Tories ready for election — Thrasher

OTTAWA (CP) — While the Liberals gathered today to put final touches to their election-when-it-comes-plans, a Conservative Party official said the Opposition is ready to fight an election now.

"We're as ready now as we would be six months or a year from now," said national director R. D. Thrasher at Progressive Conservative Party headquarters.

Alouettes get Bernie Faloney

BERNIE FALONEY

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Alouettes of the Eastern Football Conference announced today they have acquired quarterback Bernie Faloney from Hamilton Tiger-Cats for four Alouette players.

The Alouettes gave up established players Billy Ray Lochlin, Dick Walton, Ted Page and Billy Wayne.

The teams also exchanged rights to certain players. The Alouettes gave up their jurisdiction over halfback Don Clark, an all-star who retired last season because of recurring injuries.

The Tiger-Cats gave up rights to linebacker Ralph Goldston and defensive half Jackie Simpson.

This means that these players now are available to the respective teams if they wish to sign them.

Announcing the biggest trade since Toronto Argonauts acquired Jackie Parker two years ago, president M. E. (Ted) Workman said the Alouettes "have obtained the one commodity missing in recent years in a football formula for success."

"We have obtained the best and therefore had to give the best," he said.

In Hamilton Tiger-Cat coach Ralph Sazio said informing Faloney of the trade was, "one of the toughest things I ever had to do."

The Conservatives already have nominated nearly a score of candidates in ridings in which they were defeated two years ago, and have lined up candidate possibilities in most of the other ridings, Mr. Thrasher said.

"We have been preparing for an election ever since the last election. You've got to do that when there's only a minority government in power. An election can come any time."

Mr. Thrasher was interviewed as the top organizers of the federal Liberal Party gathered for a meeting which could be the last they will hold before an election is called.

MAINLY PREPAREDNESS

But Liberal Party informants said this does not mean that an election is, in fact, imminent. It's mainly a point of preparedness.

Integrated hydro impossible now

MONTREAL (CP) — The president of provincially-owned Hydro-Quebec said Monday full integration of subsidiary companies will be impossible to achieve as long as "certain legal and financial problems" remain.

Jean-Claude Lessard said the main problem involves some $250,000,000 in outstanding bonds.

He made the statement at a press conference during which he announced the division of Quebec into eight administrative districts.

The subsidiary companies "each carry a trust deed and before they can be changed we have to know whether the bondholders are prepared to agree," Mr. Lessard said.

"Although the bonds of these subsidiary companies have been guaranteed by the province, some obligations go beyond 1981."

UK FORCES MASS IN EAST

From AP-Reuters

SINGAPORE (CP) — More paratroopers arrived from England today as part of a British buildup amid fears of escalation of the undeclared war between Indonesia and Malaysia.

Britain has flown in 100 para-troops and a further 400 are due. About 500 men of a Gurkha battalion are coming from Hong Kong, raising the total of British and other Commonwealth troops in Malaysia to more than 7,000.

Britain's most modern aircraft carrier, the Eagle, is expected in Malaysian waters and four minesweepers and two patrol boats are being taken out of inactive status in Singapore.

The moves are part of the British government's decision to strengthen its Far East forces in the face of increasing infiltration by Indonesia against the Malaysian federation.

Britain's new chief of the general staff, Gen. Sir James Cassels, arrives Jan. 14 to survey the tense situation.

ISSUE WARNING

The Malaysian government announced Monday it would retaliate "under the rule of hot pursuit" should Indonesia attack in force, Indonesia's announcement that it is withdrawing from the United Nations came after intelligence reports that Indonesia is massing forces at bases surrounding Malaysia.

At the United Nations, Indonesia's chief UN delegate, L. N. Palar, said he would close the Indonesian mission this week and go home "to talk things out."

Some sources expressed belief that Palar hoped to persuade President Sukarno not to make the withdrawal final.

In an interview with a New York Times reporter, Palar said Malaysia was a "manifestation of British neo-colonialism" and that its election to the UN security council, the "highest security body in the world, an organization to guarantee the security of the new countries," was intolerable.

Come and visit, LBJ tells Reds in union address

WASHINGTON (CP) — Russia's new leaders have been invited to visit the United States in a casually-phrased but careful initiative by President Johnson.

The invitation, made public Monday night in the traditional State of the Union address, was made known to Moscow earlier in the day, officials said.

And Johnson is prepared to consider favorably an invitation to make a trip to the Soviet Union, leading to a new era of U.S.-Soviet relations.

Former premier Nikita Khrushchev came to the United States in 1959 and no American president ever has visited Russia.

But the bulk of the Johnson message "to the newly convened 89th Congress and the country" was a formidable domestic program for a great American society, meaty with goals but as usual in such messages skimpy on detail.

The State of the Union is "free, restless, growing and full of hope," Johnson said in his 47-minute speech.

He specified another $1,500,000,000 for federal aid to education, a substantial excise tax cut, plus fresh drives against poverty, crime, pollution, city blight and other ills. It appeared to stack up as a full workload for the next four years and then some.

Revises Rules — Shortly before a cheering joint session received Johnson's message — delivered in person and carried by radio and television networks — Congress broke down some of its own ancient legislative barriers by revising rules that might have blocked the way.

The president, who won a landslide November victory and polled an unprecedented 43,000,000 votes, faced old colleagues with brighter-than-ever prospects that they will enact the great bulk of his program. Both the House of Representatives and the Senate are Democratic by lopsided margins.

The legislators burst into applause 57 times for Johnson's 4,000-word address. Democrats called it "inspiring" and "attainable." Some of the outnumbered Republicans called his proposals costly and utopian.

The presidential message presented a series of preambles, not detailed programs.

His specific new proposals, Johnson said, will be spelled out in special messages during the next six weeks.

A health message will come first, on Thursday. Then education, next Tuesday; immigration, two days later; space and foreign aid, before the inauguration Jan. 20.

REVIEWS WORLD SCENE — Prefacing his domestic message with an international review, Johnson said that "today, the state of the union depends in large measure on the state of the world."

On one hand, no new Communist state had emerged in the last four years and the "unity of the Communist empire has begun to crumble." The last

UK dockleaders appeal for work on weekends

LONDON (CP) — Leaders of Britain's dockworkers, under pressure from the government, have agreed to appeal again for members to report for weekend work in a bid to ease the congestion in British ports.

But they angrily deny charges that they alone in the industry are sabotaging the country's vital export drive, and insist that the recent public outcry against dockers is unfair.

The agreement came during a meeting Monday between officials of the Transport and General Workers' Union and Labor Minister Ray Gunter, who later reported to Prime Minister Harold Wilson.

There was doubt that the appeal would have much effect. Jack Dash, a life-long Communist and head of the unofficial but influential Port Workers' Liaison Committee, called the appeal "a waste of time."

NO UNION BAN — TGWU head Harry Nicholas, while sympathetic to the government's plea, emphasized that although there is no union ban on more work, most dockers already put in 10 hours overtime a week and "we cannot expect them to slog themselves to death seven days a week."

LONDON (CP) — Private funeral services are planned for T. S. Eliot, one of the 20th century's greatest poets.

Eliot, a native of the United States and a British subject since 1927, died at his home in London Monday night. He was 76.

The cause of death was not announced. Two years ago he was a patient in a London hospital that specializes in respiratory ailments.

Council date set

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The fourth and final session of the Vatican ecumenical council will start next Sept. 14, the Vatican press office announced today.

The date was set by Pope Paul.

Separate schools

Regina (CP) — The bells heralding the start of 1965 in Saskatchewan tolled the return of something the wheat province hasn't seen for more than 50 years — tax-supported separate secondary schools for Roman Catholic students.

More than 15 separate secondary schools have operated in the province during the last 50 years, but were supported privately.

Won't run

QUEBEC (CP) — The opposition Union Nationale will not contest the elections because they would have meant campaigning in the Christmas season and under winter weather conditions.

Train in west

WINNIPEG (CP) — A Royal Air Force Britannia aircraft arrived here Monday night with advance elements of three British army units.

The 81-man advance contingent will pave the way for winter training in Manitoba and Alberta in February and March.

Main bodies of the three units, with a total manpower of 250, will arrive in early February. They will include territorial, part-time soldiers similar to Canada's reserve army.

BRITISH CARRIER GETS SIGNAL FOR MALAYSIA — Seaman rings bell of British aircraft carrier Eagle just before it leaves harbor of Mombasa, Kenya, for Malaysia, the Far East's latest sore spot. "For us it's a strange side of the war," Werner said, "so far none of us have been shot at, but we may look up tomorrow and see the MIGs (Red Chinese jet fighters) coming in on us, a war on the plain (Plaine des Jarres), or in Viet Nam for that matter. The plain and the countryside in Laos and Viet Nam look so peaceful from the air."

DOUBLE DUMMY SOLVES PROBLEM

By OSWALD JACOBY
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Today's hand describes a very unusual play by the late Dorothy Sims that enabled her to defeat a six spade contract. The bidding was that of the early 30s when the hand was played. South played a low diamond from dummy and noted that East played the nine. He ruffed with the ace of trumps, led the eight of trumps to dummy's jack, ruffed a second diamond, drew trumps and led the seven of clubs. His plan was to finesse the ten spot, clear the diamonds, get back to dummy with the ace of clubs and claim a grand slam, but Dorothy stuck in the jack of clubs and South was short one entry and had to go down two tricks at his six contract.

has pointed out that there is a way for South to make his contract against any defense if he knew the exact division of the East-West cards.

At trick two, South leads a club to dummy's ace and ruffs a diamond high. Then he cashes the king and queen of clubs and discards a heart from dummy. His next play is the king of hearts. West must win with the ace and lead a trump, otherwise South could ruff out his other two hearts.

Since West holds the trump seven, South wins in dummy with the six or jack depending on which trump West leads. Then he ruffs out East's ace of diamonds, enters dummy with the last trump and discards his hearts on the diamonds.

Card Sense
Q—The bidding has been:
West North East South
1 Clb. Dbl. Pass 1 Spd.
2 Clbs. 4 Spds. Pass ?
You, South, hold: Spades, 7-5-4-3; Hearts, A-5-4; Diamonds, Q-J-10-8; Clubs, 3-2.
What do you do?
A—Pass. You may be missing a slam if your partner is very conservative, but a bid is too likely to get you into a losing slam.

Today's Question
Instead of bidding four spades, your partner bids three clubs over West's two clubs. What do you do in this case?

Mayor reviews achievements of past two years

At the final meeting of the Lennoxville municipal council, last night, prior to municipal nominations Jan. 25, Mayor Archie Mitchell reviewed the achievements of the council during their two year term.

Mayor Mitchell, who has served on the council for six years, two of them as mayor, said that during the past two years the new reservoir was completed, giving uniform water pressure throughout the town and additional fire protection.

He said that a master plan covering the street lighting was made and a start of the completion on Queen Street was completed.

A topographical map of the town was completed, giving town engineers information so that proper town planning can be carried out in the future.

A preliminary study for the collection and treatment of sewage for the town was made, Mayor Mitchell noted.

He said that assurance has been received that crossing signals will be put in at the Moulton Hill crossing. Assurances have also been received by the town of Lennoxville that crossing signals will be installed on the College Street crossing, improving the safety of the citizens of the town.

PAVING PROGRESS
Mayor Mitchell said that besides conducting the regular business of the town, the council had made progress on the paving of a number of streets in order to give better service and cut down on maintenance.

The equipment of the town was improved by the purchase of a Bombardier sidewalk snow plow, new trucks, a tractor, a police car, and a snowblower.

The mayor also noted that the office system has been upgraded to improve efficiency in sending out accounts.

The Town of Lennoxville participated in the Civil Defence District Cities and Towns Association, and representation was made at the Regional Planning Board, the mayor reported.

The mayor represented the town on 71 occasions over the past two years.

"It was possible, through careful planning, to carry out all this work without increasing the municipal mill rate," he pointed out.

The mayor stressed that he hoped future administrations will continue the progress begun during the past two years.

The notice of municipal election will be published January 16, nominations will be held on January 25, from 12 noon to 2 p.m.

An election, if necessary, will be held on February 1st.

The first meeting of the new term will be in the evening of February 1st. The returning officer is Ken Herring, secretary-treasurer of the Town of Lennoxville.

There will be no increase in the number of eight taxi permits which are at present granted to Lennoxville taxi operators.

At the December meeting of the council, several of the taxi permit holders protested the operation of a ninth taxi within the Lennoxville town limits. A holder of two taxi permits had wanted a third permit.

The town council noted, though, that the first permit that becomes open will be made available to the existing permit holders.

The citizens of Downs Street, a private road within the town limits, will have their street plowed this winter, at a nominal cost, the council announced last night.

The decision was made after the residents of the street agreed not to hold the town responsible for any damage that may be done by the plow, except by negligence.

The auction of property on which back taxes are owed will be held at the town offices on January 22.

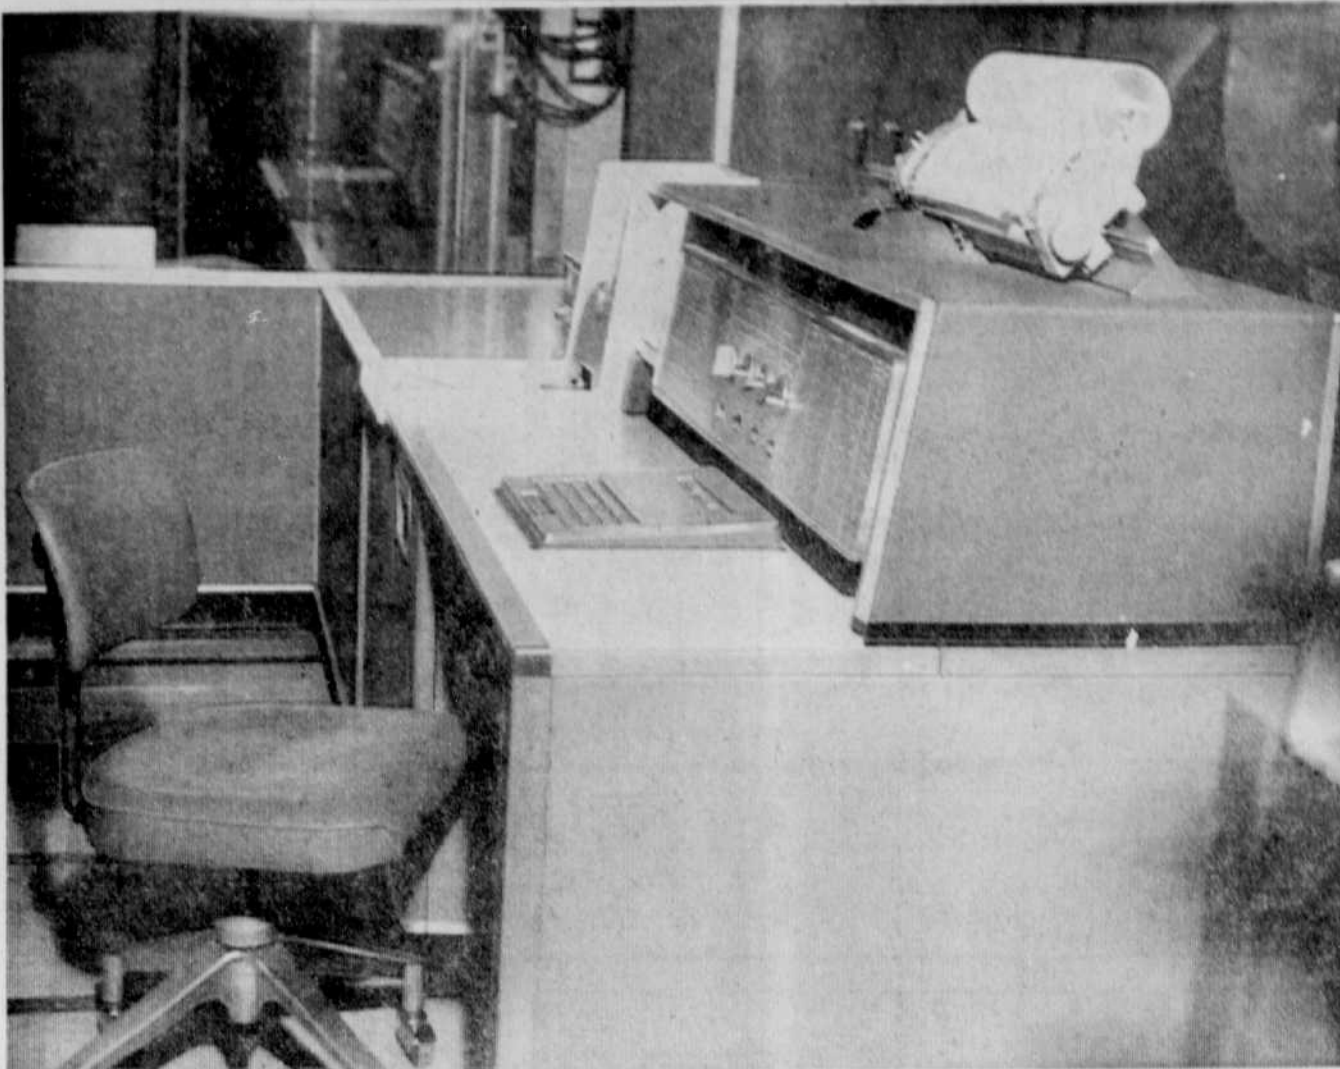

The municipal tax bills are being delayed in the absence of the rate for the Protestant School tax, which is collected on the municipal tax bill.

No council
Sherbrooke city council did not hold its regular meeting last night. However, the city fathers did meet yesterday afternoon and last night to discuss salary adjustments for employees not covered by the five unions of municipal employees, Mayor Armand Nadeau said this morning.

About 80 employees in the general administration division of the city recently were awarded pay boosts of $14 per week starting this year and $9 per week for 1964.

Computer and other machines help Rand beat that pay day deadline

By PAUL WHITELAW
(Record staff reporter)

It's a never-ending struggle between the forces of supply and demand for the platoon of clerks at Canadian Ingersoll-Rand to prepare checks ready for distribution to the 1050 employees every pay day.

Batteries of business machines and reams of paper work go into the preparation of checks to be distributed every Thursday morning to the 725 hourly wage plant employees and the 325 bi-monthly paid salaried workers.

Employees' work records go through the cost accounting department, the payroll department and the computer room before they are ready to be distributed.

But those responsible for pay checks beat the weekly and bi-monthly payday deadlines with the help of IBM's RAMAC 305, countless adding machines, typewriters and Sundstrand, a calculating machine.

RAMAC figures out overtime, does all multiplying, calculates the gross salary, handles all deductions, arrives at the net pay, and then prints the check of the hourly-rated employees.

Sundstrand calculates the pay and overtime, works out deductions, arrives at the net pay and prints the pay check of the bi-monthly paid salaried workers.

Factory controller Tim Waggoner says, "The bi-monthly salaries of the straight salaried personnel are relatively simple to arrive at. They have a straight salary every two weeks, and regular amount of deductions, with only the occasional change for overtime."

But he points out the preparation of pay checks for the 725 hourly-rated employees is a real time consumer.

"Starting on the floor of the shop with the time card, punch in and out daily and a time ticket, showing the time each man takes to complete each job

Mr. Waggoner says the machine then takes over and produces the results that help beat the pay day deadline.

"Hourly rated people are paid from the Sunday morning to the Saturday night previous to payday," he adds.

There is enough work to keep RAMAC, Sundstrand, and the typewriters very busy and to make the employees of the cost accounting, computer, and payroll departments work long hours for their paychecks.

This year, most of the mayor's term ends so that nominations will be for the mayor and three councillors.

In the event that more candidates are nominated than there are seats vacant, the elections will be held on Monday, January 18.

There has been an increasing tendency in recent years for the rural municipalities to take advantage of a provision in the Municipal Code which permits the elections to be held during the summer months.

When air service starts

Sherbrooke to NYC: 1 hour, 20 minutes

By DAVID WEBSTER
(Record staff reporter)

Statewide Airlines has made a recent bid along with two other companies to acquire control of Northeast Airlines, a large New England company. The company is the only one that now runs an airline service between Montreal and Boston, says Mr. Steinman. This has been Northeast's best paying run, he says.

There is little chance of Statewide extending its Sherbrooke service to other Canadian centres such as Montreal or Quebec City, he says.

"The Air Transport Board would never allow an American company to establish service between Canadian centres on principle," he says.

There is a possibility that in the future planes may be diverted in bad weather from the Montreal to the Sherbrooke airport, Mr. Steinman says. The Sherbrooke airport is large enough for any aircraft except jets, he said.

However, the beginning of the service is awaiting a legal step: the approval of the air route by the U.S. government's Federal Aviation Agency.

The Canadian Air Transport Board is withholding permission for the service until this approval is given, says Mr. Steinman.

An air route is the path in which a plane flying regular service must follow, he says.

If the plane deviates from this path the control station no longer knows which one it is or where its destination is. For the Sherbrooke service the route is to be about 10 miles wide, he says.

The planes are to fly at an altitude of 10,000 to 15,000 feet. There will probably be two flights per day in and out of Sherbrooke: one a direct service from Sherbrooke to New York City, touching down only at Berlin, New Hampshire the port of entry, and the other stopping at other New England centres, Mr. Steinman says.

An important Canadian air route connecting Montreal with the Maritimes goes over the Sherbrooke area, he says. The planes flying it are at an altitude of 16,000 to 18,000 feet. Jets fly at about 30,000 feet, he says.

Mr. Laflamme pleaded not guilty to the charge and elected to be tried by judge without jury.

He is accused of breaking into the restaurant of D. J. Stafford on Christmas Eve.

Gaston Noury of Sherbrooke was also arraigned before Sessions Judge Benoit Turmel on the charge of beating his wife. He pleaded not guilty to the charge. Trial was postponed until January 15. Attorney for Mrs. Noury is Yves Lafontaine.

Sessions Court clerk Jean-Marie Grogio reported that the list of "speedy trial" cases postponed for the criminal assizes will be released today. Defendants in such cases will be tried by judge alone, not judge and jury.

Opening of the criminal assizes (trials by judge and jury) is scheduled for January 12.

Certain municipalities elect their councillors at large while in other cases candidates are named for individual seats.

By the former system, candidates named run for all vacant seats with the three polling the largest number of votes being elected.

Comprised in the last category are municipalities which have been established for special reasons — generally geographical. Usually they comprise sections of adjoining townships where the interests of the residents are more closely connected with those of nearby dwellers in another township than they are with the township in which they are located.

Councils governed by the Municipal Code are made up of a mayor and six councillors, each of whom are elected for a two year term. Each year three of the council seats become vacant with the mayorality post being open in alternate years.

This year, most of the mayor's term ends so that nominations will be for the mayor and three councillors.

In the event that more candidates are nominated than there are seats vacant, the elections will be held on Monday, January 18.

There has been an increasing tendency in recent years for the rural municipalities to take advantage of a provision in the Municipal Code which permits the elections to be held during the summer months.

This is especially true in municipalities which include resort areas, the idea being to give owners of cottages and other

What is sauce for the goose....

The drive being spearheaded by Quebec for bilingualism in all Federal government business would seem to be in keeping with the official bicultural nature of our country.

It may never be practical to carry the campaign as far as some in French Canada would like, but certainly, the extension of bilingualism as far as possible in conducting the affairs of the country should be pursued.

But what about the affairs of the Quebec government?

Is there any reason why the same principle should not apply? Are not the English-speaking residents of Quebec in the same position in this province as French-speaking residents of Canada are in this country?

This newspaper, like others, receives copious official literature from various departments of the Quebec government. At a rough estimate, only about 40 per cent of it is bilingual.

Quebec's version of Hansard, the official transcript of legislature debates, is available only in French, except where speeches are given in English.

The Federation of Quebec Protestant Colonization and Settlement Societies complained recently — and with ample justification — that technical farm literature and advice from the Quebec government is seldom available in English.

One reason for the situation is the problem of obtaining trained bilingual people and French-English translators. Ottawa, of course, has the same problem. Since Quebec has not as yet been able to solve the problem, is it unreasonable to expect a more sympathetic Quebec attitude towards the federal government's difficulties in this respect?

And shouldn't there be more official concern in Quebec about the one-sidedness of the bilingual situation here before too many more brickbats are thrown at Ottawa for the situation there?

Safety Council has tough problem

Apparently not discouraged by the ever-increasing death toll on the Canadian highways, the Canadian Highway Safety Council has announced its intention to take "drastic steps" to stem the tide of road accidents in 1965.

Canadians generally, motorists and non-motorists alike, will wish the Council luck in its efforts but most of us, viewing the poor results of previous campaigns, will question what good another drive will do.

But the statistics presented by the Council should assure it of popular support. It estimates that, if the present ratio of accidents to cars continues, 4,800 persons will meet death on the Canadian highways in 1965; 140,000 will suffer more or less serious injuries and the economic loss to the nation will amount to half-a-billion dollars.

The Council hopes to cut at least 500 off the forecast death toll by using its influence to obtain better education of all road-users, young and old, drivers and pedestrians; by better law enforcement; and better engineering — safer roads, safer vehicles, satisfactory signing and signalling.

There appears little new in this program but, unfortunately, it appears the only course of action.

Unrelenting propaganda has enabled industrial concerns to substantially reduce and in some lines virtually eliminate lost-time accidents.

It should work if every driver capable of it embraced some of the factory worker's discipline and sensible attitude toward safety, remembering that it is not just his livelihood but his own life at stake.

At least the Canadian public will welcome the Safety Council's decision to continue the campaign, even if the message appears difficult to put across.

Speeding up Liquor Board service

When, or if, the striking employees of the Quebec Liquor Board return to work, the Board might study one suggestion advanced by a New Brunswick "Tippler" to speed up service to the patrons, especially during the rush periods.

Tippler suggests that the New Brunswick Board fix all its prices at even dollars.

Under the existing system in both New Brunswick and Quebec, clerks spend a great deal of their time in totting up prices and fumbling with change. And the cashiers go through the same process.

By the even dollar system, sales could be made more rapidly and the long waits so apparent when more than three or four customers are to be served would be shortened.

And the average customer would suffer very little monetary loss. The prices of some brands might advance 20 to 30 cents, while there would be similar reductions in the case of other brands.

The reduced wear and tear on the nerves and tempers of the patrons would well offset any small boost in the retail price.

Other papers say:

When science yields to politics

Can the sciences keep their integrity when political or military goals set the tone for much of modern research?

A committee of the American Association for the Advancement of Science raises the question. It also points to areas where that integrity already is eroding.

Its recent report, "The Integrity of Science," is a badly needed warning.

As specific examples, the committee cites such experiments as the United States Starfish high altitude nuclear test. This test disabled several research satellites. It notes that, when experiments are conducted in secret and with the gathering of military data as their prime justification, good scientific procedure may be neglected.

The report also picks out the United States Apollo moon landing program as a general area in which scientific considerations are secondary to an essentially political goal.

By "integrity," the committee says it means the proper growth of science as a body of knowledge. It is not talking about the ethics of individuals. Yet it notes that some scientists have been less than objective in promoting the moon program.

We would go farther. Scientists do lose their individual integrity when they pretend to speak as experts but are really presenting a biased case for some course of action.

If the sciences are to keep their objective approach to nature, which is their strength, scientists themselves must face the moral challenge raised by the political and social pressures to which they individually are exposed.

The readers say:

Liquor stores should be private

Dear Sir,

May I express my humble opinion in regard to what appears to be this province's complete disregard of the taxpayer in relation to their monopoly of the liquor business.

While this I know is not an essential service, the taxpayer and especially the business man who operates a restaurant and pays plenty for the privilege is losing a considerable amount of profit at this time of year.

It is a well known fact that the government makes a good profit, perhaps too much, out of this business; on the other hand, this money all belongs to the taxpayer, which is often forgotten.

If the employees are not satisfied, they do not have to work for these stores, and if the stores were run on a business basis or leased to a private individual, the service would be much better and the cost of operation very much less. Why should the government be in the business, it is certainly not to our advantage.

It is pretty well understood, I believe, that like all government business, it is used or has been used for political advantage and to get a job was a sort of reward for services rendered and not on a merit basis. I do not believe that any government service should be allowed to have a union. In this case it would appear that the demands are excessive when hours worked and holidays are considered. A raise of $25 per week over a salary of $60 is a 40% increase for a job requiring no special qualifications. As well seniority as a basis for promotion. An ordinary business could operate efficiently under such conditions. They would simply hire a new staff and be in operation in no time, with a cash and carry store.

If the government feels it must control this business, it could act as a wholesale outlet and leave the retailing end to private enterprise. I venture to say that a great deal of money would be saved for the taxpayer and the service improved.

The less business the government controls, the better for everyone; their main job is to collect taxes, and sometimes, make refunds, on taxes paid.

K. B. Jenckes, Johnville.

Why must parties require liquor?

Dear Sir:

In your paper of Dec. 30/64 I read the article reporting that the licensed liquor establishments would have to cancel reservations for conventions, parties, etc. if they could not obtain liquor to serve. What is wrong with serving tomato juice, fruit drinks or even milk?

Have the people of this province gone so far that they are unable to enjoy a meal without strong drink? They have reported that they are asking Premier Lesage to release enough liquor to them so they can hold these conventions and parties. I personally hope he does not accede to their request.

He is a very fine man and a great leader, but if he gives in to these requests he is not the man I admire. Without liquor there will be no hangovers, headaches or accidents or sickness.

If there cannot be a party without the liquor, then I say "No Parties".

Please print this. I expect repercussions from it, some good, some bad, but I still stand on the saying No Liquor, No Parties.

Sincerely,

Mr. Harold S. Taylor,
North Hatley.

Maple leaf flag is one of unity

Dear Sir:

As a native of the Eastern Townships, now a resident of Montreal, I just had the opportunity to read a letter in your column, printed the first of December, this was in regards to the "Leaf, Jack, Fleur de Lis" flag design liked by one of your readers.

I am sure the gentleman in mind is quite pleased that our worthy government did pass and approve a national flag for Canada before Christmas, and I along with nineteen million fellow Canadians am proud of the single red maple leaf design.

I believe this design is quite appropriate as the maple leaf is and has been the true token of Canadian identity.

A flag such as that "Leaf, Jack and Fleur de Lis" would, I believe be separating the nationalities of the Canadian populace by placing each emblem quite separate on one background. Therefore, this would not be symbolic of Canadian unity; the same unity that we as Canadians, whether English, French or other, should strive to preserve and improve in future years.

In closing I would like to congratulate the government for fulfilling one of their election promises and I might add a job well done.

Sincerely,

William Brown,
Montreal.

Looking back at the year

Sunny '64 for pulp and paper

MONTREAL (CP)—Taken altogether, a sunny 1964 was enjoyed by Canada's pulp and paper industry.

The outlook for the new year: Probably even better.

The industry's stock-taking and crystal-gazing are contained in a year-end review by R. M. Fowler, president of the Canadian Pulp and Paper Association.

The highlights:

—Total industry output in 1964 was 10 per cent higher than in 1963.

—Shipments to domestic and export markets were at record levels.

—Virtually all branches of the industry shared in the gains.

—Final figures will probably show that the value of the industry's output exceeded $1,900,000,000 with exports topping $1,300,000,000.

—Thus pulp and paper remained Canada's leading industrial producer, employer and exporter," Mr. Fowler says.

His statement describes expansion by the pulp and paper people as one of the chief elements in Canada's continuing economic growth.

"Rarely in this or in most industries have so many large programs been envisaged in so short a period of time.

"They reflect confidence in the outlook both for world pulp and paper demand and for Canada as a source of supply."

OUTLOOK GOOD

As for the new year:

"The prospects that 1965 will bring a further increase in Canada's pulp and paper output are good. They depend chiefly on general economic conditions at home and abroad, and at present there is no reason to suppose that these will be less favorable next year than they have been in 1964."

The industry was hit late in the year by an internal bombshell. MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River Ltd., based on the West Coast and Canada's largest products firm, reduced newsprint prices to its customers by $10 a ton.

Other competing British Columbia-based firms fell into line, but at year's end Ontario and Quebec producers were holding stubbornly to existing price structures.

Pricing is a matter outside the framework of operation of the pulp and paper association and the shockwaves of the price split were not mentioned in the Fowler statement.

On newsprint generally Mr. Fowler had this to say:

"During 1964 there was a sharp increase in demand for newsprint, the chief product of the Canadian mills. This occurred not only in the United States, the largest market, but also in Canada and in several areas overseas, particularly Britain, Japan and Australia."

"Part of the increase in U.S. demand resulted from the unusually low consumption in 1963, when there were strikes at leading newspapers; but even after considering this factor, demand rose substantially."

Bygone days

OTTAWA — "This," said the prime minister of Canada the other day, "is the open season for speculation — and especially in the present circumstances."

Lester Pearson made the statement without rancor, even though for days past newspapermen had been busy knocking off a third of his cabinet ministers — men, they said, whom the PM would almost certainly put out to pasture because they were failures at their jobs, or had bought furniture on time, or had aides being investigated by the Dorion commission, or were at odds with other Liberals, or had made representations in immigration cases, or were persona non grata to Quebec.

Some of the speculation was so wild that it encompassed Foreign Minister Paul Martin and Northern Affairs Minister Arthur Laing — two of the ablest members of the cabinet, ministers who are more than ordinarily close to Pearson, and men in whom the PM has the utmost confidence.

This is not to say there isn't some dead or weak timber in the cabinet that will be replaced at the opportune time. This is normal in any cabinet. Mr. Pearson carried out an operation of this type last February, parting with two ministers, taking in two new ones, and shifting some portfolios. And I've no doubt he would have carried out such an operation during the current parliamentary recess, except for one thing: the Dorion inquiry.

If the PM were to change the status of any French-Canadian minister at this time, it would set off all kinds of speculative suspicion.

If the minister were one of those whose names have figured in the commission hearings, it would be taken as an admission by the PM that the minister concerned had been guilty of some reprehensible action, or at least some lack of judgment or ability.

If the minister's name had not figured in the inquiry, it would be taken either that the PM had knowledge that had not come to Chief Justice Dorion's attention, or that some other scandal was involved.

So my guess is that there will be no cabinet changes before the chief justice makes his report, probably around mid-February. And that unless the Dorion report is damning in its implication of one or more ministers, it will not trigger any immediate changes in the treasury bench line-up.

A man of Mr. Pearson's integrity will not condone ministerial wrongdoing, should any be proven. By the same token such a prime minister will not convict a colleague, or anyone, on the basis of guilt by association.

Mike Pearson was close to E. H. Norman, our erstwhile ambassador to Egypt whom the judicial subcommittee of the US Senate branded as a Red — and largely drove to suicide. I suspect the Norman case has been in Mr. Pearson's mind more than once since Nov. 23, as the Tories tried to make it appear that Justice Minister Favreau and Immigration Minister Tremblay were not unaware of the alleged efforts of their ministerial assistants to bribe and coerce Montreal lawyer Pierre Lamontagne.

"Where a cleanup job is required it will be done," Mr. Pearson promised last week.

But of all his Liberal colleagues in the Commons — and they include Messrs. Favreau and Tremblay — he said: "I consider them all honest and honorable men, and it is a privilege to work with them."

Jailed two years for firearms offences

By JAMES McALLISTER
(Record staff reporter)

SWEETSBURG — Roland Mainville of Montreal, again before the local Court of Sessions yesterday, was sentenced to two years in prison on three possessions of firearms and driving charges.

The individual charges are as follows: being in possession of offensive weapons; being in possession of offensive weapons with the intent of committing a crime and impaired driving.

Mainville, 32, of 332 Levesque Boulevard, Montreal, was arrested by Police Chief, Denis O'Neil, of Roxton Pond for impaired driving and was found later to have a .303 Enfield rifle, some cartridges and a real-looking toy Luger in his possession.

Mainville was arrested by Chief O'Neil on September 3, 1964 at 10:30 p.m. after the chief had followed his car for about a mile. Chief O'Neil said he wasn't sure if the driver of the car was having mechanical trouble or if he had been drinking, so he decided to bid his time before stopping Mainville.

The driver of the black Plymouth was weaving from side to side in a zig-zag fashion, said the chief, and finally he decided to blow his siren and warn the driver to stop. He stopped Mainville, and asked for his papers.

"Mainville's breath smelled heavily of liquor," said Chief O'Neil. "I asked him to step out of the car and follow me. He gave me an Army salute and while going to my car he could not walk straight, so I took him to the station."

"At the station house Mainville started to curse and speak in an injurious manner," said the chief, "and then he acted as though he wanted to fight so it was necessary for me to handcuff him."

Belt unlatched? Car won't start as safety measure

TRENTON, N.J. (AP)—Mel Blatt has found a sure way to get motorists to use their seat belts.

It's a seat belt with an electronic gimmick—your car won't start unless you fasten the belt.

When the belt is locked around your waist, a signal is generated which allows the ignition to work.

Blatt, whose 30-year-old firm manufactures bowling and billiard equipment, is trying to sell the idea to major automobile manufacturers, parts distributors and police departments. He said he expects to begin marketing the device by early 1965. A whole kit, complete with electronic devices and two belts, will sell for about $25.

Travels of Pope Paul

Inter-religious friendship increased in 1964 with some jolts along the way

Inter-religious friendship increased remarkably in 1964, but there were jolts along the way.

It was a period of developing concourse among the various branches of Christianity, and of closer fraternity between it and Judaism.

But as the year drew to a close, there also were tensions for the forces of religion.

Among the most dramatic symbols of the rise of inter-faith activity were the travels of Pope Paul.

His trips to the Holy Land and to India, and his conciliatory meetings with leaders of other churches and non-Christian faiths, opened a new era bringing Rome into personal encounter with those outside its fold.

An epochal moment came with the embrace in Jerusalem of the Pope and Patriarch Athenagoras I, spiritual leader of all Eastern Orthodox, after 900 years of mute cleavage between Eastern and Western Christianity.

Aside from the personal diplomacy, the third session of the second Vatican council produced weighty charters for a new policy of rapprochement and collaboration.

SHATTER OLD IMAGE

Documents were approved asserting collective or "collegial" government of the Roman Catholic Church, shattering the old image of one-man rule, and also endorsing work and worship with other Christians.

Passage of the schema on ecumenism came amid a surge of specific steps in various places putting it into practice.

For instance, the Roman Catholic archdiocese of Santa Fe, New Mexico, joined the state Council of Churches, an interdenominational co-operative body.

In Boston, Richard Cardinal Cushing applauded the work of Baptist evangelist Billy Graham, and recommended attendance at his services.

The Vatican council also gave initial approval to a document emphasizing bonds with Judaism, and repudiating the notion that Jews bear special responsibility for Christ's death. The Episcopal Church, at its governing convention, took similar action. It also elected a new presiding bishop, the Rt. Rev. John E. Hines, the North Caro-

Chrysanthemums, cabbage splash color over Peking

PEKING (Reuters) — Chrysanthemums and cabbages lend splashes of color to Peking's predominantly grey streets as the north China winter sets in after a prolonged warm autumn.

The large oblong cabbage grown in the Peking area is an important part of the winter diet here.

Newspapers and officials have been pouring out advice to housewives on how to store these heavy, nearly white, cabbages to keep them fresh, and on methods of salting or drying them.

Communist party street committees have been urging residents to buy cabbages to store after what was officially described as the third successive good harvest.

For several weeks, all roads into the capital were crowded with trucks, wheel barrows, and carts drawn by horses, mules, or cyclists, and all

Another high spot of the year's religious events was the award of the Nobel Peace Prize to a Negro Baptist minister, Rev. Martin Luther King, U.S. integration leader.

The work in that field, however, produced its turmoil and controversy in the U.S.

Master of setting precedents

Cloth catches controversy in person of Cardinal Ritter

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Controversy clings like clerical cloth to Joseph Cardinal Ritter, but it doesn't worry St. Louis' outspoken, 72-year-old Roman Catholic archbishop.

He even thinks the Pope's sermons are too long—and says so.

This small, stocky cardinal with the warm smile and twinkling eyes also can be severe and tough. He has a way of saying and doing things generally unexpected of a prince of the church, and he is a master of setting precedents.

For example, when he was Bishop of Indianapolis in the 1930s he defied the Ku Klux Klan by ordering racial integration of the diocese's parochial schools. In 1947—seven years before the U.S. Supreme Court held segregation of public schools unconstitutional—he integrated St. Louis' parochial schools.

Justice has taken part personally in civil rights protests, and he adds: "I definitely support civil disobedience for a just cause."

Cardinal Ritter doesn't like long sermons, saying they should be only 10-15 minutes—20 at the maximum. "You know, Pope Paul VI is really long-winded," he chuckles. "He often speaks for 40 minutes."

NOT ANGRY OFTEN

Cardinal Ritter's anger doesn't flare often—but when it did during the last session of the Vatican council, it was heard around the world.

That happened when a move by some conservative cardinals in Rome beat back a vote, favored by Cardinal Ritter and other prelates, on the religious liberty schema. He and the other cardinals took their case to the Pope but lost.

Following the Vatican defeat, the peppery little prelate returned to St. Louis and told a press conference: "We were very angry at the delaying tactic by a small—very small—minority of the bishops."

The religious liberty document proposed that each individual could worship God according to his own conscience even if he were "in error." The church at present maintains officially that Roman Catholicism is the only true faith.

"I believe now that even those Catholics who opposed the vote this time probably favor the idea," Cardinal Ritter says. "And I do not believe that the Pope supported the action of the more conservative bishops."

When Cardinal Ritter, Albert Cardinal Meyer of Chicago and Paul-Emile Cardinal Leger of Montreal took their plea for a vote to Pope Paul, the pontiff was at lunch.

POPE CORDIAL

"His Holiness was very cordial and gracious," Cardinal Ritter recalls. "But, he said he could not intercede in behalf of the vote on religious liberty. He said he did not believe he should inject himself into the action of the College of Cardinals."

Cardinal Ritter said the Pope told them that "the delay would give the chance to formulate a stronger religious liberty document with no theological faults."

"Most cardinals and most modern Roman Catholic theologians support the idea of religious liberty," Cardinal Ritter says. "I think the schema will be passed at the next session of the Vatican council by an overwhelming majority."

One of the things Cardinal Ritter didn't discuss with the Pope was the archbishop's permission—and the resulting controversy—to allow an ecumenical marriage in St. Louis.

Those big herring in the sky are sign of a better catch HARBOR BUFFETT, Nfld. (CP)—Hundreds of Newfoundland fishermen are looking to the skies these days for a sign of herring. Flocks of them floating in the sky off south coast fishing settlements are taken as an indication of herring in the sea.

This year the winter employment which this industry provides is of particular interest to the fishermen of Placentia Bay for more reasons than one: They hope to make up not only for last winter's blank but for the equally poor cod fishery of the last spring and summer.

This branch of the industry represents the fisherman's one chance of breaking even or of actually making a profitable voyage, providing the silvery-blue fish arrive in sufficient numbers.

This happened only two seasons ago when some Placentia Bay fishermen made as high as $4,000 single-handed from herring alone. The season usually lasts from mid-December to March.

Although the importance of the herring fishery to the economy of the province has diminished somewhat in recent years, it is still of vital importance to many fishermen. The processing firm of W. W. Wareham and Sons at Harbor Buffett and other Placentia Bay packers and exporters also hope the bay will yield a good catch this season as there is a fairly strong market for the fish in the United States and elsewhere.

AIM AT REVIVAL

Meanwhile, in Fortune Bay, where herring disappeared for a number of years, an attempt is being made to revive the fishery.

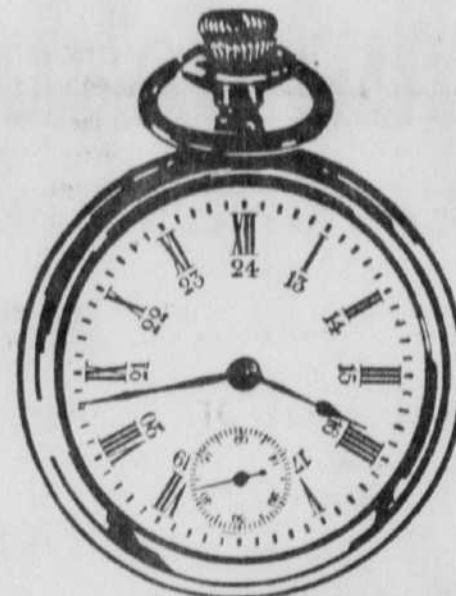

British Columbia Packers Limited, which operates a fresh fish processing plant at Harbor Breton, has based a special herring seine boat there to seek out the offshore shoals of the valuable fish.

The new herring boat La-Valle, 110 feet long and 111 tons, uses a nylon herring seine to catch the fish. The seine, 300 fathoms long and 35 fathoms deep, is towed by two smaller boats operating from the mother ship. The herring are transferred to the mother ship from the seine by means of a pump. They are converted into meal and oil at processing plants.

The Lavalle, which was brought to Harbor Breton from Vancouver, a distance of 7,500 miles via the Panama Canal, has already proven her worth in Newfoundland waters. On experimental trips the vessel has brought back as high as 100 tons of herring on a single trip.

Herring has long been an important fish to Newfoundlanders. American fishermen once bought them to be used as bait for catching codfish and the harvesting and sale of the bait fish was a major source of income to fishermen in Fortune, Placentia and other bays during the last century.

INSPIRED SONG

For and about Women

Put your best foot forward on snowy or slushy days

Good boot care is the first step in putting your best foot forward on snowy or slushy days, says the Shoe Information Bureau of Canada.

While many of this season's fashionable winter boots were given a water-proofing treatment by the tanners who made the leather, they will need further periodic application of a silicone spray which you can obtain from any retailer. There need be no hesitation about using this silicone spray on suede as well as on smooth leathers.

Use of the waterproofing silicone sprays won't prevent the salt rings from forming — that bug-a-bear of town and city snow removal practice, but it will make it much easier to erase. As soon as you come in from outdoors, wipe your boots clean, rub with a fresh cloth and finish with a lamb's wool brush, follow with a good shoe polish for a high gloss on smooth leathers. Incidentally, the water-proof sprays are effective on fabric and fur as well as on leather. Saddle soap is good for reptile finishes. Many of the new fashionable boots this year boasted reptile trims.

If boots become soaked, after cleaning, stuff them with tissue paper and set aside to dry at room temperature, never on a radiator or near direct heat. When dry, polish as directed.

A timely tip for keeping the interiors of boots clean, as well as for fast drying, is to reverse the vacuum hose on your vacuum cleaner so that it blows. Insert it in the boot and it will dry within minutes.

Have the heels, stacked or otherwise, repaired as soon as they show signs of wear. Nothing detracts from the smart appearance of a boot faster than a shabby stacked heel. Most weather protection boots with leather uppers are made with rubber soles today which in many instances, form a kind of mud-guard along the sides of the vamp. These will certainly provide adequate protection in winter or snowy weather, but the fact remains that if you step ankle-deep into water and slush, wet may penetrate the leather. The Bureau advises women to leave their leather boots at home when such weather is indicated, and walk out in the colorful and smartly designed rubber or plastic boots Canadian manufacturers make available today.

If you crave a fashionable, unlined leather boot, that's fine, but you mustn't expect it to do the job of a cold weather or a wet weather boot. This means that what you actually need is a boot wardrobe. This might be the earliest cool days; functional for hard, everyday wear, dressy for late day occasions, and wet weather protection — rubber. Many a woman will want to add an apres ski boot or a curling boot to this basic list.

The Bureau has another practical suggestion to make. If you drive a car frequently in winter weather, a boot with a lower, wider heel base will give you greater leverage and be a safer bet when you press down on the brake.

Spring hat, shoe designs

The nicest things you can say about spring hat and shoe designs shown to the visiting fashion press Sunday is that they are cool, boss, fab, gonk or really with it.

These are strong words of approval in teen-age jargon. And that apparently is the only language worth listening to now that the fashion industry has capitulated completely to youth.

At the millinery show which opened the New York couture group's semi-annual press week activities, one speaker suggested the word "hat" be replaced by something more zingy since teen-agers don't understand this square term.

The designers of top-notch fashions admit they are wooing the young because they are desperate. Making up half the female population is a hair-conscious, hatless generation that may grow into hatless adults.

Daughters have stopped imitating the way their mothers dress. Mothers imitate them — including the no-hat bit.

Therefore these styles modelled by misses in above-the-knee dresses were offered as possible remedies to the situation:

1. Very young styles—nothing could be younger than baby bonnets, some flowered, some helmet-like, all with chin straps, some with chin bows and posies by Lilly Dache, Emme and Sally Victor.

NEW-LOOK SNOOD

2. Curler covers—instead of deploring, Adolpho and Carne-gie among others have adopted and prettied up the babushka and snood, adored by the young set to hide their hair hardware. New spring snoods and scarves are in fabrics matching dresses or blouses. Coolie hats are worn over these.

3. Easy-to-ditch—many of the spring hats pack, fold, roll or jam into purses, pockets and beach bags, miraculously recovering their shapes once they are retrieved.

4. Hats for fun—candidates for this category are Mr. John's white chapeaux. One is a shaggy mane of white organza petals that frames the head and cascades to the shoulder blades. Others mysteriously obscure the wearer's face with a flopping brim a yard wide.

Young was also a frequently used word at the National Shoe Institute's spring preview. There were baby doll or rounded toes, big news in the style picture.

The toes are not quite as round and flat as little girls', but they are fuller than women's have been for some time.

Other shoe news includes: Strapped, low-heeled sandals for the city; cut-out designs on the sides of walking shoes; sometimes the sling pump, and now and then bare toes.

Makes decorative mosaics

KITCHENER, Ont. (CP) — Jean Levy makes decorative mosaics from broken glass—a one-woman business that started as a hobby.

She has to buy some of the glass to get special colors, but much of it comes from wrecking companies, wrecked automobiles and discarded pop, liquor and medicine bottles.

Some of the frames for such mosaics as violins and birds were made from wood and wire but most are constructed of imported rattan from Hong Kong or the United States and may cost as much as $5 wholesale plus duty.

Mrs. Levy started making mosaics about a year ago after picking up the idea in California. Friends placed orders for her work and she began to receive invitations from clubs to demonstrate the craft and exhibit pieces. She began making Christmas ornaments two months ago.

She says she gets a good red glass from auto signal lights, a blue from milk of magnesia or seltzer bottles. Her friends have taken to bringing her gifts of old bottles and bits of glass. And she counts it a lucky day when she can get the stained glass window from an old house.

Today's recipe

This seems to be the baking season. Every day we get letters asking for more home baking recipes. Many women say they want breads that will encourage children to show more interest in breakfast or to put in their school lunch boxes.

This apricot nut bread recipe is particularly suited to breakfast. The rolled oats and flour, the milk and the nuts and dried fruit carry top nutrition along with an appeal to young appetites that often resist the more familiar family breakfast patterns.

APRICOT NUT BREAD

(Makes one loaf)

1½ cups sifted all-purpose flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon salt
½ cup sugar
1 cup rolled oats (quick or old-fashioned, uncooked)
1 cup chopped dried apricots
½ cup chopped nuts
2 eggs, beaten
1½ cup liquid shortening
1¼ cups milk

Heat oven to 350 degrees (moderate). Sift together flour, baking powder, soda, salt and sugar into bowl. Stir in oats, apricots and nuts. Add eggs, shortening and milk; stir only until dry ingredients are moistened. Pour batter into greased 8½x4½x2½-inch loaf pan.

Bake in preheated oven (350 degrees) about 1 hour. Cool several minutes; turn out of pan. (For ease in slicing, wrap and store bread one day.)

Polly's pointers

by Polly Cramer

DEAR POLLY — I want to pass on various ways our family has found effective in keeping robins from flying against our picture windows. Do hope they help Mrs. R. H. Put one or more hanging planters just inside, or even outside the window. Use opaque adhesive tape to make several stripes on the outside of the window. With large suction cups, attach one or more bird feeders to the outside of the window. This stops the robins with food not glass. Obtain a snap-in grid from your local lumber yard and snap to the outside of the window so it gives the appearance of many small panes of glass without obstructing the view. They are easily removed for window washing.

A highly reflective window looks like the sky to a bird and any of the above suggestions helps by breaking up the sky appearance and putting visually solid objects in the bird's flight path.

Their medicare has its problems

By BRACK CURRY
STOCKHOLM (AP) — There are no separate medical plans for the aged in Scandinavia. All ages receive benefits, but the elderly do not pay insurance premiums.

Take an 80-year-old Swedish widow living on a modest pension. When she calls or visits a doctor or hospital the cost to her will be minimal—no matter whether she suffers from vague aches and pains or must undergo a major operation.

Her choice of a doctor is free. She pays the doctor. She presents the receipt to a health insurance office and is reimbursed for three-fourths of the fee in most cases. A normal consultation costs the equivalent of $1 or $2 out of her own pocket.

Free hospital care is available in the wards of public hospitals. This includes free operations, medical treatment, laboratory tests, blood transfusions, x-ray examinations and drugs. She may pay $7 a day for a private room and $4 for a semi-private room—but still receive all treatment free. If a patient needs a private room for medical reasons there is no charge.

TRANSPORT IS FREE
An ambulance is free. If no ambulance is needed the cost of transportation to the nearest public hospital is repaid in full. Fare from the hospital and fare to and from a doctor are repaid in part.

A reduced price is paid for any medicines prescribed. A doctor may prescribe vitamin injections for the elderly widow and send a nurse to her home twice a week for these. She pays 40 cents for each visit. The cost of health insurance is shared by the self-employed, employers and the government.

Any Swede who is 67, or who earlier receives a pension, is exempt from these contributions. With all this, there are problems. There is a shortage of hospital beds, especially for the long-term treatment of the aged. Many areas have a critical shortage of doctors and nurses.

In Denmark, if an older person has no income or fortune beyond his monthly pension, the only expenses for medical care are contributions toward national health insurance. For old people these average $1.70 monthly.

EYE GLASSES FREE
The system insures old people of free medical care, both in home and hospitals. They also are entitled to free or cheap medicine, free eyeglasses and other medical assistance.

Hospital care costs nothing. Aged invalids confined to bed are placed in special nursing homes.

Membership in the national health insurance scheme is open to everyone. Danes in higher income brackets pay slightly larger contributions and also a proportion of their doctor bills. The system is financed through taxes and the national health insurance contributions. The government or the cities build hospitals and clinics, pay part of the operating expenses. The health insurance organization pays for medical care.

Norway's comprehensive medical care program includes free hospital care as long as it is needed. Surgery, x-rays, all medicines and examinations—in short, all care by the hospital staff—are paid in full.

For consultation and treatment by a family doctor or by a specialist, the patient pays about 30 per cent of the fee for most services.

PREMIUMS VARY
Slightly more than half the cost in Norway is covered through sickness insurance premiums. The remainder is paid by employers and by the central and local governments. The average premium amounts to about three per cent of an individual's income. Premiums vary with the size of individual income.

Denmark has had a state-organized and state-financed medical care for the aged since 1933. Medical care for the old in Norway was incorporated in a public, non-profit health insurance plan as far back as 1911. Since 1936, all Norwegians have been covered by this plan.

Health insurance for all was made compulsory in Sweden in 1935. But even then, 70 per cent of the people were protected by various local plans.

Medical care for the aged is no political issue in Scandinavia. It is accepted by all, including the medical profession.

News flashes from around the world

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Herald Tribune reports a four-part Catholic Hour television series on birth control was withdrawn at the last minute Sunday because of opposition from U.S. conservatives inside the Roman Catholic Church.

The series had been publicized by the National Broadcasting Company and 100 stations were prepared to carry the program. The Herald Tribune says: "What is certain is that church conservatives protested that Pope Paul VI asked last June that there be no further 'pronouncements' against the traditional Catholic birth control stance pending completion of an exhaustive re-examination now being done privately for the Pope by a team of scholars."

VICTORIA (CP)—The Naval Officers Association of Victoria announced Monday it has officially protested the discarding of the White Ensign as Canada's naval flag.

Commodore Fred Grubb, a retired officer, said the federal government will be asked to reconsider its decision to replace the White Ensign with the new maple leaf flag.

BANGKOK (AP) — Cambodia's decision to accept military aid from China has created uneasiness in staunchly pro-Western Thailand.

The Cambodian chief of state, Prince Norodom Sihanouk, said again last week the Chinese had agreed to supply Cambodia with heavy artillery and other equipment for its 22,000-man army.

Thai government officials are particularly afraid that China may attempt to subvert Thailand's eastern frontier provinces now that Peking appears to be gaining a stronger foothold in neighboring Cambodia.

MILWAUKEE (AP)—The Social Development Commission of Greater Milwaukee voted 7 to 1 Monday to seek funds under the Anti-Poverty Act for five birth control clinics.

The lone dissenting vote was cast by County Superintendent of Schools, Michael Kies, who said he believed federal funds could be spent in ways more directly associated with the anti-poverty program.

SASKATOON (CP) — Wiretapping equipment was found Monday night at the Saskatoon city police station during a surprise visit by Mayor E. J. Cole. Mayor Cole, going straight from a city council meeting, made the inspection after a request by Ald. Jim Wedge.

The mayor ordered the equipment locked up pending an investigation by the Saskatoon police commission.

WINNIPEG (CP)—The Manitoba legislature's elections committee Monday defeated a motion proposing a reduction in the provincial voting age to 18 from 21.

The committee is reviewing Manitoba's Election Act to see if improvements are needed in voting procedures.

Exclusive healing substance proven to shrink hemorrhoids and repair damaged tissue.

A renowned research institute has found a unique healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids painlessly. It relieves itching and discomfort in minutes and speeds up healing of the injured, inflamed tissue.

In case after case, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction (shrinkage) took place.

Most important of all—results were so thorough that this improvement was maintained over a period of many months.

This was accomplished with a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne) which quickly helps heal injured cells and stimulates growth of new tissue.

Now Bio-Dyne is offered in ointment and suppository form called Preparation H. Ask for it at all drug stores—money back guarantee.

Calm, far-seeing talk reflects crisis-free state of the world

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson's State of the Union message—with perhaps 50 proposals for 1965 and beyond—opened what may be one of the most fascinating years in the history of American politics.

Through the message delivered Monday night to Congress ran two revealing insights into the times and the man.

There is no sense of crisis in the world at this moment, at home or abroad, and, thanks to this, there was none in what Johnson said. This enabled him to appear calm and far-seeing, an appearance he treasures.

But, because of it, he was able to employ to the fullest his philosophy of politics and the presidency, which is the avoidance of unnecessary conflict, even with opponents.

Much he said in his talk sounded almost casual, which was no accident but part of his technique. It was almost entirely non-irritating.

And what was controversial—like announcing he would push for medical care for the aged and aid to students in both public and private schools—got no more space than anything else and then he skipped on to another item.

TALK WAS UNSPECIFIC
A typical State of the Union message is generally only an outline of things to come. Johnson took advantage of this, too. He made his talk unspecific and said he would spell out some of his main programs in the next six weeks.

Thus he delayed, until perhaps there was no alternative, setting any words afire. But that there will be fire later seems sure enough. The medical care program alone is a hot number. And there is the likelihood he will send Congress a new civil rights bill although he gave no more than a line and a half to this, saying barriers to Negro voting must be eliminated.

Some of the programs he mentioned may take years in the doing, not so much because they are inflammatory but because they will need study and there is a limit on what Congress can do in any one year. Again, and nowhere more obviously than in the field of foreign affairs, Johnson Monday night illustrated his avoidance of even slightly abrasive language if it fills no immediate need. This was on the subject of communism.

He didn't treat it as a devil but simply said it was in Asia that communism wears a "more aggressive face." Even the Chinese Communists, with whom the United States can't get along and at whom this was aimed, can't complain.

Is charged on four counts

A Sherbrooke man was arraigned before Sessions Court clerk Jean-Marie Grogre yesterday on four charges of theft, possession of a stolen car and possession of a revolver.

Marcel Talon is to appear in court Thursday.

He was arrested Sunday night by Sherbrooke municipal police officers within the city, Capt. Armand Genest said yesterday. The four charges against Talon are car theft, possession of a stolen car, breaking into a private home and stealing from it and illegal possession of a revolver, said Mr. Grogre.

Talon had recently been released from penitentiary. He had previously been sentenced to several years imprisonment for armed robbery.

COME AND,

was an evident reference to Russia's continuing dispute with China.

At the same time, Russia and the United States must become better known to each other if they are to live in peace. The president suggested — as has been done before — that televised messages of leaders in each country be exchanged.

"There is no longer a single threat," the president said. "There are many. They differ in intensity and danger. They require different attitudes and different answers."

"With the Soviet Union we seek peaceful understandings that can lessen the danger to freedom."

He added: "I hope the new Soviet leaders (Communist party chief Leonid Brezhnev, Alexei Kosygin, premier, and President Anastas Mikoyan who has been here before) can visit America so they can learn about this country at first hand."

The Soviet embassy was informed of Johnson's statement to Congress a few hours in advance of its delivery.

The president also disclosed that he hopes to visit Western Europe and Latin America this year. White House officials said he is ready to accept an invitation from President Charles de Gaulle to visit France—despite differences on Atlantic alliance policy between France and the United States.

It is expected arrangements will be worked out for Johnson to visit also a number of other European countries, including Britain, West Germany and Italy.

4 Canadians head disappointment, comeback, surprise and oddity in 1964 annual Canadian Press poll

Four Canadian athletes in the Tokyo Olympics last October came up with performances that made a big impact on the folks at home. The results showed up today in the 39th annual Canadian Press year-end poll of sports editors and sports casters.

They pinned the disappointment-of-the-year tag on distance runner Bruce Kidd of Toronto, the comeback and surprise of the year on the surprise and oddity on the co-less pair rowing gold medalists, Roger Jackson of Toronto and George Hungerford of Vancouver.

The 148 voters who participated in the nine-question poll gave Olympic athletes almost a clean sweep.

Earlier, they named Bill Crothers, of Markham, Ont., an 800-metre silver medalist at Tokyo, the outstanding male athlete of the year and Toronto figure skater Petra Burka, winner of a third-place bronze in the Austria Olympics last February, the outstanding female.

Kidd, 21, opened the Olympic track program with a 26th-place finish in the 10,000 metres. Three days later he failed to get past his heat in the 5,000 metres, finishing ninth in a field of 11.

What went wrong? Five weeks after the Olympics it was learned Kidd had competed in Europe and North America for two years with pulled tendons in both ankles and an ailment in his left foot which required corrective surgery.

The CP poll voters noted this and a few of the 74 who voted Kidd's name down in the disappointment list added this footnote: "Poor guy."

Four years ago world track experts said Kidd had the potential to become the greatest distance runner in the world.

He justified their confidence with a gold medal in the six miles and a third-place bronze in the three—accomplished in a space of 48 hours—at the 1962 British Empire Games at Perth, Australia.

Now, with help from surgery, Kidd is looking forward to representing Canada at the 1966 B.E. Games in Jamaica, the 1967 Pan-American Games at Winnipeg and the Olympics in Mexico City in 1968.

Other disappointment votes were scattered among Toronto Argonauts and Winnipeg Blue Bombers, last-place finishers in the Eastern and Western Football Conferences, Hamilton Tiger-Cats, losers 34-24 to British Columbia Lions in the Grey Cup, and Canada's Olympic hockey team that finished fourth in Austria.

The surprise and comeback categories were taken easily by the Olympic goldsmen and Jerome of Vancouver and the surprise and oddity on the co-less pair rowing gold medalists, Roger Jackson of Toronto and George Hungerford of Vancouver.

They had been in the boat together only a few days when they faced the starting gun. They posted the fastest time of any in the three heats over the 2,000-metre distance and sailed into the final. Then they whipped the best in the world for the big prize.

It was sweet victory, particularly for Hungerford who was stricken with mononucleosis—a blood disease—just a few weeks before the Olympics and was taken off the eight because it was felt he wasn't strong enough.

The Jackson-Hungerford two-men took most of the votes, although a few went to Canada's gold medal-winning bobsled team at Austria, the Lions beating the Tiger-Cats in the Grey Cup and a few other assorted sports happenings.

And 1964 was a big year for Jerome who had limped off the track as a loser in the 1960 Olympics at Rome and the 1962 B.E. Games. He was the world record holder over 100 metres, but had not won a medal in three big international competitions—the 1959 Pan-Am Games, the 1960 Olympics and the B.E. Games three years ago.

A thigh injury had put him on crutches for a year after his Perth races and he made a triumphant comeback at Tokyo with a bronze medal in the short sprint and a fourth in the 200 metres. He was beaten by a inches for a silver in the 100 and for a bronze in the furlong.

Winning streak stretched to seven in maintaining three-point spread, Bobby Hull assured of halfway prize

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Canadiens launched the New Year victoriously—coming out ahead in a collision of two winning streaks high up in the National Hockey League standings.

The losers were Chicago Black Hawks, who had gone 13 games without a loss before the Canadiens knocked them for a loop.

Not only did the Canadiens add two points to their NHL lead, they extended their undefeated string to seven games by taking Chicago's measure 2-1 in a Sunday game.

Chicago had started its own New Year with a 2-1 win over New York Rangers.

Weekly NHL statistics released today show Montreal entrenched atop the league standings with 45 points, three more than Chicago.

Detroit Red Wings are third with 38 points, three more than Toronto Maple Leafs. Rangers are fifth with 28 points followed by Boston Bruins with 20.

While no longer rocket-powered, the Canadiens have won 13 of their last 17 games and tied two others. Chicago won 11 and tied three of its last 17 for 25 of a possible 34 points.

RANGERS WELL BACK

Detroit had 18 points for the same number of games, Toronto 15, Boston 11 and Rangers eight. New York won only two of the 17 and has gone nine games at home without a victory.

Individual scoring leader? One guess and no prizes. Chicago's Bobby Hull, with a modest three-goal week, now has 33 points including 32 goals in 35 games.

Hull has a 13-point lead over team-mate Stan Mikita and is virtually assured of collecting $500 as first-half leader. Formal word will come after all teams have played 35 games.

Mikita, whose 40 points include a league-leading 28 assists, is almost certain to win the $250 runner-up award.

Charlie Hodge of Canadiens still leads Roger Crozier of Detroit in the goaltenders' battle. New York 377.

Cleveland Browns may establish new dynasty in National League, average age of power group is 26

ATLANTA (AP) — University of Georgia has offered to forfeit all its 1964 football victories, including the Sun Bowl game with Texas Tech, because of the pro signing of tackle Jim Wilson before the season ended. But none of the seven institutions whose teams lost to Georgia has accepted the offer, reported the Atlanta Journal Monday.

Dr. O. C. Aderhold, president of the university, wrote the presidents of the other institutions at the request of athletic director Joel Eaves and football coach Vince Dooley.

"I have written Dr. Aderhold that Georgia Tech most certainly will not accept the offer to forfeit," said Dr. Edwin Harrison, president of Georgia Tech—the Atlanta-based rival of Georgia.

Wilson admitted he signed an undated contract with the Boston Patriots of the American Football League last fall in violation of college regulations.

The signing was disclosed after Wilson signed with the San Francisco 49ers of the National Football League following the Sun Bowl game Dec. 26. Both teams are claiming Wilson.

Texas Tech, which lost to Georgia in the bowl game, rejected the forfeiture. "We would not ask or expect any forfeit," said athletic director Polk Robison of Texas Tech. Georgia just gave us a sound country licking and as far as we are concerned, it stays that way."

Similar comments came from athletic director Bernie Shively of the University of Kentucky and Jack Green, Vanderbilt football coach, and coach Ray Graves of Florida.

With Jim Ninowski as Ryan's backup man, Cleveland may have the best pair of quarterbacks in the league.

Jim Brown, Cleveland's incomparable fullback, has said he will play only two more years. However, the 29-year-old bruiser probably will revise that estimate by a couple of seasons, according to a knowledgeable Cleveland sports writer.

Brown won the NFL rushing title last year for the sixth time in his seven years of pro ball and there are no indications he has lost either power or speed.

Other veterans over 30 have shown no signs they are ready to switch to a less violent livelihood. They are offensive tackle Dick Modzelewski, 33, line-backer and captain Galen Fiss, 33, and centre John Morrow, 31.

Frank Ryan, at 28, now has spent two full seasons as the regular passer. His total of 25 touchdown passes in 1963 and 1964 was tied twice by Graham in the All-American Conference, but stands alone in Cleveland records for NFL play.

Graham, who started with Cleveland in the All-American Conference in 1946, plotted the Browns to four straight championships in that league. His passing records during a 10-year career with Cleveland are too numerous to mention, but the team's record during those years speaks for itself.

Terrell still ranked as top heavyweight

TORONTO (CP)—Ernie Terrell of Chicago remains ranked the No. 1 heavyweight in the latest boxing ratings released here Monday by the World Boxing Association.

The WBA considers the heavyweight title vacant and lists neither Cassius Clay nor Sonny Liston. Both were suspended by the WBA when they signed for a rematch to their 1964 title fight when Clay beat Liston.

Terrell is scheduled to meet fourth-ranked Eddie Machen of Portland, Ore., March 5 in Chicago for the WBA version of the heavyweight crown.

Nos. 2 and 3 in the January rankings, former champion Floyd Patterson and George Chuvalo of Toronto, will fight Feb. 1 in New York. The winner of that match will then fight the winner of the Terrell-Machen bout.

Olympic Games in 1968 set for Oct. 12-27

MEXICO CITY (Reuters)—The 1968 Olympic Games have been tentatively set for Oct. 12-27, sources close to the Mexican Olympic Committee said Monday.

Weather experts were consulted on the best time for the olympiad.

Two villages, one for men and one for women, will be built, the sources said.

The committee hopes the games will attract 4,000,000 visitors from the United States alone, and hotels will be asked to consider expanding their facilities.
