Have you been waiting for the reduction sale of buggies and harnesses? If you have, the sale has arrived at Lee Farm. There are a few desirable wagons and harnesses left that are closing out low.

It is a world of compensations, in which the strong bear the burdens of the weak etc. Last Thursday it was fortunate for those who made up the party to Willoughby that there were machines in commission to bring home the overflow from those that were out of it.

An interesting feature of the Stanstead County fair August 24th and 25th will be the competition for the John Wharry prize for the "best pulling" team, contestants having to "pull" a large boulder on a stone drag. This feature was introduced last year and is being repeated in 1910.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Audinwood were the guests of Mrs. C. H. Merrill, Mr. Audinwood's sister, on an automobile trip to Willoughby Lake, St. Johnsbury, Wells River and so on down the Connecticut river to Shelburn Falls, Mass. This is one of New England's most picturesque routes for a trip of this kind.

The grain crop promises to be one of the best ever harvested in this section. Oats are looking particularly well. Last Wednesday evening two remarkable heads of Norway blacks reached our sanctum from J. B. Knox, Stanstead Junction. During the night they were stolen by a bold mouse so that the number was not ascertained.

Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Beerworth have been entertaining Mr. and Mrs. Chas. McNeill and two children of Lebanon, N. H. Mr. McNeill went from Rutter's Corner 35 years ago, and this was his first visit. Mr. and Mrs. John F. Mead, son and daughter of Randolph, Vt., were in town Thursday and Friday accompanied by Mr. J. R. Hughes, Los Angeles, Cal., the father, of Mrs. Mead. Mr. Mead is the son of the late Col. John B. Mead of Randolph. They were here to call on Hon. Charles Carpenter and family, who are relatives.

The basket ball season opened early, as there was a game Saturday evening between the College contingent and a local pick up, was strengthened by Arthur Eaton of Westfield, Mass., one of the star players of the state. The line up was: Eaton, Blake, Norris, Cosby, Smith for the locals, and Brooks, Montie, Wigg, Montie, McFadyen for the College; referee, Alfred Moulton; scorer, C. H. Smith. It was a fast game from start to finish; there was something doing every minute. Eaton showed that he is fast in the game and with a team of his class, that have played together, would make fine work. At half time the score was 7 to 11 in favor of the town crowd, the College team seeming to be outclassed so far, but the last half developed the fact that the College bunch had a few tricks up their sleeve; they had been getting the measure of their opponents and it was business the last half, the College team capturing the game with a score 28 to 18. Brooks lost his wind and the ball at one point in the game and ran about in a dazed condition, but soon righted up and was in the game on the whole it was a good initial game.

Mortgages and Agreements of Sale.

THE MONTHLY BUDGET.

Notes From the Hatley Township W. C. T. U., Record Book

North Hatley, July 6th—Mrs. Dick entertained. Opened the meeting with devotional exercises and answered the roll call with texts beginning with the letter M. Minutes accepted. It was thought that the plan of a question box at each meeting would be a good idea and bring out many discussions of interest. And speaking of questions, who can answer this? Why do not the men of our County take hold of temperance work and help? Why should not this county arise and stamp out this terrible thing the licensed saloon, in our midst? Why should those places deal out the accursed drink to our men and boys any longer? Why do those who do not suffer directly by it, help those who do? Pause and consider these momentous questions to-day.

Ayer's Cliff, July 13th—Union met with Mrs. Hand. Twelve ladies present. Sang to open, "Take the name of Jesus with you" and usual order of exercises. Several bills ordered paid. A vote of thanks given Mesdames Hill and Vaughan for the satisfactory manner with which they collected material and had overseen the making of a nice banner for the Union. Mrs. Avery donated some material for which thanks were given, also a nice hand painting of "The Cliff" adorns the banner and the ladies feel that the same is well worthy of a place among all the banners of our County.

Mrs. Moore was appointed committee on Mission work for town. The recent prize fight was brought up and discussed and the ladies expressed indignation that such fights should be allowed in a Christian land, and trust the time is near when the law will put them down and out.

Mrs. Hand gave a nice recitation and Mrs. Hill a reading, of much interest, and after refreshments had been served the meeting adjourned to convene next with Mrs. Slack.

Ayer's Cliff Y. Union met with Miss Cass with 14 present. Read XXIV Psalm, and sang to open. Miss Webster and Mrs. Bangs appointed on entertainment for next and Mrs. Lyons and Miss Buck for library committee. It was decided to sell ice cream at the county building an evening in the near future. Miss Webster invited the Union to meet next at her home, in August.

Massawippi, July 27th—Met with Mrs. Hitchcock with a very good attendance. Opened in the usual manner, the Pres. in the chair. It was voted to continue the subscription to "The Union Signal" and also voted to subscribe, from the town, for 13 copies of the Monthly Responsive Readings for use at our local meetings in each place. These Readings take up the work of each department and with questions by a leader and answers by the members, prove very instructive.

A question box was opened and occupied some time, after which a programme on the World's Convention was given. 1st Mrs. Stevens' letter from Glasgow, was read. Next The departure of the Celtic from New York. Next Aboard the Celtic, and lastly The historic city of Glasgow, different ladies reading. Accounts of Convention to be continued at next meeting.

Delightful refreshments, ice cream, etc., were served by Mrs. Hitchcock, at small tables placed about the rooms as a storm came on and prevented using the lawn as intended.

The Countess of Carlisle, World's Pres. at Glasgow in her address said: Blessed are the founders of the W. C. T. U. and the thousands upon thousands who are now continuing their crusade in many lands.

White Ribboners are united to make the World's own kingdom and experience day by day, point to the fact, that we are bound to win.

Unless we bring our white ribbon belief to bear upon our political, social and religious life. We are not true White Ribboners.

Internationalism is the latest thing all reform and the keynote of progress and to the betterment of our race, the world is one and not divided. The reason why the White Ribbon movement is international character.

Wear the white ribbon my sister,
O wear it abroad,
You cannot tell how its whiteness
May speak for the Lord,
Somebody's eye will be caught
Some one will ponder in thought
Lessons of purity taught
Is this no reward?

Wear the white ribbon my sister
And earnestly pray,
He, who is Lord of all being,
May use it each day,
Pray that its spoken word,
Where there is need may be heard,
That the soul it has stirred
May haste to obey.
E. ST. DIZIER, Town Rec. Sec.

The Directors of the Sherbrooke Fair, which is to be held this year from August 27th to September 3rd, promise a better show than ever.

Not only have the amusements been well looked after, but prizes agricultural classes have been largely increased. The total distributed this year will exceed the sum of $20,000.00.

Mr. John Mitchell the Labor leader is spoken of as a possible candidate for governor of New York.

VERMONT ITEMS.

The state has quite $100,000 more on hand this year at this time than last year, or any previous year.

The Republican state committee formally opened the campaign headquarters in Rutland with an enthusiastic rally Thursday evening.

The "Old Home Week" idea has struck Orleans county; the town of Irasburg is soon to celebrate such an event, setting the pace for other towns.

The number of visitors at the Bennington battle monument for the month of July was 1,230 which shows a gain of nearly 200 over the corresponding month of last year.

Judge Martin has directed that a session of the United States district court for the purpose of taking petitions for naturalization be held at Montpelier in August, and at Barre the 18th.

The Orleans County Fair association will hold its next annual fair at Roaring Brook Park, on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, September 7, 8 and 9. Tuesday, September 6, will be entry day and the other three days will be fair every day.

The St. Johnsbury East Creamery Co. with a capital stock of $5,000 organized for the purpose of conducting a creamery and general store in St. Johnsbury and sub-station has filed articles of association in the office of the secretary of state.

The boys of Lunenburg have organized a club with a membership which includes those from fourteen to eighteen years old. This club has secured a travelling library from the state board of library commissioners, and has plans both for profit and recreation.

Leon LeBlanc, a Rutland business man, prominent through patents on centrifugal pumps, died Thursday, after several weeks illness. He was born in St. Gregorie, Que., 69 years ago and was the originator of the Selters patent on centrifugal pumps, issued in 1907.

The need and demand throughout the state for library buildings is rapidly growing. Already there are over sixty, several of which were built during the last year, and the towns of South Hero, Shelburne, Swanton and Bethel have building funds in hand and are planning to build as soon as possible.

Barton is losing one of her manufacturing concerns, the Pillsbury-Baldwin Co. We of course know nothing of the inside history, but it hurts a town to lose a factory if desirable for another town to acquire. The concern moves to St. Johnsbury. The indications are that it passed through the sweating process at Barton and will get down to gains in its new location.

The state board of pharmacy which recently held an examination at the state house, Montpelier, for registered pharmacists has announced that two drug clerks, John B. Lambert of Burlington, and Joel D. Bly of Newport, passed the examinations for registered pharmacists, and four qualified as assistant pharmacists. The latter were: Leslie W. Howard Jr. of White River Junction, Enrico C. Solini of Barre, William H. Columb of St. Albans, and Malcolm S. Buck of Wells River.

The Barton Village Improvement society has reorganized with the following officers: Mrs. O. H. Mossman, president; Mrs. C. C. W. Heath, vice-president; Mrs. C. A. Barrows, secretary; Mrs. S. Winslow, treasurer.—A village improvement society is a fine thing if it is made up of workers, but we do not look kindly upon leaving this work to the women of a village or town; not that they are not fully equal to it, but the men of a village should take the initiative in such work with the gentler sex.

"The battleship Vermont was the recipient of many salutes from both large and small craft and from residents along the harbor front yesterday, as she steamed out through the harbor. One of the prettiest salutes was the dipping of colors on a private flag pole which stood at Great Head. The battleship presented a majestic appearance and attracted much attention."—Boston Record.

That's because the stately old girl was simply living up to her christening. Nobody and nothing can be called Vermont without being saluted on all sides.—St. Albans Messenger.

The managers of Canada's great Eastern Exhibition, which will be held in Sherbrooke from August 27th to September 3rd, have arranged for some very special attractions, including the Schiounni Troupes of Comedy Acrobats, 4 men and 2 women, an Arab troupe of 7 men supplied by Hassen Ben Ali, Vallacieta and her 5 leopards, Mlle. Morrissine and her 2 performing ponies, and 12 performing dogs, The Helkivists, high divers and fire divers, Troupes of 8 Russians dancers. Pantomime act probably the Slums of Paris and "The Fearless Griggs" with their triple somersaults and others acrobatic feats. These specialties in addition to the variety and excellence of the exhibits will draw a large attendance from the whole Province and from across the line.

Work of Vermont Sanatorium

The medical report of the Vermont sanatorium at Pittsford for the quarter ending June 30, 1910, as submitted to the trustees, shows a very marked increase in the work and scope of the institution. A number of applications has been made and a larger number of patients treated than during any previous period in its history.

During the summer months every available bed has been occupied and at times the number of patients has exceeded the actual working capacity. June 30 there were 41 patients in the sanatorium (22 men and 19 women.) August 1 the number was 43, and there is a considerable list of accepted patients waiting for vacancies to occur.

The 30 patients admitted during the quarter were classified as 13 incipient and 37 moderately advanced. Two were from Addison, two from Bennington, one from Caledonia, four from Chittenden, one from Franklin, two from Lamoille, one from Grand Isle, three from Rutland, four from Washington, two from Windsor, six from Windham, and two from Orleans counties, respectively. This table of geographical distribution shows that even these localities at a greater distance, in the eastern and southeastern part of the state, are beginning to realize more, the importance of sanatorium treatment, and are taking advantage, of the opportunities offered by this institution.

Of the 19 cases discharged during the quarter, in whom results of treatment were considered, three were apparently cured, three were arrested, and seven improved, three remained stationary or grew worse, and one died. In other words, 15, or nearly 80 per cent were distinctly benefited. Some of those discharged will be able to follow out the treatment at home or at least seek out more hygienic modes of living as a result of the training and education received.

With the increased number of applications the policy will be to select earlier and more favorable cases, so that in the future even better results ought to be expected.

Young Rutland Aviators Buy Aeroplane

George and Charles Schmidt of Rutland have bought an aeroplane of the Curtiss type and will use it on the aviation grounds at Mineola, Long Island, this summer; at the Rutland fair in September; and in the competition for the $30,000 prize for a time trip between New York and St. Louis. This is the first aeroplane to be owned in Vermont, and George Schmid, who is 18 years old is probably the youngest aviator in the country.

The young man, who has been passing 10 days at the aviation grounds at Hempstead and Mineola, N. Y., during his absence placed an order for an airship. At Mineola, Harman, Baldwin, Russell, and Seymour the noted flyers were engaged in practice work. Mr. Schmidt became a member of the Aeronautic Society of New York.

In two weeks the Schmidt brothers will go to Mineola, put their machine together, and practice the new art of flying until their appearance at the Rutland fair. The world's contest for the shortest time between New York and St. Louis will be held August 15 and January 1.

The machine purchased by the Schmidts is a biplane of the Curtiss type of the same size as the machine in which Curtiss made his sensational flight from Albany to New York a few weeks ago. It will carry a 60-horse power Elbridge featherweight motor, two-cycle, four-cylinder, with the Atwater-Kent ignition system. The radiator, in order to give a large cooling surface will be one of 90-horse power. The propeller will be seven feet in diameter, with a six-foot pitch, giving a thrust of 276 pounds. The main planes will be 30 feet by four and a half. The machine will weigh 175 pounds. It will be able to attain a speed of probably 50 miles an hour.

In the next two weeks the Schmidts will practice with the biplane glider which they have been building during the past few months, and with which they have made successful flights. The cloth for the planes has been received.

The Schmidts have made a study of aeronautics for several years and George Schmidt last winter established a wireless station at his home.

GRIFFIN.

Mr. M. W. Bullis and family attended the annual family gathering at Capt. J. C. Bullis' Cottage, Cedarville, Aug. 2nd. A most enjoyable day was spent.

Church of England Service as usual Sunday, Aug. 14th at 3 p. m. Rev. A. H. Moore M. A., rector has returned from his vacation and will officiate. All are most welcome.

Name the Difference.

The Orleans County Monitor raises a far-reaching question when it asks what right the state has to say to a town that it shall not drink impure water and shall not pollute water that is to be used for portable purposes and at the same time to legalize the sale of intoxicating drink that in many respects is definitely worse than impure water.

Some people take the ground that nobody should be allowed to sell intoxicating liquor as a beverage. Others insist that there should be no more restrictions on the number of liquor saloons than on the number of drug stores which sell cocaine and other things in this line the use of which may become a dreadful habit with people.

No one who has studied the liquor question or has noted the extent to which the control of the traffic in intoxicating liquor is being made conspicuous in the political conventions and platforms of the great political parties in numerous states this year needs to be told that this whole problem of dealing with the sale of drugs and liquor for habitual use especially remains to be satisfactorily solved.

More and more people are taking the stand that the state has a right to control the thing which interferes with the public welfare, and we suspect that here as in other domains of government the principle which should eventually prevail is "the greatest good of the greatest number."

The New Farm School.

The prospectus for the incoming school year of the new agricultural and industrial department of Lyndon Institute, Lyndon Center, is in distribution and an interesting and every way creditable document it is. Briefly the aim of this new department is educating boys for success in agricultural pursuits. The accepted course will cover two years of nine months each, and a notable provision is the combining of the theoretical and practical work in the field as well as in the schoolroom. The total expense for a school year is set at $162, which sum includes tuition, board, and room, and books, and this extremely moderate sum may be met in one of two ways, cash or work. Better still, student work will be paid at the rate of fifteen cents an hour in term time, and at the rate of $25 a month, with board and room, during vacation season. The studies are comprehensive, and yet practical, just such as the farmer needs to be posted upon in administering the affairs of a farm in desired efficiency. For the field work the famed Speedwell farms of Theodore N. Vial are available, and it would be hard to realize a pleasanter, more serviceable situation, and because of all this it would seem that in the new department is a school of agriculture with not a single thing lacking, and surely one that is calculated to do great good.

STRIKING.

C. S. Nesbitt, of Durand, an employee of the Grand Trunk who sacrificed his expectation of a pension of $50 per month from the company, by joining the strikers three weeks before the pension was due, is not to be congratulated for his heroism. He has a family, and they would almost have been justified in initiating a judicial inquiry as to his sanity, for he was hardly fit to exercise his own discretion in flinging away an income that would have stood between then and want as long as he lived. The labour organization which fancied such suicidal loyalty from him was not entirely blameless either, for his continued service to the company for so brief an interval could in no way endanger the success of the strike.

If any intelligent workman whose union frequently drags him into strikes would keep a debtor and a creditor account of his losses by obeying the union and his profits out of the strikes even when they succeed, he would be astonished how the balance would show on the wrong side. In Nesbitt's case, the whole account may be on the wrong side. He is too old for any other employment than switching, and if the strike does not succeed, which is more than likely, he will be penniless out of a job. Foolish Nesbitt.

J. R. Booth and His Way

The J. R. Booth Co. of Ottawa, has paid its employees, most of whom were thrown out of work for almost a week at the commencement of the G. T. R. strike, full pay for the lost time. The decision came as a surprise, nothing being known by the men until they received the pay envelopes. At noon the whole mill staff called the veteran lumberman out into the yards and publicly thanked him for his generosity. Some of the employees were not out of work the whole week, but the amount paid over voluntarily by the company is understood to be about $12,000.

Mr. Booth, in addressing the men, said he thought that as the men themselves were not responsible for their having to lay off that it would be a pity if they had to starve, as some of them who depended entirely on their week's wages would almost have to do just because another organization had decided to go on strike.

He was roundly cheered by his army of employees.

FISH BANISHES MOSQUITOES

Will Rid Any Water It is Put in of the Pests—Pacific Fish Which Sings to Its Young.

Washington.—Prof. E. E. Prince of the Canadian Fisheries Service, has given the United States Bureau of Fisheries particulars of a fish that sings while it nurses its young. The account, though remarkably interesting, does not indicate the singing fish is ready, just yet, to take a place in a church choir.

According to Prof. Prince the piscatorial songstress is of the genus Porichthys Porichthys (toad fish), and is very unprepossessing in appearance. But it has the peculiar habit of staying beside its eggs during their development.

Both are to be found in vast numbers in the South in the shallow margins of lakes, ponds and streams in the tidewater regions. They are also to be found in shallow ditches and surface drains, even where the water is but a fraction of an inch deep.

Prof. Seal also advises Northerners to cultivate gold fish and two small kinds of sun fish, known as the "roach" and the "shiner," which live among plants. The gold fish is lazy, but eats immense numbers of mosquito larvae.

Average Salary of Ministers $663.

IDOL OF BOY SCOUTS.

Baden Powell Arrives in Quebec and Talks of Movement.

A Quebec correspondent writes: Lieut.-Gen R. S. Baden-Powell, K. C. B. hero of Mafeking, and leader of the boy scout movement, arrived on Canada soil Friday afternoon by the Empress of Ireland. He is the beauideal of a soldier, spare of frame, lithe and quick in movement, of medium height, and with tanned face.

"Look at that," he said, with pride, "is not that a justification of my movement. You see how quickly, carefully and methodically they do their work compared to the dock laborers."

"You don't regret the army?" "No, not at all; I left it for this movement I intend to consecrate myself to this cause, which is getting beyond all bounds in its importance."

BOY SCOUT MOVEMENT.

The boy scout movement has spread throughout the whole of the British Empire. In Canada there are not less than 19 committees organized, and in Toronto they have already registered 36 troops containing about 1,500 scouts all fully uniformed.

AYER'S CLIFF.

The Odd Fellows joined their brothers of the same Order at the Presbyterian Church, Massawippi on Sunday morning when Rev. Mr. Seal gave by request a very eloquent temperance address.

Over sixty ladies and gentlemen took tea with Mrs. Rand at the Guild meeting on Thursday. It was decided that their next meeting be postponed until after "the fairs".

Miss Flora Dow of Barton, Vt., visited at Mr. Irving Slack's last week. Miss Maria Cass has been visiting at Brigham the past two weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. I. Slack spent Friday and Saturday with their daughter at Minton.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Hibbard were at Newport on Saturday.

The family of E. J. Smith were called from their cottage at Elmwood to Coaticook on Friday to attend the funeral of Mrs. Smith's mother, the late Mrs. Frost of Berlin, N. H.

Messrs. R. Dick and Magoon of North Hatley, were recent visitors at Mr. Slack's.

Mr. George Bean of Wheelock, Vt., visited friends here last week.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Rand are taking an outing at Brome Lake.

Mr. Bert Shaw of Sherbrooke is a guest at B. J. Smith's cottage at Elmwood.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Hamby of Coaticook, spent a few days at A. A. Drew's recently.

Mrs. (Rev.) C. Moore and little Arthur go to Nova Scotia this week, to visit among other friends, her sister, Miss Ethel MacDonald, whose health we are sorry to report is very poor this summer.

On Monday Mrs. C. Dustin, a resident of this village, was called to the home of her son, Henry Dustin of Lovings Pond, who was reported dying from a dose of Paris green administered by himself in a fit of despondency, but with medical assistance he was somewhat relieved and at this writing hopes are entertained for his recovery.

The lawn social on Tuesday evening at Mr. Berry's was a decided success. The weather was delightful, the lawn spacious and well lighted, ice-cream and cake plentiful and an unusually large number of people present.

Miss Gertrude Standish of Lennoxville, is a guest of her cousin, Miss Opal Standish.

Messrs. J. R. Baldwin and T. Dawson of Coaticook, were among recent visitors at Mr. Pollard's.

Mrs. O. B. Siddell of Mattawan, N. Y., also R. J. Cummings and J. B. Murphy of Syracuse, N. Y., are recent arrivals at Chas. Robinson's.

Miss Bachelard leaves on Saturday for a well-earned vacation of two or three weeks. Before returning she will visit the millinery openings in Sherbrooke and other towns.

What might have proved a more serious accident occurred at Burrongs Falls on Tuesday afternoon when two gentlemen, Chas. Wilson of Westboro, Mass., and R. J. Cummings of Syracuse, N. Y., while bathing fell over the Falls a distance of thirty feet.

They fortunately got out of it with some severe scratches and bruises, but it is said they were unable to meet their engagements for the evening.

From another correspondent. Mrs. Sandford Hitchcock, who is visiting at Smith's Mills was the guest of Mrs. B. Plumley at her cottage Saturday.

Miss Nettie Bradley of Sherbrooke, was the guest of Mrs. C. W. Vaughan this week.

The event of the week was a lawn social given by the ladies of the Congregational Ladies Aid. Mrs. Hiram Berry opening her house and grounds which were lighted by electricity for the evening. Ice cream and cake was liberally served. The entertainment was enjoyable and a goodly sum realized.

Miss Cochrane of Toronto, is visiting her cousin, Mrs. Durocher. The Advent tent meetings closed on Sunday, having been here for three weeks.

Messdames. B. Plumley, H. Plumley and C. W. Vaughan spent Wednesday in Sherbrooke.

Our electric light system is well planned and carried into effect, our streets being well lighted. Much credit is due Mr. Kennedy of Coaticook for his skill and energy in the much needed enterprise.

Mr. and Mrs. Buckland will occupy their cottage at the Park the rest of the month.

Mrs. Edgar Davidson is on the list of sick ones this week.

Elmwood Park is now very lively with the summer guests who are enjoying the beautiful lake Massawippi, and now and then the good luck to catch some nice fish.

Miss Hazel Dustin is visiting friends at Minto.

Mrs. Carl Mosher is considered improving in health.

From an occasional Correspondent. The Rev. Mr. Gardner of Concord, N. H., closed a series of very interesting meetings, Sunday night. He is a man of great talent and ability and not only that but filled with the spirit of God. We have been highly favored in having the privilege of listening to him. May we treasure up what we have heard and may it be of lasting benefit to us.

Mr. T. M. Worthen's new house on First Avenue is progressing slowly and will be very pleasant when completed.

We are enjoying the electric lights very much.

A RAILWAY PROPOSITION.

What has recently been advanced in behalf of United States railways' claims to an increase in their freight charges, has been illustrated in the case of the Canadian roads in connection with the late award of the board acting under the conciliation law. From the nature of things wages enter more largely into the cost of operating the railways than in connection with any other industry.

In the year ending with June 30, 1909, the gross earnings of Canadian railways amounted to $145,056,000. Of this sum 43 1/2 per cent. was paid to the men who work and manage the lines. In the United States the percentage of gross earnings paid in wages during the same time was only 41 per cent.

The difference of 2 1/2 per cent. is not the result of divergencies in the rate of pay, but is to be ascribed to the fact that in large sections of the United States the population is much denser than it is in Canada; the trains there as a rule carry more passengers, more freight offers according to the length of line, and the same operating force takes care of a heavier volume of business.

When it is remembered that the state of New York has a population as large as all Canada the situation in this regard may be realized. When it is urged that the pay on Canadian roads should be as high as those in the neighboring parts of the United States some things are forgotten. That, however, is aside. Canadian roads must pay approximately the same as those over the border or they will not retain good men.

When, however, they have to increase the rates of pay for their men, and for their supplies, faster than they can increase their traffic and traffic earnings they find their financial position growing weaker. The estimate is that in twelve years up to 1910 the cost of labor on the Canadian railways increased by 30 per cent., that of supplies, material and equipment, exclusive of lumber, by 44 per cent., and that of lumber by 65 per cent.

The companies have been able to maintain their standing by the large and effective expenditure of money on track and rolling stock equipment. Tracks have been straightened and doubled, the grades on them reduced, and the lines laid with heavier rails. Bridges have been strengthened. The power of locomotives and the capacity of cars increased till a train's freight tonnage is almost or quite double what it was a score of years ago. The benefit has not all been to the railway share and bond holders.

Rates have been reduced by some fractions of a cent a ton a mile, that seems nothing stated by itself but that multiplied by the tens of millions of tons carried a mile means a large saving to those who pay transportation charges. The roads, however, cannot continuously go on spending money on improvements and increasing wages and operating outlays and maintain their financial standing unless they can also increase their earnings in proportion near to that of the growing demands upon them. The calculation is made that the increase to the trainmen just recommended by the board of conciliation, when conceded, and made the basis of concessions to other branches of labor, will raise the percentage of the cost of wages on Canadian roads as a whole from 43 1/2 to about 54 1/2 per cent. of the gross earnings. Business men will appreciate what that will mean in its effect on the net earnings. A large increase in the cost of working the roads cannot be considered alone. If the companies are to meet their responsibilities, maintain their credit and keep themselves in a position to meet greater demands on their facilities, they must get more for services that cost them more.—Montreal Gazette.

HEATHTON.

There will be an ice cream social under the auspices of the ladies aid Tuesday evening Aug. 16th at the home of Mrs. S. H. Davis on her lawn if pleasant, if the weather is unfavorable it will be in the house. All welcome. The aid at Mrs. Bullock's was largely attended. The next aid will meet at the home of the Mayor's wife Mrs. George Pocock Thursday afternoon Aug. 18th. Mrs. L. A. Hastings and son Meredith and her mother Mrs. Wm. Heath spent a day at Lake Lester recently. Rev. Chas. Pocock of Ontario is expected at the home of his brother Mr. Geo. Pocock.

Deafness Cannot be Cured by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this becomes inflamed, it causes a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation is taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surface.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by Catarrh) that can not be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

PIKE'S Has the exclusive Agency for the World Famous Paint

"JAP-A-LAC"

There are a few attempts to make a paint as good and handy as "JAP-A-LAC," but the Paint Grinders and Mixers never claim to excel it, to them "JAP-A-LAC" is the limit of color making and mixing skill, it is the pace maker of paint manufacturers; and the beauty of this boon to the home, is the fact that anybody can use it successfully, therefore buy "JAP-A-LAC" and use the best.

We have "JAP-A-LAC" in 1/2 pints, pints and quarts in the pressed cup top tin cans, in the following stains and colors:

NATURAL, WALNUT, MAHOGANY, OAK, GLOSS WHITE, BRILLANT BLACK, GREEN, RED, CHERRY AND THE GRAINING COLORS AND GRAINING TOOLS.

Don't experiment with those that promise to be as good as "JAP-A-LAC," but use a sure and proved success.

HATLEY.

Shortly before midnight Saturday the villagers were aroused by the alarm of fire, which had broken out in LeClair's blacksmith shop on Massawippi St. The flames had, however, made such progress that there was no hope of saving the building and the attention of the crowd which quickly gathered was directed towards the adjoining property, recently purchased by Mr. E. LeBaron and occupied by T. D. Hunter, who, with F. O. Webster, assisted by a corps of willing workers put up a strenuous fight to save building. At times the task was thought a fruitless one, but by persevering effort, the flames were at last subdued. Both the outside and inner part of the building is considerably damaged, which fortunately is covered by insurance. The shop was also insured but the stock and tools are a total loss. A painful incident, in connection with the early Sunday morning blaze, was the sudden collapse of Mrs. Wood, who was among the spectators and whose house is near the scene of the fire. She was at once removed to her home and restoratives applied, to which she soon responded, and is now rapidly regaining her usual health. Upon the same occasion Mrs. E. LeBaron narrowly escaped serious injury, by falling upon a pile of debris, from a height of 3 or 4 feet, badly bruising her right arm and severely spraining her wrist and shoulder.

Note—Since writing the above account it has been reported that the tools and stock were also covered by insurance.

Right Rev. W. W. Niles, Bishop of N. H., who with Mrs. Niles and their grandson, Master Edward Niles, has been staying for a few days at the Hatley House, preached to an attentive congregation, Sunday morning at St. James.

Mr. Nunns of Coaticook, was here on Monday.

At the last meeting of the Stanstead Co. Agricultural Society, it was voted to grant permission to Capt R. P. Hulbert of Rubican Farm, to erect, at his own expense, a pavillion for the purpose of exhibiting his fine herd of Holstein cattle. That this creation will be a work of art goes without saying.

While working at the saw-mill, on Monday, Donald McRitchie met with painful injury, a heavy hard wood plank falling on his right foot. It will be some days before Mr. McRitchie will be able to resume work.

For several days Mrs. M. Kendrew has been enjoying ripe tomatoes from her own garden.

O. H. and L. H. Parker were engaged last week, in laying a concrete walk, at the residence of Mrs. M. Ayer.

Mrs. Bell of Racine, Wis., spent Tuesday at Mr. Howe's.

Miss Vida and Albert Kendrew are visiting at the home of Mr. Birch of Compton.

A merry picnic party of pleasure-seekers, to the number of 30, from the Bowen neighborhood, passed through the place on Tuesday on their way to Elmwood Park, where they spent a delightful day, Mr. Nunns of Coaticook having placed his cottage at their disposal.

APPLE GROVE

La Burton Stevens of West Derby, Vt., is spending two weeks with his cousin Master Willie Redway.

HATLEY CENTER.

Our thoroughfare has been greatly improved by the replacing of the old log culvert at the four corners at the farms Maple Lane and Broadlands by new street tubular culvert. For a long time it was felt that something must be done to improve our culvert system but not until the past couple of years has the council taken definite steps in this matter, however now they are on the alert and this is the second modern culvert which has replaced the old style culvert in our enterprising town.

Mrs. Ella Fournier and sons lately of Waterloo are at Broadlands, the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar J. Oliver.

Miss Susie Morrissette has been enjoying a short vacation the past week-end.

Miss Beatrice Gowdie of Martinville was entertained by her friend, Miss Mabel Young on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Burton Lord were entertained to dinner at Mrs. Lord's sister's at Sherbrooke on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Maxfield were the guests of relatives at McConnell on Sunday.

Mrs. Fred Young and son Albert, were entertained by Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Young the past week-end.

The Misses Nance, Gowdie, Merrill; Margaret, Jennie and Susie Morrissette and the Messrs Myron and Morton Sampson; Fred, Bert, Glen and Ray Little endeavored to take enjoyment out of life Sunday by going to the Falls where a sumptuous lunch was served and a scramble over the rocks was enjoyed.

A lawn social will be held on the Abbott School grounds under the auspices of the energetic society of the Hatley Centre Ladies Aid, on Tuesday evening the 16th inst. We hope that fortune will favor this date and that a large crowd will assemble to do justice to the ice cream and cake which will be served. Everybody come and encourage the ladies in their good work.

The community was shocked and saddened by the death on Friday, August 5th of one of our oldest and most respected citizens in the person Mr. Erastus Ball. Mr. Ball for many years has been a sufferer from rheumatism but otherwise his health had been good until about a fortnight ago, he received a slight paralytic shock. Medical aid was summoned, but despite the united efforts of friends, the nurse and the doctor, it was seen that life was fast ebbing away.

Mr. Ball had attained the ripe old age of 84 years and throughout these year his life stands out very prominently, possessing a noble and upright character, such as every Christian should possess, he was honored and revered by all who knew him. A man of discreet judgement and possessing wonderful business ability, an interesting conversationalist and a great reader.

Mr. Ball bore his troubles with unlimited patients and never complained although for many years he was crippled with rheumatism, yet he ever enjoyed the bright side of life.

His relatives have the sympathy of the neighborhood.

A short prayer service was held at Mr. J. W. McKay's house where Mr. Ball had just a few weeks ago made his home, at 9 a. m. The service was held in the Congregational Church of which denomination Mr. Ball was a member. Interment was at Huntingville.

DUFFERIN AVENUE

The Helping Hand met with Mrs. Albert Lincoln on Thursday, August 4th. Most of the members were present and a lot of sewing for the family was accomplished. A Helping Hand quilt was also started. It was decided to send five dollars to The Old Brewery Mission, Montreal, for The Fresh Air Fund. At five o'clock the ladies sat down to the bountiful repast provided by the hostess and served by the Helping Hand girls. The next meeting will be held at Mrs. Henry Smith's on August 19th.

Miss Maria Smith has returned from Boston where she has been spending a few months with her aunt Mrs. Nelson Bartlett.

Miss Gertrude Abbott and her brother Frank have gone to Bromo Lake for a few weeks.

Mr. Caldwell has his barley cut. Rather early in the season.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Abbott spent Sunday in Newport.

Miss Agnes Smith has gone to Waterloo for a few weeks.

MASSAWIPPI.

Rain has fallen abundantly of late and a great deal of hay damaged but the country is beautiful to look at, so fresh and green, and the air cool and refreshing.

The temperance service, Sunday was well attended by the residents and others and a delegation of about twenty Odd Fellow came, which number would have been largely augmented had time been taken by the forelock to extend the invitations. Mr. Seel gave a very able sermon from the third chapter of Ecclesiastes, holding the close attention of all, to the end. The choir sang; Fight the good fight, Oh Jesus I will promise to serve and follow thee, Onward Christian Soldiers and where are the Reapers. The violin solo, Star of Hope by Clifton Sloggett, accompanied by Mrs. W. Hunting, (organ) was rendered impressively and beautifully, being very appropriate for the occasion. Mr. Seel kindly thanked all for their presence and acceptance in such goodly numbers to the invitation extended by himself and the members of the W. C. T. U.

Rev. Brewer and family of Compton, are for the month August at Mrs. E. St. Dizier's camp Cedarwood at the lake.

Miss Flora Hussey spent a day with Mrs. Laura LeBaron at Point Pleasant, recently.

Short Sermons FOR A Sunday Half-Hour

Theme:
NECESSITY OF IDEALS.

BY REV. GEORGE DOWNING SPARKS.

Text—I will lift up mine eyes unto the hills.—Psalm, cxli., 1.

It was no haphazard chance, but the yielding to a natural instinct, that men in early times offered up their sacrifices on the tops of mountains. God seemed to be nearer on a lofty peak than in the valley below. Heaven appeared to touch the earth when the clouds kissed the hilltops. This was the thought that stirred the heart of primitive man; and to-day, I imagine, the majority of us can think of God more easily when we gaze from some towering elevation into "the silence of the starry sky" and feel, almost as a divine Presence, "the sleep among the lonely hills."

It is absolutely necessary for us to have ideals. If we have none, then we will sink to the level of the beasts of the field. We will go through life as dumb driven cattle, and not as heroes with the light of God shining in our faces. If we wish worthily to achieve our destiny, then there must ever be before us "the vision splendid." Our religion, as the highest of ideals, beckons us upward and bids us go forward and practice what we believe in daily life and duty.

If it be true that most men "chatter and love and hate, gather and squander, are raised aloft, are hurled in the dust, striving blindly, achieving nothing," then let it not be true of us. We can, if we will, cherish some splendid ideal of character and service. Many men have done this. History glitters with their names. Why cannot we do likewise?

Let us therefore determine to be "souls temper'd with fire," and refuse to look upon life as something mean and contemptible. It is good, notwithstanding what cowards and croakers say to the contrary. It is always our own fault if we let it be barren and fruitless.

"Look up," then, must be our motto, not "look down." Look at the things which make for righteousness and peace, not at the things which produce sin and discord. Keep your eyes on the things that are true, honest, pure and of good report. So gazing, our eyes will be effectually turned away from things false, impure and low.

We shall have opportunities every day, almost every hour, of showing our philosophy of life. It depends entirely upon ourselves in what direction we will direct our gaze: toward those things which will lift us up or drag us down; toward the snow-capped mountain peaks, glittering in the sunlight, or to the dark, foul, fever haunted swamps of the valley.

Bunyan, in his "Pilgrim's Progress," sees a man with a muck rake. Over his head hovers an angel proffering him a celestial crown for that which he holds in his hands. But the man will not look up and continues to rake together the sticks and straws on the floor. It is a true picture, grim in its reality, of a man with no ideals, the saddest kind of a human tragedy.

"It Doth Not Yet Appear." The Bible is our only source of information concerning the future life. Almost everyone has, at some time in life, earnestly wished to know more about Heaven than the Bible has revealed. But we are not sure that a fuller and clearer revelation would serve any good purpose. Perhaps it would render men discontented with their present lot and unfit for present duty.

Perhaps there is no power in human language to convey to men's minds a fuller and clearer idea of the heavenly world. It may be that in our present state we do not possess the capacity to comprehend these things even if they could be uttered in human speech. Whatever be the reason for the comparative obscurity in which this interesting subject has been left, it is enough for us to know that there is a holy city where the saints of God are being gathered home to be forever with the Lord. We are invited to enter through the gates into that city, and the few faint glimpses of that heavenly place are enough to win our hearts to a holy life, and to cheer us on our journey through this vale of tears.—Christian Advocate.

Go Tell Thy Father. Whatever it is that presses thee, go, tell thy Father, put over the matter into His hand, and so thou shalt be freed from that dividing, perplexing care that the world is full of. When thou art either to do or suffer anything, when thou art about any purpose or business, go tell God of it, and acquaint him with it; yea, burden him with it, and thou hast done for matter of caring; no more care, but quiet, sweet diligence in thy duty, and dependence on him for the carriage of thy matters. Roll thy cares, and thyself with them, as one burden, all on thy God.—R. Leighton.

Through the resurrection of Christ the believer has victory; not only over sin and the law, but thanks be to God over death and the grave.—C. J. Felty.

MONKEYS FIND AN EASY MARK.

Collect Prof. Haggerty's Bananas as He Tests Their Imitative Faculties.

Because it was a very hot day and news was dull the city editor sent a reporter to the New York Bronx Zoo to see how Melvin Haggerty, a Harvard Professor, is getting along in the monkey house, where he is spending the summer in the interest of Cambridge culture. He is getting a line or several lines, on the intelligence of the intelligent monk. The City Editor wanted some too.

You don't need a guide to point Haggerty as you survey the monkey cages. Haggerty had his clothes on. Strolling up to the cage the reporter asked pleasantly:

"Does it seem sort of natural in there?"

"Although his name does not sound as if he came from Harvard, there can be no doubt that Haggerty knows his Back Bay and that he is bearing well in mind that a certain other illustrious alumnus is going to get $1-a word for all he says about animals. Therefore Mr. Haggerty is not going to give gratis to the public print what he is finding out from his association with the monkeys. If it does feel natural for him to be with them, he is not going to tell the reporters, and he did not tell this one. But once out of the cage, the young man of science is quite like other folk, and talks enthusiastically of his flunsel that only the Cambridge atmosphere gives, nevertheless they generally get the banana, and that's what counts here in New York.

Another apparatus used by the Professor is a rope operating through a pulley suspended from the ceiling. A banana is attached to the upper end of the rope, while the lower end dangles just above a hole in a platform resting under the apparatus. The trick monkeys lower away on a rope until the fruit descends within reach.

Recently Harrigan, a big muscled monk, was led out of his cage, after he had seen the trick performed a number of times. Plainly showing lack of education, Harrigan grabbed the rope violently and pulled the whole business down. The Harvard monkeys chattered their disgust as Harrigan ran off with the banana.

Prof. Haggerty is taking his job very seriously, and does most of his stunts while the public is not around. So don't go up to the Zoo expecting to see a free show.

buried Church Treasure in England.

There must be a good deal of treasure in the form of church plate and so forth concealed in different parts of the country, as quantities of it were buried at the time of the dissolution of the monasteries.

There are two legends in Worcestershire regarding some silver bells, for instance, which have been handed down most persistently from one generation to another, since the sixteenth century. One version of the story is that the bells were buried by the last Abbot of Evesham, Abbot Litchfield, in a subterranean passage which formerly existed between the abbey and a house on the opposite bank of the river, while the other story has it that a peal of silver bells was buried at the same period (the dissolution of the monasteries) at Abbot's Morton, a village ten miles distant from Evesham.—Wide World Magazine.

Thought Mail Was White Man's Food

The Rev. Hiram Bingham who arrived here from Honolulu on the liner Alameda, is one of the most picturesque figures in the modern history of the South Seas. His life has been devoted to work in and for the Gilbert Islands, which he first visited in 1857.

When he first visited the Gilbert Islands the natives had no knowledge of writing and had never seen paper. The first mail that arrived for the missionaries was stolen by the native carrier to whom it was entrusted and distributed in parcels to the other natives, who ate the scraps under the impression that they were some kind of white man's food.—San Francisco Chronicle.

A Freak Rose Bush.

W. R. Wilson, the president of the Huntington Borough Council, has an oddity at his home on Milfin street in the form of a perfectly white rose blooming on a rose bush which has borne only red roses and on which all the other flowers now blooming are red.

The rose is a climbing rambler, and about eight feet from the ground up the side of the house the one perfectly white rose has grown, standing out prominently among the red ones surrounding it.—Philadelphia Record.

A Stone in Which 30 People Live.

During the course of the centuries the enormous stone known as Yermoloffs Rock has been so tunneled that it resembles a gigantic rabbit-warren. In its interior, says a Russian paper, live five families, numbering no fewer than 30 people. The stone is in the Caucasus, within half a mile of the Georgian military road.

The Jap's Increase.

As a result of its war with Russia the area of Japan's territory was raised from 189,000 square miles to 282,000 square miles, and her population increased by 10,000,000.

which he places food. The monk who discovers how to open the box is considered to be far more intelligent than the one who rudely demolishes the apparatus in order to get what is inside. But the latter monkey eats first.

Haggerty first lets one of his pet monkeys open the box in full view of the cage full of monkeys. There is great excitement when the animal who has had the benefit of a Harvard education pulls out a banana. But let it be said to the credit of higher education in the Bronx, that the Zoo monkeys have proved themselves apt pupils. While they don't display the flunsel that only the Cambridge atmosphere gives, nevertheless they generally get the banana, and that's what counts here in New York.

MEXICO'S INLAND WATERWAY.

Canal 104 Miles Long Between Tampico and Tuxpam.

The Mexican Government is building an inland waterway 104 miles long to connect the ports of Tampico and Tuxpam. It is now about one-half finished and will cost about $5,000,000 Mexican money, which is equivalent to $2,500,000 gold.

It is 75 feet wide and has a uniform depth of 10 1-2 feet. The first division of 66 miles is now practically finished and is open for traffic. It is expected that the waterway will be opened all the way through for small boats within two years.

This waterway runs within from two to five miles of the Gulf along its whole length. Its construction grew out of the fact that there are frequently days at a time when small boats engaged in coastwise trade are unable to weather the rough water of the Gulf and that there is insufficient water over the bar at the mouth of the Tuxpam River at times to enable the boats to reach the harbor at Tuxpam. Another great incentive that led to the building of the canal was that it would be the means of developing a broad agricultural region that has heretofore been badly lacking in transportation facilities for its various products.

The Tampico-Tuxpam canal follows the route of an inland waterway which has been in use for more than three-quarters of a century.

Capt. Charles Shillaber of Chicago is constructing the canal for the Mexican Government on a percentage basis.

He had made a comfortable fortune, had just reached his sixtieth year and had planned to spend the remainder of his life in comfort and enjoyment. Chancing to visit Mexico on a pleasure trip he conceived the possibilities of improving the old waterway, brought the matter to the attention of the Government and undertook to do the work.

The Shoeblack's Work.

It is wonderful what a wide patronage the men have who shine women's shoes nowadays. Once upon a time every woman cleaned her own footwear or got the maid to do it for her, and everything from cold cream to a crackly varnish that was applied with a little sponge on the end of a wire, was used to keep the boots in condition.

If mlady did the work herself it was a lengthy process, for first the renovator had to be applied with a bit of velvet or the sponge, then the polishing took place, and then her industrious ladyship took an hour or so to make her hands presentable after the operation, using her manicuring implements with much vigor and muttering that such labor fell to her lot.

The man who polishes one's shoes for ten cents or a nickel, whichever he thinks his patron will be willing to give, does the job in five minutes. He's very expeditious if he's anything, and he's very acquiescent to one's wishes.

He says "yessum" to the woman who tells him "My shoes are calfskin and so they'll have to be regularly blackened," and "yessum" to the woman who begs "Don't put any polish on those patent tips."

Then he uses the fluid from one bottle for all kinds of leathers, adds a mite of a salve, distributes both impartially over tips and uppers and vamps—everywhere, in fact, except the backs—uses a piece of flannel with lightning rapidity, makes a low salaam and madame steps out of the chair a little conscious of her rusty heels, but fain to content with the operation as it stands.

It is better than doing one's own polishing or depending upon the charity of Mary Anne, and so the bootblack man is a popular individual nowadays, and his little idiosyncrasies are lightly overlooked.

Diplomatic Rewards.

The rewards for conspicuous service rendered by our Ambassadors and Ministers are in no sense commensurate with those received by the representatives of other governments. With the other great powers, if a diplomat renders some notably valuable service, such as preventing a destructive war or securing a treaty of vast political or commercial importance, he may be given a better post, be promoted in rank, have bestowed upon him some coveted decoration, or even be made a peer of the realm. An American who performs a similar service receives official congratulations and gratifying expressions of appreciation from his Government, but there the reward ceases. But there remains, of course, the best incentive to superior exertion—the satisfaction of doing one's duty.—From Gen. Horace Porter's "Should the Government Own Its Embassies" in the Century.

African Secret Society.

The Sese Islanders have attained a peculiar notoriety in Uganda because of a secret society called the Bachichi, which is not a burial society, although its members take a deep and intelligent interest in all deaths and burials in their midst. In the more retired villages, although greatly discouraged by the British authorities, it is said to be still the custom for the sorrowing relatives to bear the body of the deceased wrapped in bark on a rough bier to some forest thicket, desolate ravine or other unfrequented spot, where it is left unburied by the bearers, who never revisit the place again. The Bachichi who are denizens of a neighboring village and distant relatives of the deceased avoid the necessity of burial or cremation and show their respect for the deceased by simply eating him.

Of Interest to Women

Why Educated Women Don't Marry—One Celibate Cannot Understand Why She Has Not Been Wood—Standard by Which Men Judge Women Wrong.

Unmarried women who would have liked to marry, but never had the chance, are not likely to confess the facts very frankly. The spinster who makes her plaint under the title "Why Do Not Educated Women Marry?" in a recent number of Independent, probably wouldn't have made it if she had been compelled to sign her name. But "An Unwilling Celibate" might be any one of millions of women. This celibate therefore, regarding her case as typical in many ways, announces that she cannot understand why she has not been wooed. She thinks the standard by which men judge women must be wrong.

"When I look around at the homes, the pitiful inadequate makeshifts that are called such, and when I read the record of the divorce courts and I then look at my unmarried friends I wonder if marriage is really a process of natural selection and invariably results in the making of the fittest."

She is a college graduate, this celibate, and has met with fair success in teaching and writing. But as a young girl her happiest dream was of having her own home, husband, children, and "the renunciation has not been easy." She is "no beauty," but she has had compliments on her good looks and is a skillful dresser. She comes of an honored family, was brought up to cook, keep house and sew, can play cards, loves to talk to men and is ad-apt at outdoor sports. And yet she has had only one offer of marriage, and that an undesirable one, and she is "perilously near the danger line of thirty."

Sage persons, she says, tell her that a woman "must never let a man guess she has any brains or knows how to talk anything but nonsense." She is unable to follow "this plan"—doesn't think it is a "square deal" to a man. Yet men seem to like to talk to her, and they tell her it is "such a comfort to find a woman who doesn't want to talk nonsense all the time."

They come to see her and invite her to go to dances, theatres and upon moonlight walks, and they confide in her their love for Polly Jones or Sally Smith. "I am proud of their trust and confidence, yet I cry out against the essential impersonality of it all, as if I were a sort of embodiment of the earth mother."

DRAIN PIPE CLEANER.

Hose Connects Direct with Faucet and Outlet of Sink.

One of the most useful of all recent inventions for the house is the drain-pipe cleaner designed by a Michigan man. This not only enables a woman to keep her kitchen sink clean by having the pipe free, but it saves the expense which is sometimes incurred of having the pipe cleaned by a plumber.

A long rubber hose has its upper end adapted to be fitted to the faucet. The lower end terminates in a bell mouth which is made thick at the top to prevent its collapsing and thin at the extremity to form a flexible lip. This lip is fitted over the drain and held there by suction and the water turned on. In this way the full pressure of water is forced through the drain pipe, flushing it very effectually and washing out all the extraneous matter that is bound to accumulate no matter how careful a woman or her servants may be—and the latter are often not careful at all. There is also a lateral air inlet near the top of the hose.

New Use for Old Bachelors.

The "man chaperon" is a novelty in London and he promises to become permanent. Taking out a girl relative or child of an invalid friend is one of the hardest duties of the married woman. It was a happy thought to turn the dull bachelors, long past their youth, to some use. The men, too, have been flattered by this easy responsibility, and they take honest delight in guiding the young misses through the London drawing rooms, theatres and all the rest. The plan might be tried here, if the comfort-loving old bachelors could be tempted long enough from their clubs.

Was Ready.

Here is a charming bit of obituary sentiment from an eastern newspaper: "He had been married 40 years and was prepared to die."

LONG STANDING SCIATICA

Completely Cured by One Box of Father Morriscy's No. 7 Tablets.

Sciatica is hard enough to endure, and harder still to cure, in many cases, with ordinary remedies. Caused, like rheumatism, by impurities in the blood, which in this case set up an irritation of the sciatic nerve, it is so difficult to get at with external applications that many sufferers try in vain to get relief.

Mr. Charles McEachern, of Summerville, P.E.I., was in just that position until he started to take Father Morriscy's "No. 7." He writes: "After trying several doctors and spending large sums of money without avail, I was completely cured of Sciatica of long standing after using one package of your Medicine (No. 7 for Rheumatism). No matter how long you have suffered from Sciatica or Rheumatism of joints or muscles—no matter how much medicine or liniment you have used without result—try Father Morriscy's No. 7 before you give up. It has restored health to many who were almost hopeless."

ALFALFA IN ALL CLIMATES.

Has Proven Its Adaptability to Grow on All Kinds of Soils.

While experts have been declaring that alfalfa would only grow in certain soils and in certain climates it has proven adaptability to nearly all climates and almost all soils, says C. Burn's Book on Alfalfa. It produces with a rainfall as scant as 14 inches, and in the gulf states flourishes with 65 inches. It gives crops at an elevation of 8,000 feet above sea level, and in southern California it grows below sea level to a height of six feet or over, with nine cuttings a year, aggregating ten to twelve tons. An authenticated photograph in possession of the writer shows a wonderful alfalfa plant raised in the (irrigated) desert of southern California, 60 feet below sea level, that measures considerably more than ten feet in height. Satisfactory crops are raised, but on limited areas as yet, in Vermont and Florida. New York has grown it for over 100 years in her clay and gravel; Nebraska grows it in her western sand hills without plowing, as does Nevada on her sagebrush desert. The depleted cotton soils of Alabama and rich corn lands of Illinois and Missouri each respond generously with profitable yields to the enterprising farmer, while its accumulated nitrogen and the sub-soiling it effects are making the rich land more valuable and giving back to the crop-worn land the priceless elements of which it has been in successive generations despoiled by a conscienceless husbandry.

Trellis Will Stand Alone.

A plant support or garden trellis, such as shown in the illustration, is very handy in the garden. The double form of trellis can be folded up and takes very little room. All trellises and stakes should be gathered as soon as the crop is harvested and stored under cover until the next season. They are useful for tomatoes, beans, peas, cucumbers, etc. The double trellis is built of two pieces of 2x3, which are bolted together for each leg and the top held in place by a piece of string or wire.

Blackberry Plantation.

A blackberry plantation if properly cared for, cultivated and fertilized, will produce profitable crops for 12 or 15 years without resetting. One great advantage of the blackberry is that this fruit is one that does not have to come in competition with a southern grown supply as is the case with strawberries and some other kinds. The markets are often flooded for weeks or months with southern grown fruit before the home grown has had time to mature. This is a condition that the blackberry does not have to meet.

How to Measure Hay.

It is difficult to measure hay in the stack, owing to the varying degrees of the settling of the hay. Good timothy hay, thoroughly settled in a mow, occupies about 350 cubic feet to the ton; if partly settled a ton will measure 400 to 450 cubic feet; while new hay takes 500 cubic feet for a ton. It is not easy to determine the exact cubic contents of a stack, so that only the approximate weight can be secured without the use of scales.

Protect Your Machinery.

Do not leave your farming implements out in the weather when you get through with them. If you are not going to use them for a few days put them under cover, as it might possibly rain. The amount lost in the depreciation of the machinery left in the open would soon build a big shed which in the long run costs less than a smaller one.

Planting on Four-Inch Break.

Planting seed on a three or four-inch break is like trying to raise a crop on a rag carpet and very discouraging to a beginner, but at the same time through lack of horse power this may be the only way, and the next best thing to do is to make strenuous efforts to get down deeper as quickly as possible every succeeding year.

Blame Poor Methods.

The man who always gets most seriously out of humor with the dairy business is the man who keeps so-called dual purpose, unprofitable cows. He sees that his milk checks do not show a profit and he is free to place the blame upon the business rather than upon poor methods.

MAN AND THE RAT.

Two Creatures Which Are Equal-Matched Enemies.

The dominion of man over the beasts of the field does not yet include the rodents, says McClure's Magazine. Aurochs, cave-bear and mammoth we put down with stone-headed arrows. We have wiped out the buffalo; the lion and the elephant will soon be gone. But still the rabbits of Australia cost the colonies millions a year; traps, ferrets and poison still fall to make head against the rats, mice and gophers of the United States. While our animal enemies have become smaller in size, they have grown more numerous. It is as if Nature, after trying vainly to chastise her insurgent son with a catapult, had gone after him with a shotgun. The fact is that, of all warm-blooded creatures, there are just two that are really dominant, successful, increasing in numbers and range, and able to maintain themselves anywhere in the world against all rivals. These two are man and the rats. The genus Homo and the genus Mus go everywhere and eat everything. They are the two creatures that dwell in houses and travel in ships. Each drives its other rivals to the wall; but neither, except locally and for brief periods, has ever come near to exterminating the other. Civilized man has fought the common rat for 200 years, and the battle is still drawn.

The Faust Legend.

For 1,400 years the Faust legend—the sale of a human soul to a devil—has existed. The first recorded hint of its vitality is given in the sixth century story of "Theophilus." That story suited the early Christians in their efforts to stamp out the necromancing devices of evilly-disposed persons prone to seek power by unholy means. The association of the name of Faust, however, with the legend is not more than 400 years old. The likeliest prototype of the modern Faust is the man of the same name who in Cracow boldly proclaimed himself a professor of magic. In the sixteenth century stories of Helen of Troy was bestowed by Mephistopheles upon Faust, and not until the middle of the eighteenth century does there appear a shadowy Margaret, in the form of a "beautiful but poor girl," who afterward develops into the Margaret of Goethe.

Engraving by Telegraph.

Monsieur Carbonelle, a Belgian, has invented an apparatus by means of which a picture can be reproduced by telegraph in the form of an engraved plate, from which printed copies may be immediately taken. The picture to be sent is printed with thick, non-conducting ink, and wound round a revolving cylinder, over which passes a stylus electrically connected with the telegraph-line. At the receiving end a similar cylinder is encased with lead, or other soft metal, on which presses the point of a graver. The variations of intensity in the current produced by the stylus passing over the picture at the transmitting station cause the graver to cut more or less deeply, and thus to produce a typographic copy of the original, which may be placed without change on the printing-press.

The Nature of Radiobes.

A year ago a considerable sensation was caused by the announcement of Mr. Burke of Cambridge, England, that through the action of radium upon sterilized gelatin he had produced what appeared to be living germs, to which he gave the name of radiobes. Mr. Burke has since written a book on these enigmatical things. More recent experiments by Mr. W. A. D. Rudge indicate that radiobes are not in any sense living things, and that they are not even a product of radio-activity. Mr. Rudge shows that they are precipitates of an insoluble sulphate due to the presence of barium, and that their "growth" is simply a chemical process. Radio-active substances, Mr. Rudge says, never produce "radiobes," except when they contain barium.

The Cutting Blowpipe.

The addition of a jet of compressed oxygen to the flame of the oxyacetylene blowpipe makes of it a wonderful tool for cutting iron and steel. In using the apparatus, the metal to be cut is first heated red-hot by the oxyacetylene flame. Then a stop-cock is opened, admitting in the center of the flame a very thin jet of compressed oxygen. This cuts with great rapidity, the section being as thin as a knife-blade. The best-hardened steel can thus be cut with ease. Plates 10 millimeters thick and a meter broad have been cut in two with the blowpipe in 4-1/2 minutes. Plates 100 millimeters thick have been cut in 9 or 10 minutes. In a recent experiment a safe of the strongest and best construction was cut open with this strange tool in 20 minutes.

Australian Coal.

Since the Hispano-American and Russo-Japanese wars, the question of coal-supply in the far East has assumed a new importance, and the search for the black mineral is pursued on all promising quarters. Among the great Oriental coal deposits are those of New South Wales, and particular attention is now paid to their development. Two of them have been known for more than 100 years, and the story of their discovery is interesting. At Coal Cliff, south of Sydney, shipwrecked sailors were astonished to find cliffs of pure coal bordering the sea. At Hunter River the coal deposits were found by the commander of an English ship of war, who, while chasing pirates, landed a party to take

REINDEER TO SAVE LABRADOR'S FUTURE

Success of Dr. Grenfell's Experiment in Importing Them from Lapland Promises Well

HERD IS LARGELY INCREASED

May Replace the Savage Sledge Dog, Which Now Makes Impossible the Keeping of Domestic Animals—They Are as Fierce as Wolves.

St. John's, N. F.—The introduction of real Santa Claus reindeer from Lapland into Labrador seems to have proved a great success. The herd of 300 deer imported with their drivers by Dr. Wilfrid Grenfell has increased wonderfully the last winter, and if aid is given by the Government, as is expected, a new industry will have been instituted, and the settlers in Labrador and Northern Newfoundland will be rescued from the starvation fate which threatened them as a result of the rapid extermination of the harp seal.

The trouble always has been that it was impossible to keep domestic animals in the northern country on account of the dogs. The reindeer, if it take the place of the dog as a draught animal, will also supply milk and meat, clothes and bedding for the inhabitants.

D. W. Prowse, Newfoundland's historian, has called attention to this phase of Dr. Grenfell's labors for the northern settlers in a letter in which he also includes the missionary's own views on the work. He says:

"Of all the services rendered to this country by Dr. Grenfell the most philanthropic first, was his giving up a wonderfully lucrative practice in London to work up along; second, was his introduction of reindeer with their Lapp drivers into Labrador and Northern Newfoundland. It is expected that the reindeer will take the place of the seal, which has been all but exterminated."

Efforts to domesticate the native caribou have never been successful, but as the reindeer have been permitted to run loose, it is believed and hoped that they will interbreed, with the result that a larger and harder animal will be produced.

The success of the experiment means hope for the natives even if the Government takes no action to preserve the now almost exterminated seal, and Mr. Prowse says, "It calls for a Government grant to import more deer."

But there is one consideration which should be insisted upon, the historian says, and that is that no dogs be permitted to run loose. He says:

"The Labrador dogs are as savage as a wolf. They have been known to kill a whole flock of sheep simply through wanton lust for slaughter. None of the sheep was eaten. Every season some poor settler or Eskimo is killed by these murderous brutes."

"So savage are the dogs that it has been impossible to keep any kind of domestic animal. Cows, goats, chickens, sheep, swine, even horses are dragged down and killed. One child was almost eaten alive by the brutes. It was saved by its mother, who was herself terribly chewed up. Both were taken to the mission at Battle Harbor, where they were cured after many months."

In a letter received by Mr. Prowse from Dr. Grenfell, the latter said regarding his experiments in the introduction of the reindeer:

"We have conquered the ice and the opposition of the North Atlantic and forced its reluctant waters to pay us a handsome annual tribute of cod, halibut, salmon, herring, seals and whales. But the land from which man generally first exacts payments, has yet yielded nothing."

"It does, however, seem that if man can't transform these hundreds of thousands of unoccupied acres into pasture lands for ordinary cattle he can reverse the process and transform the cattle into extraordinary ones to meet the possibilities of the country. "To us, struggling with the conditions obtaining here, the endless quantity of nutritious mosses available all winter, the varied edible herbs and grasses, pointed unmistakably to a repetition of the successful reindeer in Alaska."

"Our own experiment began three years ago with a shipment of 300 deer and three Lapp families from Alten Fjorde, in Lapland, north of the North Cape."

"The deer got but a cold reception. They were landed on and scattered over the frozen sea surface, but they all found their way to land by aid of deer with bells on being posted at distances along the land."

"It had been a wild fall, followed by a sharp December without snow, and the poor beasts, after their long sea voyage across the Atlantic in the dead of winter, found the moss buried in sheet ice, known here as 'glitter.' Everything seemed against them."

"There is room in Labrador for feeding easily 3,000,000 or more reindeer, enabling it to export hundreds of thousands of skins and carcases annually while the help to other branches of industry, like pulp production, mining, fisheries, etc., that the presence of this herd any of this population would be self-apparent."

AMONG THE HOUYNNHNNMS.

Roosevelt Also Does the Obvious in Hungary.

Luncheon over, the inspection of the Government farm began. I doubt whether anywhere west of here in Europe one could see such beautiful Arab thoroughbreds as the plume tailed, full eyed stallions which were led out, prancing, snorting and quivering, before Mr. Roosevelt in the sunny, sand floored court. The ex-President caressed the magnificent creatures and gave each its reward of sugar. Then he went through the stables. Each is a huge loose box, round the sides of which a hundred brood mares stood tethered, while foals frolicked in the open space in the middle on the sweet smelling straw.

In one stable by the side of a white half blood Arab mare stood a tiny bay filly born early this very morning. The fitting thing to do was obvious. The ex-President bestowed upon it the name "Roosevelt." The visit ended with a rounding up of the herds of stately white wide horned cattle and flocks of a large breed of sheep—London Daily Mail.

Domesticating the Elephant.

It was long a disputed question whether the African elephant was amenable to domestication. Those who held the affirmative referred to the experience of the Carthaginians with these animals, and recalled the elephants that formed a part of Hannibal's army on his march toward Rome. At present elephants are being trained for domestic labors in the Congo, in the German African colonies, in Uganda and elsewhere. In the Congo especially it is reported that the training of elephants is rapidly developing into a recognized industry. A French society has recently been formed under the name of "Friends of the Elephant," the object of which is to prevent the destruction of these animals in Africa, and to encourage their domestication.

The Great Eastern.

The dimensions of the one-time world-famous Great Eastern were as follows: Length, 692 feet; width, 83 feet; depth, 60 feet; tonnage, 24,000 tons; draught, when unloaded, 20 feet, when loaded, 30 feet. She had paddle-wheels 56 feet in diameter, and was also provided with a four-bladed screw propeller of 24 feet diameter. She had accommodations for 800 first-class, 2,000 second class, and 1,200 third class passengers, 4,000 in all. Her speed was about 18 miles an hour. The Great Eastern was finally broken up for old iron in the year 1889, after a checkered career of some thirty-one years.

"Dew Ponds."

Among the most singular archeological remains found in Great Britain are the ancient "dew ponds," the construction of which is ascribed to people of the Neolithic age. The purpose of these ponds was to furnish drinking water for cattle. An exposed position, where springs were absent, was selected and a broad, hollowed surface was formed, and covered over with straw, or some other non-conducting material. Above was spread a thick layer of clay strewn with stones. During the night the cold surface of the clay caused an abundance of moisture to condense from the lower layers of the air. Some of these ancient dew ponds are still in working order.

The Praetorian Guard.

The Praetorian Guard was a select body of troops instituted by the Emperor Augustus to protect his person, and consisted of ten cohorts, each of one thousand men, chosen from Italy. They had peculiar privileges, and when they had served sixteen years were retired on a pension of about $500. Each member of the Guard had the rank of a captain in the regular army. Like the bodyguard of Louis the Fourteenth, they were all gentlemen, and formed gradually a great power, like the Janizaries at Constantinople, and frequently deposed or elevated the very Emperors themselves.

Protection for Miners.

Workers in certain mines, as well as in glass and mirror factories, are subject to injurious effects from the inhalation of mercury vapors. An Italian savant, Signor Tarugi, believes that the property of aluminum to absorb mercuric vapors may be utilized for protection against this danger, and he has devised for the purpose a mask of aluminum wire to be worn over the face. His idea is that the air breathed will be freed from the injurious vapors through their absorption by the aluminum.

Some War Losses.

Southern remittances to the North began to grow unsatisfactory some time before the election of 1860, and after that grew still more uncertain, stopping entirely the next year. When the war began there was due from the South to the merchants of the North $300,000,000, all of which was practically a total loss, its payment being made a criminal offense. New York firms lost $160,000,000 in this way; the dry-goods merchant, the clothiers, the boot and shoe dealers, and the jewellers being the heaviest losers.

Temptations of Evil.

Leisure misused, an idle hour waiting to be employed, idle hands with no occupation, idle and empty minds with nothing to think of—these are the main temptations of evil. Fill up that empty void, employ those vacant hours, occupy those listless hands, and evil will depart because it has no place to enter in, because it is conquered by good.—Dean Stanley.

WHY DO MEN DRINK? A FEW ANSWERS.

A Cincinnati daily recently propounded the question to representative men of the city—an educator, a saloon-keeper, a Y. M. C. A. man, a doctor, a minister, and a business man. At least two of the answers to the question are of special interest, one of them coming from a member of the Board of Education, and the other from a saloon-keeper. The first says:

Why does a man drink? Why, he drinks and does everything else that is wrong because he is still unregenerate. Man has a certain amount of original sin in his make-up, and the tendency to drink is one of the expressions of it. I understand that Dr. Parkhurst, in New York, has said that the chief cause of drinking among working men is the monotony and deadly dullness of their lives. All I can say in reply is that in this twentieth century that is not a good excuse. If the evils of working men are dull, it must be their own fault, because in this day and generation, there are hundreds of diversions, open to all, and if the working man wishes to take advantage of them he is free to do so. The cure for drunkenness and all other forms of sin is an educated conception of the objects of life, along broad religious lines.

The saloon-keeper, who neither drinks himself nor allows his employees to drink, says:

I do not know why men drink. It looks sometimes as if they did it just to be doing something. I doubt if the monotony of life is the main cause, or whether sorrow and domestic friction have much to do with drinking, because I find that men drink when they are sad and glad, and also when they are either. The practice of drinking has a number of interesting phases, but I doubt if any general rule can be laid down for it.

It seems to the present writer that both these men speak the truth. First of all, it is to be said that comparatively few men acquire the habit of drinking after having reached maturity. The majority of drinkers form the habit before they know what "deadly dullness" is, if they ever know it. In our country and in our cities the young men have sufficient example and warning, and yet they go with open eyes, as though blind and deaf, into the very jaws of death and hell. The young man drinks, "as he does everything else that is wrong, because he is still unregenerate." He is a lover of pleasure, rather than a lover of God. He is right who says: "The cure for drunkenness and all other forms of sin is an educated conception of the objects of life, along broad religious lines." And yet the saloon-keeper is right when he says: "The practice of drinking has a number of interesting phases, but I doubt if any rule can be laid down for it.—"The Journal and Messenger."

Its Cost Beyond Estimate.

Expenses absolutely certain to follow the use of intoxicating drinks, but which it would be impossible to calculate, are the Loss of time of men incapacitated for work by drink. By premature death of 100,000 every year caused by drink. By loss arising from destruction of life and property, by land and sea, caused by drink. Loss of deterioration of workmen in capacity and skill. Loss in non-productiveness of capital employed in the drink trade. The increased load of taxation arising from the fruits of the drink. Loss of the non-productive labor of paupers, criminals and lunatics caused by drink.

The First Glass.

Do you remember your first glass? Your friends made you believe it would put some brightness into you—some vim, manhood, strength and alertness. Where is that manhood and vim and brightness now? Destroyed by the field from hell, alcohol. I wish I could destroy the last vestige of it on earth. (Applause.) What is the good of that, if you don't take the truth to yourself? I am not here for applause. Men, don't complain to me that if you become Christians, you have to give up this and that. You've not to give up nothing but ruin.—The noted Gypsy Smith, in a pulp address in Tremont Temple, Boston.

A Traitor.

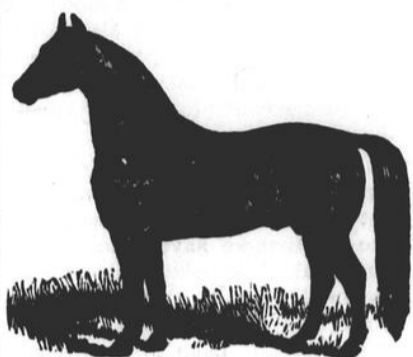

The liquor traffic destroys one's "love and devotion to country"; it encourages men to disobey law; it incapacitates men to "defend their country's existence; prompts men to betray the "rights and institutions"; in other words, "patriotism," as applied to the liquor traffic, is as great a misnomer as it would be to speak of the glorious patriotism of Aaron Burr or Benedict Arnold.

Pythians Exclude Rummies.

The well-known secret society, the Knights of Pythias, has passed an order excluding wholesale and retail liquor dealers, as well as bar keepers, and proprietors of hotels where bars are kept, from membership in their order.

TOWN TOPICS.
Mr. Charles R. Lamb of Boston was in town Tuesday.

Mr. W. S. Craig of Olds, Alberta, is a guest of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. McDowell.

Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Cosby returned from Springfield, Mass., and other points, Tuesday morning.

Mr. E. E. Craig of Woodsville, N. H., was in town in the interest of Armour & Co., Wednesday.

Don't forget the meeting of the Village Improvement Society, Monday evening at 8 o'clock at the vestry of the Congregational Church.

Miss Allen of Boston is the guest of Dr. and Mrs. W. A. Reynolds, Eagle Point, Lake Memphremagog. Miss Allen will visit the "Ancient Capital" before returning to the Bay State.

The Derby Neckwear Co. are closing out their business, selling portions of their equipment to other manufacturers here. It is not known whether neckties will still be manufactured here or not.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Crawford, from Athol, Mass. arrived here last Tuesday for their annual outing. Mr. Crawford is well situated in the Bay State having a good position there. He was formerly employed by Butterfield & Co.

It is not pleasant to feel that we are living among vandals and thieves and yet events of the past year point to the fact that we have among us that undesirable element. Some time between May and July, Mr. Grant-Schaefer's cottage, situated on the east shore of Lake Memphremagog, was broken into and a number of articles were stolen. The thieves have not as yet been discovered, though suspicion points strongly to the supposition that it is some one in the vicinity of the lake. A liberal reward will be given to any one producing proof leading to the conviction of the guilty parties. Most of the articles taken can be easily identified, and no stone will be left unturned in the effort to find the culprits. It will be to the credit of the community if these persons are found and properly punished. Among the articles taken were a man's cloth rain-coat, two pairs trousers, a coat, towels, sheets, table cloths, napkins, and a pair of ornaments—a dog and an owl—of German pottery, about twelve inches high. Any person possessing information should communicate with G. A. Grant-Schaefer, Beebe Junction, Hue.

MISS GRACE MORRISON.

Clark's Pork & Beans are Better than Others.

They have displaced imported Pork & Beans because of their high quality and lower price. The duty on the imported is the only reason why consumers pay more. Canadians buy Clark's, and get the best for least money. W. Clark, Mfr., Montreal.

Mayor William J. Gaynor of New York City was shot and seriously, if not fatally, wounded on board the Kaiser Wilhelm der Groesse, Tuesday, as he was sailing to Europe. His assailant was James J. Gallagher, an employee of the city whom the Mayor had deposed from office for cause.

GOOD BYE TO INDIGESTION.
J. T. Flint Druggists, Claim Seaver's Dyspepsia Tablets are Driving Dyspepsia Out.

The above is a strong statement, but experience right here in Derby Line, proves it to be really true. The evidence is positive, there is no guess work about it. J. T. Flint has been selling SEAVER'S DYSPEPSIA TABLETS for some time and many of my customers have been in to tell of the benefits received. One woman says they have increased her weight nearly 10 pounds; another had chronic dyspepsia for years and can now eat anything she wants without any distress afterward.

One man is grateful because SEAVER'S DYSPEPSIA TABLETS have cured him of nervousness. Another says it has relieved the pain around his heart. Just think of it, here is a remedy that must cure you of sour stomach, wind belching, dizzy spells, nausea, biliousness, sick headache, and every other form of indigestion or it will not cost you one cent.

Just call on J. T. Flint and ask for his honest opinion of SEAVER'S FAMOUS DYSPEPSIA TABLETS, try them. If they cure you, you certainly will be glad you spent the money. If they do not help you all you need to do is to tell J. T. Flint and he will go right to the money drawer and pay you back your money.

TRUNKS AND BAGS

We are all traveling at this season of the year, some at least. This is one of the visiting seasons and Trunks and Suit Cases become a necessity. We have a fine assortment of these goods, bought for the season we are talking about.

Trunks from $2.50 to $10.00
Dress Suit Cases 1.25 to 7.50
Bags 1.25 to 10.00
Matting Bags in Great Variety!
Telescope Cases from 65c. to $1.25
See our line before buying.

For capacity and economy these cases are in a class by themselves. There is nothing like them for the purposes intended.

Headquarters for Picnic and Camp Groceries

We were never selling our IMPERIAL BLEND COFFEE in such quantity as now. It grows in favor. Have you tried it? It is a good one at 18 cents per pound, or 5 lbs. for 90 cents.
