U.N. TROOPS RETREAT FROM PYONGYANG

World News In Brief

London, Dec. 4.—(Reuters)—The front door of Health Minister Aneurin Bevan's home, daubed with paint, written on and otherwise defaced in recent weeks, came in for a late-night thumping Saturday, it was disclosed in court today.

Standing before the court was Richard Alan Humphries, 28, a well-dressed export executive, arrested Saturday after banging on the door and using insulting behavior likely to provoke a breach of the peace.

Pleading guilty but declaring he would "take this matter before the Conservative party," Humphries said there was really no point in what he did, just "a bit of high spirits."

Chicago, Dec. 4.—(AP)—Flood waters rolled into western Nevada and north-central California today as Ohio welcomed the arrival of a cold wave which halted a fast thaw and threatened widespread overflows.

In southwestern Illinois, the towns of Greenville and Mt. Olive added up a total of more than $750,000 property damage from Saturday's tornadoes which killed three persons and injured about 20 others.

The twister hit the area late Saturday afternoon and damaged between 90 and 100 homes. Two elderly women and a man were killed and 12 persons were hurt.

London, Dec. 4.—(AP)—Britain's ambassador to Russia, Sir David Kelly, today gave Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin a first-hand assessment of the Soviet role in the Far Eastern and European situations.

Kelly flew back from Moscow Saturday for what a foreign office spokesman called "his Christmas vacation."

Boulogne-sur-Mer, France, Dec. 4.—(AP)—Five men were killed today when a French fishing boat exploded and sank just off this Channel port. Five men aboard the ship were saved.

Hanoi, Indo-China, Dec. 4.—(AP)—A French army communiqué said last night that French troops have retaken the small post of Phutai, in the centre of the French north Indo-China defence perimeter. Communist-led Vietminh forces had seized it a night attack.

Jerusalem, Dec. 4.—(AP)—The United Nations armistice commission yesterday ordered both Israel and Hashemite Jordan to cease fire and withdraw their forces from a disputed road in the Negev desert following an armed clash there. A U.N. spokesman said Jordan later accepted the cease-fire order.

Finances, Social Security Are Ottawa Talks Topics

Ottawa, Dec. 4.—(AP)—The leaders of Canada's 11 governments gathered around a conference table in the House of Commons today to discuss financial and social security problems.

The two items will be the only ones on the agenda of the federal-provincial conference when it meets. Other problems may be raised, but settlement of them will be postponed until the international situation eases.

When the conference first was called last January it was expected it would deal with a wide variety of matters, including taxation agreements, social security public investment programs, federal aid to education, responsibility for unemployment persons, development of natural resources, transportation problems, housing and agriculture.

However, the war in Korea and the tense international situation has changed the picture since last January. Canada's defence expenditures have had to be increased, and as a result there is less money available for participation projects proposed by the provinces.

In correspondence made public Saturday, Prime Minister St. Laurent said the conference will definitely discuss fiscal and social security matters. Other questions may be discussed by the conference or by committees "without any expectation of carrying through to final or definite conclusions."

Social security measures, such as improved old-age pensions, would be considered, but with recognition of the exigencies of the international situation.

Advancing Chinese Threaten To Isolate U.S. 10th Corps By Attacks On East Coast

Barber Tasse Died Today At Ottawa

Ottawa, Dec. 4.—(AP)—Paul E. (Red) Tasse, barber to royalty and a personal friend of two Canadian Prime Ministers, died today.

The 62-year-old red-thatched barber, who for years handled the No. 1 chair in the barber shop of Ottawa's swank Chateau Laurier hotel, had been ill for several months, suffering from cancer. He had retired on pension.

Tasse made news more than once because of his close friendship with the late W. L. Mackenzie King and the late Viscount Bennett. He served them as barber for years and sometimes they confided their troubles to him.

In an interview not long before his death, Tasse recalled some of the impressions he had gained of the two Prime Ministers. He told, too, of some of the incidents that occurred in 1939 when he served as the King's barber on the Royal train that carried King George VI and Queen Elizabeth on their tour of Canada.

Tasse, who knew that the end was coming, said in the interview that the thing which stood out in his life was the way he had been able to get along equally well with King and Bennett.

"Bennett often asked me what King thought of something and King asked me the same about Bennett," said Tasse.

He told how he had tried to keep the appointments of the two men spaced so that they would never meet in the barber shop, but one day he did meet.

Bennett said to King: "I know Tasse better than you." King replied: "I am not so sure; Tasse and I are pretty good friends."

These are some of the impressions Tasse gained of the two Prime Ministers: "King was the smarter politician, the better statesman. King was in politics all his life; that was his career. Bennett was a successful business man. He came into politics in a secondary sort of way. The Conservatives had nobody else."

"But he (Bennett) tended to run things all by himself. He wouldn't let me into his Cabinet half the time. He would come into the barber shop head down. There might be Cabinet Ministers there. He'd never see them. He knew they were there all right."

"King when he came into the barber shop, would look around. He would see somebody he knew; he would extend his hand, say something and smile."

Tasse considered Bennett the more generous and King the more thoughtful.

MacArthur Says 818,000 Chinese Are In Korea Or On Border—200,000 More Are On The Way From Central China.

Tokyo, Dec. 4.—(AP)—Heavily outnumbered allied troops, behind a rearguard shield, retreated south today from the former communist capital of Pyongyang in northwest Korea. Dispatches said the withdrawal was orderly.

In the frozen northeast, hordes of reinforced Chinese mounted a grave threat to five United Nations divisions. They were driving on the twin east coast industrial cities of Hamhung and Hungnam, and threatened to isolate the entire U.S. 10th Corps.

American troops were fighting desperately to break out of traps. The worst was just south of Changjin reservoir, supplier of power to Manchuria.

Five Chinese armies totalling 15 divisions—up to 150,000 men—were reported south of the Chongchon river and driving toward Pyongyang Monday night.

But AP correspondent Leif Erickson, at U.S. Eighth Army headquarters, reported that Lt.-Gen. Walton H. Walker was directing an apparently skilful escape of the allied forces.

It appeared that the Eighth Army eventually might deploy in a defence perimeter around the republic capital of Seoul and its port of Inchon. It seemed unlikely that a solid line across the peninsula could be erected against such massive forces.

The appearance of more and more Chinese communists at the fronts deepened the threat to the entire U.N. position on the peninsula.

Gen. MacArthur estimated 818,000 Chinese are in North Korea and along the Yalu river boundary of Red Manchuria. He said another 200,000 Chinese are moving to the area from central China.

Thus China appeared to have committed one-quarter of her armed strength of about 4,000,000 men to her undeclared war in Korea. MacArthur said preparation for this move into the U.N. campaign against invading Korean Reds "were made long ago."

In the actual combat areas, Chinese communist forces were estimated at 268,000—up 194,000 in the northwest above Pyongyang and 74,000 in the northeast.

In Seoul, President Syngman Rhee of South Korea warned against any compromise with the Chinese Reds: "In the end, we would be in a worse position than ever."

Maj.-Gen. Earle E. Partridge, commander of the U.S. Fifth Air Force, today ordered 40 B-26 attack bombers to blast every ridge and road skirting the treacherous escape route.

Transport planes made hazardous flights to and from a pasture at Hagaru to remove 1,200 wounded Americans Friday and Saturday. Far East Air Force headquarters described the operation as one of the "most daring" of the Korean war.

Southeast of the reservoir, an estimated 45,000 Chinese were reported massing for a drive on Hamhung and its nearby port of Hungnam.

A U.S. 10th Corps intelligence officer said Sunday that some of the Chinese advance elements were 15 miles from Hamhung with other build-ups within a 35-mile radius.

Associated Press correspondent Jack MacBeth reported that elements of the U.S. 3rd division were under intensified Red pressure near Hukus, about 35 miles west of Hamhung. Hukus, taken by the Chinese, was bombed heavily.

Farther north, at Hyesanjin, the 17th regiment of the United States 7th division was ordered to withdraw from positions along a 10-mile stretch of the Yalu river. It was the only American outfit to reach the Manchurian border.

There were no reports Sunday from the South Korean Capital division far to the northeast on the road to the Soviet Siberian border.

Earlier reports had placed the division within 40 miles of the border, rolling along the coast north of Chongjin under the covering guns of the U.S. cruiser St. Paul.

Likewise, there were no reports Sunday as to the whereabouts of the South Korean 3rd division. It last was placed inland on the left and south flank of the Capital division.

American dead and wounded in the bitter northeast retreat, if assessed, still are a matter of security.

With the crisis worsening, Gen. J. Lawton Collins—U.S. chief of staff—conferred in Tokyo with MacArthur Monday and flew to Korea a few hours later to inspect the withdrawing U.S. Eighth

West Berlin Voters Defy Red Threats

By DANIEL DE LUCE

Berlin, Dec. 4.—(AP)—West Berlin, anti-communist political fortress 100 miles behind the Iron Curtain, knocked out communism again yesterday with a record 90.4 per cent vote in municipal elections.

Disregarding Red threats and a communist boycott, 1,504,414 of 1,604,091 eligible Berlin voters cast their ballots, complete official returns showed.

The dominant Socialists lost a third of their previous strength to the runner-up Christian Democrats and Free Democrats. The Socialists polled 653,974 votes, the Christian Democrats 360,829, the Free Democrats 337,477.

But leaders of all three parties, headed by Socialist mayor Ernst Reuter, pledged continuance of their three-faction city coalition as a united front against Russian aggression.

Reuter considered a three-party coalition necessary because "in view of the international political situation, it would be out of the question to form a government here dependent on a majority of only three or four deputies."

Unofficial sources said that of the 127 seats in the Berlin house of deputies, 61 would go to the Socialists, 34 to the Christian Democrats and 32 to the Free Democrats.

Patricias, Future Uncertain, Have Brief Stop - Over In Hawaii

By BILL BOSS

Canadian Press Staff Writer Pearl Harbor, Dec. 4.—(AP)—Canada's first fighting contribution to the United Nations ground forces in Korea sailed today to an uncertain future.

Ahead of the 2nd battalion, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, was at least another week of life aboard a crowded troopship making slow but steady progress to the war-torn Asiatic peninsula where the U.N. armies fight for their lives against a fanatical communist foe.

The big question aboard the 9,000-ton converted freighter, the Pte. Joe P. Martinez, was whether the Pats would be upgraded as scheduled at Pusan, in southeast Korea, or be diverted to Japan to undergo the two months' field training needed to weld them into a first-class fighting force. The decision is up to Gen. Douglas MacArthur, U.N. commander.

But for the moment, the thoughts of the 1,000 men of Canada's special brigade enlisted for service in Korea or elsewhere were on the few hours of liberty they enjoyed in sunny Hawaii Saturday. The brief time ashore was a welcome respite from last week's storm-tossed passage from Seattle on the westward leg of the long voyage.

The battalion, leaving behind in the Fort Lewis, Wash., training camp the remainder of the 11,000-man special brigade, sailed from

Bow River Drives 3,000 From Homes

By GRAHAM TROTTER

Canadian Press Staff Writer Calgary, Dec. 4.—(AP)—Today is regarded as the crucial day of the Bow river flood situation in Calgary. It could herald the beginning of the end of the flooding or see the river go on another rampage as it did last Friday night, when it forced 3,000 persons out of their homes.

Everything hinges on whether the river can find a channel within its banks through a giant dam of ice which has choked the stream since Friday.

For 48 hours during the weekend the Bow behaved itself. But today, for the first time since Friday, it will carry a peak flow of water to the city from power dams further west.

The amount of power needed by the city governs the flow of water allowed over these days. The power demand is greatest during week days when the city's industries are in full swing. The week-end flow was about two-thirds of Friday's.

First flooding, if there is to be more, is expected around 10 p.m., the time the first peak flow of water reaches the city. The second peak will arrive around 3 a.m. tomorrow.

Seaway Plan Has Backing Of Truman

Toronto, Dec. 4.—(AP)—Stanley Woodward, United States Ambassador to Canada, said today that his government realizes the urgency of the St. Lawrence seaway and hydro project, and plans to press for its adoption by Congress in 1951.

In an address prepared for delivery before a joint meeting of the Canadian and Empire Clubs, he said he recently discussed the project with President Truman in Washington.

"I told him," said Mr. Woodward, "how much Canada wants to see a start on the project. He replied: 'In the United States, as in Canada, and as in the countries of our partners and allies, we are building up our military strength, believing that strength is the best guarantee of peace. Armed might is based on industrial might. Industrial might, in turn, is based on constant growth and development.'"

"New and better power sources and new and better means of transportation are needed to help develop an efficient industrial system. The St. Lawrence project will provide both."

Mr. Woodward cited the advantages of the project.

"So do we. It's an urgent matter and I intend to press it at the next session of Congress."

Mr. Woodward said the executive branch of the U.S. government realizes that the project "has a new urgency."

"We know that the demands of the present situation call for a start on the project and for its completion as rapidly as it is physically possible."

"In the United States, as in Canada, and as in the countries of our partners and allies, we are building up our military strength, believing that strength is the best guarantee of peace. Armed might is based on industrial might. Industrial might, in turn, is based on constant growth and development."

"These objectives are again imperilled and we must take counsel together on how we can stand firm in their defence."

"The latest propaganda attempt of the Cominform is to drive a wedge between our two peoples. They are wasting their effort. And never more so than at this time when we are waging together, under the United Nations, the struggle in Korea, in which the United States is carrying so heavy a share of the burden, but where we and other members of the British Commonwealth are playing our part."

Momentous Talks Start Tomorrow

Washington, Dec. 4.—(AP)—Prime Minister Clement Attlee arrived today for talks with President Truman aimed at finding a common policy in the world crisis and averting the threat of a global war.

Attlee's big four-engined airliner "Cathay" rolled up on the National Airport apron where President Truman, State Secretary Acheson, Defence Secretary Marshall and other officials were waiting.

After the greetings, Attlee made a statement for newspaper men.

He said his aim in the talks with Truman—which are to get under way tomorrow—"is to align our policies in the new and troubled situation in the world and to find the means of upholding what we both know to be right."

He accused the communist bloc of trying to "drive a wedge between our two peoples."

A harsh, cold wind, driving low wet clouds swept over the airport as the British leader greeted all the American officials he knew, such as Acheson, Marshall and W. Averell Harriman, the President's foreign adviser, and also U.K. ambassador Sir Oliver Franks and other diplomats from the Commonwealth countries.

Attlee and his party of advisers later went to the British embassy. In his statement, Attlee said: "I am very glad to come to Washington at this critical time to confer with President Truman."

"For many years past Great Britain and the United States have been agreed on the broad objectives of their international policy—the maintenance of peace, resistance to aggression, the improvements of living standards in all countries, the upholding of the democratic way of life."

"These objectives are again imperilled and we must take counsel together on how we can stand firm in their defence."

"The latest propaganda attempt of the Cominform is to drive a wedge between our two peoples. They are wasting their effort. And never more so than at this time when we are waging together, under the United Nations, the struggle in Korea, in which the United States is carrying so heavy a share of the burden, but where we and other members of the British Commonwealth are playing our part."

Thousands Of Civilians Are In Flight From Pyongyang

Pyongyang, Dec. 4.—(AP)—The great tragedy of Pyongyang began unfolding today.

Thousands of city residents and Korean refugees from other areas began a last-minute exodus from this doomed city. The former Red Korean capital seems certain to revert any day now to its communist masters.

The people poured through silent streets and twisting alleys to the wind-whipped north bank of the Taedong river.

They climbed down the retaining wall in the shadow of a serene Buddhist temple. They surged aboard the few craft still navigating to the south bank of the river—and a few additional feet of freedom.

They waded the ice-cold river north of the city. They clung with stiff, cold hands to the prows of the few ferries and rowboats crossing the stream.

They crawled perilously along the shattered girders of the city's vehicular bridge, one span of which the Reds dynamited into the river before they abandoned this city late last October.

In one slot in the shadow of the great Japanese built two-span railway bridge, they lost a means of crossing the river.

U.S. army engineers today dynamited the army-built pile bridge designed to carry rail traffic across the river. The army bridge was incomplete, but was to have been operating Dec. 15.

The refugees—old men and women... young women with babies strapped their backs... children whimpering with the cold—seemed to have no place to go, other than away from this Red-threatened city.

Tokyo, Dec. 4.—(Reuters)—Lt.-Gen. Sir Horace Robertson, administrative commander of all British Commonwealth troops in Japan and Korea, today advocated censorship to ensure the safety of United Nations forces.

Voluntary censorship has been in force in Korea since the war began.

Gen. MacArthur's public relations officer has no comment to make on the statement.

A CHRISTMAS CAROL

Granby's British And Foreign Bible Conference Of Student Councils Society Reported A Successful Year Is Held At Drummondville High

Granby, Nov. 4.—The annual meeting of the British and Foreign Bible Society was held this year in the United Church, Granby, when Rev. H. Rayner made his annual report on the work of the society.

He said that patrons of this society were the Majesty's King George and Queen Elizabeth of England, and the highlight of the year was their visit to the London Bible House, where they showed keen interest in the work and made it very real that the work is under their gracious patronage.

After a request from Germany that Bibles be sent to that country, two hundred and fifty thousand Bibles have been sent to the Western Zone, in charge of the circulation in China and India last year was seven million copies of the Bible. The circulation in Brazil amounted to one million two hundred fifty thousand and from the American, Dutch, Scandinavian and Scottish countries, the amount was seventeen million five hundred thousand copies. Today the Bible is printed in one thousand one hundred fifteen languages and dialects.

After the service, the congregation repaired to the lecture hall, where Mr. Rayner presented a film entitled "The Work of the Bible Society" in Nigeria, Africa, especially the production of the Bible there down to the present time.

The service at St. George's Anglican Church was withdrawn, and the evening and Ven. Archdeacon I. M. Lidstone, president of the local society, conducted a brief business meeting, when Mr. J. G. Fuller, secretary for over 30 years, stated that this was an all time high in the second of the society in Granby, when over $200 had been collected.

Officers for 1951 are as follows: President, R. A. G. Moore; vice-president, Mrs. H. C. Monk; Mrs. I. R. McDougall, Mrs. E. Davidge, Mrs. W. K. MacDonald, Mrs. H. W. Blunt and Mrs. W. H. Solomon.

General Notes

Guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Heelis were Mr. and Mrs. George Phillips of Montreal; Mr. Edward Heelis and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Phillips and Miss Dorothy Phillips, of Montreal; and Master Billy Heelis, who has been spending several weeks with his grandparents.

Drummondville, Dec. 4.—The seventh annual conference of Drummondville High School on Students Councils was held in the Friday and Saturday, November 17th and 18th. Miss Doreen Reilly, president of the local council was in charge.

The conference opened with a buffet supper in the School Auditorium on Friday evening served by the social committee of the Drummondville Home and School Association.

At the evening session the delegates discussed several topics of interest to all. "Creating an Interest in Student Council Activities" was presented by Montreal West High School, "Activities of Proven Value," by Hudson High School, and "Responsibilities of Social Committee," by High Schools for Girls, Montreal. Mr. Bruce Kirwin, of La Tuque High School, gave a summary of the evening's discussions.

On Saturday morning sectional meetings were held. Topics discussed were 1. "Finance", 2. "Validity of Adult Supervision on Council", 3. "Student Council Participation in School Discipline". Summaries were given by Mr. Andrew Roy, of Strathcona Academy, Montreal and by Mr. Royce Gale, of Sherbrooke.

The conference was brought to a close by a dinner at the Manor Drummond. Among those present as well as student delegates and staff advisers, were Mr. Rexford, of Montreal, representing the Provincial Association of Protestant Teachers; Mr. Lloyd Somerville, of Richmond, High School Principals Association; Mr. Almond, of Hudson Heights, president, Provincial School Boards Association; Mr. William Munroe, Department of Education; Mr. Frank Parker, President of Drummondville Home and School Association; Mr. Hershel French, chairman, Drummondville School Trustees.

The guest speaker was Mr. William Munroe, of the Department of Education, who spoke on "Good Sportsman Tomorrow—Good Citizenship Tomorrow". Mr. Munroe unfolded a ten-point plan of "Good Sportsmanship" for the delegates to bring back to their Students Councils.

Miss staff advisers present included: Mr. Bailey, of Asbestos; Miss Janet Woolley and Mr. Calder, of Arvida; Mr. N. Rosevear, Chamby County; Mr. Heath, Coaticook; Mr. Rexford, Montreal; Miss Whalley, Valleyfield; Mr. Brown, Cowansville; Mr. Rattray, Hudson; Miss Bradshaw, Knowlton; Mr. Alex Bayne, Mr. Bruce Kirwin, La Tuque; Mrs. Jackson, Lennoxville; Mrs. C. C. Cook, Macdonald College High School; Mr. B. C. White, Montreal West; Miss Claire Harrison, Mr. James C. Logan, Mount Royal; Mr. Gordon Samson, North Hatley; Mr. C. King, Ormstown; Mr. Gordon Shawville; Mr. Gale, Sherbrooke; Mr. E. J. Fisher, Shawinigan Falls; Mr. Andrew Roy, Montreal; Mrs. A. Stevens, Three Rivers; Miss MacLeod, Quebec and Mr. Bruce Windsor Mills. Delegates present included: Pauline Ivaes, Alex Aylarchuk, Arvida; Frances Atkin, Bram Shaps, Baron Bing High School; Kathryn Shelus, Joan Hewitt, Bedford; Herman Dougherty, Bury; Marcia Brown, Alan Thompson, Granby; Hazel Elliot, Ian Watson, Howick; Peter Matthews, Bruce Clark, Kenagami; Ruth Johnston, John Kent, Lachine; Margaret

NEW ELECTRONIC INVENTION HIDES DEAFNESS

Revolutionary Discovery Transmits Even Whispers With Startling Clarity

CHICAGO (Special)—An amazing new electronic ear which hides deafness and transmits even whispers with startling clarity, has been revealed by a noted Chicago electronic scientist.

He disclosed that this miraculous new discovery has rendered old-style hearing aids obsolete almost overnight, and brings new hope to the 15 million persons in the United States who are hard of hearing.

He reported that this electronic ear enables the deaf to hear without any button showing in the ear and without dangling battery wires. To acquire the hard of hearing readers of this paper with this new miracle electronic ear which hides deafness, full details are described in a fascinating booklet, "New Discoveries to Help the Deaf Hear." It will be sent free in a plain wrapper to anyone who requests it. Address: Electronic Research Division, 1450 West 19th Street, 786N Belton Building, Chicago 8, Ill. A penny postcard will do.—Ad.

JACOBY ON CANASTA

FIRST PLAY ISN'T AUTOMATIC

By OSWALD JACOBY

Written for NEA Service

A reader from Portland, Ore., writes "I suppose it is silly to bother you with a simple question like this. Still we have been arguing about it and getting nowhere fast. Here is the situation. Both sides need fifty. The up card is a four spot. You are the first player and after drawing hold joker-ace-king-king - 10-7-7-7-6-5-4-2. We are agreed that the correct play is to meld joker-7-7-7. However, our question is, What is the correct discard?"

I must say that this is not a question to tear down houses over. The first discard can't be very important. However, I definitely recommend not throwing away the fourspot. There is a very good chance that the man to your right will select a four as one of his early discards.

If he does you can use your four and one remaining ceuce to get the discard pile. In choosing between the other single cards I have a slight preference for throwing the ace. A lot of players just hang on to ace like grim death and I am less likely to have an ace discarded to me than some other card.

Finally I might even throw one of the kings as a trap play. I surely would do it against one of those players who always matches my discard; never would do it against a pair that might freeze the block against me.

While my reader and his friends all agree that it is correct to meld joker-7-7-7 with this hand I want to put in a mild dissent. I will say this much. It is correct in the ordinary canasta game to meld joker-7-7-7 most of the time. Furthermore, if you do make this meld you should get into no trouble.

The worst that can happen to you will be that the opponents will get control of the discard pile and be able to make two or three canastas before you go out. On the other hand there is little chance of your winding up with a big score if you start with this meld. Even though you get the discard pile you will find that the opponents will get together and meld out before you succeed in capitalizing greatly on your good fortune.

Furthermore, if you are playing against opponents who like to enter into an all out fight for the discard pile, they will freeze the pack against you immediately and you will have little or no chance of getting it. Of course your partner may crash through but there will be two of them working against one of him.

Accordingly I will not meld automatically with this hand though I will most of the time. Furthermore, if I choose not to meld I may throw one of my three sevens as bait.

Finally, if I decide to meld with this hand I might meld joker-king-king and either discard one of my sevens as bait or hold the three sevens in case I may want to play for a quick out.

The whole point of this dissertation being that there is no such thing as an automatic first play in a canasta hand.

Mr. Jacoby is unable to answer individual questions on Canasta from readers. However, he will include the most frequently asked questions in his column.

City Pension Scheme, Civil Defence Are On Agenda Of Sherbrooke Council

Three major projects are scheduled for tomorrow evening's regular session of the Sherbrooke City Council — the adoption of a pension fund scheme for municipal employees, the passing of a by-law consolidating and revising the various by-laws covering the rates charged by the municipal gas and electric system and a discussion on the establishment of a local civil protection organization.

The pension fund plan, which has been under study by a special committee, on and off, for a period of years, has been whittled into final shape and it is expected the by-law will receive all three readings tomorrow evening. If this action is taken, the plan will become operative January 1, 1951.

The details have not as yet been announced, but it is understood the city will operate the plan itself. Under the suggested scheme, employees will be required to make a contribution towards the cost of pensions in connection with future service but allowances, payable from the general funds of the city, will be made in connection with past service to cover especially the cases of long-term employees who are near or have already reached the proposed pension age.

The civil protection proposals will come up as a result of the recent suggestion by the federal

Gifts Sought For Residents Of Wales Home

The Sherbrooke Auxiliary of the Wales Home today made its annual appeal to the public for Christmas gifts for the aged men and women residents of the home at Richmond.

There are 47 men and 43 women living at the Home and any gifts appropriate for elderly men and women will be appreciated. Donations of money also will be welcomed and gifts will be purchased with any funds received.

One of the advantages of Christmas is that it provides an opportunity to give and there will be no persons more appreciative of gifts than the residents of the Wales Home.

Gifts and donations should be sent to Miss Elizabeth Haight, 49 Portland Avenue, Sherbrooke. The Auxiliary plans to ship its parcels on December 18th.

Fredette Trial For Manslaughter Is Entering Second Week Today

The trial of Ernest Fredette, 22, of Brompton, charged with manslaughter in connection with the death of Joseph Vaillancourt, 43-year-old Ayer's Cliff restaurant owner, entered its sixth day in Court of King's Bench this morning.

On Saturday two more character witnesses for the defense testified that Fredette was a peaceful man and had a very good reputation.

Fredette is alleged to have struck the deceased during a scuffle on the Bromptonville-Sherbrooke highway, Saturday evening, April 8th. Mr. Vaillancourt, father of five small children, died in his sleep in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Archelais Parre, in Compton, on Easter Monday.

Mr. Vaillancourt was driving from Asbestos to Compton accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Girard Dessaurault and their infant daughter.

Seconds after he had parked the car another car parked up ahead and the occupants of the second auto approached Mr. Vaillancourt and his party. A quarrel broke out and during the scuffle Mr. Vaillancourt was injured. The deceased parked the car in order that Mrs. Dessaurault might get a bottle of milk from the trunk for her baby.

Conrad Foisy, 26, of Sherbrooke, and Bromptonville Police Chief Boudreau testified that Ernest Fredette had a good reputation. "He is a polite fellow, has a good education and a good character. I worked with him at the local rehabilitation centre," stated Mr. Foisy.

Defense attorney Paul-Emile Brazeau, who is attempting to prove that the accused stopped the car because he thought there was an accident, asked Mr. Foisy "Was Ernest Fredette in the same accident as Rev. Father Perrault, who was killed in an accident on the highway near Windsor Mills some time ago?"

Foisy: "Yes sir, he was the driver."

Mrs. Archelais Parre, of Compton, was called to the stand and told the court after being questioned by defense attorney Brazeau that the deceased had refused medical attention.

Dr. James O'Neill, of Sherbrooke, took the stand for the defense and corroborated the evidence given by Dr. Frank Elliott, brain specialist from Montreal.

Dr. Elliott and Dr. O'Neill maintained that if the accused had been treated soon after the blow he might have lived. Dr. Jean-Marie Roussel, medico-legal expert from Montreal, told the court that the "best of medical attention would not have saved him."

Local Man Charged With Manslaughter

Montreal, Dec. 4. — K. G. Thompson, of Sherbrooke, Quebec, held criminally responsible for the death of Miss Rolande Bouliane, 28, in an automobile accident 10 days ago, was arraigned in court Saturday on a charge of manslaughter. He was released on bail of $850 pending preliminary hearing Dec. 11.

Miss Bouliane was riding with Thompson and four other persons when the automobile crashed into the rear of a parked truck in suburban "L'Abadie-a-Plouffe." Thompson was driving his own car.

John Boland, 19, of Sherbrooke, testified at the inquest that he and Thompson had consumed two bottles of beer each at Ste. Rose, Que., and were driving into Montreal when the accident occurred.

He said he could not see the parked truck before the accident happened.

Roger Carriere, 24, of Montreal, operator of the truck testified that the truck engine had stopped suddenly. He said there were five lights on the rear of his truck and he had found them lit 10 minutes before the accident happened.

Pathologist Conducted Speech Clinic For Sherbrooke And District Schools

By ARNOLD BARON

The fact that he himself WAS a stutterer led Robert Sparks, M.Sc., into the field of speech correction.

But, while enthusiastic about this comparatively new field, Mr. Sparks warns it is NOT true that children of school age will overcome their speech defects by some miraculous procedure, and the longer a speech defect is allowed to continue, the more firmly entrenched becomes the habit.

Mr. Sparks, Speech Pathologist at the Speech and Cleft Palate Clinic, of Montreal's Royal Victoria Hospital, was in Sherbrooke on Saturday as he had been a week before.

His purpose here was to conduct a speech and cleft palate clinic to deal with speech defects among local children. Held at the Mitchell School, the clinic was sponsored by the Sherbrooke Protestant School Board.

It is believed that this is the first time that a school board in the Province has organized a clinic of this kind.

Mr. Sparks held conferences with parents, interviewed children, suggested remedial exercises and advised teachers and the school nurse. He attended to a total of 58 children, two of whom were from the Lennoxville schools and 15 from the school in Magog.

Mrs. Lorna Meiss, R.N., school nurse, who was in charge of arrangements with Wright W. Gibson, Superintendent of Schools and Dr. T. J. Quintin, member of the Protestant School Board, reports that parents, teachers and pupils have shown much enthusiasm for this project and have been most co-operative in carrying out the suggestions and remedial treatments that Mr. Sparks has recommended.

"Something definitely is going to be done in this area to help the children," he says. "Sherbrooke, Lennoxville and Magog school children are now being evaluated and the present plan is to give some sort of training to several teachers or nurses who are in contact with all the children in the schools."

This will not make her a speech correctionist, Mr. Sparks says, but the average classroom teacher can do a great deal to help a child overcome simple defects of speech, if she has the proper training.

Her attitude towards all speech defects is something which will certainly help the children," Mr. Sparks states. "And we hope to establish close co-ordination with the teacher so we can be consulted re procedure and to help in a more detailed way."

Mr. Sparks, who obtained his degree in speech therapy from Stanford University, gives an average of 450 "lessons" a month at the Royal Victoria Hospital in Montreal. This clinic deals with all types of speech defects, ranging from simple articulatory defects to the complicated defects arising from brain injuries.

"We start treatment before the operation and continue it through afterwards," he says.

The clinic has received a $22,000 grant from the federal and provincial governments, most of which will be used to expand the scope of the clinic, particularly in the field of education—that is, orientating the classroom teacher in the part she plays where a child with defective speech is involved.

The other speech clinic, at the Children's Memorial Hospital in Montreal, is conducted on a part-time basis only and is restricted to English-speaking children.

On the other hand, the Royal Victoria speech clinic is full-time with a staff of three therapists, is bilingual and not restricted to any one age group.

A bulletin published by the Hospital concerning the Speech and Cleft Palate clinic informs that: "The amount of money which the Provincial and Federal Governments, together with philanthropic agencies, have spent on the rehabilitation of physically handicapped individuals in the past has reached a considerable sum... but that employment records of properly rehabilitated persons have shown that $10 in Income Tax is paid back for each dollar spent in rehabilitation."

Still a new field, speech correction has seen its greatest rise in the United States during the last decade and in Canada in the last four years. Its leading American lights are Dr. Robert West of Brooklyn College, who made his name at the University of Wisconsin, and Wendell Johnson, who wrote the best-selling book "People in Quarantines," a semantic approach to speech correction.

A former president of the American Speech and Hearing Association, Mr. Johnson is also famous as a semanticist.

Our Congratulations To:

CARL SKINNER, who observed the anniversary of his birth yesterday.

Hereford Bull Is Sold For Record $70,500

A new world's record in the beef-oattle world was established recently with the sale of Hillcrest Larry 4th for the sum of $70,500, it is reported in The American Hereford Journal.

The sum of $70,500 is the highest price ever paid for a bull Hereford bred.

The International champion was purchased by Mr. and Mrs. Henry Sears, of Chino Farms, Church Hill, Maryland, and he was sold by C. A. Smith, owner of Hillcrest Farms, Chester, West Virginia.

His new owners propose to utilize the services of the king of the bovine realm in expanding the Chino Farms' sphere of influence in the Hereford world.

Hillcrest Larry 4th is described as a great bull from every angle. His blood lines are said to be of a highly potent variety. His sire and grand sire are in the upper reaches of the Register-of-Merit circles.

Larry's first son sold for $6,000, proof of the father's ability as a sire.

Canadian Legion Branches To Collect Reading Matter For Special Force

Plans for the collection of reading matter for members of Canada's special force were discussed Saturday at a meeting of the St. Francis district of the Canadian Legion.

Howard Wells of Stanstead, district commander, reported on a provincial council meeting of the Legion held recently in Montreal and said that the Legion had undertaken to collect books for the servicemen, some of whom are already in Korea.

French language books are especially in demand but all other books, fiction and non-fiction, will be welcomed. Pocket-size magazines are also acceptable and money donations will be used to purchase the larger-sized magazines.

Legion branches are making their own arrangements for the gathering of books and any persons who wish to contribute reading material, or money, may do so by getting in touch with their local branches.

There are no administration costs in this collection as the distribution is being handled by the Canadian Legion Educational Services.

Mr. Wells said Rev. Frank Stanton of Stanstead College had agreed to act as district chairman for the book collection and his appointment was approved by the meeting.

Other matters discussed at Saturday's meeting, held at the Legion Memorial Home here, were the brief which the Legion will present at the next session of Parliament. Branches were urged to support this brief by writing their local members of Parliament asking for their backing.

Mr. Wells, at the request of the meeting, will personally write to all M.P.'s in the St. Francis district, although the individual branches will write their local members.

The Coaticook branch raised the question of the burning of American cigarettes seized by customs officials and requested that more of these be made available to veterans in hospitals.

The meeting adopted a resolution urging that the pay received by members of the reserve forces be exempt from taxation. This resolution will be referred to Provincial Command.

Delegates from nine branches attended the meeting. Branches represented were: Frontier, Sherbrooke, Richmond, Coaticook, Asbestos, Potton, East Angus, Sawyerville and Fitch Bay-Georgieville.

Each branch reported on its activities of the last six months and on a motion by J. A. Bourgeois of Sherbrooke, the Potton branch was extended special congratulations on the success of its street fair at Mansonville.

Gross receipts from this fair amounted to about $6,000, which Mr. Bourgeois said was an amazing achievement for a small branch.

Membership, publicity and the Legion's annual Christmas tree in Montreal were among other matters discussed.

Four Injured, Post Smashed In Collision

Four Sherbrooke residents were injured and a city lamp post was broken as the result of a collision between two cars on Alexander Street which occurred Sunday evening.

Treated at St. Vincent de Paul Hospital were J. J. Nash, 48, of 102-A Fabre Street; Roland Valieres, 36, of R.R. 2, Sherbrooke; J. C. F. Boutin, 43, of 100 Alexander Street. Treated at Hotel Dieu Hospital was Pauline Beaudoin, 19, of 19 Gillespie Street.

Injuries sustained were a series of cuts and bruises. The injured were treated at the hospitals and allowed to go home.

According to police reports, the accident happened at 5:42 p.m. yesterday when the car driven by Mr. Nash came into collision with the automobile driven by Mr. Valieres. Mr. Nash was proceeding north, turning west on Ball Street and Mr. Valieres was driving along Alexander Street, police say. The cars stopped spinning only after hitting a nearby lamp post which broke as result of the crash.

Both vehicles were heavily damaged. The injured were taken to hospital by city ambulances. Mr. Valieres was removed by a vehicle belonging to his brother.

Municipal police constable Hubert Fortier investigated.

Radar Unit Convoy Is Transferred

The Sherbrooke Radar Squadron, No. 2450 AC & WU, last week transferred its convoy from Windsor Mills airport. The convoy, consisting of eight completely equipped R.C.A.F. vehicles, paraded through the main arteries of Sherbrooke under police escort and proceeded to the R.C.M.E. premises where it lay in dock pending its installation at a more convenient location during the winter months.

Yesterday personnel of the Reserve Unit, under the supervision of S/L F. W. McCrea, Officer Commanding the Unit, again moved the convoy, this time to its new site situated on Colonel Bert Lyon's farm on the western outskirts of the Sherbrooke City limits.

The complete operation, from dismantling the intricate equipment at Windsor Mills to its re-installation on Colonel Lyon's farm, was conducted without any major setbacks and the exercise on the whole was very successful.

The present location of the Convoy will be more easily accessible for training exercises, particularly during the winter. From beginning to end the complete exercise of moving the Convoy from one location to another proved to be a valuable experience in keeping the Unit both mobile and serviceable.

More Than 200 Attend Supper At Magog

Magog, Dec. 4.—An oyster stew supper at St. Luke's Church Hall, under the auspices of St. Luke's Men's Club, drew a record crowd of some 200 persons Saturday. This new club formed under the direction of Rev. John Comfort, formerly of St. Paul's Anglican Church, Sherbrooke, has more than 20 active members. This is the first supper ever conducted by a men's organization within St. Luke's church, with the main members doing the soliciting of funds, cooking and serving. Other such events are to take place in the future.

Queen Mary's Carpet Drew Large Crowds

Queen Mary's carpet, on display in the City Hall Auditorium Friday and Saturday of last week, drew a large number of admiring spectators, and officers of the I.O. D.E. stated this morning that they are well pleased with the attendance.

Mrs. Walkey, who is travelling with the carpet, compared the attendance with that in another town of the same population and said that Sherbrooke had made a much better showing.

The I.O.D.E. wish to express their thanks to the public who attended in such large numbers, and to the members themselves for their assistance.

Farm Forum Meetings Held At St. Elie

On November 20 the St. Elie Farm Forum met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Armstrong with an attendance of 23 for the fourth weekly meeting. There were discussions on the high prices and plans were made for the forum dance to be held in the Ascot Consolidated School on Dec. 9. Later cards were played at four tables and supper was served by the hostess.

On Nov. 27 the Forum met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Roarke with an attendance for 28 to discuss "What's happened to the Country doctor?" After listening to the radio broadcast and discussing the matter the Forum decided that our community was too close to Sherbrooke to have a doctor in residence.

Cards were played at four tables and crokinole for the younger folks. Sandwiches, cakes and coffee were served at eleven by the hostess.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Arbery where "A Pension For Everyone" will be discussed.

Cookshire Man's Leg Amputated As Result Of Crash

The tragedy of last Thursday evening's series of automobile crashes near East Angus continued to mount with the announcement by authorities at St. Vincent de Paul Hospital this morning that Alfred Campagna, of Cookshire, had a leg amputated as a result.

His condition remains serious but the other three persons injured are said to be improving. They are: Gerald Fleet, of Sherbrooke, Gerald Dupaul, of Magog, and Geraldine Krinson, of Atlantic City.

Two American women, one a member of a religious order, died as a result of the mishaps.

A COMMON CAUSE

One of the things too often forgotten, in the opinion of the Milwaukee Journal, is that action on Korea is a United Nations action—that it is resistance to aggression sponsored by the entire world outside the Communist bloc. Admittedly, the United States is making the greatest sacrifice in men, money and effort, but there was good reason for this. South Korea was in charge of the United States. Their troops were nearest when the invasion started. Their interests in the Pacific were greatest. Their ability to act quickly was greatest. Their position as the leader of the world's anti-Communist actions and as chief proponent and creator of the United Nations itself gave Washington the greatest responsibility.

But, the paper continues, other nations have contributed too and are contributing significantly within their means and in the light of their national conditions and commitments. They are contributing more than support and morale in the United Nations—they are contributing men, arms and supplies.

Of the approximately 250,000 troops in Korea now fighting under the United Nations flag, 100,000 are South Koreans. The bulk of the rest are Americans, but with them are substantial fighting units of British soldiers. With them are Dutch volunteers, Frenchmen, Filipinos, Turks, Puerto Ricans, men from Thailand, Canadians, Australians and New Zealanders.

Troops have been offered (some are on the way) by Ethiopia, Colombia, Bolivia, Greece, Nicaragua, Panama and Belgium. Ships patrolling the Korean coast alongside U.S. naval vessels come from Thailand, Canada, Australia, Britain, France, Holland, New Zealand and Norway. Planes in the air over Korea contain not only Americans, but men from Britain, South Africa, Greece and Canada.

An Italian 100-bed hospital, complete with doctors and nurses, is in service. Supplies of medicine, food and other necessities have come or are on the way from Israel, Thailand, Chile, Colombia, Cuba, Ecuador, Salvador, Liberia, Nicaragua, the Philippines, Venezuela, Denmark, India, Sweden, Pakistan, Ethiopia and Lebanon.

What do these contributions mean in terms of ability to make them? Take little Thailand, for instance, a new nation once known as Siam. Thailand has only 17,000,000 people, living in southeast Asia in the path of Red aggression. By our standards, Thailand is poor. There is little industry there. Yet it has ships off Korea, it has offered 40,000 tons of rice in Korean aid, and it is sending 4,000 fighting men, 1,200 of whom are already in action. Thailand is sacrificing to do its share in the common cause. So are the rest.

This is United Nations action—not just United Nations words. This is the free world resisting aggression. There has never been such a display of unity. Americans, as they watch their own tremendous effort and their own costs in lives and money, must not forget that. It doesn't make their sacrifices mean any less. It does make their mission as the leader in the struggle for peace and security and freedom all the more significant and worth while.

EXAMS FOR PARENTS

Parents of school-age children throughout Canada will look with awe and admiration upon a group of Portage la Prairie mothers and fathers who had the courage to voluntarily write examination papers set by their children a few days ago. The scheme was promoted by the Home and School Association in that western community to stimulate interest among parents and from all reports it was a huge success. Both parents and children enjoyed the experiment immensely.

The greatest tribute to education in the experiment were the parents who had several children in school. They had to write papers set by each of their children and some of the youngsters prevented a pooling of resources by setting separate papers for "Mom" and "Dad". Those parents who had been helping their children with their homework probably had an advantage, but even they were unprepared for some questions, such as:

"If a jet went 5,000,000 miles in 1,700 hours, how long will it take to go two miles?"

One result of the experiment will probably be the loss to Portage parents of the age-old out: "I could answer that question for you son, but I think you should learn to look things up for yourself."

THEFT OF GOLD

Sudbury Star

The Ontario Court of Appeal has upheld a five-year sentence imposed by a Kenora judge for a high-grading charge, on the grounds that "this is a most serious charge, particularly in the north country."

Was the seriousness of the crime determined many years ago on the premise that the theft of gold from a mine was in effect theft of the King's treasure?

It would seem that high-grading is a term that has evolved over the years to cover the theft of ore, as well as the various machinations employed to have the ore refined and sold through an underground market.

The law is more than 60 years old in Canada and we wonder if the gravity of the offence has not diminished, when it is compared with armed robbery, rape and other crimes for which the penalties seem at times to be almost trivial.

They don't hang men for stealing sheep now, or run people into jail for bathing on Sundays. Does the passage of time temper justice with mercy? Is high-grading the serious crime it was considered to be in the last century?

NOBEL WINNERS

Montreal Star

Among the many jobs we have never wanted is a place on the Nobel prize selection committee, and this negative determination of ours is strengthened by the last couple of selections made in the field of letters—the prizes going to Bertrand Russell and William Faulkner.

Russell seems to us to be a comprehensible choice. He is no great shakes as a stylist; his writing is lucid and comprehensible but not to our way of thinking, anything like good enough to knock his audience into the aisles. His claim to the prize, however, is richly deserved by his status as a thinker. He was chosen by the Encyclopedia Britannica as a key piece in any work, and his standing as a mathematical philosopher is, they tell us, very high. Unfriendly critics remark that when his philosophy reaches an impasse, he expresses it into mathematical formulae; and when his mathematics attain to a similar deadlock, he turns it into metaphysics, thereby achieving all the advantages of two almost incomprehensible worlds. But critics will be critics, and Lord Russell has had such stature for so long that it seems only odd that the Nobel selectors waited until 1950 to pin a rose on him.

But if Bertrand Russell had to wait until he was over 70 to get this recognition, it makes us wonder why we might not have been allowed to wait until William Faulkner had attained a similar ripe age before the garlands came his way. There seems to be something a bit lopsided about any system which brackets so distinguished, if unorthodox, a name as that of Bertrand Russell with that of an American novelist whose pathological studies of the deep south are closed in a prose style which has to be read twice before the discovery is made that it is not worth reading once.

We are, as we remarked before, glad not to be a Nobel selector. Were we on the committee it is altogether likely that we would make worse choices. But we will continue to marvel at a system which finds Russell and Faulkner the men of the years 1949 and 1950.

USELESSLY USEFUL

Windsor Star

The Archbishop of Canterbury (not to be confused with the Dean of Canterbury) has been visiting Australia. He noted Queensland has no second chamber to its legislature, and observed: "In England we did not resort to such drastic measures as abolishing the House of Lords. We simply took away all its powers, and so now it plays a very useful part in our national life."

The great secret of Britain's democratic development has been ability to adjust its historic institutions to the trend of the times. Except for Cromwell's coup, it has been able to do this without any revolution.

Thus it is that the monarchy is perhaps more firmly respected by the people now than in any previous age, though long since a source of power (but not of influence). And in the House of Lords there are men who started life as poor urchins sitting shoulder to shoulder with those descended from long lines of nobility.

In most democracies a House of Lords would be an incongruity, but not in Britain. There is considerable talk of more reforms to make it more representative of the people, but few serious suggestions it be abolished. The Archbishop of Canterbury was not just joking when he said while it has lost its powers, it still is very useful.

WORLD CHAMPION GRAIN GROWERS

St. Thomas Times-Journal

In the realm of sport a world champion may reign for years, but in the realm of agronomy the championship usually changes hands each year. At the Royal Winter Fair in Toronto recently five "world champions" were declared. At the Chicago Exposition five "world champions" were declared, four of them being different from the kings who were crowned at Toronto.

The wheat king at Toronto was a precocious schoolboy from Drumheller, Alberta, who cultivated a 3½-acre patch on his father's farm. The Chicago king has a farm at Sarnov, Sask. All the other kings enthroned at Toronto—barley, oats, rye and corn—were supplanted by new kings at Chicago, except Chris Morck, of Dickson, Alta., who had the distinction of winning the rye crown at both exhibitions.

In sport it sometimes happens that a man is recognized as world champion in one area and not in another. Unless this is done in regard to the cereal kings, all the monarchs crowned at the Royal Winter Fair except King Rye will have had short reigns. With all respect to the Toronto exhibition, the Chicago kings are generally accepted in the agricultural world as the real kings.

Happily, four out of five at both places were Canadians.

ANCIENT COLLIERY

Windsor Star

Charter granted by James IV in 1511 to mine coal on the Fossil estate, Fife, Scotland, has ended with the closing of the pit. Though the main shaft was sunk in 1843, there is evidence of mining back in the 16th century.

Operations have ceased because it is not considered economical to keep them going any longer. And, what was wrong with the coal mining industry in Britain is suggested by this Fife pit having used, up to the last day, an engine which was 100 years old.

This is a tribute to the materials and workmanship that originally went into the engine, but not to any progressive characteristics of former owners of the pit.

NATURE ON DISPLAY

What is it that speaks of endurance, Permanence, all the years long? . . . The mountains, e'er steadfast, and mighty, Like sentries on guard, sure and strong.

What is it which speaks of the tempests, In manner both certain and loud? . . . The trees, in the good and great forests, With power through union, endowed.

What is it so wild, and unruly, Reeking death and destruction at will? . . . A thunderstorm, loud and terrific Oft with terror, and awe can us fill.

What is it holds us in its spells, As high overhead she floats, Which soft, then loud, and louder swells? . . . The lake's triumphant notes.

What is it lifts us from the depths Of boredom and despair, And places us on higher plane? . . . Sweet music, on the air.

What is it so wonderfully fragile Bears the owner so freely away, Light, and speedy, o'er much terra firma? . . . A butterfly's wings, blithe and gay.

What is it so dainty and modest, With colors like velvet, so rare, Hold the gaze of their ardent admirers? . . . Pretty pansies, appealing and fair.

What is it suggests our Creator Still reigns in His glory, on high, Etching color, and beauty, like magic? . . . A rainbow, across a dark sky.

Unwritten proofs are everywhere Of Beauty, full and free, For children of this earth to share, When Nature holds the key.

Jacoby On Bridge

By OSWALD JACOBY

CONSERVATIVE PLAY DOESN'T ALWAYS PAY

Everybody knows some bridge player who is very proud of being conservative. "When I bid 'em, I've got 'em," he will say smugly. This is very fine when our hero has the tickets. But his caution costs him a lot on certain hands, and the peculiar thing is that he will never know what he has missed. The hand shown today is a typical example.

There was nothing much to the play at five clubs. The defenders could take their spade trick and the ace of diamonds, but nothing else. North and South scored 700 points for the rubber and 100 points for the trick score at five clubs. Thereupon East dismissed the hand from his mind and went on to bigger and better things.

Now let's see what might have happened if East had been less conservative. After all, East eventually bid three spades—why couldn't he bid three spades right over North's double? The effect of such a bid might well have been devastating.

What would South do if East jumped immediately to three spades? Could he take a chance on four diamonds? North might have a shaded takeout double, with a good heart suit (for which South had only two-card support) but poor diamonds. The hand might be a poor fit; and South's normal tendency would be to play safe by passing, especially since he was vulnerable against non-vulnerable opponents.

Now suppose that three spades happened to be passed by South and West. What would North do? He would wonder whether or not he was being robbed, but he wouldn't dare investigate any further. If his partner had a poor hand, they could neither beat three spades nor make any contract of their own. So North also would play safe by passing.

West would wind up playing the hand at three spades—which he would make. It's a lot better, of course, to make a pair score of your own than to let the opponents take the rubber.

As a matter of fact, even if North or South closed his eyes and plunged in with a bid over three spades, West might still sacrifice at five spades instead of giving up the rubber. He would know that East had good spades but nothing else for the immediate jump to three spades.

The sacrifice would cost only 300 points, far less than the value of the rubber. East's actual bid suggested that he had some defensive values, so that West (who had two aces) was justified in hoping to defeat five clubs.

The Record Short Story

Noisy Brute

By OLGA A. ROSMANITH

Carolyn was up before dawn watching the gray luster of the sky brighten into another morning. Birds twittered as they woke in the dreaming silence of the canyon below. Still half-asleep, she felt suspended between the world of mystery she had just left and the world of practical responsibility she was about to handle. A cup of coffee stood near her elbow on the rail. It was a wondrous moment.

Suddenly the silence was shattered by a deafening roar from the stone cottage on the highway. The brutal sound struck the granite walls above the brush, echoed, reverberated and multiplied till the whole universe seemed to rattle with sound. A few backfires like gunshots and the roar died and finally died away.

A querulous voice cried out in the shadowed house behind Carolyn. Trembling with outrage, she went in. Her voice was young and gentle. "Here I am, Daddy."

He said as he said every morning—at least every morning for the past six months. "What on earth was that murderous racket?" She gave him the same answer. "It was the man from Coyote Corner going to work on his motorcycle."

"He ought to be shot. The West isn't the West any more. Why doesn't somebody have the intestinal fortitude to do it?" "Maybe somebody will one of these days," said Carolyn hopefully. "I wouldn't mourn for him."

The father gave a short laugh, then winced as he tried to turn on his arthritic shoulder. "I'll go further. I'll get my Sunday doings out of mothballs and go dance at his funeral."

Carolyn went into the kitchen to pour hot coffee for him. "At least that would be dancing," she murmured to herself. "A dance at a funeral even would be some kind of life again."

"Noisy brute!" her father muttered as he sat up in bed to take the coffee. "Shooting's too good for the good old days when they could tie a loop to a man from a handy tree—and lash the horse away from under him."

Carolyn saw him shivering and she put the thick warm afghan round his shoulders. The dry thin air up here had cured his asthma but the keen cold of the nights stabbed his lame arm with arthritis.

"If only something could be done about this shoulder," she said, speaking out of her wonder if the benefit up here was worth her young aching loneliness. "You could take me down to the doctor and have a confab about it."

Carolyn drove him down the mountain road in an old car twice a week, then through the tree lined canyon creek road out on to the desert and Roca Roja town. She left him at the doctor's office, then she shopped and looked round and talked to the neighbors down there for shopping. Afterwards they would have a steak dinner at Luke's Bar and Grill and she would coax the old car up the mountain again. A strange life for a girl.

The doctor was outside in the waiting room when they entered his office and her father at once complained about the motorcyclist who was robbing him of his early morning sleep.

Dr. Withers grinned wickedly. "You'll sleep late tomorrow, my friend. I've got him in a cast right now at the Valley Hospital. And I'm keeping him in it till he breaks his way out. All the canyon people are in an uproar—" Carolyn's father shouted "whoa-nee!" Then "how come?" he asked.

He broke a leg this morning. A speeding car forced him against a telegraph pole."

Carolyn listened to the jokes they made without saying a word, then the doctor took her father into private session in his office. She went off, not feeling so elated as usual at going into the market bunnies with life to do her shopping. She felt an irrational unease of guilt because she too had wished something would happen to stop the clamor and now something painful had happened.

It was an hour of idyllic peace in a setting of majestic beauty. Carolyn drank her coffee at the high porch rail looking about her. The marvel of her early reveries lasted about ten minutes then misery attacked her. She felt guilty. She felt lonely. She longed for the clamor of the motorcycle. Without it the left of youth and the active world seemed frightening far off.

Next morning she wondered about the motorcyclist. Who was he? How old was he? What did he do? Had he any relatives or friends? She passed the stone cottage he lived in when she drove to town. It was always shut and quiet, indicating he lived alone. It had been empty for years before he came. She wondered if it were possible to wish a person into misfortune. So many people were mad about that noise. She wondered if he knew what an uproar he made about the brush where the echoing roars began.

Next morning she wondered if he would like some books to read. The morning after she collected some from the shelves and took them with her when she drove her father to town. Leaving him at the doctor's office, she drove straight from there to the Valley Hospital. She tied her up in such a tangle of red tape that only the stubborn streak she shared with her father kept her trying.

"But I can't come in visiting hours," she told the reception desk. "I live way up on Thunder Mountain. I come down in the mornings twice a week."

What relation was she to the patient? Just a neighbor, she said, getting unreasonably mad. Was that bad? That neighbor in such lonely parts would care about another neighbor enough to want to bring some cigarettes and some books to him? A passing interne joining in the discussion was attracted by Carolyn's spirited charm and got some action. "He has nobody near enough to visit him," he said. "It would do him good—his morale is a bit low at present."

Almost worn out by the long battle with authority Carolyn gratefully followed the interne, now forgetting to be shy or to wonder what was the manner of man was the "noisy brute" of the motorcycle. She was conducted through a busy ward to a screened bed and behind the screen lay a young man in his twenties with his eyes sunken and a pallid look under his deep sunburn. He heard the explanation of the interne with evident astonishment.

"I'm your neighbor way up above you in the canyon," Carolyn filled in. "I heard you'd been hurt and I thought maybe your friends were far away—or you'd like a visitor—or anyway some book—or something."

The interne smiled and left them. "Ten minutes," he said over his shoulder.

The young man with his leg slung up roused himself to take full advantage of that ten minutes. He found out all about Carolyn and her isolation on the mountain and he told her his father. Then he told her he was taking flight training on the G.I. bill at Roca Roja airport and the hut in the canyon enabled him to live on his allowance and continue to help his mother.

He'd had hundreds of hours in the air and a navy pilot and when he got his commercial license he had a wonderful job waiting for him in a freight flying airline.

"Then," he added wryly, "that infernal racket that wakes the canyon will be ended forever."

"Oh," said Carolyn taken aback. "You knew your noise multiplied up in the rocks in the canyon?" "No, I didn't. But I did. The doctor told me I was ruining the sleep and tempers of almost half of his patients." The young man grinned suddenly. "He wasn't mad at me. But now I know I've got to do something about it. I've been thinking here thinking it out."

A nurse came wheeling a shining cart to the bedside. "Time's up," she said crisply. Carolyn and "noisy brute" exchanged smiles and she went.

On the way home she told her father she had been to see the patient, how nice he was and how contrite and how he was lying there trying to figure a way to continue at the airport on his present shoe string and not wake people before their time again.

"You look very pretty today," said her father irrelevantly. "You look woke up, bright, full of life, young as you are—or something."

"It was sort of stimulating to hear about his ambitions, Daddy—the way he has to work at ground school. It's difficult. You've got to be all there in the brain department to get a commercial flying license."

It was Carolyn's father who finally came up with the solution, after Carolyn's sixth visit on which he accompanied her in order to meet the young man himself.

"Why not board with us," he said, "and use the pickup? We can work out an equitable arrangement." He smiled genially. "Two men are surely no more trouble than one—and Carolyn is a good housekeeper."

The young man looked at his cast as if he were about to break it off and get up and then he looked at Carolyn. "All right with you?" he asked.

No Successor To Molyneux Is Sighted

Paris, — (Reuters) — The Paris fashion world is asking the question: "Who will take Molyneux's place?"

Edouard Molyneux, the famous dress designer, faced with a choice between total blindness and giving up his business, has decided to sacrifice the career which brought him to the top of the fashion ladder.

Only six months ago, in the hope of being able to continue in Paris, he closed down his London house where many a model had been designed for Princess Elizabeth and Princess Margaret. Now, even his work in Paris has been forbidden. He has to take a complete rest.

His illness is the result of the three wounds he received in the trenches of the first world war.

Born in England, Molyneux wanted to be a painter. His collection of paintings today is one of the loveliest private collections in Paris. But at the age of 16 he decided he had better get a job. He entered a competition in the London Daily Mail for a dress design—and won.

Thirty years ago, not satisfied with opening in London only, Molyneux opened a dressmaking establishment in Paris. It was a bolt store for an Englishman to storm the stronghold of Paris haute couture.

Once again the Daily Mail played an important part in his career. Lord Northcliffe, the owner of the newspaper and a great admirer of personal initiative, decided to help the young ex-soldier. Photographers and reporters attend his Paris opening and the newspaper carried a splash headline on the young designer.

Today 410 employees, including some who have been with Molyneux since he started, make up a team which turns out some of the finest clothes in Paris.

Army.

The Eighth Army, embracing the U.S. 1st and 9th Corps and remnants of the South Korean 2nd Corps, was moving southward through Pyongyang to new defensive positions. Roads were choked. Flames and smoke billowed from military installations destroyed by the U.N. forces to keep them out of Red hands.

Except for rearguards covering the retreat from the former Chongchon river line 40 miles to the north, no ground action in the northwest sector was reported up to mid-day Monday.

Pyeongyang, a city of 300,000, fell to the allies Oct. 20th.

U.N. planes screened the withdrawal from the city with unrelenting strafing and bombing attacks on Red troop and supply concentrations to the north.

Fighters and bombers also flew in close support of hard-pressed U.N. forces in the northeast, where advance Chinese elements were reported within 15 miles of Hamhung.

With the help of their Corsair fighter-bombers, the 5th and 7th Regiments of the U.S. 1st Marine Division battled through Red traps to reach Hagaru on the south side of Changjin reservoir.

It was a bloody, 12-mile retreat on the west side of the big reservoir for the leathernecks. At Hagaru they joined the U.S. 7th Division who escaped a Red trap on the east side of the lake. Casualties were heavy.

But their retreat took back the winding canyon road through to Hamhung, 50 miles to the south, was cut off still. Six Chinese regiments were reported occupying mountain positions for at least six miles along the pass leading from Hagaru.

In Pyongyang, AP Correspondent Tom Lambert reported tension and fear mirrored on the faces of the civilians. Thousands joined the slow military processions from the city.

The two highway bridges across the Taedong were thick with army vehicles, tanks, trucks and jeeps. Old men and women and young women with babies strapped to their backs crawled in bitter cold weather across the bent-and-twisted girders of one dynamited span.

West Berlin

Five western splinter parties appearing on the ballot here for the first time each failed to win five per cent of votes and so got no seats in the new House.

As the record vote was cast, the Soviet zone's official news agency ADN reported that the east German prime minister, Otto Grotewohl, has proposed to Konrad Adenauer, west German chancellor, that their governments confer on unification of Germany and the drafting of an all-German constitution.

Adenauer would not comment on the report, but west German officials in Bonn explained that the government and the western occupation powers only a few weeks ago rejected a communist bid for formation of an all-German government.

Dallas, Tex., Dec. 4.—(CP)—Lieut. James Bradley, F-84 caught fire yesterday on take-off from nearby Hensley Air Force base. Officers said the National Guard pilot could have stopped the aircraft and escaped. Instead, he lifted it over 100 automobiles at the airport's edge, filled with spectators, and crash-landed beyond the plane was then engulfed in flames and Bradley was killed.

Steep Rock Using Sea-Going Dredge To Uncover Iron

Atikokan, Ont.—Engineers have hauled a 900-ton, sea-going dredge 1,000 miles overland and 700 miles by water to uncover a vast body of iron ore at the bottom of Steep Rock lake.

The project is unique in Canadian mining.

The dredge Nebraska was moved in sections from Boston, Mass., to Steep Rock mine near this north-western Ontario town. It was reloaded in a drydock improvised on a rock-shelf near the bottom of a low spot in now-dry Steep Rock lake. The dredge was floated recently by refilling this part of the lake to allow it.

And now the Nebraska has started the three-year job of stripping 55,000,000 cubic yards of lake and river silt which covers the valuable Hogarth iron-ore deposit.

That ore is known to stretch 4,000 yards. It is 350 yards wide and 900 feet or more deep.

Briefly, the dredge will lift 50 feet of silt from an area of one square mile, lift it 160 to 400 feet, and dump it 2,000 feet so that it can spread harmlessly over barren muskeg country.

Each minute between now and April, 1954, the dredge will move 30 cubic yards of silt—1,300,000 cubic yards a month. And engineers at Steep Rock say that is more than could be handled by 200 20-ton dump trucks (if they could do the job at all).

The dredging operation was conceived by M. S. Fotheringham, engineer in charge of Steep Rock mine from its inception and now the company's president.

Despite the cost of dredging the lake bottom, the project is feasible because of the tonnage of ore that will be made available. The target is for Steep Rock mine to ship some 11,000,000 tons of ore a year to Port Arthur at the lakehead, and hence to Canadian and United States smelters.

Present production rate is about 1,200,000 tons a year. The objective four years from now is 10,000,000 tons, and seven years from now 10,000,000 tons.

At present prices, that 10,000,000 tons of Canadian ore will sell for $90,000,000 annually.

Steep Rock engineers claim that known and probably ore reserves of 72,000,000 tons ultimately will increase to hundreds of millions of tons of high-grade ore as exploration is completed.

13 Persons Killed During Week-End

By The Canadian Press

Thirteen persons died violently in week-end accidents in eastern Canada, a Canadian Press survey showed today.

Five were victims of traffic accidents, three were fatally burned in fires, one was a drowning victim and four died in a variety of mishaps.

There were eight deaths in Quebec and four in Ontario. The body of 43-year-old Vaughan White, missing from a mining expedition since Friday, was recovered at Plaster Rock, N.B., near the spot where searchers had found his wrecked canoe.

There were three double fatalities in Quebec. Andrew Paquette, 21, and Guy R. Boudreau, 22, were struck by a provincial police patrol car on the highway near St. Hubert. Mrs. Elmina Mongeon, 78, and her 13-month-old grand-nephew, Germain, died in a farm-house fire at Angers. Alphonse Underhill, 19, and Donat Gamache, 29, were electrocuted while working at the St. Remi tunnel in Montreal.

Other traffic victims were Paul A. Roy, who died in a highway collision near Three Rivers, Que.; Mrs. Mary O'Gorman, struck by a streetcar in Toronto; and Walter J. Smith, struck by an automobile on the highway near Hamilton.

Mrs. B. Brodeur died of burns suffered in a fire at London. Allan Liscombe, 63, was fatally injured by an eight-foot fall to the concrete floor of a building under construction in Toronto.

Halbert Verral, 64, was asphyxiated by fumes from a machine with which he was working in Montreal.

Old Age Pension Scheme Outlined

Ottawa, Dec. 4.—(CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent told the federal-provincial conference today that the federal government cannot revise its tax agreements with the provinces to add "materially" to their immediate over-all cost to the federal treasury.

At the same time, he announced the federal government will implement an old-age security plan as recommended by a parliamentary committee this year if it gets unanimous agreement from the provinces for a constitutional amendment.

The proposed plan calls for contributory pensions of $40 a month for all at the age of 70 years, and $40 pensions at 65 with a means test.

Mr. St. Laurent welcomed representatives of all provinces in the Commonsense Chamber as the conference opened at 10:50 A.M. EST.

He said his government would offer an optional revised basis for minimum payments to be made to provinces under the proposed renewal of the agreements.

But he emphasized this would not affect the level of current payments unless there should be a substantial decline in the gross national product—one of the factors on which the offer was based.

world-wide responsibilities. We are both of us affected by what happens in every part of the globe. In Europe, where the United States has made a great contribution in these last years; in the Middle East; in South and Southeast Asia and in the Far East. It is natural and useful that we should confer together.

"My aim in these talks is to align our policies in the new and troubled situation in the world and to find the means of upholding what we know to be right."

As a preliminary to his talks with the Prime Minister, President Truman held a week-end series of conferences with top military and diplomatic lieutenants and congressional leaders.

The plane stopped for 45 minutes early today to refuel at Gander, Nfld., but most of the occupants were asleep and did not leave the aircraft.

There was also unusual activity around United Nations headquarters in New York during the week-end. The U.S. told the U.N. General Assembly to be ready to deal with the intervention of Chinese communists in Korea.

The action followed a flying trip which chief U.S. delegate Warren R. Austin made to Washington Saturday.

On every side American officials said the present situation is loaded with danger and uncertainty. There persists some talk of a slight possibility of negotiating an arrangement with the Chinese communists if their military forces in Korea can be stopped by Gen. MacArthur's battered U.N. forces.

At the same time there has been increasing concern here over the evidence from Korea that huge bodies of hard-driving Red Chinese communist troops are committed to the fight, and that their purpose may well be to try to drive MacArthur's badly outnumbered units out of Korea entirely.

Pending some break in the military uncertainty, one way or the other, Truman and Attlee may open their talks tomorrow without knowing precisely what kind of situation they will have to deal with.

What makes this doubly dangerous is that all reports from London of Attlee's mission tell of his intention to advocate that an agreement be sought with the communists, both Chinese and Russian. That course is likely to elicit a favorable response in Washington.

In other words, there appears now to be the greatest strain on the Atlantic alliance line-up since it was formed two years ago. But American officials say firmly that this will not be allowed to develop into a split and that ways will be found of reconciling British and American differences.

Belgrade, Yugoslavia, Dec. 4.—(Reuters)—Premier Tito warned today that use of the atom bomb in Korea would have "unfathomable consequences" and lead to the extension of the conflict into a third world war.

Canadian infantry unit to parade on Hawaiian soil. The Pats marched for an hour—chiefly to get the kinks out of their legs—then had another short period of welcome liberty before the Martinez again put to sea.

For the visit, more than half the battalion sported shaven heads. Many a curly fellow fell before the shears on the westward cruise as the fad swept the ship. Those who didn't shave their noggins trimmed their hair to crew cuts.

The men, tossed about by a violent sea and closely confined in a crowded ship with little room for recreation, managed to find time for letter writing. Some 5,000 letters were written aboard ship, and airmailed from Honolulu.

To satisfy the incessant cry for news—the ominous war reports from Korea were read with especial interest by this battalion which may see action there—a troopship called the Eagle Leaf was started for the men. Editors were L. Cpl. John Dalrymple of Ottawa and Cpl. John Jacobs of Washington, D.C. Some U.S. troops also are aboard the ship.

Of the food aboard ship, the men have nothing but praise. It's plentiful and, in contrast to the usual routine "grape" of fighting men, they agree that it's good.

Her mother, Mrs. George Beaker, is critically ill in Burlington, Vt. Mr. and Mrs. McKee and Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Mizener went to visit her in Saturday, and found her very ill.

Mr. C. B. McLaughlin, who has been having pneumonia, is now able to sit up, but his son, Clinton, who was taken to a Montreal hospital on November 4, is still in the hospital, but is gaining slowly. His wife has returned home.

Mrs. C. B. McLaughlin, who strained the ligaments in her shoulder, is much better. Miss Mollie George, who had been with her aunt, went home ill with pink eye.

Mr. Carmi McLaughlin, of Knowlton, is at the McLaughlin home, assisting with the farm chores during his brother's illness.

Special Services Help Muscovites To Enjoy Leisure

By TOM WHITNEY

Moscow. Many new special and personalized services have been instituted here for the busy Muscovite.

For instance, if a Russian in the capital doesn't feel like bothering with alarm clocks, he can arrange to be awakened every morning by a phone call from a special service and information bureau. The moderate fee is added to his phone bill.

A Russian couple returning home tired from a hard day's work can eat in comfort in the peace of their home without the trouble of cooking and washing dishes—for a slight service charge. Some restaurants here have inaugurated the delivering of restaurant meals to individual homes.

Russian movie theatres sell only reserved seats. This means a customer is always sure he has a place to sit down, but it also means the tickets must be bought ahead of time. Now it is no longer necessary to go to the theatre to get a ticket in person. A special service exists to deliver tickets to those who order by telephone.

Soviet food stores also are developing special services. A person who has to do his own shopping can leave his list at an "order table" in any one of a number of Moscow stores and pick it up on the way home from work at night. A busy housewife can telephone and have her order delivered, also for a moderate service charge.

Many Muscovites use the services of the Moscow city reference bureau which answers any phone question from subscribers concerning addresses, phone numbers, theatres, museums, amusements, shopping problems and the like.

Non-subscribers get the same service by patronizing one of its many booths scattered throughout Moscow, or by purchasing coupons entitling the buyer to a specific service.

Savings banks also help with personal services, accepting all payments for rent and utilities from their depositors. These payments are transferred to the organizations to which they are due without charge.

Many other special services have been initiated in recent years, but newspaper editorials stress that much remains to be done in the development of laundries, dry cleaning facilities and the production of labor-saving devices for the home, such as washing machines and refrigerators.

This Moscow press editorial emphasizes that it is a matter of government policy to do everything possible to decrease the burden of housework on Soviet women and make it easier for them to enter public life.

Seaway Plan

tages of the project—cheap and more abundant power for industrial Ontario and New York state; an economical sea route into the heart of the continent; and a safe and economical route for the shipment of needed iron ores from the rich new fields of Labrador.

The combined project, for both a seaway and for power development, was so important to this continent that the U.S. government felt the two "must go together."

It involved diversion of water from Duck Hunting Creek into seven small, deep basins where good food and nesting cover would develop. These are in the Quill Lakes region which in bygone years produced countless waterfowl, but which more recently have been avoided by ducks because the water had gone shallow and increased alkaline content stunted plant growth.

Dams were built and canals dug, and this year water was diverted into the project. There are 1,050 acres of water with more than 19 miles of shoreline, promising to develop into first-class duck breeding marshes. Mallards and pintails are the main types of ducks expected in this plan although canvasbacks and redheads are also being attracted. By 1952 it is expected to be the breeding ground of thousands of ducks.

The Iowa unit of Ducks Unlimited previously founded another wildfowl project near Kinnistino, Sask., known as Lake Iowa.

A third project is being carried out in northern Saskatchewan, 50 miles west of The Pas, Man., by co-operation between the province of Saskatchewan and sportsmen from Wisconsin.

The Saskatchewan-Wisconsin project is costing $50,000 for digging marshland covering 22,000 acres, to make the area habitable for wildfowl and muskrats. This is an area where spring floods have several times destroyed nests, killing young birds.

Though Ducks Unlimited Wisconsin sportsmen will share the costs with the Saskatchewan government. At a recent meeting here C. A. Hogg, deputy minister of natural resources, said the plan is complete except for levelling the dikes.

Restoration Work Proves Tough Job In Flooded Area

Morris, Man.—(CP)—The road to rehabilitation is rough in flooded-rehabilitated Morris.

Although the Red river receded five months ago, the southern Manitoba town of 1,100 still bears the scars. High cost of labor and materials is making the restoration difficult.

The Red river valley board has awarded about $1,000,000 to repair home in the area. About half has been spent.

Some residents have overpaid their grants. A few say the board was negligent in damage appraisal. Others complain of high building costs.

One Morris business man, who asked to remain anonymous, said "scandalous prices" are being charged by contractors and lumber dealers. He said the price of lumber in flooded districts is higher than elsewhere and that workers are getting as much as $4.45 an hour.

Mayor Harry Shewman of Morris said the townspeople have been well treated by the board "except in a few cases. The biggest problem was a shortage of experienced labor. He said it is not true that contractors and lumber dealers have exploited the public."

But he said appraisers who checked farms had not been as fair. Farmers were having a tough time. Many had asked for re-appraisals.

Mayor Shewman said the farmer is expected to repair his home, farm, machine shop and granary for the same amount as the town dweller gets to rebuild a home.

Only two families have quit the town as a result of the flood.

Three miles north of Morris is the Charlie Snarr farm. Before the flood it was prosperous. There was a seven-room house and sturdy farm buildings. Last spring the Red swept across the farm.

"Nobody was hit harder," Snarr said. The property still is a pathetic scene of upturned buildings and smashed wreckage.

A board appraiser proposed a grant $1,320 to put it back into shape. Mr. Snarr asked for a re-appraisal, on grounds "it cost me about that much to replace the foundation of my home." He estimated it would cost $15,000 to restore the farm buildings to pre-flood condition.

"My livelihood depends on buildings other than my dwelling," said Mr. Snarr. "I've got to fix them to carry on."

Ducks Project Carries Name Of Cartoonist

Regina, Nov.—(CP)—A great nesting ground for ducks has been completed near Wynyard, Sask., and named Lake Jay (Ding) Darling in honor of the noted cartoonist of the Des Moines (Iowa) Register.

The project was undertaken by Ducks Unlimited of Canada and financed by the Iowa unit of the organization. The nesting area of 10,500 acres, 80 miles northwest of Regina, is estimated to have cost $55,000 including maintenance.

It involved diversion of water from Duck Hunting Creek into seven small, deep basins where good food and nesting cover would develop. These are in the Quill Lakes region which in bygone years produced countless waterfowl, but which more recently have been avoided by ducks because the water had gone shallow and increased alkaline content stunted plant growth.

The severe wind storm hit here quite hard last Saturday, afternoon, November 25. Part of the steel roofing on Mr. Jankowski's house was blown off as well as most of the chimney, and other outside small buildings here and there in the neighbourhood, were blown over. Electricity was off several hours here and telephone lines were interfered with but the damage was not as great as elsewhere.

Mrs. Jankowski was in Mont-

The Doctor Says

LACK OF SUNSHINE MAY LEAD TO RICKETS AND OTHER DISEASES

By Edwin P. Jordan, M.D.

Millions of people live in climates which provide very little sunshine for several months of the year. They get by without much sun, but there are reasons for thinking that most of them do not feel quite as well as other people and that they have less resistance to some infections at sunless times of the year.

I am talking about growths mainly. Children are in a worse fix. Sunlight on the skin results in the manufacture of Vitamin D and this vitamin is necessary to prevent soft bones (rickets) in children.

During the dark days, therefore, children need extra rations of Vitamin D which is now so often provided in cod liver oil or other fish oils.

Some fortunate ones take winter vacations in climates where they can get a good dose of sunshine right when the need is most. But this is impossible most of the time.

There is another possibility for the person who believes his or her health will be better with "sunshine." This is the use of the ultra violet lamp, sometimes called sun lamp. These lamps provide rays which are much like those of the sun.

The effect of the rays from an ultra violet lamp on the normal skin is much like that of the sun. If the skin is exposed too long to these rays it will redden and burn.

"WEAK" BACK?

Many say they get "cold" in the back—or the kidneys—so easily. That's why thousands keep Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills always on hand. For this reliable remedy is like two treatments in one—works faster to relieve painful backaches due to faulty kidneys. Dr. Chase's name you can depend on.

Mr. John Butler, of Northampton, Mass., was calling on friends here.

Mr. Amede Cote has returned from the St. Vincent de Paul Hospital, where he was a patient for a week.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Parker were in Coaticook, to visit Mr. and Mrs. Edward Bailey.

If small, gradually increasing exposures are taken the skin will usually tan. And ultra violet rays will cause the skin to make Vitamin D.

Some precautions must be used with an ultra violet lamp. The rays are powerful and can damage the eyes seriously unless these important organs are carefully protected. Uncomfortable and even dangerous burns of the skin have developed from too long exposure. Also, although ultra violet light helps some skin diseases, it is harmful to others. It should not be used by someone suffering from a skin disease unless it is specifically advised by a physician.

See Approved List
Not all ultra violet lamps on the market are considered to be equally satisfactory. A list of acceptable lamps has, however, been prepared by the Council on Physical Medicine of the American Medical Association, 535 North Dearborn Street, Chicago 10.

The use of an ultra violet lamp may not do everything that the sun does nor is it as much fun as a winter vacation at the beach—but it provides some health-giving benefits at a low cost.

WATERVILLE

The regular meeting of the Ladies' Aid was held in the United Church Hall, with sixty-four members and visitors present. The hostesses were Mrs. James Burnell and Mrs. O. Johnson. The president, Miss Parkinson, opened the meeting. The devotional period was taken by Mrs. Parkinson, who took as her subject, "The Spirit of Youth." The minutes of the last meeting, were read by the secretary, Mrs. Davison, were approved. Letters of thanks from Rev. Mr. Edwards, were read. Friends of Mr. Edwards will be pleased to learn that he is gaining in health. Mrs. R. Reed reported that two boxes had been sent to Scotland, one containing twenty pounds of clothing and the other, fifteen pounds of food. The fall supper canvass was reported very satisfactory. It was moved by Mrs. R. L. Gale, and seconded by Mrs. G. Milmore, that a "Sunshine box" be sent to Miss Woodside. The meeting was adjourned until November 29, when Mrs. S. Hopper and Mrs. E. Sarrasin will act as hostesses. Delicious refreshments were then served by the hostesses, assisted by Mr. C. Smith, Mrs. Celon Bell and Mrs. R. L. Gale. Mrs. Milmore and Mrs. Davis poured tea on an attractive lace-covered table, centred with a floral arrangement of pink flowers and green leaves, flanked by pink candles in silver holders.

Friends of Mrs. Edward Wilson are sorry to know that she is confined to her home, as the result of a fall in her home. Mrs. Mary Williams, in staying with Mrs. Wilson during her sojourn in the house.

Mr. and Mrs. Geoffrey Roberts and sons, of Magog, were guests of Mrs. Mary Williams and Mr. F. E. Holtham.

Mr. P. Dauncey and Mr. Robert Edgecomb, of Sherbrooke, were business visitors in town.

SOUTH BOLTON

Mrs. M. Wardell and Mr. H. Winslow, of Little Compton, R.I., were week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. O. Schoolcraft. Miss Inez Mairs, was an overnight guest at the same home.

Mrs. O. Schoolcraft and Mrs. W. Hammond, visited Miss Inez Mairs. Mr. and Mrs. Schoolcraft and Mrs. Hammond were also calling on Mr. and Mrs. R. Cabana, at West Shefford.

Mr. and Mrs. Schoolcraft, Mrs. W. Hammond and Miss Inez Mairs, were in Waterbury, to visit Mr. J. A. and Miss Edith Mairs.

Mrs. B. Willey was a guest of relatives in Currier.

Mr. Graydon True motored Mr. and Mrs. George Davis and son, to Mansonville.

Mr. Hiram McGill was one of the hunters to get a deer.

ASBESTOS

Mr. and Mrs. Herman French and son, John, accompanied by Mrs. Earl Gale and Joyce Gale, motored to Montreal, on Saturday, and brought back the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. French, who has been in the Neurological Hospital, in Montreal, for an operation. The little baby has been returned to the Canadian Johns Manville Hospital here for future care.

Mr. Austin Lawrence, who has been away on an extended business trip for five weeks, spent the week-end at his home here.

The Women's Missionary Society of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church held the regular monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. Carl Brown, in Danville. The president, Mrs. Lawrence, conducted the meeting. Minutes were read by the secretary, Miss Harriet Heath, and the treasurer's report by Miss Anna Morrison. There was a good attendance of members and later delicious refreshments were served by the hostess.

Mrs. Wilfred Beliveau is spending a few days in Montreal with her daughter, Mrs. William Martin, and Mr. Martin and son, Mr. Errol Beliveau and Mrs. Beliveau.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Hobbs, Dr. J. J. Doherty and Misses Dorothy and Lillian MacGonigal and Miss Edith Connors, of Danville, motored to Montreal, to attend the "Ice Follies."

Mr. and Mrs. Hartley Graham, Miss Allola and Master Freddie, motored to Montreal on Saturday to see the Santa Claus Parade.

Deepest sympathy is extended Mrs. Norman Farrow, in the sudden death of her father, in Montreal.

The Friendly Christmas Club met at the home of Mrs. S. Copeland. An enjoyable evening was spent and later delicious refreshments were served by the hostess.

Messrs. Harry Robinson, E. C. MacGonigal, M. Teator, Alex Smith and N. Bishop, motored to Montreal, to attend an Odd Fellows' meeting.

MYSTIC

Messrs. Winston and Stanley Soule have returned home, after a pleasant holiday spent with their cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Bockus and Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Cunningham, at Hartford, Conn.

Mrs. R. Cooke, of Stanbridge East, was a guest of Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Bockus.

Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Bockus, of St. Albans, Vt., were calling on friends here.

NEW ELECTRONIC INVENTION HIDES DEAFNESS

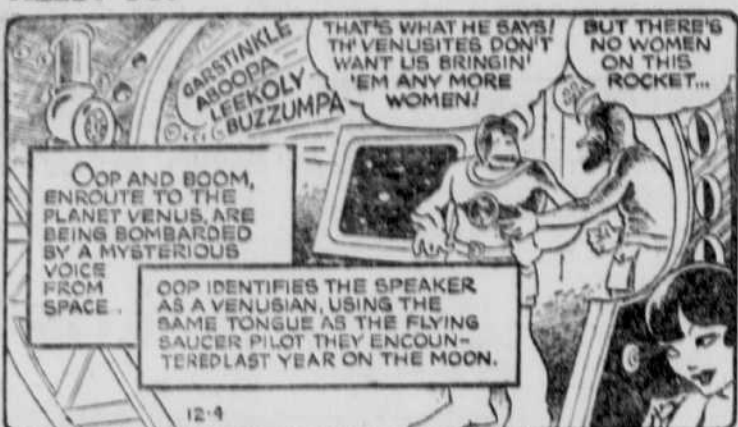

Revolutionary Discovery
Transmits Even Whispers
With Startling Clarity

CHICAGO (Special)—An amazing new electronic ear which hides deafness and transmits even whispers with startling clarity, has been revealed by a noted Chicago electronic scientist.

He disclosed that this miraculous new discovery has rendered obsolete almost overnight, and brings new hope to the 15 million persons in the United States who are hard of hearing.

He reported that this electronic ear enables the deaf to hear without any button showing in the ear and without dangling battery wires. To acquaint the hard of hearing readers of this paper with this new miracle electronic ear which hides deafness, full details are described in a fascinating booklet, "New Discoveries to Help the Deaf Hear." It will be sent free in a plain wrapper to anyone who requests it. Address: Electronic Research Foundation, 1450 West 14th Street, 786N Belpine Building, Chicago 8, Ill. A penny postcard will do.

Mrs. John Murphy Reports On C. W. L. Annual Convention

Report given by Miss Katherine Sheridan, executive secretary of the Catholic Women's League of Canada, that 62 new subdivisions had been formed during the past year, incited delegates and members attending the national convention held in Halifax, N.S., in October, to still further expansion. The above statement was made by Mrs. John Murphy, president of the Sherbrooke Diocesan Council, C.W.L., and delegate to the conference, who recently entertained the Sherbrooke subdivision with the account of the Halifax meetings.

The convention, which took for its title, "Our Lady Star of the Sea" and its central theme, "The Holy Year," was attended by close to 300 delegates from all parts of Canada, said Mrs. Murphy. She described the colorful procession of the hierarchy and the choir boys entering St. Mary's Basilica on Sunday morning, when a guard of honor was formed by four degree knights of Columbus and the Pontifical Mass, celebrated by Most Rev. John T. McNally, Archbishop of Halifax. Most Rev. J. C. Cody, Bishop of London, and national director of the Catholic Women's League, preached the sermon, his subject being, "Timely Tribute to Our Lady, Queen and Mother." His Excellency, in the course of his remarks told his listeners this Holy Year was of special significance, in that it would see the dogma of the Assumption of Our Lady declared an article of faith.

In the afternoon, a visit was arranged to the shrine of Our Lady of Fatima on the campus of Mount St. Vincent College, where the visitors were later entertained at a tea.

The formal reception took place in the evening at the Lord Nelson Hotel, when Miss Margaret Burns, provincial president, received. Bishop Cody again addressed the gathering at this time, and said: "A terrific duel is being waged between good and evil and none of us has the right to stand aside. The primacy of God in the affairs of men is the master key to happiness and the denial of the primacy of God spells ruin for humanity." He paid tribute to the city of Halifax, from whose shores so many of our sons and daughters saw the last glimpse of their native land and new Canadians receive their first impression of their new home. The presentation of the "Pro Ecclesia et Pontifice" medal, made to Mrs. Rose O'Neill, by Archbishop McNally, brought the eventful days to a close.

The usual procedure of attendance at mass and reception of Holy Communion every morning during the convention, was followed by the first business meeting, when the national president, Mrs. T. E. Durocher, of London, Ont., declared the convention formally opened, and welcomed delegates and members from all points of Canada.

Following this session, tribute was paid to the glorious dead of two World Wars, by the placing of a wreath on the War Memorial and a prayer recited for the faithful departed by Bishop Cody. The allocation was delivered by Rev. B. C. Martin.

The luncheon, courtesy of the City of Halifax, was presided over by Mrs. J. C. Hagen, organizer of the first Halifax division. At this function a Life Membership was presented to Mrs. Durocher, retiring president, in recognition of her invaluable service to the league. Premier Angus MacDonald, speaker, said he would like to hope that this organization will stand as a bulwark of democracy, rendering to Caesar the things which belong to Caesar, and to God the things that belong to God. Democracy, he said, would not be saved by congress, nor parliaments, nor laws nor politicians, but by democratically minded men and women who wish sincerely to see it saved.

Of particular interest to Quebecers, said Mrs. Murphy, was the announcement on Tuesday morning, that Quebec Province had captured both the national and provincial trophy for having headed the list of subscriptions to the Canadian League Magazine, official C.W.L. organ. The trophy was presented to Miss Muriel

Among those from Sherbrooke who attended the Variety Show sponsored by the Catholic Women's League at East Angus, Saturday night were: Mrs. F. E. S. Shelley, Mrs. F. O. Beattie, Mrs. D. H. Patton, Mrs. Arthur Harris, the Misses Blanche Roy, Yvette Campbell and Florine Mullins.

Buck, of St. John's, provincial president.

Mrs. Pawell, Manitoba's provincial president, prefaced her report by extending warm thanks to the national president and members of the league, for their sympathy, prayers and financial assistance at the time of the flood.

Other speakers at special meetings were: Mrs. W. D. S. Wishart, Chief Commissioner of Girl Guides, who had just returned from the World Convention of Girl Guides. And Rev. W. J. Galligan, P. P. of Antigonish, who encouraged parents to co-operate with their children when they expressed the desire for a religious life, that they might be encouraged to preach the Gospel of Our Lord.

Rev. St. Gillis, superior of the Sisters of Service, Halifax, told of their work, following which Mrs. T. H. Hay reported on the excellent work being done by the C. W. L. in following up immigrants.

At the brilliant banquet, Mrs. Durocher gave a stirring message to the members, being her last as national president. Mrs. Durocher dwelt on humility, perseverance and loyalty to God and Canada, as main virtues for achievement of worth while ends and ideals as embodied in the constitution of the C. W. L.

Elections took place on Thursday, with the following results: President, Miss Isabel Hutton, Ottawa; first vice-president, Mrs. Fred Drake, Regina, Sask.; second vice-president, Mrs. James Freeman, Riverside, Ont.; third vice-president, Mrs. F. DOROTHY DIX

Real Love

Mature Man's Description Sums Up True Affection

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a man 41 years of age. I have found a woman who has shown me that life is really worth living, though I never cared about it before. If I am in despair her smile drives away my gloom. Just the sound of her voice over the telephone puts me on top of the world. In all my life I have never known the meaning of love and happiness until I met her. I can always talk over my troubles with her and get consolation. If she goes away for a few days I am beside myself with worry over her, although I know she is capable of taking care of herself. Since I have been going with her I have never given another woman a second glance. After four years I can still go to a movie and hold her hand and feel like a boy with his first sweetheart. I would like very much to marry this woman, but my friends think I would be foolish to do so because they say it is only infatuation, that I am too old to fall so desperately in love. Do you think that is true?

DOROTHY DIX

ANSWER: Too old to fall in love at 41? Why, that's just the right age for a man to experience the grand passion. It is only maturity that can experience the depths of emotion. It simply skims the surface with youth.

Perhaps it is because boys and girls are prettier and more glamorous than older people that causes us to wreath them about with romance and make them the heroes and heroines of our love stories, and attribute to them feelings which in the nature of things, they cannot possess. Their loves are, as a general thing, mere passing fancies that have one object today, another tomorrow.

I have printed your letter because it is such a beautiful description of the love that a man feels toward a woman when he finds his real mate. Other men might well check their affection by yours, and if you are wise you will marry the woman forthwith and live happily with her ever after.

Don't listen to what your friends say. None of us would ever marry if we waited for our relatives or friends to pick out our husbands or wives.

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a girl of 22, an adopted child. I love my foster-parents dearly and would be happy except for one thing. I am always thinking about my mother and wondering about her. It is a bitter thing to me to know that she abandoned me as a baby, that I wasn't wanted and was in the way, but in every crowd I think— is she here? Is she nice? Does she ever think of me? What does she look like? Can you give me a better thought about this?

ANSWER: It is natural that a girl of your sensitive temperament should often think of the mother she has never known. It is part of the idealism with which we surround motherhood. If you judge her harshly, no one can blame you, but perhaps what seems her cruelty to you was kindness. It may be that when she gave you for adoption she was desperately poor. Perhaps your birth was a tragedy. Perhaps your mother was that most pitiable of all human beings—an unwed mother, without money, without protection, without even any way of earning more than a pittance of a living. It must seem to such a woman the kindest, as well as the wisest thing, to give the child to those who will love it and care for it, who will give it an honest name and bring it up in good social environment.

My earnest advice is to talk this matter over with your foster-mother. Tell her just how you feel and ask her to help you, if she can, to find your own mother and let you see just what manner of woman she is. There is no way of laying our ghosts like turning the light upon them.

Furthermore, little as you may believe it now, the chances are a hundred to one that when you find your own mother you will find that she is a stranger to you and that your foster-mother, with whom you have every memory in common, is your real mother.

DEAR MISS DIX: Should a girl return jewelry and other gifts to her ex-sweetheart's mother? He said he didn't want any of his presents returned. In the meantime he has moved away and his mother writes me to return his presents. What must I do?

ANSWER: If the young man wanted his presents back you would have to return them, but his mother has no claim upon them whatever, and there is no reason why you should send them to her unless you want to.

DOROTHY DIX cannot answer personal mail. She offers advice to the prospective career girl in leaflet D-4, "Ambition." To obtain a copy, send 5 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Miss Dix, P. O. Box 98, Times Square Station, New York 18, N. Y.

Codere, Mr. and Mrs. Ashley the Young Women's Associate Auxiliary. Accompanied by Mrs. W. H. Trenholme at the piano, Mr. Malcolm Brown sang "Come Unto Me." Mrs. C. A. Turner expressed the appreciation of the society to both Mrs. Trenholme and Mr. Brown for their contribution to the enjoyment of the meeting.

A short business period followed. Mrs. O. H. Parker, in introducing the guest speaker, Rev. O. L. Davidson, spoke of the friendship and Christian fellowship that has always existed between the Baptist and the Presbyterian Churches.

Auxiliary Will Bring Cheer To Wales Home

A meeting of the Sherbrooke Wales Home Auxiliary was held on Thursday afternoon, November 30, at the home of Mrs. J. Gordon Armitage, fifteen members being present.

The meeting opened with the Lord's Prayer, followed by two minutes' silence in memory of Mrs. J. A. Bourque, a vice-president of the auxiliary.

The treasurer reported a balance of $45.45, all bills having been paid. The report from the Home showed the inmates consisted of 47 men and 43 women and a staff of 13.

It was decided to canvass for Christmas cheer and turkeys. The soliciting of the turkeys will be done by Mr. D. J. Sallis and the cheer, by Mrs. F. S. Rugg and Mrs. J. H. Bryant. Miss E. G. Haight offered to accept the gifts at her home, 40 Portland Avenue, which must be sent not later than December 18.

Mrs. Armitage, Mrs. John Hovey and Mrs. J. E. Smith have consented to purchase the individual gifts for persons at the Home.

At the close of the meeting refreshments were served by Mrs. Armitage, assisted by Mrs. G. E. Ewing and Mrs. Hovey. Tea was poured by Mrs. Rugg.

SPOONER POND

The Spooner Pond W. I. meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Clifford Gunter on Dec. 7, in the evening.

The many friends of Mrs. Cowan are sorry to hear she is ill. All join in wishing her a speedy recovery. Miss Ruth Lockwood, of Richmond, spent the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Lockwood.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Blanchard and Mr. and Mrs. Orvis Taylor and Mildred were evening guests of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. McArthur.

ches, to which Mr. Davidson also referred in his opening words.

Mr. Davidson spoke of the high cost of living for God and Christ, giving examples of the trials and sacrifices of many of His followers, even in modern times, in different parts of the world. He told of the dangers faced by many missionaries, some known to him, in bringing the message to people still in darkness as to the true gospel. In many instances they died a martyr's death for the sake of their Lord, counting it gain to live or even die, if necessary, for Christ. He closed by stating all can help by their prayers and financial aid.

Mr. Davidson was thanked by Mrs. C. A. Turner who also expressed the thanks of the auxiliary to Mrs. Adams for substituting. Mrs. Bornhold, representing the Young Women's Associate Auxiliary, voiced her pleasure at being privileged to attend.

The meeting closed by the singing of a hymn, after which Rev. Mr. Adams pronounced the Benediction.

Refreshments were served by the auxiliary under the convener-ship of Mrs. H. Gilbert.

BETHANY

Mrs. Emerson Richards, of Lisgar, spent a few days here and was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. George Osborne and Mrs. S. Haslett.

Miss Dorothy Vien has gone to Valcourt, where she has a position. Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Clark and baby, Neal and Mr. Lawrence Clark and Miss Freda Clark, of South Durham, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. George Osborne and Mrs. S. Haslett. Mrs. Jules Demers spent a day with Mr. and Mrs. Donia Desmarais and Mrs. R. Favreau.

Visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Norris and family were Mr. and Mrs. Percy Norris and Mr. Loen Surette, of Granby; and Mr. Albert Taylor and Mr. Earl Taylor, of South Rexton.

During the wind storm, the roof was blown off Mr. C. Derocier's barn, on the Fifth range and numerous trees were blown down.

Sincere sympathy is extended Mrs. Loren Carter and Mr. and Mrs. W. Carter and Mr. and Mrs. W. Copping, in the death of Mr. Loren Carter, of Warden.

Master Ronald Demers, who has been confined to the house by illness, is now able to attend school again.

WEST SHEFFORD

Letters from Dr. W. H. L. Harrison, of Holt, Norfolk, England, show that he still thinks kindly of the days he spent in West Shefford, as Incumbent of St. John's Anglican Church. After leaving this parish he went to Athabaska in the early '30s, where he spent several years before returning to England, to accept special work in the Industrial Fellowship in London. This assignment gave him an interest in medicine, and, after graduation, he devoted his time to the practise of that profession. Dr. Harrison is married and lives on the sea-coast. At the time of writing, he was on the eve of taking a voyage or two. The first is to the east coast of Africa. As ship's surgeon, he will have 300 men to look after. During this voyage he is planning on completing the assembly of material for a novel that has occupied his scanty leisure for twelve months. His Canadian hobby of music is not forgotten either. Dr. Harrison wishes to be remembered to his friends in this part of the Townships.

Mrs. Lewis Dunlavy entertained on Saturday afternoon on the occasion of the birthday of her granddaughter, Betty Farrell, of Richmond, Vt., who was spending the week-end here.

Mr. and Mrs. Miles Enright with their guest, Mrs. McGuire, of Richmond, were supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Durrell. On Sunday they motored Mrs. McGuire back to Richmond. Mrs. William Harris went along as far as Warden, where she spent a few hours visiting friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Dougall, with their small daughter, of Sherbrooke, spent the past week-end with Mr. Ernest Ladd.

Mr. Richard Wilson, of Montreal, was the week-end guest of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Donaway.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald McDonald, of Granby, and Mr. and Mrs. Barry McDonald, of Montreal, visited Mr. and Mrs. James Campbell a short time ago.

After a series of delays, Mrs. Clavet (the former Mary Clair Potvin) has joined her husband in their new home at 34 Massawippi Avenue, Lennoxville.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Woolley have arrived in Akron, Ohio, where they will visit friends until Christmas. They telephoned on Saturday night to tell their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Snodgrass that, despite the storm, all was well.

The Misses Kathleen Brunton, of Cowansville, and Annie Brunton, of Granby, have visited Mr. and Mrs. Harry Brunton.

The infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Dunlavy has been named Norman Gilbert. On Sunday afternoon Miss Winnifred Dunlavy, who was week-ending here from Jericho, Vt., accompanied her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Dunlavy to the homes of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Dunlavy and Mr. and Mrs. Roland Forand for brief "calls."

Master Walter Brunton and John Matthews and Miss Winona Matthews motored to Montreal on Saturday, November 25th, to see the arrival of Santa Claus. Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Matthews accompanied them.

Mrs. Joseph DuBois friends regretted that she was out of town visiting her sons in Maine and therefore was unable to be present at the dinner given in the Potvin Hall here lately honoring the six charter members of the Cercle des Femmes. Fifteen years ago Mrs. Luc Marchessault, Mrs. Henri Brodeur, Mrs. Edmond Potvin, Mrs. R. Gince, Mrs. Joseph DuBois and Miss Laurette Viens founded the local chapter of this organization.

Mr. and Mrs. George Blais with their two children, motored Mrs. John Campbell back to Shefford, on Sunday last.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Sweet were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Copeland and family, at Shefford, Vt.

Mr. Laurent Forand was in town over the week-end. On Monday he went to Montreal on business returning later to Granby.

Michael Collyer, the Dutilly Brothers, John, Michael and David, came from Granby on Monday evening, to assist in preparations being made for the making of a rink here on the property of Mr. Morris Dunlavy. On Friday evening the parochial R. C. teachers of this parish held, in the Potvin Hall, a successful card party. The proceeds will be used to defray the expense incurred in installing electric lights in the various schools.

In the trail of the wind of Saturday evening last, uprooted trees and detached roofs remain to tell the tale. At 5 p. m., the wind ripped the tin roof from the brick house of Mr. Vernon Wells.

On Saturday evening, November 25th, all roads to Riverside Restaurant where, for its formal opening, Raymond and Mrs. Chabana, served a turkey dinner to about 110 people, who came from

OBITUARIES

ELDON P. RACICOT, OF MONTREAL

South Stukely, Dec. 4. — Relatives and friends throughout the Eastern Townships were shocked and saddened to learn of the sudden death of Mr. Eldon P. Racicot, at his home, in Montreal, on Friday morning, November 3.

Mr. Racicot, who was in his sixty-eighth year, was always a very active man, and while he had been sick in bed for about two weeks, his condition was not believed to be serious, and therefore his sudden passing was a great shock to those who knew him.

Born in Sioux Falls, S. D., on March 3, 1883, he was a son of the late Peter Racicot and Emily Davis, and moved to Eastman with his family when only about ten years old. He was educated in public school there and later attended Feller Institute, in Grande Ligne.

Following his schooling he was employed for a short time in Waterloo, and it was about this time that he married Miss Gladys George, of Mansonville, who predeceased him five years ago. There were three children from this union.

It was then that he decided upon a railroad career, and started with the Orford Mountain Railway, which was later taken over by the C.P.R., in 1903. He made his first trip as an engineer with the Canadian Pacific Railway on November 4, 1904, and subsequently spent the last 39 years of his career as a locomotive engineer on the Farnham division of the C.P.R.

After 45 years as a locomotive engineer he was retired on pension in March, 1949, at which time he decided to spend time in his favorite hobbies of fishing and hunting.

His body was taken to Collins Funeral Home, in Montreal, where a short service was held on Saturday morning, November 4, by Canon Ireland. Following the service, the remains were taken to Mansonville, where a funeral service was held at the United Church, with the Rev. J. C. Reilly officiating.

Interment was made in the United Church Cemetery, in Mansonville.

Mr. Racicot is survived by two daughters, Celie (Mrs. Jack Gibson), and Merle (Mrs. Guy Henrichon), both of Montreal; and one son, George E. Racicot, of South Stukely; one sister, Mrs. R. A. Gould, of Verdun; two sons-in-law, Mr. Jack Gibson and Mr. Guy Henrichon; one daughter-in-law, Mrs. George E. Racicot; five grandchildren, Miss Morinda Racicot, Masters John and David Gibson and Bruce and Neil Racicot; two nephews, Mr. Roland Racicot, of Montreal; and Mr. William Gould, of Verdun; and other relatives.

MRS. WILLIAM J. GOLDEN, OF RICHMOND

Richmond, Dec. 4. — Mrs. Lottie A. Golden passed away at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Stanley Bushy, in Richmond, on Oct. 2, 1950, after a long illness.

Mrs. Golden was in her 56th year. She was the eldest daughter of George E. Tozer and the late Margaret Tozer, of Richmond. She was married on August 27, 1913, to the late William J. Golden, who predeceased her on March 10, 1950. Two daughters were born of this union, Marguerite (Mrs. Stanley Bushy), and Anita (Mrs. Stanley Kydd), who are left to mourn her loss.

Other members of the bereaved family are her father, Mr. George Tozer; and one brother, Percy Tozer; two sisters, Bessie, Mrs. Charles Morey and Ruby, Mrs. Fred Clarke; and seven grandchildren.

The funeral service was held in Trinity United Church, Danville, on Oct. 4, 1950.

The Rev. F. C. Foggo officiated. The hymns rendered by the choir were "Abide With Me" and "Safe in the Arms of Jesus."

Many relatives and friends attended the funeral from Windsor Mills, Richmond, New London, Danville and Montreal.

The bearers were Messrs. Donald Perkins, William Healy, Clarence Pease, Goldwin Fletcher, William Kydd and Elwyn Bushey.

The many beautiful floral offerings testified to the high esteem in which the departed was held.

Sympathy is extended to the bereaved family.

MR. THOMAS WATTS, OF CAMPBELL'S CORNER

Campbell's Corner, Dec. 4. — One of the oldest residents of Megantic County, Thomas Watts, died at his home, on Monday, November 13, after only a few days' illness. He was in his ninetieth year.

Mr. Watts was born on September 29, 1861, the eldest son of Jonathan Watts and Annie Glass. He had spent almost all his life in Megantic County.

He possessed an unusually strong constitution and was seldom sick and had full possession of his faculties until his death.

The funeral was held on Wednesday, Nov. 15, at his late residence with Rev. J. Secord officiating.

The hymns sung were "What A Friend We Have In Jesus" and "The Lord's My Shepherd."

The bearers were Messrs. Robert Leith, John Longmore, Wilfred Bouffard, Harry Bouffard, Prescott Walker and Ernest Patterson.

Interment was made in the Bouteille Cemetery.

Mr. Watts leaves to mourn his passing, one son, Clarence, of Barre, Vt.; two brothers, Benjamin, of St. Johnsbury Centre, Vt.; and Robert, who resided with him and one son, George E. Racicot, of South Stukely; one sister, Mrs. R. A. Gould, of Verdun; two sons-in-law, Mr. Jack Gibson and Mr. Guy Henrichon; one daughter-in-law, Mrs. George E. Racicot; five grandchildren, Miss Morinda Racicot, Masters John and David Gibson and Bruce and Neil Racicot; two nephews, Mr. Roland Racicot, of Montreal; and Mr. William Gould, of Verdun; and other relatives.

Mr. Watts will always be remembered by all who knew him as a cheerful and kind friend.

MRS. NORMAN H. RATCLIFFE, OF BRADFORD, R. I.

Magog, Dec. 4. — The death occurred on October 8, of Harriet Rebecca Ratcliffe at the Roger Williams' Hospital, Providence, R. I.

Born in East Farnham, January 25, 1892, she was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. S. G. Hawley. Moving to Magog when quite young she spent twenty-three years there, where she had many friends.

The deceased was a member of the St. Faith's Guild, St. Luke's Church, also a Sister Rehekah. She was married in April 1914, to Norman H. Ratcliffe, also formerly of Magog, Que., moving to Rhode Island in 1929, where since resided. She had been in poor health for two years having had three operations. Taken serious ill on August 12, she was taken to the hospital where in spite of all medical care she passed away.

The body was brought to McKenna's Funeral Parlor where prayers were held. Service was in St. Luke's Church, Magog, Rev. J. Secord officiating. The choir rendered two hymns, "Lead Kindly Light" and "The Old Rugged Cross."

The bearers were six nephews of the deceased, Messrs. Royce Hawley, Worthington Chase, Ivan Catchpaw, Herman Catchpaw, Elwin Catchpaw and Harvey Catchpaw, Jr.

Left to mourn her loss are her husband and sister, Elsie, Mrs. Harvey Catchpaw and several nieces and nephews.

The floral tributes were beautiful, especially from old friends who worked with her before her marriage.

Relatives attending from Montreal were, Jack Ratcliffe, Misses Edith and Vivian Ratcliffe and Leighton Cranham from Cranston, R. I.

Interment was in Cherry River Cemetery.

KNOWLTON LANDING

The Knowlton Landing Farm Forum met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. Westover, with Mrs. Alfred Willey, as hostess, on Monday evening, November 27. After listening to the broadcast, "What has become of the country Doctor?" and Mr. James Davidson's comments on Fourth Night, a discussion took place. Most members agreed that we were fortunate in having experienced and capable doctors, also hospitals, not too far away. The secretary read the "Green Leaf" and the minutes of the last meeting. Money was given for hot lunches at the local school. At the close of the meeting, delicious refreshments were served by the hostess. The next meeting will be with Mr. and Mrs. Porter Knowlton.

Mrs. Ray Jones spent a day in Magog and attended the High School Commencement Exercises.

Mrs. Paul Ethier is a patient in a Montreal hospital.

Mrs. Porter Knowlton and Miss Alice Jones attended a P.A.P.T. meeting at Mansonville.

Mrs. Alfred Davidson has returned home, after spend a week

Ives Hill And Draper's Corner F. F. Group Held A Fine Discussion Meeting

Ives Hill, Dec. 4. — The Ives Hill and Draper Corner Farm Forum met on Monday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Allison, when the broadcast, "What has happened to the family doctor?" was heard.

The first question for discussion caused considerable talk with the following decisions arrived at: Question I. Are the medical services in your community adequate in regard to: (a) doctors? (b) Nurses?—Yes; but there is need of practical nursing; (c) Hospitals?—Yes; (d) Dentists?—Yes. All services are too expensive.

Question II (a) What factors in your community at present would be likely to discourage a doctor from practicing there?—Condition of winter roads; (b) What could be done in your community to make it more attractive for a doctor?—Health insurance so the doctor would be sure of his pay.

The chairman for the evening was Mr. G. Young. The minutes of the last meeting were read by the secretary, Mr. F. Green and were accepted as read. The secretary then read the "Green Leaf."

It was reported that there will be a County Farm Forum dance in the Sherbrooke Arena on December 9. Also there will be a dance in the local hall, on December 2.

The next meeting is to be at Mr. F. Green's.

Prince Of Wales Chapter, O.E.S., Feted Mrs. Thomas Hart, A Charter Member, At A Meeting Held In North Hatley

North Hatley, Dec. 4. — Prince of Wales Chapter, No. 26, Order of the Eastern Star entertained some sixty visitors and members at their regular meeting.

Members of Queen Mary Chapter of Sherbrooke, had been invited to put on the ceremony initiation and did so in an exemplary manner.

A new members, Mrs. Brevort was welcomed into the chapter.

Six visitors from Thetford Mines were given a special welcome.

This meeting was also made the occasion to honour Sister Alice Hart and her husband, Mr. Thomas Hart, who had recently celebrated their fiftieth wedding anniversary. At refreshment time, in the centre of the head table, was a wedding cake, made for the occasion by Sister Annie Dutton, and beautifully decorated with a gold bell and yellow trimmings.

Sister Hart is a charter member of Prince of Wales Chapter and has been one of its officers for twenty-two years, as its secretary.

All wished Sister Hart and her husband health to continue their many activities for many more years.

Sixteen members of Prince of Wales Chapter, No. 26, O.E.S., went to Magog, to attend the reception held there for Sister Ida White, worthy grand matron, and Sister Helen Kirk, grand chaplain.

All thoroughly enjoyed the splendid program and the delicious refreshments.

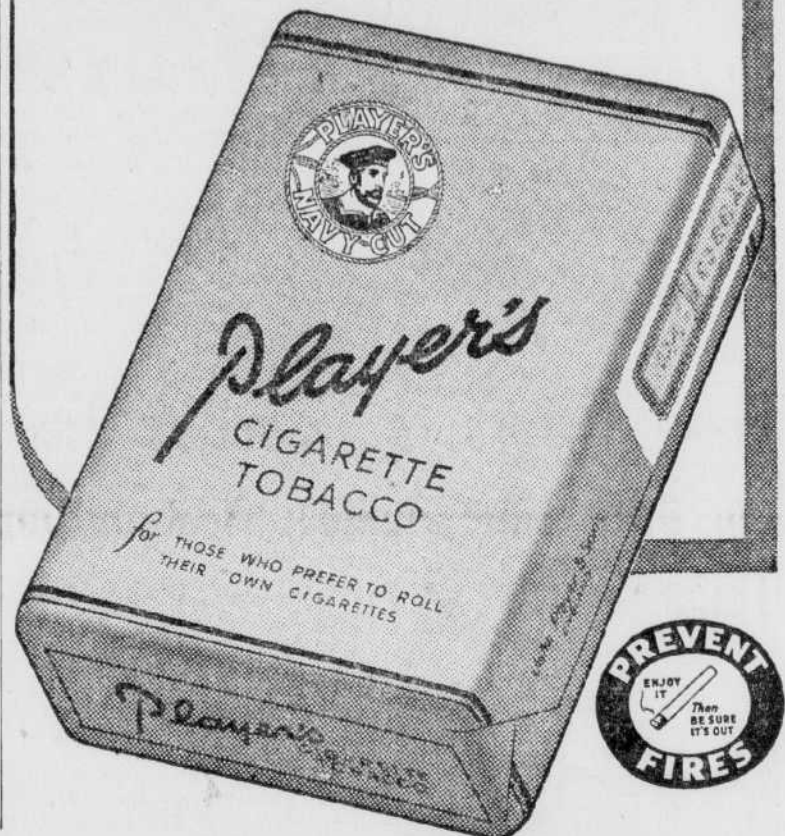

Successful card parties have recently been held by both the Eastern Star and the Masonic Lodges. It is hoped that more may be held in the near future.

ISLAND BROOK

Mr. Archey W. Buckland, of Island Brook, returned home, after spending the week-end in Montreal. He also attended the dedication of the war memorial organ, in Christ Church Cathedral by his Excellency Viscount Alexander of Tunis, Governor-General of Canada.

SHERBROOKE SAINTS LOSE TWICE, TO OTTAWA, SHAWINIGAN

Cataracts Tounce Saints 6-3 Here In Loosely Played Hockey Tilt

Shawinigan Cataracts beat Sherbrooke Saints 6-3 here Sunday afternoon. It was the local second setback over the week-end as Saturday night in Ottawa they were beaten 6-4.

Yesterday afternoon the local team, especially the defense, collapsed in the third period.

For the first two periods the team battled on fairly even terms and the Saints continued to be unlucky around the nets.

Before two minutes of play had elapsed in the first period the locals scored on a power play. Planche made the red light flash with Cote and Prefontaine picking up assists on the goal. The visitors at that time were a man short.

Highlight of yesterday's game, however, was when Marjorie Groleau, a former Saint, tallied at 19:59, at least that is the time the timers were required to give as the goal was allowed by the referees, although to maintain that time was up before the goal was scored.

Sitting up in the press box, which is directly behind the locals goal and faces the time clock, we saw the clock and figured time was up when the goal was scored and allowed.

We asked the officials, Charlie Deziel and Pean Bennett, if they were going to allow the goal.

"Of course we are, I'm in charge of the game and the goal is allowed," replied Pean Bennett.

A game is not over until a referee blows his whistle but in yesterday's game it is our opinion and the opinion of the players and fans that Charlie Deziel was a little late in blowing his whistle.

Only fourteen seconds had elapsed in the second period when Laliberte walked around the locals defense and scored.

Denis Fillion tied the game at the 6:00 minute mark but Trudel sent the visitors ahead at 16:34 and the period ended without further scoring.

In the third period Buchanan, Ouellette and Vallancourt scored for the Cats while Bob Fillion tallied for the Saints.

The first two Shawinigan goals in the third period were scored with the visitors playing a man short. The Saints were using five forwards and were pressing and in both occasions the goals were scored on breakaways.

Sixteen penalties were handed out, eight going to each team. Some of the penalties were

Ezzard Charles To Defend His Title For Fifth Time Against Nick Barone Tomorrow In Cincinnati Gardens

Cincinnati, Dec. 4.—(AP)—The spotlight of the boxing world will center on Cincinnati tomorrow night as Ezzard Charles and challenger Nick Barone battle it out in the first heavyweight title fight in Ohio since 1919.

No heavyweight champion has defended his crown in the State since Jack Dempsey gained the title July 4th, 1919, by flooring Jess Willard. Charles, however, had promised earlier to fight in Cincinnati in appreciation of the support given by his home-town fans.

When the smooth-working Negro enters the ring at Cincinnati Gardens tomorrow night, it will represent his fifth title defense since winning the National Boxing Association version of the championship June 22nd, 1940. He decided on Joe Walcott in a 15-round fight that night.

Less than two months later, on Aug. 10th, Charles beat Gus Loewewich in eight rounds. He knocked out Pat Valentino in eight

Sir George Williams Cagers Down Bishop's College 59-42 In First Game In Ottawa-St. Lawrence Loop

Sir George Williams basketball team proved too strong for Bishop's Saturday afternoon when they ran up a 59-42 victory over the home team. The Georgians displayed excellent passing and deadly shooting and kept well out in front through the whole game.

The visitors started strongly and by half time the score read 29-14. In the second half the Bishop's players loosened up considerably and scored twenty-eight points to Georgians' thirty. However the lead built up by the

Braves Chalk Up 7-4 Win Over Chicoutimi

Chicoutimi, Que., Dec. 4.—(AP)—Valleyfield Braves consolidated their grip on second place of the Quebec Senior Hockey League Saturday by trouncing Chicoutimi 7-4 in a wide-open tussle before a slim crowd.

Andre Corriveau scored the Braves with a pair of counters, while Paul Courteau, Jean Paul Bissillon, Rosaire (Kittout) Joanne, George Bougie and Jackie Schmidt netted a goal apiece.

Floyd Crawford, Dick Wray, Jerry Cabana and Stan Smrke were Chicoutimi snipers.

Valleyfield took a 4-2 lead in the initial period, but the Saguenays struck back in the middle frame to knot the tally at 4-4.

Play became rugged in the last minutes of that period and in the final stanza, Valleyfield's Larry Kwong drew a five-minute misconduct penalty in the second and a five-minute major in the third. A final frame landed the Chicoutimi players and Kwong and one of his mates in the penalty box with majors.

Sam Snead Cops Miami Open, 11th Major Win

Miami, Fla., Dec. 4.—(AP)—Sam Snead won his 11th major tournament of the year today as he coasted to a five-stroke victory in the 27th annual $10,000 Miami Open Golf Tournament with a 72-hole score of 267.

Snead, leading money winner for the second straight year, carded a blistering three-under-par on the front side over the 7,000-yard Miami Springs golf course and returned in one-under-par 34 for his third successive 66. He carded a 69 opening day. He was 13 under par for the four-day tournament.

The $2,000 first money check he picked up brought his total earnings for 1950 to $35,759.83.

WEEK-END STARS

Tom Johnson, rookie Montreal defenceman who was the big gun in Canadiens' attack and defence as Montreal downed Detroit 4-1.

John McCormack, Toronto, whose third-period goal gave the Leafs a 3-3 tie with Chicago.

Jimmy Peters, Detroit, who scored two goals and assisted in two others as Detroit ran rampant over Canadiens Saturday 7-1.

But Tremblay, a spoiled goalie Jacques Plante's hope of a goose-egg after less than two minutes in the middle session when he shoved Darnell's goal-mouth pass into the net. Hellyer eyed the count two minutes later on a play with

Turk Broda Registers Fifth Shutout; Canadiens And Red Wings Split While Rangers And Bruins Also Divide Tilts

Six National Hockey League teams expended considerable effort and absorbed some physical punishment in order to get nowhere this week-end.

The six paired off for spirited home-and-home battles that left the League standings precisely as they had been before the first puck was fired.

The Leafs leading Toronto Maple Leafs played to 0-0 and 3-3 tie with Chicago Black Hawks. Detroit Red Wings shattered Montreal Canadiens 7-1 in Montreal and took a 4-1 lacing from the aroused Habitués in Detroit. New York Rangers shaded the Bruins 3-2 in Boston and dropped a 5-3 decision on home ice.

The scoreless nature of the Saturday-night struggle might make it sound like a goalkeepers' dream. Actually it was a goalkeepers' nightmare as both starting netminders spent some time in the Maple Leaf Gardens' hospital.

Leaf rookie Al Rollins went out at the 6:50 mark of the second period when a Hawk's shot opened a 12-stitch gash over his left eye. Veteran Walter (Turk) Broda took over and replaced him in the nets Sunday night.

A few minutes after Rollins retired, Chicago's Harry Lumley stopped a puck with his nose, but finished the game and played Sunday night despite the resulting fracture. Toronto winger Howie Meeker was another casualty Saturday, suffering a twisted knee that kept him from making the Chicago trip.

The Hawks, possibly inspired by the presence of five of last year's Stanley-Cup-winning Red Wings in the lineup, opened a two-goal lead in the Sunday encounter, but faded in the last period to concede a point to the visitors.

Acquisition of defenceman Lee Fogolin and winger Steve Black in a week-end trade for Vic Stasiuk leaves Chicago with only three men who haven't worn a Detroit uniform.

But the Hawks looked like champs for two periods only. Roy Conacher and Pete Babando shot Chicago into a two-goal lead in the opening period, turning the game into a rout. The Hawks scored four goals in the opening half, while the opposition a man short. Just to make it easy, they counted another while they had one of their own number in the penalty-box.

But it was Detroit's turn to collapse in the final period of the Sunday game as Canadiens whittled home three goals to break a 1-1 tie.

Rookie defenceman Tom Johnson poked in the winner and Maurice Richard and McKay added the insurance markers. Montreal's Elmer Lach and Detroit's Metro Prystai had connected in the opening frame.

The Wings scored four of their goals with the opposition a man short. Just to make it easy, they counted another while they had one of their own number in the penalty-box.

S.H.S. Cagers Chalk Up Wins Over Richmond

Sherbrooke High School junior basketball squads opened the season with impressive victories over Richmond High. The boys ran out a 38-7 victory while the girls came through with a 28-21 win in a closely fought battle.

The girls started the double header at the Richmond High School with some quick baskets by J. Goodhue and J. McGuire. M. Pope highest scorer for the evening, tallied for Richmond, but by the end of the first quarter Sherbrooke was leading 13-6 and at half-time 19-8. Although Richmond came close to catching up in the third quarter, when the score was 19-16, the S.H.S. girls never gave up their lead to end the game 28-21.

M. Pope from Richmond led the scoring with 14 points and was followed by J. Goodhue S.H.S. with 10 points, J. McGuire 7 points, P. Bishop 3 and E. Doherty, C. Wilcock, L. Cutts and Mills all of S.H.S. with 2 points each.

S.H.S. Junior Boys team lost no time and started scoring right away while Richmond boys seemed to have an off night with their shots. The first quarter ended 15-2 in S.H.S. favor. Seven of the markers were made by J. Zachary, who played an excellent two-way game. At half time the score was 17-2 and at the end 38-7.

Highest scorer for the boys was Cassar with 13, who was a constant threat, followed by Zachary 10, Quintin 9, with a fine all-around performance, Gish 4 and Page 2. The boys' fine defensive game was very effective and was a result of the militant and hard practicing they have done up to now.

The Wings scored four of their goals with the opposition a man short. Just to make it easy, they counted another while they had one of their own number in the penalty-box.

Valleyfield Edges Out Aces 3-2 In Wide Open Fixture Before 8,000

Quebec, Dec. 4.—A third period goal by centre Larry Kwong Sunday gave Valleyfield Braves a 3-2 decision over the first-place Quebec Aces in a Quebec Senior Hockey League tilt before 8,000 fans.

The loss was the first for Quebec on their home ice.

Coupled with a 7-4 win over Chicoutimi Saguenays Saturday, the victory brought the Braves within four points of the leading Aces who have 33 points.

Paul Courteau and Bob Menzies barked the other Valleyfield counters, one in each of the first two periods, while George Scholes and Dick Gamble scored for Quebec.

Courteau drew first blood for Valleyfield in less than one minute of play in the first period on passes from linemates Bougie and Paul Larivee.

Aces tied it up with Scholes scoring at 3:11 on passes from Herb Carnegie and Armand Gaudreault and then went ahead 2-1 at 8:36 on Gamble's goal. Roger Gagne and Ludger Tremblay drew assists on the play.

Valleyfield tied the score in the second stanza with Menzies scoring on passes from Kwong and Schmidt. Kwong's winning tally on passes from Menzies and Schmidt, was a long screened shot from the blueline that whizzed in low between Quebec goalie Jean Marois' legs.

Marois made 28 stops while penalties were called, three for or penalties were called, three for Valleyfield and seven for Quebec.

First Period

1—Valleyfield, Courteau (Bougie, Larivee) 1:47

2—Quebec, Scholes (Carnegie, Gaudreault) ... 3:12

HOCKEY'S BIG SEVEN
Toronto's Max Bentley picked up only one point in two week-end games but he still leads the National Hockey League's individual scoring race.

Bentley scored a goal Sunday to bring his total to eight, which, coupled with 21 assists, gives him 20 points, seven more than his nearest opponents.

Ted Sloan and Ted Kennedy, both of the Leafs, are tied for second place with 22 points while Maurice Richard of Montreal, who scored a goal and got two assists Sunday, comes next with 19.

Bentley's 21 assists also make him top in that department while Sloan's 13 counters give him a one-goal lead over Richard.

Turk Broda now has five shut-outs, one more than Gerry McNeil of Montreal. Broda got his fifth Saturday night as the Leafs and Chicago played to a scoreless draw in which both Al Rollins and Broda saw action. Broda spent a longer time in the nets and was given credit for the shutout.

A most penalized player in the league is Gus Morton of Toronto, who has spent 52 minutes in the penalty box.

PROVES SMALL BABY Can Grow Normally
Toronto. — Do babies abnormally small at birth later live a normal adult life?

Mrs. Edwin Diplock, 36, is one proof that they can. She weighed only one pound eight ounces at birth, and now stands 5 feet 2 inches. She has had five children, all weighing over six pounds at birth.

Mrs. Diplock was born in North Sydney, N. S., and was nursed by her mother. She was anaemic until she was 13.

At birth, she said, "my arm was so small the doctor could put the ring from his finger up to my elbow. I was put in a shoe box, wrapped in cotton wool and olive oil, and kept in an oven four months."

A twin brother, also underweight, died a few minutes after birth. Nurses said they had a hard time keeping Mrs. Diplock alive.

Now she has five healthy children of her own. The eldest, Marie, now 16, was the smallest at birth, weighing 6 1/2 pounds. The youngest, Ernest, weighed 9 1/2 pounds when born.

Lebanese Girl Enjoys Canada
Hodgson, Man. — A 16-year-old Lebanese girl who flew 6,400 miles to marry a Hodgson farmer she had never seen, has changed her mind about Canada. Now she likes the place.

At first Hasar Ali Tasse was unhappy. On her arrival in October, she says, she thought the country cold, strange and frightening. To make it worse, her fiancé got tangled over plane times and wasn't at the airport.

Now she is living with her future parents-in-law and will be Mrs. Joseph Abas before the end of November.

"She's feeling better and smiles a lot now," says Joseph's father, Ala Abas. "I don't think she is lonely any more."

Hasar's English is poor yet, but she's using an English name. She calls herself Hilda.

The young Lebanese girl and Joseph Abas had a correspondence romance before her flight to Manitoba.

Committee On Adult Education Discusses Plans

By DOUGLAS HOW
Canadian Press Staff Writer
Ottawa — A Communist China's aggressive moves have thrown a dark new cloud over Canadian Chester Ronning's strange five-year diplomatic mission on the banks of the Yangtze.

Now it's more doubtful than ever when he'll finally get home.

Mr. Ronning, a 56-year-old former Camrose, Alta., school teacher, is holding down $200,000 worth of prefabricated real estate deep within communist territory.

He lives in Nanking among the three portable buildings Canada shipped out a few years ago because there was no alternative accommodation for Ambassador T. C. Davis and his staff.

He has no official status because Nanking is the capital of a government the government that rules there. He hasn't been home in five years, hasn't seen his family in two or more, has seen Mr. Davis and his other colleagues vanish homeward one by one until he is left with one subordinate, clerk H. L. Stines of Victoria, to his vigil.

There now are two Chinese capitals, the Reds' Peiping, the Nationalists' Formosa. Mr. Ronning remains in the ex-nationalist capital of Nanking and ignores them both, partly because somebody has to watch that real estate—in that sense he's a prisoner of experiment—and partly because the whole Chinese question remains up in the air here.

External Affairs headquarters hears from him regularly by mail and wire. The official word is that his services are "extremely valuable" and that "this is not an appropriate time to bring him out."

It is doubtful that a replacement will be sent to Nanking if he were withdrawn.

Until Chinese intervention in Korea, it appeared to be largely a matter of time before Canada recognized the Reds—and ended Mr. Ronning's vigil. Now recognition may be far away and his future is under a bigger cloud than ever.

Some day, officials say, it will all work out and he will be moved and, so they say, will the prefabricated buildings.

Mr. Ronning joined External Affairs in 1945 after serving in two wars and teaching at Camrose and in China. His family was evacuated to Canada along with other women and children at the mission in 1948 and is believed to be in Toronto.

He speaks Chinese fluently. In the past few years, he's had lots of chance to practise.

Dalkeith Still Most Talked-Of Royal Suitor
London. — Gossip persists in making the red-headed Earl of Dalkeith the most likely suitor for the hand of Princess Margaret.

Margaret shares her acquaintance among a platoon of youthful peers but the red letter dates go to Dalkeith. He is still her most constant escort at theatres, restaurants, night clubs and dances.

The 20-year-old Princess has repeatedly been a week-end guest at one or another of the three country estates kept by the Earl's father, the Duke of Buccleuch. An engagement has been flatly forecast by the London Evening Star.

The 27-year-old Earl in turn has certainly had Royal inspection. The King and Queen invited him to Windsor Castle last summer for the top event of the social season, the Royal house party for the Ascot races.

On that occasion the Earl rode in the same carriage with Margaret on the Royal drive to Ascot, an official public appearance of considerable significance.

Eventually the Earl of Dalkeith will be one of Britain's wealthiest men, as the heir to the eighth Duke of Buccleuch, now 56 years of age. The family owns rich property in London and many acres of farm and forest throughout eight counties.

The family castles are rich in art treasures, especially paintings, china and antique furnishings. Some of these have been lent to the government to decorate British embassies.

Dalkeith is confining his business career to the management of the estates which will someday be his. Just now he's busy supervising the investment of about $900,000 in the estates to build new buildings and replant the big fir forests cut down during the war to manufacture mosquito bombers, torpedo boats and other weapons.

He attended Eton and Oxford, worked briefly in an airplane factory,
