Easter Sunday mirrors seething world

Child's world

A TIME FOR BUNNIES — This young lady, captured amid the wonder of chocolate Easter bunnies, reflects a child's fascination with the delights of an innocent Easter. Outside her world and the worlds of others her age, Easter 1972 was nowhere near as idyllic. Better luck next year.

By REUTER

Easter Sunday was a day of joy in Communist East Berlin, a day of peace and hope in the Vatican, defiance in Northern Ireland and all-out warfare in South Vietnam.

Thousands of Christian pilgrims attended a pontifical high mass at the traditional site of Christ's Resurrection in Jerusalem, bringing Easter celebrations in the Holy Land to their religious climax.

The pilgrims and tourists thronged the narrow, cobblestoned alleys of the old walled city in brilliant spring sunshine as Msgr. Giacomo Giuseppe Beltriti, Latin patriarch of Jerusalem and highest-ranking Roman Catholic prelate in the Holy Land, made his way in solemn procession to the Basilica of the Holy Sepulchre.

The patriarch greeted diplomatic representatives and Israeli government officials on the steps of the church before entering to conduct the pontifical high mass. He was joined by the dignitaries in the holy procession within the church.

The worshippers then followed Msgr. Beltriti and his train as they walked back to the Latin patriarchate after the mass.

Pope Paul sent greetings to "the church of silence" in an Easter message of peace to mankind delivered to 100,000 pilgrims from a Vatican balcony.

NOT FORGOTTEN

"Let these restricted and oppressed churches know, if ever the echo of our words this Easter reaches them, that they are not forgotten," the Roman Catholic pontiff said.

The Pope, whose message was clearly intended mainly for Christians in Communist countries, greeted the vast crowd standing in the spring sunshine of St. Peter's Square in 17 languages at the end of his main Easter Day mass.

He proclaimed the happiness of Easter to all, and hopes of peace to areas where war, hatred, bloodshed and destruction reign.

In East Berlin, now permitting visits of Germans from the western part of the city for the first time in six years, the 13th century Marienkirche was thronged and an official reported that 20 per cent of the collection was in West German marks.

The East German government is permitting West Berliners to spend three days in East Berlin or East Germany at Easter and Whitsun this year and traffic was brisk Sunday at the nine border control points around West Berlin.

Joyful reunions occurred as West Berliners embraced relatives they had not seen for six years.

JOY OVERSHADOWED

But in some of the world's troubled spots, political anxieties overshadowed the Easter celebrations.

In Northern Ireland, split into Protestant and Roman Catholic camps by political strife, thousands of supporters of the outlawed Irish Republican Army marched illegally through Belfast to pay homage to comrades who died in past battles with the British.

An outlawed IRA leader, Sean MacStiofain, slipped through a British security net to urge an Easter Sunday rally in Londonderry to continue the fight against British rule.

Red invasion launched

SAIGON (AP) — North Vietnamese troops and armor, pushing across the so-called demilitarized zone into South Vietnam's northernmost province, crushed three more bases Sunday and sent hundreds of Saigon government troops retreating in disarray.

Four American aircr: It were reported shot down while supporting the defenders.

The United States command said nearly a score of American fighter-bombers, hamstrung for days by bad flying weather, struck inside North Vietnam against anti-aircraft defences. Sources said more heavy raids were being planned against the North in retaliation for the biggest Communist offensive since the 1968 Tet (lunar new year) campaign.

Eight U.S. crew members were reported missing in the air losses over the embattled area south of the six-mile-wide zone which straddles the North-South border.

The South Vietnamese sent 8,000 to 10,000 reinforcements north to aid the battered 3rd Division, pushed back 10 miles from the zone.

THIEU CANCELS SPEECH

President Nguyen Van Thieu cancelled a speech to the National Assembly's lower house in Saigon. He was reported heading north to Da Nang and Hue to meet with military commanders. Sources said Thieu told house leaders the situation is "very serious."

The U.S. command said a half-dozen North Vietnamese sites inside and to the north of the demilitarized zone and in Laos unleashed barrages of surface-to-air missiles at American fighter-bombers supporting South Vietnamese troops. Four of the missiles were fired across the zone, a spokesman said.

The command said none of the fighter-bombers was hit, but conventional anti-aircraft fire brought down a spotter plane and three helicopters north and northwest of Quang Tri City, and roughly 10 miles south of the zone.

The helicopters went down within minutes of one another. A UH-1 crashed first and its four crew members were reported missing. Ten minutes later, the command said, two other helicopters trying to assist the downed aircraft were also shot down. The crew members of one were rescued, the four crew members of the second were listed as missing.

The pilot of the spotter plane bailed out into the South China Sea and was rescued.

Catholic women defy IRA killers

BELFAST (AP) — Roman Catholic women in a Belfast IRA stronghold said they would demonstrate today against Northern Ireland terrorist violence in defiance of guerrilla chiefs who have ordered the campaign must go on.

The women, whose call for a truce was rejected Sunday by Sean MacStiofain, Provisional Irish Republican Army leader, said they will protest in the Anderstown area at the continuation of the bomb-and-bullet violence and the shooting of Martha Crawford.

Mrs. Crawford, a 39-year-old Catholic mother of 10 children, was killed in crossfire during a street shoot-out between British troops and IRA gunmen in Anderstown last week.

Dublin-based MacStiofain slipped into Londonderry Sunday to appeal to Catholic women to continue backing the IRA's campaign to unite the North and the Irish republic.

The women's truce call and the demonstration were seen as mounting evidence that Catholic opinion is solidifying behind a desire to give Britain's latest peace initiative in Ulster a chance of yielding results.

URGES SUPPORT

MacStiofain said in Londonderry: "I hope to God that the nationally-minded women of the North will stand behind their menfolk, behind the men behind the wire and the prison wall — and the men who are carrying on the fight."

Within hours, a bomb blast that injured six children and four adults at Magherafelt, near Londonderry, echoed MacStiofain's "fight on" pledge.

The explosion, outside a post office, did not cause any serious casualties.

William Cardinal Conway, Catholic Primate of all Ireland, also threw the full weight of his church's considerable influence against the IRA Sunday for the first time in the last three years of the North's bloodletting.

Arena marchers busy organizing

SHERBROOKE (CC) — A march on City Hall tomorrow night by supporters of the project to build pocket arenas is entering the final stages of preparation. The march is to coincide with tomorrow night's Sherbrooke Council meeting.

Organizers are meeting today with local municipal and police officials to have the planned march route authorized.

"We are to have a meeting with the police Monday to get the route accepted. It doesn't really matter because we'll march anyway, but I think the police will be in favor," Keith Morgan, one of the organizers of the march, said, Sunday.

Sherbrooke residents are being called upon to meet at the Sports Palace at 7 p.m. tomorrow. At a meeting held Friday at the Sherbrooke Arena group spokesmen decided to lead the group along Park Avenue, down King Street and onto Wellington Street.

"We've been making signs all week because we want the effort to be a success," Mr. Morgan said. Groups from within the city have been working to get ready for the march for more than a week. "We've contacted sports and recreation associations in the city, and they're coming to help us prove our point — the pocket arenas will be beneficial to the city," he said.

Many Sherbrooke residents are expected to join in the public rally to support the arenas. Individuals of all ages are to join together in what Mr. Morgan described as "a peaceful march, not a demonstration."

A group of eight spokesmen will enter City Hall to present a brief to the scheduled council meeting when the marchers arrive at City Hall at about 7:45 p.m. Tuesday.

"We hope the mayor will come out and speak to the people after we present the brief," Mr. Morgan said.

The march is organized to show public support for the construction of two pocket arenas which city council have not yet approved.

POCKET MARCH — Opposition has been mounted by Sherbrooke parents to the city's recent plans to the projected construction of two pocket arenas, originally scheduled for completion before the summer. A march in support of the

City to check over-run sewers

SHERBROOKE (LH) — The city of Sherbrooke will begin checking domestic sewers tomorrow in an attempt to control pollution. It was announced over the weekend.

The city will inspect all sewers in Sherbrooke's western district, starting from St. Joseph Street and continuing to the western limits of the city between tomorrow and May 31 in an attempt to determine whether residents are dumping domestic sewage into systems meant to treat only surface waters, according to a statement issued by the city.

The project, financed for the most part under the terms of a local initiative project, will see eight city inspectors call on all homes in the city's western district.

The statement released by the city points out that the two types of sewage systems, those meant to treat only surface waters including rain water, and sewers meant to treat domestic sewage.

Surface sewage systems in Sherbrooke's western district empty their refuse in the Magog River. But the city says that some residents may have hooked up domestic sewage systems to surface systems, thus contributing to the pollution of the Magog River.

The statement released by the city points out that the two systems are old and that in many instances ratepayers may unknowingly have connected their domestic systems to the surface sewage systems.

WILL CONDUCT TESTS
 To clarify the situation, inspectors will call on all homes in Sherbrooke's western district, conduct tests and determine whether domestic sewage is being dumped into surface sewage systems. Inspectors will call between 10 a.m. and 6 p.m., and all residents will be notified of an impending visit one day before it is scheduled.

The statement issued by the city asks for the collaboration of Sherbrooke residents in the city's western district when the inspectors call to check on domestic sewage systems.

Birthday celebrants

Ivy Hatch 876-2083

ROCK ISLAND — Mrs. Merilla Farman, Rock Island, observed her birthday on March 16. It was a pleasant day for the mails had been bringing her congratulatory cards, phone calls were made to offer her good wishes and an arrangement of flowers arrived from Miss Margaret McLachlan, her friend in Montreal.

Later in the afternoon, neighbours and friends to total a dozen, began to arrive. Mrs. Farman's companion, Mrs. Elma Smith had planned a surprise birthday party.

Mrs. Farman received another bouquet of flowers from friends. A gift of a camera and equipment was presented by Mrs. Smith on behalf of the assembled people, also friends unable to attend. Mrs. Farman received a hand crocheted camera bag from Miss Melodie Robinson and other gifts.

Refreshments were served at the dining table where all were seated. Mrs. Farman was presented a birthday cake aglow with candles which was made and trimmed by Mrs. Claude Robinson.

It was also the birthday of Mrs. George Hatch, one of the visitors present. She was presented with a tiered birthday cake, made, decorated and presented by Mrs. Lucius Rye. The decor was in St. Patrick's day theme. Both celebrants were sung the Birthday Song, they cut and served the cakes.

It was a happy day for both. Visitors attended from Beebe, Apple Grove, and Rock Island.

Enough

Prime Minister Trudeau has been toying with the Canadian electorate for long enough.

As must appear obvious to all but the hard core of misguided Trudeauanians, the time is clearly ripe for a general election. The extent of public discontent with the administration elected nearly four years ago has reached a sufficient degree that a new judgment by the people is in order.

Rising unemployment, escalating prices and a proliferation of the federal bureaucracy have clouded the mandate given at that time, not to mention the effect of a grotesque aberration of national purpose and international posture that has brought Canadians to the point where they question where the country stands in the international picture.

Accelerated flirting with totalitarian Communist regimes and accommodation of our standing as a member of the Western alliance, both initiated and sustained by the overt and tacit approval of the current Prime Minister, have compromised the strength and solidarity of the free nations of the world. It is time for the Canadian people to take into account these changes in the national image and to render their verdict as to their wisdom, either for or against.

Equally as counterproductive, the entire House of Commons, whether government Liberals choose to concede the fact or not, has been seized by an election atmosphere in which the business of Parliament has become nothing more than the most partisan form of politicking, a situation to be rejected utterly by the Canadian man in the street.

The nation's business cannot be conducted seriously in a forum the participants in which are thinking only of how many votes they can attract to their stance in the next balloting.

While Members of Parliament should at all times consider their accountability to their constituents when they rise to address the House or deliberate as to how they should cast their vote on any given issue, an excessive concern with their party label indicates a preoccupation with the national feeling that calls for an election.

If public confidence in the current government still existed to a sufficient degree that the very integrity of such a government precluded the present interest in the next election, that would be fine. But such is not the case.

The Prime Minister has acknowledged as much in his teasing of the press, and thereby the public, about the date of the next election. While the majority of the Canadian people is obviously eager for a June vote, the Liberals are considering the atmosphere in which such an election would be held. Prime Minister Trudeau and his cohorts do not believe a June vote to be in their best interests, a compelling enough commentary on the state of the nation.

Mr. Trudeau evidently is currently contemplating an appeal to the people in the fall, a course tantamount to trying to ride the wave of economic prosperity which he feels United States President Nixon will create shortly before that country's presidential election. Suddenly, Mr. Trudeau's self-chosen differences of opinion and purpose with our neighbor to the south pale in comparison with the future of his own political neck.

The ins and outs of Liberal machinations aside, the fact remains that the Canadian public is fed up with the run-around it is being put through by the current federal government and is anxious to express its displeasure at the polls.

Mr. Trudeau, however distasteful such an accounting may be to him personally or politically, is honor-bound to give Canadians the opportunity — without further shilly-shallying.

Opinion from the French press

This is a selection of editorials on current topics, translated from the French-language press of Canada.

Moncton L'Evangeline: The Moncton municipal council has decided to form itself into a study committee on bilingualism. Its mandate has not yet been specified but it has already decreed that sessions will be held behind closed doors.

What can we say? Councillors who refused to consider the problem of bilingualism at a meeting Feb. 15 and who for the most part have made declarations attacking bilingualism now are going to make an objective and impartial study of the situation?

In an era where miracles are rarer and rarer, I have serious doubts one will occur at city hall.

The council has adopted the most complicated and dangerous way of solution.

Why? Let's take the case of Mayor Leonard Jones. He has been mayor of Moncton since 1963. Is he going to accept self-criticism of his administration and possibly avow that hiring policies at city hall, particularly at the administrative level, have been discriminatory to French-speaking persons?

Is the council itself going to study all aspects of the bilingualism question? Meetings behind closed doors. Does that mean to say the council is refusing to hear the citizens? Is it to say council will receive one person at a time? Nine against one.

Is it for these reasons that L'Evangeline and many other organizations support the demand for an independent commission to study bilingualism in Moncton municipal services.

Can an accused declare himself guilty or not guilty? Is this not what the Moncton municipal council is going to do?

One thing is certain. It is necessary for groups interested in the cause of bilingualism to continue to examine the problem and offer suggestions to municipal council. It is especially necessary not to sleep. That would be disastrous. —Claude Bourque (March 23)

Montreal La Presse: Decidedly, the language debate has not finished! It would be an error to believe it exists only in Quebec.

In encouraging bilingualism in the federal civil service, the government of Mr. Trudeau has spread the belief that in 1972 Canada still could be a bilingual country from ocean to ocean.

French minorities, believed forever to be on the steep slope of assimilation, have recently reacted in Ontario and New Brunswick for diverse reasons.

While Mr. Trudeau reassures the minorities (No, no, French does not threaten you at all), Francois-Albert Angers, a spokesman for the French Quebec Movement, proclaims that in 20 years, because of the lower French-language birth rate and Anglicization of immigrants, Montreal will be a majority English city. The saddest part of the story is that Mr. Angers could be right.

Mr. Bourassa, Quebec premier, who has promised only to give French the status of "working language," before acting waits for the Gendron commission report on the status of the French language in Quebec. Its publication date is no longer known very well. His new industry and commerce minister, Mr. Saint-Pierre, is nevertheless permitted to reassure (?) English-speaking Quebecers.

It is not necessary to give examples to appreciate somewhat the state of mind of Quebecers who try to find themselves in this middle of booming declarations, badly held promises, dreaded catastrophes.

A people does not live only to defend its language, for then it lives sadly. It turns to its political leaders to protect and guarantee the future of this precious common good.

If they do not do it, who will? But, replies Mr. Bourassa, it is necessary to wait for the Gendron commission report.

Turn to the said commission. It will request a delay. But Mr. Bourassa will be right, since the Gendron commission was created by the "nationalist" Union Nationale government, the same one so prompt in adopting Bill 63, legislation allowing a choice of French or English as the language of school instruction in Quebec. And without a commission. —Claude Gravel (March 27)

Quebec Le Soleil: The question of foreign investments continues to rebound in Canada, and the idea of possible screening goes its way.

It requires in some way a choice, matched to eventual control, with a view to silencing obstructionists and aligning as closely as possible the objective of a justly national society with a nationally just one.

What seems to upset investors is not so much controls, which in general are accepted, but the uncertainty of what they will be.

However, it is evident that one will not screen investments like a cook sifts flour. Should the screen work non-stop? How will it work? Is it necessary to sift all capital at the same rate? Will hurdles of the same magnitude be used?

When will big potholes be used and when will little ones be used? The action of scrutinizing therefore also means problems.

On the other hand, legislation cannot do everything in a free country, unless the United States makes an adventure into state capitalism. Even in that case the law cannot have impact in all sectors; in several subsidized business fields there are already complaints of too much government participation in slicing of the fiscal pie.

And if the state capitalizes, it must do it with the resources of the taxpayers, eating up the taxes as is practised in Eastern European states. But to progress at an appreciable rate even these countries have to resort more and more to foreign investments.

Thus, it is up to those who have the job of defining controls to ensure they will have good effects on the economy.

For every screening of foreign capital in Canada, there will be a phenomenon of the same order for Canadian capital abroad.

It is rare that a political decision does not have its economic consequences. —A. Tremblay (March 25)

"Frankly, we were expecting something a little more substantial!"

Still way to success

By Nick Thimmesch

WASHINGTON — Elitists guffaw at President Nixon's "work ethic" and admonition to try harder. Some labor skates will no doubt rail at the suggestion. But unless the republic is truly coming apart, the President's views on the moral worth of labor are shared by a vast majority of Americans.

However critics indulge in sarcasm about the Protestant, Puritan urge to work, the "work ethic" today is nondenominational American. Though it was the sturdy Pilgrims who labored mightily, their example was always followed by the great legions of immigrant Catholics and Jews. "Work hard and get ahead" is an article of American faith.

Mr. Nixon has talked like a "square," speaking of "the competitive spirit," people becoming better "by virtue of the act of working," and the drive and greatness "to succeed..." This is credo, not rhetoric.

The President loves to work. Like many a corporation executive, he has always lugged home his "night reading" and tempered his evening duty by listening to stereo music while he worked. He puts his hand up against that second drink, explaining that he has worked to do in the morning. He remarked recently that one of the Democrats mentioned for President might have trouble in the job because of his proclivity to have that second or third or fourth evening drink.

Countering the "work ethic" in America is a growing voice which says, "Relax and enjoy life." Who wants to emulate the busy-bee Japanese who seem to do it all for the state or the Germans who compulsively stacked up pieces of rubble after Second World War bombing raids while inhabitants in nearby French villages wept at the sight of their destroyed homes?

But Americans never did it for the state or out of traumatic compulsion, but rather because of an idealized hope to improve their lives. In most cases, it works. Even blacks, who suffered the most, still believe it will work.

Mr. Nixon did it that way. As a boy, he carted and sorted vegetables for the family store before he went to school in the morning. He worked in the library at Duke University where he had a $250 a year scholarship. With three other students, he lived in a single room in a ramshackle house which had neither electric light nor heat. A sheet metal laundry stove provided heat.

Water came from a well, and the toilet was an outhouse. Nixon walked one mile in the morning to the Duke campus where he washed and shaved his celebrated heavy beard.

The "work ethic" was drilled into Mr. Nixon, the boy. His father, Frank Nixon, was described by Nixon's uncle, Dr. Ernest Leland Nixon, this way:

"The dignity of labor was the heart of Frank's philosophy. To him, playing was daydreaming. Organized work was thinking, and thinking was the highest state of man. I see this same trait in Dick Frank believed the invitation to lean on the Lord was intended for the weary and lazy. There's a good reason he felt that way, too. He knew poverty."

Frank Nixon wasn't quite an American success. As a streetcar vestibule motorman in Columbus, Ohio, he froze his feet in the unheated outdoor vestibule and then angrily organized his fellow employees to fight to close the vestibules. Frank moved to California, took up lemon growing, but that did not pan out; worked in the oil fields, and wound up running a small grocery and filling station. President Nixon cited all that in his Labor Day address last year in commenting on a report that some welfare recipients objected to jobs they considered menial.

That remark brought the same kind of hoots and put-downs heard last spring when Mr. Nixon told how his mother once emptied bedpans. But the President has vivid memories of how his mother took his older brother, Harold, who contracted tuberculosis, to Prescott, Ariz., where she rented a house and took in three other tubercular patients. Richard Nixon, his other brothers, and Frank Nixon remained in California.

Anyway, Hannah Nixon nursed the patients, shoveled coal for the furnace, did the laundry and cooking and also emptied bedpans.

She isn't alone in world history for her inspired drudgery, but in America such accounts still touch more people than are turned away. And Mr. Nixon, who was profoundly influenced by his mother's simple, steadfast ways, tends to reach for this kind of lesson when he speaks to contemporary problems of labor, productivity and national character.

Mr. Nixon became a millionaire, not out of hard work as a businessman, but by serving six years as a "headliner," a business-getter, for a Wall Street law firm. He accomplished this in his middle years after he left the vice-presidency and his campaigns for President and governor of California. So he is no Horatio Alger millionaire. And rooted as he is in the "work ethic," he is professional enough to know that keeping people on the job these days is also a matter for computer job banks, government stimulus to the economy and a better bargaining position in world trade.

Those who scoff at Mr. Nixon as a "square" who uses cornball anecdotes about hard work are a growing lot in our population. But toss aside the "work ethic" and the fact remains that if Americans want to keep their "goodies" and high standard of living, they must work for it. Mr. Nixon's reminiscences and preaching notwithstanding.

Wants summer program

Dear Sir,
As parents of two active pre-teen children, a summer program such as that of last year, sponsored by the Lennoxville Recreational Association, concerns us greatly.

The program last summer was both educational and entertaining to hundreds of children. The schedule of activities and events was widely varied, well supervised, and planned to assure their success.

A program of this sort will be well received and appreciated again this summer and certainly looked forward to from both children and parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Planche.

Priorities confused

Dear Sir,
It's a good thing that some people have started fighting Mister Trudeau, like in Toronto.

He's getting away with spending too much of the government's money for his pleasures. This money should be put to more useful purposes, like hospitals, orphan homes, homes for the aged, to help the poor and needy, etc. I could go on and on.

Why isn't this money being put to these good uses instead of letting our dear Prime Minister Trudeau waste it? Who needs him? We need and could do with a change.

How about it, the rest of Canada? Let's get to it.

Violence diet shows

Dear Ann Landers: I've never written to you before but I've got to check with somebody to make sure I'm sane. If I'm in my right mind, a lot of people in this world are crazy.

Recently, I attended a rock concert. I didn't know such madness existed until that night. A guy gets up in girl's clothes, eye makeup galore and a ton of jewelry. He does a number where he chops off a doll's head and sings a song called "Dead Babies." At the end of his act he hangs himself.

That creepy show was a sellout. Twenty-thousand people screamed their heads off and applauded till their hands were raw. I left after the fifth encore and I don't mind telling you I whooped my cookies. What is there in people that makes them enjoy such sick stuff? Did they have it when you were teenagers? What do you make of it, Ann?

-Square Peg in a Round Hole

Dear Peg: When I was a teenager there were a few horror films around, such as Frankenstein and Dracula. But we didn't have the steady diet of violence the kids get today in movies and on TV - not to mention a live war in living color, every night on the 6 o'clock news.

Would you believe our sick society has produced a market for torture toys? One of the best selling items is a doll that screams when placed on a torture rack by a monster in a blood-splattered white coat. The customer has a choice of victims - a man, woman or child.

For $5.88 you can buy a Vietnam battleground. Dead and dying soldiers are all over the place in grotesque positions, with horrible expressions on their faces - gaping wounds and missing limbs. For $1.99 you can own a doll named Vamparella. She comes equipped with a beaker of blood. If all this isn't symptomatic of a warped society, I'd like to know what is.

Dear Ann Landers: "I'll Know Where To Look In Fargo" was the last straw. That idiot refers to himself as a happily married man for over 30 years, and says if anything ever happens to his dear wife he's going to look for a lady over 40. Why? Because, he explains in his half-baked way, "She won't yell. She won't tell. She won't swell. She'll be grateful as hell."

I'll bet he already has his next wife picked out, and I hope he gets what's coming to him. My brother-in-law had the same idea, only he didn't wait until my sister died. The lady he was sneaking around with was over 40 - but she yelled, told, swelled and showed her gratitude by naming him in a paternity suit. His reputation was mud in our town after that ugly incident and my sister died of heart trouble as a result of it.

I'd like to know why a man who describes himself as "happily married" is thinking about what he'd like in the way of a second wife. And to sit down and write to Ann Landers about it suggests a strange preoccupation with the subject. If that man were MY husband I'd be afraid to fall asleep in the same bed with him. Do you agree? Or am I paranoid?

-Third-Eye Eleanor

Dear T.E.E.: I receive all kinds of letters from all kinds of people. Merely because a person writes along odd lines doesn't mean he's "planning anything." I do agree, however, that he might be indulging in some wishful thinking. You are right about women swelling and yelling after 40. It happens all the time.

trumps, but that he could ensure his contract against everything except an 8-1 spade split by playing his ace of diamonds at trick two.

The way South played the trumps, West was able to gain the lead and play a heart through dummy.

Now, shift the trumps over to East. South plays his ace of diamonds and sees that he must lose a trump trick. This doesn't worry him at all. He proceeds to lead a second trump to dummy's king. Then he cashes his second high spade and starts to run clubs. East can trump the fourth club or not. If he doesn't, South throws him on lead by playing a trump to his queen.

Either way, East is on lead and finds himself with the Hobson's choice between a spade lead to allow South to ruff in dummy and discard one of his hearts or a heart lead right up to dummy's ace-queen.

"How was I to know?" lamented South. "I couldn't do wrong if the trumps didn't split 3-0. I guarded against three in the East hand but West held them."

The answer to South's complaint is that he couldn't tell who held the three

Lennoxville UCW

Twenty-four members answered the roll call. Mrs. Earl N. Fidler read several thank you notes for cards that had been sent to sick and shut-ins.

Mrs. Everette Moore, treasurer, reported a satisfactory working balance. Mrs. Richard Cook and Mrs. D'Arcy Bennett, sunshine committee, reported April 10 as visitation day to the Grace Christian Home.

Mrs. Anna Bird in charge of program for April reminded all members to make a spring bonnet from kitchen utensils, which they will model and be judged by Mrs. Armand Gregoire and Mrs. Arthur B. Lovelace.

Mrs. Noble Smith reported arrangements made with a band for the Strawberry Social to be held on Thursday June 29. Mrs. Alex Rowat reported on plans for a card party in the Scott Hall on April 26, which will be open to the public. Anyone wishing further information may call Mrs. Rowat. Mrs. Donald McElrea will be in charge of the door prizes and Mrs. Helen Ross and Mrs. Leslie McLeod the table prizes.

Mrs. Douglas Baldwin gave notice of the annual Presbytery meeting for UCW to be held in Magog on April 17.

Further future plans were discussed and dates chosen. Mrs. Hector McLeod on behalf of the Lennoxville Wing of the Sherbrooke Hospital Ladies Auxiliary, advised the members of the Penny and food sale to be held in St. George's Church Hall on Thursday, April 6.

Mrs. Noble Smith gave notice of the annual spring rummage sale April 21 and asked that only spring and summer clothing be brought in and that they be clean and saleable.

Refreshments were served from the lace-covered table, which had a spring motif centerpiece. The hostesses were Mrs. Anna Bird, Mrs. Leslie McLeod, Mrs. Robert Smith, and Mrs. Earl N. Fidler.

Baptist Mission Circle

SHERBROOKE - The Women's Mission Circle of First Baptist Church met at the home of Mrs. Noel Humphries for their regular monthly meeting on March 14. The vice-president Mrs. Henry Bullock opened the meeting with a Missionary Prayer. The devotional period was conducted by Mrs. Guy Martin. Mrs. Noel Humphries read the Scripture. Hymns were sung by the group with Mrs. Dorothy Wright at the piano. Mrs. A. G. J. Steeves led in prayer. A Bible verse was read by each one from the Perpetual Promise Box. The roll call was answered by naming a missionary in India. Mrs. Henry Leech Jr. in her news cast read an article entitled "The Change in India and the Need."

Mrs. A. G. J. Steeves, in charge of the reading course, stated that this year the group were doing more reading. Mrs. Henry Leech Jr., in charge of the Missionary Study for the evening, showed slides on "The Clinical Work in Bolivia," with Mrs. A. G. J. Steeves as commentator. The president, Miss Thelma Graham, welcomed each one present, thanked Mrs. N. Humphries for the use of her home. The Missionary Rally will be held in Coaticook on April 25, at 8 o'clock, with Miss Ruth Dryden as guest speaker. A committee meeting will be held on March 25 at the home of Mrs. Dorothy Wright, at 2.30 p.m. A motion was made by Mrs. Henry Leech and seconded by Mrs. Dorothy Wright that Mrs. Herbert Mills be Chairman of the Nominating Committee. Birthday greetings were sung for Mrs. Dorothy Wright. The president closed the meeting with prayer. Following the singing of the Hymn "Blessed Be the Tie That Binds" the hostess Mrs. Noel Humphries served refreshments assisted by Mrs. Guy Martin.

St. Paul's Ladies' Guild

SHERBROOKE - St. Paul's Ladies Guild held its regular meeting in the church hall on March 22, with a good attendance of members.

The president, Mrs. S. Cox, opened the meeting with the Guild Prayer and all the members joining in.

Plans were completed for a Rummage Sale to be held on April 7, and a card party on April 13.

CANCER CAMPAIGN - Mrs. Lizette Gervais, General Campaign Chairman for 1972 for the Quebec Cancer Society, is shown here proudly displaying the basket of daffodils - symbol of the Cancer Campaign - which was presented to her at Drummondville on Tuesday last when she met the various officers in the area. Shown with Mrs. Gervais are Mrs. Ernest Frost, chairman of the local campaign and Mrs. Jerome Olney, president of the Danville Branch. Both are busy with the organizing of the forthcoming campaign, and hope that this year the receipts will be even greater than last year's.

Quebec cancer campaign unveiled

DANVILLE (MF) - A reception was held in the Motel Le Dauphin, Drummondville on Tuesday, Mar. 21, when the officers from the various sections in this area of the Quebec Cancer Society had the privilege and pleasure of personally meeting the General Campaign Chairman, Mrs. Lizette Gervais.

It is encouraging to note that a person as busy as Mrs. Gervais - who is a well-known TV personality, finds time for this work as well. That so many work in many different aspects of this work, tirelessly, to fight this disease, has been the main reason for Mrs. Gervais' acceptance of this position. Her keen interest in all the members and in their work is very evident, as she makes an effort to personally meet them all.

At this meeting four certificates of appreciation were presented to Drummondville members; one of them being Miss Bertha Beard, well-known throughout this area. It is most gratifying to see these ardent workers receive recognition for their labors. This year's slogan is the one of the previous year, for there is none to equal it - Cancer can be cured. Throughout the month of April volunteers will be busy ringing doorbells, and handing out receipts for their donations, all of which will be put to good use in educational and research fields. One of the biggest steps would be the education of the public in the matter of regular visits to their physician, especially at the first signs of anything that might possibly indicate the presence of cancer in their body. Today many cancer patients are enjoying good health once more due to the fact that there was early detection and treatment.

Among those attending this event were Mrs. Jerome Olney and Mrs. Ernest Frost of the Danville Branch.

B.M.P. Ladies' Aux.

SWETSBURG - The strike threatening the hospital world, is of great concern to the Broome-Missisquoi-Perkins Ladies Auxiliary; but they hope that everything will be settled for the best and that the patients and people will not suffer from it. As for them, they certainly are not on strike and this was well apparent at their last meeting. This reunion was indeed fruitful. Many new projects are under study and will be the object of further discussions. But now that the hospital's renovation has been completed, the Auxiliaries have agreed to proceed to the decoration of the Lobby. Credits have been voted, and a Committee consisting of Mrs. Martin, Mrs. Millinchamp, Mrs. Dando, and Mrs. Pomfret has been selected to supervise the arrangement. The walls will be painted and papered in bright colors, the windows will be curtained and a carpet will grace the vestibule. The arm-chairs and chesterfields will be refinished and reupholstered in leather. Tables, lamps and greenery will be added to form an agreeable and charming atmosphere that will undoubtedly please the visitors.

The next meeting will take place April 18. We would like to see as many Auxiliaries and Volunteers as possible.

DR. LAWRENCE E. LAMB

Ailment may be allergy

Dear Dr. Lamb—Recently I had a CBC (complete blood count) because I had what seemed to be a cold and cough. The blood test showed 13 per cent eosinophils (I was told normal was 2 per cent). I am bothered with sniffles and sneezing almost every morning but several times a year it gets almost unbearable.

What could some of the possible causes be? I am getting tired of being checked and told I have a cold, as surely it should go away sometime.

Dear Reader—Your story suggests that you have an allergy, not a cold. There are different types of white blood cells. The group called eosinophils have a special color and are often more prevalent in people who have allergies. This, of course, could also account for your other symptoms.

You should see an allergist and have studies done to identify your allergies, and then treatment. Some people can be desensitized to whatever they are allergic to by the injection of very small diluted amounts of the same substance. The amount of the substance injected is gradually increased until the person's tolerance is increased.

Dear Dr. Lamb—About two years ago I injured my foot on the inside directly over the large joint. Within a short time a cone-shaped growth appeared under the skin and my surgeon removed it. He warned that I would have a sore foot and I did. It was extremely disabling and took six months to heal. The doctor identified the problem as a keloid, saying that there was a good chance that it would grow back. He asked if there was any Negro blood in my family as they seem to have a higher susceptibility to these growths. There is none.

Now if I walk this irritates the skin. Recently it has been reddish and itching, especially at night. Could this mean it is healing inside or that further growth is taking place? It is impossible to find a shoe that will not press on it other than a toe thong sandal. Maybe I should move to the tropics and go barefoot. Will it give me trouble as I grow older? Any information will be appreciated.

Dear Reader—A keloid is a form of skin tumor that is related to overgrowth of scar tissue where the skin has been injured or cut. It is true that they occur more frequently in dark-skinned individuals and they are more apt to occur in individuals before the age of 35.

A person who forms keloids is apt to form a new keloid at the site where the old one is cut out. That is probably what your surgeon meant. Sometimes keloids can be cured by cutting them out and then applying radiation to the area. The radiation helps to prevent a recurrence of the scar tissue tumor. Such keloid tumors are not likely to go away by themselves so you will probably need to see your doctor again for treatment. You might ask about the possible use of radiation in the area immediately after surgery to prevent its recurrence.

Dear Dr. Lamb—Please see if you can get a point across to someone. Isn't it true that if a person takes 10 deep breaths, and on the 10th another person squeezes his chest while he holds his breath, that the breath-holder will pass out because of the lack of oxygen? Isn't this dangerous?

Dear Reader—Yes, it is dangerous. This is a common childhood prank and there have been a few deaths recorded from it. I became particularly interested in this problem because of the studies I did in reference to fainting as a problem with pilots. Fainting is often not too serious in otherwise healthy people on the ground, but even in healthy people it can be exceedingly dangerous if they are flying jet aircraft.

The 10 deep breaths cause overventilation of the lungs which is called "hyperventilation." This causes the person to blow off more carbon dioxide than normal. Under these circumstances a person is already more prone to faint. Breath holding by itself can cause fainting and when the breath is held after hyperventilation it is more likely than ever to cause fainting. The squeezing on the chest increases the pressure within the lungs which further decreases the return of blood to the heart, which also contributes to fainting.

The real reason people faint with this problem is because the heart is not pumping out enough blood or it may even stop. The latter problem is most likely responsible for the deaths that have been reported with this childhood prank. I was able to demonstrate repeatedly that young healthy people who fainted would often have complete stopping of the heart beat without even an electrical impulse. Fortunately, in the work I did, all of these individual's hearts started beating again automatically, but of course these studies were done under carefully controlled medical supervision. I doubt very much that most of the people who do this trick realize that it can cause a person's heart to stop.

Dear Dr. Lamb—I would like to know if a Pap test would detect cancer in any part of a person's body. If a person had cancer of the breast would that show up in the Pap test?

Dear Reader—No. Unfortunately not. The Pap test is strictly for the primary female organs. A person could have cancer of the breast, lung, liver or other parts of the body and this would have no effect on the Pap test.

SPECIAL PANCAKES
1 cup flour
1/2 tsp salt
2 tbsps sugar
1 egg
2 tsp baking powder
1 cup milk
2 tsp melted shortening or vegetable oil

Combine dry ingredients. Beat egg and add milk, beating together well. Add melted shortening to egg mixture and blend well. Add dry ingredients. Fry on hot, greased pan, turning once. Makes 12-14 pancakes.

APPLE BUTTER
5 lbs. apples
5 cups apple juice
3 cups sugar
1/2 tsp salt
1/4 tsp cinnamon
1/4 tsp cloves
1/4 tsp nutmeg

Quarter apples and cook with a small amount of water (about 1/2 cup) until soft. Press through sieve or food mill. Measure 6 cups of pulp. Boil apple juice until it is half its original volume. Add apple pulp, bring to a boil. Add sugar and salt. Boil until thick and of a jam-like consistency. Stir constantly as apple butter will burn easily. Add spices near the end of the cooking time. As fruit butter cooks down and becomes thicker, reduce heat to prevent spattering. When cool, apple butter should be firm, yet soft enough to spread easily. Makes about 2 1/2 pints.

BEAN SALAD

1 — 15 oz. can green string beans, drained
1 — 15 oz. can kidney beans, drained

MARINADE
3/4 cup granulated sugar
1/2 cup salad oil

Blend all ingredients together and chill overnight in refrigerator. Drain all liquid before serving. Serves 12.

TWO-EGG CHIFFON CAKE
2 eggs, separated
1 1/2 cups granulated sugar
2 1/4 cups sifted cake flour
3 tsp baking powder
1 tsp salt
one third cup cooking oil
1 cup milk
1 1/2 tsp vanilla

Beat egg whites until frothy. Gradually beat in 1/2 cup of the sugar, continue beating until very stiff and glossy. Mix and sift remaining sugar, flour, baking powder and salt. Add oil, 1/2 cup milk and vanilla. Beat 1 minute. Add remaining milk and egg yolks. Beat 1 minute. Fold in 2 greased and floured 8- or 9-inch layer cake pans. Bake at 350 for 30-35 minutes. This is an economical cake. It is very light, suited either for strawberry shortcake or to be filled

Players, owners give second thoughts to ball strike

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
NEW YORK (AP) — Striking major league baseball players continued to scatter to their homes Sunday while representatives of both sides met here to discuss the pension dispute that threatens to delay the opening of the 1972 season scheduled for Wednesday.

At the same time, opinion was divided among the players as to whether the strike really was necessary, and among the owners as to how long it might last.

And one owner, Bill Bartholomay of Atlanta Braves, said that "every effort will be made" to field a team on opening day, even if it means using minor leaguers. Negotiators for both sides met Sunday for the second straight day and reported no progress in their 90-minute talks. John Gaherin, representing the owners, said he and Marvin Miller, executive director of the striking Players Association, had agreed to talk again Monday.

"The situation remains the same," said Gaherin following Sunday's talks. "There is no progress towards a settlement." He said they will meet again today.

REVIEW POSITIONS

Miller indicated that the time spent in the meetings Saturday and Sunday had been used in "rephrasing and reviewing positions. Really it's been rather fruitless."

Miller said that today's meetings would probably be enlarged from the one-on-one situation he has been in with Gaherin. "He's talking about a fuller committee today and I'll probably have one too," Miller said.

"Mr. Gaherin has no authority to make any new offer. He is pretending to bargain."

Miller said that independent actuaries were looking at the plan to determine the feasibility of the increased payments demanded by the players. The strike began Saturday and all 12 scheduled exhibition games were cancelled. The players are seeking contributions from the owners above the one-and-only offer of $400,000 for the health-care segment of the pension package.

Meanwhile, Philadelphia Phillies' Tim McCarver said many players thought Friday's meeting in Dallas at which player representatives and their alternates voted 47 to 0 with one abstention to call the strike was merely an informal session.

"I don't think we can just call a strike," said McCarver, the Phillies' alternate player representative, even though a strike authorization vote of all 24 clubs was 663 to 10 with two abstentions.

"I think if they came back and took an actual strike vote now, if it were a closed vote, you'd be surprised at how close it would be. And it might just go the other way."

But Terry Harmon, the team's main player representative, said: "We'll play either when the owners decide to settle or when they decided to go to an impartial arbitrator for settlement. If we're prepared to set it out as long as it takes. Our players will go home even if they have to make money mowing lawns." Calvin Griffith, owner of the Minnesota Twins, predicted the strike would last at least two weeks.

"I hope it doesn't take that long," he said, "but for business reasons we have to analyse the pension and health plans thoroughly so there won't be any more misconceptions on what's what."

"We (the owners) plan to hire an actuary today to analyse the plans, go through every period, every comma and every segment. It may take two weeks to analyse and it may take more. Then we have to sit down with our lawyers and analyse it before we can get together with the players."

Gil Hodges, Mets' miracle mastermind, dead of heart attack

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Gil Hodges, the onetime star of the old Brooklyn Dodgers who managed the Miracle Mets of New York to baseball's World Series championship in 1969, collapsed and died Sunday.

Hodges had just finished a golf match at the Ramada Inn and was strolling back to his motel room with companions when he slumped to the ground.

He was taken to the Good Samaritan Hospital, where he was admitted at 5:25 p.m. EST. He died 20 minutes later of an apparent heart attack, a hospital spokesman said.

Hodges would have been 48 Tuesday, just one day before the scheduled start of the 1972 major league baseball season.

He was playing golf because the Mets' scheduled exhibition game here with Montreal

Expos was cancelled by the first general strike of major league baseball players. The strike began Saturday.

PLAYING WITH COACHES
 "He had just finished laying 18 holes of golf with three of his coaches—Joe Pignatano, Rube Walker and Eddie Yost," said a Mets' spokesman.

"They were coming off the green and were approaching their rooms when Hodges collapsed."

The heart attack was the second for the Mets' manager. Hodges was stricken with a mild heart seizure Sept. 24, 1968, when Mets were in Atlanta for a baseball game.

He sat out the rest of that season, but returned for the triumphant 1969 season.

The World Series victory over Baltimore Orioles capped game here with Montreal

Mets, a former raggamuffin expansion team. The title was doubly sweet for Hodges, since he had played on the original Mets squad in 1962 and 1963.

He was applauded by some as a genius for his manipulation of players. His two-platoon system was cited as the main reason for the Mets' implausible triumph over the heavily-favored Orioles in the series.

His popularity as a manager reached the heights of his heyday as a player, when his exploits as a slugging first baseman fanned the adoration of the Dodgers' followers.

A companion from that old Brooklyn team, catcher Roy Campanella, currently lies critically ill at a Valhalla, N.Y., hospital.

Another team-mate at Brooklyn was Jackie Robinson.

The Penguins whipped St. Louis Blues 6-2 to gain a tie in the West Division with Philadelphia Flyers who lost their last game 3-2 Sunday on a last-minute goal by Buffalo Sabres' Gerry Meehan.

The Penguins and Flyers finished tied with 66 points on 25 wins and 14 ties each but Pittsburgh took fourth place on the strength of their three victories against two losses over the Flyers during the season. Pittsburgh gained a 4-4 tie in the last head-on clash with the Flyers Saturday night to set up the dramatic last-game finish.

The best-of-seven quarter-final series open Wednesday with second games in all series Thursday, third games Saturday and fourth games Sunday.

PENGUINS MEET HAWKS
 The Penguins open in Chicago against the Black Hawks while third-place St. Louis opens at Minnesota against the North Stars in the other West Division pairing.

Toronto Maple Leafs, who clinched the last playoff spot in the East Division with a 2-1 victory over New York Rangers Saturday, open against the first-place Bruins in Boston.

Espo, Orr again

By THE CANADIAN PRESS
 Phil Esposito and Bobby Orr of Boston Bruins finished first and second in the National Hockey League scoring race for the second year in a row as the regular season ended Sunday.

Esposito ended up with 66 goals and 67 assists for a total of 133 points and Orr finished with 37 goals and 80 assists for a total of 117. Last season, Esposito had 152 points and Orr had 139.

But the Boston team didn't dominate the top 10 as they did last season. Johnny Bucyk was the only other of the seven Bruins from last year that finished in the top 10 again. He had a total of 84 points this season.

The big difference this season was the performance of three New York Rangers who ended the Bruins downed the Leafs 6-4 in their last game Sunday while Montreal Canadiens edged New York 6-5 in another playoff preview.

The second-place Rangers have home-ice advantage for the first two games of their series against the Canadiens.

In all series, the teams finishing highest in the regular season have home-ice advantage for the first two games and for the fifth and seventh games, if necessary.

In other win/loss games Sunday, Vancouver Canucks downed Minnesota 4-1 and Chicago Black Hawks whipped Detroit Red Wings 6-1.

In other Saturday games, the Canadiens whipped the Bruins 6-2, Chicago blanked St. Louis 2-0 and Los Angeles Kings downed California Golden Seals 9-4.

MOVED UP FROM CELLAR
 Less than two months ago, Pittsburgh moved to sixth place from the West Division cellar and hung on until the final stretch when California dropped from contention, leaving the battle to the Flyers and Penguins.

But the Penguins continued their flirtation with elimination and as late as 6:04 of the final period in Philadelphia Saturday they were trailing 4-2. But two minutes later Bobby Letter made the score 4-3 and Greg Polis tipped in Eddie Shack's shot from the point with 47 seconds to play to earn the 4-4 tie.

The tie set up the Penguins-must-win and Flyers-must-lose finish Sunday. This time the Penguins didn't waste time and jumped to a 4-1 lead in the second period, giving the Blues little chance to threaten.

But the Flyers appeared to be doing the same thing at Buffalo, taking a 2-0 lead midway in the second period. The Sabres came back with one goal in the second period and another midway in the third to tie the game.

With just four seconds remaining, Meehan scored on a 30-foot shot to eliminate the Flyers.

DRAMATICS PAY OFF
 Chicago's Bobby Hull and New York's Vic Hadfield also staged some last-minute dramatics as each scored twice Sunday to wind up the season with 50 goals.

For Hull, it was the fifth season he has scored 50 or more goals while Hadfield made his debut among the 50-goal elite.

Phil Esposito and Johnny Bucyk of the Bruins and former Montreal stars Bernie Geoffrion and Maurice Richard are the only other players to reach the 50-goal mark in one season.

Hull scored his last two in a four-goal first-period Chicago outburst against rookie Red Wings goalie Andy Brown in the match at Detroit.

Hadfield beat Montreal goalie Dennis DeJordy for his 49th goal in the second period at New York and picked up his 50th late in the third period.

Hadfield's feat helped the New York fans forget the humiliation of two Montreal shorthanded goals within a 36-second span in the first period that gave the Canadiens a 4-1 lead.

Jim Roberts beat goalie Ed Giacomin on a breakaway for one of the short-handed goals and then set up Pete Mahovich for the second.

The victory pulled the Canadiens to within one point of the Rangers in the final East Division standing.

At Boston, Paul Henderson scored his 37th and 38th goals of the season to pull Leafs into a 3-3 tie with the Bruins but rookie Terry O'Reilly put Boston back in front to stay. The win enabled the Bruins to tie the league record for fewest losses in a season, 13, set by Detroit in 1950-51.

The Bruins sat out Esposito and Bobby Orr with bruised knees and defenceman Carol Vadnais with a sprained wrist suffered in Montreal Saturday.

Leafs were without Norm Ullman, Dave Keon and Darryl Sittler. Ullman was resting a bruised foot, Sittler a bruised knee and Keon just resting.

Sittler was one of the heroes in Toronto Saturday night when he collected the winning goal against New York to clinch fourth place over Detroit.

Sittler beat Ranger goalie Gilles Villemure when he pounced on a loose puck left by Keon who failed to score after he and Pierre Jarry had a two-man breakaway.

2 RANGERS RETURN
 The Saturday game saw the return of Rangers Rod Gilbert who missed five games with a neck injury and defenceman Brad Park, out three games with a strained knee.

At Montreal Saturday, the Canadiens built a 5-0 lead in the second period before Bruins Ken Hodge and Mike Walton beat Montreal goalie Phil Myre in the third period.

Three goals by Burt Goring and two from Serge Bernier helped Los Angeles to their 20th victory of the season Saturday over California.

Bobby Hull's 48th goal at St. Louis Saturday was all the Hawks needed to go with Gary Smith's shutout against the Blues.

Archer on target

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — George Archer defeated Tommy Aaron on the second hole of a sudden-death playoff—set up by an Arnold Palmer collapse—for the $40,000 first prize Sunday in the Greater Greensboro Open golf tournament.

Palmer, who had come out of the tightly-bunched field with consecutive birdies on the 14th and 15th holes, stormed past officials and shrugged off reporters after he completed play.

He hustled off the course immediately, speaking to no one.

South African Gary Player had moved to within one stroke of the lead with a 67 in the morning round, which started in 31-degree temperature at 6:15 a.m. but he was disqualified when he failed to sign his scorecard.

"There are rules in life and we must abide by them," said Player. "This was my responsibility and I failed to meet it. So I must suffer the consequences."

With Player, out, the lead shifted back and forth between a quintet made up of Australian Bruce Crampton, Archer, Aaron, Palmer and Rodriguez, all of whom led or shared the lead at one time during the day.

Beavers back

SHERBROOKE (CC) — Hockey action returns to the Sports Palace tonight when Sherbrooke Beavers meet Quebec Ramparts in the third game of their best-of-seven quarter-final series in the Quebec Major Junior Hockey League.

It's a must-win game for the local team, which is behind two games to none against the powerful Ramparts. In the first two games of the series, played last week in Quebec City, the Beavers went down to defeat 8-2 and 12-2.

Friday night at the Quebec Coliseum before 13,900 fans, the Ramparts trounced the local team in a fight filled contest 12-2. Sherbrooke goal scorers were Marcel Labrosse and Gaston Boulanger.
