Emotional D Day anniversary for many Canadian veterans

BENY-SURMER France (CP) — On a tree-lined lawn filled with the graves of more than 2,000 Canadians killed in the battle of Normandy, grieving survivors of D-day answered a stirring rollcall Wednesday as they paid tribute to their fallen comrades.

It was the emotional highlight of Canada's part in the 30th anniversary of the Normandy landings as unit by unit, in threes and fours, 90 helmeted veterans stepped up to the cross of sacrifice and saluted the dead.

The names, beginning with Lt. Cdr. Dennis Hall of Halifax, Royal Canadian Navy, and ending with war correspondent William Stewart, now bureau chief of The Canadian Press in Montreal, were read out by J. S. Hodgson, deputy minister of veteran affairs. The ritual, only carried out twice before at war commemorations, ended a 75-minute ceremony at this, the biggest Canadian war cemetery in Normandy.

All but five of the 2049 graves are of Canadians—aged to 45 from 19 and from all parts of Canada.

Under an overcast sky and with a chill wind sweeping through rows of white headstones, guards of honor were drawn from French, Scottish and Royal Navy units as well as 100 men from the Canadian Armed Forces based in West Germany. Uniforms of all the Allies which took part in the invasion of Nazi-held Europe June 6, 1944, mingled on the shaven lawns.

BRADLEY RETURNS

A prominent figure was white-haired Gen. Omar N. Bradley, commander of the United States First Army on D-Day Trim in his uniform. Gen. Bradley stood beside Veteran Affairs Minister Daniel J. Macdonald, who lost his left arm and left leg fighting as a sergeant with the Cape Breton Highlanders in the Italian campaign of December 1944.

The Maple Leaf and French tricolor flags flew either side of the big white stone cross, dipping to half-mast as the Air Transport Band from Kingston, Ont., played O Canada. Looking on were many wrinkled veterans of the French Resistance, some with medals pinned to their work clothes, and, providing a color party, a few on crutches.

The pipe and drum band of Canadian Forces Europe was resplendent in the old RCAF tartan of pale blue and purple.

Canada's ambassador to France, Leo Cadieux, speaking in French, said that on the shoulders of those young Americans, Britons, Canadians and French had rested the fate of the free world.

Macdonald, speaking in English, thanked the government of France and expressed appreciation to the Normandy-based comite du debarquement (D-Day commemoration committee)

"for keeping fresh and green the memory of the men from abroad."

The young Canadians came to Europe "not as aggressors nor as adventurers, for that is not the nature of Canadians," said Macdonald. They knew there were "fundamental principles of freedom and dignity that must be preserved, whatever the cost."

The senior French official for Normandy added his tribute to the liberators and the famous act of remembrance—"We will remember them"—was spoken in French and English by Judge Redmond Roche of the Royal Canadian Legion and J. C. Lundberg, representing the National Council of Veterans Association in Canada.

Prayers, a rifle volley and the poignant notes of last post and reveille were followed by Macdonald placing the first of many Allied wreaths at the cross. Gen. Bradley, despite his years, carried his wreath unaided.

Then followed a touching moment as French children from neighboring villages gathered to add their posies to the carpet of wreaths, and holding Canadian flags aloft, sang O Canada.

Other ceremonies Wednesday included one to some 270 Canadians with no known graves. The day ended with a dinner given in Arramanches by the French D-Day committee with about 40 Canadians attending.

Language ghettos?

MONTREAL (CP) — The Quebec governments proposed language legislation will create language "ghettos" and isolate French-speaking Quebecers from the rest of Canada, the Quebec Association of Protestant School Boards (QAPSB) warned Wednesday.

The QAPSB in a brief to the education department, called on the government to withdraw its proposed legislation, labelling it "discriminatory and in certain areas unconstitutional."

The proposed legislation would, among other things, make French the only official language in the province and require children to take language-efficiency tests to determine which language they are to be educated in.

Those with no knowledge of either English or French would be directed to French-language schools.

The QAPSB said the legislation "discriminates against the use of the English language in the most important fields of Quebec society. If this is allowed to happen it would destroy the concept of bilingualism in Canada."

Olympic lottery to develop more millions

MONTREAL (CP) — Reporting an "insatiable" demand for lottery tickets, Olympic Lottery Canada announced Wednesday a third draw will be held Nov. 18, featuring two $1-million jackpot prizes.

Roger Rousseau and Julien Cote, president and general manager, respectively, of the lottery said a potential total of $17,290,000 will be distributed to 60,000 possible winners in the draw, which represents the second overhaul of the prize structure since the lottery program began.

The officials also reported that the second draw—the 3.5 million ticket issue is already regarded as "fully subscribed"—will be held in Edmonton July 16 to underline the nationwide nature of the Olympic effort.

The electronic televised draw will be staged in the Albertan capital on the eve of Klondike Days celebrations and the third, providing two million-dollar prizes compared with the single $1-million jackpots in each of the first two lotteries will be held somewhere in the Maritimes, Mr. Cote said. There will be five million tickets in the third issue.

"The success of the first two lotteries show Canadians are really behind the Olympics and feel they are participating," Mr. Rousseau told a news conference.

Tickets for the third draw go on sale Friday.

FIGURES RELEASED

A financial statement showed that the lottery corporation, created under federal law, remitted $11,900,000 to the organizing committee of the 1976 Montreal Olympics from the first lottery. The draw was held in Ottawa April 15.

The statement put proceeds from the sale of tickets at $22,882,800 and reported that prizes to winning ticket-holders and to sellers of winning tickets totaled $8,196,750. Prizes lost because of cancelled tickets out of a total issue of 2.5 million had a value of $2,500.

Mr. Rousseau, commissioner-general of the Games, and Mr.

Cote said the lottery sales have been much more successful than expected.

"However, you must keep in mind that the cost of operating the Games is going to be very much higher than expected due to inflation and I think that the money will come in very handy to the organizing committee," Mr. Cote declared.

He noted that original plans called for six lotteries. This had been revised upward to eight. The organizers would try to remain within that number but demand was a factor that could not be ignored in any efficient enterprise.

BLEUOSERS ARRIVE

On July 1 Nova Scotia joins the six provinces now participating in the lottery and the officials expressed the hope that the other three—Manitoba, Saskatchewan and British Columbia—would also come in. Cost of tickets remains at $10 each.

Each of the participating provinces got five per cent of the gross revenue of tickets sold in that province to help finance amateur sports. The income was kept in reserve in the event the other provinces, where sales now are made by mail-order, decide to join.

Mr. Rousseau said talks with western provincial government ministers gave grounds for optimism. The western provinces were themselves organizing a lottery and the Montreal officials wanted to reassure them that the project would not be killed by the Olympic presence.

The commissioner-general also said that thanks to the Alberta government's high computer capability and co-operation the operation of the televised draw in Edmonton would not cost the Olympics "five cents."

The ticket purchaser is instructed to inscribe his name, or that of a group of purchasers, on the back of the ticket and add address and phone number.

Ticket purchasers should not return the stubs of their tickets before the draw. In the case of mail purchases, however, the Olympic lottery retains the stub for safekeeping.

On the campaign trail Trudeau booted and cheered

CALGARY (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau was booted and cheered over federal oil policy when he arrived here Wednesday but he said minutes later that Ottawa is committed to the development and growth of resource industries in all regions of the country.

"No oil executive is entitled to claim that our government has any adverse intents for any industry, certainly not the petroleum industry," he told a meeting of Liberal workers and candidates after encountering one of the angriest anti-government demonstrations of the election campaign.

It occurred outside the meeting at the downtown Palisier Hotel where he was met by several hundred shouting, placard-waving oil company employees, executives and opposition party supporters opposed to federal energy and corporate tax policy.

After making his way inside, where the cheers of supporters contrasted sharply with the jeers outside, he offered to meet Alberta Premier Peter Lougheed anytime to discuss equitable sharing of "windfall oil profits" between oil provinces and the federal and provincial governments.

WAS INTERRUPTED

Mr. Trudeau was interrupted frequently by hecklers in the crowd of about 2,000, one of whom he told to shut up, then apologized.

"Go on talking I have to be good tempered in this campaign," he said.

He was received warmly and applauded often when he reviewed oil policy developments and federal objectives.

He also answered two questions from a front-page editorial in Calgary Herald Wednesday: Do the provinces own resources within their jurisdiction? Will the Liberals, if re-elected, bring back the federal budget defeated May 9 in the Commons?

The answer to both is yes, said the prime minister.

The budget, which would raise corporation taxes by $800 million, would be implemented as it stands unless economic circumstances change and alterations become necessary.

MIGHT BE REVIEWED

He said some sections, including those that upset the oil industry, might be reconsidered if a revenue-sharing agreement can be worked out with the oil-producing provinces.

He gave no indication that he will take the initiative to arrange a bargaining session with the Alberta and Saskatchewan premiers.

He said the people of Alberta should not have to suffer because of a "cold war" between Ottawa and the provincial Progressive Conservative government.

Six seek hospital board posts

SHBROOKE (CC) — A total of six persons have been nominated for the two user representative posts on the board of directors of the Sherbrooke Hospital.

The names of the persons who submitted nominations before the Tuesday midnight deadline were released yesterday by the hospital's director-general Earl Gould.

The Eastern Townships Health and Social Service Council decided to not reveal the names of nominees at the region's other 10 hospitals because one hospital failed to return a list of nominees to the council Wednesday. The hospital, St. Vincent de Paul in Sherbrooke, was expected to submit its list today, according to a spokesman for the council which is looking after the different elections to the boards of directors. Vying for the Sherbrooke Hospital seat are the two user incumbents James E. Atto and Mrs. Krystyna Kouri, both of Sherbrooke who are being challenged by four other candidates.

The candidates are John Douglas Bowman, treasurer of the Austin Glove Manufacturing Co. in Sherbrooke and a resident of Lennoxville. Mrs. Mary Camber, general-manager of the Cecil Butters Memorial Hospital in Austin where she lives; Florent Jacques, comptroller of Beebe Granite Co. and a resident of Rock Forest and Robert F. Roman, a purchasing agent with the Lennoxville District school Board who lives in Waterville.

Elections for the two user representatives who will serve one year terms are scheduled at the hospital on June 19.

"The number of candidates is indicative of the general interest of the community in the affairs of the hospital," Earl Gould said yesterday. "They come from such a diversified background. They are sincerely interested citizens," he added.

Last year there were seven candidates vying for the two user positions.

In other election affairs at the Sherbrooke Hospital yesterday Dr. E.A. Cooper was chosen as the representative of the medical and dental staff to sit on the board of directors.

Dr. Gerald Lasalle, of the University of Sherbrooke medical faculty, was returned to represent the institution on the board of directors.

Nominations for persons to represent the non-medical staff at the hospital closed at midnight last night. The names of the persons nominated will be revealed today.

Elections of the user representatives on the board is sure to create much interest. Any person of major age who for himself or herself or for a minor under their care has received services from the hospital during the past three years is allowed to vote in the election.

CLEARING THE AFTERMATH — A tow truck extracts the remains of a log truck which was implicated in a collision with another car at the intersection of Highways 27A and 28 at Birchton yesterday, when two persons perished. Dead is Mrs. Lethie Rogers, 68, of Oakville, Ontario, and a still unidentified baby of approximately 15 months. Both were killed on impact. The driver of the truck, Denis Blouin, of Vermont, escaped without injuries. A second truck took to the ditch to avoid becoming involved in the tragedy. (Record photo: James Bruce)

Car truck crash causes two deaths

BIRCHTON (CC) — The second major accident in the Eastern Townships in less than a week fatally injured two persons and injured as many more yesterday afternoon.

Dead in the accident which occurred at the intersection of Routes 27A and 28 in this peaceful community located approximately six miles from Lennoxville are 68 year old Lethie Rogers of Oakville, Ontario and a 16 month old baby.

Police did not divulge the name of the child whose mother is in satisfactory condition at the University of Sherbrooke Hospital.

The driver of the pulp truck involved in the collision, Denis Blouin of Vermont, was only slightly injured in the traffic mishap which stunned the residents of Birchton.

Last Saturday Nicole Lanciaux Denise D'Amour and large pulp truck travelling Sylvie Paquette all of towards Cookshire on route 27A.

The truck took the ditch and jack-knifed the load of logs in an attempt to avert collision, police reported.

which the victims were travelling was headed out of Birchton on route 28 and allegedly crossed in front of the truck.

Stanfield on offshore oil

GANDER, Nfld. (CP) — Robert Stanfield said Wednesday night that the full benefits of offshore mineral resources should go to the coastal provinces.

"I have taken the same position as national leader of the Conservative party as I had as premier of Nova Scotia—that the full benefits of these resources should go to the coastal provinces," he told a party rally in this central Newfoundland community.

"I will take the same position if the people of Canada make me prime minister," he told an audience of fewer than 200.

The turnout in the Gander-Twillingate riding held in the last Parliament by Progressive Conservative John Lunnigan was a disappointment to Conservatives, especially since it followed on the heels of a warm reception for Mr. Stanfield in the twin cities of Grand Falls and Windsor only 60 miles away.

He rode a bright yellow dune buggy in a motorcade through the twin cities.

Later he joined a group of youngsters in dancing a jig prior to a rally in Grand Falls.

Making his first appearance in Newfoundland since the July 8 federal election was called, he dwelt heavily on local issues.

He promised a Conservative government would make fisheries a single federal department, saying the Liberal government had reduced the industry by lumping it with the environment department.

He told a news conference that he looked favorably on proposed

Newfoundland projects such as harnessing of power of the lower Churchill River and building a trans-Labrador highway.

But he cautiously insisted he was not staging a campaign of promises such as he said Prime Minister Trudeau did in 1972.

But as he did earlier in the northern New Brunswick communities of Newcastle and Chatham, Mr. Stanfield returned to such familiar topics as his proposed prices and incomes freeze and the alleged mistreatment of old age pensioners by the Trudeau government.

DISPUTES PM'S CLAIM

He said claims by the prime minister that the Liberals had legislation ready to help the pensioners could not be upheld.

Caouette gets Alberta support

RED DEER, Alta. (CP) — Social Credit Leader Real Caouette, ignored by the provincial Social Credit in British Columbia, got solid support from the Alberta provincial party at a meeting in this city Wednesday night.

Francis Porter, president of the provincial party, read a resolution of the party's executive throwing its full support to Mr. Caouette and his candidates in Alberta.

Mr. Porter also read a second resolution declaring that it is inconsistent with party loyalty for Social Crediters to support any other party during the current July 8 federal election campaign.

The support came as Mr. Caouette called on Social Crediters for the second day to close ranks behind the party and reject strategies to defeat the Liberal government by throwing their votes to the Conservatives.

He had said in British Columbia Tuesday, and on his arrival in Edmonton Wednesday, that the Conservatives have nothing to offer Social Crediters.

In Red Deer, he attended a banquet with about 140 Social Credit supporters followed by a meeting in a junior high school gymnasium attended by about 300 persons.

RAPS LEADERS

In a speech at the high school, Mr. Caouette criticized the other party leaders.

He said Prime Minister Trudeau used his party's huge financial resources to run the "Trudeau Express" whistle-stop campaign in the Maritime provinces and Quebec.

"But he should be using that train for transportation of grains to the East and of goods to the West at reasonable prices," he added, touching on the sensitive issue of western freight rates.

He said Conservative Leader Robert Stanfield had joined New Democratic Party Leader David Lewis in voting down a Social Credit motion in Parliament calling for $200 a month old age pensions at age 60. But Mr. Caouette said both party leaders now are promising such pensions.

He also criticized Energy Minister Donald Macdonald's handling of the oil situation, which he called "a psychological crisis only."

Mr. Caouette again called for a guaranteed annual income and said Social Credit has in fact been calling for such a program from the start.

"Call it the national dividend, as we did 35 years ago, or call it the guaranteed annual income," he said. "It's the same thing."

QPF introduce "Operational Vulcan"

COWANSVILLE (JD) — The Quebec Police Force have begun to introduce "Operation Vulcan" in all communities of the province.

The end result of the operation is to diminish the number of thefts by breaking and entering through a controlled system of permanently marking valuables, with a number available to the police 24 hours a day, and identifiable within three minutes.

It consists of marking possessions such as television, stereo sets, typewriters, etc. with an electric marker. The identification number is the driver's licence of the owner. Licence numbers are permanent, and the owner of any marked goods which have been recovered by the police can be identified within three minutes through the police computer.

"Vulcan" is a community oriented program and entails the involvement of a service club who actually does the leg work under indirect supervision of the police, either QPF or municipal.

In certain instances a group of property owners might wish to form an association in self-defence. As a matter of fact the property owners of Gibraltar Point have considered their participation in the program.

Application of the program entails the enlisting of volunteers, verification as to whether or not they have a criminal record, then the physical nuts and bolts of community involvement and participation.

Ideally volunteers, armed with identification cards, will canvass each home and burn the owner's drivers licence number on each valuable, in the instance of large items twice, preferably on diagonally opposed corners.

Once the numbers have been affixed stickers are posted at the front and rear entrances to alert would-be thieves. On completion of the program the QPF urge that appropriate posters be placed at the approaches to the town, thus discouraging thefts.

One cannot negate the efficiency of the operation if the results of Monterey Park, California, hold true elsewhere. It was introduced in 1963 with 5,000 homes posted. Since then there have been 25 break ins, compared to 1,000 in the 6,000 non-participating homes, during the same period.

This would indicate a decrease of approximately 75 per cent.

One aspect of the operation is the police do not wish to become actively involved in the marking of the effects. They feel this would appear to be an infringement on personal liberties. They will work in cooperation with any interested group and will advise them on how the program should be installed.

Community participation in "Vulcan" is strictly voluntary, and the municipal police force normally provide the organizing groups with the markers and identification stickers.

(One area not discussed in the QPF release is whether or not this has any effect in lowering insurance costs.)

The electro-static marker will mark almost any hard surface, wood, metal, plastic, glass, etc.

Stickers do not a program make. Normal precautions such as leaving a light on when the house is vacant, blocking patio doors, installation of an alarm system, if possible, and notification of any prolonged absences to the local police, are additional aids in combatting burglaries. The value of the program cannot be measured in this area to date.

Only a concerted drive by an organizing group can ensure almost total participation. The figures on the Monterey Beach plateau of efficiency indicate the program can be of benefit to a community at large.

The incidence of break-ins in the area covered by the Cowansville detachment, QPF, is extremely high. This is particularly true in cottages in isolated areas and in some of the smaller villages.

Prime time for the burglars is during the off-season, however fugitives from justice have been known to break in during the normal months of occupancy, to wit the two from the Laval Correctional Institution, who were arrested near Eastman last autumn.

Community participation is the key to success. If any community organizations feel the program is worthy of their attention they are urged to contact either their municipal force or local detachment of the QPF for complete details on how to implement the program.

"An alert community is a safe community."

From oil sales to electric cars

MONTREAL (CP) - A heating oil company here is trying just as hard to save customers' fuel as it is to sell it to them.

In the process, S. Albert Co. Ltd. is getting into the gadget business—most notably with a new electric automobile unveiled here Wednesday.

Norman Spector, executive vice-president, said the Electro Charger town car can be produced to sell for less than $4,000. Furthermore, he said, the electric module that propels the car can convert most lowweight vehicles to battery operation.

Recharging the vehicle overnight on standard household circuits gives a driving range of about 40 miles at speeds of up to 45 miles an hour, he said.

The company displays an array of devices aimed at fuel conservation or environmental protection, including a home furnace which operates on any combustible material; a wind rotor to produce auxiliary electric power; a solar collector which heats water for home use, and a prototype wireless thermostat.

BUSINESS METHOD
 Why is a relatively small company so interested in fuel saving devices? "S. Albert Co. Ltd. has always been aware of the need to conserve energy and has developed the products in order to make the consumer aware of the many ways in which he can aid the ecological balance and protect the environment," was Mr. Spector's formal answer at a news conference.

In a later interview, company president Daniel J. Albert hinted that the gadgetry is a good sales pitch as well as a service to consumers.

"Every company sells oil," he said. "It's the same oil. Our method of building business is to see what auxiliary services we can offer our customers or to save them money on fuel consumption."

"This has enabled us to grow faster than many companies," Mr. Albert said the company does not spend large sums on project development and is still basically a fuel company. "The oil is our bread and butter," was his tongue-in-cheek remark.

ONE PATENT HELD
 The company holds a patent on only one of the many devices it offers to consumers: a monitor which notifies property owners of changes in room temperature and other factors via a telephone hookup.

About 300 of the long-distance monitors have been sold in Canada, Mr. Albert said.

However, the electric car—a potential challenge to similar vehicles being developed by the major auto companies—will not be mass produced immediately, said Mr. Spector.

"It's a prototype," he said. "We want to test the public's response before putting it on the market."

Mr. Albert said he believes his company is a forerunner in its method of building business.

"All our advertising is geared to facts," he said. "We simply advertise in the newspapers each week a note on how to save energy in the home."

"What we do along these lines, other companies do a few years later."

Expressing a hope that his products and methods will be taken up by other firms, Mr. Albert said: "The public is moving away from verbal satisfaction and is demanding real satisfaction from business. Ultimately they will have their way."

Toronto

TORONTO (CP) - The Toronto stock market's gold index recorded its largest gain since Jan. 7 and its third largest gain in history in active trading Wednesday.

Golds were up 49.1 to 467.17, base metals 2.54 to 84.09 and western oils 2.11 to 193.34. The industrial index, widely-based indicator of market trend, fell .06 to 191.56.

Dealers attributed the gain in golds to higher bullion prices on the European market.

Car target for consumer action

CALGARY (CP) - There are many ways of "squeezing the lemon," the defective automobile named as the prime target for organized consumer action in Canada in the coming year, Lowell Dodge, director of the Centre For Auto Safety, Washington, D.C., said Wednesday.

He told the Consumers Association of Canada (CAC) that a group of students in San Jose, Calif., bought a car, dug a hole and buried it. Another frustrated owner burned his $10,000 automobile and received $10 in a note from a sympathizer who said: "I wish I had your courage."

The 27th CAC annual meeting chose the automobile as its consumer theme for 1974-75. Mr. Dodge, co-author with consumer advocate Ralph Nader of the book What To Do With Your Bad Car: An Action Manual for Lemon Owners, was invited to speak on it.

The weakest point of the automobile manufacturers, he said, is their jealousy for corporate image. Consumer agitation is largely responsible for the recall of 45 million cars in the United States since 1966.

"The auto industry has single-handedly kept the consumer movement alive, with its meaningless warranties and high defect rates," said Mr. Dodge, who performed his last official function as director of the centre. His new job is editor of Environmental Law Review, Washington, D.C.

HALF PLUS DEFECTIVE
 Mr. Dodge said there are three times as many motor vehicles born in the U.S. each day as people, but more than half of the cars built since 1966 have been recalled for repair or replacement of defective parts.

James O'Grady of Ottawa, CAC president, said the association does not have the financial resources for automobile testing

"but we hope to be able to do so in five years."

The annual meeting dealt with 15 resolutions and passed 13 of them, including requests that the federal government ban the sale of electric kettles made with lead solder, found to be potentially hazardous by the health department, and investigate discrepancies on prices of numerous products.

The CAC will intensify its consumer advocacy program to intervene before regulatory boards on behalf of the consumer, Mr. O'Grady said.

This was made possible by a $116,000 grant for 1974-75. Consumer Affairs Minister Herb Gray, who opened the meeting Monday, announced the grant.

New York

NEW YORK (AP) - The stock market rode out a choppy session of ups and downs Wednesday to post its third straight advance.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, down as much as seven points in early trading, finished with a 1.49-point gain at 830.18.

Volume on the New York Stock Exchange dwindled to 13.68 million shares from Tuesday's 16.04 million.

The market did most of its gaining in a brief spurt early in the afternoon. Analysts said the buying wave was touched off by a prediction from Walter Wriston, chairman of New York's First National City Bank, that the prime rate would drop as low as seven to eight per cent by the end of the year. It now is 11 1/2 per cent.

The impact of Wriston's remarks seemed to wane quickly, however.

U.S. industries, the NYSE's most active issue, slipped 3/4 to $6.

Weyerhaeuser fell 1 1/2 to $37 1/2, and Louisiana-Pacific 1 1/2 to $15 1/2, both in active trading.

Kaiser-Roth rose 3/4 to $15 1/2 in trading that included a 164,000-share block at that price.

Three projects will need $15 billion in energy investment

VANCOUVER (CP) - Policies to encourage individual and corporate savings should be introduced to insure Canada can meet the tripling capital investment needs of the economy's energy sector, the Conference Board in Canada was told Thursday.

Guy Desmarais, president of Montreal-based Geoffrion, Robert and Gelinas Ltd., told the board energy investment, centred on three large projects, should total $59.65 billion by 1980 compared with $21 billion during the last seven years.

"It is estimated that the energy sector, which now accounts for 28.5 per cent of total business investment, will account for approximately 40 per cent by the end of this decade, and when compared to total capital expenditure, that is business, housing and social, would increase from 14 per cent in 1967 to 17 per cent in 1973 and 22 per cent in 1980," he said.

Mr. Desmarais said three projects will account for $15 billion of total energy investment during the rest of the decade.

SAVING NEEDED
 They are the James Bay hydro-electric project, the Athabasca tar sands development and the Mackenzie Valley natural gas pipeline.

He recommended the following policies to increase national savings necessary to support such massive investment:

—Dividend and interest income on the first $1,000 annually should be exempted from personal income tax.

—Individuals should be exempted from paying capital gains tax when investing in Canadian equities, up to a cumulative lifetime total of $25,000.

—Incentives to Canadian corporations for more equity financing, and dividend payments could be regarded on the same basis as interest payments in calculating corporate income tax.

MUST IMPORT
 "It is also important that the net inflow of capital be matched with an approximate equivalent cash outflow through material and equipment imports in order to avoid a drastic effect on our balance of payments and consequently, the level of the Canadian dollar," he said.

"Free movement of capital between other countries will be essential."

Mr. Desmarais said the Arab countries with surplus funds from crude oil sales are an important source of investment from abroad.

He also said inflation could dampen the investment boom.

"In a highly inflationary environment, such as currently prevails and which will continue in the years ahead, individuals are less inclined to save or put their money into long-term financial instruments."

Women's Conference at Bishop's University

LENNOXVILLE — Mme. Laurette Robillard, President of the Quebec Council on the Status of Women, will deliver the keynote speech at the Canadian Federation of University Women's Regional Conference which will take place at Bishop's University on Saturday, June 8.

In her newly appointed position, Mme. Robillard will be concerned primarily with obtaining better jobs and better pay for women employees of the Quebec Government. Her secondary objective will be to better conditions of work and pay for all Quebec women, in the private sector and in the home.

Mme. Robillard, who was appointed by Premier Robert Bourassa as a result of legislation (Bill 63) in July 1973, is particularly well qualified for the post she now holds. Her last position, prior to this appointment, was that of personnel manager for a large Montreal law firm with a staff of 150 people. Before that Mme. Robillard was head of the Employee Relations Department of the National Employment Service.

Mme. Robillard was president (1964-65) of the Women's Council of the Montreal Chamber of Commerce. She is a founding member of the Federation des Femmes du Quebec and the treasurer of the administrative council of F.F.Q. from 1967 to 1969.

She has served on the Royal Commission on the Status of Women. As a member of the labor committee of the F.F.Q. she helped prepare briefs dealing with equality in pay and opportunity for women in the labor force.

The Canadian Federation of University Women's Regional Conference will begin at 9 a.m. in MacKinnon Hall. Arrangements have been made for simultaneous translation.

CSRE executive committee year end report encouraging

SHERBROOKE (MI) — The executive committee of the Commission Scolaire Regionale de l'Estrie held 31 meetings between July 1, 1973 and the end of May at which the rate of attendance of executive committee members stood at 85.3 per cent.

These figures are down from the preliminary report of the executive committee in which it depicts its 1973-74 activities. The report, presented to the board last week, indicates that the executive committee met an additional 20 times as an investigative or study group.

Committee members made two particularly large efforts, committee chairman Gaston Theriault told commissioners — while preparing a report on pastoral service and investigating the nature of human interrelations within CSRE schools.

During the course of the former project, the committee worked in collaboration with the archbishop. Consultations were made with the following groups: students, administrators, catechism teachers, parents, representatives of the parish clergy and pastoral animators.

The latter project involved consultation with administrators, teachers, students and parents. Following the issue and collation of responses to an initial questionnaire, open study sessions were held by the executive committee in each of the board's schools.

Financially, the committee accepted 29 lists of operating budget expenses totaling $33.1 million and 14 lists of capital budget expenses totalling $13.5 million. It took out a long-term loan of $4.84 million for the construction of a new polyvalent secondary school in Sherbrooke — because no response was made for the initial call for offers, the committee sold its bond issue to Levesque, Beaulieu Inc. at 95.61 per cent cost, or, at an interest rate of 10.17 per cent.

The executive hired some 110 full-time teachers throughout the year, in addition to many part-time instructors. Following the closing of some schools and the opening of the Sherbrooke West polyvalent school, the committee established a special procedure for transferring teachers between schools in the Sherbrooke area.

While the committee also named administrators for the new polyvalent CSRE schools in Magog and Windsor, it was obliged to release 69 full-time teachers as surplus personnel before May 1.

With regard to equipment, the committee proceeded to finalize acceptance of construction works for the Louis St. Laurent School, in East Angus, and to provisionally accept works at La Ruhe School, in Magog.

The committee bought land with the intention of enlarging the Montcalm School; negotiated agreements with all but two local Catholic elementary school boards to transport elementary school children on regional school buses; and extended the lease on the board office premises.

The report further stipulates that the executive turned over responsibility for administration and operation of six school cafeterias to the adult education department; authorized the adult education service to become involved in a joint service operation, entitled Fer de Lance, with the College de Sherbrooke and the University of Sherbrooke; and engaged special academic counsellors or English, religious instruction and natural sciences.

LDS Board operating budget

LENNOXVILLE (MI) — The Lennoxville District School Board last night adopted a 1974-75 operating budget proposal calling for total expenditures of $4.37 million and anticipating $214,245 in inadmissible expenses, of which $115,000 should be incurred by the Eastern Townships Regional School Board.

The operating budget during 1973-74 totalled $4.02 million and provided for $240,000 inadmissible expenses.

The proposed budget, now awaiting governmental authorization, is based on an estimated student enrolment of 2,250 students — a decrease from the 2,315 registered during 1973-74. Some 110 fewer Roman Catholic students are expected, while an increase of 47 Protestant students is anticipated. By category, registration of 45 fewer kindergarten students, 38 fewer elementary school students and 18 more special education students than last year are forecast.

By group, the following expenditures are proposed in the budget: general administration, $290,566; statistics, $300,000; instructional administration, $32,881; regular instruction, $1,074,470; special instruction, $224,000; counselling and guidance, $18,131; libraries, $8,750; sports and leisure, $13,800; audio-visual, $9,465; student service, $23,300; research, $3,500; transport, $570; cafeteria, $14,360; school facilities, $285,037; debt service, $136,500; transfer, $2,175,000; capital, $60,000.

Revenue sources include $1.45 million drawn from taxation and $2.34 million in the form of budget-balancing grants. The remaining $583,525 is drawn from statutory grants totalling $346,300 and special grants totalling $237,225.

The statutory grants are of the following order: administration, $56,250; teachers salaries, $142,350; kindergarten, $7,300; special classes, $40,150; transportation, $90,000; text books, $8,200; and library books, $2,050.

Special grants are provided as listed: second language audio-visual equipment, $3,465; research and experimentation, $3,500; tuition, $165,000; interest on tax arrears, $7,000; school rental, $18,000; miscellaneous, $1,500; cafeterias, $14,210; federal grant, $6,000; Bill 46, $8,500; outdoor education, $3,800; French consultant, $4,000; and student exchange, $2,250.

The board did not set its 1974-75 tax rate, though LDSB secretary-general John Haffenden predicted that the 1972-73 financial analysis would show the board in a surplus position with regard to funds available for inadmissible expenditures. Mr. Haffenden remarked that the August meeting would be the earliest occasion at which the LDSB might be able to set the rate.

He did suggest, however, that the rate might decrease to $1.464 per $100 evaluation from the 1973-74 figure of $1.55 per $100. Such a rate would involve the basic provincial tax rate of $1.25 per $100 valuation; $0.115 per $100 for inadmissibles incurred by the ETRSB; and $0.099 per $100 for inadmissibles incurred by the LDSB.

Within the area served by the LDSB, valuation of Protestant ratepayers' properties totals $100 million, of which $10 million belongs to companies and $90 million to individuals.

Motorcyclists get off

SHERBROOKE (CC) — Delage. Atome motorcycle gang member Jean Noel Roy, 20, of Coaticook, was sentenced to one month in jail and two years on probation in Sherbrooke Superior Court.

Roy, who has been behind bars since May 17, was convicted of the attempted murder of Gitan motorcycle gang member Jacques Edmond in the outpatient clinic of the St. Vincent de Paul Hospital.

The attempted murder came during open warfare between the two rival gangs on March 16 which left two Atome members dead and at least six members of the two clans seriously injured.

In other court cases concerning motorcycle gangs this week four members of the Atomes were freed from charges of causing more than $3,000 in damages to the Manoir de l'Estrie Hotel early last Friday morning while a fifth member was remanded for trial October 17.

Session's Court Judge Benoit Turmel dismissed the case against club-president Pierre Gauvin, vice-president Clarence Dyke and members Guy "Terror" Cameron and Ronald Sigouin when hotel employees could not name and identify them as having participated in the incident.

Patrice Simard, however, had his trial date set for October 17 after he was identified by both the hotel owner Pierre A. Maurice and a waiter, Alain Simard is already scheduled to face charges of assault of Daniel Thibault which allegedly took place on December 30, vandalism of a value of $50 which allegedly occurred on February 18, at the October 17 trial.

He is also charged with attempting to obtain $170 under false pretenses and with three counts of complicity.

In Session court Monday Atome president Gauvin was fined $50 on a count of possessing a non-registered weapon. The weapon in question was a .25 calibre automatic pistol.

The fine was handed out by Judge Turmel who also ordered the weapon confiscated.

MILEAGE ALLOWANCE INCREASED

Commissioners of the Lennoxville District School Board last night voted to increase the mileage allowance to authorized persons, travelling on official board business, from $0.14 per mile to $0.17 per mile. In doing so, the LDSB follows similar decisions made by the Eastern Townships Regional School Board and the St. Francis Protestant School Board.

SUMMER MAINTENANCE WORK FOR LDSB

The Lennoxville District School Board last night resolved to engage firms to perform two maintenance jobs during the summer. The operations involve the deposit and levelling of crushed rock on the parking lot of the Sunnyside Elementary School, in Stanstead, and the electrical connection of a commercial stove in the Sherbrooke Elementary School. The Sunnyside School job will involve expenditure of $500, while the Sherbrooke School job will cost about $600.

LDSB BANK RATE RISES

The Lennoxville District School Board last night accepted an increase to their bank loan interest rate. Having recently raised the rate to 10.5 per cent at its Magog meeting, the LDSB accepted its bank's decision to raise the rate to 11 per cent.

LDSB COMMISSIONERS CHANGE RESPONSIBILITIES

The commissioners of the Lennoxville District School Board last night accepted the resignation of Aubrey Greer as commissioner representing the North Hatley ward. Mr. Greer recently became general maintenance foreman at Alexander Galt Regional High School and lost his eligibility to sit on the Eastern Townships Regional School Board because he was an employee of the board. Since ETRSB commissioners are also LDSB commissioners, Mr. Greer was obliged to resign from both boards.

With his resignation, Mr. Greer left vacant the post of LDSB vice-chairman and one executive committee seat. Margaret Paulette was named last night by the board to assume the vice-chairmanship for the remainder of the 1973-74 academic year.

With her appointment, the LDSB marks the third vice-chairman it has appointed this year. Joan Keyes held the post before Mr. Greer.

William Badger was acclaimed to the vacant executive committee position. Recently re-elected to his post as commissioner, by acclamation, Mr. Badger initially took office as a replacement for William Lyon. Mr. Lyon had resigned his post when his accountants' firm was awarded the accounts of the ETRSB and LDSB.

LDSB MOVES TO HIRE KINDERGARTEN TEACHER

The Lennoxville District School Board last night opted to make efforts to immediately engage a kindergarten teacher for the Ayer's Cliff and North Hatley kindergarten programs.

There had been concern on the part of commissioners and parents that the kindergartens at these two schools would have to be shut down due to lack of enrolment. With the school board resolution, however, the stipulation is made that the programs will be open because the teacher will be hired, even if the government refuses to cover the teacher's salary with a budget-balancing grant.

LDSB director-general Hugh Auger told commissioners: "The worst that could happen is that the government would recognize that the teacher is legally hired but would refuse to pay her salary and would make the board pick up her salary as an inadmissible expense."

Representation has already been made to the government requesting that special consideration be given the LDSB in the kindergarten situation but no reply has been forwarded as of this date.

LDSB OFFERS IMMERSION POSSIBILITY

The commissioners of the Lennoxville District School Board last night made clear their offer to LDSB school principals that, should the administrators wish, the board would financially support their attendance at a 10-day intensive French-immersion program organized by the South Shore Protestant Regional School Board.

The dates of the seminar are August 12-16 and August 19-23.

SWEETSBURG WARD (JD)

— A bench warrant was issued for Fabien Boucher, of Cowansville, when he failed to appear for arraignment on a charge of impaired driving, in sessions court, here, Monday.

The charge stemmed from an accident he participated in Sunday, one day after his release from the Sweetburg Jail, where he had spent eight days for having threatened his wife.

Usually reliable sources indicate the reason he failed to appear for arraignment was he was in Granby undergoing another breath analysis, after being apprehended on Route 104, between Cowansville and Farnham, Monday morning.

Jean Daigneault, 19, of Cartierville, changed his option and pleaded guilty to charges of qualified robbery while armed, in Cowansville, May 31, 1974 and breaking and entering and theft, in Sutton, May 25.

Defence counsel Jacques Meunier originally opted for trial by judge and jury, however had his client change his option it became apparent Crown prosecutor Claude Noiseux would object to Daigneault being free on bail.

Jean Ouellette, Knowlton, Jean and Francois Larochelle, both of Farnham, saw their sentences postponed to June 10 before Judge Bernard Legare. Mrs. Ouellette is charged with qualified robbery and being an accessory after the fact, and the Larochelle brothers with qualified robbery, in Farnham, March 19, 1973. They pleaded guilty to the charges earlier this year.

Gaston Duchaine, 20, of Waterloo, pleaded guilty to a charge of assault with bodily harm on the person of Jean

Mr. Meunier said his client had no prior record, however he felt a pre-sentence report would benefit the court.

Judge Gerard Normandin reserved sentence to July 11, and ordered Daigneault held in preventative detention in the interim. Judge Normandin ordered the effects returned to the rightful proprietors.

Daigneault had taken a taxi from Granby towards Sutton when he pulled a revolver on the driver at the intersection of Boulevard Jean-Jacques Bertrand at Route 104. He then robbed the cab driver of $90.

Jeanne Ouellette, Knowlton, Jean and Francois Larochelle, both of Farnham, saw their sentences postponed to June 10 before Judge Bernard Legare. Mrs. Ouellette is charged with qualified robbery and being an accessory after the fact, and the Larochelle brothers with qualified robbery, in Farnham, March 19, 1973. They pleaded guilty to the charges earlier this year.

Gaston Duchaine, 20, of Waterloo, pleaded guilty to a charge of assault with bodily harm on the person of Jean

Pierre Hebert, in Waterloo, May 26.

Crown prosecutor Noiseux asked for a one week jail term, and told Judge Normandin it stemmed from a fight outside a hotel. He then had Duchaine admit to having been found guilty of simple theft and breaking and entering, in the District of Bedford, during 1973.

Jacques Meunier, in defence, argued there was no similarity in the acts, and said the interests of justice would be well served with a fine and a peace bond. Judge Normandin fined the accused $75 and costs, in default 30 days, and placed him on one year probation. He was granted 30 days to acquit the fine.

Valmond Roy, Montreal, pleaded guilty to a charge of impaired driving, on the Eastern Townships Autoroute, May 18. He was fined $100 and costs, in default 30 days.

Jacques Lord, St. Mathias, pleaded not guilty to driving while he was impaired, and to having a blood alcohol level of 320 milligrams on the ETA, May 18, 1974. His trial was fixed for June 10.

Liberals rushing hard in Eastern Townships

SHERBROOKE (CC) — The Liberal party continues its two barrel volley into Social Credit country today as the second cabinet minister within two days barnstorms into the Eastern Townships.

Health and Welfare Minister Marc Lalonde is scheduled to visit Richmond and Frontenac ridings today and will swing through Brome-Missisquoi riding on Saturday.

Mr. Lalonde's tour comes just two days after Finance Minister John Turner visited the Eastern Townships and less than two weeks after Prime Minister Trudeau was in the Eastern Townships.

The visits of the Liberal powerhouses shows just how much importance the party is placing on the region in the upcoming July 8 election. In the 1972 election the Social Credit candidates took five seats the Liberals two, and the Progressive Conservatives one in the Eastern Townships ridings. During the day Thursday Mr. Lalonde is expected to visit Windsor, Richmond and Thetford Mines. He wraps up his activities with a supperette speech to the Thetford Mines Kiwanis Club.

The Liberals are the only ones to have brought big names to the region so far in the election campaign. However, Real Caouette is expected to attend the Social Credit nomination convention in Compton County scheduled next Monday at Ascot Corner.

With just slightly more than one month remaining before the national vote most candidates who will face the electorate have already been chosen in the region. The Liberals have chosen all candidates while the Progressive Conservatives still have to name candidates in Lotbiniere and Frontenac ridings.

The Social Credit candidates haven't yet been named in the ridings of Sherbrooke, Compton and Brome-Missisquoi. New Democratic Party candidates in Brome-Missisquoi, Drummond and Lotbiniere have not been chosen.

Between two stools

President Nixon says that inflation in the United States is cooling with a decline in some commodity prices. He often said much the same thing during the past year and was always disappointed in his prophecy. Apart from his familiar political difficulties, the president's economic forecasts, based on his erring experts' advice, have been sadly mistaken ever since he recklessly dissolved his price control system. Only when it was seriously enforced, in 1972, did the low inflation rate of that year come close to his hopes. He may be nearer to the mark now when some food prices have fallen quite sharply and he regards this as good news, heralding better.

But the cost of manufactured goods has yet to reflect, at retail levels, the latest round of massive wage increases already under way. The United States will be fortunate if the cost of living as a whole has risen less than ten per cent by the year's end, even though the national economy has ceased to grow for the time being.

In two notable respects Canada's situation differs from that of its neighbor. Here the economy is still growing and the government, unlike its counterpart in Washington, does not encourage but, on the contrary, resists any significant fall in food prices. As soon as relatively cheap American turkeys, chickens and eggs began to enter the Canadian market the government limited these imports lest they reduce the domestic price. Most beef imports were suspended for health reasons but it is difficult to believe that they would not have been at least restricted if those reasons had not appeared at a politically convenient moment. Speaking through Agriculture Minister Eugene Whelan, the government has long argued that Canadian food prices must not be allowed to fall and thus discourage production.

The same argument can be applied, of course, to all forms of production and has been applied for a hundred years to most manufactures by the mechanism of the tariff or other protectionist devices. Having paid the consequent prices to the manufacturing industries of central Canada, the farmers understandably welcome protection when they can get it for their own products and in both cases the consumer must pay the bill.

The anguished ambivalence of a Liberal government preaching maximum international trade and practising the opposite does not end with Mr. Whelan's candid return to reliable old Conservative protectionism. The existing national policy is far more complicated than that, so complicated, indeed, that all the rhetoric of the election campaign will not clarify it.

Rejecting any direct controls over the economy, the government insists that it is relying on the free and automatic performance of the market system to cure inflation at some unknown future date. That would be a thoroughly logical attitude if it were implemented in action, but it is not. The market system has never been allowed to operate freely under the high Canadian tariff and now, at a time of soaring prices, the tariff, or its equivalent, is extended to new areas.

The government's ambivalence does not end even there. It flatly opposes the principle of a two-price system, a high price for exports with a lower domestic price, and that, too, would be a logical attitude if it were enforced, but it is not. Already a two-price system has been applied to petroleum, wheat and milk, three of the most important commodities in the cost of living. Finally, when the government denounces economic controls as unworkable, if not insane, all its devices of oil taxes, import restrictions, subsidies and delayed plans to punish profiteers and roll back unjust prices are nothing but controls, whatever name they carry.

As a national policy falls between the two stools of lip service to the free market and the practice of frustrating it, the consumer can be sure of one thing — that prices will keep rising in the visible future. He can see also that while his American neighbors are allowed to benefit from certain declining prices, the Canadian government is trying to prevent him from doing so.

If all these and other things are wildly confused, to win vote from urban consumers and farm producers alike in the present election campaign, it will soon be over. Then the resulting government, Liberal or Conservative, will have to deal with the facts as they are, not as many tortured candidates are now describing and blurring them. The central fact is that the Canadian economy is headed for increasing distortion and, at some point, a painful readjustment. No government that lacks a clear public mandate and must depend on a coercive minority splinter in Parliament is likely to surmount, or even survive, that day of reckoning.

Decision-making vacuum in Ireland

LONDON (CP) — After the latest constitutional crisis in Northern Ireland, some observers here suspect that a vacuum in decision-making is beginning to develop among British officials charged with responsibility for Ulster.

A two-day emergency debate in the British House of Commons on the break-up of the Ulster Assembly, a form of local government, has done little to build up hopes that a new British initiative may be under way.

Newspapers and opposition spokesmen seem to agree that the Ulster situation has reached one of its most difficult stages in five years of turmoil and violence.

Many politicians appear to share the view that there is little the British government can do to ease the difficulties except wait for events there to take their course.

EFFORTS COLLAPSE

The immediate cause for concern is the resignation last week of Brian Faulkner, the former chief executive in the Ulster Assembly. His departure means, in effect, the collapse of two years of British efforts aimed at securing a workable government arrangement including both Protestants and Roman Catholics.

Faulkner found that his brand of moderate Protestantism had little popular appeal when more extreme elements called a general strike in Northern Ireland and received an overwhelming response.

The strike was directed against an agreement between the executive and the British government providing for a council of co-operation to be set up between the Irish republic and Ulster. The strikers also denounced the whole concept of power sharing.

Their success forced the resignation of the executive and meant the collapse of the twin pillars of British policy in Ulster: reconciliation between the two communities and better relations with the republic.

Now, Northern Ireland Secretary Merlyn Rees has taken direct control of the area again and the British government is expected to retain full responsibility for at least four months.

But the main view among observers here is that without clear-cut policies, the government runs the risk of forfeiting the initiative for change in Northern Ireland to the extreme Protestants who led the strike.

If this were to happen, the consequences are difficult to predict. Some believe there is a remote chance the Protestants would be willing to sit down with the Catholic-based Irish Republican

Army and work out some form of compromise solution. If this happened, both communities might ask the British to pull out their troops and go home.

SHADOWY VISION CITED

Catholics and Protestants would then have to assume full responsibility for all their actions without the benefit of protection from the British Army. Some observers think this might produce a new kind of moderation in Ulster politics.

But many experienced experts say that while Britain might love to see this happening, it remains highly unlikely.

They fear a more probable development is that the Protestants now will push to set up a semi-independent state which they would control completely and which would exclude Catholics from power.

This, in turn, would bring retaliation from the IRA and the next step would be outright civil war, with the British Army caught in the middle.

Despite the dangers, it is difficult to see what if anything the government can do to improve the situation at least until the various factions in Ulster make their intentions known.

But waiting, too, has its risks and there is a mounting feeling here that by September all sides may find themselves on a dead-end road.

Don Oakley

Is the cure worse than the malady?

By Don Oakley

Owners of 1974 automobiles think they have problems, what with having to wrestle with lap and shoulder belts before the darn cars will even start. Wait until they talk to the owners of the forthcoming 1975s.

Most 1975 model cars must be equipped with catalytic converters in their exhaust systems, a $150 item that changes hydrocarbon and carbon monoxide emissions into harmless carbon dioxide and water — and which requires the use of unleaded gasoline in the engine.

The Environmental Protection Agency has decreed that about a third of the nation's 365,000 service stations must be selling unleaded gasoline by July 1, and the oil companies are scrambling to meet the deadline. To insure that owners of the 1975s do not use ordinary leaded gas, which would ruin the converters, their cars will have smaller fuel tank filler pipes to match the narrower nozzles on unleaded gas pumps.

One can already foresee this kind of scenario: A motorist low on gas 50 miles from nowhere, and the only station around has no unleaded gas. To heck with the catalytic converter and the environment, he says, as he has his tank slowly and laboriously filled with the forbidden (and cheaper) leaded stuff by means of a funnel.

Ah, the environment. That is the reason for this latest in a long list of regulations that are turning America's love affair with the automobile into a marriage of inconvenience. It has long been known that our automobiles produce a tremendous amount of carbon monoxide (CO) through incomplete combustion, and that it is not healthful for children and other living things. In round figures, the automobile population pours some 270 million tons of CO into the atmosphere annually, equal to about 51 per cent of the amount naturally present.

Not only that, but it was discovered that Mother Nature herself was producing from a variety of sources, such as the decay of vegetation, a worldwide total of at least 3.9 billion tons of CO every year. This was a truly alarming situation.

However, as scientists refined their observations, they noticed a curious thing. Although man and nature were continually creating so much carbon monoxide, the absolute level carried by the atmosphere remained the same — some 530 million tons. Clearly, something was happening to the excess.

We now know that chemical processes in the atmosphere, like a natural catalytic converter, break down toxic carbon monoxide molecules into nontoxic carbon dioxide (CO₂) molecules very rapidly.

But we also know that the CO₂ content of the atmosphere has been rising by some 0.2 per cent a year for almost two decades. Again clearly, the rate by which carbon dioxide is being created both by human and natural sources exceeds the rate by which it is absorbed by plants and soil and the oceans.

What we don't know yet is whether this growing surplus of CO₂ in the atmosphere will create a "greenhouse effect" which, by blocking the radiation of the sun's rays back into space, will result in a worldwide rise in temperatures that in the ultimate extreme, could melt the ice caps and lead to flooding of the world's port cities.

In other words, when we talk about converting poisonous carbon monoxide from our cars into "harmless" carbon dioxide, we had best place quotation around the adjective.

This latest attempt by man to save the environment from himself, or from itself, is also another illustration of the human propensity for believing that every problem must have a solution.

The trouble is that not only do our solutions usually create new problems but that we so often leap to false conclusions because we misread the problem in the first place.

Courting the jury

Jack Anderson's

Washington Merry-go-round

WASHINGTON — White House aides have taken pains to remind members of Congress that they are sitting on the impeachment jury and, therefore, that it is improper for them to discuss the case against President Nixon.

It would seem to be even more improper, however, for Nixon as the defendant to court members of the jury. Yet he has taken key senators and representatives on dinner cruises down the Potomac. He has made White House planes, limousines and other privileges available to them. He has pampered them with sudden attention.

The President is even tailoring his legislative program, at least in part, to appeal to the conservatives whose votes he is counting upon to keep him in office. The politics of impeachment, rather than the merits of the legislation, now seems to determine what bills he will support.

For example, the President has halted the construction of a cross-Florida barge canal to preserve the beauty of northern Florida's Oklawaha River. As recently as six weeks ago, the White House reassured Florida conservationists of the President's support.

But the promises were forgotten after a contingent of conservative congressmen called upon the White House to go ahead with the barge canal. The President hastily withdrew his opposition.

The same thing happened to a federal land-use bill, which the President had described as his "number one environmental priority" in his State of the Union message last January. Rep. Morris Udall, D-Ariz., working closely with the Interior Department, drew up a bill to accomplish the President's objective.

But conservatives were afraid the bill would allow the federal government, for the sake of the environment, to infringe on private ownership. House Republican leader John Rhodes and Rep. Sam Steiger, R-Ariz., arranged a private visit with the President and urged him to abandon the Udall bill.

Although the bill simply codified his own proposals, Nixon accepted the suggestion of the two powerful conservatives. Steiger helpfully provided a weakened substitute bill, which the President quickly endorsed.

This killed the Udall bill. It was a victim, snorted Udall, of "Watergate politics." Agreed a staff member privy to the backstage maneuvering: "This was clearly a case of Nixon trying to shore up his conservative support."

The President has also shifted his stand against other consumer, environmental and social programs, which the conservatives despise. And he has showered them with other White House blessings.

When Sen. John Sparkman, D-Ala., called from Paris to complain about a second-rate Air Force plane that had been provided to fly a congressional contingent home from Europe, the White House hastily dispatched Vice President Gerald Ford's plane across the Atlantic to pick up the Sparkman group.

Another time, the President gave Sparkman and Sen. James Allen, R-Ala., a lift home from Alabama and provided them with limousines at the airport. And Vice President Ford gave Sen. Hiram Fong, R-Hawaii, a ride to Hawaii last month.

Few members of Congress used to get in to see the President when the German shepherd dogs, H.R. Haldeman and John Ehrlichman, were guarding the door. Liberals are still excluded except on ceremonial occasions. For example, Sen. Walter Mondale, D-Minn., hasn't been inside the White House since the late President Lyndon Johnson occupied the place, and Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., couldn't even get an official list of Cabinet members from the White House for an inquiring student.

But the doors have been thrown open to the conservatives, such as Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., Robert Dole, R-Kans., Pete V. Domenici, R-N.Mex., James Eastland, D-Miss., and Walter Huddleston, D-Ky., whose names are on a list of 34 to 39 hardcore conservatives whose vote the President needs to save himself from removal.

Sen. Wallace Bennett, R-Utah, and Russell Long, D-La., were invited to a private breakfast ostensibly to discuss trade with the President a couple of weeks ago. Earlier, the President played the piano at a birthday party for Bennett and Long was granted a 90-minute audience with the President.

Sen. James Buckley, the New York conservative, had dinner at the White House 10 days before he asked Nixon to resign. He hasn't been invited back.

Sen. Ted Stevens, R-Alaska, admitted to us that his requests "were put on the back burner" in the Haldeman-Ehrlichman days. But this year "things have opened up," he said, and White House aides "are more receptive to my inquiries."

A spokesman for conservatives Sen. J. Bennett Johnson, D-La., put it even more candidly. "The White House is wooing Johnson. Nixon has been doing favors for Southern senators... (for) anyone who's a swing vote on impeachment."

Turning their own words against them

By Bruce Biossat

WASHINGTON (NEA)

By any fair standard, Defense Secretary James Schlesinger would have to be classed as a man of intellectual attainments. But it doesn't bother him a bit that in his present post, he often finds himself in open contest with the U.S. "intellectual community."

In fact, as he talks to newsmen, he seems to find more than modest pleasure in fingering what he deems either inconsistencies or faltering resolves exhibited by intellectuals in the defense field.

Let's look at a few examples that developed from a recent encounter Schlesinger had with reporters.

Even grating the obvious distractions of Watergate, he indicates puzzlement at the minimum amount of comment from intellectuals on India's explosion of a nuclear device.

The United States today is a signatory to a nuclear non-proliferation treaty whose goal, of course, was to halt the spread of nuclear weaponry to more and more nations. India's action, whether or not it leads to production of a bomb, is a clear violation of the treaty's intent and spirit.

Schlesinger regards the spread to India of this capability as "potentially devastating." And he recalls that, in the long prelude to the non-proliferation treaty, the threat of spread was an issue which "tore at the vital interests of the intellectual community" and consumed much of its energy. His question is simple: where are they now?

Many U.S. intellectuals stand in support of moves in Congress to cut deeply into our NATO armed forces stationed in West Europe. The argument today is really a double one: their presence is just symbolic and detente reduces the need.

Detached analysts like those at Brookings Institution (research) long ago persuasively answered the first point, saying our conventional NATO forces have proved a real deterrent to less-than-nuclear incursions into Western Europe by Russia. The actual balance is close.

But Schlesinger would go beyond and confront the intellectuals with their own arguments. In the Eisenhower-Dulles era, their favorite sport was to assail a declared policy of "massive retaliation" by nuclear means as sheer insanity.

Take away the proven effectiveness of our NATO armies, contends Schlesinger, and what is left for response but the very kind of sweeping nuclear strike the intellectuals so long deplored? With this, too, goes his argument that detente was made possible by balance, and it can't be held by unilateral ground force withdrawals which destroy balance.

It also troubles the Secretary that, at the very least, intellectuals fully support new congressional moves — especially in the Senate — to cut aid to South Vietnam.

Though this part of his comment will have been well reported in the immediate aftermath of his meeting with newsmen, it is worth mention within the framework of this report: Schlesinger believes that fund-cutting attempts on aid to South Vietnam reflect a "retroactive" gesture by intellectual and other anti-war elements who felt continuously frustrated during our long, costly participation in the Vietnamese war.

He adds: "South Vietnam deserves better than retroactive punishment. It is unworthy of us to behave in this niggling manner."

He is mindful that the settlement terms permit and, in effect, commit us to sustain South Vietnam's military at the levels it held at signing time. And he insists that, whatever harsh judgments critics may wish to heap on Saigon's Thieu government, North Vietnam has grossly violated terms by pouring in men and materiel and crossing demarcation lines.

In the context of my report, Schlesinger's message is clear. Intellectuals are being vindictive and small-minded.

DR LAWRENCE E. LAMB

Cardiac insufficiency is heart failure

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I have had a heart murmur at least 16 years. Four years ago I developed cardiac insufficiency. The left side of my heart is much weaker than the right side. The heart beat is soft and around 100 times a minute. If I get extremely tired, it will go up to 140 for a time.

The murmur is growing steadily worse. I'm having chest pain frequently and my left arm hurts. Will a fast heart rate lessen the life span? Does the heart ever strengthen after cardiac insufficiency? I'm past 50. Is surgery indicated?

DEAR READER — Cardiac insufficiency means heart failure. Doctors use this term to mean the heart muscle is weak or not able to contract hard enough to pump blood in the most efficient manner. Failure or weakening of the heart muscle can affect either the left side of the heart (the most common problem) or the right side and eventually both the right and left side of the heart.

Failure of the left side causes shortness of breath from the accumulation of fluid in the lungs. Failure of the right side causes swelling of the liver, abdomen, feet and ankles. There are many causes for failure of the heart. A bad valve from old rheumatic heart disease can be one cause. It can also result from overloading the heart muscle. Stress from high blood pressure and the fatty deposits in the arteries to the heart muscle are common guilty factors.

It is important to know just what causes heart failure in order to treat it properly. If the problem is a damaged heart valve then in many instances heart surgery with valve replacement is a good idea.

If heart failure is caused by disease in the arteries to the heart there is relatively little that can be offered surgically to treat the patient.

Medical treatment can do a lot to help strengthen the heart. Digitalis and related medicines are first and most important. Many people who have had heart failure can return to normal living patterns by taking these medicines. This, however, doesn't mean that you shouldn't have surgery if you have a condition that warrants it. Eventually the problems from bad valves can't be managed by medicines alone, and there often comes a time when surgery is needed and advisable, provided the patient's over-all condition can tolerate it.

The fast heart rate you have is common in the presence of heart failure. It sometimes slows as the problem is corrected. The murmur can be either from a bad valve or caused by the dilation of the heart from the weakened heart muscle.

I think you ought to find out why you have heart failure. Ask your doctor if you have a valve that should be operated upon, or what the problem really is. I'm sure you should be on medicine at least to help control the problem, and perhaps you are. But, you need to know this and what the medicines are.

Send your questions to Dr. Lamb in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019. For a copy of Dr. Lamb's booklet on cholesterol, send 50 cents to the same address and ask for "Cholesterol" booklet.

By Ann Landers

Thoughts about suicide

Dear Ann Landers: I am a fairly attractive woman in my middle forties. To the outside world I appear to have everything a woman could want — a lovely home, beautiful children, a successful husband, and I've even excelled in sports and have won some trophies. No one would suspect that I've gone through periods of severe depression and about two years ago attempted suicide.

I have something important to say to the readers of your column who may have at any time contemplated taking their lives. The information I am about to pass along for free cost me $3,000 in psychiatric bills.

The next time you look longingly at that handgun, or that bottle of pills, or a bridge or window you believe will put an end to your agonies, remember the husband or wife or children or parents you would leave behind. No matter how blameless they may be, they will always think it was their fault that you killed yourself. All the rationalization in the world won't change it. They will carry to their graves the thought that something they did, or failed to do, caused you to take your life.

Do you want to place such a burden on your loved ones? If you commit suicide you'll surely do it. — Thank God I Didn't

Dear Friend: The impact of any given letter is, of course, an unknown quantity, but I can tell you for certain that your letter prevented at least one suicide someplace in the world today. Thank you for writing it.

Dear Ann Landers: I hope you won't think this is too far-out to print, but I need an answer. My girlfriend confided in me that since her husband returned from a trip up north their sex life has improved 100 per cent. The "secret," she said, is something he bought for $40 a half pound — powdered mountain-goat horns.

He mixes a half teaspoon of the stuff with a glass of water and drinks it just before he goes to bed. She claims it has performed miracles in their bedroom. I asked if she could spare a little, because my husband has been "too tired" or "too busy" for the last six weeks.

Yesterday when I suggested to Arnie that he try it, he laughed in my face. How come it works for my friend if it's "phony" as Arnie insists? Please check with your experts and let me know. — Cold Feet

Dear Feet: My "experts" tell me that once the horns are off the goat they are useless, except as wall decorations — if you like that sort of thing.

"Love potions" have for centuries produced a neat income for hucksters. Since all sex activities begin in the mind, anything a person believes in could bring about the desired results. If you can sell Arnie on the stuff it might work for him, too. But he sounds too smart for such hogwash.

Dear Ann Landers: The letter from the teen-ager whose dad wouldn't let her drive the car for six months because somebody dented the fender (and there was no insurance) made me realize what a difference there is in fathers.

I, too, had just gotten my driver's license. It was a rainy night and I lost control of the car. I hit an abutment and our 1973 sedan was nearly totaled. The repair bill was about $2,000.

My dad said one thing to me: "Thank God you are all right. I can always buy another car, but I could never buy another daughter." — Lucky Me

Dear You: Double lucky, you mean. Thanks for a heart-warmer.

Christening

BULWER — The christening of the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Keith Lowry, Eaton, took place recently in St. George's Anglican Church, Lennoxville.

The baby received the name Julie Evelyn with Right Reverend T.J. Matthews, Bishop of Quebec, officiating at the ceremony. Little Julie's godparents are Miss Laura Lowry and Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Alden.

Following the service, a luncheon for over 50 guests was served at the home of the maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Picken, Bulwer.

A christening cake in white and silver was made and decorated by Mrs. Albert Taylor.

Many out of town guests were present, including Mrs. Harmer of Lennoxville, maternal grandmother of baby Julie and the paternal grandfather Mr. Chilton Lowry, Sawyerville. Also the godparents Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Alden, of Eaton and Miss Laura Lowry, Sawyerville.

Others present included both the maternal and paternal aunts and uncles of the baby and Mr. and Mrs. R. Lucas, Pierrefond, Mr. and Mrs. Arnold McKeage, Mrs. Cedric Cormier and family, Mrs. Norman Wightman, all of Lennoxville, Miss Karen Baker, Mr. and Mrs. John Harmer, Sherbrooke and Mr. and Mrs. Dale Brooks, Sawyerville.

RICHMOND — The christening of the little son of Mr. and Mrs. David Appelblom of Richmond took place on Sunday, May 12 at the Richmond and Melbourne United Church with Rev. R.A. Cameron officiating. The child received the names Aaron Joel.

After the service the family were guests at luncheon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Appelblom, Lorne St., Richmond.

Concert to be held

BOUNDARY — Ruth Jessup, a dramatic soprano from Chicago, a star of radio, television and recording artist will be featured at the June 7 concert here at the Haskell Opera House.

Miss Jessup flew into Burlington, Vt., on June 1 to begin rehearsing with the chorus group and on Sunday visited the Opera House at the Border. She was tremendously impressed with this beautiful 70 year old Opera setting for it was on June 7, 1904, that the first concert was held in it.

Miss Jessup is now in Wells River, Vt., to rehearse with the North Country chorus, directed by Mary Rowe. This chorus group has enriched the musical life of the area for nearly 30 years.

Stuart Robinson, vice-president and executive of the North Country Concert Association and President Edwin Earle of Newport and Derby Line, are most pleased with the sale of the tickets that will bring to this beautiful Opera House a series of summer concerts.

Concert time is 8:15 p.m.

Spring tea and sale

WINDSOR — St. Andrew's U.C.W. held a successful sale and tea in the Church Hall on Thursday evening, May 30, beginning at 7:30 p.m.

Baskets of spring flowers were used to decorate the hall while small arrangements of dried flowers centered the linen-covered tea tables.

Several of the Grade VII students, who visited Yellowknife, N.W.T. on a student exchange earlier this year, had set up an interesting display of their souvenirs, photos and literature for the guests to view.

The sales table of handicrafts, home baking, etc., was a popular feature and guests were able to make their purchases from the wide variety of articles offered. Assisting at the sales table were Mrs. S.M. Paige, Mrs. Wm. Coffer, Mrs. R. MacDonald, Mrs. F. Harper and Mrs. D. Morey.

Later a delicious salad tea was enjoyed by all. Kitchen and table duties were carried out by Mrs. H. Dubuc, Mrs. M. MacMorine, Mrs. F. Doyle and Mrs. Wm. Jandron.

A drawing was held on a package of assorted gift wrap. Broompton Lake and Richmond were guests from out-of-town.

Attending from out-of-town were guests from Toronto, Ont., were guests from Cookshire, Sherbrooke, Brompton Lake and Richmond.

HONOR GUARD — The students of Stanstead College are seen above forming an honor guard at the Centenary United Church for the teaching staff and honored guests.

FRENCH PRIZE — Mrs. E.C. (Alice) Amaron of Toronto is seen presenting one of the Dr. E.C. Amaron Memorial French Prizes to G. Duncan.

THESPIAN SHIELD — Stanley Lunan received the Thespian Shield for acting from Senator Therese Casgrain.

ACCEPTS GIFT — Senator Therese Casgrain accepted a gift from Po Shu Wong, the winner of the Pitcher Memorial Prize, the school's highest award.

101st Stanstead College Baccalaureate held Saturday

STANSTEAD — The 101st Baccalaureate and Prize Giving introduced by Eric T. Webster, chairman of the College Board of Trustees, was held in Centenary United Church, Stanstead, on Saturday, June 1, at eleven a.m.

The guest speaker was Senator Therese F. Casgrain, O.B.E., Dr. of Laws. The large church was filled to capacity to hear her message. Reginald Seguin of Newport, played the organ music. His prelude and postlude was "Hymn of Joy" by Beethoven. He accompanied the school choir, directed by Alex J. Philip, to sing "The Lord's My Shepherd" by Crimmond. The prayer of invocation was spoken by the school chaplain, Rev. R.W. Peirce.

Health, strength and beauty are human values to be merely used, but the noblest values of all are man's spiritual values. She made reference to our world today and the lack of communications which we know is the source of many difficulties. "Let us keep in mind the question which is imperative to settle as soon as possible and forever, the recognition and the acceptance of the fact that Canada was founded by, and is composed of, two main language groups which should enjoy, together with newcomers, the same rights, the same privileges, throughout Canada." Donald Ross, Chairman of the Executive Committee, Board of Trustees presented Headmaster Thomas Russell. His remarks were complimentary to the various staffs at the school that keep everything operating smoothly. He announced the retirement of George Banks, effective at the end of this school year and announced that A. Lumsden and his wife plan to spend the coming year in Australia so will not be on staff next year.

He made reference to the highlights of the past school year in all phases, academic, sports and so forth and said "the prizes to be presented here today bear testimony to the fruits of the year."

He noted changes that this summer will be made to some of the school facilities and states, "we shall have a full school next year with a waiting list." He further noted registrations as far in advance as 1979 and added "I am encouraged to see this far ahead."

In conclusion of his report he said "It is the people who live, work and play at our school that is yesterday, today and tomorrow."

To the graduates he had a special message and advice and he said to them in closing, "choose with care and consideration the road you will travel and may God go with you."

Kenneth Stewart, a student, gave the reading, the theme being "Foundation for Life". Appropriate hymns were sung.

Senator Casgrain and Eric Morrison, Treasurer of the Board assisted to present the prizes.

The school's highest award was presented to Po Shu Wong by Senator Casgrain. This award is to the student of the year who displays the best influence.

Po Shu Wong, on behalf of the school, presented Senator Casgrain, as a gesture of appreciation of her visit to Stanstead College, the gift of a black and white etching of Stanstead College by artist Captain Edward Brown of Ayer's Cliff. This was suitably framed.

The ceremonies terminated with prayer by Rev. Mr. Peirce and the singing of O Canada.

After leaving the church, staff, students, parents and invited guests enjoyed luncheon dinner at the Le Baron Dining room at the College. Then the boys left for their summer holidays with the exception of grade 10 and 11 who will be writing matriculation exams this month.

Elementary school news

DERBY LINE — Monday afternoon, a group of four students of the Derby Line elementary school, Town of Derby, and their grade 6 teacher Ms. Mitzy Beach travelled to the North Country Hospital in Newport to present a gift of a $50.00 cheque.

The four were Pam Brainard,

Student Council president: Chris Dowd, vice-president; Keely Caird, treasurer; and Jodi Carpenter, secretary.

Pam made the presentation to Thomas Dowd, hospital administrator and Mrs. T. Duran, directress of nursing. In her presentation remarks, Pam said the money was raised by the student council fair in May. This gift is to be used towards something for the Children's Ward.

Mr. Dowd thanked the young people as did Mrs. Duran. Then they were taken on a visit to the children's ward, then to the cafeteria where they were served ice cream.

With school closing only a few days away, the teaching staff and students have several social functions arranged for parents and friends of the school to show them the fruits of the year, the first in the new school.

Thursday, June 6 the students of grades 4-5-6 will present gym demonstration at 7 p.m.

The day following, June 7, at 4:00 p.m., there will be a music concert by the youngsters in the elementary band in the Arts room. This is in charge of Bernard Matthews.

June 11, the Parent Teachers Club is having a supper at 6 p.m. with reservations to be made at 766-5071. After the supper, the elementary majorettes will give a performance in charge of Mrs. C. Chayer and Miss C. Buck.

June 13, almost the eve of school closing, Grade 6 will present a musical "Westside Story" under the direction of Mr. Holbert and Ms. Mitzy Beach.

The school is sending out news letters to parents about these special functions.

Stanstead College athletic awards presented

STANSTEAD — The final athletic awards for the spring season were given at Stanstead College on Friday evening, the eve of baccalaureate, in Pierce Hall after the evening dinner period.

Alex Philip, Director of Athletics, was M.C. for the program. The assistant headmaster, Barry Gallant, was the first to speak. He congratulated the boys on their spring term sports effort. To the boys not returning, he wished them the best, to those returning or not he said, "Don't ever stop competing."

The belated ski awards were presented to four who participated in the winter marathon. The awards were held up in the mail. To receive them were Terry Skaperdas, Scott Morgan, Ian Goodfellow and Norman Stephenson. They skied a total of 250 miles in the two day marathon to place third and earn the bronze medals in a competition of 14 teams.

Brian Denney spoke for the softball teams and referred to it as a disaster season due to weather condition. All started out well but after ten solid days of rain it ended bad — a washout. However, the Expos emerged the champions and the P & M trophy was presented this team, their first time to win it. J.B. Tremblay was rated the best player on the team.

Speaking for the shooting teams, Instructor Peter Howard presented school crests to Clifford Leung, Bruce Taplin, Bernard Ho, Mike Remedios, Harvey Stevens, Herman Pierce and James York, all holders of Gold medals. They are training in the standing, sitting, kneeling class.

In fencing, Captain Bernard Ho was awarded the proficiency recognition with crests going to David Tung, Stephen Cheung and Byron Mark.

The hunter safety course cards were presented to Peter Churchill, Jesse Pring, James York and Mike Remedios.

Weather also interfered with the cycling program headed by Andre Lebel who presented crests to several of his boys. In his remarks he said it is his hope and dream to have a garage or place where he can teach care of bicycles and hopes eventually to have community people join with the school for this happy recreational program. He also hopes to have a racing team.

Peter Boyd, track and field head coach for the past 12 years, made reference to the season when the weather was just not the best. This resulted in cancellation of the invitational meet at the school. The team trained in snow, cold and rain.

He presented Bantam S to three boys, Junior S to another four boys and the Major S to Brian Boudreau, Tom Burden, Peter Salvas, Captain Joe Cammalleri and Gary Garbardino. The three latter graduated from Grade 12 and will not be back. To these boys went the best wishes of all.

Mr. Boyd also voiced appreciation to the masters who had assisted him on the program.

All campus trophies were presented to Jean Benoit, junior tennis singles; Jean Benoit and Dan Coffin, junior tennis doubles; James Etcheverry, senior tennis singles; and Joe Cammalleri and Enrique Marx, senior tennis doubles.

The cross country seniors was won by Tom Burdon and Juniors by Peter Churchill.

Home Extension Club

DERBY LINE — The May meeting of the South of the Border Home Extension Service, was held at the home of Mrs. Ruth Lafoe in Derby Line with 13 members attending.

The interesting roll call was to name a place each member would like to visit this summer. Routine reports were heard and approved.

The nominations committee reported only two nominees for the ensuing year, that of Mrs. Diane Kelley, vice-president, and Mrs. Mary Ann Nolan, treasurer. The offices of president and secretary remain open until the meeting in September when it is hoped they will be filled.

June 10 was set for the members' seasonal closing banquet to be held at 7:00 p.m. at Kelley's restaurant.

It was voted to have a silent food sale as a benefit for the American Red Cross financial campaign.

The meeting was adjourned and the topic of the evening, manicuring, was presented by Mrs. Jane Mason. Each one had a try at professional manicuring as Mrs. Mason gave instruction.

Mrs. Lafoe and Mrs. Helen Wood, the hostesses, served refreshments, fruit salad, and beverages.

School committee meets

NORTH HATLEY — A regular meeting of the North Hatley School Committee was held at the school on May 16, 1974. Five committee members, the principal, Mr. W. Walls and six parents were present. The meeting was opened by the chairman, Mrs. G. Gauthier. Mr. Walls expressed regrets on behalf of Mrs. R. Vaughan, staff representative for being unable to attend the meeting. The committee were informed that Mr. A. Greer has resigned as School Commissioner, due to the fact that he has accepted a position at Alexander Galt Regional High School. It was reported that the Student Exchange trip to Three Rivers would not be taken, but that possibly an exchange will be planned next year, providing some money is attainable from the government. The Quebec Federation of Home and School Associations monthly magazine had been received and the principal drew attention to the proposed regulations that it dealt with. The chairman reported that the workshop for incoming school committee members will probably be held late in October. The kindergarten parents have been informed that there is a strong possibility that kindergarten may be held locally for the 74-75 year. It was moved that the bill for the rental of books from the McLennon Travelling Library be paid. The school committee agreed to support the Outside Education Program to the extent of their funds. Mrs. R. Losito and Mrs. G. Humphrey will organize the retirement party for Mrs. Vaughan, to be held at the Community Hall on June 9 from 2-5 p.m. Mrs. Humphrey will be in charge of contributions towards the party. Annual meeting of Richmond Historical Society

RICHMOND — Richmond Co. Historical Society held their annual meeting on Wednesday, May 29, in St. Augustine's Church Hall, Danville. The meeting, attended by approximately 75 people, was called to order by the president Mrs. Alan Sutherland. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and adopted and committee reports heard. Mackenzie Paige, chronicler, read a most interesting account of noteworthy events which had taken place in the area making special mention of golden wedding anniversaries, one of 61 years, and 90-year birthdays. He then requested a minute's silence in memory of those of our members who had passed away during the year. Quotations re the cost of publishing a small volume were read and this matter referred for study to a committee to be appointed by the executive. Rev. J.A. Johnson was invited to preside over the election of officers for the coming year. David Hall, chairman of the nominating committee, presented a slate of officers and there being no future nominations they were declared as follows:

Hon. Pres. - Miss M. Harkom; Hon. 1st Vice-Pres. - Miss E. Dunn; Hon. 2nd Vice-Pres. - Mrs. G. Harris; Hon. 3rd Vice-Pres. - Mr. F. Wintle; Past President - Mrs. A. Sutherland; President - Dr. V. Ignatieff; 1st Vice-President - Mr. R. McGee; 2nd Vice-President - Mrs. R. Johnson; Recording Secretary - Mr. J. Philbrick; Corresponding Sec. - Mrs. W. Mellish; Treasurer - Mr. W. Creighton; Directors - Miss M. Boast, Mr. C.W. Armstrong, Miss N. Moorhead, Mr. A. Booth, Mr. A.H. Bieber, Mrs. A.T. Smith, Chronicler - Mr. M. Paige, Century Property Committee -

Mr. A.A. Carson, Museum Committee - Curator - Mr. P. Lemoine; Archivist - Mr. A.H. Bieber; Custodian - Mrs. L. Wintle; Publicist - Mrs. C.A.P. Leahey; Housekeeper - Mrs. F. Converse; Assistant Housekeepers - Miss A. Millar, Miss M. Brill, Mrs. S. Husk and Mrs. B. Rodgers. Convenors for Sunday Duty at Museum - Mrs. J.S. MacNaughton, Miss J. Pepler. Building and Grounds Committee - Chairman - Mr. H. Stevens, Mr. G. Ewing, Mr. G. Carson, Mr. G. McKeage. Social Committee - Convenors - Miss J. Pepler, Mrs. V. Ignatieff, Miss B. McAdams, Mrs. J. Batstone, Mrs. W. Stevens.

Dr. Ignatieff, newly elected president, assumed the chair and following his remarks accepting the office he called a meeting of the executive to be held in the Museum on June 18. Rev. Mervyn Awcock, special speaker introduced by Miss N. Moorhead, referred to his pleasure at being asked to speak and mentioned the work of the society in keeping alive the history of the district. He had visited our museum last summer and recalled that he had been familiar with the area for some time having served short periods in the churches of Kingsley, Sydenham and Denison's Mills. The theme of his address was 150 years of Anglicanism in Richmond County. The Diocese of Quebec was established soon after 1759, the first church of England services being taken by chaplains who were serving with the regiments in Quebec; some of these were Church of England and others were of the Presbyterian Church. The three English speaking areas first settled were Montreal, Three Rivers and Quebec City.

The first bishop of course was Bishop Jacob Mountain but he had no church building he could call his own. The oldest standing Protestant church building in this province is a Presbyterian building at Berthierville built in 1786, just a shell now and not in use. In 1815 Drummondville came into being when Roger Heriot came up the St. Francis after the war of 1812-15 bringing with him his soldier settlers. The first church services in this area were held between 1810 and 1820 many of them in Melbourn in the well known "Old Stone School House". Concerning the Anglican church in this area much can be learned from the biography of the third bishop, son of the first Bishop Mountain. The reports of the church Diocese of Quebec are interesting sources of information. Clergymen of all denominations were required to make, and still do, an annual record and events in the parishes. Some of the reports in those days were quite personal. These records date from 1840.

Rev. Geo. Mountain, Archdeacon to the Bishop was well known, having worked in Hatley, Phillipsburg and Drummondville areas. He mentions taking two services in Drummondville and then going on to Melbourn. Some of the road was just a trail through the woods. After a service in Melbourn he crossed the ferry to the new church of St. Ann's in Richmond. Rev. R. Lloyd made a visit to Danville in 1856 and remained for three months. Danville impressed him as one of the most likely places to grow into a large center. He recommended that an Anglican Church be organized and this was done that year, the parish taking Tinglewick and other small settlements the Hotel Dieu Hospital, Arthabaska. In 1874 the Brompton-Windsor area was served by Rev. L.O. Armstrong in a new church erected in 1872. There was also a church at Hardwood Flat, Denison's Mills was also visited by the bishop who thought it a possible place for a church. This building will be observing its centennial in 1975. Other churches built were at Sydenham in 1839 which now has an annual service only, Christ Church, Spooner Pond and others at Kingsley Falls, Shipton, Tinglewick where once services were held every Sunday. In 1874 Danville purchased a parsonage. The minister at that time kept two horses and reports they were constantly in use as he did much visiting. In Richmond Rev. Isaac Thompson reported in 1875 that St. Ann's had been rebuilt on its present location, the original building was erected in 1830. At one time a service was held in the Grand Trunk waiting room as the old St. Ann's was two miles away and travelling was not easy in those days.

St. John's Church at Gallup Hill was part of the St. Ann's parish at one time and services were taken at times by Albert Stevens, a divinity student. St. Saviour's Church on Melbourn Ridge was built in 1898. At Kirkdale the first Holy Trinity Church, now the hall, was built in 1835, the present one in 1871. Concluding his talk Rev. Awcock presented the Society with a copy of the catalogue of Quebec Diocesan Archives-Anglican Church of Canada. Rev. Awcock was thanked for his interesting address by Mr. J. Philbrick. Refreshments were then served by the ladies and a social hour enjoyed.

BMP Hospital Women's Aux.

COWANSVILLE — At a recent meeting, the Brome-Missisquoi-Perkins Women Auxiliary had the rare privilege of being the guests of the physiotherapy department of their hospital. She talked to us elaborately about her profession. She outlined the training of a physiotherapist and the methods of treatment used for the inpatients and outpatients of this hospital. She is indeed a very competent person and we must feel gratified that this young woman from England had chosen to perform this useful work in our midst. Her services are needed in preparing the patient before a surgical operation, these consist of breathing exercises and simple limb movements, to prevent cramps and stiffness after surgery. Outside patients join themselves to the inpatients for treatments or rehabilitation. Sometimes sixty persons a day are taken care of. Those services are given to people in the district from Montreal to Sherbrooke, St. Jean and Granby. Needless to say, the department is very busy, all the equipment is put to good use, and that remarkable cures take place. We had the opportunity of visiting the department. Mrs. Thom showed us the different sorts of apparatus used there such as: diathermy and ultra sound machines, whirlpools, traction apparatus and rehabilitation equipment. She also demonstrated the different walking aids used in the rehabilitation of patients. Our most sincere thanks go to Mrs. Thom who has placed herself at our disposition and who has taken the time to explain to us the secrets of her trade. Your columnist, a profane in this matter can only convey to you a pale image of the atmosphere prevailing in this department, which, day in, day out, is as busy as a bee-hive. But our goal is to inform the public and we hope that all those who need them, will be able to avail themselves of these services. The next meeting will take place Tuesday, June 18. As it will be the last reunion before the summer holidays, we are looking forward to a big attendance and we would be delighted if each member would attend, accompanied by a friend. We will dispose diligently of the matters on the agenda and make further acquaintance over a cup of tea. Our Gift Shop is open every afternoon from 1:30 to 4:30 p.m. except Sunday. Auxiliaries and Volunteers are at your disposal. Our boutique is filled with new merchandise and we can offer you at reasonable prices, lovely gifts of exquisite taste for your patients, friends or yourselves. We hope that you will pay us a visit. Your support and encouragement is very gratifying to us.

Expos draft Sorey

NEW YORK (AP) — Montreal Expos chose third-baseman Ronald Sorey of Dayton, Ohio, as their first pick in pro baseball's free-agent draft Wednesday.

San Diego Padres opened the first round of the draft by taking shortstop Bill Almon of Brown University.

Atlanta selected catcher Dale Murphy and Milwaukee Brewers picked right-handed pitcher Claude Edge.

Chicago Cubs chose outfielder Vernon Thompson, then Chicago White Sox chose right-handed pitcher Larry Monroe.

ANGELS TAKE MILEY

California Angels selected shortstop Michael Miley, and Pittsburgh Pirates chose left-handed pitcher Rod Scurry. New York Yankees picked shortstop Dennis Sherrill.

St. Louis and Minnesota Twins went for shortstops. St. Louis picked Gary Templeton and Minnesota selected Ted Shipley.

Houston's choice was outfielder Kevin Drake.

Detroit Tigers followed with infielder Lance Parrish and New York Mets took right-handed pitcher Robert Speck.

Kansas City Royals named outfielder Willie Wilson and second baseman Terry Lee was taken by San Francisco Giants.

Boston Red Sox chose shortstop Edward Ford, son of Hall of Famer Whitey Ford. Right-handed pitcher Richard Sutcliffe Jr. was chosen by Los Angeles Dodgers.

World Series champion Oakland As chose catcher Jerry Johnson and Cincinnati Reds selected pitcher Steve Reed, a right hander.

Baltimore Orioles completed the first round, taking third baseman Richard Dauer.

WBA franchise for Washington

WASHINGTON (AP) — A group headed by three blacks has been granted the Washington franchise in the World Baseball Association, bringing to three the number of teams now in the proposed league.

Sylvester Williams and John Wilks, self-described free-lance management consultants, and Norm Neverson, an occupational consultant who was George Washington University's first black player, heard the group.

They told a news conference they are seeking additional investors, would attempt to lease RFK Stadium and wanted to have "the fans share in the profits."

Williams, leader of the group, said there were others involved in the franchise but he was "not at liberty to name them at this time."

Run, not hit bothers Rau most

It didn't bother Doug Rau to see Richie Hebner heading for first base with Pittsburgh's first hit after 7 1-3 no-hit innings Wednesday night as much as it did to see Richie Zisk crossing the plate with the Pirates' first run.

"I wasn't really concerned about the hit, although I thought about a no-hitter in the fifth inning," the Los Angeles Dodgers left-hander said. "The hit didn't get me down as much as the run since it made it a one-run game again."

Rau allowed two more singles before giving way to relief ace Mike Marshall in the ninth with the Dodgers on top 2-1. And after coming within five outs of a no-hitter, the second-year hurler didn't even figure in the decision. Marshall yielded a game-tying single to Zisk and then became the winning pitcher when Steve Garvey homered leading off the bottom of the ninth, giving the Dodgers a 3-2 victory.

Elsewhere in the National League, Philadelphia Phillies held off Atlanta Braves 4-2. St. Louis Cardinals downed San Francisco Giants 4-1. Montreal Expos trounced Houston Astros 8-3 and San Diego Padres edged Chicago Cubs 4-3.

DROVE ZISK HOME

Rau had allowed only three baserunners—two on walks and

Indians win 9-3 in peace and quiet

The fans left the fireworks to the baseball team in Cleveland Wednesday night.

Home runs resounded at Municipal Stadium and the result was a 9-3 Cleveland Indians victory over Texas Rangers in relative peace and quiet.

"I really liked it when the fans stood up and cheered our boys when they hit their homers," said Cleveland manager Ken Aspromonte. "That's the kind of fans we want to come out and see us. They can enjoy our success with us. Those others, I don't ever want to see around."

It was a far more civilized scene than Tuesday night when their game was torn apart by a riot. Hundreds of fans, apparently hyped up by "10-cent beer night," threw debris and flooded the field, chasing the players to cover. The Indians had to forfeit the game.

On Wednesday night, only about 8,000 people showed up—about one-third of Tuesday night's audience. They were told by the public address announcer that fines would be levied if anyone ran on the playing field. And they cheered the announcement.

There were mostly cheers from then on, as Oscar Gamble and Dave Duncan hit three-run homers for the Indians in a seven-run sixth inning.

Dump Astros 8-3

Davis, Bailey and Breeden power Expos

HOUSTON (AP) — Willie Davis, Bob Bailey and Hal Breeden drove in first-inning runs against Houston's Claude Osteen and Montreal Expos went on to beat the Astros 8-3 in a National League baseball game Wednesday night.

The Astros nicked Mike Torrez, 5-4, for their first two runs in the fifth on a single by Lee May, Milt May's double, Doug Rader's run-scoring single and a sacrifice fly by Tommy Helms.

Montreal added a pair of runs off Ken Forsch in the eighth for a 5-2 lead. Mike Jorgensen was hit by a pitch with two out, went to second on a balk and scored on a single by Jim Cox.

When Cox attempted to take second on the throw home, catcher Milt May fired wildly to second and Cox continued all the way home.

The Expos scored three times in the ninth off Jerry Johnson on Jorgensen's two-run single and another run-scoring single by Cox.

Osteen, 5-5, was chased in the second inning when Torrez and Foli singled.

Snow Knight wins Epsom Derby

EPSOM, England (CP) — A Canadian-owned colt, Snow Knight, surprised his owners, paid his backers handsomely and pleased bookies Wednesday when he won the Epsom Derby.

Snow Knight, a 50-to-1 shot, led all the way in winning the first prize of $214,169 in Britain's most famous turf event.

The Queen and about 500,000 others saw Snow Knight throw jockey Brian Taylor before the race started, but saw even more of him as the three-year-old led for the entire 1 1/2 miles.

"Of course I'm surprised," said Neil Phillips, 50, a Montreal corporation lawyer who bought the horse as a yearling for slightly more than $13,000. "It would be ridiculous to say I wasn't."

"I'm just overwhelmed. I don't know what to say. I'm afraid I'm not very good press."

Phillips bought the horse and gave it to his wife, Sharon, who now is listed as the owner.

"Wasn't it wonderful," said Mrs. Phillips. "And I bet one pound on him, too."

BOOKIES HAPPY

The bookies were happy and one said it was the best Derby ever.

CFLPA halts contract talks

CALGARY (CP) — The Canadian Football League Players' Association halted contract negotiations with league representatives Wednesday night and association president George Reed said no player will report to camp until the proposed two-year agreement is signed by both sides.

In a statement, Reed said negotiations have been discontinued until the accounting firm of Touche Ross and Co. has an opportunity to review financial information provided to the players by the nine CFL clubs.

Both sides agreed on an independent audit of the books and Touche Ross, a Vancouver-based firm, was approved.

Negotiations ended after a three-hour meeting. No date was set to resume talks.

Reed said he does not believe the players' association is to be blamed for the delay in negotiations, although two clubs are prepared to open preliminary camps this weekend.

"We started Jan. 18 and didn't receive a counter-proposal until May 23," said Reed, who insisted after a meeting in Toronto that the players would not accept the league's position.

Several clubs have said the players' demands, which include a guaranteed minimum salary, more meal money, higher training-camp payments and more money for pre- and post-season games, cannot be met by the league.

KIMBALL COMMENTS

Reed's statement was much stronger than comments from the Edmonton Eskimos' general manager, Norm Kimball head of the league negotiating committee.

Kimball said he was not aware

Little Leaguers too competitive

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — A report by the physical education department at the University of Windsor says children playing little league baseball are forced into highly competitive situations much too soon and parents must bear the brunt of the blame.

The study, released Tuesday, centred on 3,600 players ranging in age from six to 18 and 7,200 involved parents. It examined the structure of little league baseball in the Windsor area.

Dr. Dick Moriarty of the faculty's sports institute for research said that in six of the 10 leagues surveyed a discrepancy was found between the goals claimed by organization—that of the children having fun—with the demands made by parents and coaches for excellence and winning.

Dr. Moriarty, along with colleague Dr. James Duthie, also was involved in a study of the local minor hockey association that led to the establishment of leagues that do not keep scoring records or standings.

Recent provincial hearings into violence in amateur hockey have heard evidence that too much emphasis is being placed on winning at the lower age levels.

The study, financed by a Canada Council grant, made 25 recommendations to the little league.

These included the suggestion that no scores be kept up until the age of 10, more clinics be established for coaches and parents and a division of players on the basis of ability and age rather than just the latter be made.

Sawyerville, Dauphins win

LENNOXVILLE (BP) — Two Lennoxville Women's Softball League contests were played last night at the Optimist Park here.

The Dauphins from Sherbrooke clipped Clark's Pharmacy 6-5 in the early game, while the Sawyererville club clobbered Rand 25-1 in a rain-shortened match.

Clark's made their first run in the third inning, but by that time, they were down 6-1. The Dauphins had a four-run first inning, followed by one run in each of the next two innings to complete their scoring. Clark's had a four run outburst in the sixth inning, but they couldn't rally in the seventh to get the needed runs for the victory.

Dryden knocks Campbell

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Ken Dryden, who recently signed a new contract to play goal for Montreal Canadiens, has opposed president Clarence Campbell's views on the question of violence in the National Hockey League.

In a keynote address to the annual conference of the Ontario Educational Co-ordinators' Association, Dryden said Wednesday:

"I would initially disagree with Clarence Campbell and his suggestion, at an inquiry into violence in hockey, that the NHL does not condone fighting."

Dryden also said the NHL Players' Association is dominated by Toronto lawyer Alan Eagleson and described it as "incapable" of doing anything to rid hockey of the violence tag that has been attached to it.

Sport is "not necessarily" character-building, Dryden said.

Why, then, did he decide to return to the NHL?

"Because I like hockey and it doesn't preclude me from doing a lot of other things I like very much," Dryden said.
