Fifty-Fourth Year

NORTH KOREANS LAUNCH ALL-OUT DRIVE

World News In Brief

Hollywood, Aug. 4.—(P)—It's three sons for Jeanne Crain now. The diminutive actress gave birth to seven-pound, six-ounce Timothy Peter yesterday. She and her husband, Paul Brinkham, furniture manufacturer, have two other boys—Paul Frederick, 3, and Michael Anthony, 18 months.

Istanbul, Turkey, Aug. 4.—(P)—The entire market district and more than 2,000 homes were reported razed today in a fire which swept through Balikesir, a major military centre in Western Turkey.

The Anatolia news agency said the blaze in the city of 400,000 was one of the worst in Turkish history. It started in a fireworks shop and was spread by a high wind.

London, Aug. 4.—(P)—A simple memorial service was held in Mayfair's Grosvenor Chapel today for Mrs. Vincent Massey, well-known here for her wartime work on behalf of Canadian servicemen.

Mrs. Massey, wife of the wartime Canadian High Commissioner in London, died last week-end in Ontario. During the war she founded London's Beaver Club and the Canadian Officers' Club at Trafalgar Square.

Caracas, Venezuela, Aug. 4.—(P)—Approximately 100 persons were reported killed yesterday in earthquakes that rocked western Venezuela. Reports from Tucuy said at least 70 were dead and many injured there. Tucuy is near Barquisimeto, capital of Lara state. Considerable property damage was reported at Tucuy and Barquisimeto.

Washington, Aug. 4.—(P)—The State Department said last night that the passport of Paul Robeson, well-known Negro baritone and actor, has been declared "null and void." The action was taken, a department spokesman said, because it felt Robeson's actions abroad have not always been in the American interest. Robeson has made a number of trips abroad, particularly to the Soviet Union.

Toronto, Aug. 4.—(P)—The Ontario Labor Relations Board Thursday turned down a request by the Toronto Globe and Mail for a review of the Board's decision certifying the Toronto Newspaper Guild (C.I.O.) as bargaining agent for employees in the newspaper's circulation department.

The board announced certification of the union July 20.

Birmingham, England, Aug. 4.—(Reuters)—Raymond Blackburn, Labor Member of Parliament, resigned today from the party, reducing the government's majority in the House of Commons to four.

Giving reasons he said: "in my view Winston Churchill should become Prime Minister of a coalition government."

Parliament Expected To Be Recalled During Early Fall

Ottawa, Aug. 4.—(P)—The broad outline of a sweeping plan of Canadian preparedness at home and further military aid to Korea probably is the form of ground troops—is believed to have been shaped at two lengthy Cabinet meetings in the last two days.

The first was held Wednesday and lasted four hours. The second, which lasted three hours, ended last night with the official announcement by Prime Minister St. Laurent that "earnest and detailed consideration" had been given the international situation and Canada's accelerated defence program.

He went no farther than that, except to say a third cabinet session would be held Monday.

These developments lent weight to indications that there already is broad Ministerial agreement on the principle of sending a ground force to Korea. It is believed Parliament will meet probably late September or early October to ratify the move.

Observers see the Monday Cabinet meeting as being called primarily to obtain the approval of such men as Finance Minister Abbott and Agriculture Minister Gardiner, who were not in attendance at yesterday's sitting. About six Ministers were absent.

A volunteer force of 1,000 men specially designated to fight the North Korean Reds has been mentioned as a likely outcome of the Cabinet sessions. It would take many months to muster such a force, but military opinion is that Korea is going to last a long time.

The Prime Minister's statement, while making no direct reference to Korea, said the Cabinet discussions had been carried out in accordance with the government policy announced last July 19.

This referred to the Prime Minister's statement on that date that no ground troops would be sent to Korea "at this stage" but that "immediate consideration" would be given to Canadian participation in any international force recruited by the United Nations for Korea.

The Prime Minister's reference to Canada's defence program coming under study is believed to confirm that not only Korea but the whole broad field of Canadian mobilization was before the cabinet.

This, it is believed, would include steps in the sphere of industrial as well as military mobilization, probably with close integration of army production between Canada and the United States.

Heavy Fighting Reported As Communists Approach Outer Defences Of Pusan

Normalcy Is Returning To Morris, Man.

By NORMAN MICHIE
Canadian Press Staff Writer
Morris, Man., Aug. 4.—Six weeks of dogged, heart-breaking toil have brought this Southern Manitoba centre, 40 miles south of Winnipeg, from the brink of ruin to the threshold of normalcy. The Red River, on its history-making rampage that submerged 600 square miles of rich farmland for several weeks in April and May, swirled sluggishly through an almost-deserted town.

All but a handful of the 1,000-odd residents fled. Water was eight to ten feet deep in the streets.

Everything stopped for Morris. Telephone, railway, telegraph, hospital, food and other services were washed out.

Six weeks ago the routed citizens were coming back. There was little food, only one grocery store in operation, no telephone service, no jobs or wages.

But work, make-do, and the co-operation of volunteer services kept the rehabilitation going forward and almost all of the families are back.

Unwisely piles of interior fixtures have been removed from the streets, where they were thrown down from structural repairs on business and residential property. Many leaning, crumpled structures have been torn down or moved away. Some have been repaired.

New basements are being poured under homes floated off by the river's force. Potato patches and gardens are beginning to show.

All grocery stores are open. The hotel's cafe, once almost floorless, is open. Banking and postal services have been moved into a schoolhouse. The barber has opened shop in his own house.

Damage in the country, as in the town, is still impossible to estimate. Late-maturing crops will be good, given favorable weather. Debris and dead animals still

Queen Elizabeth Observes Birthday

Sandringham, Norfolk, England, Aug. 4.—(P)—Salvoes of artillery fired around the world saluted Queen Elizabeth on her 50th birthday today.

Royal Navy ships and military garrisons in Britain and throughout the Empire took part in the cannonading.

But the Queen herself heard little of it. For her, the birthday was a walk in the garden and a family party at the Sandringham Royal estate. Happy-birthday messages poured into the post office here.

The broadcast claimed the North Koreans got a large batch of war material when they occupied Hyonchun, another town on the western sector.

Some North Korean elements were at the Nakdong river line west of Taegu, arching artillery attacks across it at U.S. 1st Cavalry division troops. These American forces are grouped around Taegu, 5 miles northwest of Pusan on the main allied road rail supply line for the central fighting sector.

Allied planes watched for troop trains that may be trying to fill depleted enemy ranks. The Reds tried to get some trains out of Chongjin, in North Korea, by covering the rail yards with a smoke-screen.

The fresh troops, if not halted by planes, could reach the front in three days or less.

The U.S. Eighth Army reported enemy fire in the Taegu sector. Taegu is seven miles east of the Nakdong river. South Korean troops also were in contact with the Reds in the north.

United States 25th Division Bears Brunt Of Attack In Fierce Fighting 10 Miles East Of Chinju.

Tokyo, Aug. 4.—(P)—A battle of men and tanks in the all-out communist effort to seize all Korea roared on the outer approaches to Pusan Friday. It was 40 miles west of the United States seaport base on the southeastern tip of the peninsula.

Heaviest fighting was around the village of Wongbun, 10 miles east of the Red-held town of Chinju near the marshy south coast.

The U. S. 25th Division bore the brunt of attack with the probability of United States Marine and other support in the battle or about to enter it.

To the north, Red artillery shells arched into U. S. 1st Cavalry positions near Taegu, 55 miles out of Pusan along the new allied Nakdong river barrier line on the central front. A new clash was shaping up there.

Both sides punched and probed with men and tanks in the swirling battle. The North Koreans slipped to within 37 miles of Pusan at the village of Pongam, 18 miles east of Chinju. But an American combat team erased that threat.

The U. S. 25th Division was shifted swiftly southward to brace the line that had been held by the battle-worn 24th Division. The 24th Division was sent to another unidentified point.

American and South Korean lines north of Chinju now are east of the winding Nakdong. But the extreme southern forces are south of the big stream and west of its delta, which is just outside of Pusan.

A Tokyo headquarters spokesman reported the North Koreans were pouring tank and infantry reinforcements to the southern battle sector.

He said communist soldiers were coming into battle as recruits from Korean settlements in Soviet-dominated Manchuria. Many are Japanese-trained and veterans of the Chinese communist wars.

Allied planes kept a sharp watch for troop trains bearing down from the north. Some rail-borne reinforcements snaked out of Chongjin, in North Korea, under a smoke-screen covering the marshalling yard.

A column of 45-Russian-built tanks was reported approaching the battle scene from the Taegu area, 90 miles northwest of Chinju.

The communist Pyongyang radio meanwhile broadcast a North Korean army communiqué saying Red forces, "with close co-operation of air units, destroyed American tank and artillery units and captured Kumchun" Wednesday.

American units abandoned Kumchun in mid-week but there were no indications that the communists had effective air support, if any.

Front line dispatches earlier said Kumchun, on the western sector, was abandoned in an orderly retreat when American forces withdrew to the Nakdong river line.

The broadcast claimed the North Koreans got a large batch of war material when they occupied Hyonchun, another town on the western sector.

The U.S. Eighth Army reported enemy fire in the Taegu sector. Taegu is seven miles east of the Nakdong river. South Korean troops also were in contact with the Reds in the north.

1st Cavalry commanders said all bridges on the Nakdong in the Taegu area has been blown after the allied troops made their last defensive river crossing.

The first reported combat efforts of the newly-arrived U. S. Marines in Korea were staging strikes by carrier-borne Marine planes in support of allied southern forces.

1st Marine and 2nd Infantry division troops, fresh from the U. S. were at the front. The Marines have 47½-ton Pershing tanks, the largest the Americans have thrown into the Korean fighting.

The 25th Division, shortly after reaching the southern sector, hurled back a Red counter-attack, killing an estimated 600 communists.

Sidelights On Conflict In Korea

Tokyo, Aug. 4.—(P)—American B-29 bombing raids on Hungnam have "definitely halted" production of ammunition and other war material in that North Korean industrial centre, the United States Far East Air Forces said today.

In three big strikes the B-29s dropped 1,300 tons of bombs on Hungnam war plants.

LT-Gen. George E. Stratemeyer, F.E.A.F. commander, said in an official release they damaged 85 per cent of the building, laboratories, power plants and warehouses in the target area.

Hungnam is the heart of the North Korean chemical and munitions industry, on the east coast 113 miles north of the 38th parallel.

B-29s hit the Chosen (Korean) nitrogen plant Sunday. The Chosen nitrogen fertilizer factory Tuesday, and the Bogun chemical plant Thursday. All targets were described as "highly sensitive."

The plants were interrelated and dependent on each other. F.E.A.F. said.

The combine was the largest of its type in the Orient.

Vancouver, Aug. 4.—(P)—The Korean war has combined with increased freight rates to disrupt Vancouver's grain trade, brokers said last night. Movement of grain was in a "state of confusion" and availability of ships was uncertain due to the conflict in Korea, they said.

One broker said the recent increase in rail freight rates had already forced cancellation of cargoes to Israel and Egypt. "We are unable to compete with eastern ports," he added.

Harriman Will Discuss Far East Policy With MacArthur

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
Washington, Aug. 4.—(P)—A flying trip to Tokyo by W. Averell Harriman, President Truman's special assistant on foreign affairs, indicated today major Far Eastern political decisions may be in the making. He is scheduled to leave by air at once to confer with Gen. MacArthur.

Truman announced the trip at his press conference yesterday. He said Harriman would be accompanied by Gen. Lauris Norstad, assistant chief of staff of the United States Air Force, and Maj-Gen. Frank B. Lowe.

Purpose of the trip, Truman said, is for Harriman to discuss Far Eastern political questions with MacArthur.

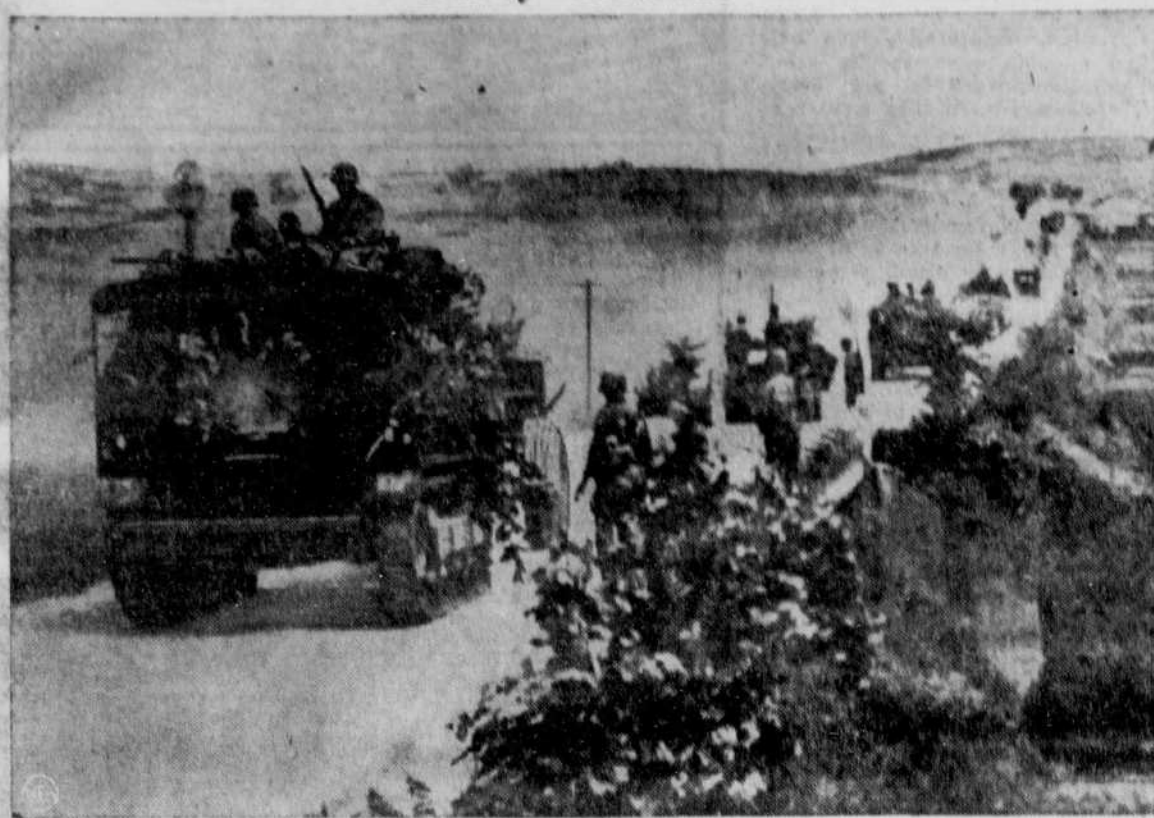

Diplomatic authorities said issues which appear certain to be discussed and which are moving toward the point of American policy decisions include:

1. The 38th parallel—from the beginning of the Korean fighting there has been a question as to whether the United Nations forces under MacArthur's command should stop at the 38th parallel once they have generated a successful drive against the North Korean communists. The line divides Northern and Southern Korea.

American officials are reported to feel the final decision should be worked out with other United Nations members opposing aggression in Korea.

Dusty Retreat

Britain Plans Big Boost In Defence Spending If United States Will Help

Ottawa Will Share Costs On Livestock

Ottawa, Aug. 4.—(P)—The Agriculture Department has announced that it will continue to pay 75 per cent of the freight charges on all livestock going to national exhibitions, when provinces agree to pay the other 25 per cent.

The only exhibition now considered by the department to be national in scope is the Toronto Royal Winter Fair, a spokesman said today. All provinces, with the exception of Ontario, have in the past participated in the cost-sharing agreements and the department hopes that this government absorption of costs will continue in the future.

The department said in a statement yesterday that it has decided to continue the cost-absorption plan, even though "shipments of livestock going to the Toronto Royal Winter Fair will be more costly this year following the cancellation by the railways of special rates on exhibition livestock."

The only change it has decided on in its payment system is to give the provinces complete power over the distribution of payment.

On account of the extra cost now involved, the Federal Department has decided that each provincial Department of Agriculture should henceforth exclusively determine what stock should or should not receive such freight assistance.

The spokesman said the reason why Ontario does not participate in the plan is because that province has undertaken to shoulder the complete cost in the movement of Ontario livestock to the fair.

The special rates were cancelled on exhibits going to rural and other non-national fairs. In Quebec city Wednesday Emery Boucher.

Britain Plans Big Boost In Defence Spending If United States Will Help

Ottawa Will Share Costs On Livestock

London, Aug. 4.—(P)—Britain announced last night she is ready to boost her defence spending to £3,400,000,000 ($10,540,000,000 Canadian) over the next three years if the United States will help her economy absorb the shock.

If agreement with the U.S. can be worked out—and U.S. State Department officials indicated it could be—Britain will be adding about $220,000,000 a year to her current defence expenditure.

The proposed outlay would be 43 per cent greater than military spending announced before the Korean war started and would increase from eight to 10 per cent the portion of the national income spent on military preparations against communism. It almost equals the entire budget outlay for the current fiscal year.

The announcement indicated that most of the increase would go for production of new arms and equipment for Atlantic pact forces.

Britain's offer to enlarge her contributions to western defence came in the form of a memorandum to the U.S. replying to an American request for such information.

President Truman told a press conference in Washington last night he was pleased with Britain's offer.

The statement said the total cost of the project "would be so heavy that it would be impossible to carry out the full program without substantial United States assistance in addition to completion of the European recovery program."

In return Britain offered to help meet the "deficiencies in equipment of the North Atlantic treaty organization forces of other nations."

In her memorandum, Britain pointed out she has large trained manpower reserves. She declared the "most urgent need is to increase production of defence equipment."

The memorandum indicated the British government is resigned to a slowing down of efforts at economic recovery but "they are anxious to make this effort as their contribution to the defence of a free world in the present threatening situation."

The statement indicated the program would be carried out without the full controls used during the second world war. It said: "It is the largest program practicable within the period envisaged and without restoring the direction of labor, the requisitioning of factories, or embarking on the slow progress of building and equipping 'new industrial capacity' which could not have rapid results."

Before the Korean war Britain's defence budget amounted to £780,000,000 a year. The addition of £100,000,000 was announced after the fighting started.

The memorandum envisaged a new average cost of more than $1-100,000,000 over each of the next three years.

The announcement was hailed by the London press, although some papers thought it did not go far enough.

The Times asked whether "the government may not be taking too careful a view of what this country's economy can afford?"

The Conservative Daily Mail expressed a similar thought.

Big Build-Up Preceded Korean War

Washington, Aug. 4.—(P)—A war-tested Russian policy—accumulation of a huge stockpile of arms before embarking on a campaign—seems to be paying off for the North Koreans.

Since Russia generally is supposed to have mapped the plans for the attack on the republic of South Korea and to be directing it now he remote control, it is assumed that all the vital planning of supplies was dictated by Russian army experts.

During the Second World War, Russia sometimes exasperated her western allies by delaying a needed offensive against the Germans for weeks and months. Not until she had built up vast supply dumps far beyond any foreseeable requirements, would she launch the offensive.

This practice was applied to Russia's satellite army of North Koreans.

Ability of the North Koreans to maintain their offensive at peak intensity now raises a question about an earlier assumption that the Reds' war plan was to complete their conquest before aid could come to the South Koreans. They wouldn't have needed to stockpile mountains of ammunition and hundreds of tanks to beat down an opponent armed with only light defensive weapons intended for internal security.

It seems now they reckoned with the definite possibility the United States would step into the picture. The North Korean armament

U.N. Council To Deal With Korean War

Lake Success, N.Y., Aug. 4.—(P)—The United Nations Security Council comes to grips today with the Korean war after beating down a three-day Russian attempt to sidetrack the issue.

The Council voted 8 to 1 yesterday to take up as the first order of business today, a United States resolution condemning North Korean defiance of the United Nations and asking all countries to help localize the conflict.

Amid bitter verbal exchanges the Council twice again rejected Soviet attempts to put the question of seating communist China in the U.N. first on the agenda.

Russia's Jakob A. Malik, who ended his seven-month boycott of the U.N. to take over presidency of the Council Aug. 1, preceded the vote with a vitriolic attack charging the U.S. with provoking the war in Korea.

U.S. delegate Warren R. Austin denounced Malik's charges as a new slander, a new threat, a new provocation. It was one of the most heated exchanges heard in the Council chamber.

Austin said he doubted the Soviet Union wanted the Council to go into "the question of whose design and whose command brought about the unleashing of this new wave of tragedy and bloodshed which has overtaken the international community."

"Inadvertently, he might expose the villain," he said.

Malik reported that Austin was "hysterical and his hand wavings and shouting don't make any impression on me as a Soviet delegate. If he is trying to blackmail me he has directed his remarks to the wrong address."

British delegate Sir Gladwyn Jebb commented Malik's "offensive and indeed irregular speech makes it completely clear that his government is determined to maintain what is the reverse of the truth."

Jean Chauvel of France branded Malik's charge of U.S. aggression in Korea "false" and added: "I repeat, it is false."

U.S. Reservists Will Be Drafted

Washington, Aug. 4.—(P)—The army announced today it will call out 62,000 individual reservists during September and October, "with or without their consent," for 21 months of duty.

They will come from a pool of about 185,000 male reservists who are members of the National Guard and organized reserve units to full strength.

The first 32,000 will be in camp by Sept. 15, the remainder by the middle of October, the army's announcement said.

Those called first will be between 19 and 25 years old. Priority will be determined by the number of dependents. Those with no dependents are to be called first, those with one dependent, second, and those with more than one dependent later.

Supply Lines Are Important To Strength Of U.N. Forces

By MAX BOYD
Washington, Aug. 4.—(P)—Three considerations are helping to decide how long it will be before ground forces of other United Nations are fighting beside Americans and South Koreans in Korea. They are:

1. Public opinion. Some highly-placed U.S. officials feel a resurgence of "isolationism" will occur in the United States if other members of the United Nations do not take part in the ground fighting.

2. Supply. Military men want to be sure that adequate supply systems are assured for any troops sent to Korea. Otherwise, they think the forces would be a liability rather than an asset.

3. Global strategy. The high command wants to be sure other vital areas where the communists might attack are not weakened unnecessarily by transfer of troops to Korea.

Already, the navy operating against the Korean communists is truly a United Nations force, including Canadian, British, Australian and Dutch units as well as American and South Korean. The Royal Australian Air Force and carrier-based Royal Air Force planes are working with the American land-based and carrier-based planes.

Thus far, however, the only allied ground units fighting are U.S. and South Korean. Their casualties have been much heavier than those of air and naval elements.

Ground troop offers sent to the United Nations in response to its recent appeal for such assistance are screened here by a joint committee of the defence and state departments.

Britain has offered a self-contained force. But British sources say it will take two or three months to get a force estimated at 5,000 to 6,000 men ready to sail from the United Kingdom.

The British army has about 40,000 men guarding Hong Kong, next door to communist China. The British government contends they are essential at this post.

British representatives here say that of the British army's total strength of 372,000, there are 265,000 already on duty abroad. In addition to those at Hong Kong, 175,000 are reported in Germany, 15,000 in Malaya, and 35,000 in the Middle East. All three of the latter posts are areas of communist pressure.

Australia has promised a small force of experienced ground troops within "as few weeks as possible." This force is expected to be built around ground troops now on occupation duty in Japan.

The 2,500 Australians already in Japan include fliers and sailors as well as ground troops, however. The ground units include signal and engineer troops as well as infantry men.

At present Canada has three destroyers in the United Nations navy, and six transport planes shuttling between the U.S. and the Far East.

Tony's Come-Back
Tony Martin is back—and everybody wants him.

The Coconut Grove has him right now and then Howard Hughes gets him for the signing lead opposite Janet Leigh in the big RKO musical, "Two Tickets to Broadway."

Tony had a down payment on a one-way ticket to oblivion three years ago. "You couldn't give me records away. I was in a singing slump." Tony tried to change his singing style with the times. It didn't work.

"When I tried to sing soft I was a flop. So I just opened up again." Tony opened up to a packed house at the Grove and proved why his records are outselling all other RCA Victor pop singers.

George Burns introduced him as "the fellow with the most romantic voice in America." They left no doubts about it.

A "Hangover Breakfast" is on the menu of a Vine street cafe. It consists of: "Black coffee, raw egg, headache tablet and our sympathy."

MGM is screen testing Lynn Copeland, the Philadelphia high school girl discovered by Johnny Weissmuller. Bob Ryan is taintment business with an unviewing the changes in the enter-tained eye. He told me: "Things can never get too bad. I just bought a grocery store."

"I'll Ocean Drive" should do for Edmond O'Brien's career what "Champion" did for Kirk Douglas. Despite a flood of film offers as a result of "South Pacific," Janet Blair is telling her agent:

"I'm determined to stay off the screen until a really exciting role comes along."

Grand Hotel
There's a new $3,500,000 hotel on the drawing boards for Las Vegas. A western syndicate, including Fred Brosio, one-time owner of Lucey's, raised the green-backs.

A Hollywood lenser surprised John Payne and Elaine White entertaining at a birthday party at the Beverly Tropics for John's small daughter, Julia. John permitted the photographer to take a group picture but refused to pose alone with Elaine.

MGM will set up a tent city for a month near Durango, Colo., for Clark Gable's 1925 vintage "Across the Wide Missouri." Five hundred desolate acres nearby are free of super highways, telephone poles and TV aerials.

Pola Negri hasn't been heard from yet, but Mae Murray is scolding over the grapevine message that Producer Edward Small has written a silent era movie queen with bee-stung lips into the script of "Valentino."

What burns Mae more than Small's failure to get her okay is the report that a gigolo introduces Valentino to her in the story. Mae's eyes flashed watch-out as she said:

something that's definitely a star vehicle." Now it can be told: Burt Lancaster's hit, "Flame and the Arrow," started out to be the story of William Tell. They changed the name of the character, moved the story to North Italy and deleted the apple-on-the-head incident.

Death In Fall Is Termed Accidental

A verdict of accidental death was returned by the jury during a coroner's inquest this morning into the death of Gerard Verpalst 30, of Belmont Road who died yesterday afternoon following a 16-foot fall from the roof of a house which was being moved to a new site.

The accident occurred on the Belmont Road 100 feet outside the city limits when the victim grasped a group of non-insulated wires in order to clear them over a chimney on the roof.

The leather gloves he wore gave no protection and thousands of volts raced through his body, knocking him unconscious and hurling him to the ground. A broken neck was attributed as the cause of death, although bad burns were observed on the hands and legs.

An ambulance rushed Verpalst to hospital, but he was pronounced dead on arrival.

The tragedy occurred on the property of 88-year-old Alfred Labonville, of Belmont Road, who had hired the deceased to move his house some distance up the Belmont Road.

Labonville appeared as chief witness at the inquest. His eyewitness testimony was that Verpalst grasped the wires just before he fell, and that the shock threw him to the ground apparently unconscious.

Another eyewitness account of the fall was given by the chauffeur of the truck pulling the house, Fernand Fuette, 21, of Belmont Road.

The inquest was conducted by district coroner Dr. Louis Gagnon at the local provincial police headquarters.

Red and white roses surrounded the cake and the china tea service completed a memorable picture for the guests from near and distant places. The gathering in the dining-room was a very happy group bringing memories of past years and happiness in reunion.

After lunch the guests of honor, members of the family and visitors numbering fifty went out into the spacious grounds where state trees, shrubs and flowers formed a perfect background for the taking of photographs of the Currier bridal couple and various groups of relatives and friends of years gone by, thus providing treasured souvenirs of the happy event.

Examples of uneven distribution of light are frequently apparent in classrooms or workshops where there is a great deal of light on the window side, but little on the inner wall. In corridors, also, between window areas, are pools of darkness. On stairways, one section is often shadowed in gloom. Provincial Policemen Are Granted Bail As Defence Completes Questions

Montreal, Aug. 4.—The defence in the trial of three provincial policemen charged with plotting bank holdups, concluded its evidence yesterday and cash bail was granted the men.

Crown Prosecutor Dollard Dandereau immediately began cross-examination, questioning defence witnesses on their testimony concerning tape recordings made of alleged conversations between the accused and Emile Poliquin, a confessed bank robber.

The policemen, Detective Lieut. Marcel Patenaude, Detective Sgt. Gaston Archambault and former Detective Paul Hervieux, are charged with plotting the holdups and forcing Poliquin to rob the St. Hugues, Que., branch of the Banque Canadienne Nationale last December for face a possible two-year penitentiary sentence.

They were granted bail of $1,000 each by Judge Edouard Archambault. Previously they were held without bail for the duration of their trial but Judge Archambault ruled that bail was advisable since his deliberations in the case would be "lengthy." The final witness called by the defence was J. Emile Lapointe, house detective in a Montreal hotel where some of the recorded conversations were allegedly made.

Lapointe told the court he was given a demonstration of the recording machine in another room near the reported meeting place between Poliquin and the policemen. He said he could not tell who was speaking into the microphone.

Asked to identify Poliquin as the man in the room with him, Lapointe said "that man is not unknown to me."

Then defence counsel Lucien Gendron said "that ends our defence."

Mr. Gendron, cross-examining Leo Arc, insurance adjuster responsible for the conspiracy charges, asked if the recordings played to the judge were originals.

Judge Archambault ruled earlier that he would decide on the admissibility of the tape recordings in giving his verdict.

He said he couldn't guarantee they were the originals.

St. Joseph D'Alma, Que., Aug. 4.—Georges-Emile Lapalme, Quebec Liberal leader, called last night for a royal commission inquiry into Quebec Provincial Police services.

Mr. Lapalme, who made the demand in a brief statement prepared for delivery before a group of Liberal party organizers in this Lake St. John district town, said: "No matter what the outcome of the trial of the three Provincial Policemen in Montreal, it is urgent that an inquiry be held into all Provincial Police services, because of certain sensational revelations made during the trial."

"In the name of citizens anxious about the consequences of a regime which spreads corruption everywhere, and in the name of all those doubtful about the Provincial Police, I demand that a commission be formed immediately to conduct a general inquiry into all police services coming under the Attorney-General."

lations made during the trial.

INDUSTRY AND DEFENCE

One of the most important meetings in many months opens in Ottawa on Tuesday when United States and Canadian defence planners will discuss the industrial production possibilities of the two countries. Commenting on this gathering, the Financial Post declares that it is hoped prompt decisions will be forthcoming so that industry can get ahead with vital production.

Precious time is now being lost because our industries don't know what will be expected of them in a rearmament program.

Six months may be enough time to get a soldier or sailor trained and ready to fight. But it takes a year to 18 months to get production of the weapons, ships or airplanes with which he will fight, exclusive of the period taken in development and design.

The last war does not seem far away but the fact remains that it would take a lot of time to get our industrial machine mobilized and geared up for defense production. Special machinery is scattered. A lot of plant space and equipment created for purposes of the last war is now engaged in other work.

It is probably true that Ottawa could have done more sooner to plan industrial preparedness: to let plants know rather precisely what, in time of emergency, would be expected of them. If there were need for a nucleus of well trained and equipped Navy, Air Force and Army capable of rapid expansion, an industrial mobilization plan was equally essential.

But the best way to plan defense mobilization is in conjunction with the United States, and U.S. policy on the industrial front has certainly been no better than Canada's. Furthermore, U.S. legislation has prevented maximizing North American industrial power by admitting Canadian firms as full partners in the defense manufacturing team.

On many defense items, Canada's productive capacity far exceeds the needs of our own armed services and essential civilian needs. On many other items, we can't produce what is required economically or efficiently or without considerable waste time and effort because the numbers needed are relatively small and our available facilities cannot readily be altered.

What the Ottawa meeting should produce is a clear-cut definition as to what types of defense equipment Canada will supply for her own needs and for the needs of her allies.

Then, the next step must be to translate that decision into specific "get-ready" assignments for specific plants.

Until that's done our much vaunted industrial might is nothing but a giant in chains.

REDS ARE BRAVE—BEHIND SKIRTS

Like the gangster who uses his landlady as a shield while he tries to escape from a hideout ringed by police, the North Koreans are resorting to feminine skirts to screen their military operations.

We recently had a report that a Red tank spearhead thrusting across a key bridge put a large number of Korean women and children at the head of the column. Naturally, American forces held their fire. Behind this protective phalanx, the Red tanks successfully made the crossing.

Is any comment necessary?

THE FORGOTTEN MAN

A Nova Scotian veteran of the First Great War has just undergone a successful operation for the removal of a bullet from his chest. At Camp Hill Hospital, where the operation was performed, the veteran said: "You know, I almost feel lonesome for that thing."

At least it did not permit him to forget 1914-18 and what so many of his fellow Canadians endured in that contest.

But a lot of people do, says the Halifax Chronicle-Herald. The veterans of the First World War are the forgotten men of this country. Why, there is even a disposition, in some quarters, to rule them out as "war veterans" altogether—"war veterans," that is, within the meaning of certain regulations which have grown out of the Second World War.

Never in the history of this Dominion was there a more uncomplaining group of Canadians. They have carried on, very largely on their own, asking little, receiving little. Most of them had a few months' gratuity and a microscopic clothing allowance. And while there are still a lot of them left in this land, they have drawn back into the shadows—members of a lost generation who suffered and sacrificed before myriads now living were born.

THIS CIVILIZED AGE

Ever so often we find ourselves thinking about how old we're getting. We look back—and it seems ages ago—to the days when the top of every flagpole was tenanted, marathon dancers grew bunions and men went over Niagara Falls in barrels.

Never again, said we, will we see such silly days. We're growing up.

Well, here we are 20 years later. In just the past few weeks a man tried to go over the falls in a barrel; a soldier made 123 parachute jumps in one day. There are a few scattered flagpole sitters and one young fellow is living in a glass-topped steel tank under water—if you can call that living.

And the newest thing in this same age comes from a 38-year-old deep sea diver. He went to take a 14-mile walk under water—a 20-hour jaunt.

We should all be glad we're not living in those foolish days almost a quarter of a century ago. People surely did silly things then, didn't they?

CHEAP AT THE PRICE

Administrators of the Marshall Plan announce that they had spent $9.5 billion by the end of June, 1950. Even in these days when billions are spent as millions used to be, these are big figures. History knows no parallel to the United States' gifts of money to foreign states (thought it is gratifying to remember that, in proportion to its means, Canada has contributed as much as its great neighbor, or a little more, to the cause of world recovery).

The money given by the people of the United States to Europe did not come out of thin air. It came out of the people's pockets in taxes. The New York Times calculates that the Marshall Plan, up to this midsummer, had taken an average of $63.50 from every man, woman and child in the United States, or perhaps about $500 for every tax-paying family. In the last year the cost per capita was $23.20.

This, as the Times says, is not a vast amount when it is reduced to individual contributions. The average United States citizen will hardly miss $2 a month. What, the Times asks, has the United States bought with its money?

To begin with, it has bought the almost unbelievable economic recovery of western Europe which now is producing 20 per cent more than it produced before the war. Without United States foodstuffs to feed it in the lean postwar years and then without United States machinery to re-equip it, western Europe would have been hungry and in chaos by this time and its production undoubtedly would still be far below the pre-war volume.

Since economic stability in Europe is essential to United States prosperity and since political stability there is essential to its security, the Marshall Plan so far may be considered one of the best bargains on record. The results of the Plan have been cheaply bought. The same may be said of our Canadian contributions to Britain and Europe.

The biggest result, however, cannot be measured in dollars and cents. Industrial production and living standards are no gauge of Europe's spiritual recovery. A continent conquered, prostrate and on the verge of anarchy has been given by the Marshall Plan the chance to realize and to realize its inner strength. On its results to date the Plan, on the part of the giver and the receiver, must be judged one of man's supreme political achievements.

CALGARY TO HOLLYWOOD

Calgary Albertan

American engineers are giving serious study to the possibility of diverting water from the Columbia River to Southern California and adjacent desert regions, and say that the scheme is considered physically possible. Of course, it is still only a dream, but the United States has a curious habit of making dreams come true. The U.S. economy is not stagnating. The country is growing and expanding as rapidly as ever before. Water is the chief bottleneck in the southwestern states, and the redirection of rivers may remove the bottleneck.

This is of interest to Canada, for most of the water in the Columbia River comes from Canada. The whole of Eastern British Columbia feeds that river. Water drained from the mountains within 50 miles of Calgary might be used to sprinkle the lawns in Hollywood.

WHEN THE TIDE OF WAR TURNS

Toronto Star

In the opinion of Senator Taft, a prominent contender for the next Republican presidential nomination, the United Nations forces in Korea should not stop at the North Korean boundary, but occupy most of the territories of the northern republic. He concedes it might be better not to occupy the northeastern corner of Korea because the Soviet Union might consider that area, only 50 miles from Vladivostok, vital to her national security and its seizure a provocation.

It is most desirable that the Korean peninsula should be brought under one government and that the peoples of North and South Korea should be politically united. Whether unity could be achieved without a prolonged use of force is doubtful because of sharp differences in ideology and administration.

Military considerations in the hour of victory may have much to do with determining the question whether United Nations forces shall cross the 38th parallel. International developments in other parts of the world also could influence the decision.

WANNA BUY A TOWN?

Christian Science Monitor

A storekeeper in New Mexico is offering a town for sale. It includes a hotel, theatre building and several store buildings. It is the town of Mogollon, once a thriving mining community of 3,000 inhabitants, but now down to a population of five.

A few weeks ago it was reported that Burl Ives, popular and prosperous ballad singer, was looking for a town to buy. Whether he would be interested in Mogollon may be doubted. In any event, he attached to his offer a condition that the town be purchased must be willing to have its name changed to Ivestown.

There is also a syndicate with headquarters in Moscow which has shown great interest in international real estate lately. Any sellers to it should be warned, however, that payment probably would be made in rubles, possibly in bullets, and that not only the name but the character of the community would be changed completely.

THERE ARE SERMONS IN STONES

When your car is purring along the good road enticing you to or from the ancient city of Quebec there are many scenes of rural beauty, of industries that use the waters of the St. Francis river, farmlands that speak well for their owners, and landmarks that tell you of events gone by, but not forgotten. When motoring between Maribon and Bishopton you will come to a place where five roads converge, in a quiet stretch of country over which passes Highway No. 1. By the side of the road where all may see—if they look—stands an imposing granite monument that marks a historic spot and gives you a friendly message from the past. It will be quite right to touch your hat as you pass by.

This landmark that has stood in its silent dignity for fifty years marks a historic part of Dunsford Township for it is where in the spring of 1800 Captain John Bishop, military pioneer of Dunsford, began the work of clearing forested land and building of a Township ten miles square that stands high among the townships of this Province, both in beauty and wealth. One hundred and fifty years ago there were woods and water, rolling lands of great promise to men who wanted to lay aside the musket and use the axe to build homes for themselves and for those who would come after them. Those were "the days of wooden ships and iron men" who left their mark on the annals of Time, leaving for us a noble heritage.

The story of Captain John Bishop, military pioneer and his Associates, who came from across the border to a certain part of Wolfe County in 1800, is well known and duly remembered. At the end of the century 1800-1900 the people of Dunsford decided to commemorate the historic date, an event of great moment to those who were in a large part direct descendants of the men and women who came and conquered, then of today, that the willow tree must meet the fate of many others—it must be cut down to leave the way clear for the iron monsters that "burn up our roads" in daily traffic.

While the tree lay in its fallen glory a loyal daughter of Maribon, a descendant of John Bishop, went to the tree and cut off a few branches, carried them home and carefully planted a healthy branch; kept it in the cellar during the first winter, then planted it in her garden where it is today a true scion of the Bishop tree. Of such is loyalty made.

The Bishop crest bears the motto: Pro deo et ecclesia—For God and High Worship; the Bishop Pioneer monument stands today and will stand tomorrow as a symbol of loyalty to country and hope in the future. Yes, there are sermons in stones.

PLAYING WINS PRAISE; BIDDING RATES PITY

"Perhaps North should have been playing this hand at three-no-trump," suggests a Los Angeles correspondent. "Three no-trump would have been a very easy contract to fulfill, since North-South had five clubs, two diamonds, and two hearts. At best, the defenders could take four spade tricks—and they might not even get those."

"As it happened, however, South played the hand at four hearts. Was this bad bidding?"

"When the hand was actually played, West opened the jack of diamonds. Declarer won the dummy's ace of diamonds, and led the king of hearts, allowing it to ride for a finesse. West won with the queen of hearts and thought long and deeply about his next play."

"He could see that the defense was unlikely to win any club tricks or any further hearts. His partner had played the defence of diamonds on the first trick, so there seemed little chance to win a diamond trick. It was apparent that the defense depended on taking three spade tricks."

"West realized that this was impossible unless his partner had the ace of spades. Any method of playing the spades would probably work if East also had the ten of spades. Great care was necessary, however, if South had the ten of spades."

"To guard against this possibility, West led the jack of spades. This fixed the declarer. If he played low, the jack would hold the trick, and then the ace and king of spades would defeat the contract. If he covered with dummy's queen of spades, East would win with the ace, and then a spade return would allow West to take two tricks with the K-Q."

"We'd like to have your comment on the bidding and on West's excellent defense."

The Record Short Story

Three's A Crowd

By IDA WILLIAMS

The dream of every child in the institution was coming true for 12-year-old Pat Mason. After three long years, she was going home. In the stuffy furnished reception hall she waited, sitting very straight in a high-backed, old oak chair, her new suitcase on the floor beside her. If only she could go home to Mother alone, without the new stepfather. If only she would meet today for the first time, and if she didn't have to leave Joe, everything would be perfect.

Joe was one of the few orphans.

Must of the children, like Pat, had been placed in the home between marriages. There they waited for parents to be divorced, waited for the stepfather to be chosen. But Joe waited for no one. He had never had a visitor. He had never been away from the home on the monthly day out permitted each child with someone who cared to take him.

Pat had discovered Joe the first afternoon she had been assigned to the nursery to help with the babies. The nurse had explained that he was recovering from pneumonia. One of Pat's duties would be to keep him outdoors every day for at least an hour later than the other children.

In the middle of the nursery floor he sat, bundled into a heavy brown coat that was much too large for his tiny 5-year-old body. A shapless black knitted cap hung awkwardly about his ears.

As Pat came toward him he peered up at her, and the frightened, lost look in his deep gray eyes went straight to her heart. Then slowly, during the weeks that followed, they had become acquainted. Joe was a shy little boy, but his silent adoration had been more than enough for Pat.

And now she was leaving him. What would he do without her? There was no one else in all the world who cared anything about him. And the thought of him watching the nursery door every day for a Pat who would never come—was unbearable.

She must not think about it. With fingers grown suddenly damp, she smoothed the folds of her bright new plaid dress, then straightened her hat. After all, she was going home.

She leaned forward and looked at the big clock ticking away at the end of the hall. Mother was late, which was not unusual. But this time Pat found it hard not to blame her new stepfather. Mr. Davis—Mr. Jack—Daddy Davis. The last was clearly impossible. I'll call him Mr. Davis. Her mouth twisted. He and mother will have their own private world anyway. I'll be shut out. I'll be just the third party. But he'll never think as much of her as I do. How can he? He hasn't known her very long, and I've known her all my life.

Suddenly the big front door opened and there was Mother, all smiles—a little bit veiled, but perched impudently on her fluffy blond head. Beside her was a chunky, round-faced young man who advanced toward Pat with his hand outstretched.

"Hello, Pat, I'm not going to say Patricia. How about that?"

Pat rose to her feet and said shyly, "It's nice to see you, Mr. Davis." Then Mother kissed Pat's cheek and said, "We're a little late baby—got tied up in traffic." And Pat, trying to keep the excitement out of her voice, asked, "Oh Mother, do you have a car?"

"Just wait until you see it, baby—and just wait until you see what else."

"Quiet!" Mr. Davis interrupted. "Don't spoil the surprise, silly."

His dark eyes seemed to contain a secret laughter.

Pat shivered. It's going to be just as I thought. Two is company.

"You're all wrong, Patricia. I understand better than you think. I happen to be one myself."

"Oh no!" Pat gasped incredulously.

Mr. Davis laughed. "Oh yes! Believe it or not, I was once as underweight and helpless looking as you, little friend. It's a funny old world, Pat. It just goes to show that you can never tell."

"You can never tell," Pat repeated happily. She reached for Mother's hand and smiled at her new father. All at once she knew that she wasn't an intruder—an unwanted third party. There wasn't a crowd, after all. Three was a family—a home. And everything was going to be all right.

good players would find themselves in the inferior contract of four hearts rather than in the unbeatable three no-trump. This is not necessarily an indication of poor bidding. After all, if East happened to hold five spades to the A-J or the K-J, a spade lead would set three no-trump, whereas it might be difficult to set four hearts.

Although West's defense was both imaginative and sound, I cannot say as much for the way South played the contract.

South should not have taken the finesse in trumps. On winning the first trick, he should have laid down the ace and king of hearts. If the queen dropped, he would make his contract. When it did not drop, he could then begin the clubs, hoping to find three or more clubs in the hand that held the queen of hearts.

As it happened, this would have been the case. West would have been obliged to follow on three rounds of clubs. Dummy would thereupon lead a fourth club, on which South could discard a spade. West could ruff and the defenders could then take two spades, but the contract would be made.

The bearers were Messrs. Allen Gillespie, Robert Rowe, Duncan Ward, George Rowley and Alfred Rowland.

During the service the hymns, "Lead Kindly Light," "Abide With Me" and "O God Our Help In Ages Past," were sung by the choir.

Mr. Mills was the son of the late Isaac B. Mills and his wife, Catherine Mills, nee Embury. Both sides of his family were pioneers in Westbury, where they settled over one hundred years ago.

Mr. Mills was born on March 19, 1887. He was educated at the East Angus High School and the University of Bishop's College, Lennoxville. His truthfulness, courage and unselfishness will long be remembered by those who knew him.

The beautiful floral tributes and very largely attended funeral testified to the esteem in which he was held.

Mr. Mills is survived by his sisters, Miss Mabel Mills, of Montreal; and Anna, wife of Dr. J. R. C. A. of East Angus; his brother-in-law, Dr. J. R. C. A. of East Angus; and several cousins.

MRS. MELVIN H. MARTIN OF BALDWIN MILLS
Baldwin Mills, Aug. 4. — It was with deep sorrow that the friends and neighbors learned of the death of Mrs. Melvin Martin, which occurred at the Sherbrooke Hospital on July 11.

Mrs. Martin was born at South Barnston, October 23, 1875, daughter of the late Orvis and Judith (Belknap) Aldrich. She married Melvin H. Martin, of Eastman, who died May 26, 1933.

The funeral was held at L. O. Cass Funeral Home, Rock Island, Tuesday afternoon, July 13, the services being conducted by Rev. McKinley Rose.

The beautiful floral tributes and messages of sympathy received by the family all testified to the high esteem in which the deceased was held. She had a kind and genial disposition, being a friend to all. Left to mourn the loss of a kind and loving sister is one sister, Mrs. I. A. Blake; two brothers, Clarence and Roy Aldrich, of South Barnston; one sister-in-law, Mrs. Ada Danforth, of Stanstead; four nieces, Mrs. Lawrence Winter, nee Christina Nichols, of Stanstead; Misses Martha, Dorcas and Ardy Aldrich; one nephew, Orvis Aldrich.

The burial was in Heathton Cemetery beside her late husband. The bearers were Messrs. Harold Baldwin, Robert and Fred Markwick, and Seth Blake, all of Baldwin Mills.

Heavy Fighting

The North Koreans have four divisions on or possibly going to the southern front. Against them are the American 25th and possibly elements of the Marines, 2nd Infantry and the 5th regimental combat team from Hawaii.

Contact was maintained on all sectors of the 125-mile front. U. S. naval warcraft shelled Red troops 10 miles north of Yongdok on the east coast, 80 miles north of Pusan. Towns hit by naval shells there were Chongkandong, 10 miles north of Yongdok, Yangyang and Chumungin, which is near the 38th parallel.

On the Korean west coast, an Allied war vessel knocked out a gun emplacement on the Onjin peninsula, northwest of Seoul, the long-lost South Korean capital. The warship was not identified. Air sweeps knocked out 12 enemy locomotives and damaged seven.

Fighters and bombers hit the southwestern naval base of Mokpo with small vessels as the targets. Docks and rail yards at Yosun and Cunchon, in the deep south, were bombed and strafed.

Air reconnaissance said the Reds were building up strength in the Taejon area, 90 miles northeast of Chingju. These reserve troops could be rushed to the Woungbu sector or shifted to the Taegu front.

In the early stages of the southern battle, the Americans jabbed sharply into the communists, disorganizing efforts to mount a full-scale offensive. Blows were traded on other sectors of the front. An American regimental combat team beat back a small Red attack at Pongnam, 18 miles east of Chingju and eight south of Woungbu. This was their nearest approach Friday to Pusan.

South Korean troops near the Hamchang-Andong front skirmished with the Reds. A spokesman at Gen. MacArthur's headquarters said the situation was now "shifting from the defensive to the offensive" for United Nations forces.

The Doctor Says:

HEARING TESTS SHOULD BE GIVEN TO SCHOOL CHILDREN EVERY YEAR

By Edwin P. Jordan, M.D.

About 8,000,000 children in the United States alone are believed to have defective hearing. Perhaps 2,000,000 of them are so deaf that they will have serious difficulty in becoming properly educated. The sad thing about this situation is that much of this deafness could have been prevented and the difficulty which results from it would have been greatly lessened if diagnosis had been made early and proper treatment started promptly.

Most of the trouble is the fault of the parents. Usually a youngster who has impaired hearing does not even know of the difficulty and certainly is in no position to do anything about it. It is true that school examinations frequently reveal the trouble and it is called to the attention of the parents. That is all that the school can do, and it is then up to the parents to take steps, which all too often they fail to do.

Defective hearing in children has many unfortunate effects. A slightly deaf child can never make as good progress in school as the one with good hearing—he or she loses too much of what the teacher says.

Nearly everyone knows too that one learns to speak by hearing and imitating. Therefore, the deaf child will not speak as well as the one with good hearing. Most important of all perhaps is the effect on the personality of the youngster. Children are almost always quite sensitive and if they cannot hear what their playmates say and are made fun of because they do not react quickly or do not speak well, they become more and more shy. This can distort the entire course of the youngster's life.

Because of the large number of youngsters with hearing defects, many of them unknown and untreated, it would be well if each child in school could have a hearing test every year. It is estimated, for example, that if medical treatment is given in time, half of those with hearing defects could be saved from later deafness.

Other Aids
For those children whose hearing cannot be successfully restored or preserved, other help is available. The use of hearing aids properly fitted is of great value. Most children can be taught lip reading, and by proper training the deficiencies of speech which so often accompany deafness can be cured early.

Parents need not fear that their children will be labeled as unusual if they need and use a hearing aid. Certainly this is a lot better than not hearing what goes on around

APPLE SALESMAN IS MONCTON HERO AFTER DARING RESCUE

Kenneth Morton, of Berwick, N.S., saves two tots from burning home with help of chum Lester Rawding

1. Representing the Nova Scotia Apple Marketing Board, Kenneth Morton and Lester Rawding were delivering fruit in Moncton, N.B. While driving down Lefurgey Avenue in their truck, the two men noticed smoke pouring from a wooden, cottage-style house. Flames had begun to lick at the roof by the time the men had leaped from their truck.

3. Taking the little girl in his arms, he quickly carried her to the window, passing her out to Rawding. Then, he repeated the action with the 3-year-old boy. Satisfied finally that no one else was inside, he leaped through the now blazing window to safety. To Kenneth Morton, who saved two precious lives, we are proud to present The Dow Award.

2. Learning that two children were trapped in the blazing home, Morton lost no time. Breaking in through a window, he stumbled through the smoke-filled interior. Naturally unfamiliar with the layout of the house, he had to search room after room, unable even to take a breath, until he found the two children, moaning, almost suffocated, on a bed.

THE DOW AWARD is a citation presented for acts of outstanding heroism and includes, as a tangible expression of appreciation, a $100 Canada Savings Bond. The Dow Award Committee, a group of editors of leading Canadian daily newspapers, selects Award winners from recommendations made by a nationally known news organization.

Mature Men, Women Make Happiest Marriages

In a scientific study of marriage it has been found that middle-aged marriages are happier than those contracted earlier in life. This indicates that intelligence goes farther than romance in making marriage a success.

This conclusion is amply borne out by the fact that it is a matter of common observation that, taking them by and large, widows and widowers make the best wives and husbands, and that second marriages rarely end in the divorce court. This is true even of divorced people, for those who could not get along with their first mates seem able to get along with almost any sort of mate when they marry again.

Of course, there is a glamour about young love that elderly affection never possesses. Twenty is the time for circling wings and star dust and the chanting of the angel choir that forty never sees or hears; but it is also the time of awakening from a dope dream, the time of mud-slinging and bitter vituperation, and if the old do not get the kick out of marriage that the young do, they also escape many of its bruises.

ELIMINATE RISKS

There are many reasons why late marriages should be, as a rule, happier than young ones. The first is, of course, that it eliminates many of the risks of marriage.

The boy and girl who get married take a double chance on their marriages being successes. They not only do not know what the children they are marrying are going to turn into when they are grown up, but they have not the faintest idea of what they are going to be themselves.

The mature man and woman do not thus leave their fate on the knees of the gods when they marry. Their tastes and habits are formed. Their characters settled. And when they choose their mates, they are almost sure to pick out someone who has the qualities they desire, instead of trusting to luck that their husbands and wives will somehow, someday, turn into what they want them to be.

Then, too, those who marry later in life are ready for marriage. They have had their playtime and they are fed up with running around trying to amuse themselves, and they are ready to settle down by their own firesides. They have had their fill of flirtations and light love. All they want is the enduring love of the one man or the one woman on whom they have set their hearts.

It is those who have married too young who regard marriage as a prison and long for freedom; who complain of domestic life being dull; who regard their children as brats and resent the time and labor they have to bestow upon them, and who wreck their homes by their philandering. They are still children and they still want to play about, and in their games they only too often pull their houses down upon their heads.

YOUNG LACK DISCIPLINE

Mature people also bring the discipline of life to marriage, and that is something the youngsters lack. They have learned self-control. They have learned how to play fair, how to give and take. They have learned tact in handling situations, how to give the soft answer that turns away wrath, and how to put things in a way that will rob them of their unpleasantness.

We talk about the adaptability of youth. There is no such thing. All boys and girls are intolerant. Determined to have their own way. Nothing but time and experience teaches us to walk around a stone wall instead of trying to butt it down with our heads. When you see a middle-aged couple who are always quarrelling, it is the hangover from their early marriage when each was trying to make the other over according to his or her heart's desire, and when every word was the fighting word.

Those who have married late in life live in peace and harmony because they have learned how to adjust themselves to new people and new situations, and they know that their happiness depends upon their sidestepping each other's little peculiarities and handling each other with finesse.

The mature man and woman do not expect the impossible. They don't expect marriage to be an earthly paradise or for husbands and wives to be angels. Hence they are satisfied with a home that they have to build up with their labor, but that is a shelter where they are warm and safe and snug, and with husbands and wives who have a thousand faults, but who give them love and companionship and loyalty and fidelity.

When you don't rinse your Surf-clean wash, its astonishing purifying ingredient goes right on working in your clothes. (If you do want to rinse, add a little Surf to your rinse-water.)

All the Surf your grocer now has in his store is "no-rinse" Surf... specially developed—to save you hours of work and dollars in hot water and fuel bills.

"ORDINARY" CLEAN

Though you may think your wash is perfectly clean, a faint "mousy" odor often betrays the presence of dirt, grease or seum. Rinsing won't get rid of this... but Surf does.

SURF CLEAN

Even without rinsing, Surf removes every last trace of dirt, grease and seum... every trace of odor, too! That's why it gets your clothes so white, so bright... so sweet!

These permit the introduction of lovely colour in an area that focuses attention on the entrance-way and seems to add a welcoming note. The shutters that flank the front door are usually painted the same colour as other shutters on the house and, of course, blend with the colouring of the roof. Urges Law Changes To Curb Sex Crimes

Victoria, July 9.—Greater legal aid in police efforts to curb sex crimes has been recommended by the British Columbia section, Canadian Bar Association.

At the association's annual convention it was recommended that convicted sex offenders found loitering near children's playgrounds without reasonable excuse be open for conviction of vagrancy.

Under the criminal code, police cannot act against known offenders in suspicious circumstances unless "an overt act is made."

An amendment to the code would be necessary before the Bar Association recommendation could be adopted in police work.

Special criminal code legislation for "Peeping Toms" was also suggested.

A report of the criminal justice committee said: "Reports have reached the committee that this exciting but unpleasant practice is far from being uncommon."

The Supreme Court of Canada in a recent case ruled in effect that the "simple act of deliberate and stealthy peeping through windows, usually with an intent of enjoying an exotic pleasure . . . is not in itself forbidden or unlawful . . ."

Competition-Quality Mounts Are Being Raised By Local Horsemen

By FLORENCE McAULEY

Colts sired by My King of All are now beginning to take their place on the tanbark. Brought here from Alliance, Ohio, in 1946 by Dr. Gendreau, My King of All has an outstanding show record. Noted for his beautiful walk, rarely found in an American saddle-bred horse, My King of All has taken honours at some of the largest horse shows in the United States, including the Madison Square Gardens show. It has been said of this noted stallion, that during his show ring career he was not known to have been out of the ribbons in a five-gaited class, nor was he known to have been beaten in a fine harness class. Sold recently to Laval Dallaire of Sherbrooke, My King of All will stay in Sherbrooke to compete in the same show ring as some of his promising offspring.

Perhaps the most noted of the local "My King" colts is R. L. Bishop's three-year old chestnut-rose filly out of Trixie, My Queen of All. Making her show ring debut this season, My Queen shows great promise. Her initial appearance was at the Dufresne Park show and she scored top place at the Ormstown show later, where she won both Canadian Bred classes, Ladies Up and Open. Too, she took the most points of saddle horses in the show and placed third in Combination, a heavily competed class of imported Kentucky horses, placing ahead of some of the highest rankers in the ring. Record winnings for a youngster, she shows promise of what is in store when the other "My King" colts enter the show ring.

The oldest local colt sired by My King of All, and doubtless the biggest, is Johnny Cake, three-year old owned by Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Gravel. This bay jumper-type already stands over 16 hands, and is well matched with his two-year old sister, Minnie, a pair to watch in future shows.

Schooling and training of horses is a long, arduous task, requiring the utmost in patience, knowledge and good sense on the part of the trainer. The combination of good schooling, quality breeding and proper care places a colt well along the road to top tanbark-honours.

Charles Parkin of Lennoxville is training his beautiful three-year old filly, Star. A liver-chestnut out of Baby, she has already proved herself a winner in halter classes and will possibly make her initial show ring appearance later on this season. Other three-year olds by My King include those of Howard Nichol of Lennoxville and B. C. Howard of Sherbrooke.

The two-year olds are headed by E. W. Gilbey's Cavalade. Already well trained, this colt will probably be on entry lists for next season's competitions. Newport, Vt. claims a "My King" two-year old, property of Paul Rexford, as does Montreal, where P. G. Malone is the proud owner of a palomino stallion out of a palomino mare named MacIntyre, sold, as well as a yearling out of the same mare. Mr. Malone has refused offers to sell his stallion. Other two-year olds are those of Mr. and Mrs. T. Lizotte of Magog, Charles Pare of Martinville, Arthur Neron of Coaticook, Rene Jacques and B. C. Howard of Sherbrooke.

Most notable of the "My King" yearlings is a stallion out of Hallmark Highland Lady. The ancestry of the dam, an American saddle-bred mare imported from Indiana in 1948 by Dr. Gendreau, goes back to sire Moreland Peavine who is out of Blanchita by the nationally famous Bourbon King. A colt with outstanding lineage, this pure-bred registered stallion by My King of All was sold to Saint John, N.B., where it is planned he will be raised to sire for the eastern provinces.

gaining wide recognition for the breeding of palomino stallions. One of his yearling colts, out of a palomino mare and by My King of All was recently sold to Saint John, N.B. He has three new "My King" colts this season, two flashy palominos and a chestnut, all out of palomino mares.

Other yearlings include a chestnut, owned by G. Irwin of Waterloo, Que., as well as a two-months old colt, and a chestnut sold by Eric Schiller.

New colts this season, and future winners, include a chestnut filly out of Spats, owned by Mrs. G. B. Loomis; a hunter-type out of Fizz-Liz, thoroughbred owned by Miss Joyce Joslin; a chestnut that promises much action, out of a hackney mare owned by George Duff of Massawippi; and a saddle-type out of a Standard-bred mare owned by W. G. McLeod of Thetford Mines. The loss of the twin colts, out of Roxy owned by Dr. Jacques of Richmond, was unfortunate.

And so the breeding of these newcomers, which inherit many traits from their famous sire, opens up a whole new sphere of competition and brings into the horse show picture top-quality colts, bred here in Sherbrooke, to win acclaim for our local horsemen as breeders and raisers of fine mounts as well as trainers and equestrians.

Noted Hunter's Colts Raised In Townships

Realizing the need for more hunter-types in the Townships, Ferdinand Stegmair of Sherbrooke imported the thoroughbred stallion Thim-O-Shank a year-and-a-half ago.

A Class "A" stallion by Milkman, the leading sire of steeplechase winners, Thim-O-Shank was foaled in 1940, out of Moving Star, and is a heavily-boned mount reaching 16.1 hands, duly registered with The Jockey Club and highly recommended by the Department of Agriculture of Quebec.

Bred by Mrs. W. P. Stewart of Unionville, Pennsylvania in 1940, Thim-O-Shank has all the attributes necessary for a first-rate hunter. His conformation is excellent, with an intelligent head and good eyes. He has a long well shaped neck with sloping shoulders and a deep broad chest, and he is of strong build with well-spread ribs.

Although a hunter may be any breed, very often, and especially in the case of show hunters, both parents are thoroughbreds. In Canada, however, many hunters are a cross between a draft and a thoroughbred, in which size and strength are contributed by the draft horse and refinement and stamina by the thoroughbred. In fact, the basis of a line of good hunters might possibly be a Cyldestale mare.

Famous steeplechase sons of Milkman, noted sire of the stallion Thim-O-Shank, include such victors as Homoginette, Lech Hombre and Galactic, as well as Raylwyn, winner of the Bushwick Hurdle, Brook, Shilleah and Butler Steeplechase Handicaps. Too, the sire of Thim-O-Shank has been a successful sire of flat racers as well as of steeplechasers, with his offspring earning $1,522,582 in 760 level course races during 1948.

Milkman's ancestry goes back to such notable mounts as Broomstick, Peep O'Day and Bend Or, while the famous Domino is in the lineage of Moving Star, mother of the Thim-O-Shank stallion.

Already a proven sire of outstanding colts, Thim-O-Shank's offspring in the Sherbrooke district include two colts owned by E. W. Gilbey of Lennoxville, two owned by Charles Parkin of Lennoxville, three owned by Hillcrest Lodge, North Hatley and one owned by Miss Eileen Beit Von Speyer of Mississippi, all of which are being trained to take part in near-future hunts and hunt shows.

Drummondville

Three persons were injured, two critically, in an automobile collision that occurred, Tuesday noon, between the cross-roads of St. Laurier Blvd., and the Yamaska Highway, one mile from St. Germain. Mr. Roger Doyle, a resident of Montreal, was returning home, when his car was struck by an automobile, driven by Mr. Adolphe Manseau, presumably due to poor visibility and to a heavy down pour of rain at the time. Mr. Manseau failed to note the stop signal. Mr. Roger Doyle and his ten year old daughter, Lisette, and his sister-in-law, Mrs. Levesque, were rushed to the St. Croix Hospital by ambulance, suffering from internal fractures and deep lacerations caused by the impact, and they are still in a very critical condition. Constable Paul Martel, who made the investigations at the time of the accident, places damages to both vehicles at a little over $2,000.

Mr. Henri Lapointe, of Drummondville, suffered a fracture of the right leg and other minor injuries, while riding his motorcycle on the St. Laurier Blvd., last Saturday afternoon, around 2:30 p.m. At the time of the accident, Mr. Lapointe was proceeding to pass an automobile directly in front, when he suddenly lost control of his machine and was thrown from the saddle. He was taken to the St. Croix Hospital, and received first-aid from a medical doctor, who happened to be passing at the time of the mishap. Officer Paul Martel made the investigations.

On Friday afternoon, Yvon Pelletier, infant son of Mr. Octave Pelletier, of Vassel Street, was struck by a car driven by Mr. Georges Paradis, of Celinee Road, the accident occurred a little above Hemming's Falls. The infant was immediately taken to the St. Croix Hospital, suffering only minor cuts and shock.

Mr. Thomas Wingle, a resident of St. Germain, and an employee of Canadian Celanese Ltd., suffered a fracture of the left arm in an program will be licensed by the Canadian Horse Shows Association.

For the first time in local field days, championship and reserve championship ribbons will be up for competition. Five in all, these will include pony, hackney, saddle, hunter and jumping championships, and will add points toward a grand championship to be awarded at the end of the season. Mike W. Minogue, well-known Montreal horseman, will judge Sunday's show, and ringmasters will be E. W. Gilbey and Eddie Smith of Lennoxville.

accident, Friday morning, while proceeding to work, riding his motor-cycle, striking the rear of a truck, which he failed to notice backing out from a private driveway.

Mr. Roland Groulx, of 157 St. Jean Street, was the victim of an accident, that might have been fatal, when the lights of his motorcycle suddenly went out in the vicinity of St. Hyacinthe, while in the process of passing an automobile coming in the opposite direction. Mr. Groulx had the presence of mind, however, to swerve off the high-way in the nick of time and after regaining his composure, managed to reach a restaurant, a block or two away, in order to get medical attention. He was taken immediately to St. Charles' Hospital, where he was treated for minor cuts and bruises and suffering from shock.

Claire Thibault, 18 months old infant daughter, of Mr. and Mrs. Gratien Thibault, of St. Celestin, was crushed to death under the wheels of a delivery truck belonging to Mr. Aime Lamothe, the child's grandfather, driven by her uncle, Guy Lamothe. Our deepest sympathy is extended to the sorrowing family by the sad fatality.

Edgar Lessard, aged 7 years, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerard Lessard, also of St. Celestin, had three fingers badly mangled last week, while playing with a machine in his father's work-shop. His fingers got caught between one of the gear wheels. He was immediately rushed to the St. Croix Hospital for surgical attention. His present condition continues to be favourable.

Messrs. J. O. Archambault, Emile Genereaux and Octave Ally, in charge of the valuation for Drummondville, are in process of drawing up the revised valuation roll for the coming term. They are being assisted in this work by Mr. Marcel Marier, city-clerk, and expect to submit the complete roll by late September.

Mr. Henri S. Sauvage has been re-elected president of the School Commission of St. Germain, for his 16th consecutive term. The following are the names of the other trustees: Messrs. Frederic Talbot, Adelard Gendron, Ernest Lagace and Alphonse Houle.

At St. Eugene de Grantham, Mr. Lacouture has been appointed school trustee for his second term of office. With Mr. Adelard Ronreau for a first term succeeding Mr. Amedee Landry, of the local School Commission.

It has been reported that further building expansion plans are being drawn up by Mr. Paul Labranche, city architect, for an additional storey to be constructed on the plant of the Holtite Rubber Coy., situated on Lindsay Street.

Also, the outer wall of the old building, which has caused dangerous hazards during the winter, during a thaw, to pedestrians, on account of the narrow side, near this section, is to be pulled down and rebuilt to a few feet further back. This wall has been an eye sore to civic authorities for many years and both company officials and the city fathers are to be congratulated on reaching an agreement.

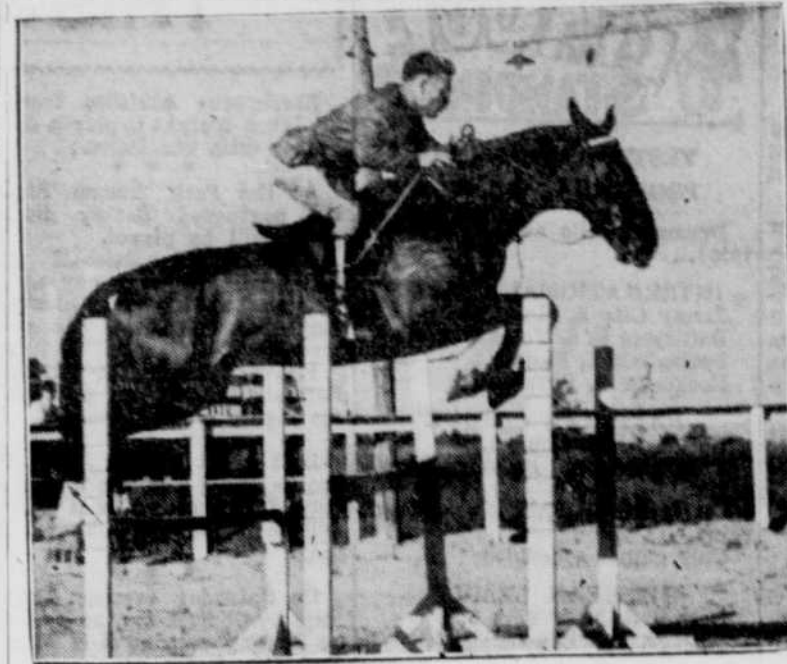

Canadian Celanese is understood to be drawing up plans for the construction of a new warehouse, work on which, will be started at the earliest possible date.

Waterloo Kiwanis Club Held An Open Meeting When New Plans Were Slated

Waterloo, Aug. 4. — The Kiwanis Club of Waterloo held its weekly meeting on Tuesday at the Canada Hotel with a fair number of members on hand. It was an open meeting and President Mike Cardinal was in the chair.

Next week is to be a big inter-club meeting with St. Georges Club of Montreal, Granby and Sherbrooke joining the Waterloo group at home, in what should be a most interesting affair. President Jack Wilson, of St. Georges, will deliver the address which will be a first hand report of the recent Kiwanis International meeting held at Miami, Fla. It is hoped that there will be a very large attendance to enjoy this inter-club get together.

President Mike announced that Granby Kiwanians had accepted the challenge of the Waterloo club to a home and home series of softball. Only members are eligible and when these two teams clash, some excitement can well be expected. The dates are not yet definitely set, but they will be well announced, and all proceeds will go toward the work of both Kiwanis clubs.

The booth at the Fair is well planned this year, and it is expected that it will again be well patronized with its home cooking. This is one of the big money raisers for the club, and enables the Kiwanians to furnish free milk to the needy children in the Waterloo schools during the winter months.

It was also announced that on August 10th, the members and their wives would again take in another Brue Manor play, at Knowlton. The last one met with tremendous success, and it was by demand that Program chairman Moe Katz arranged for this repeat performance.

GRADE XI PASS LIST
Special congratulations are due the students of Grade Eleven in the Waterloo High School as well as to the Principal, Mr. O. T. Pickford, who had eight of his ten students pass this year.

Following is the list of successful students: Ruth Adam, 3; John Grenier, 2; Joy Hackwell, 3; Mary MacIntosh, 3; Joyce Maynes, 2; Roy Parkes, 3; Sally Stoddard, 3; and Ernest Tetreault, 3.

Mr. Pickford has continued for the third time in succession to get his students through the final year at school, and although the pupils must do considerable work on their own to be successful, a great deal depends on the work of the principal. The citizens of Waterloo may well be proud of their school, their principal and their students.

INTER-CITY TENNIS TOURNAMENT

In the inter-city tennis tournament being run now in this district, the team from Waterloo consisting of a new warehouse, work on which, will be started at the earliest possible date.

camp, giving valuable assistance to the instructors.

Classes in swimming, first aid, knot tying and camp-craft were taught by the Camp director and Miss Vera Matthews, of Oshawa Missionary College.

On Wednesday, a group visited the plant of the Mack Molding Ltd., in Waterloo, and the campers greatly appreciated this interesting and informative trip, and saw much about plastics that they never knew before.

The camp site is situated on the banks of the center branch of the Yamaska River, west of Fulford. A large even meadow provided an excellent sports ground, and a frame building 30 x 60 provided dining and assembly hall. The campers lived in tents.

It was announced that next year the camp will operate for a longer period, and plans are being laid to increase the enrollment. Possibly a period for Senior Youth may be held at the close of the Junior session.

TIGERS MAKE CLEAN SWEEP OF SERIES WITH YANKEES

Houtteman Tosses Six-Hitter As Team Wins 5-2; Indians Challenge

Give Detroit a few more invalids like Art Houtteman and you can buy your World Series tickets for Briggs Stadium.

Houtteman, forced to pass up his regular turn because of a strained side muscle, did a six-hit job on the challenging Yankees yesterday, 5-2. When Art got through for his 13th victory, New York was challenging for second place, not first. And Detroit's league lead measured 2½ games.

Earlier this week, they said Tiger pitchers were weary and overworked. The well-rested Yankee staff, never used on relief, was ready to take over. Detroit led by one-half game, going into a three-game series.

When Tommy Byrne, usually a Tiger killer, was beaten by Dizzy Trout Tuesday night, the Yankee drive was delayed. When Hal White shut out New York with two hits Thursday, it was delayed some more. Now, after Houtteman's comeback, the Yankee boom is all but dead. Cleveland, moving into second place while idle, is the new threat.

With New York running smack into onrushing Cleveland in a three-game wrestle for second place starting tonight, Detroit has a chance to pull away against Washington.

Detroit is in fine shape after its series sweep from the Yankees. Four runs in the first inning tucked the game away for the Tigers. Ed Lopat, shooting for his 14th victory, got only one man out. He gave up four runs on three hits, a walk and his own error. Fine relief work by Fred Sanford and a passing fair job by Joe Page were too late.

Johnny Mize's 12th homer, following a walk to Hank Bauer, provided the only Yankee scores in the fourth inning.

The only other action in the American League had little to do with the pennant race as sixth-place Chicago shut out seventh-place Philadelphia 1-0. Randy Gumpert blanked the A's with only four singles.

The four other clubs in the American League were not scheduled.

Rain slashed the National League schedule, washing out a Pittsburgh-Brooklyn day game and a Cincinnati-Philadelphia night game. As Chicago and New York were not scheduled, that left only St. Louis and Boston.

Vern Bickford, the Braves' brilliant right-hander, came up with his second straight four-hitter and 13th victory with a 5-1 triumph over the Cardinals. The triumph boosted the Braves into second place in front of the idle Brooklyn Dodgers and three games back of the leading Phillies.

Bickford retired ten men in a row until Red Schoendienst hit a homer in the fourth. Bob Elliott evened the score with his 17th homer in the home half of the inning. Boston went out front in the fifth, and added two more on Sam Jethroe's 11th homer with a man on in the sixth. Walker Cooper evened the day's scoring with his 11th homer in the seventh. All the homers came off Al Brazie, suffering his fifth loss.

Marlboro Not To Have Night Racing

Baltimore, Aug. 4. —(P)—The state racing commission last night gave a firm "no" to the half-mile Marlboro track's request to hold its 10-day meeting next month under the lights.

The commission did not elaborate on the bare announcement.

The attendance generally has been on the decline at the five Maryland half-mile circuits, and Marlboro officials wanted to see if night flat racing would draw the big crowds the state's four harness tracks are packing in.

Sherbrooke Athletics travel to St. Johns tonight to play a double-header with the Braves.

At the Park Avenue Stadium the postponed Donkey Baseball game will be played.

The Donkey Baseball game, which will get underway at 8:30, is expected to give plenty of laughs and thrills to the spectators.

Players from the Industrial Softball League will perform on the highly trained donkeys.

Last night the St. Johns-Sherbrooke game was rained out. Jacques Joneau and Jean Bournet will toss for the A's this evening.

On Saturday evening Armando Roche will hurl for the A's while on Sunday evening it is expected that the locals top hurler, Lou Shapiro, will see action.

This Saturday the scheduled base-running contest between the top runners from the Sherbrooke and St. Johns teams has been cancelled. St. Johns players do not want to take the risk of being injured in the event.

The top golfers in the district are expected to travel out to Granby tomorrow for the E. T. field day. The nine-hole course reported to be in good condition according to Don Doe, who is expected to be the man to beat in the tourney.

Part of the proceeds from tonight's donkey baseball game will be given to the Kiwanis Club. A large number is expected for the event, scheduled for 8:30—weather permitting.

Victor Pellet Power, the nineteen-year-old Drummondville Cub, has been signed by the New York Yankees. The Yanks paid $7,000 for his contract and he will report next season.

GOOD PROSPECTS FOR DUCK HUNTERS

Reassuring indications, such as to conditions of Atlantic Flyway waterfowl and as to prospects for the 1950 duck and goose hunting seasons featured the migratory bird meeting held Wednesday evening under the auspices of the Quebec Federation of Fish and Game Associations. Delegates from all parts of the province made up a group which overhauled the accommodation which had been provided at the Mount Royal Hotel. Present to give brief outlines of the duck situation and to answer questions appertaining thereto were Dr. Harrison F. Lewis, Chief of the Dominion Wildlife Service, and Charles Fremont, K.C., General Superintendent of Game and Fish-chairmanship of P. F. Osler, chairman of Federation's Migratory season in that section, September 14 having been the opening date suggested.

One Wood Duck Per Day Asked

Another resolution suggested the permissible inclusion of one wood duck in a day's bag. This was away of any wood duck shot by mistake for another. Such a rule obtains in Ontario and in most of the States, and it seems unlikely that it will be disallowed here.

Still another resolution adopted was one to the effect that neither of the two larger species of mergansers shot in error need be included in a day's bag. There was some division of opinion on the menace constituted by these birds as predators, but the resolution carried and it seems likely to be implemented.

Flyway Basis for Regulations

More and more consideration is being given in the States to the basing of waterfowl regulations on the basis of flyway conditions. Mr. Osler urged similar consideration in Canada and Dr. Lewis was not unresponsive to the idea, although naturally there would be some complications. The Dominion Wildlife Service chief pointed out that people on a flyway where conditions warranted a longer season and a larger bag limit were happy in direct ratio to the unhappiness of those on a flyway where circumstances necessitated curtailment.

There does not seem any valid reason why hunters on the Atlantic flyway should be penalized because of drought in the prairies has reduced the number of birds using the Mississippi flyway. The breeding grounds which supply the Atlantic flyway are not subject to the extremes of climatic changes which so affect birds breeding in the prairies. Thus sharp changes in conditions reported by Ducks Unlimited and the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service and other agencies are seldom applicable to the Atlantic Flyway. Actually much less data is available on the Atlantic Flyway, particularly as to breeding conditions than in the case of either the Mississippi or Pacific routes. It would be a good thing if means could be found for the obtaining of more complete data so in the event of the flyway basis for regulations being adopted we, of the Atlantic flyway, could make a case for ourselves. New England and other Northeastern and Central Atlantic states sportsmen should be interested in such a project.

Birds Getting Used to Planes

In the matter of the taking of the waterfowl census, Mr. Fremont tentatively questioned the value of the airplane method of making this count. His observations lead him to the belief that waterfowl are becoming accustomed to aircraft just as the once-wild and skittish horses became accustomed to the automobile. He cited instances of where ground surveys had revealed the presence of many more waterfowl than had been scored up by planes in some areas.

A vote of thanks to Dr. Lewis and Mr. Fremont for their attendance and their helpfulness was heartily applauded.

Giants Beat Royals 5-4; Wings Win

Larry Claffore, Rochester Red Wings' catcher-outfielder, is making life miserable for International League pitchers and should earn a shot for a berth on the parent St. Louis Cardinals next spring.

Claffore helped the pace-setting Red Wings down Syracuse Chiefs last night 7-2. He batted out three hits including his ninth homer and drove in three runs.

Right-hander Eddie Yuhus went all the way for the Wings to post his 12th victory against five losses. Montreal's third-place Royals dropped five games off the pace by losing 5-4 to the fourth-place Jersey City Giants.

Red Hardy pitched his 10th victory for the Giants. He scattered nine hits including a homer by Tony Atwell.

Springfield Cubs downed Buffalo Bisons 5-2 scoring all of their runs in the seventh inning.

Baltimore's second-place Orioles remained 3½ games back of the Wings by edging Toronto Maple Leafs 6-5 in the first game of a doubleheader. The teams battled to a 6-6, 13-inning tie in the finale which was called to allow Baltimore to make train connections.

The Orioles overcame a 7-1 deficit to win the opener. Al Chiochi then blasted his 13th homer to win the game in the seventh and final inning.

Borowy scored twice in the ninth inning of the nightcap to take a 6-5 lead but Johnny Mayo homered in the Toronto half to send the game into overtime.

Leafs said they would protest the second game.

Manager Jack Sanford notified the umpires the game was being umpired under protest when plate umpire Bob Austin ruled that a ball hit over the fence by Toronto second baseman Bobby Phavn in the eighth inning was in foul territory.

Rhawn was eventually declared a strikeout victim when he failed to return to the batter's box when play resumed.

Three Top Boxing Bouts For September

New York, Aug. 4. —(P)—Looks like a busy fall season in the boxing business with three title bouts scheduled for September.

Sandwiched between the Willie Pep-Sandy Saddler scrap Sept. 8 for the featherweight crown, and Joe Louis' Sept. 27 comeback against Ezzard Charles, we'll probably have a middleweight championship fight.

Detroit and Montreal are interested in a Jake La Motta-Laurent Dauthuille bout for the 160-pound crown now that chances of matching La Motta with Ray Robinson this fall are dim.

Robinson has a date Wednesday in Jersey City to risk his welter crown against Charlie Fusari.

Then he has a once-postponed scrap with Jose Basora at Scranton, Pa., probably Aug. 23. That doesn't leave him much time for La Motta.

Eddie Quinn, Montreal promoter, said last night he was ready to guarantee La Motta $75,000 to defend his championship against Dauthuille in Montreal, Sept. 11. Dauthuille holds a decision over Jake, scored before he won the title from the late Marcel Cerdan.

Nick Londea, the International Boxing Clubs' Detroit matchmaker, also wants the match. La Motta is a prime favorite in Detroit. That's where he beat Cerdan. Detroit fans never have seen Jake in a bad fight.

La Motta has an exclusive contract with the IBC for title defenses. As the IBC has a branch office in Detroit, that probably is the most likely site of a Dauthuille match.

New Taxes For O.A.H.A. Announced

Toronto, Aug. 4. —(P)—New tax regulations covering amateur sport in Ontario will likely deal a serious blow to the Ontario Amateur Hockey Association, president Harold Ballard of the senior A Marlboros said last night.

The regulations, announced yesterday by Premier Leslie Frost, exempt teams on which 75 per cent of the players receive less than an average of $20 a game. Otherwise, they have to pay the Ontario hospital tax.

If one team in a league is ineligible for exemption, all teams are. And if teams from an exempt league meet teams from a non-exempt one, both teams are taxable for playoffs.

Ballard said the regulations will have an adverse effect on negotiations for a Niagara Falls, Ont. team in the senior A. Two other clubs have signified their intention to withdraw if the Niagara Falls team does not enter.

A definite answer regarding the new entry is expected next Tuesday.

The government also rejected a proposal by the junior A association that they pay the tax this year and apply for a rebate if eligible. Tax administrator J. J. O'Neill said eligibility for exemption this year would depend on whether clubs were eligible last year.

Ballard said he couldn't understand where the 75 per cent clause came from.

"Why didn't they have it $25 across the board? A team could pay some of its players $1000 a game and still be eligible," he said.

for first place in 1926 over the same Royal Montreal layout, is already an assured starter. Dutch Harris of Little Rock, Ark., last year's champion, and other such American favorites as Dick Metz and Vic Ghezzi, have signified their intention of competing again.

Hank Borowy Signed By Detroit Tigers

Detroit, Aug. 4. —(P)—Red Rolfe, manager of the American League's pace-setting Detroit Tigers, got out the welcome mat today for pitcher Hank Borowy, a former New York Yankee teammate he thinks can help the Tigers sweep up the pennant.

Waived out of the national league, Borowy was picked up by the Tigers yesterday from Pittsburgh Pirates in a deal which involved close to $30,000.

It was the second time Borowy has been waived in the majors.

In 1925, when he was going great guns for the Yanks, he was waived out of the American League and promptly picked up for about $100,000 by the Chicago Cubs. Just as promptly, he pitched the Cubs to a pennant.

If Borowy is half the pitcher he was in 1945, the Tigers will be a shoo-in. And Rolfe, a keen student of ball players, thinks he will be just what the doctor ordered for his mound staff. He plans to use Borowy mostly as a relief hurler but may spot him occasionally in doubleheaders.

Tigers general manager Billy Evans, one of the most astute men in baseball, said flatly that Borowy "has a lot of good pitching left."

Borowy came to the Pirates from the Phillies a few months ago after pitching in only three games. He made 11 mound appearances for the Bucs and has a 3-1 record.

That's not much of a record but the Tigers figure Borowy will have a little more incentive playing for a pennant contender instead of a last-place team like the Pirates.

Borowy broke into the majors with a great 15-4 record with the Yanks in 1942. The next year it was 14-9; in 1944 it was 17-12 and in 1945 he had won 10 and lost only five when the Yanks put him on the waiver list.

For some unexplained reason, no one claimed him in the American League. Then the Yanks sold him to the Cubs where he finished out the season by winning 11 more games and losing only two.

Borowy's great work gave the Cubs the pennant and his herculean efforts kept them in the world series against Detroit for the full seven games.

He pitched and won the second game against the Tigers. He dropped the fourth contest. Then, he was called upon for a relief stint and credit for the Cubs' sixth-game triumph.

In a desperation move, cub manager Charley Grimm called on Borowy to pitch the seventh game. Detroit knocked him out of the box in the first inning.

The next year he had a 12-10 record for Chicago. Then he slipped to 8-12 in 1947 and 5-10 in 1948, after which he was traded to the Philadelphia Phillies.

Borowy didn't fit in with the "whiz kids" program and was shipped to Pittsburgh. His career appeared just about over until Detroit picked up the tab yesterday.

He still laughs about the weird deal that sent him to Chicago from the Yankees.

"I guess I'm the only ball player who ever was traded for a cocktail lounge," he declared. He referred to construction of the stadium club by Larry McPhail when McPhail had the Yanks.

"They used that $100,000 to build it," he joked.
