

THE WEATHER

Sunny with cloudy periods today. Saturday sunny at first clouding over afterwards. High today near 12. Low tonight zero to plus 3. High Saturday near 15. The skies are mainly clear except in northwestern Quebec where they are cloudy. The clouds will move towards the low St. Lawrence through Lake St. John today and it will be fair and rather cool elsewhere. Saturday clouds preceding a disturbance now over Minnesota will invade the better part of the province while the low will have reached northeastern Ontario.

Chretien lashes out at Tories

OTTAWA (CP) — Finance Minister Jean Chretien hit Progressive Conservative leader Joe Clark on two fronts Thursday—blaming him for contributing to the weakening dollar and for trying to lure voters with a Santa Claus plan for tax breaks on mortgage payments.

CLARK ANGERED BY GRIT ALLEGATIONS

MONTREAL (CP) — Progressive Conservative Leader Joe Clark said Thursday it's "incredible" that the Liberal government is trying to shift blame for the fall of the Canadian dollar to the Tories.

He was replying to a statement by Finance Minister Jean Chretien earlier Thursday that the Conservative estimate of a $18-billion federal deficit this year was irresponsible and "extremely disruptive" in Washington, where people were taking the projection seriously.

Chretien, who had returned from a meeting of the International Monetary Fund in Washington, said he estimates the deficit at about $11.8 billion.

Clark told a news conference: "I think it's incredible for Jean Chretien after 10 years of Liberal government to blame the country's economic difficulties on criticism by the opposition."

"It's not the first time. A few years ago he blamed the weather, then he blamed (Premier Rene) Levesque and now he's blaming me."

Clark challenged Chretien to clear up the confusion by immediately bringing down a budget accompanied by a "full and clear statement" of Canada's financial account.

"FIND ALTERNATIVE"

He also suggested that Prime Minister Trudeau find "someone better, even in the decimated ranks of the Liberal party," to take over as finance minister.

Clark also promised a full defence today against Chretien's criticisms of Conservative proposals to allow Canadians to deduct mortgage interest payments and municipal property taxes from their federal income taxes.

He termed Chretien's attack a "desperate gesture" by a government that was fast losing political support across the country.

Noting that a similar program had worked well in the United States without increasing the price of houses, Clark added: "His ignorance of what happened in the U.S. is abysmal for a Canadian finance minister. If he's not careful, he'll be adopting tomorrow what he's denouncing today."

slide by shocking international financiers with talk of a huge $18-billion deficit for Canada. The dollar closed at about 85 cents on international money markets Thursday.

The minister, back only hours from a meeting of the International Monetary Fund in Washington, said he had been approached by foreign bankers and officials who wanted to know why there were rumors Canada's deficit would be $6 billion in excess of the government's estimates. Chretien has said the government's cash requirements will not exceed $11.8 billion.

"It is extremely irresponsible to throw figures based on rumor like that, around," Chretien said.

"These things are taken seriously when the leader of the Opposition speaks. It is kind of destructive to Canada's image."

A spokesman for Clark, who was in Montreal on Thursday, said the Conservatives base their $18-billion deficit estimate on public records for the first five months of the year.

"Mr. Clark has said the deficit, based on that trend, could run as high as $18 billion and that is perfectly accurate from the figures," the spokesman said. "It is up to him (Chretien) to prove we're wrong by coming up with accurate figures."

On the mortgages issue, Chretien said the Conservative plan to allow taxpayers to deduct up to $5,000 a year from income tax payments for mortgage interest costs and up to $1,000 a year for municipal property taxes would reward the rich and punish the poor.

He also accused the Conservatives of misrepresenting the real cost of the program.

But in spite of his denunciation, he said the department of finance has been looking into the possibility of making mortgage interest payments tax deductible, as they are in the election, thus contravening Section 204A and Section 121 of the Education Act, which stipulates that the director general must perform this duty.

Testimony given by Secretary-General Dickinson also revealed that no public notice was provided when revisions were made to the electoral list, as required in Section 110 of the Education Act.

"The non-observance of these formalities alone is sufficient to overturn the election," lawyer James Thompson, representing John Chapman, told Judge Legare.

Defense lawyer Peter Turner argued that the means used to prepare electoral rolls in the District of Bedford is an informal custom which "has existed for years, if not generations."

He said existing legislation laid a burden on school commissions which is overly expensive since the board doesn't have sufficient resources to conduct a door-to-door census, as should effectively be done.

"Since regionalization of schools in the area, obtaining census information has become very difficult," he added. "That's the cost of democracy," sympathized Judge Legare.

"It may be the cost of democracy," agreed Turner, "but the cost of that democracy is much higher in this area."

Pope's death stuns church

VATICAN CITY (CP) — In one of the shortest reigns in history, Pope John Paul, who had raised new hope among the world's 700 million Roman Catholics, died suddenly in his sleep Thursday night.

The 65-year-old pontiff, who suffered an acute heart attack, had reigned for only 34 days since he succeeded Pope Paul VI.

The death was discovered when his private secretary came to wake him about 5.30 a.m. today (11.30 p.m. EDT Thursday).

Roman Catholics around the world were stunned. Church leaders said they had expected great achievements from the Pope who had shown ability to reach the people with his warmth, humor and humility in his short reign.

The pontiff had been in poor health all his life. He told a general audience only two days ago that he had previously been in hospital eight times and had had four operations.

REIGN BRIEF

He was elected Pope Aug. 26 in one of the shortest conclaves ever and his reign was one of the briefest in the 2,000-year history of the Roman Catholic Church.

The official Vatican announcement said the Pope, born Albino Luciani, died about 11 p.m. (5 p.m. EDT) Thursday.

"Since he (the private secretary) had failed to see him in the chapel as usual, he looked for him in the room and he found him dead in the bed with the light on as with a person who had been reading," the announcement said.

A doctor was immediately summoned and he attributed death to "acute myocardial infarction."

Msgr. Canisio Van Lierde, the Pope's vicar for Vatican City, blessed the body.

Crowds of faithful mourning a dead pope for the second time in less than two months soon were gathering in St. Peter's Square. The great bronze door of St. Peter's Basilica was half closed in a sign of mourning and the Vatican's yellow-and-white flags were flown halfstaff on all buildings of the tiny enclave state. Messages of condolence began flowing in almost immediately from around the world.

The body of the church's 263rd pontiff is to lie in state beginning today in a hall of the Apostolic Palace.

CARDINALS TO RETURN

As it did after the death of 80-year-old Pope Paul VI on Aug. 6, also of a heart attack, the church machinery of papal succession immediately went into motion.

Though he reigned barely a month, John Paul, the former Albino Cardinal Luciani of Venice, had made a worldwide impression with his warmth and kindness.

Levesque: 'The sky is not falling...'

CHICAGO (CP) —

Canada's reliance on foreign capital makes it "the beggar of the Western world and this is not healthy in many ways," Quebec Premier Rene Levesque says.

"Capital has to come from outside, the feeling goes," Levesque told a business seminar organized Thursday by the Chicago Council on Foreign Relations.

"This sort of impotence, which is almost an automatic reflex in Canada, has to be corrected, at least at the Quebec level."

He said Quebec would have to generate more investment internally but promised that healthy profits await foreign investors who show confidence in Quebec.

Levesque sought to assure his business audience of about 200 that "Quebec is not going down the drain and the sky is not falling on Montreal."

The premier is on a six-day visit to Chicago, San Francisco and Los Angeles trying to win the understanding of business leaders and foreign policy analysts to his concept of sovereignty-association.

He blamed many of Quebec's economic problems on "the rather decadent administration in Ottawa" and on the previous provincial government and asserted: "The social and labor relations climate is incredibly better than when we came in."

PLANS NO TAKEOVER

And he said that apart from parts of the automobile insurance and asbestos industries, his government has no plans for any takeovers.

Quebec has tightened its spending, slowed the increase in its borrowing and acted to revamp sagging industrial sectors, he stated.

"The government and industry are partners," he said in explaining its government's proposed support for modernization of the pulp and paper industry.

CALFAA signs contract

Air Canada averts strike

MONTREAL (CP) — Air Canada and the union representing its 2,700 flight attendants reached an agreement on a new contract early today, ending the threat of a second strike against the national carrier in as many months.

Air Canada spokesman Don Carlisle said the agreement with the Canadian Air Line Flight Attendants Association (CALFAA) was signed about 1 a.m. EDT.

"On the strength of the agreement, CALFAA has withdrawn its strike plans previously scheduled for Oct. 5," he said.

"The agreement is now being recommended to the membership for ratification by the CALFAA negotiating committee."

The flight attendants will probably be meeting in a few days to accept or reject the settlement, the terms of which were not immediately known.

However in his report to the federal labor department, conciliator Pierre Dufresne had recommended a 16-per-cent wage increase in a two-year contract for the flight attendants, retroactive to the expiry of the old contract last June 30.

Although the union had been holding out for 10 per cent in a one-year contract, chief union negotiator Lore Tammé indicated Monday that this would not necessarily be the attendants' bottom-line position.

Union spokesmen were not immediately available for comment.

Air Canada had prepared for the threatened work stoppage by beginning a training program to turn 600 office and clerical staff into temporary stewards and stewardesses for long flights.

The airline, which shut down for 10 days last month when its 7,500 ground-service workers walked out hours after negotiators had narrowly averted a strike by 1,500 pilots, planned to cancel short hauls.

Air Canada still has to settle with 2,300 passenger agents, members of the Canadian Air Line Employees Association. And next month, the pilots will submit their 1979 contract demands.

DBRSB elections pending

By TERRY SCOTT

SWEETSBURG WARD — It appears evident that provincial court judge, Bernard Legare, will order new District of Bedford schoolboard elections in at least two wards after hearing deliberations from both sides here yesterday.

Though he reserved judgment on the matter, Judge Legare advised the three lawyers involved in the two election contestations to consider possible dates for a new election in wards 4 (Cowansville and 9 (Knowlton).

Such a decision would send defeated candidate John Chapman back to the polls against Doug Smith in Ward 4 and Homer Blackwood against victorious Diana Timmins in Ward 9. Both defeated candidates had contested the results of the June 12 ballot on the illegality of the electoral roll.

Testimony produced yesterday revealed that the electoral lists had not been signed prior to April 1, 1978, as required by Section 107 of the Education Act.

In addition, it was not signed under the oath of office of the director-general, Doug Bradford, of DBRSB, as required by the same section of the act.

It was later signed by the secretary-general, Al Dickinson, who served as the returning officer for the

Trudeau on whirlwind tour

TORONTO (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau defended his government, praised Canada and criticized the opposition Tories Thursday as he made a fast tour of three Ontario ridings facing federal byelections Oct. 16.

He also was told by an irate woman that he would "never, never, never" win another election, and heard from two men at a public meeting that they have lost confidence in his leadership. He walked away from the irate woman, and got long and loud applause from a crowd estimated by the Liberal party at 3,000 when he said the two men could express their views since Liberals believe in free speech.

He told audiences in two of the ridings—one audience made up of 1,700 high school students—that the recent performance of the Canadian economy leaves no room for complacency.

But, he said, the economy during the last 10 years has one of the best records over all of any country.

He criticized Progressive Conservative Leader Joe Clark for proposing a writeoff of mortgage and municipal tax payments against personal income taxes as a gimmick intended to help the rich at the expense of those less well off.

Trudeau flew to Hamilton from Ottawa to address students at the suburban Ancaster high school in support of Jim Bennett, Liberal candidate in the riding of Hamilton-Wentworth.

Later, he mainstreets with Art Eggleton in Toronto Parkdale and finished the day in York-Scarborough riding in Toronto's northeast where former Scarborough mayor Paul Cosgrove is running for the Liberals in the byelection.

He also recorded a series of brief question-and-answer sessions with a Toronto radio station to be broadcast later. The sessions covered unemployment, the Canadian dollar, the right of civil servants to strike and national unity.

Trudeau told both the high school students and the evening meeting that, despite high unemployment levels, Canada has been creating jobs at a record rate—an increase of 3.7 per cent a year for the last 10 years.

Constitutional group faces stalemate

OTTAWA (CP) — A committee of senators and MPs meet behind closed doors next week with the frustrating task of trying to write a report on the constitution many feel the government will immediately shelve.

When a month of public hearings ended Thursday, Ray Hnatyshyn (PC—Saskatoon-Biggar) suggested to his committee colleagues they might save themselves a lot of trouble by practicing euthanasia on the unwritten report before the government can get to it.

Perrin Beatty (PC—Wellington-Grey-Dufferin-Waterloo) offered a compromise—write a short report.

Committee members believe the report to be written on Prime Minister Trudeau's constitutional proposals is doomed because most MPs and senators oppose many of the key provisions.

A coalition of Progressive Conservative MPs and senators of all political stripes are unhappy with the new upper chamber proposed by the government after it abolishes the Senate. They also have condemned the government for trying to reduce the Queen's role—something the government vehemently denies.

LIBERALS DEFEND
Liberal MPs have offered the stoutest defence of Trudeau's proposals. The New Democratic Party and Social Credit party sent only token representations to the committee.

Senator Maurice Lamontagne, co-chairman of the committee, expressed pessimism last week about the committee's work.

"I would be surprised if we do much real progress before Oct. 10," the Quebec Liberal senator said, referring to the committee's target date for presenting a report to Parliament.

On that date, the committee dies but may be reconstituted during the fall session of Parliament.

Olympic probe continues

MONTREAL (CP) — Fernand Lalonde, who headed a watchdog committee overseeing Olympic spending, says the committee realized in 1973 that Mayor Jean Drapeau did not have a detailed budget for the 1976 Montreal Games.

Lalonde, who later was solicitor-general in the former Liberal government of Robert Bourassa, told a provincial inquiry into Olympic costs Thursday that his committee had evidence that only French architect Roger Taillibert knew the cost of the proposed facilities.

Israel works out details

TEL AVIV (AP) — The Israeli government, armed with overwhelming parliamentary backing for the Camp David accords, began detailed work Thursday on the next steps toward peace with Egypt.

In Cairo, senior Egyptian foreign ministry officials said preliminary meetings might begin as early as next Wednesday in the Suez canal city of Ismailia.

U.S. Mideast envoy Alfred Atherton, meanwhile, arrived from Jordan to brief Israeli officials on his swing through Arab capitals.

Carter receives Mideast assurances

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter, holding his first nationally-televised news conference since the conclusion of the Camp David, Md., summit meeting, said Thursday he has been assured there are no remaining obstacles to a peace treaty between Israel and Egypt.

Carter announced that Egyptian President Anwar Sadat and Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin, brought together on for the marathon 13-day summit talks, advised him they will begin treaty talks in about two weeks, adding that the United States will be a full partner.

Carter also called for an allparties conference on the situation in Lebanon, which has been racked by months of civil war.

Quebec bill arouses interest

QUEBEC (CP) — A private member's bill establishing Quebec's right to self-determination—almost glossed over when it was tabled in the Quebec national assembly last June 22—today is the subject of growing interest.

Conscious of the fact that private bills are usually condemned to a slow death on the order paper, Fabien Roy, the independent member of the assembly who sponsored the bill, launched a petition this week to obtain popular support for his proposal.

United States. The government, however, had rejected the idea as too costly and of little benefit to the poor.

He acknowledged there were advantages to Clark's plan—it would stimulate the construction industry, create jobs and increase the country's housing stock.

"But the benefits would be insufficient to justify the program. It would cost the economy too much."

LISTS COSTS
Chretien pointed out the following costs:

—The plan would encourage so many new buyers into the housing market that prices for existing homes would shoot up and this would drive up the cost of new homes in the future.

—It could generate a new round of provincial-federal friction as the two levels of government tried to work out which would shoulder the financial burden of the tax breaks.

—Homeowners who have already paid off their mortgages—which Chretien said includes about 40 per cent—would rush out to mortgage their property in order to qualify for the tax breaks.

—Clark has not made public the cost of the plan to the provinces.

—The disruption which the plan would generate in the housing market create confusion and uncertainty throughout the economy.

—It would discriminate against the 37 per cent of the population which rents. It offers tenants nothing, Chretien said.

He summed up the Conservative proposal as "an expensive, regressive and inefficient way of giving tax relief to middle-income families."

At the same time, however, he said the government is not rejecting out of hand the idea of tax breaks of some kind for homeowners.

A Conservative spokesman said Chretien's criticism of the mortgage proposal was "a desperate attempt to discredit Clark with a bunch of figures pulled out of the air."

RECEIVED SUPPORT

He said the party had received widespread support for the mortgage plan from the construction unions, builders and developers, from homeowners and those who hoped to buy homes.

Clark has said the plan would make large dent in federal revenues in its early years, but says the cost could be offset by spending restraints and selling the commercial assets of Petrocan, the Crown corporation in charge of energy development.

Chretien estimated the total cost of the program to be more than $3 billion.

He said the Conservatives are using the same money to finance their mortgage program as they were already planning use to finance their promised $2-billion tax cut.

"I'd like to use that system—spending the same money twice," he said.

"People know our economy is in difficult and they know Santa Claus programs will not cure it."

PQ softens approach

TORONTO (CP) — The Parti Quebecois is softening its approach to independence for Quebec, says the PQ member of the National Assembly who defeated former Liberal premier Robert Bourassa in the province's last election.

In an interview at the Quebec government offices here, Gerald Godin said, "maybe we are putting some water in our wine."

Insurance rates stable

QUEBEC (CP) — Calling Quebec's auto insurance program "a remarkable success," Auto Insurance Board President Robert De Coster announced today that most of the board's insurance rates will stay the same next year.

For the province's two million private car owners, this means cost of the government insurance scheme will remain at $85 a year—collected when drivers buy their new licence plates.

Marijuana convictions understated

TORONTO (CP) — Unpublished figures prepared by the federal ministry of health and welfare show that statistics on convictions for marijuana-related offences consistently have been understated since 1968 by the ministry's Bureau of Dangerous Drugs.

T. R. McKim, bureau director, said in an interview Thursday that figures compiled by his department for use by ministry field officials and social action groups on marijuana-related convictions are collected to discern trends only.

"There has never been an attempt to update these figures from previous years," he said.

Robbery suspect shot

MONTREAL (CP) — A city policeman shot and killed a man who pointed a gun in his direction following an attempted robbery at an east-end grocery store Thursday night.

The victim, whose name was not immediately released, was shot in the chest in the dimly-lit basement of an apartment block on Berri Street minutes after a man armed with a .22-calibre handgun attempted to rob a nearby grocery.

Police said the robber was holding a cashier at gunpoint when the shop's butcher chased him out of the store with a meat cleaver.

Hydro to receive rate increase

QUEBEC (CP) — Energy Minister Guy Joron indicated Thursday that Hydro-Quebec will probably be granted most—if not all—its rate increase request of 41.7 per cent over the next three years.

Joron told a legislative committee studying the public utility's finances it shouldn't be taken for granted the government would allow the entire request for average rate increases of 15.9 per cent, 15.8 and 10 per cent from 1979 to 1981. Home and apartment rates would increase an average 44.7 per cent during the three years.

But Joron added that Hydro, the largest state-owned company in North America, had some big investments to make in the coming years at the James Bay hydroelectric project. Its investments were profitable since they generate economic activity and jobs while furnishing domestic energy, he said.

"We're perhaps talking about a forced investment by the citizens, but we will try to minimize its extent as much as possible," Joron added the Quebec cabinet's decision on the proposed increases will be known in about a month.

But Hydro-Quebec's presentation to the legislative committee raised some problems for opposition members who presented a motion deploring the lack of expertise and information available to the committee.

The motion, presented by Liberal John Caccia, proposed Hydro-Quebec's rate increase requests and its over-all activities be submitted to an independent board composed of experts instead of a legislative made up of parliamentarians.

MNAs bar reporters

QUEBEC (CP) — Reporters were barred Thursday from a meeting of a legislative subcommittee studying expense allowances for the Quebec national assembly's 110 members.

Guards blocked access to the assembly committee room where the six-member sub-committee, chaired by Speaker Clement Richard, was meeting.

About 10 minutes after the start of the meeting, the committee members filed out with broad smiles on the faces, saying they were headed to Richard's private chambers.

"We're just a study group responsible to the main committee," one assembly member said.

Blais challenged

OTTAWA (CP) — Solicitor-General Jean-Jacques Blais found himself in the awkward position Thursday of having to defend his qualifications for the job before a group of his public servants.

"I'm not impressed with your credentials," Desmond Davis, a parole officer from Vancouver told Blais at a question-and-answer session following a speech to a meeting of Public Service Alliance of Canada (PSAC) members employed in the solicitor-general's department.

Davis said the "phenomenal" turnover in the solicitor-general's portfolio means the minister does not have time to develop any expertise in the area.

South Africa names PM

CAPE TOWN (AP) — Pieter Willem Botha, whose tough record as defence minister earned him the nickname Pete the Weapon, became South Africa's new prime minister Thursday and vowed to improve relations between the government and the country's black majority.

The 62-year-old successor to John Vorster emerged the winner of a three-way battle within the ruling, Afrikaner-dominated National Party in a closed-door party caucus. The National Party has controlled the white minority government since 1948.

Nicaraguan rep resigns

UNITED NATIONS (Reuters) — A senior member of the Nicaraguan Mission to the United Nations resigned Thursday in protest at what he called the genocide being practised by the government of the Central American country.

In a letter to General Assembly President Indalecio Lievano of Colombia, Ambassador Enrique Paguaga Fernandez, one of six Nicaraguan envoys at the UN, accused President Anastasio Somoza of major violations of human and civil rights.

A natural response...

Appropriately, Sunanda Markus celebrated her latest milestone the other day by breaking open a bag of roasted almonds.

Not the most exquisite form of revelry, you might say, but nonetheless a natural response considering the circumstances.

The young lady, you see, has just launched Canada's first ever natural food mail order house in Sutton and the first trickle of response landed recently on the counter in her shop.

"I ought to frame it," she smiled, recalling the order received from a woman in Kitchener, Ont.

Goodbodies Natural Foodstuffs, an offshoot of the retail store owned by Sunanda's father, had officially received its baptism into the world of small business.

"The returns aren't quite as good as I had expected but it's early yet," noted the Abercorn resident. After all, it's been a mere two weeks since an ad appeared in a mass circulation weekend magazine and all of us are aware of the postal snarls.

"Basically, I think the people who will respond will be the ones already into health foods," Markus admitted. "We had asked $1 for the catalogue and then we refund it with the first order. But I see the mail order thing as a very good service to the people."

The 24-page catalogue itself, designed by Sunanda's father-in-law, may never be able to compete with the Christmas Wish Book but it comes across as a tidy compendium of natural products. And, as somebody else once said, all you need is to let your fingers do the walking.

"We'd been thinking of mail order for quite a while," revealed Markus, who began working at the retail store six years ago when it was owned by Ken and Connie Norris, of Sutton.

"In Canada you have the problem where people live in remote places where it's not easy to get health food. A lot of requests come from the rural areas because it's a rarity there."

Though there was no scarcity of 'natural' shops while she was growing up in New Jersey, the big switch in diet didn't occur until Markus was awaiting her first child.

"I was actually a vegetarian but I knew I would have to look for other means to get protein after I was pregnant. The people I lived with were into natural food so I decided to try it."

After five years as a discriminating consumer she presents a glowing report.

"I'm a lot older than I was but I feel really good. I find that I have a lot of energy. I might get one cold a year but I'm rarely sick. My five-year-old daughter goes to the dentist and she comes back without any cavities."

"I don't see how anyone can be healthy eating TV dinners every night."

She retrieved a paperback from a corner of the shop entitled "Diet for a Small Planet" and repeated one of the startling statistics contained inside.

"An average steer is able to reduce 16 pounds of grain and soy to one pound of meat. The other 15 pounds become inaccessible to us..."

Realities of this sort, she's convinced are beginning to dawn on an increasing number of Townshippers, just as issues like nuclear power and polluting the environment.

"Part of the earth you live on is your own body," Markus reasoned, "and part of caring for that body is taking care in what you eat."

The Abercorn woman conceded that familiarity has bred respect for natural foods in many parts of the Townships.

"A lot of locals remember the day when they went to the general store where there were beans and black - strap molasses and it's the same sort of setup at the retail store here."

"I wouldn't say we have a million dollar business but after some hard times it's functioning now."

Besides battling the odd mail strike Markus conceded her latest innovation - the mail order house - must cope with the staggering Canadian dollar.

"Every shipment prices seem to go up. It's one thing to change labels on people but quite another to start changing prices on them every time."

Natural or otherwise, that prospect is difficult to digest.

Sutton cleanup

If you're searching for something to do on the weekend you might join "Les Sentiers de L'Estrée, a hiking group who are conducting a massive clean-up atop Mt. Sutton. The project is in conjunction with hiking week from Sept. 23 to Oct. 1.

Marijuana law reform urged

By NELSON WYATT

LENNOXVILLE —

Wolfgang Siebert maintains that people convicted under current marijuana laws are being found guilty under a "political lie."

Siebert, a member of the National Organisation for the Reform of Marijuana

Laws (NORML) Canada,

was at the Bishop's

University campus

yesterday as part of a swing

through certain points in Quebec before opening a

NORML branch in Montreal

The tour, said Siebert, is part of a two-week effort to start the ball rolling on a national plan by the organisation to make the legalisation of pot an issue in next spring's federal election.

"We want to take the legal sting away from the marijuana," said the stocky blond organizer in a mid-morning press conference.

He stressed, however, that neither he nor his organization were advocating indiscriminate sale

"The drug problem won't be solved by arrests," he said, "but by education and understanding."

Aside from that, he also suggested that the decriminalization of cannabis would have economic benefit. Pointing out that at one time everything from blue jeans to Russian currency had been made from the weed, Siebert

asserted that after legalisation, a plan might be

NORML response?

By CLAUDIA LEPMAN

LENNOXVILLE — There were no apparent dissenters or critics among the audience of 60 students, gathered in Centennial Theatre at Bishop's University yesterday, to listen to proposals put forward by the National Organization for the Reform of Marijuana Laws (NORML).

The forum was intended as an educational seminar

rather than a debate and the audience, perhaps intimidated by the size and emptiness of the theatre, raised few questions.

For the most part, NORML was received at Bishop's

by a crowd sympathetic to the idea of reforming marijuana laws.

Transport company "persecuted"

MONTREAL (CP) — An association of school transport companies says its members are being "persecuted" in a province-wide police campaign aimed at checking the safety of school buses.

In a statement Thursday, the Association du Transport

Ecolier du Québec objected to the campaign, saying provincial police carrying out daily bus checks are not qualified mechanics.

The association said bus schedules are being disrupted, while drivers and mechanics are becoming nervous.

A provincial police spokesman said officers are only giving the buses a visual check. If they think the vehicle needs closer inspection the owner is given 48 hours to have the bus examined by department of transport mechanics.

The safety blitz began in the wake of a series of bus accidents in the province, including the disastrous

Eastman crash Aug. 4 in which 40 people died.

CENTRAIDE

The campaign Centraide 1978 was launched yesterday by its honorary president, M. Louis Biledeau (above) at the Pavillon Armand Nadeau, Parc Armand Nadeau, Sherbrooke.

The president set a target of $150,000 as this year's objective for Centraide, the largest annual public subscription campaign in the region.

Some hundred representatives from all areas of business and commerce attended the meeting to give their support to the project which aims to bring together all the dynamic agents in the region including the information media, professional groups and industry to help the underprivileged of the area.

Fête de l'Action de grâce, le 9 octobre 1978

Le ministère de l'Industrie et du Commerce, chargé de l'application de la Loi des heures d'affaires des établissements commerciaux de vente au détail, tient à aviser les propriétaires et les gérants des établissements commerciaux de vente au détail, que le lundi 9 octobre, Fête de l'Action de grâce, est un jour férié visé par la loi des heures d'affaires et que par conséquent, ce jour-là, aucun client ne doit être admis dans leur établissement. Selon les termes de la Loi, toute infraction est passible d'une amende pouvant s'élever jusqu'à $1,000.

Existing councils expressed interest in establishing professional statutes for artists in their own particular disciplines, an aim deemed worthwhile by all in attendance.

Artists who are isolated and not part of a large group do not carry much weight.

CPCE Stanstead turnout: Light but lively

Wednesday night in Stanstead, a handful of people showed up for what was billed as a consultation with the English community of the effectiveness of their media.

Apart from the four-member committee, six people showed up — Stanstead College Headmaster Jeremy Riley, Stanstead Mayor Roland Rodrigue, Stanstead resident (and La Tribune reporter) Maxim Doyon, Townships Sun Editor Charles Bury, Record reporter Doris Belanger and one member of the community at large Eunice Greenlay.

The small turnout notwithstanding, the discussion was a lively one and in nearly three hours, covered just about every aspect of the local community's media consumption habits. These habits ran the spectrum, from Mr.

Riley's admission that he read only the Montreal and Toronto papers and listened only to Montreal radio, to at least one person who said she listened to CKTS all day long and read The Record religiously.

The meeting at Stanstead Town Hall followed a similar gathering in Magog last week, but the four members of the Comité Provisoire des Communications de l'Estrie refused to discuss what occurred there.

The comité has a mandate from the provincial Communications Ministry to discover the media consumption habits of Townshippers, and this involves an eight-community tour — Magog, Stanstead, Coaticook, Megantic, Sherbrooke, East Angus, Asbestos and Windsor — will conclude Nov. 6.

Following these consultations, the comité will be drafting a preliminary report which they say will include recommendations and findings about how well local residents feel they're served by their print and broadcast media.

Commentary

by James Duff

Depending on these findings and recommendations, Communications-Quebec will probably authorize the setting up of a permanent consultative body in the region, which would draw from those in the industry and among the population at large to establish some form of information exchange.

One could see it as an editorial board composed of the people who form the audience or readership of the various media in the region.

There have been other such groups, one around Jonquière, the other in the Quebec City area, and both have established limited feedback.

Both journalists and their market say the big problem with ambiguous media committees is they have no teeth to enforce their decisions. Even the Quebec Press Council, an independently-funded organization with representation from the industry and the community at large, has no way of punishing miscreants.

The Press Council is the one organization in the province currently hearing complaints from advertisers, citizens and all parties in any media dispute. It has no teeth, but as co-founder Claude Beauchamp says, it's enough that one's competitors gleefully publish the details of the Press Council's ruling.

"Community ostracism is a powerful thing," says Beauchamp, now on Le Soleil's management.

But, as was discussed in Stanstead, community ostracism can come when a readership fails to say anything about its newspaper or listeners about their local radio station. A healthy dialogue is usually an informal one. People who call up with news or send in stories and pictures are generally doing it for more than the money.

An editorial board, whatever it may be called, would be a local Quebec Press Council. As the comité is quick to point out, it would not be beholden in any way to Quebec, but would operate under the funding of the Ministère des Communications.

Funding was a key issue. At a preliminary meeting in Stanstead a couple of weeks ago, a possibility was mentioned of having some form of Quebec weeklies co-op, which would hire a journalist to cover the Quebec legislature on a daily basis and who could file stories to members of the co-op dealing with local issues.

As a co-op, it would be ethically acceptable but as a government-funded operation, it would be an exercise in duplicity and crise-de-conscience, most media people agree.

Bus crackdown

This Saturday, just about every school bus owner in the province will have his eyes on Quebec City, where the association representing school bus owners will meet with lawyers to determine what to do about what it describes as an intolerable situation.

Their beefs centre around what they call a vicious, spontaneous crackdown by every law officer who believes he is some part of a crusade to wipe out dangerous buses. They complain their buses are being stopped, either with or without students on board, inspected and even hauled off the road then and there.

"The owners can no longer put up with this state of persecution. Schedules are being disrupted, while drivers and mechanics are becoming more and more nervous," says a communique from the Quebec School Transport Association.

The group goes on to make some good points:

—No school buses were implicated in the two tragedies (Eastman and St. Jerome) which triggered this crackdown, —Most of those policemen stopping the buses are not technically qualified to perform the kind of inspection necessary to ensure the safety of a school bus,

—The members of the association are prepared to obey the law if they can be sure they'll not be harassed continually.

There are two sides to this argument. While we can see the point of the bus owners, we also see there needs to be strict control of bus safety standards. Flashing lights must all work. Tires must be good, as must brakes. Exhaust system, electrical system, emergency exits — these all must work.

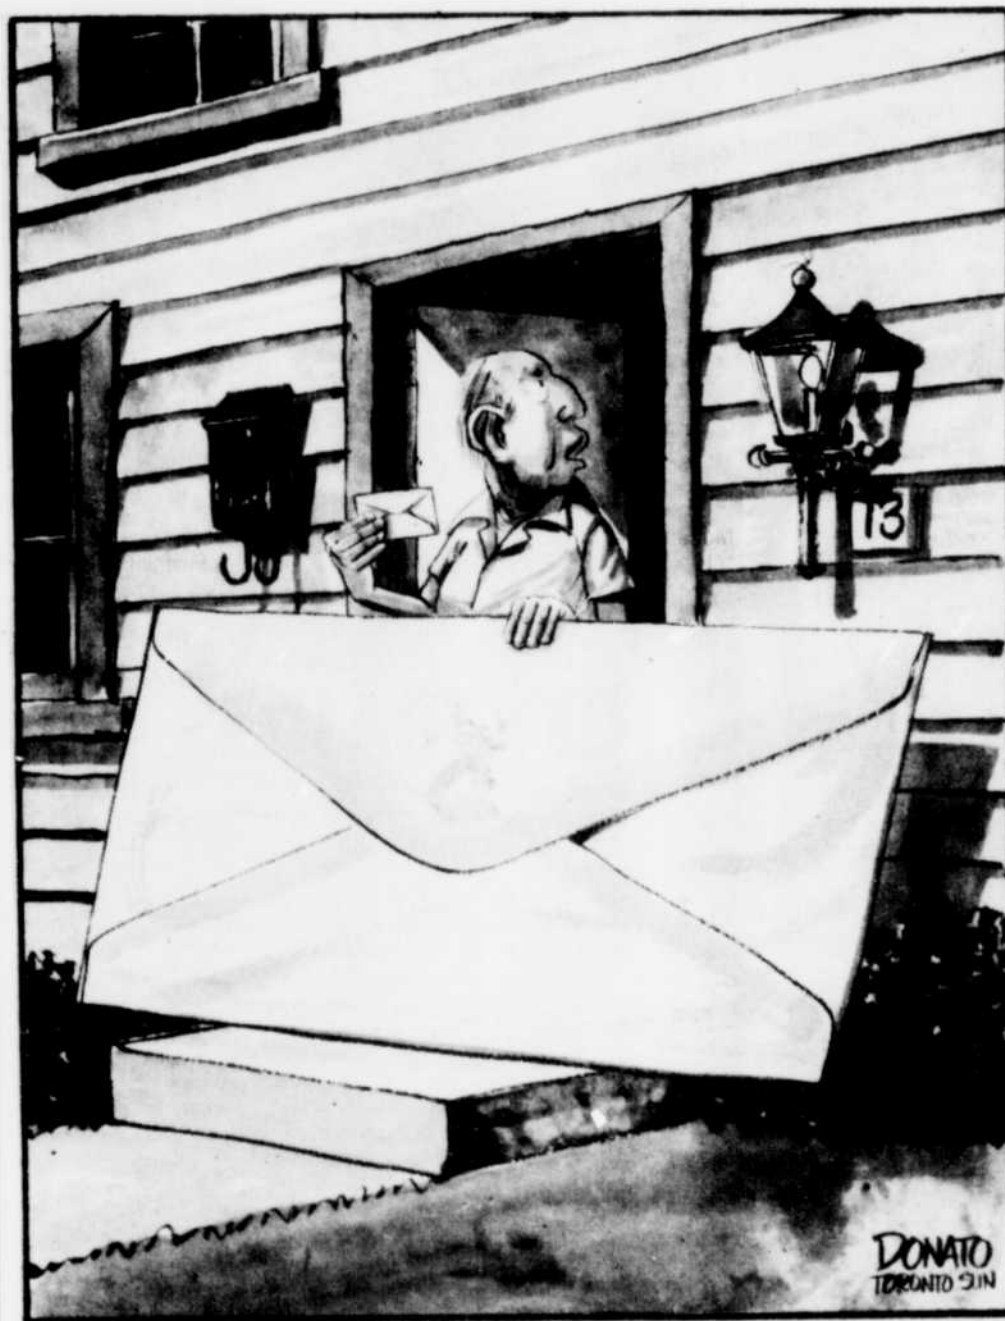

There is no reason for unsafe school buses. But why can't Quebec designate one or two bus inspection centres in every region, and pull every bus off the road at regular intervals to give them a thorough check? That way, the job could be done after the morning's work and before the kids are due to head home again. If there's something wrong, it would give the owner time to repair the fault before he is forced to find a replacement vehicle.

Best, it would mean buses are inspected only by those who know about their vagaries. The only time a peace officer would stop a school bus would be to check its inspection tag.

As the owners say, enforce the law by all means. But it's not a crime to drive a school bus, and it's a shame to persecute a sector of society willy-nilly. We urge the Ministries of Transport and Justice to draft a comprehensive bus-inspection policy as soon as is humanly possible.

Irreparable damage

Editor:

I wonder how many people have really thought about strikes and the irreparable damage they do to the economy, and the fact that they are really not necessary. All other civil disputes are settled in the courts, with generally fair decisions being made.

When the strike evolved 75 or 100 years ago, the general public accepted the workers' right to strike because the laws of the day were heavily biased toward the bosses. The laws have changed considerably since then, but we still cling to the strike as the final means of settling disputes and all of our labour laws are built around it. Strikes have become a tradition and part of our way of life.

Would it not be better all around to settle strikes through special labour courts while the workers continue working? The workers would not have to exist on strike pay and the unions would not have to pay it. They could either lower their dues or spend the money monitoring prices and publicizing any instances of profiteering they may find.

The economy would benefit because business people would be able to plan better and not have to be concerned about costly work stoppages. Increased confidence would result in more investment in the economy and thus create more ongoing jobs.

Canada, because of its small thinly-scattered population, already has difficulty competing with other nations in the production of manufactured goods. Production hours and plant capacity wasted through strikes add a further burden. A further problem is the personal discomfort we must endure when postal services, airline and rail travel or bus services are disrupted. The costs of these delays are added to the prices of the goods or services we must buy, and thus increase our cost of living.

With the utmost sympathy toward labor, would it not be better all round to refer agreements not reached by the expiry date of the previous contract to special courts for binding arbitration? Workers could continue working at the highest rates agreed to by management, and retro-active pay could be given if decided upon. In this way we could eliminate the almost sinful waste of having idle plant, idle workers, and the disruption of essential services, in a country that is already at a competitive disadvantage with other nations. If we could be the first to adopt an enlightened attitude toward labour disputes, perhaps we could compete, and provide our people with needed jobs.

Roberts' letters

Editor:

I am, with the permission of Lady Roberts, collecting the letters of her late husband, Sir Charles G.D. Roberts (1860-1943), for publication.

Roberts was a well-known poet and writer of animal stories, and an avid outdoorsman. He lived at various times in Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Toronto and Vancouver, travelled extensively in Canada between 1880 and 1943 on lecture tours and personal visits, and had contacts with persons from all walks of life.

This is my final attempt to collect additional Roberts letters prior to completing the preparation of the existing collection for publication. I should greatly appreciate hearing from any persons holding letters from Sir Charles. I can be contacted at the:

Vesco influence case: Letters were 'reconstructed'

WASHINGTON — In a strange twist to an unusual case, we have determined that the controversial documents, linking White House intimates Hamilton Jordan and Charles Kirbo to the Robert Vesco influence scandal, were "reconstructed."

Under intensive cross-examination, some of the principals admitted to us that the original documents were lost and were reconstructed from memory. "We were trying to reconstruct what really happened," explained one source.

This casts a cloud, nevertheless, on the authenticity of the allegations that Jordan and Kirbo were involved with the Georgia influence peddlers. The latter collected $10 million worth of Vesco's prime stock to help the international swindler with his Washington problems.

Jordan's boyhood buddy, Spencer Lee IV, now an Albany, Ga., attorney, acknowledged that he had accepted $10,000 to intervene with Jordan in Vesco's behalf. But both Jordan and Lee insisted that the approach was never made.

Lee said he backed out of the venture after a heart-to-heart talk with another White House friend, Richard Harden, on February 8, 1977. As both men recalled the conversation, Lee confessed that he had been offered "a large sum of money" to arrange a meeting with Jordan. But both agreed that Lee should drop the idea, they said.

Seven days later, Harden reported the plot to buy White House influence to President Carter. Strangely, the President did not inform the Justice Department directly of this criminal conspiracy. Nor did he ask Harden to report the plot to law enforcement officials. Instead the President wrote a terse note to Attorney General Griffin Bell, urging: "Please see Spencer Lee from Albany when he requests an appointment."

According to spokesmen, the President has no recollection of the incident. Bell never saw the note and Lee never requested the appointment.

Kirbo also told us he cannot recall any contacts with the influence peddlers, although his office records show that on January 13, 1977, he met with Lee and the instigator of the plot, R.L. Herring. The next day, the pair flew to Costa Rica to discuss the $10 million payoff with Vesco.

We have authenticated most of the details of the bizarre influence scandal. But we are convinced that the crucial letters and telephone messages, implicating Jordan and Kirbo, were duplicated from recollections and flight logs.

Our sources insist that the original documents actually existed but were lost. We have verified some of the telephone messages by checking with the callers. No less than Attorney General Griffin Bell confirmed one message. But the fact that the documents were reconstructed damages their reliability.

The documents were authenticated for us by Herring's former secretary Gerolyn Hobbs, who described in detail how she had typed and mailed the controversial letters. We checked her out with friends and neighbors who described her as truthful and reliable. She also impressed us as a shy, guileless young woman.

Under oath in federal court, she stuck to her story. But we have reason to believe the documents she identified on the witness stand were not actual copies but reconstructions. Our sources say she is naive and may have thought the reconstructed documents were authentic.

On the eve of her testimony, however, we were told she was distraught. We, therefore, telephoned her. In a broken voice, she told our associate Les Whitten: "It was all a mistake! It was all a mistake!" He asked whether she wanted to change her story. But she just repeated: "It was all a mistake!"

Nevertheless, she testified before a federal judge that she had typed and mailed the disputed letters to Jordan and Kirbo. We have now informed her of our new findings and have asked whether she wants to retract her testimony. She backed down only slightly. "(The Jordan-Kirbo) letters are similar to the ones I typed," she said. She denied that she had reconstructed any documents.

We had assured White House press secretary Jody Powell, meanwhile, that we sought only the truth about the Vesco scandal and would try as hard to disprove as prove the allegations against Jordan and Kirbo.

We became suspicious last week after examining a new batch of documents from our sources. One simply didn't look right. We checked it out and concluded it was not authentic.

We immediately began cross-examining our sources until one finally admitted that some of the documents had been recreated. Then we confronted other sources who confirmed what had happened. We had to promise not to identify them in the public print, but we persuaded them to repeat their statements to the FBI. We have now put FBI agents in touch with them.

They said our inquiries about documentation had led Herring to reconstruct papers that were missing from the files. Herring was assisted by his brother Ronnie Herring and brother-in-law Frank Harris. The first papers were reconstructed about August 1, 1978, while they were in Panama City, Fla., with their wives on other business.

Our sources also swear that they tried to make the documents reflect accurately what they remembered from the missing letters, memos and messages. But the reconstruction obviously cannot be fully authentic.

Guide news

LENNOXVILLE — Mrs. Marina Tracy, Captain of the First Lennoxville Girl Guide Company, will leave this week for Germany to train Girl Guide leaders in that country.

During her stay in Germany, Mrs. Tracy will spend a week each at the Canadian Forces Bases of Baden and Lahr with Canadian Girl Guide leaders stationed there. Another week will be spent travelling throughout the country.

This is not Mrs. Tracy's first trip for the Girl Guides. During her many years with the Lennoxville company and as a trainer she has taken many groups of girls on camping trips to the old Guide campsite on Lake Brompton and to the Anglican Church's Quebec Lodge on Lake Massawippi. For almost ten years, she spent her wedding anniversary away at camp with her girls!

In her first long trip with the Girl Guides, Mrs. Tracy went with a delegation of Guides and Rangers to Our Cabana, a Girl Guide house in Mexico.

She followed her Mexico trip by taking another group of girls, selected from across the province, on a backpacking trip along the Bruce Trail from Niagara to Tobermory. Despite blisters and the odd twisted ankle, the two-week trip was a huge success, and both girls and leaders enjoyed themselves.

During the last two years, Mrs. Tracy has taken girls camping in British Columbia. Last year she was one of many leaders at an international camp in Cape Breton.

As one of the few Girl Guide trainers in Quebec, Mrs. Tracy frequently travels to various points in the province conducting seminars. In addition to this, she has a group in Lennoxville which she takes for weekly meetings and special activities throughout the year.

Mrs. Tracy will spend three weeks in Germany with other Canadian leaders. We wish her well on her trip.

Policewomen question equality premise

TORONTO (CP) — When the first women joined the Ontario provincial police force four years ago, the OPP policy was that the women recruits would be "mainstream"—treated the same as men. In uniform, the sexes would perform as equals.

Today, some of the police-women themselves are questioning that premise.

Night cruising on lonely highways, picking up pieces of bodies from fatal accidents, arresting drunks—OPP policewomen have been trying to do everything the men do.

After testing the waters, some have bowed out gracefully.

Linda Kruger, 30-year-old former high-school teacher who was one of 13 women in the same class of recruits from 1974, said there are only three of them left on the force.

"The rest have either quit or been let", she said. "The ones I talked to found other interests, found out they weren't that interested in the job or became involved with a man who didn't want them to be policewomen."

STILL UNCERTAIN

Mrs. Kruger said: "I'm still feeling my way around. They say it takes at least 10 years before you know if it's right for you or not."

It wasn't right for about 30 per cent of the women recruits. Of 3,000 officers on the force, 70 are women.

There used to be 99, said OPP Commissioner Harold Graham.

In an interview, accompanied by William Lidstone, assistant commissioner of the field division, Graham clung to the premise of equal treatment, but said: "I think most women abhor violence and violent, gruesome scenes. I think that's why there are fewer applicants."

"We had one or two cases where women found they were frightened in the night hours. So we located civilian work for them on the force. Some of them are radio dispatchers at a very much reduced salary."

Both Graham and Lidstone said female officers are a valuable asset in sexual assault cases and domestic disputes.

USED IN CENTRALIA

The picket-line dispute at the Fleck Manufacturing plant in Centralia, Ont., last spring, involving women strikers, brought the first use of women officers in crowd-control situations.

"I directed them there, I wanted them there and I kept them there," Lidstone said. "Certain media love to make headlines saying, 'Brutal policemen beat poor women'. I was determined not to have that tagged on us."

"We put women in there, women dealing with women. I think it worked well."

Constable Gary Cooper, community service officer in the OPP detachment at Thunder Bay, Ont., said that when Mrs. Kruger, the detachment's first female constable reported for duty "the reaction was mixed."

"The fellows weren't too sure how this would work out."

Although policewomen "seem to be holding up their end of it," he said, it is a tough life.

"Not only does she have to prove something to herself, that she can do the job, but she has to prove to every man on the job she can do it, and not only that, the public has to be convinced."

WORRIED ABOUT FIGHTS He is still worried about the hazards—for everyone involved—of policewomen getting into fights.

"Linda has been involved in a couple but there has always been backup available," he said. "The biggest concern of everybody on the force was, and still is, the physical end of it."

"When you're dispatched to a hotel bar-room brawl and it's you and a policewoman, it has to run through the mind. Is she going to back me up? Can she keep them off my back in a fight? Is she strong enough?"

The last time the five-foot-six, 110-pound constable got involved in a fight on the job she used her flashlight to subdue a rowdy drunk on an Indian reserve who was clearly overwhelming her partner.

While the male officer wrestled with the drunk, she called for more cruisers when about 20 men seemed to be closing in on them.

"It didn't look good for my partner," Constable Kruger said. "I had to hit him (the drunk). So I hit him with my flashlight. It was the only thing I had that I thought would do any good."

ANN LANDERS SAYS...

Sour situation can't be sweetened

Dear Ann Landers:

My son and his wife are both career people. Their combined income is between $50,000 and $60,000 a year.

Everything was rosy until the baby came.

A few days ago my daughter-in-law asked me to "babysit" (a gross misuse of a word) while she went back to work. Her reason was not money, but that she'd go crazy staying home.

I said I'd consider the job, but she'd have to pay me $4.00 an hour plus time-and-a-half for overtime. She replied "You're crazy."

I made it clear that I had spent a long time raising my family and had looked forward to the years when Dad and I would be free to travel. Those years are right now. I told my daughter-in-law that if I was to sacrifice my long-dreamed-of plans I'd expect to be adequately compensated. If that's "crazy," then crazy I am.

My husband agrees with me and the choice is mine. I look around and wonder why so many women let themselves be used as doormats by their children. Surely an older woman has a right to her own life.

A state of harmony no longer exists. My son is being torn apart. My daughter-in-law is mad at me. Am I wrong to want to keep my freedom?

Big Trouble Out East

Dear Big T.: No, you are not wrong, but it's too bad you didn't just say "No" and enjoy your life-long dream. Now the situation has been soured and once that happens, it cannot be made sweet again.

Dear Ann:

Would you please settle something between my husband and me? He actually believes that his brother's wife is HIS sister-in-law only, not mine. According to him, she and I are only acquaintances.

He said he wouldn't take anyone's word but yours.

Waiting For A Reply

Dear W.: Authorities are split down the middle on this, and they continue to argue about it. If it's my word he wants (and I'm no authority), I say she's your sister-in-law, too.

Burn off the grease

By Polly Cramer

POLLY'S PROBLEM

DEAR POLLY — I have a big iron skillet that is so burned on the outside that black falls off on the stove when I am cooking. I would like to know what will remove this. This skillet was given to me and had a lot of accumulated grease on it when I got it. — MRS. L.J.

DEAR MRS. L.J. — Some years ago a reader asked this question and literally hundreds of readers wrote in to say that they burned off such accumulated grease by putting the skillet in a fire that was in same safe place such as an outdoor grill or fireplace. After all the accumulation has been removed the skillet must be re-seasoned before using again. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — Mrs. R. wanted to know how to fluff up her velvet dress to make it look like new. After wearing my red velvet coat I hang it on the shower rod so when someone takes a shower the steam will fluff up the nap. It really does wonders for my coat. — MRS. J.K.

DEAR POLLY — When I pot or repot plants I put a double fold of cloth in the bottom of the pot to keep the soil from leaving the pot through the drainage hole. A piece of an old sheet or pillowcase works well for this. The soil in my pots stays where it is supposed to and the excess water can still drain out. — MRS. W.T.L.

DEAR POLLY — My Pet Peeve is to have something planned right down to the last detail and then have someone in authority, like a husband, want to change everything around at the last minute. Another Pet Peeve is to have someone make lengthy excuses when a simple, honest explanation would do as well or even better.

Now for a Pointer or two. A mothball or two in the garbage can will keep insects and animals away. Also, lemon peel will help keep odors and insects from garbage cans. If you need a make-up mirror and none is handy place a dresser mirror with a handle in a quart jar with the mirror standing up. You will have a nice sit up mirror for any table. — JUNE

DEAR POLLY — I always save pizza cardboard and put cakes and the like on them when taking something to a shower or gathering of any sort. Cover with foil and it will look very nice. No plate or pan to be returned. — MRS. M.M.B.

Polly will send you one of her signed thank-you newspaper coupon clippers if she uses your favorite Pointer, Peeve or Problem in her column. Write POLLY'S POINTERS in care of this newspaper.

The maps show the sky as it appears about 10:30 p.m. Standard Time in mid-October.

This is a good time to look for a group of constellations that, according to Greek mythology, form a Royal Family. These include Cepheus and Cassiopeia, king and queen of Ethiopia, their daughter, Andromeda and her husband, the hero Perseus. The winged horse Pegasus and sea monster, Cetus, also play a part in the story that links the royal four. There are several versions - one goes something like this: Cassiopeia was a queen of matchless beauty but, being vain and silly, she boasted that she was more beautiful than the sea nymphs. They complained of the insult to Neptune, god of the sea, who decreed that unless Cassiopeia sacrifice Andromeda to Cetus, the sea monster, the lands of Ethiopia would be drowned. In order to save his subjects Cepheus chained his daughter to the seashore. As Cetus was swimming toward the spot where Andromeda awaited her fate, Perseus was riding through the air on his winged steed Pegasus. He was on his way home from killing Medusa, the terrible Gorgon monster with hair of snakes who had the power to turn to stone anyone who looked at her. Carrying the severed head of Medusa, Perseus arrived at the scene just as Cetus was nearing the terrified princess. Shouting to her to cover her eyes, he swooped down just in time to save her - for when Cetus saw the blood freezing head of Medusa he was instantly turned to stone. Perseus and Andromeda fell in love and were married and all the figures in the story were placed in the heavens. The fate was not a happy one for Cassiopeia, however, for she was chained to her chair to circle the pole from that day on, much of the time hanging upside down.

Look high in the north for W-shaped Cassiopeia, to the north-west for Cepheus and north-east for Perseus. See your map. Andromeda and the Great Square of Pegasus are high in the south and Cetus in the south-east. Perseus boasts the famous Double Cluster which, with binoculars, appears as two overlapping swarms of stars, each about as large as the disk of the moon. Use binoculars to find the great galaxy in Andromeda. The light from this neighbouring galaxy took millions of years to reach us.

PLANETS: Jupiter and Saturn are easy to locate before morning twilight begins. Rising in the east about midnight, Jupiter outshines all the stars and is high in the south at sunrise. Saturn, brighter than stars in the area, is then well up in the east. Look for Saturn close to the crescent moon on the morning of the 27th. Try to find Venus and Mars with binoculars very low in the west just after sunset early in the month. Venus reaches greatest brilliancy on the 3rd and is close to the thin crescent moon the following evening. Later in the month they are lost in the sun's glow.

South decides that since the game is rubber bridge and the hour is late he will settle for six spades.

When he sees the dummy he is glad that he did just that. He also is slightly worried about six.

He takes his ace of hearts and plays his king of trumps. When both opponents follow he has no trump loser.

Victor Mollo asks, "Can South make sure of his contract at this stage in the proceedings?"

The answer is that he can, provided clubs don't break 9-0 or 8-1.

The correct safety play is to lead a club to dummy's ace, ruff a club, enter dummy with a trump, lead and ruff dummy's last club and play his last heart.

It doesn't matter which opponent wins that heart trick. A heart or club lead will allow him to ruff in dummy and discard one of his diamonds while a diamond lead will take his diamond finesse for him.

UCW Meeting

FOSTER — The United Church Women of the Creek United Church held a meeting at the home of Mrs. R. Thibault on Wednesday afternoon, September 20.

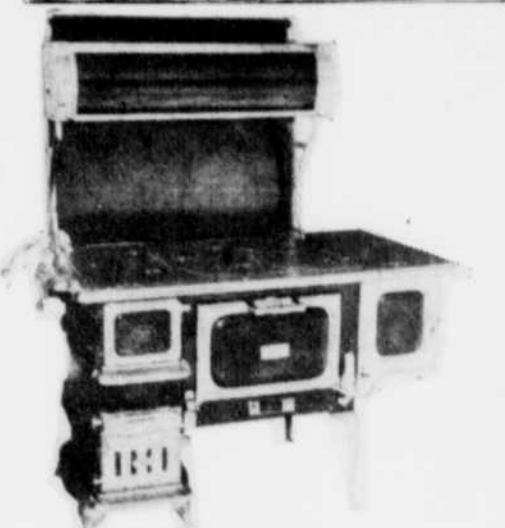

The meeting was called to order by the president Mrs. Ludovici and the opening devotions were conducted by Mrs. Gordon Honey. Minutes of the last meeting were read.

Reports on the sale of Centennial plates, mugs and cook books was given and the treasurer's report showed a substantial balance on hand. The meeting closed with the Mizpah benediction, after which lunch was served by the hostess.

Prior to the meeting, the members enjoyed dinner at a popular restaurant in Waterloo.

The friendly neighbour-hood exercise.

Jotul No. 6. With the doors drawn aside, a capacious and attractive fireplace. With the doors closed, a safe wood-burning stove.

FINDLAY OVAL

Wood & coal burning heating & cook stove; extra large cast iron and brick lined pot; holds fire all night; many parts hand made, buffed and nickel plated; can bake 6 loaves of bread at a time and capable of cooking a meal for a dozen people; even better than the original Findlay's made in the 1920's.

ASTRO-GRAPH

Bernice Bede Osol

October 1, 1978

A long-time desire you have silently toiled over will finally bear fruit this coming year. This occurrence could open up many exciting adventures and spawn new friends.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) In a situation where a major issue is at stake you might be instrumental in helping another alter it to something quite beneficial. You'll end up helping yourself, too. Find out more of what lies ahead for you by sending for your copy of Astro-

Graph Letter by mailing 50 cents for each and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth sign.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You'll take the initiative today and face up to a tough issue that has mystified several people. While showing them how to handle it, you could fulfill a secret desire.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Even though you may not be consciously aware of it, today's events will have an uplifting effect to give you added strength for tomorrow's affairs.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Don't be afraid to put yourself out a little more than usual when dealing with others today. Because you possess the necessary knowledge, they're looking for you to take control.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Your judgment is far-seeing today. You have the faculty to inspire someone who is feeling a little down. Speak up. Be a booster.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Others are willing to help you put into action plans you might have been sitting on. Take them up on it. You'll later find a way to repay them.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Seeking counsel and then not being afraid to try a new approach suggests what will turn your day into a very rewarding one.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Luck will be with you when you try your hand at a project you've never before attempted. You'll succeed because one skilled in the field lends a hand.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You'll possess loads of energy today and will be able to accomplish all necessary chores and still have plenty of zest left to socialize with pals.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Your optimism is contagious today. You'll lead the pack in showing how to make the most out of any situation and bring things to a successful conclusion.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Rely on experience to guide your actions today. You'll avoid yesterday's mistakes and gain compliments from others.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) A day when old business is concluded and new enterprises can take over. However, make haste cautiously. Don't put the cart before the horse.

Hints about Stamps

By M.M. Woodman

At long last I received cuts of the stamps issued by the Bailiwick of Guernsey Post Office. They do not send these out to anyone, so I find out. We have to first send them a cutting from the paper to prove that we will use anything they send along as a Press Release. These will be issued October 31, in time for the Christmas season.

The 5p value shows a house plant called Salanum, which blooms around Christmas. It should be a nice addition to your collection along with the 7p, the Christmas Rose. This is something of a misnomer as it is not a rose at all, but related to the buttercup. A native of southern and central Europe, it is only called the Christmas Rose because it blooms in mid-winter.

The 11p shows a branch of holly, very much in demand for decoration at the festive season. The 13p stamp shows the mistletoe, which is grown in Guernsey but not in sufficient quantity to supply the Christmas demand. A great deal has to be brought in from France.

If you are interested in the set, please let me know, so that I may book you for one or more before Christmas.

How did you like Canada's latest stamp, honoring Mother Marguerite d'Youville, founder of the Congregation of the Sisters of Charity, better known as the Grey Nuns. I thought it was beautiful, one of our better issues of the year.

I do have the pictures of the stamps Canada will issue for Christmas, but will keep them until next week so you will not have a column full of pictures one week and nothing the next. Fair enough?

Something Canada Post hopes to publish before Christmas is a book with 90 pages and 16 stamps showing the complete Ships series. All the stamps will be in it and it has been written by Thomas Appleton of Ottawa. No price has been given but if you want to be sure of having one, please let me know and I will put your name on a list to receive it as soon as it is available.

Canada has just issued a new 8 cents postage-due stamp. Do not put off getting yours, as sometimes these have very short lives and when that happens they are hard to find, no matter the price. Look at your J32 by Scott's; $25 each for a 5 cents stamp of only a few years ago. Dealers not only around here but as far as Toronto are asking if I can spare a few copies. There are just none around. The last I sent out to a dealer in Manchester, N.H., and I am saving what I have left for my friends and customers. I always try to protect those who favor me with some of their business. I think this is only fair, don't you?

An update on the CAPEX issue: Maybe you know and maybe you don't that the Canada Post announced there would only be 3.5 million of the souvenir sheets printed. It seems they made a slight mistake. There was an overrun of 300,000 so now the figure is 3.8 million. Even so, they are all sold out now, but they will be available in a special Post Office annual souvenir collection as in previous years and will be released in November with the full set of Capex stamps and the souvenir sheet. There are some CAPEX first day covers still in stock, and if you missed them, you had better get to it as soon as the Post Office is open for business.

Remember me writing some time ago about a young lady of Sherbrooke who has cystic fibrosis but is very cheerful and interested in stamps? I asked if some of you would either send her some of your duplicates or call on her when she was in hospital. I gave you her address and all. The Post Office even wrote me and said they were going to do something for Linda. Well, one lady from Richmond did send her some stamps. That is all; no one else found the time and the Post Office has slipped up. Linda has just phoned me to confirm what I had heard. See if you can't do better?

Remember, if you have any stamps of Canada, either mint, used or on post cards or envelopes, I am interested in buying them. Also if you have any good Canadian coins, now is the time to think of selling. I am interested in any that I do not have. I have sold a great many this summer and find that many of my silver dollars are now gone, especially the ones in the 30s and 40s. I am also all cleaned out of several years of those proof-like sets of Canadian coins and those Canadian silver dollars in the black cases. I have only 1971, 1972, 1975 and 1978 left in stock. All others are needed for stock, so if you have extras or are thinking of giving up, please contact me. I can use them this winter.

The flea markets are over for this year as far as my wife and I are concerned. We are now going to take a break and might even take off someplace for a few days. It won't be for long, as my wife has registered for French lessons twice a week, three hours each session for a total of 90 hours. Maybe I should take it up as well, but then we don't want too many smart people in the same home, so I will likely skip out and play some pool with my friends. No, I don't spend every moment with my stamps and coins. I do take a break from that and go to card parties and Church suppers. I even attended another Christening last evening. This time the Rev. Ron Smith took the service attracting more people than the small church has seen in many a Sunday.

I have just received a phone call from Herve Gagne, who tells me the Knowlton Stamp and Coin Club is on, beginning next month.

All those interested in stamps or coins are invited to join us Monday, October 9th, at 8 p.m. in the Legion Hall at Knowlton. If you want a club in the Knowlton area, once more then you must show up. Don't leave it all to the other fellow to do. By being present the ones who are working hard to get this off the floor so to speak, will know you are behind them, and that you want to know more about your hobby or help someone else. Please do your best to be present. I know I am going to try to be there and I hope to meet many that I know only via mail.

Please do me and yourself a favor at this time of year; send in all your requests for supplements. In that way I can check my lists and make sure your name is under each heading for the supplement that you need. Some won't come along for months yet and others will. Two that I know will not be around for months are the Scott's and the Stanley Gibbons. Minkus is usually the first to be printed and in our hands, but I am not going to keep extras around just in case you want one later. Now that you have been warned, don't blame me if you miss out on one. Remember — it's M.M. Woodman, P.O. Box 83, Dixville, Que., JOB 1P0.

I trust that the mail strike will be over by the time you read this and that maybe some of my orders of albums and catalogues will be received so that I may send them on to you. The only good thing about the mail strike is that I can catch up on some of my mail. You have no idea what piles up, if one misses a day here in the office. Someone once said I must get bored, not working any more. I have to stop and think that one over. I have not yet had one hour that I wondered what I could do with my time. I am just afraid that I will never get done all that I want during this lifetime.

Scouting in action

by Rick Tracy

Still more packs, troops and crews in our district have begun their new season this past week, or will be doing so very soon. Almost all of these have some spaces left which they invite interested boys to take advantage of.

CUBS

After a small snag in the red tape has been cleared up, the 3rd Sherbrooke Cub Pack will get its new season underway tonight at the Sherbrooke Elementary School on Ontario Street. Their weekly meetings will be taking place every Friday evening from 7 to 8:30 p.m., and, although they are quite full, they will be able to take in a small number of new members. John Shanahan has recently taken over as Akela of the pack and he would be glad to give more information to anyone interested (567-9343).

The 7th Sherbrooke Pack is also meeting weekly in this city, but Jim Oakley, the Akela of the pack, was not available earlier this week to give more information. Anyone who is interested in Cubbing but cannot make it on the Friday nights can contact Mr. Oakley at 569-3256 for the exact details of his meetings.

SCOUTS

The 10th Sherbrooke troop at the moment has no Scoutmaster and is looking for an interested adult to help them out. The only requirement is that he be over 21, and anyone interested is asked to please contact Gilles Gagne at 567-8529.

VENTURERS

Venturing is a program of Scouts-Canada that is open to 14 to 18 year olds who are looking for a challenge. Much of the program surrounds the outdoor theme and the two local crews are involved in a lot of hiking, camping and other outdoor adventure. For those who have never been involved in Venturing, it is quite different from the Scout program. Meeting are not held on a regular basis but are called to plan future events and outings. The members of the crew provide their own leadership with the adult acting only as an advisor.

The 3rd Sherbrooke Venturers are very active and involved in a lot of outdoor activities. When meetings are held, they are usually on Friday evenings at one of the Venturer's homes. Lorne Sakamoto is the advisor of this crew and has more information available at 563-4187.

The other local crew is 10th Venturers who hold their twice-monthly meetings at St. Pat's Church Hall. At the moment, this group only has room for four more members as they have set their limit at 14. Bob Boogie is one of the members of the group and is in charge of registration. He can be reached for more information at 562-8764.

WANTED

If your colony, pack troop or crew are planning something interesting sometime in the future and you would like to let the public know about it, you can do so through this column. Contact Rick Tracy at 569-4290 or at 42 Deacon St., Lennoxville.

FROM OCTOBER SECOND TO FIFTH ...THERE'S NO PLACE LIKE HOME!

In accordance with the Québec Election Act, the annual enumeration of electors will take place October 2, 3, 4 and 5.

BE SURE YOU'RE HOME!

More than 34,000 enumerators wearing identification badges will visit every household in Québec in order to prepare the electoral list. Please be there to receive them.

You have the right to vote on all provincial issues only if your name is on the electoral list and if you meet the following conditions set out in the Election Act:

- You have lived in Québec since November 3, 1977.
- You have reached the age of 18 on or before the last day of revision, November 4, 1978.
- You are a Canadian citizen.

You count, so be counted!

Please be home on October 2, 3, 4 or 5.

In urban areas, two enumerators must visit each household. In rural areas, one enumerator must obtain the necessary information for such purpose by house-to-house visit or in any other way deemed convenient.

By ANNA FUDAKOWSKA

"If a youth comes up to me and says he wants to be a mime I simply tell him that we are all poets at his age; but I tell him that if he is still one at 40, it means it's true," says Claude St. Denis, mime, philosopher and teacher.

"A dream becomes reality if you work and work at it. You have to pass through many hardships and obstacles and the dream turns to reality if you find that you are still doing it many years later. St. Denis, who at age 43 has been practicing pantomime for 23 years, adds: "You must live for it."

In an average year, St. Denis gives 175 performances, 950 shows since 1965. He has toured Europe and many other parts of the world and perceives a basis difference between European and American audiences.

"They are very blasé... intellectual in Europe - they have seen everything. Over there, they laugh with their heads and over here the people laugh with their stomachs. It is always a discovery, a surprise.

"I usually go to Prague in the spring and work with Wladislaw Fialka. His country has three great mime companies... I do believe personally that they are the strongest in mime in the West. I also know Poland's Henryk Tomaszewski very well; we are good friends. He may have arranged for me to perform in Wrocław at the same time as I am in Prague."

The theatre or mime of the Orient is very different, he said, explaining that while mime in the western world is very realistic, that of the far east is symbolic. Kabuki and No (two Eastern Theatre forms) utilize conventional gestures which are highly symbolic. A series of movements, may look very stylized but to those in the know, they may denote a thought completely different from what one sees.

Claude St. Denis performed with someone else for the very first time last night when he spent 15 minutes on the U de S Cultural Centre stage with Dominique Michel. "We worked for a month on that quarter of an hour. Every day. Four hours a day. She's 46, you know. And she's really accomplished very much. She follows a severe discipline, no smoking, no drinking; when others are out partying it up, she's home resting so she can be in shape and beautiful for the next night's performance. She had her first one-woman show after 25 years of being in the business - she's wonderful! But it is a real solitary life for her."

"You can't avoid facility if you want to be an artist, all is in the work. It's very hard: life is a real blow. If an artist is sincere, he must prepare himself to face something horrible: solitude. Solitude is what a real, true artist harvests," he says.

"There are many mime groups in Quebec," St. Denis confirmed. "Every town I go to Three Rivers, Chicoutimi or even here in Sherbrooke, they all have mime groups whether they go under that name or another name of a group of expression. For me, it's a phenomenon of identity. Quebec is 25 years ahead in what will become a traditional art form. I was alone in Canada 25 years ago when I started and now I see signs advertising mime of one sort or another everywhere I go," he said.

It was during the first week of June that Toronto hosted the first mime festival where 25 companies were represented, 70 per cent from Quebec. He said there are at least 10 mime companies in Montreal alone and people are constantly coming up to him asking if he knows one company or another.

St. Denis himself was the disciple of France's Etienne Decroux, the 80-year-old master who taught Marcel Marceau and the renowned Jean-Louis Barreault, but the tradition of mime goes back much further than that.

Mimos is a Greek word meaning to imitate. A Greek slave in the Roman courts, Leivus Andronicus, displayed an unusual talent for theatre and expressed himself through his body for the Romans. In 432 B.C. that Andronicus established the popular genre of mime, and it was he who perfected the form of expression.

Using Charlie Chaplin as an example, St. Denis said in Modern Times Chaplin expressed himself to portray the plight of the worker. Mime is a conscious corporal awareness which shows people how to use their bodies to express themselves. It is an expressive art and not a technique, he elaborated saying that he used it to portray daily life as he observed it on the street and around him.

Aside from coming to Bishop's earlier this year and to the Orford JMC musical camp for the past six years, St. Denis has had a workshop in Montreal for 15 years where people from many different disciplines come to learn, including psychiatrists. At the Université de Montreal, there is now a course called psycho gestuel - dealing with body expression.

As St. Denis sees it, Charlie Chaplin is his own master. The mimist learnt his art imitating Chaplin's film performances.

Also an admirer of Buster Keaton, St. Denis believes only a quirk of fate and poor promotion meant that Keaton was not as well known as Chaplin.

Keaton played a role in the Chaplin film Limelight! Appearing at the end, the most important part of the film, hunched over the piano, playing. St. Denis added that not many people remember or know that Keaton came from Montreal.

He went on to explain the theme of his next show, to be performed at the Université de Sherbrooke on Saturday night.

"It is one of life, love, death. Emotions fascinate me. I am not interested in making people laugh simply so that they laugh but to laugh with truth as a base for their laughter, a means for people to identify with me on the stage by seeing a bit of themselves up there."

For the first time, St. Denis will be breaking the mime's conventional silence by giving a monologue in the second half of the show. He wants to break with tradition, saying he is not a deaf-mute and that even Charlie Chaplin talked in Limelight. "Chaplin was silent only during the silent film era. When talkies arrived in 1930, Chaplin talked."

"If I have nothing to say, it's simple, I don't talk. But, on the other hand, if I do have something to say, I see no reason for remaining silent. I want to shatter the image of silent mime in this popular art and by doing that, make it more accessible, I feel that due to its silence, it is not quite within reach. I can talk and I want people to know that I can talk. Mime is not a rigid framework, it should be a light, easy-to-reach art." He said the monologue lasts 15 minutes and serves to break the rigidity of the existing mime framework.

Performing with him on Saturday is a Sherbrooke woman, 24-year-old Marie Choquette who now has several years of experience. He described her as a very beautiful woman with "much, much talent" who will go very far in her art. She studied professional mime with him for three years and has given 80 performances in the region already with her company, "Mime de rien".

Also with him is Ben Labarouette who he discovered juggling on a Montreal street corner. When they met, Labarouette was flabbergasted at St. Denis' request to accompany him at Place des Arts, which he did last week, for the first time and for three nights. Also with them is the musician Pierre Veniot, 25, who accompanies the performance on oboe and saxophone.

The second act of his show opens with him saying that it's an accident which happens to everybody. Although nobody ever expects to hear the mimist speak, everyone is basically prepared for it. Although you will be dazzled by Claude St. Denis' performance, you will find that in your heart of hearts you really were ready for the surprise.

Golden Agers enjoy trip

MANSONVILLE (QJ) — On September 19, forty-five Golden Agers boarded a chartered bus bound for Ausable Chasm, N.Y., a trip organized by Julianne McDuff.

Ausable Chasm is probably America's oldest tourist attraction, having been open to the public since 1870. The mighty sandstone cliffs of the chasm were formed an estimated five hundred million years ago when an arm of the sea formed the northern and eastern boundaries of the Adirondack Mountains. On the floor of this Potsdam Sea, layer upon layer of mud, sand and ooze was laid to form what we call Potsdam sandstone. These cliffs now tower several hundred feet.

The plunging Ausable River journeys in varying moods from its headwaters at Mount Marcy for fifty tortuous miles to Lake Champlain.

At the entrance to Ausable Chasm you go down stairs and your walk through this impressive scenic wonder is one you won't soon forget. You proceed along stone galleries with stairs up and down, along steel bridges that cross and recross the mighty gorge at various elevations. Your walk passes massive stone sculptured by nature into various and majestic forms. This walk is three quarters of a mile and ends at table rock.

Here begins a thrilling boat ride. The boats can handle thirty-four passengers. Skilled boatmen steer you through long rapids and peaceful waters for three quarters of a mile, then a bus conveys you back to the entrance building.

The group enjoyed dinner at Howard Johnson's in Plattsburg and supper at the Pyramid Mall Shopping Centre.

WEST SUTTON Mrs. Bernice Russell

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Leon Jordan, nee Chloris Miner, who celebrated their 50th Wedding Anniversary at the Reg. Miner home in Cowansville at a family gathering. Mr. and Mrs. Jordan were married from this home on Sept. 22nd, 1928.

Mrs. James Robinson, and Mrs. Curran were in Sutton on Wednesday evening to attend a Sunday School meeting.

Mr. Roy Spencer was a dinner guest of his mother, Mrs. Addie Spencer, Sutton on Sept. 21st.

Mr. and Mrs. George Robinson, returned to Montreal on Sunday, where Mr. Robinson will see his specialist for tests on Monday.

SOUTH BOLTON — On Wednesday, Sept. 13, the South Bolton Branch of the Women's Institute held their monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. Judy Ball and her mother, Mrs. Hazel Mitchell.

Nine members and one guest repeated the Collect and answered the roll call. This month, a fancy pot holder was to be brought in to be sold at a later date.

The minutes were read by the Sec. Miss Vera Morrison and approved, after one correction. The members were reminded to bring in old cards to the next meeting to give to Children's Homes to play and decorate with.

Correspondence was a note from our County President, reminding us that soon two important functions were coming up. The Semi Annual Convention on Sept. 21, also the Members Conference on Sept. 26. Hopefully several members from our branch will be able to attend each event.

A plant sent to Mrs. Iva Wightman during her illness, brought in a nice Thank you note from her. Also received was a $10.00 donation from Mrs. Blanche Schoolcraft, who wishes this donation to be in place of a Thank You notice, in the Sherbrooke Record, for all the lovely birthday cards received.

It was agreed that each member would make a recipe out of the W.I. Cook book and bring it to the October meeting, to be auctioned off, along with the aforementioned potholder.

The October meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Sheila Needham on Oct. 11th at 1:30 p.m.

The program for this month was by the Home Economics Convenor, Mrs. Ada Davis, who had a very good quiz for us. Holding up a jar of mustard pickles, she asked us to name all the ingredients necessary to make them. Mrs. Betty Needham, a real pickle pro, won the prize, (the jar of pickles, of course).

A card was signed for Mrs. Ethel Coates to celebrate an approaching birthday.

It was unintentionally omitted that Mrs. Jessie Royea greatly assisted Mrs. Francis Hopps, on the trip to Shelburne Museum. Mrs. Hopps wanted to be sure her appreciation was mentioned in this write-up.

Following the meeting, tea and sandwiches were served, along with some of Mrs. Mitchell's scrumptious carrot bread.

UCW Meeting

LENNOXVILLE — The first meeting of the new season of Unit Three of the U.C.W. was held on Tuesday, September 19, in the church lounge. After a few welcoming remarks by the president, Miss Geraldine Lane, the Purpose of the U.C.W. was repeated. The meeting was then adjourned.

This was followed by roll call and the minutes were read by Mrs. H. Dale. Mrs. E. Lennon gave the Treasurer's report including the final results of the Strawberry Social.

Mrs. P. Gaudine gave an interesting report on the Summer Event which was held at Bishop's University. The final plans for the Rummage Sale were discussed with Mrs. D. Hadlock in charge. The meeting was then adjourned.

After the meeting there was a lively discussion of current local items of interest with Mrs. N. Smith leading Refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mrs. C. Groenewold, Mrs. H. Dale and Mrs. L. Mizener.

ASTRO-GRAPH Bernice Bede Osol

September 30, 1978

Be alert for situations this year where you could get a commission or a fee for being a middleman. Several promising arrangements of this type may pop up.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) There is a right time to take a back seat and there is a proper time to assert yourself. Don't hide your light under a bushel today. Find out to whom you're romantically suited by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph Letter. Mail 50 cents for each and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth sign.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) One thing your friends don't want to see you do today is suffer in silence. Inform them of your needs so that they can make life easier for you.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Concentrate more on winning today and less upon the opposition. The odds are tilted in your favor where competition is concerned.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 10) Although others may see situations in only bits and pieces today, you're capable of taking in the entire panorama. Your judgment has a quality theirs may lack.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You could pull off something big today, but not solely through your own efforts. The leverage an ally offers will be what tips the balance in your favor.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Major purchases should not be made today without considerable comparison shopping. Check every source at your disposal.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Tasks that require a creative touch are your cup of tea today. They'll go even smoother if you have co-workers as imaginative as yourself.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) There are some first-stringers in your corner today who could help give your work or career a boost. These are persons you hobnob with socially.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Try not to make today's fun activities the sedentary type. Do things that are physically active, outside in the fresh air and sunshine.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Be as solicitous today of family as you are of outsiders. Bear in mind: When the chips are down, blood is thicker than water.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Material opportunities continue to hold a larger share of possibilities than usual again today. Get out and scout around.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Others may have more money than you, but they probably won't be as skillful in juggling what they have as you'll be today. You'll make one dollar do the job of two.

KNOWLTON (KT)

Representatives of all five churches of the Parish of Knowlton-Mansonville were among the audience of approximately 400 persons attending the Bishop Festo Kivengere Mission at Massey Vanier High School Auditorium, Cowansville, September 14.

A lively Hymn-Sing session was conducted by the Venerable Archdeacon John Peacock of Cowansville, with Mrs. Brenda Louson of Bolton Centre at the piano and the Reverend Don Flumerfelt of Stanbridge East playing both trumpet and guitar. They were joined on the platform sharply at 8 p.m. by Bishop Festo Kivengere accompanied by the Right Reverend Reginald Hollis, Bishop of Montreal and co-hosts Reverend W. Davidson, Rural Dean for Bromfield, Missisquoi and the Reverend George Sandilands, Rural Dean for Bedford.

Bishop Festo, exiled Bishop from Uganda, spoke on, "Our Weapon is Love". Aware of his background, his message was particularly significant to his listeners. Although he touched only briefly on events in his beloved homeland, at one point he mentioned conducting a service at a church in U.S.A. following his arrival in that country, and learning that on the actual day, he, with his wife and others, were making their difficult and dangerous journey of escape through the mountains, the congregation of that church had carried out an 8-hour vigil of prayer for the refugees and their endeavour. He also described the conversion to Christianity of some terrorists and the acceptance and hand of friendship offered at an immense religious rally, to one of these by the widow of a man he had helped to murder in cruel torture. These facts are stark realism to us in our secure way of life.

Bishop Festo, before his exile, came from a background of teaching high school in his hometown of Kabale, Uganda, where he met and married a fellow teacher, Mera. They later went to Tanzania and served 16 years as missionary evangelists, teaching high school. The strong resistance at first to their ministry slowly changed and developed into a strong spiritual movement which contributed greatly to the rapid church growth in that area.

In 1968 he shared in a preaching mission to the city of Nairobi, Kenya, with Michael Cassidy, founder of African Enterprise. The two men shared a mutual vision of reaching the cities and leaders of Africa for Christ. Festo joined Michael two years later to become leader of a team of nine evangelists in East Africa, serving not only in their own countries of Uganda, Kenya and Tanzania, but receiving also invitations to lead missions in other African countries and the world.

No mention was made by Bishop Festo of his special fund. Reverend George Sandilands, however, told the audience in a few words of the "RETURN" project which is used solely for the assistance of exiled Ugandians, to help in their training in the ministry, medicine and agriculture.

attending colleges and universities, all in preparation for that great moment of Return eventually to their beloved homeland. Suitable receptacles were available at several points for those wishing to contribute a free will offering in support of RETURN. The impact of the Bishop's visit was apparent in the fact that some who made an offering on entering the hall did so again on departure.

A number of people were privileged to hear the Bishop speak earlier in the day at a luncheon attended by 88 guests from the parishes of the Deanery of Bedford and the Deanery of Bromfield-Shefford.

The 7-day Mission in Montreal and the area ended with a memorable service at Notre Dame Church, Montreal, on Sunday evening, September 17. A number from this parish were among those on the chartered bus which went from Sutton-Brome-Knowlton.

The estimated attendance was 5,000 people or more at this service.

BU-CRC receives subsidy

David Weiner (left), program co-ordinator at Centennial Theatre, and Serge Christiaenssens, representing the Ministry of Cultural Affairs, look through the Bishop's-Champlain Cultural Series program for 1978-79. Centennial Theatre will receive a subsidy of $20,000 from the ministry enabling it to expand its services to the community.

Lazure announces grants

SHERBROOKE (AF) — L'Escale, the only Eastern Townships halfway home for women in distress has been granted $100,000 in financial aid, yesterday announced Minister of Social Affairs Denis Lazure. He also announced a $10,000 grant for Sercovie Inc., a committee organizing in-home services for the aged, which is another Sherbrooke community service.

East Angus election

EAST ANGUS (AF) — Jean-Marc Gendron and Jean-Omer Roberge will be competing Sunday for the position of councillor in East Angus. Seat No. 3. The election to take place is the result of a position recently vacated by Lucien Rougeau and 3,032 East Angus voters will be hitting the polls between the hours of 9 and 6 in the eleven polling stations in the city. Gendron is also president of the East Angus citizens' committee.

Autoroute 55 quashed

VICTORIAVILLE (AF) — The long-discussed Autoroute 55 will not be built because Quebec doesn't see any point in having two four-lane highways with in thirty miles of each other, Finance Minister Jacques Parizeau has announced.

Speaking at a supper given at the Chamber of Commerce Wednesday night, to about 180 people, Parizeau said the government has initiated an about-face over the construction of the 55 in order to cut costs. He did promise, however, to discuss with Transport Minister Lucien Lessard the possibility of improving highway 116 between Richmond and Warwick.

Even ambulances picking up victims along 116 to take them to the CHU avoid the highway, preferring to cover twice as much ground to get there rather than risk driving on a road in such terrible shape, said Dr. Rene Jutras. Jutras asked for a comparative economic study between 55 and the termination of the already-begun 51.

Waterloo approves rates

WATERLOO (TS) — New rate structures for use of the arena and municipal camping grounds were approved during the Sept. 11 session of Waterloo municipal council. For local organizations, rental of the arena will now be $250 a day. Those from outside the municipality will pay $350 per day. Rental of ice time will be $45 an hour, $5 less after midnight.

Municipal camping ground fees are set at $6 a day while use of cross-country ski facilities is $1; 50 cents for children. Campers can use the municipal grounds all winter, as well as the cross-country trails for $300.

The town has engaged Roland Morisseau as foreman in charge of parks service. He will be responsible for various sports facilities and equipment within the municipality and will be paid a salary of $11,440 annually along with free use of a house.

Clerks working at the Waterloo Police Department have been advised that their services will no longer be required as of October 1, 1978. A new telephone system installed in patrol cars will result in the elimination of these jobs.

Granby Mayor Paul Trepanier has been chosen to establish a renovation program for the town hall and municipal garage. Mr. Trepanier is also an architect.

The town voted a $300 amount to help defray the cost of an additional coffee-pot for the restaurant at the Waterloo arena.

Council received a letter from the Ministry of Transport confirming a subsidy of $550 per kilometre, for a distance of 3.08 km, to cover winter road maintenance.

Bishop Festo Mission held significant to his listeners. Although he touched only briefly on events in his beloved homeland, at one point he mentioned conducting a service at a church in U.S.A. following his arrival in that country, and learning that on the actual day, he, with his wife and others, were making their difficult and dangerous journey of escape through the mountains, the congregation of that church had carried out an 8-hour vigil of prayer for the refugees and their endeavour. He also described the conversion to Christianity of some terrorists and the acceptance and hand of friendship offered at an immense religious rally, to one of these by the widow of a man he had helped to murder in cruel torture. These facts are stark realism to us in our secure way of life.

Bishop Festo, before his exile, came from a background of teaching high school in his hometown of Kabale, Uganda, where he met and married a fellow teacher, Mera. They later went to Tanzania and served 16 years as missionary evangelists, teaching high school. The strong resistance at first to their ministry slowly changed and developed into a strong spiritual movement which contributed greatly to the rapid church growth in that area.

In 1968 he shared in a preaching mission to the city of Nairobi, Kenya, with Michael Cassidy, founder of African Enterprise. The two men shared a mutual vision of reaching the cities and leaders of Africa for Christ. Festo joined Michael two years later to become leader of a team of nine evangelists in East Africa, serving not only in their own countries of Uganda, Kenya and Tanzania, but receiving also invitations to lead missions in other African countries and the world.

No mention was made by Bishop Festo of his special fund. Reverend George Sandilands, however, told the audience in a few words of the "RETURN" project which is used solely for the assistance of exiled Ugandians, to help in their training in the ministry, medicine and agriculture.

attending colleges and universities, all in preparation for that great moment of Return eventually to their beloved homeland. Suitable receptacles were available at several points for those wishing to contribute a free will offering in support of RETURN. The impact of the Bishop's visit was apparent in the fact that some who made an offering on entering the hall did so again on departure.

A number of people were privileged to hear the Bishop speak earlier in the day at a luncheon attended by 88 guests from the parishes of the Deanery of Bedford and the Deanery of Bromfield-Shefford.

The 7-day Mission in Montreal and the area ended with a memorable service at Notre Dame Church, Montreal, on Sunday evening, September 17. A number from this parish were among those on the chartered bus which went from Sutton-Brome-Knowlton.

The estimated attendance was 5,000 people or more at this service.

Obituary

HELEN E. ALLAN

of East Angus (Formerly of Maple Hill)
Helen Elizabeth Allan passed away peacefully at the Cameron home, East Angus on Saturday, Sept. 2nd, 1978.

Helen was born on August 19, 1904 at Maple Hill, the fourth child of Robert Montgomery and his wife Sadie Bailey.

On July 2nd, 1929, she was married to Samuel Thompson Allan. No children were born to this union.

They lived on the family homestead until the death of her husband Sam in 1954, at which time Helen moved to East Angus, and worked for the Cameron family for the following 23 years, where a comfortable home was made for her.

She was a member of the United Church and taught Sunday School for several years at East Angus. She was made a life member of the U.C.W. which she attended very regularly, and will be greatly missed.

The funeral service was held from J.A. Savoie's Funeral Home, Thetford Mines, where prayers were said at 2:30 p.m., on Sept. 4, thence to Candlish United Church, Kinross's Mills, for service at 3:00 p.m., conducted by the pastor Mr.

David Scott.

The choir, with the organist, Mrs. Murray Nugent, led in the singing of the hymns, Take Time to be Holy, and a favorite of the deceased, Amazing Grace.

The bearers were Clifford and Hilton Cameron, Lawrence Kinnear, Murray Nugent and Lawrence and Kenny Allan.

The flowers and memorials in her name were tokens of esteem in which she was held by her friends and relatives.

She was predeceased by her husband Sam in July, 1954, her mother in Sept. 1935, father in July 1896, brothers Arthur in Feb. 1896 and Charlie in June 1963. She leaves to mourn her loss, her brother Leonard, Thetford Mines, Edith, Kinnear's Mills, Dorothy of Bury, an only nephew, Lawrence and wife Audrey of Kinnear's Mills, an only niece, Margaret of Lennoxville; three grand-nephews, Kenny, Charlie and Jamie Allan.

Those who attended from a distance were from Boston, Montreal, East Angus, Lennoxville, Sherbrooke, Birchton and surrounding areas.

Interment was in Riverside Memorial Cemetery, Kinnear's Mills, beside her husband.

Union Screen Plate

LENNOXVILLE (AH) — A three-year work contract was signed Tuesday afternoon between the Union Screen Plate company and its employees, members of the Metallurgists Union of America.

The company and union reached an agreement in principle, which ended a lock-out going since August 7, 1978.

The latest proposals of the company were accepted with a majority of only three votes.

The new collective work agreement grants increases totalling 24.5 per cent over three years. The last work contract lasted two years. The union has allowed the salary index to fall to the cost of living, preferring to put the increase directly on the salary.

MSO performs

SHERBROOKE (AH) — The Montreal Symphony Orchestra will give a concert in the Cultural Centre, Université de Sherbrooke on Sunday, October 1, at 8 p.m. in the Salle Maurice O'Bready.

The conductor will be Charles Dutoit, artistic director of the orchestra. The program includes 'Carnival Overture' by the Canadian composer Oscar Morawetz, 'Images' by Claude Debussy and Ludwig van Beethoven's 'Symphony no. 7, op. 92'.

Young at Heart meet

WATERLOO — The Young at Heart Group met on Sept. 25 at the Legion Hall with an attendance of 48.

500 was played with prizes going to Hazel Rhicard, Alice Chagnon, Orval Quilliams, Ethel Quilliams, Ethel Mizener, Gladys Hayes, N. Langevin, Byron Mizener, Lucie Cote, Lennie Benoit, Yvonne D'Arcy. At the game table, the prize went to Emma Marshall.

The door prize was claimed by BROOKBURY.

Friends and relatives of Miss Lena Herring, Mrs. Verna Hunting and Mrs. Lionel Allison are sorry to hear of the car accident on the Brookbury Road which made it necessary for them to remain in the hospital for several days. Mr. Lionel Allison, driver of the car, was able to return home the same day after examination.

LAROCHE — We would like to thank all those who organized and attended our farewell party. Thanks to the Red Cross ladies for their party and the happy gang girls for the nice luncheon. The lovely gifts and currency will make us think of each one of you when we are in our new home.

GAYLE and HARLEY TROY and TINA

MACKAY — A most sincere thank you to all who remembered me with cards, gifts, flowers, plants, etc. and for the many visits and phone calls while in the hospital and since my return home. I would especially like to thank Dr. Klink, Dr. Lowry and the Nursing Staff on the 3rd floor of the Sherbrooke Hospital and the clergy for visits and prayers, also my sister Jessie and her husband who extended their visit to help out at home and Mrs. F. Bain who spent several days with me while Douglas was away. Your many kindnesses will long be remembered and may God Bless each and everyone of you.

sports

short notes...

BCS sports...

LENNOXVILLE (ME) — BCS girls did fairly well in high school sports yesterday. In soccer, BCS seniors defeated Richmond Regional High School 3-0. Goals were scored by Jill Badger, Madeleine Landry and Liz Ann Stirling. Richmond and BCS tied 1-1 in the junior match, with Patty Brodeur hitting the mark for Bishop's and C.A. McElrea for Richmond. Richmond bantams blanked BCS 1-0.

In field hockey, BCS and Alexander Galt Regional split their games. Galt took the junior contest 3-1, on goals by Francis Hennell (2) and Wendy Hill. Lucy Nichol replied for BCS.

Bishop's seniors whitewashed AGRHS 4-0, as Jean Roots scored three times and Bell Valentine once.

Argos cut Thomas

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto Argonauts have cut veteran defensive back Ike Thomas, the Canadian Football League club announced Thursday. Thomas, a starter the last two seasons, will be replaced by Billy Hardee, cut earlier this season by Calgary Stampeders. Argos also announced veteran offensive lineman Joe Worobec had been released following a five-day trial.

Niegro bonus rumored

ATLANTA (AP) — The Atlanta Journal says Atlanta Braves owner Ted Turner has given Phil Niegro a bonus worth $100,000 over a 10-year period.

However, neither Niegro, 39, nor Turner would disclose the amount of the bonus.

Niegro will be seeking his 20th victory Saturday when he faces Cincinnati.

The knuckleballer is compiling one of his best seasons ever. His 2.84 earned run average is ninth best in the National League, he has the most complete games and he is near the top in strikeouts.

Rangers register 5-2 victory

A sellout crowd packed Winnipeg Arena on Thursday night, anxiously awaiting the return of Swedish stars Ulf Nilsson and Anders Hedberg.

They weren't kept waiting long as Nilsson scored before the game was two minutes old and New York Rangers went on to register a 5-2 victory over the Jets in an exhibition hockey game.

Nilsson, along with right winger Anders Hedberg, left the World Hockey Association Jets at the end of last season for million-dollar contracts with the Rangers of the National Hockey League.

In addition to his goal, Nilsson picked up a pair of minor penalties and was named the game's first star. Ironically, Bobby Hull, who patrolled left wing on a line with the two Swedes last season, scored both Jets goals.

Elsewhere Thursday, Los Angeles Kings swamped Vancouver Canucks 11-2 and Buffalo Sabres crushed Boston Bruins 10-4, while Toronto Maple Leafs edged Chicago Black Hawks and Washington Capitals shaded Pittsburgh Penguins by identical 4-3 scores. New England Whalers of the WHA played to a 5-5 tie with Maine Mariners of the American Hockey League.

Greg Polis scored twice to pace the Rangers attack, with Phil Esposito and Pat Hickey getting the others.

DIONNE NETS FOUR

At Los Angeles, Marcel Dionne scored four goals as the Kings humbled the Canucks to even their exhibition series at two wins apiece.

The Kings scored the first 10 goals of the game, splitting them evenly over the first two periods. After Danny Grant's second goal of the game, early in the final period, made it 11-0, the Canucks finally broke through with goals by Stan Smyl and Brad Smith.

In Buffalo, Tony McKegney, the Sabres' second draft choice, scored two goals—giving him five in his last two games. Danny Gare and Gil Perreault each had a goal and two assists for the Sabres.

Toronto erupted for three unanswered goals late in the third period to gain its first win of the exhibition season after three losses. Ian Turnbull, Jim Jones, Pat Boutette, and Bob Neeley's game-winning point shot, with 34 seconds left in the game, accounted for the Toronto scoring.

Cliff Koroll, Ted Bulley and John Marks replied for the Hawks in the game played at Moncton, N.B.

Royals edge Sherbrooke 4-3

CORNWALL — Sherbrooke fought back twice to even the score last night against the Royals but Cornwall handed the Beavers their second consecutive 4-3 loss as they continue their 10th season in Quebec Major Junior Hockey League play.

The line of Louis Begin, Serge Boisvert and Jimmie Mann accounted for last night as they came back from 2-0 and 3-2 deficits by the middle of the third period.

Coach Ghislain Delage was not discouraged by his team's loss — giving the Beavers a 0-2 record so far in QMJHL standings — pointing out that his players were using their bodies to check more often and harder, an aspect of the game he had been working on. The one thing still missing is the number of good shots on the opposing goaltender. Cornwall outshot Sherbrooke 38-28 last night.

The Beavers had several good scoring opportunities in the first period, but started the second losing 2-0. Mike Corrigan and Bob Crawford gave the Royals the lead. Boisvert and Begin bounced Sherbrooke right back into the thick of the action before the first two minutes had elapsed. Boisvert was assisted by his wingers at 1:29 while Begin completed the line passing combination 26 seconds later.

Yvan Charbonneau looked sharp all evening except on Cornwall's third goal — a long shot by Ed McRash — which eluded him and put the home team back in the lead.

Mann once again brought the Beavers on even terms at 8:23 in the closing period, unassisted. It was shortly after this that the Sherbrooke tested Cornwall's Tom Graovac on numerous occasions, but to no avail.

Charbonneau got a piece of Pat Haramis' close-in drive at 15:49 but the puck trickled off his glove into the net for the winning tally.

CLOUTIER INJURED
Sherbrooke's defensive unit had to buckle down for the last 25 minutes of play after veteran Rejean Cloutier was taken to hospital with a possible nose fracture. The Beavers' blue line squad has already been weakened by the sidelining of Pierre Tremblay with a leg injury in pre-season action.

Cloutier could be back in the lineup tonight wearing a protective guard when the Royals visit if the injury is not as serious as first diagnosed.

In other games last night, Montreal Juniors bombed Hull Olympics 8-1 and Verdun Black Hawks dumped Shawinigan Cataracts 8-3. Denis Cyr and Clint Campbell scored two goals each as the Juniors went to victory. Gilles Brazeau, Sylvain Jarry, Denis Tremblay and Andre Savard also scored for Montreal, while Marc Secours shattered the shutout attempt at 16:27 in the third period for Hull.

Richard Larocque tallied twice and singles went to Jean Martin, Gilles Leduc, Raymond Bourque, Yves Fontaine, Brian Johnson and Alain Bouchard. Sylvain Cote got two for Shawinigan as Eric Morin picked up the other goal.

TONIGHT'S GAMES

The Beavers host Cornwall in one of four QMJHL encounters this evening. Sherbrooke is looking for its first regular season triumph and doing it in front of a Sports Palace home crowd would please coach Ghislain Delage immensely.

BEAVERS KICK OFF 10TH SEASON

SHERBROOKE — The Beavers kick off their 10th home season in the QMJHL tonight at 8 p.m. against the Cornwall Royals at the Sports Palace.

To celebrate this anniversary year, the Sherbrooke club has announced several ways to repay their followers for their support since their inception.

At each of the home games this season, a television will be drawn from those patrons who buy the all-new QMJHL program. In addition, at the conclusion of the regular season, a $2,000 Hammond organ will be given as the year's grand prize. Two lucky people from each of the 36 home tilts who buy programs will be eligible for the organ. The pairs of numbers will be drawn during each game.

Two clubs are also making a return to the Beavers scene. The Beavers-Pepsi-CHLT Puck Club and the Friends of the Beavers Club will be back in full swing starting tonight.

The former club is for youngsters 16-years-old or younger and is limited to 500 kids who will enter the games at reduced rates. All the youths have to do is send their name, age, address, postal code, birthday and telephone numbers to the Beavers office at 360 Parc St. along with six vinyl liners from Pepsi bottle caps.

In return, the club members will receive official club buttons in the mail.

These buttons will allow the members to gain access to the local Beavers games for $1, half the normal student rate. In addition to receiving information regularly on their favorite hockey team, the members can also be eligible for the numerous gifts given on CHLT radio on Saturday mornings.

The Friends of the Beavers are looking for an enlarged membership this year to be able to boost coach Ghislain Delage's players to victory. Last year the membership was 125 and the club's president, Robert Dauphinais, hopes to see that figure rise to 200. Cost of a membership is $10 and shortly, the benefits for club members will be outlined.

BCS, Stanstead renew rivalry

By MATTHEW ELDER

A gridiron rivalry that dates back to the early years of the century resumes this weekend as Bishop's College School senior footballers take on Stanstead College Saturday afternoon at 2 in Stanstead.

The contest represents the first of a two-game, total point challenge which concludes October 20 in Lennoxville. At stake is the Senator Charles B. Howard Trophy, symbol of football supremacy between the two well-established private schools since 1962.

Stanstead has taken the trophy home 12 times out of 16, and won it eight years in a row, from 1966 to 1973. However, most years the competition has been very tough. Last year, BCS came out ahead in the first game, but Stanstead came back to wallop their rivals by 30 points in the finale.

While the two schools have played football against one another for decades, it was not until the spring of 1962 that the idea of a trophy was conjured up by Don Sterling, who was then head coach at Stanstead. He contacted Senator Charles B. Howard, an old-boy of the school and Sterling's personal friend. The Senator agreed to supply a trophy, and the first two-game series was played that fall, and won by Stanstead.

As one might expect from an age-old rivalry, the past 16 years have provided plenty of highlights, not to mention hijinks. Coach Alex Philip of Stanstead has awakened many Saturdays to find his goalposts doused in purple paint! One year, however, a group of Stanstead supporters gained sweet revenge, and turned the posts at BCS a flaming red. Bishop's officials reacted quickly and had the sticks repainted with white by game time. The visitors had the last laugh though: the uprights turned out an embarrassing and very vivid shade of pink!

Memorable moments on the field are highlighted by outstanding comeback efforts. Last year, BCS came out on top in the first game on a long touchdown pass on the final play. In 1975, Stanstead did the same, but the victory was doubly-sweet — they also clinched the ETIAC crown that day.

But the most incredible feat was accomplished in 1968, when BCS had emerged from the opener with a 14-point lead, but Stanstead came fighting back to win the second half of the series 52-7, to capture the trophy for the third straight year.

This year's matches has the promise of all the others, but BCS will have its work cut out; they have only scrimmaged once, against Seminaire Salesien who are not entered in ETIAC competition this season. Coach Cliff Goodwin hopes his troops will hold their own in this first game.

"I hope we can play better than we did at Salesien in the first game. By the second game (in the Howard Trophy series), we will have more experience. Stanstead has usually been a big rival in all sports through the years, and we certainly don't have to tell them to get up for this game."

Stanstead's veteran mentor, Alex Philip, said the same thing regarding the high spirits, and commented: "Overall, the league should be very interesting this year. We won our first game (against AGRHS) and things look good for us. In this (tomorrow's) game, we'll have to build up a lead after the first game. It's important, both psychologically and points-wise, to go into the second game with a good lead."

ASTRO-GRAPH
Bernice Bede Osol

October 2, 1978

Greater emphasis than usual will be placed upon an exchange of ideas and interrelationships with people this coming year. This added emphasis will increase your depth of understanding, which in turn brings much happiness.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) That natural charm that comes so easily to you will be put to good use today. You will get what you want without appearing aggressive. Like to find out more of what lies ahead for you? Send for your copy of Astro-Graph Letter by mailing 50 cents for each and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth sign.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) The type of people who will be most helpful to you now are those with a compassionate nature. Don't waste time appealing to hard-hearts.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) It would be difficult to overwhelm you today. The larger the group or organization seeking your leadership or aid, the better you'll respond.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Volunteering to take on another person's overpowering situations could end up aiding you as much as him or her. The acknowledgement of your act will be most gratifying.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You have such a pleasant way of presenting things today. Even criticism becomes a compliment because your critique will be kind and constructive.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) It's so like you to always extend your best efforts to help someone. Today if one enlists your services, your determination can only bring success.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) For one normally charged with restless energy today you'll be more content to handle things quietly. The effect will be soothing.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) A kind word or deed today from a fellow worker could inspire you to put new life into a routine task. It'll be a refreshing change.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Today, being with someone who takes life a bit too seriously won't pose any problems for you. You'll handle this person so as to bring out his or her best.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) If you feel creative today, try out your new idea. Your imagination isn't running away with you, it's working for you.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) People recall actions better than they remember words. Today, you dramatize so effectively that your ideas are easily understood and accepted.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Be alert for some hidden means to add to your resources today. If you are perceptive enough, the accumulation could be substantial.

COMPTON
Mrs. Lloyd Hyatt
835-5484

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Daine of Waterloo were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Milmore.

Mr. and Mrs. Zolton Barty of Calgary, Alta., were at the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Milmore for a week. The Barty's have left for a month's visit to the Eastern Provinces, and will return to Compton to spend a few weeks with their parents, before returning to Calgary.

Mr. and Mrs. Ashley Shaughnessy, Grassie, Ont., were guests for over a week of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Hyatt. Mr. Lloyd Shaughnessy, Sawyerville and Mr. Robert Shaughnessy, Lennoxville, were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Hyatt.

Master Christopher McVety spent the weekend guest of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. L. Hyatt.

MANSONVILLE & AREA
Maria Bray
292-3673

Mr. and Mrs. William Jones of Essex Junction, Vt., and Mrs. Thelma Jones residing in Burlington, Vt., visited with Mr. and Mrs. Leon Eldridge on Sunday and were also supper guests the same day.

Miss Marion Atwell of Robinson's Residence at Cowansville was in town recently and called on Maria Bray. Other callers were Hazel Eldridge and Marion Newell. Mrs. Bray accompanied Edith McLean to Newport, Vt., recently.

Newcomers to the area, now residing in the former home of Maria Bray, are Jacques Coriveau, Art teacher in Sherbrooke CGEP, and his friend Natalie St. Pierre and her sister. The house is being remodelled beautifully.
