The two women, bound to visit friends at the Hudson Bay port of Churchill, Man., 610 miles north of Winnipeg, were stranded in Winnipeg briefly by the first blizzard of the year to hit the city.

Hit zero mark — to warm up

Officially, winter doesn't come until December 21, but winter weather came to the Sherbrooke area with a vengeance Thursday night and early Friday morning.

The mercury plummeted to a frigid low of zero, the was eight times as much snow in November of last year than there was this year. November, 1959, had 17.5 inches of snow while this year only 2.4 inches of snow fell. There were 2.9 inches of snow in Sherbrooke and district last December.

THE WEATHER

Cloudy with sunny periods this afternoon; cloudy with flurries or intermittent snow tonight; sunny with cloudy periods Saturday and not so cold; Low-high Saturday at Sherbrooke 15 and 22.

Lennoxville Experimental Farm reported.

Unofficial readings throughout the area showed that the thermometer dipped below the zero mark in many localities.

While a bitter wind blew huge gusts of snow around all night actually only .02 inches of snow fell during the night.

The average temperature this time last year was 34 degrees maximum and 28 degrees minimum, and last year on December 9 no snow fell.

The first snow fall last year was on November 2, with .04 inches. There

Slap curfew on bongo drums

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—The admiral couldn't sleep, so the judge ruled: No more bongo drums at night.

The order written by municipal Judge Frank Nottbusch wound up with this admonition: "Let us be quiet from 9 p.m. until 8 a.m. each day, or else."

For retired Rear Admiral Harold Tiernoth this constituted a victory of no mean proportion. At stake, said he, was his sleep.

Every night, said the admiral, the bongo drums drummed until 2 a.m. in Rudy Schoenbeck's restaurant across the alley.

The judge visited the scene. Then he convicted Schoenbeck of disturbing the peace and gave him a one-year jail sentence, suspended. The moratorium on drums is effective for one year.

Commons seen airing new attack on Coyne

OTTAWA (CP) — The furor over demands that James Coyne be removed as governor of the Bank of Canada likely will get a further airing in Parliament.

Mr. Coyne's removal from the $50,000-a-year job as head of the agency responsible for Canada's monetary policy was demanded by 17 university economists in letters to Finance Minister Fleming.

Mr. Fleming, who agreed to table them in the House, remarked that the economists gave no grounds for their statement that they have lost faith in the bank's management to pull Canada out of her economic difficulties.

The matter rested there in the Commons Thursday but the opposition may revive the issue during the debate on Mr. Fleming's supplementary budget or press for an investigation by a Commons committee.

ASKS INVESTIGATION

CCF Leader Argue gave an indication that the CCF will not allow it to die when he asked whether the government will make possible an investigation by the Commons banking committee.

Mr. Fleming replied that the Commons will have to decide that question when committees are set up and when the bank makes its annual report, which usually is presented in March.

The economists—12 from University of Toronto, four from Carleton University here and one from St. Francis Xavier University at Antigonish, N.S.—charged Mr. Coyne's public statements "have seriously shaken our faith in the wisdom and competence of the bank's management."

They said policies pursued by the bank "have not displayed sufficient concern for the difficulties and uncertainties of the financial market or sufficient awareness of the true state of the economy in general."

Prince Philip, Tony come under fire

LONDON (AP)—Prince Philip is publicly accused today of being "openly arrogant" and his brother-in-law Antony Armstrong-Jones is rapped for taking life too easy since he married Princess Margaret.

The criticisms come from the barbed pen of one of Britain's most widely read columnists, William Neil Conner, who writes in The Daily Mirror under the pseudonym Cassandra.

"Prince Philip is immensely able, publicly charming," Cassandra says.

But he adds: "He is openly arrogant, and occasionally an expert in the deadly art of being able to offend and get away with it most of the time."

Princess Margaret's husband is described as one of the Jones boys "and therefore has a bank balance of goodwill in every home in the land because of his name."

The Royal Family has what to most people would be an intolerable burden of duties, notes The Mirror. "Real heavy-on-the-collar stuff that needs a lot of solid carhorse pulling."

"Mr. Armstrong-Jones is the new shire horse that seems to rest a little too often on the shafts."

Today's Chuckle

Economy has been defined as a way of spending money without getting any pleasure out of it.

Commons debate

C.C.F. divorce bill killed by oratory

OTTAWA (CP) — A CCF member's bill to broaden the grounds for divorce in Canada was killed by oratory in the Commons Thursday night. But there was a hint that the CCF would have more to say about Parliament handling divorces.

The politically delicate subject was debated for five hours on private members' day before discussion was halted by the 10 p.m. adjournment.

The vote was taken. The bill thus fell to the bottom of the Commons agenda with almost no chance of bobbing up again this session.

Sponsor of the bill, Arnold Peters (CCF — Timiskaming), said at the outset that he had no hope of its immediate acceptance. His attitude was justified by criticism that came later from all corners of the House.

Most MPs who spoke said a revision is needed in Canadian divorce laws. But some objected to any step toward "easy divorce."

Mr. Peters' proposed bill was answered by objections on religious, moral and constitutional grounds.

MORE BLOCKADES LIKELY
During the debate Mr. Peters dropped one not-so-subtle hint that he and Frank Howard (CCF — Skeena) who last session lashed out at him for five months against parliamentary handling of Quebec and Newfoundland divorce cases — may have other tactics ready for this session.

The warning note was sounded while Robert McCleave (PC — Halifax), lawyer who heads the Commons committee that handles divorce bills, ripped into them for a "shameful" blockade of hundreds of bills at the last session.

"It will be worse this year," Mr. Peters called from his seat, without giving any further clues as to possible future action.

The Peters — Howard team lifted the blockade a few days before the last session ended in August after receiving a promise from the government that the House committee on procedure would study handling of divorce bills at the current session. The committee has not yet been set up.

CHANGE DOMICILE RULE

The bill debated Thursday would have established Canada's first national divorce law which could be offered, but no imposed, on whatever provinces wanted it. It provided an all-Canada domicile so that Quebec and Newfoundland residents could petition for divorce in other provinces, instead of coming to Parliament.

At present, eight of the provinces have their own divorce courts, applying pre-Confederation laws that recognize adultery as the major ground for divorce. Nova Scotia adds the ground of cruelty. Other exceptions are minor.

The CCF bill would have retained adultery as a ground and applied habitual cruelty to all parts of the country. These completely new grounds, patterned after recent Australian legislation, were among those added by the bill.

Two years' desertion; wilful and persistent refusal to consummate the marriage; rape, sodomy or bestiality; two years of habitual drunkenness or intoxication due to a sedative, narcotic or "stimulating drug;" five years of separation, or insanity.

Magazine 'package' is denied

MONTREAL (CP) — An executive of the largest magazine distribution company in the Montreal area firmly denied Thursday that his company had any influence on how magazines were displayed by dealers or that it forced any dealers to take some publications as "package deals."

Gerald Benjamin, secretary of Benjamin News Company, came under heavy cross-examination from Gratian O'Leary, chairman of the royal commission on publications, when he submitted a brief to the commission.

"It is true you exert some influence," let us say, on a news vendor on how he displays magazines," Mr. O'Leary asked.

DENIES IDEA
"We do not exert influence, we discuss it," Mr. Benjamin said. He said the company felt it was in its own interest, and that of the vendor, to display the best selling magazines prominently.

This led Mr. O'Leary to ask if there was such a thing as a "package deal," which forced a vendor to take certain magazines he did not want in order to get other publications he did want.

"There is no such thing," Mr. Benjamin said.

Fog, ice, snow blankets Europe

LONDON (AP) — Fog, ice or snow and in some places all three-blanketed much of Europe and the British Isles today.

In England, still drying out from last week's severe floods, not one county was free of fog.

Riot police fight mobs

ALGIERS (Reuters) — Riot police and a crowd of 10,000 anti-Gaullist demonstrators traded stones and tear gas grenades in a pitched battle here today.

The demonstrators threw up makeshift barricades amid widespread violence as President de Gaulle flew into western Algeria.

The barricades went up after explosions signalled fresh disorders following a lunch-hour lull.

Demonstrators and riot police fought a running battle along almost two miles of the winding Rue Michelet as marchers tried to reach the summer palace, official residence of government Delegate-General Jean Morin. Morin is a de Gaulle appointee.

Before noon a series of about 10 explosions shook central Algiers. It was not known whether there were casualties or whether damage was heavy.

De Gaulle took the rioting calmly as he flew into the rebellious territory to whip up support for his plan for home-rule.

SHOUT PROTESTS

As he stepped from his car, scattered cries of greeting were drowned out by a roar of "Algeria is French." Police said 5,000 people stood in a chill downpour to shout their protests.

De Gaulle smiled and strode erect to the city hall where he conferred briefly with authorities.

Then he walked through a cordon of security officer to shake hands with a dozen or so Moslems. Beaming, they clasped his hand and shouted "Vive de Gaulle."

One source said de Gaulle told city officials:

"On your faces I see a new Algeria which is being transformed. Only co-operation between the two communities (European and Moslem) can bring success."

The deputy mayor of Temouchent, Mohammed Mimouni, came outside with a French tricolor draped about his shoulders.

"We are all for de Gaulle and independence," he told reporters. De Gaulle is to spend six days trying to persuade the population his policy is the right one.

The army also moved into some areas of Algiers shortly after noon. Soldiers set up machine-gun emplacements near the university, deserted by students who took to the streets.

McGill lecture

Can't cancel Brendan

MONTREAL (CP) — Brendan Behan took on France and McGill University Thursday night and emerged through an alcoholic haze as the undisputed winner.

The happy Irish playwright overrode an attempt to cancel a scheduled lecture at the university with regal though slightly unsteady composure: "I don't want your fee, I'll talk for nothing!" and called France's leaders madmen and gangsters.

Then he left 100 McGill students, who had followed him on a long ramble over the campus to his car, cheering and calling for more songs and more stories.

But, said a tactful friend, Behan needed some rest after a tiring day.

Most of the day had been spent in what Behan called "convivial company" at the Montreal Men's Press Club working himself up to "feeling fine, just fine."

SPONSORS WORRY

As the hour for his evening lecture at McGill drew near, rumors floated around about his activities and officials sponsoring the lecture started worrying.

A radio station announced the lecture was cancelled.

"Don't ask us," officials said of the report. "We don't know."

The starting hour arrived. So did 450 students and McGill teachers. But no Behan.

"This is awful," said one official. "What could have got into him?"

"Liquor," suggested a patiently waiting student.

"After an hour wait, officials announced the lecture was off. "Your money will be cheerfully refunded," the audience was told.

48-hour deadline

Lumumba backers threaten hostages

LEOPOLDVILLE (CP) — Patrice Lumumba's supporters threatened today to kill an unspecified number of Belgian hostages unless the deposed premier is freed.

The group, which controls Oriental province, was reported to have set a 48-hour deadline for Lumumba's release. The deadline expires tonight.

Gen. Ngashy lyassu, commander of the Ethiopian UN contingent and chief of staff of the UN force, flew to Stanleyville early today to investigate the situation on the spot.

Gen. lyassu is to be in complete control of all UN action to meet Salumu's threat and has a free hand from UN mission chief Rajeshwar Dayal of India to take whatever measures he considers necessary.

President Joseph Kasavubu who are being held hostage in Stanleyville.

(Supporters of Lumumba sent a telegram from Stanleyville to Congolese authorities in Leopoldville Friday threatening to behead some of their Belgian hostages if Lumumba was not released within 48 hours.)

The Security Council debate adjourned at 1:30 a.m. after a series of bitter charges during which Britain's Sir Patrick Dean described the Congolese policies of the Soviet Union as "disgraceful" and "devoid of truth and replete with slander."

Landing is made in Cuba

HAVANA (AP) — A band of about 150 anti-Castro insurgents was reported fighting in central Cuba today after a new landing near Corralillo on the north coast 120 miles east of Havana.

Although the armed forces ministry called the report a "counter-revolutionary rumor," sources opposed to Prime Minister Castro insisted it was true.

Persons arriving in Havana from Matanzas, west of Corralillo, said the invaders have been engaging Castro soldiers and militia-men in sporadic battles the last two days. Some claimed to have seen truckloads of troops diverted to the area while en route to the Escambray Mountains to fight other insurgents.

Two militiamen were reported killed by one such band which came out of the mountains on a raid for food Thursday and clashed with troops at Cumanayagua, one of the gateways to the rugged range.

This report—one of several concerning armed clashes — came amid these other developments:

Authorities at Cienfuegos, near the south central coast, announced one person was killed and four were injured in an unsuccessful attempt of a group of counter-revolutionaries to seize a Cuban airliner in flight and force the pilot to fly out of the country.

Cuba bids for goods in Canada

OTTAWA (CP) — Cuba embarks today on its biggest bid yet to enlist Canada as a source of the things which it sorely needs.

Charged with the task is a 10-member Cuban trade mission which arrived here Thursday afternoon following a non-stop flight from Havana.

Head of the mission, Economy Minister Regino Boti, said it had come to "find out what we can purchase."

Mr. Boti said Cuba is prepared to buy up to $150,000,000 worth of goods including newsprint, cattle, spare parts and wheat from Canada next year—and insisted that it has the convertible currency to pay for them.

Continue search for lost flyers

MONTREAL (CP) — Two helicopters and two planes took off from Val d'Or, Que., at dawn today to continue the search for four RCAF fliers missing after an air collision late Wednesday.

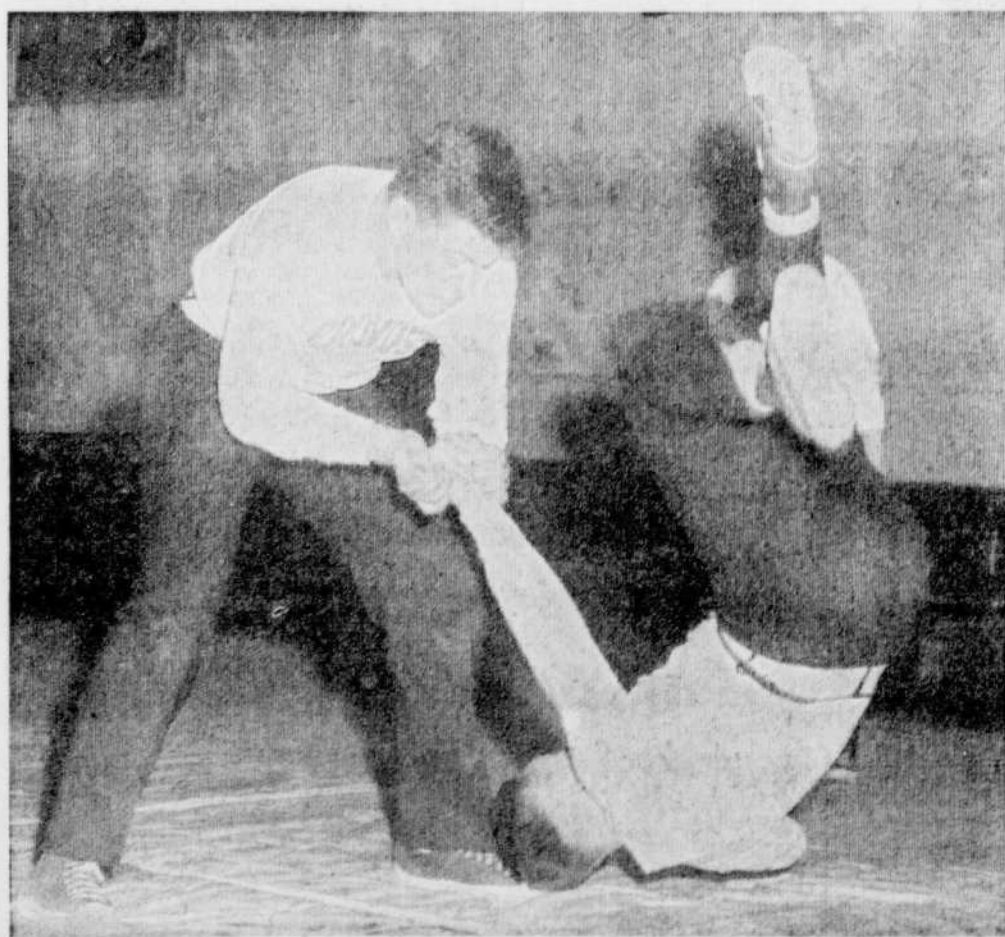

Part of the wreckage of one of the two CF-109 jets involved was spotted Thursday 30 miles south of Rouyn. No sign of the men was found.

A ground search party remained near the wreckage throughout the night in below zero weather.

Val d'Or, headquarters of the RCAF search, is 325 miles northwest of Montreal. Rouyn is 60 miles further west, some 20 miles from the Ontario border.

About Television

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — Virginia Payne, an actress with many years experience in broadcasting, recently remarked that for a woman to succeed in television she must "look like a girl, think like a man, act like a lady and work like a dog."

Certainly, the studios and offices of television are crammed with bright young women ready and eager to fill this demanding bill. But few indeed are called before the cameras. There is plenty of opportunity, however, in the behind-the-scenes, non-executive spots for the ladies.

Statistically, there are at least two actors hired for every actress. And a recent survey of the membership of the American women in radio and television—1,448 members—showed that about one-third earned less than $1,000 a year in broadcasting.

REPORTERS RARE

But even rarer than the steadily employed actress in television is the regularly employed U.S. network reporter and broadcaster. They can be counted, in fact, on two fingers—Nancy Hanchman of CBS and Pauline Frederick of NBC.

Nancy has only been an official "Washington correspondent"—which means on-camera work—since last February. CBS made such a fuss about appointing her you would have thought they had discovered women in electronic journalism.

Pauline, however, has been a broadcasting reporter for several years, many of which were spent in efforts to get a chance to do something besides the woman's angle. Finally NBC gave her a chance, assigning her to an important, beat, the United Nations, where her thoughtful, thoroughly informed reports have been widely appreciated.

Despite revolts in the past and reports of continued unrest among the peoples of these nations, the institute warns that the satellite armies, totaling about 850,000 men with 300,000 in reserve, would probably be a valuable and reliable addition to Russia's own strength in case of war.

On Saturday evening Miss Galazzo and Gordon Archer were guests at a dance held in Magog in their honor prior to their approaching marriage on Dec. 10. The dance was attended by about 100 friends and relatives. Music was furnished by Sal and His Border Mountaineers and the couple was presented with a purse of money by Stewart Alex on behalf of their many friends.

File 10 new claims totalling $12,435

Ten new damage actions totalling $12,435.06 have been entered in Superior Court against Stanislas Grondin, of Sherbrooke and the Propane Gas Corporation as a result of an explosion which occurred in the Raby & Freres Store Dec. 15, 1958, killing two people, injuring 18 others and causing extensive damage.

Warns of Yule fire hazards

Special care should be taken with Christmas trees to avoid any possibility of fire during the holiday, Lennoxville Fire Chief Roger Simonneau said Thursday.

The trees are easily inflammable, he said and precautions should be taken to render them fire-resistant.

They should be sprayed with some type of fire-resistant chemical and placed in a pail of water before being decorated.

Any electrical equipment to be used as decoration, should be carefully checked by a licensed electrician before being installed on the tree. Never place the tree near a heater.

If a number of decorations are to be used, flammable ones should not be on or near the tree. Also, do not put them near chairs or any places where people are likely to be smoking.

Many people place candles in the windows, he said but this is not wise. Use lights but keep curtains and any other flammable material at least six inches away from them.

Few jobs here for commerce students, U of S director says

By ALISON SCHOENFELD
(Record Staff Reporter)

Although practically all of the 265 students in the University of Sherbrooke's Faculty of Commerce come from the Eastern Townships, few find employment in this area. According to Dr. Rosario Cousineau, Director of the Faculty of Commerce.

Dr. Cousineau has been campaigning for bigger industries and better transportation facilities in the Sherbrooke area for some time. He feels these improvements are needed not only to supply jobs for graduates from his faculty but also to make Sherbrooke less of a "forgotten area."

Jobs for Commerce graduates are scarce in Sherbrooke because there are so few large industries. The small industries prefer to follow the old custom of having their men work up through the ranks. They don't employ college graduates for executive positions, Dr. Cousineau maintains.

The Faculty of Commerce is realistic about the lack of local jobs and so most of the text books and some of the lectures are in English. Of course, Dr. Cousineau points out, it would be very difficult to get French text books in the field of Commerce anyway. They would have to come from Europe and since European business methods are different from Canadian there would be little point in doing this.

In addition European textbooks follow the metric system and this would cause students a good deal of trouble.

As well as using English texts the Faculty of Commerce makes a great effort to provide the students with a working knowledge of English, since they will either work in Montreal or outside the province. Dr. Cousineau maintains that the University of Laval in Quebec City does not need to make the same effort to teach its students English because French-speaking jobs are available in that area.

Dr. Cousineau feels that there is hope for industrial development on higher levels in Sherbrooke once better highways are built. Sherbrooke could be revolutionized if there were good highways between Sherbrooke and Montreal and Quebec, according to Dr. Cousineau.

Glen Sutton man downs 400-lb bear

DENIS DUFUR AND TROPHY

GLEN SUTTON — (Staff) — An 82-year-old Glen Sutton resident killed a 400 pound bear recently with one shot from a 50-year-old rifle.

This was Denis Dufur's first kill of the year but certainly not the first of his career, for the elderly hunter has been prowling the woods for more than 60 years.

During these years, Mr. Dufur has shot many animals in the Stanstead, Scottsboro, Megantic and Glen Sutton areas. Today, he says "hunting is not like it used to be."

"There isn't the game around there used to be, but an old hunter can still get his kicks out of beating the bush," he said.

Mr. Dufur has never eaten bear meat and does not plan to. As a matter of fact, he does not even want to keep the pelt. He plans selling it to a friend who asked for it.

What is Mr. Dufur's hobby since retiring a few years back? Hunting of course.

Outbreak of hog cholera said spreading in province

The recent outbreak of hog cholera in the province is spreading, Dr. G. T. Labelle, Quebec Regional Veterinary Officer of the Health of Animals Branch of the Federal Ministry of Agriculture in Montreal announced Thursday.

Dr. Gerard Jolicoeur, Sherbrooke regional veterinary, Federal Department of Agriculture said the spread involves the Townships, but that the situation here is not yet epidemic.

Dr. Labelle's report followed a recent report in the Record on hog cholera in the Eastern Townships.

Since October 4, the disease has been found on 40 farms in the province. It has involved the slaughtering of 9,985 pigs with reimbursements to the farmers totalling $205,000.

These cases were found in the Counties of Shefford, Stanstead, Missisquoi, Valcartier, Terrebonne, Gatineau, Jacques-Cartier, Rouville, Chambly, Megantic, Nicolet, L'Assomption, Montcalm and Arthabaska.

The disease has been spread, the report said, mainly by the purchase of pigs from affected farms in these counties.

Other causes have been, purchase at sales of the affected animals, improper feeding with kitchen scraps, and people visiting piggeries who have been in contact with the infection and have brought to another farm.

The only method of completely clearing the province of the disease, said Dr. Labelle, is immediate notification of the district department when the first symptoms are found.

These symptoms include: refusal to eat, constipation of the animals followed by diarrhea, high temperature, refusal to get up and move about, continual laziness, feebleness, staggering, and red marks behind the ears and on the abdomen. Mortality rates become quite high.

When it has been definitely established that a herd is infected, the animals are ordered slaughtered and the farmer is paid a fair market price as compensation.

It is important to know that man cannot be affected but he can carry the virus from one farm to another.

Farmers are asked to keep in mind the following precautions: Do not feed kitchen scraps of any kind to pigs; Do not permit visitors to enter the piggery or come close to the animals;

Provide a disinfectant solution to clean boots or shoes before entering the piggery;

Do not purchase any pigs unless they have been proved clear of any sign of the disease;

If the disease is notified or symptoms are found, notify the federal veterinary in this region, Dr. Gerard Jolicoeur, Room 241, Federal Building, Sherbrooke; telephone Lorraine 2-3171, or the Regional Veterinary, Room 500, 909 University Street, Montreal, telephone UNIVERSITY 1-5477.

For benefit of husband

Woman not responsible for debt

A Magog woman, separated as to property from her husband by a marriage contract, was held to be not responsible for debts incurred by her for the sole benefit of her husband, according to a judgment handed down in Sherbrooke Superior Court by Hon. Mr. Justice Gaston Desmarais.

Action was taken by a Magog lawyer, Jean A. Chamberland, against Mrs. Emilien Dodier for the amount of $375.42 and costs. His suit maintained this was the amount due on a loan of $400 which the lawyer made to her husband for which she signed a note.

Testimony by Mrs. Dodier and her husband showed that the money had been paid to Mr. Dodier who had used it to pay a debt. Mrs. Dodier did not touch the money nor profit from it in any way.

For this reason, Justice Desmarais held her to be not responsible for the debt.

Ladies of the 72nd Unit, Army, Navy & Air Force Veterans' Women's Auxiliary, Magog, met last Monday evening, when a new member, Mrs. Ann McMillan was sworn in. President of the group, Mrs. Lillian Cochrane headed the meeting of 29 members.

Plans were made for the annual Yuletide party when underprivileged children of Magog are invited for dinner at the unit hall on Main Street West. Mrs. Cochrane said any donations to this party for the boys and girls would be greatly appreciated.

Following Monday's meeting, the ladies held their own pre-Christmas party, exchanging gifts.

Changing employment picture

The rapid changes in industrial practices caused by technological developments have been one of the basic reasons for much of the unemployment reported in recent years.

The average Canadian realizes that this or that industry is curtailing unemployment because of automation, but it will come as a shock to most people to realize that the air transport industry will be plagued by unemployment by mid-February. To most people, aviation has been considered a rapidly expanding industry but despite the growth of traffic, the Trans Canada Air Lines will furlough, or lay-off, 104 pilots within the next two months because of the increased speed and greater capacity of their new planes.

United States airlines report a similar condition, with about 1,200 pilots being released because of lack of work.

This problem of technological displacement is one which must be worked out before any real relief can be offered for the unemployment situation. A crash program of public works will provide relief for limited numbers of unemployed for limited periods.

Recently, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics released figures reflecting the drastic change in the nature of Canadian employment between September, 1959, and September 1960 — a one-year period.

During the year, 86,000 new jobs were created but the labor force increased by 180,000 with a consequent increase of 94,000 in the number of unemployed.

But more startling is the distribution of jobs. Production is declining as a mode of employment, while the so-called service industries are assuming greater importance. The latter group provided 174,000 new jobs in the twelve-month period the gains being divided into: Service, including civil servants, medical profession, teachers, janitors, etc., 124,000; trade, 24,000; primary industry, mining, etc., 14,000 and real estate, finance and insurance, 12,000.

However, 88,000 jobs disappeared, of which 43,000 were in the construction field, 31,000 in manufacturing, 10,000 in transportation and utilities and 4,000 in agriculture.

The most obvious contribution to easing unemployment would be to create an atmosphere conducive to widening the base of Canadian production, rather than resort to palliatives with no permanent benefits. Millions invested in new industrial plants would provide immediate relief to the construction industry and at the same time provide permanent jobs in the future.

Antarctica a refuge

Frequently when the reasons for a man climbing a mountain or breaking through a barrier into new lands, or even reaching for the moon, are discussed, the answer is given that they attempt these things "Because it's there."

But, according to Capt. E. E. Hedblum, a United States Navy doctor linked to Antarctica expeditions, at least half the men who sign for these isolation trips are refugees — from women.

While some give other reasons, a study of their case histories reveals that basically they are seeking a refuge from women.

And at least 20 per cent of the volunteers offer no evasive reasons, Dr. Hedblum declares.

Ball point pens

After years of writing under water and over butter the ball point has reached a new zenith.

It has been judged suitable for use by school children.

The management committee of the Toronto Board of Education this week recommended that they be substituted for straight pens and open ink wells in that city's schools.

It sounds like a worthwhile and progressive move.

Rightly or wrongly, pen nibs, penhold-ers and ink pots are old hat and you'd have to look hard and long to find them outside a classroom.

It seems pointless to train our children to effect a fine round hand with antiquated writing implements that they most certainly will abandon as soon as they leave school.

Why not, as Toronto seems intent on doing, teach them to write a fine round hand with a twentieth century instrument?

National Council of Churches:

Passion for status quo deplored

By CARMAN CUMMING
Canadian Press Staff Writer

A growing concern within the United States over the basic American attitude toward the nationalistic movements of Asia, Africa and Latin America has been articulated by the U.S. National Council of Churches.

In blunt terms, a report to the influential body has deplored the U.S. passion for maintaining the status quo. And it has urged the U.S. to take sides with the reform struggles in backward countries. On a theoretical level, politicians and businessmen may applaud this as a noble sentiment. In practical terms, there is no chance that U.S. foreign policy, inexorably harnessed with the U.S. dollar, could accomplish such an about-face.

The inevitable result is that the U.S. finds itself holding tickets on such losing horses as Fulgencio Batista, Syngman Rhee or Adnan Meenderes.

More recently the U.S. has tacitly or overtly backed the "status quo" regimes in a rash of Latin American outbreaks in Guatemala, Nicaragua, Venezuela and Argentina. No one seriously expects it to do otherwise.

Nevertheless, the national council report points out areas where the U.S. could make friends outside the local bureaucratic circles without stepping on any toes.

The council notes reports of "massive human suffering" in northeastern Brazil and asks: "What reaction have we shown? ... What reaction will we show if it becomes another Cuba? Do we really care for people as people?"

It also comments that when Guinea became independent, five months passed before the U.S. sent a charge d'affaires to open an embassy. "Our indifference and inertia contrasted with Moscow's alertness and speed. No wonder Guinea is under Moscow influence."

A special report on Cuba also criticized American indifference. It said a social revolution was "long overdue" in Cuba and cited "appalling lack of knowledge" in the U.S. of the situation under ex-dictator Batista.

H.M.C.S. in pictures

Photographed navy going to war

TORONTO (CP)—Gib Milne, an Alberta-born landlubber who went to sea with a camera, has recorded his impressions of the Royal Canadian Navy in the Second World War in a book just out.

His collection of 109 photos is entitled H.M.C.S. after the letters on cap tallies of wartime naval ratings whose ships could not be identified. From its title-page, photo of a squad of grim-faced, bayonet-wielding blue-jackets to its last picture of newly-liberated Athens, the book is full of shots of ships and the men who manned them.

Milne, now 45 and president of the Toronto photographic firm of Gilbert A. Milne and Company Limited, got his first taste of photography as a small boy in the Medicine Hat darkroom of his portrait photographer father, the late Charles G. Milne. He was a news photographer and building up his own commercial business in Toronto when he joined the navy as a photographic officer during the war.

Gib remembers vividly many of the scenes in his book.

As a lieutenant aboard the converted cruiser Prince David whose landing craft helped in the liberation of Greece, he was one of the first allied officers in Athens. He took part in the victory parade, sometimes dashing out of the line of march to photograph the procession.

Newly-liberated Greeks asked him for all sorts of favors but he got the big one from them. He persuaded them to turn the flood lights—unused for years—on the famed Acropolis so he could photograph it by night. The photo is the last in his book.

Before the invasion of Normandy, the navy assigned Milne to photograph officers and men aboard Canadian landing craft whose chances of survival were not considered great. Then, due to some mix-ups, he was ordered as naval photographer to duty on one of the landing craft bound for the beaches.

"I even had to photograph myself," he recalls.

Gib's first worry was to make sure his film got back safely to England if anything happened to him. He assigned a stoker to this task and then began filming the invasion fleet.

Disembarking troops were hit and the upper works of the craft were splattered with German fire but the panoramic shots of the invasion Gib took from a gun-mount on the upper deck were the first published in North America.

"Years later," he says, "I learned from the captain of the landing craft that that gun mount was riddled with fire."

Many of his photos are of ships in the angry North Atlantic or moving in to invasion beaches, but his favorite shot has an almost peaceful quality. It shows men on landing craft waiting under lowering clouds and the brooding cliffs of the Italian island of Ponza. That was where crews trained for the August, 1944, invasion of southern France.

Gib's book is a dream of more than 15 years. He began plans for it before the war ended. This year the RCN marked its 50th anniversary and he was asked to produce the book as a record of the navy as he saw it in his viewfinder.

He and his collaborators have donated royalties from the book to the Royal Canadian Naval Benevolent Fund.

Working with him in putting the book together were Frank Lowe, war correspondent now associate editor of Weekend magazine; and three former naval lieutenants: Max Newton, production editor of Weekend; Scott Young, Toronto Globe and Mail sports columnist; and Joseph Schull, author of the official RCN history.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

TRUMP SHIFT WOULD WIN

West opened the king of hearts against the four spade contract. South took the customary time out for study before playing from dummy. Needless to say, there was no problem with dummy's 3-2, but he did have a problem with his own hearts and he was careful to falsecard with the eight.

Now it was West's turn to think. His partner had played the seven. Where was the four? He finally decided that his partner would hold the four and continued with the ace. From then on, it was all over. South discarded one of dummy's clubs on the queen of hearts; cashed the minor suit aces and made the rest of the tricks by ruffing back and forth.

The result would have been quite different if West had shifted to a trump at trick two. Either East or West would get the lead again before South could get a cross ruff going and a second trump lead would hold South to nine tricks—two aces and seven trumps.

Should West have shifted to a trump at trick two? The answer is that he surely would have if South had not concealed that four of hearts and probably should have anyway.

So let's just give South credit for a nice play and let it go at that.

Letter To The Editor

Dear Sir:

The constant reference in parliament and the press to the unemployment situation, shows a concern for the plight of those who are unemployed—at the same time it must not be forgotten that we have several millions of gainfully employed workers. The government of the day, particularly during a recession, is anxious to deal with it in a constructive way; the most it can and does try, is to appropriate public funds for public works that are not self-liquidating and constitute a permanent charge for maintenance.

No democratic government can accept full responsibility for unemployment; what it can and should do is to give the Canadian employer and his workers the highest degree of co-operation and protection in limiting the imports of competitive merchandise from low wage countries.

It is unfortunate that labour leaders are apparently more interested in getting wage increases and other benefits, than aiding the employer to keep his enterprise solvent and his workers at their jobs.

From the moment it became an important industrial nation, the successive American government imposed and maintained substantial tariffs against competitive imports which, in volume, would have deprived millions of highly paid workers of their jobs.

What is the percentage of workers in Europe and Asia that buy our automobiles in comparison with American and Canadian workers?

I have no hesitation in saying that the unemployment situation would be materially eased and thousands of workers kept in jobs, if production costs were substantially lower because of increased productivity following wage increases and other benefits.

Equally desirable and necessary is it for Canadian housewives to insist upon Canadian made goods when making purchases.

Keeping foreign workers employed because of the tremendous increase of imports of manufactured articles which are like- wise produced in Canada, inevitably leads to a curtailment of the volume of Canadian produced merchandise.

Articles that are destructively competitive with Canadian commodities should be excluded, even though the government may fear the reaction of a particular element that produces wheat and food commodities. The bulk of the national revenue, as well as that of the provinces and even the municipalities, comes from industry and commerce; hence, it devolves upon the government to meet the demands in the matter of tariffs and other means to enable the Canadian manufacturer to get the major share of what is sold in the retail stores.

The Canadian Manufacturers Association and the Canadian Chamber of Commerce are better equipped to advise the government what measures should be taken to deal with unemployment and keeping our national economy solvent, than labour leaders or the group interested in forming a new party.

Sincerely yours,
The Regent Knitting Mills, Ltd.,
H. Grover,

Managing-Director.

NO CAROLLING IN TIN PAN ALLEY

(Ottawa Journal)

Some years ago Mr. Fats Waller took an old Christmas season song, played it in the tempo of his time and called it Swingin' Those Jingles Bells. Mr. Waller's talent and taste and charm won him forgiveness for tampering with tradition.

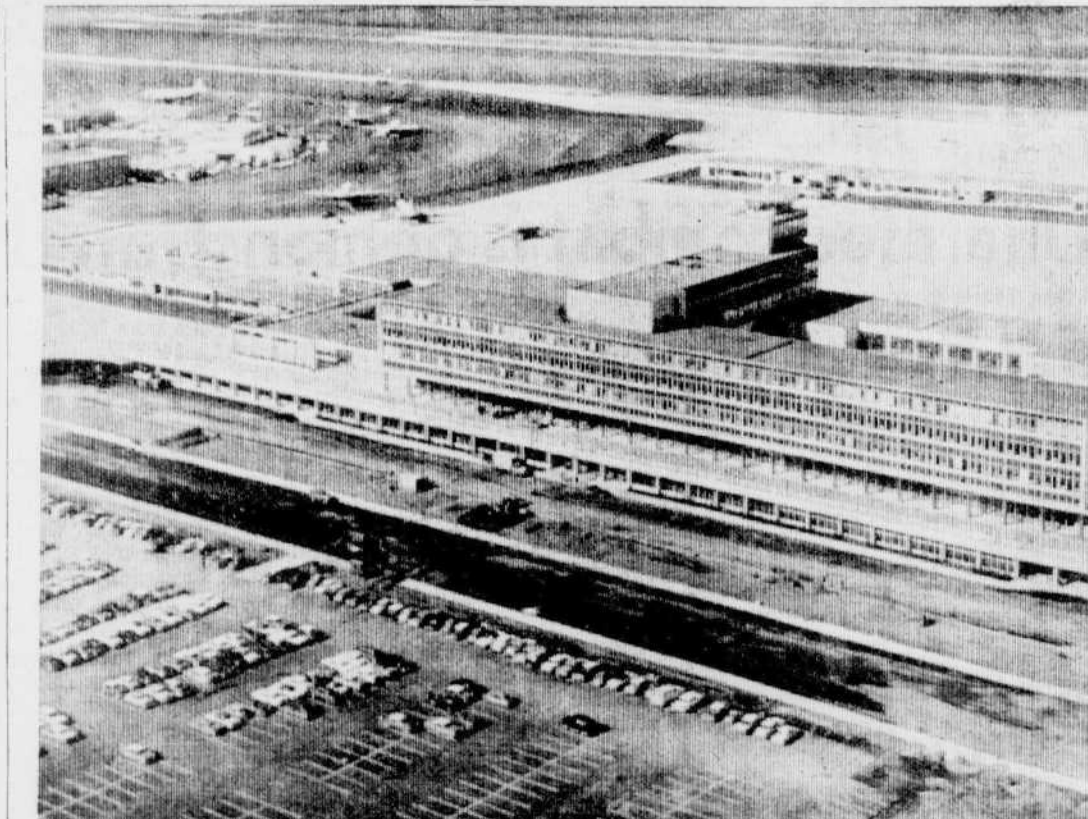

But another generation has arisen which knows not Fats Waller. It hasn't his talent, taste or charm, but it has gimmicks. The White Christmas Mambo is one of its slightest transgressions. We care not a fig what they do with Rudolph or the various confessions of Mrs. Santa Claus. But the old carols and folksongs are sacred. We will have no goodwill come Christmas for the singers who ask their true loves for "four diamond rings, three limousines, two milk coats and a partridge in a pear tree." One need not be a Scrooge to wish them buried with a branch of plastic Christmas tree through the heart.

New terminal at Dorval

Canada's busiest airport moves into the jet age this month

JET AIRPORT — This is an aerial view, looking toward the air field, of the new $30,000,000 terminal to be opened Dec. 15 at Montreal International Airport, Canada's busiest. The eight-story building is described as the most modern in the world, replacing the old terminal which became overcrowded since jet traffic began moving through the airport two years ago. MONTREAL (CP)—Canada's busiest airport moves fully into the jet age this month with the official opening Dec. 15 of a $30,000,000 terminal.

The interior of Montreal International airport's dazzling terminal is crisscrossed with modern passenger comforts and electronic devices. The eight-story building is described by the department of transport as "the newest, the most efficient and the most modern in the world."

It replaces an outmoded and overcrowded structure that has been described as a general nightmare, especially since heavy jet traffic began flowing through the airport two years ago.

The new terminal itself has been something of a nightmare for successive Liberal and Progressive Conservative governments. It was planned in 1953 at a projected cost of $4,000,000. By last year, the price tag had soared to the point where the treasury board ordered a special review of expenditures.

This review resulted in modifications—the first the terminal blueprints have seen since actual construction began in 1956.

Work was held to a snail's pace by a steel strike, the bankruptcy of several sub-contractors and squabbles between the D.O.T. and the airlines over basic design.

One sweeping change involved plans for aircraft parking space. Originally, all aircraft were to park beside finger-like corridors extending from the main building.

The advent of jets made this impossible, partly because of the effects of noise and engine blast and partly because jets need plenty of space to turn around.

Now, jets park at a 960-foot aerodrome 575 feet in front of the terminal. Twelve jets can be accommodated. Three passenger tunnels extend from the aerodrome to the main building. Ten airlines now schedule jet flights through Montreal.

Jet-prop and propeller aircraft park at fingers protruding from the east and west ends of the terminal. Basically, the west end is reserved for international flights and the east end for domestic flights.

The ground floor is used by passengers coming to Montreal while those leaving enter the terminal from a half-mile-long ramp leading to the first and main floor, directly above the ground floor exits.

From a passenger's viewpoint, the terminal's only drawback may be the distances he must walk. The 575-foot aerodrome tunnel and the long corridors lead into a building that has 750,000 square feet of space on the ground and first floors.

However, there are plenty of relaxation areas — nurseries, reading rooms, bars and restaurants — and the ticket booths, government departments and baggage outlets have been planned to save steps.

The airlines moved into the building Dec. 1, with all the essential facilities functioning by that date. However, the main dining-room and the immigration department offices were not expected to be fully completed by Dec. 15. Finishing touches also had to be put on several concessions and this work was expected to run past the official opening date.

The first four floors form an 840-foot long rectangle in which 12,000,000 passengers a year can be handled comfortably. About 2,500,000 now pass through Montreal annually.

The upper floors—occupied for several months in some cases—are much smaller. They contain the administration and air traffic control departments that keep the airport functioning smoothly.

The terminal stands on the southeast side of the airport, near an 11,000-foot concrete double runway designed especially for jets. The central heating plant, located more than a mile away, provides a steam heat load 2 1/2-times that of the Queen Elizabeth, one of the largest hotels in the British Commonwealth.

Stanstead Plowmen's Association New officers are elected

AYER'S CLIFF (Special)—Turner Hunter of Way's Mills was elected president of the Stanstead County Plowmen's Association at the annual meeting held on Wednesday in the Ayer's Cliff County Building.

It was announced that after the expenses of the card party and dance held in Way's Mills the end of November a sum of $97.80 was realized. The dance was held to try to build up the finances before the 1961 plowing match.

Canada's electronic firms protest rising imports

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's electronic industry said Thursday that radio manufacturers face "gradual dissolution" and producers of electronic tubes "abrupt extinction" because of sharply rising Japanese imports.

The electronic industries Association of Canada also said in a brief to the government that results of production sharing with the United States have been discouraging, disappointingly slow and unsatisfactory.

The brief, presented to Prime Minister Diefenbaker, Revenue Minister Nowlan, Trade Minister Hees and Defence Production Minister O'Hurley, said another grave problem will arise for the electronic industry unless the government acts immediately.

"We are reliably informed," it said, "that the Japanese are about to commence export of Japanese television receivers to Canada priced below any level a Canadian manufacturer can meet."

COULD WRECK INDUSTRY

W. H. Jeffery of Toronto, president of the Philco Corporation of Canada, told a press conference after the industry's meeting with the cabinet that "a substantial importation of Japanese television sets would quickly wreck our industry."

The association recommended: 1. Abolition of the present 15-per-cent excise tax on radios, tubes, television sets and parts to make the industry more competitive with imports.

2. Federal controls or quotas to limit imports of Japanese electronic equipment in any one year to 10 per cent of Canadian producers' sales in the preceding year.

3. Duties on Japanese imports be based on the fair market value of a comparable Canadian set.

4. A clearly understood arrangement be worked out with the U.S. for an equitable sharing of technical development and production so the Canadian electronic industry could obtain a greater share of defence orders.

Spokesman for the association told reporters that Mr. Diefenbaker and the three cabinet ministers indicated he government will move toward solving the problems facing the electronic industry.

Banking sources in Montreal said the assets were just about equal to the liabilities.

Since the Cuban government nationalized all banks this year except two Canadian-owned banks, the Royal found itself doing little business.

A statement issued by the bank's head office here said it was unable to operate satisfactorily because of nationalization laws and decrees.

With the exception of the Royal Bank and the Bank of Nova Scotia, all banks in Cuba were nationalized Oct. 13.

Under the nationalization law, all letters of credit were channelled through the Cuban Central Bank.

The Royal Bank was, in fact, losing money because it had to continue paying its 700 employees, in 23 branches, on the island.

The statement issued Thursday said the sale became effective Dec. 1 and that under the agreement the Bank's Cuban liabilities—its deposits—were assumed by the central bank.

A Royal Bank spokesman said the only regret is a sentimental one, involved in pulling out of Cuba after doing business there for more than 60 years.

WON'T IMPORT FRENCH CATTLE

LONDON (CP)—Agriculture Minister Christopher Soames said Thursday Britain would not, for the time being, import French Charolais cattle.

Earlier, The Farming Express, a weekly published by Beaverbrook Newspapers, said that Canada objected to Britain's proposed plan to import the cattle because they might bring disease into the country.

This could affect the export of British cattle to Canada, and the sales of Canadian cattle in the United States.

The Daily Express says the government's decision to block the cattle importing was "inspired mainly by the opposition of Canada." The newspaper says it "will disappoint the milk marketing board and many British farmers who had hoped to use the bulls to improve the beef produced by our dairy herds."

Woolworth's announces expansion program for '61

R. D. Campbell, Canadian General Manager of the F. W. Woolworth Company Limited this week announced his company's expansion program for 1961. In addition he reviewed the rapid growth of the Canadian company over the last 12 years.

Since 1948 the Woolworth Company has opened 113 new stores, improved and enlarged 76 stores, and modernized an additional 49 stores. The chain now operates 247 stores in Canada stretching from St. John, Newfoundland to Port Alberni, B.C. on the tip of Vancouver Island. There are stores in all 10 provinces.

Mr. Campbell emphasized the national character of the Woolworth Company pointing out that the total employee force; from the most junior clerk to the highest executive is Canadian and that every promotion and appointment is made from within the organization. He also expressed the feeling that the remarkable growth of the company "is due in large measure to its attention to people."

Mr. Campbell said "the growth of the company has kept pace with the development of Canada itself." The 1961 program which calls for an additional 33 new stores represents an investment of some $6,500,000. This kind of expansion, said Mr. Campbell, demonstrates our faith in the future prosperity of Canada and its people.

Take over Royal Bank in Cuba

MONTREAL (CP)—The Royal Bank of Canada has given up its operations in Cuba, it was announced Thursday.

The bank's Cuban assets, estimated at $160,000,000 were sold to the Banco Nacional de Cuba, the Cuban Central Bank.

Financial terms were not disclosed, but the Cuban bank agreed to take over the Royal Bank's assets and its liabilities. The settlement was described as amicable.

Banking sources in Montreal said the assets were just about equal to the liabilities.

Since the Cuban government nationalized all banks this year except two Canadian-owned banks, the Royal found itself doing little business.

A statement issued by the bank's head office here said it was unable to operate satisfactorily because of nationalization laws and decrees.

With the exception of the Royal Bank and the Bank of Nova Scotia, all banks in Cuba were nationalized Oct. 13.

Hall attacks gov't action

MONTREAL (CP)—Frank H. Hall, chief negotiator for Canada's non-operating railway unions, Thursday described the federal government's legislation to block a proposed rail strike as an "assault on human rights and the dignity of the individual."

He told a Kiwanis Club meeting that the move was "a travesty of justice perpetrated—the prime minister said—in the interests of the country."

"The fact is the members of the governing party were not free agents—they could not afford to have a conscience," Mr. Hall said.

CAN'T CANCEL

around the tables outside the lecture hall collecting their refunds, Behan rolled in.

His collar was open, his hair dishevelled and his shirt stained. But he struck out firmly for the auditorium stage.

"I understand I am not being paid for this performance," he said. "I had intended to come here and to insult you as hard as I know how and I intended to tell you about Samuel Butler."

LAUNCHES INSULTS

He never did tell about Butler, a nineteenth-century English writer, and he launched only a few insults.

Instead, he sang a couple of choruses of a French-Canadian ballad. Then, suddenly serious, he turned the lash of his scorn on France's Algerian policies.

"I don't like Nazis—I don't like French Nazis any more than I do German Nazis," he said.

"I like France. They entertained me last year but now they are murdering Algerians. Montreals love France, but now France is led by madmen, gangsters and collaborators."

French-speaking Canadians could influence the French government to change its Algerian policies.

"If you won't, who will?" he asked. "What can those other idiots—I can't call them Canadians, because they're not, and I can't call them Indians, because they're not—what can they do to help Algeria?"

As he left the auditorium, he ran into a waiting crowd of admirers. They dogged his footsteps as he headed for the car to drive him to his hotel.

SPIT 'N' POLISH

Say mister, are those boot laces being used properly?

The Canadian Army specifies laces being used properly? The Canadian Army specifies a specific method for use of boot laces, designed to allow easy and fast removal of footwear in case of injury. It's a simple way of lacing, neat and easy.

First, run one end of the lace from the outside top eye of the boot to the inside bottom eye on the opposite side of the flap. Thread the lace from bottom up, so you get an even ladder-effect all the way to the top.

Don't let your laces twist. Keep them clean, pressed and well blackened, and remember you are supposed to remove them when polishing your footwear.

When laces get frayed, knotted and shabby, exchange them. A good soldier always has perfect lacing in his boots. Take note and see for yourself.

Farm Forum Activities

COOKSHIRE

The Farm Forum group met on Monday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alden Learned at which time the broadcast on consumer protection was discussed by the seventeen persons present. It was decided that there were not many cases of actual fraudulent practice in this area. However, it was felt that nearly all salesmen did exaggerate the value of the product they were selling and that it was advisable for the buyer to investigate thoroughly before involving any appreciable amount of money in a purchase.

Farm Forums could assist in their community when any case of fraud comes to their notice by making the facts known and by notifying those who could deal with such activities.

We think that government officials are doing a good job of dealing with matters that come under their jurisdiction particularly in weights and quality of foodstuffs being sold. However, the Forum thinks that much remains to be done in respect to the many drugs that are being sold often at exorbitant prices.

Finally the forum decided that the best preventive against being cheated, is for the individual to deal with reputable people and to bypass the person who comes along with some get rich quick scheme.

SAWYERVILLE

The Sawyerville Farm Forum met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wilfrid Grape, December 5, with 10 present. The broadcast topic was on Consumer Protection.

Following the broadcast Mahlon Grape gave a report on his recent trip to Toronto and the Royal Winter Fair, Niagara Falls and Ottawa. Mahlon won this trip by placing first in the Province for judging sheep at the summer fairs. He was thanked by Mr. A. Nugent.

During the discussion period the group decided that Consumer Protection was not a very serious problem in this community. Used farm machinery and used cars seem to be the two most misrepresented items, for which little has been done. The members did not think there was much action that the Forum could take to protect the customer. Help could be obtained through the Better Business Bureau and the government.

Sure Gain Feeds invited the Forum to a meeting in Victoria Hall, Cookshire on Dec. 13, at 8 p.m., when W. K. Meyer, head nutritionist of Canada will be guest speaker. There will be refreshments and door prizes.

It was suggested that Mr. Whitelaw be asked to speak to the members at a Rally sometime soon.

The next meeting will be at the home of Mr. Lionel Hurd. Lunch was served by the ladies.

THIRD RANGE

The Third Range Farm Forum was entertained at the Winget home with 16 present, and Herbert Winget as chairman. Mrs. Herbert Winget read the Green Leaf.

The topic for the evening was Consumer Protection - Real or Imaginary. The questions under discussion were: How serious is this problem in your community? If you have found any signs of serious misrepresentation and how has it been handled. One of the apple sprays being used is not as efficient as advertised.

Following Federal Inspection, a new chart was made out for 1961, also some car manufacturers put out bodies with rust resistant stamped on the body which do not stand up any better than cars without the seal. Government inspected seed grain has been purchased which quite often has been of inferior quality or not of the variety ordered.

What action needs to be taken to protect the customer by the Forum? Community? Government?

To protect the customer through the forum and community all infractions should be reported to the government which should appoint a reliable inspection committee.

Following the discussion period cards were played at four tables. Refreshments were served by the hostess.

Members will be entertained at the Bonnalie home on Monday evening, December 12. Wanted - a Food Thruway, will be the topic for discussion.

HIGH AND LOW FOREST

The December 3 meeting was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hazen Lowry with 22 members present.

Resulting from the discussion of Consumer Protection, it was thought there was very little trouble problem in this community, but the members were urged to be alert when dealing with door-to-door salesmen and to read carefully before signing anything.

To discredit unscrupulous salesmen or falsely advertised articles the members were urged to write to the Better Business Bureau, tell others, or advertise in the local papers. The council should check the businesses and credentials of the salesmen.

Miss Ida Mackay, who is at present a patient in the Sherbrooke Hospital, was remembered on her 93rd birthday.

The group received an invitation from the Shure-grain Feeds to meet in Victoria Hall, Cookshire on December 13.

Nineteen families have now joined the forum.

The December 12 meeting will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Verne Wilson.

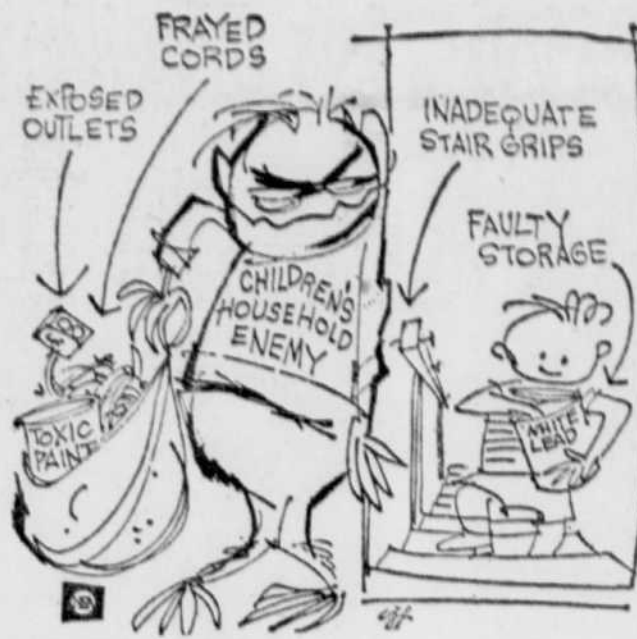

BEDFORD

On Monday evening, the members of the Bedford Farm Forum met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hannibal Sheltus on Dutch Street. When the meeting broke up and the members started for home, flames were noticed at the adjoining farm of Mr. Ball, who had recently purchased it from Mr. Neil Creller.

The alarm was sounded and the members of the Bedford fire brigade were quickly on the scene. The fire had broken out in an out building near the house, and was put on after excellent work on the part of the fire brigade.

Mr. and Mrs. Ball with their children were asleep in the house and were unaware of the fire, until awakened by the fire-fighters. If the fire had not been discovered, serious consequences could have ensued, as the out-building was near the house.

Do-It-Yourself

Remove home hazards

By MR. FIX

With all of the hazards that exist in a child's world it's amazing that he ever achieves adulthood.

Most, if not all, of household dangers can be minimized by the careful homeowner.

Replace all cords and extensions that have frayed and worn insulation. Over-long extension cord runs are at best a nuisance. If additional outlets can't be installed, run surface-mounted outlets around the wall above the baseboard to get an outlet closer to lamp or appliance.

Shocking

A serious shock can result when a child probes an outlet with a metal object—pin, nail or mommy's hairpin. With a toddler around the house it would be wise to replace standard duplex outlets with the patented variety that have caps that cover openings when the outlet is not in use. The cap can be twisted out of the way when the plug is inserted.

Outlet covers are available that will do the same thing but aren't as easy to use nor as durable.

Some power sources can be locked with special adapters available in most electrical shops.

They Don't Mix

Electric appliances that are used intermittently should not be left connected. A child probing around in a connected toaster is in for serious trouble.

The new electric can openers are attractive for the young experimenter. While on some a switch must be held to keep it going, others run until the can is opened. Nothing stops them, not even a finger.

PAINT SAFELY

Painting or repainting the nursery? Touching up some of the youngster's toys? Be sure to use a non-toxic paint—one without lead.

The Record's Farm Report

Milk production for October was estimated this week by DBS at 1.5 billion pounds, down more than 5.2 per cent from the same month in 1959. This brings the January-October production to just over 16 billion pounds, up only 1.2 per cent from last year.

With this drop in milk production, the outlook of the Stabilization Board on dairy products has become optimistic. Talk of a shortage of milk in a few years is even heard. Though the decline in milk is partly due to dry fall pastures, the production situation is likely to make it easier for the government to continue support for butter at the present 64 cent level next May.

Nine cities butter stocks dropped one per cent last week. The winter decline in butter may be much more rapid than last year if milk production continues low. Hopes are high in Ottawa that the next four months will take the pressure off the record high butter supplies held by the Stabilization Board.

Hog Prices Climb

With hog marketings continuing at their fall peak, prices have already begun to climb again. Close to 130,000 hogs a week are still being slaughtered in federally inspected plants. Marketings may not go above this. But at present they are merely 23 per cent below those at this time last year.

Cattle prices continue at $2.50 to $3.00 below last year, giving strong price competition to pork. But stocks of all meats at the end of October were down to 66.9 million pounds, 47 per cent below 1959.

Consumption of beef for the January-October, 1960, period was 11 per cent above 1959.

Pork consumption was down only six per cent in spite of the sharp decline in hog marketings.

Under these conditions hog prices are bound to strengthen. Even before the peak in hog marketings has passed they rose $1.00 to $1.50. This week they reached $28.50 in Toronto. They should continue to rise and remain strong for some months, until increased farrowings, expected next spring, reach the market.

by Gladys Richards For and About Women

Those who enjoy good music have a treat in store on Saturday if they stop for awhile at the MacKinnon Memorial Building. A program of Christmas music will be given by the Singing Girls of Sherbrooke, under the direction of Mrs. Lois Ogilvie Blanchette.

During the afternoon tea will be served by members of the Y.W.C.A. All in all it promises a most enjoyable afternoon, so why not plan to drop in for a relaxing hour and at the same time help the work of the Y.

There has been such a round of teas and sales during the past month that to take them all in one needs be almost super-human.

I have missed very few and have been amazed at the exceptionally large attendance at each of them. In talking to the women they have told me that though we have heard a lot about unemployment, the financial returns from these events have been extremely good this year.

Each group seems to have some member who excels in something special or Wednesday at the Trinity tea I again saw the hardwork of Mrs. S. Barnes in the decorations which were sold, and the original table decorations were the work of Mrs. Lorne Campbell, who has often brightened the Children's Ward at the Sherbrooke Hospital with her work. Mrs. K. Halpeny, also did her share of the work.

Dolls clothes seem to have been very popular this year and at the Sangster Memorial tea, Miss Lettie Hodge made most of the clothes that were on display. One thing that I thought very sweet, was the basinet, complete with dolly. It was made from a basket to which legs had been attached, giving the height for a full embroidered nylon skirt, and a nylon covered hood. This was also the work of Miss Hodge.

Another women who loves to make dolls clothes is Mrs. Sam Berwick, she had prepared articles for two teas, for she was at the St. Andrew's Auxiliary tea and also at the Trinity.

For a bonus surprise for your Christmas guests cut butter pats into Christmas shapes. Your cookie cutter is the tool for this job. Sprinkle the shapes with paprika, or finely chopped parsley for added colour.

At the Sherry Party held last Saturday by the Sir John Sherbrooke Chapter IOOE, the little after five black sheath dress seemed most popular for the women there, though some wore stunning cocktail dresses in rose and greens. It was a gala affair and I'm sure the members were very pleased with the financial results.

If you find you have a spare evening why not make your Christmas cookie dough now. If it is wrapped in foil and placed in the refrigerator or freezer it will be ready to make in a jiffy.

While at the Sangster Memorial Tea I noticed two old friends of the Church, Mr. and Mrs. Doug Galbraith, now of Irberville, who dropped in to have a chat with old friends. But I did miss Dr.

Women's Sphere

and Mrs. H. Bayne from Melbourne, for they very seldom miss a Christmas tea at Sangster's.

CAMELOT LOOK

The Camelot look is sweeping the country for the teenager, with two-tone tights, shock color topover blouses, heraldic jewelry, little caps and pointy shoes, bringing all the pageantry of King Arthur's Court.

If drop cookies spread out too much during baking, it means that dough should have been chilled, or shortening was over measured.

Here are some Christmas goodies that need no baking. My daughter sent me a little cook book put out by the Women's Federation in Lorne Park, Ont. I have tried some of them and found them delicious.

CHOCOLATE CHRISTMAS WREATHS

12 oz. semi-sweet chocolate and 3½ cups all wheat flakes. Melt chocolate over hot water. Add wheat flakes, mix well until coated with chocolate. Place by spoonfuls on wax paper. With 2 forks shape into wreaths. Decorate as desired with colored candies or candied. Tie with red ribbon after chocolate hardens.

STRAWBERRIES

½ lb. candied cherries, ½ lb. coconut, pinch salt, ½ lb. blanched almonds, yolk of one egg, candied peel for stems. Put cherries and almonds through food chopper, add egg yolk, salt and coconut. Shape like strawberries and roll in red jelly powder. Cut peel in small strips and use for stems.

Fashion

There's an art to wearing gloves and the proper length is important. Either have your gloves meet your sleeves or wear gloves that show a lot of arm between sleeve and glove. A halfway compromise isn't chic.

When you're buying a soft-shell pump (which means it has no boxing, only a soft leather lining), buy it a half-size smaller than your regular shoe size. Otherwise, when it loosens, it will be too large.

Fake leopard is turning up on a large scale in great, oversized handbags that are really baby suitcase size.

Tea held in Yuletide setting

Trinity Church Hall gaily decked for the Christmas season was filled with eager shoppers on Wednesday afternoon, when the Woman's Association sponsored a delightful tea and sale.

Bright cut-outs of Christmas trees and snowmen on a silver background on the walls and the lovely wreaths and Christmas stars reflected in the light of the novel table centers. These were replicas of the old hurricane lamps made with foil pie plates and cup cake dishes with a glass jar in which green and red candles burned brightly. The Christmas theme was further carried out in the table covered with a red cloth with a pine cone centerpiece and green tapers in tall crystal holders.

Throughout the afternoon seasonal music was played on the small electric organ by Mrs. Ken Halpeny and her young daughter Pamela. The guests were received by Mrs. R. Graham Barr and Mrs. R. S. Bauman, president of the association, and the cashier was Mrs. Adam Clarke.

Hockey star's mother enjoys busy life

MONTREAL (CP)—Being the working mother of a talented athlete family has been rewarding, says Dorothy Marshall, mother of Montreal Canadiens hockey star Don Marshall.

A switchboard operator before her marriage, Mrs. Marshall went back to work at the job with the CNR in 1943.

On the homefront, irregular meal-times were the least of the worries presented by her energetic family—there were also broken teeth and torn ligaments.

Mrs. Marshall's husband, an accountant, played baseball, while daughter Brenda won tennis championships and son Geoffrey excelled at football.

Don, says Mrs. Marshall, rose at 5 a.m. to practise hockey and after homework and dinner at night, practised some more.

"He was skating all the time," said Mrs. Marshall. Yet he never missed a day of school and he was never late, she added proudly.

"DAD DOESN'T WORK" Mrs. Marshall, not unnaturally, has developed a keen interest in hockey. But her main interest is still her family, which now includes five grandchildren.

She says five-year-old Susan, Don's oldest child, is among his most ardent supporters, even though her ideas of professional hockey playing are rather revolutionary.

Living pattern cut first; income tailored to fit

Wives of New York City policemen recently threatened to march on City Hall to protest the ban on outside jobs for their husbands.

Wives demanding the right for their husbands to hold down two jobs may be something new. But it's not surprising.

Today wives are the ones who cut a family's living pattern. They are the ones who decide just how much take-home pay papa has to earn in order for the family to live according to the pattern mama has cut.

When papa's job doesn't pay enough, then mama either urges him to change jobs, ask for a raise, get a second job with a second pay check—or else she goes to work herself to supplement the family income.

The new idea is to tailor the income to fit the living standard mom has decided on. That has replaced the old-fashioned idea that a family should cut its pattern of living according to the size of the bread winner's pay check.

So for wives to fight for a husband's right to hold two jobs is just a logical outcome of the new attitude toward family finances. The fact that wives might consider it their duty to go to bat for their husband's right to earn two pay checks instead of seeing to it that the family can live on one isn't surprising.

That's all part of the new conception of good management on the housewife's part. Her job no longer is figuring out how to live on one pay check but how to see to it that the family has more than one, if she decides one isn't sufficient.

Beauty Tips

Every child can't have perfect teeth, but preventive and corrective dentistry pays dividends in beauty in the years to come.

These beauty aids come not in bottles: Graciousness and charm. How you sit, walk and speak helps determine your own personal atmosphere of charm.

Develop the habit of wear-and-wash. Saves scrambling for fresh gloves, scarves, stockings and other accessories at the last minute. And tension is a definite hindrance to an effect of beauty.

India-Pakistani relations are thawing says Canadian diplomat back from Asia

OTTAWA (CP)—A Canadian diplomat who returned earlier this year from Asia has added his voice to the growing chorus of reports about a thaw in India-Pakistan relations.

"The trend in Indo-Pakistan relations is very encouraging," says Herbert O. Moran, former high commissioner to Pakistan, who this summer was appointed director-general of Canada's foreign aid program.

The two countries have been at loggerheads most of the time since partition in 1947. This was marked by a blood-bath in the Punjab as Hindu and Moslem contrived to settle old scores.

Mr. Moran, who spent nearly three years in Karachi, was in a position to see the improvement process at work. In an interview, he suggested that the advent of Field Marshal Mohammad Ayub Khan as supreme ruler of Pakistan was what gave it impetus.

COUP WORRIED INDIA
Paradoxically, the army coup which brought President Ayub to power two years ago and swept away the corrupt so-called democratic system under which Moslem Pakistan had been ruled since 1947, was greeted with misgivings in India. Prime Minister Nehru is said to have called the new regime a naked military dictatorship.

Since then the Indians apparently have found that they can work with the Ayub regime. Mr. Moran cited these developments in the trend to better relations, all of which took place in the last year.

Agreement on most of the outstanding border quarrels between Pakistan and India; agreement on outstanding claims pertaining to immovable property—property which refugees from either country were unable to take with them when they fled to the other country at the time of partition; agreement on the Indus waters question; exchange of visits between top members of the two governments and military commanders.

RED THREAT HELPED
Mr. Moran downgraded the part Communist Chinese expansionism has played in India's more amicable attitude toward Pakistan. The Communist menace may have contributed, but mostly the process should be

As to the prospects of a settlement of the Kashmir dispute, sorest point of all between the two countries, Mr. Moran was diplomatically non-committal. However, he felt that with goodwill on both sides this problem also could be resolved.

He dipped back into his past diplomatic experience to justify his hopefulness. He was ambassador to Turkey at a time when Greece and Turkey were quarrelling bitterly over Cyprus. "I was always optimistic that they would find a workable solution. And eventually they did."

Alcoholism waxing in Australia

MELBOURNE (Reuters) — Alcoholism is showing a strong upward trend in Australia.

Scientists and industrialists are working together in an effort to discover the immediate cause of the increase.

Industrial leaders here were surprised recently to learn that at least six out of every 100 of their work force are alcoholics.

And many more workers are incipient alcoholics.

A foundation for research and treatment of alcoholism, with headquarters in Sydney, has launched a program to seek the cause and treat the disease.

The Australian climate, both social and geographical, is one factor which has been considered.

Communal drinking by men in crowded bars is a legacy of the gold rush days of a century ago, perpetuated by the legend of the hard-drinking miners.

Paradoxically, one of the main factors blamed for heavy drinking, however, is a move specifically designed by temperance interests to limit drinking: Legislation ending drinking hours at 6 p.m. Critics claim this results in a "swill" in the last hour of drinking time, with most participants reaching varying degrees of intoxication daily.

Alcoholism is proving a drain on the Australian community both in the field of crime prevention and in wasted man-hours.

According to police statistics, much of Australia's increasing petty crime is due to vagrant alcoholics who have to steal the price of the next drink.

Australian industrial leaders were told recently that alcoholism among their workers is costing them directly more than $40,000,000 ($89,600,000) a year. Officials estimated absenteeism alone costs $200 ($448) a year per alcoholic.

Fusiliers de Sherbrooke mark 50 years

Unit contributed in 2 World Wars

Do You Recognize This Crest —

NOW 50 YEARS OLD.

ANDRE REMILLARD
MC
Lennoxville, Quebec

LT. COL. JOHN DUNN, COMMANDING OFFICER

In August 1914, following the declaration of the First World War, the Fusiliers de Sherbrooke, known at the time as the 54th Regiment, or the Carabiniers de Sherbrooke, under the command of Lt.-Col. Emile Rioux, were asked to join in the formation of the 22nd French-Canadian Regiment, to become known later as the famous Royal 22nd, or the Van Doos.

This was the first major step in the existence of the Fusiliers de Sherbrooke, celebrating this year, its 50 anniversary.

Following the call of their commanding officer, field officers, junior officers and men — numbering about 40 — joined up.

They were sent to St. Jean d'Iberville to form a company which later would be sent to Amherst, N.S., to complete their primary training before embarking in December 1914 for England.

There still remain in the district a group who were among the first group, 2/Lt. Johnny Bourque, who because of a lack of numbers, resigned as an officer and joined as a soldier. Three years later in 1917, he returned as a Captain with a battle-field commission obtained in France, and eventually became commanding officer of the unit.

Charles Codere, also one of the first members of the unit is now the Hon. Lt. Col. of Les Fusiliers de Sherbrooke.

In September 1939, with the declaration of the Second World War, the Fusiliers were again asked to increase their numbers and to organize a recruiting board for the active army. They were also required at that time to set up instruction for all grades and prepare for any eventuality.

That situation remained unchanged until the middle of 1940. Suddenly, it became of the ultimate importance to form an infantry battalion, made up of residents of the Eastern Townships for the active service.

After many parades and as many meetings, officers from the Fusiliers de Sherbrooke and the Sherbrooke Regiment decided to form both units into one group under a common name: The Sherbrooke Fusiliers Regiment.

Officers forming the Regiment at that time were:

Col. S. Echenberg, Col. Leopold Chevalier, Col. M. W. McNulty, Lt. Col. Emile Levesque, Lt. Col. A. A. Munster, Major Aime Biron and Major B. D. Lyon.

In July 1940, orders for immediate mobilisation came from headquarters under Lt. Col. McNulty with Major Aime Biron as second-in-command. Regimental honors were made for the new regiment combined from and men.

From 1939 to 1945 the unit placed many of its original members with the units of the Canadian Army, both as reinforcements and as members to form new units.

Towards the end of 1942, the Fusiliers were mobilised for active service and Col. Aime Biron was named to take over as commanding officer of the Regiment. At that time, 80% of the members of the officers' ranks were filled with members of the original unit.

After that, the unit gained an enviable reputation and was one of the most effective battalions in the Canadian Army.

Beavers Rally With Three Goals To Stop Vics, Rockets Edge Lions

Rangers And Bruins Are Having Rivalry For Cellar Position In NHL, Burns Paces Boston With Two Goals, Win 5-1

While Montreal Canadiens, Detroit Red Wings, Toronto Maple Leafs and Chicago Black Hawks fight it out for first place in the National Hockey League, Boston Bruins and New York Rangers are having their own family affair in the league cellar.

Thursday night, Bruins moved one point ahead of New York by defeating Chicago Black Hawks 5-1. It was the fifth time this season the lead changed hands between Boston and New York. Boston now has 19 points but has played three more games. Charlie Burns led Boston's attack with two goals, both coming when Bruins were short-handed. Leo Labine, Johnny Bucyk and Don McKenney scored once each. Ken Wharram averted the shutout for Chicago.

Saturday, the Bruins play in New York.

In other games, Detroit is at Montreal and Chicago at Toronto.

Montreal's Dickie Moore, the league's top goal getter will be looking for goal No. 200. If he succeeds he will become the third 200-goal man on the team.

He and teammates Bernie Geoffrion and Jean Beliveau—the other 200-goal scorers—are currently running one-two-three in the scoring race.

Geoffrion is first with 41 points, Beliveau second with 38 and Moore third with 37.

A victory for Red Wings would bring them to within three points of Montreal in first place while a loss would give Montreal a seven point lead.

Benny Kid Paret May Be In For Tough Time If Federico Thompson Can Fight As Well As He Talks

NEW YORK (AP) — If Argentina's Federico Thompson can throw leather as good as he talks the 33-year-old boxer could lift Benny (Kid) Paret's world welterweight crown Saturday night at Madison Square Garden.

Thompson, a native of Panama, fought a 12-round draw with Paret, the champion from Cuba, in their first meeting here last March 25.

"I think I won the first fight with him," said Thompson confidently. "And, I expect to beat him this time."

All this, despite the fact that the Cuban is 10 years younger than Thompson, who jumped into prominence last December by knocking out then world champion Don Jordan of Los Angeles in the fourth round in Buenos Aires. It was a non-title bout.

This will be the first defence of the title for Paret since he won it with a 15-round decision over Jordan May 27 at Las Vegas, Nev.

"Why do I think I'll win this time?" Thompson asked, then replied:

"Because I'm much better prepared for a post-nominal than he is here in March I was here only 13 days. This time I've been in town exactly three months."

"Don't forget, I came here to fight Paret Oct. 8 and he asked for a postponement to have his tonsils removed. I had a good time-up fight with Gaspar Ortega in October, so I'll be sharper and stronger."

Thompson took a 10-round decision from Ortega, and is the second ranked challenger to Paret.

The 15-round bout will be televised starting at 10 p.m. EST.

Norris Admits Making Deals With Carbo

WASHINGTON (AP) — James D. Norris, who says he dealt reluctantly with mobster Frankie Carbo, faced his last round today before Senate investigators who want more details of relations between the two prize fight figures.

Norris was called back for additional closed-door questioning by the Senate anti-trust and monopoly subcommittee, which was making public a transcript of his testimony.

He testified Thursday he associated with Carbo in the fulfilled hope of averting difficulties with boxing managers who howled for more money and threatened to pull out of televised bouts.

Norris formerly headed the International Boxing Clubs, disbanded by order last year for monopoly in championship fights. He was accused of testifying in public after doctors agreed the strain might provoke another heart attack. The 53-year-old Norris already has been stricken twice.

John G. Bonomi, special counsel to the subcommittee, said he planned to get down to cases today about Norris' contacts with Carbo.

Long regarded as the underworld's boxing boss, Carbo is in the midst of a two-year prison term for undercover manipulations as manager and matchmaker.

Other witnesses had linked the names of Norris and Carbo. Norris said Carbo knew more fight managers than anyone else in the game.

Of his relationship with Carbo, Norris said:

"It was a reluctant one that in some ways I sought to develop." Norris' testimony dealt also with his employment of Jack Kearns, a veteran boxing promoter who other witnesses had said received $137,000 from Norris enterprises over a period of years.

As Norris told it, his televised boxing shows were in desperate trouble, caused by Kearns' International Boxing Managers Guild. Kearns, testifying Wednesday, had made light of his role in the Guild, but Norris said he viewed Kearns as a power in the organization.

Bury Downs Drummondville 41-29 For Third Win, Sherbrooke Saints Post 44-35 Victory Over Lennoxville Grads

Bury racked up their third win of the ETABA season Wednesday night in Bury when the hosts dropped Drummondville, who were given their first loss of the year, by a score of 41-29.

On Tuesday night, Sherbrooke Saints, playing on their home floor at Sherbrooke High School, outpaced Lennoxville Grads by a tally of 44-35.

This evening Bell takes on Lennoxville at the YMCA with gametime starting at 8:00.

Paced by top scorer Darcy Harrison, Bury turned in a fine basketball display Wednesday when they downed the visiting Drummondville Clippers. The hosts led throughout the tilt and, even though pursued hotly by the visitors all the way, shook off the opposition to come through with their third victory in four starts.

Darcy Harrison grabbed the scoring lead for his club again when he sunk 24 points; more than half his team's points. Omar Anderson and Wayne Cook were next on the lists with six each while B. Parsons and Alan Sutherland followed up with four and one resp.

For the Clippers, Jean-Claude Boucher and Victor Tomiczek set the pace when they each tallied 10 points. Martin Balzer, David Anderson, and Derrill Henderson completed scoring for the squad with four, three, and two respectively.

Sherbrooke Saints came through with a 44-35 over Lennoxville Grads Tuesday night to win their first game of the current season. The Saints dropped their first two games but showed up very well in their tilt against the Grads.

The hosts maintained a lead through most of the two halves and kept up good passing and shooting to override Lennoxville.

However, action was tops in the fixture and both teams turned in some fine ball before the final whistle blew.

Mike Bryson led scoring for the hosts with 16 points followed by Bud McMurray with 10. For the Grads, Doug Sullivan was top of the slate with 13 while Bob Bowers dumped in eight.

Drummondville: V. Tomiczek, (10), J. Boucher (10), M. Balzer (4), D. Anderson (3), D. Henderson (2), Y. Dore, B. Areseneau, J. Brady, Total - 29.

Three Goals Within 49 Seconds Gives Locals 3-1 Victory In Wide-Open Tilt, Maurice St. Jean Gets Two Big Ones

Rallying for three goals within forty-nine seconds the Sherbrooke Beavers eked out a close 3-1 verdict over the Granby Vics last night at the Arena before 1,700 fans. In the other tilt Drummondville came bouncing back in the third period to edge Three Rivers' Lions 4-3 in a hard-fought battle.

The Beavers moved within two points of the second-place Vics and it was a big win for them. Andy Payette, Granby goalie, turned in an outstanding game in the nets and it was his great saves which held the Dube crew at bay for fifty-minutes of the game. Andy Pratte came up with another good performance and he held the fort until his mates managed to dent Payette's armour.

John Mentis came up with Granby's only tally of the game in the first period. He blocked a shot from Ray St. Cyr at the blueline and broke away alone to walk in and beat Pratte just after four minutes of play. The Beavers had the man advantage at this point and were forcing the play.

The Beavers then proceeded to try and pot one but Payette came up with some outstanding saves. Al Moore and Larry Drouin were in on top of Payette but he came up with some great catches to smother the puck and kill the rebounds.

The teams were really sailing at this point and they kept the pace up for the entire game. It was a wide-open affair with both clubs coming up with some nice plays. Sherbrooke held the upper hand in forcing the play but they couldn't get the disc by Payette.

In the second frame the teams failed to get anywhere although they had plenty of good scoring opportunities. Marcel Fournier, who turned in a great two-way performance, was having tough luck around the nets but he kept trying the whole time.

It was only in the third frame the Beavers finally managed to break through Payette. Real Rousseau got the first one and this seemed to break the Vics' spirit. Drouin rifled one by Payette, whose view was blocked and for the first time in the game the Beavers were ahead.

Twelve seconds later Benoit drove one into the net after taking a pass-out from Dube. This one brought considerable protest from Granby claiming a Sherbrooke player was in the crease. In this aspect they were right but George Goyette, Granby's defenseman, was holding him in and the referee allowed the goal.

At the face-off Gilles Bedard of Granby stepped back to look at his stick the referee warned him to move in for the faceoff but he remained outside. The referee dropped the puck and Sherbrooke moved in to score. This brought strong protests from Bedard and he was handed a misconduct for using foul language. He then tossed his stick at the referee and he drew a match penalty and went to the dressing room.

Following this the Beavers played it smart dumping the puck at every chance to hold on to their lead until the final siren. The Vics kept driving but they lacked the same fight shown earlier in the game.

Maurice Audet And Claude Major Tally Two Each As Windsor Downs Cookshire 5-2 To Extend Lead In League

RICHMOND — Maurice Audet and Claude Major each scored twice to lead their team to a 5-2 victory over Cookshire Commercial in a regular fixture of the St. Francis Valley Hockey League. The game was played in the Richmond Coliseum as Windsor Mills, the receiving club, has no ice yet.

The win is the fourth straight for the Papermakers and they are now in a good spot on top of the heap with eight points. Richmond Braves, who play hosts to Magog tonight are in second spot with four points and will meet Windsor Sunday at the Coliseum.

Raymond Levert scored two goals for Cookshire in the third period averting a shut-out. Audet counted his first goal in the first period, the only marker of the frame, at 2:35. Two penalties were dished out. The second frame saw Windsor move ahead 3-0 on goals by Claude Dupuis and Audet, his second goal of the game.

Major got his first goal shortly after the third period started at the 40-second mark. Two penalties were handed out before Windsor came back to add another goal. Payant of Cookshire went to the sinbin for cross-checking and Spenard of Windsor copped an elbowing infraction. Major teamed up with his mates to clear the disc and with Spenard still in the penalty box, the quick-thinking Major snared the puck to go in and beat Savard.

Audet took a tripping penalty at 10:32 but Cookshire was unable to take advantage of their extra man. Raymond Levert got away on a break to beat goalie St. Laurent for Cookshire's final goal at 14:30. Right after that, Moisan of Cookshire was sent off for tripping but the Papermakers were held off the scoresheet.

Near the end of the game, at 19:13, Levert scored a second goal from St. Laurent to finish the scoring.

The goalies were kept busy throughout the game with Savard called on to make a total of 32 saves while St. Laurent in the Windsor cage stopped 20. A sparse crowd of 175 watched the game.

Major got his first goal shortly after the third period started at the 40-second mark. Two penalties

Carmen Basilio's Ex-Managers Tell Probe They Paid Money To Pal Of Frankie Carbo To Get Some Fights

WASHINGTON (AP) — Carmen Basilio's ex-managers said Thursday the middleweight boxer bean getting into championship calibre fights after they started paying a pal of the underworld's Frankie Carbo.

It developed, too, that the managers, John DeJohn and Joseph Netro, each paid thousands of dollars to Gabe Genovese without knowing the other was doing it.

DeJohn and Netro, who lost their manager licenses for paying Genovese under the table, gave the testimony to the Senate antimonopoly subcommittee. This group is looking into mobster influences in prize fighting.

At the same time, DeJohn acknowledged previous grand jury testimony that he and Netro were able to get together with bigtime promoter James D. Norris after the money started flowing to Genovese.

Subcommittee counsel John G. Bonomi said evidence showed DeJohn paid Genovese $39,344.31 in 1955-58 and that Netro gave Genovese about $25,000 in 1956-58.

On the witness stand Wednesday, Basilio expressed contempt for Carbo, Genovese and other rackets figures reputed to have a grip on the ring business. "Nobody tells me what to do," he said.

Carbo is in a New York jail serving a two-year term for undercover matchmaking and managing.

Netro, 64, acknowledged his contributions to Genovese were at least partly because of Genovese's influence. He said boxing could "come back real good under federal jurisdiction."

Syracuse promoter Norman Rothschild, 41, told of paying $10,000 to Genovese in 1956. He said it was for Genovese's aid in arranging the match in which Basilio won the welterweight title from Johnny Saxton.

That donation cost Rothschild a fine of $2,000 at the same time the New York State Athletic Association barred DeJohn and Netro earlier this year. Saxton was managed by Frank (Blinky) Palermo, a Philadelphia racket figure.

Rothschild, co-promoter of the Gene Fullmer-Ray Robinson draw last Saturday night in California, said he did not know whether Saxton ever shared his purse with Palermo.

Subcommittee investigator Bob Turley said Genovese is regarded by New York authorities as a chief lieutenant of Carbo and Palermo.

Chatham Maroons End Tour Tying Swedish Nationals

STOCKHOLM (AP)—Chatham Maroons ended a nine-game European exhibition hockey tour Thursday with a come-from-behind 3-3 tie with a Swedish national team at Johanneshov Stadium in Stockholm.

It was their second game against the Swedes. The Ontario club won the opener 3-1 Wednesday.

In a seven-game tour against Russian teams the Canadian Allan Cup champions won only a single game, tied one and lost five.

Chatham goalie Harold (Boat) Hurley was the star for the Canadians. The three goals scored against him all came during wild scrambles around the Maroons net and could hardly have been prevented. Every shot on which Hurley had a clear field of view he blocked.

SNOW SLOWS GAME

A heavy snow storm during the game in the outdoor stadium stopped play several times. The puck was lost in snow a couple of times.

The Canadians moved to a 1-0 lead in the opening period. Jack Stoddard, former New York Ranger, connected after taking a set-up pass from Floyd Martin.

In the second period, the Swedes, led by centre Sven (Tumba) Johansson, roared back. Nils Menninger scored twice and Ronald Pettersson once as Johansson set up the pass patterns.

Maroons waged an up-hill struggle in the third period. Frank Bathgate brought them closer to the tie with a goal early in the period.

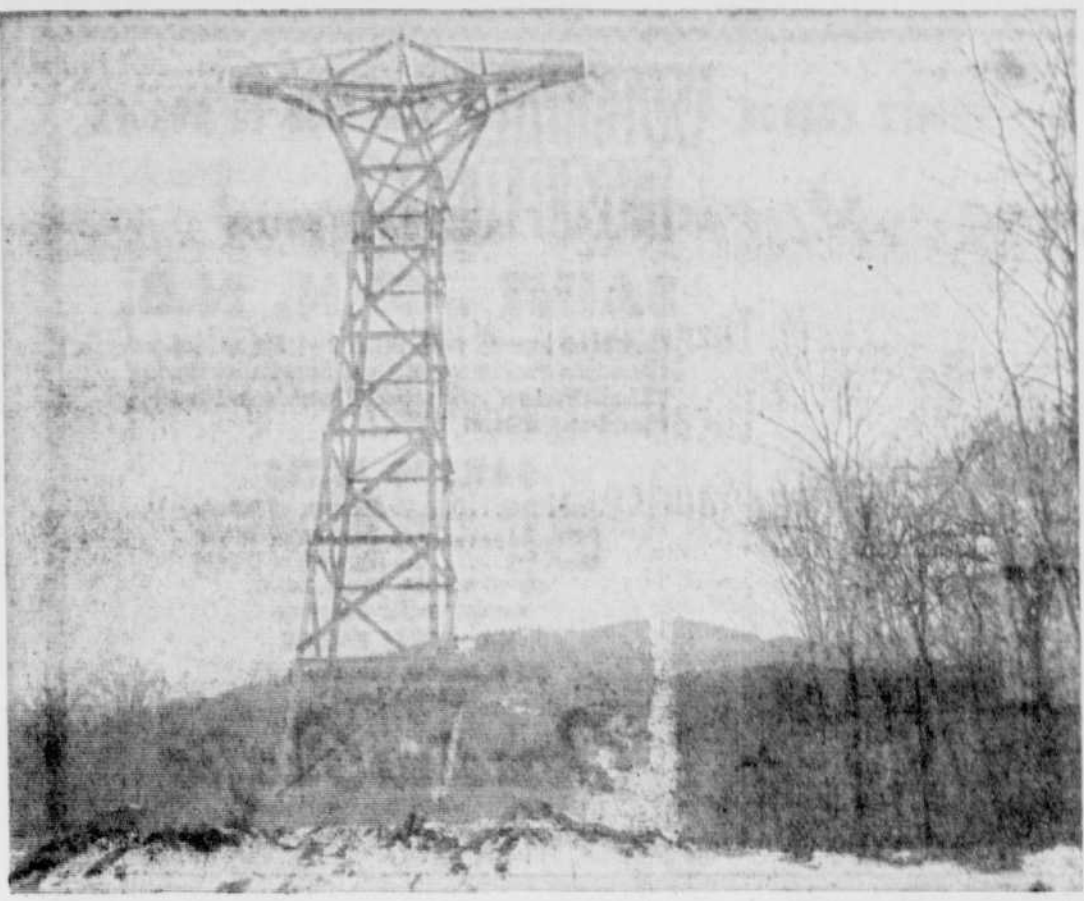

But it was not until the 15-minute mark that the Maroons were able to knot the count as speedy Billy Forhan clicked with a sharp shot into the corner of the Swedish net.

Tobin Rote To Return, Says Argos

TORONTO (CP)—Toronto Argos spiked rumors that former National Football League quarterback Tobin Rote would not be back with the Big Four team next season.

The Argonaut front office announced Thursday night that Rote has agreed to fulfill the second of his two one-year contracts with the team. The two contracts were Rote's idea, giving him until mid-December to make up his mind on playing the following season. He has said nothing about 1961.

SKIING ON MONT ORFORD

By MARION ALAIN

JUNIOR PROGRAM OPENS

200 enthusiastic young skiers were present Saturday morning at St. Patrick's Church Hall in Magog, when the junior program officially opened. Convents and colleges were contacted by the junior program committee, Fernand Carriere, Cecil Caunt and Ernest Fields and a most ardent group of skiers responded to the call.

Under the direction of the Ski Club the Junior Program, 300 boys and girls will have the opportunity to go to Mount Orford, and under the direction of competent instructors, will learn the techniques of skiing.

Last Saturday a film on Mount Orford was presented and the juniors listened to Bob Bousquet, Technical Chairman at Orford, explained the importance of proper equipment and how to purchase it. Door prizes, donated by F. A. Dion Sports Shop were drawn and a great deal of enthusiasm and interest was shown.

NEXT SATURDAY at 10:00 another meeting will be held for juniors at St. Patrick's Church Hall when 2 films on skiing, through the courtesy of Dow Brewery, will be shown. Pierre Alain, president of the Mount Orford Ski Club and Ski Patrol Leader, will speak to the young ones on safety in skiing and will explain the duties and work of the Mount Orford Ski Patrol. Door prizes will also be drawn.

As soon as the snow arrives, and we hope soon, the regular schedule of the junior program will commence Saturday mornings on the mountain. Buses will pick up the young ones, at the same stations as last year and at the same hours, bringing them to the mountain. This transportation is free through the compliments of Jacques Audette, Dow Brewery. During the past years the ski club has been indebted to Jacques for the help he has given, both financially and otherwise, towards the junior program.

For the first 3 Saturdays the Juniors will ski under competent instructors and the Mount Orford Patrol will supervise the hills. They will then be grouped according to their skiing abilities, and technical instruction will be given to them preparing them for the climax of the season the Junior Olympic Day which is scheduled for March.

The courses are given them free of charge through the co-operation of the Ski Club and the Ski Patrol and the young ones will have the use of the T-Bar on Saturday mornings through the courtesy of the Co-Operative Syndicate.

The Mount Orford Ski Club feels this training is very important for the young skiers and they are a most willing group, who enjoy their skiing and work hard to better themselves. Through this junior program the juniors are being trained to improve their skiing, practice safety on the hills and some day become the future competitors of Orford.

SKIS AND POLES FLYING — An executive meeting of the Mount Orford Ski Club was held on Tuesday, December 6, in the Club Room of the New Magog Hotel and important items were discussed.

John Osborne, dance committee chairman, reported on the opening dance held on November 26th. A report of the junior program committee was given on activities which started December 3.

Herb Whittier reported the juniors have been training for the past three weeks and were working hard at it every Saturday at the mountain.

A report on the jackets purchased for junior racers was given. If any one is interested in donating to the Junior Fund they are asked to contact the club President Pierre Alain.

Domion Textile Company has donated material to be used for flags etc., for the Canadian Championship Races which will be held in February. Letters have been sent to Miss Lucile Wheeler, Anne Heggveit and Penny Pitou asking them to fore-run the Slalom Races for the Canadian Alpine Championships in February.

LAST NIGHT'S STARS — Boston's Charlie Burns, who scored two goals while his team was short-handed to lead Bruins to a 5-1 victory over Chicago Black Hawks.

Spokane, Wash. — Pete Rademacher, 196, Columbus, Ga. outpointed Kirk Barrow, 180, Spokane, 10.

The Doctor Says

YOU NEVER ARE 'BILIOUS'; HERE IS HOW BILE WORKS

The words "bilious" and "biliousness" ought to be thrown out of our language. They're often used to describe conditions with which bile has nothing to do.

I must have a dozen or more letters on my desk requesting suggestions for the relief of "biliousness" and I'm quite sure that, in each instance, the writer's true complaint could be more accurately described as a feeling of being "blue" or "down-in-the-mouth."

Perhaps an explanation of what bile is and what it does will help you to steer clear of these misleading expressions.

The human liver normally manufactures between a pint and a quart of bile each day. When food enters the stomach, especially after a fat meal, bile flows into the intestines.

Between meals, for the most part, bile is stored in the gall bladder which is about the size and shape of a lady's change purse. Thus the path of bile flow is from liver directly to intestines or from liver to gall bladder to intestines.

Never, under any circumstance does anyone suffer from an excessive bile secretion ("biliousness").

Never, except when the flow of bile is shut off by an obstruction, does any one suffer from a deficiency of bile.

And never, under any circumstance,

On 70th birthday Stanstead resident has first party

STANSTEAD—Harold Wormsley observed his 70th birthday anniversary recently and in the evening was about his duties at Stanstead College when his daughter, Mrs. George McComb, a granddaughter, Mrs. Wallace Powers, and Mr. Powers arrived to take him for a drive.

A short ride terminated at the home of another daughter, Mrs. Moody Davis, and Mr. Davis, and it was then Mr. Wormsley realized he was guest of honor at his first birthday party. As he entered the home he was greeted with Happy Birthday by 21 members of his family, which included four generations.

A social evening was enjoyed. A gift of money as well as individual gifts, was presented to Mr. Wormsley from the family, children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren.

Lunch was served at the dining-table centered with Mr. Wormsley's first birthday cake, made and decorated by Mrs. Davis in white with multicolored trim, and flanked by candles in crystal holders.

Mr. Wormsley had received numerous congratulatory cards from relatives and friends and as the day came to a close, he declared it the best birthday he had ever had.

stances, does true bile get into the blood. Even when a person is jaundiced, the yellow coloration is due to pigments contained in the bile. Not to bile itself.

Perhaps you will now understand why I say that there is no point in trying to stimulate the liver to increase or reduce the flow of bile or to alter the character of bile secretion.

The best way to stimulate the gall bladder to expel its content of bile is to include a little butter or cream with the meal.

In another column I will take up the questions of gallstones.

Toronto singer wants to become a composer

WASHINGTON (CP) — Joan Fairfax, Toronto songstress, says her great ambition is to become a composer.

The pretty, 24-year-old entertainer, well known to CBC television viewers, has drawn tributes in her American debut here as a supper-club singer.

"I like this very much," she said in an interview. "It's a bit different from television. You're singing while the audience eats and it's quite a challenge to get them to turn around and watch you."

"I've been lucky in getting them to turn around and the reception has been very good. I've got an engagement in Montreal when I complete my four-week contract here."

Harry MacArthur, writing in the Washington Star, says Joan has a voice "that is warm in timbre and performs with professional polish in a style that gets the best out of musical comedy numbers. . . . Her melody from the vast storehouse of lyrics by Oscar Hammerstein is a joy to hear."

While Joan enjoys her new venture, she works hard in her spare time at musical arrangements and looks forward to the time when she might become a composer.

"That's my ambition. I've always wanted to get into composing of popular music. Maybe one day I'll have a hit."

In private life, Joan is the wife of Tom Higgins, an RCAF veteran, currently building a bowling alley in St. Catharines, Ont. They were married in Toronto seven years ago.

Need concerted action on information for "fallout" of chemical pest killers

OTTAWA (CP)—A concerted effort is required in Canada to obtain and study information on the "fallout" of the growing quantities of chemical pest killers used in agriculture and elsewhere, says a federal scientist.

Canada's spending on insecticides probably will exceed $30,000,000 this year, says Dr. Henry Hurtig of the agriculture department's research branch.

"The scientific, economic and social problems which now have to be considered are similar to those associated with radioactive fallout but they are much more tangible since they are problems that are already with us."

The key target, of course, is to prevent the poisons that kill harmful insects from winding up on the dinner table with disastrous effects on humans. A system of "pesticide residue tolerances" has been established for some time to prevent such an occurrence.

CANBERRY SCARE

A notable example is the United States canberry scare last year which resulted from improper application of a chemical and led to widespread precautionary action in both countries.

But, says Dr. Hurtig, there is a wider problem of correlating international pesticide regulations, effective safe use in Canada of chemicals designed for conditions outside the country and a need for a fair-labor division of research responsibilities in Canada where the federal government now bears most of the load.

His views are contained in the current issue of the Agricultural Institute Review.

Dr. Hurtig notes that the main difference between Canadian and U.S. law is that the Canadian Food and Drug Act "applies only to food for human consumption."

"This means that no tolerances are established for pesticide residues on pasture, forage or other feeds that are intermediate in the human food chain."

Therefore, the authorities responsible for pest control have a real duty to perform in guaranteeing that chemical poisons are used under the recommended conditions.

RISKY IN DRY AREAS

He cites the use of grasshopper-poison sprays in Western Canada as an example of what he means. Recommendations for a certain type of spray-spread poison were withdrawn late last year because it appeared the subsequent residues could be dissipated only by plant growth. This was a risky solution in certain semi-arid western areas.

So far, pesticide residual research has been "playing it by ear," says Dr. Hurtig in emphasizing that modern agriculture techniques seem destined to swell the use of anti-pest poisons. Canada's diverse climatic and crop conditions mean that research will have to be done on the imported—or the majority—of pesticides to make sure they can be applied safely in this country under the suggested techniques.

SAFETY-MASTER BRAKES

You stop surely and safely with Chevrolet's new giant-sized, Safety-Master brakes—they're air-cooled to prevent fading. And you'll enjoy another measure of Chevrolet economy in the long wearing, bonded brake linings.

NEW CLEAN-SWEEP WINDSHIELD WIPERS

Here's yet another Chevrolet safety feature! Chevrolet's big, new parallel-action electric wipers clean at a constant rate regardless of engine speed. You get better clearance at the centre, too, because of a new overlapping pattern.

5 TRANSMISSIONS

Silk-smooth, dependable and top performing every mile of the way. Combined with Chevy's variety of engines, they give you an amazing choice of twenty-four power teams.

STORAGE SPACE

There's up to 97.5 roomy cu. ft. for cargo in the station wagons. With tailgate down, you have a long 10 feet of load length. And a new concealed compartment under the rear platform.

MAGIC-MIRROR FINISH

It's easier than ever to take a shine to Chevrolet! You'll keep Chevrolet's showroom shine with little more than a wash. And you can choose from 15 solid colors (9 of them totally new) and a wide range of two-tone combinations.

UNISTEEL CONSTRUCTION

Rigid roof, body and floor panels are welded together. You get a unit that'll stay tight, solid and quiet for years to come. And there's extra safety for you and your family, too!

Distinctive ROOF LINES

1 Sport Coupes feature sweeping front and rear pillars and a smaller roof panel.

2 Two-door and Four-door Sedans get the flair of sports models from a modern canopy roof.

3 Sports Sedans have wide rear pillars and custom-formed roof with a touch of town-car luxury.
