Parliament losing its relevance to everyday events?

WINTER — As the weather gets progressively colder the ice forming on the shore of the Magog River inches its way slowly towards the center's swifter current. If the weather continues with record lows of -24 Celsius one will very soon see the river covered by a shiny mirror of ice.

Mercury poisons northern Natives

OTTAWA (CP) — Federal health department tests have confirmed that toxic mercury is reaching the bloodstreams of some Arctic residents.

Five persons tested recently at the tiny Baffin Island community of Arctic Bay all had more than 20 parts per billion (ppb) of mercury in their blood. Two of the five had levels above 50, one 60 to 69 and one between 90 and 99.

The normal human range for toxic mercury in the blood is zero to 20. The National Indian Brotherhood, which has a substantial mercury research program, considers prolonged levels more than 50 ppb dangerous and higher than 100 critical.

Arctic Bay is one of the northernmost Canadian settlements and has a population of only 350, mostly Inuit who still live off the land.

Its blood level figures were contained in a mercury-testing report released Thursday by the health department.

MUST GET SERIOUS
 A brotherhood spokesman said the figures show that the health department must begin serious research into mercury contamination in the far North.

"What is of concern is that mercury and other pollutants are accumulating in the Arctic," he said.

The mercury in the blood is believed to have come from eating seals, which are known to have high levels of the toxic substance. However, the spokesman said high levels in humans at Arctic Bay may not be as worrisome as similar levels in the south because the seals also carry silium, a heavy metal that reduces the harmful effects of mercury. This was one point that should be studied closely by the health department.

The department figures also showed a continuing mercury problem in northwestern Ontario and Northern Quebec, areas where some Indians are suspected of having Minamata disease, irreversible mercury poisoning.

THREE CRITICAL
 Tests at Grassy Narrows reserve, near Dryden, Ont., showed that 55 per cent of 18 persons checked had levels above 20 ppb. Three had levels above the critical point of 100.

At nearby Whitedog reserve, 90 persons were tested and seven were above 20 ppb, three with levels higher than 80 and one over 100.

The high blood levels at these two reserves result from eating fish from the mercury-contaminated English-Wabigoon river system. The pollution, from the Reed Paper Ltd. mill at Dryden, was revealed six years ago and has created economic, social and health problems on the reserves.

Nine communities in northern Quebec were tested and most revealed mercury levels in the normal range. However, at Mistassini, considered a mercury hot spot, 32 per cent of 461 persons tested had levels above 20 ppb. There were 24 cases above 50 ppb and four higher than 100.

There were 17 locations checked in Manitoba and most persons were within normal levels. Results from God's Lake Narrows and God's River, however, showed a substantial number of Indian people with levels in the 20 to 50 ppb range.

The department asks persons with levels above 100 to undergo clinical examinations. Jerome suspended argument on the charge against Mr. Trudeau until today, after the formal Hansard record is available.

At issue in the raucous exchanges were questions raised last week by the present and former federal auditors-general about financial dealings abroad by Atomic Energy of Canada

And the opposition formally charged the prime minister with a breach of parliamentary decorum in accusing Progressive Conservatives of using lies in their attacks. Accusing another member of a deliberate lie is a serious offence in parliamentary tradition. Speaker James

Ltd., selling nuclear power stations, and the multinational Polysar Ltd., a petrochemical company indirectly controlled by the government.

Those reports said there are unexplained millions of dollars in payments to AECCL agents overseas and by Polysar through European kickback rebates.

Progressive Conservative

Leader Joe Clark, citing earlier statements by government ministers, asked whether agents of Crown corporations abroad are "free to encourage or acquiesce in the violation or evasion of laws of other countries"—a reference to suggestions that Polysar payments were arranged so recipients could avoid taxes.

On the contrary, replied Mr. Trudeau, "it has been the specified intention in the past and it will be in the future, that those agents must not derogate from the laws, or accounting practices for that matter, of their own countries."

He added that "such guidelines do exist—whether they are written in a form which can be tabled is something I will have to ascertain."

"I do know that they are contained in instructions and in draft model agreements which are circulated by certain ministers to those who have Crown corporations under their command."

When a contract is signed with a foreign agent, the prime minister said, "we make it clear, in writing or otherwise, that money will be spent only for legal purposes."

But Mr. Trudeau indicated that Canada cannot make certain that the agent obeys the law, saying that if there is knowledge that a foreign agent has broken the law in his country "of course we have no authority or ability to look into that matter."

THE ICE SHOW — Starring Toller Cranston will be appearing at the Sports Palace for one show only December 5 at 2 p.m. Emphasizing excellence in figure skating rather than flashy costumes and long chorus lines, "The Ice Show" has been receiving rave reviews all over the country and has been playing to sell-out audiences everywhere it appears.

Ottawa provokes confrontation

OTTAWA (CP) — The government was accused Thursday of provoking a confrontation that could shut down the post office during the crucial Christmas rush.

John Rodriguez (NDP—Nickel Belt) said in the Commons the government "is forcing a confrontation in the post office at the worst time of year by refusing to honor the contract provisions."

Mr. Rodriguez urged the post office to halt all further technological change until current outstanding disputes "have been settled to the satisfaction of both parties."

OTTAWA (CP) — Speaker James Jerome, the lawyer-politician who serves as chairman of the House of Commons in debate, is concerned because Parliament may seem to be losing its relevance to everyday events.

He cites the growing tendency of cabinet ministers to make policy pronouncements outside Parliament as contributing to a feeling that the Commons may be getting out of touch.

"No member of this House can be unaware of the dangers, whether they are artificial or real, or the fear held by the Canadian people, concerning their Parliament," he said in a statement in the House Thursday.

"I am sure their fears are common in all of the governments of the Western world today—that is, that democratic governments as we know them have a tendency to become irrelevant in the opinion of the public."

He also referred to parliamentary controversy last week when Prime Minister Trudeau delivered a formal reaction to the Nov. 15 election of the Parti Quebecois in Quebec on national radio and television networks rather than in Parliament.

DEALT WITH DANSON
 Mr. Jerome dealt specifically with a complaint by opposition MPs that Defence Minister Barney Danson flew to Newfoundland to make a policy statement about changes in airsea rescue operations instead of announcing the plans in Parliament.

Commons members thereby were deprived of an opportunity to examine, question and perhaps criticize the changes, which they argued affect the whole country, not only Newfoundland.

When cabinet ministers make policy statements in Parliament specialist spokesmen for each of the three opposition parties automatically get the opportunity to comment then and there.

When ministers make pronouncements outside, they normally face no such challenge. MPs must fall back on their right to quiz ministers in the daily Commons question period at least a day later—and in competition with other members vying to raise different matters.

Mr. Jerome, 43, Liberal MP for Sudbury since 1968 and Commons Speaker for two years, ruled Thursday that there is no formal violation of the rights of MPs when ministers choose to make policy statements outside the House.

He observed that it would be difficult to define what kind of statements ought to be made in Parliament.

EXPRESSES SYMPATHY
 However, he sympathized with arguments by MPs that the trend towards making ministerial statements on TV encourages the idea that Parliament is no longer the prime arena for discussion and evolution of national policies.

For example, he said, when Parliament deals with legislation it is dealing "with events that are pretty much after the fact—that is the nature of legislation."

Legislation "needs time to be considered and, therefore, the rules often put it somewhat behind the events that give rise to the spirit behind the particular bill."

But when a cabinet minister makes a policy statement in the House "he is always speaking on a topical subject and the questions are very current and very topical."

"Therefore, it is an opportunity for this House to emphasize its relevance to current matters."

Some observers took that as an oblique rebuke to cabinet ministers, including the prime minister, who lately have tended to turn to unchallenged TV appearances for major policy statements rather than exposing themselves to the harassment and heckling of Parliament.

Couture woos workers

ST. JEROME, Que. — Quebec Labor Minister Jacques Couture said Thursday he plans to take a grass-roots approach to the province's labor relations and promote the unionization of unorganized workers.

Noting that 65 per cent of the workforce was not unionized, the minister said the provincial labor law would be changed to give workers greater access to the "sacred right of association."

He said an immediate priority of the labor department will be to propose an increase in the province's minimum wage, adding he was hoping the PQ cabinet would implement the change by decree within the next several weeks.

The 47-year-old worker-priest, whose appointment last Friday came as a surprise to union leaders and management officials, lived up to his reputation as a social activist by appearing in public for the first time at the Tricofil Inc. knitting mill, a worker-owned co-operative in this small community 30 miles north of Montreal.

"I plan to make two or three visits a month with workers at their place of work," he said. "The danger for a labor minister is to stay isolated in his office, buried under a pile of files... and forget that his main job is the improvement of workers' everyday lives on the shopfloor."

STRESSED DECISION
 The freshman minister stressed his decision to tour the Tricofil mill first was "a significant and symbolic gesture."

The workers, who formed the co-operative and purchased the factory after the ownership closed it down, were "a group that refused to be silent victims of economic necessity" and who "had stuck together and organized themselves" rather than "accepting decisions from upstairs," he said.

Mr. Couture was elected in the Montreal riding of St. Henri, an underprivileged district where he made his name as a social worker. He made a strong showing as a reform candidate against Mayor Jean Drapeau in the 1974 municipal election.

Mr. Couture also told reporters he would break tradition with previous Quebec cabinet ministers who had too often intervened personally in labor conflicts. "A labor minister should play a political role not a technical role," he said, adding deputy ministers and of civil servants had the necessary expertise to conciliate or arbitrate labor disputes.

Rather than acting as "an emergency fireman," Mr. Couture said he would concentrate on "global reform" of provincial labor legislation with the aim of preventing lengthy strikes that have marred the province's labor scene during the past decade.

Rouyn water contaminated

MONTREAL (CP) — The drinking water of the northern Quebec community of Rouyn-Noranda is so contaminated by toxic material from mining and industrial wastes that its consumption could pose a danger to health, says a study released Thursday.

In the study, conducted between June, 1975, and May, 1976, samples were taken twice monthly from Rouyn-Noranda's drinking water as well as from Lac Dufault, where some of the city's water comes from.

Geologist Louis Azzaria of Laval University and biologist Christian Potvin of the Quebec Wildlife Service emphasized that the sediment in Lac Dufault has 50 times more copper, 20 times more lead, 17 times more zinc, 12 times more cadmium, eight times more arsenic and six times more mercury than "non-contaminated" sediment in the region.

Toxicologist Albert Nantel of Laval University said he recognizes that it is very difficult to evaluate what risk is involved to the health of people living in the area, 350 miles northwest of Quebec City, although it is essential that the situation be corrected without delay.

At least part of the mercury comes from plants owned by Noranda Mines Ltd., the report said.

PAST DANGER POINT
 Maximum limits were exceeded in two of the 19 samples taken, and the maximum recorded was nine times higher than the danger point. But the average reading was within the permitted limit.

The readings for mercury were within the limit but one of the tests produced a result 2.5 times higher than the danger limit. Three other samples were at the danger point.

Streams nearby contain up to 3,000 times as much mercury as is normally found in the area's water.

Arsenic can also reach unsafe levels, with one sample taken in the spring showing arsenic levels twice as high as the permitted level. Samples taken in winter showed levels within permitted limits.

The levels of iron in the water were also high, with the average in the tests showing levels more than double the permitted limit, while only 10 per cent of the samples were within the limits.

Other tests conducted in the study showed that Rouyn-Noranda's water does not conform to Canadian "esthetic" standards concerning acidity, color and cloudiness. About two-thirds of the samples were below acceptable standards.

But make them fairer

Maintain current restraints on wages

HAMILTON (CP) — Current restraints on wages should be maintained in Canada but refined to make them fair or appear to be fair to all groups in society, publisher Gordon N. Fisher said Wednesday.

"I find I believe—and in some ways I am hesitant about and regret my conclusion—in statutory income controls," Mr. Fisher, president of Southam Press Ltd., told the Hamilton and District Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Fisher was one of four speakers participating in "Presidents' Night," an annual debate on the economy by business leaders sponsored by the chamber.

Others who took part were Claude H. Rosier, president and chief executive officer of Abitibi Paper Co. Ltd.; John S. Dewar, president of Union Carbide Canada Ltd.; and Douglas W. Maloney, president and director of IAC Ltd.

Mr. Fisher said he disagrees with the majority of business leaders who argue that wage and price controls are unworkable and should be replaced by the traditional levers of monetary and fiscal policy.

He said wage restraints were a necessary ingredient of fiscal and monetary policies.

Each speaker read a prepared statement, then answered questions from the floor.

In his speech, Mr. Fisher said it should be possible to develop an incomes policy that would maintain the flexibility of the market system, avoid a huge bureaucracy, and "be fair and be seen to be fair to all levels and groups in society."

SLOW-FAST PROBLEM

It was only with an income-control program that monetary and fiscal policies could be freed of "the current restraint which directs them (governments) to slowing rather than speeding the economy."

Such a policy had to be flexible so that any employer could pay "any employee any amount of money that he wants to get him to do a job that had to be done."

For example, he said an employer may have to pay a bulldozer operator higher wages than normal to get him to work on pipelines in the Arctic.

Mr. Fisher said guidelines that sanctify annual wage increases at an eight-to-10-per-cent level, such as under the federal anti-inflation program, only guarantee that inflation will continue in the six-to-eight-per-cent annual range.

Mr. Dewar said the federal government must provide more support to the petrochemical industry since oil and natural gas is contributing less and less to Canada's balance-of-payments situation.

As well, the industry deserved an increased federal commitment because it consumed only three to five per cent of Canada's total petroleum and natural gas production.

NEW YORK (AP) — Several attempts at an advance failed to pick up momentum Thursday and stock prices settled into a mild decline.

Canadian Dollar dips farther

The Canadian dollar eased 27-100ths of a cent upward closing at 96.76 cents on the New York foreign exchange market Wednesday, after a downward slide which began the day after the Nov. 15 election in Quebec.

The dollar closed at $1.0231, in terms of United States funds on Nov. 15 but slipped almost six cents in a two-week period, closing at 96.49 cents Tuesday.

A Bank of Montreal trader described Wednesday's market as being on "an active but not erratic trading level," adding that projections that the dollar would settle at 95 cents did not appear to be coming true. Trading Wednesday had been initially active, a Royal Bank of Canada trader noted. The Canadian dollar opened higher at 96.71 cents, dipped to 96.53 cents at 10:30 a.m. EST and stabilized at 96.76.

The Royal Bank trader noted that on the whole trading had been quiet and expressed hope that the psychologically-motivated buying of U.S. dollars appeared to have ended.

He said upward pressure on the dollar was anticipated when several loans made on the New York money market were converted into Canadian funds. The sharpest day-to-day drop in the value of the Canadian dollar was Monday when the dollar lost 1.8 cents, the biggest one-day decrease since May 2, 1962.

Analysts credited selling of Canadian dollars by commercial interests in the U.S., following the American Thanksgiving long weekend for much of the decline Monday.

Money market observers had expected the value of the Canadian dollar to drop some months ago and were surprised it remained above par with the U.S. dollar for so long. The weakness of the Canadian economy and the country's balance of payments deficit have been blamed for the dollar's decline and some observers feel that the Parti Quebecois victory in Quebec was the catalyst for the slide.

95-CENT DOLLAR — In Ottawa on Tuesday the vice-president of Merrill Lynch, Royal Securities Ltd. said the Canadian dollar would stabilize at about 95 cents U.S.

A. E. Smith said slumping capital investment, an inflation rate above that of the U.S., and controls on corporate activities influenced the fall of the Canadian dollar.

Domtar cuts back at Windsor

Domtar Packaging Limited will reduce operations at its plant in Windsor, Quebec, effective April 1, 1977. The move will mean a permanent reduction of 35 jobs and will affect about 50 employees, of whom the majority are members of two affiliated syndicates of the Confederation of National Trade Unions (CNTU).

Rising costs of operation in recent years have rendered the converting plant at Windsor less and less profitable. Serious losses sustained in the Converted Papers Division in the past two years have made it impossible to continue, and certain activities at Windsor must therefore close down. A reorganization of the remaining product lines is being undertaken to enhance their profitability.

Domtar will explore job possibilities in its other plants and will work with government agencies in seeking alternative sources of employment.

The Domtar Industrial Conversion Plan will be available to assist displaced unionized employees. This plan, which is financed by Domtar and administered by a joint labour-management committee, is designed to aid employees affected by industrial conversion by supplementing federal and provincial government assistance programs.

Domtar Packaging Limited operates three mills in Quebec and Ontario and 16 converting plants from New Brunswick to Alberta. Its products are distributed through 28 sales offices across the country.

Bell transfers operations

TORONTO (CP) — Bell Canada accounting operations for the Ottawa Valley and Northern Ontario regions are gradually being transferred to Toronto from Montreal as part of a company reorganization program, a Bell spokesman said Monday.

The transfer of employees and equipment to be billing and accounting for more than a half-million Ontario subscribers has no connection with the recent Parti Quebecois victory in Quebec, he said in an interview.

About 125 employees were given a choice last spring of being transferred to the Bell offices in Toronto or to other locations in Quebec.

Only 10 of the employees, most of them English-speaking persons in management positions, have remained in Quebec, the spokesman said.

The shift began in 1973 following Bell Canada efficiency studies that recommended greater decentralization of operations and services in Ontario and Quebec.

No decision until 1979 on Fullerton Pond project

By DAVID SHERMAN
(Record Reporter)

SHERBROOKE — A final decision by Hydro Quebec on whether to proceed with construction of the proposed $400 million pumped power storage project at Fullerton Pond will not be made until 1979, said Jean Laperriere, information delegate for the utility, Wednesday.

In a three hour interview with The Sherbrooke Record, Mr. Laperriere said it is only the partially complete environmental studies that will be made available next spring, while the more comprehensive sociological, economic and ecological information on which a decision would be based, would not be available for at least three years.

"There will be no studies made at all in 1977," explained Mr. Laperriere. "The company has not enough money presently to proceed with this and the project is not important enough to rush. The additional power is only needed in 1988."

If Hydro Quebec does decide to go ahead, construction is scheduled to begin in 1981 or 1982.

One major result of the proposed Fullerton Pond power project could well be the work camp that would house 1,200 to 1,500 workers, and the approximate $130 million dollars in pay cheques that could be loosed on the community.

Although the exact site of the camp is unknown, Mr. Laperriere predicted that it would probably lie with a few miles south of the site itself.

With the high unemployment in the area, Mr. Laperriere sees the project as beneficial to the community for the jobs on the site and the positions it would create in the service industry, such as restaurants, bars and stores. There is also the possibility that some of the workers brought in for the Fullerton Pond project could choose to settle in Brome County after completion.

TESTS AWAITED

"During the construction the impact on the immediate area is very strong," he said but admitted that it was impossible to say exactly what extent it would be felt until all test results are in. "During certain times there will be dynamiting and construction vehicles. Certain types of gravel and cement will have to be brought in. But the majority of the fill used in the dikes will come from the excavation of the reservoirs."

"It is necessary to be a realist about this. If Hydro builds the project here, the population will most certainly be affected."

BEST SITE
Mr. Laperriere claims that according to the testing already completed in the area, the Fullerton Pond site is the most advantageous from an economic and ecological point of view.

The company is presently studying the wildlife population in the area, which he termed as average, and ways to minimize the effects of the project on water levels and the fishing in Ruitter Brook.

...power only needed in 1988'

"It is incorrect to say that all animals in the area will go. Certain species within a two or three mile area, deer, for example, will be frightened away. But not all animals leave. And the others eventually return."

He said that previous studies at Lake Memphremagog were abandoned because it was not possible to determine the exact impact the project would have had on the abundant fishing in the area. "Certainly we could build farther north. But are the people of Quebec willing to pay the extra hundreds of millions of dollars necessary to build thousands of miles of transmission lines? This site seems ideal because of the topography and because it is so near the consumption centre."

Power generated through the underground station will be used to augment electrical resources for the entire province.

Mr. Laperriere cautioned people against changing their lives or the plans for their property while Hydro decides on the fate of the area

'...50-50 chance the project will go through'

"Presently there is a 50-50 chance that the project will go through. If it does, a good part of Hydro's efforts will be to compensate people affected."

Only those directly involved will be asked to sell their property. This would concern people living between the reservoirs and those who would be in the path of the transmission lines, a 300 foot corridor that could be carved in almost any northerly direction from power station.

POWER LINES

Hydro is also studying methods of hooking the lines up with existing power lines to minimize cost and construction.

At present no plans have been finalized regarding where the Mansonville Highway would be relocated, although Mr. Laperriere believes it would probably fall somewhere between the dike wall and an existing railroad bed just east of the present road.

Using the Hydro project in Manicouagan as an example, he said that it was the utility's policy to restore land as best they can after construction and to find ways to make it arable and attractive.

"If we decide to go ahead with Fullerton Pond, it's because at the end of our studies we believe it to be the best possible site with all the economic, sociological and environment factors taken into account. Obviously it's not a pleasure to have to ask someone to move. But Hydro has to make a choice."

"Hydro very rarely has to expropriate property," he said. "In the majority of cases, people make an amicable settlement. We always pay the highest amount between the market value and the municipal evaluation."

Mr. Laperriere emphasized what he originally told the public meeting in Mansonville.

"We asked that any petitions, claims, suggestions or problems should be sent to us at the St. Hyacinthe office. And so far there hasn't been very much."

He stressed that the public utility wants any feedback it can get from the public that may help in planning and if any group wishes to meet a Hydro representative concerning the Fullerton Pond project all they have to do is invite them.

"We're always ready to go," he concluded.

Inquest into Vilas death to continue

By JOHN McCAGHEY
(Record Reporter)

SWEETSBURG WARD — Coroner Deary adjourned his inquest of Marcel Paquette to an indefinite date following closure of testimony here yesterday. The delay was necessitated through the lack of stenographers. Mr. Paquette, 51, of Cowansville, Vilas' maintenance supervisor, was killed as a result of an industrial accident which occurred at Vilas Industries here July 13. He subsequently died at the CHU, Sherbrooke August 12.

Henri Gamache was the special prosecutor for the Provincial Department of Justice. Michel Chartrand and CSN legal council Carol Jobin represented the union while Jean Legault represented Vilas.

Jean Pierre Plouffe, Vilas production control, produced plans of the crusher and filtration system. The accident occurred following a fire and explosion in the storage bin which is fed from the crusher — which contains the sawdust used to fire the plant boilers.

Bertrand Lenier, a Vilas engineer, gave a theoretical explanation of how the system usually operated.

Under repeated questioning by Mr. Chartrand he admitted it was possible that bits of metal could go through the crusher and create sparks which might cause ignition.

Mr. Meunier said the sawdust used that day came from the rough end and then told the tribunal that waste material from other departments was accumulated at night and fed through the crushers during down time. He added modifications were being made to the boilers at the time of the accident to prevent backfire.

Mr. Meunier said the safety gates in the silo storage system were one foot per 65 cubic inches and added that the provincial norms are one square foot per 80 cubic inches thus Vilas exceed the safety demands. He concluded his testimony by stating that an electro-magnetic device had been placed at the crusher since the accident.

Ernest Tittermore, 49, Stanbridge East, a Vilas boilerman foreman said he was on duty at the time of the accident. "I reported to work at about 2:45 p.m." Mr. Tittermore said. "About 3:15 I went to the roof to inspect the silo for sawdust content when I smelled smoke. I returned to the boiler room and I informed my supervisor, Gerard Dumont, who in turn called his supervisor, Mr. Paquette. The three of us returned to the roof when they asked me to get a flashlight. I returned to the boiler room and brought the flashlight then returned to the boiler room again when I heard Mr. Dumont call there was a fire."

"I was about four to five feet away from the boiler control switches which I was going to shut down when the explosion occurred — I came to in the corner." Mr. Tittermore appeared confused by Mr. Chartrand's questions concerning the operation of the old and new sprinkler system and could not provide satisfactory answers.

Gerard Dumont, 66, retired, who had been called in to get Vilas operational after a strike which began in July, 1975 and terminated in March, '76 corroborated Mr. Tittermore's testimony and added he had seen a welder in the boiler room, however, could not state whether or not he was welding immediately prior to the accident.

Florian Roy, 43, a former apprentice boiler fireman presently unemployed, said he was installing a chain block in the boiler room and was descending from a ladder when the explosion occurred. He testified he suffered burns to his arms, legs and back. "I thought the wall had fallen in on me," Mr. Roy said. "I got the hell out of there as fast as I could."

Mr. Roy said he had been referred to Vilas through Canada Manpower and he had never witnessed a fire drill while he was with the company.

graphs for purposes of the hearing.

Coroner Deary indicated the next phase of the inquest will involve close scrutiny of Vilas safety procedures. A total of 19 witnesses have been subpoenaed.

The old dust collector system at Vilas was destroyed in a fire during May 1975 and the new system had a fire on April 8, shortly after the men returned following a strike which ended in March, 1976.

Vilas is Canada's largest manufacturer of solid rock maple furniture and is a wholly owned subsidiary of Molson's Industry

Why is more power needed?

SHERBROOKE (DS) — Why does Hydro need a pumped storage station?

According to Jean Laperriere of Hydro Quebec, repeated requests for electricity consumers to save energy, especially during the peak hours, have fallen on deaf ears. Although present power production is sufficient for normal daily use, it is the peak times, especially during the supper hour in winter, when the company has the greatest difficulty in meeting the needs of consumers.

To meet the demands of this one and a half to two hour period, Hydro believes it preferable to construct a pumped station than either a nuclear plant that must be operated continually or a conventional waterfall powered station that would also involve waste.

"You can't turn off a waterfall or a nuclear plant and use it only at supper time," he said, adding that a pumped storage station seems to be the best alternative.

"It's a false idea that we build power plants to sell electricity to the U.S. We sell only the power from these huge plants that were built to meet the peak capacities and would waste most of their generated power."

He explained that although Canada uses most of its power during winter, Americans, because of their prevalent air conditioning systems, require most of their energy during summer, giving Hydro a natural market for power that would otherwise be wasted.

The voice of the Eastern Townships

Time to protest

Now is the time to protest the proposed $400 million Fullerton Pond Hydro project that would flood 832 acres in Pottion Township, wiping out a wilderness area of the Eastern Townships as well as several homes, and that would construct two 14 storey high dikes, an underground tunnel, and extensive Hydro power lines.

The plan involves the construction of two reservoirs, one set at a 1,508 foot elevation in the Sutton Mountains, and the other below at a 770 foot elevation. Water flowing through a tunnel connecting the two reservoirs would create the electrical power sought.

Hydro Quebec has held public meetings, continues to carry out studies, and invited the public to submit petitions, claims, suggestions or problems to its St. Hyacinthe office. The public utility is proceeding with the project in an open and responsible manner, preferring to face the public before a financial decision is made, rather than later, perhaps in courts.

Since Hydro is a government institution, it must listen to the community involved. The magnitude of the response could convince authorities to seek power elsewhere.

A decision on the project which is given a 50-50 chance of approval, is not due until 1979. Ample time remains to make known the wishes of the region.

No argument can justify the drawbacks of the project to the Eastern Townships. More and more the area is crisscrossed with super highways, leaving homes and land torn up to meet the needs of progress. Do we need more disruption to our land and homes by way of flooding, power lines and huge dikes?

The Eastern Townships is a region close to high density population centres such as Montreal and Quebec City. Yet here one may still find wilderness areas where refuge can be found from urban life and 20th century tensions, and where nature can be studied and enjoyed. It is a unique region inhabited by people whose roots go deep into the 18th and 19th centuries. The quality of life deserves preservation.

Safeguarding the region's natural beauty also makes good economic sense, since tourism is a major Quebec industry and the potential of the Eastern Townships as a tourist centre has only begun to be developed. Revenue is thus brought to the area without disruption to the way of life or to natural surroundings.

Only brief economic stimulus to the area would be felt by the carrying out of such a project. Some local people would gain employment and secondary industry would profit from the influx of business due to the 1,500 work crew. But as Pottion Township Mayor R.B. Armstrong points out, Hydro would also bring many people from outside for the project.

These advantages would be short-lived. What would be lasting would be the 300 foot wide corridors carved into the land to carry power lines, the towering dikes and the land forever flooded.

Barbara Stevenson

Opinion from the French language press

This is a selection of editorials on current topics, translated from the French-language press of Canada.

Montreal La Presse: The defeat of the Liberals in Quebec should normally have plunged the Progressive Conservative party into a state of jubilation. Certainly, the event of Nov. 15 has not saddened them.

To the extent that the leadership of Mr. Trudeau appears to have been weakened, the Conservatives may hope to exploit the new situation. Whatever may be said or done, the vote of Nov. 15 demonstrates resoundingly that the Quebec electorate has not made the perpetual vow to vote "rouge" (popular name for the Liberal party in Quebec) in Ottawa and "rouge" in Quebec.

However, the twilight, temporary or not, of the Liberal party in Quebec does not give the Conservative party joy without complications. Probably it is because the decline of the Liberal party in Quebec does not in itself constitute a guarantee of success for their traditional adversaries on the federal scene.

The reasoning has always been that on deserting one camp, the Quebec voter would inevitably find himself in the other. Has it ever been considered that one day a third party, perhaps the NDP, could win the favor of these voters?

That is not, at the present time, a probability. At most, it's a possibility and a purely theoretical one. But it exists.

Two things are causing ferment among the Conservatives at the moment. They have to settle their internal dissension; they are preoccupied with the inevitably exacting nature of any negotiations with a Quebec government led by Rene Levesque.

Mr. Clark says he is ready to collaborate with the new Quebec government in terms of certain objectives of interest to Quebecers, the list of these objectives naturally excluding independence.

Is this proclamation of good faith only one more vote-getting tactic? Some may consider it to be just that.

However, it is not untimely to recall that, under Robert Stanfield, the Conservatives lent an attentive ear to the demands of the provinces and that Mr. Clark appears to wish to continue that practice. — Guy Cormier (Nov. 23)

Montreal Le Devoir: Only celebrations associated with Grey Cup activities tempered the gloomy editorials and columns which the English-language press devoted during the weekend to the state of the country after the election of a Parti Quebecois government and the reactions it continues to provoke in Ottawa.

Toronto Star, in its Saturday edition, with a circulation of 700,000, printed a front-page editorial which raised the spectre of "Canada sleepwalking to disaster" and proposes nothing less than a government of public salvation.

Other columnists, shaken by the events of Nov. 15 and the disarray it has aroused in the Canadian capital, have been speculating for several days on the capability of the Liberal government and its leader to meet the new challenge.

Two main currents are emerging in English Canada. For some it would be unrealistic to be against the facts of history. Sooner or later, Quebec being a distinct entity, it should be resolved to reshape the structure of the federation completely and give the province a new status, such as an associated state.

Not to start preparing for this new regime now, say proponents of this theory, is to court the danger of a separation which would be carried out in conditions prejudicial to both sides.

Others believe Quebec should be given a favorable place in the federation, so it can meet its own aspirations, so that French-speaking Canadians can be at home everywhere, and that equal opportunities be provided for them.

Those who propose this solution... subscribe to a more generous concept of national unity by which, for example, provincial and even municipal governments, in their domains, would offer their francophone minorities better conditions, especially in the education sector.

The recent interventions of Mr. Trudeau belong naturally to this latter current.

But since Nov. 15 this thesis has been put into question outside of Quebec, as the articles referred to bear witness.

These articles express to a large measure the growing uneasiness which impregnates the country and places Mr. Trudeau in the most difficult situation he has known since coming to power. For a century Canada has had very few leaders, if indeed any, who have had the stature of this man, remarkable in so many ways and beside whom other political leaders so often appear mediocre. But the irreducible problem of Quebec's place had to be posed during his reign.

Where are the wise men who will succeed him? It is not those liquidators who research the country, but a statesman capable of realizing the most vital equation of our history: Pierre Trudeau is capable, if only he would agree to recognize that there will always be more things in the reality and in the world than can be contained in the brain of one man.—Michel Roy (Nov. 29)

Ottawa Le Droit: The world of toys and games is gradually becoming more and more complex. And today it causes as much enthusiasm as bewilderment and bitter criticism.

For the child a toy is not only a "thing" without value which prevents him from annoying everybody. On the contrary, it is often the first tangible instrument of the development of his faculties, of his dexterity and of his knowledge of the surrounding world.

Finally these same toys are or can be a key to intellectual and artistic harmony and beauty. Depending on their shapes, colors, their general appearance and the way they are fashioned, they will gradually shape the child's taste.

Depending on their solidity, durability and the range of experiences which they generate, they will teach the child to use his possessions well or will lead him easily to the consumption of costly objects, rapidly outmoded and readily thrown away.

If one were to evaluate our society now in terms of the toys on sale, and if the future were reflected by the games suggested to children, there would be every reason to resign at the sight of dolls with mutilated faces, of luxurious Barbies, of devastating robots and of monster games.

And this feeling would be intensified on finding that these same games and toys, corresponding more often to the lives of our American neighbors than to ours, are those which television advertising perniciously thrusts on our children, at the same time as the symbols which they promote.—Johannes Martin Godbout (Nov. 23)

Montreal Matin: Too much is too much. Or rather, too little is too little. The freeing of Patty Hearst, sentenced to seven years in prison for taking part in the armed holdup of a bank and for complicity in the ensuing murder, after three months behind bars, is as scandalous as the statements of Marie Antoinette concerning the poor who were without bread: "Let them eat cake." One does not wish to see anyone spend their life in prison and we do not feel any sentiment of aversion, any need for vengeance vis-a-vis Patty Hearst in particular. But it forces us to note that if Patty Hearst had been poor and black, she would have stagnated in prison for seven years and paid her penalty right till the end.

One need only compare the treatment given Angela Davis, or that which is reserved for other members of the Symbionese Liberation Army, such as the Harrises, who have every chance of spending years in prison, with that applied to a millionaire's daughter of whom a press, childish and apparently insensitive to social justice, proclaims in headlines that "her laugh now cheers her parent's home."

What an exemplary figure is Angela Davis in comparison, cultivated, humane, serene, serious and humble. Or many unknown black militants who spend years in prison for far less than that which Miss Hearst was charged with.

There is one justice for the rich, another for the poor. That's not new. But perhaps these two weights and measures should not have been flaunted thus, in the broad daylight.

It's shocking. It's dangerous.—Louis Witznitzer (Nov. 27)

Helms to the rescue once again

WASHINGTON—The United States embassy in Tehran, we've discovered, has attempted to help the Shah of Iran quash unfavorable press criticism in the United States.

Classified State Department cables reveal that former CIA Director Richard Helms, who recently resigned as ambassador to Iran, tried to help the Iranians halt the publication of an anti-government newspaper.

We reported earlier that Helms had cabled Washington about closing down the "Iran Free Press," an often outrageous anti-shah newspaper published in the United States.

The helpful Helms was told by State Department officials that "the matter had been carefully studied, but lawyers had concluded that under U.S. laws, there was regrettably no basis for such action."

Helms also asked for information on Nasser Afshar, publisher of the newspaper, who is an American citizen.

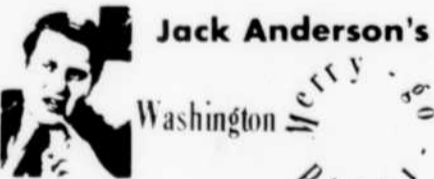

Now, additional cables in our possession indicate that Helms at times turned the U.S. embassy into a branch office of the Iranian government.

In a confidential telegram dated May 12, 1973, Helms told the State Department that an official of the Iranian Ministry of Foreign Affairs had demanded to know how Afshar acquired American citizenship.

The Iranian also pertinently asked why the U.S. government would "permit a U.S. citizen (to) undertake political activities against a friendly country like Iran."

The State Department obligingly responded that "Afshar immigrated to the U.S. in January, 1966, and was naturalized as a U.S. citizen on Aug. 28, 1962." Afshar, confided the State Department officials, had been issued a passport in 1970 after checks with the FBI and other federal agencies.

Helms then reported that one of his diplomatic aides had been summoned to the Iranian Ministry of Foreign Affairs for another lecture about Afshar.

His aide, said Helms, told the Iranians that "we have been exploring with Washington for some time whether action could be taken against Iran Free Press, but without success so far."

On May 30, the State Department authorized Helms to tell the Iranians that "the department agrees that the Iran Free Press is a scurrilous publication filled with libelous, irresponsible and inaccurate statements."

"However," warned State Department officials, "there are no legal steps the U.S. government can take against this paper unless and until it violates federal law."

But, the Washington officials added, "we are looking into Afshar's background through the appropriate channels."

The message was passed on to Iranian officials, reported Helms two weeks later. "Should any further information be developed regarding Afshar's background, cabled Helms, "... we would appreciate having it."

Micronesian Oil: Giant international oil interests and the Interior Department are joining forces to defoliate a lush tropical paradise. Both want the tiny Pacific island of Palau to become a petroleum superport between the Middle East and Japan.

"Port Pacific" is the branchchild of Robert Panero, a jet-setting American businessman. Panero wants to be the middleman in a deal that would ship Mideast oil to Palau for refining. The oil would then be transported by tanker to Japan.

The petroleum project, of course, would lay waste to a good part of the island's beautiful tropical surroundings. And most of Port Pacific's high-paying jobs would go to foreign workers imported from outside Palau.

Worse yet, Japanese industrial interests allied with Panero are conducting their own "feasibility study" to guarantee themselves exclusive development rights. Much of the study will be kept under wraps for the next five years.

The Interior Department, nevertheless, has given its enthusiastic blessing to the project. Fred Zeder, Interior's territorial development chief, told us he sees nothing unusual or secret about the deal.

The Environmental Defense Fund, though, may challenge the proposal in court.

Disabled Lobby: A secret study by Ralph Nader's new Disability Rights Center shows that makers and sellers of artificial breaths, home respirators and wheelchairs often ignore the needs of those who use them.

The study shows that despite sky-high prices, there is often little or no training provided for those who buy the products. Emphysema victims, for example, buy home "breathers" but may die from oxygen overdoses for lack of instruction on how to use the units.

The center is headed by a tough California lawyer named Deborah Kaplan who broke her neck in a diving accident and is now a partial quadriplegic. She has mapped a campaign to rally the 10 million seriously disabled into a massive consumer lobby.

Phony Lincolnism: For years, a poster with a pious quotation attributed to Abe Lincoln has stared down at visitors to the office of Rep. Caldwell Butler, R-Va. It says, in part, "you cannot help the poor by discouraging the rich."

The major problem with the homily is that it's a fake, often used by Big Business to justify excess profits, but proved phony in 1960 by the Library of Congress. Butler's staff says the congressman knows it's a fake, but "he didn't care who said it, he thinks it's pretty good."

LENNOXVILLE (GB) — Youth Appreciation Week in Lennoxville will get underway next week under the sponsorship of the local Optimist Club.

The main objective of the week is to create a consciousness and understanding of today's youth.

The more specific objectives of Youth Appreciation Week include an effort to recognize "The accomplishments of youth in the home, school, church and community. In order to accomplish this goal the news media are asked to recognize the accomplishments and contributions of youth through regular and special features.

Other objectives during this week include efforts to promote more active participation by members of families in the interest and activities involving the family as a unit; and to encourage parents to rededicate themselves to the responsibilities of parenthood.

Efforts during this week will be made to encourage organizations and other groups to publicly show their respect for youth and stimulate a greater interchange of ideas between adults and youth leading to a broader understanding of each other's problems.

The week has as its last objective to encourage the development of a proper environment for youth, including opportunities for participation in recreational and social activities.

During next week the following activities have been planned for Youth Appreciation Week in Lennoxville:

Monday, December 13: At 9:30 a.m. a Plant tour of Kruger Pulp and Paper plant in Bromptonville has been organized.

At 7:30 p.m. Junior Mayor and 6 Junior Councillors will attend the regular meeting of the Lennoxville Council.

RICHMOND

Mrs. John Wilkins 826-2130

Mrs. Dorothy Gregory has returned from Montreal after attending the granting of degrees, Class 1976 Loyola at Place des Arts, when her son-in-law, Mr. Mario Cote, received his Bachelor's of Science Degree.

The community was gripped to learn of the sudden death of Mr. Orin Ross Taylor at Trenholm on Wednesday, Nov. 24, husband of Norma Knowles and the late Audrey Knowles, twin brother of Orvis and dear father of Barry of Vancouver, B.C. Funeral was held Saturday at the J.H. Fleury Inc. Funeral Home, Adam St., Richmond and interment in Trenholm Cemetery. A Legion service was held on Friday evening. Sympathy is extended to the family and relatives.

Mrs. Dorothy Gregory was in Cowansville recently to attend the funeral of Mr. Marshall Gregory.

Alberta explores usefulness of airships for transport

EDMONTON (CP) — Airship enthusiasts who believe the age of lighter-than-air craft did not end with the explosion of Germany's Hindenburg in May, 1937, may soon receive support from an unexpected quarter — the Alberta government.

The provincial transportation department is examining the feasibility of using non-rigid airships for freight transport.

"This province is not afraid to explore the idea," Rowland McFarlane, deputy transportation minister, said in an interview.

"We are looking at airships as another way to move freight into our developing areas."

Alberta is the only province to own a scheduled service airline, Pacific Western Airlines, and recently became the first to take part in the development of hovercraft. Now, Mr. McFarlane said, "It is conceivable there could be an airship industry in Alberta."

Interest in airships was revived in the province when Transportation Minister Hugh Horner tabled a report by the Alberta Airship Group, during the fall sitting of the legislature.

WOULD TRANSPORT GAS

That report, prepared in March, 1975, deals with the feasibility of transporting natural gas to Alberta pipelines from the Arctic by airship and recommends that the provincial government study the economic potential of establishing an airship construction industry.

The report was concerned mainly with the use of large, rigid-frame airships.

The provincial transportation department is looking instead at what Mr. McFarlane described as "smaller, cheaper, non-rigid airships that are more flexible in application."

The type of airship suitable for use in Alberta's isolated areas might be similar to the 22 airships recently ordered by Venezuela from Aerospace Developments in Britain.

The Venezuelan airships will be of various sizes, with carrying capacities ranging from about two tons to 22 tons. They will be used mainly for the freight and surveying work.

The first to be delivered is 165 feet long, 47 feet high and capable of carrying 2.2 tons. It cost about $450,000 with a direct operating cost of less than $20 an hour.

OTHERS INTERESTED

Other countries have expressed an interest in airships. Mr. McFarlane said Germany is working on several designed to transport freight to Africa. Good year in the United States is designing a rigid-frame ship for the navy and the Soviet Union is looking at atomic-powered dirigibles.

In Alberta, using airships to carry freight at a probable speed of about 100 miles an hour would have a number of advantages.

Famous skier married

BISHOP, Calif. (AP) — Jill Kinmont, whose tragic skiing career and love affair are portrayed in the film The Other Side of the Mountain, has married a man from this town on the edge of the mountains where she learned to ski.

Miss Kinmont, 40, and John Boothe, 35, were married last Friday.

The bride and groom grew up here 300 miles north of Los Angeles but did not meet until Miss Kinmont moved back two years ago. Boothe works for a local trucking firm. She teaches remedial reading in the Bishop schools.

Miss Kinmont was the top hope in the United States for an Olympic gold medal in skiing when she took a bad spill at Alta, Utah, in 1955. Hitting a tree, she crushed three vertebrae and became paralyzed from the shoulders down.

A friend, Dick Buek, prodded her into fighting for life. They had plans to marry—"but nothing definite," Miss Kinmont says—when Buek, a flyer, was killed in a plane accident in 1957.

The story of her accident and love affair with Buek is dramatized in The Other Side of the Mountain, released in 1975 and recently re-released.

PARIS (AP) — Thieves slit the throat of Brigitte Bardo's pet ram Saturday

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — Novelist Nathaniel Hawthorne took a "normal" interest in the shape of girls' legs and enjoyed a smoke or drink with friends, says Brown University professor. English Prof. Hyatt Waggoner, a Hawthorne scholar, made those observations after authenticating a recently discovered volume identified as Hawthorne's earliest manuscript notebook.

"What we have learned from the notebook (which has written between 1835 and 1841) we could not have learned before," said Waggoner.

Waggoner, the only scholar to study the 46-page work, said it is the most "inward-centred and most idea-centred" of all Hawthorne's notebooks.

The notebook had been lost since 1866 when excerpts were published. It was discovered by amateur scholar Barbara Mouffe of Boulder, Colo., and authenticated by Waggoner.

Pre-Yule church events

KNOWLTON (KT) - Sunday, Dec. 12 promises to be a special day here at St. Paul's Church. It will mark the closing of the first term of the Sunday School and the 11 a.m. service will feature the junior choir and the dedication of a Christmas banner which is being made by members of the Sunday School.

At 4:30 p.m. in Christ Church Cathedral in Montreal, St. Paul's Parish lay readers will be licensed and commissioned in company of other lay-readers in the Diocese in a special service. A new banner for Advent was made by Mrs. Ruth Stanway and her son who is the St. Paul's rector. It features the words of prophesy from Isaiah about the coming of Jesus and an Advent Wreath. The banner was dedicated at the 8 a.m. service on Nov. 28.

Each Sunday in Advent, the service will commence with the lighting of a candle on the Advent Wreath; one candle was lighted on Sunday, Advent 1, two will be lighted on Advent 2, and so on. The centre, or Christ Candle, will be lighted at Christmas. The ceremony is accompanied by a short Bible reading and a prayer.

The growing volume of light represents the coming of the light of the world. The evergreens are a symbol both of Christmas and growth. The use of a wheel is taken from ancient pagan sacrifice, but represents to us in its circular form, the perfect nature of God, and His eternity.

At Knowlton United Church White Gift Sunday will be held on Dec. 12th, as a celebration for young and old to share gifts with the needy. Traditionally these gifts are food, money and toys, but in individual imagination is the limit! There will be a surprise guest and family participation.

On Sunday, Dec. 19th the children's Christmas Pageant will be presented at 6:30 p.m. until 7:30 p.m. Little angels wearing cardboard wings and bearded wise men aged seven or eight and the child you love singing "Away in the Manger" will all present the spirit of Advent. Your support is asked, not only with your presence but by bringing your child to the regular practise sessions each Sunday morning.

Carol Service will be at "The Creek" which, like the "Church in the Glen", is not so much a building as a spiritual centre housing the memories, dreams and hopes of a country community. Something special happens when folks meet to sing, to hear scripture, to touch and to greet in the spirit of Christ. All are invited to take part Sunday, Dec. 19th 8 to 9 p.m. at The Creek.

On Dec. 12th The Yamaska Regional Choir will sing carols from around the world some in the original language. Pat Going and John Ringwood will provide the music for what has become a highlight of the Advent Season, at St. Therese RC Church, Cowansville at 8 p.m.

And do not miss The Christmas Hymn Sing this coming Sunday, Dec. 5th at St. Michael and All Angels Anglican Church in The Glen at 7:30 p.m. Edna Badger, Pat Going and St. Paul's Junior Choir will lead the service.

Word of Grace rescheduled

SHERBROOKE - The Word of Grace radio hour, a highly appreciated program of CKTS-Sherbrooke station, has been rescheduled as of Dec. 5th.

The Word of Grace, from next Sunday, will be presented by St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church at 8:50 a.m. for 15 minutes.

St. Andrew's Church also starts a new program as of the same Sunday: under the name "The Good News" a religious news bulletin will be given, Sunday at 10 a.m. presenting inspirational news of the world-wide church, on an ecumenical basis.

The Word of Grace has been in operation since 1969. It started as an interfaith broadcast but soon St. Andrew's Church was left as the only sponsor. Its present audience rating, according to the network's survey is 5,000.

Obituary

MRS. ELSIE MORRISON
 of Bury
 Mrs. Elsie Morrison passed away at the Sherbrooke Hospital on Nov. 26th, 1976 in her 85th year.

The only child of Angus B. and Catherine MacLeod (Morrison), Elsie Victoria was born in June 1892 at Littleton, N.H.

In October 1927 she married Edward Malcolm Morrison who predeceased her in April, 1946. They lived on the home farm for 16 years.

Of this union one child was born - Katherine Margaret who married Fred Graret of Ottawa. They now reside in Windsor, Ont.

Besides her daughter and son-in-law she leaves three grandchildren, Holly, Corey and Terry, to mourn her passing as well as many friends and relatives.

Prayers were held on Sunday, Nov. 28th at the Bury Funeral Home followed by the service at St. Paul's Anglican Church in Bury. Comforting words were spoken by Rev. L. Westman.

The bearers were Messrs. Newton MacLeod, Dan Peblemann, Galen Morrison, Dale Munkittrick, George Wm. Henry and Russell Perkins.

Interment was in the family plot at the Gould Cemetery.

Mrs. Morrison was well-known and respected in both Bury and Littleton where she had many friends. The many beautiful flowers and donations indicated the high esteem in which she was held.

She was active for most of her life in the Rebekah Lodge, having been awarded by them both her 50 year jewel and the Award of Chivalry. She was involved in numerous other organizations as well, the Order of the Easter Star, St. Paul's Anglican Church Guild, the A.C.W., Bury United Church Women and the Bury Women's Institute from which she earned a Life's Membership pin.

The O.E.S. and Rebekah Lodge both held Memorial Services in her honour Saturday evening at the Bury Funeral Home.

Relatives and friends attended the funeral from Windsor, Ont., Montreal, Sherbrooke, Lennoxville, Bishopton, Gould, North Hill, Cookshire, Sawyerville, Milan, Scotstown and Bury.

December 26, Boxing Day, there will be a service of the congregations of the three United churches and Anglican church at 11:00 a.m. to be held at Centenary by Reverends Gordon Mitchinson and Owen Merriman. This too is always a happy service of fellowship and friendship.

The theme of the Cantata at Wesley is "Song of the Holy Night" a sharing of the joyous music of Christmas. Also at the Wesley United 11:00 a.m. service they will have their White Gift service that will be followed by a luncheon and cartoons for the children in their Fellowship Room.

The usual special services of Christmas will be held at all the Catholic churches and Christ Church Anglican church.

In this joyous season of Advent and Christmas and the reaffirmation of Christians in their belief of the birth of Christ this 1976 year, an invitation is extended to all friends to attend these services and share the fellowship that centers upon that Holy Night in Bethlehem.

Christmas party held
 AYER'S CLIFF - The annual Christmas party for the Ayer's Cliff Club of the Quebec Farmers Association was held on Saturday evening, November 27 at the Legion Hall in Ayer's Cliff.

This delightful event was attended by 91 members of the families and their guests to sit down to tables in the hall where the Legion Auxiliary assisted by some of the menfolk served a delicious home cooked family style turkey dinner with all the trimmings that left nothing to be desired.

Mrs. Lorraine Harrison presented to Mrs. John (Rita) Brus, a gift while Richie Harrison presented to Douglas Johnston, an identical gift. Rita for her services as secretary-treasurer to the Club and to Doug for his work as president of this Club, and now president of the Provincial Association. Both presentations were accompanied with words of tribute to the great work accomplished by this team.

Responding with words of appreciation Doug said, "I have a good working group" and added "one man cannot do it alone". Mrs. Brus added her words of thanks and Doug thanked the Legion Ladies for the wonderful meal served to them.

The tables were cleared and replaced with card tables. Several games of progressive 500 were played at some 28 tables while the younger folk played their own game of cards. Mrs. Douglas Johnston saw to it that all the children received a candy bar to munch on.

To win prizes for cards were Mrs. John (Carla) DeBoer and Ross Royea, high. Mrs. Ross (Irene)

Peter Jackson Series

Quebec Open in Sherbrooke

SHERBROOKE (SB) — Quebec Golf Association tournament chairman, Mr. Harold Brownstien announced recently that the 1977 Peter Jackson Quebec Open will be played on June 24, 25, and 26, at the Sherbrooke Country Club.

Mr. Brownstien also announced the appointment of Sherbrooke Mayor, Mr. Jacques O'Bready, as the tournament chairman.

Following the announcement, Mayor O'Bready expressed the great enthusiasm of the members of the club and of the residents for the opportunity to hold this important event.

"We have assured the Quebec Golf Association and sponsors of our total collaboration," stated Mayor O'Bready. "We are convinced that the event will be a great success, because we have wanted to host this tournament for a long time."

This year's tournament purse amounts to $20,000 of which $4,000 will go to the eventual winner.

When asked why Sherbrooke had been chosen as the site of the '77 Peter Jackson Quebec Open, Mr. Luc Brien of the Huston Group, the ad agency for Peter Jackson, stated "It's a great area and a good course, but you haven't had a major event played here since '63. We felt it was the best choice all the way around."

The Peter Jackson Series is made up of seven opens, such as the Quebec Open, the Ontario, Maritime (they alternate), Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia Opens.

Participants in the Opens are also competing for the Peter Jackson Cup, which is awarded to the player accumulating the most number of points in recognized golf events through-out the regular season. The winner of the Peter Jackson Cup earns the right to represent Canada in the World Cup Event, which will be played at the Mission Hills Club in Palm Springs California, next week.

George Knudson won the honor last year and will be competing at Mission Hills. Besides the Provincial Open series, Peter Jackson also sponsors the Canadian Open, for international golfers as well as Canadian golfers. Oakville Ontario is the permanent site of this, the 5th largest golf tournament in the world.

The Peter Jackson Classic, featuring the best women golfers in the world is another of their projects and will be played in Lachute this year.

Tickets for this year's Quebec Open can be purchased at the Sherbrooke Country Club.

PETER JACKSON QUEBEC OPEN — will be held next June on the Sherbrooke Country Club course for the first time in 13 years. Seen here are: Mr. Harold Brownstien, Quebec Golf Association tournament chairman, Mr. H. M.

Danny Murtaugh dies

After 40 years in baseball

CHESTER, Pa. (AP) — Danny Murtaugh, who pledged to make his fourth baseball retirement his last so he could devote more time to his grandchildren, is dead at age 59.

Murtaugh, who left Pittsburgh Pirates two months ago, slipped into a coma and died Thursday night after suffering a stroke two days earlier.

"In my younger years, I don't think I spent enough time with my children," the sentimental Irishman said when he quit the National League team in October. "I'm going to make it up with my grandchildren."

Murtaugh was stricken Tuesday afternoon at his home in nearby Woodlyn and taken to Crozer Chester Medical Centre. The stroke was considered serious and his condition steadily deteriorated.

He had a 10-year history of heart trouble and his death followed what he said was a season of very bad health.

His friends in baseball mourned the fact that he would not get the chance to fulfil his retirement dreams: scout ball players in the warm sun, smell the roses and play with his grandchildren.

"He was a baseball man," said Cincinnati Reds manager Sparky Anderson. "He liked it so much he came back to it when he shouldn't have."

WAS LURED BACK
Murtaugh was lured out of retirement three times by his close friend and mentor, Joe L. Brown, then general manager of the Pirates, who gave Murtaugh his first managing job.

But when Brown announced his own retirement at the end of last season, Murtaugh quickly followed. Murtaugh's legacy to baseball, his professional admirers agreed, was his unflappable temperament and his sense of humor.

"Patience, ultimate patience," Pittsburgh relief pitcher Dave Giusti once said. "That's what makes Danny Murtaugh a winning manager."

"I don't panic easily," Murtaugh would calmly tell reporters in post-game assessments from his locker-room rocking chair.

Born here Oct. 8, 1917,

Murtaugh began playing pro baseball at 19 and broke into the majors with Philadelphia Phillies four years later.

Boston Braves traded him to the Pirates in 1947 and the following year he had his best season, leading the league in putouts for a second baseman, assists and double plays while batting .290.

Brown hired Murtaugh to manage the New Orleans

Full bill at Bishop's

LENOXVILLE — A triple treat awaits fans of Bishop's University intercollegiate teams tonight as both basketball and the hockey squad see action at home.

At 7:30, BU women host UQTR in a revenge match. Last Sunday, the Patriots beat Bishop's by 18 points, a fact that BU coach Bill Taylor says can be reversed.

He stated that foul trouble in the late going allowed UQTR to run up a good sized lead before the game concluded.

The men's contingents take to the floor at 9 p.m. The key to UQTR's offence is big Peter Ryan, who scored 41 points in last weekend's match — and it will be up to a tough Gaiter defence to hold that player to a low-key game.

McGill Redmen visit the puck Gaiters at 8:15 p.m. Bishop's came up with a total team effort against Concordia earlier this week and are expected to be reaching the point when wins will come a lot more frequent than defeats.

The Bishop's-McGill rivalry has not diminished over the years and tonight's battle will be no exception. The Gaiters edged the Redmen 5-4 in the league-opener and McGill will be out to avenge that defeat.

farm club in 1952 and he guided them to fifth place his first season while playing part-time.

He had been third base coach for the Pirates less than two years when Bobby Bragan was fired and Murtaugh was promoted to manager.

FINISHED SECOND
Pittsburgh finished in second place the next season after eight years at the bottom or near bottom of the National League.

Just two years later, in 1960, he led the Pirates to a World Series triumph over New York Yankees. His heart condition forced him to retire in 1964 but he stayed on as a part-time scout.

"Scouting is the golf tour of baseball," Murtaugh said. "Easy travelling, out in the sun, real enjoyable."

It was to be the first of four retirements for Murtaugh as Pittsburgh manager.

Low attendance plagues Beavers

SHERBROOKE (SB) — Lagging spectator attendance this season, has prompted the management of the Sherbrooke Beavers hockey club to undertake two different promotions.

The first is "Objective 4,000", a promotion aimed at getting at least 4,000 spectators to tonight's regular season match-up between the division leaders, the Sherbrooke Beavers and the Cornwall Royals, in the second spot team.

The club management will hand out 300 mini-loto tickets to spectators sitting in the winning sections of the Sports Palace. The drawing of the winning sections will take place between the second and third periods. Winners will just have to exchange their ticket stubs for the loto tickets upon departing.

Attendance at this season's games has dropped considerably over that of last year. Where as the attendance average last year was around 5,000 people, this year the average is between 3,300 and 3,800 spectators.

The second promotion is a team luncheon every Saturday afternoon at 1:00 p.m., just after the team's regular practice.

The lunches will take place at the Brasserie La Boustifaille on King Street East and the public is warmly invited to attend these lunches, starting this Saturday. The lunches are aimed at making the players and the management more accessible to the public.

Returns to flock ahead of schedule

Herron saves the game for Penguins

was injured and unavailable. "I hadn't played in eight months," he said, apparently not counting the six minutes he played in the season opener before suffering the fracture.

Herron had worked out for an hour a day at home in Pittsburgh with team-mates Lowell MacDonald and Ed Van Impe.

Jean Pronovost scored two goals, including his 11th of the season into an empty net with two seconds to play, and Mike Corrigan and Lew Morrison had singles for the Penguins.

THIRD DEFEAT
Denis Herron and Bert Marshall scored for the Islanders, who suffered their third consecutive defeat and fifth in six games.

Bob Gainey and Murray Wilson gave the Canadiens a 2-0 lead by 3:40 of the first period at Montreal, but Juhani Widing, Butch Goring and Gene Carr put the Kings ahead 3-2 heading into the third. Goring beat goalie Ken Dryden on a power play and Carr had the first short-handed goal against Montreal this season.

Shutt converted a rebound after Jacques Lemaire and Pete Mahovich had good chances against Kings netminder Gary Edwards. Shutt said the Kings, under coach Bob Pulford, a former Maple Leaf, had looked a lot like the dump-the-puck Toronto teams of Punch Imlach 15 years ago.

"They're a very defensive team anyway, but they were really playing it close with the lead. Their wings wouldn't flare in—as soon as they lost the puck, they'd go straight back to their blueline."

The Kings, who were outshot 43-20, have seven losses and six ties in their last 13 games and trail the first place Canadiens by 17 points in the Norris Division.

In games tonight, Philadelphia Flyers visit Washington Capitals, Boston Bruins are at Atlanta Flames, Vancouver Canucks visit Colorado Rockies and Cleveland Barons play host to St. Louis Blues.

Roadrunners overrun by San Diego

Tony Cassolato has wasted little time showing how pleased he is to be back in San Diego.

Playing in his second game with the Mariners since being recalled by the World Hockey Association club earlier this week, the 20-year-old native of Guelph, Ont., responded Thursday night with an overtime goal to give San Diego a 4-3 win over Phoenix Roadrunners.

The Peterborough Petes junior graduate scored in his first WHA game Oct. 9 against Cincinnati Stingers, but after the club's next contest he was dispatched to Charlotte Checkers of the Southern Hockey League.

He rejoined the Mariners on Tuesday and came through with a goal in the club's 8-2 loss to the Jets in Winnipeg.

The Mariners, frustrated recently in attempts to catch the first-place Jets in the WHA West Division, moved to within one point of idle Winnipeg with the win. They had split their previous 10 games and had lost two in a row. However, the victory was their 10th consecutive at home.

The Roadrunners' Robbie Florek netted his 20th goal of the season in a losing cause. Along with 22 assists, he now has 42 points and holds third spot in WHA scoring.

In other games Thursday night, Indianapolis Racers got three three-period goals during a one-minute, 53-second span to edge Birmingham Bulls 4-3, while Indianapolis Racers nipped Calgary Cowboys 2-1.

At Birmingham, the Oilers got three quick goals from Bryan Campbell, Tim Sheehy and Norm Ullman before the six-minute mark of the final period to erase a 2-1 Birmingham lead.

Mark Napier picked up his 24th goal of the season for the Bulls. He also assisted on Paul Henderson's score and the two points gave him 36 for the season and ninth place in league scoring.

Renald Leclerc's goal with 2:40 remaining in the contest ended a netminding duel and gave Indianapolis the win. The Racers now are within two points of first-place Quebec Nordiques in the East Division.

The winning goal came after Indianapolis goalie Jim Park had stopped a breakthrough by the Cowboys' Danny Lawson. Darryl Maggs cleared the puck to Bob Scinski who fed Leclerc breaking down the right wing.

Calgary goaltender Don McLeod was tested with 32 shots, coming up with several spectacular saves on drives from close range. But he was unable to stop Leclerc's wrist shot and Indianapolis came away with its ninth victory in its last 10 games.

At Champlain

LENOXVILLE — The games are on tap for Champlain CEGEP sports clubs this weekend, all being played at the John H. Price Sports Centre here.

Saturday afternoon, both squads host Shawinigan CEGEP for basketball contests.

At 1 p.m. the women meet on the court, while the men oppose each other at 3 p.m. Champlain will be looking to shut off league leading scorer Sylvie Turner, while countering with Sue Edwards, who is ranked third in the standings.

Second high FASCQ scorer Murray Steeves will lead the men against the weaker Shawinigan squad. Champlain currently holds second spot in team standings.

Sunday afternoon at 2, the Cougars host the Ottawa Juniors in an exhibition encounter. Coach Mike Wilcox expects a strong match from the Ontario city team.

MANSONVILLE & AREA

Maria Bray

A speedy recovery is wished to those out of hospital, Hazel Jones and Orma Jewett.

A quick return to good health is wished to Mrs. Dorothy Brown who is in BMP Hospital, Cowansville. Miss Winnifred King, V.O.N., of St. Anne de Bellevue called on Dorothy Brown and others in Mansonville.

Hermann Ommerli, Jr., of Portage La Prairie, Man., visited for a week with his parents at Dunkin.

Hibbert Sargent and his wife, Lucy, also Mr. and Mrs. Stu Grant, picked up Lucy's cousin Eva Oates at Lennoxville and went to Cookshire where they met some C'bers in Hibbert's school chum's restaurant, Kenneth Fraser and his wife who has the hairdresser parlor there. They also spoke with another school pal and fellow legionnaire William Baker and they called on Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Heath at Lennoxville where they had afternoon tea.

Mrs. L.H. Jewett accompanied her daughter, Cheryl, to Montreal and from there she went to Hamilton, Ont., where she spent the weekend with her daughter Claudia Norton and husband Edd and their daughter and son, Shelley and Sean and on the way back home, Mrs. Jewett spent a night with Cheryl at Montreal.

Mrs. Kurt Blumenfeld took her daughters, Nancy and Linda, to Moorestown, N.J., where they will continue with their Equestrian Course during the winter months.

At long last, Albert Haggood, a home boy brought up by Mrs. Hazel Jones and her late husband, Joseph, will have his name imbedded on the Cenotaph in Mansonville. For those who keep scrap books: Albert's regimental number was 177993. He was born Nov. 21, 1897 and came from Bristol, England. He enlisted with the 87th Battalion Canadian Grenadier Guards at Mansonville Dec. 2, 1915, embarked for Britain Apr. 23, 1916, proceeded to France for service with the 1st Battalion June 19, 1916 and was killed in action May 3, 1917. Service awards were the British War and Victory Medals. A couple of citizens and legionnaire members played a roll in getting Albert Haggood's name to be listed on the honor roll of the Cenotaph, having been omitted by an unintentional oversight. The necessary data is listed in a letter to Branch 154 dated Nov. 19, 1976 from the Canadian Forces Record Center at Ottawa.

If anyone was watching Channel 6 TV (CBC 6 o'clock News Nov. 5 and again Sat. evening, they may have recognized Patricia, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George St. James, who played the role of Premier Bourassa during the mock election of grades five and six in the elementary school near Delson, Que. The Whites in Summerland, B.C., reported having been surprised to see it (2500 miles away).

DO WE?
Do we ever count our blessings,
As we're grieving o'er our sorrows?
Do we try to live our lives to-day
As if there were no tomorrows?

Do we try to be the kind of folks
We'd like other folks to be?
Do we try to only do the things
We'll be proud for the world to see?

Do we overlook the little faults
We sometimes see in friends?
Are we kind and understanding
Always ready to defend?

Life is much too short to spend it
In so many ways that's wrong,
When there are so many right ways
Filled with laughter, love and song.

DO WE HAVE WHAT IT TAKES?

Do we have what it takes, to go through this life,
And always be patient and calm?
Do we have what it takes, when we're slighted and shunned,
To accept it, and wish no one harm.

Do we love our neighbour as ourselves?
Do we sacrifice what we want to make Somebody else more happy?
I ask, "Do we have what it takes?"

Do we have what it takes when we're lonely,
When sorrow has come our way,
To look for a bright tomorrow,
And forget about today?

We would all like to have this courage,
We try, but sometimes fail,
When not to the test, we weaken,
Because our own ships we sail.

Waterville, Que.

GOD'S GIFT

On that glorious Christmas morn
When the infant Christ was born,
How the bells of heaven rang
And the angels must have sang!
The Prince of Peace, God's only Son
Who for man's redemption - salvation was won,
Our only Hope on Him is stayed:
So be not discouraged or dismayed.
The love of God we cannot resist
The miracle of Bethlehem put Him in our midst.
The future is just as bright as the promises of God.
We never fully know the reality of God's love.
Our blessed Redeemer, our Saviour, our King,
Let us rejoice and with thankfulness bring
Our hearts to You, so full of praise.
Come enter in - 'til the end of our days.
Let us tell others how Christ died for us,
And laid all our sins at the foot of the cross.
His peace He gives when there's but death for me:
The cross is the gateway to get to Thee.
Thank you our Father for the gift that was given;
For the blood that was shed, from a wounded side riven.
Guide me as through this life I go —
And wash me and I shall be whiter than snow.

New appointment at U.S.

SHERBROOKE (GB) — Mr. Roger B. Bernier is recently appointed Director of the General Library, University of Sherbrooke. Mr. Bernier obtained a B.A. from St. Charles Seminary in Sherbrooke, a B.A. in Library Science from the University of Montreal and is the author and co-author of a treatise on library classification. After having worked in the

Barbara Frum to publish C.B.C. talk show greats

OTTAWA (CP) — Billed by a Toronto book reviewer as Canada's most successful "call" girl, Barbara Frum was called upon recently by McClelland and Stewart, the Toronto publishers.

The result of that call is a 188-page book based on the CBC radio phone-out show, As It Happens, and titled, naturally, As It Happened. "I resisted a long time," she said in an interview. "McClelland and Stewart approached me. I was really negotiating with another publisher as well and McClelland and Stewart just bugged me more."

She said that out of 500 taped interviews she had transcribed, she chose 50 for the book. They range from a conversation with a former FBI agent, who infiltrated Maoist groups in Canada without Ottawa's knowledge, to an interview with a bank robber in the midst of a holdup.

Two interviews never broadcast are also included. One was with a female hostage accused of having intimate relations with one of her captors, the other with a fellow who runs a place of sado-masochistic repute in California.

HAPPENS EVERY NIGHT The book also tells how As It Happens manages to happen every weeknight on CBC radio.

Contrary to some people's misconception that Barbara simply enters the studio, picks up a phone and dials the world, the book reveals that it takes nine story editors and a producer as well—Frum and cohost Al Maitland.

Frum says that the staff treats her like the princess and the pea. "They just keep slipping pillows between me and the problems."

Despite her constant telephone contact with people in every corner of the globe, she describes her own life as claustrophobic.

"If someone stops me on the street I come on as the happiest seal in the zoo that the program is reaching someone."

She says that there is a lot of tension with a show that eats up "16 virgin story ideas a night." However, the tensions do not appear to affect her directly.

"I'm always the same. At work you can't really afford to let go. All the people I work with are dependent on me being awake and interested."

"They can't deal with how I feel and the pace is too fast so you just bottle up. They bought a punching bag for the office. Maybe that'll be my release."

NEVER UPSET
Frum says the show has made her more easy-going than she used to be. "I just don't get upset about a bad interview. I used to—if an interview was less than field of cataloguing and classification at the University of Sherbrooke and St. Charles Seminary from 1965-70 he was appointed head of Cataloguing Services for the UQAM Library. He subsequently returned to Sherbrooke to become interim director of the Science Library. Since 1973 he has held the post directorship of Library Documentation centre.

marvellous—be very hard on myself.

"I always sign on for a season and I always assume that it's my last. I've been saying that for five years and this is my sixth. If I thought when I started that I would do it for five years I probably couldn't have stood it. I like it because it's the same rhythm of the year as school and I've never changed my body clock from school."

She says she takes the summer off to "cook and grow fat and happy" and spend time with her three children and her husband, Murray.

One story that never hit the air waves, but one of her favorites, is a personal one. The Frums hired a Japanese landscape architect for the garden of their Toronto home. He had three rocks buried in a slight rise in the landscape.

"He said he wanted us to feel the rocks, not see them," Frum explained. "He'd go out and explain to the Hungarian bulldozer operator that he wanted the rocks to go whoosh. We had three guys in our garden for three days burying rocks. They thought we were out of our minds."

What effect has her hectic schedule and new-found fame had on her family? "We talk about it," she says. Her children complain that they don't like being Barbara Frum's kids. She says they don't idolize her or admire the job she does.

She took a week off to travel across the country promoting the book. She says she relives every interview when she reads it.

"It was a new thrill to think that something that has been so wonderful and such good fun could come through in print."

"Radio is turning out to be the mass medium and this is the biggest turnaround you can imagine. We can have a bigger audience on radio than many television programs."

She says she's been luckier than she ever thought she would be.

"It was just the right job at the right time" as it happened.

Sutherland, Ronald. Where do the Macdonalds bury their dead? General Publishing Co. 258 pages, $5.95.

This is the story of one man's relentless, malevolent pursuit of another. Mr. Sutherland borrows the character and life style of the infamous Charles Manson to give some sort of credence to his John Macdonald of California who, with definite intent to kill, seeks the other Macdonald, Ti-Mac, a pseudo-intellectual product of Montreal's East End.

After about twenty pages of this shoddy little book, my concern was not where the Macdonalds would bury their dead, but how soon. However, it takes two hundred more pages before the final shot is fired.

Ti-Mac, the Montrealer, drifts to California where he is willingly enticed to join the colony set up by one John Macdonald. The commune is there; the drugs, the naked girls, unremitting sex on demand, night and day, the terrifying physical violence and perhaps, most frightening of all, the fanatical conviction of religious righteousness.

In the woods surrounding the camp, Ti-Mac stumbles one day, on an area surrounded by flat stones reminiscent of Druidical

Enchanted Summer, Gabrielle Roy's new collection of short stories, consists of the simple narration of events that a less perceptive observer would dismiss without a second thought: the acquaintance, one summer evening, of a sentimental bullfrog christened Mr. Toong by the author; the adventures and misadventures of the neighbor's cows and of an amiable little crow named Jeannot.

Reading some of the passages describing the movements and even the imaginary thoughts and intimate reactions of the animals, one cannot help comparing Miss Roy to the French author Colette, whose description of animal life and particularly of her cats were perfect works of art.

The background for the stories is Cherlevoix County, north of Quebec City. In her mature years, Miss Roy seems to have attained a peaceful serenity and to have acquired an intimate complicity with nature. Enchanted Summer is a book which is at once poetic and philosophical. Through reflections on animal and vegetable life, the author gives the reader ample scope for thoughts of a more profound nature.

As simply as these stories are told, they could never have been written so artfully if Gabrielle Roy had not, many years ago, written such books as The Tin Flute and Where Nests the Water Hen. Enchanted Summer is the work of a writer in full possession of her talent, and the translation by Joyce Marshall, herself a writer, seems to have preserved the flavor of the French original.

In near panic, Ti-Mac flees the commune and relays his suspicions to the local police before escaping to San Francisco. He soon discovers that Mad John has successfully eluded the authorities and, accompanied by his girls, has embarked on a relentless search for his betrayer. Ti-Mac returns to Montreal and attempts to resume old friendships but lives in secret and constant terror of his remorseless enemy.

This is the gist of the book. Possibly, somewhere along the line, the author intends to make a point. Occasionally he interrupts the deadly game of hide-and-seek and the hippie orgies to dip, however weakly, into the racial and political problems of the Province of Quebec and its CEGEP institutions.

It is a book that does a disservice to many. It does not endeavor itself to Americans because of Ti-Mac's constant and unflattering assessment of them. It will offend all educated French, and make apologetic all educated English, while entertaining neither in the process.

Growing and cooking guide

All you may ever want to know about growing and cooking vegetables, as well as some conversational tidbits—yams and sweet potatoes are not the same plant—is contained in From Garden to Table. The growing part of the guide is written by Stan Larke, whose syndicated garden program is carried on radio stations across the country. Joan Fielden, well-known food consultant, handles the cooking chores.

To get back to the sweet potato. It is actually the enlarged root of a vine of the morning glory family, while yams are tubers. But we are assured that for cooking purposes the two are interchangeable in every way. Instructions are given for growing each vegetable, followed by several recipes for cooking them. Grandma's adage that a potato quickly boiled is quickly spoiled is backed up by the admonition that simmering is better than boiling for spuds.

The recipes do not always give the amount of water required, or the cooking time, or state what vessels to use, and the adjective "economical" applied to salad dressing calling for 3/4 cup condensed milk, at today's inflated prices, may be debatable. But on the plus side is an excellent nutrition chart, a metric conversion chart, and a recipe for bubble and squeak of fond childhood memory.

MR. AND MRS. BRIAN RICHARD REANY

Reany-Dustin

A pretty fall wedding took place in The Church of the Ascension, West Brome, on September 25, at 3:30 p.m. when Penny Lynn, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Royce Dustin, became the bride of Mr. Brian Richard, second son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Reany, of Dorion, Que.

Rev. J. W. Davidson officiated at the double ring ceremony. Mrs. Stanley Mount was organist and Mrs. Alan Kennedy, soloist, sang "We've only just begun", "Beethoven's Hymn to Joy" and "Somewhere my Love". Baskets of wheat, barley, white thistle and oats tinted brown stood on either side of the altar steps.

The bride coming to the altar on her father's arm, was given in marriage by her mother and father, wore a long gown of pleated Indian cotton in a lovely cream color, having a lace yoke, high lace collar, long bishop sleeves with lace cuffs, the gown having an over-skirt edged in lace, this formed a "V" in front and back. She wore a woven picture hat in the cream color trimmed with lace asher gown.

She carried a basket of dried flowers and wheat in fall colors of orange, cream and browns.

Miss Flonna Sanborn, friend of bride, was maid of honor. She wore a long gown of Indian cotton, the skirt and short puffed sleeves in flowered print of burnt orange and brown flowers having a cream background, the bodice and belt, tied in a bow at back of gown in burnt orange.

She carried a basket of dried flowers and wheat in orange and brown tones.

Miss Jennifer Kennedy, cousin of bride, and Miss Beverly Martin, friend of bride, acted as bridesmaids. They also were in long gowns of Indian cotton as the maid of honor, only having their skirts and sleeves in burnt orange, their bodice and belts in the flowered print.

The also carried baskets of dried flowers and wheat in fall colors.

All gentlemen in the wedding party wore brown Windsor Tuxedos with crushed velvet trim, with pleated front shirts in cream color. They wore boutonnières of wheat.

Mr. George Verboom, friend of the groom, acted as best man. The ushers were Mr. Brady Dustin, brother of the bride, and Mr. Alan Goodhue, friend of the groom.

The bride's mother chose a floor-length gown of cornflower blue polyester crepe having long sleeves, with cornflower blue accessories and a silk corsage of yellow and orange sweetpeas.

The bridegroom's mother wore a floor-length gown of silver grey, having long sleeves in polyester knit. She wore grey accessories and a mink jacket; her silk corsage was of pink sweetpeas.

The reception was held at the Horizon Motel, Mont Sutton, Sutton, Que. where a delicious turkey dinner was served, followed by dancing to the organ music of Reg. Sequin of Newport, Vt. The bride's table was centred with a three tiered wedding cake, made by her mother and decorated by her aunt, Mrs. Keith Kennedy. Cream tapers in silver candlesticks flanked the cake. Brown and orange dried flowers were on each table.

Miss Cathy Webster very kindly looked after the guest book.

The bride and groom left for a trip in the Eastern Townships. The bride changed to a dark brown suede dress with shirred yoke, long sleeves and self belt; her accessories were tan and she wore a silk corsage of peach roses.

The young couple are now residing at 226 Claremont St., Ottawa, Ontario, where Brian is stationed with the RCAF.

Couple mark 65th wedding anniversary

KNOWLTON (KT) — An Open House, was held at the Legion Hall, Knowlton, on Saturday evening, November 20th, for Peter and Sarah Rogerson who observed their 65th wedding anniversary the previous Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Rogerson were both born in Scotland and were married at Ayr in Ayrshire in Nov. 16, 1911. They came to Canada in 1913 and since then have made their home around the Glen and Knowlton until taking up residence in Cowansville, July 1, 1976.

They were the parents of eight children, seven of whom are married, and proudly claim 34 grandchildren, 32 great-grandchildren and two great-great-grandchildren, having 77 living descendants. One daughter died in infancy. Also deceased for some years are their eldest daughter Annie (Mrs. McGill) and Mabel (Mrs. Ronald Martin) and their husbands. They also lost one grandson at an early age. All their children were with them with their marriage partners to celebrate their anniversary.

These were Robena, (Mrs. Gerald Miltimore) of Compton, George, of Bolton Pass, Knowlton; Jean (Mrs. Gerald Daine) of Waterloo; Isabel (Mrs. Dawson) of Renous (near Newcastle), N.B. and Ralph of Cowansville.

Mr. and Mrs. Rogerson were escorted from Cowansville to the Legion Hall by their younger son Ralph and his wife Lorraine, where a throng of happy people awaited to congratulate them and extend warm good wishes.

Mrs. Rogerson was charming in a Queen's blue dress and was presented a corsage of pink and white carnations by her granddaughter Mary Baley from New Brunswick who also pinned on her grandfather's boutonniere.

The head table was centred with flowers from their grandchildren in Calgary. There was also a potted poinsettia from old friends at Knowlton Nurseries and other gifts of flowers from old friends and countless cards were also received to mark the occasion.

A congratulatory telegram was received from Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth, a card from Prime Minister Trudeau, letters from Joe Clark, Leader of the Progressive Conservative Party and Heward Grafftey, M.P. from Brome-Missisquoi and telegrams from Robert Bourassa and Glen Brown.

The two-tier wedding cake was made by Mrs. McPherson of West Bolton, a layer of which was taken and later served to all the residents were Mr. and Mrs. Rogerson are now living.

Their son George acted as Master of Ceremonies throughout the evening. He proposed the toast to the honoured couple and introduced the various speakers. Impromptu speeches, mainly in humorous vein and given with notable affection were heard from Glen Brown, Heward Grafftey, Jack Dunfield of St. Lambert and Arthur Janieux of St. Jean and Sutton. Both of the latter two were co-workers of Pete many years ago as were "Togo" Benoit, Gordon Taylor and Ken Wright, who were also present.

The evening, to be long remembered with pleasure by those present, passed all too quickly in happy fellowship. Favourite songs, many of Scottish origin, were sung for the guests of honour with many request numbers from the gathering. The four "Cousens", Guy, Gordon, Grayson, and Frank were in fine voice and led the singing with Mrs. Emily Cousens accompanying them at the piano. A highlight was Peter's rendition, without accompaniment, of "The Sample of a Married Man".

Another highlight was the presence of three friends of 63 years, Mrs. Lou Brown, Mrs. Blanche Badger and Mrs. Minnie Smith who were photographed with Peter and Sarah as a memento of the special occasion.

The party was arranged for the Rogersons by their children and special appreciation goes also to the Ladies' Auxiliary of Brome Branch No. 23, Royal Canadian Legion for their part in the celebration by graciously providing the refreshments and acting as hostesses as their particular tribute to the couple. Mr. Rogerson is a Life Member of the R.C.L.

The party broke up about 11 p.m. Mrs. Rogerson, on behalf of her husband and herself, expressed thanks to all for a most wonderful evening.

The guest book was in charge of Carol, Mrs. George Rogerson and was signed by 120 guests. Those attending were from New Brunswick, Ontario, Montreal, St. Johns and from a wide area of this locality.

On the day of their anniversary, Nov. 16, Mr. and Mrs. Rogerson were invited by Mr. Gerard Laurin at noon to his office at Chateau Cowansville for an anniversary drink and then were told he wished to show them a picture. To their great surprise they found awaiting them five of their children with their wives or husbands. A delicious candle-light dinner was served by courtesy of Mr. Laurin, complemented with a carafe of wine in celebration of an uncommon event, 65 years of marriage.

Birthday congratulations

Congratulations are extended to Joe Custeau of St. Pierre de Broughton, Que. who will celebrate his 80th birthday on Sunday, Dec. 5.

Liberated Soviet women rouse ire

MOSCOW (AP) — The journal Literary Gazette says dozens of irate men have written to complain that liberated Soviet women are losing their femininity—smoking, drinking, cursing and indulging in free sex.

In fact, the Soviet Union's new breed of working women have forgotten how to be women, the weekly newspaper's readers say in the latest issue.

"Every man dreams of a woman who's soft, loving, expressive, affectionate, modest and shy, of a feminine woman," writes Grigory Molodtsov from the town of Volzhsky. "But they're getting harder and harder to find."

TAILORED OUTFIT combines a jumpsuit and jacket ensemble for a three-piece suit look. Designed by Pizelli, it has a V-neck button front, belted back and slightly flared pant legs, all in twill of Kodel polyester and cotton for easy care.

Decision on fluorocarbon propellants is due soon

OTTAWA (CP) — After two years of controversy, Environment Minister Romeo LeBlanc is expected to announce within the next two weeks whether Canada will move to ban the use of fluorocarbon propellants in spray cans.

For consumers a ban would mean giving up, at least temporarily, aerosol deodorants and hair sprays because these and similar personal care items are the main users of fluorocarbons. Spokesman say a ban would be bad news for the aerosol industry, two years away from finding a replacement and already smarting from a 15-percent drop in domestic sales from $270 million last year because of the environmental controversy swirling around the propellant.

For the environment, though, a ban would be good news says Bernard Boville, chief of the federal Atmospheric Environment Service.

He says studies indicate that if non-essential uses of fluorocarbons are stopped, it could cause up to a 70-percent drop in the impact of fluorocarbons on the earth's ozone layer.

WEAKENS LAYER

Scientists say the propellant weakens the layer of ozone which surrounds the earth and acts as a primary shield against the sun's ultraviolet radiation. An increase in this radiation, they say, would result in more skin cancer and possible higher earth temperatures.

The U.S. government moved last week to ban fluorocarbon propellants, an action which may take as long as two years to accomplish.

A controversial report on the fluorocarbon situation by the U.S. National Academy of Sciences (NAS) released in September recommended a maximum two-year study of the fluorocarbon issue before regulatory action is taken.

Rub-a-dub-dub doesn't help tub

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY — The bathtub in the house we bought was painted by the previous owners. I have no idea what kind of paint they used and have tried various paint removers, but nothing seems to work on it. I hope someone can tell me how to remove this paint or some way to refinish the tub, so it does not look so awful. — MRS. E.T.

DEAR MRS. E. T. — You do have a real problem. There must have been a reason for painting the tub in the first place. When the paint is removed you may have a sad looking tub. There are some paint stripping companies that come right into the home and do a big job like this. If you don't want to have the work done, contact such a firm in your area. Perhaps they would sell you a stripper that would do the job. I would contact the previous owners, if at all possible, and find out what was used on it and the reason for doing it. Also, it might be wise to price new tubs. — POLLY.

DEAR POLLY — My Pet Peeve is with the nylon trim put on cotton garments that have to be ironed. If one touches the trim with a hot iron, it shrivels up.

To clean the inside of my aluminum tea pot, I put in a tablespoon of powdered washing detergent and fill the pot with boiling water. I let it stand for a few hours or overnight. Rinse thoroughly and all the stains will have disappeared. — JOYCE.

DEAR POLLY — I used to have trouble keeping my glass fiber bathtub clean, until I found spreading toothpaste on a wet cloth and cleaning as usual did the job. (Polly's note — Always test in an out of the way place.) — RENA.

DEAR POLLY — My daughter made herself a quick phone number list with one of those plastic photo cubes. She put doctors and all medical numbers on one side, emergency numbers on another, family and friends on another and so on. This saves a lot of time when one is in a hurry. — TONI M.

DEAR POLLY — I have discovered a way to keep an electric shaver from getting gummed up when you shave your legs. Wet the clean area to be shaved with rubbing alcohol. Saves the cost of a pre-shave product. — DEE.

DEAR POLLY — Use an ice cream scoop when pouring batter into cup cake pans. The lever releases the batter easily and there is no mess, as you get equal amounts in the cups.

To split English muffins easily use a cake cutter. It does the job with one push against the counter. — REBECCA.

DEAR POLLY — To keep loose matching buttons together, I string them on a bread twister, after taking the paper covers off the wire. They are so easy to find when needed. — IRENE.

Polly will send you one of her "peachy" thank-you cards, ideal for framing or placing in your family scrapbook, if she uses your favorite Pointer, Peeve or Problem in her column. Write Polly's Pointers in care of this newspaper.

"Green-up" your winter

Newspapers and glass containers aren't the only things you can recycle. Some food scraps can, with a little tender loving care, enjoy a second life as an indoor garden. These projects will interest any container gardener and appeal enormously to children.

Carrot tops, for example, make interesting and unusual plants. A large carrot with some of the leaf tips still showing on the end, is the ideal plant starter. The slimmer part of the root should be cut off leaving the carrot top with a length of two to three inches. Next, hollow out the bottom end; make two holes on opposite sides and put a decorative cord or string through these. Then hang the carrot in the bright window.

The hollowed-out part should then be filled with water and re-filled as often as necessary to keep the moisture there. Soon, leaves will begin to sprout out of the lower part, making an unusual plant that should last several weeks.

Sweet potatoes root readily when placed half in and half out of a container of water. As many of the sweet potatoes sold in supermarkets have been treated so that they will not sprout, you will have to search out one with the sprouts showing. Until the potato vine gets too large, change the water once a week, pouring out the old and replacing with new. A few chunks of charcoal in the container will help keep the water fresh.

Sweet potato vines will climb a small trellis indoors, grow as hanging basket plants, or as vine to trail over a table or cabinet top.

Avocado seeds sprout readily and grow into attractive, leafy plants. To get them started, insert three toothpicks in the broad end of the seed; these will hold it over the top of a glass of water filled so that the base of the seed just rests in the moisture.

The glass should be set in a bright window and the water level kept constant. In time you will see roots form, then a green sprout. Eventually, you will need to transplant the young avocado to a pot of equal parts of soil, sand and peat moss, which should be kept moist. Pinching out the growing tip of the young plant will encourage it to branch.

Other food scraps suitable for re-cycling into indoor gardens include pineapple tops, which can be rooted in water or planted in soil to the base of the leaves and grown as a bromeliad; citrus seeds, which can be planted in small pots to produce miniature trees; oats and beans, which make attractive saucer gardens and yield delicious sprouts for use in salads.

We're doin' fine

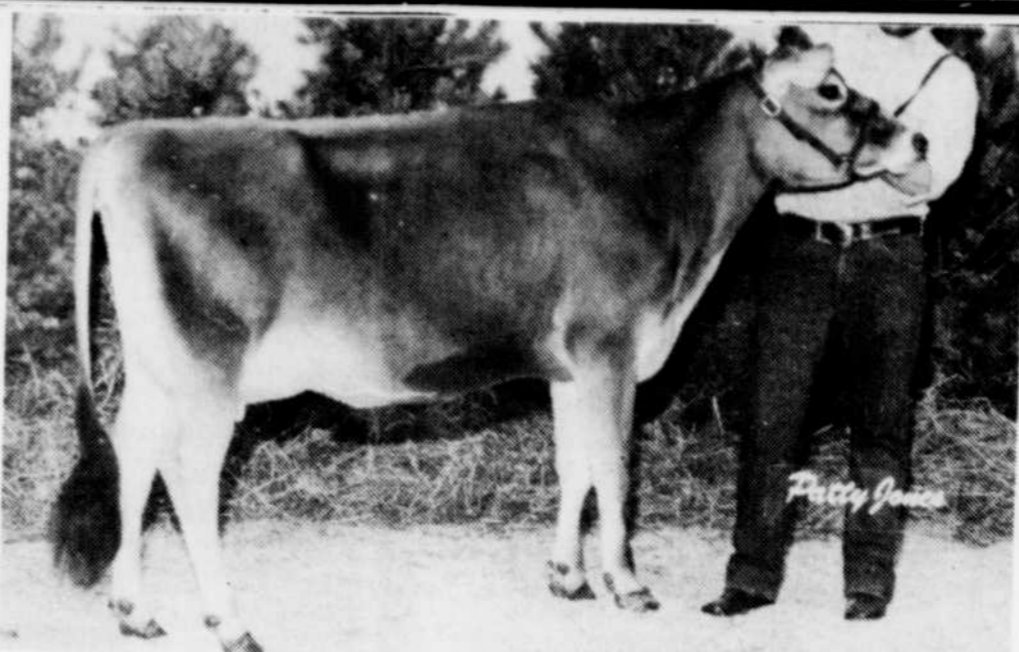

OTTAWA — You wouldn't know it by looking outside today, but according to report issued last month by Agriculture Canada, Canadian farmers grow 60 per cent of all the fresh vegetables consumed in this country.

The report said Canadian farms produce 90 per cent of the canned vegetables, 95 per cent of the frozen vegetables, 30 per cent of the fruit juices, 40 per cent of the fresh fruit, 70 per cent of the canned fruit and 72 per cent of the frozen sold in the country.

Despite the sometimes harsh climate, Canadians are able to produce sufficient quantities of some vegetables, namely potatoes, turnips dried peas, corn carrots and apples for export and enough to beets, green beans and juicetomatoes to meet our own needs.

As of Nov. 1, 3000 box cars had already been shipped for export compared to 1,634 last year.

Canadian farms also produced 80 per cent of the onions and cucumbers marketed here, 70 per cent of the cauliflower, 60 per cent of the cabbage heads, almost 28 per cent of the celery, 40 per cent of the spinach, 37 per cent of the asparagus, 22 per cent of the fresh tomatoes and approximately 20 per cent of the lettuce.

Dozens die for "stroke of luck" duck

OTTAWA (CP) — The sittin' duck may be one of the strangest looking fish lures made in years but its two inventors say bass and pike find it so attractive they hook themselves by the dozen.

"It was more a stroke of luck than anything else," says Tom Potter of the lure, made from a maple or birch wooden ball that has a wire triangle inserted alongside a plexiglass lip. Trail hooks and tassels at the other end complete the speckled fish bait.

"We played around with the idea for about two years, experimenting with paper mockups until we hit on this," says the Stittsville, Ont., man.

The lure, co-invented by Andy Saberain of Gatineau, Que., has several features that give it great versatility.

For one, the lead weights are attached to the lure's wire triangle instead of the line as is the convention. This allows use as a bottom lure or a trawl merely by shifting the position of the lead weights on the triangle.

WIGGLE IRRESISTIBLE: The plastic lip allows the sittin' duck to develop a wiggle when trolled at about 15 feet, which Mr. Potter says fish find hard to resist.

And as an added bonus, the lure doesn't flip in the air when it is cast and is easy to extricate from snarl-ups on stones, logs and reeds.

"It's holding its own locally with any of the major lures, although I concede that the repella is still the major lure on the market," Mr. Potter says. "That and live bait can outfish it, but that is to be expected."

"One of my friends thought it was a little too big but in the water the lip and nose disappear. However, we are working on a smaller version."

Mr. Potter says he and Mr. Saberain have hand-made all the sittin'-duck lures sold in Ottawa and district, refining the work to the point of turning out one lure every eight to 10 minutes.

He concedes the price of $3.59 may be a little high for an unknown lure but says he doubts whether mass-production methods, which might lower the price, can be introduced without lowering the quality of the product.

Its strangeness did present a minor problem when it came to deciding on a name for it, Mr. Potter said.

"We sat for an hour before we can up with a name. Then we realized that it doesn't look like anything except a duck—a sittin' duck."

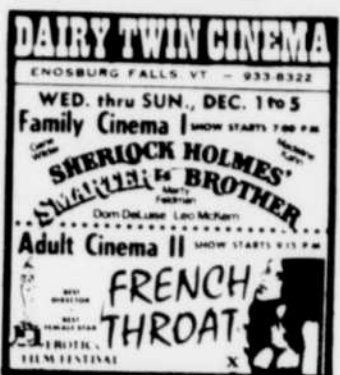

"It's mainly because of the meat"

A quality entry and keen bidding at auction made for a successful market livestock section of the 1976 ROYAL. Another large Queen's Guineas show and the largest ever Junior Barrow Show highlighted the youth section.

Dominion Stores Limited bought all steer champions of the live show. On a bid of $8.00 per lb. they purchased the 1225 pound Grand Champion steer, a Limousin-Angus cross, shown by Gold-Bar Livestock of Ariss, Ontario. Gormley, Ontario showman Eric L. Rincher saw his Reserve Champion, a 1205 lb. Angus knocked down to Dominion at $2.75 per lb. Dominion purchased the Champion Hereford, exhibited by Vern Croy, Stonewall, Manitoba for $1.05 per pound and bid $1.50 per lb. for the Champion Shorthorn shown by Gordon Crawford of Glencoe, Ontario.

In the group classes the Champion pen of five steers were shown by Primrose Hereford Farms of Russell, Manitoba and sold to Dominion for 85 cents per pound. The same buyer took the Champion load of 10 steers on a bid of 77 cents a pound. They were exhibited by Roy Traynor and Sons of Delisle, Saskatchewan.

Former residents entertained

BOUNDARY — Mrs. Fred Mitchell and her daughter Mrs. Mary Woodward of Kamloops and Prince George, B.C. were visiting their daughter and sister Mrs. Margaret Krug in Montreal West. The Mitchells were residents in Stanstead for several years where Rev. Mr. Mitchell was Rector at Christ Church, Stanstead and the former All Saints' in Beebe.

Mrs. Mitchell and two daughters came to Rock Island to spend a day with Mr. and Mrs. Lindsay Smith and family for Mrs. Woodward and Mrs. Smith both trained at a Montreal School for Nursing and since kept in touch visiting each other as often as possible.

That afternoon Mrs. Smith and Mrs. R.J. Wells arranged a tea to be held in Christ Church Parish hall and invited several of the Mitchells old friends to attend.

Mrs. Edward Hyatt made a lovely corsage of red Christmas blooms that was pinned on the frock of Mrs. Mitchell and later Mrs. Hyatt presented her with a candle as a memento of this happy reunion.

It was a delightful afternoon of chatting and reminiscing. Mrs. Owen Morrison was among those attending and met Mrs. Mitchell and the girls, inviting them to visit the Rectory where many changes have been made since the Mitchells resided there. Delicious refreshments were served with Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Wells presiding at the tea table to pour. The table was centred with a praying hands candle, made by Mrs. Hyatt.

This gathering gave Mrs. Mitchell, Margaret and Mary an opportunity to see many old friends. Mary remained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Smith for a longer visit but Margaret and her mother returned to Montreal.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Mary also motored one evening to Spring Road, Lennoxville where they were visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Hill.

Another evening Mary was guest of honor at a party of younger couples to gather at the home of Bob and Cathy Alger in Rock Island for a social evening, chatting and again reminiscing and enjoying refreshments.

Another day, Mrs. Mitchell, Margaret and Mary came from the city and were dinner guests of Mrs. Rosalie Hudson, Rock Island where Mrs. Nellie Kezar and Mrs. Elizabeth Hill joined the dinner party.

So many told Mrs. Mitchell she had not changed any since being a resident of the Boundary. Rev. Mr. Mitchell is not as well as their many friends would wish and greetings were sent back to him via Mrs. Mitchell and Mary.

All Saints Guild meeting

for a delicious buffet dinner. After an hour of relaxing and dining it was off to the Carrefour for an afternoon of shopping.

At 4 o'clock they started back for Abercorn, dropping off guests at Sutton Jet and Sutton.

Miss MacLeod and Mr. and Mrs. Nicholson called on Mr. Donald MacDonald at the home of Mrs. Coates, in Bury, and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth MacDonald in Scotstown.

Mr. and Mrs. Duncan McLeod attended the Sherbrooke group gathering in Sherbrooke, recently.

Christmas Tea and Bazaar
 On Nov. 6th the All Saints' Guild held their annual Christmas Tea and Bazaar at the Golden Age hall. Due to the size of the bazaar the mayor of the town allowed them to use the council room as well.

The bazaar items were displayed and sold by Mrs. Garland and Mrs. Fryer. Mrs. P. Lahue and Mrs. Riddell sold the food in record time with nothing left within the half hour. Also the candy and cookie table was quickly sold out by Mrs. Leaman and Mrs. Gibson. Mrs. Payne did a brisk business at the nearly new table with lots of children enjoying the penny sale.

Working in the Tea room were Mrs. Haggerty collecting the money and selling tickets on a cake donated by Eboya Hancock. Pat Lahue, Pauline Wilkins, Arlene Bleser and Eboya Hancock, served the tea which included a variety of sandwiches and squares.

The cake was won by Mrs. Glenroy Lubier of Sherbrooke. The members wish to thank all who made this Tea a success.

Nov. 17 the all Saints' Guild of Abercorn held their monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. Gladys Hancock with all members present.

Everyone was pleased with the final total of the recent Tea and Bazaar, as it was over $100. more than last year.

Business on hand was the organizing of the Christmas cheer gifts. Mrs. Bleser is to see to local ones with the secretary sending the others by mail.

Instead of the usual December meeting it was planned to have a community dinner at the Abercorn House on Dec. 8 at 6:30 p.m. At the last count there will be around 40 to attend.

The next meeting will be a Mrs. Riddell's on the third Wednesday in January.

simple matter for declarer to take successful finesses in spades and hearts and wind up making six.

Against the unlucky expert, East had led back the seven of hearts.

If ever a lead looked like a singleton, that one was it. Our unfortunate friend decided that he could not afford the luxury of a trump finesse and the almost certain ruff of a heart if the finesse lost. So he wound up making one trick less than anyone else.

Ask the Jacobys

A Wyoming reader wants to know if a player who responds two clubs to his partner's one-heart opening promises another bid.

The answer is that he does not do so in standard American or in the very similar Jacoby modern. But some expert pairs play that the two-over-one response does promise another bid and a very few even play it as a game force.

The unlucky expert had us cornered again. A session of duplicate had just ended and our friend had finished second.

Some players are satisfied with a second place finish. He wasn't and had one particular hand to show his bad luck.

It seems that the field had been in four spades. Every West had opened the queen of diamonds and every East but one returned the queen of clubs. After that start it was a
