ESTABLISHED 1897 SHERBROOKE, TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 18, 1969 10 CENTS

Council looking at... $3,800,000 St. Francis plan

SHERBROOKE — (BSL) — City council will decide within 15 days whether to accept a $3,800,000 urban renewal plan for the St-Francis zone of the city after studying a survey from a Montreal company.

"The Sherbrooke city council will render its decision on the proposed plan to renovate the St-Francis district of the city hall within 15 days," said Alderman Hilaire Beliveau yesterday at a special council meeting at City Hall.

In 1969, council forsees that even more lodgings will be built.

A renewal of the waterworks and sewage system for the area, repaving roads and underground electrical wire installations are also included in the plan.

Parks are a part of the plan. A small park on the grounds of the Domremy institution on Bowen St. enlarging of the St-Francis park, and acquisition of 17,000 sq. ft. of land near the intersection of King and Windsor streets for a parking area are planned.

Sale of the project to private enterprises when it is finished will recover $1,300,000 of the $3,800,000 total cost. The Quebec Housing Association will pay 1,800,000 of the cost and the city's cost will total $960,000.

Part of the city's cost, $260,000 is for new land.

The city expects to pay the cost of the project over a 15-year period and collect revenues for a 20-year period that would result in a profit to the city of $1,721,000.

"I believe that accepting the opinion of the urbanists and the renovation of certain portions of the zone will act as an influence on the rest of the zone and its surroundings and will result in a spontaneous renovation," said Ald. Beliveau. "The city of Sherbrooke cannot permit itself not to realize this project as far as both economical and social aspects are concerned."

The urban renewal proposal was first presented to city council June 9. It was accepted June 29 by the Quebec Housing Association and a survey ordered.

The project is designed to solve major housing problems in the St-Francis zone of the city, in the area bounded by Kennedy and Hubbard streets and from Hebert St. to the St-Francis River.

"If any of the expropriation cases need to go to court, the Quebec Housing Association will again pay 75 per cent of the fees. I doubt that this will be necessary because we have been generous with our evaluation of the houses," said Albert Langlois, of Compagnie La Haye who conducted the survey.

URBAN RENEWAL MODEL — Scale model of the St-Francis urban renewal plan was submitted to city council yesterday by a Montreal consulting firm. The scheme, which will provide low-cost housing and parks in the area, will be completed in five years if it gets city approval.

House hopping Want to eliminate petitions

SHERBROOKE — (RS) — A proposal to eliminate the right of petition in house-relocation cases was sent to the city's urban committee last night for further study.

At the moment, anyone wishing to move a house must circulate a petition to residents near the new location, asking them to sign it, thereby indicating they have no objections to the move.

The proposal, says the local builder's association, will do away with many problems if it is drafted.

Speaking for the association last night, attorney Jacques O'Bready said the proposal would leave the permit matter in the hands of the building inspector alone.

Mr. O'Bready said that the permit to move a house would be obtained from the inspector, considerations being made of zoning rules and the proposed new site of the house.

Anyhow, he said, it could be ratified by council before the permit was granted.

Aldermen Hilaire Beliveau and Antonio Pinard were in favor of the proposal, but Ald. Everett Nicol, referring to a case in the North Ward, argued that persons with beautiful homes were entitled to their say.

"You wouldn't like it if someone moved a damn old house right next to yours," he said.

Alcoholic treatment Domremy gets back centre

SHERBROOKE — (RS) — City council last night reversed an earlier decision and re-opened the Domremy Alcoholic Treatment Centre on Bowen St.

Domremy had been forced out of its headquarters two months ago when city officials labelled the house "dangerously unacceptable."

Domremy set up temporary operations in a Brooks St. house that was totally unacceptable, according to institution director, Dr. Rene Frenette.

Last night Dr. Frenette requested return of the Bowen St. headquarters and informed council that the provincial government had authorized Domremy to spend $17,000 to restore the building.

Council agreed to return the headquarters, but the city will hold an option on the property.

The doctor said that he and the rest of the staff had no alternative but to seek return of the building, having been refused quarters at St. Vincent de Paul Hospital.

To stress the importance of his request, Dr. Frenette said three suicides had occurred recently as the result of alcohol.

"In addition," he said, "we have two young men on drugs shouting at us most of the time."

Last night's break-through will allow Domremy to go ahead with its renovation program, which is to be conducted jointly with the city.

In fact, council informed the four-man delegation that Domremy was situated in the middle of an urban renewal zone which is to start soon.

During their last visit to city hall two weeks ago, the Domremy delegation had offered to sell the building and adjoining land to the city, "all at a reasonable price."

Domremy will use the building for a period of at least two years, Dr. Frenette said, at which time the city should take over by using the building to supervise the urban renewal program which is expected to be underway.

City Chief Engineer Charles Langlois, on a question over the opportunistic side of the deal for the city, said that the proposal would seem quite acceptable "but at a very low price," he added.

Dr. Frenette told council that the original government suggested selling price of $68,000 still held, with one alderman commenting it was still too much.

Hat found by police dog only trace of lost boy

LAC MEGANTIC — Divers continued to search the Chaudiere River for nine-year-old Daniel Laroche, following the discovery of a hat, similar to the one he wore when last seen 10 days ago, wear the water.

Between 50 and 75 volunteers have been searching the river, from the Canadian Pacific Bridge to the Lake Megantic Pulp dam, as well as the surrounding woods.

Nothing encouraging has developed in the search to date. The only lead is the hat, found by Cpl. Laferrriere of the Provincial Police, with the help of a police dog called Rebel.

No other trace of the boy has been found.

No French snub

OTTAWA (CP) — Reports are untrue of a Canadian snub to France in the guest list of Prime Minister Trudeau's lunch last week with Secretary-General U Thant at the United Nations, an external affairs department spokesman says.

The prime minister and the Canadian UN delegation had nothing to do with the guest list arranged by the UN head, the spokesman said Monday.

Further, the French ambassador was invited but had to decline because of a French religious ceremony for Remembrance Day—the day of the lunch.

The spokesman was commenting on reports from Paris that the French ambassador was not invited to the luncheon because of Mr. Trudeau's anger over the recent visit of junior French cabinet ministers to Quebec City but not to Ottawa.

Invitations were extended by U Thant to the senior representatives at the UN.

PM fears SSJB parades will be demonstrations

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau, commenting in an interview Monday on a decision by the 165,000-member Federation of St. Jean Baptiste Societies to officially support the Quebec independence movement, said:

"This will result in future St. Jean Baptiste Day parades being separatist demonstrations."

The resolution, which also called for a pressure campaign aimed at convincing Quebec political parties to advocate "total sovereignty" for Quebec, was accepted at a weekend meeting of the federation in Montreal.

Mr. Trudeau said:

"I hope that all those invited to prepare floats will take note and know what they are getting into before they take part in the parade."

Montreal parades celebrating the saint's feast day, June 24, were broken up by nationalist demonstrators in the last two years.

The federation has been drifting steadily toward a policy of support for Quebec separatism since 1962, the president of the breakaway Quebec City society said Monday.

Commenting in an interview on the federation's decision to endorse Quebec independence, Emile Jacob said the official endorsement of separatism was "the natural result of the positions taken by the body" since 1962.

He said the Quebec City society will meet soon with local societies in Sherbrooke and Valleeville to discuss their political stand.

All three recently broke from the parent body because they felt the federation was too pro-separatist.

The Quebec City St. Jean Baptiste Society has 39,000 members.

Where did the money go?

OTTAWA (CP) — The management of Expo 67 was twice warned that its methods of taking in cash from the sale of admission and entertainment tickets was unacceptably sloppy, Auditor-General Maxwell Henderson told the Commons Finance committee Monday.

Mr. Henderson, appearing at committee hearings into legislation to wind up Expo's affairs, said his office inspected cash control procedures both before and after the fair opened in Montreal in April, 1967, and again three months later.

Shortcomings in the system included poor control over the destruction of admission passes and tickets for rides and poor management of accounts.

The first warning resulted in some improvements, Mr. Henderson said, but some deficiencies remained even after a second inspection.

The corporation is unable to account for $97,000 missing from sale of more than $101,000,000 worth of tickets and passes during the six months of the fair. "We have no proof that any money was stolen," Mr. Henderson said. "All we know is that the money is finally unaccounted for."

Sing-a-long to Bill 63

MONTREAL (CP) — Sixty-three French-language entertainers will sing out their opposition to the provincial government's language legislation in a stage production Sunday.

The Ligue pour l'Integration Scolaire, which has led the campaign for a French-only Quebec, announced Monday it is organizing a 12-hour sing-in against the legislation, officially designated Bill 63, to be staged Sunday at the east-end Maisonneuve Centre.

Bill 63, which has received second reading in Quebec's national assembly, would give parents the right to send their children to either English- or French-language schools while requiring English-speaking pupils to acquire a "working knowledge" of French.

Bonami gets 25 years

MONTREAL (CP) — Andre Bonami, 37, was sentenced to 25 years' imprisonment Monday by Mr. Justice Peter Shorteno for his part in a hold-up in September, 1968, which led to a gun battle between police and bandits on Montreal streets.

An habitual criminal charge was thrown out of court on a technicality because the judge said Bonami had been charged prematurely.

Bonami was actually sentenced to a total of 110 years in jail. It was ruled that these sentences be served concurrently—and consecutively with any other sentences he might be already serving.

This gives him a total of 30 years, as Bonami pleaded guilty in October to taking part in a mass escape from custody and was sentenced to the maximum five years.

Bonami is one of nine prisoners who escaped from a van transporting them from the Montreal jail at Bordeaux to the downtown courthouse Oct. 16. He still awaits hearing on a dozen other charges, including attempted murder.

Quebec a French book colony

PARIS (CP) — Paul Gerin-Lajoie, former Quebec education minister, said Monday Quebec is in the process of becoming a colony of the French publishing industry.

As a result of the cultural agreements made between France and Quebec in the last several years, French firms have launched "a veritable invasion" of Quebec in the publishing, distribution and even book-selling fields, he told reporters.

By contrast, France was boycotting the distribution here of books published and printed in Quebec.

Mr. Gerin-Lajoie, now vice-chairman of the Canadian government's special committee on prices and incomes, is in Paris for meetings of the Organization for Economic Co-Operation and Development, an international body of which all western industrial powers are members.

Creditiste on anti-hate bill Claims Paul may use bill as silencer

OTTAWA (CP) — Creditiste Rene Matte (Champlain) suggested in the Commons Monday that Quebec Justice Minister Remi Paul may use the proposed federal anti-hate bill to silence opponents.

The same fear was expressed in a more general way by Eldon Woolliams (PC—Calgary North) as second-reading debate began on the controversial bill.

The legislation would create three new criminal offences:

- Advocating or promoting genocide of any group identifiable by religion, race, color or origin.
- Public incitement of hatred or contempt likely to lead to a breach of the peace.
- Wilful promotion of hatred or contempt.

The bill was introduced three times in the Senate and finally passed there just before Parliament prorogued last summer.

One of the Senate amendments would require the consent of an attorney-general before a charge could be brought to court. This drew objections from Mr. Matte and Mr. Woolliams.

Mr. Matte said there are indications that "anyone who doesn't like" Mr. Paul, Quebec justice minister, will be thrown in jail.

Mr. Woolliams said the tendency to have attorneys-general decide whether a charge may be placed is dangerous.

"Groups A, B, and C could be charged because the attorney-general wanted them charged," he said. "But Groups D, E and F, saying the same things against another group, would be let off the hook."

Mr. Woolliams worried that the legislation might be used to disallow peaceful protest such as the Washington moratorium march against the Vietnam war and said there are safeguards in the Criminal Code against inciting hatred and contempt.

He also argued that the bill may backfire and be used to harm the groups it seeks to protect.

Andrew Brewin (NDP—Toronto Greenwood) said the anti-semitic, anti-Negro and pro-Nazi work of a Toronto group has spread to other parts of Canada since 1963. It demonstrated a need for such law to combat "a real, very great and palpable evil."

However he suggested two modifications to allay fears about the bill—injunctions rather than fines or jail sentences might prove more effective and the term "wilful intent" might be changed to "specific intent" as an added safeguard.

Mr. Turner led off debate by saying that after careful thought, the government concluded that the Criminal Code does little or nothing to protect society from hate propaganda. The bill was needed to deal with the special problem caused by invective and social reaction to it.

The bill had its origins in the report of the Cohen committee on hate propaganda. The committee, under Professor Maxwell Cohen of McGill University, included Prime Minister Trudeau, then a Montreal law professor, and Mark McGuigan (L—Windsor-Walkerville), also an academic when on the Cohen committee.

A Senate committee heard numerous briefs on the original government bill, which was beaten off by heavy opposition for two sessions before the amended version won passage this year.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

E. J. (Bud) Smith of Detroit and Ace Gutowsky of Oklahoma City first met somewhere in the Pacific during World War II. They have been friends ever since and also one of the country's strong bridge partnerships.

Ace didn't have quite enough to act over West's weak two-bid but when Bud was able to reopen with a jump to three spades, Ace decided that there might well be a slam. His four-club bid was a step in that direction. Obviously, Bud wasn't going to bid three spades and then pass four clubs.

Bud's four-diamond call was an obvious cue bid. Ace wanted to bid a slam but was looking at two possible heart losers. His jump to five spades told Bud exactly what the problem was and Bud went to the slam since he had a heart singleton.

He ruffed the second heart and noted that, while the slam was a good one, he had a possible diamond loser in the event that the club jack wouldn't be kind enough to appear when he played out dummy's ace, king and queen.

As you readers all can see, that jack was sitting right in back of the high clubs with three little ones to protect it but this didn't faze Bud in the slightest.

He just ran off all his trumps while discarding down to the king-eight of diamonds and 10 of clubs in dummy. East couldn't afford to let a club go, so was forced to throw away his five of diamonds. Thus, while Bud couldn't discard a little diamond on the 10 of clubs, he didn't have to. The little diamond had become a winner.

DOCTOR'S MAILBAG

Frequent Nosebleeds May Be Signs of Anemia

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

Q—My son, 25, has had severe nosebleeds all his life. Sometimes they occur when he is asleep. Is there any way he can be cured?

A—The commonest cause of spontaneous nosebleeds—those not caused by a blow or picking hard crusts from the nose—is high blood pressure. Excessive dryness of the indoor air, especially in winter, may be a contributing cause. Anyone who has frequent nosebleeds should be checked for signs of anemia.

If applying a thin film of mineral oil to the nostrils at night and humidifying the air to keep hard crusts from forming and lowering the blood pressure, if it is high, do not stop the nosebleeds your son should see a nose-and-throat specialist who may be able to locate a small ulcer or weak blood vessel and treat it.

Q—I have chronic sinusitis and postnasal drip. I have to use over 20 nasal tissues a day. Is there any cure for this?

A—The usual cause is a low-grade infection or an allergy. The first step in the treatment is to identify the cause. Then, if the condition is chronic, treatment can be expected to give some improvement but complete cure is difficult.

Q—Is it harmful to use a mild nasal spray several times a day?

A—Nasal decongestants should be used sparingly because they have a tendency to lose their effectiveness and to cause a rebound reaction—when the temporary relief wears off the congestion is worse than ever. Constant use of nasal sprays is the cause of many cases of chronic rhinitis and sinusitis. It may also cause nervous tension, tremors and palpitation.

Q—Could taking too many cola drinks cause a kidney infection or worsen such a condition? Can one become addicted to these drinks?

A—Cola drinks will not cause a kidney or any other kind of infection. Rather than aggravate it, large amounts of fluid help to flush out the infection but by themselves they would not cure it. Since cola drinks contain caffeine, they are about as habit forming as tea or coffee. Cup for cup, however, they contain less of the drug.

APOLLO

HOUSTON (AP) — The three Apollo 12 space explorers aboard the spaceship Yankee Clipper rocketed into orbit around the moon Monday, clearing one major hurdle to their landing and moonwalk Wednesday.

A crucial rocket firing came off perfectly—a six-minute blast at 10:47 p.m. Est. fourteen minutes after the spacecraft passed behind the moon and out of radio contact with earth.

It wasn't until Charles Conrad Jr., Richard F. Gordon Jr. and Alan L. Bean rode the ship back around the moon into radio contact again at 11:05 p.m. that the orbit was confirmed.

The firing put the Yankee Clipper and its fellow traveller Intrepid in an orbit ranging 71 by 194 miles over the moon.

Conrad's voice broke the silence as the spacecraft came out from behind the moon. "Yankee Clipper with Intrepid in tow has arrived on time," he said.

"I guess that just like everyone else who has just arrived, the three of us are plastered to the windows just looking," he added.

With the joy obvious in his voice, he evaluated the moon in the tradition of navy men. "For naval troops it doesn't look like a very good place to pull liberty, though."

The spacemen fired their rocket engine in the direction of flight to brake their craft and fall into lunar orbit.

The rocket firing was even more important than the same manoeuvre on the Apollo 11 or other moon flights. Failure carried unique and tragic consequences.

Previous moon flights followed a "free return" flight path, one that would permit only landings along the lunar equator, but which guaranteed an automatic return to earth after a looping turn around the moon.

But the flight path of Apollo 12 was altered two days ago to enable it to hit its target some 45 miles south of the equator in the moon's Ocean of Storms.

The new flight path required rocket power to brake its speed and put it in lunar orbit as did the old flight path. But it did not provide a free and automatic return to earth. Without rocket power to change its path, the spacecraft would have become marooned in the solar system in a long and endless orbit around their home planet.

The astronauts were not totally dependent on the Yankee Clipper's big rocket engine to do the job. If it had failed, they had two hours to get into the lunar lander Intrepid and use its lunar descent engine to propel them back toward earth.

The astronauts ran into one problem Monday night, a reminder of the rainstorm that cut their electrical power during launch.

They were forced to cancel an early scheduled television view of the moon as they approached it, because the sun's glare on the grime of the spacecraft windows was blinding. The windows are streaked with the residue of the rain that changed to ice during launch, much as an automobile's windows are left streaked by melting snow.

Long before the rocket burn the astronauts took time out to describe the looming image of the crescent moon.

"Boy that moon looks big today, Houston," Conrad said from only 9,100 miles away. "It's about the size of a baseball held at arm's length. And you can see all the mountains and craters. It's really a beautiful sight."

"We're starting to move on the far side of the sun from it, so we only see about an eighth of it," he added. "But that eighth of it is really stark. You can see that it's not a nice smooth ball anymore. It's got some little ridges and bumps."

Then later, using a telescopic device, Bean, too, described the scene as "very stark, and I never really realized how high the edges of these craters are."

"They're steep and a pretty rough looking satellite," he said.

For the second day, the three navy pilots were roused with a broadcast bugle call, reveille, in shipboard fashion. They said they had slept for eight or nine hours when they checked in at 5:20 p.m. EST, Gordon reported. "Apollo 12, all present and accounted for."

He was answered with three blasts from a Boson's whistle that carried the shipboard command, "Sweepers, man your brooms!"

Plaza ghost town
 Parking lot may be too late

SHERBROOKE — (RS) — For four years the merchants of University Plaza have been battling City Hall for a parking lot, claiming the denial of parking threatens to turn the plaza into a shopping ghost town.

Last night, they resumed the battle, although fearful that any action now might be too late.

Pharmacist Gilles Savard, spokesman for the plaza businessmen, said the area is being deprived of needed business and the lack of a parking lot is now creating a safety problem for pedestrians.

Mr. Savard said that the area surrounding the university was continuously growing and expanding.

But the biggest problem is availability of land, with just one vacant lot up for sale, he explained.

Mr. Savard reminded council of the parking lots it had set-up in other parts of the city where business communities were located.

On this, the spokesman proposed that the city join in a common effort to eliminate the parking lot problem by consenting to absorb half of the set-up cost of a parking lot on the proposed vacant lot.

The piece of land the University Plaza merchants are interested in buying is owned by a local real estate broker who warned council that developments with brokerage firms in Montreal might lead soon to the purchase of the land by an outside company.

The broker said he would rather sell the land to the city and help solve a now acute parking problem.

It would cost the city an estimated $68,000 to purchase the land.

Adding to the proposal, West ward Ald. Tony Pinard told council that after four years of stagnant concern, the merchants were entitled to a form of settlement.

Recalling that the south and centre wards had been well favored in the way of parking facilities, Mr. Pinard said it was time some consideration was given to the isolated merchants who surrounded the university area.

Council did in fact ask city attorney Jacques Besre for an evaluation of the land in view of possible negotiations between the parties.

SHERBROOKE — A Sherbrooke man, convicted of attempted murder, was sentenced to three years penitentiary, yesterday.

Assizes Judge Evender Veilleux sentenced 25-year-old Gilles Marquis to three years for stabbing Miss Nicole Glaude of Ascot North last June.

Marquis' defense lawyer, Yves Lafontaine insisted before the court that his client sincerely regretted the acts he had committed over the past years, and — had indicated a willingness to rehabilitate himself.

While the defense attorney was urging for clemency, crown prosecutor Michel Cote was calling for a severe sentence in

LESLIE FINER

 is now dictator's realm

SHERBROOKE — (DM) — Noted British journalist, Leslie Finer, spoke here last night to a meeting of the Canadian Institute of International Affairs, of his 14 years as a correspondent in Greece, saying that since the Army coup two and a half years ago, the Greek people have been oppressed by the military regime which they strongly oppose.

Mr. Finer said that the western world has not been sufficiently informed of this situation and suggested that possible American intervention, in some degree, could be an answer to the problem.

Some people, Mr. Finer said, agree that Greece gave the western world its philosophy about democracy. Although not altogether accurate, this presumption exists in sharp contrast to the image of today's government, which began as a dictatorship in 1967.

After the World War II, he said, the Greek people were uncertain about their freedom and the possibility of communist domination. With Albania, Bulgaria and Yugoslavia already taken over just to the north, financial assistance from Britain halted the rise of communism.

With subsequent American intervention, he added, the face of Greece improved after 1953. In 10 years, significant progress was made in technical, industrial and intellectual fields.

And in 1964, he said, Greece could finally afford the luxury of a two-party government with the majority election of Prime Minister Georges Papandreu.

Relations between Papandreu and the King were always very good, but character defects began to show up in the Premier and fringe elements in the establishment, ousted in the election, started to promote bad feelings about the government.

Finally, in July of 1965, Papandreu was dismissed. The following reaction was so violent that the King held off calling an election until public opinion had turned against him and it was too late.

With the military takeover in 1967, the King went into exile in Rome and there he remains, even though he is paid by the regime and considerable pressure has been exerted to have him return.

Mr. Finer said that there may be some form of counter-coup forthcoming in Greece because even though the people haven't been hit hard financially, they are being imprisoned and tortured by the hundreds.

 Three Israeli raids

Israeli planes raided Jordan three times Monday and one attacking plane was downed by anti-aircraft fire. Military spokesmen in Jordan said seven persons were killed and 11 were wounded in the attacks.

Jordan's King Hussein was reported to have taken part in directing anti-aircraft fire against Israeli jets that struck near the town of Salt in northern Jordan.

The Israeli jet went down in an attack over southern Jordan when an estimated dozen planes pounded an Egyptian-run radar station at Al Mazar, 10 miles east of the Dead Sea. Israeli officers said the plane crashed inside Israeli territory and the pilot parachuted safely.

No facts to support
 Viet slaying charges

SAIGON (AP) — A South Vietnamese government official said Monday he can find no firm evidence to support charges he said were made by villagers that United States troops executed 460 civilians in a sweep of hamlets in March, 1968.

Two American soldiers are under arrest in the U.S. in connection with the case. One, an officer, is accused of murdering an unspecified number of South Vietnamese civilians. The other, a staff sergeant, is charged with assault with intent to commit murder.

In Washington, defence department sources said around 100 deaths may have occurred when U.S. troops moved through a cluster of hamlets in an area known to be a Viet Cong guerrilla stronghold.

They said reports published in the U.S. that as many as 567 civilians were killed appeared to be exaggerated.

The South Vietnamese official, Col. Ton That Khien, chief of Quang Ngai province, suggested that civilians may have been killed in the operation in Song

Nixon suppressing dissent
 according to Humphrey

WASHINGTON (SP) — Former vice-president Hubert H. Humphrey accused the Nixon administration Monday of a calculated attempt to suppress dissent. And the Democratic party's policy council he heads adopted a resolution denouncing "any efforts to stifle criticism of government officials..."

The council, organized to speak for the Democrats on national issues, said: "We cannot tolerate in silence any attempt to silence debate in a free society."

"The Nixon administration's attack on the news media as expressed by Vice-President Spiro T. Agnew and the supporting statements of Director of Communications Herbert Klein, FCC (Federal Communications Commission) Chairman Dean

Birch, and other administration spokesmen, alarm those who believe in the right to dissent and in a free press. "We deplore any efforts to stifle criticism of government officials by dissenting citizens and responsible newsmen. We further deplore the longrange effect of appealing to fear and thus creating a climate of retaliation."

The council named a new freedom-of-expression committee "to safeguard the rights of criticism and dissent."

Earlier in the day, Israeli jets went into action against Arab gun positions in southern Jordan about 10 miles across the border. Spokesmen said returning pilots reported accurate hits on the batteries. The raid lasted two hours.

SECOND INCIDENT
 The attack on the radar station was the second incident in two days in which Egyptian forces were reported operating out of Jordan.

Egyptian frogmen attacked Israeli ships in the southern Israeli port of Elath on Sunday and Cairo indicated the raiders took off from the Jordanian port of Aqaba, which faces Elath across three miles of the Gulf of Aqaba.

"Jordan is responsible for the acts committed from its territory and it could not have been unaware of plans for this one," the semi-official Israeli paper Davar said in an editorial.

Most Israeli newspapers called for swift retribution against Jordan, noting a "gentleman's agreement" between Israel and Jordan whereby the two ports were supposed to be off limits to attack because of their mutual vulnerability.

U.S. Soviet A-treaty to clear ocean floor

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — The United States and the Soviet Union Monday urged approval of the U.S.-Soviet draft treaty to keep the ocean floor free of nuclear weapons.

U.S. Ambassador Charles W. Yost and Soviet delegate Aleksei A. Roschin made the pleas in opening the annual disarmament debate in the General Assembly's main political committee.

Both noted the U.S.-Soviet strategic arms limitation talks which opened in Helsinki Monday. Yost said success at Helsinki would help negotiations for a comprehensive test ban and improve the outlook for agreement to cut off production of weapons-grade fissionable materials.

Roschin said the Soviet Union is determined to work at Helsinki for an end to the nuclear arms race and thus contribute toward world peace.

The Soviet delegate dwelt also on another major issue before the United Nations—the curbing of chemical and biological weapons. Two rival treaties were before the committee—a British draft and another submitted by nine Communist countries including the Soviet Union.

Yost dealt cautiously with that aspect of the debate. He described the British draft as "the most detailed and carefully thought out" of the proposed measures, and merely noted the

Mental patients' gifts

Probably the most-forgotten people of Canada at the Christmas season are the inmates of the country's mental hospitals, not because of any neglect on the part of the staffs of these institutions who do everything in their power to ease the lot of the mental sufferers during the holiday period but rather because the nature of their illness often makes it impossible for them to receive visits from relatives and friends.

And, unfortunately, too often the relatives and friends because of financial conditions find it out of the question to make the lengthy journeys often required to visit their loved ones.

To brighten the Christmas season for the mental hospital patients, the Sherbrooke Branch of the Canadian Mental Health Association, along with sister organizations across Canada, is conducting a campaign for public participation in a program for providing special gifts for the sufferers at Christmas.

This is one of the cases where it can be said truly that the providing of the gift is of more importance than the value of the gift itself.

The simple idea that somebody is thinking of them at the holiday season does more for mental patients than a costly gift.

For the most part their wants are simple and the Mental Health Association suggests such things as slippers, sweaters, cigarettes, toys, puzzles, books and games, all of which are available at modest cost.

To ease the problems of prospective donors the local branch of the Association has arranged for a number of business establishments to act as receiving agents for gifts.

All you have to do is leave a gift, preferably with a card containing your name and address.

Automated battlefield

With a dedication and a drive of truly frightening proportions, mankind continues to seek bigger and better means of self-destruction. General William Westmoreland, the Pentagon's army chief of staff and the former commander of the United States forces in Vietnam, spoke in almost glowing terms about the battlefield of the future the other day.

Addressing the Association of the United States Army in Washington, Gen. Westmoreland described the weapons the Pentagon is developing at present.

"I see battlefields on which we can destroy anything we locate through instant communications and almost instantaneous application of highly-lethal firepower," the general said. He went on that computer-assisted intelligence and automatic fire control would make "first round kill probabilities" a virtual certainty.

While generals are allowed to build powerful military empires over which they can rule, the great stress placed upon more efficient means of killing will continue to haunt the world. Every time Western politicians attempt to cut back military spending, the cry goes up from the military that the government is ignoring the threats posed by this or that aggressor. And the same can be said of Communist countries.

Because back in the mists of time, many historical figures were great generals, we still tend to revere the soldier. Too often we forget and forgive the deeds of the blood-thirsty conquerors who swept across whole continents, leaving behind mountains of corpses.

Is this perhaps because our civilization, our knowledge, our ideals remains very limited?

Only when men put as much vigor and enthusiasm into the problem of building a genuinely international, multi-racial global society, as professional soldiers put into improving weapons of war, can humanity claim to be truly civilized.

The first V.C. flag

WASHINGTON — Last week was the anniversary of the making of the first Viet Cong flag in the United States. Although many people know the story, I still feel it is worth repeating.

A group of anarchist, militant, revolutionary, Maoist, Trotskyite, pro-Castro moderates was planning to demonstrate against the war in Vietnam, and they knew they would need a flag. One of them said, "Hey, I know a chick in Philadelphia who has an upholstery shop, and she could do it for us. Her name is Betsy Wrath."

So a delegation made up of three founding fathers bought half-fare student tickets and flew to Philadelphia to meet Betsy.

They found Betsy hard at work embroidering an obscenity on a cushion, which had been ordered by a student for the takeover of a dormitory at M.I.T.

"Betsy," the head of the delegation said, "we have come to ask you to make us a Viet Cong flag that we can carry in a Fourth of July parade in Chicago. You are the only one who can make it for us."

Betsy beamed. "This is a great honor you have bestowed on me, but I haven't the slightest idea what a Viet Cong flag looks like."

"We haven't either," one of the delegation said. "Betsy, you will have to start from scratch."

HOW ABOUT BLUE LINEN?

"Well," said Betsy, "I guess I'd better look and see what material I have available." She opened a drawer and took out some blue linen. "How does this hit you?"

"It shouldn't be all one color, Betsy, or the pigs won't know it's a Viet Cong flag."

"That's great, Betsy. Sew the two together."

Betsy put the material on her lap and began sewing. One of the students, an art major, set up an easel and started painting Betsy's picture so the historical moment would be recorded for future generations. The other students each took out a stick of marijuana to pass the time, and pretty soon the little shop was filled with smoke.

Betsy, who was also smoking, had trouble keeping the stitches straight and it took her seven hours to sew the blue material. Finally it was finished, and she held it up.

NEEDS A FUZZ PROVOKER

"Betsy, that's a beautiful flag, but it lacks something," one of the delegation said. "There is nothing in it to provoke the fuzzi to beating our heads in."

The other students concurred. Betsy opened another drawer and found a piece of yellow material left over from a tablecloth she had made for a coffee house near Fort Dix.

"Why don't I cut out a yellow star and sew it in the middle?"

"That is a tremendous idea, Betsy. The yellow could represent the sun rising over Saigon after the fascist puppets are driven into the sea."

Betsy took another drag on her cigarette, and in five hours she managed to sew the star onto the flag.

The delegation took the flag and tied it to a broom stick, and as they marched out of Betsy's shop chanting "Ho, ho, Ho Chi Minh" a squad of riot police with clubs swinging vroke into the group and arrested everyone.

Betsy, who was watching from her shop window, was thrilled. The flag had been officially accepted.

Now every time someone sees a Viet Cong flag in the United States, they think of Betsy Wrath who, with her needle and thread and dancing nimble fingers, made the whole thing possible.

Letters to the editor

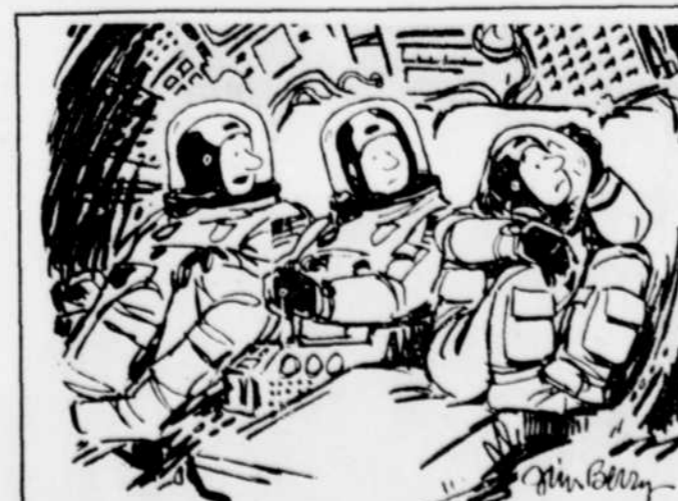

A bouquet and a brickbat

Sir,
First I would like to congratulate the parents who are demanding shower curtains for the boys showers at the Regional school. I hope they get enough backing. The kids have to go to school, they have to take showers, surely they are entitled to some privacy, after all we aren't living under some kind of Nazi rule, — yet.

I would also compliment Mr. Black on his article "The Strange Case Of The Montreal Star." I think we could mention several other places, including the C.B.C. where the Vietnam war is being completely misrepresented.

One other thing however, I would like to mention, perhaps we could call it the Strange Case Of The Sherbrooke Record, and why it chose to give its full front page and about half of another to a "Marijuana" advertisement. Yours truly, D.M. Clouston.

am in favor of a paper printing controversial material occasionally, but this was one sided. I expected it to be followed up by something against Marijuana, or at least some letters. But I only saw three or four letters only one of which really came out against the drug. I'm sure I wasn't the only one who wrote in to the Record on this subject. I know my letter was too long and I didn't really expect it published but I did expect to see some protest against Mr. Vokey's article. If people don't speak up against these things, Marijuana could be made legal, to trap young people. How about the Record coming up with some facts from the other side. I understand this is also going to be discussed on radio Civic Affairs next week, how about the public showing some interest.

"I hope he figures out what he's going to say, when he first sets foot on the moon, pretty soon!"

"Heavens, boy! — you could become ADDICTED!"

They love him or loathe him

The Prince could be the president

LONDON (CP) — Prince Philip edges out Prime Minister Wilson as the people's choice for president if Britain were to become a republic.

The Queen's husband has been embroiled in more controversy lately and Her Majesty's money problems have come to the fore. The Daily Mirror, mass-circulation tabloid, commissioned an opinion poll on the role of the monarchy and prints results today.

About nine out of 10 of those polled would retain the monarchy and believe that royalty will survive in its present form during their lifetimes and that the Queen and Prince Philip are of real value to Britain.

Asked to name their choice for the first elected president should Britain become a republic, 13 per cent named Philip and 11 per cent chose Labor's Wilson.

There was a third-choice tie at six per cent between Enoch Powell, Conservative party controversialist, and Earl Mountbatten, uncle of Prince Philip.

Running behind these were Conservative leader Edward Heath five per cent, former Conservative prime minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home four and Prince Charles, the Prince of Wales three.

Eleven per cent chose other figures, and 41 per cent had no opinion.

NO IN BETWEEN
Commenting on Prince Philip, The Mirror observes that people either like or loathe him.

"The truth is," the paper adds, "that Prince Philip sends blood pressure and eyebrows up with a verbal flourish. He also wins countless friends with his non-sense approach."

He was in the news again Sunday when weekend newspapers reported that he had made derogatory remarks about the singing of Tom Jones, a British pop idol, while the prince was talking to a group of businessmen last week.

Apparently it was his reluctance to be quoted on the point that caused him to have a run-in after the meeting with two Press Association reporters of whose presence he was unaware until after the session. Later he apologized to the reporters, who were present by palace invitation.

Today it was reported Prince Philip was writing Jones though the terms of the letter were not disclosed.

He was quoted in Sunday newspapers as having described the Welsh-born Jones's singing as "hideous" at a royal variety performance last week. Jones retorted that he was singing for charity and "not to a royal audience."

STIRS UP FUROR

Just before the businessmen's incident, Philip stirred up a public furore here with United States television interviews in which he spoke of the money troubles of British royalty and suggested jocularly that the Royal Family might have to move out of Buckingham Palace.

Wilson was impelled to take the heat of the issue by making a statement in the Commons promising a review of the royal finances after the next general election.

Meanwhile, money to help the Queen make ends meet is pouring into Buckingham Palace and British embassies around the world, but she is sending it all back.

The amounts have been (65 cents) pound ($3). Officials refused to reveal the total amount.

"The Queen has made a rule that she does not accept gifts from strangers, although obviously she is touched by the spirit in which they were given," a palace spokesman said.

Bell Canada announces improved phone service

ACTON VALE — Long charges between Acton Vale and three neighboring communities: South Durham, Upton and Roxton Falls, will be eliminated as from Nov. 16.

Bell Canada's manager for the region, Claude Fortin, manager of Le Telephone de Roxton Inc., Claude Boyer, and president of the Compagnie de Telephone de Saint-Ephrem de Upton, Pierre Lajoie have confirmed the date.

Customers in South Durham, Upton and Roxton Falls who wish to call Acton Vale need only dial the seven digits of the number they want. Acton Vale customers will do likewise to reach the other three municipalities.

This improvement in telephone service has been made possible through close cooperation between Bell Canada, le Telephone de Roxton Inc. and the Compagnie de Telephone de Saint-Ephrem de Upton.

Messrs. Fortin, Boyer and Lajoie said they hope that the introduction of the new telephone service will contribute to the economic growth of the region.

The PRAYER FOR TODAY FROM The Upper Room

I am the light of the world: he that followeth me shall not walk in darkness, but shall have the light of life. (John 8:12)

PRAYER: Lord Jesus, help us to look unto Thee that we may see all things in Thy light. We would remember today all those who are sad and troubled. May they know that they will never be tried above that which they are able to bear. Show us how we can make life happier and less hard for them. We ask this for Jesus' sake. Amen.

MR. AND MRS. GORDON LECKIE following their wedding in Candlish United Church, Kinnear's Mills, on October 18. The bride is the former Lorna Sandra, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Cruickshank, Leeds Village. Mr. Leckie is the son of Mrs. James Leckie and the late Mr. Leckie, Windsor Mills.

Leckie-Cruickshank

KINNEAR'S MILLS — The marriage of Lorna Sandra, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Cruickshank of Leeds Village, to Gordon James Leckie, son of Mrs. James Leckie and the late James Leckie of Windsor Mills, took place on October 18 in Candlish United Church. Rev. Gary Stokes officiated at the double ring ceremony. Mrs. Murray Nugent played the traditional wedding music. The silver vases at the front of the church were filled with yellow fuji and the pews of the immediate family were marked with white satin bows.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length gown of white peau de chamois fashioned with scoop neckline and long sleeves gathered into a deep nylon-acetate lace cuff. A detachable pleated train having a scalloped lace edging and appliqued lace petals fell from the bodice. Her shoulder length veil of nylon tulle was gathered into a wedding band of peau de chamois with similar appliqued lace designs. She carried a cascade bouquet of yellow talsman roses and gypsophila. Her jewelry was a single strand of pearls and matching earrings and a white-gold wrist watch, a gift of the groom.

Mrs. Franklin Brock, as matron of honor, and Miss Linda Leckie, sister of the groom, as bridesmaid, wore identical floor length gowns of moss green peau de chamois fashioned with scoop neckline, three-quarter bell sleeves and matching headresses. They carried bouquets of yellow fuji and gypsophila.

Mr. Franklin Brock, Ottawa, acted as best man and Mr. Lyndon Cruickshank, brother of the bride, as usher.

The bride's mother wore a forest green lace dress with three-quarter length sleeves, black accessories, and a corsage of yellow mums and roses. The mother of the groom chose a baby blue coat-dress with a contrasting scarf, black accessories and a corsage of yellow roses and mums.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the Colonial Club, Black Lake. The bride's table was centered with a three-tiered wedding cake and bordered with the bridal bouquets. Favourite musical selections taped prior to the wedding by the groom and Mr. William Brown were played during the dinner.

The eighty guests journeyed from Michigan, New York State, Toronto, Ottawa, Valleyfield, Sherbrooke, Lennoxville, Windsor, Danville, Melbourne, Telford Mines, Kinnear's Mills, Inverness, and Leeds Village.

Those who entertained in honor of Miss Cruickshank, prior to her marriage included: Mrs. Wm. Brown at her home on Bertrand Street, Sherbrooke; Mrs. John Cruickshank and Mrs. Milton Cruickshank at the latter's home on Westmount Street; and the ladies of Kinnear's Mills community under the supervision of Mrs. Everett Reid.

Mr. and Mrs. Leckie flew to Scotland for their honeymoon, the bride travelling in a dark green Marie France tailored suit with a corsage of red talsman roses and burgundy accessories. They are now residing at 1363 Dunant Street, Sherbrooke.

Promotion-Yes or No

There are many adults who wonder if the idea of promoting all pupils is really a forward step. It is. Traditionally, certain standards were evolved and they were used to determine if pupils were to go on the next grade. But are these standards valid or are they based on conventional wisdom, common sense and certain negative cultural expectations? Should they not be sound facts based on knowledge revolving around the developing child? There are six main reasons given for the retention of children.

Reasons Not to Promote

- 1—The child has not done well enough to profit from the work of the grade above.
 - 2—We need standards in our schools and we cannot continue to push children through.
 - 3—Teachers in the upper grades expect pupils to come prepared.
 - 4—Inability to do the work has a negative effect on children. It is better to keep them back where they can handle the work.
 - 5—Slow learners are a hindrance to everyone. If they are kept back, we reduce this problem.
- Universal promotion is unfair to pupils who have attained grade standards.
- Those who believe that children should be promoted at the end of each year present the following arguments.

Reasons to Promote

- 1—The slow learner achieves just as much in the next grade as he does by repeating the present one.
 - 2—Grade one teachers deal with a wide range of individual differences. This range cannot be reduced and so teachers in higher grades must also learn to deal with the range as it exists.
 - 3—The slow learner has enough problems in school without adding the stigma of non-promotion.
 - 4—Good teaching increases rather than reduces the range of abilities with which teachers must deal. Retention of children does not reduce the next teacher's problem of dealing with individual differences.
 - 5—Children of the same age should be kept together for work and play companions.
 - 6—Educational practices must adapt to the individual not the individual to arbitrary standards.
- If anyone compares the two sides to this question, the reasons to promote seem to have more validity. Many studies have been done on what happens to pupil attitudes if children experience non-promotion. There is enough evidence to show that failure creates emotional depression and discouragement in children. Pupils begin to distrust their own abilities and expectation of failure occurs.
- Some case studies show a cyclical relationship between school failure, discouragement, decrease of interest in school work, aggressive and attention getting behaviour and delinquent acts. One researcher has found that throughout the elementary school, promoted low achievers generally do better in school work than the non-promoted ones. There is now enough evidence showing that promotion for all pupils is preferable but this does not solve one of the central problems found in all schools.
- How are we going to cope with children's learning rates which differ not only from child to child but also from subject to subject. The schools are faced with the problem of providing conditions which are conducive to individual pupil growth. Creation of this type of school leads directly into the ungraded philosophy.
- The promotion-non promotion device was really an administrative technique of the graded school population movements.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Your imagination brings improvement to your morale and interesting thought to liven up your workday. Offer suggestions freely but without pressure.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): This is a much more pleasant day, but the likelihood of confusion and misunderstanding remains high. Speak clearly, believe the best of people and come out ahead.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Your inspiration carries the vision of the future but needs planning before it can become reality. Begin on the design but not as yet the application.

day but fill up your time. This can be a problem if you have much to do. However it goes, be tactful.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Travel does not work out well at the moment, but routine work catches yesterday's omissions and proceeds satisfactorily. Cultivate your contacts carefully for later activities.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Search for new locations or directions to avert competition and other obstacles. You may be alone in your view of the situation. Persevere!

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Don't contribute to today's trend toward confusion and contrary moods. Advice is available through discreet inquiry. Keep your own counsel.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Friends and family mix into business matters; nevertheless you can make a good working contact at unusually high levels. Reach for the most ideal goal.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Appointments, schedules run into snags, particularly where long transit is involved. Otherwise, the day is productive. Start early, take projects to fill the odd moments.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Caution is strongly advised. Matters at even short distances are misinterpreted, and it may be difficult to go there to check them out yourself. Believe little of what you hear.

Stamps: good pass no-run team

Calgary Stampeders will be looking for a way to score points Wednesday in the second game of the Western Football Conference final.

If they don't find it, Saskatchewan Roughriders will likely take the best-of-three series for the third time in four years.

In the first game in Regina Saturday, Stampeders showed they could move the ball—442 yards offence—but generated only one touchdown as they lost 17-11.

Stampeders coach Jim Duncan said there will be no great and sweeping changes in offensive strategy.

"We don't have time to change. We'll have to try to do what we do a little better."

GOOD PASSING

What the Stampeders do best is throw. In the last two games quarterback Jerry Keeling has passed for a total of 731 yards and won the praise of opposition coaches.

Where the Stampeders run into trouble is along the ground.

Duncan says the team suffers from the lack of a power runner, and the lack was noticeable Saturday when Calgary was unable to score in three tries from the three-yard line.

Stampeders started the season with an abundance of running backs, but Dave Cranmer suffered an injury after a few games and had to undergo surgery. He has been out of action since.

Then Ward Smith went to play for the Lions instead of Calgary and the Stampeders had one running back remaining, Ted Woods. Duncan switched Rudy Linterman into a running position, a spot from which he had seldom played.

But Saskatchewan also had problems Saturday in their first game in 13 days. Quarterback Ron Lancaster was able to hit receivers on only eight of 20 attempts.

TIMING OFF

"Ronnie's timing was off and we played sort of spotty," said Keys.

"At times we moved the ball well and at other times we couldn't do anything right."

One of the few things that look brighter for the Stampeders is the injury situation.

Duncan said none of the players received anything more than bruises and middle linebacker Wayne Harris, who missed the Saturday game with a sore knee, should be back Wednesday.

Saskatchewan flanker Gordon Barwell, hit in the second quarter Saturday, was examined in hospital Monday and was not expected to make the trip to Calgary for the second game.

The game, to be televised on the CBC national network, starts at 8 p.m. MST.

The Stampeders, who advanced to the Grey Cup last year with a sweep of the Roughriders, remember the bitter after-taste of 1967 when they defeated Saskatchewan 15-11 in the first game of the final Saskatchewan eliminated Calgary with 11-9 and 17-13 triumphs.

No change in tourney schedule despite Russians

WINNIPEG (CP) — The Soviet delegation criticized the tournament schedule it has drawn up and hinted that they for the 1970 world hockey may not take part in the tournament no matter what annual event.

"They didn't say definitely. The statement was made they wouldn't be here and Monday by Earl Dawson of we're confident they will be."

Rivers, Man., president of Dawson told a news conference the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, who had just returned from the International Ice Hockey Federation's directorate meeting in Montreal.

The Russians objected to having to play on successive days three times during the tournament, which will be played in Montreal March 12-20 and Winnipeg March 22-29.

Gordon Jukes of Winnipeg, executive director of the CAHA, said the schedule was composed to reflect the interest of the Canadian public, taking into account that Canada would be the main attraction.

He said the timetable was fair to all teams and all other delegations had approved it.

Armstrong gives it another try with Leafs

"Old hockey players never lose interest—they just die," says George Armstrong who is alive and back in uniform with Toronto Maple Leafs.

Armstrong announced Monday he has started practising with the Leafs after ending his third self-imposed retirement during the weekend.

The 39-year-old veteran said it would be up to coach Johnny McLellan to decide when the right-winger would start his 19th NHL season.

"I'm on the payroll now, so I have to do what I'm told," Armstrong went through training camp with the team, but announced just before the season started that he was quitting the game because he had lost his enthusiasm.

But, retirement was boring. "And, like I say, when you're a hockey player, you don't lose interest until you die."

He retired in 1967 after the Leafs won the Stanley Cup and he realized he wouldn't be protected in the draft. But he came back and retired again at the beginning of last season only to have former Leaf manager and coach Punch Imlach talk him out of it.

This time, though, he talked himself out of it.

SKATES WITH LEAFS
He met with McLellan and general manager Jim Gregory Friday and Saturday and has skated in a couple of Leafs' practices since.

Armstrong could help the team at a time when they have several players limping.

Defenceman Mike Pelyk fractured a collar bone in Saturday's game against Philadelphia and right winger Floyd Smith suffered strained knee ligaments. Just back from a bout with the flu is left winger Wayne Carlton who has been used on right wing and defenceman Jim Dorey who had a sore back.

Armstrong was not sorry the Leafs had taken the "C" off his sweater and made Dave Keon team captain.

"I think the C is where it should be," said Armstrong who served as team captain from 1957 until Keon assumed the role two weeks ago. "It should be worn by a player of Keon's calibre."

The Leafs are on home ice with Los Angeles Kings Wednesday in one of five games. Detroit plays the Canadiens at Montreal New York Rangers are at Chicago, Oakland Seals meet the North Stars at Minnesota and St. Louis at Pittsburgh against the Penguins.

ANGRY AT BOWMAN

Bud Poile, general manager of Philadelphia Flyers, charged Monday that general manager and coach Scotty Bowman of St. Louis "sends his team out to intimidate people."

Poile, also general manager of Quebec Aces of the American League, was in Quebec Monday where he said in an interview that it was "too much of a coincidence" that the Blues were involved in four major brawls since they joined the NHL in the 1967 expansion.

Poile said he has asked NHL president Clarence Campbell to look into the Blues' record concerning fights.

Montreal announced Monday it has returned left-winger Peter Mahovlich to its AHL farm team. Mahovlich was called up three weeks ago to replace Yvan Cournoyer who has since recovered from a nose injury.

Place-kicking major factor in WFC tilt

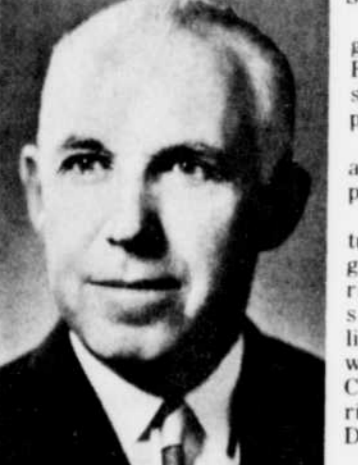

Place-kicking could be a major factor in the second game of the Western Football Conference playoff Wednesday night with Calgary Stampeders hoping for a reversal of their 1967 series against Saskatchewan Roughriders.

The Roughriders will be seeking their ninth win in a row when the teams clash in the 8 p.m. MST contest at McMahon Stadium, to be televised nationally by the CBC with a blackout at Calgary.

Jack Abendschan's pinpoint kicking, which accounted for 116 points and the WFC scoring title, could spoil Calgary's comeback hopes and enable Saskatchewan to become the sixth team to sweep the best-of-three final since 1950.

John Ferguson

Clarence Campbell

Campbell to investigate Ferguson - Sabourin run-in WINNIPEG (CP) — President Clarence Campbell of the National Hockey League said Monday he will go to St. Louis tonight to investigate a stick-swinging incident in which the Blues' Gary Sabourin was hit on the head Saturday night.

The incident took place during a St. Louis-Montreal Canadiens game in Montreal.

Montreal's John Ferguson was given a match penalty and two majors as a result of a melee which involved other players. Campbell said he will meet with Sabourin and any other person who can shed some light on what happened, as well as going over game films.

"All I have so far is telephone reports from game officials," Campbell said. "But I gather Sabourin was stunned or knocked dizzy."

Campbell was in Winnipeg to attend a Hockey Canada news conference today.

Shuffles pay off-Argos

TORONTO (CP) — Much of Toronto Argonauts' success in the first two games of the Eastern Football Conference playoffs has been due exclusively to a four-man defensive line.

The Argos, who played the early part of the season with a three-man line, began experimenting with the four-man unit in the last four games of the season and in two playoff games have allowed only two touchdowns and 23 points.

"Moving Walt Balasjuk and Mike Wadsworth into the middle is the really big difference," flanker Bobby Taylor said Monday. "That was a great move."

After alternating between the three- and four-man formation over the final four games of the season, Toronto went to four in the EFC sudden-death semi-final and defeated Hamilton Tiger-Cats 15-9.

Last Sunday the defence stopped Ottawa cold in the final game and defeated the Rough Riders 22-14 in the first game of the two-game total-point EFC final.

The Argos also made another key shuffle in Sunday's game—benching rookie defensive end Vernon Vanoy in favor of Dave Knetchel, a Canadian who missed most of the regular season with injuries.

BEAT TORONTO BEFORE

The Rough Riders had beaten Toronto in three regular-season meetings, including a 20-9 rout in the third game.

Much of Ottawa's success in all three games was the superb running and passing of quarterback Russ Jackson. During the three games, he ran 20 times for 200 yards when Toronto had successfully covered his receivers.

Sport briefs

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League announced Monday they have sent left-winger Pete Mahovlich back to Montreal Voyageurs, their American Hockey League farm club.

Mahovlich, younger brother of Detroit Red Wings Frank, was called up three weeks ago when the Canadiens were without the services of Yvan Cournoyer, who missed several games because of a broken nose. Cournoyer has since rejoined the club.

QUEBEC (AP) — Bud Poile general manager of Philadelphia Flyers of the National Hockey League, said Monday Scotty Bowman, general manager-coach of St. Louis Blues, was "99 per cent responsible for the last four major brawls" in the league.

Poile told a press conference he will ask NHL president Clarence Campbell to look into the situation.

Poile commented in response to a question about a fight last Saturday night in St. Louis, involving the Blues and Montreal Canadiens.

"Four of the major brawls that I can remember in the last two years have involved the St. Louis Blues," he said. "I think it is more than a coincidence that the St. Louis Blues have been involved in all of them."

Two of the four incidents Poile referred to involved the Flyers, a team spokesman said.

SEATTLE (AP) — Seattle businessman Fred Danz announced Monday that an agreement was signed during the weekend transferring majority control of the Seattle Pilots American League baseball team to a new group.

Danz said the agreement, signed by William R. Daley of Cleveland and Max Soriano of Seattle, provides for Daley to retain a partial interest.

He said transfer of ownership is dependent on American League approval at its Dec. 4 meeting in Bal Harbor, Fla.

If approval comes, Danz said, the new Seattle group would take over immediately. League approval was expected.

But the holes were shored up in Sunday's game and left Jackson no running space.

Offensively, Taylor says the Argos' ability to run inside was the deciding factor against Ottawa Sunday.

"When they went out to cover the sweeps and outside passes, we simply went to the inside," Taylor said.

Ski-Doo is your number one choice in snowmobiles

Come see the 1970 reasons why

Number one in sales Ski-Doo has introduced more people to the sport of snowmobiling than any other make. That's because Ski-Doo invented snowmobiling. And ever since its first appearance on a snowfield, Ski-Doo has been the undisputed snowmobile leader. Last year alone, Ski-Doo dealers sold over 114,000 models. That's more than the next six manufacturers combined. There are many reasons for Ski-Doo's great success. And a better choice of models is certainly one of them.	Number one in selection For 1970, Ski-Doo offers five exciting series — each with a totally different personality. We're sure you'll find one to match your own. If it's luxury you're after, there's Ski-Doo Nordic. If it's sporty action you're itching for, there's Ski-Doo Olympique. If you want a Ski-Doo that's big, comfortable and fun to drive, there's twin-track Invader. If you're looking for speed and power, there's Ski-Doo T.M.T. And if price is on your mind, there's the Ski-Doo 12/3. It's so low priced, a lot of people are buying two and three.	Number one in sizzle Every one of our snowmobiles is powered by the world famous Rotax engine — designed exclusively for Ski-Doo. No other engine delivers more efficient power for climbing, towing, just plain funning around. And no engine acts better, at all speeds — all temperatures. And this year, our Rotax engines are even more dependable. They're bigger in size, with more cc's, but deliver the same horsepower as before for the most trouble-free performance in snowmobile history.	Number one in service Your Ski-Doo dealer is a good guy to know. Not just because he sells the number one snowmobile. But because he can offer better service after the sale. He's a pro with know-how, ready to give you qualified repair service — whenever you need it. He's the man who offers a free 15 hour service check to new Ski-Doo owners. And a parts and service warranty that gives you real peace of mind. He's also the one person in town who can tell you where to find all the best snowmobiling trails. If you want the number one choice in snowmobiles, in high-fashion winter sportswear and accessories, see your Ski-Doo dealer. He'll show you all the 1970 reasons why you go one better when you go Ski-Doo.
