

Drapeau's monument to elegance in deep financial trouble

MONTREAL (CP)—Jean Drapeau's restaurant, opened 16 months ago with all the flourish Montreal's impresario-mayor could muster, is in deep financial trouble.

Closed last week for what Mayor Drapeau called a reassessment of its concept, the restaurant turned up in the news this week when the Windsor Hotel filed a writ against it.

Superior Court ordered $41,000 worth of the restaurant's belongings seized

Tuesday and the hotel's lawyer said Wednesday it will ask the court for an order ousting the restaurant from the premises and effecting the sale of moveables for non-payment of rent.

Le Vaisseau d'Or—the Golden Vessel—was the mayor's monument to Montreal's elegance.

Located in the stately Windsor Hotel, traditional resting-place of visiting royalty, it featured a 20-piece chamber orchestra and a fancy cuisine in a city noted for its fine restaurants.

It reflected what Mr. Drapeau said was a long-standing ambition to provide Montreal with a refined dining establishment worthy of the finest clientele.

The restaurant was exquisitely furnished in tones of warm gold, olive green and royal blue, with chair upholstery in velvet. Gold-tasseled cloths in matching floral patterns covered tables and reached to the floor.

Tab for a dinner for two could reach $40.

But the high hopes of the promoter-mayor who has given Montreal Expo 67 and the 1976 Olympic Games flew in the face of gloomy prognostications from competitors.

Other restaurateurs said in May, 1969, when Mr. Drapeau announced plans for the restaurant, that although le Vaisseau d'Or might have great initial success, lack of experience would eventually take its toll. The restaurant opened in September the same year.

The restaurant's history has been stormy at times.

On Oct. 7, 1969, night of the Montreal police strike, mobs which plundered downtown Montreal vented their rage against the mayor by damaging his restaurant.

Last month, the restaurant was visited by police who ordered a sports organization that had engaged the place for a banquet to cancel a raffle. Quebec law forbids raffles in establishments licensed to serve liquor.

Now, the Windsor Hotel says the restaurant owes $35,000 rent plus $6,750 damages for one month's loss "on termination of the lease."

A spokesman for the mayor's office said Mr. Drapeau believes "things will work themselves out" following talks with hotel officials.

MAKING BUSINESS PLEASURE — When Alexandre Veilleux of Compton County needs firewood for his farmhouse, he assembles ready volunteers Camille and Sylvie, hitches his team to the sled, and strikes off across a scenic winter landscape. Alexandre and his children are enthusiastic about the outings, and the horses haven't been heard to voice complaints.

Langevin acquitted, Crown to appeal

MONTREAL (CP) — The Crown was expected to appeal today the acquittal verdict in the seditious libel case of Robert Langevin, 21-year-old student charged in connection with Quebec terrorism.

Langevin smiled with relief Wednesday when acquitted by a 12-man jury on a charge of publishing seditious libel on or about Oct. 11, 1970.

But Bruno Pateras a Crown prosecutor, told a reporter later he would appeal the decision today.

Meanwhile, Langevin, a junior college student from suburban Longueuil, was to reappear today for trial on three related charges.

Also scheduled to appear today in connection with the outlawed Front de Liberation du Quebec was Jean Boisjoly, accused of seditious conspiracy, illegal possession of firearms, membership in the FLQ and communicating statements on behalf of or as a representative of the FLQ.

Michel Lamarre, Langevin's lawyer, did not contest the Crown's contention that Langevin was responsible for "writing and distributing" a plan for the violent overthrow of the Quebec government.

But he argued that it was the work of an "impressionable" young man and "should not be taken seriously."

Evidence showed that Langevin wrote the plan for revolution in a school exercise book and gave it to a friend, Come Leblanc, also being held on FLQ charges.

Two other persons were present when the plan changed hands, but it was not determined in court whether they saw it.

There was some argument over the wording of the charge — specifically the expression "distributing". The jury returned to Court of Queen's Bench for clarification and Mr. Justice Roger Ouimet said it is not defined in legal terminology and wondered whether it applied to the passing of a document to one person only.

Referring to a dictionary definition of the word, he said:

"I hope that those responsible for drawing up charges against an accused will use legal terminology in the future."

He said Langevin should benefit from any reasonable doubt.

QUEBEC IN FOCUS

Masse decries jobs pledge

QUEBEC (CP) — Quebecers may lose confidence in their political system because of Premier Robert Bourassa's campaign pledge to create 100,000 new jobs in 1971, Marcel Masse, Union Nationale member of the national assembly, said Wednesday.

"If the 100,000 jobs represented only a way of dramatising the situation and constituted only an electoral slogan," he said, "Mr. Bourassa should be accused of dishonesty and hypocrisy."

Says snowmobiles a threat

QUEBEC (CP) — Kevin Drummond, Quebec minister of lands and forests, said Wednesday the snowmobile "threatens to cause serious damage to our environment" and hampers forest conservation.

He told a meeting of the Ordre du Meriter Forestier, whose members have received special awards for their involvement in Quebec's forest industry, there is a lack of adequate legislation to control the use of the snowmobile.

There is also a "lack of public spirit among snowmobile users."

Mr. Drummond said that initiatives had been taken by Conservation officials to set aside areas for snowmobile traffic to minimize damage to public or private property.

Tetley to study auto rates

QUEBEC (CP) — William Tetley, Quebec minister of financial institutions, said Wednesday his department is studying plans by insurance companies to increase auto insurance premiums by five to six per cent.

Mr. Tetley said in an interview he has been holding discussions with representatives of auto insurance companies for several weeks.

The minister said that in the course of the discussions he was told by representatives of two associations of insurance companies that they plan premium increases of five to six per cent.

"I believe I'm in a position to say there will be no increases affecting damages to third parties and miscellaneous risks," he said, "but I think it may be necessary to accept an increase on collision policies."

Chiasson prosecution rests

RIVIERE DU LOUP, Que. (CP) — The Crown ended its case Wednesday against Louis Chiasson, alleging through witnesses that he set a fire in an old folks' home that claimed 38 lives Dec. 2, 1969.

Chiasson, 53-year-old native of Miscou, N.B., is charged specifically with the non-capital murder of Albert Lebel, a resident at the home in nearby Notre Dame du Lac.

The defence was scheduled to be heard today.

Three persons who were in prison with Chiasson after the fire testified Wednesday they heard him admit setting it.

Chiasson was quoted as saying he started the fire with a match.

Chiasson has denied making the statement.

Three members of the Quebec Provincial Police later testified they obtained a signed statement from Chiasson, saying he had started a fire in the building's laundry on the morning of Dec. 2.

But the statement said there was no intention on his part of burning down the building.

Commonwealth leaders avert immediate arms sale clash

SINGAPORE (CP) — The nine-day Commonwealth prime ministers' conference opens today with controversy over proposed British arms sales to South Africa momentarily put aside.

Prime Minister Trudeau of Canada arrived here Wednesday after visiting India and Pakistan where he discussed Britain's proposal to supply the South African navy with arms to help guard sealanes.

Some Africans have threatened to leave the 31-country community of nations if the sales go through and Trudeau said in India that if some countries left Canada may be forced to leave.

But Trudeau also has suggested that the Commonwealth crisis has been magnified by the world press.

At any rate, senior delegates averted an immediate explosion Wednesday by placing the arms-for-South Africa issue well down on the agenda.

Britain tried to combine the question with a debate on neutralization of the Indian Ocean proposed by Ceylon.

The British delegate, Sir Denis Greenhill, the top official at the foreign office, found himself a minority of one at a meeting of a steering group settling the agenda.

Some delegates saw this setback for the British as a sign of isolation threatening Prime Minister Heath over his arms proposal.

It was reported that the agenda was proposed by Nigeria and actively supported by Canada, Singapore and India.

The first item on it is The Commonwealth in the 1970s and covers ideas for strengthening the Commonwealth.

It is expected that the chairman of the conference, Prime Minister Lee Kuan Yew of Singapore, will make sure that delegates stick to generalities and not bring in the arms question under this item.

Sources said that some Africans wanted to give priority to the question but Asian delegates expressed dissatisfaction with the way that African affairs dominated previous conferences.

The Asians are reported to hope that this conference, the first held east of the Suez, will place more emphasis on the problems of their area, which is home to 70 per cent of the Commonwealth's 900 million people.

After discussions on the future of the Commonwealth, the agenda will look like this:

—The world economic situation. This will cover the international situation.

Brazil releases prisoners

RIO DE JANEIRO (CP) — Brazil flew 70 prisoners to exile in Chile at midnight Wednesday night in exchange for the promised release of Swiss Ambassador Giovanni Bucher.

The prisoners included 59 men, 11 women and the three children of Italian-born Bruno Pilao, who was being freed with his wife.

The jet airplane took off at exactly midnight from the military sector of Galeao's international airport.

Police had ringed the airport with guards. Relatives of the prisoners were prevented from bidding goodbye to them.

The prisoners were handcuffed in pairs, were well-dressed and wore clean sports shirts and slacks.

SCENE OF THE ACCIDENT — BERNIER'S CAR HEAVILY DAMAGED (Record Photo Service: R. Spalding)

Four injured in collision

SHERBROOKE (RS) — Four persons are in hospital today recovering from injuries after a three-car collision last night at the corner of Belvedere and McManamy Streets.

Awaiting release at St. Vincent de Paul Hospital today are Mr. and Mrs. Marcel Bernier of 769 King George St. in Sherbrooke.

A spokesman at Hotel Dieu

Hospital said today Miss Christine Leblanc of Sherbrooke and Miss Barbara Bark, a student at Bishop's University would probably be released later during the day. All four suffered minor injuries.

Mr. and Mrs. Bernier, Miss Leblanc and three other persons were all occupants of a car driven by Mr. Bernier.

Miss Bark was a passenger in a second car driven by Miss Marguerite Van Horne, also a student at Bishop's University.

The third car, a taxi cab driven by Louis-Philippe Thibault of 390, 5th Avenue in Sherbrooke, had no other occupants at the time of the accident.

Police did not say how the accident occurred.

Wagner still unmoved by UN leadership draft

QUEBEC (CP) — Several hundred persons filled a hotel Wednesday night in a bid to draft Claude Wagner as candidate for the leadership of the Union Nationale party, but Mr. Wagner reiterated in Montreal that he is not interested in returning to politics.

The chant at the Chateau Frontenac hotel here was for the Sessions Court judge as the new leader, but he said from his Montreal home:

"I have absolutely no intention of returning to politics. There is no question of returning to politics."

Mr. Wagner told The Canadian Press he said several weeks ago he is not interested.

"I said that and I repeat it tonight."

The draft-Wagner campaign has been led by a political action committee of the UN despite Mr. Wagner's repeated denials of interest.

Asked if there was any pressure put on him, he replied: "Personally, I have never made any decision under pressure."

Mr. Wagner said he did not know precisely what was going on in Quebec City because no one had bothered to tell him.

"There have been no changes in my views," he added.

Mr. Wagner was appointed a Sessions Court judge last March after losing the Liberal leadership convention in January to Robert Bourassa.

Appointment of the former

Liberal justice minister, well-known for his law-and-order views, was made by Jean-Jacques Bertrand, then Union Nationale premier and the outgoing leader now.

Mr. Bertrand called the convention for an unspecified date in 1971, saying he will not lead the party in another election campaign.

Organizers of Wednesday night's campaign said after the initial flow of Wagner supporters arrived that hundreds more were expected at the Chateau Frontenac.

Spotted among those on hand were several former Bertrand cabinet ministers: Jean-Noel Tremblay, Jean-Paul Cloutier, Clement Vincent and Roch Boivin.

Population as Pollution Factor

Better Limit Cars than People

By LAWRENCE E. LAMB, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb—In your column you mention "HEW's ill-advised comment on limiting people to control pollution." I believe there is nothing in the least "ill-advised" about the idea of population control. The enclosed article states America is actually overpopulated right now. I encourage you to do further research on the population problem and to reconsider your position.

Dear Reader—I knew someone would say something about that. Of course, we should have a sensible population control program. The key word is sensible. I don't think limiting people is the whole answer. It is not people but what people do that causes the problem.

In some nations where factories, cars and other sources of pollution are not part of the picture, rather densely populated cities do not have the problems of the developed nations.

For years New York City has had a steady increase in pollution with no increase in the number of people. Why not limit automobiles—one to a family at maximum—instead of people as a first sane step. Besides I think it might be easier to legislate what goes into the garage than what goes on in the bedroom.

We can indeed control how foods are packaged—eliminate plastic containers that are next to indestructible, control how wastes are disposed of, what factories do. We should limit the ever-growing population of automobiles.

With a little automobile "birth control" the quality of life might improve remarkably. And while we are on the subject, why not cut down on pollution by cutting out cigarettes?

Dear Dr. Lamb—Early this year I took up bicycling as a wonderful form of exercising. But with the smoke put out in one part of the city by the steel mill, would the particles taken into the lungs be more harmful than the general exercise? In other words, if a person breathes much more in his exercise in a smog- or dust-laden city, is it better to work less?

Dear Reader—That is a good question. Unless the level of pollution is very high the benefits from your exercise would outweigh the danger. Although you would increase the amount of air taken into the lungs during the exercise, this is a relatively small increase over the amount you would breathe in a day's time.

Your problem points up beautifully that it is not always how many people, but what people do that counts. The steel mill is the problem in your area, not how many people live there. Living in Colorado, you are in a state with vast areas of sparse population and yet you are a victim of pollution.

I approve of bicycling wholeheartedly. Bicycling is a good way to keep circulation in shape. If you could just replace a lot of expensive automobiles with bicycles, we would have a much healthier population and a lot less pollution.

Dear Dr. Lamb—I am smaller than most girls my age (14) and I haven't started my period. I am teased very often because they have. Is there any way to induce the menstrua cycle without a prescription?

Dear Reader—You should not take any medicine for this unless your doctor says you really have a problem with your glands—which isn't likely. Some girls start later. Count yourself lucky to postpone those problems needed for a two no-trump opening in JACOBY MODERN, but he wasn't worried. He knew the old auction expert would make the hand if there was any way to do so.

Z had the full 22 points but Y's queen of hearts disappeared into thin air after East covered it with the king at trick one.

Z let East hold that trick and allowed West to hold the second heart, but was forced to win the third lead of that suit.

He led out his king of diamonds in the hope that the ace would cover it, but East was smart enough to let the king hold that trick and the queen the next one. East did win the third diamond and returned a spade.

Z won the spade lead, cashed his last diamond and finally had to start on the club suit. He considered playing his last high spade and leading a third spade in hope of an end play, but he didn't think that would work. Instead Z went after the clubs using a rapier rather than a bludgeon. He played the jack and overtook with dummy's queen. East couldn't afford to win. He would be setting up the rest of the suit for dummy so East ducked. Now Z led and finessed the club 10 to wind up with three clubs, three diamonds, two spades, one heart and his contract.

CONTEST WINNER — Paulina Grant, a grade 11 student at Alexander Galt Regional High School, is shown receiving congratulations from Mrs. K. Masterson, head of the English department. Paulina recently won the second promotion-writing contest for Galt's upcoming version of The Sound of Music.

Winning promotion for Sound of Music

When the bells of Nonnenburg Abbey will toll at Alexander Galt, February 23rd, few will realize the amount of time, money, effort and work which has been put into making the school production of The Sound of Music an almost professional performance.

For each person on stage, there are five people back stage working hard but incognito.

The costumes for the girls, under Mrs. McKercher, are made by forty girls and eight teachers, working assiduously every noon-hour and sometimes at home. They have no real pattern to work from. Mrs. Spafford of Green House is in charge of the boys' costumes. It has been estimated that five hundred dollars will be spent for the costumes alone.

The scenery, such as backdrops of the mountains and monastery, are painted under the skillful direction of Miss Milden of the Art Department. Thirty girls and she sacrifice every Saturday to paint the settings. The stairs, tables and other pieces of furniture for the Trapp house are built by the carpentry section of the school.

The ballroom dancers who dance with almost inborn grace are tutored by Mr. Quick of Red House. That too requires patience and work.

The dialogue of the Sound of Music flows so smoothly and is clearly understood because of Mr. Gallagher's coaching. The actors are taught by this man of Purple House, how to enunciate, how to come on cue and how to make their voices carry even to the last row of seats of the auditorium.

This is just an outline of the work going on. There are electrical-lighting crews, make-up crews, the people who open and close the curtains, directors of acting, directors of singing. All together, three hundred students and staff of Alexander Galt are working hard, behind the scenes and clatter of applause, to make the Regional's first musical a success.

Accused steer stealer sent to trial by judge and jury

By DAVID MAGIL

SHERBROOKE — There was some bull thrown about the courtroom yesterday, but it wasn't the same type as that sometimes associated with legal proceedings.

Roger Marcoux, 39, a St. Fortunat farmer, had his preliminary hearing held before Judge Benoit Turmel on a charge of stealing a bull belonging to Roger Dube, 48, also of St. Fortunat.

Much time passed and a certain amount of confusion was created before the judge sent Marcoux to trial before judge and jury at the February Assizes.

Most of the confusion surrounded the black and white bull which Dube claimed was stolen from him and which Marcoux claimed he had bought in a legitimate transaction with another farmer, Lorenzo Roberge, 41, also of St. Fortunat.

Testimony heard yesterday revealed the animal which Dube claimed was his was found on the farm of Benoit Frechette, 43, a St. Helene-de-Chester farmer. However, Dube was not able to positively identify a photograph of it offered by defence counsel Louis-Rene Scott.

Dube told the court the missing Holstein was valued at $250 and had a distinguishable swelling just below the left knee.

At that point, both prosecution and judge spent some time determining whether the swelling was actually on the left front leg of the animal or whether it was on the right. This procedure was followed with each succeeding witness and all corroborated that it was the left front leg of the bull.

Benoit Frechette testified Marcoux had sold him a bull late last summer and identified a photograph of it.

Lorenzo Roberge told the court he did sell a bull to Marcoux late last summer for $140 and it had no distinguishing marks. He said he thought the animal he had sold Marcoux was not as black as the photograph he was asked to identify, which was the bull found at Benoit Frechette's farm early last fall.

Marcoux next took the stand in his own defence and testified the bull he sold Frechette was the same one he had bought from Roberge. The animal had developed the swelling below the knee when it fell in a truck transporting it to Frechette's farm, he said.

The case now lies dormant until the time comes for an Assizes judge and jury to unravel it.

Court briefs

SHERBROOKE (DM) — Gilles Bouchard, 23, of Windsor, pleaded guilty at his arraignment yesterday on a charge of possessing two marijuana cigarettes.

Judge Benoit Turmel of Sessions Court sentenced him to a $100 fine or 15 days in jail.

Robert P. Colt, 18, of Beebe, was sentenced to a $100 fine or 30 days in jail and had his driving permit suspended for six months yesterday after pleading guilty to a charge of impaired driving. He was arraigned before Judge Benoit Turmel of Sessions Court.

Romeo Poulin, 21, of Sherbrooke and Claude Prevost, 18, also of Sherbrooke were arraigned in Sessions Court here yesterday on charges of theft.

Both men pleaded not guilty and their cases will proceed Jan. 31. They are accused of robbing the Notre-Dame-de-Liesse parish in Deauville of $75 Jan. 12.

They are being held without bail in Sherbrooke Jail.

Next time you enter your friendly neighborhood department store or supermarket, keep your hands in your pocket.

Faced with mounting shoplifting losses, many firms are now beginning to prosecute anyone found red-handed in their establishments.

Steinberg Ltd. and its Miracle Mart division brought 25 individuals before Sessions Court here yesterday on shoplifting charges involving goods totalling $280.80.

Judge Benoit Turmel handed down sentences of a $25 fine or eight days in prison to the following people — the amount stolen in brackets — who pleaded guilty at their arraignments yesterday.

Marc Charron ($6.97), Jocelyn Pinard ($7.95), Laurette Blais ($13.54), Lise Bibeau ($15.00), Alma Boudreau ($8.00), Diane Dumas ($13.54), Francoise Fournais ($7.99), Yolande Goyette ($14.95), Real Henri ($7.45), Irene Laurencelle ($6.77), Carolyn Kezar ($42.96), Micheline Mathieu ($11.97), Mme. Marcel Paquin ($3.25), Noella Proulx ($9.27), Nicole Raich, alias Mme. Jean-Louis Reed ($29.43), Jean-Louis Reed ($6.97), Lisa Rouette ($7.27) and Rene-Claude Tremblay ($11.74).

Others pleading not guilty had their cases postponed to Feb. 19.

By DAVID MAGIL
SHERBROOKE — The city has apparently adopted a policy that no news is good news, at least temporarily.

Following Monday night's inaugural sessions of the two permanent commissions created in the recent reorganization of the municipal machinery, Mayor Marc Bureau refused to comment at all on the goings-on at the meetings, which are closed to the press and public.

All he would say in an interview with The Record is that "council has not yet decided how to inform the press of the results of commission meetings." However, he did promise to have some solution in a short while.

Nevertheless, very reliable sources were able to shed some light on the major details of the meetings.

The two commissions, Administration and Development and Public Services, met simultaneously Monday night. Most of the subjects treated at their private meetings will be come before the whole council at its public meeting next Monday night and will be re-discussed and voted on.

The Administration and Development commission, which should serve an important role during the next four years of Civic Action rule, concerned itself primarily with the back-log left over from council's previous structure and with problems arising directly out of the new structure.

They discussed the conversion of St. Patrick School into police headquarters, tenders to supply ladder-trucks to the fire department, a new buying procedure for municipal departments and the adaptation of city hall offices to accommodate posts created and changed under the new municipal structures.

The Administration and Development Commission groups together the previously autonomous committees of finance, traffic and transport, town planning, public works and industry and tourism. Its members are Carl Camirand (chairman), Luc Lamoreux, Rosaire Coutu, Romeo Bergeron and Gerard Deziel.

Its brother, the Public Service commission, spent most of its time Monday night on matters such as a new policy for the inspection of meat, the problem of overcrowding on the city-operated ski slope and the future priorities of the recreation department.

It combines the former protection, parks and roads, recreation, hydro, and health committees. Its members are Romeo Quintal (chairman), Raymond Bergeron, Roger Ginguet, Bernard Matte and Antonio Pinard.

In addition, the commissions discussed future projects in very general terms.

As well as those matters which reliable sources say were discussed, there are some pending issues they will soon have to come to grips with.

Seeks support for road repairs

ORFORD (DM) — Bishop Albert Gravel, the "historian of the Eastern Townships", will be the guest speaker at a special meeting of area civic officials called by the Township of Orford at the Ski Chalet in Mount Orford Friday night.

Orford officials hope the meeting will recruit support for substantial improvements to the original road from Montreal to Sherbrooke which passes through their community.

In the light of the initial reaction to their plea by the Eastern Township's largest and most powerful council, Sherbrooke, it does not seem likely Orford will receive the overwhelming chorus of support they would like. At the present time, Sherbrooke is pre-occupied with what it considers more important road projects, mainly the proposed Trans-Quebec highway and a bridge linking Magog and Sherbrooke.

A co-ordinator must be chosen soon for the St. Francois Urban Renewal Project. The deadline for applications is today and the man chosen should be a competent administrator as well as an individual able to deal with the people who will be directly affected by the project.

By-laws will have to be drawn up authorizing loans to pay for such sundry items as Hydro-Sherbrooke, traffic lights, a warehouse for the city's dumping grounds and street paving. The start of these projects have been held up pending ratification of these by-laws.

Municipal Manager Richard Fabi is due to present a report on a new lease with the Sherbrooke Racing Club for the race course. He was mandated to start the study at the Dec. 28 council meeting.

The Public Services commission should soon produce their suggestions for solving the problem of school buses stopping in the middle of streets at congested periods and blocking traffic.

Ald. Antonio Pinard brought the matter to council's attention Dec. 4 and reported yesterday the meeting held with the regional school commission a while ago was "satisfactory."

CITY HALL MARKS — Mayor Bureau's tightlipped attitude towards commission meetings is incomprehensible. He purportedly initiated the reorganization of council to make city hall more efficient and allow council to be more accessible to the public. If people are going to show up at the bi-monthly public council meetings, it is only reasonable to expect that they should be aware of what is to be discussed beforehand.

Olivier Routher and clerk Robert Belisle have been settled since last Thursday. Mr. Routher will serve "as head of the finance service and financial counsellor to council." Mr. Belisle will act "as town clerk with all the powers and duties that post entails." The three administrators were mandated by council Jan. 4 to define their functions among themselves.

Famed Megantic outlaw subject of TV special

SHERBROOKE (PK) — The strange story of Donald Morrison, "The Megantic Outlaw", will be re-enacted on CBC television Jan. 27 at 9:30 p.m.

Morrison acquired the title in the late 1890's when he successfully evaded capture by hundreds of soldiers and police in a manhunt that lasted nearly two years.

Set in the Scottish community of Lake Megantic in 1887, the film describes Morrison's return from the west to find his father's farm taken over by an unscrupulous landowner, who denies receiving mortgage payments which Morrison had been sending for seven years.

He became a wanted man after the barns on the farm were burned down. Though innocent, he decided to avoid arrest.

In the film, he later kills a jealous young neighbour bent on turning him in.

He then becomes the object of an intensive manhunt by police Inspector Carpenter and government troops. However the whole Scottish community sympathizes with him and shelters him for nearly two years.

The film was written, produced and directed for the CBC features department by Ron Kelly. It was filmed at various locations in the Toronto area, including Tadmorden Mills, Brougham Historical Village and Black Creek Pioneer Village.

It stars Gary McKeehan and Carol Lazare, with special guest star Lloyd Bouchner.

Border chamber arranges meeting with local MP

STANSTEAD — The Border Chamber of Commerce met Jan. 12 with a good number of the members attending and Ted Peters joining the membership.

Maxime Doyon, secretary, noted that on Feb. 15 Stanstead, MP Henry Latulippe will be in Rock Island to meet the people of the area. It was the decision of the Chamber to have a supper meeting with Mr. Latulippe to be the guest.

Raymond Roderigue and Remi Couture are to make the arrangements and report back at the Directors meeting Feb. 9.

A report was given on the success of the Shop at Home campaign in December and Maxime Doyon was thanked for his work.

The Chamber was asked to support the Dog Sled Derby, Feb. 13-14 by contributing 75 pies for the banquet at Stanstead College.

Following discussion this was approved with members present contributing money for them.

The balance of the costs will be taken from chamber funds.

Roger Roy, pharmacist, gave a report on the action of the Provisional committee to date concerning a Home for Senior Citizens here at the Boundary. He further displayed a brief in booklet form from Levis where the same action is taking place.

After the meeting, Roy, Pierre Lavallee and Albert Simoneau started a study of the matter for presentation to the government.

Trade unions nonsense

Once again the British trades unions have given an indication that they are afflicted with a death wish for their country. Their current behavior towards the Heath government's new industrial relations bill, which has seen a number of wild cat strikes in key export industries, only provides further proof that this bill must become law.

The very future of the nation and its people may depend on it. For too long, the British economy has been placed in jeopardy by the irresponsible tactics of militant unionists.

In proposing to curb wild cat strikes and other excesses the bill has the legitimate objective of forcing unions to accept more responsibility and to stop the practise of holding the nation up to ransom in order to serve their own limited and selfish interests.

The basic question today is whether organized labor or the British government is to run the country but just now too many British workers seem determined to prove that they are answerable to no one.

This week has been a difficult one for Britain with one day and half-day strikes by over one million workers while some unionists went as far as to seek to prevent the publication of newspapers and the operation of television stations.

Some people believe Prime Minister Heath should let the unions go ahead and do their worst. The union ringleaders think they are acting against the government but in reality they are acting against their fellow countrymen.

It is unlikely that the unions will win public sympathy by their assinine behavior. Rather they are likely to antagonize more and more people, as they did by members of the electrical workers' union.

Some talent contest

Canadian television critics seem generally agreed in the belief that televised beauty or talent contests are deadly dull, boring and meaningless. On this continent, at least, girls are chosen for their looks, posture, ability to wear clothes, with a nod at their character and what talent they may have.

Often the latter is tested by having the candidates speak extemporaneously and very briefly on a topic tossed at them.

But things are really different in the Soviet Union as the results of a recently-completed nationally televised talent contest indicates.

The winner was a 24-year-old kindergarten teacher.

But she did not win because of her ability to handle pre-school youngsters.

She received top honors over her five other rivals because of her ability to turn a herring into a tasty salad within five minutes -- a task that might daunt even the Galloping Gourmet of the Canadian networks. He takes 30 minutes to complete a dish.

But there were other tests put to the candidates.

They were required to prove their ability to dance to waltz and rock rhythms; to explain why they liked their jobs; and, in the realm of the practical, to ice a cake, sew up a torn doll's dress, and find the telephone number for the V.I. Lenin movie theatre, a no mean feat in Moscow which lacks telephone directories.

But if the tests were somewhat different from those used in North America, so were the prizes.

On this continent, and especially on the U.S. networks, the winner is usually given a scholarship and loaded down with furs and other luxuries. First prize in the Russian contest was a camera and an expense-paid trip around the Soviet Union.

Trudeau and the Commonwealth

DOUGLAS
FISHER

Ten years ago, John Diefenbaker came home triumphant from a Commonwealth conference.

In London, he had insisted that the conference should issue a communique that racial equality was a principle of the Commonwealth. When this suggestion was supported by most of the participants (mostly non-white) and carried out, it forced South Africa to withdraw its application for membership in the Commonwealth.

Back home, Mr. Diefenbaker was magnanimous. He hoped South Africa would return to the Commonwealth. "There will always be a light in the Commonwealth window."

This incident involving the Chief was probably the high point of all post-war Commonwealth conferences from a Canadian viewpoint. It was certainly one of his few great moments as prime minister.

Two years ago, Mr. Trudeau gained much notoriety as "Trendy Trudeau" at the last Commonwealth conference, but neither he nor the other first ministers accomplished much. Of course, the myth was sustained that there existed something called the Commonwealth.

There are silly omens in the air which suggest that the next few weeks will be filled with exotic nonsense about the Commonwealth and our Prime Minister.

The most immediate was the story spread widely last weekend by United Press International from its tiny Ottawa bureau. Most papers let their reporters take it easy on the big holidays and use more wire copy.

Perhaps this explains the feature treatment given the UPI product which began: "Prime Minister Trudeau's mission in the Far East when he sets out Tuesday is to prevent the breakup of the Commonwealth."

More retorts to such a distressingly phony lead is to wonder why Mr. Trudeau wants to save the Commonwealth. What is it? What does it do? What role does Canada play in it? Who is tearing it apart?

Just when you begin to laugh at the British laughing at Mr. Trudeau saying the Commonwealth, you begin to ponder that lead sentence again and what follows in the body of the story. You remember some grandiose feedback from the Prime Minister's travels in the Far East last year.

The cadre of reporters and the cast of the Prime Minister's group began to work like yeast on each other. We learned that Mr. Trudeau was using shock tactics, telling it as it is to the young people, projecting charisma, beguiling the world, all as a preliminary to making a grand impact as world statesman and thinker in the Soviet Union, at the United Nations, etc.

When the World Fair circus got back to Ottawa, I questioned three or four of the travelers about the sources for the projections of Mr. Trudeau as incipient world statesman.

Those questioned seemed somewhat embarrassed.

One of the most ecstatic reporters on the junket explained it awkwardly. There had been some enthusiastic castle-building by a few of the Prime Minister's personal staff plus their own flowering romanticism while keeping pace with the swinger and observing the delighted attention he got in the Antipodes, Japan, etc.

It is certain the same zealots of Mr. Trudeau's staff are at work again, floating this Singapore jaunt as a great rescue drama. Whether the PM has encouraged this is another matter. I would like to think he is too honest for such hokum. You can forgive a politician his international sorities if there's some danger or achievement involved.

If Mr. Trudeau chose to get in the middle of the Middle East situation with a proposal on the refugees, or if he goes to the Soviet Union to work on the Jewish problem, or if he should offer the Caribbean islands some associate status within our confederation, one would applaud his daring and purposes. To use the Commonwealth conference as a scene for building Trudeau the world statesman, is too much.

Why is it too much? Firstly, Mr. Trudeau in himself, and as a Canadian Prime Minister, should have a bad conscience about the Commonwealth.

For several generations, Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Robert Borden, Mackenzie King, even Louis St. Laurent knocked back the dreams that Neville Chamberlain and Sir Winston Churchill had had of making the Commonwealth a mighty instrument of power and world influence.

One basic reason the Commonwealth is little more than a pleasant myth and an occasional exchange of arguments and pleasantries is because this is what Canada wanted. Further, Mr. Trudeau went to his first conference blithely unconcerned. He did not distinguish himself there, either inside or outside the conference.

Only a few months ago, the Government published the much-awaited Foreign Policy For Canadians. Supposedly, this clutch of six pamphlets is an analysis of the world situation and a general presentation of what Canada's policy in it should be.

None of the pamphlets is on the Commonwealth. In fact, in none of the pamphlets is there even a section on the Commonwealth. In fact, one can find only seven references to the Commonwealth.

In four of them, the term is included with others like NATO and La Francophonie in lists of international organizations. In the pamphlet on the Pacific two paragraphs are about the Commonwealth, both quite innocuous.

If you search through speeches in the House by Mr. Trudeau and External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp, you'll find lots of references to the U.N., NATO, NORAD, even OAS, but almost nothing on the Commonwealth.

The bulletin of the Department of External Affairs usually reprints any statements of Mr. Trudeau's which touch on foreign affairs. In none of these since early 1969 has there been anything on the Commonwealth.

Of course, there isn't any reason there should be. The Commonwealth is not only not important to us; it isn't important any more to Britain.

If there is any glory or kudos in keeping it from breaking apart, wouldn't it be the oddest of hypocrisies if such should go to a man who really hasn't cared a tinker's damn about it, at least until last week.

MATTER OF FACT
JOSEPH ALSOP

WASHINGTON — An historic turning point occurred about a fortnight ago in Cairo. The State Department's representative in the Egyptian capital, Donald Bergus, was received by Egypt's new president, Anwar Al Sadat. On instruction, Bergus asked President Sadat about the new naval base the Soviets are building at Mersa Matruh.

The former Egyptian line, and the former Soviet line as well, was always pool-poo. To minimize, indeed to lie about the Soviet military presence in Egypt. But this time, Sadat was reasonably forthright. The Soviets, he said, had done so much for his country that Egypt could not deny them any facilities they required.

In such cases, and especially with such people, the transition from clandestinity and untruth to openness and frankness is always of great importance. It means that a new situation, once regarded as temporary and potentially reversible, has come to be regarded as permanent and irreversible. And in this case, it means that the new Soviet imperialism has entered a quite novel phase.

The Soviet threat to Israel, only deferred by the talks that have now opened, is of course part of the pattern of this new Soviet imperialism. Recently, for instance, the chief Soviet partisan in the Egyptian junta went to Moscow to discuss more generous military aid for Egypt. In a subsequent report to his government, Ali Sabry boasted of bringing home the bacon in a big way. The most interesting published passage in his official report was the following:

"The Soviet leaders expounded at length their assessment of the conflict in the Middle East, and its place in the world strategy of the Soviet Union."

Hence it is time to give the widely ignored evidence for the quite new Soviet imperialism, which is altogether different from anything seen in the past. Since the end of World War II, with a single exception, the Soviets have never before sought to control territory or to obtain bases beyond the borders of their existing empire.

The exception, of course, was the attempt to emplace missiles in Cuba. Otherwise, where they have made grabs, the places grabbed for have always been territory already occupied by Soviet troops. Examples were Stalin's attempt to hang onto the Iranian province of Azerbaijan; and the two grabs for Berlin. Now, however, the rules have changed radically.

The most important signs of change were the beginnings of construction, about six months ago, of new naval bases that will unquestionably be under exclusive Soviet control. One is the big base Bergus asked about, at the fine harbor of Mersa Matruh in the desert to the west of the Nile Delta. The other full-scale base being built is on the Socotra Islands, at the mouth of the Red Sea.

But these bases, on the standard old imperial pattern, are only the beginning of the story. On the western shore of the Red Sea, the Soviet military presence in Egypt, including Russian troops in an active combat role, is of course well known.

In addition, however, the Soviets have moved into the Sudan in a big way, taking advantage of the rebellion of the unhappy Nilotic blacks against their Arab masters in Khartoum. Besides weapons, there are even Soviet military advisers with the Sudanese units attacking the rebels. Then, too, the Soviets have an important military presence in Somaliland, just to the south of the Sudan.

On the Red Sea's eastern shore, moreover, the Soviet military role and presence is again very conspicuous in the Yemen, and also in the new state of South Yemen that was formed after the British evacuated Aden. Here, they have some competition from the Chinese Communists. But it is not effective, as indicated by the Southern Yemen's grant of the base on the Socotra Islands to the Soviets.

Besides the Mediterranean ports of Egypt and Syria, the ever-growing Soviet navy has further acquired the right to use the Red Sea ports of all the countries above named, plus Mogadiscio in Somaliland. Mrs. Bandanaraike's success in Ceylon has also opened the great base of the Trincomalee to the Soviets; and they have secured "landing and fueling rights" on the island of Mauritius in the Indian Ocean.

Finally, all indications to date suggest that the Soviets are using their positions in Southern Yemen in order to sponsor and to support a guerrilla movement in the neighboring Sultanate of Yemen. If successful, this effort will take them right around the corner of the Persian Gulf itself. In all this, the Soviet goal of ultimate control of the Middle East is only too clear. Only sleepwalkers can doubt it.

"Why didn't YOU tell him no scuba diving . . .?"

THE
COLUMN

WASHINGTON — The great minds of the cigarette and advertising industries are hard at work trying to figure out ways of publicizing cigarettes on television now that cigarette commercials have been banned.

The tobacco companies are already going ahead with plans to sponsor automobile races, bowling tournaments, tennis matches and other sporting events. There is a rumor that pipe tobacco, which is not banned, will be sold in packages bearing a startling resemblance to cigarette packages.

I recently attended a brainstorming session at an advertising agency where they were discussing other methods of getting cigarette advertising across.

The head of Creative Projects said, "I think we have an idea. We could sponsor a documentary on Winston Churchill titled, 'Winston Ruled Good, Like a Prime Minister Should.' English teachers all over the country will complain about the title and so, at the beginning of the show, we could show members of British Parliament asking whether people wanted good grammar or good taste in their documentaries."

"I like it," said the president of the advertising agency. "What else have we got?"

The TV department director said, "We sketched out a western series titled Marlboro Country. The hero is a rancher, Ben Marlboro, with a tattoo on his hand. Ben has two sons named Phillip and Morris who help their father on the ranch.

"There is also a midget, named Johnny, who works around the house as a hand. Every time there is any trouble, Ben tells Johnny, 'Call for Phillip and Morris.'"

"I like it," said the president of the agency.

"Here's another TV series that might work," said the agency time buyer. "It's called Lucky Strike, and it's about a man who drills for oil in Texas. Every time he hits a well, he shouts, 'Lucky strike means fine depletion.'"

"I like it," said the president of the agency.

The head of research said, "We've found that the TV shows that young people watch the most have animals in them. Now our people have come up with a sure-fire series titled Camels Aren't for Everybody. This is a story of a man who owns a restless camel that keeps running away."

"Every week the man takes a mile long walk looking for his camel. Along the way he has all sorts of humorous adventures, but at the end of the program he always finds his camel."

"I like it," said the president of the agency.

The head of the TV department said, "We also have a Mission Impossible-type series on the drawing boards titled, You Can Take Salem Out of the Country. It's about a guy named Harry Salem who works for a patriotic organization known as SMOKE. Harry goes all over the world saving the United States from evil. At the end of the show, his boss says to his secretary, 'You can take Salem out of the country, but you can't take the country out of Salem.'"

"I like it," said the president of the agency. "Anything else?"

The head of media said, "We have a comedy series about two tall basketball players named Benson and Hedges. They've each scored 100 points in a game so everyone refers to them as Benson and Hedges 100's. The funny thing is they're so long they keep getting stuck in elevators and closets and taxi cabs and sewers. They always get into mischief and the president of the university wants to expel them. He keeps saying all the time, 'Oh, the disadvantages of Benson and Hedges.'"

"I like it," said the president of the agency. "Send in Kent to put it all together."

Stanstead stuns Galt in overtime thriller

By SCOTT ABBOTT

LENNOXVILLE — Stanstead College's senior basketball squad maintained its undefeated season record yesterday by winning a 54-50 overtime thriller from Alexander Galt Regional High School Pipers.

Winning coach Brian Denney said after the contest, "We certainly didn't disappoint the crowd. They expected a barn-burner and they got one."

Actually, the Stanstead performance, inasmuch as it was a victorious one, did disappoint the AGRHS crowd to a great degree.

The visiting cagers showed themselves off to good advantage when the score was close, the clock was expiring and the chips were down.

"They out-hustled and outplayed us," Piper mentor Wayne Nugent said simply. "They deserved to win."

Nugent admitted he was disappointed in his club's performance under pressure.

"This was the first close game we've been in a while and the boys just couldn't cope with the situation."

LED EARLY

The Alexander Galt side

jumped off to an eight-point lead at one point in the first quarter and had an 11-5 advantage at the end of the session.

Stanstead stormed back for a 22-21 halftime edge.

"We were eight points up in the first quarter and all of a sudden we fell apart," lamented the AGRHS coach. "We lay back and let them come to us."

Galt regained something of their usual form to establish a 37-33 lead after three quarters and expanded it to as much as six points in the final period.

Stanstead refused to concede, however, and with Gus Haig and Steve Etchevery leading the way, they surged back into the ballgame.

After the regulation 32 minutes expired with the score deadlocked at 48-48, the visitors took command of the three-minute overtime period and captured the contest.

Haig led the winners with 24 points, while Etchevery contributed 15 and some fancy ballhandling.

"We knew who we had to stop and we just didn't do it," explained Nugent repeatedly after the loss in reference to Stanstead's big guns.

Battling Beavers at home to Leafs

SHERBROOKE (SA) — Sherbrooke Beavers return tonight to the scene of the greatest triumph of their two-year Quebec Junior "A" Hockey League history when they entertain Verdun Maple Leafs at the Sports Palace.

The local club knew their finest hour Sunday evening on the same ice when they ambushed the powerful and virtually invincible Quebec City Ramparts by a 5-3 count.

An all-time Sports Palace hockey attendance record was set as 6,284 fans witnessed the stunning upset.

Many will probably be on hand again tonight for the Maple Leaf contest, even after the 5-0 blanking the Beavers suffered in Three Rivers against the Dukes Tuesday evening.

The Beavers' number one producer in the 1970-71 campaign, Normand Dube, suffered a knee injury in that clash and is a doubtful starter for tonight's game. General manager Real Veilleux said last night that Dube will undergo a medical examination just before the contest and only then will it be decided whether or not he is to play.

NUMEROUS INJURIES
Other hurting Beavers, Claude Gaudet, Ray Bibeau and Michel Lefebvre, will definitely sit out the Maple Leaf encounter, while Renaud Duguay may play.

The Maple Leafs will present to the Sherbrooke public a lineup somewhat altered since their last visit.

Pierre Viau, acquired from Montreal Junior Canadiens of the Ontario Hockey Association Major Junior "A" series, and fleet Jeff Richard, a former Cornwall Royal, will be uniform for the Leafs.

The Leafs have stressed the addition of weight since Yvon Emond arrived as general manager and the move may be

Habs' trade reunites Mahovlich brothers

By GLENN COLE

MONTREAL (CP)—The hockey-playing Mahovlich brothers—Frank and Peter—have been reunited on a National Hockey League team.

Frank, 33, joined younger brother Peter on the Montreal roster as the Canadiens completed a deal Wednesday with Detroit Red Wings for the veteran left-winger.

Sent to Detroit in exchange for the elder Mahovlich were right wingers Mickey Redmond and Bill Collins as well as left winger Guy Charron.

The trade brought an end to many days of speculation that a deal was in the works between the two clubs.

"I think Frank will be happy here," said Peter Mahovlich, just before boarding a flight to Minnesota where the Canadiens meet the North Stars tonight. A club spokesman said Frank will be in the lineup tonight for Montreal.

POLLOCK HAPPY

Canadiens' general manager Sam Pollock said he has always been an admirer of Frank Mahovlich and that he was "happy to acquire him."

Red Wings' coach Doug Barkley said:

"When a club is lucky enough to get three players of this calibre, it must give up something good."

"It's time to start rebuilding. It is definitely a move in the right direction and a big step in our reconstruction program.

The Mahovlich brothers were both members of the Detroit organization together for part of the 1967-68 season and all of 1968-69.

Frank arrived in Detroit March 3, 1968 along with Gary Unger, Peter Stenkowski and the rights to Carl Brewer in a trade that sent Paul Henderson, Norm Ullman and Floyd Smith to Toronto Maple Leafs.

Peter, 24, played three games with the Wings during the 1965-66 season. He divided his time from the 1966-67 to 1968-69 season among the Wings and their farm teams at Pittsburgh, then a member of the American League, and Fort Worth, of the Central League.

TRADED IN 1969

He was traded to Montreal along with Bart Crasley June 6, 1969 in exchange for Doug Piper and Garry Monahan.

Frank broke into the league with Toronto Maple Leafs and won the Calder Cup, as the NHL's rookie-of-the-year.

A veteran of 14 NHL seasons, he has scored 404 career goals, including 14 so far this season. His best year was 1968-69, when he fired 49 goals and added 29 assists for the Wings.

In 1960-61, he scored 48 goals for the Leafs and two seasons later, the late Jim Norris, then owner of Chicago Black Hawks, offered Toronto $1 million for Mahovlich. The Leafs politely declined.

Last year, Mahovlich fired 38 goals and added 32 assists for Detroit and so far this year he has 14 goals and 18 assists in 35 NHL games.

Redmond, 23, broke into the Canadiens' organization in 1967-68 after a brilliant junior career with Peterborough Petes of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series. In 40 games this season with Montreal, the Kirkland Lake, Ont., native scored 14 goals and 16 assists.

Last season, he missed only one of the Canadiens' 76 games and netted 27 goals with assists on another 27.

CAME FROM STARS

Collins, 27, was acquired by Montreal from Minnesota at last summer's annual NHL meetings.

Used primarily as a penalty killer by the Canadiens, the Ottawa native scored six goals to go with two assists in 40 games.

Man's Brightest symbol of hope and optimism for a New Year is ever the annual seed catalogue. Ours arrived in today's mail. If those pictures of perfect carrots, superb ears of corn, and magnificent fields of blooming clover don't break the mid-winter blues, nothing on this earth will.

When you put your order for seed corn in, don't let the threat of Southern Leaf Blight scare you out of your favourite hybrid. Corn growers are falling over themselves to buy resistant varieties. And they are paying a high price for that kind of insurance they can't afford and very probably won't need for 1971.

The part that hurts both the seed-growing outfits and the man who buys the seed, is that it is back to hard labour again.

Imagine if you can the problem of finding enough help to cut the tassels off thousands of acres of seed corn, by hand, all in a few days in mid-July.

That is how it used to be done before plant breeders came up with the miracle of cytoplasmic male sterility. Hybrid corn is made by crossing inbred lines. But corn will pollinate itself if it gets a chance. The pollen falls off the tassel on top of the plant and lands on the silks of the young ear. Therefore the tassel has to be removed, so any pollen landing comes from another plant. It was a slow, expensive task.

Then along came cytoplasmic male sterility. And that, simply, means lines of corn are grown which produce female ears, but no male pollen in the tassels. And so they are pollinated by a neighboring corn plant.

In a very few years, all the major seed corn companies have grabbed this labour saving system, and many of the most exciting new hybrids are produced this way. It worked wonderfully until disaster struck in the form of a new powerful strain of Yellow Leaf Blight. The varieties produced with Texas-type male-sterile cytoplasm were found to be more susceptible to this fungus disease than varieties produced with normal cytoplasm.

And so the race is on, by corn growers to grab scarce bags of normally-produced seed for 1971, and by seed companies to have enough new normal varieties for 1972. The stakes are high.

For 1971 all seed corn sold will be tagged to indicate its resistance status. The letter T indicates corn produced with Texas-type male-sterile cytoplasm and therefore possibly more susceptible to blight. The letter N is for Normal, while B indicates a Blend between the two types.

What should a Quebec grower buy then? With my money, I would get my order in, and soon, for that good, early maturing, high-yielding variety, and if by any rare chance it also should be labelled N, and cost no more, that would be just wonderful.

+++ I still haven't told you how our sweet corn venture turned out last summer on the old farm. Will keep that for a real cheerful day.

+++ Here at Macdonald College, old Sir William's flag is still flying.

welcomes two new members

STANSTEAD — The Stanstead Chapter IODE met on Jan. 4 in the reception room of Le Baron Hall, Stanstead College. In the absence of the Regent, the Vice-Regent, Mrs. J. S. McCannell presided.

LENNOXVILLE — The January meeting of the ACW was held at the Rectory with Miss Kathleen Atto presiding. Mrs. H. O. Burt conducted devotions explaining that the Gospels are not a biography in the accepted sense of the word but reveal Jesus through His words and deeds.

Miss Atto introduced the speaker, Ven. T. J. Matthews, who spoke on "The Whole Church brings the Whole Gospel to the Whole World." He said we need to understand exactly what we mean by each word. "Whole" means complete, restore after injury, perfect, holiness, therefore touched by the mystery and glory of God. The Church is men and women trying to be Christ-like, one with each other and one with God. We are part of the Whole Church that worships with the whole company of heaven. The divisions in the Church are not so much denominational as differences in the thinking of individuals. Two Anglicans can have different attitudes towards the Church and towards God. "Gospel" means not only good news but the reward given to the one who brings the good news as well. Jesus knew he was fulfilling the prophecies, delivering the message as well as being the message Himself. "Bring" is a poor word. No one can bring God to the pagan world because He is already there. The missionaries are the ones who make everyone aware of God — everyone being the Whole World — and persuade everyone to become a worshipping part of the whole world, the whole church.

Mrs. L. J. Hewitt thanked the Archdeacon. Miss Grace Stevens closed the meeting with a prayer. Mrs. T. J. Matthews served refreshments and Mrs. E. Frost poured tea.

St. Andrew's Women's Guild

St. Andrew's Women's Guild held their monthly meeting in the Church Hall on Dec. 21 with the president, Mrs. A. Goodfellow presiding. The Opening Prayer was led by Mrs. Goodfellow, followed by the Hymn Holy Night with Mrs. Morrison at the piano. Scripture readings from John and Galatians were given by the guest of the evening, Mrs. D. Campbell.

Nine members answered the roll-call. The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. Treasurer, Mrs. G. Burrington, reported the Christmas Bazaar and Casserole Supper an outstanding success, and Mrs. Parnell, card convener reported a successful sale of cards.

End of the year donations will be made to the Church Board of Managers, Sunday School, two WMS groups, St. Andrew's Camp Committee, Word of Grace and Maplemount.

Mrs. A. Goodfellow thanked the group for their help and co-operation during her two years in office as president and wished the new president every success in the coming year.

Miss A. Morrison presented the state of offices for 1971: President, Mrs. C. Brown; 1st Vice President, Mrs. D. Savage; 2nd Vice President, Mrs. G. Burrington; secretary, Mrs. G. Jobel; Treasurer, Mrs. W. Savage and Press Secretary, Mrs. A. Tarran.

Mrs. Brown closed the meeting with the Mizpah Benediction and a social period followed. Delicious refreshments were enjoyed.

Provincial Chapter I.O.D.E. benefits many projects

BEDFORD — Although projects of the Provincial Chapter IODE of Quebec were many, one of the most important was the granting of a government (Federal) grant of $44,077.86 by the National Health for the Kateri Health Center at Caughnawaga, announced by the M. P. for Laprairie, Ian Watson.

This new center will be one of the first locally administered health centers on a Canadian Indian reserve. This grant will be used to establish a center in Caughnawaga Indian Reserve where comprehensive medical services including pediatric and other specialty clinics, preventive health and emergency services will be provided. It will also finance a shuttle service between the health center and Montreal hospitals. This grant is the culmination of many years of work by the executive of the Kateri Hospital, to obtain government help and recognition.

approve of the hospital, saying that patients should be placed in Montreal hospitals. Many of the patients in the Caughnawaga hospital were old and would have been lonely and unhappy in a city environment. In addition permission was granted that doctors of the Indians own choosing could be hired. From donations of office equipment from different sources, three clinic rooms were furnished. Drs. Ann McCaulay and Colin Forbes are now in attendance at the hospital. Provincial IODE has taken the Indian hospital as a special project, a portable lift is in full use, enough Dominion Stores tapes have been acquired for a hospital bed which will shortly be in use.

It is strongly urged that help be given the hospital at Clarenceville for the mentally retarded, the children here are all ages from 2 to 21.

Goods to the value of $870.00 was sent to the Korean orphanage, while at Fort Chimo, a Christmas shipment was sent. Since 1954 annual shipments have been sent to Korea, this year, 93 cases were forwarded, which was greatly appreciated, including x-ray equipment, powdered milk and clothing, while a shipment of 89 cases was sent to Hong Kong. In England there are remembrances still

CJRS RADIO DID IT AGAIN

1970 . . . Another fantastic year for CJRS! The latest BBM survey (Broadcast Bureau of Measurements) taken in November, shows once more that CJRS far from losing its dynamism, has come up on top of radio listening audience an eighth consecutive time since its opening in 1967.

It is interesting to note that the BBM figures are placing CJRS way ahead of all other radio stations from 6 a.m. to midnight, Monday through Sunday. Those familiar with French radio listening will undoubtedly agree to the commendable performance of CJRS announcers like Yvan Frenette, Georges Vermette, Jacques Salvail, Guy Cardinal, Jacques Mercure, the News and Sports departments, CJRS Editorial policy.

Being part of the Mutual Broadcast Network, CJRS is one of the best equipped radio station in Quebec to provide its listeners with complete coverage of International, National, Provincial, Regional and Local news. Its affiliation also provides CJRS with Province-wide open-line programs, and a variety of features taped by top French-Canadian artists.

Questioned as to the continuous success of CJRS, General Manager, Paul-A. Paradis emphasized strong team work by announcers, news reporters, writers, secretaries, engineers, sales representatives all aiming at one common goal: Top ratings, entertainment and news. He also stated that the stability of employment at CJRS is another factor of CJRS's continuous ratings domination.

As to René Ouellette, Programming Director, achievement in radio business comes through good knowledge of audience psychology: "Give the listeners what they want". The best ingredients being, of course, a good team of announcers, hard workers and non-pretentious as far as stardom is concerned.

Faced with the future of CJRS Radio in the Eastern Townships the Management's stand is firm; no secret formula, only dynamism and involvement and, as their French slogan goes: "CJRS vous aime, and looks forward to prove it 24 hours a day, 7 days a week".
