

A. C. LITTLE SHOT BY HIGHWAYMEN.

Details of Masked Robbers' Desperate Attempt to Secure Orford Mt. Ry. Funds.

$17,000 WAS IN PAY WAGON.

Italian Boss, Who Was Also Wounded, Tells Graphic Story of Shooting --- Money Grip Shot From Mr. Lytle's Hand---Did Not Secure a Dollar---$10,000 Which They Might Have Got in Wagon---Mr. Lytle's Wounds Not Serious.

No more desperate attempt at highway robbery has ever been made in the Eastern Townships than that on the Orford Mountain Railway, a few miles west of Windsor Mills, yesterday afternoon.

Details are now at hand and reveal some inaccuracies in the first reports. Supt. A. C. Lytle, of Eastman, is the chief sufferer from the shot-gun fusillade which the would-be robbers poured in upon the pay wagon. He was struck in arm and side.

His wounds, while severe, are not regarded as dangerous.

Italian boss, Percy, who was near him, was wounded in the leg but not seriously.

Mr. Lytle's son, who was, also, with him, was not hit.

Mr. Lytle carried some $17,000 with which he was to pay the men along the line between Kingsbury and the Windsor end of the line.

The robbers entirely failed in their object, not securing a dollar of the coveted funds of the O.M.R.

RECORDED ITALIAN BOSS GIVES STORY.

The Italian boss, who was with Mr. A. C. Lytle, superintendent of the Orford Mountain Railway, yesterday afternoon, when they were held up by armed and masked robbers, passed through Sherbrooke, last evening, on his way to his home near Lewiston, Me., to have the wound in his leg attended to.

While at the station here he told the circumstances connected with the affair. He is apparently a very intelligent man and speaks good English. He was in charge of the Italian laborers on the construction work of the Orford Mountain Railway.

"Yesterday afternoon," he said, "Mr. Lytle, and his son, accompanied by myself, proceeded to the construction camp with about $17,000, for the purpose of paying the men along the route between Windsor Mills and Kingsbury. I went along with Mr. Lytle for the purpose of identifying the men, so that there might be no mistake in payment."

HAD $17,000. The money was in two parcels, of about $10,000 and $7,000. The latter amount was in a grip, from which the payments were made, and there might not have been quite $7,000, but it was in that vicinity.

TWO MASKED MEN.

"We had proceeded some distance along the road, and had just reached an incline where the horse had to walk when suddenly two men appeared, one on either side of the road, both armed with shot guns and with red handkerchiefs round the lower part of their faces."

SHOT HORSE DEAD.

"I was walking behind the wagon, in which was seated Mr. Lytle and his son. Without a word of warning and before Mr. Lytle could draw his revolver, one of the robbers shot at the horse, and it fell dead. We at once realized that they were up against some one who was after the money, and when the horse fell dead, Mr. Lytle jumped out with the grip containing the $7,000 in his hand. All this time the robbers were approaching nearer."

GRIP SHOT FROM MR. LYTLE'S HAND.

Mr. Lytle attempted to get away in the direction where some men were working. He received a shot in the arm which carried the grip and had to drop it. I was some distance away, and Mr. Lytle stood guard over the grip until he saw me coming towards him. While standing there other shots were fired, taking effect in Mr. Lytle's side and shoulder. He fell to the ground and as soon as I reached him, I caught up the money and was making away for help when another shot was fired, and I was struck in the back of the leg.

ROBBERS TAKE TO WOODS.

"By this time the shooting and shouting had attracted a gang of workmen, and on some of them coming to investigate the robbers saw them, and immediately made for the woods. In doing so, the mask fell from the face of one of the men so that he could be identified. He certainly was not one of the men employed on the construction work."

Mr. Lytle was carried to Kingsbury, where he was attended to by doctors.

"It was an exciting few minutes," said the foreman, "and it was a miracle that one or other of us was not killed."

"The robbers evidently had their eye glued on the bag containing the $17,000, and evidently thought that all the money was in that. Had they looked in the wagon, and they had plenty of time to do so, they would have secured the $10,000 in another parcel."

MR. LYTLE'S CLEVER RUSE.

"I am not certain why Mr. Lytle attempted to get away with the grip, but it would appear that his intention was to draw the men away from the wagon, where the larger amount was lying."

"The authorities were notified as soon as possible but the men had secured a good start of their pursuers. I am quite confident that I could identify the man whose mask fell off, when he entered the woods."

MEN SEEN AROUND KINGSBURY.

The foreman also gave some particulars which he had learned after the shooting, which would go to show that the robbery was long and deliberately planned.

A report comes from Kingsbury that two suspicious characters had been hanging around the village since the 12th of July, and they are believed to have been the men now wanted. Their object evidently was to get on to the route taken by the officials when paying the men.

SUPT. LYTLE WELL KNOWN HERE.

Mr. A. C. Lytle, the Superintendent, whose headquarters are at Eastman, is well known in Sherbrooke and district. He is a prominent Mason, and held the office of First Principal in Golden Rule Chapter, R.A.M., Sherbrooke, last year. He is a man of indomitable courage, and could make the most of any little advantage when up against such a proposition as that which befel him yesterday afternoon.

DOCTOR DESCRIBES WOUNDS.

Dr. McKay, of Windsor Mills, was called to the scene of the O.M.R. shooting, yesterday afternoon. Speaking to the Record, this morning, he said: "I attended the Italian boss, Percy, and Dr. Johnson, of Richmond, was called to attend Mr. Lytle. The Italian received two shots in the leg. Mr. Lytle was wounded twice. In the forearm, a few inches above the wrist, he received two shots which passed through the arm lodging under the skin on the other side. In the side he received a portion of another charge from the shot gun, two shots lodging in his side. The wounds were painful but not serious. The horse was shot dead by a wound in the head. This appeared to be made by a bullet or heavy buck shot."

"It would seem that the robbers did not intend to kill Mr. Lytle, but to cause him to drop the grip with money, as it was the arm and side on which this was carried that was wounded. The bag itself was riddled with shot."

AFTER THE HIGHWAYMEN.

Police authorities all over the country have been notified of the O. M. R. shooting affair and every effort is being made to capture the desperados. It is understood that it is believed they had an accomplice or more among the gang of workmen. There is still hope that they may be on the ground.

STORY OF THE AFFAIR.

Windsor Mills, July 19.—(Special)—The circumstances of the O. M. R. shooting according to latest information, are as follows:

Mr. A. C. Lytle left Kingsbury, yesterday morning, with a large sum of money, it is said, $17,000, with which he was to pay the wages of the men engaged in the construction of the line towards Windsor Mills. He proceeded at once to the Windsor end, some three or four miles from this place, across the river, where he was to begin payment, working towards Windsor Mills.

Mr. McCabe, of Windsor, time-keeper of the O.M.R., drove over to his work with a rig belonging to Dr. McCabe, his brother, and kept it there to drive home in the afternoon.

When Mr. Lytle arrived, accompanied by his son, they took the rig to drive around to the different points where the men were located. They were followed by the Italian boss, Percy, and Jos. McCabe, on foot, at a distance.

When at a certain point they met one Desisle, driving towards them with a load of provisions for the camp.

Just as they were meeting, two men, possibly Italians, with their faces partially covered by handkerchiefs, stepped up to them and motioned Desisle to stop.

They immediately shot the horse attached to Mr. Lytle's rig, and the animal fell in its tracks.

Desisle jumped from his wagon and took to the woods at a rate of speed which it is quite safe to say, he never attained before.

Mr. Lytle, however, is not a man to be easily frightened, and his son has evidently inherited a share of his father's pluck.

The money was divided into two lots.

It did not require but a glance to reveal the situation.

A bold attempt, which would not stop at murder, was being made to secure possession of the money bags of the Orford Mountain Railway.

Mr. Lytle grabbed one of the money bags, and jumping from the rig, started towards the workmen.

Then the desperados turned their guns upon them. A fusillade was opened at short range.

Mr. Lytle was immediately struck and disabled.

He fell and called for help.

The young man escaped injury.

The Italian boss came running up and got a shot in the leg wounding him slightly.

"Many of the construction gang were but a short distance away. They hurried towards the scene and the robbers turned and put for the woods making their escape."

THE EAST ANGUS PAPER MILL.

Prospect That Industry May Soon be in Operation Again.

IN THE MEANTIME MANY OF THE OLD EMPLOYEES ARE LEAVING ANGUS.

East Angus, July 19.—(Special)—A large number of people are leaving here, many going to the States, owing to the closing down of the paper mill.

The saw mill and pulp mill are being operated, but all the hands of the paper mill are out of work.

Many of them have been here a good many years and own property here. The situation is especially trying for them.

The president and general manager of the E. T. Bank were in town yesterday studying the situation. The bank is largely interested in the mill property, and it is hoped will be able to make provision by which the paper mill will soon be started up again.

The bank, it is understood, will endeavor to find a purchaser for the mill, or they may lease it.

There is still strong hope that the industry will soon be in full operation again.

Yesterday afternoon about 5 o'clock when a young man was riding Mr. Choquette's auto-cycle he ran over a dog opposite the O'Neil block. The auto-cycle was tipped over and exploded and set fire to the wood work on the machine.

The young man was greatly excited and sent in a call for the fire brigade, but before the apparatus arrived, the auto-cycle was a complete wreck.

The incident created considerable excitement for a few minutes.

THE ZEMSTVOS MEET IN MOSCOW.

Not Satisfied With So-Called Reform Scheme.

MAY DRAFT CONSTITUTION AND DEMAND REPRESENTATIVE GOVERNMENT.

Moscow, July 19.—(Special)—The Zemstvo Congress opened at mid-day in the residence of Prince Dolgoroukoff, St. Petersburg, July 19.—The Congress of Zemstvos met in Moscow today. It is attended by about 70 of the 300 delegates. The union associations sitting in Finland broke up yesterday morning after adopting a resolution staying Minister Bouligin's reform scheme an insolent provocation on the part of an autocratic Government to the different nationalities composing the Russian Empire.

IMPORTANT RESOLUTIONS.

London, July 19.—The Moscow correspondent of the Times telegraphs the gist of the important resolutions that will be submitted to the congress. The keynote is uncompromising hostility to the Bouligin scheme, which it is declared, cannot assure national representation in the real sense of the word, and cannot avert the danger threatening the country or bring it out of its present condition of anarchy. The scheme is further declared to be based on an unfair and unjust franchise. It invites electoral abuses and goes counter to the Czar's declaration in favor of a union between the throne and people. One resolution affirms: "That the notorious consequences of the irresponsible acts of public officials in the domain of foreign policy indicate the absolute need of following the example of western states where parliaments have the right to question and interpellate the foreign minister."

DRAFT OF CONSTITUTION.

London, Wednesday, July 19.—The Moscow correspondent of the Standard says that in addition to the topics it is already known the Zemstvo congress will deal with, it will discuss a perfect draft of a constitution. This will follow closely the main principles of the Moscow municipality draft. It will propose two chambers, the upper one to be elected by the local government electorates, which appoints the Zemstvos and Dumas, and the lower one to be elected by universal suffrage.

The Standard's St. Petersburg correspondent says it is stated that the Government is so distrustful of the army officers that it cannot reject the notion that the Moscow congress might have sufficient military support to proclaim itself a constituent assembly. The correspondent does not believe this, although he adds that suggestions of this nature have permeated the entire country. People associated with families that include military officers say that the complaint of officers that they have been ostracized since January 22 is bitter.

We went to the Tower and through the Prisons, where some of the Queens spent their time, and saw the spot where Mary Queen of Scots, made her last stand. A ROYAL DIVORCE SOUGHT

PRINCE PHILIP PETITIONS FOR SEPARATION FROM PRINCESS LOUISE.
 Gotha, July 19.—Prince Philip, of Coburg, has filed a petition for divorce from the Princess Louise, who is daughter of King Leopold. The Princess Louise came into prominence first some eight years ago, when her relations with Lieut. Mattiasch Kegivitch, then of the Austrian army, caused her husband and family to put her under close restraint, in which she remained till August 10th of last year, when she escaped from her attendants at Badelosen, where she was taking the cure. She was aided in her escape by Kegivitch and her physician. Her husband and his relatives declared her insane, and she was examined by Italian and French specialists who pronounced her sane. She has been living in Italy and France since her escape.

RESTAURANT LIFE AT SEA.

Some pleasing novelties in sea travel have been introduced in the steamer Aragon, which will carry mails and passengers between England, Portugal and South America for the Royal Mail Steam Packet Company. The dining saloon is arranged like a West End restaurant. Small tables to seat four, six or ten people, replace the captain's long table, and the passengers will make up their own parties for each meal as they please. Everyone will be able to take breakfast at any time within a range of some three hours in the morning; about the same period will be allowed for lunch; and dinner will be served all the evening. In fact, there will be practically a continuous service of food all day long; while special dinners can be arranged for the more fastidious or luxurious. The barrier between the smoking-room and the drawing-room after dinner is in part broken down by the institution of a "social hall," where the ladies and the smokers may meet on a footing of equal rights as in the lounge of an hotel. "Cabines de luxe" have been introduced for those who like to pay £200 each for a passage across the Atlantic. The larger suites comprise a double-bedded room, a boudoir, and a bathroom. For less ambitious people the provisions of a large number of single-berth cabins will be a real luxury.

PETERBORO'S PROGRESS
 Councillor McManamy's letter in yesterday's Record about Peterboro's progress is calculated to make Sherbrooke's city. The mistake that Sherbrooke made in losing the Canadian Cattle Raisers' Co., that is today looking for Peterboro's citizens do not understand each other well enough. But when the new hall is built we'll all be acquainted with one another. There is too much discord and not enough of harmony among Sherbrooke's citizens, and much indifference for the city's good. Other supply of the city's good day.

Hospitals, Convents, and Other Religious Institutions Use and Praise Vin St-Michel.

HOSPICE STE-CROIX, MARIEVILLE, P.Q.

Rev. Father A. Morin, Superior of the Eudiste Convent, Chicoutimi, Que., writes:

"I am pleased to certify that from my personal experience I know Vin St-Michel to be a powerful tonic."

Reverend Sister Saint-Philippe, of the Grey Nuns, Quebec, says:

"We prescribe Vin St-Michel whenever our nuns are suffering from debility, anemia, weakness, poor blood or are run-down. We find it a mighty tonic. It quiets the nerves and makes flesh and blood."

Rev. Sister Gendron, Sister Superior of the Hospice Ste-Croix, Marieville, Que., writes:

"Some of our nuns, who were suffering from loss of appetite, weakness, poor blood, and a general run-down condition of the system, used Vin St-Michel. The results were excellent. In each case, a change for the better was noticed in a few days, and two or three bottles completed the cure. We consider Vin St-Michel the best tonic for weakness, anemia and other diseases caused by poor blood. We are pleased to recommend Vin St-Michel."

The many friends of Miss Nellie Emery will regret to learn of her serious illness in a hospital in Franklin Falls, N.H.

"We give Vin St-Michel to our nuns when they suffer from weakness, nervousness, poor blood and kindred complaints, having been advised to do so by our physician. We find Vin St-Michel an excellent tonic to build up the strength and purify the blood."

Sister STE. CLOTILDE, First Pharmacist, Grey Nunnery, Quebec.

Hot, sultry days of spring, coming after the intense cold, are especially trying on women.

Many ailments, peculiar to the sex, are aggravated by the enervating weather.

Vin St-Michel is woman's good friend during the change of seasons.

Vin St-Michel keeps the blood pure and rich, builds up strength, drives away "that tired feeling," helps one to eat and sleep as in winter.

Vin St-Michel is the only spring tonic you need to keep well and strong.

PUT GASOLENE

IN A STOVE,

MICHIGAN MAN AND WIFE FATAL- LY INJURED AND CHILD BURNED TO DEATH.

Newberry, Mich., July 19.—By a gasoline explosion in his house at McMillan, nine miles west of here, Daniel Long was fatally burned, his three-year-old daughter was burned to a crisp, and his wife broke her neck by jumping from a second story window and will die. The house was burned to the ground. Long used some gasoline to build a fire in the kitchen and it exploded, the blazing gasoline flying all over the lower floor of the house. Almost instantly the lower part of the house was in flames. The little girl was overlooked in the confusion.

THE RUNNING OF FAST TRAINS.

Some Interesting Information On This Subject.

TIME SHOULD BE SAVED ON SHORT DISTANCES.

Wendell Phillips, in one of his lectures, spoke of the American habit of doing things in a hurry, and of going at the most rapid speed possible, regardless of consequences. He declared that if someone should invent a system by which persons could be fired out of a great cannon across the Atlantic in a few minutes, there would be a popular demand for that mode of travel, even if one in every ten persons were killed. Although this lecture was delivered a full generation ago, it illustrates the spirit that has led to the establishment of eighteen hour trains between New York and Chicago by the Pennsylvania and New York Central railroads.

The Pennsylvania's fast train between Jersey City and Chicago makes the 904 miles in an average journey speed of 50.9 miles per hour. This includes all stops, and necessarily the actual running time for parts of the distance is much greater. It is the fastest long distance train in the world. The Mediterranean express makes the 892 miles from Calais to Vintimille at an average journey speed of a little over 42 miles an hour. The same train running from Paris to Calais makes the 185 miles at an average of 58.4 miles an hour. The Nord express which runs from Ostend to St. Petersburg, a distance of nearly 1600 miles an hour, but in crossing Germany it makes the distance of 879 miles, nearly equal to that between Jersey City and Chicago, at a speed of 38.7 miles an hour. Another European train whose distance is nearly equal to that of the Pennsylvania fast Chicago train, runs from Ostend to Vienna, 822 miles, at an average of 34.7 miles an hour.

There are a number of trains, which, running far shorter distances, make much faster time than these long distance trains. For instance, there are two trains that make the 55 to 58 miles between Atlantic City and Camden at a speed of about 57 miles an hour, while the Empire State express from New York to Buffalo, 439 miles, has been running for a number of years at an average speed of over 53 miles an hour. The Edinburgh express, running from London to Edinburgh, 395 miles, makes an average speed only slightly in excess of that of the Pennsylvania-Chicago train.

The Railway Age, in an article on the new eighteen-hour trains, running between New York and Chicago, says: "Some of the European visitors to the International Railway Congress, who subsequently made a tour of the country, are credited with the remark, that, in many instances, the speed of American trains is little short of reckless. That is to say, the speed in question is too great for safety in view of the existing conditions of inadequate block signalling and universal grade crossings, if not of inferior roadbed and track. Such criticism, of course, would apply less to the New York Central and the Pennsylvania lines than to most other American systems. But even in the case of these highest examples of speed possibilities the remarks of the foreign observers have force, considering the many grade crossings of city streets, country roads and connecting railways still in existence. In the circumstances, we fancy neither the home public, nor disinterested American railway men, nor the stockholders of the companies concerned, nor foreign critics will express much sympathy with the new eighteen-hour ambition. All of them are far more likely to say that twenty hours from Chicago to New York by either route is fast enough."

The running of an eighteen-hour service between New York and Chicago entails a tremendous strain upon the organization, and the facilities of the company making the run. The difficulty increases as the extremes of train speed on the road widen. If a railroad with a limited number of tracks has trains moving over it at rates of speed from ten to fifty miles an hour, the difficulties of operation are greatly increased by putting on trains which run at sixty miles an hour. The fastest train requires a rigid clearing of the track far in advance of its approach, and increasing its speed in arithmetical ratio means increasing the strain in geometrical ratio. Then there is the question of expense. We should very much like to see the profit and loss statement of the twenty-hour train on the Vanderbilt system for the year ended Dec. 31st, with the expenses charged with their fair proportion of the total. We doubt that the balance on the right side would be very handsome.

It will be argued that an hour saved is an hour gained wherever it is saved. The value of the hour saved depends entirely on the use that can be made of the hour. It is important to save time on short distance runs. The growth of Atlantic City is an excellent example of what a fast train service will do. It may well be doubted, however, that there is any legitimate demand at present for an eighteen-hour train between New York and Chicago in place of the twenty-hour service previously existing. Of course, there are some people who want it, or think they do; but that there is any genuine public demand for it seems to us highly improbable.

CORRESPONDENCE.

THE AUTOMOBILE AND THE HORSE.

Editor of Record: Sir,—We see considerable comment now-a-days, favorable and otherwise, in the press of the Eastern Townships in regard to the automobile, but perhaps the following clipped from a Newport (Vt.) paper covers the subject as well as anything that has been said. At the request of several subscribers to your valuable paper I herewith submit it for publication, hoping that you will find space to insert it. The article is headed "Light Damages," and reads:

"Farmers have many just complaints over the automobile question, and frequently as we believe should really be entitled to damages for accidents that occur. In some cases, however, there are complaints that show on the face of them that they are made more out of pique than anything else. One complaint was that the horse was utterly ruined, and that the farmer consequently had to pick all of the stone of the farm in pails on account of an automobile, and yet $2.00 is satisfactory to settle for the horse, and all the damage accruing from the fright. Such a generous offer of settlement is enough to turn the heart of the hardest automobilist, and no doubt friend Hight will forward the $2.00 without further argument."

Now a Hatley party could truly write as follows to the same automobilist: "Your automobile was quite a damage to me. My man had a borrowed wagon that day picking stone. The horse ran away, broke the wagon, besides spoiling the horse forever for my driving. He will never get over the fright. I have had to pick the stone in pails. I think you ought to send me two dollars, at the least. I ought to have five dollars."

THE BUREAU OF LABOR.

Interesting Details in the Fifth Annual Report of the Department.

The fifth annual report of the Labor Bureau shows that during 1904 there were 54 trade disputes resulting in strikes in Ontario, involving 171 establishments and 8,945 persons. An aggregate of 878 days was covered by the strikes, the average duration of each dispute being 14.41 days, or 10.13 days per person, compared with 82 disputes, involving 429 establishments, 10,564 persons, aggregating 994 days, an average of 12.12 days to each dispute, and 10.62 days per person in 1903.

The establishments reporting to the bureau were 174, employing 11,502 persons. The gross value of their aggregate product was $25,714,296; the amount paid in wages $4,400,626, an annual average earning of $382.56 per person. The percentage labor cost of production was 17.15, as against 21.69 in 1901, and 25 in 1903.

The report includes the replies of clerks of cities, towns and villages to a circular inquiry as to the opportunity existing in their municipalities. These replies are very valuable, and one cannot help being struck by the variety of business opportunities throughout the Province. The plan of gathering such information has been warmly commended by the editor of Commercial Intelligence, London, in a letter written to the bureau. A number of statistics of interest to all workers and employees, legal decisions affecting the relations between employer and employee, a synopsis of the labor laws of Ontario, the factory act, with the latest revisions thereto, and much other useful and valuable information is comprised in the report.

The King's Pay Day.

King Edward receives a quarterly cheque from the Paymaster-General for his salary as monarch; the cheque is what is known as a negotiable receipt and is sent to the keeper of the exchequer, by whom it is signed on behalf of the King, and then lodged to the credit of His Majesty's private banking account.

Trees That Furnish Water.

No one need die of thirst in Australia if susceptible trees are near. By cutting a sapling into sections 100 to 200 feet and standing them perpendicularly with the small ends down, half a pint of water may be obtained in 15 minutes.

How Red Rose Tea is Grown

TEA is a native plant of Northern India. Transplanted to Ceylon it lost much of its strength and richness, but gained in fragrance and delicacy. That is why Ceylon tea is not a strong tea.

That is why I blend Indian and Ceylon teas together—that is how the strength and richness, fragrance and delicacy of Red Rose Tea are secured—that is why Red Rose Tea has that "rich fruity flavor."

BUMPITY BUMP.

BUMPTIONS BUMP IS BEING BUMPED AGAIN.

(G. F. Turner, Brooklyn, in Rochester, Post Express.)

The news despatches say that Deputy Collector of Customs Duane Bump at Charlotte ordered the British flag to be taken down from the British ship Aecia of Kingston, threatened to board the ship himself and haul down the colors, and when the captain dared him to touch the flag he retaliated by refusing to issue clearance papers while the flag was flying.

If this story is true Mr. Bump is clearly unfitted to hold responsible federal office. Surely a child would know that an American ship is virtually American soil and a British ship or any other has the same argument. When I showed the account of the deputy collector's act to a well known naval officer in the navy yard here, he said it seemed impossible that such an outrage could have happened. "I wonder what he would say," he added, "if an American ship was ordered to strike Old Glory by an official in a strange port. It would be almost an act of war, unless a government apology were forthcoming."

In any case, at this date, such prejudice is foolish. Our country has been built up by so many millions from all countries and July Fourth is the anniversary of the founding of a great nation. The quarrel of the British colonists with the German King of England over unjust taxation surely was a great blessing and one that should leave no trace of bitterness on our part at this late date. Our quarrel was with George III, not with the British people who so soon after we had led the way, peaceably obtained without representation. The colonists fought actively for this very principle for which their fathers and cousins and brothers in England had long been contending and soon after enjoyed. So of course they revere Washington as one of the great pioneers that achieved liberty for the English speaking people. It is surely very foolish when we are wearing one hundred millions to look at and feel bitterness for the struggle which made us what we are today. We should read Cobbett and Franklin and take a lesson from their pages written when we were young and feeble. Do not demand that the British flag be taken from a British vessel on our great national holiday; is an insult beyond belief. What about the French flag? Washington was fighting that just before to save the colonies from their grasp. How soon we forgive and forget and welcomed them as allies!
