Fire Protection is Again Topic of Discussion at Council Meeting

Huntingdon Town Council met on Monday evening at the County Building, with all members being present.

Following the approval of the minutes, a number of accounts were passed for payment. Several building permits were granted as follows: Mr. Cecil Stark to build a house on Lake Street, same to be built in line with both Lake and Prince Streets as it is a corner lot Joe Rouleau for a shed at his property at Girard Lane, providing it is used as a shed. H. Soucy for repairing and for changing the front of his property on Chateauguay St. Arthur Saumier for a house on Cemetery Street.

A letter was read from Mr. I. Heath stating he would be willing to pay the expenses of the fire truck if ever needed to fight a fire at his property on Athelstan Road. The council agreed that should the need arise, the town equipment would have the right to go to this property as long as expenses are guaranteed.

This precipitated another discussion on the question of fire protection, which has been a lively topic of late. Alderman McGerrigle suggested that in order to provide protection for property which is close to town such as that on the Athelstan Road and other points, a tax rate should be charged each of the holders according to assessment and thus guarantee them the use of the fire fighting equipment. This was not accepted, but it was agreed that any such property holders wishing to guarantee the expenses as that proposed by Mr. Heath, could obtain the use of the fire equipment in case of need.

Alderman McGerrigle, since his being in charge of the Fire Committee, has been doing a little investigation on matters pertaining to fires and the ability of the equipment to fight fires and secure sufficient volume of water. In this way he has discovered that several of the rights-aways to the river from Chateauguay Street can not be used by the new fire truck. In some cases the space allowed is not enough, while in others it is not possible to get close enough to the water to allow a proper suction to take place. Several other matters were discussed of this nature and the upshot of it was that the fire committee is to investigate further and try to remedy the situaion.

Reports of milk samples taken on April 13th were read, as follows: Salaberry Dairy, 15,000cc; Pleasant Dairies, 62,000cc; Belle Vallee, 70,000cc; Elmhurst, 12,000cc; Monique, 16,000cc; Pringle Bros., 1,700,000cc and R. Goodfellow, 520,000cc.

Mr. Varin applied to council regarding a contract to paint the roof at the Filter Plant. As this is not open at the moment, nothing was decided. However, when council is ready, tenders will be called for.

Mr. Cliff Cowan asked Council permission to place "No Parking" signs at his taxi stand, as he says his driveway is often blocked by cars parking in front of it. Council granted the permission on condition Mr. Cowan provide the signs. Mr. Brunette, Brunette's Taxi, asked that the by-law regarding the insurance and taxi licenses be enforced for all taxi owners in the town. He also requested that some form of identification that the license had been paid appear on taxis. The council issued orders that the police committee look after the matter and have the law enforced and suitable markers made.

Mr. Yvon Leduc asked that gravel be placed at the entrance to his driveway to fill in the holes and to allow the water to get away.

Huntingdon High School asked that suitable traffic signs be placed in the vicinity of the school to warn car drivers to use caution. These will be put up in the near future.

The question of paying some funeral expenses was discussed and it was decided that in future a fixed amount will be paid when such need arises. The amount has not yet been fixed.

The matter of doing something with regard to the Coronation on June 2nd was discussed. It was felt that any actual plans for a celebration should be undertaken by a local society; that a holiday had been declared so it would naturally follow the town would observe such on that day. Alderman McGerrigle was given authority to buy two new flags for the town and the sum of $100 was granted for this purpose, the balance of the money is to be used for purchase of any other decorating material. Citizens are to be asked to decorate the premises appropriately for the occasion.

Alderman Trembley brought a request with regard to a proposal for subdivision of part of the Arnold Farm property. The request was that a sewer be laid on a piece of the land later to be a street in the new subdivision. The members of the council will inspect this property and ascertain what can be done. It was felt that the street lot should be deeded to the town in accordance with a proper plan of subdivision before any work is done.

Permission was granted to Alderman McGerrigle to have Chateauguay Street washed each Saturday morning and to fix up the park in Garden City.

The officials of the Red Cross Campaign asked permission to hold a celebration in the square by the fountain as an aid to raising more funds, on May 29th. The Council suggested that this be held on June 2nd and make a celebration for that day, being coronation day and a holiday, but left the 29th open if it should be decided upon.

Alderman P. Lefebvre was named pro-mayor for the next three months.

The meeting was adjourned until May 19th.

Before the members left, Mayor Cappiello announced that Mr. E. C. Martin, Secretary-Treasurer of the Town, with that meeting had completed 25 years of service as town secretary. He was congratulated by the members present.

Inter-School Concert at Valleyfield

C.V.T.A. Sponsor Concert at Gault

The Chateauguay Valley Teachers Association held a concert, Friday evening, May 1st, in the Gault Institute, Valleyfield, with pupils from quite a number of schools in the District taking part.

Miss Bertha Heikkenin from Huntingdon High School, chairman of the Inter-school activities committees, acted as Master of Ceremonies.

The programme opened with "O Canada" followed by a Bunny Play by the Junior girls and boys of Ormstown High School. This was very well done and the next item was a recitation by Jacques Wendover of Nitro entitled Little Baptiste. A couple of short French plays by Huntingdon High School among the Junior children, followed by Rythms and Dances by pupils of the Gault Institute under the direction of Mrs. Spacey. There was an intermission of ten minutes and Howick High School put on a sketch "The Practical Joke" which drew a great deal of applause and certainly the four taking part all deserve a great deal of praise as their acting was excellent.

Phyllis and Sylvia Baird of Huntingdon High School did a tap dance number accompanied by Mr. E. A. Yates at the piano. Beauharnois Intermediate School certainly put lots of fun into their Square Dance. The last item was Rythms and Dances by the Gault pupils.

Chateauguay - Huntingdon W.I. Hold Annual Meeting

Mrs. W. E. Bernhardt Again Elected County President

Chateauguay-Huntingdon Counties Women's Institute held their 29th Annual Convention at Zion United Church, Dundee, on Friday, May 1st. In spite of weather conditions about 70 members and visitors attended. The county president, Mrs. W. E. Bernhardt, Athelstan, presided.

The address of welcome was given by Mrs. Lyle Currie, Dundee, and was responded to by Mrs. H. Palmer, Hemmingford. Two minutes' silence was observed in memory of the late Mrs. Donald McCormick, Brysonville.

The treasurer's report read by Mrs. Alex. Robb, Huntingdon, showed a balance on hand of $208.50. During the year the following money was given: Q.W.I. Service Fund $158.50; Save The Children Fund Including Christmas Cheer for The Adopted Child $72.50; Cerebral Palsy Fund $25.00; Ormstown Fair $124.16; Public Speaking Prizes $19.00; and Plant Sale $12.65.

The W.I. Booth at Ormstown Fair was discussed and it was decided to ask Mr. C. Dickson that a booth be reserved each year for the W.I. from now on. Also that material be bought for decorating and kept from year to year for this purpose. Huntingdon branch will be responsible this year for decorating this booth. Aubrey-Riverfield is in charge of the booth on Thursday morning; Howick on Thursday afternoon; Franklin on Friday morning and Huntingdon on Friday afternoon. Ormstown branch being responsible for the evening and Saturday morning. Members are to be reminded of the Parcel Post Sale. Also a special request for asparagus, horseradish, peppers and tomato plants for sale at the booth.

It was decided that we continue to adopt the same little Greek girl. Also that a letter of thanks and a small gift be sent to Mrs. Rennie, who audited the W.I Books.

$50.00 was voted towards the Q.W.I. Service Fund from the County. $10.00 each was voted to the Barrie Memorial and Huntingdon Hospitals.

All County Conveners gave excellent reports of the year's work. The seven branches, Aubrey-Riverfield, Dundee, Franklin, Hemmingford, Howick, Huntingdon and Ormstown have a total of 171 members and raised $1,921.00 during the year and spent $1,587.50. $300.00 was given as prize money at the school fairs held in Hemmingford and Howick. Franklin has plans made to hold a school fair this year.

On behalf of the County W.I., Mrs. W. E. Bernhardt honored Mrs. Alex. Robb, Huntingdon, with a Life Membership Pin.

It was decided to hold a public speaking contest again next spring.

The Plant Sale on Friday brought in $6.75.

Mrs. LeBaron, Provincial President addressed the gathering and thanked all conveners for their cooperation during the last year. She remarked that it was interesting to hear about those who had perfect attendance during the year at the monthly meetings of the W.I.

The questionnaire is being mailed to each branch making a survey as to any available homes suitable for a home for the aged.

The Short Course on Leadership Training at Macdonald College will be held May 25-29. Delegates from Pakistan and Egypt will be present for the first time at this 7th triennial convention. Canada Day will be August 21st at Maple Leaf Gardens, when about 11,000 rural women from Canada and the U.S.A. are expected. About 200 tickets have been spoken for from the Province of Quebec.

Following Mrs. LeBaron's address, Mrs. John Wallace, Ormstown, sang two solos, "The Lord's Prayer" and "From Day to Day." She was accompanied by Mrs. P. Osmond on the piano.

Mrs. Gordon Easton, Aubrey, won the prize donated by Mrs. Bernhardt for the best scrap book.

Miss Heikkinen, Domestic Science teacher of Huntingdon High School, gave an interesting and helpful talk on sewing. She advised not trying to sew anything too difficult at first. Before choosing a pattern consult measurements on back of envelope to suit your size. Choose material most suitable for your pattern. Most girls in school begin sewing about Grade 6 and by the time they are in Grade 10 they can make their own evening gowns.

She advised using good dressmaker pins for pinning on pattern. Use pinking shears as much as possible for cutting out. Complete sewing bodice first, then sleeves, and the skirt last. She prefers to let a dress hang 48 hours on hanger before hemming.

Mrs. C. Petch, Hemmingford, thanked Miss Heikkinen on behalf of all the members present.

The annual county convention will be held at Hemmingford next year. The semi-annual county convention at Aubrey-Riverfield.

Calendar Reform Still Being Sought

Eleven days vanished forever just 200 years ago — and the event touched off reverberations which still echo.

It happened when Great Britain and all its colonies around the world—the future United States included—switched from the calendar devised by Julius Caesar to the one originated 170 years before by Pope Gregory XIII.

September, 1792, had moved along quietly for two full days. When folks woke up the next morning it wasn't September 3, but September 14.

Pandemonium resulted.

Important persons—and lesser folk, too—thought they had lost their birthdays. Some people thought their lives had been shortened. Others fought over payment dates of wages and the interest on mortgages and bonds. Landlords and tenants battled over when the rent fell due. Angry mobs poured into London streets shouting: "Give us back our 11 days."

In times things simmered down.

The Gregorian calendar was only one of many efforts to reform the calendar that persists to this day. Man has suffered from calendar complications ever since he tried to fit the time measurement of the earth's rotation on its axis to the time measurement of the earth's revolution around the sun. It takes the earth a few seconds less than 365¼ days to encircle the sun—and it took man centuries to learn that.

Back in 45 B.C., when Julius Caesar wanted to change the old Roman calendar (which had only 365 days a year), he added a leap year every fourth year. This proved to be several minutes too much. After 1,600 years the calendar was about two weeks at variance with the seasons. This affected the date of Easter and the Roman Catholic Church became interested.

In time Pope Gregory XIII called a commission to design a new calendar, which was launched in 1582, with two important changes. First, the leap year rule was changed, so that there would be 97, instead of 100 leap years every 400 years. (Century years not divisible by 400 are not leap years.) Under this rule, the average length of the year is only 26 seconds too long, and it will take the calendar 3,323 years to accumulate an error of one day. The second change the Gregorian calendar made was to drop 10 days in October in order to bring the beginning of spring back to its traditional spot on the calendar.

The larger part of the world now has adopted the Gregorian calendar for international use (although some still use others at home). But efforts to reform the calendar have not stopped. A lot of people would like to see more changes. They point out that years differ, months and quarters have various lengths and start on different days, and that the number of working week-days is unevenly distributed among the months.

To correct some of these defects a 13 month calendar was suggested about 100 years ago by Auguste Comte, French philosopher. In it, all months would be alike and (according to a subsequent suggestion), the extra day would be put at the end of the year. The calendar was never used. Some opposed it on the grounds of too drastic change.

The World Calendar Association to-day has different ideas which, it claims, could iron out difficulties with less change.

"We need to consider the problems of the world at work," says Miss Elizabeth Achelis, president of the association. "A calendar whose main outlines were drafted 2,000 years ago when the fastest thing on wheels was a Roman chariot, has a lot of awkward angles in an atomic age. For instance, because of the uneven months and quarters and the various arrangements of the years, business, labor transportation and education schedules require new and time-consuming arrangements every year. Also, business finds it difficult to compare one quarter's profits with another accurately."

The association is working for adoption of a new worldwide calendar on January 1, 1956, when the change could be made smoothly. It would make every year the same and would give all quarters the same form and the the same length of 91 days. A one-day, year-end holiday would end each year and Leap Year day would fall between June 30 and July 1. Seventeen countries have thus far signified their willingness to adopt it.

Huntingdon Briefs

The spring Thankoffering of St. Andrew's W.M.S. was held in the Annex on Wednesday, April 29th, with the president, Mrs. George Paul, in the chair. Mrs. M. Ruddock read from Psalm 46, and roll call was responded to by a verse of Scripture containing the word "Praise."

Mrs. Paul spoke of a letter she received from C. Ritchie Bell about the annual Synodical meeting to be held in Montreal. An invitation was extended from the Mission Band to attend one of their meetings. This was accepted with pleasure.

Mrs. Moody reported on the visit to the Patterson Nursing Home, when a Sunshine bag of small gifts was distributed to the patients, who were very pleased to be remembered, and sent their sincere thanks to the W.M.S. members. Arrangements were made to entertain the players in the Ministrel Show on Wednesday night. It was decided to sell homemade candy during the intermission.

The guest speaker, Mrs. W. Tully, Athelstan, who was introduced by Miss Turner, read some Easter selections and Meditations on the Cross, which were very impressive. Mrs. Paul thanked Mrs. Tully and then called on Rev. R. D. Maclean, who spoke briefly on the value of missions in the Christian Church. After the offering, Mr. Maclean showed a screen for films which had been bought by the efforts of the Mission Band, and was available for the use of the W.M.S. members.

A pleasing feature of the afternoon was the singing by four little girls of the song, "What the Easter lilies say," the singers were Iris Maclean, Mildred Caldwell, Susan Ferns and Marjorie Douglas. Mrs. Maclean accompanied them on the piano.

Refreshments were served at the close and a pleasant social hour spent.

Clue to Cancer Prevention Seen in Sex Hormone Study

DENVER — Sex hormones, working in secret ways on women's breasts between ages 20 and 40 may start breast cancers appearing at 55 or 60, a physician said.

This is a clue to a treatment of breast cancers with both female and male sex hormones, which has benefitted a few women. It also is a long-range clue to prevention of human cancers.

The hormone guilt is indicated in mouse experiments by Dr. Robert Huseby, University of Colorado School of Medicine.

Specifically, he said, the fault seems to be in the amounts and inter-play of female and male sex hormones in the body. Female hormone stimulates the breast. Male hormone may protect the breast from too much female hormone. The balance of hormones may be out of kilter in women who later get breast cancer. Still other hormones may be involved.

Just what the mix-up in hormone pattern may be is still a mystery. If the normal balance can be learned, blood tests might make it possible to learn which women needed extra amounts of various hormones while young in order to prevent cancer later.

Dr. Huseby is using combinations of male and female sex hormone on women whose breast cancers can't be cured by surgery. Three of nine women have benefitted greatly, he said. The cancer of one woman was apparently still gone seven years later. Five were not helped at all, the results in another were doubtful.

The good effects may come from changing the pattern of sex hormones, correcting some fault that had existed for years. It is too early, he said, to tell whether this combination is a good treatment for cancer. The doses of hormones must be tailored to the individual woman.

Completes 25 Years Service As Town Secretary-Treasurer

Mr. E. C. Martin Gives Some Interesting Facts On Growth and Finances of Town

E. C. MARTIN

Mr. Erle C. Martin, Huntingdon Advocate, who is very well known to most people in Huntingdon and surrounding district, will complete, on May 7th, 25 years as Secretary-Treasurer of the Town of Huntingdon. Mr. Martin was appointed to this post at the meeting of the Town Council on May 7th, 1928, with a starting salary of $700 a year and has held that position since that time. He succeeded Mr. W. K. Philps who previously held that office.

At the approximate time of his appointment Mr. Martin opened his office at its present location, King Street, and has seen many changes in the Town Councils and activities of the Town during the elapsed period. The Mayor in 1928 was the late D. J. O'Connor, and the Councillors were the late Dougie Durocher, the late Daniel Faubert, Mr. John A. Hunter, the late James D. Bicknell, Mr. Thomas O'Hare and Mr. Walter S. Brown.

In an interview with Mr. Martin he stated that the Town came successfully through the depression years although there were a large number of people on relief, and that activities have remained on a pretty even keel during his association with the council. He has watched the town change from a town comprised of a majority of retired farmers to an industrial textile town. It has practically changed from an English speaking town to a French speaking town and has at the present time a number of different nationalities as its citizens. At the time when he was first appointed as Secretary-Treasurer, the council was composed of a group of solid men of high calibre who were good administrators and held a high sense of duty to their town.

The following statistics will help our readers to realize the growth of Huntingdon within the past 25 years. In 1927 the population stood at 1,480 and it is at present, in 1953, 3,000; in 1927, 1 new house was built and in 1952 permits were granted for 29 buildings; in 1927, 1 Public Building was erected, the present Fire Hall. The Mill Rate for 1927 was 17 mills and it still stands at that rate. Considering the greater population, and financial status of the town the tax rate has remained very even. The municipal tax for 1927 was $13,196 and for 1952 it was $40,272; Valuation 1927 was $775,800 and for 1952 it was $2,424,000; Water Tax 1927 was $5,633 and for 1952 it was $27,094; Business and Dog tax combined in 1927 was $1,393 and in 1952 it was $7,803. Total receipts in 1927 were $21,048 and in 1952 they were $87,000; Bonds outstanding in 1927 were $62,810 and in 1952 they were $245,100. In 1927 the town owed $9,500 in notes and in 1952 it owed $13,000 in notes.

The above figures will show the growth of the town during the past years and although the town has grown to this extent in some instances it is being serviced by practically the same means as when Mr. Martin received his appointment.

Next time Towser rushes into battle, you can nonchalantly produce this two-foot aluminum rod and apply it to the handiest part of the dog's anatomy. The resulting shock is quite harmless, but they say a few "treatments" cure the pugnacity of even the toughest tyke.

Of Many Things

By Ambrose Hills

My friend Joe was worried about a depression.

Joe hates depressions, as we all do. But Joe had a funny notion about them. He thought somebody, somewhere, caused them deliberately. He was fairly sure I didn't cause one, and that his neighbor didn't do it. The idea that Joe himself might have done a few things to cause a depression didn't enter his head. So I asked him a few questions.

"Joe," I said, "what caused the last depression?"

He said, very quickly, "Other countries quit buying our stuff. They didn't have the money."

"But wait," I said, "they must have had some money . . . a little bit. They didn't quite starve in Italy, you know; and they were better off in England then, I think, than they are even today."

"Well," he said. "They quit buying. And without foreign trade, we're sunk."

Joe is a great guy for over-simplification. He was partly right, of course, that we had priced ourselves out of the market by holding out for more than the market would pay. But he didn't like to go much farther than that. When I asked him why we didn't cut prices to hold overseas markets, he said, "Do you think those Wall Street robbers would cut prices?"

Joe usually gets around to blaming Wall Street. Not that he's a radical; it's only that it is a rather easy out when a problem gets tough. He knew, as well as I did, that to lower prices to prevent a depression would have cut pretty deeply into a lot of us who've never breathed the rich air of Wall Street.

I was teaching school when the depression came and I fought like a tiger not to take a cut in pay. Joe was in a factory that sold most of its goods overseas, and he and his fellow-workers were ready to strike before they'd take a cut. Joe's firm went bankrupt in 1933. And the farmers, who so often take it in the neck, fought just as hard to keep the price of grain up. None of us was willing to give an inch —until the economic world crashed around our ears, and we all took a bad licking, Wall Street included.

The only people who have any interest in provoking a depression here are those who would like to subjugate us. Surely it doesn't take an oracle to point that out to us! The Communists would love to see our system crack. That is why they urge upon us all sorts of nonsense. Their stooges and fellow-travellers here keep trying to lead us down the garden path. They promote strikes and unreasonable demands to try to make us price ourselves out of overseas markets. They wave the Wall Street ogre in our faces. They urge upon us social service schemes we can't always afford.

Depressions are caused by all of us. We can only blame them on ourselves. If we continue to produce fine goods at prices within the means of our customers, we need't worry about a depression. But if we get the fool notion that we can have all the good things of life while other nations foot the bill, we're asking for trouble and we'll get it.

Joe says that's not a very popular theory, but he agrees that it is true. He puts it this way: "You know, there's something in that. I'm a builder, and at the wage I'm getting now I don't think I could afford to hire myself!"

How many Canadians keep warm with oil?

More than 4 millions. Oil is used in the furnaces or heaters of more than a million Canadian homes—better than one in four.

Oil plays a large and growing part in our everyday living. How many of these questions about it can you answer?

How does Canada rank among the nations in known oil reserves—
8th? 17th? 21st?
➧ Far down the list a few years ago, Canada now ranks eighth. Except for a group of Middle East countries —Iran, Iraq, Kuwait and Saudi Arabia—only the U.S., Venezuela and Russia have larger reserves.

How many barrels of oil (35 gallons to a barrel) do you think Canadians use in a year—
8 millions? 165 millions? 300 millions?
➧ Last year 165 million barrels — about one gallon each day for every man, woman and child. Canada uses twice as much oil as she did six years ago.

In the past 10 years, the average wholesale prices of all commodities have risen 85 per cent. Have prices of Esso gasolines risen—more? less? about the same?
➧ Much less. The average wholesale price of Esso gasolines across Canada is up about one-third as much as the average for all commodities.

Energy produced at Niagara Falls each day is equal to that in 9,000 barrels of crude oil. Prairie oil fields now produce energy equal to how many "Niagaras"—
2? 11? 18?
➧ The energy of the oil produced in the western oil fields each day is about 18 times that generated at Niagara.

Taxes take a big part of a company's income. How would you say Imperial's 1952 tax bill compared with its dividends? Was it—greater? less? about the same?
➧ Taxes were $53 millions, about 2½ times dividends to shareholders For each dollar of income, Imperial paid 10¢ in taxes and 4¢ in dividends. Tax figures do not include gasoline sales tax paid at the pump.

Railways May Suffer Due To High Prices

MUCH is heard today of the railways not being able to meet expenses because costs of operation are too high. Some railways have decided to cut off trains due to lack of patronage causing severe losses on operation. It would appear from a news story in The Gazette, Montreal Daily, that railways may again suffer a loss in revenue. The article is headed – "P.O. Asks Truckers' Mail Bids", it goes on to say that bids have been asked of Montreal Trucking Firms for two routes out of Montreal covering towns in a 60-mile radius. A director of a transport association said the trucking industry will be able to give a faster, cheaper and more flexible service than the railways. He said the move had been brought about by 25.3 per cent increase in cost of delivery of mail by rail during the past several years. Montreal Postmaster Rene Boileau said the switch to trucks is part of a nation-wide program to get faster and better mail delivery. It is pointed out in the article however, that the rails will always carry the major bulk. The trucks will be used for first class mail.

We consider this could be the start of a big loss for the railways and also mean the laying off of a number of railroad workers. When a nation-wide delivery system is talked of, there is considerable volume of mail to be handled, even if only first class mail is the portion. When costs are increased beyond what might be considered fair, it is only reasonable that people should look for cheaper means if same can be obtained.

It would appear from the foregoing that just as Mr. Lewis and his miners drove rapid conversion from coal burning to oil burning in many ways, through demanding higher rates of pay with less hours, so in turn are the similar demands on the railways having effect.

It is quite evident that if the Post Office Dept. is to use the railways at the higher rate, that postal rates will have to be increased to the users of mail delivery. If rates are made higher, the cost of goods will also be increased to cover this extra cost in doing business. The consumer at the end of the line is going to have to pay more all around. On the other hand if the postal dept. can save money and thus retain its present rates, it will save the consumer the extra costs. But, the railways will suffer from loss of revenue from this part of their service and it is more than likely that a number of the employees will be out of jobs. If this is to be the case, what comfort will the extra pay rates achieve in the end. The Union Leaders will need to give such matters a clear thought. If our railways are already suffering through operating costs being too high and then they are to lose their various sources of revenue because rates are too high, how will they be able to operate at all?

Coronation Less Than A Month Away

A great event of particular interest to British Commonwealth Nations and also to the whole world, takes place in less than one month. The coronation of Queen Elizabeth II will take place on June 2nd, in London, England. Plans for attendance at the actual event in London have been made and many a private citizen is either on their way, or soon will be. Special contingents from the various countries of the Commonwealth have already arrived, or are enroute, to take part in the great parade of pageantry.

Meanwhile, what are those left at home doing for a suitable recognition of this great event? From many towns and cities comes word that plans are already well under way for some form of celebration of the coronation as a form of remembrance of a historical event that comes only once in a long while. What is Huntingdon going to do? What are the other centres in the Beauharnois District going to do? Is this event to pass without any recognition whatsoever in these parts? If the event is to be ignored by the general public, surely some of the lesser organizations could plan something on a small scale for their memberships. The schools throughout the entire area should certainly be planning something for the students and the School Boards should see that suitable time is allowed for such plans. It may be an awkward time of year, but in this case an exception should certainly be made and extra effort put into some planning. A holiday has been announced for June 2nd, but this in itself does not mean much unless suitable recognition of what the holiday means is forthcoming.

If any organization in this area is planning to hold some kind of coronation remembrance, it is time that it was announced. Time is fast running out for preparations for public participation and success depends upon programmes being known well in advance. Queen Elizabeth is also Queen of Canada and we should all remember that. It should also be bourne in mind the great ovation that was given her and her husband at the time of their visit to Canada. Let us not wait until the last minute before deciding what will be done.

Your Help To Be Solicited

PLANS are rapidly shaping up whereby The Huntingdon Home and School Association will be asking the assistance of ratepayers of The Huntingdon School District and former students of the Huntingdon High School, to make contributions toward the purchase of books for the High School Library. In the matter of a few days, letters will be mailed out to interested parties explaining the plan and seeking the assistance needed. It is intended that the money contributed will be used to buy books only and it is thus hoped that a generous response will be obtained from the campaign which will run at the end of this month.

For a number of years the High School Library has been sadly neglected, but it is now being brought up to date. The new books already in the library have been properly catalogued by an experienced librarian and this work has been donated by Miss E. Macfarlane, while the cost of the supplies has been paid for by the Huntingdon Home and School Association. Other willing helpers have donated their time to helping Miss Macfarlane and thus a good start has been made to improving the library. The need now is for new books of all types to make a varied assortment of reading and reference for the students of the school. This will be the basis of the campaign – to secure the extra books.

Regarding the renovation of the Library room, the Association is planning to ask the School Board to look after this and to use the grant obtained for this purpose from the Provincial Government to partially offset the cost. It is hoped that the library will be ready by the new school year following the summer recess.

We believe this is a worthwhile project and worthy of the consideration of all ratepayers and former students. Incidentally in connection with the latter, a committee of Miss M. Pringle, Allan Martin and Mr. Sidney Smith, would be glad to receive the names and addresses of former students from those who may know of same. This is required to make up a mailing list for sending out letters. You will be helping the children at your own school toward encouragement for better reading and book learning. Already the students are taking a greater interest in books and this is what is required. You can help further this interest by contributing in this campaign.

That there are lots of corn in the country is proved by William J. Walsh having sold lumber for 18 silos, and expects to sell more.

The building of the new dam is going on rapidly under the direction of Mr. Donald McNair. It is six feet thick at the base and three at the top.

August 31

The old wooden bridge that spanned the river at Lorne Ave., has been pulled down. Only the piers now stand and they are being removed. Lapierre, the contractor, has commenced laying the cement foundation for the abutments.

The District of Beauharnois fell within the Second Region for the Agricultural Merit Competition of 1911 and there are many entries by its farmers. The judges were Joseph Delard, Thomas Drysdale and Arsene Denis, who have made their award. We are pleased to announce the gold medal goes to Alex. Younie of Brysonville, and that he has won it by an exceptionally high score, namely 95.87 point. The score of the winner last year, William Oswald of Two Mountains, was 93.21 and it was considered high. The following is the ranking of the first 15. That Chateauguay should have nearly swept the board redounds to the credit of its farmers:

Gold Medal, Alex. Younie, 95.87; Silver Medals, James Ritchie, John Geddes, J. W. Logan, J. M. Logan, James McKell, Andrew Geddes, M. Bedudor, H. Latumeau, J. B. Vinet, John Brown, Stirrat Cameron, John Milne, Jos. Dulude, and Jos. Trudeau in that order.

September 7

At the meeting of milk-shippers held in Montreal on Monday, the price of milk for the 7 months beginning 1st October was fixed at 20 cents per gallon, and that of cream at 4 cents. percent of butter fat, both delivered free in the city.

September 14

The scarcity of potatoes is shown by the bringing in of a car load from New Brunswick and their being quickly disposed of at $1.50 a bag. They had been retailing in the stores at 60c the peck and difficult to get.

October 5

Athelstan—Through the efforts of Dr. Rowat, who is a member of the Provincial Board of Education, we now have a model school here with 19 pupils of whom six are from outside of the school district. Miss Jean Hamilton, who is a graduate of Macdonald College is in charge of this department.

October 9

The curlers are growing enthusiastic over their new rink, and they have reason, for there will not be a finer curling rink outside of Montreal. The building is now being shingled.

A new teacher has been added to the Academy staff. J. Barclay McMillan, a graduate of last year taking Grade IV Elementary and I Model. Miss Chalmers who formerly taught these classes is now teaching II Model. The change was made necessary because Miss Cleland who has been teaching II Model now teaches the higher grades French.

November 9

An idea of the traffic on the N.Y.C. may be got by the report kindly furnished by the collector of customs at Athelstan. During the month of October 233 trains passed the custom house outwards, drawing 1690 loaded cars and 103 cars in transit through Canada. During the same month 108 trains passed inwards.

Weekly Review

British-American Commonwealth

By LEWIS MILLIGAN

American politicians, and economists in particular, now realize that the United States cannot stand alone. This is made very plain in a "Statement on National Policy" issued by the Committee for Economic Development, the members of which represent a wide range of industrial, commercial and educational interests in the United States. The Statement is contained in a large booklet entitled, "BRITAIN'S ECONOMIC PROBLEM AND ITS MEANING FOR AMERICA," which at the outset says: "Despite her present economic difficulties, Britain remains our strongest and closest ally. The solution of her economic problem and the strengthening of the British Commonwealth and Anglo-American partnership have a special importance for the United States and for the whole free world."

That is a frank and significant admission, and the Committee adds: "A new approach to Britain's economic problem must be found . . Many of the measures needed are combined United States-United Kingdom - Commonwealth measures." The connecting hyphens in that sentence may not be intended to suggest the combining of the United States with the British Commonwealth, but the National Policy prescribed reads to me very like a proposal that the United States should underwrite the economy of the British Empire, if not to take it over! The Committee further admits that American commercial policies have reduced the ability of other countries to earn the dollars they need to pay for American exports. "These policies, no longer justified on grounds of national interest," says the Committee, "keep other countries dependent on American aid, adding substantially to our tax burden and leading to less efficient use of our resources." The Committee therefore makes the following recommendations:

(1) That we continue to negotiate selective reductions in our tariffs through an extended Trade Agreement Act, free of weakening legislative amendments.
(2) That Congress grant the President authority to reduce tariff duties unilaterally, under principles and limitations laid down by Congress.
(3) Simplification of our customs procedures.
(4) Progressive removal of import quotas on our agricultural imports.
(5) Great liberalization, if not outright repeal, of the 'Buy America Act'.

The instability of sterling and its unequal competition with the dollar in exchange is the basic problem of Britain's economic condition. The Committee presents a thorough analysis of that situation, and it offers some criticism of Britain's extravagant domestic policies which it contends have led to inflation. It also points to the slowness of British industry in making needed investments, and its failure to adapt its products to foreign markets and undertake necessary selling efforts: The solution suggested in this connection is "much more intensive trade and financial relations between Britain and the Commonwealth and the United States . . . A more secure access for British industry to the American market. A greater sense of security for American investors in Britain and other parts of the Commonwealth."

The pity of it all is that it has taken two world wars to bring these obvious truths home to the economists and politicians of the United States. Even between those two wars there were times when American politicians thought they could get along very well without Britain, and that the preservation of the British Commonwealth was no affair of theirs. Indeed, they frequently spoke and acted as if the British Empire were a nuisance and a hindrance to the United States and should be disbanded. Criticism in the American press, for example, was largely responsible for the secession of India with the disruptive consequences in that country and the weakening of British influence and power in the Near and Far East.

Beauharnois

BEAUHARNOIS — The Annual British and Foreign Bible Society was held in St. Edward's Presbyterian Sunday School Hall on the evening of Wednesday, April 29. There were representative groups from Trinity Church and St. Edward's. Mr. W. E. Kilgour, president, acted as chairman. Rev. C. D. Rayner spoke on the tremendous task the Society has in its translations and distributions of the Bible. Amazing results from the world-wide activities left no doubt of the enterprize behind the work of the organization. In March of 1954 150 years of Bible work will be celebrated and each year admits a new language. In actuality 1952 there were seven new languages added to this universal reading of the Bible. A movie of the life of William Tyndale was appealing and sensitive. This Reformer of the fifteenth century. From his early youth while living in the "Cotswalds" the desire to bring to the world the word of God dominated his mere existence. William Tyndale migrated to Germany and did not again return to his native land. The first printing of the Bible was done in Cologne in 1525. Translations were smuggled into England, his first attempt was fruitless as most of his manuscripts were burned by the ruling clergy of that era. Sir Thomas Moore befriended Tyndale. The New Testament was the first transcription and as manuscript translations of the Old Testament to the end of Chronicles which was afterwards used in Matthews Bible. Tyndales used Eramus edition of the Greek Testament and Latin Translation of the same. William Tyndale was burned at the stake as a heretic at Antwerp in the year 1536.

His last words reported to be directed to the reigning King of England, Henry VIII, that his eyes would be opened and within a year of Tyndale's death a Command went out for Distribution throughout the Country.

Officers were elected for the year: Mr. R. B. Calhoun, President, and George Ashcraft, Secretary-Treasurer. Mr. MacKay Anderson on behalf of the Congregation of St. Edward's presented Rev. H. G. Walsh and Mrs. Walsh with a cheque regretting the severing of a long association between the two churches due to the retirement of Rev. Walsh from Trinity Church. Co-operation and friendliness had always been predominant throughout the years of ministry. Mrs. H. Brown took over for the ladies by giving Mrs. Walsh a sheath of beautiful mauve Iris and white Carnations. Refreshments were served at the close of the evening.

Badminton Club

The Badminton Club held a banquet at the Beauharnois Hotel on Thursday, May 30th, as a wind-up to their active season. There were 40 people present and all voted the evening a memorable one. On Sunday the Badminton Club was entertained at an invitation Round Robin held annually in Malone. Seven clubs were represented in the tournament: Malone, Massena, Cornwall, Valleyfield, Huntingdon, Chateauguay and Beauharnois, with the total number of players reaching an all time high of 116 in both A and B classes. The Malone Chamber of Commerce as in former years presented a trophy for competition by one mixed team from the individual Club. When this competition was first played off in 1945, there were only three clubs entered and now that Badminton has again become more popular the playing is keener and the team game at its peak. This tournament was fought for and won by two Beauharnois players, Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Riley winning over the Huntingdon couple. The trophy was presented to the winners at a banquet held at the Malone Golf Club.

Sports

Beaver Sports Association held a meeting at Howard Smiths on Tuesday, April 28th, with a very good representative figure present. Elected officers for the season are as follows — president, Harold Loke; vice-president, Roger Boiscert; secretary, Phil Lemay; treasurer, L. Landry. A discussion on softball followed and a decision made to elect a committee, namely: president, manager and secretary-treasurer to take care of Industrial League and Inter-Mill League.

EVERYBODY HAPPY

TORONTO, (CP) — The Waverley Road Baptist church here built a sound-proof nursery at the rear of its auditorium for mothers to leave their babies during services. A supervisor and baby-sitters are provided, and the services can be seen through the glass front, while the minister can be heard through a public address system.

The Week At Ottawa...

OTTAWA - (CP) — A cheque-exchanging deal between two friends in Saskatchewan which began four years ago had a dramatic aftermath in the Commons last week.

One of the two men, Austin Edwin Dewar, 40-year-old Liberal member for Saskatchewan's Qu'Appelle constituency resigned his seat.

Before he left, Mr. Dewar denied any "intentional wrongdoing" in his dealings with Harvey Lunam of Regina, head of a construction company handling federal contracts.

In a speech of resignation before a packed house, Mr. Dewar said that between 1949 and 1951 he had swapped cheques to help Mr. Lunam — "an old friend" in financial need, but stopped the practice when he came to realize that combined with his position as a member of parliament it might create a "false impression."

He said he had not profited at the expense of the public treasury or from Mr. Lunam — who held a number of government construction contracts, some of which were not completed.

Dewar's resignation developed into more than a personal question. It provided fuel for a new political controversy in Parliament that may echo in the federal election campaign later this year.

Opposition parties led by George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, demanded an inquiry into government contracts given Mr. Lunam. The motion for the inquiry was rejected by Prime Minister St. Laurent on grounds that it questioned confidence in the government, and it was defeated by the Liberal majority in a vote.

"An Abuse"

The prime minister, however, termed the cheque-exchanging practice "an abuse" which "took an unfair advantage of the bankers."

The Commons debate also swirled around another question — the position of sub-contractors to whom Mr. Lunam's company owed money when it went into insolvency before completing some of the government work.

Opposition speakers claimed Mr. Lunam owed these sub-contractors $239,000 and criticized the government for not protecting them. Mr. Drew said the Regina builder was known for "notorious failure" to fulfil non-government contracts and John Diefenbaker (PC — Lake Centre) called Mr. Lunam a "fly-by-night" operator. Both said the government should have known this before letting contracts to his firm.

Mr. St. Laurent and Works Minister Fournier replied that the government had not known of Mr. Lunam's past failures. The contracts had been awarded in good faith on the lowest-bidder basis to the Lunam company.

Mr. Fournier said his department was dealing only with the Lunam company — not with sub-contractors. Mr. St. Laurent said these firms should try to collect any debts through bankruptcy proceedings.

Try A Comeback

Mr. Dewar's speech made it clear he will again seek the Liberal nomination in Qu'Appelle. He would "place myself in the hands of my constituents — They will understand and have an opportunity to return me."

He referred to stories in the Toronto Telegram which said he got cheques totalling $71,000 from Mr. Lunam. He recalled that in 1945 Mr. Lunam loaned him money to help buy a hotel, that this was repaid in 1947 and that later they exchanged cheques to help Mr. Lunam "when he was hard pressed for funds to meet his obligations."

After his first election to the Commons in 1949, Mr. Dewar said, he did not believe he was violating the spirit of the law as it applies to members of the house. But fuller knowledge of parliamentary practice brought him to "realize that the combination of circumstances might create false impressions and I discontinued exchanging cheques."

Other Matters

The Commons dealt with other matters — notably agriculture — as it worked its way through the 1953-54 estimates of various government departments in the busy week.

Wheat was a major topic. With all opposition parties giving qualified support, the Commons approved the new three-year International Wheat Agreement for bulk sales of wheat. The top price is $2.05 a bushel and the floor $1.55.

Opposition members expressed concern over the fact that Britain, Canada's top wheat customer, is dropping out of the agreement, unwilling to go beyond $2 a bushel.

Trade Minister Howe doubted Britain would come into the agreement before the July 15 deadline, but said he thought Canada will retain her British wheat markets even if the United Kingdom does not come in.

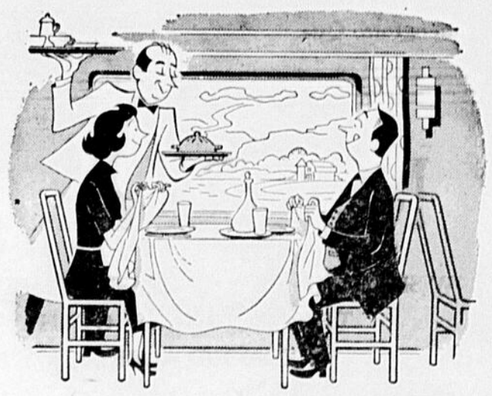

Agriculture Minister Gardiner said Canada's farmers had a net income of just under $2,000,000,000 in 1952 after the record year of $2,200,000,000 income in 1951. He said indications are that this "satisfactory position" will be maintained.

There are some surpluses, however, and the government holds stocks of butter, beef, pork and skim milk bought to stabilize prices. Mr. Gardiner said 71,000,000 pounds of canned pork is expected to be disposed of this year.

The much-discussed South Saskatchewan power and irrigation project cropped up several times during the week. John Diefenbaker (PC - Lake Centre) said the government was guilty of "fantastic" excuses for delaying construction of the project, which a royal commission recently rejected as uneconomic at the present time.

The minister of agriculture said the federal government couldn't proceed until the question of water rights was settled among the prairie provinces.

THE BANKS SERVING YOUR COMMUNITY

Maple Leaf Grange

Mr. Leon Beaudin, Agronome for the County, outlined in an impromptu manner, at Maple Leaf Grange meeting on the 23rd, a new Five-Year Programme and Competition for Farm Improvement under the Quebec Department of Agriculture, in which twenty-eight farmers have been enrolled. Various projects are undertaken according to the individual situation and need, with strict records and supervision. Estimates of progress will be discussed at meetings from time to time throughout the term. To remain in good standing a farmer must obtain 65 per cent of points in the first year, $20.00 awards are given yearly with $1,000 to be distributed according to aggregate points at end of 5th year, as a bonus for establishing some necessary permanent improvement.

Each farm in the competition will be treated as a unit, as a general over-all plan would not apply to such a variety of soils and drainage conditions. In signing up for the Competition a farmer agrees to abide by the regulations during the five years, such as keeping a farm accounting record, etc.

Pasture improvement is being applied on twelve farms and we are trying out new types of seeding with Bird's-foot Trefoil and Lidino Clover, according to soil conditions, in sections, to which fertilizers will be applied under direction, said Mr. Beaudin. We will follow up these experiments with the farmers so as to be able to spread knowledge of results through meetings and discussions.

Some of the Bird's-foot Trefoil seed had been obtained from Grange members who had become interested in Pasture Improvement through the programme and literature distributed by New York State Grange and C.I.L. films a few years ago.

Mr. W. L. Carr thanked Mr. Beaudin for his interesting address and said that those farmers not in the competition would be sure to follow the results, as a great many were interested in pasture improvement.

The Lecturer's Hour, conducted by Mrs. Rosemary Cosgrove, included also songs, reading by Miss Bessie Graham and amusing games directed by Basil Kelly. The chairman, Mrs. Mae Goodfellow, and members of Hospitality Committee, provided the 46 members with refreshments of jelly salads, rolls, cake and coffee in the newly decorated dining room. At the head table were the guests, Mr. and Mrs. Fay Hapgood of Malone, founders of Maple Leaf Grange twelve years ago, the Master, Charles Mackenzie and several charter members.

At the preceding Grange meeting Mrs. Fay Hapgood addressed the Grange in the official capacity of Deputy State Master. She congratulated Maple Leaf on the splendid reports of progress, referring to number of applications for membership, the community efforts and Hall improvements reported. Advice as to duties of various comittees and important degree programs under way in preparation for the National Grange Meeting to be held in Burlington, Vermont, in November were stressed. The Grange is proud of its record as a farmers' fraternity but it welcomed members from other callings, said Mrs. Hapgood. Mr. Hapgood, Juvenile Deputy, spoke briefly on the importance of the training of children in the home and Grange.

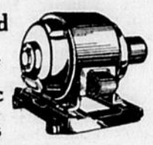

Miss Margaret Wilson spoke about the Home Bureau, now with fifty members, that meets on Wednesday nights in Grange Hall, until end of June, and invited other women who may be interested, to attend.

The Neighbor Night Program "Fraternity for Peace", will be given by Bangor Grange at Maple Leaf on May 5th.

The card party at Maple Leaf Grange last Thursday night filled the hall to capacity with 28 tables. Ladies prizes for "500" were won by Mrs. Gertrude Scanlon; Consolation, Miss Margaret Rankin. Men's first, prize, Mr. George Collum; consolation, John Cunningham.

Bridge was played at five tables. Two first prizes were awarded (ladies) Mrs. Irvin Laberge; (men) Mr. Percy Nesbit. Consolations went to Mrs. R. Daniel and Mrs. Bert Rankin. Door prizes were drawn by Mrs. Lucy McCormick and Mrs. George Collum. Four table prizes went to Margaret Rankin, Mrs. Geo. Colum, Percy Nesbit and Mr. Brigham Scanlon.

A lovely shower was given to Miss Elizabeth Schnieder at the home of Mrs. Rod Arthur on Thursday, April the 17th, with neighbours from Rockburn and vicinity attending. A beautiful covered wagon was drawn in by little Miss Lynda Arthur assisted by Master Hughie Barr. The gifts were — a mint-green chenille bedspread, two-tone blanket, sheets and pillow cases, doilies, dish towels, and many other useful articles for the house. She thanked everyone for all the lovely presents and invited all to visit her when she will live in Sweetsburg. Games were played, Miss Margaret Barr won a gift. Lunch was then served by the hostesses, Mrs. Wallace Barr, Mrs. Ernest Pringle and Mrs. Rod Arthur. The evening was well spent by all.

Mr. and Mrs. Ken Lanktree and daughters Leanna and Susan, of Massena, N.Y., and Mrs. L. Lepine of Montreal were all week-end guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Lewis of "Shady Lane".

Mr. and Mrs. Ted Norman and son Wayne of Ville St. Pierre were week-end guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Beaudin.

Dundee

DUNDEE—Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Fraser, also Mr. and Mrs. Lester Fraser and two daughters drove to Montreal on Sunday afternoon, April 26th to visit Mr. R. G. Steven who underwent an operation for cataracts on Monday, April 20th, in the Royal Victoria Hospital. Mrs. Steven travelled by bus on Monday this week to see her husband who, it is reported by the hospital authorities, is progressing favorably.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Smallman, Dundee Centre, observed their 40th wedding anniversary on Tuesday evening, April 21st when they were fêted by members of their own immediate family at the family homestead. Present for the occasion were Mr. and Mrs. George Taylor, Herdman, Mr. and Mrs. Roy McNicol and daughters, Jane and Susan, Mrs. Bruce Scriver and son Freddie of St. Lambert. An enjoyable evening was spent playing cards, following which delicious refreshments, including an anniversary cake, were served. At the close of the evening Mr. and Mrs. Smallman were presented with a radio and were wished many more years of happiness together. Mrs. Smallman was the former Miss Anna Fraser whose parents always summered at the "Fraser" Island on Lake St. Francis. Her father was a minister in the Presbyterian Church in the U.S. and held pastorates in New York State, one being in Champlain where Mrs. Smallman received most of her education. Mr. Smallman operates the family farm on a limited basis and buys and sells stock considerably.

Mr. Burnie Fleming, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Fleming left recently for Kan-A.-Mouche Lodge in Northern Quebec where he has obtained employment with Mrs. Carmel B. Daury, who operates a fishing and hunting lodge at St. Michel des Saints, 65 miles north of Joliette. The Lodge is not very far from Mont Tremblant. Burnie expects to serve on the staff as a fishing and hunting guide and will be working with four others at the Lodge. Answering an advt. he saw in the Montreal Star and obtaining an interview with the owner last week who resides in the city during the winter he was immediately hired. Burnie has had considerable experience with river work locally around Winfrey's Island Lodge on Lake St. Francis.

During the duck hunting season last Fall on October 17th, 1952, Mr. Guy Stowell, G.C. and P., Isle of Skye, Dundee, Que., shot a black, male wild duck while out duck shooting on Lake St. Francis. After hauling the large bird into the boat he noticed it was banded and numbered. He notified the authorities of his find and in February a biologist from the Dept. called on him and picked up the band. A few weeks ago, he received notification from the Wildlife Authorities that the history of the old drake was as follows: Although there was no way of knowing exactly how old he was still he was quite an aristocrat of the duck tribe and he had successfully evaded the huners' guns for at least 10 years before ending up in the soup pot or the oven. The official banding report on the old boy was as follows:

Species—Black duck. Age—Adult. Sex—Male. Banded—at Mattamuskeet National Wildlife Refuge, New Holland, Hyde County, North Carolina, by Maynard Johnson. Date—January 23, 1943.

This information was relayed to Ottawa from the U.S. Dept. of the Interior, Fish and Wild Life Service, Patuxent Research Refuge, Laurel, Maryland, U.S.A.

By means of these numbered bands important investigations relative to the migrations and life histories of North American birds are being carried on. Volunteer co-operators are scattered across the continent—Alaska, Canada, Mexico the U.S., South America and the Hawaiian Islands, carrying on this work and banding the birds.

Wild birds banded and released in North America have been recovered as far away as Argentina, Siberia, Africa, Greenland, France, North Cook Islands of New Zealand in the South West Pacific.

From these recovery reports the ages which birds attain in the wild are being ascertained. Some examples are: Black Duck—17 years; Caspian Tern—22 years; Purple Martin—14 years; Chimney Swift—12 years.

Scientific banding or "ringing" goes back many years—to 1899, in the Old World and was first organized on this side of the Atlantic in 1909. In 1920 the program was taken over by the U.S. Biological Survey. By authority of the Migratory Bird Treaty Act, bird banding in North America is under the General Direction of the Fish and Wildlife Service of the U.S. Dept. of the Interior in cooperation with the Canadian Wildlife Service of the Dept. of Resources and Development. 2,000 volunteer cooperators operating under Special Permit do most of the banding. Altogether nearly 6,000,000 birds have been banded, with the number increasing at the rate of four to five hundred thousand a year. From these banded birds some 500,000 recovery bands have been taken. The success of the banding program is absolutely dependent on the voluntary cooperation of the general public in reporting all the banded birds which are found.

Band numbers and letters are stamped in the following ways: 40—654321 or 20—654321 or 526—007 or A. 654321.

Anyone shooting or finding a banded bird is advised as follows: if the bird is alive—to take down all the numbers and release it with the band still attached. If the bird is dead, remove the band and flatten it out, tape it to a letter and in either case forward it to the Branch of Wildlife Research, Section of Distribution and Migration of Birds, Ottawa, Canada, together with the name and address of the sender and in the course of two to three months an answer will be received.

Officials of the Wildlife Service have been in Dundee with a view to expanding their banding program on Lake St. Francis where there are usually great numbers of wild ducks, especially in the Spring, but they find that the river bottom is altogether too muddy for the traps used in the banding process to operate properly. A few weeks ago it was noticed that a short distance off shore the lake water was seemingly alive with all breeds of ducks—a paradise for the bander if conditions were right. It is understood that considerable banding work is being carried on down on St. Louis, west of Montreal.

Canadian Garden Hints

By GORDON LINDSAY SMITH

Keeping Ahead

There are all sorts of special wrinkles that experienced gardeners employ for keeping ahead and saving both time and labour. One of these is the soaking of seed before planting, especially seed of reasonable size, say that of sweet peas or bigger. By soaking for several hours in water immediately previous to planting, germination is hastened and growth speeded by several days, perhaps a week. With the earliest potatoes, sometimes it is a good thing to allow a few of the tubers to sprout in warm sunshine in a window. Then we plant very carefully with the sprouts undamaged and pointing upwards. With carrots and beets it will help to prepare the rows with special care, digging out the poor or hard soil to a depth of six inches or a foot, and filling with rich soil with plenty of humus and manure, and all pressed down firmly. In such the seeds will germinate quickly. Because this special soil is very open there will be less need for thinning and the roots will grow straight. With melons, cucumbers and squash we usually sow in specially rich hills with some old rotten manure if we can find it. We may also cover for a few weeks with glass or some of the special paper caps to protect from late frost or cool nights. With all bedding plants, it is a good plan to pinch back after transplanting and especially to remove any flowers or buds. This pinching encourages stouter and healthier growth and in the end we get much hardier and bigger blooms. In transplanting, too, it will help against shock, if we give a pinch of chemical fertilizer placed close to but not touching the roots.

Maximum Production

When the garden is small and one wants to make the most of it, there are various ways of growing two crops or practically so on the same piece of land. Of course in this intensive sort of vegetable gardening, extra fertilizer is essential and the soil must be well worked and rich. In double cropping we alternate rows of an early kind with a later one, for instance, radish and carrots, or lettuce and beans, or peas and potatoes. We also have less space than normal between the rows, if necessary no more than 12 or 15 inches. The early stuff, of course, comes on quickly and is used up before the later maturing vegetables require full room. Another practice is to follow the harvesting of the first vegetables like the peas, lettuce, spinach, radish, early onions, etc., with another sowing of the same or something else that will be ready say in August or September. Then there are certain crops like squash, pumpkins that we can plant in the outside rows of corn, or we can have staked tomatoes along the end of any vegetable row and cucumbers along the fence.

With flowers, too, it is possible to get double crops, in fact nearly all gardeners do, and some have more. Among the spring flowering bulbs they set out well started petunias, asters, zinnias, marigolds, etc. These come into bloom within a short time after the last tulips, and in some cases the first of these are followed again by later set out plants or by annuals from seeds such as nasturtiums, alyssum, cosmos, etc. By careful spacing and planning and by using both perennials and annuals it is possible in most parts of Canada to have some bloom in the garden from the time of the crocusses in March or April until the chrysanthemums in October.

Weeding de Luxe

The old back-breaking job of hand weeding has practically disappeared, or it should have. All that is necessary now is to spray with one of the chemical weed killers. A couple of applications about a month apart, (to catch any weeds that may have sprouted after the first dose) will keep a lawn practically weed free.

For driveways and paths these sprays can also be used and if we wish to stop all growth, grass as well as weeds, we can use other materials like special chemicals, rock salt or used engine oil. Some of these things will also keep down the dust, and protect from frost.

Sweet, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Sweet, of Cooks Lines. She was born at that place on April 14, 1888. They were married February 7, 1916 and have lived there ever since.

She is survived by her husband, two sons and three daughters, Anna E. Elder, Margaret E. Arthur, Boyd Settlement; Isabell B. Fury, Brooklet; Fred J. and Allen S., also six grandchildren, and her parents. A brother predeceased her in 1926.

She was active in church work and ever ready to lend a helping hand.

Services were held in Rennie's United Church on Tuesday afternoon, the Rev. Travis officiating. Burial was in Hillside cemetery.

New U.N. Chief Hears About His Job

Why Smoking is Helpful In Conduct of Business Is Shown by Professor

There is sound foundation for the introduction of "a good cigar" and the "pipe of peace" into affairs of business and state, according to Professor Erich Knaffl-Lenz of the University of Vienna. Smoking helps to increase an individual's sociability, lessen his preoccupation with his ego, relieve anxiety and banish fatigue.

In the Bulletin on Narcotics, published by the United Nations Department of Social Affairs, Dr. Knaffl-Lenz suggests that it is not the nicotine content of tobacco that plays a decisive role in its enjoyment, but rather the packing, the form and color of the cigar, the wrapper, the aroma, and the type of pipe.

"All the senses are engaged in smoking — touch, sight, smell and taste," he adds. "Feelings of hostility which might be aroused by an unwelcome interruption of work do not materialize, because the occupation of all the senses produces an impression of activity, which is in fact non-existent. Boredom does not arise, and mental work is more readily accomplished."

Dr. Knaffl-Lenz regards some of the drugs which affect the central nervous system as harmless and merely a means of enjoyment. He includes spices, caffein-containing beverages and tobacco in the harmless group; but points out that alcohol, opium, morphine and heroin become dangerous poisons if taken in excess.

The value of caffein-containing beverages as stimulants is due almost exclusively to the stimulating effect of caffein on the brain, as a result of which fatigue is banished, mental concentration and the process of thought facilitated and a mild state of euphoria (sense of well-being or buoyancy) produced. Physical capacities are heightened.

"The psychomotor stimulation, which is not unwelcome in sport but is disturbing to mental activity, is weakened by the volatile oils contained in tea," writes the Viennese professor. "Tea is therefore the appropriate stimulant for intellectual workers and coffee for those engaged in sport."

Turning to the more dangerous drugs taken for their effect on the brain, such as opium, morphine, cocaine, etc., Dr. Knaffl-Lenz says that people predisposed to addiction to these drugs belong to a type of neurotic "characterized by a disparity between their abilities and their need for recognition." He attributes this disparity not to lack of intelligence, but to "reduced powers of concentration and endurance caused in turn partly by over-excitability and partly by the tendency of the nervous system to become easily and quickly fatigued".

He adds that often the symptoms of a disposition to addiction can be traced back to early infancy and include lack of appetite, hypersensitivity to noises, smells and pains, susceptibility to mental and physical fatigue, disturbed sleep, and an inclination to depression.

Ste. Agnes

W.A. Meeting

STE. AGNES—The Women's Association was entertained at the home of Mrs. Gordon Fraser on Wednesday afternoon, April 29th, with Mrs. Fraser, Mrs. Robt. Steven and Mrs. Donald Fraser as joint hostesses. The vice-president, Mrs. Clarence Platt conducted the business meeting, while the devotional period was led by Mrs. Wm. Leslie. Thirteen members answered the roll call by naming a Canadian of interest. The buying committee reported that three new card tables had been purchased, and also a new hot plate for use in the church kitchen. The secretary, Mrs. Robinson, gave a detailed report of the committee appointed to purchase furniture for the Manse. New floor covering has been laid in the kitchen and it has been newly papered and painted. Cottage curtains have been hung and a used kitchen set, comprising a table, buffet and four chairs have been purchased for the kitchen. Red predominates in this room. The dining room has a new congoleum rug of gray on a wine background. The dining room set has been polished to a high lustre by the two Dutch ladies hired to do the cleaning of the Manse, and who, by the way, have done an excellent job. Both the living room and dining room have matching plastic drapes, congoleum rugs, and new light green wallpaper. A living room set comprising a green studio couch, one green chair and one wine chair were chosen for this room. A dark walnut coffee table completes the picture here.

The committee bought for the front bedroom upstairs a light coloured metal bed, closely resembling grained wood, and a dresser in a light wood with a large mirror. An inner spring mattress and steel slat springs go with this bed. Blue plastic curtains make this room very pretty. The second bedroom upstairs already had a bed and chest of drawers in it, and the committee were able to find a used dressing table of a matching dark wood. The dressing table is of an older style than those used at the present time, but it boasts a bench and three good mirrors and it was felt that it was an exceptionally good buy. A felt mattress was bought for the bed in this room. The walls here are blue, the floor gray and the plastic curtains are pink. Mrs. Wm. Leslie donated two beautiful braided rugs for use in these two bedrooms for which all are very grateful. The curtains in the bathroom are green and the ones in the hall are white. The study came out on the short end of the deal but managed to get tailored drapes of white and wine plastic, and an unused desk from the school has been brought over. This, along with a few chairs completes the furniture for the study. As time goes on, further purchases may be made, but as it stands now, the Manse is really very comfortably furnished. The Board of Managers voted the sum of $200. to the Buying Committee to help defray costs.

The chairman of the Finance Committee, Mrs. Gordon Fraser reported on the activities of this group. Rev. Mr. Little of Moira, N.Y., has promised to come and put on a full evening's entertainment later in the month.

Two extra members were added to the Finance Committee, namely, Mrs. Elizabeth Fleming and Mrs. Earl Gardiner. This committee now has 7 members, namely, Mrs. Goddon Fraser, Mrs. Lyle Currie, Mrs. Thos. Stowell, Mrs. Donald Fraser, Mrs. Vernon Elder, Mrs. Elizabeth Fleming and Mrs. Earl Gardiner. Mrs. G. Fraser reported on an interview she had had with Mrs. Lindsay, assistant to Doreen Day of Eaton's Fashion Department, Montreal. Mrs. Lindsay was very helpful in her suggestions as to the organizing of the Fashion Show which the W.A. plan to hold in June in the Church Hall. This show is to be held in conjunction with a bazaar and tea and should prove to be a highly successful venture. Two shops in Huntingdon are showing their styles, while the models will be chosen locally. There is much to be done yet in the organization of this event, but as things stand now, everything is shaping up well.

Several donations for the Spring Bazaar were brought in: Aprons, children's dresses, some beautiful crochet work and many other articles. Donations are to be solicited from members of the congregation.

It was decided, at the request of some of the younger members, to hold the meetings in the evening, beginning with the May meeting and ending with the one in September.

Mrs. W. D. Fraser gave an interesting bit of information on how Easter is observed in other lands. Easter is the triumph of the Christian faith; Easter gives Christianity its living and glorious triumph and it is one of the gayest of the Church's religious celebration—Jesus' Resurrection from the dead. There are many different ways of celebrating this festive occasion. In Albania, the people break coloured eggs with their neighbours after Church service. Instead of saying "Good morning," the one says, "Christ is risen," and the other answers, "Christ is risen indeed." In Poland and Czechoslovakia the young people bring baskets full of of food covered carefully with a white napkin to the Church. The priest blesses each basket as it is brought forth to the altar and uncovered, and the food is then taken home and partaken of. In Hungary, grown up boys throw buckets of water on the girls, they say that lovely flowers need watering. The girls then give the boys coloured eggs. In the cities the boys use perfume instead of water, and this they sprinkle on the young ladies. The girls reward them with colored eggs and chocolates. In Finland and Estonia the boys spank the girls with pussy-willow branches to keep them from being lazy. They are also given coloured eggs by the girls to persuade them to use better treatment. In Washington, of course, there is the egg rolling contest on the White House lawn. So it is easily seen that there are many different ways of celebrating this festival of the Resurrection of Jesus Christ. Mrs. Fraser was thanked for her interesting paper by the Vice-President.

The May meeting will be held on Tuesday evening, May 26th at 8 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Lyle L. Currie.

Mrs. John Travis, wife of the United Church minister at Franklin Centre, Que., is to be the guest speaker of the afternoon. Anyone who has been fortunate enough to hear Mrs. Travis speaks very highly of her ability as a speaker, and all look forward to meeting her and listening to the message which she will bring. Friends of the W.M.S. are cordially invited to be present and to join in the fellowship of the afternoon.

Trade Condition in Province of Quebec

PROVINCE OF QUEBEC—While wholesale trade in March was maintained at a satisfactory level, in some lines reports indicate a lessening demand with a "buyers' market" becoming more evident. Retail trade showed a rather mixed trend compared with a year ago, department store sales being higher but many small retailers finding business slow. Collections remain fair to good although increased demands for credit are in evidence. Production of lumber has been good and prices are firm, optimism prevailing in the market regarding United States and local demands, although exports to England are expected to be less than last year. The pulpwood market continues quiet with prices steady. Most textile plants are operating at or near capacity but production of some woollen mills continues to be curtailed. Clothing factories are well occupied. Shoe manufacturers report business to be improving steadily. Tanners are fully employed with raw hides fairly plentiful and prices firm. Demand for leather is ahead of a year ago. Furniture factories are working on a full-time basis. Heavy industries continue near capacity operations, with bookings satisfactory. Present steel supplies are adequate. The crop of maple products, while of good quality, was far below average.

MORRIS CAR SETS WORLD RECORD

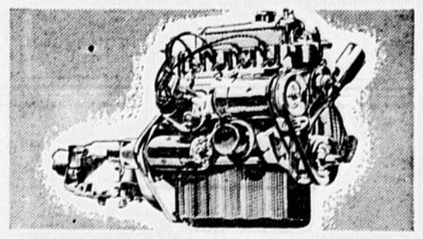

Only car on the road ever to achieve 10,000 miles non-stop. Road test of Morris Minor's new overhead valve engine proves economy . . . efficiency.

At Goodwood Race Track, England, 10,000 miles non-stop proved that the Morris Minor is built to last . . . built for trouble free driving. At the end of a 9 day, 8 hour test — the most gruelling road test ever made — engineers checked every part. They found: the car ran as smoothly as the day it came off the assembly line.

During 224 hours of continuous turns on the circular track (turns required extra power equal to climbing 66 miles) gas consumption averaged 43 miles per gallon!

Mobile Dry Dock was specifically built for non-stop test. When car entered dock both vehicles synchronized their speeds. Workmen fueled and serviced test car while driving crews were changed.

New Overhead Valve Engine was used in test car. The new 4-cylinder engine is a standard feature of all new Morris Minors. Engine has mixture control and throttle interlocked — gives faster starts, even in coldest weather.

ILLUSTRATED: Morris Minor 4-door sedan. Also in 2-door and convertible models; Morris Oxford 4-door sedan and Morris Oxford Station Wagon. Available in attractive new colours . . . the latest out! White sidewall tires optional at extra cost.

VALLEYFIELD — The Couples' Club of the United Church held their last meeting of the season on Saturday evening, May 2nd, inviting the congregation as their guests. The meeting was presided over by the presidents, Bob and Beth McEachern. A sing-song led by Jim Bell with Betty Stewart at the piano and Burton Stewart on the guitar got the meeting off to a good start. Bob McEachern then gave a short resumé of the nature of the Club, which is Worship, Fellowship and Service to the Church. They have done a bit of repair work in the Sunday School Hall, installed a phone for the use of the church and they are having a refreshment booth at the Regatta in July when they hope to make some money which will go to the church.

Mrs. Deutch favored the gathering with two beautiful violin solos accompanied by Mr. John Sudbury on the piano.

The highlight of the evening was a debate: Resolved that Romance is a Snare and Delusion. This was taken over by five speakers, all instructors in the Public Speaking Club of the Young Men's Section of the Montreal Board of Trade and they were introduced by Hal Moore, past president of the Couples' Club, and president of the Toastmasters' Club for the ensuing year.

Ron Henderson, chairman of this Club, then introduced each speaker: Bob McCrindle, Rollie McGuire on the affirmative, Michael Farhart and Wally Robinson on the negative. These young men were all speakers and had the audience in stitches during the whole debate. Hal Moore on behalf of the Club, thanked the speakers and Libby Moore presented each one with a gift.

Those who did not attend certainly missed a treat. The program concluded with a sing-song and delicious refreshments. Everyone had a most enjoyable evening.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Henderson of Montreal were Sunday visitors at the home of Mrs. Gladys Read.

The Valleyfield Figure Skating Club held its closing party and presentation of prizes at the Moco Clubhouse, Saturday evening, May 2nd.

Most of the 150 members and parents attended the Buffet Supper which consisted of cold ham, potato salad, cole slaw, rolls, ice cream and cookies.

The annual meeting took place afterwards with Mrs. Mollie Girard presiding as chairman and the following officers were elected for the coming year:

Honorary president, Mr. A. J. Wishard; president, Mr. Peter Stranger; vice-president, Mrs. Nancy Ernst; secretary, Mrs. Freda Haffey; treasurer, Miss Isabel Schurman; directors: Mr. Percy Sugden, Mr. J. G. Primeau, Mr. Ralph Wrightman, Mrs. Mary Lillie Jones, Mrs. G. Walsh, Mrs. Madeleine Brisson.

The presentation of prizes for the year then took place — Beginners' Class: 1st, Joan Clifford, 2nd, Shirley Shankland; 3rd, Virginia Childs. Junior Class: 1st, Mireille Archambault; 2nd, Noella Gauthier; 3rd, Lise Lefebvre. Intermediate: 1st, Louise Lalonde; 2nd, Elizabeth Aird; 3rd, Pierette Vallée.

Miss Louise Lalond was presented with the A. J. Wishart Championship Trophy as well as a silver tray for a keepsake.

Other prizes were given for progress during the year. Free Skating prize went to Pat Moody. Figures to Nicole Meloche.

Jacqueline Boyer, Figures and Free Skating; Murielle Rheault, Figures and Free Skating.

Movies were shown afterwards to the great amusement of the children and great fun was had by all.

A vote of thanks was extended to the Ladies' Committee for the marvellous work they performed to make this event possible. These included Mrs. Grace Clark, Mrs. Guelda Sugden, Mrs. Freda Haffry, Mrs. Phyllis McFee, Mrs. Evelyn Worton and Mrs. Nancy Ernst. Decorations were under the direction of Mrs. Francoise Miron.

Mr. and Mrs. W. G. E. Aird of Montreal West, Mrs. Wm. Seaton of Toronto were Sunday visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Aird.

Mrs. Pickering from South Gibson, Penn., and Mrs. Davis from Stroudsburg, Penn., are visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Tittel.

Dundee

A bridal shower was held on Monday evening in Fort Covington, N.Y., at the home of Mrs. Lyle Mayville in honor of the approaching marriage of Miss Lucille Dupuis, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Dupuis, Dundee. Mrs. Mayville and Miss Theresa Foisy were joint hostesses for the event. When Miss Dupuis and other members of her family arrived at the Mayville home the bride-to-be was greatly surprised to see about 30 of her friends assembled there and a large number of gifts arranged on the decorated table in the dining-room. After the presentation of the bridal gifts Miss Dupuis thanked her friends for their kindness and generosity. A social evening was spent and a buffet lunch served.

The Salvation Army

Major Carswell of the Salvation Army, Montreal, was the honored guest at the Rotary meeting on Monday. Major Carswell is very well known to many in Huntingdon and on several occasions has spoken before the local Rotarians. In place of delivering a talk, he had two pictures screened. The first picture was titled "The Quality of Mercy", which depicted the work of the Salvation Army from childhood wards to the sunset years of some unfortunate folks. The picture was most complete in that it indicated how Army workers were trained and fitted for duty in behalf of the Salvation Army, and also how the people taken in charge were trained and aided in all age brackets. The picture left the audience with the feeling of admiration for the Salvation Army workers and the cause.

The second film titled "The Guest", a "Fox Production", was initself a wonderful sermon on Tolerance, and the "Receiving of Light", through the reading of the scriptures.

Visitor From Halifax

Mr. R. J. R. Nelson, Halifax, spent Wednesday in Huntingdon visiting with relatives and a host of his old friends. It will be recalled that recently the Halifax Ship Yards suffered a big loss through fire and water. Mr. Nelson informed the Gleaner that though they had suffered a big loss that within nine hours after the fire they started work on erecting a shelter for the machinery. Within 24 hours of the fire, they had all machinery cleaned off and covered with oil so as to prevent rust and further damage that might be caused by the salt water as well as fresh water used to combat the fire. Within a month's time some of the machinery was back into service and that now the plant was up to a state of 40% production.

The house was tastefully decorated in pink and blue. Miss Cairns with her sister Hazel, and Messrs. C. Sherry and D. Darragh were invited to the Gordon home for a game of cards. On entering, Beatrice was greatly surprised to see so many friends and relatives there. As Beatrice was being seated by Helen Gordon the Wedding March was played by Miss Lillian Carrigan. After opening her gifts and passing them around for all to see Beatrice thanked everyone for their kindness, after which "For She's a Jolly Good Fellow" was sung. Refreshments were served by the hostesses, after which all departed wishing Beatrice much happiness in her new home. She in turn invited all to visit her.

Good Scouts Make Good Men

There is much talk in America about juvenile delinquency. There is no such thing as juvenile delinquency. There is adult indifference, but not juvenile delinquency.

The overwhelming majority of boys and girls want to be good. They have no other thought than that when they are emerging from babyhood into boyhood and girlhood.

It is only when they find that circumstance, example and adult indifference combine to set before them a pattern of life that they turn away from the thing they naturally wish to do, to what lack of proper influences and facilities compels them to do.

I believe that the Boy Scout movement is the greatest force for good among boys of America that has ever been created. It offers incentives for growing boys to accomplishment. It is this urge for accomplishments, this desire to do something worth while on his own account, with his own mind and body and spirit, that makes a growing boy a good man and a useful citizen.

This honor of standing before his friends and associates with the insignia of accomplishment makes a boy want to do more. The code by which a Boy Scout lives influences him into a pattern of behavior which makes him want to accomplish the most important thing of all—to be a good man.

Dairy Substitute Ban 'No Help'

The banning of dairy substitutes will not solve all the problems of the dairy industry in the opinion of over 200 Pontiac County farm people who attended the Folk School Community Night recently at Pine Lodge, Bristol, Quebec.

The meeting was called by Pontiac County Folk School participants as a demonstration that small group discussion can be effectively carried out even in a large audience. The crowd was organized into small groups of 6 to 8 people.

In these small groups everyone present at the meeting joined in discussing the problems besetting dairy farmers in their area. Only one of the small groups reported that the banning of dairy substitutes would help the dairy farmer a great deal. Five other groups agreed such banning would be of some limited aid to the dairy farmer. But the vast majority felt this was no solution to the main dairy problems.

The Pontiac farm groups decided that the dairy farmer should organize and patronize co-operative processing plants and marketing schemes for his products. The dairy farmer, they concluded, should aim to lower his production costs through better farm practices. A substantial number also reported the need for more vigorous advertising of dairy products. Most agreed however that dairy substitutes should not be allowed absolute free reign—there should be some restrictions.

The individual farmer, the groups concluded, should participate in and support his own organizations. The farmer should also produce the best possible quality. To demonstrate his own confidence in his product, a good dairy farmer should refuse to use dairy substitutes himself.

The twelve participants at Pontiac Folk School, who planned and organized this dairy farmers meeting as part of their work, were members of the first Folk School to be held in Quebec.

During their 5-day deliberations, the group lived and worked together. They studied their community, its organizations and needs. One need identified by the Folk School group has already caught up interest in the County. The group concluded there was a need for an over-all English-speaking farm organization. Already more than one county rural organization has shown interest in this project.

Quebec's first Folk School has amply illustrated this adage: 'When you bring a group of people together for a long enough period things just have to happen.' Pontiac Folk School members have started things moving in their County.

Spring Planting Around Corner

In looking forward to Spring activites on the farm field the farmer has to keep in mind that he is preparing a nursery for young plants. As it is being prepared it is well to remember that the nursery condition given to young plants has quite an influence in growing and vigor of succeeding crops. Just as the future growth of a farm animal depends largely on the care given it in the nursery stage, so it applies to plant life. In many respects plants are like animals.

Plants require for their normal growth certain definite foods in properly balanced proportions. These foods must be forthcoming when the plants need them. They take in and give out air similar to breathing by animals.

What Plants Eat

They do not worry much about variety of food, the same presented to them day after day is quite acceptable.

Much attention and research work is given regarding properly balanced feeds for farm animals. It is just as necessary that plants get a properly balanced ration. A list of food materials used by plants is as follows: Carbon, oxygen, hydrogen, nitrogen, phosphorus, potassium, calcium, magnesium, iron and sulphur.

If any one of the 10 essential elements is not present in sufficient quantities to supply the plant needs, the rate of plant growth is curtailed. For good growth there is required an ample supply of all the 10 elements in an available form. The lack of any one of them even though the others be abundant, will hold up the whole plant in just the same way that a lack of nails will hold up the construction of a building, even though the lumber be plentiful.

Roots Must Have Air

Moisture has probably the most important influence on root development. But that does not mean that wet, water-logged soils will be the best condition for root development. The opposite happens.

Root growth is governed by the nature of the plant, and by the quality of the soil. The principal retarding factors are hardpan, claypans and other formations through which roots cannot penetrate, and a water-logged condition of the soil. Roots must have air as well as water, and they do not develop where there is a high water table or poor drainage.

If soil becomes water-logged from excessive rains, those roots that are already developed do not function. Plants, therefore, may suffer for lack of water in the wettest places. Soils that are deep and permeable, moist but well aerated, permit the best root development and supply the most water for plant growth. Wet soils, therefore, need drainage and, even then, they may be suited only to shallow-rooted plants.

In very wet soils roots are usually short, and very much less branched than where favorable moisture conditions exist. This seems to be due to an absence of air in the soil, without which roots do not develop normally. In soil not too compact, and with just about the right amount of moisture, roots reach their greatest development. This is important because extensive root growth allows the plant a greater soil area from which to draw moisture and food, resulting in greater yields.

Wheat, for instance, in reasonably moist soils send out masses of fibrous roots to a depth of three feet, while some of the main roots extend down five or six feet. Roots of other plans are similarly affected by good moisture conditions.

Therefore, well-drained soils give plants a deep rooting development and thus a greater opportunity to get soil moisture when dry spells in Summer time occur.

TORONTO — Canadian farm women are going to play hostess in a big way this summer and just how big was revealed by the Federated Women's Institutes of Canada.

Posture Check-up As Important as Eye And Teeth Examination

TORONTO — Better Posture improves health according to the Dominion Council of Canadian Chiropractors who during Correct Posture Week, May 1st to 7th, advocate that everyone run this simple three minute posture test on themselves.

Place back to wall with head, heels, shoulders, calves and buttocks touching: the space at back of waist should not be much greater than the thickness of a hand. If such is the case, grade yourself excellent or A. If heels do not touch when shoulders do, grade is B or C. If both heels and shoulders do not touch at a natural stance, posture, and most likely your health, is bad.

When facing the wall if chest touches first, grading is excellent; only fair if head touches first and downright bad if only the abdomen touches.

"Regular posture examinations would be a great help to health," said Chiropractor Doctor Ken Faris, instructor of x-ray technique at the Canadian Memorial College in Toronto. "Thousands of full spine x-rays examined in the college clinic lead us to believe that such checks on posture by parents would eliminate much grief during growing and adult years for children who through habit or injury slip into poor posture. Regular posture examinations would do as much for human health as the usual examinations on eyes and teeth insisted upon by most parents."

Correct posture, whether standing, walking, sitting or lying down, means that the body position is such that it allows all parts of the body to function properly withou strain. Continuous slump positions crowd internal organs and bring pressure to bear on nerves at the spine. An exaggerated military stance will strain the muscles to the same bad effect.

Good posture rules are summed up with the easily remembered expression . . . sit — walk and stand tall. Good diet, comfortable shoes, the right amount of exercise and mental alertness can help encourage radiant health.

Round Byre AND Ring

ORMSTOWN EXHIBITION:

May 13 is the closing date for entries at the forthcoming Ormstown Exhibition. That event will be staged on June 3-4-5 and 6. It is suggested that in view of the United States market for dairy cattle, which is again increasing in volume, a good showing of Ayrshires, Holsteins and Jerseys, likewise Beef or Dual Purpose cattle is warranted. There will doubtless be a good attendance of farmers from across the line and so it behooves those who can do so to back-up the advertising that has been done with respect to the class of cattle raised in this district. Likewise to emphasize the long standing reputation of the Howick-Ormstown-Huntingdon, etc., district as one of Canada's greatest cattle breeding districts.

LACHUTE SPRING FAIR:

Entries close for Lachute Spring Fair Exposition on May 24. That great annual neighbouring district Fair will be held at Lachute, Que., on June 10-11-12 and 13.

As a livestock district the Argenteuil (or Lachute) district is a keen competitor of the Howick-Ormstown-Huntingdon, etc., district, both as a cattle breeding centre and in an export way. Every effort is therefore being made by the Lachute Fair management to procure the usual large, quality exhibit of dairy cattle. Therefore, as usual entries from other districts of Quebec and Ontario will be welcomed.

A KNIFE'S A KNIFE:

"The way the people here use their forks instead of their knives", was one of the things mentioned by Miss Nancy Fleming, Old Montrose, Angus, Scotland, when Norman Garioch of the C.B.C. Farm Broadcast asked her about some of her impressions of Canada.

The occasion was the annual conferencs of Ontario Junior Farmers at Guelph, Ont. However, she did not make that remark in any snooty or superior manner, and she was doubtless smiling when she did so, judging by the roar of merriment which came over the Radio.

TOURING CANADA:

Miss Fleming is one of a party of four young Scottish farmers who are on a four months tour of Canada, as representatives of the Scottish Association of Young Farmers' Clubs. She is Vice-President of the Brechin Club. The other three are Robert G. Roger, Rumgally, Cupar Fife, Chairman of Bell Baxter Club; Ian H. Middleton, Balnakettle, Fettercairn, Kincardine, Treasurer of Kincardine County Association; Ronald Dalglish, East Third, Auchterarder, Perthshire, Vice-Chairman of Perth County Association.

URBAN-RURAL RELATIONS:

According to the Ottawa Farm Journal, Urban-rural relations was the main topic of the meeting of the Ontario Junior Farmers. And in that respect we would "page", so to speak, the leaders of our own district 4H Clubs.

"While no concrete plans were put forward to ease the situation," says the report, "it is understood that steps are to be taken this Summer to get young city people and rural youth together so they might better understand each other's position. Just how this is to be accomplished is kept a top-level secret in case the plan fails".

In that respect we might suggest that our local 4H Club Leaders and Ormstown Exhibition might get together and formulate a plan whereby a number of similar aged (to 4H Club members) City boys and girls might be induced to attend Ormstown Exhibition on the day the 4H Club exhibits and competitions are staged.

The report also says; "a debate on the increasing exodus of farm youth to the city was hotly contested. Those upholding the exodus won out. Their arguments were based on that the release of farm workers to the city makes a larger market for farm goods and by increasing production of industry made a higher standard of living possible.

"Those against the exodus felt it would cause lowered land values and a lowering of rural living standards.

"Although they are not sure what can be done about better understanding between urban and rural people, the juniors feel that city people should know that there are not two cars in every garage and that farmers are not piling up money the way they pile hay. The juniors contend that newspapers devote much more space to price increases than to reductions.

"What they want is an understanding of how much of the farmer's dollar goes to the farmer, and at the same time, how much it costs the farmer to produce what he sells for the portion of the consumer dollar that he gets."

FARMERS' INCOMES:

The recent report in Hansard of the statements by the Rt. Hon. James G. Gardiner, Minister of Agriculture, with respect to farm produce marketing etc., makes interesting reading. According to the Minister the net income to farmers from the sale of farm products reached a peak of $2.2 billion in 1951. Estimates for the net income received in 1952 are placed at just under $2 billion, and, stated the Minister, there is some indication that this present satisfactory position may be obtained.

BEEF CATTLE:

The beef cattle market, said the minister, recently has undergone an adjustment under the influence of heavy marketings and declining prices in the United States. Since the first of the year the inspected slaughter of cattle in the United States has been over 30 per cent above 1951, and prices there about $12.00 per hundred below the price of February 1952. The influence of this has been felt on the Canadian market since the removing of the United States embargo on March 2, 1953. The present price of good steers at Winnipeg is $9.00 below that of February 1952, the last month before the United States embargo was imposed. Good steers at Chicago were selling at $32.20 a hundred in February, 1952, and at $20.45 at the beginning of April, 1953. At Winnipeg good steers sold at $27.92 in February, 1952, and $18.60 at the beginning of April 1953.

The present position of the cattle market, however, must be considered, said the Minister, in relation to the substantial price advances of recent years. The average price received by farmers at their primary shipping points for all grades was $9.63 a hundred pounds during the period 1943-45. During the period 1950-52 farmers received an average price of $23.78 a hundred pounds, which is two and a half times greater.

The Minister also stated: "Although present cattle prices do represent an adjustment from those of the period 1950-52 they are somewhat higher than prevailed in 1949 and almost double those of 1943-45. The average price of good steers at Toronto was $21.07 in March 1953 as compared with $19.89 in March 1949, $15.44 in March 1948, and the 1943-45 average of $11.64. While net marketings for the first three months of this year, at 348,825 head, are 45 per cent above a year ago, they are very close of those of 1951 when net marketings were 335,537 head (end of quotation.)

We are neither a politician nor an economist but, as a consumer, we might say that it has taken a long time for these reductions in the price of beef to reach down to the consumer level, which includes both city people and farmers alike. Farmers might also point out that as between 1943-45 and 1952 their costs of production also increased in step with the increased prices received, in many instances at higher percentage levels.

MILK PRODUCTION:

According to the Minister, Milk Production during 1952 amounted to 16.8 billion pounds, an increase of 361 million pounds or 2.2 per cent from 1951. This increase, he said, is needed to maintain the present rate of consumption for the increased population in Canada. So far this year, milk production in Canada is approximately 5 per cent greater than a year ago. The December report of cow numbers in Canada shows that there were 160,000 more dairy cows in Canada at that time than there were a year earlier. However, during the first six weeks since the United States embargo on cattle was lifted 7,436 dairy cattle were exported, which amount is 436 greater than during the corresponding period of 1951; that is during the year prior to the embargo imposed by the United States.

During 1952, the fluid milk and cream trade of cities and towns used 4,345 million pounds of milk as compared with 4,227 million pounds in 1951, an increase of 118 million pounds or nearly 2.8 per cent. This increase is equivalent to about 11½ million pounds of cheese. Last year, 1952, almost 26 per cent of all milk produced in Canada was used for the city fluid milk trade as compared with 19 per cent before the war, in 1939. This does not include milk consumed on the farm or fed to livestock which amounts to 15 to 16 per cent of the total production of milk and which varies little from year to year. During January, 1953, there was an increase of 8 per cent in fluid milk and cream sales as compared with those of January 1952.

During the year 1943-45 the average price to producers was $2.45 per 100 pounds, while in 1950-52 it averaged $3.92, or an increase of $1.47 per 100 pounds of milk (end of quotation). Here again it would seem that a fairer picture would have been made if the increased costs of production had also been shown.

CREAMERY BUTTER:

Canadian Creamery butter production has through the years been pretty much in line with domestic demands, said the minister. It reached an all-time high in 1943 when it was 312 million pounds. Since 1949, following the introduction of margarine, production of butter declined each year to 257 million pounds in 1951, which is approximately the pre-war level. This lower trend was halted in 1952 when production of creamery butter amounted to 281 million pounds, or 24 million pounds greater than in 1951, equivalent to an increase of approximately 9 per cent. This increase has continued in 1953 and, so far this year, it is 24 per cent greater than during the corresponding period of 1952. In eastern Canada the increase is largely due to diversion of milk from Condenseries to butter and cheese factories.

Consumption of creamery butter in 1952 amounted to 274.7 million pounds as compared with 268.9 million pounds in 1951, an increase of 5.8 million pounds or approximately 2 per cent. Stocks of creamery butter as at April 1, 1953, were 26.6 million pounds as compared with 174 million pounds a year ago. This year the Government holds 72 per cent of the butter stocks and the total holdings by both the government and the industry at April 1, 1953, were equivalent to 1 month's supply.

Of the total milk production in Canada, almost 45 per cent is utilized in the manufacture of butter.

CHEESE:

Production of Cheddar Cheese in 1952, said the Minister, was 66.6 million pounds as compared with 85.3 million pounds in 1951, a decrease of 18.7 million pounds or 22 per cent . . . Cheddar cheese production has declined from the war time high of 207.4 million pounds in 1942 to 66.6 million pounds in 1952.

CONDENSED MILK:

According to the Minister, condensed milk products production has increased steadily during recent years and in 1952 it was the highest on record. Last year the total production of both whole milk products—that is, evaporated milk, condensed milk, whole milk powder—and by-products, that is dry skimmed milk, buttermilk powder, etc., amounted to 471 million pounds, as compared with 435 millions in 1951.

During the years 1943-44-45 the average price to producers of milk for evaporating purposes was $2.05 per 100 pounds, while in 1950-51-52 it was $2.63, an increase of 78 cents per 100 pounds.

(Here again there was of course the inevitable increase in costs of production which more than balanced the increase in price).

Brooding Chicks

OTTAWA,—Good chick brooding practices need not be complicated, advises W. G. Hunsaker of the Poultry Division, Experimental Farm, Ottawa. The primary requirements for success, he says are a suitable house to keep the chicks comfortable, temperature regulation, good nutrition and disease control. While these fundamentals are, no doubt, quite familiar to all poultrymen, it may be well to keep a few points in mind regarding each.

First of all, housing. An important point to keep in mind is overcrowding. The most satisfactory results will be obtained when the chicks are brooded in small lots of not more than 250-300 per lot. Allow one square foot of floor space per two chicks, up to six weeks of age, when the floor area should be increased to one square foot per bird.

Proper regulation of the brooder temperature is essential for successful brooding. Enough heat should be supplied to keep the chicks comfortable at all times. The generally-recommended temperatre of 95° F. under the hover which is lowered 5° each week, should be used only as a guide. The best indication of the temperature required is the behaviour of the chicks. The successful poultryman will observe his chicks closely, especially as they settle down at night when they should be scattered in an even circle around the edge of the hover.

Many poultrymen tend to keep the general brooder house temperature too high. The room temperature should be 65° to 70° and can be lowered further toward the end of the brooding period. Cooler temperatures away from the hover will result in more vigorous, better-feathered chicks.

An important point to keep in mind is the hopper space required. Allow one inch of feeder space per chick for the first four weeks then at least two inches per chick until they go on range. Keep mash before the chicks at all times. Fresh clean drinking water should be supplied each day.

With the exception of some of the more serious but less prevalent virus diseases, the poultryman's biggest disease problem during the brooding season will likely be coccidiosis, which can now be controlled. The use of sulphaquinoxaline in the mash at the rate of six grams per 100 lb. of mash, has been shown to be a good preventive. In the case of an outbreak of coccidiosis, sulphamethazine should be used in the drinking water immediately.

PLEA FOR TREES

TRURO, N.S., (CP) — "The way we use our natural resources is a good indication of our intelligence and the degree of our civilization," Senator C. G. Hawkins told a luncheon meeting here. The Nova Scotia Liberal senator said proper harvesting methods would keep forest resources as a source of income for all time.

Mildest Winter in 63 Years And Only 27.3 Inches of Snow

Most weathermen reserved comment on the past Winter until the end of March. But this year, March came in and went out "like a lamb", and now the experts feel safe to tell their story.

The Winter of 1952-53 was the mildest in the 63 years that records have been kept at the Central Experimental Farm. The total snowfall, 27.3 inches, was 56 inches below the normal and no less than 68.2 inches less than that of the previous Winter. It was also 19.2 inches below that of the previous all-time low in 1936,37, Farm officials reported.

Not to be outdone by the snowfall the average temperature during the three Winter months of December, January and February of this year was at an all-time high. The mean temperature for these months was 21.8 degrees Fahrenheit as compared with the normal of 14 degrees.

Often-heard comments that our Winters are becoming milder are substantiated by statistics compiled at the Farm. During the past 10 years, seven Winter seasons were milder than the normal, two years were normal and one below the normal.

In the 10-year period previous to 1943, there was by contrast a succession of nine years of below normay temperatures and one above. Included in this group is the coldest Winter on record at Ottawa, the Winter of 1933-34.

Bulbs Brought Home By Soldiers Seized

Fifteen soldiers returning to Canada from Germany via Rotterdam were disappointed when 455 bulbs they had purchased there were intercepted on their arrival in Quebec by L. R. Gagnon, inspector for the division of plant protection, department of agriculture, Ottawa.

The bulbs were reported as being sold on the wharves at Rotterdam and bore labels stating, "These flower bulbs are under the supervision of the Phytopathological Service and treated in accordance with the exigencies of the export".

The labels were overstamped with the words "Fumigated — Dept. of Dutch Agriculture" and the name of a firm in Rotterdam.

In the absence of a health certificate from the Netherlands in agreement with the regulations of Canada, the bulbs were seized by Mr. Gagnon. The chief of the division of plant protection submitted a report and the actual labels to Dr. C. J. Briejer, chief of the phytopathological service of the Netherlands, ministry of agriculture, fisheries and food, Wageningen, Holland. In his reply Dr. Briejer stated:—

"I am very glad indeed you sent me those labels found with Canadian soldiers. I had never seen the things and of course they are a falsification. We do not have a 'Dept. of Dutch Agriculture' but a Ministry of Agriculture, Fisheries and Food. Further we do not fumigate bulbs. I have immediately taken steps to teach that firm better".

This illustrates how the spread of plant diseases is being limited by close co-operation between members of the International Plant Protection Convention sponsored by the World Food and Agriculture Organization, of which both Canada and the Netherlands are signatories.

The bulbs in question were destroyed in the incinerator at Quebec City in the presence of Mr. Gagnon. The various soldiers have been so advised and supplied with a copy of the regulations.

Dundee

DUNDEE—Mrs. George Jenner and little daughter of Montreal, are spending a few weeks with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ted Robinson at the Forsythe farm, Dundee.

Mrs. Cecil McNicol and son Melvin of McMasterville, Que., spent the past week visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Earl McNicol. Mr. Cecil McNicol and son, Winston, also Miss Elizabeth Raeburn came up from McMasterville on Saturday and the former returned home with them on Sunday.

Mr. R. G. Steven returned home from the Royal Victoria Hospital on Sunday afternoon after being a patient for a couple of weeks during which time he underwent an operation for eye cataract. Mrs. Steven had gone down to the city earlier in the day on the bus and they both came back with Mr. Donald Fraser who kindly motored into the city to get them. Mr. Steven's eye condition which was extremely bad previous to the operation is said to be considerably improved since the operation. On the way home from the city he was able to discern objects which were a blank to him previously. He expects to return to the city again on the 20th for examination and perhaps a fitting of proper glasses.

A monster social evening and dance (the boys called it a charivari) was held on Friday evening at the Hotel Dupuis, Dundee for Mr. and Mrs. Percy Nesbit of Kensington, who were recently married. About 300 people were present and judging by the good natured fellowship that seemed to be evident on every hand during the evening everyone seemed to be having an enjoyable time. Both Mr. and Mrs. Nesbit were introduced to the gathering over the P.A. System by Mr. Lloyh Duheme who conveyed to the smiling couple words of welcome from those present. The happy bride and groom made suitable replies and told everyone to keep on enjoying themselves as long as they wished and thanked their friends for coming out to make the party a success. Mrs. Nesbit was the former Mrs. Dunn of Montreal and she and her husband are taking up residence at the Nesbit homestead on the banks of Trout River near Kensington. The French orchestra from Athelstan was in attendance and furnished excellent music for the dancing.

The Annual Convention of the Women's Institutes of the two Counties of Chateauguay-Huntingdon was held at Dundee in Zion Church, Friday, May 1. The ladies of the local Branch of the Prov. Women's Institute were hostesses to about 75 ladies who represented the various Institutes in the district. There were also several guests present who were non members. Although it was May Day and fine weather might be expected it rained nearly all the time so the ladies showed considerable grit in coming from the far ends of the District at Hemmingford and Aubrey-Riverfield to be present for the Convention sessions.

The Provincial Pres., Mrs. Grant Le Barron of North Hatley, was present to lend her support to the discussions on the various items on the agenda. The Dundee ladies served both dinner and supper in the Church Hall to all the guests. A complete report of the business part of the Convention will be appearing later.

Mrs. Gordon Fraser held an afternoon tea on Friday, May 1st, at her home in honor of her mother-in-law's birthday, Mrs. Cora Fraser. The senior Mrs. Fraser was taken completely by surprise when she arrived and saw all the guests. Present for the occasion were Mrs. Jas. Levers, Mrs. W. Maither and Miss Kathryn Maither of Brooklet, also Mr. Bruce Maither who drove the family out. Other local guests were Mrs. A. E. Hagar, Mrs. Tena Fraser, Mrs. Lester Fraser and two daughters, Jean and Anne and Mrs. Flora Steven. Mrs. Fraser was the recipient of a gift from each one of those present and whom she thanked sincerely for their kindness and generosity. Tea and other refreshments were served at the close of the afternoon by the hostess.

Church News

Mr. McLeod was in charge of the church services in Zion Church, on Sunday, and will continue as student in charge during the summer months and perhaps longer. He is also taking the services at Kensington and Powerscourt as well. Mr. McLeod is a very interesting and straightforward speaker and was well liked by his hearers. He is now occupying the Manse and expects that Mrs. McLeod will shortly be coming to Dundee to help him set up housekeeping. The couple have been married only a few months.

On Counting Canadian Heads

MONTREAL,—Canada is in the midst of a "boom in children and a depression in teen-agers and young adults," with both factors exerting a decided effect on the present and future economy of the country, the Bank of Montreal comments in its monthly Business Review entitled "On Counting Canadian Heads."

The bank has devoted this month's review to an analysis of some of the highlights of Canada's present-day population figures and their business connotations. It notes that much of the information recorded by the 1951 census is still being sorted and that "because the results have been appearing piecemeal, their implications may not have been fully appreciated."

"The course of business is affected by many and varied influences," the review remarks. The weather, "the climate of public opinion" and developments beyond our own borders, all have their effect upon the country's economic scene. "But beneath all these transient and fortuitous movements there is the ground swell of the changing size and composition of the population —a ground swell that gradually and subtly, but none the less inevitably and profoundly, alters demand and supply. For in the last analysis consumers and producers are people."

A special supplement accompanying the bank's analysis carries tables showing the growth of Canada's population from 1871 to 1951, and population increases of the provinces and metropolitan areas over the ten-year period from 1941 to 1951. Other tables give further breakdowns of population figures. An interesting fact the supplement reveals is that, despite the heavy immigration during recent years, 85 per cent of the country's population in 1951 was native born, a higher proportion than at any time since the turn of the century.

Population Shifts From Farm to City

"The past decade has seen a resumption in the tendency for the population as it grows, to shift from the farm to the city — a long-term tendency which had been interrupted during the '30's." The country's urban population grew by 33 per cent between 1941 and 1951, while the farm population increased by only seven per cent. "Even more dramatic than this urbanization," the bank states, "was the 'suburbanization' movement within the metropolitan areas." For metropolitan centers "this phenomenon will no doubt continue to give rise to problems of taxation, transportation, municipal services and school facilities for years to come."

Turning to the age composition of the population, the review notes that the size of the 10-24 age group has increased only slightly in recent years, in contrast to sharp increases in the size of other age groups. This is attributed to the low marriage rate and low birth rate of the depression years and, the B of M observes, its impact will be most keenly felt during the present decade.

"It signifies a tightening of an already tight labor situation for it is from this age group that new entrants into the labor market must come," comments the review. "It is readily apparent that without substantial immigration there will be no significant easing of the stringency until the 1960's. For employers at large, the keen competition for new recruits may bring about certain changes in employment policy and a reconsideration of the role and retirement age of older workers."

Drop in High Birth Rate Foreseen

As the present relatively small teen-age and young people's group grows older, the analysis foresees a potential declines in the marriage rate and a subsequent drop in the birth rate. It adds that "inconsequence, the demand for new dwellings, house furnishings and children's needs may not continue to rise as rapidly as in recent years."

The extraordinary rise in births during and since World War II . . . has been such that Canada has had one of the highest birth rates in the world. As these children grow up, the implications for the clothing trades and for a wide variety of other consumer goods, ranging from sporting equipment to chewing gum, are obvious."

The B of M review predicts that the pressure for expansion of educational facilities will mount. Coupled with the small number of new entrants into the labor market, this could mean that in years immediately ahead "the relative shortage of new teachers may be particularly acute."

"In general," the B of M summarizes, "the census figures present a picture of a population growing, moving from place to place and changing its composition at a pace that is imperceptible in a short period but pervasive over the longer run, and in ways that are sometimes predictable and sometimes not."

"There are, however, some basic features inherent in the population structure as it now exists which can be expected to exert ascertainable economic pressures in the years ahead." The relatively few Canadians born in the mid-30's and now coming of age will inevitably be followed by the larger number born in the late '40's and early '50's. "And just as labor stringency and less buoyant demands of young people and newlyweds, in so far as they stem from numbers of persons, can safely be forecast for the immediate future, so also a reversal of these trends can be looked for with confidence in a later period.

Ontario Completes Forest Inventory

Ontario leads all Canada in administration of its forest resources and in many things leads the world.

The recently completed forest inventory carried out by the Province and industry, was the first accomplishment of its kind recorded by any Canadian province and, in fact, was one of the largest and most complete carried out anywhere.

"For the first time in its history, a Canadian province now knows the extent, the variety, the quality and the potential of its forest wealth," an official said. "The mass of facts gathered in the course of the inventory has enabled us to plan for the future rational development of our forests." The forest resources inventory has taken nearly five years to complete, with hundreds of thousands of photographs being taken from the air and now made available to government departments, the industry and others interested.

Ontario's plans are incorporated in the management units which have been established to develop or improve the lands now available to the Crown—to the people of Ontario. "The inventory for the first time told us what wealth we possess, and now that we know I can safely say that we have turned the corner," said the Department's spokesman.

The inventoy started in 1947. The total area photographed from the air amounts to more than 100 million square miles. More than 3,000 base and type maps have been made as a result of the survey.

Ground control surveys carried out by the Department covered 85,000 square miles, while industry took care of another 80,000 square miles, he pointed out. "The inventory has shown us that 127,000 square miles of the total area surveyed consisted of forest land and 38,000 square miles is waste land On the forest land, 113,000 square miles or 89 per cent was owned by the Crown while only 14,000 square miles or 11 per cent was private land.

Of the forest area thus surveyed, 46 per cent is composed of mature timber, 11 per cent composed immature growth, while 14 and 8 per cent respectively, consists of young growth and seedlings.

Potato Chips

Potato chips are providing an important outlet for increased sales of potatoes. The magazine "Canadian Food Industries" reports that as early as 1950 factory sales of potato chips and flakes, in Canada, totalled $3,250,000. In the United States the cash value of chips produced in 1951 was almost $185,000,000. A survey of what "Teenagers" there pfefer for snacks, revealed that potato chips were among the top ten snack foods.

Recently methods have been developed experimentally to give the chips candy, chocolate or cheese coatings to increase their popularity even farther.

Farm Business Agreements

Within the past few years there has been noticeable an increasing interest in what have come to be known as "father-son" or "farm family" business agreements.

Underlying this interest has been the increasingly difficult problem of evolving some fair means whereby a farm business can be transferred from a father to a son so that the son does not become too heavily laden with debt and so that the father at the same time will not become completely dependent on the son during his retirement years.

In many individual cases the problem has been carefully and successfully worked out, with the result that the farm is carried on as an enterprise without interruption in its productivity and both father and son are left financially independent. In other cases such a satisfactory solution has not been reached, often with the result that a potentially good farmer is lost to other employment and a once productive farm gradually becomes of less and less value.

Business Principles

The final agreement which is worked out between any father and son must, of course, take a great many factors into consideration and for this reason there is no blanket plan which can be laid down as being the most suitable to follow. What has been recognized, however, is that there are certain basic principles which should be followed and will apply in the majority of cases.

Thus it is that one of the most recent publications of the Ontario Department of Agriculture which out lines such principles and at the same time gives a suggested "agreement" form should be of wide interest. Written by H. K. Leckie, formerly professors of agricultural economics at the Ontario Agricultural College, the pamphlet brings under one cover the results of both the experiences of individuales and advice of experts in the field.

Many of the difficulties surrounding the problem, says Mr. Leckie in the introduction, could be avoided through better farm business arrangements earlier in the lives of father and son.

Two Problems

In reality, he says, there are two problems to be solved. The first of these relates to the proper division of the farm income while both father and son operate the business. The second has to do with the eventual settlement of the estate when the father and mother retire.

The bulletin is divided into three major parts which the author feels correspond to the three general stages involved in each generation of farm family business. Part I deals with the initial stage, extending up to the time the son reaches maturity and is married. Part II then discusses possible arrangements for sharing the income and management of the farm during the period when both father and son are actively farming. Part III is given over to a consideration of ways and means of enabling the parents to retire and methods whereby the farm can be passed on to the next generation.

Tables Also

In addition there are included the sample "agreement" already mentioned and some useful investment tables.

Acknowledged fully by Mr. Leckie is the fact that it is not possible in such a pamphlet to discuss fully all the possible legal complications involved. He advises strongly the consulting of suitable legal advice to make sure all parties are properly protected.

The pamphlet is entitled "Family Farm Business Arrangements in Ontario" and is listed as Bulletin 482.

a cat has nine tails

"No cat has eight tails. One cat has one tail more than no cat. Therefore one cat has nine tails." That's a syllogism, and a pretty silly one. Our favourite is the one about the man who cries turnips:

If a man who turnips cries
Cries not when his father dies,
'Tis a sign that he would rather
Have a turnip than a father.

Then we seem to recall an old saw that went: "Epaminondas said, 'All men are liars'. Therefore Epaminondas was a liar. Therefore what he said was untrue. Therefore . . ." Well, you take it from there.

Or, you could say, "Quebecers prefer Molson's Ale. You are a Quebecer. Therefore you prefer Molson's Ale." Only in this case you would be more likely to be correct than not. For it's a fact that in this province more people do say, "Make Mine Molson's" than ask for all other brands combined.

So that statement would be more than a syllogism; it would be just plain logic. Put it to the test.

Riverfield Evening Auxiliary

The regular meeting of the Riverfield Evening Auxiliary was held at the home of Mrs. Floyd Gruer on April 30th. President Mrs. John Nussey presiding. The devotional period being conducted by Mrs. Harry Angell. During the business period plans were made to sponsor the Ormstown Play entitled "Uncle Josh Perkins" which will be held in two weeks time. Full particulars to appear in next weeks Gleaner. Mrs. Wm. Brown one of our members gave a very interesting talk on her work with the Presbyterian Immigration. As Mrs. Brown is one of the welfare workers who meets the various boats in Montreal, some of her experiences were most touching while others were so amusing. It is from our W.M.S. funds that this work is made possible. Our meeting closed with a prayer for our prayer partners by the President, followed by the Auxiliary prayer in Unison. Delicious refreshments were served by the hostess.

W.A. Notes

CHATEAUGUAY — A very successful Buffet Supper, sponsored by St. Andrew's Woman's Association under the convenership of the president, Mrs. G. S. Adams, and her executive committee, was held in the Church Hall on Thursday night, April 30, when approximately 160 persons partook of a delicious repast.

The meats, ten different kinds, were provided gratis by the J. M. Schneider Co. Ltd., Meat Packers of Kitchener, Ont., the W.A. being responsible for the rest of the menu, which included scalloped potatoes, peas and carrots, cole slaw, pickles, rolls, coffee and dessert.

Mr. Robert Bowman of Kitchener and Mr. John Morrissette from the Montreal office represented the Schneider Co.

Following the supper which obviously was enjoyed by all present, two films were shown in Technicolor, both proved informative and entertaining.

The first, entitled Dutch Treats, was the story of the company's plant in Kitchener and showed the inspecting, testing and details of the various processes of this modern up-to-date meat packing plant, by which a variety of meats to suit the taste of an epicure is produced. In the second picture "Wings of Mexico", one was whisked off in an aeroplane to Mexico and taken on a sight-seeing trip through that country of contrasts.

Recipe booklets were distributed to the ladies, so now the men folk may expect all sorts of delectable main meat dishes prepared for them.

Mr. and Mrs. Roderigue L'Ecuyer with their four children attended the funeral services for Mrs. L'Ecuyer's paternal grandmother, Hester Priscilla Holmes, widow of John David Clemens, of Fournier, Ont., who died on April 23rd in her 91st year.

Surviving are two sons and four daughters, 32 grandchildren and 37 great grandchildren.

The funeral services held in her home on Sunday afternoon, April 26th, 1953, was largely attended, attesting to the esteem in which she was held in the community in which she had lived for sixty-seven years.

Rev. Charles Judd of Riceville, Ont., officiated. Interment was in Franklin's Corners Cemetery.

Mr. Stewart Craik, who has returned from a delightful holiday spent at Miami and Hallendale, Fla., was the guest on Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald S. Adams.

Mr. and Mrs. Haydn Dickenson of St. Lambert, Que., were Sunday guests of Mrs. J. R. Dickenson.

The meeting was opened with the president reading a prayer to open our Easter Program. Hymn 104 was sung by all and then a prayer was read by Mrs. Kyle Blair. Other readers were Mrs. Everett Lindsay reading Matthew 16 verses 13-17. 2nd reader Mrs. Walter Currie, John 6 verses 35-48-51. 3rd reader Mrs. Earl Tannahill John 8 verses 1-12. 4 reader Mrs. Walter Welburn Matthew 28-1-10. Mrs. Walter Currie followed by reading a prayer and an offering was taken. Mrs. Norval Blair read a thank you prayer. Hymn 637 was sung by all. All joined in a prayer. Minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. The evening was spent by all helping to do some quilting on a small blanket.
