Ronald Dean Heads Class At Kemptville Dairy School

In the results of the final examinations of the Kemptville Dairy School, the name of Ronald (R. G.) Dean, of Shawville, appears at the head of the list, with total marks of 90.1 percent.

Mr. Dean, a late employee of Shawville Creamery, was highest in general proficiency, winning a $50. prize, donated by the Montreal Provision Trades Association. He also was second in written and practical buttermaking, winning a $20 prize, donated by the Kemptville Creameries.

In the class of forty Mr. Dean was the only student from Quebec province.

While taking the course at Kemptville Mr. Dean was accompanied by his wife.

Wolves Destroy Deer At Ladysmith

Messrs. Jas. Turcotte and Richard Schock, of Ladysmith called at The Equity office on Tuesday to pay their subscriptions. While here they mentioned that wolves were creating great havoc amongst the deer herds in the vicinity of the picturesque little village.

These gentlemen reported that recently nine deer carcasses had been found in the vicinity of Barnes and Stender Lakes, and twelve deer were driven into the barn yard of Wm. Thrum. It seems a great pity that so many of these beautiful wild animals are being killed and molested and we wonder if an organized hunt could not be carried out to rid the district of some of the "varmints."

Organized wolf hunts have been carried out in some sections of Carleton County in Ontario with success. Why not in Pontiac County in Quebec? Is the bounty too small?

Home and School Club Formed at Shawville

James A. Haughton, principal of Aylmer High School, gave an address on the relation of the parents and the teachers at the inaugural meeting of the Home and School Association on Wednesday evening in Hynes' Hall. He told of the purpose in general for such an organization, and gave a summary of what it was accomplishing in the Aylmer school district.

As a result, it was decided to form such an association for this district, and a slate of officers was appointed with Mrs. Arthur Dagg as president; Mrs. G. G. McDowell and the local principal, John Tolhurst as vice-presidents; Mrs. L. Dale as secretary and James Gordon as treasurer.

The fee for membership was fixed, and it was decided to have the meetings of the association on each third Wednesday a month, holding them for the present in Hynes' Hall.

During the evening brief addresses were given by Dr. S. E. McDowell, member for this district of the Provincial Protestant School Board; Clifford Schwartz, Rev. P. R. Stote, and Mr. Norval Horner, of Creelman, Sask., who spoke on such organizations in that province.

Mrs. C.J. Caldwell spent the week-end in Montreal with friends.

Mr. J.M. Argue and Dr. Henry Argue, are spending this week-end in Toronto on business.

Master Donald Hodgins, of Ashbury Boys' School, Ottawa, is spending the Easter vacation with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Morely Hodgins.

Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Dean have returned to town from Kemptville, where the former had been attending Dairy School at the Agricultural College.

Miss Faye McDowell, who is attending Whitby Ladies' College, is spending the Easter vacation at the home of her parents, Dr. S. E. and Mrs. McDowell.

Miss Helen MacLean, has returned to the Jeffrey-Hale Hospital, Quebec City, after spending a vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. MacLean. Miss MacLean is one of this year's graduates in nursing.

Special Music Easter Sunday At Shawville United Church

On Easter Sunday, the United Church Choir, of 35 voices led by Miss Kay Woodley, with Mrs. Edgar Hodgins at the console of the Hammond electric organ, will lead the worship, and present a choice programme of musical numbers at both services.

In the morning service the selections will be:

Anthem, Gounod, "Hail, mighty victory"; anthem, "The Holy City"; solo, "Hallelujah", Miss Fay McDowell. The pastor will preach.

The service in the evening will be all music, in which the Choir will give the choice cantata, "The First Easter" by Lillenas. This high class cantata will include the following numbers: anthem, "Sing for the Lord is risen today"; anthem, "On Calvary"; solo, "Mary's lament", Miss Kay Woodley; anthem, "He is not here"; anthem, "Hallelujah, Christ is risen"; solo, "My Savior talked with me", Mrs. S. E. McDowell; anthem, "The angel rolled the stone away"; ladies trio, "So thrilled our hearts"; tenor solo, "Peace be unto you"; Glenn Hodgins; duet, "He walked with them"; Mrs. A. D. McCredie and Miss Kay Woodley; anthem, "Life begins anew".

Hockey

Douglas and Shawville Tie In Free-Scoring Game

A friendly exhibition hockey match, between Douglas champions of the Bonnechere League, and a mixed team of Shawville Senior and Juniors, was played at the local arena on Friday night. At full-time the score was 12-12.

For the first two periods neither team took their hockey very seriously, and play went from end to end at regular intervals. No penalties were handed out by Hubert Dale, referee.

The teams were:—Douglas—goal, McDuff; defense, Thompson and Dickson; centre, McCredie; wings, O'Leary and Dillon; subs, Williams, Turner, Martin, Hawkins.

Shawville—goal, D. Thompson; defense, Hobin and Hobbs; centre, Langford; wings, R. McCredie and Red Dale; subs, Walch, Richardson, Graham, H. McCredie, McTernan and Harris.

Donald McRae Coaches Team to Victory

A former Shawville boy, Donald McRae, now on the teaching staff of Westmount High School, is still taking an active part in Hockey, as the coach of the Westmount High School team. His team has won first place in the Montreal senior "A" group, noosing out West Hill "Red Raiders" by a score 2-1, in the final game played at the Montreal Forum recently. It was the ninth consecutive win for the Westmount students without a loss.

Many Pay Tribute at Funeral of R. A. Hodgins

Despite very stormy weather a large number of friends and relatives paid tribute to the memory of Robert Alexander Hodgins, at his funeral, which was held from the Geo. Hynes & Son Funeral Home on Wednesday afternoon of last week.

Mr. Hodgins died after an illness of three months at Pontiac Community Hospital on Sunday night.

The service was conducted at St. Paul's Church, which was well filled with friends and relatives, including members of Pontiac Lodge, A.F. & A.M. who attended in a body and conducted their funeral ritual at the graveside.

The church service was conducted by the Rev. C. Randell, with Rev. T. E. R. Nurse, of Knowlton, Que., a former rector of St. Paul's and a friend of the deceased, preaching the sermon which was most impressive. Rev. P. R. Stote, of Charteris, read the lesson.

The chief mourners were his two daughters, Mrs. W. S. Hanna and Mrs. W. J. McKinley of Shawville, three sons, Lyle, of Bryson; Kenneth, of Noranda; and John A., of South Porcupine; and several grand children; also a brother-in-law, Mr. Leon Stowe, of Cowansville, Que.

One daughter, Mrs. J.P. Moore, of Barneveldt, N. Y., and Gerald of Stockton, Cal., were unable to attend.

Interment was made in the family plot in St. Paul's Cemetery, the pallbearers, members of the Masonic Order, were:—

Messrs. Noble Hamilton, Norval S. Horner, Alex. H. Horner, G. G. McDowell, R. C. Morrison and Edgar Hodgins.

Mr. Hodgins, who was in his 83rd year, was very well known throughout the eastern section of Pontiac. He was born in Thorne Township a son of the late Mr. John Hodgins and his wife, Rosana Hamilton. He engaged in farming and spent many winters in the lumbering camps. His wife, the former Myrtle M. Phelps, of Cowansville, predeceased him in 1943.

He was an active member of Pontiac Lodge, No. 40, A.F. & A.M. and in religion was a member of the Anglican Church.

He retired from farming five years ago, since when he had been residing in Shawville.

Meat Rationing Abolished

Following Finance Minister Abbott's announcement in the House of Commons that Consumer coupon meat rationing would be discontinued forthwith, the Wartime Prices and Trade Board has issued a statement giving details of this move.

In brief, the main points are: 1. Consumer meat rationing is discontinued, effective March 27. 2. Tuesdays and Fridays will be retained as meatless days in all public eating places. 3. Price control over all meat will remain at present. 4. Regulations governing slaughter permits and quotas will be continued.

Board officials point out that although coupon meat rationing reimposed September 10, 1945 will be dropped, the Tuesday and Friday meatless days in all public eating places will be continued. The major savings in meat consumption made possible in this manner, have constituted an important contribution to Canada's meat exports to the United Kingdom and other needy areas.

In order to maintain this contribution at a maximum level, Canadian housewives will be asked to institute meatless days in their own homes, and to buy only on the basis of real need.

So that a fair share of available supplies of meat will be assured to all Canadians, the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, in collaboration with the Meat Board, will continue to supervise the "area" distribution of meat. An effort will be made to hold supplies going to each area to a point which will not reduce the amount of meat which would have been available for export if the rationing system had continued.

It was emphasized that all holders of meat tokens should immediately return these to the nearest office of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board.

Sugar for Beekeepers

Beekeepers who need sugar to feed their bees this spring should send in their requests as soon as possible to the Provincial Apiarist, Jules R. Methot, Department of Agriculture Quebec. The number of hives should be mentioned and if the request is considered reasonable, the necessary amount of sugar will be granted. Although the sugar situation is improving, rationing is still in force and distribution to beekeepers under strict supervision.

A complete list of beekeepers who colonies and second hand beekeeping material for sale may be had upon request by writing to the Beekeeping Division. This service will be very useful to those who wish to strengthen their colonies with bees bred in the Province of Quebec.

CHRONICLES OF GINGER FARM

By Gwendoline P. Clarke

Last Wednesday Bob and I drove to Malton and we were just in time to see the back of Barbara Ann Scott's fur coat disappear through the doorway of a Trans-Canada plane en route to Ottawa. It was a very nice coat!

What a difference a few minutes can make. "Just five minutes more" and we would have seen Barbara Ann just fine as there were very few people at the airport other than the official send-off committee.

We did so want to get a close-up view of her, particularly as we wanted to see if she were as natural and unaffected as she appears in the press pictures and reports — and which I think is her greatest charm. But while we were disappointed it just couldn't be helped. We left home in lots of time—that is for normal driving conditions. But we found they were anything but! Really the roads were terrible. In places the snowbanks were so high it was more like driving through a tunnel. Then there were parts of the road that were flooded and if neither of these conditions existed then the road was so full of pot-holes it would have made our bones rattle had they not been so well covered! Had we driven fast enough to reach Malton on time I am sure the old Model A would have disintegrated on the way. And we couldn't take a chance on that — not even to see the world's champion skater. Not these days we couldn't.

But we had a nice drive home as we stuck to the highways, on the theory that in this case the longest way around would be the shortest way home. Going over we drove across country. May I be forgiven if I say—"And how!"

All the side roads we passed were open but the ploughs must have done some awful shoving in places. Our own lane is still blocked, up near the house. It wouldn't be but for the fact that the snow piled up higher than the snow fence. Of course it could be dug out but Partner always thinks the snow gets away quicker during a thaw if it has been left alone. And by the way, we are really learning the value of snow fencing. It not only keeps the snow back but it also prevents flooding. In a thaw the water stays behind the snowbank and gets away underneath it without any fuss or inconvenience.

You know I can hardly believe that spring is almost upon us. The winter has seemed unbelievably short. I was telling Partner the other day that I would really enjoy the winter if it were not for the weather. And if there were a few more hours in each day I would be even better satisfied.

Oh dear, the radio is just telling us about the dreadful floods raging in England and Scotland right now. And we know so well what those floods can do and the rapidity with which they can rise. I remember going to see the floods about two miles from home when I was about ten years old. While I gazed in fascination at the swollen waters of the Stour River, flooding the low-lying houses on its banks, the streets behind me were suddenly flooded too and my way home was cut off. I had to wait until a temporary bridge was erected. That would be quite an adventure for me in those days.

You know I have often thought of those houses and the people living in them. The same thing happened almost every spring. The people knew it and yet as soon as the waters subsided they were back in their homes again, cleaning up the mess and counting the cost. What makes people act that way? Is it indifference to danger or love of taking a chance. Maybe we all have a bit of the gambler's spirit if we did but know it. One of the commonest ways of tempting providence these days is trying to beat one's gas supply. Why? Do we gain anything by it even supposing we win? And we are far more likely to lose. And it certainly costs more to have gas brought to a stranded car than to buy it at a gas station. I know because I have had it happen once. Like so many other people I took a chance. I knew my supply was low but for some unexplainable reason I didn't want to stop until I reached Hamilton. And then, how stupid I felt!

And do you know what? I am just about freezing because I took a chance on not looking after the furnace until I would be through with this bit of typing.

Works Both Ways

The little moppet upon going to bed always insisted that her bedroom door remain open. "Is it because you want to let the light in?" asked her mother. "No," came the amazing response, "it's to let out the dark."

Canadian Art Marches On

The oldest existing art society in Canada opened its 75th Annual Exhibition of members' and non-members' work on March 7th at the Art Gallery of Toronto and was attended by a record crowd of 1400 people. At the end of this month a representative collection from the exhibition will begin a tour of other cities in the Dominion.

The Ontario Society of Artists has broken many a lance for the arts and artists of this country since its first exhibition in 1872. The Royal Canadian Academy was organized at an O.S.A. meeting in 1870 and the development of a National Gallery, Art Gallery of Toronto and Ontario College of Art is the result of tireless effort of the Society.

Catholicity in Style

The O.S.A. Annual Exhibition is NOT a members show (a fact that is too often misinterpreted) but an opportunity open to all painters and sculptors in Canada to submit their works along with members of the society for selection by the Selection and Hanging Committee. A new jury is elected each year. It is their responsibility not only to select some 150 works from an average of 500 works submitted but to uphold the highest possible standard in painting and sculpture from the academic to the abstract. It is both interesting and encouraging to note that over 50 per cent of the work accepted and hung each year is the work of non-members.

Contribution to Art Libraries

A limited number of a very handsome and important catalogue commemorating this 75th Exhibition is now available through The Ryerson Press, 299 Queen West, Toronto. (Thin cover—60c. Stiff cover with spine—$1.00) Besides containing 18 reproductions of the contemporary work, the retrospective section of the exhibition from 1872 is covered by the first complete history and aims of the Society by L. A. C. Panto, R.C.A., O.S.A.

Badminton was played in India before it became popular in England in the 19th century.

CANADIAN STYLE

It's a far cry from the shapeless Mother Hubbard of yesteryear, this crisp Helen Morgan cotton house frock. Buttoned down the front, it has a narrow self belt and a perky bow tie at the neckline.

TEEN-TOWN TOPICS

By BARRY MURKAR

Have you ever found yourself in hot water over an innocent book title? Was a book title ever responsible for you being kicked out of your girl friend's house? Well, I'm in trouble—plenty. With Susie and her pop and it all goes back to a book title.

Last night at Susie's, we were sitting around shooting the guff, with nothing else to do, and I happened to mention that someone had left a copy of Betty MacDonald's "The Egg and I" at our place. This immediately brought forth the bright idea of boiling some eggs and painting them for Easter. It was my bright idea.

"You get the eggs out from the bottom of the cupboard while I look for my old box of paints," suggested Susie.

I found six eggs in a bowl, and while Susie was rummaging around in the hall closet, I put them in a pan of water. After ten minutes at boiling point, I figured they were hard enough.

"We can give them to the neighbor's kids," offered Susie, returning with a battered box of paints.

We then mixed several colors in a cup of water and dipped the eggs. After this we painted stripes of yellow, green and red on them, set them back in the bowl and put them away in the cupboard to dry.

Everything was fine. We talked of the days when the kids used to look for Easter bunnies and how our parents would hide Easter eggs and on Easter morning we would hunt all over the house for them.

"The kids next door will have a great time when they find them," said Susie, "they'll probably try to eat shells and all."

Our conversation was interrupted by a voice from the kitchen: "I'm hungry, where's my supper?"

"It's just pop," whispered Susie, "he's late getting home tonight."

"For crying out loud, what's happened to these eggs?" roared a voice from the kitchen.

"Oh my gosh," yelled Susie, "pop's on a diet of eggs, and we've used them all!"

We hurried into the kitchen, both quaking at the knees. Her pop, flushed from anger, was bending over the kitchen table, examining the colored eggs. He looked up as we entered, and the gleam in his eye made me quiver inside.

"Whose—whose idea was this?" he demanded, "all I can eat is eggs and I come home hungry to find these—these," his words died amidst coughs and sputters.

"Barry thought it would be—", "You," he cut in, "I might have known. If you aren't stuck in the driveway, you need a jack to fix a tire. Every time you come around here something happens."

"I—I didn't know about the diet," I gasped. "Honestly we only painted the eggs for something to do, to put in the time."

Her father sank into a chair, muttering and stroking his forehead.

"Run next door and try to borrow two eggs," ordered Susie.

I ran next door, and to the next and the next. Finally at the fourth house, the lady let me have a can of powdered eggs.

"Did you have any luck?" asked Susie, as I came in out of breath.

"There's four eggs in there," I replied, handing her the can.

She got a bowl and started to take off the lid. Her father watched closely. As the lid came off and the powder started to come out, he roared at me, "Another of your smart alec tricks. Get out! Get out!"

Susie followed me to the door. She was mad too.

"That was stupid of you," she said, "now I'll get it for letting you go to get the eggs." No use trying to explain, I thought.

On the way home, I thought of the evening's events. Do other guys get into trouble like I do, I wondered. Jeepers, I'm always in a mess. I know what I'll do. I'll take up a dozen eggs tomorrow night and that will fix me with her pop.

As I walked in the front door, I noticed a book lying on the table. "The Egg and I" was the title. Browsing through it, I noted the trouble the author had had with chickens and eggs. On the cover was a picture of the author. You and your eggs, I grumbled and trudged off to bed.

Rocket Precautions

Australia is tightening security precautions for the rocket experiment range in central Australia.

This move is an attempt to prevent repetition of the Canadian atom spy experience, when a number of persons were convicted of spying for the Soviet Union. Dr. Herbert V. Evatt, Minister for External Affairs, told the House of Representatives at Canberra, Australia.

... Buy By Grade ...

Grading of foods under Dominion Government supervision and marking of packages so that the consumer may buy by grade, is of definite assistance to the Canadian homemaker. Grading is of value to her whether she knows about grade regulations or not, but infinitely more so when she knows the grades for various products and looks for the grade mark before buying.

We in Canada enjoy a special privilege. Canada is the only country in the world where so many foods are regularly graded and marked for the retail buyer.

The slogan "Buy by grade—buy with confidence", has been adopted by the Dominion Department of Agriculture and the Home Economists of the Consumer Section say that real economy as well as satisfaction is the reward for buying by grade.

Eggs sold in Canada are graded. The highest grade A1 eggs are the finest quality obtainable. These are not always available and are of course high in price. Grade A eggs are also of excellent quality. Both these grades have firm jellylike white which hold its shape. They are therefore perfect for poaching or frying as well as cooking in the shell. Grades B and C—have less firm whites which spread when the shell is broken.

Some homemakers boast that they always buy the best. Grading of commercially canned fruit and vegetables makes it better buying in many cases to use the lower grade. To have the most suitable product for the special purpose, and at a low cost, is real economy. Fancy Quality canned fruits and vegetables are as nearly perfect as possible and therefore are to be used where appearance is important. Company desserts or salads are beautiful when fancy products are used. For family use in regular meals Choice Quality products are very satisfactory as they are good in appearance and tender and flavourful but not necessarily uniform in size or colour of pieces. Standard quality lacks uniformity. Pieces may be broken but food value is equal to the higher grades.

Baked Crispy Pears

6 canned pears (Choice quality)
¾ cup corn or wheat flakes
6 teaspoons red jelly (apple or red currant)

½ cup juice from pears
Drain pears—roll each piece in cereal flakes, place hollow side up in a greased baking dish. In centre of each put 1 teaspoon of jelly. Pour juice around pears. Bake in a moderately hot oven 375 deg. F. 15 minutes or until browned.

Corn and Cheese Souffle

4 tablespoons fat
4 tablespoons flour

1 teaspoon salt
Few grains pepper
1 cup milk
1 cup grated cheese
4 egg yolks
2 cups corn (Standard quality)
4 egg whites

Melt fat, add flour, salt and pepper. Add grated cheese and stir until melted. Pour over beaten egg yolks, add corn and mix well. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Pour into greased casserole. Oven-poach in a moderate oven 350 deg. F. until set—about 50 minutes. Serves six.

Communists Claim 17,009,000 in World

Communists throughout the world now total 17,009,000 delegates to the Conference of British Empire Communist Parties were told in London, England.

Charts prepared by the Communist Party of Great Britain and displayed at Conference headquarters said 56 countries had parties which, though not necessarily calling themselves Communist, were based on the teachings of Marx, Engels, Lenin, and Stalin.

Soviet Russia, the charts said, has 6,000,000 Communists, Italy, 2,200,000, the United States, 74,000, and Great Britain 43,000.

Recipe

Dissolve 1 tsp. sugar in ¼ c. lukewarm water; add 1 envelope Royal Fast Rising Dry Yeast. Let mixture stand 10 min. Then stir well. Scald ½ c. milk, add 3 tbs. shortening, ¼ c. sugar, ½ tsp. salt; cool to lukewarm. Add 1 c. sifted flour to make a batter. Add yeast mixture and 1 beaten egg; beat well. Add 2½ c. sifted flour, of enough to make a soft dough. Knead lightly, place in greased bowl. Cover; set in warm place, free from draft. Let rise until doubled in bulk, about 2 hours. When light punch dough down; roll out into oblong piece, about ¾" thick. Brush with 3 tbs. melted shortening or butter. Sprinkle with ¾ c. brown sugar, 1½ tps. cinnamon, ½ c. raisins. Roll up lengthwise in a tight roll; cut in 1" slices. Place cut-side up, 1" apart in greased shallow baking pan. Cover; let rise in warm place until light, about 1 hour. Bake in 425°F. oven about 20 minutes.

Murder in Plain Sight

by GERALD BROWN

SYNOPSIS

CHAPTER IX: By accident McCale encounters a detective from a rival agency who is willing to sell some information. Rocky, McCale's assistant, reports on the Bigelow's activities at the mansion. He tells how both Vallancourt and Christopher Storm called on Veronica during the evening.

CHAPTER X

He slid the money over to the big man. He had the exasperating feeling that he'd been cheated. He shrugged it away.

McCale had set his alarm for seven-thirty the next morning. It had shrilled in vain. A feeble ray of sunshine flickered across his face as someone shook him by the shoulder.

"Hey, boss," Rocky was saying, "it's almost nine o'clock. Your beautiful girl secretary will be here any time now. I've got a pot of java perking."

McCale began to dress as Rocky headed for the inner sanctum. It didn't take him long.

"Well," he said, between sips of the hot black liquid, "let's have your birds-eye or key hole view of the goings on of last night."

"Nothing sensational to report, boss, outside of a lot of nervous running in and out till about one a.m. I had a look-see at about everyone but the dame called Victoria. She'd gone out someplace to dinner when I got there and must have slipped in without my lamping her, if she came home at all."

"No trouble with the servants?"

"I only saw the butler. Very superior guy. He kept looking in the dining room where I was sitting with an eye on the door. I don't know whether he thought I was going to snitch some of the finger-bowls or sample the family bourbon. Anyhow, he kept popping up at odd moments until around ten-thirty. Say, what a parade of junk they've accumulated."

"Yeah. What do you think of the set-up? In general, I mean. Atmosphere—that kind of thing."

"I may be wrong, but outside of the little old lady, they're a bunch of screwballs. She's okay. A little jumpy, but for that matter, the whole caboodle ain't my idea of what I've been told to look for as calm, quiet, untroubled bluebloods. They're all as jittery as a hang-over."

"Definitely."

"Well, here's five to your one that there's something cooking that's going to smell to heaven."

"You've no taker in me," McCale grinned and lit a cigarette.

"Smart, as usual. The old dame acts as though she was walking through a bad dream but doesn't dare wake up."

"Very aptly put."

"She meets me last night, shows me around, sort of impersonal-like. So far as she was concerned, I might have been the plumber's helper come to repair a leak. Very cool and calm, but burning up with something inside her. Acts all the time as if she's scared stupid but won't admit it if it kills her."

Rocky poured himself a second cup of coffee and took a deep breath before he continued.

"She went to her room early—about nine. I didn't see her after that. Veronica, the bride and joy," he looked at McCale to see whether he was amused by the play on words, "of the old lady—she is that, isn't she—it sticks out all over—stayed home all evening, too. She was in the back library most of the time."

"Did she look good to you?"

"Oh, yeah, if you like the placid type. She had two visitors. Guess?"

"I'll buy it. Don't play guessing games with me so early in the morning."

"Well, the present and the past Glamour Boy Number One, and good old dog-like, ever lovin' Chris."

"Oh. He impressed you that way? Christopher Storm, I mean?"

"Remember, I only got a short gander at the past and present crown princes, as they entered and left. He was the second one, by the way. Mr. Big came first."

"Go on."

"Well, I'd just got settled in the silver and crockery department when Johnny Weissmuller comes swinging from tree to tree calling for his mate. Such a flutter they get into over him, don't they? The butler scuttled around after him as if he'd just brought the fatted calf. Then the bride-to-be comes down the stairs in a flurry. But a flurry, I said. And he just tells her he's off to dinner with some friends. She looks at him with the trust of a bird fascinated by a python. You know—'What enormous eyes you have, Grandmother.' And off they go to the library."

"I take it you don't warm to Romeo."

"Not me. Obvious as heck, don't you think?"

"I don't know. The boy's got something. Just what is it?"

"It's a old as the world, chief. The Vallancourt can just make his eyelashes go boo."

"Take that needle out of your arm. He's in love with the girl."

"All right. So he's in love with her."

"What's your impression of the girl? You didn't show a great deal of enthusiasm."

"I guess I don't like 'em quite so wide-eyed, chief. She's nice. You know what I mean—nice—and when you've said that, you've said everything. Right out of a Mignon Eberhart novel, if you get what I mean. Just beautiful and wispy and too dumb to take off her rose-colored glasses."

Rocky had already settled for himself the fact that Veronica Bigelow was both beautiful and dumb. McCale leaned back in his chair and smiled, for Rocky was a good guy, most amusing.

Searching for the coffee pot, Duke's eyes slanted up quizzically at Rocky as he said, "Well, boy, what's the word on Christopher Storm, now that you've dusted everyone else off?"

"J. P. Marquand has done him to a turn, on both sides and in the middle. More than once. That guy was born to the Yankee purple, has gone to the best schools, and never stepped out of line in his life. He may be a little shocked at the Bigelows, but they are Bigelows, aren't they? So they couldn't be wrong. Veronica has tossed him overboard, but would he say a word about it? Would he ride up in his Stanley Steamer and rush her off to the nearest Justice of the Peace before she makes a fool of herself? No sirree. It just isn't done by people in our set, doncha know?"

"He did come to see her."

"Oh, yes. Had a short confab with her in the library. I didn't get a chance to eavesdrop, of course, but I did see them when they said goodnight at the door. He had the most miserable little-boy-who-has-been-kicked expression on his puss when he kissed her good-by."

"He kissed her?"

"Don't let it throw you. It was just the old I'll-be-a-sister-to-you act. She sort of put her head up and he gave her a solemn brotherly kiss on the forehead before he went into the night like the last act of an old melodrama. I could have spit in his eye, the dope!"

"My, my. You are taking this to heart."

"Not so you'd notice it. Well, do I go on in the order of their appearance?" he asked, a sour smile on his lips.

Rocky waited a moment, looking at McCale skeptically, not quite sure he wasn't being made fun of. Then he resumed.

"Let's see. First there is Mr. Stephen. Now there's a jumpy guy. Surly, wedded to the bottle, too. Comes in all decked out for the night life. Soup and fish. Gave me the once-over and had a few quick straight ones. When the butler stuck his nose in the door, he spat out, 'Tell my mother I'm going out this evening.' Not his wife, mind you—his mother."

"Mama's big boy."

"Oh, sure. He and his wife don't get along, I take it?"

"Your surmise is a good one, I think."

New Method Used to Harvest Honey

A streamlined technique for harvesting honey from Northern Manitoba's wild flowers is being planned by a farmer in the small Saskatchewan town of Tisdale, 70 miles west of the Manitoba-Saskatchewan border.

The farmer, B. Baines, last year shipped more than 30,000 pounds of honey from his mobile apiaries.

His technique is described as being simple. In the spring he spots three or four hives in isolated areas, surrounding them with electrically charged fences to discourage roaming bears. In the fall he gathers the honey and prepares the hives for the winter.

Northern flowers, Mr. Baines says, appear to enable bees to produce a more concentrated honey than the normal, generally pure white and greatly in demand on the market.

ENGLAND HIT BY FLOODS

First it was snow storms, now floods that are crippling England. From London where the swollen Thames River has contaminated the municipal water supply an emergency call has gone out for tank-truck loads of drinking water. At Maidstone, in Kent, the River Medway rose to its highest level in 27 years, flooded its banks and then the town. The customers at an inn (left) waded through water to get a drink at the bar and a housewife (right) wears boots to do her housework. To complicate matters, another round of blizzards and gales hit the country over the week-end.

Modern Etiquette

By Roberta Lee

1. Should a woman's title be left off the envelope when writing a business letter to her and one does not know whether or not she is married?

2. Is it good form to talk about one's self?

3. What is the most popular way to make a public announcement of an engagement?

4. Is it proper to place the elbows on the table while eating?

5. Is an entire outfit of new clothes necessary for the bridegroom?

6. At what age should boys and girls be introduced in proper form?

ANSWERS

1. No; address the envelope with the prefix "Miss". 2. There are many people who have the idea that to talk about one's self is bad form; however, most people do not think so. If the story one has is amusing or instructive, there is no reason why it should not be told. 3. The newspaper announcement is the most popular. 4. This practice

How Can I?

By Anne Ashley

Q. How can I remove clogged ink from steel pens?

A. Dip them in a strong solution of ammonia water. This softens the ink and it can be easily wiped off.

Q. How can I prevent olive oil from becoming rancid?

A. Add two medium size lumps of sugar to each quart of olive oil as soon as it is opened to keep it from becoming rancid.

Q. How can I clean white kid gloves?

A. Pure alcohol is preferable to gasoline for cleaning white kid gloves. It dries quickly and without the unpleasant odor of gasoline.

Q. How can I tell if an egg is fresh?

A. A fresh egg is indicated by a rough surface and how quickly it dries when it is taken from boiling water.

Q. How can I clean the window shades without using water?

A. The effect will be very satisfactory if a rag is slightly moistened with paraffin oil and then rubbed over the window. After a few minutes, polish with a clean dry cloth.

Q. How can I make a needle-book that will not permit the needles to rust?

A. If a needle-book is made of chamois, instead of the usual flannel, the needles will not rust.

Jesus Lays Down His Life

John 18: 37-38; 19: 10-16, 25-30.

Golden Text.—For God so loved the world, that He gave His only begotten son, that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish, but have everlasting life.—John 3:16.

Palestine, the homeland of the Bible, has been strangely a land of great beauty, idyllic happiness, and somber, terrible tragedy.

Goodness, wisdom, visions of peace and happiness and plenty, and ideals of righteousness and truth are forever in the heritage it has given to the world. But violence, hatred, evil, and all the fruits of evil have been all too manifest from the beginning in Cain, who slew his brother, through all the history of the Jezebels, Herods, and other perpetrators of iniquity.

All the beauty, tenderness, and goodness of that land, with all the tragedy of hate and violence, were comprised in the brief earthly life of Jesus of Nazareth.

The law of vicarious sacrifice, of suffering, and of giving of life for others was written deeply into the history and religion of Israel. Among biblical scholars there has been much controversy as to how directly and in what way the 53rd Chapter of Isaiah, with its portrayal of the Suffering Servant, referred to Jesus.

But plain readers, whose common sense judgments are often sounder than those of hair-splitting critics, have had little doubt about the matter. They have read that chapter seeing how Jesus fulfilled its vicarious law and its spirit.

Just how early in His earthly ministry Jesus became conscious that His ministry was to be fulfilled in His death is not clear. Nor is it clear whether or not He assumed at first, as the disciples did, that His ministry might involve the setting up of an earthly kingdom.

What is plain, however, is that Jesus came to foresee and to accept fully the fact of His sacrificial death. He was the Good Shepherd about to lay down His life for the sheep.

We tend to speak of the cross lightly. We wear it as a piece of jewelry or a symbol, but how much does it mean to us of the reality of sacrifice and suffering? How much are our lives given for others?

Stop Worrying Learn to Relax

If you take frequent short rests, you can work longer and harder, Dale Carnegie promises. In the periodical, Your Life. The more rested you are, he says, the less tendency you will have to worry. "You cannot continue to worry if you relax," Carnegie writes (neglecting, however, to tell us how to relax when worried.)

Carnegie says that the secret of Winston Churchill's phenomenal energy during the war was the fact that he worked in bed until 11 a.m., slept for an hour after lunch and for two hours before having dinner at 8. He was thus able, Carnegie declares, to work "fresh and fit" until long past midnight.

Eleanor Roosevelt has told him, he discloses, that before meeting a crowd or making a speech, she often closes her eyes and relaxes for 20 minutes.

For those who cannot indulge in afternoon naps, Carnegie recommends an hour's nap before the evening meal. This, plus six hours of sleep at night, he writes, "will do you more good than eight hours of unbroken sleep."

QUEBEC LUMBER BILL GETS SECOND READING

Quebec, March 27.—The Quebec Legislative Assembly, by a vote of 52-29, tonight gave second reading to an act respecting utilization of lumber cut on Crown lands, after defeat of a Liberal amendment to the bill, 48-33. The amendment, proposed by Leon Casgrain (L—Riviere du Loup), asked refusal of the bill "because it gives the lieutenant-governor-in-council exorbitant powers, among them that of determining the application of the said law and permitting the minister of lands and forests to issue permits at his discretion."

NO FAMILY ALLOWANCE FOR CHILDREN WHO SKIP SCHOOL

Children who skip school regularly don't get family allowances, Health Minister Martin disclosed in the Commons Thursday.

In a return tabled for L. O. Briethaupt (L—Waterloo), the minister said that arrangements have been made in each province for provincial school authorities to notify regional family allowance offices when the school attendance of a child became unsatisfactory.

On receipt of such information, the office suspended allowances until the child's attendance became satisfactory.

Dealing with provisions made for seeing that family allowance money was spent for the purpose intended, the return said this was done by welfare supervisors employed in each regional office. In co-operation with provincial welfare departments and other welfare agencies investigation was made of possible cases of misuse. During January, 316 such cases were investigated in Canada, 175 by provincial authorities, 41 by other agencies and 100 by the regional office staff. At Jan. 31 there were 172 accountants being paid to administrators and trustees as a result of information obtained through investigators.

CANADA'S FIRE LOSSES $13,000,000 IN DEC. AND JAN.

Canada's estimated fire losses aggregated nearly $13,000,000 in December of last year and January of this, a figure which is causing fire-prevention authorities much concern, according to an announcement by the Canadian Underwriters' Association.

Despite appeals to the public during last "Fire Prevention Week", for greater precautions against fire, December, 1946 losses reached $6,750,000, an increase of $2,250,000 over December, 1945.

In January, 1947, losses exceeding $6,000,000 were suffered; a jump of 33 per cent. over the January, 1945, figure of $4,500,000.

Fatalities from fire since August last total 40, and it is feared that much higher death and loss figures will be recorded, unless the country awakes to the seriousness of the fire menace and makes a stern effort to combat it.

"Fires will occur it is realized, regardless of precautions, but human memories are short-lived and the warnings and appeals of 'Fire Prevention Week' seem soon to be forgotten," the Board statement said. "People do not remember that 'Fire Prevention Week' exists in reality 365 days of the year. Precaution against fire—the first line of defence against the menace—should be taken 24 hours of every day from one 'Fire Prevention Week' to the next."

Statistics show that appeals for vigilance and care made during 'Fire Prevention Week' actually seem to strike home in the public's mind, although as the months pass the effect appears to wear off," it continued. "For instance, last October, when 'Fire Prevention Week' was last observed, fire losses dropped $250,000 below the figure of $3,750,000 for October, 1945, while in November total losses were $3,750,000, identical with those of November, 1945."

In the 20 years prior to and including 1945 fire destroyed almost $662,000,000 worth of Canadian property and took 5,968 lives.

Most parts of Canada have suffered fire losses and fatalities in the past few months. A disastrous blaze in Quebec Province in August destroyed 14 buildings valued at $250,000, and killed nine children. In February, this year, a nun and six children met death in a fire which wiped out an orphanage in Saskatchewan.

Two huge fires sent property damage into the millions of dollars in December and January last. One, at the D. V. A. Hospital at Peterborough, Ont., destroyed $1,500,000 worth of property; the other, at Goose Bay, Labrador, wiped out $2,000,000 worth of hangers and aircraft.

Fires involving warehouses, factories and apartment blocks, in Ontario, Quebec, Prince Edward Island, Nova Scotia, Alberta and Manitoba have caused damage ranging from $250,000 to $500,000 and more.

JUST IN FUN

Real Funny

He was telling her his family history. "My grandfather was a poor, hard-working clockmaker. When he died he left his estate, which consisted of two hundred clocks, to my father," she said. "How interesting," she said. "It must have been real fun winding up his estate."

Woman

A woman may put on a riding habit and never go riding. She may doll up in a skiing outfit and never go skiing.

We have seen women don swimming outfits and never go swimming.

But when a woman puts on a wedding gown—she means business.

"Mrs. McGillicuddy! Are you having an affair with the superintendent?"

Let's Be Explicit

The couple were on one of those three-week cruises to the West Indies. While the wife was enjoying herself to the utmost, her husband was most unhappy. An observing fellow passenger commented: "Your husband appears to be a poor sailor." To which the wife frigidly replied: "My husband happens to be in the real estate business."

Protection

"According to the evidence of the witnesses you were caught just as you were getting out of the window with the contents of the till in your pocket. Now, what excuse have you got?" and the judge leaned back in his chair very complacently.

"I knew it," answered the prisoner, "and I shall always be grateful to the men who caught me. When I have these somnambulistic fits I am in danger of falling out of windows and hurting myself."

"That idea never occurred to me," remarked the judge pensively.

"It has occurred to me," remarked the prisoner with unconscious humor.

"That being the case I will direct a warder—"

"To release me?"

"No, but to see that an extra bar is put across your cell window for fear you may fall out."

Sidewalk Scene

It was one of those exasperating sidewalk situations when a man and a woman, coming in opposite directions, jockeyed to the right, then to the left, together, in an awkward effort to pass each other. When the snarl was finally unraveled the man politely tipped his hat and said:

"Well, good-by. It's been fun knowing you."

Prize Rookie

Lee Carey, 17, U. of Arizona freshman, is the Cleveland Indians' prize rookie of 1947. He plays outfield, and was given the highest bonus for signing ever paid by Cleveland, reportedly $13,000. He'll continue his college work and play ball the rest of the time. He's 5-11, weighs 175.

An Englishwoman in The Jungle

By Enid Fernandes

Miss Enid Fernandes, a British Red Cross worker, spent a year travelling in Malaya taking aid to the sick. After a short leave in England she returned to take the post of State Rural Welfare Officer in Pahang. Writing as she was about to go back, she relates some of her experiences.

My leave in England is drawing to an end and within a few weeks I hope to be back in Malaya, to take up work in Pahang as State Rural Welfare Officer under the Social Welfare Department of the Government of the Malayan Union.

I am eager to be back, for there is still a good deal of sickness among the people who live deep in the Malayan jungles, and after a year's work among them I feel I have gained their confidence. I know I have learned to love and respect them.

I arrived in Singapore from England on September 6th, 1945, when the Japanese were still in the town and as I walked down hot country roads I saw many hundreds of displaced Malaysians, Javanese, Chinese and Indians, most of whom were starving and ill. The British Military Administration was already working wonders for the relief of these unfortunates and gradually they were collected into improvised camps where, for several weeks, I helped to look after the sick.

Embarrassing Faith

At the end of November 1945, I was asked by the Director of Medical Services, British Military Administration, Malaya, to go to Kuantan on the East Coast of Pahang to undertake welfare work in that area. Barbara Lomas, a British Red Cross trained nurse who could speak Cantonese and Mandarin, went with me and took charge of the hospital in Kuantan which was overflowing with sufferers. The District Officer, himself a Malay, asked me to try and ease the distress among the sick and needy in the surrounding villages, the neglected rubber estates and the jungle hamlets. I fixed up a British Red Cross 15-cwt. truck as a travelling dispensary and the Hospital lent me a Tamil dresser and a Tamil attendant, and we set out.

The monsoon was at its height and we worked under considerable difficulties, but by the end of three months we had a weekly program covering 29 kampongs, seven rubber estates and several isolated settlements, and had dealt with thousands of sick people with very marked success. Indeed, I was much embarrassed by a widely spread rumour that "Missie" could cure illness and pain in three minutes. "Go to Missie she will cure you," they told each other and people who had been blind and crippled from birth were carried to me in baskets. But all I could do was to give them aspirin and treatment for their tropical ulcers, sores, skin diseases and other ailments. I had a small tent made and fixed to the side of my truck in which I tackled their skin diseases; in this I scrubbed the bodies—before applying healing lotions—of hundreds of Malays, Javanese and Tamils and a few Chinese and Sakais who had wandered into the camp.

Awkward Situations Averted

At first the idea of being personally scrubbed by "Missie" was greeted with considerable apprehension, but I explained that this was necessary before applying the lotions sent to me by the State Health and Medical Officer. (Those lotions were extraordinarily effective, by the way, disinfecting and healing at the same time.) The shyness quickly wore off and within a very short time whole families would arrive and ask for treatment and what might have been an awkward situation passed off with considerable humour.

On several occasions I came across very sick people lying in their houses with maggots dropping from their sores and ants actually streaming in and out of holes in their limbs. One of these cases was a poor old man in an isolated village. The ants had eaten two large holes in his leg, and when I arrived he was semi-conscious; I attended to him and with the help of two young men we slung him in a kind of hammock attached to a bamboo pole and carried him to my car. When I left for my leave he had been in hospital for 3½ months, but his wounds were almost healed and he was in very good spirits.

Deep in the Jungle

It was not only sickness I had to deal with; there was also appalling poverty and need. One day when I had been visiting a village I was told of a family who wished to come and see me but could not because they possessed only one garment between them and that was being worn by the man—the head of the family. When I went to their home they covered themselves with their floor mats. I made a garment for each of them and they were touchingly grateful.

On many occasions I penetrated into the jungle to visit remote hamlets, some of which were reached either on foot, with the headman of the area or a relative of the sick leading the way, or in a small native boat on one of the winding rivers. On these occasions my impending arrival would be announced to the surrounding country by the beating of a drum. The Malays told me I was the first white woman to enter some of these settlements, and certainly I was an object of considerable curiosity to the children.

Hazardous Journeys

During the monsoon period these journeys were particularly hazardous—or at least they felt so to me when crossing crocodile-infested rivers on long, thin palm trees, or swinging by my hands over pieces of damaged bridges with medical supplies slung around me. I think one of my worst moments came one day when the Malay leading my column stopped in the middle of crossing a river on an attenuated felled tree to enquire how I was getting on. His bare feet were curled nicely round the trunk, but my leather shoes slipped dangerously. Had he not responded to my cry of "Hurry" I should have fallen in. After this experience I discarded my shoes and took to flexible sandals.

Future of Island Bases in Pacific

By implication, if not by direct word, the United States has indicated Pacific islands she now holds will be turned over to United Nations trusteeship as soon as that organization sets up effective world security machinery. It is well understood these islands will be retained only so long as they are necessary to American, and therefore Pacific, defence plans. These islands are weapons of American security every bit as much as the atomic bomb. It would be insanity to surrender either the A-bomb or the islands to the care of the United Nations without iron-clad assurance their use will be safeguarded.

Something OR Nothing

Remember the story of the monkey who tried to withdraw a fistful of nuts through the narrow neck of a jar?

Because he wasn't content with getting one luscious nut at a time, he ended up by getting nothing instead of something.

That story is worth remembering today. Greedy grabbing of goods still in short supply can have the same result—nothing instead of something. Inflated prices, like the inflated paw of the monkey, can as surely prevent each of us from getting his fair share of available goods.

Canadians have had the wisdom to be content with a moderate "something," knowing that as production increases that "something" will grow larger and larger. This is good sense, and is founded on the principle that MODERATION is the key to CONTINUED ENJOYMENT, a principle to which the House of Seagram has always subscribed.

Better To Help Turkey Now Than Rescue Her Later

Qualified informants in Istanbul say Turkey must have American financial aid if it is to keep its army of nearly 1,000,000 men fully mobilized as a barrier against possible Russian encroachments.

Turkey has been on a full mobilization status for seven years. More than 60 per cent of its total national income goes to maintain the army, most of which stands guard along the Turkish-Russian border east of the Black Sea and on the Turkish-Bulgarian frontier, where it shields the strategic Dardanelles.

The Turks say the cost of keeping so many men under arms is so heavy that it is draining the nation's fiscal resources and jeopardizing its economic structure.

This has caused the nation to abandon plans for industrialization of its economy, which is held to be imperative if Turkey is to develop a "decent economic order."

The building of highways, railroads, hospitals, and schools also has been neglected.

"A weak Turkey could only invite trouble," one Government spokesman commented. "It would be more far sighted and much less costly in the long run to help her today than have to try to rescue her at some later day." Despite the country's heavy military expenditure, its army at present is not well equipped.

The Turks maintain they are the only neighbor Russia has that has consistently and emphatically resisted all Soviet pressure which they felt tended toward expansion. They have steadfastly refused to allow Russia a share in defense of the vital Dardanelles.

700,000 Employed In U.K. Coal Mines

Nearly 700,000 persons are employed in British coal mines. This is twice as many as are employed in the bituminous coal mines of the United States, says The Chicago Tribune. Our 350,000 miners produce three times as much coal as Britain's 700,000 miners do. The average output per miner is one ton per day in Britain and six tons per day in the United States. If American miners turned out no more coal on the average than British miners do, it would take two million men to obtain our present supply. If prices remained the same as they are, the miners here could be paid only $2.50 a day.

LIVE STOCK POISONED BY ORCHARD SPRAYS

Several cases of live-stock poisoning were investigated by the Kentville, N. S. Laboratory of the Division of Chemistry, Science Service, Dominion Department of Agriculture, during the 12 months ended March 31, 1946. In the majority of cases it was found that the animals had gained access to orchard sprays and either ate grass wet with spray drift, or on which spray had dripped from trees, or drank water on top of flotation sulphur barrels, or had access to water contaminated in other ways from spray materials. In several cases, the level of arsenic in stomach contents, in milk, and urine was fatally high.

MASSEY HARRIS FOUNDED ONE HUNDRED YEARS AGO

It is one hundred years since the tiny foundations which were to form the basis of this world-embracing company were laid. One hundred years in which by the introduction and continuous improvement of machinery, man has been liberated from the back-breaking, brain-deadening toil with which he was then forced to earn his livelihood. For it was in 1847 that Daniel Massey, at Newcastle, Ontario, himself a farmer, conceived as his mission in life the lightening of the labours of his fellow-farmers by making and supplying them with plows, scufflers and parts for threshers, etc. Practically simultaneous were the efforts in this direction of Alanson Harris, who, at the village of Beamsville, Ontario, was engaged in the making of plows and a wooden revolving hay rake which he had invented. So great was the progress made by both companies that when in 1891 they united their interests and formed Massey-Harris Company it soon became the largest makers of farm implements in the British Empire.

SUBVERSIVE LEAFLETS BANNED IN QUEBEC

Quebec, March 19—An amendment giving municipalities power to prohibit the distribution of pamphlets and similar printed matter within their confines stirred vigorous debate in the Quebec Legislative Assembly last night when Premier Maurice Duplessis, obviously referring to the Witnesses of Jehovah, said that municipalities must be given complete power to cope with "organizations spreading subversive ideas."

The amendment to the Cities and Towns Act was given third reading after a division. It permits municipalities to prohibit and regulate distribution of pamphlets, circulars, advertisement or other printed matter, and provides fines of $25 to $100 and one to three months in jail. The previous penalty was $20 fine and one month in jail.

Premier Duplessis did not mention the Witnesses, large numbers of whom in recent months have been prosecuted on charges of distributing "seditious and libellous literature."

He added: "Those who are not happy about our laws in Quebec, can leave the province. We do not need them here."

Liberal Leader Adelard Godbout, attacking the measure, said the province was "against Communism and other subversive ideas," but the fight should be "by sane and fair laws."

CORRECTION

In the article "Sheep Can Be Free of Internal Parasites" in last week's Farm News the last line in the first paragraph should read "This should not be permitted."

HIDDEN PROFITS FROM THE FARM Sound Borrowing Can Bring Happiness

Modern farm equipment can bring its owner an unexpected dividend in contentment. New labour-saving devices and equipment enable their owners to enjoy the benefits that result from lightened labour—better health, and more pleasant living. And these profits are as important as earning more money.

Is your family enjoying their share of leisure? Or do old-fashioned methods take up all their time and energy? In a happy home the mother has time to relax for her health; the children have time for play and study; everyone has time to keep up with changing world trends, to take it easy now and then.

A great many farmers have found that our Farm Improvement Loan Plan has added both to their farm profits and their pleasure in life. This low-cost plan was designed to help progressive farmers obtain the improved farm aids that make a farm produce more—in profits and contentment.

If a shortage of ready cash prevents you from getting your share of these "extra profits", please call and we shall be glad to discuss your requirements with you.

"Around School"

To facilitate the financing of the Community Band until its first concert (probably in June), the Shawville Branch of the Canadian Legion voted at its meeting on Thursday, March 20th, to donate $100 to the Band funds. This generous gift is greatly appreciated by the Band Committee, especially since there was a real need for the money. The band is holding a two-hour practice every Thursday in the school and, under the very capable direction of Mr. William Finlayson, is making excellent progress. There are about 25 members.

Although Thursday, April 10th, is the regular monthly clinic day, the April clinic will not be held on that day because of the Easter holidays.

Attendance has been very poor during the past two or three weeks, because of grippe, flu, whooping cough, and measles. Three of the teachers have been sick, and class attendance has in one or two cases been as low as 50 percent.

Three students of the Macdonald College School for Teachers are teaching in the school this week—Miss Erma Little in Grade 1, Miss Muriel Murphy in Grade Four, and Mr. Alan Young in Grades Six and Seven.

Mrs. Earle Bretzlaff has signed a contract to teach in the public school grades next year—probably Grade Seven.
