Fight at the City hall of Montreal

Gerald Tremblay and Pierre Bourque

The fight to occupy the City hall of Montreal took its start and among the runners, two candidates are convinced to win the seat easily. The mayor in place, Gerald Tremblay is very present in the media and he has much support in the community of businesses. He declares to all who wants to hear it that he proved himself reliable and that his program is better than the one of its adversary. On the opposite, the former mayor Pierre Bourque pursues his strategy to be present near people and of associations and to promote his program, in particular the decision to offer his mayor salary to create a new foundation. Among the elements which had gotten the victory of 1994 to him, there was his idea of The Foundation of the Mayor. Pierre Bourque is less popular than Tremblay in the media but this difference already fooled the observers. One will remember the first election of Bourque to the City hall in 1994 whereas nobody among the journalists and the specialists in communication saw him as a winner. Bourque had surprised everyone on arrival. There will be two televised debates, one in French on October 27 with RDI and the other in English on October 30 with CFCF. The poll will be held on next November 6.

The festivals of films in Montreal

The International Festival of films of Montreal

The second festival of films on the calendar of Montreal, the one organized by Spectra, will have shown that the situation is far from being clear and final as for the future. The calendar 2006 is likely to be even more complicated to manage than the one of 2005. Ideally a film festival held in Montreal should be presented at the end of October, because of the American films which came out in the autumn, but that causes problem because Montreal's fans seem to be more available to attend a festival in summer. The lack of popularity of the Festival of Spectra is surprising because it profited from the support of all the significant sponsor partners. Téléfilm Canada is one of the principal governmental partners contributing to the financing of this kind of event in Canada and it supported Spectra. Telefilm supports 48 Canadian festivals of which the International Festival of film of Toronto, the Festival of Vancouver, the Festival of the Atlantic and of course, the New Film Festival of Montreal. The future will have to be seen but among the financial partners questioned by LeStudio 1, it still seems to be an ultimate objective, which is to present in Montreal only one and great Festival of the cinema of world reputation. Who will be the organizer? Here is the question without answer!
