WESTMOUNT, THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 27, 1941

PRICE—TWO CENTS

Official Program Released For Westmount Hi-Y Clubs' Fifth Annual Hobby Show

Will be Held March 12, 13, 14, 15 in Westmount Y.M.C.A. — Entries Close March 8 — Trophies Are Donated by Westmount Rotary Club — A. Ross Seaman Heads Show.

Official program for the fifth annual Westmount Boys' and Girls' Hobby Show has been issued and contains a complete line-up of activities for the show to be held in the Westmount Y.M.C.A. Building, March 12-15.

Promoted by the Westmount boys' and girls' Hi-Y Clubs in cooperation with Westmount "Y", the event is open to boys and girls nineteen years and under, and entries close a week from Saturday.

In his announcement, A. Ross Seaman, president of the show, said the purpose of the event was to encourage both young and older boys and girls to a higher standard of hobby interests.

"We wish to extend the thanks of the Hobby Show Board to all our friends who have helped us so willingly and personal thanks to all those who have helped make such a success of preparations for the Show," Seaman said. "Now, we leave the success of the Show itself to the hobbyists of Westmount."

Rules eligibility are as follows:

1. Exhibitors and competitors must be boys and girls who have not yet passed their 20th birthday at the time of exhibiting or competing.
2. All competitions shall be open to boys and girls who are residents, attend a school or a hobby club in Westmount; or are members of the Westmount Y.M.C.A.
3. All competitions are open to amateurs only. This condition does not apply to the leader of a group entry (e.g., conductor of a choir, dancing instructor, etc.).

The junior section is open to boys and girls 11 years and under; the intermediate section, 12-15 years; senior section, 16-19 years. Where no junior section is listed, the intermediate section is for all exhibitors 15 years and under.

All entries must be made on the official form properly signed by the competitor and sent to the Westmount Y.M.C.A. accompanied by the entrance fee.

Entrance fee is five cents for one entry and ten cents for any number of entries. There is no additional fee for group entries.

All entries received after the official closing date, March 8, if accepted will be charged double entrance fee.

If there are less than two entries in any one section, these entries are automatically put in a general class, unless in the opinion of the judges, such exhibits are of sufficiently high quality to merit awards in their own section.

All entries must be the work or property of the exhibitor and all exhibits must be taken away by the owners at the close of the show, Saturday, March 15.

Trophies for the best boys' and best girls' exhibits in the show will be donated by the Westmount Rotary Club, while a large number of special prizes will be awarded to outstanding exhibitors and competitors.

Prize ribbons will be awarded to first, second and third place winners in all sections.

Judges will make written reports in the following classes: literature, music, postage stamps, and public speaking and elocution.

Competitors, including prize winners, will obtain helpful information from these reports which may be secured, free of charge, from the class director at the close of the competition.

Should any question arise, not provided for in the rules and regulations, the decision of the Hobby Show executive will be final.

While the executive will take reasonable precaution to insure the safety of exhibits, it must be understood distinctly that owners are required to assume all risk.

Should any exhibit or any portion thereof be lost or stolen, the executive will render all assistance in its power to recover same, but neither the Westmount Boys' and Girls' Hi-Y Clubs or Westmount Y.M.C.A. will recognize any claim for payment of the value or any portion thereof. Valuable exhibits will be displayed in showcases.

Rotarians Doing Great Job in Campaign

The Westmount Rotary Club has done great work thus far in the War Savings Campaign, according to J. C. Nelson, chairman of the club's war savings committee who announced Westmount rotarians had contacted more than 100 industrial plants and arranged to have the salary-budget savings plan instituted in each.

Sizeable sums are contributed within the club itself at the regular weekly luncheons, drawings being made regularly for war savings stamps and certificates.

With Nelson on the committee are Bob Stanger and W. Boyd Robson.

Y Fencing Club Is Progressing

The newly formed fencing club of the Westmount "Y" journeyed to Southwestern "Y" the other evening and while there were the guests of the Southwestern Club. From the reports received from the local club a very enjoyable evening was had by all.

It is to be hoped that a return affair will be possible in the very near future. Doug, Riley was particularly impressed with the showing of the local group as against the more experienced Southwestern Club.

DU MAURIER TO SPEAK ON AIR MARCH FIRST

"The Britain Behind the Headlines" will be described by Daphne du Maurier, the brilliant young English novelist, in a radio broadcast from England, March 1. Thousands of Canadians who were fascinated by her prize-winning novel "Rebecca," will now be able to hear the voice of this famous authoress in her first broadcast to Canada as she tells of adventurous living in war-time Britain.

Wife of the youngest Brigadier-General in the British Army, and mother of three small children, Miss du Maurier since the start of the war has turned from novelist to war-worker. On a committee which looks after two hundred and fifty Grenadier-Guardsmen's families, learning how to be of use in air raids, and other work absorbs a great deal of Miss du Maurier's energy, yet she has found time to prosecute to pay a fine of $40 and $4.20 costs or spend two months in jail, by Recorder C. A. Hale on Monday. Chartier took the two months' imprisonment.

Possessing a record that shows more than 50 previous convictions, Chartier was arrested February 22 by Constables Lessard and Chesmer who observed the accused loitering on Cote St. Antoine road.

The British Overseas Parcels League has been forwarding knitted goods and other comforts to the men who man vessels protecting the British Isles, particularly mine sweeper crews.

The meeting of the Westmount High Schools Home and School Association's study group to consider the question of "Examinations" projected for February 26th has been postponed to the date of the last proposed group meeting, namely March 19th. Astbury, M.A., principal of Baron Byng High School, who has assisted our association by his addresses and by his outline on the subject of "Examinations" will head the discussion of this matter.

Mr. Astbury's abilities are well recognized and with examinations an active subject of discussion in the home at the present time and the many questions which parents have on the whole matter, it is hoped that there will be a large attendance to participate in this informal conference.

Notice is hereby given that the annual meeting of the Westmount High Schools Home and School Association will be held in the Assembly Hall of Intermediate School, Academy Road, on Wednesday evening, April 2, 1941, at 8:15 o'clock, for the purpose of receiving reports of the officers for the past year, electing officers for the coming year, and for the consideration of such other matters as may properly be brought before the meeting.

Dr. Perreval is, of course, well known to all parents of children of school age in the Protestant schools of the Province of Quebec and his comments upon educational matters in these times will be of very great interest.

At the conclusion of the meeting there will be a social hour at which parents and teachers will have an opportunity of informal discussion with Dr. Perreval and with one another, and refreshments will be served.

All parents and guardians of children attending the Westmount High Schools are urged to take advantage of the opportunities afforded by this meeting.

Truck Overtakes On Clarke Ave. Hill

Going backwards in first gear was the unfortunate experience of Roger Monette, of 7274 St. Hubert street, last Friday when his truck, carrying five tons of coal, "just couldn't make the grade" on Clarke avenue.

Lacking chains, the truck slid downhill for some distance and came to an abrupt halt in a snowbank.

The story doesn't end there, however, for the impact overturned the truck onto its left side and it literally rained coal for several seconds.

The vehicle was damaged considerably but the driver escaped unscathed.

ICE CARNIVAL FRIDAY NIGHT GREAT SUCCESS

Figure skating exhibitions were given by Eunice Sugars, senior women's singles champion of the Westmount Figure Skating Club and Betty Moehring runner up for the title. Elizabeth Gardner winner of the junior singles crown and Helen Goodfellow, who took second place in the junior events also gave exhibitions as did the two top pairs winners in the club competition, Betty Moehring and Elizabeth Gardner, tillists and June Boyd and Dorothy Maher, runners-up.

The large crowd also was treated to a novelty number by the Quints, five skaters in costume, and an exhibition by Miss Helma Kartik, club coach.

The races drew large entry lists and were well contested. After presentation of prizes to winners in the Costume Parade, and winners of races by Alderman B. Panet-Raymond, Commissioner of Parks, a display of fireworks followed by pleasure skating rounded out the evening. E. J. Anderson, Superintendent of Parks, supervised the event.

DANCING EVENT WILL BE STAGED

The Fourth Annual Folk Dancing Festival will be held in the Y.W.C.A. tonight at 8:15 p.m. Five additional countries will have groups taking part this year.

One of these under the direction of Mr. Yip Wing, will present the Chinese Dragon Dance which is very seldom performed in public. With few exceptions the dances will be performed by national groups living in Montreal and the music will be played on native instruments.

This festival has always been most entertaining but this year has a greater significance. With so much of the European folklore in danger of suppression, the festival reaffirms the belief of free Canadians that all peoples shall have the opportunity to pursue their national cultural activities without fear of oppression.

WESTMOUNT, THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 27, 1941

HIRE A HALL!

The war has revived an old pest—the freelance commentator who will speak to your club on any foreign problem who may choose for fifteen dollars or fifteen hundred dollars. Such a lecturer may be a college professor, a phony European Count, the son of a phony Count, an author of a little-read travel book, an economist or a high official in a federation of women's clubs. Seldom do these people hold a position of any real importance, where they might be expected to pick up information of value. Subjects of their offerings don't vary much from the following: "The Threat to Our Way of Life," "Russia's Position in Europe," "Hitler, the Man." And so forth. One factor is common in all of these offerings: all they know of what goes on in Europe is, as Will Rogers used to say, what they read in the newspapers. Their prey may be divided into two general groups: those with a hunger to be informed, mostly women; and those who don't believe a word that's printed in the newspapers about this war, mostly men. It narrows down to the old story that people are just plain lazy. Rather than tax their faculties in reading a daily newspaper which employs trained and reliable informants, all operating where history is being made, they prefer to let an "interpreter" read the dispatches, and add a few whimsical or personal touches.

THE WOMEN PREPARE

The day may not be so far away when we will see thousands of Canadian women taking their places in war industry jobs. Much has already been done to train young women in skilled trades and as the labour demands increase these training programs will be expanded.

Firms expecting that there soon will be a shortage of young men for training as skilled workers have opened classes for girls who will become welders, machinists and operators. In Toronto two groups are now being trained and as soon as their courses are completed they will go to jobs in the National Steel Car at Malton and in the de Havilland aircraft plants. Earlier, more than 300 girls had been specially trained to work on Bren guns and other munitions work.

Canadian women themselves have been largely responsible for the more active part they will play in the war effort. The national voluntary registration revealed 110,000 women who were anxious to be specially trained for war work of various kinds. There were hundreds with experience in intelligence services, as translators, laboratory technicians, dietitians, and several thousands who had had previous military experience or experience in munitions work.

Federal authorities are taking steps to coordinate the plans for training groups and it is expected by Ottawa officials that as the demands upon man-power increase, large numbers of Canadian women will be doing the type of work that women in England have been called upon to do.

GOOD INTENTIONS

There has been much said about the failure of Winston Churchill to enunciate his war aims, but we think there was a pretty good answer to the critics in a letter written to the editor of New York's PM recently. It was:

"When bombs are falling on London and long range guns shell Dover and all hell lets loose generally, it must be kinda annoying to John Bull to have some guy in Montana or Minnesota holler over: 'Hey you, what are your war aims?'"

"You can imagine what would happen to a chap if he stopped a chief headed for a three alarm fire and said, 'Say buddie, have you got good intentions?'"

BOOK REVIEW

BY HOWARD S. ROSS

INTO ABUNDANCE
By Soren K. Ostergaard
Willett, Clark & Company, Chicago and New York. Pages 154.

The author, coming from Denmark, to the U.S.A. received degrees from Teacher's College, Harvard, Gustavus Odolphus College, and University of Chicago. He served as an officer in the U.S. army during the World War and until recently was in the life insurance business in Chicago.

He claims that the greatest danger to the American way of life and standard of living comes from within — from the 12 million unemployed men and women whom business cannot use. They constitute a standing threat to the security of every American, because so long as even a hundred clamor for your job, no job is safe.

He asks if there is any possibility of making all secure and yet retaining all the values of the democratic way of life.

This book is an answer to that question, and the answer is "yes." Share opportunities, says Mr. Ostergaard. America is full of opportunities — work that needs to be done, materials for doing it, people with the time, brains and skill to carry it out. The present economic disorder makes jobs scarce. But so long as people have unsatisfied wants there is work to be done. To share these opportunities for work is to start an economy that will be self-accelerating and will have unlimited

THE FORUM

Conducted by HOWARD S. ROSS, K.C., D.C.L.

In Which Subjects of General Interest Are Discussed

The opinions expressed in this Forum are not necessarily those of this newspaper and it does not accept responsibility for them.

We like to claim relationship with those who are outstanding in some field of endeavour, so I salute my young cousin, Mrs. Wm. R. Walton (Dorothy McKenzie) voted by the annual poll of sports writers, conducted by The Canadian Press, the outstanding woman athlete in Canada during 1940. At the University of Saskatchewan she excelled in practically every sport in which women take part. After her marriage she became a resident of Toronto and then went in seriously for badminton with the result that she has been the dominant figure among the women players for three straight years.

Her grandmother, Mrs. Mary Moffatt, who now lives in Hayward, California, is a native of North Sydney, Nova Scotia, and a niece of my father, her mother being Ann Ross, wife of Andrew Nesbitt. Dorothy's mother was brought up at North Sydney and married Edmund McKenzie of Maitland, N.S. They went to Swift Current, Saskatchewan, where her father is one of the leading merchants.

Her sister, Thelma McKenzie, R.N. has for some years been attached to the Teaching Department of Royal Victoria Hospital here.

Other cousins living in Montreal are Vernon Hopper, Supervisor of St. James St. Branch of Canada Life Assurance Company, C. Roy Bown, M. E. (McGill) with Canadian Industries Limited, and Vivian Ross, R.N.

Mr. and Mrs. Walton have a son John who is seven and have for the duration an English girl ten years of age. Mrs. Walton has given up all competitive badminton until after the war and is turning her energy into war work.

Jacques Maritan, the famous French Marxist philosopher, is joining the faculty of the University of Chicago.

As is the case at Ottawa newcomers have difficulty finding living quarters at Washington, which led all other cities in the nation in population growth during the last decade and continues to grow at an amazing rate as thousands of government workers arrive from all parts of the country.

The Co-operative Wholesale Society (England) has over £80,000,000 invested in government securities.

600,000 dozen eggs were shipped from Canada to Britain in a recent two week's period.

Canadian Federation of Agriculture hopes to get all farmer organizations to join. The main object is "to obtain for Agriculture in the councils of the nation, voice, equal to that of other industries." A delegation from the Federation recently conferred with the Cabinet at Ottawa and according to the delegation as given a very good bearing. Speaking of the brief presented Prime Minister King declared that "it could not have appointment to most people. Ideas have to be shared to be fully enjoyed and grow with sharing but shrivel from withholding. The world of ideas is unlimited and the world of material is limited only by the ideas of the people. It follows that sharing is the way to abundant living."

Discussing the money problem he wrote in part: "Plenty is at our doorstep, but we do not open the door to it. Instead we turned to an idol called money and made it the centre of our social order. We have confused money, a symbol of wealth, with wealth, and we act as if the symbol were a living force with power to promote life. We agree that money in itself cannot satisfy a single human need. It is impotent, with no more power to help or hurt than Aaron's golden calf. Yet we lay off workers and tolerate capacity for expansion, for every opportunity made use of creates new opportunities and will result in a richer, more abundant life for everyone. Sharing opportunity is not taking away from anyone. We are reminded that our material structures are built according to the principles of science but in our social order we have disregarded the fact that ethical laws have been worked out as carefully as the laws of mathematics. He states more than once that: "There is hope for mankind in proportion as the people learn to harmonize individual welfare with the welfare of all humanity."

In the chapter "The Real Source of Wealth" he wrote: "Our social order encourages grasping and frowns on sharing. Experience has shown that a society based on greed brings dis-unemployment to save money; we destroy food to maintain prices; we curtail production of capital goods to preserve investments. What are these things but sacrifices to our idol? We admit they are stupid but are so confounded we think our welfare depends on doing the things that will make the symbol called money important. We need to look at what we get for supporting the system, and we need to find out what that system has to offer."

The U.S. Housing Act of 1937 is praised and the public housing program carried out under its terms.

In his closing chapter "A Recipe for Abundance" he proposes a cooperative Authority which would at first not enter the present money-economy market or compete directly with the profit system. The Cooperative Authority would develop a form of organization that would be nearly as possible put each person in control of the factors that affect him. Each worker would be a partner. It would be good business to promote health, good habits and clear thinking in order to make of each person an efficient worker, a pleasant associate and an intelligent citizen. There would be retained as part of the proposed plan existing barter units (a number of which are described), other cooperative groups now existing or being organized, and all government activities that include self-help in their program — a number of which are described.

The law of supply and demand would have full play and if a person had numerous wants and demanded much service from others, he or she would have to produce much. "Within its own organization, without interfering with the rest of society, our Cooperative Authority would experiment with a medium of exchange geared to production and to consumption, a medium the value of which would reside in the products available for trade. To begin with, current prices would be followed. However, guided by experience, the prices would gradually be changed to a cost-of-production basis as determined by the amount of human labor involved." Such a plan, it is believed, would promote the needed balance in social development.

The Cooperative Authority would give each the opportunity to produce, but would make it impossible for any able person to live from the efforts of others. Each person would get the whole fruit of his labor — neither more nor less."

The proposed plan is worked out in as much detail as can be expected at this stage and this review can only give it meagre treatment.

He quotes the statement of Professor Ernest Hocking of Harvard that "The essence of sin is to subordinate the whole to a part" and pleads that the fundamental laws of ethics be given a chance and then rely on their inherent strength to triumph. He asks that we follow the law that "there can be no value apart from man" and predicts there is hope for mankind in proportion as we learn to harmonize our plans with the plan of the Author of the universe. "The people are worth more than the system."

The New Deal is praised as far as it has gone which is not far enough to suit Mr. Ostergaard who regrets his country still has (needlessly he believes) ten million unemployed and additional millions described by President Roosevelt in his second inaugural address as "ill-fed, ill-clad, and ill-housed."

He asks: "Will our people create an organization that will enable them to work for themselves and their children, that will lead them across the doorstep into the land of plenty? Or will they continue on the path of scarcity and go farther into the wilderness of privation?"

It is refreshing and heartening to read this plea for economic changes which will be to the advantage of people everywhere. The author does not waste any time fussing with effects but deals bravely and wisely with removing the causes of the defects in the economic system of his inherently great country. His closing paragraph reads: "In the Book of Genesis we are told that God would have spared Sodom had there been ten righteous men within the city. The United States may be spared further privation if there are ten men and women in each city who have eyes to see and courage to act, who will be aggressive in their assertion that it is human lives that count, who will actively seek to establish a social order which will encourage the use of nature's bounty and will afford opportunities for all to participate in constructive enterprises."

New Bette Davis Film Has Much Dramatic Action

In those circles where such things are discussed, Bette Davis would be known as a "repeater."

At the present moment Miss Davis is undergoing another investigation by the minions of the law and order, this time in Singapore.

Sun.-Mon.-Tues. Jack BENNY, Fred ALLAN in "LOVE THY NEIGHBOR" with Mary MARTIN.

picture is now playing at the Westmount United Theatre until Saturday night, in which Miss Davis stars, with Herbert Marshall and James Stephenson.

As mentioned before, this run-in with the law holds no novelty for the errant Miss Davis. It was not so very long ago that she was lodged in the Concierge in Paris until the authorities decided what to do with her.

The fact that she is acquitted in "The Letter" does not mean that she is innocent. It's just the Davis wiles that obtain for her a brief respite until justice, as it must to all men, catches up.

By pouring one teaspoonful of salt in a quart bottle of vinegar you will keep it perfectly clear and free from the substance which usually forms in vinegar.

Winged Romance Joins Colbert And Milland

A cloud-hopping trouble maker meets a trouble hunting newspaper girl — and boom — it's love!

That's how it all starts out between Claudette Colbert and Ray Milland in the scintillating Paramount romance, "Arise, My Love," which is now playing at the Monkland United Theatre until Saturday night.

When Claudette, the fashion writer, gets a yen to write man-sized stories for Associated News she just casually snatches an aviator from a Spanish firing squad, and flies across the border with him to France.

While grim and amazing pages of history are being written, Claudette and Ray are in the midst of exciting new events. They grow more sober, their love grows deeper as the picture draws them together again for its magnificent emotional climax.

"Arise, My Love" is the directorial job of famed Mitchell Leisen, and was produced by Arthur Hornblow. The supporting cast is led off by Walter Abel, with Dick Purcell, Dennis O'Keefe, Esther Dale and George Zucco featured.

Miriam Hopkins Star in Film At The York

"Lady With Red Hair," story of the Dayton girl whose blazing red locks and ambitious green eyes fascinated a generation of theatregoers in the Gay Nineties era has been produced as a motion picture by Warner Bros.

Warner Bros. who made "Zola" and "Pasteur" and "Dr. Ehrlich's Magic Bullet" and "Knute Rockne — All American" with minute and painstaking research, have delved into the champagne-in-an-actress-slipper period, when gilt furniture was smart, when Magazines, jams, jellies, and playing cards were sent to St. Anne's Military Hospital, and five Christmas baskets were distributed. A parcel of knitted garments was sent to Northern Quebec. Sympathy cards were sent to sick members.

As part of the chapter's war effort, 84 articles of clothing were sent to England for children in the bombed areas, including

"H.M.S. Pinafore" Proves Entertaining Performance

"H.M.S. Pinafore," staged by the Lyric and Operatic Society under the direction of Mrs. Harry Norris on Feb. 19, 20, 21 and 22, was an entertaining performance, presented with smoothness and efficiency.

This performance was sponsored by the Women's Auxiliaries of No. 9 Field Ambulance, R.C.A.M.C., A.C.A., and No. 14 General Hospital, R.C.A.M.C., A.C.A. The proceeds will go towards the work of these auxiliaries.

The orchestra, under the able leadership of Harry Norris, did well with the gay and ever-popular music of Gilbert and Sullivan; the acting and singing were equally good.

A spirit of jovial ease seemed to pervade the whole performance, and the audience encored the singers many times. Andrew MacMillan was a vital and amusing Captain Corcoran; his voice was delightful and his acting assured. Frederick Sheward was hilariously funny as the First Lord of the Admiralty; he sang well and his energy was unbounded.

Barbara MacCallum sang Josephine's part charmingly, and her acting was both humorous and dignified. John Vrooland, as her sailor lover, Ralph Rackstraw, made a sympathetic hero, and his duets with Josephine were well sung.

Maud Whitmore's lovely voice was heard to advantage in her well-acted role of Little Butter-

Bridge Will Be Held By Fraternity In Aid Of Spittfire Campaign

Members of the Kappa Alpha Theta Fraternity of Montreal and points west are swelling the ranks of those who are entertaining in aid of the Canadian Dorothy Spittfire fund. The Montreal Alumnae Club of Kappa Alpha Theta will hold the opening bridge at fraternity headquarters on Wednesday evening, March 5, and all those members who will attend this bridge have agreed to carry on the series themselves.

Letters have been sent to the Alumnae Clubs of the Fraternity in Vancouver, Edmonton, Calgary, Toronto and London, Ont., asking members to start a series of teas simultaneously in each city.

Dorothy all over Canada have responded eagerly, and the Galloping Teas have spread from one end of the country to the other; proceeds from these entertainments are pouring into the coffers of the fund, and there will be more to come before the fund closes on Easter Monday.

cup. William Shepley put vigor into the part of Dick Deadey, and Harry Maude made a great hit as Bill Bosbury.

Phyllis Johnston was a piquante Hebe. Ernest Glauser and Alfred Proulx were effective as Bob Becket and the Midshipman respectively. Stanley Durran, George Sherwood and Peter Menzies were the Guard of Honor.

The chorus of Sir Joseph's Sisters, Cousins and Aunts consisted of: Isabelle Alexander, Mollie Boulstridge, Grace Collinge, Mildred Hodgkinson, Phyllis Horrell, Muriel Flood, Helen Johnston, Claire King, Mary Light, Mollie Lister, Betty Lydon, Mabel Mann, Helen Pope, Margaret Sheen, Gladys Snelgrove, Muriel Sykes, Isobel Walker, Beryl Watson, Christine Neilson. This chorus sang well, and looked like a pretty flower garden.

The sailor's chorus was hearty and musical, particularly in the amusing sequence of Sir Joseph Porter's new song. Sailors were: Bruce Aitken, Lloyd Allam, Louis Burggraf, Frank Coleman, Fred Flood, Walter Johnston, Charles King, Lawrence Lister, Charles Locke, John Macfarlane, Norman McPherson, James Paterson, James Poland, Cyril Powles, William Reynolds, Frank Stoen.

The setting was well planned, and the painted back-drop of the harbor beautifully executed.

The timing throughout the whole performance was excellent.

British-Spanish Bargain: Tangier For Neutrality?

The modus vivendi between Britain and Spain on the subject of Tangier is expected to be concluded soon, following the return of Alvaro Gascoigne from Madrid to Tangier where he has been Consul General since Aug. 23, 1939.

Mr. Gascoigne went to Madrid recently in order to assist Sir Samuel Hoare in the discussions which followed the latest Spanish encroachments on the international character of the Tangier zone which included ousting various officials of the International Commission and their replacement by Spaniards from Spanish Morocco.

No details are available yet regarding the nature of the program. But it is known that Britain, while still reserving all the rights which have been progressively whittled away by Spain during the war, has no desire to disturb Spanish control at present provided there is no interference with the rights of British residents. These include, in particular, legal safeguards secured to them under the international regime respecting personal liberty, the right to engage in business and financial transactions and freedom from being arbitrarily subjected to Spanish laws which have been substituted for those in force before disruption of the international regime.

It is assumed Britain has asked for definite assurances on these points and also for an understanding that the Tangier zone will not be fortified. In view of the fact that Spain is very anxious for British help in obtaining urgent supplies of wheat from Canada and the Argentine, it is further assumed that Spain has readily acquiesced.

It is less certain, however, that any such agreement will ever be published. Britain has, hitherto, taken the line that the Spanish actions in Tangier have all been illegal, and it is somewhat difficult to draft a binding legal agreement in such circumstances.

Even if the modus vivendi is not committed to paper, its existence, or rather its observance, is expected to have an important effect on Anglo-Spanish relations. Evidence from Spain all points to widespread disillusionment with the Axis, particularly with the Italian end of it. Apart, perhaps, from Foreign Minister Ramon Serrano Suner himself, who paid a brief visit to Barcelona where he spoke of Spain's need for bread, the great majority of highly-placed Spaniards are understood to be strongly against any action calculated to bring Spain into the war and it is felt they would resist to the utmost Axis pressure to bring them in.

If this is true, it is bound to ease Anglo-Spanish tension provided there are no encroachments at Tangier.

Mr. Gascoigne, whose intimate knowledge of conditions in the international settlement has been at Sir Samuel's disposal during the talks, is an Etonian. He served in the army during the World War, and joined the Foreign Office as a temporary clerk in 1919, being employed in that capacity in Budapest and Paris. He entered the diplomatic service on a permanent basis Jan. 1, 1922. Since then he has held posts in Madrid, Peking, Tokyo, Oslo, Teheran, and Budapest, where he was several times Charge d'Affaires. In Tangier he holds the post of Consul General, which in a settlement, is equivalent to Minister.

COMMISSIONER WILL SPEAK AT SUNDAY SERIES

One of the outstanding events in the Pleasant Sunday Afternoon series sponsored by the Montreal Citadel Band of the Salvation Army, will take place on Sunday Afternoon, March 30, at 2.45 p.m., when Commissioner Ben Jamn Oramas, Territorial Leader of the Salvation Army in Canada, Alaska, Bermuda and Newfoundland, will address the gathering. St. James United Church has been engaged for this special service and a record attendance is expected. The doors will open at 2.15 p.m. and the Citadel Band, under the baton of Bandmaster J. N. Auldore will present a musical program from 2.30 p.m. to 2.45 p.m.

Commissioner Oramas, a native of Australia, has served in the ranks of the Salvation Army for over 40 years, and held various appointments—diverse in character and location, including many years in various parts of Australia, two years in New Zealand, two years in China, and seven and a half years in the U.S.A. The Commissioner is a member of the High Council of the Salvation Army, and is highly regarded in Salvation Army, as well as outside circles.

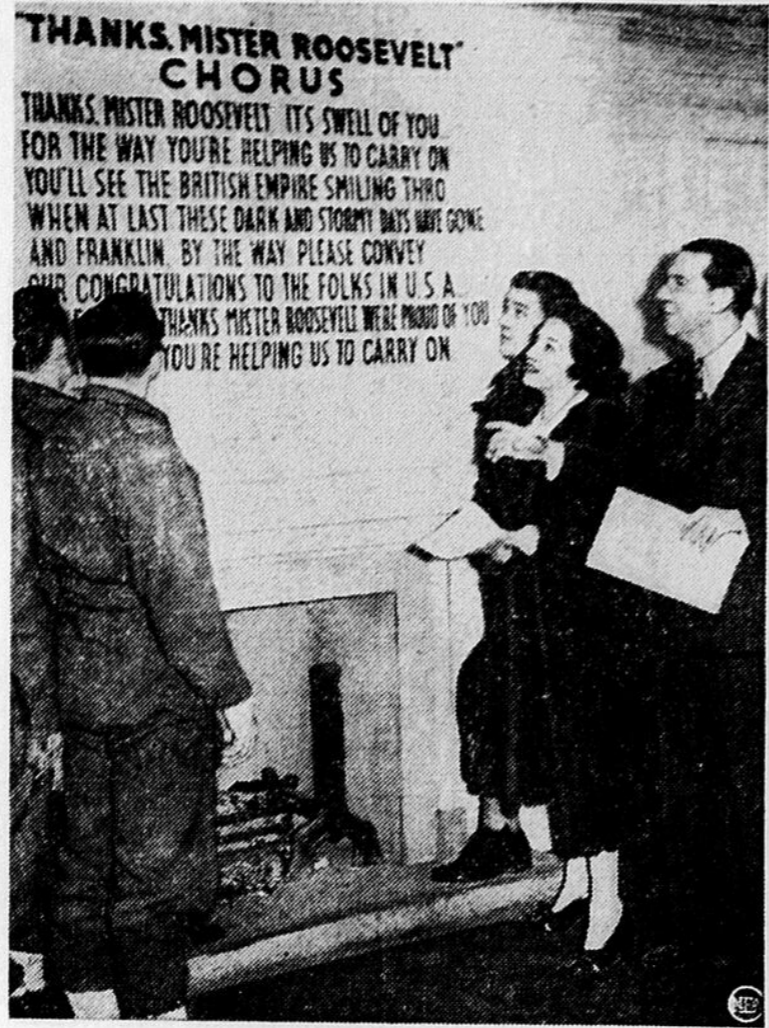

Reverend F. H. Wilkinson, M.A., B.D., Church of St. James the Apostle, will preside.

By—Lines

Britain has just broken a long tradition by lifting the ban on Sunday shows in theatres and music halls. Sunday in pre-war Britain, however, was pleasant compared with that of three and a half centuries ago. In one Scottish city, for instance, the following restrictions were enforced in addition to the usual regulations forbidding games, shows, etc., etc., no water was to be drawn from the public wells after the first bell to forenoon sermons; Sunday milk-sellers ran the risk of being dropped on by a secret and watchful committee; swearers were fined 12 pence when detected; cattle had to be kept indoors on Sunday; and house-to-house searches for church absentees were unpleasantly common. Failure to observe these rules resulted in fines, imprisonment on a bread-and-water diet, and public penance in the stocks on market-days or a public ducking in the river by means of a specially constructed pulley.

One of the best ways to realize the enormous strides made in the air offensive during the last quarter of a century is to glance over the figures for the air raids on Great Britain in the war of 1914-1918. Commencing in 1916, the Germans launched a total of 111 attacks against Britain, 52 by Zeppelins and 59 by aeroplanes. The casualties resulting from these raids were 1413 persons killed and 3208 persons injured, London suffering more than half of these totals with 670 persons killed and 1062 persons injured. The Zeppelins reached London 12 times and the aeroplanes 19 times. These figures for a three-year onslaught during the last war would probably be surpassed in a week or less nowadays, and we have not considered the vast difference in the extent and character of the property damage in this war compared with the last.

It is to be hoped that Canadians will meet their Income Tax obligations with the same cheerful nonchalance as did Theodore Hook, the English humorist. It is related that he was entertaining a party with a comic song when a servant interrupted him and said, "Please, sir, here's Mr. Winter, the tax-gatherer; he says he has called for taxes." Hook refused to be put out of humor, however, and immediately gave off the following extempore stanza:

"Here comes Mr. Winter, collector of taxes;
I'd advise you to pay him whatever he axes.
Excuses won't do, he stands no sort of flummery;
Though Winter his name is, his presence is summary!"

Prophecy nowadays is very precarious and uncertain, but the forecasts of some writers in the past have been realized with quite astonishing accuracy.

H. G. Wells, for instance, gave an almost flawless description of modern tanks and tank warfare in a short story entitled "The Land Ironclads," which was published in December, 1903. The tank, it will be recalled, first came into being on the Somme during the Great War in 1916.

Following the announcement of some discovery, of course, there is always the possibility of searching back over old writings and declaring any likely reference to be intelligent anticipations. This, however, hardly accounts for Shakespeare's anticipation of Newton's discovery of the law of gravitation in 1685. The following lines are spoken by Cressida in Act IV, Scene 2, of "Troilus and Cressida" (1609):

"But the strong base and building of my love is as the very centre of the earth. Drawing all things to it."

Fully twenty-five years prior to Sir William Harvey's epoch-making discovery of the circulation of the blood, Shakespeare, in the first scene of the second act of "Julius Caesar," put these words into the mouth of Brutus, who is addressing his wife:

"You are my true and honourable wife;
As dear to me as are the ruddy drops
That visit my sad heart."

Sceptics who may incline to rate the foregoing as mere chance illusions will find it difficult to explain away the magnificent forecast of the Suez Canal that appears in the second part of Marlowe's "Tamburlaine the Great," where, in Act V, Scene 3, are these words:

"And here, not far from Alexandria,
Whereat the Tyrrhene and the Red Sea meet,
Being distant less than full two hundred leagues,
I meant to cut a channel to them both.
That man might quickly sail to India."

The following four lines appeared in 1789 in "The Loves of the Plants," written by Erasmus Darwin, grandfather of the more celebrated Charles Darwin:

"Soon shall thy arm, unconquered steam, afar
Drag the slow barge or drive the rapid car;
Or on wide-waving wings, expanded, bear
The flying chariot through the field of air."

The steamboat became a fact in 1807, the automobile in 1890, and the aeroplane in 1911, so that the verse contains an extraordinary triple prophecy.

The undernoted is an extract from the second book of Sir Thomas More's "Utopia":

"The hens do not sit upon the eggs, but by keeping them in a certain equal heat they (the Utopians) bring life into them and hatch them."

Although this "hint" appeared in the sixteenth century, some considerable time was to elapse before it was realized by the modern incubator.

Jules Verne's "dreams" have been largely realized and a proportion of H. G. Wells' prophecies have come true, so that we should do well to pause before we ridicule the anticipations of writers, no matter how strange and fantastic they may seem.

The recent flood of opprobrious cablegrams sent by Americans to Berlin radio station recalls the following very apt epitaph for Hitler, which was suggested by a British naval officer:

"Positively my last territorial claim in Europa."
