solid lead for shielding. In the hollow middle there is a chunck of radio-active cobalt constantly emitting powerful invisible penetrating gamma rays. And up on the top of the barrel is a device for mechanically lowering the experimental food down to the cobalt 60 source.

We saw a chicken being treated the other day. Wrapped in its plastic bag, and inserted into a container, it was placed in the chamber of the Gammacell 200. The timer was set, the button pushed, and the chicken disappeared for 36 minutes.

When it reappeared, it looked no different and we were told that it would taste no different, but that its "shelf-life" should be at least a week longer. Commercially, it could mean more efficient and streamlined marketing for the poultry industry. It would help to iron out the present pressure peaks resulting from the short time fresh dressed chicken will keep.

The 36-minute exposure in this case gave the chicken a preservation treatment about equal to pasteurization of milk. It doesn't kill all the organisms, or destroy the enzymes, but, as with milk, the dangerous ones are controlled and the shelf-life improved without spoiling the flavour.

A longer dose would have sterilized the chicken so you could have put it up on the shelf without refrigeration for perhaps several months, but the flavour probably would be impaired.

So far, only chicken is being used in these experiments. Other foods will follow.

"Preservation of Food by Irradiation" was one of the displays in the Macdonald College exhibit at the three-day McGill Open House. Close to ten thousand people stopped to see it. The most frequent question asked was, "Isn't it dangerous to health?" Many people seemed to associate this type of irradiation with the radio-active fallout from atomic explosions.

There is, in fact, no risk to the consumer. The gamma rays from the Cobalt 60 source simply pass right through the food product, killing bacteria and other organisms, as they go. But no radio-activity is left behind.

In the case of the atomic explosion it is different. Particles become radio-active which fall onto grass or food products and are eaten. And the radio-active particle then stays within the body to cause damage.

Like fire, atomic energy can be a good servant or a bad enemy.

The first foods commercially irradiated will appear on the market next spring. The multi-million dollar plant at St. Hilaire is treating potatoes and onions to prevent sprouting. I hear that they too are victims of the bad harvest weather. The potatoes are arriving at the plant too high in moisture for good results.

The re-organized Quebec Farmers' Association is off to a strong start. At their annual meeting on October 23rd they voted to increase their own fees to $10. For the first time in its history, funds should now be sufficient to pay a full-time man and to have a really active program.

Members won't have long to wait for returns on their investment.

Secretary-manager Harris Shufelt tells me that plans for Corn Day at Ormstown on Thursday, November 4th, are well in hand. And his worry right now is that there will be more people than can be accommodated. That is a happy worry.

And then, right after that, there is to be a series of half-hour radio broadcasts, starting Wednesday, November 10th, over CKTS Sherbrooke. As far as I know, this is a first for any farm organization in Canada.

I like the radio program Harris and his committee have laid out. They are going to have local farm news, livestock reports from the Quebec auction sales, and a series of panel discussions on local problems like the costs in bringing grain from the west, and how to feed dairy cows for greatest profit.

It should help to fill a great need for Quebec farm information. We wish Harris and his organization every success.

SUGAR AND SPICE

PITY FOR THE CITY MAN

This is a time of year when my heart goes out to city-dwellers. It's a time when rural or smalltown living is immensely superior to that in the concrete canyons, the abominable apartments, the sad suburbs of metropolia.

In the city, day ends drearily in the tail. There's the long, wearying battle home through traffic, or the draughty, crushed, degrading scramble on public transportation.

The city man arrives home fit for nothing but slumping for the evening before the television set. And what greets him? The old lady, wound up like a steel spring because she hasn't seen a soul she knows all day, there's nothing to look at but that stupid house next door, exactly like their own, and the kids have been giving her hell.

He's stuck with it. For the whole evening. That's why so many city chaps have workshops in the basement. It's much simpler to go down cellar and whack off a couple of fingers in the power saw than listen to Mabel.

Life is quite different for the smalltown male. He is home from work in minutes. He surveys the ranch, says, "Must get those storm windows on one of these days", and goes in, to the good fall smells of cold drinks and hot food.

His wife saw him at breakfast, again at lunch, has had a good natter with the dame next door, and has been out for two hours, raking leaves with the kids. She doesn't need him.

Instead of drifting off to the basement, the small-town male announces that this is his bowling night, or he has to go to a meeting of the Conservation and Slaughter Club, and where's a clean shirt. And that's all there is to it.

While her city counterpart squats in front of TV, gnawing her nails and wondering why she didn't marry good old George, who has a big dairy farm now, the small-town gal collects the kids and goes out to burn leaves.

There is nothing more romantic than the back streets of a small-town in the dark of a fall evening. Piles of leaves spurt orange flame. White smoke eddies. Neighbors call out, lean on rakes. Women, kerchiefed like gypsies, heap the dry leaves high on the fire. Kids avoid the subject of bedtime, dash about the fire like nimble gnomes.

Or perhaps the whole family goes to a fowl supper. What, in city living, can compare to this finest of rural functions? A crisp fall evening, a drive to the church hall through a Hallowe'en landscape, an appetite like an alligator, and that first wild whiff of turkey and dressing that makes your knees buckle and the juices flow free in your cheeks.

But it's on weekends that my pity for the city-dweller runneth over. Not for him the shooting-match on a clear fall Saturday, with its good-humored competition, its easy friendliness. Not for him the quiet stroll down a rising sunny wood road, shotgun over arm, partridge and woodcock rising like clouds of mosquitoes.

It's not that he doesn't live right, or doesn't deserve these pleasures. It's just that it's physically impossible to get to them easily. If he wants to crouch in a duck-blind, at dawn, he has to drive half the night to get there.

Maybe on a Sunday or holiday, in the fall, the city family decides to head out and see some of that beautiful autumn foliage. They see it, after driving two hours. And with 50,000 other cars, they crawl home in late afternoon, bumper to bumper, the old man cursing, the kids getting hungrier, the mother growing owlier.

Smalltown people can drive for 15 minutes and hit scenery, at least around here, that leaves them breathless. Or they'll wheel out a few miles to see their relatives on the farm, eat a magnificent dinner, and sit around watching TV in a state of a delicious torpor.

Yup. It's tough to live in the city, in the fall.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Merging English Catholic And Protestant Schools Together

Valleyfield, Que.,
October 25, 1965

Editor,
Huntingdon Gleaner,
Dear Sir:

It has become evident that in other areas such as Sherbrooke and Richmond the English minorities have finally seen the light and have decided to merge their schooling systems — thereby endorsing the true spirit of Bill 55.

In thus merging, the English speaking minorities have increased their numbers and thus their bargaining power.

This means that as a united group, they will be permitted to make requests for special laboratories of all kinds on a basis of 85% use which either group alone cannot possibly equate for sheer lack of numbers.

Chemistry, Physics, Biology Language and other special laboratories will thus be made available as well as machine shops, lathe-equipped wood shops, crafts and hobbies of all kinds.

The present Protestant plans for the Huntingdon-Ormstown district call for 200 acres of land. On this land, fruit orchards will be planted. There will be cattle and dairy facilities. Farming procedures will become part of the many optional subjects.

Quebec would presumably be favourably disposed toward a merger between the English minorities since it will mean that a single English-speaking specialist will be able to teach both the Catholic and Protestant children simultaneously.

By contrast, Quebec will certainly not look favorably upon our present situation where Catholic students of the two languages are required to use the same facilities. In such case, two different specialists must be hired; one English, one French. The laboratories and shops will have to be scheduled for use at seperate times by the two groups thereby greatly increasing the difficulties in setting up schedules and timetables which will be acceptable to both groups.

Students are more receptive to abstract subjects during the forenoon. This means that where such abstract subjects are being taught in labs one of the two language groups shall be deprived of said laboratories during the students' most propitious hours.

This situation will place the teaching representatives of either group in direct competition with and in opposition to the other thereby arousing the ire of both bodies at times and instead of favoring good relations between the two groups, this will tend to create an atmosphere of animosity and distrust among even the youngest students; needless to say what will occur at the teacher level and eventually between parents representing both bodies.

Under the present set-up, a perfectly bilingual (find one) sports director can speak only one language at a time. When he is explaining rules or technique to, say, the English crowd, the second crowd twirls its thumbs, and vice versa. Because of time limitation awareness, each body greatly resents the time wasted during explanations to the other group. This occurs not just once in a while — but every day, several times a day. And this can in the long run lead only to warped relations between the groups involved.

English children will learn the French language easily if conditions are favorable. This implies an early start (kindergarten level), teachers whose mother-tongue is French, and also the fact that there should be no feeling of animosity by one group vis-a-vis the other.

As things presently stand English Catholics risk being swallowed up by the large French majority to a point where English youth will lose his English character, manners, beliefs and loves. His personality will in the long run, because of his self-imposed isolationism, become so shaped that he will be accused of favoring parochial thinking vis-a-vis his fellow Englishmen or Americans.

We have good Protestant neighbors who may be willing to accept us in their midst.

In other areas, our Protestant brethrens have taken advantage of the superior number of students afforded them by merging, and have endorsed such a move wholeheartedly.

Perhaps such an arrangement could be made with our Protestant neighbors who are presently in need of a larger student body in order to better satisfy the requirements of Bill 55.

All subjects would be taught to both groups simultaneously by one teacher, making use of a single set of laboratory facilities or whatever equipment would be needed to better impart the subject at hand.

Teachers will flock to schools which afford them means of self improvement. This implies a good library. It is evident that a school which has a body of 1500 students will be equipped with library facilities which are far superior to that of a mixed-language school where the English minority represents a mere 300 students. This is perhaps the greatest single advantage to both English groups in the proposed merger.

The Catholic Regional Board is faced with satisfying many requests from French schools to an extent far greater than requests coming from the English Catholic minority. These requests are necessarily far more numerous because of a greater number of students. Because of limited funds and because of duplication in the hiring of specialists, that Board will often find itself in a position where it can hardly afford to pay the teacher's wages, much less will it be able to afford equipment needed for labs, shops, gymnasiums, etc.

As a result of this, it is highly probable that where the English group needs special equipment as called forth by the English Catholic School Facilities List — equipment which is not necessarily employed in the French system — then requests for such equipment may go unheeded.

This situation need never arise in the event of a merger with the English Protestant Group — for such reasons as the hiring of fewer specialists plus the fact that the training programs in both the Protestant and Catholic curricula are nearly identical in all respects.

Perhaps, Protestant parents in this area should consult their regional board on the advisability of such a merger.

All English Catholics should be called to a meeting by the PTA Executive Group — to discuss the advisability of such a merger. At this meeting, an enlightened person such as Mr. Patrick McKeefoy who is President of the Provincial Association of Catholic Teachers and who has personally supervised mergers in other areas, should be invited to give his views on the subject.

There are great advantages for both groups.

I do hope that this write-up humbly submitted, will contribute toward this highly desirable amalgamation, which should take effect in a speedy and orderly fashion under the democratic processes endorsed by the Protestant Home and School Committee and the Catholic Parent-Teachers Association.

The Editor,
The Gleaner,
Dear Sir,

May I congratulate Mr. J.W. Sancton on his Letter to the Editor of this date. Interest such as he demonstrates is to be commended.

Members of the Regional Board and this writer deeply regret that it has been considered unwise to publish details concerning developments in the region up to this time. We hope, however, that Mr. Sancton, as well as all other interested persons, noted the news release on page one of this same issue of The Gleaner. The information contained in that release was official and final only as of Monday evening, October 25th. Prior to that date any such release would have been premature and could well have led to land speculations that would have been much to the disadvantage of the Board and of the taxpayers.

It is the writer's hope that through the medium of The Gleaner the public may be kept informed of past and future developments in all areas of education in the Valley. To this purpose a series of articles was started a few weeks ago. These are intended to be published at least twice monthly over an extended period of time. We hope that they will be of interest to you.

I am also prepared to meet with interested groups to discuss developments in education, time permitting, if there is a demand for such meetings.

Yours sincerely,
R.D. Mosher,

Editor,
The Gleaner,
Huntingdon, Quebec,
Sir,

I do not want to become embroiled in a controversy but the onerous task is mine to set the record straight. In your "Letters to the Editor" column, appearing in the October 27th issue of The Gleaner, two letters were written one signed, the other unsigned.

Both had just criticism to offer, however the former was in bad taste at best and the result of being uninformed at worst.

It began with a protest for keeping children waiting in the cold. To answer this — a request was made to take cover from the elements.

There was a complaint about disorganization. This was not evident to me, or to the public.

Another protest about discourtesy to the people of Chateauguay and especially to the Ormstown Band. Is it a discourtesy to want to build a memorial, or to announce to the press that the Band would be in attendance?

Yet another protest about the guests' automobiles parked with the motors running. I am sorry, I had no jurisdiction to tell the drivers to sit in the cold.

I am at a loss to understand the next item of protest directed toward the Provincial members of Parliament.

These gentlemen received the same invitations and the same attention that was accorded the Federal members

25 YEARS AGO

October 30, 1940
50th Anniversary of Elgin Presbyterian Church

Elgin Presbyterian Church on Sunday and Monday Oct. 27 and 28 celebrated the 50th anniversary of the building of the present edifice. It was on Sept. 18, 1862 that the Presbytery met in Elgin and decided to found the Elgin Stone Church. According to records of that date, 94 sittings were subscribed for $2 each.

In 1862 the Athelstan and Elgin congregations were about to make a call when one of the stipulations made by the Elgin congregation was that the minister must preach his sermons and not read them. In 1864 the Elgin congregation was comprised of 32 families.

Work of the church commenced in April 1890. The cornerstone was laid by the late Julius Scriver on July 9 1890 and on Sunday, Dec. 28 of that year the church was formally opened. The site of the church was donated by the late James T. Gillies. The contractor was R.H. Crawford. The hot air furnaces were installed by Messrs. Farquhar of Fort Covington. Painting was done by James D. Bicknell while the roofing and tinning of the spire was the work of John A. Hunter. From Boyd & Co's factory at Athelstan came the lumber, millwork including the sash and doors.

The financing of the church was done by subscriptions and efforts of the ladies provided for its furnishings. Elgin Church ladies conducted the Fair Dinner in 1891 and as a result of same netted $528.28. The organ was installed as a gift from James Macfarlane and is in use to this day.

The Building Committee at that time were the following: John Tully, chairman; Thomas Levers, John Arthur, John Russell, James Gillies and R.H. Elder, secretary. The cash donation subscriptions toward the building of the church which cost $6,500 amounted to $3901.00 from 63 contributors.

ROUND BYRE and RING

By Frank Napier

Purebred Vs. Grade

A news release by the Holstein Friesian Association of Canada reads, in part: "Figures recently released by the United States Dairy Association indicate that registered purebred animals of the principal dairy breeds produce more milk than non registered grade animals of the same breeds".

Figures in the above respect indicate that a total of 208,726 registered purebred Holsteins, and 175,358 grade Holsteins were tested.

The average production of the said Holsteins worked out at 13,917 lbs. milk, 511 lbs. butterfat, in 305 days on twice-a-day milking, whereas the average production of the grades was 12,785 lbs. milk, 464 lbs. butterfat. A difference of 1,132 lbs. milk, 47 lbs. butterfat in favour of the purebreds.

Similar figures for the other dairy breeds so tested are:

Ayrshire purebreds — 10,595 lbs. milk, 428 lbs. butterfat, representing an increase of 702 lbs. milk and 43 lbs. fat over the grades.

Guernsey purebreds — 9,285 lbs. milk, 447 lbs. fat, an increase of 577 lbs. milk, 44 lbs. fat over the grades.

Jersey purebreds — 8,488 lbs. milk, 439 lbs. fat, an increase of 388 lbs. milk and 36 lbs. fat over the grades.

Type and Production

No reference was made in the aforementioned report about the Type Status, if any, of the animals so tested. However, while now and again a leading winner may in the past have been "a lemon", either as a producer or as a reproducer, the weight of evidence has been in favor of the good type animal. And in that respect we may quote J. Douglas MacKechnie, Secretary-Manager of Ayrshire Breeders' Association of Canada. In his "Jotted Down Memos" of the October issue of Canadian Review he discusses "The 1965 Show Season", particularly insofar as same has been influenced by the new "Hays Show Classification Plan. "A very fair presentation, pro and con., but too long to give here in detail. However, we may say that insofar as production is concerned he wrote: "The production qualifications certainly improve the value of the showring from a breed improvement aspect. Critics of the showring were perhaps surprised to learn that so many entries qualified for the production standards. Anyone who has followed both the showring and production leaders realized that only a few would be eliminated which was the case".

The Pedigree Breeder

"The days of the traditional breeder, the Large White (Swine), Border Leicester (Sheep) and even the Friesian (Cattle) as seperate breeds are numbered. Now is the time for him to re-appraise his work. He must decide whether he can afford, either alone or with colleagues, such expensive tools of modern breeding as geneticists, large scale progeny testing, and even an electric computer". So says the preface to a report in The Scottish Farmer of a paper presented by a Mr. Cyril Thornber to a meeting of The Farmers' Club. Further extracts from the report reads:

"The pedigree breeder may prefer to work singly with a large organization and provide facilities and stockmanship for progeny testing or multiplication, but the breeder who changes over to this type of work may lose individuality. His financial security should be assured, however, to provide ample shelter from the winds of change. Indeed, unless grouping or co-operation of some sort comes about, there is considerable danger of large supermarkets or other retail concerns organizing for their outlets and putting such an economic squeeze on the market that margins will be so small to permit any research at all".

Mr. Thornber also stated: "Although pedigree breeders will probably always be required in basic breeding units, they will vanish from the commercial farm just as have The Rhode Island Red and the White Leghorn (Poultry). I firmly believe that hybridisation can, and will, revolutionize the breeding of all the larger farm animals, just as it has upgraded in such spectacular manner the performance of egg-layers, broilers and turkeys".

Weather! Over There

Reports from "The Districts" in a recent issue of The Scottish Farmer indicate that weatherwise the farmers over there have suffered just as severely as have our farmers in this area and across the river in Ontario.

The report covering the counties of Moray and Nairn, says, in part: "Words fail us in trying to describe this near disastrous and frustrating harvest of 1965, which has dragged its weary way into October and looks like continuing into November. A few dry days tempts us into thinking that at last the weather has changed, but no sooner do we get started than on comes the rain again and for every two dry days there are two weeks of enforced idleness when no harvesting is possible".

Likening the present season to the harvest disaster of 1927, the reporter says, in part: "With uncut crops rapidly deteriorating the outlook for many is depressing, and for some is fast becoming a salvage operation".

After commenting that due to weather conditions a great deal of the straw is still lying in the bout and will neither bale nor burn, and that such being so this will be a scarce commodity, the reporter says: "On the credit side we can say that, otherwise, Winter keep prospects are good, with the turnip crop bulking well and grass still in abundance. There is a lot of hay, although admittedly much of it is of poor quality, but with silage oits and a plentiful supply of draff (Brewers wet grains) there is not much fear if we get a hard winter".

Practically similar reports are made of several other districts, for instance that of "Inverness and North" states: "Virtually no progress has been made with the grain harvest (since the previous report), and the situation is getting really serious now. Fog, mist, rain, low cloud, no wind and a general 'mugginess' have been our lot day in, day out, and it all adds up to the wettest and latest harvest for I reckon at least 15 years.

The "South East" report says: "Few farmers in this area, even among the oldest, can remember such a wet September as the one just gone, (with rainfall of almost five inches in the recognized dry districts and much more in some of the others".

IN AND OUT OF TOWN

The Turkey Supper

Mrs. F. Deery tells me that once again the annual Turkey Supper, organized by the U.C.W., of which Mrs. Deery is President, was quite a success. About 850 to 900 meals were served and, as usual, visitors came from miles around. An innovation this year, the tickets were numbered and instead of a long queue waiting outside, the Church was opened and those waiting were invited to sit inside in warmth and comfort. And as the numbers were called in strict rotation there was no danger of losing one's place. As the evening suddenly became cold and wet, this new system was very welcome.

Mr. and Mrs. J.H. L'Espérance and Mr. and Mrs. Lief Jacobson attended the annual dance of the Chateauguay Valley Historical Society on Friday evening. It was held at La Cabane, St. Philomene and was a most enjoyable affair. The lively music provided by the orchestra had everyone on their feet most of the evening and all were ready for the appetizing supper which was served shortly after midnight. For this, Mr. Jack McAllister, a member of the Society, had provided Gaspé Salmon, a good variety of cold cuts, delicious salads of all kinds and the usual trimmings. It was unanimously agreed by all present, about 250, that this year's dance was one of the best yet.

Mr. and Mrs. Alister Somerville, Mr. and Mrs. J.H. L'Espérance, and Mr. Lief Jacobson on Sunday attended the ceremonies at the Battle Site at Allan's Corners marking the 152nd anniversary of the Battle of Chateauguay. Despite the cold, blustery weather there was a good attendance. During the wreath-laying ceremony it was interesting to note that the Indian Chief from Caughnawaga, in place of flowers, planted a single white feather with a flaming red tip before the monument. Camera coverage of the proceedings was excellent, the C.B.C. camera man being very much in the fore-front. He spoiled a couple of my shots by dashing in front at the crucial moment but was forgiven when his shots, together with a good news coverage, were shown on Channel 6 during the 11 p.m. news!

News of Mr. Clayton Edgerton is good. A further operation had to be performed last week on his right leg to get rid of a bad infection which was spreading. This has now been cleared up and this coming week treatment will commence on the part of the left leg which remains so that a good healing might be obtained in readiness for the fitting of an artificial leg in the future. He is still in a private room, but time passes a little more pleasantly just now, he has the loan of a small television set for two weeks. Letters and cards from his friends are very much appreciated, keep them coming.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Greer, Elizabeth and Roy have returned from an enjoyable holiday at Enniskillen, Ont. Their hosts for the first part were Mr. and Mrs. Ernest A. Werry and Mr. and Mrs. Allan J. Werry at Alberta Ranch. From here Clifford went on Friday to the Plowing match at Milliken. On their return journey they passed a pleasant Monday in Ottawa, visiting friends.

Classes in French conversation are being enthusiastically attended in Hemmingford High School. Over 40 adults attended this past week. It has now been decided to divide the 'students' into three groups. Beginners and intermediates will attend at 8 p.m. on Tuesday and Wednesday while advanced students will meet on Thursday. These classes are given free of charge by the Department of Education and are taught by Miss Irene Pawliwsky, the French specialist at the school. Anyone interested, just come to the school on the evenings mentioned.

Mr. and Mrs. Roger Bouchard with Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Gagné spent an enjoyable few days visiting around Quebec. They took advantage of the pleasant weather of the past week to visit the Parliament Buildings in Quebec, the Citadel, then to Ste. Anne de Beaupré, Cap-de-la-Madeleine and Three Rivers. A pleasant little group of memories for the coming winter months.

Guild Meeting

Thirteen members attended the October meeting of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Guild. The devotional message stressed that before something is said, we should ask ourselves three questions: 1st, Is it kind? 2nd, Is it necessary? 3rd, Is it true? During the business meeting it was announced that the Guild will host the Fall Convention of the Frontier Branch, Council of Christian Education of the Province of Quebec. Plans were made for the congregational turkey supper to be held early in November. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Angus Orr and Miss Nora Angus.

Mrs. Arthur Hebert in company with her daughter, Mrs Jacquie Hebert, had an enjoyable ten-day vacation flying by T.W.A. to San Francisco Los Angeles, California and also to Phoenix, Arizona.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Berry of St. Andrew's East, attended the funeral of the late Mr. Charles Wood and were also guests of Mrs. Ralph Hayden.

50th Anniversary

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. George McKay, who on Sunday, October 24th, celebrated their 59th wedding anniversary. Mr. and Mrs. McKay spent the week-end in Montreal with their family.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Perry and son Bill Jr., of Vancouver, B.C., Mrs. Chas. Harrington and Mr. and Mrs. Colvin Harrington of Burlington, Vermont, were recent guests of Mrs. W.J. McKay.

The annual Turkey Supper held in the United Church Hall, Hemmingford, Thursday evening, October 21st was a gain a wonderful success. Approximately 850 suppers were served.

The many friends of Mr Aylmer Hadley will be pleased to hear of the marked improvement in his health. Mrs Hadley and Mr. and Mrs. Lynwood Cookman spent Sunday afternoon with him at the Royal Edward Laurentian Hospital in Montreal.

Miss Hazel Hadley of Toronto, Ont. spent the past week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hadley.

Mr. Sterling Begg, of Wappinger Falls, N.Y., spent the past week with his brother-in-law and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Ellerton.

Mr. and Mrs. Al. Lavigne and three children, Linda Vaughn, and Glen of Burlington, Ont. were week end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Pelletier and family.

Obituary

The late Charles Wood

The funeral service for the late Charles Wood, life-long resident of Hemmingford, was held Friday at 2:30 p.m. at St. Andrew's United Church. The service was conducted by the Rev. Gordon Ficko. Two favorite hymns of the deceased were sung by the choir "The Lord is my Shepherd" and "My Faith looks up to Thee". A solo, "The love of God" was beautifully rendered by Mrs. Ficko.

Mr. Wood, or Charlie as he was generally known, had been in failing health for quite some time but death came suddenly Tuesday morning. He celebrated his 77th birthday on October 4th. He was born and lived on the farm for many years before selling it to Mr. Martial Bouchard. Shortly after the disposal of his farm, Mr. and Mrs. Wood moved to a house in Hemmingford village, where they have resided for the past 22 years.

He was the son of the late Robert Wood and his wife Susan Napper. Charlie was a kindly man and his love and care of dumb animals was worthy of mention.

He leaves to mourn his loss his wife, the former Minnie Young of Montreal, one sister, Jessie Luella (Mrs. John Grue) of Champlain, N.Y. One brother, William MacIntyre of Toronto predeceased him about 17 years ago. He also leaves seven nephews and 2 nieces. Burial took place in the family plot. Floral tributes were beautiful. The pallbearers were Mr. P. Pederson, Mr. Ernie Moore, Mr. Allen Fisher, Mr. Robt. Currie and two nephews, Mr. Clayton Grue and Mr. Ellsworth Grue of Champlain, N.Y.

Those from a distance who attended were Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Harkness and daughter Mrs. Hebert of Lachine, Mrs. Crombie and son Robert of Rosemount, Mrs. Mary Thomas and Mr. Bryan Gilpin of Montreal West, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Berry of St. Andrew's East, Mrs. E.M. Wood of Powerscourt, Mr. Melville Carson, Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Carson of Franklin Centre and Mr. and Mrs. Norman Matheson of Montreal.

Newspapers, radio and television carried news and pictures last week of the opening of the New Stock Exchange in Montreal. Many local folk were interested as the Chairman of the Montreal Stock Exchange, Mr. Ivan Martin, is a well-known figure in this district. Ivan is a son of the late W.F. Martin, whose home was at 3 Lambton St., now occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Alex Davidson.

Over 1000 people jammed the street at the entrance of the new exchange where Mr. Martin was given the golden key during the official opening ceremony. Later he explained the trading procedure as lights flashed on the electronic boards.

ORMSTOWN HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

(by Joy Green)

The eve of October the twenty-second did not appear as inviting as one would have liked, but the damp weather did not manage to dampen the spirits of those who attended the dance. The evening proved itself most successful. A vote of thanks goes to Miss Roberta Wallace who did a splendid job of decorating the gymnasium.

The following afternoon the first basketball games of the season were played. Seniors vs Grads. In both cases, the senior teams were defeated, but it certainly wasn't from want of trying. The boys played a particularly close game, the final score 20-19, in favor of the grads.

The Commencement Exercises were held later that evening. We were honored to have Mr. Mosher, the director general of studies, as guest speaker. His speech concerned mainly the parents in the audience. He discussed how parents can encourage their children, and therefore help them to get a better education. The prize giving ceremony followed.

The magazine campaign has reached its climax and the campaign managers feel the end results will be a far cry from those of last year's campaign. Even so, the junior grades are to be congratulated for all the work they've done. The campaign rested completely on their shoulders, as the senior grades were busy with various other preparations.

The junior and senior boys' basketball games are scheduled to play Hemmingford on October 29th. The senior boys are determined to win this game.

May THE BEST team win!

Howick High School Graduation Exercises

Friday evening, October 22, a good attendance of relatives and friends gathered at the high school for the 1965 graduation exercises and presentation of prizes from Grades VIII — XI.

The auditorium had been transformed into a tropical paradise, "Island in the Sun" by Pamela Miller and her committee of students, and was a work of art.

The recorded music of the song "Island In the Sun", was played softly before the curtains parted, then to music played by Sherrill Carson the graduating class and other honoured guests walked up the centre aisle and took their places on the platform.

The radiant girl graduates wore white gowns; the young men were immaculate and looked equally pleased that they had reached this important event in their lives.

The program opened with the singing of O'Canada, and Mr. Hudson gave the opening prayer.

Mr. John Murray called on Mr. W. D. Stuckey, Chairman of the School Board, to give a report. He spoke briefly of their work during the past year and explained the tax situation. Letters will be mailed to all ratepayers within a few days.

Dianne McArthur past president of the Student Council told of their work, and later Gary Allen presented her with a pin.

Phyllis Whyte of the graduating class read an original and amusing Class Will. JoAnne Rorison, leading graduate gave the Valedictory address.

Mr. John Murray, Principal of the school spoke briefly, congratulating the Students on their accomplishments. He noted that visitors to the school often commented on the quiet mannerly behaviour of the students, but this record is marred sometimes by the activities of a few.

Mr. Murray then introduced the Rev. H. S. Hilchey, M.A., B.D. of Montreal, guest speaker of the evening.

Skilled in the art of using simple sentences, Mr. Hilchey held the attention of graduates and assembled friends as he spoke of the usefulness of two small words among 500,000 of the English language. There is "No" as used in No Trespassing, No Parking, No Smoking, etc., the "No" used to train tiny children not to touch, etc., and the "No" used by wise and courageous parents when teenagers need a guiding hand. And he hoped there were many such parents in this community.

In his work Mr. Hilchey sees many people who have messed up their lives. They said "Yes" when they should have said "No". He advised the young people to stand up for their convictions as they had been taught by their parents.

Finally he spoke of the word "Yes" which to him is more useful and important, than 'No". To a girl it may mean saying "Yes" when a young man asks her to marry. She may have said "No" to several others.

To a Young Man it may mean "Yes" to a certain career the Yes of decision or commitment. It takes courage, wisdom and character to say the kind of Yes that will make your life all you want it to be and all we want it to be.

The next item on the program was selections by Senior Choir. In three weeks this girls choir of 25 voices directed by Mrs. J. A. E. Johnstone and accompanied by Mr. Johnstone, produced a miracle of song.

Their voices were so lovely and diction was excellent throughout. The alto section had deepened and sang with more confidence than usual giving better support to the higher voices which were very good. They sang the lovely, "How Shall I Fitly Meet Thee?" Bach, followed by "I wonder when I shall be married", an Irish Version of a Kentucky Folksong.

The presentation of prizes, scholarships, trophies and High School Leaving Certificates followed. The closing prayer was given by the Rev. W. M. Brown, followed by the singing of God Save the Queen.

Everyone was invited to attend a reception in the cafeteria. There the graduates received the best wishes and congratulations of their friends. Delicious refreshments were served by the High School girls. Mrs. Wallace Gruer, Mrs. E. Elliot, Mrs. Murray Templeton and Mrs. F. Gruer poured coffee.

Mrs. K. Lamb and Mrs. H. Robertson arranged the reception. The decorating committee, using the same theme as in the auditorium, had transformed the cafeteria.

The Buddies played for the dance which followed. The pretty dresses of the ladies, the exotic setting of an Island In the Sea, and good music, made this a memorable occasion for the happy graduates and their friends.

The best wishes of the community go with Class '65 of Howick High School.

Howick

HOWICK — Twenty-four members of the Howick, Aubrey-Riverfield Branch of the Women's Auxiliary of the Barrie Memorial Hospital attended the general meeting in the Board Room of the Hospital, Monday evening, October 25th. The guest speaker, Mrs. W. Fearn, Executive Director of the hospital, gave an extremely interesting talk on her trip to the Hospital Convention in Sweden, and of the trip some thirty delegates had to Russia. She gave a vivid description of the hospital and medical conditions in these countries. In presenting the report of the Howick-Aubrey-Riverfield Branch, Mrs. Norman Simms thanked the Executive Committee and friends for work done in connection with the annual tea and sale, and noted the amounts received:—

Food and Miscellaneous Table	$126.35
Christmas Table	71.25
Tea Room	58.00
Donations and later sales	6.83
	$262.43
Expenses	20.69
TOTAL	$241.74

This is an increase of $67.74 over last year's results.

This Branch under the direction of Mrs. Wilbert Gruer served delicious refreshments at the close of the meeting. Mrs. Gruer was assisted by Mrs. Lorne Forrester, Mrs. Ronald Reddick, Mrs Alvin Chisholm, Mrs. John Anderson, Mrs. James Tillotson, Mrs. Walter Stonehouse and Mrs. Norman Simms.

Mr. C. L. Bennett and Mr. George Bennett and daughter Roberta, of Harrington, Que, have returned home after a visit with Mr. and Mrs. Norman Simms.

Mr. and Mrs. Adolphe Shinck have returned from a motor trip to New Jersey. They spent a pleasant ten days visiting friends and relatives in towns near New York City.

Mrs. A. R. Bergevin enjoyed a visit of two weeks at Whitby, Ont., with Mr and Mrs. Victor Bergevin and the grandchildren.

Mr. John Murray and Mr. W. D. Stuckey attended the P.T.A. convention at Ste. Agele, on Friday.

Mr. and Mrs Paul Tellier and Mrs. F. Jenneau visited on Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Lucien Lefebvre, Bois des Filion.

Best wishes go to Mrs. Henri Marson, who is a patient at the Barrie Memorial Hospital.

Every evening last week held a special event for some one. Attendance at the Home and School meeting was only fair, but those who went were keenly interested in the address given by Mr. Buckingham, Assistant Principal at John Rennie High School, Pte. Claire.

Mr. Buckingham spoke on Student Guidance and Student Counselling.

On Friday night, the Annual meeting of the Chateauguay District Boy Scouts was held at Howick High School. The Home and School Association provided the dinner for approximately 85 members who attended. No doubt news of this meeting will appear in another column of The Gleaner.

The fire department has been busy. On Monday night of last week, they were called to the Tourist Hotel on Mill Rd. A shed at the back of the hotel was gutted.

On Sunday night they were called to a chimney fire at Mr. Loiselle's home, Ste. Martine Rd. The wind was high, but the fire was controlled easily.

A Chamber of Commerce was organized earlier this year, to support and encourage the Councils in their work. Mr. Wm. Hudson was elected President. Arthur Tellier, vice-pres., and Mr. John Murray, Secretary.

Since this organization started, a group of young men meets weekly for fire drill. Discussions have been held at C. of C. meetings regarding other improvements that can be made.

Irresponsible motorists were a menace on the village streets; road signs had been broken or removed, resulting in accidents or near accidents, other acts of vandalism prompted the C. of C. to ask for better police protection and for more supervised recreation.

There has been general improvement along these lines.

Last year on Hallowe'en two bridges were burned, one beyond repair, which has caused endless trouble and expense to the public. This year due to the efforts of the C. of C. and the police, the whole community was patrolled during Saturday night celebrations.

Among other things young people had been warned by the police not to remove traffic signs, but a few let their youthful exuberance get the better of them. The "mopping up" operation, supervised by the police, was less enjoyable. Ordinary pranks are in order at Hallowe'en but if one of these young people, lost his life due to a Stop sign being removed his parents might be the first to blame the police, or council.

A hearty thank you to the police and local patrol for providing such adequate protection. They in turn appreciated the work done by Fire Chief, Mr. H. Patenaude, who served hot drinks and refreshments during the night.

A number of Bibles and Hymn books were dedicated at the morning service on Oct. 31, at Howick United Church. They were given by church groups and other friends in memory of the late Mrs. R. J. Roy, Mr. Homer Brady and Mr. Lorne Templeton.

About 70 young people from Ormstown, Georgetown, Riverfield and Howick enjoyed a lively party at the United Church Hall, on Saturday evening sponsored by the Hi-C group.

Sherrill Carson sang one number and the Hi-Boys, Harry Younie, Frank Dawson and John Gillies entertained with several instrumental and vocal numbers. Later on, records were played for dancing.

Varied refreshments and soft drinks were served.

Mr. Hudson and the Hi-C leaders Mr. and Mrs. Murray Templeton, and Mr. and Mrs. Ken Younie were present

HIGHLIGHTS HOWICK HIGH SCHOOL

By Penny Root

Graduation '65 has come and gone. All last week, but particularly Thursday and Friday, the members of the various work committees scurried through the halls to complete the preparations. Friday, October 22 was the big night —and what a night! The decoration committee did a terrific job in both the gymnasium and the cafeteria. This year the theme was "Island in the Sun", and the committee supplied the island. After the graduation exercises, the food committee took over in the cafeteria. The informal reception was also a great success, thanks to the efforts of all who contributed in organizing, supplying food, serving, and cleaning up. Many friends of the school returned to the gymnasium to enjoy the music of the Buddies until 2 a.m. The complete success of the graduation was emphasized the following day when a good group showed up for the clean-up job.

The basketball season is with us again. This year the boys (junior and senior) will play a full schedule before Christmas. Both teams have been practising enthusiastically and the student body is expecting a successful effort, starting this Friday.

Mercifully, the Junior Soccer Team has played through most of its schedule without too much fanfare or publicity. Last Thursday, however, the team enjoyed a muddy, but inconclusive, battle against Ormstown High. The score was 2-2, a slithery step in the right direction.

Already the hectic bustle of life at Howick High, is apparent. Mr. Findlay spoke to the pupils of grades seven to eleven on Driving Safety, the C.G.I.T. programme is underway, the Hallowe'en goblins are waiting in the wings, the House League has once more begun, — and examinations will soon be here.

To your GOOD HEALTH

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: I am a woman of 36, in good health and with no digestive problems, yet my stomach growls and roars (above and below the waist) until I'm so nervous when with other people that I think I'll die of embarrassment.

I noticed that it roars more when I am sitting and not as much when I am working or moving about. I have a lot of gas on my stomach but no pain except occasionally, and I rarely burp.

I don't think gas is the problem, at least not entirely, because if I eat only a piece of dry toast, my stomach won't let me relax in church. I'd like to crawl under a pew.

Is there anything I can do? I know it's natural for stomachs to make a fuss once in a while but must mine carry on ALL the time? — MRS. J. H.

This is not a health menace, but it's still a distressing problem, so let's see what we can do to help.

A lot of people who complain of rumbling and burping are unconsciously air-swallowers. They usually are rapid eaters who gulp air with their food, and some habitually swallow little gulps of air all the time. The lack of burps in your case makes that a doubtful answer for you, but I mention it for other readers.

The second possibility is an irritable or over active colon. We have some yards of intestine, which is folded up, down and crosswise. If the intestine is too active in its contractions, it moves the liquid and gaseous contents in jet-like fashion, and is noisy. It tends to be more rackety when one is sitting. A tight girdle belt can accentuate the condition.

Mild sedation should help relax your noisy "department of interior," If you run true to form for this trouble, when you get some relief from the rumbling, then you relax more and there is even less rumbling.

In some instances, gall bladder or stomach trouble can cause true indigestion and hence excessive rumbling, but there would be other symptoms which would have been detected by now.

Finally, certain foods can cause rumbling, but you already have counted that out in your case. However, food allergies can be a factor, since, as you noted in a part I omitted from your letter, you have other allergic troubles.

Dear Dr. Molner: My husband is 43 and diabetic. He is on 1,500 calories a day. For three months he hasn't had any pep. How long will it be necessary for him to regain his strength? He was overweight at first, 194 pounds, and five feet, seven inches tall. He now weighs 175. — MRS. M. P.

Several possibilities may account for his fatigue I suggest that his doctor check his blood sugar levels.

It is possible that he might feel better if he began taking the pills of a little insulin.

Infection, low thyroid, inadequate rest, and emotional tension (worry) might be involved — any, or several.

He has been wise, however, in losing weight, and very likely should lose a bit more. What does his doctor say?

NOTE TO MRS. F. H.: An inverted nipple doesn't necessarily indicate anything dangerous, so in such a case would not warrant surgery. But for an accurate answer, ask your doctor. If he tells you not to worry, then don't.

For facts about the total health of you and each member of your family, Dr. Joseph G. Molner's new book, "Stay Well Every Year of Your Life," ($5.95) is now available at your book store, or Prentice-Hall, Englewood Cliffs, N.J.

Dr. Molner welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

W.M.S. Meeting

St. Andrew's W.M.S. held their regular monthly meeting on Wed., Oct. 27, in the Church Annex, with a good attendance of members and visitors. The president, Mrs. Doris McColm, was in the chair. The devotions were taken by Mrs. Mennie and Mrs. McColm. The secretary Mrs. Wallace Douglas, read the minutes of the June meeting, also the report of the Thank-offering meeting held in September, when Miss Hermanson from Formosa was the speaker. Mrs. McCleery brought greetings from Miss Hermanson, who had sent thanks and best wishes to the auxiliary members. A number of letters were read in reply to cards sent to sick friends.

Several attractive crib quilts were shown, made by the work committee, namely, Miss Patton, Mrs. Helm, Mrs. Smaill, and Mrs. Dunn. These ladies had also made several pairs of socks and mittens for the W.M.S. The bale will be packed early next month. For the study period, Mrs. McColm and Mrs. Douglas read from the study book about the mission work of the church. At the close, refreshments were served to all by the entertaining committee and a social time enjoyed.

and candidates. As a matter of fact one Provincial member, Mr. Kennedy, was asked to lay a wreath as was the Federal member Mr. Laniel. Neither Mr. Somerville or Mr. Watson were asked to lay wreaths. This part of the ceremony was at the discretion of the president.

Still another protest against there being no provision made for the Band members automobiles — this is justifiable. However where could they park — in the middle of a muggy field?

Now to answer a totally false assumption that it was a political maneuver. The flag raising ceremony was proposed by myself before any thought of a general election. An invitation was extended to the Prime Minister in September. In the interim the election was called and Mr. Pearson was unable to accept.

When I discovered that the Hon. Jack Pickersgill and the Hon. Maurice Lamontagne were going to be in the Town of Chateauguay and Valley field on October 24th, in the company of Mr. Laniel and Mayor Laberge, I asked that they represent the Prime Minister at the ceremony, which they graciously consented to do.

Because the invitation to Allan's Corners was made long after all other arrangements for these gentlemen, it was impossible for them to be at Allan's Corners before 3:30 p.m. I sincerely regret the discomfort caused by the delay and the cold weather.

As for playing 'the Queen', I assumed this would be done by the Band.

In closing may I add one more observation; the ceremonies held on the 24th of October were a success, due in part to the conscientiousness of the Ormstown Band, for which I am deeply grateful.

Too, I am truly sorry the writer used this occasion to malign an effort to do something that will in the future, bring benefit to the entire region.

The Editor,
The Gleaner,
Huntingdon,
Dear Sir,

Bravo! — Mr. Lindsay Cullen" and "Mother of four of them".

It is swell to be important—but it is more important to be swell.

Pressure of urgent business deprived me of the pleasure of attending the observance of the 152nd anniversary of the Battle of Chateauguay, and I intend not to speak of the passing excitements of that day.

Also, I am anxious not to appear too partisan. But perhaps I ought to say that any references to persons are purely intentional, and entirely deliberate.

In the early stages of the Kennedy—Nixon presidential election, you will recall that Mr. Nixon was hospitalized. Mr. Kennedy said, "So long as he is in hospital, I shall have nothing to say about my opponent, unless it is to praise him. So I shall have nothing to say about my opponent".

Having said that, I shall now say what I intended to say, even before reading the letters from Mr. Cullen and Mother of four of them.

Messrs. Pickersgill, Lamontagne and Watson had one—Helluva Nerve!

The Editor,
The Gleaner,

Dear Sir:

What is the future election supposed to prove to the Canadian People? Is the government trying to prove to us that they can spend our tax money? I, as well as many other people can think of many other ways to spend it. You know as well as I do on what.

Mr. Pearson was not forced into an election, so why did he call it. I don't believe he was man enough to face the Canadian People. Pearson says he needs a majority to do what he has to do. What is this that he wants to do. If it is supposed to be good, the other parties would not have said anything. What has he promised for the future. What has any party promised. All they are talking about is the past. I say to "H" with the past, lets hear about the future.

The main thing Canada needs is a leader and that we do not have at the present. Also there are too many parties running. I as one do not believe in this. I am hoping that things are better in the future.

Thank-you,
Francis Patterson

Glenelm

GLENELM —The following has been submitted by Mrs. E. A. Salter: It was Hallowe'en and the weather was cold and damp. I put the usual treats of apples, candy and cookies on the table. It was getting late, nearly 9 p.m., and as I was feeling a little tired I lay down on the daybed for a rest. After a short while I heard a faint tapping on the window. I opened the door and a colorful procession walked past me into the kitchen, all in costume of some sort. They all carried shopping bags more than half full — a sign that they had been at homes other than my own. They helped themselves to the treats on the table, at a given signal they sang prettily a song I had never heard before. They then kissed Grandpa and Grandma goodbye.

A friend had offered to drive the children in his car, thus they did not have to walk up the long, dark lane. Thanks to him for looking after the children and giving us a most pleasant half hour.

Elgin

The Food Sale, sponsored by the Ladies' Aid and Women's Missionary Society of the Elgin Presbyterian Church, at the home of Mrs. Donald Ferns on Friday afternoon was a huge success, thanks to all the ladies of the congregation and friends who contributed food as well as donations.

There was an abundance of all kinds of cookies, pies, breads, jelly, marmalade and pickles all of which was disposed of during the afternoon.

The proceeds of the sale $10.

Mr. Lindsay will be happy to have his many friends visit him.

Mr. Clarence Wilson, Brooklet, is now a patient in the Montreal General Hospital where he underwent surgery on his eye. His many friends wish him a complete and speedy recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis Brethour and family, spent Friday evening in Huntingdon.

Those wishing employment in the new steel company in Lacolle were interviewed last Monday. Several secured work and the plant is supposed to be in operation this week.

Mrs. Thos. Van Vliet entertained the members of the U.C.W. at her home on Thursday. Each lady brought a gift of clothing for a patient in the Douglas Hospital. Refreshments were served by the hostess.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Robinson entertained on Saturday evening at a Hallowe'en party. All present were in costume. The house was prettily decorted for the occasion. First prize for men went to Donald McTaggart of Montreal as "Fat Lady." First prize to women was won by Mrs. Bill Stevenson of Franklin as "Scarecrow".

Mrs. N. O. Stewart of Plattsburg, N.Y., is visiting at the Elmer Robinson home.

Mrs. Chas. Hewson is visiting at the home of her daughter, Mrs. David Carr, in Montreal.

READ THESE LATEST FACTS

PM's Vote Remark Stirs Storm

OTTAWA, Oct. 29 — "If we don't get a majority government, we're going to have another election in a year, in a year and a half, and who wants that?"

PM'S Denial

"I said no such thing," he told reporters. "I don't know where that report started.

"I never meant any such statement... perfectly ridiculous. I'd like to see that report."

Tape Recording

A voice recording taped while the Prime Minister was addressing party workers in Toronto has Mr. Pearson saying: "I know you're trying. Now it's very important to get Liberals elected because we are the only party that has a chance of forming a majority government. And if we don't get a majority government, we're going to have another election in a year, in a year and a half, and who wants that?"

Remarks by Other Leaders

In his statement, Mr. Douglas said of Mr. Pearson:

"His responsibility to conduct the Queen's business apparently comes second to his determination to do his duty by his political party.

"Arrogance is not leadership.

"Mr. Pearson's statement must be a disturbing reminder that Liberal incompetence has not been matched by humility."

Mr. Diefenbaker said the Liberals are becoming less and less confident about their chances of a majority victory in the Nov. 8 federal election.

"When this campaign started they were going to sweep," he said. "Everybody was going to sing the Hallelujah Chorus every time the Prime Minister showed up."

Now, however, Prime Minister Pearson has said he will call a new election in a year to 18 months if he does not get his majority "—the most unusual statement ever made by a Prime Minister."

PRIME MINISTER FORGETS AGAIN

IS THIS THE TYPE OF MAN WE WANT TO LEAD THE GOVERNMENT?

IT IS NOT THE FIRST STORM HE HAS STIRRED

IN THE FACE OF ALL THE EVIDENCE YOUR BEST COURSE IS TO VOTE PROGRESSIVE CONSERVATIVE ON NOV. 8th

YOUR LAST CHANCE TO CONSIDER

Think over the type of Government Mr. Pearson and his Liberal Government gave you at the last session of the Parliament of Canada. You know the scandals, you know how Mr. Pearson chose not to remember things and even said he was not aware of certain things and which later he said he did know about. Now he is doing the same thing in this election campaign. Can we have confidence in such a man and his party? This man is asking you, the electorate, to send him back with a larger majority. If you don't he says, there will be another election soon. Only the Liberals can prevent it.

We say the Progressive-Conservative Party under the leadership of Mr. John Diefenbaker can give you a far better government than Mr. Pearson ever did, or ever will. A Diefenbaker Government will give you those things this country and all of us need.

MEET ROBT. JAMES CLARKE

He is 45 years of age.
Born November 27th, 1919 at Verdun, Que.

He is a Justice of the Peace.

A Commissioner of the Superior Court.

Political Affiliations:

Actively associated with both National Union and Progressive-Conservative Parties since 1944. Chairman of the Speakers' Committee (English) and on the hustings, radio and TV, Chairman of the English speakers in 1962 and stomped in the Ontario and Atlantic Provinces for the Progressive-Conservative Party. He was also an aid to the following Ministers during the 1962 election campaign: Hon. Dave Fulton, Hon. Donald Fleming, Hon. Douglas Harkness, Hon. Alvin Hamilton, Hon. Howard Green and Senator Glasgow.

He is married to the former Irene McHardy of Athelstan, Que. Has three children: Robert 6, (Attending Huntingdon High School), Jennifer, 4, and John, 15 months.

Mr. and Mrs. Robt. James Clarke and family are residing at Powerscourt, in the County of Huntingdon.

In 1954, he ran as a candidate for election to the Montreal City Council.

In 1963, Robt. Clarke was recommended by ardent supporters of the Conservative Party to Prime Minister John Diefenbaker, for consideration for appointment to the Senate of Canada.

Occupation: Public relations and Free Lance Broadcaster.

Declaration:

If given the mandate by the people of Chateauguay-Huntingdon-Laprairie Constituency to represent them in the House of Commons, I will allow my conscience to be my guide and not Party politics. Tyranny of patronage will not prevail in the Civil Service.

THE PROGRESSIVE-CONSERVATIVE PLATFORM

The 11% sales tax on building materials and production machinery will be removed

The sales tax adds to the cost of homes and goods, and jeopardizes important job-producing sectors of the economy. The elimination of this tax will be a first objective of a PC government.

New agricultural programs will boost farm income

Guarantee of $4.00 per 100 lbs. Of Industrial Milk.

A Progressive Conservative Government lifted western agriculture out of the doldrums. What we did for the western farmers we will do for the eastern farmers. We will revive the ARDA program initiated by the PC party; provide crop insurance on pasture crops to assist the livestock economy; establish an Eastern Feed Grain Agency; set up a National Dairy Commission, with $4 per hundredweight payments for industrial milk; encourage the building of agricultural schools similar to the Conservative vocational and technical training school program.

Farm Credit

We will assure that farm credit is available under low interest rates for young people to expand and improve farms and farm homes.

Old Age pensions will be increased to $100 per month

The needs of our senior citizens are not adequately provided for in the Canada Pension Plan. The cost of living has spiralled, and a pension of $100 per month is today's recognized level of minimum subsistence.

Homeowners' municipal taxes up to $500 will be deductible for federal income tax purposes

Rising school costs impose an unfair share of the tax burden on home owners, almost to the breaking point. The $500 deduction will mean a federal sharing of education costs with the provinces and municipalities.

THE PREBBLE

Looking to the south east from my cabin door the country rose in a slow sweep toward Sullivan lake; and the Prebble farm buildings and house were silhouetted against the skyline. A black field of summer fallow sloping toward the north could be plainly seen at four miles distance. The Prebbles were offering pork for sale; so one day I took a walk over to call on them. Their land bordered on the lake shore; and I found they had a wonderful view of the lake stretching away to the south for more than twenty miles. It was a clear day —not a cloud anywhere — a typical Alberta day; and the blueness of the sky was reflected in the lake. The snow geese were on their annual trek south; and thousands of them had lighted on the lake. The snowy white geese and the blueness of the water made a picture not soon forgotten. The lake was down in a depression about 50-60 feet deep; not a gentle slope, but an abrupt drop. During the terrible winter of 1906-1907 many hundreds of cattle went to their death over this drop—drifting ahead of the storm—and their bones are lying in heaps on the lake shore.

Two cownands went missing in the same storm, and were found when spring came — horses and men had gone over with the cattle. You can imagine what a storm that was when men and horses would stumble over a cliff in a blinding blizzard. The Prebbles were settled there at the time; but their few cattle were in shelter; and they had no inkling of the tragedy taking place so close to them.

Mrs. Prebble was a tall dark woman of about fifty, jet black hair, and eyes as black as an Indian's. Their kitchen floor had never known paint, but was scoured white—different from some of the bachelor establishments I could mention. She was pleasant enough in a reserved sort of way. They had one daughter, Dora — about 18 — a perfect replica of her mother. Mr. Prebble was considerably older than his wife — perhaps in his sixties — but was still a strong and vigorous old man with a long white beard. He was dark and handsome, with the appearance of an old testament prophet. The Prebbles were a reserved and dignified family, in my estimation, at least. A couple of years later; at a Dominion Day picnic, the chairman said he wished to congratulate one of our local young men who had been recently married. The bride was Dora Prebble. The young man, Eddie Vance, was just as blond as his bride was brunette; and they made a very handsome couple. This picnic was followed by a dance. When it came time to break up in the early morning a dense fog had settled over the countryside and the folks could not leave — most of them were tired out — children were asleep in wagons while their elders danced rather wearily, but they had to stick it out until the sun rose. June, July and at least part of August bring very heavy dews to Alberta grasslands — and they are usually badly needed.

When we were dropped off by a neighbour about a half mile from our cabin, we took off our shoes and socks and walked the rest of the way bare footed.

September's hot sunny afternoons and cool nights produced fog and light mist, which flowed into the hollows, making quite a sharp change in temperature within a very short distance. Standing on the high escarpment overlooking the 'gumbo flat' I once saw a beautiful mirage. The sun had not yet started to scatter the mist and a beautiful lake with many tree clad islands dotting the surface lay before me — rippling water gently washed the beaches where nothing but dry sod actually existed. Like the desert mirage we read about, it looked unbelievably real.

Geese and ducks were, of course, the most common water birls — when the geese were migrating north in the spring there was scarcely a half hour in the day or night that you could not hear the honk of the passing throng.

Occasionally they would light in a stubble field for rest and feed. This was done after about half an hour circling and observation from every angle before they were satisfied that all was safe.

Thousands of them on a hundred acre stubble field made a sight not soon forgotten. Scouts remained in the air to warn of approaching danger; and when they again took to the air the noise and confusion before they regained their usual V formation—and set off north again — lasted for close to an hour.

Ducks stayed with us, nesting on the bank of a slough or lake by the thousand. The mother duck was very clever at diverting your attention from her little ones — fluttering along as though she had a broken wing, or splashing around in the water as though she was in danger of drowning. In the meantime the little ducklings would be lying flattened out in the grass — almost invisible.

My side kick, Arthur Ashurst described the curlew as the 'idiot bird' — it would follow you for miles, screaming and diving at your head as you walked across country — then suddenly fly away to see that her nest was still intact and in two minutes be back again dive bombing within a few feet of your head. The sandcrane was a huge bird with a six foot wing spread, which flew at a great height. It made a croaking sound which could be heard plainly even when the bird was practically invisible from the ground. While walking beside Neil McMillan's lake one day I came on one of them feeding in about three feet of water. He would duck his head and long neck underwater for an amazingly long time without breathing. The lake bank was about twenty feet high and apparently this bird's mate had a nest high up in the bank because she suddenly dived at me with a tremendous flurry of wings which gave me quite a start. Both the birds now joined in the attack and I lost no time in getting out of that neighbourhood.

Prairie chicken also had the habit of rising with a rush from your very feet — they could hardly be seen while on the ground. This made them a difficult target.

Owls nested in willow trees not much higher than lilac bushes — they lived mostly on gophers and woe betide the luckless gopher which strayed too far from his hole. One bird stayed on the nest while the mate hunted, and the method of "bringing home the bacon" never varied. Coming back with a juicy gopher it would fly about fifty feet above the nest —dropping the gopher as he passed over — the other bird would spring off the nest — turn over on its back and grab the food in her talons, and deliver it to the young ones who soon made a meal of it. I have had a little sport with them (in the dusk of the evening) by throwing a tin can into the air near their nest when they would dive at it like a bullet — the scrape of their talons on the tin would come before it struck the ground. Among the smaller birds were the meadow lark, the robin, and of course, the sparrow, which is everywhere.

Indian Axe Head Found At Dundee

Donald Dufrane, Jr., of the Dundee Road, Fort Covington, has what looks like an Indian war hatchet head which he found two years ago in his garden.

The stone measures one inch, by 2½ by 6¾ inches and is sharp like an axe at one end, very obviously having required a lot of honing by some method in some distant day long past.

It is interesting to speculate on the hands the war hatchet passed through since it was made; the era that it was shaped out and how many skulls, if any, it cracked.

Franklin Centre

FRANKLIN CENTRE. — A meeting of the U.C.W. was held on Monday evening, Oct. 18th, at the home of Mrs. Stewart Moneypenny, with 13 members present. Mrs. Schwanke led the devotional and Mrs. Stewart Moneypenny read a selection from the Study Book on life in Trinidad. Mrs. Harry Moneypenny has charge of looking after the used clothing to be sent to Montreal and Gaspé in November and would like donations as soon as possible. Some other matters were discussed after which the meeting adjourned and the hostess served refreshments.

The MacMillan Trio, a very interesting musical group from a minister's family in Ottawa, arrived at Franklin Centre Saturday noon and were welcomed by the Franklin Centre and Huntingdon's Young People's Society, about 25 young people. They were taken through the Juice Plant at Franklin and then went to St. Antoine Abbé to go through the Lussier's Candied Apple Plant; after this a Hot Dog Supper was enjoyed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Colvin Watts on Covey Hill. In the evening a song service was held in the Church of the Nazarene with the MacMillan Trio. They were overnight guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Brooks. Services were held at Franklin in the morning and Huntingdon in the evening and everyone enjoyed the Trio's musical performance at both services. The Trio were entertained at Mr. and Mrs. Norman Stevenson for dinner, and at Rev. H. Bye's, Huntingdon, for supper.

Mrs. Wm. Coulter of Huntingdon and Mrs. Archie Beaton from Blackville, N.B., were Friday evening callers on Mrs. Willard Dunn.

Mrs. Bruce Stevenson and Mark from Chateauguay were Sunday afternoon callers at the F. D. Stevenson home. Mrs. Margaret Simpson and two friends from Chateauguay were also callers at the same home Sunday.

Mrs. George Hope, Mrs. Ruth Post and Miss Maude Welch of Ormstown, were Sunday dinner guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Hope and Gordon.

Mr. and Mrs. James Manning and Miss Margaret visited relatives at North Bangor, on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Barr and family of Howick and Mr. and Mrs. George Simpson, Margaret and Lorne of Huntingdon, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Barr and family.

Mrs. Nelson Beattie and family were Sunday afternoon callers at the Harvey home.

Franklin W.I

The October meeting of the Franklin Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. H.W. Clarke with 12 members and 3 guests. We were very happy to welcome Mrs. Harold Robertson, County President and Mrs. Finlay Milne of Aubrey-Riverfield Branch at this meeting. Mrs. Robert Barr opened the meeting with the usual exercises. Roll call was answered to with reasons "Why should I come to a Women's Instntute meeting". Minutes of previous meeting were read and approved.

Mrs. Leo W. Lewis, Treasurer gave a full financial report with a balance on hand of $213.88. Mrs. Lewis also gave a short account of the booths at Havelock Fair where the Franklin W.I. realized the amount of $111.09 after expenses, and would like to thank all who helped to make this possible.

Mrs. H. W. Clarke made the following motion that the Frankin W.I. make a donation of $25.00 to the Chateauguay Valley Association for Retarded Children, this motion was seconded by Mrs. Leslie Robertson with all in favor.

Mrs. Robt. Barr then introduced Mrs. Harold Robertson, our guest speaker, who gave a very full report of the Quebec Women's Institute Board Meeting that was held recently when 17 counties were represented. Mrs. Robertson went on to speak on several exerpts of the Mary Stewart Collect and their meaning and how we should try to live by them and "let us take time for all things". It was a most interesting talk and gave us all food for thought.

Mrs. Finlay Milne then spoke on her trip out West when she had the pleasure of visiting the Peace Gardens, and took us on a trip through the Gardens by words and photographs showing how lovely it is and the meaning of this Garden.

Mrs. H.W. Clarke thanked Mrs. Robertson and Mrs. Milne for being able to be with us at this meeting and how much we enjoyed having them.

The meeting adjourned. Delicious refreshments were served by the Hostess.

The November meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Leslie Robertson.

liberals in Ottawa
unity in Canada

Confederation has been strengthened more in the past two years under the Liberals than at any time in the past century. We can see it in the closer, friendlier relations between Ottawa and the provinces . . . in the sharing of a bright new prosperity all across the country . . . in our distinctive new maple leaf flag. But this exciting new Canada doesn't please Mr. Diefenbaker. He wants to turn back the clock . . . he wants a Canada where there is not meaningful communication between the two founding races. It almost seems Mr. Diefenbaker wants a Canada without Quebec! But Mr. Pearson speaks the language of reason when he says: "Quebec must be present in all of Canada". Let's be present IN FORCE on November 8th!

Scrambled Names Contest Winners Announced

by Fergus Horsburgh

Finale to the Gleaner's Scrambled Names Contest came last Saturday afternoon with the awards to the principal prize winners. Completion of the contest had been delayed for technical reasons.

The two big winners of the contest, based on maximum numbers of correct answers submitted, were Mrs. Calvin McCartney, 170 Gaspé, Chateauguay Centre, and Mrs. Syd Mitchell, 150 St. Louis, West End, Chateauguay Centre.

Mrs. McCartney, winner of a beautiful stereophonic record-player, a three-piece aluminum Wear-Ever set of kitchen utensils, and a regulation — size football, expressed herself as delighted at her first successful entry into this type of competition.

Mrs. Mitchell, who for some years wrote a West-End news column for the Gleaner, was the other big winner with a desk-radio, flash camera and football belmet.

By a remarkable coincidence, both major winners, meeting each other for the first time when Gleaner photographer Pat Wilkins recorded the happy event in the Horsburgh home last Saturday are first-named Doris.

Health Forces Resignation of Rev. Dr. R. Dewit Scott

Chateauguay Centre United Church

Sunday, was a rainy, dismal day — and at the close of the service, the congregation received news which matched the weather. Dr. Scott read an announcement of his resignation as our minister. On Friday morning, after extensive consultation, three doctors advised him, he must give up all his work — that is, at Chateauguay Centre and his many other commitments. His recent illness has been serious enough, that Dr. Scott had absolutely no other alternative. Little did our congregation realize they were taking part in Dr. Scott's last service.

During the three short months we have been fortunate enough to have Dr. Scott as our minister, much growth and progress has taken place. His leadership has been strong and inspiring, and one need not be in his presence for a long time to feel the urge to do all one can to help in the great mission of the church. We are grateful for having him for even a short time; and will do our level best to carry through the work he started here, and which he was confident could be accomplished. At the same time our prayers and thoughts will be with him as, for the first time in his life, he must take care of himself.

"Mat Night" In Town Quiet This Year

By Fergus Horsburgh

The annual hi-jinks evening before Hallowe'en kept Town Police moderately busy last Friday, Oct. 29th.

A few calls from residents of Seigniory Park, Craik, Duquette, Massey Drive and McLeod produced a few pranksters, who were given a warning at the Police station. Also on the same evening a car trailer was pushed into the center of Vanier Street — and left there. Fortunately it was towed back to its proper driveway before a serious accident.

Persons unknown were responsible for a fire on the border of the Heights and Town on Maple St. One of the warning torches placed beside water and sewer excavations had been thrown in a hole. Two 45 gallon drums of gas nearby might have caused quite a "bang", but for the alert resident who called Town Police at 7.55 p.m.

Another incident was the overturning of a mail box on Dunver Road, on Hallowe'en night, Oct. 30th.

A 12 yr. old girl, resident of Maple St. was reported missing on Saturday evening. The young girl's father called police at 11.15 to report his daughter had failed to arrive home. However, shortly before midnight the girl was located at the home of a friend where she had perhaps not realized the lateness of the hour. All's well that ends well.

Large Attendance Anticipated For Pastor Johnson's Talk

By Edith Bate

The evening of Nov. 9th will probably prove to be the one in which attendance records will be broken in this area.

The interest shown by a great number of people so far is quite remarkable.

Pastor Johnson's topic will be "The Twisted Age", and will deal with some of the problems faced today by parents and their teeners. Pastor Johnson will give his views and opinions on the subject and will have a question and answer period at the close of his talk.

Anyone may attend this meeting.

Young people from ages fifteen and up are also most welcome.

Time is 8:00 p.m. Place is the Chateauguay High School Gym — McLeod Avenue entrance.

Fire Destroys Ville de Lery Home

A fire of undetermined origin completely gutted a house on Lake St. Louis Road last Sunday night.

Situated behind the premises of Butter and Paule Realtors, the 2 1/2 storey home was burning fiercely when a call for help was sent to both Town and Centre Police and Fire Depts. at approximately 9.10 p.m.

The high winds kept the blaze going and endangered nearly properties. However the Town and Centre Fire Dept. concentrated on protecting the other homes and the fire was brought under control at 10.30.

Sgt. Gagnon of the Town Fire Dept. stated that it was surprising that no burns or injuries were suffered.

It is believed that the home was unoccupied at the time.

Chief Poissant was in charge of the Volunteer Fire Dept. of Ville de Lery.

The Sunshine Gospel Singers

(By Fergus Horsburgh)

All members of the Sunshine Gospel Singers are Chateauguay residents, and all are members of St. Andrews' United Church Choir. The group has been singing together for one year, and entertains at Church functions in Chateauguay, on the Lakeshore and in surrounding municipalities.

Their audiences enjoy the obvious enthusiasm with which this group sings the old Gospel Songs and Negro Spirituals. They entertained recently at Chalmer's United Church in Verdun. Valois United Church and Crawford Park United Church. In the next few weeks they will be appearing at Victoria Hall in Westmount, at Roxborough United Church, at Vetville in Chateauguay, and at the Women's dinner of St. Andrew's United Church on November 24th.

The group consists of Marion Kemp, who plays the Spanish and Hawaiian guitars and the ukelele, Judy Frigon, Nelda Murdock, Alison Gilbert and Elizabeth Allman, all of whom play the Hawaiian guitar. A recent addition, who is the sole male member of the group is Lee Gilbert, and he provides the bass notes by means of a "gut bucket".

ELECTION CAMPAIGN:-

Toastmasters Host Confrontation Meeting of Candidates

(By Fergus Horsburgh)

Somehow the Federal Election campaign seemed to be by-passing Chateauguay — up to last Monday night. On that night four of the leading candidates for election as the Federal member from Beauharnois-Salaberry mounted the same platform under the auspices of the Chateauguay Toastmasters Club No. 3006.

Toastmaster President John Greig was Chairman of the meeting, assisted by Toastmaster of the Evening and Moderator Gilles Germain. Accompaying Mr. Greig at the head table were N.D.P. candidate John Williams, Rhinoceros candidate Denis Bosse, complete with a genuine? rhinoceros horn, 'Liberal candidate Gerard Banville, Mr. M. Rudner, 61 District Governor of the Toastmasters, Progressive Conservative candidate Dr. J. C. Le Veque and official Liberal Party candidate and incumbent Member of Parliament Mr. Gerald Laniel. Toastmaster officials participating in the evening's organization were Mr. Walter Figsby—Timer, Mr. Bruce Tobin — Grammarian and General Evaluator Mr. Roland Thauvette, Alderman of the Town of Chateauguay Heights.

By prior agreement of the candidates present, only three of the main parties present had their cases stated by Toastmasters. Mr. Keith Jeffrey spoke on behalf of the Liberal Party, Mr. Fern Hellemans for the Progressive Conservatives and Mr. Desmond Harwood for the New Democratic Party. The estimated 150 audience was reminded that these three Toastmasters had accepted their respective assignments as such, and the political speeches they made did not necessarily reflect their personal views.

Main interest in the evening centred on the question and answer period, when each candidate in turn answered questions submitted in writing by members of the audience.

Considering the fact that the candidates were rivals in a campaign which has not been noted for its objectivity, the four contenders conducted themselves with some dignity towards each other. There was, however, evidence of a local quarrel between factions supporting two Liberal candidates.

Mr. Laniel, in response to a question described the dilemma faced by the Federal Government in imposing on the Caughnawaga Indians the passage of Highway 3. Mr. Laniel indicated that discussions were underway to provide adequate compensation to the Indians for expropriation of land in connection with construction of the Seaway.

Mr. Le Veque stoutly defended Conservative Chief John G. Diefenbaker as a man of honesty, integrity, authority and dignity. Mr. Le Veque's remarks were warmly applauded.

Mr. Bosse, although apparently conceding that he was unlikely to be able to form a Government on the morning of 9th. November, nevertheless was not sparing on the matter of promises. "Promises, Promises and Promises are my platform", said Mr. Bosse, "there is no promise which my party will not make". (Loud Applause — or as Sir Winston Churchill once corrected a report on one of his meetings — Loud and Prolonged Applause). If applause is a true barometer of the political weather on November 8th., the opposing candidates should gracefully concede the election NOW.

N.D.P. Candidate John Williams strongly denied allegations that his party would seek to end the Monarchy or nationalize the Bell Telephone Company. Mr. Williams, in declaring himself to be of Indian blood stated forcefully "We are British. Why would we abolish the Monarchy?

Each candidate, to end an enlightening evening, stated his own and his party's case in brief speeches.

On a personal basis, I was most disappointed that my question to the Rhinoceros Party candidate was not raised — "What is the Rhino view on the Flat Earthist Society?"

PERSPECTIVE:

This Senseless Election

(By Russ Faughnan)

It is pretty hard to tell from current political activity, that we are less than a week away from a national election. When the Prime Minister of Canada dissolved parliament almost two months ago, the country was just about divided into three groups. The first thought it was a grand idea and that we really needed a new government. The second thought it was a terrible idea and that things were just fine as they were. The third group were completely confused and — or couldn't care less. An election usually divides the country in two. In this instance, it seems that we are not only divided into three, but the third group (above) seemed to be in the majority.

This election could set a new record for total votes cast. But it will be a new low, not a new high. Where are the issues? Where is the great need for new and dynamic statesmen? More to the point, where are the dynamic statesmen, new or old? On the one hand, we have a man who is probably the best foreign minister in the world. The trouble is we made him our Prime Minister. On the other hand we have a great Orator, a speaker in the Billy Graham tradition. The trouble here is that while he says it beautifully, what does he say? On our Canadian political body we have three other hands. Each with rather less than five fingers. They have their good and bad points but are going nowhere and so do not deserve our serious consideration.

Every vote in every election should have a definite purpose. That purpose should be to elect a person for whom the vote was cast. Any other motive is shameful and a complete waste of what should be a precious privilege. But, in this election, what choice do we have? Can we cast our vote to further national unity? Can our vote give us a stronger government? Can it even give us a better government? The politicians presently in the thick of a so called campaign are certainly not giving any answers to these questions. There are no answers. Soon there will be no questions.

Must it be this way? Are all future elections doomed to be called on political whim and decided on public indifference? It seems to me that what we need, first and foremost, is a whole new crop of politicians. A young and vigorous breed who are not satisfied with 'the way things are" and who do not say "me too" to any political innovation. Men who can create an issue out of their own silk and who have the ability to sell it to the public.

Anything. Anything would be better than the current "nothing" campaign.

Bachelors Beware

(By Russ Faughnan)

Bachelors may get some unpleasant shocks on arrival at the Pearly Gates. On November 5th and 6th., the renowned Stagemasters of Chateauguay present Ronald Neillor's ideas on the rewards of Bachelorhood in his play, "The Bride and the Bachelor".

One of the funniest plays to grace the amateur stage in a long time, it is being directed by the well known Margaret Soar — a mistress of the art of presenting Comedy. Last seen in her television role in the spring, Margaret is now gaily cracking the whip through final rehearsals.

The excellent stage of St. Willibrord's School will do justice to the completely new scenery now being constructed by the group. As the Stagemasters' reputation has grown, so has its audiences. To be sure of a seat, get your tickets early. And discover for yourself just what can happen to a Bachelor with a thousand pound baby.

Chateauguay Gleaner On Trans-Continental Journey

by Fergus Horsburgh

Mr. Syd Mitchell, a name well known to Gleaner readers, told me a good story about the Gleaner last weekend when we met during Scrambled Names award-winning ceremonies.

Following perusal in the Mitchell home, their copy of The Gleaner is mailed to Mrs. Mitchell's father, Mr. Herb Pugsley, a retired inspector of the B.C. Electric Co. in Vaucouver. Mr. Pugsley, at 86 years young is the only living member of the Canton Lodge's precision drill team of some fifty years ago. From Herb, The Gleaner goes to young brother Ed in North Vancouver. Ed is an author who amongst other works helped to compile the Anthology of British Columbia in that province's Centennial year.

From North Vancouver, the Chateauguay Gleaner progresses to Ed's daughter, Mrs. Phyllis Hicks, in Los Angeles. After that there is no formal record, but Mrs. Mitchell tells me that our Chateauguay Gleaner goes on a family tour of relatives in the Los Angeles area.

I would like to end this little saga with personal best wishes to Doris' father Herb, whom I hope to look up and interview personally either next summer or next but one.

Chateauguay News Notes

By Fergus Horsburgh

In last week's notes, the writer was unaware of the exacte location of Arthur St. All is well now — it is the first street past Parkview Blvd. looking towards Ste. Philomene.

The Municipal election in Ward 6 of Chateauguay Centre will be held Monday, Nov. 8th — 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. Location is St. Paul's School on St. Joseph Blvd. Returning officer is Sarto Blais, Secretary of the election is Laurier Legault. Three candidates are running.

Chateauguay Centre were recipients of a special citation for their efforts in pedestrian safety. See story elsewhere in this issue.

Overnight parkers have had ninety warnings so far this season from Centre police. The by-law prohibiting overnight parking will be enforced particularly during the coming snowy season. To quote part of by-law 252 article 53 "motor vehicles parked for more than three hours from 1 a.m. to 7 a.m. will be towed away at owners' expense during snowstorms."

Town of Chateauguay Police report fourteen minor accidents in their area during the month of October.

Town Police received a call at 1.55 a.m. Oct. 29th to "referee" a fight outside the Riverview Hotel. The pugilists were dispatched in the general direction of their homes in Caughnawaga

On Oct. 27th at 9:50 a.m. Town Police received a call through Bell Telephone Co. to investigate a home accident on Hamilton Ave., Heights. Mrs. Evelyn Balfour was painfully injured while attempting to clean and/or oil a motor on a sump pump in the basement of her home. Taken to the Medical Center, she was treated for an open nose fracture and cuts to her forehead, and face by Dr. Desrochers and then transferred to Montreal General Hospital.

Oct. 24th at 1:55 a.m. two constables of the Town Police Dept. (Asselin 106 and Pregent 104) spotted a car on the new road leading from the bridge, driving in a peculiar manner. They signalled the car to stop without result. The car sped on through the stop sign at the corner of Jack and the Old Caughnawa Road and continued on at speeds up to 80 to 90 m.p.h. Two warning shots were fired — but — the driver kept on and was finally arrested at the border of the town of Caughnawaga The car had false license plates, the driver had no registration or license. There were also two cases of beer in the car. In court on Oct. 25th (Valleyfield the driver, a 20-year-old from Caughnawaga faced six charges — failing to have a license and registration, false plates, impaired driving, going thro' a stop sign, and failing to obey an officer of the law. Sentenced to time in jail and a fine of $119.00. This is the second time he has been arrested by Town Police in the past two years for a similar offence.

Oct. 31st, on Scott St. Chateauguay North, three cars were damaged when car no. 1 driving south to north hit car numbers 2 and 3 which were parked at the side of the street.

That was a pretty general blackout Sunday morning last, when Shawinigan reported trouble in Beauharnois. A large area in the County of Chateauguay was affected.

At a Town Council meeting on Oct. 26th, expense of $6,900.00 was approved for skating rinks for the coming season.

There will be no referendum concerning the sidewalks, etc., in front and side of the new Post Office on Vanier and Marquette. As the referendum would cost $1,500.00, a resolution was made Nov. 2nd to spend this on paving in the same area.

By-law 284 has been adopted by Town Council prohibiting the use of barbed wire in the construction of fences in the Town of Chateauguay.

Next meeting of Town Council will be Tuesday, Nov. 9th.

Our weather is unpredictable to say the least. I started out on what looked like a pretty good day on Monday to plant my tulip bulbs and in the middle of it all it started to snow so that by the time I was finished I resembled a snowman. However the tulips got planted and that's the main thing. It is still not too late to plant tulips. In fact one of the gentlemen at the nursery informed me that they could be planted as late as December 1st.

A couple of young gentlemen had birthday parties last week. Christopher Viereck of St. Andre was 8 years old on Oct. 27th. He had his friends Ricky Fabio and Mark Stafford in to help him celebrate also his brother Cornelius and sister Christina. On Sunday Oct. 31st, Gabriel Castano of Chateau Estates celebrated his 5th birthday. Gabriel's guests included his two brothers, Pedro and Francisco, his school pals, Ross Spenard, Ricky Fabio, Michael Fabio and also some friends and relatives from Montreal.

A belated happy birthday to Miss Sandra Cunningham of St. Maurice Street who celebrated the same day I did October 27th. Hope your day was a very happy one, Sandra. Mine was.

On Tuesday evening, Nov. 9th, the Brownies of the 9th Chateauguay Pack who have earned their wings will fly up to Guides during a special ceremony at the Guide meeting at Julius Richardson School.

Notices to mothers of the 9th Chateauguay Brownies

Commencing this week and every week Brownies will be held at St. Jude School gymnasium at 4 p.m. The old Brownie meeting place, the Municipal Hall, is having a complete renovating job done on it and is not available. However, when the Brownies get used to the gymn at St. Jude's they should enjoy their meetings even more. The gym is spacious and clean as well as being centrally located for most of the Brownies.

Cherry Apple Cake

3 eggs
3/4 cup Mazola oil
1 tsp. vanilla
1/2 tsp. almond extract
4 apples
1/2 cup orange juice
2 cups flour
2 tsp. baking powder
4 tablespoons cherry pie filling

Beat eggs, and sugar until thick and fluffy.

Add oil, orange juice, flavouring, then the flour combined with the baking powder.

Line an 8 X 12 cake pan with wax paper and spread half of the batter in the pan Then cover this with the sliced peeled apples, and the cherry pie filling.

Cover with the remaining batter and sprinkle with cinnamon and sugar or flaked almonds.

Bake in a 350 degree oven for 45 minutes.

Handy hints for homemakers

"Do not bleach" reads the label on many summer dresses and shirts. These are resin treated fabrics and if chlorine bleach is used on them ugly brown patches appear. If this happens, remove the stains by soaking in a solution of half ounce sodium thiosulphate and a quarter ounce of thirty-six percent acetic acid mixed in one gallon of water (Both products are sold by drug stores). This will not harm the fabric, so you can soak the garment for several hours. The reaction can be speeded if warm water is used. Rinse thoroughly after treatment. It is most important that the fabric not be rebleached with chlorine at any time, as the restoration treatment will work only once

LETTER FROM
SEIGNIORY PARK

(by FERGUS HORSBURGH)

Route Boys:
ALLAN LUSSIER

CHRIS DULLEGE
398 Montmorency 691-1683

"From Ghoulies and Ghosties
And long-leggety beasties
And things that go Bump in the night,
Good Lord, Deliver Us."

There was no deliverance to Seigniory Park homes last Saturday evening from the gruesome threats of marauding bands of fearsome and blood-curdling monsters on their annual pillage of the neighbourhood. This was the big night of the year for the wee ones — and some not so wee — celebrating Hallo we'en. Most youngsters also carried UNICEF boxes, expected and received double nomage.

On an ecumenical urge, and just for a change, my wife and I went to Morning Service at St. George's Anglican last Sunday. As we were scurrying around getting ready to go, we heard our three and a half year old daughter confiding to her young brother: "We're all going to the circus this morning." I am encouraged to recount this story by the fact that Mr. Gavin Barnett during his sermon stressed the need for modern man to find time for a quiet chuckle!

Home Owners President Ken Jones and his new executive will be meeting the membership at large for the first time at tonight (Wednesday's) general meeting at Chateau-Gai Motel. Mr. Jones stated last week-end that the membership drive over the past few weeks has been 80% successful, indicating a new high level of participation by the homeowners of Seigniory Park. Mr. Jones will be reporting to members on several meetings he has had lately with Mayor Joseph Laberge concerning the proposed footpath between Mont calm and St. Francis, among other items of importance.

Ken Jones tells me that the Town of Chateauguay Council has voted $2,300 for the erection of a skating rink close to the Transmission Line, in the vacant space between Seigniory Drive and Concordia.

Attendance at the Home Owner's Mexican Fiesta Dance is to be strictly limited to 100 persons, so inevitably some will have to be turned away. The Activities Committee feels that 100 is the maximum number who could attend without the affair becoming too crowded for comfort.

A small quantity of black leaf-mould was taken from Woodbine Park over the week end in a last-hour attempt to enrich flower and vegetable patches. This source of black gold will presumably be dried up forever with the development of the Park under the Town's $455,000 Parks By-Law.

Even as one of Pierre Berton's admirers, I have never considered the author of Comfortable Pew much of a humourist Perhaps I've underrated Mr. Berton. One of his interviews last week was billed as "Gordon Sinclair talks about Himself." When did Gordon Sinclair EVER talk on any other subject?

The little folk had a real welcome on Northern Circle where Pumpkins and other Hallowe'en symbols adorned all houses. Doors were all open and treats freely gvien to all little characters. While four of the little Finnerty children were out for their "trick or treat" little Gerald — 18 months old — was sitting on the porch floor eating as many of the goodies as he could get into his mouth.

One of the first moves in Northern Development will take place as soon as the Moore's sell their house. Wally has been transferred to Toronto — so Wally, Pat and their 5 boys will shortly be leaving. The oldtimers are going to Miss Wally, who has been one of the better ball and hockey players.

Friday nights Stars were Shirley Hill with 161, and Richard Primeau with 215 which sets a new high single for the men. Sharing the spotlight was Frank Mallett with a big 330 — a new triple for the year.

Team results were:
Ants 5, Wasps 2
Groundhogs 7, Mosquitos 0
Worms 7, Flies 0
Bees 5, Beetles 2
Hornets 7, Crickets 0
Grasshoppers 5, Shrews 2

Present Standing:

Letter to the Editor

October 21, 1965.
Chateauguay, Que.
373 St. Francis St.,

To The Editor,
Chateauguay Gleaner
Orignial sent to:
Mr. P. Gerin-Lajoie,
Minister of Education
Province of Quebec
Parliament Bldgs. Que., P.Q.
Dear Sir,

WANTED BY OUR CATHOLIC YOUTH OF CHATEAUGUAY, HELP!!!

Who is to help these students, who in my opinion especially at the grade XI level, to go on to schools of higher learning, under present conditions. Last year these students attended classes over a shopping center which has since burned down. This year these same boys and girls attend classes in shifts as there is no space available for them to attend a full day. In the case of four boys two classes overlap, these boys take one Physics class a week where they should take two. A Literature class is missed so that they can take one period of Physics. Now they are told they need trigonometry, what will they have to forgo to take it?

We were promised a prefab building for sometime in October but so far no sign of a school. Why can't the school board send the grades 10 and 11 pupils to schools in Montreal and let the pupils in grades 8 and 9 attend a full day. The Regional School Board say that funds are not available. What are those busy people doing in Quebec? Nothing!!

Mr. George Kennedy M.P. informed us that we will have a $4 million school, for the year 1967-68. But what about now!

What hope is there for these youths, how can a Grade XI student cram a day's work in a half a day? We are told to set aside a study period in the morning or in the afternoon, that's fine, what does the school board think we have been doing? How can a boy study with the disturbances of a busy household. There are 40 students in Grade XI, how many of these intend to further their studies, how can a boy attain an average of 75% which is needed to enter any college? What is there for him if he can't make it, trade school? I have nothing against trade schools, but if a boy has the intelligence, the stamina and the initiative to further his studies he deserves every chance he can get whether he lives in Montreal or Chateauguay. I have spoken to the principal of one of the high schools in Montreal and was told that it is impossible to expect even passing grades from these students. Of course we are told otherwise by our school board.

Our children need held now, today. Tomorrow will be too late. As a woman I would never speak out and make such a fuss but as a mother of seven children I have had all I can take. How about it mothers, how do you feel, do you want help for your kids?

Ruth Lussier

Ann Landers...

Answers your problems

Dear Ann Landers: Our sixth child was born six weeks ago — a Mongoloid. We are doing our best to adjust to a heartbreaking situation.

Not one member of my husband's family sent a note expressing consolation or sympathy. Not one of them bothered to pick up the phone to comfort us.

Yesterday my husband received a letter from his mother. She wrote: "Clara is too old to be having babies. She should have stopped with the last one. Five children are enough for people in your financial bracket. When I told your sister Barbara about the Mongoloid she said she had just read that older women run the risk of having abnormal children."

My husband is furious. I am sick of the whole bunch. When an abnormal child is born, what should friends and relatives say and do? — GA.

Dear Ga. " When an abnormal child is born friends and relatives should send a gift as they would for a normal child. Letters of condolence or sympathy are not in order at such a time.

Your husband's mother sounds like she could qualify as a test pilot in a broom factory. Her remarks were vicious and cruel.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a secretary who married her boss.

I was divorced when I went to work for my husband. He was married but living apart from his wife and family. They had been separated twice before and — you know the old story — trying to make a go of it for the children. I never went out with him until he was legally free.

Every time something appears in your column about a secretary having an affair with her boss, or a woman breaking up her boss' marriage, I get a clipping in the mail. I think I know who sends them. I'd like to telephone her and ask her to stop it. What is your advice? — NO HOMEWRECKER.

Dear No: Forget it. First, you aren't certain. Second, if your hunch is right you would accomplish nothing. The woman would deny it and then continue with added zest, knowing her attempts to irritate you are meeting with success. Third, he who excuses himself accuses himself.

Dear Ann Landers: The fellow I am engaged to marry is long on the lip and short on temper. Vernon lost his job last week and has not found anything yet. I am employed and make a good salary.

A few days ago Vernon picked me up at work. On the way home he was stopped for speeding. He got into a small argument with the officer and when he argues he sort of throws his arms around. I guess he accidentally hit the cop.

Vernon was given an alternative. A $120 fine or 15 days in jail. He doesn't have the money but I have offered to loan it to him. He says, "No. I don't want to take your money. I'd rather go to jail.

Ann, Vernon will one day be my husband. I don't want the father of my unborn children to have a jail record. Vernon says speeding is not a criminal offense and he would not have a jail record. Is he right? Please hurry your answer — IN LIMBO.

Dear In: When a man goes to jail it becomes a matter of record. This is called a jail record (and he's not going for a traffic offense.)

I hope Vernon will allow you to pay his fine and repay you when he can. It would be nice, too, if he learned to control his mouth and his arms.

Awkward and self-conscious? Unsure of yourself? Write for Ann Landers' booklet, "The Key to Popularity," enclosing with your request 35c in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Another belated birthday wish is extended to a good friend. Marion Houldsworth of Lang St. celebrated Friday Oct. 29th while on a short trip up to Owen Sound, Ont. Marion reported that there was quite a lot of snow on the highway north of Toronto. So bad, in fact that they had to slow down to 35 m.p.h. in a 70-mile zone for quite a few miles. Traffic was weaving about on the slippery snow-clogged roads.

Meanwhile — back here in Chateauguay we also had snow, rain and other meteorological phenomena associated with the fall season. And to round it out a little election fever.

The annual Remembrance Day Supper will be held as usual this year at Vetville for residents of that community. Preparations are well under way for the event on Thurs. Nov. 11th.

While I'm on the subject of veterans — don't forget to buy a poppy and wear it proudly.

Have you been wondering about the African violets? I spent quite a lot of time last Saturday morning and Sunday afternoon repotting many of the plants into larger pots They like crowded roots — but there does come a time when the roots start coming out the drainage holes at the bottom. I've had a few enquiries about selling them — but I don't ever. I do give them away occasionally as gifts or donate them to a good cause but to go into business is just not in my line. I'm preparing a second table with fluorescent fixture in my cellar, to accomodate more violets. I purchased clear plastic by the yard for my "tent" over the tables and it looks ever so much neater than the assorted garment bags I used originally. Also the plants show off to better advantage.

Chateauguay.

A meeting of the Adult Study Group was held on Sunday evening. Chapters 9 and 10 of the New Curriculum Adult Study Book, "Jesus Christ and the Christian Life", was the background of the discussion.

A Church Membership Class for Parents was held last Sunday evening. This class is designed especially for parents who have never been confirmed or, having received instruction in another Christian denomination, now wish to learn more of the United Church doctrine and practice of Church Membership. Infant baptism is normally to be administered only to the children of "believing parents".

Members of the Canadian Legion Branch 108 will worship at St. Andrew's next Sunday. The Annual Remembrance Day Service will be held the following Sunday, November 14th., at the Cenotaph in Chateauguay Station.

One of the Church Elders, Mr. David White, was preacher at a Layman's Service in Valleyfield United Church last Sunday. The Valleyfield pastoral charge has been without a resident minister since August. Rev. Howard Fraser is its interim minister and Chairman of the Pastoral Relations Committee.

The new climate in the world Church today does not detract from the place and importance of the Reformation, but rather emphasizes it. A healthy and relevant Church is constantly being "reformed" as it continues growing and maturing in its Christian precepts.

In 1964, 250 tons of clothing were shipped by The United Church of Canada for Overseas Relief and Inter-Church Aid. There is always a need for clothing, and for people to gather it, pack it, and ship it.

St. George's Notes

Preparations for this year's Christmas Fair are well underway.

The Handicraft Group will be having a "sneak preview" of articles made for the fair at the home of Mrs. R. Houldsworth of Lang St. This will be held this week — Friday evening from 8 to 10 p.m.

The Girls Auxiliary are meeting again on Friday evenings and having a swinging time. All girls over the age of 12 years are welcome to join this group.

The Little Helpers Annual Party was held last Saturday afternoon, Oct. 30th in the Church Hall. Attendance was at a minimum, perhaps due to the fact that Hallowe'en was also celebrated the same day.

Chess Corner

(By Fergus Horsburgh)

The Chateauguay Checkmate Club will play the C.N.R. Chess Club on January 11th., 1966, in C.N.R. headquarters on Lagauchetiere Street. Future matches are planned against Lakeshore C.C., Sun Life C.C. and Standard Structural Steel C.C.

In the return match against Beauharnois C.C., Checkmate Club emerged the winners by 4½ to 3½. Feature of the evening was the loss of Checkmate's leading player J. K. MacDonald to P. St. Onge. Mr. Horst Kargenski had a creditable win over A. Garceau.

The books are closed on another Hallowe'en and West End was well represented by ghosts, witches, harlequins, pirates and all the rest of the little people who travel around on such a night judging by the bulging sacks they had a fair share of treats. The children are to be complimented for being so well mannered.

With our three districts in the news again I sincerely hope all of you will call in your items as everyone is interested and one never knows when you might meet. Your call will be welcome.

Happy 11th birthday to Diane Langdale on November 3rd.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. G. Watt of Gendron St., on the birth of a son.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Melnichenko and daughter Rhoda were Sunday supper guests at the Laroque home on St. Louis St.

Mrs. Susan Lowe is a house guest of her son and daughter-in-law, Harold and Olive Lowe, Principale St.

Mr. Jack Egan and Miss Betty Edwards of Montreal and St. Lambert respectively visited the Frank Egan family over the week-end.

Glad to report Mr. Henry Mooney is a little better and able to watch his T.V. again.

Coming Events At St. George's Church

Workshop For Worship

Our workshop for Worship was postponed one week to enable 'fans' to watch their favourite team on November 27th. Registration forms for the Workshop will be attached to the Sunday pew leaflets for the next few Sundays. The Workshop can only accommodate a maximum of 60 persons, and applications will be dealt with on a 'first come, first registered' basis. The registration slip can be left with any of the sidesmen; registration can also be made by a telephone call to the Church office, or by letter.

The Workshop Committee has met regularly to formulate the details of the three days' study. The purpose of the meetings is to deepen our understanding of what worship is and to try and relate worship to the whole of our lives. Sessions are planned as follows:

(1) Fri., Dec. 3rd, 8-10 p.m.: The purpose of worship.
(2) Sat., Dec. 4th, 10-12 noon: Evaluation of our parish worship.
(3) Sat., Dec. 4th, 2-4 p.m.: Can anything be done to improve our own worship in the light of what we have learned of the purpose of worship?
(4) Sun., Dec. 5th a.m.: Eucharist.

Participants in the Workshop are asked to bring a box lunch on Saturday. Tea and coffee will be provided.

It is suggested that those attending the Workshop might be interested in some prior reading. Booklets for study before the Sessions will therefore be on sale at the Church. Titles are:

"A New Look at Worship" by John Kirby

"Doing the Eucharist" by Patrick Cowley.

Other suggested reading, which is available from the Diocesan Book Room:

"His Worthy Praise" (1960 Lenten Book)

"The Kingdom, the Power, and the Glory" by John Kirby.

"Anglican Public Worship", Colin Dunlop, Dean of Lincoln.

"The Book of Common Prayer" D. Harrison.

"The Worship of the Church", Massey Shepherd.

Special to the Men

Mr. Art Walker, President of the Men's Group, advises that a meeting will convene in the Church Hall on Wednesday, November 10th at 8 p.m. This is the Annual Meeting, when officers for the coming year will be elected. The active members of this group have made a memorable contribution to the life of our Church. We well remember the delicious steak barbeques; the pleasing appearance of Church and rectory grounds has been due to the group's stalwart efforts.

Plans for the winter program have to be arranged, and a cordial invitation is extended to all men of the parish to come on November 10th to help make these plans.

Christmas Fair

As indicated, the Fair will be held this year on November 13th. St. George's Christmas Fair has become a tradition in Chateauguay. Booths are now in preparation, and donations would be most welcome. All the Church Organizations will be participating.

Choir Members

Pending the appointment of a new Organist and Choir Director, Mrs. Edith Bate is playing the organ for Sunday Services. Additional members for the adult choir are needed. Anyone who is interested in using his or her talents in this way is asked to contact Mrs. Bate at 692-9453, or the Rev. Gavin Barnett.

Education In The Valley No. 4

Regulation 1 of the Minister of Education was approved by the Executive of Council on May 11th, 1965. The Minister calls this the first step in the far reaching educational reform proposed by the Parent Commission and the beginning of "Operation Education". There is no doubt as to the importance and significance of this regulation. On August 12th, 1965 an address prepared by Dr. J.H. Joly, Director of Curriculum and examinations was delivered at the annual Q.A.P.S.A. Workshop It is my intention that this column be used to acquaint our readers with the content of this regulation during the ensuing few weeks.

Whether you regard regulation No. 1 as 'Evolutionary' or 'Revolutionary' depends upon your point of view. You will find it revolutionary if you have hither to assume that the teachers and parents and local administrators should passively accept the directives imposed upon them by a higher authority that knows better than they do what is good for the children admitted to their charge, but evolutionary if you believe that the local authorities and their professional staff must play a decisive role in planning and organizing their own educational programme. Since all of you, as far as I know, belong to the latter category, the new regulation may possibly have given you a jolt, but only the kind of jolt that adds its own impetus to your existing momentum.

The purpose of the regulation is to enable the schools to provide for individual differences so that every pupil may proceed at his own rate in acquiring the education that suites his own requirements. Since this is the aim of the changes that many of you in recent years have been insinuating into your schools I do not have to sell you the idea. The Department of Education expects to bring your aspirations to fruition but to do so not by imposing its authority on the boards and on the teachers but by entrusting them with the ultimate responsibility for planning the scope and the application of the changes they recognize as needed in their own schools. The full significance of the regulation, which re-organizes the elementary and secondary program, can best be appreciated by considering it section by section. Sections 1 to 4 apply to the elementary and Sections 5 to 7 to the secondary course. Section 8 specifies how the regulation is to be applied.

To be admitted to the first year of the elementary course a pupil must attain the age of six before the first day of October of the school year then in process. During the school years 1965-66, 1966-67 and 1967-68, however, it will be permissible for a school board to admit to the first year a pupil who will have attained the age of six years before the first of January.

The Royal Commission recommended that children under six years of age should not be admitted to Grade 1. It also recommended the organization of Kindergartens for children under six. The two recommendations go together. At present only about 14% of Catholic children and 58% of Protestant children attend public Kindergartens. The application of this section of the regulation is likely to result in a wide demand for additional Kindergartens. Where boards now admit to Grade I those who are not six years old until after October 1st, that will cease to be possible in 1968. If these boards do not now provide Kindergartens, they may be expected to do so in 1968 for all children who are 5 years old by October 1. By raising the age of admission to Grade I three successive annual stages they will escape having to cope in any single year with an unmaneagable incursion of five year olds in Kindergarten, accompanied by a substantial decrease for that year, but only for that year, in the Grade 1 enrolment.

All boards must now begin to study the implications of this section for their own schools in regard to equipment and personnel. Since the value of a Kindergarten depends largely on the teacher, the highest priority must be given to the pre-service and in-service training of Kindergarten teachers, who need special qualifications. It is particularly important, if the school is to provide for individual differences, that children who are in any degree exceptional should be identified at the earliest possible moment so that they may receive without delay, the remedial treatment they need. A pre-school programme is essential for these children, and the proper orientation of the Kindergarten staff is also essential if the school is to discover the children's needs in time.

A large proportion of Protestant children are now admitted to Grade I if they are six before January 1st and into Kindergarten if they are five before January 1st. Since it is not intended to oblige boards to exclude from Kindergarten, because they are too young, any children who would formerly have been admitted, it will be necessary for the boards concerned to consider what reorganization that their present Kindergarten program will be called for by the new regulation. The effect of Sections 2 and 3 of the new regulation will be to enable children of average intelligence to enter Grade VII at the age of 12 even though they may not have been admitted to Grade I until they were nearly seven.

Section II

The elementary course of study shall extend over six years. Promotion to the secondary course becomes obligatory after seven years. Under exceptional circumstances, a pupil may be promoted to the secondary course after five years if he is deemed to be suitably qualified. Most pupils may be expected to remain in the elementary school for six years but, individual differences call for an elastic interpretation of this provision. Some pupils will stay for seven years and some will leave after five, but those who stay longer than six years will not repeat a grade, and those who finish earlier will not have skipped a grade

A conceivable arrangement would be to divide the whole elementary programme into short units of work so planned so that they could all be completed by the average pupil in six years. Slow learners might not complete them in seven years but would enter Grade VII at the point where they left off in Grade VI and take some or all subjects at the preparatory level. Some fast learners could finish the programme in five years. The application of this section of the regulation will mean the substitution of an ungraded school in continuous progress for the rigid structure of the present system.

Mere acceleration, however will not meet the needs of the children. And enriched curriculum is indispensable. Many hundreds of enriched programmes for the gifted have been developed in the United States alone during the past forty years, but the great majority of them have now been scrapped, and the Department does not propose to contribute to this collection. No provision for enrichment can go very far beyond the vision of the teachers, and unless the teachers have participated in the planning, you cannot hope to meet the special needs of the pupils concerned. The teacher must have a broad enough background to capitalize on the individual children's interests and talents while guiding them towards a clearly conceived goal. Creativity is essentially spontaneous, but just as there are ways by which it can be suppressed, so there are quite definite ways of promoting its development. The vast recent literature of the subject will provide an abundance of ideas for projects and techniques but it also seems to settle the question that the initiative and resourcefulness of the gifted teacher must always play the major role in designing complementary activities for the gifted child.

Director General.

Two nice long holidays! Plus one weekend! That's what everyone has looked forward to since September.

Last Friday afternoon the Junior High had their first dance. There wasn't such a great turnout, but they expect more at future dances, at which times bands will also be playing.

The Public Speaking Club is right into its activities as well. There is a mock-election on Nov. 8th and all students in the school have the right and obligation to vote. After the election the club hopes to have a mock parilament throughout the year if possible.

The Drama Club, as I have mentioned before, is also very busy with Variety Show. It's coming soon, remember on Nov. 12. This show promises to be bigger and even better than that of previous years. So come, one? Come all!

May I remind you to get your Students' Council card. You save on every activity in

Parents Night at Hemmingford High School

HEMMINGFORD — On Thursday evening, Oct. 28, the parents of students attending Hemmingford High School were invited to meet the teachers. A fair number of interested parents accepted the invitation but there certainly was not the number hoped for.

Private discussions were held between parent and teacher in the various classrooms and at 9 o'clock all were invited into the Assembly Hall where discussion groups were formed under the guidance of a teacher. Circulated among the group was the list of 'Rules for Students', drawn up by the Principal. Lively discussions took place in each group with Secretaries recording the findings of each. These findings were later read out when the meeting reconvened and each point was discussed with the Principal. Among the many topics discussed were the following: the providing of milk and/or hot soup for the mid-day meal, recreation, extra-curricular activities, the time allotted for eating the inschool meal midday, smoking and the note required from the parent explaining a student's absence. Altogether an interesting and thought-provoking discussion.

An interesting addition to this Parents night was the 'Publicity Table' organized by members of the Hemmingford W.I. Arranged on tables in the entrance hall were Branch programmes, the local and Provincial W.I. History, F.W.I.C. and A.C.W.W. papers, copies of Macdonald College Journal, the Golden Jubilee programme and many other publications having to do with the W.I. On the wall behind were posters giving details of Branch, County, Provincial and World membership figures, information on the various projects in which the W. I. is interested and, a little closer to home, detailed information on the projects which the local W.I. run in connection with the school and the approximate cost of these projects to the W.I. over the past ten years. On yet another table were shown the Table Loom owned by the local branch and samples of the weaving done by a member after taking a course in this art, there were ceramic mosaic trays and stands and on the walls were hung pictures painted by members. All these crafts have been taught locally by W.I. technicians from Macdonald College and were shown in order to demonstrate the influence the W.I. has on the cultural life of the community. On duty at the display were three members of the Hemmingford Branch, Mrs. C. Petch, first President and Charter member of the Branch, Mrs. Carl Harris, County Convener of Publicity and Mrs. J. H. l'Espérance, Branch Convener of Education, all of whom enjoyed chatting with parents interested in the aims and objects of the W.I. and particularly in the close alliance of the W.I. with the school.

At the close of the discussion period coffee and doughnuts were served by the Staff. The next parents night will be held early in the new year when, it is hoped, the guest speaker will be Dr. Jane Catterson, Reading Consultant to the Department of Education.

Guernsey Breeders Hold Annual Meeting

The annual meeting of the Guernsey Breeders Association was held on Saturday, October 30th at West Shefford. The two well-known local Guernsey breeders, Mr. Wilmer Sample, President of the Association for 1955 and Mr. Delphis Duteau, past President and Director, together with Mrs. Sample and Karen and Mrs. Duteau, motored over to the Townships where the first part of the programme consisted of visits to other well-known Guernsey herds. The tour started at the farm of Norbert Dunlavey, then on to A. T. W. Farr and winding up at the farm of Floyd Sandborn. The annual meeting followed at which outgoing President Wilmer Sample was named a Director and Henry Schroder was acclaimed President for 1966. Interest in Guernsey cattle was increasing, said the President, and urged members to support the membership campaign and so increase the strength of the Association.

Dinner at the Bromont Motel ended a most enjoyable day.

Hallowe'en Dance

The annual dance, organized by the Hemmingford Lodge of the Order of the Eastern Star, was held on Friday evening, at the United Church Hall. There was a good attendance but not as many adults in costume as in previous years. However the children and young people more than made up for this. Their fancy costumes were varied and, in several cases, very ingenious, the judges must surely have had a difficult task in choosing the winners. Mr. Alister Somerville was a very able Master of Ceremonies and the judges were Mr. and Mrs. George Hogle and Mrs. Keith Hogle of Mooers, N.Y. The Eastern Ramblers band provided the music.

The winners in the various classes were as follows:— Girls, 8 years and under, Most original, Joanne Laurie, Hockey Player. 1st. Witch, Elizabeth Greer, 2nd. Cinderella, Karen Keddy, 3rd. Hemmingford Playground Association

The annual Hallowe'en dance of the Hemmingford Playground Association (their only appeal for financial assistance) was held on Saturday evening, October 30th, at the Frontier Inn. It was an outstanding success, attended by more than 250, with quite a number in costume. The judging of the costumes commenced around 10.30 p.m. (much to the relief of the wearers who were beginning to wilt under the rubber and plastic masks!) and the judges were Mr. and Mrs. Alex Stewart and Mrs. Eileen Drummond; they had a most difficult task. The winners were:- Men, most original, Brian Goodfellow of California, a Mexican, 1st. Shirley Hawksby of Mooers, Pumpkin Head, 2nd. Albert Keeton, of Hemmingford, Eskimo (in authentic Eskimo dress), 3rd. Richard Leduc, Lachine, the slightly befuddled Hunchback Ladies, most original, Norma Boyse of Lacolle, a Lampshade, 1st. Joyce Ellerton, Hemmingford, as Cleopatra, 2nd. Wanda Kingsbury, Hemmingford, Hula girl, 3rd. Beulah Hogle of Mooers as Grandma Moses. The winners in the Couples class were Margaret Keddy and Aileen O'Connor of Hemmingford, Zulu Girls, David Simpson and Shirley Enderle of Hemmingford as Lemay and Rivard! and Edwin Keddy and Bob Curry of Hemmingford as the Indian Squaw and the Merry Widow. Three door prizes were drawn and won by Louise Lavallee, L. Patenaude and Raymond Prevost. M.C. for the evening was Mr. Bob Laurin, President of the Association, assisted by Mr Gerry Ouimet. After the prizes had been distributed Mr. Ouimet, in a few brief words, thanked all attending for their support of this very worthy project and all who had contributed, financially and otherwise, to the success of the evening. Dancing continued to the music of Les Parisiennes.

IN AND OUT OF TOWN

Mr. F. Matheson, Principal of Hemmingford High School and Mr. A. Brockman, Principal of Huntingdon High School, motored this past week-end to Ste. Adele for a meeting of the Quebec Association of Protestant School Boards and Administrators. Guest speaker for the evening session was Miss Charlotte Whitton of Ottawa.

Mr. Ronald Deery and Miss Elizabeth Proulx, Miss Susan Deery and Miss Gail Hamilton (from Macdonald College) were week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Deery.

Allan McKough from Regianopolis College, Kingston, enjoyed the long week-end at home.

Mrs. L. E. Keeton of Wessington, Derbyshire, England, is visiting her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Keeton.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Paré and Mr. and Mrs. Tom Cleland were weekend-visitors in Hemmingford.

Mr. Howard Webb and John have moved to Chateauguay. John is attending High School there and is keenly missed at Hemmingford High. Both Mr. Webb and his son will be missed by the community, many of us have cause to remember the cheery smile and the willing, helping hand in various projects. Good luck in your new work, Howard and success in your final year John.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Wing (Shirley Edgerton) and Pat visited Mrs. Clayton Edgerton over the week-end.

Mr. Walter Keddy underwent an operation on Tuesday last for the removal of a cataract. He is in the Queen Elizabeth Hospital in Montreal and the latest word is that he is feeling quite comfortable and expects to be home in about ten days.

Hallowe'en

An evening that is primarily for children is used by others as a means for nothing more than hooliganism. In the garb of old clothes and behind a mask, they need both, for they do not have the intestinal fortitude to do what they have done at any other time. I refer to those who threw a stone through the upper window of Mr. Percy Johnson's aluminum door, and did the same thing at the home of Mr. Rene Taillefer, where both upper windows on the same type of door were broken.

Valleyfield Men Attended Joint Regional C.N.R -Air Canada Express Freight Event

More than 30 Canadian National Freight agents, each accompanied by three or four leading freight customers from 25 cities surrounding Montreal were guests of Air Canada and Canadian National Railways recently. Highlight of the day was a trip by DC-8 jet from Montreal over the Eastern Townships. The flight followed an extensive tour of Air Canada air freight and air express facilities at Montreal International Airport. — Seen here in the Air Cargo Terminal (from left to right) are: Mr. F. C. Pott, Davidson Chemicals, Mr J McDonald, Traffic Manager — National Silicate, Mr. J Williams, Traffic Manager — Allied Chemicals, Mr Allan Walsh, Traffic Manager — Montreal Cottons, all of Valleyfield; Mr J. M. Langlois, Terminal Traffic Manager, Canadian National Railways and Mr. Bert Pilon, Cargo Sales Representative for Air Canada. (Air Canada Photo)

It is understandable that the police cannot be everywhere and that there are more of the others than there are of them. However, let us hope that the culprits who threw the stones, will eventually be apprehended, and that when they stand before the bar of justice, their sentence will be something they will not soon forget.

LOCAL JEHOVAH'S WITNESSES TO ATTEND ASSEMBLY

Witnesses of Jehovah in Huntingdon, Ormstown and surrounding areas have been invited to take part in their autumn semi-annual assembly which convenes in St. Lambert, from November 5 to 7, at the Chambly County High School, Green Avenue.

Mr. M. Kowalenko, presiding minister of Jehovah's witnesses in this area, said, "Almost all the congregation have arranged to be on hand for the opening session on Friday at 7 p.m. to hear a talk on the convention theme: Increasing Our Praise to Jehovah.

"However, the Saturday night program will be of particular assistance to us. Our purpose in calling uninvited on people from house to house is often misunderstood and misinterpreted by opponents of our work. So the talk and demonstrations on the subject, 'Showing Discernment in the Ministry', will permit us to observe the proper attitude and the kind, tactful approach to people that will enable us to really aid them through our ministry.

"The high point of our assembly will be the public talk on Sunday at 3 p.m. when Mr. L. Saumur, district supervisor of Jehovah's witnesses in Quebec speaks on the subject, What Does The Resurrection of the Dead Mean for You and Yours?

Mr. H. Mitchell of Huntingdon, who will be attending with his wife, will serve in the administration of the convention in the Volunteer Service department. Mr. Kowalenko of Hemmingford will share in the convention program on Sunday, when he presides over a model group Bible study.

Miss Diane Barras Now Coach For YMCA Basketball Team

The following concerns Miss Diane Barras, daughter of Mrs. Ida Barras and granddaughter of Mrs. Lindsay Watson of Athelstan, Que. Miss Barras is this year's basketball coach for the YWCA Women's Open Basketball League team, in Montreal.

Ask any basketball fan and they will tell you that "the winningest team" in the Women's Open Basketball League is the YWCA team.

And with good reason too, for the "Y" team has won the championship for the past seven seasons, 'and we hope to make this one the eight", said Miss Diane Barras, new coach for the senior and intermediate "Y" teams.

Miss Barras has been on all but one of the championship teams. A basketballer from high school days at Quebec High and later at Queen's University, she got her first coaching job at Marguerite Bourgeois college, where she taught for two years.

However, Miss Barras feels that this year there is an increase in enthusiasm among the younger set here for basketball. "There is a lot of young blood at the Y now," she declared.

"I will have chosen all 24 players by the end of this month" declared Miss Barras. "We have two teams, and they play about an equal number of games in the "double round robin". The first match is November 10th.

For Miss Barras, basketball seems to turn up wherever she goes. Although a recent trip out West was taken because she wanted to see the West, she ended up on the Richmond, B.C., basketball team.

Miss Barras herself is a medical technician in the Medical Arts Building.

The final service for the summer months, was held at Beechridge Presbyterian Church, on Thanksgiving Sunday For some time now services have been held every second Sunday during the summer. These will resume in June 1966. Each year the afternoon services are better attended and for this the members of the congregation are indeed grateful.

Welcomed guests at the Thanksgiving service were the Rev. Mr. Allan's parents, also Mrs. Allan's parents. Mr. Allan, Sr., who is an Elder in his own church in Ontario, served Communion with Mr. Carpenter, an Elder from Maplewood Presbyterian Church in Chateauguay, to 69 people.

The Rev. Mr. Doran of St Edward's Presbyterian Church Beauharnois with Mrs. Doran and their son, the Rev. G. Ficko of Hemmingford United Church and the Rev. Mr. Loree of St. Paul's United Church, Ormstown were also in attendance. Beechridge is always fortunate in having a goodly number of ministers of the Gospel at the special services and the congregation is sincerely appreciative for their interest.

There was no special choir for the service but the members of the congregation were in fine voice. It is a great joy to the few members of Beechridge congregation to receive such loyal friends year after year.

Each year the collection is donated to a worthy cause. This year, on the suggestion of the Rev. Mr. Allan, the sum of $51 has been sent to the Budget Account of the Presbyterian Church of Canada. The collection was taken up each Sunday by the young men of the congregation.

55th Wedding Anniversary Celebration

MR. AND MRS. C. W. STACKHOUSE

A delightful and friendly "At Home", arranged by a few close friends, was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Stackhouse, Bay Street, Ormstown, on the afternoon and evening of October 27th., when they celebrated their 55th Wedding Anniversary.

They were married at Riverfield in 1910 and have lived in Montreal and St. Margaret, Quebec, most of their married life. They came to live in Ormstown about 10 years ago.

Their home was tastefully decorated with gold and white streamers and bells and flowers in abundance, including a basket from his sister and family in Moncton, N.B., who were unable to be present. The tea table was centered with an anniversary cake, made in the form of a book, and lighted gold tapers.

Mr. and Mrs. Stackhouse were the recipients of a corsage and boutonierre of white carnations from Mrs. Eddie Hooker, who, in 1910, was their flower girl, also many gifts, cards, and telephone calls including two from Aberdeen, Washington and Ottawa.

Miss Flora Currie received the visitors on arrival and all registered their attendance in the special guest book.

Mr. and Mrs. Stackhouse, at the close of the evening, each voiced their heartfelt appreciation to all who had helped in any way, to make this a memorable occasion for them.

La Fédération des Oeuvres de Charité du diocèse se réunit

La réunion annuelle de l'Assemblée générale du Conseil du Bien-Etre de Valleyfield a eu lieu le mercredi, 27 octobre, au Centre Le Royer, Salaberry-de-Valleyfield.

Une quarantaine de délégués des oeuvres de bien-être, membres de la Corporation assistaient à la réunion.

En l'absence de M. Fernand Leduc, président du Conseil, retenu ailleurs par ses fonctions de commissaire d'écoles à Châteauguay, M. Roland Frenette de Terrasse-Vaudreuil, vice-président du Conseil dirigea la réunion.

Il y eut présentation:
a) du rapport des activités de l'année 1964-1965;
b) du rapport financier;
c) des résultats finals de la campagne 1965.

Au sujet de la campagne, le coordonnateur général, M. Roland Pomerleau, annonça que la Fédératidon avait recueilli la somme de $93,626.42 lors de la campagne de mars dernier, soit 77.2% de l'objectif fixé.

L'Assemblée a exprimé le voeu que le Conseil du Bien-Etre "ressuscite" le comité formé il y a quelques années pour étudier la question des personnes âgées dans le diocèse. Les comités qui existent présentement dans certaines régions, ainsi que le comité formé par l'Association des Travailleurs Sociaux du diocèse seraient heureux de collaborer au travail de ce comité.

A la suite de certaines expériences malheureuses vécues dans le diocèse, l'Assemblée est d'avis que le Conseil du Bien-Etre devrait être avisé lorsqu'une oeuvre qui touche au domaine du bien-être s'installe ou désire s'installer dans le diocèse. Le Conseil du Bien-Etre pourra voir à ce moment-là à ce que les normes règlementaires dans ce domaine soient respectées, et les intérêts de la population protégés. Le Secrétariat de la Province devrait nous faire part de toute demande de permis d'établissement d'organismes de ce genre dans nos régions.

L'Assemblée adopte un vote de remerciements à l'adresse de M. Louis Beaupré, m.s.s. ancien directeur du Service Social Diocésain pour la précieuse collaboration qu'il a apportée au Conseil du Bien-Etre durant son séjour parmi nous.

De plus l'Assemblée souligna avec infiniment de regret la disparition d'un dévoué collaborateur en la personne de M. J.A. René Corbeil, de l'Institut National Canadien pour les Aveugles, décédé dernièrement.

Le Conseil d'administration dont le terme d'office expirait avec la réunion générale, fut réélu pour un autre terme.

Il a été annoncé aussi qeu M. Jean-Charles Vallée, homme d'affaire et maire de Dorion, sera le président général de la campagne 1966 de la Fédération des Oeuvres de Charité du diocèse. Cette campagne aura lieu en mars prochain.

M. François Cleyn, industriel de Huntingdon et président de la campagne 1965 de la Fédération était le conférencier. Il fut présenté par M. J. Valérien Montpetit, vice-président du Conseil du Bien-Etre et président du Service Social Diocésain et remercié par Me Georges-André Meloche, ex-président de la Fédération.
