ADDRESS ADOPTED.

THE OPENING DEBATE IN PARLIAMENT CONCLUDED BY MR. COSTIGAN.

MR. M'CARTHY SPEAKS ON THE MANITOBA SCHOOL QUESTION.

GOVERNMENT WILL NOT CHANGE THE SPACE FOR CATTLE ON STEAMERS.

Hon. Mr. Ouimet Denies Utterances Attributed to Him at St. Hyacinthe.

(Special to the Herald.

Ottawa, April 23.—The House passed the reply to the address this afternoon without a division, and has taken a holiday this evening as a reward. Already members on the Government side have taunted the Opposition with prolonging the debate, whereas, as a matter of fact, they have endeavored to facilitate business as much as possible.

It was the leader of the Opposition who took the initiative this afternoon in terminating the debate. The only interest given to it was a lengthy speech from Dalton McCarthy.

Dr. Montague was introduced by Hon. J. C. Patterson and Dr. Roome, and took his seat.

The budget is promised for Thursday afternoon.

Several departmental reports and accounts were laid on the table, but the most important of all, in view of the budget debate, the report of the Auditor-General, has not yet been brought down.

W. F. Maclean has introduced a bill to compel the equipping of all railway locomotives and engines with air brakes before January, 1900.

Before the orders of the day were called, Mr. Laurier asked of the Government if a decision had been reached in regard to the space allotted for cattle on board Atlantic steamers. He said that the space had been changed from 2 feet 8 inches to 2 feet 6 inches at the instigation of the shippers, without the cattlemen being consulted. The season for shipping cattle had arrived, and the matter ought to be settled one way or another without delay.

Mr. Featherstone pointed out that larger animals were being shipped now than heretofore, and therefore 2 feet 8 inches was necessary.

Mr. Costigan stated in reply that the Government had decided, after hearing the representations of the cattlemen on the subject, to make no change in the space, but to leave it the same as at present, 2 feet 8 inches.

Mr. Laurier—"If there is to be no change, that will be satisfactory."

Mr. Costigan—"There is to be no change."

Mr. McMullen resumed the debate on the address and pertinently pointed out that the immense deficit with which the Government have presented the country this year was not due to their efforts in the direction of tariff reform. After seventeen years of political profligacy it was time that the Government should call a halt, time that they should apply the pruning knife to the many rotten branches which are draining the public treasury. He advised Mr. Foster to do this before bringing down the estimates. Large channels of waste were pointed out in his brief reference to the Caraquet railway and the provisional allowances to Sir Charles Tupper. The civil service, mounted police, Northwest department and the Winnipeg Land Board all presented room for reform in the line of economy. In the way of public works he hoped the future would not produce any more Curran bridges and that scandals were over. The hon. member was particularly severe on the Government which, he said, was composed of political infants, of men of yesterday. Not a man in the Cabinet had the business experience necessary to grapple with the present financial crisis. The Minister of Finance had not been a business man, and his experience of figures was restricted to the teaching of the rule of three. The young Minister of Justice was scored severely. His position was one which should be filled by a man to whom the bar of the country could look up. "Was the bar of Canada prepared to look up to him as a man who was fitted to discharge the onerous duties of his office?" asked Mr. McMullen. The whole Government was incapable, and a clean sweep was needed in the interests of the country.

Dalton McCarthy, speaking from his seat on the front Conservative benches, reviewed the excuses made by the leader of the House regarding the date of the session, all of which he considered lame and insufficient. There had been a flagrant disregard of all precedent in calling Parliament at an inconvenient time. Both as it affects public business and the private business of the members, the time was ill-chosen. All that had been done prior to the calling of Parliament fixed the suspicion in the mind of honorable members that the Government had done nothing to advance the ends of the country, but only party aims.

Mr. McCarthy then entered on an exhaustive examination of the Manitoba school question in what he considered its true bearings. There was no greater misunderstanding than to treat the decision of the Privy Council as a decree to the Governor-General or Parliament or any Legislature. It was merely a settlement of certain points of law. Sir John A. Macdonald had long ago laid down the constitutional principle that he would not hand over to any court the responsibilities of the Government. The speaker hoped that the Canadian Government had not yet become so effete that it had to obey the order of any court. It was an attempt on the part of the Government to shield themselves from their responsibility as Ministers of the Crown which induced them to resort to this excuse, that the decision of the Privy Council was binding on them.

Having gone over the events leading up to the Remedial Order, and the terms of the order itself, the hon. member expressed his surprise that there was any uncertainty about its meaning. It was most certainly a decision, a decision on the appeal of the minority in Manitoba, and not an invitation to the Legislature to redress a wrong. There could be no doubt that the Government, assuming judicial functions, had declared that the Roman Catholic minority by the Act of 1890 had been deprived of certain rights, and required the Manitoba Legislature to restore those rights. What did the leader of the House and the mover of the address mean by hoping that Manitoba would settle the question? There was no discretion left to it in the terms of the order. They were commanded to do a certain thing, and if they refused Parliament would effect a righting of the wrongs existing. The system which Manitoba was invited to restore had never been defended, and could not be. As showing the difficulties attending education there, which would be accentuated by separate schools, Mr. McCarthy quoted the fact that when the Government proposed to withdraw the grant from all schools which had an average attendance of less than eight pupils it was found it would affect 150 schools out of 750.

Attorney-General Sifton was defended by the hon. member against the attacks of members on the Conservative side of the House. If he had been guilty of indecency, what about Mr. Pelletier in Vercheres.

"Oh," said Mr. Foster, "but in this case Mr. Sifton is a member of the Government which will have to act on the order."

Mr. McCarthy at once recalled the speech of Mr. Ouimet at St. Hyacinthe, in which he said he would abandon the Government if it did not give justice to the Catholic minority.

The Minister of Public Works, who has sat in his seat with gloomy face and hat tilted over his eyes since the opening of the session, apparently chewing the cud of bitter reflection, jumped up excitedly and broke silence for the first time. He wanted the speaker to read the words attributed to him, but this Mr. McCarthy was unable to do. He, however, repeated the sense already given. The knight of the rueful countenance once more denied that he used the language, and appealed to the member for Bagot, Mr. Dupont. That gentleman was as silent as the Minister himself when he was loudly called on to say what he did say.

Hon. Mr. Costigan announced that he spoke on behalf of the Roman Catholic section of the community, and took the ground that Parliament was forced to take the action it did by the decision of the Privy Council. He spoke at length on what he called a gross act of injustice to Roman Catholics, by stating that they were trying to force Catholic schools on the country, and concluded with an attack on Mr. McCarthy.

"Question," was called by Mr. Laurier, and the reply to the address was adopted without a division.

Mr. Laurier asked if it was true that an Order-in-Council had been passed advancing $2,500,000 to the Hudson's Bay Railway Company.

Mr. Foster, after consulting with the Minister of Railways and Canals, promised full and exact information for to-morrow, and in further reply to Mr. Mills he said that no money had been paid yet.

The House adjourned at 5.40.

IN THE SENATE.

In the Senate the debate on the address was continued by Senator Boulton, who occupied the whole afternoon and went over the whole speech. He devoted a large portion of his speech to the Manitoba school question, approving of the action of the Government up to the present time. As to future action, he adopted the role of adviser to the advisers of His Excellency, and suggested a compromise. He held that the Act of 1871, establishing separate schools, only applied to the old territorial limits of Manitoba, which practically embraced only the Selkirk settlement, and that it would be manifestly unfair to bind the whole of the Manitoba of to-day to the agreement made with the smaller Manitoba of twenty-five years ago. He argued that the true solution of the present difficulty was compensation. He entered into an elaborate statement of the separate schools as they existed in 1890, and contended that only thirty-five of them were suffering from any grievance. The proper thing for the Dominion Government to do, he thought, was for it to make a money grant to these schools out of the sales of public lands, and he estimated that this would not cost more than $10,000 a year.

NOTES OF THE SESSION.

Hon. Dr. Montague received one of the warmest receptions that have ever been accorded to a member on taking his seat on his return from a bye-election after having accepted office. He was introduced by his old friend and coadjutor in the Haldimand campaign, Hon. J. C. Patterson, assisted by Dr. Roome. The worthy doctor seems to have been benefited rather than injured in health by his arduous campaign, and looked "as fresh as a rose," as he smilingly advanced to shake hands with Mr. Speaker and take his seat. He will occupy the seat next to Mr. Haggart and immediately behind Mr. Foster, which has been vacated by Mr. Patterson, who comes down to the front row and takes Sir John Carling's seat. Sir John will take the seat occupied by Dr. Montague before his entering the Ministry.

Dr. Bergin gives notice of a bill to amend the Dominion Franchise Act.

Mr. Corbould is evidently after Sir Hibbert Tupper as to the dismissal and reinstatement of James Fitzsimmons, deputy warden of the British Columbia penitentiary. He has given notice of questions and a motion for papers.

Mr. Flint gives notice of the following resolution: "That in the opinion of this House the manufacture, importation and sale of intoxicating liquors in Canada, except for sacramental, scientific, manufacturing and medicinal purposes, should be prohibited by law."

A statement of the superannuations and retiring allowances in the civil service during the year 1894 was presented in Parliament to-day. It shows that the superannuation allowances were $22,710, and the retiring gratuities $2,631, making a total of $25,341.

A statement of unforeseen expenses from 1st July, 1894, to to-day was presented in the House to-day. The amount so expended is $16,224.

Ottawa, April 23.—The bill for the purpose of gerrymandering the Province of Quebec has been printed. But while strong pressure is being brought to bear on the Government from the Quebec District to have the measure introduced and made law, still there is strong opposition to this being done on the part of many leading Conservatives from other parts of the Dominion. There is no doubt but that some constituencies in Quebec would benefit the Party by being gerrymandered, but the majority of Conservatives believe that such an iniquity would do more harm than good. The Government are thus halting between these two opinions, and once they find out which will benefit them best politically they will, without any regard for the feelings of their opponents or the rights of the community, act accordingly.

NIPPED IN THE BUD.

DETECTIVE CARPENTER STOPS A CLEVER SWINDLE.

YANKEE CHAPS COULD NOT WORK THEIR GAME HERE.

A Letter Advises One of Them to Color His Hair and Change His Name.

"Dr. F. P. Phelps, Specialist," who opened an office on the 15th inst. at 181 Bleury Street, spent last night in the cells at No. 4 Police Station, and from the nature of the charge against him he is likely to remain behind the bars for a good long while to come.

At No. 15 Station there were two other interesting prisoners — no less than Messrs. Henri and Ross, general agents, who have their offices in the Temple building, 185 St. James Street, room G. The history of this trio, as far as it has been brought to light up to the present moment, is an exceedingly interesting one. The probabilities are that after the Boston detectives have been communicated with many more interesting details of the character of the three prisoners will be divulged.

Detective Silas H. Carpenter, chief of the Canadian Secret Service, made the arrests late yesterday afternoon on warrants taken out in the Police Court, charging the accused with having conspired to defraud. The story of the conspiracy is as follows:

On Friday, the 12th inst., the gentlemen, who are known as Phelps, Henri and Ross, arrived at the Bonaventure depot from Portland, Me., and took up temporary quarters at the St. James Hotel, where they stayed for two days. They then left, and "Dr." Phelps went to the Hall, while the other two took rooms in another part of the city. They were not long in starting business, and patronized the newspapers by advertising fairly liberally. "Dr." Phelps opened an office at 181 Bleury Street, and Messrs. Henri and Ross looked around for suitable business places. They engaged room G in the Temple building, and represented themselves as general agents. Here are some of their interesting "ads":

"Wanted—An intelligent young man, to travel with a first-class physician at a salary of $15 per week and expenses. He must furnish a deposit of $300 as a guarantee of honesty. Call or address Henri & Ross, 185 St. James Street."

"We have a customer wishing to purchase a small business, either a restaurant or small store. What have you to sell him. Call and see us. Henri & Ross, 185 St. James Street."

"Wanted—To purchase, all kinds of merchandise, bicycles, diamonds, household furniture, etc. Bought for cash. Call and get our offer. Henri & Ross, 185 tS. James Street, Temple Building."

"Wanted—To purchase, good second-hand bicycles, 1893 or 1894 pattern. Prices must be moderate. Henri & Ross, 185 St .James Street."

There also appeared a larger advertisement headed:

"Dr. Phelps, 181 Bleury Street, specialist in treatment of female diseases."

Among the young men who called in answer to the first advertisement were two of Mr. Carpenter's assistants, and they were sent to Dr. Phelps. While there they, being of an observant turn of mind, took stock of the doctor's offices, and describe the furnishings to be a bottle of brandy and two glasses, a pot of vaseline and a bottle of cologne. They were sent back to Messrs. Henri & Ross to arrange about the $300 guarantee. The agents refused to accept a bond, and wanted money, no matter how small the sum was. A Mr. Claud E. Hobday was, among others, found satisfactory, and he upon giving $2 to the agents received this receipt:

"Montreal, April 22nd, 1895.—Received of Mr. Claud E. Hobday two dollars for services in securing situation for him. (Signed) Henri & Ross."

To three other young men who came to him, Dr. Phelps gave a note, saying, "I have engaged the bearer; please make contract with him." The case was carefully investigated by Mr. Carpenter and laid before Judge Dugas yesterday afternoon, and he ordered the arrest of the three.

Upon their arrival in the Temple Building offices in the afternoon, a choice collection of papers was found. There were two letters addressed to Augustus P. Warren, General Delivery Office, Montreal. They were found on the person of Ross, and were apparently from his wife. They were addressed to "Dear Will," and were pathetic in the extreme. The writer expected to join her husband on the 1st of May, and she told of the hardships which she endured in Boston during his absence. She suggested that he color his hair and change his name different to anything that he had previously been called, that he might elude anyone who might be after him. There was also a diary among the extracts, in which were these entries: "Left Boston April 10, arrived at Portland same day, stopped at Island Pond, stayed at Sherbrooke over night April 11, stopped at St. James' Hotel April 12." There was a cheque on the National Exchange Bank, Boston, drawn on the account of the International Trust Company, and signed H. G. Jennesy, for $125. There were three certificates of stock in different concerns, the whole valued at $11,900 par.

The first was that Thomas H. McCool held nine shares in the Harris Palatial Car Company of Maine.

Another that E. E. Winchell held 100 fully paid shares in the Bald Mountain Mining Company, drawn at New York on May 28, 1880, and signed by J. E. Poyton, president, and Charles Windell, secretary.

The most valuable, apparently, was that Thomas H. McCool held 100 shares in the Harvard Land Company. It was signed in Boston on November 25, 1893, by Dunstan Lancy, president. The supposition is that these certificates were taken as guarantees of honesty from young men willing to travel with a first-class physician.

In the letters there are many statements that point to the three men as being crooks, for whom Boston became too hot and who were obliged to transfer their operations to another field.

Detective Carpenter has communicated with the Boston authorities, and new evidence is expected at the trial to-day.

DOUBT THE STORY.

American Customs Officials and Chinese Smuggling.

Calais, Maine, April 23.—Customs House and railroad officials of Vanceboro, who have been interviewed in relation to a Montreal despatch pertaining to the smuggling of Chinese over the line in perforated coffins, say they believed the story has no foundation. They know of no coffin of any sort passing through. Three Chinamen were detained at McAdam a few days ago, and on being released passed over the line to Vanceboro, where they were released on Friday. The Chinamen left at once for Boston.

FRIDAY'S HERALD — A FICTION NUMBER.

The special feature of Friday's enlarged issue of the Herald will be the publication of Gilbret Parker's story, "The Translation of a Savage," which made him famous. "The Translation of a Savage" has never been printed in cheap form, but the Herald has secured the right for publishing it in serial form in this city. On Friday the first half of the story will be published. It will be well illustrated. Gilbert Parker is the most celebrated of Canadian novelists.

The number will also contain other interesting special articles, and many illustrations.

M'GREEVY ELECTED.

The Recount Gives Him a Majority of Seven Votes.

Quebec, April 23.—The recount in Quebec West was completed this afternoon and resulted in sufficient ballots being rejected to give the election to McGreevy. He was declared to have a majority of 7 votes.

Quebec, April 23.—Mr. McGreevy will await the official announcement of the recount, which will be given by Judge Andrews, and on Monday he will go to Ottawa to take his seat in Parliament. He has not yet announced the names of the members who will present him to the Speaker and the House.

RAILWAY TROUBLES.

Immigrant Clearing House in Danger Over Canadian Roads.

Chicago, April 23.—The immigrant clearing house is in deep water, and Chairman Caldwell has gone to New York and Boston to prevent what may be serious trouble. The Grand Trunk, he says, has all along been demoralizing the immigrant rates through New York and Boston. In the latter place the business has shown signs of strong manipulation. This sort of thing is far from agreeable to the Canadian Pacific, which is the strong rival of the Grand Trunk and that line has intimated more than once that if the market is not steadied it will be forced to protect its interests in the best manner possible. This would mean the destruction of the clearing house, as none of the transcontinental lines would observe the agreement with the Canadian Pacific on the outside. As the matter now stands rates are being freely manipulated, and unless Chairman Caldwell succeeds in putting a period to the disorder, the outlook for the long life of the clearing house is not brilliant.

TORONTO SCHEMES.

Toronto, Ont., April 23.—The City Council to-day decided to submit to a vote of property owners on May 26 by-laws for expending $300,000 on the improvement of the system of water works, and also a by-law for establishing a plant for lighting the city by electricity. This last by-law has been bitterly opposed by the Toronto Electric Light Company, which at present does the lighting, and is eager for the recently expired contract.

Their Excellencies at Toronto.

Toronto, April 23.—Lord and Lady Aberdeen are guests at Government House, where Lord Aberdeen lunched to-day. Lady Aberdeen gave a private luncheon at the Queen's Hotel at 2 o'clock, and the afternoon was spent in visiting the Royal Canadian Academy. To-night His Excellency was the guest of the St. George's Society at their annual dinner.

To Defeat Sir Henry Tyler.

London, April 24.—In its financial article this morning, the Times says that the committee of the stockholders of the Grand Trunk Railway of Canada have obtained 6,000 proxies, representing £13,000,000 of stock, favoring Sir Charles Rivers Wilson for the presidency of the company, in succession to Sir Henry Tyler, whose re-election is opposed by the committee. With the securing of these proxies a majority for the committee's plan is assured.

Trilby.

A special matinee will be given to-day at the Academy of Music, when Du Maurier's great play, "Trilby," will be presented. Lawrence Hanley resumed his part of Svengali last night, and will continue it during the remaining performances.

Antiquarian Society.

The Numismatic and Antiquarian Society met last night at the Natural History Society Building. The president, Hon. Judge Baby was in the chair. A donation was received from the Corporation of the City of London, Eng., of a book containing the list of medals struck by that corporation. A book, "Repertoire-Annuaire des Collectionneurs de la France," was exhibited by Mr. McLachlan. Dr. Lentze, the German Consul, exhibited some Corean coins, the only coinage struck by Corea.

A letter was read from the Royal Academy of Belles Lettres, Stockholm, Sweden, offering to exchange publications with them; the offer was accepted.

Mr. R. Roy, Q.C., was appointed delegate to the Royal Society. A committee was also formed to deal with the Chateau de Ramezay; and it was resolved to send the thanks of the society to the mayor and aldermen, regarding the Chateau de Ramezay. The following members were elected: Mr. John Macfarlane and Mr. A. B. Macfarlane, of the Canada Paper Co., and Mr. J. B. Dore.

GOD BLESS OLD ENGLAND.

THE WATCHWORD OF ST. GEORGE'S SOCIETY ANNUAL DINNER.

SPEECHES BY THE ENGLISH REPRESENTATIVES OF THIS ISLAND.

Songs and Hurrahs Gladdened a Great Night's Festivity.

The annual dinner of the St. George's Society, which was held at the Queen's last night, was one of the greatest successes in its history. In the chair was F. Wolferstan Thomas, and on his left were the Mayor; James Wright, President Caledonian Society; Rev. J. F. Renaud, Chaplain St. George's Society; Rev. R. F. Taylor, Dominion Deputy Sons of England.

On the Chairman's right were Mr. A. F. Riddell, representing St. Andrew's Society; L. O. McShane, William McWood, Hon. J. K. Ward, W. E. Smith, George Durnford, Charles F. Smith, Edgar Judge, James P. Sudbury, Joseph Horsfall, A. J. Whimbey, E. A. Mumford, A. Tattersall, N. W. Baker, James Crankshaw, R. S. Clift, Thomas Harling, George T. Clift, Smeaton White, Capt. Newton, John Jenkins, F. E. Yardley, H. G. Nevin, R. Hampson, Geo. Hodge, Jos. Dalrymple, Wm. M. Briggs, J. H. Stiles (London, Eng.), Henry Russell, H. A. Lansdell, A. W. Hislop, Percy Evans, W. C. Nunn (Toronto), James Richards, B. Reed, Ernest C. Mount, R. H. Bartholomew, James Henry Browning, F. W. Frederick Renaud, chaplain St. George's Society; James Wright, Caledonian Society; J. O. Villeneuve, Mayor; A. F. Riddell, St. Andrew's Society; L. O. Loranger; Geo. Howe, Irish Protestant Benevolent Society.

When the chairman, Mr. Thomas, arose to propose the health of Her Majesty there was a cheer—a great big cheer—and the champagne went down in all heartiness.

Then the Prince of Wales was toasted, and before the cheering was ended Lord and Lady Aberdeen's health was proposed. They may have made errors, but who does not, said the chairman, "but these two great representatives deserve our gratitude, and I hope you will drink the toast as becomes the Canadian people."

"Hip, hip, hurrah." "He's a jolly good fellow," the crowd shouted, and "Our Lady, the Countess," was responded to by the singing of "For She's a jolly good fellow."

"Our Mayor" was the next toast. "He's a good one," said the chairman, "and he sits at my left hand. This ought to be the inauguration of a campaign in his favor." After this Albert Tattersall shouted "sing."

A. Mumford sang a good old English song quite appropriate to the occasion.

The Mayor said: "I want to thank you. St. George's Society's calls upon the city's charity have been less than any other charitable society. This is a great record, is it not? When your representatives came to the city I was among the first to help you, and I hope always to be with you. In 18995 I hope the city will spend its revenue and nothing more. You have some good aldermen, and the Americans think so, too. I know that you Englishmen will join with French-Canadians in saying that we have a great and grand country called Canada." (Cheers.)

Albert Tattersall sang "The Admiral's Broom," which was right royally received. And he has a good voice, too.

"Our Sister Societies" was the next toast. "Oh, could we have but one good Canadian society instead of these promiscuous societies," said the chairman, in proposing the toast. It was received royally, and Mr. A. F. Riddell arose.

That the St. Andrew's Society was not represented by its president was regretted by Mr. Riddell, but it was plain that the gathering was delighted to have such a representative present.

Mr. Ed. Bartholomew pleased everyone with a pretty song, and the chairman then proposed "St. George and Merry England."

"St. Patrick's Society" was responded to by Hon. James McShane. He got a reception that was indeed hearty. When he arose he explained a misunderstanding about St. Patrick's Society not being represented until the last hour. The gentleman who had been elected in his place was not present. He didn't know why. Then he went on: "You Englishmen ought to be glad of your flag, which has done so much for you. Even the religion which is ours is guarded by your society. God bless you Englishmen. The flag which for a thousand years has guided you has been a blessing to you." Then a red, red rose was pinned on to his coat, and the gathering stood on the chairs and shouted "Hurrah! Hurrah!"

St. Jean Baptiste representative followed—the Hon. Judge Loranger. He rejoiced in the name of his society at the success of St. George's. They had lived in harmony, and he hoped that in the future, as in the past, they would ever be friends. The reports showed what good works the St. George's Society has done, and it all went to show what good and grand arrangements had been entered into by such people as those he represented and those with whom he was the guest on this occasion.

The chairman arose and said, "Let me read the following":

Toronto.—St. George's Society, Toronto, send heartiest greetings to their brethren.

Ottawa.—St. George's Society extend hearty greetings. England yet and her sons will make a Greater Britain.—G. Lew.

Hamilton.—Sons of St. George, Hamilton, send cordial greetings, and God Save the Queen.—L. J. Whitehead.

Guelph.—Englishmen around the festive board greet their fellow-countrymen.—W. W. White.

London.—Kindly accept our cordial greeting in honor of St. George and Merry England. God Save the Queen.—J. P. Cox.

THE ANSWER.

The following was sent:

Englishmen of Montreal around the festive board send greetings. God Save the Queen.—F. Wolferstan Thomas.

Back to "Our Sister Societies'" toast, Mr. George Home came after a choice song, and in a speech of eloquence congratulated the gathering on behalf of the Irish Protestant Benevolent Society.

Rev. Mr. Taylor responded on behalf of the Sons of England in a clever and neat speech.

Mr. Edgar Judge in a very eloquent speech proposed "St. George and Merry England."

While the enthusiasm was at its height, as the gathering cheered, Mr. George Home sang "Beautiful England."

Mr. Richards proposed the "Past President," in which he coupled the name of Hon. J. K. Ward.

Mr. Ward was delighted to respond. So much had been said, he said, that little remained. The work taken up 60 years ago had been faithfully taken up, and everything that had been needed by the countrymen of the people present had been honestly done.

Mr. O'Hara Baynes sang "The Englishman" in right good style.

The Mayor proposed the toast of "The Chairman," Mr. Wolferstan Thomas.

Mr. Wolferstan Thomas suggested that there were two toasts which should have been proposed before. He hoped "The Press" would be proposed first, especially the morning press.

The Herald representative responded, and when the ladies were honored the gathering dispersed after a few good-natured jokes.

DRAWING ROOMS.

The Recent Viceregal Function and Some of Other Days.

(From an Occasional Correspondent).

Ottawa, April 22.—The state ceremonies of last week came to a grand finale with the drawing room on Saturday evening. A few words on drawing rooms might be of interest. Swift is an authority for the fact that they were held, under that title, in the reign of Queen Anne. He writes: "There was a drawing room to-day at court, but so few company that the Queen sent for us into her bed chamber, where we made our bows, and stood about 20 of us around the room, while she looked about at us, with her fan in her mouth, and once a minute said about three words to some that were nearest to her, and then she was told dinner was ready, and went out." It can be readily seen from this that the drawing rooms in her reign were very dull, indeed, universally so at that period. George II. and Queen Caroline held one every evening, George III. once a week, George IV. very seldom.

A drawing room unique in character was held at St. James' Palace on October 26, 1789, the anniversary of the King's accession, by the young Prince of Wales, then just 7 years of age, and the Princess Royal, who was just 3. As was to be expected, the court was crowded to excess, everybody being anxious to see how these sweet children would acquit themselves, and their graceful deportment and apt performance of the part assigned to them made an impression upon that brilliant assemblage never to be forgotten.

Other drawing rooms may have been more magnificent, but none have been more interesting to us than the one held by Queen Adelaide in 1831, at which the Princess Victoria was presented on attaining her 12th year. The Princess Victoria made her first appearance at court in a dress the material of which was entirely manufactured in England, and the modest simplicity of it admirably suited her tender years. At this time they were frequently held on Sundays after the services at Chapel Royal, to which ladies went en grande tenue. For a short period previous to 1834, perhaps as a consequence of the practice of combining attendance at church with attendance at drawing rooms, ladies appeared in hats and bonnets. Such an innovation was, however, recognized as a breach of all etiquette, and a notice was issued officially in the Gazette of May 27, 1834, "that for the future ladies attending Their Majesties' drawing room must appear with feathers and lappets, in conformity with the established order." Queen Victoria held her first drawing room at St. James on Thursday, July 20th, 1837, just one month after her accession; and her last on Thursday, March 14th, 1861, owing to the death of the Duchess of Kent and then that of the lamented Prince Consort. On May 18, 1863, the Princess of Wales held her first drawing room on behalf of the Queen, at St. James. In '76 a Chinese Minister appeared for the first time at a drawing room, but as it was the day of sepulture for the Emperor of China, he could not present himself in full dress, so went in a suit of fur, which is the Court dress in China on such occasions. In '82 the presentation took place of a Roman Catholic archbishop of Toronto, the first R. C. prelate presented in England. The privilege of entree was granted to him, as also the indulgence of appearing in plain clerical dress.

The intense interest taken all over the world in the drawing room in England is fully shown by the numerous illustrations of those events in the magazines and newspapers. In Canada the interest is not so widespread, but still it is felt by a large number of people. Frances Monck says that at a levee held in Quebec, in the early days of which she wrote: "Two dogs came in, but Tom (the cat) sat in the hall looking very dignified." There were about 400 present and some wore "yellow Indian slippers" (moccasins).

In '73 Parliament opened on February 6th, but the drawing room was not held until Wednesday, the 12th, and both Houses adjourned for the occasion. Now, however, it is the custom to hold them on the Saturday evening following the opening; so on last Saturday evening loyal Canadians paid homage to their Queen's representatives, Lord and Lady Aberdeen. The crimson and gold of the Senate chamber, the gay uniforms, the delicate tints of the ladies' dresses, all united to make a scene of dazzling splendour. The Governor-General wore the knightly uniform of the Court, and the Countess of Aberdeen an exquisite gown of white silk embroidered in gold and the train held by two pages—the Hon. Archie Gordon and Master Oswald Gordon in white and gold suits of the period of Henry VIII.

Although the attendance fell short of last year's, it was representative of Ottawa's best and most intellectual society—we claim the Parliamentary visitors ours while they are here.

After the ceremony was over Their Excellencies and party attended an informal gathering in the rooms of Mrs. (Speaker) White, and there His Excellency said that next year he would make some arrangements so that children could witness the brilliant scene in the Senate chamber.

WILL WALK TO ST. ANNES.

WELL-KNOWN BUSINESS MEN ON A PEDESTRIAN CONTEST.

THE ENTRIES FOR LEPINE PARK'S SPRING RACES.

Interesting Baseball Match Between Boston and Washington—Lynch Has Resigned — General Sporting News.

Business circles just now are intensely interested in the outcome of a long-distance walking contest between two well-known young men, to wit, Joe Roy, engineer of the Park and Island Railway, and Walter I. Joseph, of insurance fame. Mr. Joseph's prowess as an athlete led him into making the match. An arrangement was reached primarily for Mr. Joseph to walk J. P. Cook, M.P.P., a race of ten miles, but unfortunately Mr. Joseph was taken ill the day before the race and was unable to compete. Some friends twitted him about this at the City Club the other day, and H. L. Putnam offered to back Mr. Roy against him for a walking race to St. Annes. Mr. Roy, who was present, was willing to race, and Charles Holt offered at once to back Mr. Joseph. A hitch has arisen in arranging details, as the Roy party wish to start the contestants at opposite ends of the route, while the Joseph backers prefer them to start side by side. Both gentlemen are, however, training. Mr. Roy walks out to Back River every day on the ties, and Mr. Joseph is taking an electrode treatment. The sporting editor of the Herald was asked yesterday to act as one of the judges of the contest, and of course gladly accepted. It is expected that when final arrangements are made there will be considerable betting. At present Mr. Joseph is slightly the favorite.

BALL.

The Bostons' Clever Play Yesterday.

Washington, D.C., April 23.—A triple play, so rare in baseball, was the feature of the Washington-Boston game to-day. It was made in the ninth inning by Boston, when it looked as if Washington was about to increase the score. The bases were full, by Maguire reaching first on Collins' errors, base on balls by Cartwright and error of Tucker, which gave Crooks a lift at first. Maul hit a grounder to Pitcher Wilson, who threw to Warner at the plate, forcing Maguire. Warner threw to Tucker on first in time to cut off Maul, and Tucker returned the ball to Warner, who touched Cartwright, who had attempted to come home. It was all done so quickly and all right under the noses of the crowd that it was some moments before the play was understood.

Newarks and Torontos Hit Hard.

Newark, N.J., April 23.—The game to-day between Newark and Toronto was a veritable slugging match, which resulted in a victory for neither. Both pitchers were hit at will, and at the end of the ninth inning, when the game was called in order that the visitors might catch their train, the score stood: Newark, 20; Toronto, 20.

Umpire Lynch Resigns.

New York, April 23.—Umpire Lynch resigned to-day, as the outcome of having fined Capt. Davis $125 on Saturday, and so Meekin, of the New Yorks, and Mulvey, of the Brooklyns, called out the decisions. As the result of the Davis fine and the large amount of discussion it evoked, President Young ordered Lynch away from New York after the day's game, although he had been scheduled for nine games here. Lynch chose to resign rather than to accept this dictum, holding that if the rules adopted by the National League are not to be lived up to he does not desire to be a member of the staff of umpires.

London, April 23.—At the Epsom spring meeting to-day, the race for the Banstead Plate, of 200 sovereigns, distance five furlongs, was won by Rudder, Bohemond second, Courante third.

At the Bel-Air Track.

The horses of Mr. J. P. Dawes have been sent to Bel-Air for training, under the charge of Ben Pope. The course is now in superb condition, and is expected to be the centre of attraction for racing men during the next few weeks. Mr. Dawes' string this season will comprise: Laurel, Royal George, Octoo, Linwood, Vermillion, Zana, Kinen and a couple of 2-year-olds.

Florimont Goes West.

The breeders of Montreal and vicinity have lost the services of a valuable stock horse this season by the trotting stallion Florimont, 13181, having been sent to Ontario. He was sired by that great race horse Piedmont, 2.17 1-4 (sire of Limonero, 2.15 3-4, and 15 others in the 2.30 list), and out of the producing mare Flower Girl, the latter being full sister to two record-breakers. Florimont was bred at Palo Alto, California, and imported into Canada by the Hon. M. H. Cochrane. One has only to look at his colts, their size, fine finish and rapid way of going, to be convinced that Florimont, with his fashionable breeding, is bound to become one of the great sires.

BOWLING.

The Ottawas Caused "Doc" Harris.

(Special to the Herald.)

Ottawa, April 23.—A pleasant gathering of O.A.A.C. bowlers did honor to Chairman Harris here to-night. He was dined and presented with a magnificent cane as a mark of esteem. The "Doc" has taking a deep interest in bowling this season and to him is due a great deal of the champions' success in the league. In addition Harris Baine, a member of the committee, was made the recipient of a pair of gold links by the boys.

ROWING and SAILING.

The Ottawa's Boat House.

(Special to the Herald.)

Ottawa, April 23.—Efforts so far to raise the half-sunken boat house of the Ottawa Rowing Club, which took a plunge Saturday, have failed, and the chances are that it will go to the bottom. In that case, it will never be raised. Both the means and patience of the committee are about exhausted, and it is thought the house will be a complete wreck.

Majority for M.A.A.A.—81.

CRICKET.

Some English Criticism of the English Game.

The Spectator, says James Payn in the Illustrated London News, has incurred Mr. Walter Besont's wrath for suggesting that cricket is a tedious game. It was very rash of the Spectator. I have known a man say that he would as soon pay a shilling (gate money) to see a match at cribbage as a cricket match; but he had been soured by being sent to Eton as a lower boy and taken away before he was in the fifth form, and all the time he was there he had to "fag out" and never got an innings. "There is no dexterity," says Mr. Besant, "like that of a good fielder;" but this man was not a good fielder and all that he knew of the wicket was that they whacked him with it for his incompetence. "There is no game which commands so much admiration"—let us say rather demands it. If you don't crack it up in cricketing circles there is no saying what may happen to you. "There is no game so full of the changes and chances of fortune." There are changes enough, heaven knows. Why the players should shift their places every five minutes or so, unless they are dissatisfied, or even bored, with their late positions, may well to the unskilled Spectator suggest the notion of tedium. He does not know what they are after, since they are not after the ball.

Cricketers are very "arbitrary gents," and especially in their youth. In public schools they insist upon all their fellows being as fond of the game as themselves, and in this they are backed up by their masters. No doubt it is a great convenience to these latter to find an occupation ready to their hand which keeps two and twenty boys accounted for at once an dout of mischief. Still it is hard upon those who do not like to spend their half-holidays in this amusement. How would cricketers like to be made to play cribbage in a ring fence? Without venturing to endorse the spectator's view o fthe game, I do think compulsory cricket detestable. It is probable that the poet had this in mind when he speaks of some Hampden Junior, who the little tyrant of the field (i.e. the cricket field) withstood. Where I think the attack upon this sacred injustifiable is as regards the money expended upon telegraphing the details of the recent match in Australia. "This," says the Spectator, "marks an increase in the appetite for frivolity." Anything less frivolous in the way of "copy" than that column and a half I never bread. Nor can cricket be called with truth by its greatest enemy a frivolous game. It is the most serious amusement (instigated by shouting) except chess, that was ever invented.

The jealousy of cricketers as regards any other game is very marked. At present the arrows of their scorn are directed against golf, which, it must be owned, has seduced many from their allegiance. They are now, I read, endeavoring to prevent golf being introduced into our schools. They say it does not sharpen the intelligence, develope the moral qualities, strengthen the religious principle, and a number of other things, like cricket. Still, it is a very pleasant game, and I cannot conceive why boys should not play at it if they like. Most of them, we may be sure, will always prefer taking their pleasure in batches. They remind one of Poole's story: "Pray, sir," said a person who had previously been the hindmost of a crowd, to another who had just joined it, "have the goodness not to press upon me, there is more behind to press upon you." "No," replied the man, "but there may be presently, and besides, what's the good of being in a crowd if we may not shove?" Still there are some quiet boys, with few friendships, to whom golf would be a most attractive game, and at present that is just the class for whom there is least provision as respects recreation in our public schools.

The Canadian Artistic Society.

The Conservatory of Music is on the point of opening, and unless something unforeseen occurs its doors will open on the 1st of May.

The carpenters, painters, decorators and electricians are busy at this moment putting on the finishing touches in the office, as well as in the music hall. The opening is now only a question of a few days. Notice will be given fixing the time when aspirants to artistic honors who have filed their applications may present themselves. It may be interesting to repeat the conditions of admission.

To begin with, the student must have attained at least the age of 10 years; for ladies the maximum age of admission is 22 years and for men 25 years. They must present a certificate establishing to the satisfaction of the examiners that they have not the means to carry on this branch of their education, and must undergo a preliminary examination satisfactory to the examiners, to show that they have a rudimentary knowledge of the instruments on which they wish to perfect themselves, be it the piano, violin, etc. This rule applies to voice culture as well.

The students will be divided into two categories, viz.: Those who have already studied, and those who are possessed of special talent.

The first will have to understand the theory of music, and must be able to read at sight all the major scales.

For the piano they must:

1st. Understand the elementary principles of music.
2nd. Read at sight simple music.
3rd. Understand 4 major scales.
4th. Play a selection of their own choice, and their preference amongst the classics of the piano—a sonata, for instance.

For the violin they must:

1st. Be able to string the instrument.
2nd. Understand something of the theory of music, and be able to execute 4 scales—major and minor.
3rd. Play a selection of their own choice.
4th. Read at sight an easy selection made by the management.

For voice culture they should understand music, sing a selection chosen for them, read a page of music at sight, and also sing something of their own selection.

As to the students of the second category, they shall have attained at least the age of ten years, and must be able to read and write and have a natural talent for music.

By attentively reading the foregoing explanations and by following these rules, arranged with a desire to make the institution as useful as possible, much trouble will be avoided from one source or another.

Mme. Charles Soullers, of 168a Richardson Street, Point St. Charles, had the pleasure of drawing from the Canadian Artistic Society the sum of $1,000, won at last week's drawing. At the same drawing Mr. E. Bourdon, of 462 Shaw Street, won the sum of $400. Mr. and Mme. Soullers are both middle aged. Mr. Soullers is employed in the workshops of the Grand Trunk Railway, where he is well known.

Mr. Bourdon is a young man whose fortune was a pretty wife and the first joys of an early marriage. For once again fortune was exceedingly kind.

INJURIOUS, DESTRUCTIVE.

THE EFFECT OF THE BELT LINE ON THE WHARVES.

ADVERSE REPORT OF HARBOR ENGINEER AND HARBOR MASTER.

The Road Would Injure All the Wharves and Practically Destroy Some.

At the Harbor Commissioners' meeting yesterday the accompanying joint report from the Chief Engineer and the Harbor Master, upon the request of the Montreal Island Belt Line Railway Company, for permission to run their proposed line of railway along the wharves and harbor property, was received, laid on the table for consideration at next meeting, and meantime ordered to be given to the press for publication.

Authority was given to issue a notice to shipmasters that under the new by-laws of the commissioners no ballast must hereafter be deposited in any part of the waters within the port of Montreal, and it was also ordered that the pilots be instructed to give notice thereof to every shipmaster. A quantity of routine business was also transacted. The report above-mentioned is as follows:

We beg to report as follows upon the request of the Montreal Island Belt Line Railway Company for permission to run their proposed line of railway along the wharves and harbor property, as set forth in various plans and letters referred to us.

These plans and papers do not set forth very clearly what is required by the company; the most important plans are on a very small scale, the letters are somewhat indefinite, and the proposition, since first presented to us, has undergone important changes by the submission of amended plans and letters.

Taking the question, however, as we understand it, and in its latest form, our views are as follows:

The request is for space for a double track elevated railway along the harbor front, from section 46 at the St. Lawrence sugar refinery, Maisonneuve, to section 4, Point St. Charles, a distance of 4.17 miles, the whole of which, with exception of the crossing of the Lachine Canal, would be on harbor property. Fom section 46, Maisonneuve, to section 21, above the Canadian Pacific elevators, a distance of 2.6 miles, the proposed tracks would be on solid crib work built to the same elevation as the main or elevated line of the Canadian Pacific Railway. The crib work would be wholly on the wharves, and would for the double track occupy a width varying from 25 to 50 feet, according to the irregularities of the property boundary line.

In the lower part, from section 46 to section 41, inclusive, a distance of about 3,400 feet, the wharf is 200 feet to 280 feet wide, and the taking away of an average of about 35 ft. would not greatly pair the usefulness of the remainder. It is, however, a very fine, wide stretch of wharf, built at great cost, expressly with a view to providing room for any traffic requiring a wide wharf, and the giving up of any part of it would be losing valuable property, and might possibly interfere with future special uses.

From section 40 to section 35, inclusive, a distance of 3,120 feet, or 6-10 of a mile, the difficulties are much greater. The wharf is only 110 to 170 feet wide, and part of its length is already fully occupied by the commissioners' railway tracks and roadways and by the Dominion Coal Company's coal towers and tracks. The taking away of 25 to 30 feet in breadth for the Belt Line tracks would be losing most valuable property, and would most seriously impair the usefulness of the remainder.

In sections 34 to 30, inclusive, a distance of 2,640 feet, or half a mile, there are extreme difficulties. There are two connections between the wharf tracks and the Canadian Pacific Railway elevated tracks, which must be kept open, the bulky traffic of the Longueuil ferry must be provided for and there must be space for general wharf requirements and for roadways. The whole present breadth of the wharf is only 65 to 90 feet. The Belt Line tracks would require 25 feet, and the existing harbor tracks 25 feet more, leaving only 15 feet to 40 feet for everything else. The wharf is now altogether too narrow, and the taking of 25 feet from it would practically destroy its usefulness for wharf purposes.

In sections 29 to 27, inclusive, a distance of 1,620 feet, or 0.31 mile, the wharf is only 105 to 150 feet wide. The harbor tracks and their necessary unloading space occupy about 43 feet of this, leaving only 62 to 87 feet for roadway and wharf proper, which is already too little. Anything taken from it would seriously impair its usefulness.

In sections 26 to the middle of section 21, inclusive, a distance of 2,980 feet, or 0.56 mile, the wharf is more roomy, its breadth being about 160 to 250 feet, but it is all deep water wharf, used by large steamers which require freight sheds and much roadway and cargo room. The taking away of space for the belt line would be the loss of most valuable ground, but it would not be so ruinous to the remainder as in narrower places.

From section 21, just above the Canadian Pacific Railway elevators, to section 12, at the foot of St. Peter Street, the belt line plans show the line as located entirely with reference to the works to be carried out under the harbor enlargement plan No. 6, and it is proposed to make it an elevated railway supported on a steel trestle placed over the parapet wall and the footpath of Commissioners and Common Streets as widened. The elevated line thus placed would be upon what is now harbor commissioners' property, but on a part of it, which is to be handed over to the city for widening Commissioners and Common Streets, on consideration of the city's paying the cost of moving out the wharf line, and reclaiming an equal extent of ground from the river. In effect, then, the Belt Line from near the Canadian Pacific Railway elevator to St. Peter Street would be on the widened streets, and not on the wharves, and therefore not injurious to the harbor.

No method is, however, proposed for carrying the line along either street or wharf as they now are, or until the works of No. 6 plan are built.

At the upper end of section 12 the proposed line crosses the wharf askew, from opposite the harbor building to the lower end of the small lock in such way as to cut about 220 feet off the wharf frontage at the upper end of the Allan steamship berths, but it would not cut anything off the frontage as it will be when rebuilt, according to No. 6 plan. The posts of the trestle are so placed as to be an obstruction to low level railway tracks and to cart traffic, but they could easily be changed and made fairly clear. The crossing of the wharf at the place, and angle, and height, proposed will not be seriously detrimental to the wharf, if the trestle posts were properly arranged and after the completion of No. 6 plan; but as the trestle is shown and as the wharf now is, it would be decidedly objectionable.

From section 12, on the north-west side of the canal, to section 9, opposite the middle of the large canal basin, on the Windmill Point wharf, the proposed line is all upon canal property, and therefore out of the commissioners' jurisdiction.

From section 9 to the upper end of section 6 the proposed line, according to the latest plan, is intended to be upon an open steel trestle built over the present low level tracks. The trestle, as designed, occupies, jointly with the low level track, a ground space of 18 1-2 feet wide and an overhead space of 25 feet; the posts are placed at a distance apart longitudinally which would be inconveninet for access to car doors. Considerable change would be required wherever low level sidings may be required, and the proposed line of posts would make both the present and any additional tracks occupy considerable more space than otherwise necessary.

The elevated line would, we think, interfere with the free passage between the wharves and the adjoining properties, which is guaranteed by the commissioners in their agreements with the Mill Street lessees.

Upon section 5 the proposed trestle would leave the line of the low level track and run to the south-east of it until opposite the face of the wharf, beyond which solid crib work is proposed to be substituted for the trestle for carrying the elevated line. The effect of this would be to take about 40 feet off the length of the basin now under construction, and to quite cut off access to the proposed end and south side of the basin.

The running of the Belt Line Railway along the Windmill Point wharf as proposed, or in any other way, is decidedly objectionable, as occuping part of a wharf which is now altogether too narrow for the traffic; and the proposed crib work and location of the line at the head of the basin are entirely inadmissible.

Taking the whole scheme in its relation to the harbor, the chief points may be summarized as follows:

1. The tracks would all be elevated from 14 to 31 feet above the wharf level, having no connection with the wharves, and, as such, bringing no traffic to the harbor; that is, any traffic brought to the harbor by the proposed Belt Line Railway would have to be brought down upon the wharves by the commissioners' present low level tracks, and connections can best be made with these tracks without making the proposed elevated track.

2. The Belt Line would, therefore, merely use the wharves as a convenient ready-made roadbed, and not because of any connection with the harbor.

3. The passage of the Belt Line along the wharves would take away much valuable ground, with the costly work upon it; would injure all the wharves by reducing their breadth, and would practically destroy the usefulness of some of them.

For these and other reasons above mentioned we advise against granting the request of the Montreal Island Belt Line Railway Company.

Yours respectfully,
JOHN KENNEDY,
Chief Engineer.
THOMAS HOWARD,
Harbor Master.

MANY WEDDINGS.

Roses a Prominent Feature of the Decorations.

An unusually pretty wedding took place yesterday afternoon at the Church of St. John the Evangelist. Mr. James Reid Kinghorn, of the Montreal Rolling Mills, and Miss Winnifred Townshend St. George, daughter of Mr. P. W. St. George, City Surveyor, were united by the rector, Rev. Edmund Wood, assisted by Rev. Canon Townshend, grandfather of the bride, and Rev. Arthur French, assistant curate. By a coincidence it was St. George's Day and roses everywhere prevailed. The church was beautifully decorated with roses and other flowers by the bridesmaids. The ushers were Frank St. George and Fred. S. Howard, of Montreal, and Courtland M. Strange, of Kingston. The bridal party was met at the door by the choir. The bridesmaids, Miss Blanche Spence, Montreal; Miss May Townshend, Halifax; Miss May Bate, Ottawa; Miss Molly Dickey, Amherst; Miss Olga St. George, wore gowns of cream muslin with veils. They carried bouquets of red and white roses, except the two latter, who bore baskets of roses. The bride was dressed in cream brocade, with veil, and carried a beautiful bouquet of white roses, intermingled with which were lilies of the valley. She was given away by her father, Mr. P. W. St. George. The groom was assisted by Dr. Hugh Kinghorn. The happy couple left by the evening train for New York.

TOURVILLE-BRUNET.

A fashionable wedding took place at seven o'clock yesterday in St. James' Church, St. Denis Street. Notwithstanding the inclement weather, there was a large number present to witness the ceremony, as the contracting parties are very well known and very popular. Mr. Arthur Tourville, second son of the Hon. Louis Tourville, member of the Legislative Council, was married to Miss Laure Brunet, daughter of Mr. D. W. Brunet, of the Jacques Cartier Bank. The marriage ceremony was performed in the Chapel of the Sacred Heart, and Rev. Father Hyacinthe Hudon, Rector of St. Mary's College, officiated. The wedding mass was made very pleasing by the singing of Madame Boucher's choir of ladies. They had prepared special music for the occasion, which they executed in a pleasing manner. Melle. Marie Terroux, the soprano, sang the solos. The instrumental music was also excellent.

The bride, who looked very pretty in her travelling costume, was given away by her father, Mr. Brunet; and Mr. Arthur Tourville was assisted by the Hon. Louis Tourville.

A great number of the elite of the French Canadian society were present, but it was intended that the wedding should be very quiet. The members of the family present were: Hon. Louis Tourville and Madame Tourville, Mr. and Mrs. Rodolphe Tourville, Mr. and Mrs. Brunet, Mr. Arthur Brunet, Mr. and Mrs. J. Brunet, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Gagnon, Dr. and Mrs. Globensky, Mr. and Mrs. Clerk, Judge deLorimier, Mrs. Arthur Mailiant, Mr. Arthur Archambault, Miss Jeanne Archambault, Mr. Alex. Clerk, and others. After the wedding, a dejeuner was served at the residence of the bride's father on St. Denis Street. The presents were very costly, and the bride received a great number from her numerous friends. The newly wedded couple left on a wedding tour for New York and Boston, departing with the best wishes of their friends and acquaintances. After the honeymoon Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Tourville will reside at Pierreville, where Mr. Tourville is the manager of his father's extensive lumber mills.

FRANCHERE-LANTHIER.

Yesterday in the chapel of the Sacred Heart at St. James Church Dr. Louis Franchere, dentist, was married to Miss Alida Lanthier, of St. Polycarpe. There was a great number of friends of the contracting parties present. After the ceremony Dr. and Mrs. Franchere departed on a wedding trip for Boston, with the congratulations of their friends. The wedding presents numerous and costly.

C.P.R. FREIGHT RATES.

Mr. Kerr and Mr. Shaughnessy Answer More Complaints.

The Commission on Freight Rates resumed its session yesterday. The hearing of complaints from different points with the explanation of the railway company in each case was gone on with. The question of rates on barbed wire was brought up by the chairman and as Mr. Kerr was not quite ready to go fully into the matter it was agreed to take it up later.

A complaint from Glenboro that coal dealers in Winnipeg were selling that article at less than it could be sold for at the former point was explained by the statement that the coal dealers in Winnipeg had been quarreling among themselves and slashing down their own rates. Again the fact that mine owners base their charges on the quantity sold to certain sections and that Winnipeg uses so much more coal was pointed out. In the matter of salt Mr. Kerr showed that dealers who took only small consignments of salt were justly charged higher freight rates, in proportion, than those dealers who took a car load, on account of the additional office, yard, storage and distribution work involved. A schedule of the rates on salt shipped west from Windsor, Ont., was presented and filed.

In the matter of coal oil Mr. Kerr stated that the Imperial Company of Canada and the Standard of the United States had their warehouses all over the country and the oil therefore all went to the consumer at through freight rates. In considering the matter of apples sent from Ontario and Quebec and the Eastern Provinces it was stated that even a great railway company cannot do much in the way of anhilating distance. The rate for long distance carriage would appear very low if spread over the distance by the mile.

Another point explained was the charge of infrequent running of freight trains from Winnipeg to points West. Mr. Kerr said that the statement that freight trains had not been run for two weeks at a time between Glenboro' and Winnipeg was exaggerated. He filed an official report from Winnipeg which showed that freight trains during the past year were run on an average of three every week between Glenboro' and Winnipeg. There were many ways in which the non-delivery of freight might be accounted for. Improper shipment or direction accounted for a great deal. On the question of cattle a complaint from a farmer had been received to the effect that he had been overcharged for a yearling bull shipped from Ontario. The familiar reason that the smallness of the shipment accounted for the heavy charge, was given, and farmers were advised to club together when importing cattle and fill a car. A heavy charge on one man might be expected when a car was sent all that distance with one animal at his individual expense.

A complaint that the live stock rates on single animals sent between Ottawa and Montreal was less than the rates between Carberry and Winnipeg, about the same distance, was denied by Mr. Kerr who said that it was exaggerated.

As to passenger rates, Mr. Kerr said that the second-class rate, from Montreal to Oregon was now $61.55, while from Montreal to Calgary it is only $39.45, which disproves the statement that people were carried to the Pacific coast cheaper than to intermediate points. It is true that at one time especially low rates had to be made to meet the competition of the Northern Pacific, which had just opened up and was bound upon advertising itself. At all events if the Canadian Pacific did take the means of attracting strangers to pass through the country, he did not see how that could work an injury to the residents.

Witness then quoted rates on every class of articles, to disprove the statement that there was any discrimination against Calgary. He showed also that the Montana producers had to pay a good deal more to get their produce to market at New York than did the farmers of Alberta to send theirs to Montreal. "We are always alive," he said, "to the necessity of meeting the requirements of traffic, and to assist in getting goods to market. It would be working against our own interests if we failed to serve the community well. That is a business principle which speaks for itself. We never refuse to meet the reasonable demands of a man who is trying to develop any industry in the country."

Mr. Shaughnessy, the vice-president of the company, appeared for a short while to reply to the memorandum of Russell Lodge of the Patrons of Industry. The principal statement to which he took exception was that the Canadian Pacific, having a gross earning of $1.50 per train mile over its whole system, while the Grand Trunk's earnings are only $1.03 per train mile, it followed that the higher earnings must come from the western section of the Canadian Pacific, as on the eastern section rates were made to meet competition. The records of the company did not enable him to say what were the earnings per train mile on the western section, as it was difficult to separate the receipts. But he showed that the gross earnings per train mile of the New York Central were $1.62 per train mile, those of the Lake Shore and Michigan Southern, $1.66; those of the Chicago, Milwaukee and North-western, $1.77, and those of the Northern Pacific varied from $1.57 to $2.06 on its various sections. As these lines did not swell their gross earnings with receipts from steamships, telegraph and sleeping car, it was clear that the gross earnings of the Canadian Pacific—per train mile, $1.50—were lower than on any of the roads quoted, hence the rates on the Canadian line must be lower.

The Patrons also referred to the gifts of money and land made by the Government to the Canadian Pacific. He did not think it was a subject which came within the scope of the investigation.

"We always keep in view," said Mr. Shaughnessy, "that the prosperity of the country through which we run is an essential factor in the prosperity of the road. The increase in the volume of traffic is one of the most potent factors in bringing the rates down."

Mr. Shaughnessy also explained that the Calgary and Edmonton line and the Long Lake and Regina Railways were only operated by the Canadian Pacific Company under a guarantee from the proprietors of those roads to make up any losses. Hence the Canadian Pacific Company did not think it would be fair for it to make rates so low on these lines that the owners would have to make up a large loss. As to the system of shipping grain from clearing elevators, the company always encouraged it, believing it to be in the interest of the farmers. They had rented an old elevator at Port Arthur to a private party, who used it for scouring and cleaning wheat, and during the last season he handled about a million bushels of wheat, adding, no doubt, largely to its value by the treatment.

This morning Mr. Kerr will continue to answer the complaints item after item.

A DARK NIGHT

CHAPTER I.

Many years ago two men were talking together one morning in the private room of a bank in the west of England. The senior partner of the house, a white-haired, sage-looking financier, was cautioning his companion, who evidently had their business enterprise very much at heart. There was something eager and adventurous in the younger man's appearance, in spite of the look that betrayed the country squire and lawyer that he was. The bank, personified by the older man, was making an investment quite apart from its usual steady custom, to join the squire who was putting a good bit of money into a venture by sea. This money was to be forwarded to the port of Bristol to be shipped, and the two capitalists had received news from the captain of the vessel that he was sailing much sooner than had been his first intention. The difficulty was to find a proper messenger at such short notice, and the squire, who was something of a sportsman, had come to say that he had fallen in unexpectedly with a horse dealer, a very honest man, fearless and a good rider, whom he had known for many years, and who, fortunately, was on his way to Bristol the next day but one.

"The only defect he has is in being a stranger to the roads hereabouts; I mean between here and Bristol," said the squire. "But Rogers, you say, can go with him, and knows the way well. Weymouth has an English tongue in his head, but with so much gold to carry a man is sometimes glad to take a short cut, or a different turn, especially in these days where there is so much tramping and thievery. You never know whom you fall in with on the road. I must say I never liked the looks of Rogers—"

The squire turned quickly from the window where he stood with hands deep in his pockets, looking out in the street, and saw Rogers himself, who had come, soft-footed as a cat, from the outer room to stand behind the senior partner. The squire stared at him angrily.

"I knocked, sir," said Rogers, deferentially.

"I should hope so," answered the squire with coldness. But the clerk seemed to take no offense, and departed on tiptoe after handing some checks to his chief. The old man flushed a little and was disturbed. Rogers was his daily companion and made himself quite indispensable. To the squire he was only a subordinate, and apt to be presuming and curious.

"I don't like him, in spite of all you say," the squire grumbled to the senior partner a moment after the door was softly closed.

"Well, perhaps not as a companion," agreed the old gentleman with a smile. "I thought he looked crafty and sneakish myself at first sight, but he has been perfectly faithful and steady these six or eight years now, and I long ago gave up suspecting Rogers. He is curious, perhaps, but harmless, harmless."

"He'll wait forever for his chance, but he'll take it when he gets it," said the squire. "That is, if I know anything of human nature. I wish we had our money all in notes instead of so much gold, but we cannot risk the chance of our changing the notes in Bristol before the Mary and Bell sets sail. And my man Weymouth can hold his own, I'll warrant him. I hope he'll be prompt about starting. He has as much as told me that it was not all business that keeps him here; he is paying attention to a young woman whom he hopes to marry. But he's a man of his word. 'Tis a good bit of work for him and money easily earned, as you may say, since he was going to Bristol a day later, at any rate."

The squire took his riding stick and gloves from the table and bade his old friend good morning. They shook hands heartily and had a cheerful word or two about their business and its probable success.

"See that they start at six o'clock Sunday morning, or even earlier," the younger man turned back to say. "The roads are heavy already with so much rain, and if I don't mistake the signs there's more coming. They can't get to Bristol at best before night. I don't know what sort of a mount Rogers will get. He'll soon worry a good horse out of its wits, I should think. Tell him that Fenderson is set upon sailing early."

"He'll wait a tide for his money," said the senior partner with assurance, tapping the arm of his chair. "He's a prompt man, is Fenderson, and an excellent ship master, but eighteen hundred pounds is a good sum to miss; his luck depends on getting it, you know. Still, I'll tell Rogers. Take a glass of Madeira before you go; will you join me, sir, 'tis toward noon?"

As night was falling two mounted messengers, spattered with mud from cap to stirrup, were riding wearily along a deep, worn country lane. They were in the north part of the county of Somerset, near the waters of the Severn. The lane itself, deserted enough that night, was a great thoroughfare for those who came from the south and west to cross over into Wales. By this immemorial stream of travel and the wearing of the weather it had been worn like a swift stream's channel, deep below the level of the country. One of the riders kept glancing fearfully at the bushy banks above him, as if he expected to see a head in the thicket peering down. The other man rode straight and stern in his saddle, and took no notice of anything but his horse and the slippery road.

As they came, riding northward side by side, to the top of a little hill, Rogers, who wore a strangely pale and craven look, gave a sigh of relief, and his horse, which limped and bore the marks of having been on his knees, whinnied as if in sympathy. The wide, gray Severn spread before them; the high headlands sloped gently away on the right, and fell off like a cliff on the left; below the land was edged by a long line of dyke which fenced the sea from marsh and meadows that stretched away from the coast. Over the wide water drifted low clouds of fog and rain, and in the southwest a dull red gleam of fading winter sunset lightened but little the cold and stormy color of the sky. High above the Severn, at the road's end, stood a group of low buildings perched on the headland together, like a convent or a place of military defense.

As the travelers rode into the yard of the old Black Eagle inn in the twilight, the inn itself and all its stables and outhouses seemed deserted. There was a bare and empty look everywhere. The sunset just struck a last whip of rain at the two tired men, and Weymouth called impatiently to the hostler, and then got stiffly to the ground and stamped his feet and stretched himself as he stood holding his horse's bridle. The creature dropped his head low and steamed in the cool air.

There were two windows in the inn itself, dimly lighted, as if by firelight, and in another window in the landward corner a candle flickered faintly. The whole place seemed dull and unfriendly with its stony walls and roofs. Rogers grumbled with a plaintive whine, his companion shouted again with a strong, honest voice, and presently a stable door was flung open and two men came out. Inside, the light of an early lantern beamed comfortably, and the horses turned their ears that way, as if eager for their supper and warm bedding. There was no sound from within of stamping hoofs or cry of crowded and biting horses. The business was evidently at lowest ebb.

"Rub them down well and give them good feed as soon as you dare; full oats and scant hay. We must be on our way again two hours from this at least, we lost the road and were in haste at any rate," said Weymouth. "I'll come out and look after them in an hour. Mind they're not in the wind," he added. "Come, get down," he added, in a colder tone to his fellow-traveler, who through weariness or uncertainty, still sat his horse like a drooping statue. "Strike the mud off you; here, I'll help you, then," as the man gave a groan and then tried to dismount. "After the first wrench you're all right. Come you're none the worse for your cropper into clay and mud!

TWO MOUNTED MESSENGERS.

Queer inn they keep here," he said angrily as they crossed the yard toward the door whither one of the hostlers had pointed them. They could hear a woman's voice inside before it was opened.

As the mistress flung it open wide and stood on the threshold, she bade her guests good evening in a civil tone, but insisted somewhat ostentatiously that she desired no guests that night. She had ceased to keep the tavern since the travel had all gone, or been stolen away to the lower ferry. She had some people already whom she must make a shift to care for, old Welsh folk who had been put into the only room that could be used. She was giving up her lease to leave the place—

"We only ask for supper and a fire, 'tis but to rest our horses," said Weymouth, boldly making his way into the inner kitchen where the firelight looked cheerful. Rogers followed ruefully, limping and holding his shoulder as if he were badly hurt. When he sank into the corner of the settee his head dropped back as if he were ill, and his eyes shut as if their sight swam with giddiness. Such distress of weariness and squalor of mud and wet could not but appeal to the beholder.

Weymouth stood before the fire steaming like the horse he had just left and regarded his companion with pity and surprise. Then he gave himself another stretch, and yawned comfortably, and taking off his short cloak spread it carefully upon a bench. There was a stout leather wallet at his side which he unslung and put by the cloak at the fireside, handling it as lightly as he could, but not concealing the fact of its weight, or that such a broad-shouldered man as himself was glad to get rid of it. As he turned again he saw that the landlady had stopped her work among pans and crocks at the table and was watching him sharply, but Rogers groaned as if in his sleep and Weymouth repented his contempt and harsh words on the way. His fellow-messenger had been officious in his pretense of knowing every turn of the road that would bring them quick and safe to Bristol, but he had taken the worst of his mistake with so bad a fall, if the color of his face were any sign, and it grew plain that Weymouth must somehow or other find the rest of the way to Bristol alone. In his heart he flinched for a moment, knowing what he carried and that he was a stranger; yet for some reason he had all the day distrusted the smiling clerk and his bland and double manner, and wished more than once that he were riding with a better man.

WITH A SINGLE CLUMSY LOOKING GLASS ON A TRAY.

"Get me some brandy," said Weymouth to the landlady, "and a glass for him when he wakes, a good stiff glass. When he wakes, you know, he'll need all that he can drink, 'twas a hard ride for so poor a horseman. I'll leave him here to-night; neither he nor his horse can go further. I must be on my way by ten or as soon as my horse is fit and has had his feed."

"Oh, no, poor lad!" exclaimed the woman, but there was something disturbed and dissatisfied in her tone. "He'll get to no Bristol to-night," she added, as she trotted off with more willingness than she had shown before and came back with a single clumsy-looking glass on a tray. Weymouth thanked her and took it in his hand and offered it again with much gallantry; but she shook her head, not displeased, and went back to her work.

Then the guest cast another glance at his fellow-traveler, who just at that moment stirred and groaned again, uneasily. Weymouth bent toward him, and shook him gently, holding the glass to his lips. The drowsy man was quick to know the welcome odor, and drank the brandy down with eagerness, opening his eyes wide and making a queer face as he finished.

"What's this?" said he.

"'Tis brandy," said Weymouth, laughing boyishly. "So you've forgotten how it tastes since noon!"

"'Twas not for him!" exclaimed the woman coming back from her cupboard angrily. "You might have choked a sleeping man!" she railed at Weymouth, and clenched her fist like a fury.

"Sleep then," she said to Rogers, who laughed a little and gazed at her stupidly but much startled. "What's the odds, Betsy?" he faltered, as if he knew her well.

"Betsy me none of your, Betsys," said the rough-mannered mistress of the house, sharply; then, controlling herself, she caught up the empty glass, and her tone changed. "Some other drink would have done for him just as well," she said, in a wheedling whisper, and, returning to her shelf, she filled a second glass. Weymouth observed that it was fuller than the first, and accepted it amiably. The cross-grained creature had meant to pay him a pretty compliment in pouring him her best grog, and he thanked her civilly, with proper toast to her good fortune, as he raised the glass to his lips.

He was still standing before the fire; something crossed his mind at that moment. The woman was by her table where she could see him, and with his hand covering the glass he tossed his head back gayly and pretended to drink. She turned away with a queer sigh. Rogers had shut his eyes again, and quick as a flash Weymouth threw the brandy behind him into the ashes.

A TORTURED CHILD

FOR TWO YEAR.

Its Head Rendered a Volcano of Fiery, Itching, Burning Pains.

So speaks Maxwell Johnson, 112 Ann St., Toronto: My six-year-old daughter, Bella, was afflicted with eczems for 24 months, the principal seat of eruption being behind her ears and on her face; her head was on fire with painful, burning itching, which was made worse by constant scratching and tearing it with her hands. We spent money without stint in constant endeavor to afford the little sufferer relief, every advertised remedy was tried; innumerable treatments with soaps and medicines and specific treatment by physicians having high endorsements in curing such diseases were of no relief in her case. A short time ago I purchased a box of Dr. Chase's Ointment, the first application of which showed the curative effect of the ointment; only one half of the box has been used, with the marked change of an entire disappearance of the eruptions, and I can confidently say my child is permanently cured. Breakfast Corn Cake.—Take one cup of Indian meal, two cups of flour, two tablespoonfuls of sugar, and three teaspoonfuls of Cook's Friend Baking Powder, sift together at least twice, then add one egg, two cups of sweet milk and a piece of butter the size of an egg; mix all thoroughly and bake one-half hour.

Rye Biscuit.—One cupful of rye meal, two cups of flour, two and one-half teaspoonfuls of Cook's Friend Baking Powder, one-quarter of a teaspoon of salt, sift twice; add one teaspoonful of rye, stir up with milk to a soft dough. Have a good hot oven, and after having rolled out and cut into the desired sizes, place in a well-greased pan and bake twenty-five minutes.

Pigs' Feet Fried in Batter.—Take half a dozen cooked pigs' feet, split them, crack in two or three places, dip in egg batter and fry in boiling fat.

Fried Parsnips.—Scrape and wash half a dozen parsnips, put in a saucepan, cover with water, add a little salt, let boil until tender; take up, drain, cut in two, dip in grated bread crumbs, and fry in boiling fat; dredge with salt and pepper and serve with watercress.

Almond Cake.—Two cups of flour, one cup of corn starch, sift with three teaspoonfuls of Cook's Friend Baking Powder, then add one cup of milk, two cups of sugar, one cup of butter, and the whites of six eggs; flavor with one tablespoonful of extract of almond. Mix all thoroughly and bake in moderately hot oven.

Bean Soup.—Wash a pint of dried beans in cold water, let soak over night. In the morning, drain, put in a soup kettle, pour over a pint of boiling water. Let boil until tender, add a quart of stock, strain the soup and then press the beans through a sieve; return the soup to the kettle, let come to a boil, season with salt and pepper. Cut up one lemon and two hard boiled eggs, put them in the bottom of the tureen, pour the boiling soup over and serve.

Fried Egg Plant.—Take a fresh egg plant and pull out the stems; parboil it and cut in slices about an inch thick, dip them in beaten eggs and then in a plate of bread or cracker crumbs, with salt and pepper, and fry in drippings until they are nicely browned.

Orange Pudding.—Make a soft custard of the yolk of three eggs, one cup of sugar, one tablespoonful of salt, one pint of sweet milk, pare and slice five large oranges into a pudding dish with a layer of sugar. When the custard is cool, pour over the fruit. Make a meringue of whites of egg and two spoonfuls of sugar, then cover top with this; place in the oven and brown.

MONTREAL, APRIL 24.

SIR MACKENZIE'S SPEECH.

The statement made in the Senate on Monday by Sir Mackenzie Bowell adds something to what is known of the policy of the Government on the school question; but not much. The Star last night interpreted his speech as a pledge that he will introduce remedial legislation, "and if all the Orangemen from Pictou to the West Riding of York desert him we doubt not he will keep his promise." If Sir Mackenzie really meant this, it is a pity he did not say so. Sir Mackenzie knows the divergent opinions that are being held in his own party over the meaning of the Remedial Order. He knows that one section of the party holds that the Remedial Order is nothing but a request to Manitoba to settle the grievances which the Privy Council found the minority are there subjected to, in their own way; while a very different representation of its purport is made by others. Why then did he not make an end of all doubts by putting in half a dozen words about whose meaning there could be no question? What he said was this: "I can only say that when the time comes, if it should come, for action by this Government, the people of Canada will find that the present Administration are quite prepared to assume the responsibility which may fall upon them, no matter what the results may be."

This has quite an emphatic sound, but upon being weighed and considered the words are seen to lend themselves to a much narrower interpretation than they at first suggest. Why was Sir Mackenzie not explicit? Why did he not say: "The Government considers itself pledged in event of the Manitoba Legislature failing to obey the Remedial Order to introduce into the Canadian Parliament legislation which shall restore to the Manitoba minority those privileges which we have found them to be deprived of through the operation of the offending legislation of 1890"? Everybody would understand the purport of such language. It couldn't be misconstrued even by the most captious critics of the Government. When a few plain words would have said so much, the failure to say them can be attributed only to the fact that it was not deemed desirable to be explicit. The Government is still hedging, and will continue to do so until after the 9th of May. But sooner or later it will have to impale itself on one of the horns of this question; and as in any case the respite will be short, its dodging tactics may be regarded with pity rather than with indignation.

THE SCHOOL BOOK QUESTION.

During the last few months there have appeared in our columns many letters dealing with the proposed changes in the school books in use in the Protestant schools of the province. From these letters it appears that the following statements are substantially true:

There is no general desire on the part of the persons interested in the education of the young for any change at all. On the contrary, there is a strong feeling against it.

The consideration of such changes and the duty of making recommendation of new books is left to a sub-committee of the Provincial Board known as the Text Book Committee. Two members of this committee have edited and revised text books which the committee has recommended for exclusive use in the Public Schools. One of these editors is charged with having received a cash consideration for his labor in revising one of these books.

The books which are thus approved are pirated copies of American publications. One of them is double the price of the work which it is destined to replace.

At a meeting of the board in March the recommendation of the committee in favor of these books was not acted upon, and the whole question referred back for further consideration. At the May meeting the matter will come up for further discussion. If the facts are as stated, the board should act with the utmost caution. Text books should not be lightly discarded; because a change trenches heavily upon the resources of poor parents, who are largely in the majority in this province. But if, after due consideration, it appears that there are good and sufficient reasons for abandoning the books now doing service, the duty of deciding on the ones to replace them should not be left to a committee about whose fairness there can be any question. Certainly it is irregular that members of this committee should in the slightest degree be interested in any of the books submitted. It appears that two publishers of school books, of the highest standing, have made offers which have not received, in their opinion at any rate, the attention they merit. Assuredly, if there is to be a change, the Provincial Board should invite offers from all reputable publishers, with a view to getting the best possible value.

The Board of Education is composed of men who will, we have no doubt, see the wisdom in this case of giving the whole question a very thorough and impartial examination before acting.

PROTECTION AND WAGES.

Wages are rising all over the world. Although there may be a slight decrease in some years, and in some trades, as the result of exceptional circumstances, in the long run the price of labor goes on increasing. Statisticians of every creed and of every nation agree upon this. They also agree that the general tendency of the price of staple articles is to fall.

Now, if it can be proved that in Canada the price of goods has not fallen as much as in other countries and that wages have not increased proportionately, we have proof that the tariff legislation has hampered the natural march of progress to the detriment of the masses.

The question of wages is one which appeals to all, and happily the Conservative Government itself has furnished us with data which enable us to safely measure the influence of protection on wages. In 1884 Sir Leonard Tilley, then Minister of Finance, wishing to impress upon the country the extraordinary benefits of the National Policy, entrusted Mr. A. H. Blackeby and Hon. Edward Willis, two enthusiastic partisans of protection, with the task of going around the country to get from the protected manufacturers a statement of their operations in 1878 and in 1884. The item of wages was naturally included in this enquiry.

Had it been proved that there had been during that period of six years a fair increase in wages, it would not have been a matter for wonder. The year 1878 was one of exceptional depression, due to commercial conditions in foreign countries while the year 1884 saw the culminating point of the little boom caused by the introduction of the National Policy, assisted by a natural reaction.

In view of these facts, it is simply astounding that instead of showing a great and general increase this investigation only showed small and partial increases of wages, more than counterbalanced by great and general decreases.

In the cotton industry, we see from the statement of Mr. Blackeby that the wages of operatives in cotton mills, which averaged $202.79 in 1878, did not exceed $210.28 in 1884, a paltry increase of 14 cents a week for the employees. In the manufacture of clothing, wages increased from $226 in 1878 to $227 in 1884, just 2 cents a week. In the shoe manufactures, the increase of wages amounted to 20 cents a week. In the woollen factories, the increase in wages amounted to $4.32 a year, or 8 cents a week. In the agricultural implement factories, the increase amounted to a fraction over 10 cents a week. Those were the favored industries in the most prosperous sections of the country. In the Maritime Provinces, where Mr. Willis appears to have made a most thorough investigation, there was a general decrease in wages.

Taking the grand result of the enquiry in over two thousand establishments, by the two commissioners, it was found that the average rate of wages in 1878 was $323 and in 1884 only $315 per year, a decrease of $8.00. We repeat that this was an astounding finding, but it is based on facts as collected by the employees of a protectionist government.

Now, if we consider that the average rate of wages in all industries, according to the census of 1891, is only $271 per year, the price of Canadian labor does not seem to have improved since 1884. In 1884, Mr. Blackeby put the average rate of wages of the employees of agricultural implement factories at $396, and the census of 1891 at $397; in clothing manufactures, the wages in 1884 are given at $227 and in 1891 at only $202; in furniture making, the wages were $376 in 1884 and only $338 in 1891; in boot and shoe making, $276 in 1884 and only $262 in 1891; all according to the same authorities.

Protection is indeed the thief of wages.

THE TRADE ISSUE.

Hon. Wilfrid Laurier, in the eloquent speech he delivered in the House last Friday evening, had this to say on the trade question, which is the main issue between the two parties: What has become of the power of the National Policy? Was it not to remove the then existing depression and to forever prevent its recurrence, that the people of Canada were induced to submit to that intolerable yoke of taxation which by a strange euphemism is termed the National Policy? What is the commercial situation, the economical situation, the financial situation of this country to-day? Sir, we have a deficit, the ugliest that ever made its appearance in Canada, an immense public debt ever increasing, an alarming falling off in the revenue, public burdens always increasing, a paralyzing commercial crisis and stringency, ever wider spreading, amongst all classes of the community. This is the situation which my friend characterized by the diluted term depression. Sir, it is high time that the Ministers and the friends of the Ministers should no longer delude themselves with the mere clatter of words, but should open their eyes to the fact that Canada has reached a most dangerous condition. It would be idle folly for the members of this House, sitting on that side or on this side, to imagine that Canada is simply suffering from one of those cycles of depression which come periodically. Sir, I am sorry to say, but it is a fact to which the attention of the Government must be called, since they persist in ignoring it, that the evils are of a more alarming character than those caused by a mere passing depression; and the abiding cause, the source of all those evils, lies in the fact that the country has been burdened with an immense and alarming public debt, and equally alarming public expenditure and at the same time with a high tariff, imposed upon us under suppositions which have never materialized—under promises of development which, if it had taken place, would perhaps have made the burden bearable, but the failure of which makes the burden hardly bearable by our small and scanty population. Why, Sir, I recall to the memory of the House that in the early days of the National Policy, when the public debt was increasing at the rate of a hundred millions at a time, there were men in this country, not confined to this side of the House—men in all walks of life and in all conditions, politicians and non-politicians—who were staggered at the magnitude of the burden imposed on the shoulders of the Canadian people, who believed that it was too great for us to carry. But their apprehensions were removed by the assurance often given by the occupants of the treasury benches, that immigrants would follow the track of the Canadian Pacific Railway, that the immense territories of the Northwest would fill with a teeming population, and that the price of the lands sold would be more than sufficient to recoup the country for the whole outlay. That statement was made, not once, but many times by Sir Charles Tupper at that time, and repeated by his followers until it became a stock phrase. I remember, as everybody, I suppose, does, that Sir Charles Tupper fortified this statement with the whose duties should enable him to speak with high authority on the question on which he wrote. I remember Sir Charles Tupper quoting the opinion of Mr. Burgess, the Deputy Minister of the Interior, to the effect that in a short time the sale of the public lands would cover the whole outlay. That letter has often been quoted, and it may be well to quote it again if only to show the House that the condition which the country has reached to-day is not the result of a casual depression—to show the wide chasm which separates us from the high hopes which were held out to us at that time. Here is the letter of Mr. Burgess:

FROM WHICH CANADA SUFFERS TO-DAY

OPINION OF A HIGH CIVIL FUNCTIONARY

Ottawa, 4th May, 1883

Sir,—Having given the subject my best and fullest consideration, I estimate that the receipts of this department from the sale of agricultural and coal lands, timber dues, rents of grazing lands, and sales of mineral lands other than coal, with the royalties from the minerals between the 1st January, 1888, and the 31st December, 1891, both inclusive, will amount to not less than $58,000,000.

A. M. BURGESS.

Sir, everybody who had a seat in Parliament at that time recollects that when that letter was read to the House by Sir Charles Tupper, endorsed as it was by the character, the ability and the reputation of that right hon. gentleman, it was received with wild cheers on the other side of the House. The hon. members on that side of the House affected to believe, and perhaps did believe, that there was a ready asset of $58,000,000, not yet in the coffers of Canada, but to be found in our coffers within eight years afterwards, and that therefore there was no cause for alarm if the public debt jumped up at the fearful rate at which it was then being increased. I noticed that the same letter read again to-day, and read in the light of our experience of the last year, does not evoke any cheer at all on the other side of the House. Why, Sir, it would be almost ludicrous, if the case were not such a sad one, to refer to that letter now, to comment upon the statemanship—because at that time it was called statemanship—which could build up such castles in the air. I do not care to do so. I come to sober facts. How many millions, I ask the Minister of Finance, have been realized from the sale of agricultural lands, how how many millions from coal lands, how many from mineral lands, how many from timber dues and grazing leases? How many millions? Not one dollar. Not one sinlge dollar. We are just fifty-eight millions of dollars astray. The sale of the agricultural lands, of the coal lands, of the mineral lands, the royalties, the timber dues, the grazing rents—all that has not proposed enough to pay the salaries of the officers charged with the duties of administration. But, Sir, the debt is there; not to be wiped out with a fantastic asset, but out of the hard earnings of the people of Canada, earnings wrung from them by a relentless system of taxation. And I would call to the attention of hon. gentlemen that that relentless system of taxation was introduced under the same hopes—hopes doomed to disappointment. Does not everybody remember how, in those early days of the National Policy, manufacturers were invited to clap on all sail, to manufacture, not for the small, restricted market of five millions of souls, but for the widespread market soon to be enlarged by hundreds, by thousands, and by hundreds of thousands of immigrants, who were to be brought in to fill the Northwest Territories? That advice was readily acceded to by the manufacturers. Millions of dollars were invested in bricks and mortar and machinery. And what was the result? In a very short time the warehouses of manufacturers were piled with goods for which there were no purchasers. The population did not increase, and the manufacturers found themselves face to face with a very serious problem. But the manufacturers were equal to the occasion. I take the case of cottons, just as an example. In the summer of 1888 a meeting of cotton manufacturers was held in the city of Montreal. The reports of that meeting are to be found in the Montreal Gazette, and there, amongst other things stated by the reporters, we find the following:

"By actual comparison, good farmers' shirting can be obtained in Canada to-day at a lower figure than the same material can be purchased for in the United States. This is one effect of the National Policy, and it is a great boon to the agricultural community. The country, however, requires 600,000 more people in it to maintain the present number of cotton mills, but these are quickly coming, as 100,000 landed on our shores last year."

Yes, Sir, 100,000 had landed on our shores the previous year. Those were the happy, blind days, when the Government of Canada was increasing the population by bringing a hundred thousand emigrants every year. Those were the happy, blind days, when the Government of Canada—according to its own statement—added to the population of Canada in 10 years no less than 800,000 souls, who, however, were not to be found when the census was taken; they had disappeared; and with them, I am sorry to say, had gone a considerable portion of the native population. But what did the cotton men do then? They had declared that they needed 600,000 souls more to keep their mills busy, but this addition to the population had not been made. But the cotton men were equal to the occasion.

=75c=

From now till end of Parliamentary Session.

THEY MADE A COMBINATION;

they bought up all the cotton mills—except one, I believe—and brought them under the same management. Some of the mills they closed, paying dividends to the shareholders, though the mills were idle, and turning out the operatives to shift for themselves as best they could. Under the system that was to have given work to every man willing to work, we saw operatives turned out in the street and shareholders receiving dividends for their idle mills. The production of cotton was restricted, and upon this restricted production extra profits were charged to the people of Canada, who were thereby compelled to pay taxes not only to the public treasury, but to the manufacturers of cotton also. Sir, there is the root of the evil; there is the cause of the depression. The public debt was increased under false pretences, the tariff was imposed under false pretences. The public debt was created under the promise that there would be such an influx of population into the Northwest Territories that in eight years at most there would be in the treasury a sum sufficient to wipe out the public debt. The tariff was imposed under the promise that there would be an influx of population such as would make the burden of taxation bearable by the people of Canada. Now, Sir, we know that all these expectations have been disappointed. In those early days we had centred our expectations and hopes upon those vast plains which extend from the craggy hills of Lake Superior to the eastern slope of the Rocky Mountains. And, I am bound to say, it is a

MOST MAGNIFICENT HERITAGE

Great as were the hopes entertained of it, they were not extravagant, but how those hopes have been blasted we know only too well. The immigrants came in, but the flow of immigration became less, and at one time almost ceased. What is the primary cause? The primary cause, and I challenge upon the issue this, is the high tariff with which Canada is burdened. The high tariff imposed by gentlemen on the other side, and maintained by them, has produced this result—it has made the tilling of the soil a thankless and profitless occupation. We cannot increase the price of cereals. The price of cereals have fallen and so have the prices of other farm products, as is admitted in the Speech from the Throne. We cannot increase the price of a bushel of wheat or pound of cheese. But there was a time when gentlemen on the other side pretended that they could increase the price of farm products. We cannot do anything for the farmer in that respect. But the tiller of the soil in the Northwest, and, for that matter, in every part of Canada, finds that while the prices of his products have diminished, he has to pay artificial prices for all that he has to buy. And this is the result of the policy of gentlemen on the treasury benches.

He pointed out that the course to pursue was to make Canada a cheap country to live in.

"The Government will, if necessary, do its duty," was the announcement on the Gazette's bulletin yesterday, after a reference to Premier Bowell's speech. From this it is to be gathered that, if it is not necessary, the Government will not do its duty.

CLOSING THE WORKS.

The Electric Company Decides on That Course—Unfair Treatment.

(Special to the Herald.)

Peterboro', April 23.—The difficulty between the Canadian General Electric Co. and its employees has not changed, and now the citizens have something to talk over, as the company have, it is understood, on good authority, decided to close the works until July. If this is authentic a public indignation meeting will be held. The way the company is treating the men engaged in outside places is not looked upon with favor here. A machinist, Mr. J. O. Masse, who came here from Granby, Que., complains of the injustice he claims has been done him. His statement is this: He answered an advertisement of the company calling for men, and received a letter offering him $1.50 or $2 a day, and telling him to come on. He came with his wife and his furniture, and knew nothing of the trouble at the works until he reached Belleville, when he saw a notice to workingmen to keep away from Peterboro'. He went to the works this morning and was told to return this afternoon, but was informed when he did so that there would be no work until the 1st of July, as the works were going to shut down. Mr. Masse wanted his expenses of removal, which had been $16.70 for himself and his wife, but the expenses of both were refused, and he was given $8.35. He thinks, after bringing him here with his wife and furniture, under the impression that he was to get work, he should have been given his full expenses, and he is naturally very warm in condemnation of his treatment. This has occurred in several other instances.

Galt, Ont., April 23.—The Canadian General Electric Co., of Toronto and Peterboro', was to-day awarded the contract for the motors and all electrical apparatus for the Hespeler extension of the Galt, Preston and Hespeler Electric Railway.

Weak Nerves

Indicate as surely as any physical symptom shows anything, that the organs and tissues of the body are not satisfied with their nourishment.

They draw their sustenance from the blood, and if the blood is thin, impure or insufficient, they are in a state of revolt. Their complaints are made to the brain, the king of the body, through the nervous system, and the result of the general dissatisfaction is what we call Nervousness.

This is a concise, reasonable explanation of the whole matter.

The cure for Nervousness, then, is simple. Purify and enrich your blood by taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, and the nerves, tissues and organs will have the healthful nourishment they crave. Nervousness and Weakness will then give way to strength and health.

That this is not theory but fact is proven by the voluntary statements of thousands cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla. Read the next column.

"With pleasure I will state that Hood's Sarsaparilla has helped me wonderfully. For several months I could not lie down to sleep on account of heart trouble and also Prostration of the Nerves.

For three years I had been doctoring, but could not get cured. I received relief for a while, but not permanent. Soon after beginning to take Hood's Sarsaparilla there was a change for the better. In a short time I was feeling splendidly. I now rest well and am able to do work of whatever kind. If I had not tried Hood's Sarsaparilla I do not know what would have become of me. I keep it in my house all the time, and other members of the family take it, and all say there is

Nothing Like Hood's

Sarsaparilla. I have highly recommended it and one of my neighbors has commenced taking it. I recommend Hood's Sarsaparilla at every opportunity." MRS. S. BRADDOCK, 404 Erie Av., Williamsport, Pennsylvania. Be sure to get

DAMAGED BY WATER.

Claims and Awards re the Recen Break.

At a meeting of the Water Committee yesterday afternoon Superintendent Davis' report, recommending the settlement of the following claims for damages at the sums mentioned, was adopted on the motion of Ald. Savignac. The claims arose from the results of the bursting of the 30-inch main on Sherbrooke Street on March 12, 1895:

An application for a water supply from M. Viau, biscuit manufacturer, Longue Pointe, was refused, on the report of Superintendent Davis and the City Attorney, that that municipality was outside the jurisdiction of the Montreal water department, the municipality of Maisonneuve lying between the city and Longue Pointe, and that an arrangement should be made first with Maisonneuve.

A request from the municipality of De lorimier for a water supply was granted, the terms being the same as those on which water is furnished to other municipalities.

J. E. Mullin & Co., of St. Paul Street, applied for an extension of their water service. The cost was estimated at $740. Ald. Nolan advocated compliance with the request, and on his motion it was resolved to report to Council in favor of it. A like application from T. J. Darling, Rouville Street, was similarly dealt with.

The Montreal Masonic Temple Company asked for a four-inch water service, and on motion of Ald. Nolan the superintendent was instructed to furnish it.

Superintendent Davis reported that the damages caused by the bursting of a main on Notre Dame Street, between Visitation and Panet Streets amounted to nearly $1,500. The city attorneys gave their opinion that the Canada Pipe and Founding Company was responsible for the damages.

The sub-committee on the Verdun dyke question reported in favor of granting the application of the Verdun municipality, on condition that the city's property in Verdun be exempt from school and municipal taxes, and that the municipality fill in the hollows in the land at the point, plant trees and make flower beds on it and keep it in good order.

Fourteen applications for remissions of water rates were granted.

Y.W.C.A. ANNIVERSARY.

Satisfactory Reports Presented—Interesting Addresses Made.

The twenty-first anniversary of the Young Women's Christian Association of Montreal was held yesterday afternoon in the Y.M.C.A. building. There was a very large attendance of members and their friends, when Rev. S. P. Rose, D.D., who acted as chairman, called the meeting to order by announcing the opening hymn. The opening exercises were conducted by Rev. T. S. McWilliams, after which the minutes of the last annual meeting were read and confirmed. Rev. S. P. Rose delivered an interesting address on the aims of the society, and the success attending the efforts of the local organization since its inception.

The annual report, which was very exhaustive and lengthy, was read by the general secretary, Miss H. E. Tenney. The summary of the work done during the year was on the whole pronounced as satisfactory, and the general secretary was cordially applauded on the conclusion of her report.

Mr. E. Holton, treasurer of the Building Fund, in presenting his report, stated that there had been a slight addition to the balance left over from last year. The year of business depression through which the country had passed had affected the association. Rev. J. Edgar Hill and another friend had canvassed for subscriptions to the fund, with satisfactory results, and had met with much sympathy from the public, who were approached, and who had made a generous response to the appeal. It was the intention of the Executive this year to move into a larger and more commodious building, for which a three years' lease had been obtained at a moderate rental, and they hoped to be able to equip the new home of the association before the end of the three years had been reached. The land account was now closed, and they had paid $15,000 on that account. The balance left from last year was $2,444.82, to which had been added the receipts for this year, $675.65, leaving a total on hand of $3,109.97 after some small accounts had been paid. Since making up the statement a donation of $400 had been received from a friend in England. The report was received with applause.

Miss Daly rendered a vocal solo, "Thy Will Be Done," in a pleasing and artistic manner. Rev. Dean Carmichael delivered an address, in the course of which he paid a high compliment to the work done by the association.

Another hymn was sung, and then Mrs. Charles N. Judson, president of the Brooklyn Young Women's Christian Association, and 1st vice-president of the Y.W.C.A. International Board, was introduced. Mrs. Judson stated that she had been announced to deliver an address, but that she did not deliver addresses. She would be pleased, however, to talk to them in an informal and unconventional way, and tell them something of the work in her particular association. Her address was loudly applauded.

The chairman read the report of the officers elected at the recent meeting, and which has already been published, and after Rev. J. Edgar Hill and Rev. W. H. Warriner had moved and seconded the adoption of the reports, the meeting was closed with doxology and benediction.

After the meeting the ladies of the School of Cookery entertained the ladies present to an afternoon tea at their rooms.

To feel buoyant and cheerful use Adams' Tutti Frutti after meals. It aids digestion wonderfully. Refuse imitations.

Garnets to Meet.

There will be a meeting of the Garnet Lacrosse Club at their hall, 1476 St. Catherine Street, on Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock. All members are requested to attend.

GRATIFYING RESULTS.

British Columbians Show Evidences o a Highly Progressive Spirit.

Vancouver, April 23.—Among the many instances of the progressive spirit which animates the people of this Province may be mentioned the eagerness with which they seize upon any novelty which has been proved to be of advantage to the community. Among the many new discoveries which have been adopted, may be mentioned the new remedy, Dodd's Kidney Pills, which has received a thorough trial at the hands of British Columbians, and is used to an extraordinary extent. A large number of the residents of Vancouver and Victoria have used the remedy in cases of diseases of the kidneys, and with very gratifying results.

Report of the Investigating Committee on Police Force.

THE STAFF'S DISMISSAL SUGGESTED

The Finding on the Police Force Proper not Yet Drawn Up.

The report of the Police Investigation Committee is ready for presentation to the council and will be read at its next meeting. All that is needed is the attachment to it of the signatures of the members of the committee, who will meet in a day or two for the purpose.

As the report deals almost exclusively with but one portion of the inquiry—the administration of the detective force—it is expected that the committee will be unanimous in its adoption, judging from the opinions expressed at different times by individual members of it during the progress of the investigation.

It is understood that the report recommends the dismissal of every member of the detective force, including Chief Cullen. A warm tribute is, it is said, paid to Mr. Cullen's abilities and to his many services; but it is added that the necessity for a new head to the department has been amply demonstrated by the testimony given before the committee. Some of the present members may send in applications for re-appointment; and these will be duly considered. But an opinion is expressed that none of them should be reinstated at all.

SIBLEY RELEASED.

Judge Dugas Tired Waiting on the Attorney-General.

W. H. Sibley, charged with forging his mother's name to several notes discounted by the Bank of Montreal, was brought before Judge Dugas yesterday. He protested as did Mr. R. A. E. Greenshields, his counsel against his being kept in jail so long awaiting trial. The Judge informed him that Mr. Sicotte had written the Attorney-General asking if expenses would be paid to bring a witness from Ontario, but this was two weeks ago, and no reply had been received. It seems that the Hon. T. Chase Casgrain was electioneering and had been absent from his duties at Quebec. However His Honor expected a reply soon as the elections are now over for a time.

Up to 4 o'clock no answer had been received from the Attorney-General. Judge Dugas therefore decided to release Sibley on parole.

THE GAS QUESTION.

The Sub-Committee Has Not Conferred With the Company.

Alderman Marsolais, chairman of the Light Committee, and also chairman of the sub-committee appointed to consider the question of supplying the city with gas, stated yesterday that the article published a few evenings ago in the Star, purporting to embody the sub-committee's report, was a pure invention. The sub-committee had come to no such decision at all; and those "several interviews with the directors of the company," stated to have been held by the sub-committee were also fictitious. The sub-committee have not had any interviews with the directors of the company.

"The Star's statement," continued Ald. Marsolais, "that we had recommended a ten-years' contract is equally untrue, as is also the assertion that we favor paying the company $1.30 per thousand cubic feet of gas for illuminating purposes for the first two years. I am opposed to any such price as being too high. I am also opposed to a longer contract than one year. This would give us time to build our own gasworks."

DR. C. E. CAMERON ARRESTED.

Accused of Stealing a Valuable Collection of Postage Stamps.

High Constable Bissonette yesterday arrested on a warrant Dr. Charles E. Cameron at his residence, 53 Union Avenue.

The accused is charged with the stealing of a collection of stamps worth some $4,000 from Mr. Edward Nelton residing at 62a Latour Street, who in his deposition alleges that he has reason to believe that the accused did steal the said collection of stamps from his residence on February 16th last, and that he on February 26th sold $2,000 worth of the stamps to Mr. H. F. Ketcheson, of Belleville, Ont.

Dr. Cameron pleaded not guilty and was remanded. The enquete will begin today.

The complainant, Edgar Nelton, is a sleight-of-hand performer who first came to Montreal about a year ago. Being a stamp collector he met among other Montreal collectors, Dr. Cameron. The juggler returned to town in February on his way to Ottawa to fill an engagement with the Zera Semon Company. He took a room at 35 Alexander Street for a few days. On Feb. 16 Dr. Cameron and Nelton met in Takahashi's store on St. Francois Xavier Street. From there they went to Nelton's room to look at his collection. His collection, however, had disappeared. The landlady said that a short, spare man with a black mustache called a short time before and said that he had some business with Nelton who told him to go to the room and wait his arrival. The stranger was admitted, but in a few minutes called to the landlady that he would come again, and left the house. Nelton's collection, valued at $3,000, had disappeared when he returned. On Monday evening, February 18, a tall fair man, with a bandage over his eye, called at Dr. Cameron's house and asked for him. When told that the doctor was out, the stranger said he would leave a note. He was shown into the study, where he left the following:

"Can you kindly call at 700 Sherbrooke Street this evening and oblige,

"Yours faithfully,

"J. E. WALSH, JR."

Then he walked out unobserved. The doctor returned about 10 o'clock and read the note but to his surprise could not find such a number in the directory and concluded there was some mistake. An hour later he noticed that two large albums containing stamps valued at $500 were missing. He therefore came to the conclusion that he had been "touched" by the man with the bandaged eye. Dr. Cameron was of opinion that the same gang had robbed both himself and Nelton.

Dr. Cameron was allowed out on $1,000 bail; two sureties of $500 each.

"We'll Back you Every Time." A flush of pride suffused the face of the young jockey as he read the telegram. "Let us know each race you start in, and we'll back you every time." The message came from his old-time comrades in far-away Yorkshire. They knew he rode square—rode to win—and their telegram was a testimonial to his integrity and worth. Hundreds and thousands of testimonials to the worth of Holloway's Pills and Ointment as family medicines are in our possession. Many a poor sufferer has been restored to health by these world-famed remedies, and has gratefully written to tell us so. Human friends come and go, but these medicines—the friends of mankind—are always with us in the hour of need.

WOMEN AND CHILDREN.

Annual Meeting of the Society for Their Protection.

The annual meeting of the Society for the Protection of Women and Children was held in the House of Refuge yesterday. The following gentlemen were present: S. Carsley, F. C. Grafton, Rev. James Patterson, Rev. E. McManus, Rev. J. F. Renaud, R. C. Smith, D. McMillan, D. A. Watt.

The secretary-trensurer's report showed that since the foundation of the society it had handled 2,354 cases which involved the welfare of 2,645 children. 541 children had been removed from the wretched and vicious influence of their homes.

The work of the past year had resulted in the handling of 345 cases involving the future of 589 children. The Provincial Government was blamed for not having attended to the following matters which had already been brought to its notice and which the society had once more petitioned the Government to take cognizance of: To admit destitute children to the industrial schools up to the age of 14; license the lying in places for women and to keep a record of births and deaths; to appoint female inspectors of factories; to appoint a public prosecutor for the Police Court for the district of Montreal, similar to the county crown attorneys of Ontario.

The Dominion Government will be asked to make the age of consent 18 years, and that traffickers in vice shall be punished with hard labor; also that protection to all girls shall be given and not merely factory girls.

The other business of the meeting was routine. The election of officers resulted as follows: Hon. president, the Mayor; president, S. Carsley; vice-presidents, F. B. Grafton and S. Findlay; treasurer, J. B. Hutcheson; legal council, R. C. Smith, hon. physicians, Drs. F. G. Findlay and W. G. Stewart; directors, the clergymen of the city, Hon. J. K. Ward, Charles Alexander, Walter Drake, J. C. Simpson, Warden King, A. D. Nelson, Ald. Prefontaine, Ald. Penny, A. A. Thibodeau, G. B. Burland, George Hague, D. Morrice, E. F. Ames, Lieut.-Col. Houghton, D. McMillan, Ald. Smith.

G.T.R. EARNINGS.

The traffic returns of the Grand Trunk Railway for the week ending April 20 show that the passenger train earnings were $118,784 as against $111,891 in 1894. The freight earnings were $218,456 and $225,068 in 1894. The total earnings last week were $337,240 as against $336,459 in the corresponding week of last year, an increase of $781.

Willett, the Violinist, Dead.

Ernest Willett, the blind Canadian violinist, who was heard in Montreal two years ago with Edward Lloyd, died recently in Germany where he was studying music. He had intended to visit friends in Montreal this season.

Shoplifters Sentenced.

Judge Dugas this morning sentenced the three women arrested by Constables Holland and Mickle for shop-lifting.

Jane Baker, wife of Patrick Murphy, got two months. Ellen Wilson, wife of Jacob Lahaise, three months, and Mary Carroll two months. Louis Morrier was sent down for three months for larceny.

$300 Damages Awarded.

Judge Davidson yesterday awarded Mrs. Alfred Tremblay $300 damages against Charles Gratten. The lady was living with her son, who moved into Gratten's house. One day she had occasion to go into the cellar. In doing so she slipped on a broken plank and in her fall she tore the flesh off one of her limbs on a nail which protruded from a plank. The Court held the proprietor liable for the damages, and Gratten was consequently condemned to pay the $300 damages.

The Beaver Line.

The Liverpool Shipping Telegraph states: A few days ago we published an announcement to the effect that it was highly probable that the Canada Shipping Company, better known as the Beaver Line, would shortly resume its sailings under new management. Our statement is verified by the fact that arrangements are already in progress to despatch a steamer on the 4th of next month, or a week earlier if possible. Messrs. D. and C. MacIver are the new managers, and there is every prospect of the reconstructed company giving a good account of itself. Some little while back it was suggested as probable that the vessels of the Beaver Line would, when they resumed sailing, simply compete for the goods and cattle trade. The rumor, however, has turned out to be devoid of foundation, for the fleet will continue to carry passengers as they have done in the past.

A Present for Emery Lavigne.

Mr. Emery Lavigne, who assisted at the State concert given by Their Excellencies during their stay here, has received a large photograph from Rideau Hall, with the accompanying letter:

Government House, Ottawa,
20th April, 1895.

Dear Mr. Lavigne,

Will you kindly accept the little photograph, which we send you with this letter, as a souvenir of our sojourn in Montreal, and of the many pleasures which you have given us.

Your co-operation has helped us greatly and we are very grateful.

Accept the expression of my esteem.

ISHBEL ABERDEEN.

BREVITIES.

The advanced pupils of Prof. Durkee will hold their annual ball on Friday, April 26.

It is stated that the expropriations for the East End depot have cost one-third more than they should and that the question will soon be brought before the City Council.

Judge Dugas in the Court of Special Sessions yesterday sentenced Eugene Christin the ex-City Hall clerk, to two months hard labor for forging his servant's name to a check for one hundred dollars.

A young man named A. Coates, working at Strachan's soap factory, Jacques Cartier Street, fell into a vat of hot lye yesterday and got badly scalded about the legs. He was removed to the General Hospital.

The fire commissioners yesterday investigated three small fires, viz. Francois Kelly's, Bleury Street, damage $200; Francois Brazeau, Arcade Street, damage $200, and Louis Gagnon, Seigneurs Street damage $100. All were proved to be accidental. The first two were covered by insurance and the other had none at all.

Alderman Theodule Lefebvre's daughter Emma was married to Ernest Lamy, merchant, of St. John Street, in the private chapel of the archbishop yesterday. His Grace gave the nuptial benediction. The wedding breakfast was given at the residence of Ald. Lefebvre on St. Denis Street. The happy couple started in the afternoon for a honeymoon trip to the United States.

HARBOR NOTES.

Although the harbor has no traffic, the different shipping offices are busy arranging first arrivals and departures. Messrs. Sincennes, McNaughton & Co. received the following despatch yesterday:

Sorel, April 22, 1895.

The Sincennes-McNaughton Line, Montreal.

All the principal buoys from Sorel to Montreal, via Contrecoeur and Lavaltrie channels, are in position. Leaving downwards to-morrow at daylight.

U. P. BOUCHER,
Engineer.

Later reports announced that the buoys in Lake St. Peter were placed.

The new tug Ethel will be in port early in May. Tug Georgiana will come up from Sorel to-day, and will be utilized by the Harbor Commissioners until their new tug Aberdeen is in shape. Narcisse Perrault wired the Harbor office yesterday from Deschambault as follows: "Hurry up arranging buoys at Cap la Roche and Cap Charles; water very low here."

Col. Lake, Ottawa, has written Mr. Hannah, passenger agent of the Allan Line here, a most flattering testimonial given by Lieut.-Col. Otter, chief officer of the military staff who recently crossed on the Mongolian.

The Allan R.M.S. Sardinian, which sailed from Liverpool April 18, has on board 570 passengers, and is expected here next Monday.

The R. & O. steamers Berthier and Bohemian arrived in port yesterday. The steamer Bohemian at once proceeded on the Chambly service, and the Berthier to Three Rivers.

The steamer Laprairie will make her first trip to-day at 4 o'clock.

It will be interesting to local shippers to know that the Capital Freight Line intend operating between Montreal and Ottawa this season. The steamer Ida will commence regular trips Friday, May 3, and will carry passengers as well as freight. J. G. Brock, of the Quebec Steamship Co., will conduct the agency here.

TRADE AND COMMERCE

FINANCIAL.

Tuesday, April 23.

The principal point of interest in the local stock market to-day was the continued advance in Duluth. Advices were received from New York that there was a brisk demand for the stock and that the supply was inadequate, higher prices in consequence ruling. Here the stock had another boom, Common selling at 6 1-2 and preferred at 11. The cause of the advance is the reported alliance with the New York Central and Canadian Pacific roads, whereby a new through line will be organized between Montreal and New York. This is expected to prove a good arrangement for both the Pacific and Duluth roads, hence the demand for the stocks. Pacific was more active and stronger, selling up to 45. Montreal Street Railway was fractionally lower on realizing sales, while the element of doubt in connection with a new gas contract has had the effect of forcing down the price of that stock to 201. Richelieu was firmer, selling at 97, while small sales of Montreal Cotton were noted at steady prices. In bank stocks little was done, but prices hold very firm, one small quantity of Commerce selling at 133, cash. We hear of no change in the money market.

The market was quite active and strong in the afternoon, Duluth selling up to 6 3-4, closing at 6 1-2. Gas was much firmer, and recovered to 202 3-4, a gain of 1 1-4 points as compared with the forenoon. Just before the close one broker, with bullish ideas on the stock, bought a privilege to call stock tomorrow at 203 1-2. Cable was firm, and Montreal Street Railway was steady. A block of Jacques Cartier Bank sold at 115.

The highest, lowest and closing prices, total sales and net changes from yesterday's closing prices for actual sales in the local market were as follows:

NEW YORK GOSSIP.

J. S. Bache & Co., New York, wire their Montreal manager, C. D. Monk, as follows:

Atchison second week decreased $18,071.

It is stated that half a million Southern Railroad fives have been shipped to London lately, and a great many Atchison fours also.

Silver is ¼ higher.

Rock Island officials say that April was worse than March.

Bank clearings at Chicago increased last week less than 1 per cent.

A Chicago special says: "The ordinance introduced in council last night providing for the repeal of the Universal Franchise was defeated by a big majority."

A number of unemployed and delinquant residents of Pullman were served with five days' notice to quit the company's property.

Lake Erie and Western directors declared the regular 1 1-4 per cent. dividend on preferred stock.

Detroit, Mich.—The directors of the Third National Bank have been asked for an accounting of its affairs. The Controller of the Currency has been credibly advised of the fact that the bank was ruined by negligent management.

A great deal of missionary work is being done in the coal trade, and this morning efforts are making to induce some of the large companies to agree to take smaller percentages in the interest of harmony, and it is understood that the appeal has been favorably considered in some quarters.

The spurt in the market started in Reading, in which Moore & Son were large buyers, with an accompanying rumor that the company had been granted 2½ per cent. At the same time Wormser & Co. advanced Jersey Central. St. Paul was taken up next, with Dominick & D. and Stow the active buyers.

Chicago—"I am told by good authority that Chicago Gas people contemplate having introduced in the Illinois Legislature a bill permitting corporations to consolidate. While Gas people firmly believe it will pass, there is a growing opposition to it among other interests, who say it will not stand a ghost of a chance passing, as it will nullify anti-trust laws, of which Illinois has now two on its statute books.

The meeting of the coal presidents was a disappointment, inasmuch as the Reading adheres to 21 per cent. and will not budge an inch. If this proposition is conceded, then the question is settled, but the other roads are the losers.

The London market is very strong indeed, with St. Paul 1-2 higher, L. and N. 3-8 higher and the rest of the list also strong, influenced by the rise is wheat, which is carefully watched abroad. Mollenhauer Sugar Refinery closed for repairs, but the shut down will be short. St. Paul earnings, to come out this afternoon, will compare with a small week last year.

BRAZILIAN EXCHANGE.

NEW YORK STOCKS.

New York, April 23.—The stock market opened active and generally higher. C. C. & St. Louis advanced 7-8 per cent.; Chicago Gas, Southern preferred, Cotton Oil, Kansas, and Texas preferred 5-8; do. common, St. Paul, Bay State Gas, and Sugar, 1-2.

The coalers were lower; New Jersey Central re-acted one per cent. and recovered 3-4; Delaware and Hudson lost 1-2 and Leather preferred 5-8, but recovered the loss. New England broke 1-2 and rallied 1-4.

A Young Man's Suicide.

Newmarket, Ont., April 23.—Yesterday afternoon a young man named Harris Scott, about 21 years of age, committed suicide on the farm of his uncle, Charles Wilton, Whichurch, by hanging himself in the barn. Investigation established that the act had been committed in a fit of despondency over some fancied troubles. He had threatened to take his own life on several previous occasions.

COMMERCIAL

Tuesday, April 23.

J. S. Bache's Chicago letter says: Wheat opened about 1 1-4c lower, rallied 3-4c and again broke 1 3-8c, closing finally at 1 1-2c decline compared with last night. The feature of the day was the general selling by speculators, owing to a pause in the demand for cash wheat from millers and for futures by the speculative party. The market is growing broader and more active, and as the bearish news was ignored on the advance of yesterday, so the bullish features of the cash wheat movement were without influence.

Corn was weak and declined 1 1-4c under selling by receiving and commission houses. The market lacked the support of the short interest, which covered yesterday. Oats were easy at 1-4 to 1-2c decline. Provisions slow, and the business done was chiefly in the way of changing May for July contracts.

The car receipts of grain in Chicago today are given as follows: Wheat 40, contract 14; corn 304, contract 107; oats 258, contract 208; hogs 17,000.

Wheat puts this week are quoted at 59 3-4c, and July calls 64 to 64 1-2c.

The estimated receipts of grain in Chicago for to-morrow are: Wheat, 27 cars; corn, 175 cars; oats, 230 cars.

According to Bradstreet's the stock of wheat east of the Rockies decreased 2,451,000 bush, and west, 129,000 bush. The European increase was 192,000 bush.

Monday's Wall Street Journal said: "This was the biggest day's trade in wheat in New York in months. The transactions in New York were 33,000,000 bush. The trading in Chicago, it is thought, may reach 100,000,000 bush."

A Kansas banker says: "Farmers in Eastern Kansas never had a better outlook. The recent advance in cattle and hogs means millions to Kansas. This advance is likely to hold, and even better prices are probable. Kansas farmers are learning that crops are worth more in the form of beef and cattle than in flour. The importance of subsoiling is only just beginning to be appreciated. When it becomes general, the fertility of thousands of acres will be doubled. The demand for farms this spring is better than it has been for several years. Values have increased from $10 to $30 an acre in many localities. All this is going to count. The western part of the state is a doubtful quantity, until irrigation can be had. Then the western counties will be a wonder, but the irrigation problem is too big to be solved for a while."

The London Mark Lane Express for April 15, in its weekly review, says: "Fine and mild weather has prevailed for the last few days, and the progress of the growing wheat and pastures has been satisfactory. The sowings of spring wheat go on with briskness, and it is now nearly certain that a good area of both barley and oats will be planted. The news from abroad is of a great hurry to complete the spring sowings in France and Central Europe.

"The wheat imports since September 1 now amount to 76,152,368 bush, against 64,543,480 bush in the same period last cereal year. Of flour, however, the imports have been somewhat less. It is estimated that the total supply of breadstuffs, including foreign wheat and flour and English wheat, has been as follows:

	Bushels.
Sept. 1, 1894—April 6, 1895	132,586,280
Sept. 1, 1893—April 6, 1894	122,851,928
Sept. 1, 1892—April 6, 1893	134,341,776
Sept. 1, 1891—April 6, 1892	147,830,156

"The reserves of English wheat in farmers' hands are thus estimated:

	Bushels.
April 11, 1895	13,704,000
April 11, 1894	20,656,000
April 11, 1893	22,632,000
April 11, 1892	26,120,000

Grain—There appears to be less business doing in the local grain market, the demand for oats having fallen off considerably. Still, despite this, they remain fairly steady, as western markets show a reasonably firm undertone under a moderate volume of business.

Barley is not receiving much attention from either New York or home maltsters, and it is temporarily at a standstill.

Peas remain about the same. There is not much demand, but they are firm. Canadian peas in Liverpool are quoted at 5s 1-2d.

PRODUCE AND PROVISIONS.

Cheese—The cable took another off turn to-day, and now stands at 48 and 49s for white and colored cheese respectively.

A little business in new cheese is reported, a local firm having taken a fairly large lot in the country at 8 1-2c. Old cheese is quiet and nominally unchanged. It is said that small quantities continue to go forward on consignment.

The cheese situation in Liverpool is reported as follows by Hodgson Bros.' circular: "The market has been steady this week and without any alteration in values; the country demand has been moderate. We quote to-day: Finest September-October make, colored, 50s to 51s per cwt, and white, 49s to 50s; choice full cream summers, 44s to 47s, and low to medium grades, 20s to 40s, according to quality."

The N.Y. Commercial Bulletin says: "The demand for new full cream was small, and the market generally lacks strength under advices of freer supplies for the week. Prices are just a shade easier; all grades of part skims are dull and favoring buyers. Old cheese is in light demand, and with more pressure to sell outside quotations are very extreme, and reached only in a small jobbing way."

Butter—The feature of the market is the sale of 100 tubs of Western dairy butter for Quebec account at 7c. This is the only sale of importance to note. Creamery remains in about the same position, with values practically unchanged. Good late made creamery in single packages is held at about 21c, and 20c is about the idea for round lots.

Creamery, fancy	20c to 21c
Eastern Townships	16c to 18c

Eggs—Arrivals of eggs still continue heavy, and prices in consequence of that and a rather slow consumptive demand show a downward tendency. Fresh stock sold to-day at 11c to 11 1-2c.

Pork-Lard — The market continues quite firm, with business on the basis of $17 to $17.50 in mess, with $16 to $16.50 the range in clear cut.

Lard is firmer, and quoted at $1.40 to $1.50 in pails. Smoked meats are in better demand.

PRIVATE WHEAT STOCKS.

In our statement of yesterday giving the stocks of wheat in Canada, the only private elevator stocks included were those in Manitoba.

In Ontario the stock of wheat held by millers is generally supposed to be considerable, while the private stock in Montreal is understood to be pretty well diminished. From pretty reliable sources it is found that the combined stock of wheat in elevators in Midland, Sarnia, Owen Sound, Ottawa, afloat Kingston and Goderich, aggregates 275,000 bush, and added to this the private stock in Montreal—100,000 bush, a very liberal estimate—brings the total to 370,000 bush. This wheat, in turn, added to the estimates of yesterday, makes the total visible supply of wheat in Canada 3,719,707 bush.

SEEDING ALMOST COMPLETED.

ADVICES TO MONTREAL FIRMS NOTE THAT SEEDING IN MANITOBA IS NEARLY FINISHED.

Montreal grain houses have received very encouraging advices from Manitoba lately, and from all accounts wheat seeding is well accomplished. A telegram received by a miller to-day reported favorable weather, and in several districts the wheat is commencing to show itself. The telegram concludes: "Everything, in fact, points to an early harvest."

Information collected by Northern Pacific agents indicates that the recent rains have been pretty general throughout the province. The moisture has proved a great boon in many districts, where the ground has suffered from the drought.

No special pains have been yet taken to ascertain the acreage of wheat sown, but several reports from railroad agents note a considerable increase over last year. A report from the district of St. Jean reports an increase in the acreage of from 25 to 30 per cent.

HEARD ON 'CHANGE.

There was a lot of excitement among the flour men to-day. Ontario flour continues to advance at a very remarkable rate, and a dealer stated that several leading millers are now asking $3.75 for straight rollers on track, Montreal. No business has been put through on this basis, but a miller refused an offer for 1,000 bbls at his mill yesterday for winter patents at equal to an advance of 25c.

There is much speculation as to whether Manitoba millers will follow the advance in the Ontario product. Certain it is they have not done so up to the present, and their flours are meeting with a big sale, on account of their comparative cheapness.

Mr. Crane, of Crane & Baird, returned from Toronto to-day, where he has been staying all winter. Mr. Crane says the small millers throughout Ontario are pretty well out of wheat, but the impression prevails that a few of the larger millers hold considerable.

The inspections of grain in Montreal the past week included 1,800 centals No. 1 hard Manitoba wheat and 1,800 centals No. 2 red winter wheat, 600 centals No. 2 buckwheat and the same quantity of No. 3, 340 centals No. 1 oats, 6,120 centals No. 2 and 68 centals No. 3, and 600 centals No. 2 peas.

A flour dealer stated to-day that the advance in Ontario flour scarcely offered an increased opportunity for the importation of American flour, for the reason that that article has already advanced. "I hear, however," he said, "that one or two cars have been placed in the lower provinces lately at a small profit."

The new "ticker" will probably be working to-morrow. It will be appreciated.

A very fine picture of last year's Council was hung on the blackboard to-day. Wm. Notman was the photographer.

WHEAT LOCALLY.

Manitoba and Ontario wheats held higher. A round lot of red winter changed hands to-day on private terms, but said to be at a high figure. The general opinion is that holders have very little to sell.

BONSECOURS MARKET.

The weather was rather against business to-day, but on the whole an average Tuesday business was put through. Green stuffs are becoming more plentiful, but they are pretty dear and the demand is not at all brisk. Eggs continue very low and are a cent or so cheaper than on Friday last. Sales of fresh were made today at 12c to 15c. Butter remains about the same.

Oats, 90c to 95c per bag; peas, 85c per bush.; beans, $1.25 to $1.75; buckwheat, 50c to 60c do.

Roots and Vegetables—Potatoes, 70c to 80c; turnips, 30c to 40c; onions, 50c to 60c per bag; carrots, 40c to 50c; beets, 25c; parsnips, 35c per bushel; cabbages, $1.50 to $2 per brl.; celery, 50c to 75c per doz.

Fruit—Apples, $4 to $6 per brl.; lemons, $2 to $2.50 per box; oranges, $4 to $4.50 per case; Almeria grapes, $6.50 per brl. of 50 lbs.

Dairy Produce—Tub butter from 18c to 22c per lb.; prints, 25c to 35c; fresh eggs, 15c to 20c; packed eggs, 12c to 14c per doz.

Poultry—Fowl, 7c to 8c per lb.; turkeys, 13c to 15c do.; geese, 7c to 8c do.; ducks, 10c to 12c do.; chickens, 10c to 12c do.

A SHOOTING AFFRAY.

Joseph Andrews in a Dangerous Condition—Jules Sauve Under Arrest.

Sudbury, Ont., April 23.—Joseph Andrews was shot by Jules Sauve at Cartier, 35 miles west of here, on the C.P.R., on Saturday afternoon, the 20th inst. The details appear to be as follows: Sauve and Andrews had been out on a hunting and trapping expedition and were returning from the season's operations on the bay above named. When within about four miles of Cartier Sauve pulled his gun to his shoulder and taking aim fired, the ball penetrating Andrews' forehead and coming out through the back part of the skull. After the deed was done Sauve left the poor fellow to his fate, and he was found the next day by James McIntosh, who happened to be passing out to the camp. He had lain out fully twenty-four hours in this condition, unable to make himself heard.

Police Magistrate Quibell and Constable Gagne, of Sudbury, arrived on the scene as quickly as possible. In the meantime Sauve had been apprehended and placed in custody. Andrews made his ante-mortem statement to the magistrate this morning, the prisoner being present and being identified by the victim as the man who had fired the fatal shot. Crown Attorney Kehoe, of Sault Ste. Marie, has been wired for, and on his arrival the preliminary enquete will commence. Andrews is resting easy, but it is thought that he cannot survive.

STRIKE IN NEW YORK.

2,000 Tailors Go Out Because Contractors Will Not Extend an Agreement.

New York, April 23.—The threatened strike of the tailors in this city was formally declared to-day, when the 2,000 members of Tailors' Progressive Union No. 11 and the Coat Pressers' Union No. 1, of District Assembly No. 49, Knights of Labor, left their benches. They took this action after the contractors had refused to grant their demands for an extension of the agreement entered into last September between the contractors and their employes, by which the tailors were enabled to earn $11 per week, instead of $9, as formerly. This agreement was to last until May 1, but the men resolved to take action at this time, instead of waiting until the expiration of the agreement. The action taken by the tailors will throw about 2,000 more out of work in addition to those actively engaged in the strike.

Master Workman Leopold Schwartz is in charge of the strike. When seen by an Associated Press reporter he appeared to be very confident of the ultimate outcome of the trouble, and stated that if it was found necessary, a strike of the entire clothing trade would be declared. Should this plan be carried out, it would mean the enforced idleness of 8,000 people dependent upon the clothing trade for a living.

St. John, N.B., April 23.—Robert McCallum, an aged native of Dundee, Scotland, lives at Margaretville, N.S., where he says Charles Moody has built him a boat in which he proposes to cross the Atlantic. The dimensions of the craft are 19 feet keel, 22 feet over all, 5 feet beam, 5 feet deep aft and 4 feet deep forward. It has one mast and five sails. He will bring his boat here and expects to get away from New York early in May. Richard K. Fox is footing the expenses from here. The boat will be shipped to New York on a schooner.

London, April 23.—The Chronicle says this morning of the report that Nicaragua is willing to cede Corn Island to Great Britain: "The offer of Corn Island instead of the payment of a money indemnity looks like a 'plant' on the part of our Nicaragua friends, for they know that its acceptance would call out against us all the champions of Monroeism. We do not want any trouble with the United States over this peculiar doctrine and therefore it would be better if we stuck to our money demands. If Nicaragua wishes to sell Corn Island she had better offer it to the Americans or some other people."

A FATHER'S STORY.

TELLS HOW TWO DAUGHTERS REGAINED HEALTH AND STRENGTH.

One was Declared by Physicians to be in Consumption, and Her Early Death Feared—The Other Also Showed Symptons of Going Into a Decline—Both Again Enjoy Perfect Health.

(From the Prescott Journal.)

On a beautiful farm in the township of Oxford, seven miles from Kemptville, reside Mr. George Pettipiece and family. A correspondent of the Journal met Mr. Pettipiece in a drug store enquiring for Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. He made the remark to the proprietor that he had such faith in them that he never allowed his house to be without them. This led your correspondent to ask why he praised them so highly, when Mr. Pettipiece told the following wonderful story: He said that his daughter, Miss Margaret, aged 20, owes her life to Pink Pills. About two years ago she was taken ill with a severe cold, which terminated in a dry hacking cough, and from that time she began to decline. She gradually grew weaker and weaker until she had to take to her bed. She was under medical care, but did not in the least improve, and we made up our minds that consumption had fastened upon her, and that her life was but a question of a few months at the most. We read much in the papers concerning Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and thought that perhaps they might benefit her, as all else seemed to fail. After taking the pills for awhile a change for the better was noticeable, much to our joy and satisfaction. Thus encouraged she continued to take Pink Pills for several months. By the end of this time she was fully restored and there is not now a healthier girl in the township. About the time she began taking the Pink Pills her eldest sister also began to grow pale and sickly, and showing the same signs of decline. She also used the Pink Pills with the same beneficial results. "I believe," said Mr. Pettipiece, "that but for Dr. Williams' Pink Pills one or both would be in the grave and you can therefore understand why I am so enthusiastic about this medicine and why I always keep Pink Pills in the house. You can print this if you wish, and you can say too that it but faintly conveys the feeling of gratitude I have for what this medicine has done for me and mine."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills contain all the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood and restore shattered nerves. They are for sale by all druggists, or may be had by mail from Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Brockville, Ont., for 50 cents per box, or six boxes for $2.50.

Mr. Schlegel is a brother of the junior partner of the firm of Behlen and Schlegel, dealers in paints and oils, of No. 5 North William Street, New York, and was on a pleasure trip to New York when the accident occurred. BOARD OF TRADE COUNCIL.

The Premier Says the Collectorship Will Receive His Best Attention.

The Council of the Board of Trade yesterday adopted the following resolution: That the council greatly regrets the death of Mr. George Childs, whose high character and useful life caused him to be held in special regard by the general membership of the board; that, although prevented by illness from ever taking the seat on the Council Board to which he was elected on January last, Mr. Childs' able services in that capacity during 1891 and 1892, and as a member of the Port Wardens Board of Examiners from 1887, inclusive, were such as to render it very evident that in his death the board has sustained a severe loss; that, in token of esteem and regard for its deceased colleague, the council refrained from holding its usual weekly meeting on the 16th inst. and attended the funeral that afternoon; that the council assures the sons and other members of Mr. Childs' family of its sincerest sympathy with them in their sorrow.

William Nivin, who had already been granted leave of absence, was granted an extension.

The Premier had written that the resolution adopted by the council in relation to the collectorship of customs of Montreal would have the best attention of the Government.

In acknowledging the resolution which had been adopted advocating reciprocal free trade between Canada and other self-governing colonies of the Empire, the Premier had said it was a matter to which the Government was giving its earnest consideration, and that he was grateful for the council's expression of opinion in relation thereto.

Hon. L. O. Taillon had written the council that he expected shortly to be able to receive a deputation from the Board of Trade regarding the enquiry into the civic administration of Montreal. The resolution from the Real Estate Owners was submitted, with reference to the present use of the Smallpox Hospital, stating that practically Montreal had no longer a smallpox hospital. The council expressed the hope that in the course of a short time they would make an effort in Montreal to meet any possibility of an outbreak of smallpox.

Mr. Charles F. Smith reported that the wholesale shoe merchants of this city had decided to form themselves into a branch association of the board, and that a constitution and by-laws would be shortly submitted for approval.

The council expressed pleasure at the new step, and thanked Mr. Smith for his interest.

The Port Wardens Board of Examiners was re-elected, and the late George Childs was replaced by R. M. Esdaile. The new board will comprise: R. Bickerdike, William Cunningham, R. M. Esdaile, R. Reford, John Torrance. The Board of Examiners for Weigher, Measurer and Gauger was re-appointed as follows: A. A. Ayer, Thomas J. Drummond, Charles P. Hebert, John E. Kirkpatrick, D. L. Lockerby. The council then proceeded to fill the vacancy rendered by the death of George Childs. By unanimous vote Leonard I. Boivin was elected thereto. Mr. Boivin is, as was Mr. Childs, a member of the Wholesale Grocers' Association.

BRITISH MEMBER DEAD.

London, April 23.—Mr. Henry B. Farquharson, M. P. for West Dorset, is dead. Mr. Farquharson was a Conservative in politics and was the representative of West Dorset from 1885 to 1892, when he was again returned.

To Make Pure Blood.

There is no medicine before the people equal to Hood's Sarsaparilla. It is the standard spring medicine and blood purifier and it possesses peculiar merit which others try in vain to reach. It really makes the weak strong. Do not neglect to purify your blood this spring. Take Hood's Sarsaparilla now.

Hood's Pills become the favorite cathartic with every one who tries them. 25c. per box.
