House here provides haven to hold family together

A long-unused Westmount residence has become a temporary shelter for Mrs. Leo Morin, 104 Lewis avenue, after a harassing struggle to hold her family together.

Mrs. Morin, who one month ago was homeless, without means of support, and in the hospital came into her bounty through the good offices of the Montreal Department of Social Welfare.

While she was in the hospital

New high school authorized by Protestant board

The Montreal Protestant Central School Board yesterday authorized a new high school for the City of Westmount.

A school board spokesman said last night that the only stipulation is that two elementary schools in Westmount, King's and Queen's, and the Argyle School (Westmount Senior High School) must first be sold.

Planned site for the new school is Westmount Athletic Grounds on the south side of St. Catherine street, between Metcalf and Hallowell avenues.

Under the new setup all elementary pupils will attend Roslyn School and Westmount Junior High School. The new school will be a composite high school for all Grade VIII to Grade XI students.

Construction, which will take two years, will begin as soon as the three specified schools are sold.

having her ninth child, police and workmen found her children in a small squalid flat on Quesnel street. Nine year old Charlie was watching the five youngest children while two others were wandering the streets.

The children were cared for in orphanages and camps around the city while welfare officials worked on finding a way to keep the family together. Mrs. Morin said "I love my children, and I want them with me", and city officials took her on her word.

A friend found the home in Westmount, which had long been empty and was rented at a reasonable price. The new home has ample space and a large kitchen to prepare dinners for Rene, Jacques, Remi, Regent, Alain, Jocelyne, Joanne and the new baby Lise.

The children have a small back yard to play in and a garage to scramble around.

Rent, food, costs, lighting, and heating are all being paid by the Welfare Department, whose spokesman, Mr. Renaud says, "they are receiving all necessary help from us, and we will continue it as long as necessary".

The case is being handled by the Montreal Department of Welfare rather than Westmount since Mrs. Morin's original address is down town. Their jurisdiction will not end till the family has been in Westmount at least 12 months, at which time it would be handled by the Westmount Department of Social Welfare.

Culprit skips as man phones for police

Fernand Bouchard, 33, 1739 Le Caron street, stopped at a red light on Atwater avenue. Sunday when he was struck in the rear by another car. The driver of the latter car told him to go and telephone for the police and when he did so, drove away. According to Bouchard the other driver seemed intoxicated at the time. He said he would recognise the car and its driver if he saw them again.

Firemen called for furnace troubles

The recent cold snap brought a small flurry of calls to the Fire Department over the weekend to deal with furnaces which had burst into flames, or were in danger of doing so, when pressed into service rather sooner than is normal.

Saturday, two men and a hose wagon were despatched to 4043 Dorchester street, while a caretaker re-lit a furnace which had become saturated with oil due to a faulty ignition. They stood by for 20 minutes until the furnace was operating satisfactorily.

Monday, five men with a hose wagon and two men with salvage wagon went to 631 Murray Hill avenue where a furnace flooded with an excess of oil was burning furiously. The valve on the oil tanks was closed and the fire put out by a small hand extinguisher.

Tuesday, a pump, ladder truck and five men went to 613 Belmont avenue, where flames were found oaring in the fire box of an oil furnace. The basement was filled with smoke and the fire was extinguished by use of a hand pump. The blaze was apparently caused by an accumulation of oil in the furnace which ignited when the switch was thrown.

Whether or not the next chilly spell comes sooner or later, Fire Department officials urge furnace owners to have their apparatus checked by a competent engineer before they start using it.

Failing that, they should check the electrodes. The trouble starts when there is an accumulation of oil and a "late" ignition.

World traveller relates experiences to Rotarians

A much-travelled man since his previous visit to the Westmount Rotary Club three years ago, the Rev. John Smith of North Shields, England, discussed as wide a range of topics as the countries to which his travels have taken him.

He recalled one story he had told on his last visit and gave thumb-nail impressions of Britain today, the Middle East situation, France and Germany.

On an eight-week tour of Canada and the U.S., Mr. Smith is General Secretary of the North of England Section of the Congregational Union of England and Wales and has been particularly concerned with the fate of the thousands of refugees from behind the Iron Curtain.

Here, he recalled that the Westmount Rotary Club had sent a cheque to provide three looms for elderly displaced persons, billeted in a former Nazi barracks in Germany.

With the re-introduction of German armed forces a threat was posed to the barracks. In fact, troops were billeted in every block except the therapy block where the looms were being used.

"So," said Mr. Smith "Westmount Rotarians are directly responsible for saving the livelihoods of needy people."

Speaking about life in Britain today, Mr. Smith said "The country has undergone tremendous social changes in the last 20 years. Tradition has gone by the board, the Welfare State takes care of us from the cradle to the grave and social and family life has been invaded by all sorts of outside influences."

He remarked that the medical service had undergone perhaps the most sweeping change of all.

"The family doctor as we used to know him, the confidant of the family along with the minister, the man we used to share all our troubles with, has virtually disappeared under an avalanche of forms. The human touch has been replaced by the chilling touch of the State and his patients are just names on an index, to be filed and tabulated."

More money is circulating in Britain and most of it is in the hands of the rank-and-file worker. As a result one of the changes in the social scene has been an increasing tendency to go to the continent for summer holidays — much to the distress of hotel-owners in formerly popular coast resorts. "On the other hand," said Mr. Smith, "Trade Unionism has grown to tremendous strength. Sometimes we feel it gets out of hand and is over-fond of holding a pistol to the government's head."

Police tipped to break-in Acting on a tip, members of the Westmount Police Department apprehended Cyrelle Lalonde, 20, Roland Lamarre, 21, and Arthur Cunningham, 20, all of no fixed address, as they were in the act of breaking and entering a home on Lansdowne avenue, Tuesday.

The three appeared before Judge Bernard Rose Wednesday and pleaded guilty to the offence. Lamarre and Cunningham also admitted breaking into a house on The Boulevard earlier this month.

Judge Rose remanded the case until Friday when sentence will be passed on all three.

False alarms plague Westmount firemen

Westmount Fire Department continue to be plagued by a series of malicious false alarms. Two more were reported Friday.

The first came from Box 417, at Montrose and Mountain avenues and sent 1 pump, 1 ladder truck and 5 men on a fruitless errand.

The second came from Box 153, at Wood avenue and Sherbrooke street and sent the same amount of equipment and men to the scene.

To date, no success has been achieved in tracing the persons responsible.

situation, he said this was a most anxious problem for Britain. When he had told clubs in the U.S. that the present crisis would never have arisen if Britain and France had been allowed to "finish the job" two years ago, he was loudly applauded.

France, he said, was a political weakling but having met Gen. de Gaulle during the war, he had come to realise the man was not a politician but a patriot.

"As a patriot," he continued, "I hope he will be given a chance to lead France back to her old position of prominence in world affairs."

He admired West Germany's tremendous industrial expansion since the war but said they had not yet got the full measure of their most pressing problem — the thousands of refugees crossing the border every week.

"They've taken several steps in the right direction," he said, "including granting the vote to those with 10 years residence in the country. But the tensions between those coming from the east and the Germans themselves is very strong and though they hope to abolish DP camps by 1961, I think they're being very optimistic."

Fire inspections almost complete

Westmount Fire Department is entering the final phase of their programme of inspecting buildings in the city in order to get acquainted with their layouts.

Inspection of commercial buildings is complete and the force is now working on church buildings.

Vital information on how to get in and out of the buildings, where the various rooms are and the location of ventilators is being collected and the lectures and debates that follow give ample opportunity to run over the exercise, fill in on missing points and check the small details which make up a complete picture.

The programme, under way for the past five weeks, should be completed in another two.

Rabbi H.J. Stern poses 5 questions in Ohio

At the 74th Ordination Service of the Hebrew Union College-Jewish Institute of Religion, in Cincinnati, Ohio, recently, Rabbi Harry J. Stern, LL.D., DD, posed five questions which he saw as vital for those who were about to be ordained into the active Jewish ministry.

"In an age of specialization," he asked, "what is the specialized field of the modern Rabbi and wherein lies his authority?"

"As the judaizer of Jewish life, the Rabbi cooperates with the social worker, the educator, the psychiatrist, the political leader and social reformer, ever stressing Jewish religious and cultural values. If he holds the all-embracing conception of Judaism as that of faith, culture and peoplehood, he is destined to become the central personality in North American Jewish community life."

How does Judaism stand today? This was an era, he said, marked not by flight from Judaism, but a homecoming to Jewishness. Jews have been influenced by a general religious revival bringing with it a renewed Jewish confidence in survival, an awakened Jewish consciousness and a renewed Jewish self-respect.

"More and more," he said, "there is evidence of a growing maturity in every department of Jewish life, the religious, the cultural, the educational and in the realm of Jewish scholarship."

Going on to consider what areas required further cultivation, Rabbi Stern said, "We have two causes to serve—the cause of Judaism in general, and the cause of Reform in particular."

He felt that laymen for the most part represented Jews but rarely Judaism as a faith and religious heritage. New text books, and new techniques to foster the Torah were needed, but the Rabbi who was the inspiration and guide to those who teach and supervise instruction in Judaism, was irreplaceable. He proposed religiously orientated psychological counseling services within the precincts of the synagogue and the enrichment of the pageantry and drama in the service ritual.

Discussing the world that Judaism seeks to create he said, "In this hour of human history of a new age, the space age, it is most urgent that order be restored here on earth before we set out for other worlds. This is a time indeed where Christian and Jew ought to close ranks and truly build the one world."

As a result of conclaves at the Temple Emanu-el conducted by professors of the College-Institute much had been done to promote understanding between Catholics, Jews and Protestants. But he also stressed the importance of the Rabbi's work within his own faith.

"We need not fear differences within Judaism; what we should fear and oppose is indifference to faith and synagogue."

In his closing remarks, Mr. Stern declared that a strong faith in God was the Rabbi's greatest asset. His job might bring loneliness, anguish, hurt and doubt but it was the richest life in terms of human service.

Wisdom, through meditation and study, patience with other people and a reasonable emotional stability to enable him to make quick adjustments to changes and crises would give him the courage to remain a fighting optimist.

"In his various roles as teacher, preacher, pastor, counselor and administrator, men want the Rabbi to open them up as individuals and as a congregation."

Leads Loyola's youth

By CYNTHIA JONES

THE Very Reverend Gerald Francis Lahey, MA, PhD, rector of Loyola College, gazed out onto the green lawns of the largest Jesuit College in Canada and remarked "One of the functions of we Jesuits is to bring reasonableness and sanity to this fragmented world rife with international tensions that threaten the members of the human family."

The members of the human family under Father Lahey's direct jurisdiction total 1300 boys and young men — 550 high school and 750 university students — and a faculty of 54 Jesuit English-speaking college as a student and spent a year before entering the Society of Jesus. "I can remember this was a rural site," said Father Lahey. "The famed Montreal melons were grown in the vicinity. The college had moved about five years before from the La Salle Hotel site to Sherbrooke street west. There was the main building — one story and a half tall — and two other small buildings. Now the main building is seven stories high and we have six buildings."

In 1929 Father Lahey returned to Loyola, a young Jesuit, to serve on the staff for a year. He taught English, Latin and Greek. In 1934 he was ordained in the Loyola Chapel. Years later, in 1954, he returned to the college as rector.

MISSIONARIES

"You know that the first Jesuits came to Canada as missionaries in 1625 and they are in most countries in almost every field of education."

Filling in his background, Father Lahey said that he was born in Penetang, Ont., the only child of a department store owner. "My boyhood was spent on Georgian Bay," he said. "I was a strong swimmer and I loved fishing."

After attending high school in Penetang and putting in a year at Loyola, Father Lahey began the long training—the longest in the Church — to become a Jesuit priest and started his professional study of the spiritual life in the House of Formation at Guelph, Ontario. He spent four years there and then was off to England for a year at Stonyhurst, the oldest Catholic College in England.

"It was a very lovely place in Lancashire and I wandered in the fields and fished the rivers," said Father Lahey. "The next two years I spent at the Jesuit Heythrop College outside Woodstock in Oxfordshire. The college was a former ancestral home of Lord Brassey and there were wonderful trees, a private lake and surken gardens."

AUTHOR

Father Lahey was about 25 when he wrote the first book ever written on the poet Gerard Manley Hopkins while at Cambridge. "My professional field always has been and still is English," said Father Lahey. "I have specialized in 17th and 20th century literature." He recalled his friendship with poet laureate Robert Bridges. "He was an old man and I was a young one," he reflected.

Since this book Father Lahey has written many articles on literary subjects. Two years ago he wrote on The Private School for "Canadian Education Today" in which university presidents and deans expressed their views.

In 1930 after a teaching year at Loyola Father Lahey was transferred to the College for Jesuit Students at Guelph where he spent another four years teaching. Further special studies in theology took him back to England and Wales.

Father Lahey was posted to Winnipeg in 1936. "I stayed there for 18 years and I loved Winnipeg and its people," he said. "I was Dean of Arts and Science at St. Paul's College, a Jesuit college affiliated to the University of Manitoba on whose Senate and many sub-committees I served."

While in Winnipeg Father Lahey was chaplain of the Newman Club of the University and was responsible for the spiritual welfare of 600 young men and women. "I married them and baptized their babies," said Father Lahey. "All my life I have been associated with boys and girls and I think I know and understand modern man and woman. Believe me, I have been through their battles and troubles with them."

For two years during World War II Father Lahey served as national chaplain of the Federation of Newman Clubs. In Winnipeg Father Lahey lived a full, artistic life, watched the ballet grow up, attended symphony and chamber music concerts, was an art gallery enthusiast.

Zoning methods are under fire

A LOCAL resident who is highly incensed at the construction of an apartment building around the corner from his home paid this office a visit during the past week.

His property, he says, will deteriorate in value as a result of the apartment construction.

This isn't a new complaint.

We hear it often.

Usually, it stems from the fact that citizens don't check up on all situations before purchasing land or dwellings. One may buy a home on a residential street, and discover later that the cross-street is a commercial one.

Well-built apartment houses, however, are not the worst plague in the area by a long way. Far worse, in our opinion, are the stores that open up in dwellings on commercial streets, and then fail to respect the various regulations. Some of them screen refuse out into the street at closing time, leaving it to blow about in the breeze.

Others plaster their show-windows with hastily-prepared and non-professional signs that add little to the general appearance of the district.

Actually, the whole zoning system of the city requires a careful overhaul — one that will bring about satisfaction for the majority of taxpayers.

Such an overhaul is long overdue.

Is the female more deadly?

INJURY to five members of the so-called weaker sex in a traffic accident here recently, brings up the subject of the relative merits of male and female auto drivers.

Men, mostly, will tell you that women behind the wheel of a car are a menace on the road. The members of the female sex will return the compliment.

Statistics tend to show that men do have more accidents, but the cogitating male will puff on his pipe and say that this is because fewer women are driving cars.

Personally, if a personal opinion may be ventured in such a touchy argument, our observation has been that while women generally are not as debonair behind the steering wheel of a motor vehicle — they are more prone to panic when a tight situation develops.

Herein, perhaps, lies two opportunities.

The female of the species can up the back-seat driving when she sees her man getting a little too cocky on the highway, and mere males, manoeuvring through traffic, might come up with an extra bit of caution when they see a pretty face behind the wheel of the other car.

YOU SAY

Putter Mutter

The Editor,
 Westmount Examiner.

The Putting Green in Westmount Park is now looked upon by some passersby as a regular pathway.

A great deal of pleasure is derived by "putterists" from this putting green but it is being ruined gradually as cyclists and pedestrians use it as a short cut. Recently, some children moved some of the flags to the bank near Western avenue and one flag was thrown into the pond near by. The other night a woman persisted in putting whilst wearing spiked heels and during the usual Thursday night tournament a young lady was weaving in and out of the players on her way to the Rest Room.

This putting green is in very, very poor condition but nevertheless the players appreciate the opportunity of using it — but are furious when couples persist in their children using it as an ordinary playground, some using small clubs and making gashes in the turf around the cups. Mashies and brassies and even baseball bats are used to "putt", thus damaging the already anaemic turf.

The police on duty in the park do their best to control the situation, though many of the offenders are not Westmounters. It might be wise for the police to check occafathers and 29 lay professors and teachers who, on the university staff, include men of other faiths.

"I am prepared for an enrolment of close to 2,000 university students by 1970," said the fair-complexioned, blue-eyed Jesuit father during a recent interview in his study. His friendly and soft spoken manner puts one at ease immediately.

Father Lahey's connections with Loyola always have been intimate. As a boy of 18 in 1920 he first came to the

Some improvement could be made to the putting green. After the grass is cut the cuttings should be gathered with a bamboo rake (or a catcher used on the machine) and the grass rolled to get some of the numerous bumps and worm casts flattened.

were martyred by the Indians," said Father Lahey. "The second coming of the Jesuits was in 1844 and this time they came mostly as educators. They came from France and founded the College Sainte Marie on Bleury street. The English-speaking Catholics broke away and Loyola College was founded in 1896 to accommodate them. It began modestly with 60 boys. By 1920 there were 200."

A scholar and one of the foremost educators in Canada, Father Lahey has spent a quarter of a century in university work. "I am primarily interested in academic work rather than administrative work," he laughed. "But I must do both."

By canon law the rectorship of Loyola College is restricted at the maximum to six years. At that rate Father Lahey has two years more to serve. "I do not know, of course, where I will be going," said the good father. "A Jesuit lives to be obedient. There are 33,000 Jesuits in our 400-year-old order and

Congress children hosted by Westmounters

Monday the X International Congress of Genetics got under way at McGill University when doctors and scientists from all over the world began to assemble there, some bringing their families. A three way program, which is intricate but flexible, is working out successfully. While the Chairmen of the Symposia and Sessions and contributed papers held meetings nearby, their wives were entertained with a tour to Ottawa departing from Roddick Gates. The children were adequately taken care of by a group of young people, among whom are Miss Barbara Boyes, Allan Boyes, Hugh Clark, Philip Boyes, Vladimir Rahr, and other Westmounters. Progeny Park has been equipped with sandboxes, slides, and other forms of fun.

Next day registration began in earnest; the meetings for the scientists continued; and McGill University tendered a reception, tea and band concert for the members of the congress. Later while parents attended the Huskins Memorial Lecture of the Genetics Society of Canada.

at the University of Montreal, delivered by A. Muntzing, University of Lund, Sweden, on "A NEW CATEGORY OF CHROMOSOMES", the children attended a Puppet Show by The Vagabond, a completely equipped miniature theatre which travels to more than 25 parks of the Montreal Park Department during the summer. The children remained at Progeny Park until the buses returned from the lecture.

On Wednesday morning the Exhibits at the McGill Winter Stadium were declared officially open. More than 100 booths are open to the public for the duration of the congress, showing exhibits from all over the world. Silkworms at work, rice, goldfish, plant and animal genetics, poultry, giant radishes, stalls prepared by Canadian and U.S.

Departments of Agriculture, and wheat, which is the Canadian exhibit. One stall of interest contains four cows and a bull from Texas where they were raised, to demonstrate breeding practices by having the first genuine American breed of cattle on display. These cattle are known as Santa Gertrudis, and the breed was started about 25 years ago. Breeders in Texas wanted cattle strong enough to resist heat and drought on the Texas ranges, and a breed that could produce a high grade of beef. The result of years of research is the Santa Gertrudis.

Many husband and wife teams of scientists have come to Montreal to participate in the sessions at the X International Congress of Genetics. They will present their papers, 15 minutes in length, separately or with other scientists, showing results obtained after years of research.

At the Inaugural Session at McGill on Wednesday morning, the official opening of the Congress took place. Chairman of the X International Congress of Genetics, Dr. J. W. Boyes, opened the ceremony. The Hon. Henri Courtemanche, Secretary of State delivered an address of welcome by the Government of Canada; welcome by the Province of Quebec was given by the Hon. Paul Dozois, Minister of Municipal Affairs; and welcome by the City of Montreal was given by His Worship Mayor Sarto Fournier.

Later, at a special convocation for the conferring of honorary degrees by McGill University, the recipients of Doctor of Science were: Dr. Hitoshi Kihara of Japan, the most eminent scientist in genetics from that country; Dr. Lionel S. Penrose of London, England; and Dr. Curt Stern of the University of California.

During the afternoon, sessions of contributed papers began at 1.30 on the following: wheat, radiation, polygenic inheritance, complex loci, genes and environment, twin studies and population problems, chromosomes, evolution and speciation, and general plant cytology. All of these different sessions taking place at the appointed time and running concurrently at different buildings on the McGill Campus.

At 5.30 the children at Progeny Park were assembled in buses to go to Beaver Lake for a Picnic. While the City of Montreal tendered a Reception at the Chalet on Mount Royal for the members of the Congress. Later a Chamber Music Concert was held at Redpath Hall for the delegates.

Main formal address on Wednesday was given by Dr. Sewall Wright who said that geneticists as a group are "quite concerned" about the effect of nuclear bomb testing on future generations. He also pointed out that it was geneticists who first made it known that there is "no safe threshold" for radiation. Any radiation produces mutations, and most mutations are bad for the human race - they bring about an increase in the number of stillborn and deformed and genetically weak children.

On Thursday the ladies visited the Montreal Botanical Gardens and St. Helen Island for lunch in the Helene de Champlain Restaurant, where a fashion show was held. The sessions of contributed papers continued as scheduled, and the children visited Lafontaine Park Handicraft exhibit and the Zoo. A public lecture in French and the conferring of honorary degrees took place at the University of Montreal at 8 p.m. The speaker was Francois Jacob, of the Institut Pasteur, Paris, France, who talked on the subject "Mi-

Delson Gardens offer privacy, ease of access

Low cost, high quality homes are the attraction at the new Delson Gardens development project on the South Shore some six miles from the Mercier Bridge on route 9C.

The 300 home community offers four model homes to choose from, open for inspection from 10:00 a.m. to 10:00 p.m. Cost of the attractive units ranges from payments of $64.00 per month.

Catholic and Protestant schools and churches are situated nearby and local shopping facilities are already established. Bus and train transportation, as well as ready access over the Mercier, Victoria and Jacques Cartier bridges, make it convenient to the heart of Montreal.

The bungalows are of stone-brick construction with plaster walls, tiled bathrooms and a high cement basement. Picture windows and hardwood floors are standard features as well as an automatic oil heating system.

Water, sewers and streets are already installed in the area. The large lots and relative sparsity of building surrounding

Two youths charged on seven counts

Two youths charged as the screen-snipping burglars who cut their way into ten Westmount, Montreal and Outremont homes — committing a theft-with-violence en route — were remanded without bail following their arraignment in Criminal Court yesterday.

No pleas were asked of Laurent Panneton, 19, of 3639 St. Dominique street, arraigned on 14 charges, and Real Desloges, 18, of 3661 St. Dominique, arraigned on seven charges.

Sessions Judge Paul Hurteau ordered preliminary inquiry Aug. 26.

Montreal, Outremont and Westmount police in general and six detectives in particular had been pressing for several weeks to end the burglaries.

The complaints listed total loot as more than $2,500 in everything from cash to contact lenses. Police said nothing was recovered.

Gravest charge against Panneton and Desloges was theft with violence, of $25 from Miss Josette Bolen, 23, in a Coronet street apartment she'd been asked to take charge of while friends were away.

The pair also was charged with a $1,450 burglary at the home of Dr. Lionel Gordon, 6237 Lennox avenue (on the Montreal-Outremont border) July 30.

The charges against Panneton included attempted auto theft.

How does he describe Loyola College? "This is a private school, a select school," said Father Lahey. "We are entitled to make our own standards of admission. This June we held special entrance examinations in the High School for the first time. The student who wants to enter the university courses must meet our standards of admission. I have aligned this college with other universities throughout Canada. This is important — that we preserve our own educational traditions as well as our relationship with Canadian education as it develops through the years."

Father Lahey has many interesting guests throughout the year. The British novelist Graham Greene was a recent one. "We've been visited by Jesuits from India, Australia, South Africa, Spain and other places in Europe just this summer," said Father Lahey. "Yes, the Jesuit fathers are truly international."

Couple injured at intersection

A car driven by Phillipe Casgrain, 31, 139 4th avenue, Ville St. Pierre, struck two pedestrians, Monday, as they were crossing Saint Catherine street west at the Glen. John Apery, 40, and Serna Apery, 40, both of 912 Descurcelles, Montreal, sustained fractures of the left leg. After First Aid had been rendered on the spot, they were both taken to Montreal General Hospital by ambulance.

Look who's wearing her 'immediate cash adjustment'!

Gracious! What next? A body can hardly keep up with things these days. What with dogs spinning around in the sky and all. And now all this excitement about changing over your Victory Bonds. I was sorry to see mine go. Had it so long you know. But when the young man at the bank explained that these new bonds paid more interest. Well! I know a good thing when I see it. And besides, he gave me a nice cash adjustment—which I straightaway spent on a new bonnet. Like it?

Offer applies only to wartime Victory Bonds.

FOR EXAMPLE: a $500 8th series Victory Bond exchanged for a $500 Conversion Bond paying 4½% will give you $8.75 in cash immediately. The higher interest will yield $22.50 per year instead of the present $15. See your investment dealer, stockbroker, bank, trust or loan company today:

The bill of fare:

THIS Fall, American Express invades the credit field and promises to be the first serious competition The Diners' Club has had to face in eight very successful years. Half a dozen or more credit clubs, one by one, dropped by the wayside leaving the lucrative "expense account" trade for The Diners'.

When it was made known that American Express was more than casually interested in the credit business, to offset the profit loss in the downward plunge of travelers cheques sales, those concerned with the restaurant industry wondered whether or not the ingenious Diners' Club would be able to come up with a new angle to block this ominous competitor.

Diners' Club travelers cheques insured by Lloyd's

FIGHT fire with fire was the Diners' attitude. They announced they were going to include insured travelers cheques among the many features offered. These cheques would be insured by Lloyd's of London. Should a member lose the cheques an immediate refund is made. Usually there is a waiting period of several days before this can take place and it can lead to delays and confusion for those who may be following a schedule. American Express has started to advertise their new service and is asking that people write for a credit card application form.

Unlike The Diners' who handle their applications in one mailing, simply by filling in a form and mailing it to the head office in Toronto, American Express asks that you write for the application form, fill it in then send it off for approval. A lot of people won't bother and there will be an incomplete file. How did any of us get along before the invention of the credit card? But that's another story.

Personalities a la carte:

THE Hotel de LaSalle has an enviable reputation for serving consistently good food. People who eat out often say that food becomes boring when you eat at the same place over and over again. However, whether it's Le Pavillon or the Club Cafe, radio and stage personalities can be seen there at noon and again at night. Recommended: Dore amandine . . . CJAD's charming and talented women's editor, Doris Clark entertaining associates from out of town at Cafe Martin on Mountain street. Recommended: Chicken 21 . . . Lou Wyman has joined his former partner, Jack Rogers, at The Black Angus. Could it be that "Slitkin and Slotkin" will occupy a small section of the present quarters? Recommended: Sirloin steak you can practically cut with your fork, tossed green salad . . . 5.30 p.m. to 7, the sophisticated hour at the Tour Eiffel, where prominent Montrealers gather for cocktails and breezy conversation that is often inclined to last beyond the appointed hour . . . Rusty Davis, composer, arranger and pianist of quite some fame, is one of the busier people judging by his program schedule on the French network alone . . . What's the true story behind the Chez Paree's future? . . . People are funny dept: They won't walk two blocks to a nightspot but they'll drive out to Le Faisan Bleu half a mile from Belmont Park. And drive out they have been, in droves to be entertained by the top names in the entertainment business . . . The El Morocco is slated to open its doors again right after Labor Day . . . The Queen's Hotel drawing good crowds to the Sunday Family Dinner . . . Speaking of families, the Bellevue Casino is one of the few places that has been wise enough to maintain a policy standard that takes care of the whole family. Good, clean fun, singing, dancing and just about everything from acrobat acts to Sharky the Seal. Top this off with good food and an honest measure in the beverage department and it has really been a night on the town. Members of the Lola Sully Fan Club will be glad to know that the delightful miss adds much to Jack Suz's emporium.

Hospitality — the priceless ingredient:

ALL successful restaurants make their patrons feel welcome, regardless of how much money they may owe the establishment. These were words of advice handed out many years ago and they are all true. That's why a place on which a fortune has been spent declares bankruptcy within the year while a less plush spot across the street thrives for years . . . Not so long ago a Montreal restaurant fell upon hard times

FIRST RECORDING — Carl Tapscott (right) and CBC producer Keith MacMillan look well-satisfied as they view the first LP recording of songs by the popular Carl Tapscott singers, a group of 12 male voices. The recording was made in response to the regular heavy flow of appreciative letters the Tapscott group receive for their CBC Trans-Canada Network radio show each Wednesday night. The program is re-broadcast the following Tuesday morning over the same network.

MILDRED VALLEY THORNTON, F.R.S.A.
Authority on Canadian Indians

ONE OF THE MANY interesting personalities that I met in Vancouver not connected with the First International Music Festival 1958 was Mildred Valley Thornton, FRSA. An outstanding authority on Canadian Indians, Mrs. Thornton is a famous artist, writer and lecturer who had a one-woman exhibition of 150 pictures that I viewed in the Hudson Bay Art Gallery.

MILDRED VALLEY THORNTON has an artistic background as her aunt, Evelyn Beatrice Longman is one of America's noted Women Sculptors being the first woman to be admitted into full membership to the National School of Design.

Indians at work, Indians at play, chiefs, squaws, Indian children . . . they are all colorfully depicted in historical fashion for Canada by Mrs Thornton, who is the only person besides artist Paul Kane, who visited and painted the Indians on such a large scale in over a hundred years.

The various tribes are in such colorful native regalia that some could walk right out of the canvas. Not only gifted for painting but able to talk about the history and human understanding of the Canadian Indian, Mrs. Thornton has lectured from Coast to Coast. She is a speaker with a mission who has talked to the Associated Canadian Clubs about her twenty-five years of experience visiting the Indian Tribes and gaining their goodwill.

I enjoyed the many details this charming artist told me about her work. The Kwakiutl Tribe accepted her under the name of "Ah-co-mookht" (One who wears a Noble Blanket) and into the Cree Tribe as "Owas-ka-ta-esk-ean" (Putting Your Most Ability For Us Indians) Her Bella Coola name is "Quol-khaa-sum" and the Blackfeet refer to her as "Mo-jai-sis-aki" (One Who Makes Pictures).

A third gift that Mildred Val-and it looked as if this popular little restaurant was going to have to close its doors. A few of the customers got together and loaned the owner the money he needed to get himself out of the red, and no interest on the loan either to be paid back out of earnings within five years. Not one of the group suggested that they be apportioned shares of stock. Business was conducted as usual and at the end of the fourth year, the owner repaid every cent. A nice story with a 'help thy neighbor' twist you don't often hear today. Restaurants and clubs which have proven the most profitable, efficient and unobtrusively managed are those where one of the owners or partners is on duty all the time. Ruby Foo's is a typical example. Dagwood's is another. The flops we won't bother to list but in most cases the owner was either hardly ever there or he didn't know anything about the business to start with. When he saw his money going down the drain, perhaps he watered the liquor or bought cheaper cuts! That would be just enough to finish him. Drury's and Cafe Martin were faced with either cutting the size of the drinks so that the price would remain unchanged or increasing by 10c to serve a very generous ounce and a quarter. Leo Dandurand, without hesitating jacked up the price. His theory being that no one minds paying for a good thing but they feel cheated if they pay the regular price for something that turns out to be inferior. From cocktails to closing Montreal offers the finest in food and entertainment. We hope you will go out at least once this week to a favorite restaurant for lunch or dinner or maybe dancing at one of several excellent clubs.

And so to cover our beat. Maybe we'll meet.

ley Thornton possesses is that of art critic and writer for the Vancouver Press. She has been Vancouver press. She has been the past sixteen years.

Mrs. Thornton is a Fellow of the Royal Society of Arts, London, England; a past president of the Vancouver Branch of the Canadian Authors' Association, vice-president of the Vancouver Poetry Society, a member of the Native Indian Sisterhood of British Columbia, and I made the discovery that we are fellow members of the Canadian Women's Press Club, of which Mrs. Thornton is on the Executive of the Vancouver Branch. Mildred Valley Thornton is indeed a gifted Canadian.

SAYING OF THE WEEK:

Prepare yourself for the world, as the athletes used to do for their exercise; oil your mind and your manners, to give them the necessary suppleness and flexibility; strength alone will not do.

The bride, who was given away by her father, wore a gown of white embroidered organza, fashioned on princess lines, the fitted bodice having a square embroidered neckline, long sleeves ending in appliqued embroidered points over the hand, and the bouffant skirt with matching border. Wide satin bands fell from the bodice in the trapeze line to the floor. Her veil of tulle illusion was held by a pearl coronet. She carried a white satin Bible covered with sweetheart roses and stephanotis, and streamers of the same.

Miss Viola Russell as maid of honor for her sister, Miss Shirley Harris of Whitehead, Nova Scotia, and Miss Louise Richardson of Ottawa, as bridesmaids, were in empire frocks of white eyelet over pale blue taffeta, having short puff sleeves, a square neckline, gathered skirt, and a wide tucked waistband of matching taffeta with large bow and streamers in the back. The maid of honor carried a cascade bouquet of blue and white carnations with matching headband. The bridesmaids carried colonial bouquets of pink and white carnations with matching headbands.

Mr. David Heron of Lethbridge, Alta, acted as best man for his brother, Mr. Sam Russell of Brampton, Ont., brother of the bride, and Dr. John Stephenson of Montreal were ushers.

The Church of the Ascension of Our Lord, Westmount, the Rev. Father Rene Morrisette officiating. Mr. J. E. Savaria played the wedding music, and Miss Ann Gregory, sister of the bridegroom, sang during the service. Standards of white summer flowers were used to decorate the church.

The bride, who was given away by her father, was in a gown of white organdy over taffeta, the fitted bodice appliqued with lace, and embroidered with seed pearls, having a square neckline and short sleeves, and a full skirt appliqued with lace flowers. She wore a long Spanish lace veil and carried a bouquet of Sweet-heart roses.

Miss Lyse Lawton as maid of honor for her sister was in a frock of Dior blue lace, fashioned with a fitted bodice and full skirt. She wore a matching headdress, and carried a bouquet of white carnations.

Lieut. Raymond Dandurand of Toronto, acted as best man for Mr. Gregory, and the ushers were Mr. Pierre Lawton, and Mr. Charles Lawton, brothers of the bride.

Mrs. Lawton, the bride's mother, was gowned in beige lace over pink and wore a dark blue hat and accessories, and a corsage bouquet of white orchids.

Mrs. Gregory, mother of the bridegroom, wore a gown of embroidered beige silk, a matching hat and accessories, and a corsage bouquet of white orchids.

Following the reception, which was held at the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gregory left for the Laurentians, the bride travelling in a beige linen suit, and wearing a green feather hat, green accessories, and a corsage bouquet of Sweet-heart roses.

The Afterglow

In the twilight, I walk in my garden,
Breathe deeply, the sweet fragrant air,
And pause, by the shrine of white lilies,
Their dew-shaden beauty to share.

Tomorrow, I go to the city,
With its noise, and its hurrying throng,
And instead of the sad silent faces,
I see lilies, and hear a bird's song.

The Venerable R. Kenneth Naylor, D.D., Rector, Trinity Memorial Church

Thoughtful people are troubled and distressed about the world they are living in. We are living in a state of crisis; in fact, half our population has never known any other kind of life. People said to themselves in 1919 and 1920 "If we could only have five years of quiet in order to get back to normal!" For we fondly thought back to the period of 1900-1914 as normal. But, of course, the whole of our present trouble harks back to our activities in that same pre-war period. Those activities were our relationships with one another in those years. Something must have been wrong to produce the present trouble; in fact, something always has been wrong in our dealings with material things, with our fellow-men and in our dealings with God.

That brings us back to the three facts that we all have to deal with, and as all our problems are concerned with those three facts we had better start with some definitions. Let us start with the one about which we all think we know something. What is the world? Well, obviously, as we live in 1958 we know that it is a planet rotating on its own axis at the rate of 1,000 miles an hour, revolving about its parent sun at the rate of 10,000 miles an hour, and flying through space along with its parent and its fellow-satellites; yet with such precision that the astronomers can tell us exactly how many times in the next century the earth will cut the light of the sun off from the moon, and how often and when the moon will cut off the light of the sun from the earth.

In other words, the universe we live in is a dependable place. Yet not entirely dependable, because there are vast conflagrations from time to time on the sun which affect our climate; and on our own planet there are volcanoes, earthquakes and tidal waves which may sweep away thousands of lives in a moment. A dependable planet, in one sense, but a chancy place in another.

There is another thing to say about it. It is inhabited by people and they are actually a part of it — bone of its bone — composed of exactly the same material atoms as the rest of the planet. We come from the earth and return to the earth. And because we live on the earth and gain our living from it we are under a certain obligation to it. For the moment I shall assume that the universe is God's creation, though I shall return to that later. The universe comes from God; man comes from God and God has given man certain rights, but He has not given man complete ownership. No matter how far we go in our civilization and in our dominion over the earth we come ultimately to the point where we must admit that we brought nothing into this world and we take nothing out. We are not owners, we are ten-

'We' don't hate the police, local judge answers article

A policeman's lot is not an easy one, according to a letter received this week from Westmount's municipal judge Bernard Rose, but it is a useful one, deserving every citizen's respect.

His letter follows:

May I avail myself of your editorial courtesy to comment upon a widely advertised article in a Canadian periodical which professes to give reasons "Why do we hate the police?" The writer takes it for granted that "we" hate the police. In view of the prominence given it by the magazine in which it appears it will no doubt be generally discussed not only in police circles but wherever criminals congregate.

I deny most emphatically that "we", that is the general population, hate the police. The assertion is ill founded and calculated to inspire distrust of the men who are called upon in the performance of their hazardous duties to protect the lives and property of the citizen. The writer of the article overlooked the fact that the policeman takes an oath of service to Her Majesty and in that quality, is as much entitled to the respect and cooperation of the citizen as an officer of any branch of the armed forces.

TOUGH TASK

His task is at no time an easy one and calls for patience, courage and good judgment. In the instances that are given of individual constables who may have acted indiscreetly or because of the attitude of the culprits they arrested, we forget that it is unfair to condemn the police generally because of the conduct of a few individuals. He makes no reference to lawyers who are disbarred or suspended nor does he refer to doctors guilty of malpractice nor men in their professions and callings who abuse their authority or betray the confidence reposed in them.

With the multiplicity of laws which the constable is called upon to learn and enforce it is inevitable that occasionally an irate citizen may scold the police. The policeman who is efficient cannot make distinctions nor be a respecter of persons where an offence has been committed. The average policeman's lot in any circumstance is not a happy one. He generally gets more verbal bricks than bouquets; yet he carries on notwithstanding the strictures of the law abiding citizen as well as the curses of malefactors who, but for the police, would carry on unmolested their nefarious activities. Those who hate the police are: the professional criminals, the juvenile delinquents, the convicts and all who violate the laws of the municipality, the province, or the nation.

HELP OUT

The author of the article certainly rendered no service to the community in relating the alleged misdeeds of certain police constables. He would have been much better advised had he suggested that citizens give the police a larger and more deserved measure of cooperation than they have been receiving. He is probably unaware that it is the duty of every citizen or subject of Her Majesty to come to the assistance of the guardians of the law when they are attacked by law-breakers.

I strongly repudiate the assertion that there is a "cold war" between the police and the citizens. The police forces of our cities, large and small, must wage continuous war against criminals if citizens are to sleep safely in their beds. Would he suggest that the heroic policemen who are killed while seeking to apprehend a bandit lacked the respect of the community? If we gave the police the respect to which they are entitled it would be an incentive to redouble their efforts to reduce the appalling increase in crime in all large centres of population. We should not only respect the uniform but the man who wears it.

WHY?

Mistakes may occasionally be made, but why level accusations against the whole police force!

The heads of the several police departments enjoy the confidence of the men who serve under them. Director Hilaire Beaugard, chief of the Provincial Police Force; Director Albert Langlois who heads the Montreal constabulary and the directors of the police departments of the several municipalities on the Island of Montreal are competent, and men of integrity. Speaking if I may of the City of Westmount, its efficient police personnel are held in high regard by the citizens. I can understand that the receiver of a parking ticket or he who is charged with a more serious violation may at the time lose his or her temper and berate the police, but what group could do a better job than what they are doing? Showing disrespect and lacking confidence in our police force will not make the situation easier or less dangerous for the splendid men who must be ready at all times regardless of the risk involved to protect life and property. The sensible citizen does not hate the police but admires them in spite of the insinuations and allegations of the writer who wrote the article referred to in the opening paragraph of this communication.

McCoy, Snowdon batting champ

Al McCoy, Steinberg's is the new batting champion of the Snowdon Major Fastball league. McCoy batted .361 for 97 trips to the plate smashing out 35 hits.

Of the top 10 batters only six were able to hold .300 average. Of the total, four are from Steinberg's; four from Dow and two Prosper. Pepsi, although they made the playoff, did not have any in the first 10.

Andre Corriveau, Prosper, who held the lead for many weeks finished in sixth place, Rickey Tomlinson was second his teammate McCoy. Huey Hall, Dow was third along with Pete Constable, Dow who was fourth.

Eight swimmers on West coast

Eight swimmers will represent Montreal in the Canadian open Swimming Championships being staged in conjunction with Centennial celebrations at Vancouver, starting today.

Under the supervision of Ross Firth, aquatic director of McGill University, the party left Montreal Friday, for the four days of competition.

Montreal's two British Empire Games swimming stars Gladys Priestley and Cameron Grout will not make the trip.

Miss Priestley has hung up her racing suit for good while Grout is studying for a supplemental exam at McGill.

Members of the team are Richard Pound and Alex Crothwaite of MAAA; Lorne Jacobs and Steve Rabinovitch of YMHA; Jacques Corbeil, Yvon Blanchette and Jean Paul Blanchette of Palestre Nationale and Madeline Sevigny of Concordia.

Snowdon league final standing

The Snowdon Major Fastball league reached the end of its long schedule last Thursday when Dow, the pennant winners lost a 4-3 decision to Steinberg's.

That made it the third time in a row that the Grocer boys had been able to edge out Dow. In the second to last game of the schedule, third place Prosper picked up four points in one game when they dumped Steinberg's 5-0, without Percy McCracken on the mound.

McCracken faced the brewers in the final schedule game and gave up five hits. It's Percy's 18th win in 27 starts. Gil Legare was the loser for Dow and his record for the year is 8-1.

Gerry Levinson slammed a homer in the eighth inning to give the Grocers the win while Jack McKissock, the Brewer shortstop smacked his fourth round tripper in the fifth frame.

In the first nine months of 1957 Canadian corporation profits after taxes totalled $1,313 million, a decline of $86 million or about 6 per cent from the same period of 1956.

Minor changes in hunting rules

Minor adjustments in hunting season dates are the principal changes in the 1958 migratory bird regulations for the province of Quebec, the Canadian Wildlife Service, Department of Northern Affairs and National Resources announced.

The season on woodcock—September 27 to November 3—is uniform throughout Quebec province this year.

Ducks and geese may be hunted September 6—November 14 in the northern district, September 13—November 21 in the central district and September 20—November 28 in the southern district.

The Wilson's snipe season is September 20—October 27 in the northern and central districts and September 27—November 2 in the southern district.

Like last year, there is an additional season for scoter, eider and old-squaw ducks in the coastal waters of Saguenay county from November 15 to December 14.

All seasons open on Saturdays. A small change has been made in the boundary between the central and northern districts. Bag and possession limits are the same as last year, but boats may no longer be used to drive birds towards a waiting hunter.

Geese have been known to fly at an altitude of 5½ miles.

Junior football has 4th entry

The in-and-out Rosemount junior football team are now set for action with three other clubs, N.D.G. Maple Leafs, defending champions; Lakeshore, new entry and McGill Indians, who will only play four point games but not until late in September.

The Rosemount club started drills this week but to-date no coach has been named. Club president Eddy Smith is seeking a name player if that can be arranged. He is appealing to Alouettes for some kind of help.

The team will practise and play at the Montreal Sports Center on the corner of Sherbrooke and Pie IX.

There they have locker room and shower facilities and Smith has been promised that the park will have suitable lights for night practises later in the season.
