BIG FIRE IN RUTLAND, VT.

Six Large Blocks Are Destroyed.

LOSS $750,000—DULUTH HAS MILLION DOLLAR FIRE—ROCKVILLE CHURCH BURNED.

Rutland, Vt., February 19.—Six large brick blocks in the business section of the city, occupied by nearly a score of firms, and many smaller tenants, were destroyed by fire yesterday. The loss is estimated at three-quarters of a million dollars. The fire went beyond the control of the local department, and help was summoned from Whitehall, N.Y., and Burlington. The Whitehall Company reached the city in time to be of great assistance, but the Burlington Company did not appear.

The fire broke out shortly before 4 o'clock yesterday morning, and raged with great violence, razing block after block, finally being stopped at two heavy walls.

The fire was discovered in the Ripley Block on Merchants' Row and soon extended to the Meade Block, directly south and then to the Baker Block, at the corner of Center street. Then, swinging around the corner, it took in the Tuttle Block on Center street; this is a six storey brick building, having on the farther side a heavy party wall, which stopped further progress in that direction. North of the Ripley block the flames destroyed the Crampton Block, occupied by the Combination Cash Store Company and in the rear a block on Willow street, owned and also occupied by the Combination Cash Company. The party wall on the farther side of the Crampton Block stopped the fire progress north on Merchant's Row.

$1,060,000 FIRE IN DULUTH.

Duluth, Minn., February 19. — The wooden working house of the Duluth grain elevator plant of F. H. Peavy & Company of Minneapolis Saturday night was burned to the ground with its contents, consisting of about 1,000,000 bushels of grain, principally wheat. Loss, $1,000,000, insured.

BROCKVILLE CHURCH BURNED.

Brockville, Ont., February 19. — A disastrous fire broke out Saturday afternoon in Wall street Methodist church, during the absence of the sexton. It originated in the basement, under the auditorium, and, with a good start before the alarm was sounded, had enveloped the southern side, extending to the roof when the fire brigade reached the spot. The blaze, however, was confined strictly to the main building and after a stubborn fight it was got under control. A section of the floor, gallery, roof and partitions was gutted and much damage done to interior furnishings, including magnificent organ.

WILL ENTER COUNTER PROTEST.

Mr. Hunt Returns From Western Trip.

CALLED HOME BY PROTESTING OF COMPTON ELECTION.

Mr. A. B. Hunt, M.P. for Compton, was in Winnipeg on his way to California, when he received news that the protest had been fyled against his election.

He changed his plans and started for home, reaching here Friday night.

It is understood the principal object of Mr. Hunt's immediate return was for the purpose of entering a counter protest, which has to be done by the candidate personally, and within fifteen days.

WILL OF E. B. EDDY.

Ottawa, February 19.—The will of the late E. B. Eddy has been probated. There is nothing in it to ascertain the value of the estate. He left $7,000 to Protestant institutions in Ottawa, $5,000 of which was to the Protestant Hospital. The big manufacturing establishments remain as they are for ten years, in which time it is hoped the results of the big fire will be overcome. In the meantime the widow gets the house and personal, son gets $1,000 a year. A grandson gets $1,000 a year. Four partners are given an interest in the business. W. H. Rowley, J. J. Gormully and Geo. Milne get 200 shares, and S. S. Cushman 150 shares in the company. At the end of ten years the estate will be divided and the widow will get 5-8; the grandson 1-8, and the above partners 2-8. It is understood the partners get their shares as an incentive to build the business up.

JOHN McCALL DEAD.

EX-PRESIDENT OF NEW YORK LIFE, PASSES AWAY.

New York, February 19. — John A. McCall, until recently president of the New York Life Insurance Company, died at 5.35 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the Laurel House in Lakewood, N.J., where he was taken three weeks ago in the hope that the change might benefit his health which had suffered a breakdown two months before.

Mr. McCall had been unconscious since about one o'clock yesterday morning, excepting possibly for a brief period yesterday afternoon, when he recognized his wife, who was bending over him.

THE KING OPENS PARLIAMENT.

Delivered Speech From Throne To-Day.

FORECASTS SOME IMPORTANT LEGISLATION.

London, Feb. 19. — (Special)—King Edward to-day opened Parliament with usual brilliant ceremonies.

In the speech from the throne His Majesty expressed satisfaction at continued peaceful relations in Europe, especially with France.

He also announced the appointment of a commission to go to South Africa and examine the question of franchises.

Among items of legislature program are an education bill, trades' disputes bill, workmen's compensation act, repeal of Irish coercion act, etc.

ELECTIONS IN QUEBEC TO-DAY.

CONTESTS IN TWENTY-TWO WARDS OF THE CITY.

Quebec, Feb. 19.—To-day is polling day for the municipal elections in this city, and seldom has there been such interest ever manifested in a municipal campaign. During the last term of office of Hon. S. N. Parent, a party was formed in this city against Quebec's ex-mayor and his friends. This party was backed up by L'Evenement, and soon by Le Soleil, and the result was that what is now called a "reform party" has been formed. Out of the thirty seats in the Council, eight aldermen were elected by acclamation, so that there is a contest in the 22 other wards.

THE DANGER OF IMPULSE

AS ILLUSTRATED IN THE SAD FATE OF A DES MOINES SATIRIST.

(From the Chicago Inter-Ocean.)

There is no reason, of course, why one, in Iowa or elsewhere, who is a doorkeeper should not also be a litterateur, or, being a litterateur, why should not also be a satirist, but there is every reason why he should not permit the pleasure of composition for the press to imperil his job.

When the desire to compose comes upon some men they forget that it may, if yielded to immoderately, interfere with their means of livelihood. A thorough understanding of this fact accounts in no small degree for the repugnance with which the average literary man regards a job whose requirements demand that he shall suppress his genius, or, at least, hold it in check, until his term of office expires.

There is nothing incongruous in the combination of doorkeeping and satirizing, if the doorkeeper will only hold back his satire until he loses or changes his job and is free to be as satirical as he pleases about the people for whom he keeps the door. If A. B. Wheeler, doorkeeper of the Iowa House of Representatives, had taken the precaution, after composing his satirical piece about the members of the House, to put it carefully away in a locked desk, or burglar-proof vault, and to forget it until a change in circumstances might warrant its appearance in print, he would now be a happier man. But he was moved, by impulse, and the result is one that a cooler thinker might easily have anticipated. The House of Representatives has risen against him. He has been compelled to leave Des Moines. In fact he has been forced to resign his job. And all because he sent the following composition to his newspaper, the heretofore esteemed Rockwell Phonograph:

"The members of the Legislature are still so full of mirth and levity, so foxy, and so busily engaged in hugging their sides over the fact that they are back with their hands in the public crib and their snouts in the public trough, without having to be elected, that they haven't as yet got down to anything like serious business. Unless all signs fail, however, there will be something doing before the robins nest again."

The terms "mirth and levity" might have been overlooked; the expression "foxy" might have been ignored; the intimation that the members were "hugging their sides" might have been forgiven; the insinuation that they were back with "their hands in the public crib" might, in view of the literary exigencies of the case, have been overlooked, but the assertion that they had their "snouts in the trough" was too much.

And yet, viewing the matter from this distance and with a calmness that could hardly be expected in Des Moines, it is not difficult to see how Doorkeeper Wheeler could, had he stood pat, have justified himself on purely literary grounds. There is nothing more essentially offensive in the statement that the members of the Iowa House are back again with their "snouts in the trough" than there would be in saying, that, because the legislators were back again, "the boys were in the melon patch," or "the cows were in the corn." Even with more propriety could he use the expression "snouts in the trough," because if snouts have a right to be anywhere the trough is the place where they have a tight to be.

But, having made a mistake in the first place, he made the additional mistake of getting scared, at the very time when he should have stood his ground and proved that literary license justified him in using "snouts in the trough" as a figure of speech, particularly since he did not go to the extreme of intimating that the feet of the members were in it also.

U. S. READY FOR MOVE ON CHINA

Troops Ordered To Prepare For War.

GRAVE CRISIS FEARED IN CHINESE SITUATION—LIVES AND PROPERTY OF AMERICANS IN GREAT DANGER.

Washington, Feb. 19. — The United States unquestionably fears an uprising in China that will endanger the lives and property of all Americans in the Flowery Kingdom, and is making extraordinary military preparations for a crisis.

If a formidable war in the Orient were openly threatened fears could scarcely be greater. Not since the war with Spain have the army and navy departments been more active. Americans who have friends or interests in China are communicating their concern to the Washington Government. In spite of the pacific and reassuring statements by Chinese diplomats there is the deepest concern.

TROOPS IN READINESS.

It is claimed by Chinese diplomats that a desire to overthrow the present dynasty is responsible for the anti-foreign disturbances. All reliable reports state that the feeling against Americans is steadily growing. There are 12,000 American troops in the Philippines and five thousand Filipino scouts. En route for Manila are the First and Second Regiments of Infantry, numbering 1,300 men each, the Eighth and Thirteenth batteries of light artillery. It is reported that the Twenty-ninth Regiment, now in Texas, is under orders to sail for the same port.

Admiral Train, in command of the Asiatic station, has four or five battleships and seven or eight gunboats, and there is a rumor that Admiral Sigsbee's Mediterranean squadron, of which the Brooklyn is the flagship, is to be sent in haste to Chinese waters.

"CHINA FOR CHINESE."

Sir Chentung Liang Chang, the Chinese minister, declared in an interview that there would be no uprising against Americans in China, but made in addition the significant remark that the watchword in his country would be "China for the Chinese." If Chinese are to be excluded from the United States, China wants as few Americans as possible in China. He said:

"The Chinese have adopted a new internal policy. There will be no more concessions to foreigners. A small party of malcontents is trying to cripple or destroy the present dynasty."

It is understood here that China has contracted in Germany for a million small arms and an immense quantity of ammunition, besides one hundred cannon.

The troops in the Philippines will be at the command of Minister Rockhill at Pekin in case of an uprising.

THE WEDDING AT WASHINGTON.

BRILLIANT AND DISTINGUISHED ASSEMBLY OF GUESTS.

Washington, Feb. 19.—In the white and gold East room of the White House, a few minutes after noon, Saturday, Right Rev. Henry Y. Satterlee, Bishop of Washington, of the Protestant Episcopal Church, united in marriage Alice Lee Roosevelt, eldest daughter of the President of the United States, and Nicholas Longworth, the representative in Congress from the first district of Ohio.

The ceremony was witnessed by one of the most brilliant and distinguished assemblages ever gathered in the White House.

Miss Roosevelt was the twelfth bride to plight her troth within the White House, and on the identical spot where she joined hands with the husband of her choice, another White House bride, "Nellie" Grant, thirty-two years ago, became the wife of Algernon C.F. Sartoris. Mrs. Sartoris was one of the witnesses of Miss Roosevelt's wedding.

WEATHER PROBABILITIES.

Major I. Wood Died Last Evening.

SUDDEN DEATH OF GEORGE R. ODELL—N. NORMANDIN PASSES AWAY—DEATH OF E. QUESNEL.

Major Israel Wood, for many years one of Sherbrooke's most prominent citizens, passed away at about half past seven o'clock, last evening. He had been in failing health for a year or more. About a month ago he sustained a paralytic shock from which at times since he appeared to be recovering. On Friday last, however, his condition became very serious. He rallied somewhat subsequently, but yesterday afternoon sank rapidly until the end came.

Major Wood was born on the 24th of June, 1822, and was a son of Israel Wood the third, who with his father, Israel Wood, a U.E. Loyalist, was one of the original associates of Stanstead, settled in that township in 1797.

His ancestors came from England in 1744 and settled in Massachusetts. The Major's family have always evinced a desire for a military life, his grandfather having received the appointment of Captain of Cavalry in 1811, and having been engaged in Frontier service during the war of 1812. His father, also, held the position of Captain of Cavalry, and was engaged in Frontier service during the rebellion of 1837-38.

Major Wood received his commission as Captain of the Stanstead Cavalry from the hands of the Earl of Dufferin, while his commission as Major was signed by the Marquis of Lorne. He did Frontier duty in connection with his troop during the Fenian raid.

For many years Major Wood held a prominent place in the business, municipal and social life of the city. He served several years in the City Council, for the most of the time chairman of the Finance Committee, and in 1891 was chosen Mayor of the city, which responsible office he filled with ability.

In 1886 he was elected one of the directors of the Eastern Townships Bank to which position he has been re-elected at each subsequent election. For several years he has been Vice-President of this institution. He was a man of sound judgment and his opinion has always carried weight in commercial circles.

Major Wood was a Vice-President of the Jenckes Machine Company. He has been prominently connected with several other of the city's important business enterprises.

The Protestant Hospital has had in Major Wood one of its most liberal friends and strongest supporters. As one of the governors and for several years chairman of the executive, he gave much of his time to this institution. His donations have been frequent and munificent. The sun parlors, erected a year ago, being one of the latest of his gifts to this institution whose interests he had so much at heart.

Major Wood was a member of St. Peter's Anglican Church. He was a Conservative in politics.

He is survived by Mrs. Wood, who is in feeble health, and by one daughter, Mrs. N. H. Greene, of Montreal.

The funeral takes place to-morrow, Feb. 20th, from his late residence, Dufferin avenue, to St. Peter's church at 2 o'clock.

THE DEATH OF GEORGE R. ODELL.

The community was shocked yesterday morning by the news of the sudden death of Mr. George R. Odell, who had been apparently in his usual health on Saturday. Indeed to those who had seen him it appeared incredible.

It seems that Mr. Odell had suffered from very severe headaches for the last year, and though he had kept steadily at work, his health was not the best. He made light of the symptoms, however, not imagining that there was anything radically wrong. On Saturday evening he went home at 5.30 in good spirits and to all appearances quite well, and retired at 9.30. During the night he awoke, suffering intense pain in his head, and arose to apply some local remedies. A few minutes after he again laid down he became unconscious. Physicians were summoned, but he survived but a short time.

A post-mortem examination revealed the fact that death was caused by hemorrhage of the brain.

The late George Robertson Odell, who was the fifth son of the late T. B.

LOST VALUABLE HORSE.

Waterloo, Feb. 19.—(Special.)— Mr. Thomas Pierson had the misfortune of losing his valuable horse on Wednesday of last week. Mr. Pierson had been the guest of Mr. George Moynan for the past few days, and was just returning to his home at Farnham Centre. He stopped for a few hours at Mr. Douglas', when his horse got kicked in the stifle joint. A veterinary was immediately called, who pronounced it incurable and recommended the animal to be chloroformed.

THE BACHELORS AND BENEDICTS OF FARNHAM.

Farnham, Feb. 19.—(Special.) — The "At Home" of the Bachelors and Benedicts of Farnham on the night of the 13th at the Balmoral Hall was a brilliant affair. Every incoming train during the day brought guests from Montreal, Sherbrooke, Richford, Vt., Bedford, Granby, Dunham, Sweetsburg, Stanbridge, Cowansville and Sutton, and when all had assembled in the commodious hall, which had been very prettily decorated for the occasion, the spectacle was very pleasing to look upon.

While the patronesses, Mrs. G. A. Truax, Mrs. G. F. Slack, Mrs. G. H. Eaton, Mrs. D. M. Wilson, Mrs. A. E. Gough and Mrs. George A. Shepard, were receiving, Hubbard's Orchestra played several selections, after which as dancing was the feature of the evening, the Grand March was commenced at 9.30 p.m. with some 75 couples on the floor, followed by a programme of 24 dances, which were thoroughly enjoyed by the large company present, and the handsomely gowned ladies, with the somber black suits of the gentlemen for a background, under the brilliant electric lights, made a very pretty picture.

A lunch was served at midnight in the Balmoral dining rooms, after which the dance was continued to the small hours of the morning, when the crowd dispersed, all agreeing that the Farnham gentlemen's "At Home" of 1906 had been a huge success.

SOCIAL ENTERTAINMENTS AT COWANSVILLE.

Cowansville, Feb. 19. — (Special)— At Cowansville, on Friday evening, Mrs. Nelson Buzzell entertained about fifty of her friends in the Two Villages to a card party of agreeable sort. The prelude of the cards was a guessing contest, where each person was given a trial at divining the name of any of the United States which tallied, in its abbreviated form, with the question asked and the prizes at this were well contested for, Mrs. McKeown and Miss Kezar being tied for the ladies' prize, which Mrs. McKeown won in the play-off, and Messrs. Westover and McKeown being tied for the gentlemen's prize, which was won by Mr. Westover in the play-off. At the cards, Mr. Westover was also the lucky winner, being at first tied with Messrs. McCabe and Duboyce, and defeating them in the play-off, while the ladies' prize was won by Miss Vail, who herself was at first tied with Mrs. Johnston and had to play off to win out. Luscious refreshments were served and an unusually fine time was enjoyed by all.

Friday afternoon, Mrs. Vilas entertained over fifty of her lady friends at tea, and was aided in receiving by her daughter, Miss Fannie Vilas. Mrs. Williams poured tea, while Mesdames Johnston and McKeown served. All three materially assisted to make the function the success it certainly was.

Friday evening, in the basement of the Methodist Church, the Social Department of the Epworth League entertained over thirty of their friends to an evening of guessing games in which all could join, and furnished excellent refreshments additional. Of the programme, Miss Brown, of Hemmingford, recited, "Caleb's Courtship," and H. Scott recited, "Where Samuel led the Singing," and both selections were immensely pleasing. A general good time was enjoyed by all and it is expected to repeat the style of entertainment periodically for a while in the future.

THE AGRICULTURAL MEETING AT WATERLOO.

Waterloo, February 19.—(Special.)— A very interesting and important agricultural meeting was held at Waterloo Friday. There were two sessions, one commencing at 2 p.m. and one at 7 p.m.

The afternoon session was very largely attended by farmers from all parts of the county. The lecturers were: Mr. D. Drummond and Mr. Saxby Blair, experts sent by the Dominion Department of Agriculture. They are both eminent authorities on the subjects with which they dealt, and were undoubtedly able to impart a vast amount of accurate and very valuable information.

Mr. Saxby Blair, the first speaker, dealt with the subject of fruit growing, in all its details. He strongly advised farmers and fruit growers to do more pruning, use ashes lightly as a fertilizer.

Mr. Drummond followed. He spoke as a practical farmer and stock breeder. His remarks were on the selection breeding and feeding of dairy cattle and of the bacon hog. He dealt at great length with the importance of raising hogs that would produce the best and greatest amount of bacon. He claimed that we, as farmers, were at the turning point, that is to produce for the English market more and better bacon, or go out of the business entirely. If the bacon trade of Canada was to continue to improve it is quite necessary that hog raisers adhere to the class of animals most suited to the English market requirements. Let the Canadian farmers go back to the thick fat type of hog, as many talk of doing, because they feel that they have a grievance with the packer, and it will not be long before the price of Canadian bacon will have fallen to a level with the United States product which is usually from ten to fifteen shillings per hundred and 12 lbs. lower than the prices quoted for the Canadian Wiltshire sides. He held the three breeds most favored by English markets, which has been proven by various experiments,—were the Yorkshire, Tamworth and the Berkshire.

He dealt largely with cattle raising, the care, the judging of cattle by points, the selection and the individual records of dairy cows.

THE CHINESE SITUATION.

Reports Which Say There Is No Danger.

MISSIONARIES DO NOT ANTICIPATE ANY SERIOUS TROUBLE.

New York, February 19.—In view of the many disturbing reports appearing in the public press concerning the conditions in China and the possibility of further outbreaks such as those at Lien Chow and Shanghai, and the consequent anxiety of relatives and friends of missionaries in China, the secretaries of the missionary society of the Methodist Episcopal Church sent cablegrams of inquiry to Bishop Bashford at Shanghai and also the representatives of the several missions of that Church at Tien Tsin, North China; Nan King, Central China; Chung-King, West China and Foo Chow, for the Foo Chow and Highua missions, as follows: "Wire us present situation, in respect to danger to persons and property in your mission according to your best information."

These cablegrams were sent February 15 and 16. That dispatch covered all the Methodist missions in China, he having recently made an extensive tour. His cablegram dated February 16 follows:

"All are safe in China. No danger apparent.

"BASHFORD."

The response from mission treasurers in North, Central, West and South China, dated February 15, are of like tenor to that from the bishop.

"Tien Tsin—No disturbance. Safe."

"Nanking—No trouble anywhere."

"Foo Chow—Foo Chow and Hinghua quiet."

"Chung King—All quiet."

THE FUNERAL OF KING CHRISTAIN.

Services Were Held On Sunday.

LAID TO REST IN THE ROSKILDE CHAPEL.

Roskilde, Denmark, Feb. 19.— The magnificent old Gothic church here presented a brilliant spectacle yesterday afternoon when King Christian IX., amid thunder of guns, the sonorous tones of the organ and the blare of trumpets was laid to rest with the long line of his predecessors on the Danish throne, whose remains repose in the side of the chapel in Roskilde's red stone fane.

The coffin lay in the chancel beneath a black and gold baldachin, supported by high officers in full dress uniform. The only decoration on it was golden branch, a tribute from the children of Denmark. Leaning against the altar rails were floral tributes from foreign monarchs and members of the Danish Royal family. The choir was filled with members of the clergy, whose quaint black gowns and white ruffs formed a striking background to the blaze of gold-laced uniforms of the diplomatic body occupying the corner of the choir.

The left of the church was reserved for the ministers and court and state officials, whilst on the right were the members of the Riksdag. The galleries and side aisles were filled with ladies. The scene was brilliant in the extreme, the only sign of mourning being the black floor cloth, which served to throw relief on the bright colors and the flashing gold and silver lace of the uniforms of the military deputations and foreign suites which awaited the arrival of the royal mourners near the entrance to the church.

Do you know what that means? Who are Epicurus?

He was a Greek philosopher of ancient times. And he was and is somewhat misunderstood. He led a perfectly temperate and blameless life though his very name has come to stand for indulgence; an epicure is defined as a luxurious and dainty eater.

The following birds and animals are designated as epicurean:

The busy bee.
The dreaded wasp.
The gray millet.
The sadly blunted osprey.
The lovely humming-bird.
The long-necked giraffe.
The aard wolf of South Africa.
The ant eater, which looks like a spruce fir cone.

SENSATION IN A CHURCH

AUDITOR TAKES EXCEPTION TO A THOROLD PREACHER'S REMARKS.

St. Catharines, Ont., Feb. 19.—During the service at Thorold Presbyterian church Saturday, the pastor, Rev. J. W. McLeod, referring to the movement to reopen the Mansion House, whose license was cut off by the commissioners a short time ago, said he understood that a number of prominent citizens, some of them members of his own church, had signed the petition to the license commissioners asking for the license. "Any man or woman who signed such a petition is not a Christian," said Mr. McLeod, emphatically. At these words, George Turner, ex-mayor of Thorold and an ex-county commissioner of Welland, arose in his family pew, and strongly resented the imputation made by the pastor. "I want to say to you, Mr. McLeod," said he, "that I am one of those who signed the petition to reopen the hotel. I had good reasons for doing so and I want to say that I consider myself just as good a Christian as anyone in this church." Mr. Turner sat down. Mr. McLeod made no reply to Mr. Turner, but went on with his service as if nothing had happened. The affair has created a big stir in Thorold.

FARNHAM.

Feb. 19.—A jolly house party was given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Shepard last week, which was much enjoyed by a large number of their friends. Among those present from a distance were Mr. and Mrs. S. Ralph Carpenter and Mrs. Wilson, of Richford, Vt.; Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Robinson, Sutton; Miss Shelters, Montreal; Miss Florence Perkins, Mansonville; Mr. D. C. Richard, Sherbrooke.

The Ladies' Euchre Club are going to entertain a number of their friends next Thursday evening in the I. O. O. F. Hall to euchre and dancing.

For some unknown cause there seems to be a great deal of sickness in town at present. A severe cold is going the rounds, besides a number of cases of quinsy, influenza and other kindred maladies.

There will be an illustrated lecture on temperance in St. James' church hall this evening (Monday) under the auspices of the Women's Christian Temperance Union of Farnham.

Mr. H. A. Pepler, C. P. R. engine house foreman, is out again after a two weeks' illness.

Miss Ada Brown, of Montreal, is in town the guest of Mr. and Mrs. F. F. T. Brown.

Mr. William Newton, who has been employed in the C.P.R. shops here for some years past, has accepted a position in the C.P.R. Angus shops, Montreal, and leaves for his new field of labor immediately. Mr. Newton has been secretary of Browne Lodge, A. F. & A.M., for some time and will be greatly missed by his Farnham friends.

WOMEN AND THE CIGARETTE.

(From the San Francisco News-letter.)

From various sources comes the statement that the habit of tobacco smoking by women is growing steadily, and not as stealthily, as in the past. Where a few puffs were occasionally taken in seclusion, a cigarette is now smoked openly, in private houses and in restaurants. In the fashionable world it is by no means rare for the cigarettes to be passed to the fair guests with as much nonchalance and seeming innocence as the tea is handed around.

VIEWS OF A CHICAGO MINISTER.

WRITES ON CHRISTIAN SCIENCE IN PRESBYTERIAN WEEKLY.

Rev. Frank N. Riele, Presbyterian minister of Chicago, Ill., writing in The Westminster of Philadelphia, says:

One of the leading elders in the church of Dr. Coyle, a recent moderator of our General Assembly, told me the most remarkable thing he has ever had to reckon with is the rapid growth in Denver of the Christian Scientists. "And that is not all," he says. "They have not only built the most beautiful church in the great Middle West, at a cost of more than $200,000, but all has been given without the least urging on the part of any one for it." "But far more than this," he went on to say, "these people seem to just live the most beautiful upright lives; so that you cannot help but feel that wherever you meet them, whether socially or in business, they exhibit something that the rest of us have not." Surely, we owe any system of truth a debt of the greatest gratitude that will bring forth such heavenly fruitage as this.

One of the most influential attorneys of Cleveland told me that he dropped into one of the Wednesday evening meetings of the Scientists, and to his utter amazement, found more than five hundred present. But the strangest and most startling thing of all to him was that he counted more than seventy-five people there who but a few years before were the leading members in two of the strongest Presbyterian churches of the city—men and women, many of whom were the pillars both spiritually and financially, of the churches from which they had gone out. He said he asked a number of them afterwards the cause of their religious exodus, and almost invariably the reply was that now for the first time did religion seem a real joy to their life; the Bible a book they really understood and loved to read; and God, the "Great Companion," whom they knew was ever and for ever lovingly present. Surely our hearts must be hard as stone if there flows not forth abounding gratitude for such a heavenly awakening in the lives of any of His children as this.

A few weeks ago I was in a company with one of the leading lakies on the American stage. Among other things the theme of our conversation was Christian Science. I asked her what her experience had been with those of this cult. At once her reply, to my utter amazement, was: "Well, I tell you they are the greatest wonder of the world. Women that I used to know in New York and elsewhere that lived lives that were worse than worthless,—not women "way down," but women "way up,"—these women when they came to take up this new faith became in a year or two so transformed, that nothing less than "heavenly" can express the change which is little less than miraculous." It would seem as though Christ's followers ought to send forth shouts of joy at such a great redemption, and thankfulness without ceasing for any help that would work such a work among the most hopeless and helpless.

Only a short time ago one of the leading professors in one of our leading Presbyterian institutions, to my utter amazement, made this little confession. He was the last man in the world from whom I should have expected it, for I had always felt that he was the most theologically hidebound man I had ever met. He was good to the core; but "dead set" to the quick. Here are his words: "I am most thoroughly convinced there must be something in Christian Science the Church has overlooked or lost; and which it must get hold of again, if it is ever to get a grip as a mighty saving power, on the world that is lost." We must surely be dead in sin or asleep in Jesus if, in the presence of such an honest confession from one far outside the new cult, we do not thank God from the depth of our hearts that his eyes could see something in the new message that God meant us all to see, if our eyes are to be opened to the full glory of sons of God, that alone exalteth.

In view of such facts as have just been stated, which certainly are straws telling the way the winds of heaven are blowing and the thought-currents of earth are flowing, does it not behoove every Christian man and woman who is a truth-lover, to lay aside every weight of prejudice which does so easily beset them, and of religious self-satisfaction which does so easily possess them, and ask themselves, in the spirit of loving candidness, what truth there is in this message of Christian Science which has come into the kingdom, challenging the confidence, respect, and often the full allegiance of all classes and conditions of people within and without the pale of the Church militant?

FACTS AND FIGURES FOR 1906.

(Punch.)

A curious feature of the year 1906 is that if the figures are twisted round and turned upside down they read 9061.

People who were born on February 29th, have, strictly speaking, no official birthday this year. They may, however, celebrate their birthdays on the 28th.

Easter this year falls upon a Sunday; this was also the case last year.

It is interesting to note that the French names for the month are slightly different from ours. For instance, with them "January" is Janvier, "February" becomes Fevrier, and so on on. The Japanese terms differ even more.

To obtain the number of minutes in 1906, a good recipe is to multiply 365 (the number of days) by 24 (the number of hours in a day), and then multiply the result by 60 (the number of minutes in an hour). This will be near enough for all practical purposes.

The days in May and June will be much longer than at present, but the nights will be correspondingly shorter.

To qualify as centenarians this year, candidates must have been born not later than 1806.

On Saturday evening at St. George's Club a complimentary dinner was given to Mr. A. Trevor Boydell by a number of his friends on the occasion of his approaching marriage. The table was prettily decorated with hyacinths and other plants in bloom and at each place was a bontonniere of carnations. Covers were laid for fifteen, those present being Dr. F. H. Bradley, Dr. W. W. Lynch, Messrs. J. R. Duncan, F. C. Bowen, M. H. Bradford, H. B. Bray, M. W. Mitchell, F.W. Mitchell, F. W. Webster, J. A. Cook, F. S. Rugg, H. Hyndman, R.A. Wright, C. G. Hobson, R. D. Wiggett and Geo. Mahaffy (Bracebridge, Ont.). Dr. F.H. Bradley presided, having on his right the guest of the evening, and on his left Mr. Mahaffy. The toast list was as follows: "The King," proposed by Dr. Bradley, and royally honored; "Our visitors," proposed by Mr. J. R. Duncan, and responded to by Mr. G. Mahaffy, and Mr. R. A. Wright; "The Ladies," proposed by Mr. J. A. Cook and responded to by Dr. Lynch; "The Benedicts," responded to by a number of would-be benedicts. Mr. Boydell was presented by the friends above mentioned, together with Messrs. William Steele, W. E. Loomis and D. J. Salls, who were unable to be present at the dinner, with a magnificent polished wood library table, and a silver flask, coupled with many good wishes for his future happiness and prosperity.

THE SOUTHERN ELECTRIC CO.'S BILL.

Mayor Olivier, Councillor McManamy and Mr. H. B. Brown, City Attorney, go to Quebec this week to represent the city when the Southern Electric Company's bill comes before the committee.

This bill provides for the granting of extraordinary powers to this company throughout the Townships. While there is no disposition to discourage the distribution of Shawinigan Falls power in the Townships, the municipalities are opposed to the almost unlimited rights which the bill proposed to give.

The Canadian Municipalities Association has taken the matter up and will be represented before the committee at Quebec.

There is little doubt that the bill will be considerably modified.

PRINCE RUPERT.

WHY THIS NAME HAS BEEN SELECTED AS THE G.T.P. TERMINAL CITY.

The above caption is the euphonious and appropriate name which the Grand Trunk Pacific have adopted for their terminus on the Pacific coast. The people of Canada were given an opportunity of naming this city, which some day will become one of the greatest seaports on the western coast of America, and 12,000 different names were submitted by those who took part in the contest. A name has been chosen that is significant of Canada, and one that was prominent in the early history of the country, when nearly the entire area of British North America was known as Prince Rupert's Land.

But why Prince Rkpert? What had the dashing young cavalry leader of the cavaliers nearly three hundred years ago to do with Canada? Prince Rupert was really the first British Canadian business magnate. He was a promoter of the Hudson's Bay Company, and its first Governor in 1670. In that year Charles II. granted a charter to the Prince and seventeen other noblemen and gentlemen, incorporating them as "The Governor and Company of Adventurers of England, trading into Hudson's Bay," and securing to them "the sole trade and commerce of all those seas and straits, bays, rivers, lakes, creeks and sounds in whatever latitude they shall be, that lie within the entrance to the Straits commonly called Hudson's Straits, together with all the lands and territories upon the countries, coasts and confines of the seas, bays, etc., aforesaid, that were not already actually possessed by or granted to any of our subjects, or possessed by the subjects of any other Christian Prince or State. The first settlements of the country thus granted, which was to be known as Rupert's Land were made on James Bay and at Churchill and Moyle's River.

Prince Rupert was born in 1619, the son of Frederick V., Elector-palatine and Elizabeth, eldest daughter of James I. of England. He was a man of impetuous bravery, but at the same time showed lack of caution. When only thirteen years old he took part in the siege of Rheimberg, and at the age of 18 commanded a regiment of cavalry in active service. At the beginning of the civil war in England he was placed at the head of a regiment of horse and took part in several battles. Notwithstanding a serious wound at Marston Moor, he was soon appointed Commander of all the king's troops. After the defeat of Naseby, June 14th, 1645, he retired to Bristol, but surrendered that city on July 22nd. The King thereupon deprived him of his commission. In 1648, he was, for want of any competent man, appointed to command the fleet. He was blockaded by Blake in Kinsale Harbor, and in October, 1649, forced his way out and steered for Lisbon. Blake pursued him and he was only saved by assistance from the King of Portugal. He subsequently escaped to the West Indies, but after the restoration of Charles II. he was made a Privy Councillor, and served under the Duke of York against the Dutch. He was afterwards Governor of Windsor Castle, where, during the last nine years of his life, he devoted himself to scientific and artistic pursuits. He died Nov. 29th, 1682.

Asbestos, Its Occurrence, Exploitation and Uses.

(Condensed from Cerkle's Government Report.)

ASBESTOS IN FOREIGN COUNTRIES.

Canada is not the only country where asbestos is found. It is found in the United States, Newfoundland, Italy, Russia, Mongolia, Siberia, Finland, Queensland, South Australia, New South Wales, New Zealand, and Africa.

Asbestos is found in many parts of the United States, most of it being of the Amphibole variety, with the exception of the small amount produced in Massachusetts and Arizona, which is of the Chrysotile variety.

During 1903, the production of asbestos was principally from the Sall Mountain, Ga., also in smaller quantities from near Dalton, Mass., New Hartford, Conn., and Grand Canon, Arizona. Many years ago, asbestos was discovered in Vermont, and interest was revived a few years ago, by the discovery of a vein of chrysotile, similar to the Canadian product, on the eastern side of Belvidere Mountain in the extreme western portion of Lowell.

In the beginning of the nineties, excitement was caused among the asbestos men, by the discovery of fine asbestos in large quantities on the west coast of Newfoundland.

A great many claims were at once secured, and in a short time, some thirty square miles were taken up.

Development work was started, but was not carried on to any great extent.

In Italy, asbestos was only mined prior to 1880. After the discovery of asbestos in Canada, Italians found that they could not compete with the Canadian mineral, because mining was very difficult, the supply uncertain, and the fibre more difficult to deal with. It is also reported that the better class of fibre is lacking.

The Italian ore is taken out in lumps forming compact bundles of fibres, varying from light grey to dark brown. Sometimes threads many feet long are drawn from such bundles, and the fibre has the appearance of flax.

In Russia, the asbestos mines are near the station of Bajenown. The asbestos is of fine silky texture, a little coarser than the Canadian chrysotile, and of slightly yellow color. Asbestos also occurs south of Lake Baikal, in different parts of Siberia, and in central Finland.

In Queensland, the country rock is serpentine, and the veins of asbestos occur in all sizes, up to a foot or more in thickness. In the larger veins it is coarse in quality, but in the smaller veins it is much finer.

In South Australia, specimens twenty eight inches in length have been found. In color it ranges from a salmon tinted variety to a beautiful white.

In New South Wales, a dark green, colored, asbestiform mineral is found, but no mining has been done. The color of the asbestos is generally white, or of light greenish blue, densely compacted, but easily broken up into fibres.

In New Zealand an attempt was made to exploit the veins of asbestos, but it was a failure and none is being produced at present.

In Africa, asbestos occurs in West Griqualand, and at one time mining was carried on over an area of 30,000 acres. The asbestos has a peculiar lavender blue color, and the grain is very fine. The fibres are elastic and are easily separated.

COMMERCIAL APPLICATION OF ASBESTOS.

The manufacture of asbestos goods in America and Europe has become a very important industry. Up to the year 1878 asbestos goods were scarce, owing to the difficulty of spinning.

According to Mr. Alfred Fisher, general manager of the United Asbestos Company, London, asbestos was first used in the United States in 1868-69 in connection with the manufacture of roofing felt and cement, but it was left for some enterprising Scotchman to bring asbestos to the notice of the manufacturers in Great Britain. In the United States large quantities of asbestos are used in the manufacture of pipe coverings of all kinds, while in the European market it is principally used for spinning, braiding and weaving.

There are various difficulties to overcome in the spinning of asbestos. Some of the fibre is not strong enough to withstand all the operations to which other fibres have to be submitted, and it is difficult to prevent the fibres from slipping past each other.

Continuous experimentation has overcome these difficulties to a certain extent, and manufacturers have succeeded in turning out a single asbestos thread, which, although not weighing more than an ounce per 100 yds., has a pretty fair strength.

Asbestos in its spun state is largely used in the form of yarn or wick as packing for small glands, valves and cocks, or for piston packing, for piston rods, valve stems, throttle valves, etc. Asbestos is durable, reliable and economical. It resists heat and friction, and is to a certain extent self-lubricating. Asbestos in its spun state is used in the construction of drop curtains for use in theatres. On account of the ease with which they are manipulated, the asbestos curtains are largely taking the place of iron and steel curtains in many theatres in Europe and America.

Garments are also made of asbestos for protection against fire and acids. Asbestos suits for firemen are provided with asbestos masks which not only protect the face but the smoke respirators. A complete fireman's suit of asbestos consists of a pair of strong boots, protected by iron soles, asbestos pants and gaiters, asbestos pocket, asbestos apron, gloves, mask and head gear. In the manufacture of cloth the crude asbestos is treated in the following manner: The blocks are crushed in such a way as not to destroy the fibre. Then the long fibre is separated from the short, and is sent to the carding and condensing department. From this department it comes in the form of a condensed thread without any twist, which is sent to the spinning and doubling department, where it is twisted into thread. Then the thread is taken to the weaving and braiding department where it is made into yarn, packing tapes and cloth. Manufactured into millboard, asbestos serves as a joint packing for steam pipes, cylinder covers, etc., and is greatly appreciated for its durability, economy and cleanliness.

The use of asbestos in the manufacture of paper is difficult, owing to the natural affinity of asbestos for water.

A new kind of roofing in which asbestos is combined with other materials is found durable and of easy application.

Wall paper and asbestic compound of asbestos and serpentine are comparatively new inventions. Asbestic is much used in fire-proof buildings in large cities, and is made in two qualities, the rough asbestic and the finish. The first may be applied to the walls of a new building, upon brick, metal laths, plain boards, or expanded metal, and when dry will form a hard coating which can then be covered with the finish.

Fire-proof paint is manufactured from asbestos. These paints are suitable for rough woodwork and have proved to be fire resisting. Asbestos is largely used in the construction of dynamos, as it is a non-conductor, and asbestos gloves, lined with rubber, permit of safe handling of electric wires. Asbestos is used in connection with gas fires, the gas being made to rise through the fibre and then lighted. The fibre glows brightly and besides distributing the heat it gives the pleasant appearance of an open hearth fire.

Asbestos is also used in cold storage, as a filler medium and in the laboratory. In mines where a covering for the long lines of steam pipe is necessary to prevent the radiation of heat, an asbestos covering is found very serviceable and economical, as it is a non-conductor of heat, is unaffected by heat or water and can stand rough usage.

THE TROUBLES OF A RURAL JOURNALIST.

(Bridgeville Tribune.)

Frequently typographical errors creep into newspapers, and the result is often humorous, bringing forth many a laugh, even on serious subjects. The Tribune has had more than its share of the blunders of late. Last week "we" got three items "all balled up" in the rush to get out the paper. The effect was startling, and if the Tribune had been believed the laws of nature would have had to be suddenly reversed. It was all caused by transposing a couple of lines of type. J. D. Curry, one of our most respected citizens, has been ill for some time with rheumatism. The Tribune made the startling statement that as a result of his sickness he had given birth to a twelve-pound boy. As a matter of fact that boy belonged over in the home of Samuel Cox.

In the item relating to the birth of Mr. and Mrs. Cox's twelve-pound boy The Tribune said it happened "while the whistle blew." Now, of course, it is possible that a whistle was blowing at the time, but we doubt it. That line referring to the whistle blowing should have been under the item about Riley carrying the dynamite.

The Tribune sincerely regrets the blunder.

SATISFYING HONOR IN INDIA.

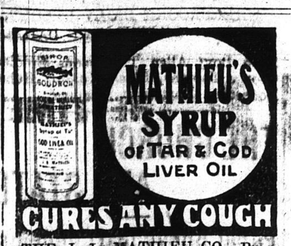
(From the Calcutta Englishman.)

A custom now passing among the Marawaris is the one which prevailed when a man could not meet his bills. He would summons his creditors. They were ushered into a room in which the Thakur, or household god, was enshrined, but covered with a cloth and with the face turned to the wall in order that it might not witness the scene that was to follow. The insolvent would then, in garb of mourning, lie on the floor, presenting his back to his creditors, who, on a given signal, would fall on him with shoes and slippers and belabor him till their wrath was exhausted. The beating finished, honor was declared to be satisfied all around.

NEW PRESIDENT OF FRANCE.

FALLIERES THE FIRST INCUMBENT TO FIND HIS PREDECESSOR AT THE ELYSEE.

Paris, February 19.—The assumption of the office of chief executive of the French Republic on this occasion is marked out from previous inaugurations by the fact that until M. Fallieres' arrival at the Elysee, no president of the third republic has ever found his predecessor there formally to transmit the powers conferred on him by the constitution. Either because of assassination, sudden death, or resignation of office, an interregnum, during which the Cabinet had exercised executive powers, has preceded the beginning of each new presidential term, and for one or other of these reasons the function of installation has been denuded of ceremony.



THE J. L. MATHIEU CO., Props. Sherbrooke, P. Q.

THE GRIM REAPER HAS BEEN BUSY.

Odell, was born, brought up and educated in Sherbrooke, where he had hosts of friends, many of whom had known him from childhood. For many years the late Mr. Odell was a trusted and valuable employee of Mr. C. H. Fletcher as head bookkeeper, and to some extent business manager, and later on in the same capacity with the Modern Bedstead Company.

Mr. Odell was married about eighteen months ago to Miss Bessie Edney, who, with one child survives him. To her and to his aged mother, as well as the other members of the family, the deep sympathy of all their friends is extended.

The funeral takes place to-morrow afternoon (Tuesday), at 3 o'clock, from his late residence. It will be Masonic in character.

SUDDEN DEATH OF EMILE QUESNEL.

Mr. Emile Quesnel died suddenly Saturday evening of heart failure. About seven o'clock Mr. Quesnel had come up to Mr. R. Johnson's store to make a few purchases. While waiting to be served he became weak and gradually sank into a faint. With assistance from Mr. Johnson and one of his staff he was placed in a chair and the ambulance sent for. Doctors Rioux and Gandier were summoned, but they could do nothing to relieve the unfortunate man, and he died on his way to the hospital.

Mr. Quesnel has been a resident of Sherbrooke for the past seven or eight years, coming here from Quebec. He was an insurance and general commission agent, but for some time past had been in ill-health, which necessitated the neglect of his business.

He was 49 years of age. The funeral will take place at St. Johns, P.Q.

Coroner Bachand was notified, but the report of the two doctors showed clearly that death was due to heart failure and an inquest was not considered necessary.

DEATH OF MR. N. NORMANDIN.

The death of Mr. N. Normandin occurred yesterday afternoon at his home on Belvidere street.

Mr. Normandin had been in ill health for the past year, and during the past few months was confined to the house almost continually.

Mr. Normandin has been a resident of Sherbrooke for six years. He started in business on Wellington street in Mr. C. Beauregard's old store as a shoe dealer. He conducted business here for several years.

He leaves to mourn his loss a widow, four sons, Joseph, of Magog; Arthur, Marcelle, and Omer, and three daughters, Mrs. Brady, of Newport, Vt.; and Misses Imelda and Albertine, of this city, who have the sympathy of the entire community.

Deceased was 48 years of age. The funeral takes place to-morrow morning at 8.30 from his late residence, Belvidere street, to St. Michael's Cathedral.

THE LATE MRS. READ, OF RICHMOND.

Richmond, Feb. 19. — (Special)— The funeral of the late Mrs. William Read took place this morning from the residence of her daughter, Mrs. G. A. Bedard, to the R.C. Church and was largely attended. These are the white wastings that are acknowledged to be the most beautiful and most serviceable fabric for the money that was ever offered in Montreal. We make this statement deliberately. We know the quality of those goods; we know what they are made of; we know what they will stand, and we say to you that the style you make your garment in will be old fashioned for a long time before the fabric wears out, or its brillancy dulls off, in which respect it is far superior to silk, while the price is only 20c a yard (Mail and phone orders promptly filled)

Kingsey Falls, Feb. 19.—(Special.)—The Richmond Ladies' Hockey team played a game against the Kingsey Falls Ladies' Hockey team on Saturday afternoon. Although the ice was soft, the game was quite interesting. The Richmond ladies showed more speed and appear to be a well balanced team, but towards the end of the match the Kingsey Falls ladies improved in their game, and if there had been a little more time the score would have been nearer even. The score was 10 to 3 in favor of Richmond. The line-up of the teams is as follows:

GAME AT OTTAWA.

TO PLAY IN SHERBROOKE.

The Outremont Hockey Club are running an excursion to Sherbrooke next Saturday. A special car will be attached to the G.T.R. regular train leaving Bonaventure at 8 a.m. Neither Seniors nor Juniors have lost a game this year yet, but Sherbrooke must prepare for this game if they want to keep up the record.

MATCH POSTPONED.

The hockey match which was to have been played Saturday night at the National Rink, between the Juniors and the Nationals was postnoned. The Juniors next match is on Wednesday, the 21st, when they play Richmond at Richmond. It is expected the game will be a hotly contested one, and probably a little on the rough side, and Mr. George Povey is the only one in the Eastern Townships the Richmond supporters will agree upon to referee the game. The Juniors are agreeable to any referee, they say they can win anyway, and it looks a little like that now, the way things stand in the league.

An excursion will be run by the Juniors for the match on Wednesday. Two extra cars will be put on the Scoot, leaving here at 6.30 p.m., to accommodate the excursionists.

STANSTEAD COLLEGE VS. NEWPORT.

Stanstead College, Feb. 19.—(Special.)—At Newport on the evening of the 16th Stanstead won over Newport for the second time. The score was 19—13.

The game was fast and clean. Stanstead was at a slight disadvantage on account of the floor being waxed.

For Newport Smith played well, and in the second half Mossa held down Fee very effectually. For Stanstead Fee did some good shooting, and Tanner on the defence did much to make Stanstead win.

There was a reception at the High School for the Stanstead boys, and they all enjoyed themselves very much.

THE CHURCH AND STATE.

Papal Encyclical Condemns Separation In France.

WILL INJURE INTERNAL PEACE IN FRANCE.

Rome, February 19.—A paper encyclical was issued to the French episcopacy, clergy and people yesterday on the situation of the Church in France, strongly condemning the law providing for the separation of Church and State and giving advice to Catholics.

The encyclical shows that the Holy See did everything possible to avoid the passage of the law, which it terms a great evil to religion and to France, and outlines the Church's doctrine on the subject of the relations between Church and State, adding that in their union France had found throughout centuries her greatness and glories.

Examining the law in itself, the encyclical says it is offensive and repugnant to the divine constitution of the Church, because the public exercise of worship is entrusted to lay associations. The freedom of the Church, it is said, is submitted to the will of public pficials who are despoiling her of her patrimony. The law, the document continues, cannot fail to injure the internal peace of France, which, especially in the present condition of Europe, is in need of the union of all her children. It concludes with exhorting the clergy and people to act in concord and with generosity in defence of their religion, and to pray God for the return of tranquility and peace to France.

Several French bishops have arrived to receive verbal instructions for their guidance under the new order of things in France.

Feb. 19.—One of the brightest of our young lads in the person of John Bunclark, passed away at the Protestant Hospital, Tuesday evening, just a few hours after he had been operated on for appendicitis. Johnnie was taken ill on Friday night, but not until Monday did he tell his parents of the terrible pain in his right side. Medical aid was immediately summoned and Dr. Colquhoun ordered him at once to the hospital. He was operated upon, but it was too late. The remains were brought home on Wednesday, and the funeral took place on Friday. The funeral cortege was headed by the members of Eustis Council of the R.T. of T., of which deceased was a faithful member. At Albert Hall the service was held conducted by the pastor, Rev. H. E. Warren, M.A. The words of the text were "The flower that fadeth." After the service was ended the coffin laden with beautiful flowers was borne out and the long procession wound its way to Malvern cemetery, in Lennoxville. The impressive service of the R.T. of T. was read by Select Councillor Bro. Charles Beattie. Bro. A. Beattie, chap., read the final prayer and the members of the Order joined hands around the grave of the departed brother and sang, "Nearer My God to Thee." That Frivolous Miss Bell

By JEANNETTE SCOTT BENTON

Copyright, 1905, by Jeannette Scott Benton

Professor Leigh, the principal of the high school, was in attendance at the school board meeting by request of the board. The principal subject under discussion was the hiring of an assistant Latin teacher in the high school.

"Of course, professor, you understand," the chairman explained, "that the necessity for a new teacher rising as it does in the school year gives us very little choice. The board, however, has decided unanimously upon Miss Daisy Bell, room 7, of the Oak street school. What do you think of her?"

Professor Leigh frowned. "My actual knowledge of Miss Bell's attainments is limited, but she is a frivolous looking young woman. To me she seems a rather impossible Latin teacher. Her name, Daisy Bell, in the faculty would almost lower its tone."

He glanced around and caught the covert amusement of his auditors, his lean young face set in stern disapproval. To Professor Leigh life was "real and earnest."

He writhed under the frivolity and laxity of those latter days. The lightness and love of display shown by the majority of his feminine acquaintances annoyed him. Women were sadly degenerating, in his opinion, and he was only thirty years old.

"I know," he said stiffly, "my objection is unusual, but the girls of the high school run to too much frivolity themselves. Their teachers should be of another type, if there is any. They even have a way of wearing their hair in a sort of arch over their faces so that in profile you can barely see the tips of their noses. That Miss Bell wears hers very much the same way."

The board relaxed decidedly. Professor Leigh regarded them in stern perplexity.

"I confess," the chairman remarked, "that we have not particularly considered Miss Bell's appearance. She graduated last year with unusual Latin recommendations. As for her ability as a teacher, the work in room 7 of the Oak street school is not easy, and she has succeeded there. Of course if she is not satisfactory, professor, other arrangements can be made for next year."

The professor arose. "My objections to Miss Bell," he said, "are of course theoretical." He smiled a smile of such entire confidence and good fellowship that it was easy to understand his hold on the high school in spite of his priggishness. "And if you say 'try her' I shall do it with confidence in your judgment."

Which was not quite true, for every day his soul arose in disapproval against Miss Daisy Bell. "What could there be in a girl with such a pink and white face fluffed around with such a mop of yellow hair and such an impression of frills and fancy things all about her?" He trembled, too, for her influence in the school. The girls seemed so infatuated with her. How could she teach Latin? It was almost against natural law.

Miss Bell grew red and white under his scrutiny in the Latin class, for he came in frequently during the first month's recitations.

At last he was obliged to admit that she could teach Latin fairly well, but he resented it. He hated inconstancy.

She gradually became the trial of his life, and he always tried to make her as inconspicuous as possible. During the annual visitation of teachers he skillfully steered them away from Miss Daisy's classes. She was a blot on the dignity and high standing of his beloved school. It would shake the confidence of any sensible person to see a girl like that on the staff of teachers.

As for Miss Daisy, she tried her best to please the stern young man. She didn't have any trouble with her classes. The girls were obedient and the boys were gentlemen.

But she could not understand Professor Leigh. She curled her hair in its prettiest fashion and worked her hardest in school, but she could not melt his uncompromising disapproval. She trembled for her position the following year. It meant bread and butter and paying what she owed for her course at the university.

In view of this contingency her present bread and butter was of the cheapest, and she turned and pressed and darned her frivolous little frocks and stuck a bow here and trimmed in a lacy frill there to hide the bad spots that the bright spring sunshine was making so apparent.

It was nearly 9 o'clock one evening when Miss Daisy discovered that by some mischance she had overlooked part of her Latin examination papers. They had to be graded that night, so she threw a little shawl over her shoulders. "I will have to go over after them," she murmured. She ran across the street to the dark, silent building.

The hall looked terribly big and dark, and she fairly flew up the stairs into the Latin recitation room. She lighted several matches and finally succeeded in finding the missing papers. The shadows piled menacingly in the corners, and she was sure she heard a noise somewhere in the building.

She fled in a little panic from the room to the stairs. Halfway down she saw some one advancing toward her from the gloom below. She gave a little shriek, then slipped and fell headlong. She heard a smothered exclamation; then some one caught her firmly Faint with terror, she tried to regain her feet.

"There, little one, there. Don't be frightened, dear," a voice entreated—Professor Leigh's voice.

In her relief and the reaction she clung to him like a frightened child, half sobbing.

He held her closer, his face almost against hers. "Are you hurt?" he asked anxiously.

Then, after a minute, his clasp relaxed, and she slipped quickly away from him.

"I had no idea it was you," she said finally in a small voice.

"I tried to tell you," he answered softly.

Another moment of silence followed; then the girl sped down the hall and out of the open door.

The professor leaned against the banister and passed his hand over his eyes.

A new heaven and a new earth had opened up before him.

He knew now that all his disapproval and condemnation had been a fight against himself, not her. He dared to think now of the stories he had heard of her gallant fight for her university education; how hard she had worked and how he had persecuted her. Poor little thing! And all because he was afraid of himself. What a narrow minded bully he was anyway—and now?

He could not answer that. He went out into the spring night slowly with bent head. He had forgotten utterly the errand that sent him to the schoolhouse. He even forgot to lock the door.

A very erect, pink cheeked little assistant Latin teacher and a very self conscious professor came into the assembly room the next morning. Both the professor and Miss Daisy were in a rather bewildered state of mind.

Miss Daisy shed no more tears in secret over her endangered position. In fact, a little smile was more apt to come. Whenever the professor's eyes met hers there was a look in them that sent the red flaming into her cheeks. Possibly he could call any one "dear" when she fell unexpectedly into his arms, but she did not believe it.

So she dreamed those last few spring weeks, while the professor walked miles in his despair.

On the night of commencement they found themselves face to face in a dark little lobby behind the opera house stage.

The professor barred her way. "Miss Daisy," he said entreatingly, "you are going to the country, are you not? May I come out to see you next week?"

"Yes," she answered softly, extending a small hand. "Goodby," she half whispered.

He took her hand. "Goodby," he said. "Goodby," he repeated. Then he suddenly stooped and kissed her.

"Forgive me," he cried in the depth of contrition, but still holding her fast. "I love you so. You must know it."

"If I do it is pretty nearly telepathy," she murmured.

When the chairman of the board of education asked Professor Leigh if he still had any objection to Miss Bell he actually blushed, because the frivolous woman had issued an ultimatum that she would teach until her debts were paid, and his objections from being theoretical had become entirely personal. Still, they were not of a nature to be confided to the chairman, so he remarked half heartedly that she was a very good teacher and if she wanted the position she could hardly be refused it.

A moment later one of his friskiest juniors thrust her pompadoured little head in the door, then withdrew in confusion at the sight of the chairman, and he smiled quite a benevolent smile after her. The professor was beginning to take a different view of the world and things pertaining to it—things feminine in particular.

It is worth notang that the number of days in the year just entered on is divisible by five.

THE QUEBEC CITY ELECTIONS.

St. Ch. Seminary 5Jan07

Many Parc... sitters Are Defeated.

CHOQUETTE REGARDS RESULT AS PERSONAL VICTORY.

Quebec, Feb. 20.—Seldom if ever has Quebec seen so much interest in municipal elections as that which took place yesterday, and which resulted in the return of a majority of the reform party candidates. In each of the 22 wards the contest was most keen, and not until the final returns were in was it possible to say who was elected.

Many of the former members of the Parent administration were left on the battlefield, while Mayor Tanguay and Mr. Taschereau, M.L.A., both had narrow escapes, the former only being elected by a majority of two over Mr. Valleran, and the latter 4 over Alderman Samson.

Last evening there was quite a demonstration in St. Roch's, and St. Sauveur, and a procession in which 300 and 400 sleighs took part.

Senator Choquette was one of the speakers, the latter in conversation with a reporter, said the result of the elections was about as strong an indication as to the popular verdict in his favor as could be given.

The Senator was particularly aggressive against Hon. Mr. Parent, and the interference of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, and said that if further interference was attempted, Sir Wilfrid Laurier himself would be defeated, by those who had hitherto been his strong supporters. The Senator added that the will of the people had to be respected even by those who occupy the highest position in this country.

A. E. BALDWIN vs DR. HUME.

DEFENDANT EXAMINED IN DISCOVERY THIS MORNING.

In the Superior Court this morning Dr. Hume, of Compton, was examined in discovery in the case which has been brought against him by Mr. A. E. Baldwin, of Coaticook, for one thousand dollars damages for certain statements alleged to have been circulated by the defendant during the election in Compton County last 4th of January. The respondent was represented by Mr. M. O'Bready, and the plaintiff by Mr. Shurtleff.

After some preliminary remarks defendant stated that he took a fairly active interest in the last election in Compton County although he was not connected with the association. Witness saw two men by the name of Valliere on the day in question. He understood that one of the two had been working in the vicinity of Coaticook. He could not say who brought the Valliers to his office. To the best of his recollection Major A. L. Pomeroy, Mr. Auger, Montreal, T. Valliere and Jos. Daigneault were in his house. He did not see any declaration signed in his house, but he was aware that one had been signed by A. Valliere in the presence of witnesses. The above mentioned parties were the witnesses.

Q.—What were the contents of this declaration to the best of your recollection?

Objected to as being illegal.

A.—Under reserve—The contents to the best of my recollection was that Mr. Achilis Valliere had been promised by Mr. A. E. Baldwin, of Coaticook, two dollars to vote for the candidate, A. B. Hunt.

Q.—You say this declaration was shown to you. Did you see it more than once?

A.—Yes.

Q.—Was it shown to you by more than one person you have referred to?

A.—It was. Mr. Auger gave it to me to keep, as he was going away.

Q.—How long did you have it in your possession?

A.—I do not know. He left my place about one o'clock.

Q.—Are you prepared to swear that this declaration was ever in his actual possession?

A.—I am prepared to swear that he gave it to me.

Q.—Did he take it from his pocket to give to you?

A.—He said I had better take care of it, as it might be of some interest.

Q.—How long did you keep possession of it?

A.—I kept possession of it until the night of the poll.

Q.—And to whom did you deliver it?

A.—To Major A. L. Pomeroy, J.P., before whom it had been sworn.

Q.—Did you not, as alleged in the declaration, take this document from your pocket, and waving it in the air, in the public streets, without directing your remarks to any one person, but to anyone who may have chanced to be passing, say, "Here is a document that will upset the election?"

A.—I did not do anything of the kind.

Q.—Have you seen this declaration since you handed it to Major Pomeroy?

A.—No; I have not.

Q.—Before pleading to this action did you take any means to find out the truth or falsity of this declaration?

Question objected to.

Q.—The facts alleged in this document were damaging to the plaintiff?

A.—I did not think so. I did not do it with that intention at all.

Q.—Are you aware that the fact of this declaration having been made and the contents immediately became known over a considerable area?

Objected to.

In cross-examination by the defendant's counsel, the witness states that he understood Dr. McCurdy was a supporter of Mr. R. H. Pope's, and that Major A. L. Pomeroy was a Justice of the Peace.
