By-election in Huntingdon and St. Johns Reportedly Scheduled To Be Held For Mid-September

Election Front Remains Tranquil—Action Expected Soon in Huntingdon and St. Johns Ridings to Replace Late James W. Ross and Dr. A. Bouthillier —Conventions Will Probably be Held Very Shortly —An Important Shift in Godbout Cabinet

Most any time now the untroubled air of Huntingdon and St. Johns counties will be rent with shafts of oratorical lightning and thunderclaps of circumlocution, windy preludes to by-elections in these two Province of Quebec ridings, reportedly scheduled for mid-September.

Liberal organizers in Huntingdon claim they haven't even begun to think of organization work; this may be translated to mean supreme confidence, simulated insouciance or anything else. National Union headquarters assert they are ready for anything, any time; in political parlance this never takes in the possibility of defeat, only victory.

Of greater interest, perhaps, than the actual results of these by-elections, are the Cabinet changes said to be imminent directly after the two political contests. It is a secret no longer that Hon. Wilfrid Hamel (Lib. St. Sauveur) and the white-haired boy of both Premier Adelard Godbout and Justice Minister Ernest Lapointe, is slated for the Ministry of Labor. Hamel is now a member of the Cabinet without portfolio.

The labor department, important in peace-time, and doubly so in time of war, is now headed by Hon. Edgar Rochette, K.C. Under the present Cabinet setup, Mr. Rochette couples the portfolios of Mines and Maritime Fisheries with that of Labor—a superman-sized job if ever there was one. If, as and when Mr. Hamel obtains full Cabinet rank, Mr. Rochette would forego the labor portfolio to devote all his time to the Mines' Department and that of Maritime Fisheries.

There is the likelihood, too, that a shift will be operated in regards to the Attorney-General. The present holder of that office is Hon. Wilfrid Girouard, K.C., (Lib. Arthabaska) a former member of the Dominion Parliament. Apparently Mr. Girouard is anxious to be elevated to the Bench of the Superior Court and give up the hurly-burly of political life. There is talk of his being replaced by Hon. Bernard Bissonnette, K.C., Speaker of the Legislative Assembly, though the latter has also been frequently, and insistently, mentioned for a judgeship.

In addition to these possible changes there are five vacancies to be filled in the Legislative Council. The only appointee to a seat in this august consistory since the present Government came to power in October, 1939, was that of Hon. F. Philippe Brais, K.C., Government leader in the Upper House and Minister without Portfolio.

To fill these vacancies, it is being said that Premier Godbout will have to pick at least two or three members of his present Cabinet. Political wiseacres report that the men in this category having the best chance of going what is known in Quebec as "upstairs" are Frank L. Connors, Montreal, Cleophas Bastien, Berthier, and Georges Dansereau, Argenteuil. Should this come to pass, three more vacancies will be created in the Lower House with a consequent run-off of that many more by-elections.

Houde Seat Vacant

The coming by-elections are due to the sudden deaths of Jas. W. Ross, Huntingdon, and Dr. Alexis Bouthillier, St. Johns. The only other vacancy in the Legislative Assembly is that caused by the enforced absence of Camillien Houde, elected in 1939 for St. Mary-Montreal as the only Independent candidate on the lists.

At full strength, the Lower House counts 87 members and the Legislative Council 24. There are arguments being heard, however, in regard to possible appointments to the latter body, that Premier Godbout has no intention to fill them but just allow matters to slide along.

As a matter of fact the 1938 Quebec Liberal convention which re-affirmed Mr. Godbout in the party leadership, went on record as favoring the "immediate" abolition of the Council. It costs Quebec taxpayers in the neighborhood of $105,000 annually to run what might be called this provincial Senate, the only one such remaining in the Dominion.

Very little has been heard of prospective candidates in the county of Huntingdon. As to St. Johns, however, there is talk that all is not well within Liberal party ranks. Martial Rheaume, the Liberal M.P. for the county, apparently has ideas of his own as to who should be shoved forward as candidate, while Hon. T. D. Bouchard, provincial Liberal chieftain for the Montreal district, which includes St. Johns, holds others. Mr. Bouchard is Minister of Roads and Public Works.

These difficulties are always ironed out before elections, however, and always "for the good of the party." In any event conventions in both ridings will probably be held shortly and the whole clap-trap of political machinery set in motion.

PRIVATE WALTER CURRIE, No. D-77633, enlisted with the Royal Montreal Regiment in September 1940. His next of kin are Mr. and Mrs. Harry Porter of Franklin Centre. He is at present stationed in Montreal.

HUNTINGDON MAN HELD IN GERMAN OCCUPIED FRANCE

The Department of External Affairs on Friday night released the names of 94 persons who claim Canadian nationality and who are reported to be interned at Drancy (Seine) in German-occupied France.

The department said most of those in Friday's list have previously been reported interned at other camps from which they have now been transferred to Drancy.

"This is in particular the case of priests and members of religious orders," the external affairs department said.

Following is Friday's list of former residents of Huntingdon, Valleyfield and Chateauguay, with age, birthplace, and next of kin, where known.

Rev. Adrien Brault, 37, Chateauguay, Que., Adelard Brault (father), Chateauguay.

Rev. Gilbert Cuillierrier, 32, Valleyfield, Que., Zenon Cuillierrier (father), 139 Champlain Street, Valleyfield.

Joseph A. Marceau, 61, Huntingdon, Que., Mrs. Fernande Henry (relationship not given), 3 Rue de Lagny, Saint Thibault, par Lagny Seine et Marne, France

FINED $200. FOR SMUGGLING U.S. CATTLE IN CANADA

Reuben Donnelly of Huntingdon appeared before Magistrate's Court in Valleyfield on Thursday morning and was found guilty of infraction to the Canada Customs Act. Justice Lemay, who presided at the sitting, fined Donnelly $200 and costs.

Donnelly was found guilty of smuggling cattle into Canada from the United States and selling them to Canadian farmers. The charge was laid by the Huntingdon detachment of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

Former Pastor At Huntingdon Passes Away

Rev. T. Bentley Jeakins, 82, Had First Parish at Hemmingford, Then Huntingdon and Later Waterloo

Rev. T. Bentley Jeakins, 82, former hospital chaplain and Bishop's missionary for the Church of England in Montreal, died on Sunday night at his home, 440 Mount Stephen ave., Westmount.

Born in Huntingdonshire, England, in 1858, he came to Canada in 1890 and took up his residence and his life's work with the Anglican Church in the Eastern Townships. His first parish was Hemmingford, then followed Huntingdon and Waterloo, where he stayed for 17 years. He was also rural dean of Shefford County.

In 1917 Mr. Jeakins began his work in Montreal, becoming hospital chaplain and Bishop's missionary. He served under four prelates during his tenure of office, Bishops Bond, Carmichael, Farthing and Carlisle. He retired in 1936, but his deep interest in the church and its activities only ceased with his death on Sunday.

Mrs. Jeakins and a son, Rev. Charles Edward, who was Dean of St. Paul's Cathedral, London, Ont., died some years ago. Mr. Jeakins is survived by three other sons, George T., of New York, John W., William B., and two daughters, Catherine M. and Dorothy, the last four all living in Montreal. The funeral service was held at 11 a.m. on Wednesday. Burial was in Mount Royal Cemetery.

ATHELSTAN RED CROSS DANCE IS WELL SUPPORTED

One of the most successful entertainments staged by the Athelstan branch of the Canadian Red Cross Society took place on Monday evening when about 1,500 people attended the dance at Paul's Barn. This record attendance brought in $550, of which $170 was taken in at the refreshment booth. The music for the occasion was supplied by the Kentucky Ramblers.

Young Girls Working for the Mother Country ....

Two young girls held a lemonade sale on the Presbyterian Church premises in Huntingdon on Saturday morning in an effort to raise money for the Queen's Canadian Fund. Despite the hot weather which prevailed, the youngsters remained at their stand for more than two hours and their efforts were gallantly rewarded when they realized that $4.41 had been contributed. Miss Jeanette Pierce, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allan Pierce, and Miss Darline Gentle, granddaughter of Mrs. Retta Gentle, were the salesladies in charge of the lemonade booth.

Coroner Finds That Valleyf'l'd Man Drowned When Trapped On Beauharnois Power Bridge

Two Men Drowned at Beauharnois as Divers Were Seeking Information Regarding Sudden Disappearance of Large Section of Provincial Highway Bridge —Residents of Valleyfield and Chateauguay

Two workmen were drowned at Beauharnois on Sunday morning as a diving crew sought further information regarding the sudden disappearance of a large section of the provincial highway bridge on route 3 between Beauharnois and Valleyfield, which collapsed early Monday morning, July 21.

The dead are: Hector St. Pierre, 27, of Valleyfield, and Gilbert Barrette, 25, of Chateauguay.

They were in a rowboat on the outside of one of the piers of the bridge when the 20-mile-an-hour current swept the boat out into the stream and turned it over.

At the time two divers were at the bottom of the river and a crew was working the air-pressure apparatus on a flat-bottomed boat nearby.

Early Saturday morning the body of Philippe Page, 22, of Valleyfield was recovered at Beauharnois and it is believed that he was driving his car across the 180-foot span Monday night when it collapsed. His family had reported that he had not come home Monday night and had not been seen since. His car has not yet been located.

Rivermen at Beauharnois are of the opinion that the car must have been swept a long distance by the current, which was running at 50 miles an hour when the bridge collapsed.

Divers on Sunday reported that the section of bridge in the canal bottom had been swept 200 feet despite its many tons.

Diving operations to determine the situation at the canal bottom were started only on Sunday as the rush of water from the Beauharnois power plant can only be stopped on Sundays. It increases the current from 20 miles an hour to 50 miles an hour. It is understood that further diving operations will be attempted next Sunday.

Power Co. Offers Reward

The Beauharnois Light, Heat & Power issued a special notice on Tuesday afternoon to the effect that the company would give the sum of $25 to any person who might find one or both bodies of the men drowned on Sunday.

More Victims

It was unofficially stated in Beauharnois this week that more than one car was lost in the bridge crash. It is rumored that one truck, a bicycle and two other cars are reported to have fallen into the swirling waters. These rumors, however, could not be officially confirmed as yet.

NITRO JOURNAL TO BE PRINTED BY H'DON GLEANER

Another newspaper is to be printed by The Huntingdon Gleaner Inc. It will be known as Nitro Journal. This publication is being printed in bilingual form, half being in English and half in French languages. The content of the paper will be largely of "Safety First" advice and reports of sports, etc. The Journal is to be edited by Mr. G. A. Ganas and will be distributed amongst the employees of Defence Industries Limited, Nitro, Que. (Valleyfield). The initial number will call for 2500 copies. The publication is to start as a monthly publication but will quite likely be made a fortnightly publication at an early date. The newspaper illustrations as well as the typesetting and printing will be done by the Gleaner.

DUNDEE GIRL IS FETED AT A BRIDAL SHOWER

A miscellaneous bridal shower was given last Friday for Miss Bernice Fraser of Dundee at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. Fraser. There were over 100 guests present.

The bride-to-be received many lovely gifts and a social time was enjoyed. Sandwiches, cakes, cookies and lemonade were served.

Miss Fraser is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Fraser.

The following, who were unable to complete the June tests through illness, will be promoted to Grade XI, with a Class I rating — Una Fennel; Margaret Laurie; Hazel Irving.

In the lists the schools in the Chateauguay Valley as well as the names of candidates are given in alphabetical order. After the name of each candidate appears the class standing obtained as follows: Class I-800 marks and over; Class II-650 to 799 marks, and Class III-below 650 marks. Those whose names are followed by (S) received their certificates after writing supplementary examinations.

In spite of war conditions, 1,734 candidates wrote the full high school leaving examinations. This is a decrease of only 23 from the number writing in 1940 which was the peak year. In addition, 238 pupils wrote partial or supplementary examinations, making a grand total of 1,972.

Of those who wrote the complete examinations, 1,247 passed, an all-time high. The percentage of pupils passing was, therefore, 72 per cent.

The percentage of failure in the major subjects is as follows:

Subject	Percent of failu
English literature	10.3
English composition	10.1
Written French	17.6
Chemistry	19.9
History	11.6
Algebra	16.8
Geometry	19.7
Physics	16.8
Latin prose and comp.	19.2
Latin poetry and sight	17.0

To obtain high school leaving certificates, candidates must pass in English literature and composition, oral and written French, and at least four other subjects from a lengthy list of options. When students write on more than six highest optional subjects, the six highest marks are taken with the compulsory units to make up a maximum total of 1,000 marks.

Family Awarded $5,000 as Fault Held Equal in Collision

Dame Andre Jubinville, of Chateauguay, Sued For $25,975 on Her Behalf as on Behalf of Six Minor Children—Both Drivers Should Have Been More Cautious, Claims Judge

An automobile collision which cost the life of Andre Jubinville on August 27, 1939, was due equally to the fault of Jubinville and Ross Carmichael Phillips, of Lachine, according to a judgment handed down in the Superior Court by Mr. Justice J. J. Denis.

The tragedy occurred on St. Patrick Street, Montreal, at 1.40 in the morning. Jubinville thought something was wrong with his car, and stopped to investigate. As he was getting back into the car he was struck by a car owned and driven by Phillips, and died in hospital on October 12.

His widow, Dame Yvette Gagnon, now of Chateauguay, sued for $25,975, on her own behalf as on behalf of six minor children.

His Lordship said there had been fault on both sides, and he believed the degree of fault was equal. First of all, Jubinville should have realized that he was on a narrow street, only 20 feet wide, and should have kept against the curb. Also, he had failed to dim his lights, and the obligation to dim lights exists for parked cars to the same degree that it exists for cars when passing each other. A third fault committed by Jubinville was that he had got out of his car by the left hand door, which brought him to about the centre of the street, and he was getting into the car by the same door when he was struck. The right side door is the one which should be used.

Should Have Taken Precautions

Phillips should have taken more precautions. He had noticed the glare of the lights a quarter mile away, and this should have made him cautious. He should have realized that something was out of the ordinary when a car was stopped in the road, and its lights were burning full. The law was clear that a motorist must be prepared at all times to meet any emergency which may arise, said His Lordship.

When Phillips had noticed the stationary car, with the bright lights on, he should have reduced his speed, or even come to a total stop. He should have taken all steps possible to avoid the accident, and had not done so.

As to the amount of the claim, His Lordship noted that Jubinville had been earning $1,300 a year. From this must be deducted $300 which Jubinville required for his own personal needs, which left $1,000 a year of which the widow and six children were deprived for a period of years. His Lordship came to the conclusion that a capital sum of $12,000 for widow and children would be a fair estimate and of this 40 per cent, or $4,800 should go to the widow, and 60 per cent or $7,200 should go to the children. From the share of the widow of $4,800 there had to be deducted $2,000 which she had got from an insurance policy on the life of her husband, which brought her share down to $2,800, and on the ruling that Jubinville had been 50 per cent responsible for the accident, His Lordship awarded Mrs. Jubinville $1,400. The children's share of $7,200 also is cut in half because of the equal fault on the part of Jubinville, and $3,600 is awarded for them, making the total for widow and orphans, $5,000. Costs of an action of that amount are allowed.

Driver Within Rights in Stopping to Pick up Friend

Parked Car Crash at Melocheville Given Legal Study—Justice Archambault Finds Plaintiff at Fault Due to Negligence and Lack of Foresight—Action is Dismissed in Beauharnois District Superior Court

While it is true that there is a provincial regulation which forbids an automobile being parked on the paved portion of a highway, this does not mean that a motorist cannot stop his machine for a minute or two in order to pick up a passenger, pointed out Mr. Justice Joseph Archambault in a judgment handed down in the Superior Court (District of Beauharnois) on Thursday, in which he dismissed an action of Armand Duhamel of Montreal against Joel Leduc of Melocheville for $315 compensation for damages to his automobile.

The story outlined in the judgment shows that around three o'clock in the morning of November 24, 1940, Duhamel, several male friends, and a 16-year-old girl left Montreal for Valleyfield. The male companions were left at Valleyfield, and Duhamel returned with the girl for Montreal, and crashed into Leduc's motor car which was parked in the highway in front of the latter's house at Melocheville. This was at 5 a.m. Duhamel said the visibility was very bad, that he could not see more than 10 feet ahead of him, and the pavement, due to a light snowfall, was slippery. He claimed that there were no rear lights on Leduc's car, or if there were he could not see them at a distance of 10 feet.

Crash Drives Car 20-30 Feet

The evidence showed that the crash had driven Leduc's car a distance of from 20 to 30 feet, and it was probable that Duhamel was travelling at more than the 25 miles an hour which he claimed. What would be a reasonable speed for an automobile under military conditions of visibility became excessive under circumstances when Duhamel could not see 10 feet ahead. The law requires lights to show a distance of 200 feet ,and if because of weather conditions Duhamel could not see the lights on Leduc's car at 10 feet then the prudent thing for him would have been to drive slower, and more carefully, and then the accident would not have happened.

After expressing his opinion that the regulation against parking cars on the paved portion of a highway did not mean Leduc could not stop a moment or two to wait for his nephew who was going to church with him, His Lordship said that for the regulation to mean such a prohibition would be absurd. Furthermore, said the Court, violation of a regulation carries responsibility only if such violation is the cause of damage, and in this case His Lordship was of the opinion that even if Leduc's car had been moving, instead of being stationary as it was, Duhamel would still have crashed into it. He referred to a judgment of Mr. Justice Rinfret of the Supreme Court of Canada, in which His Lordship said that when one car crashed into another car which is stationary, it is a collision where the presumption of fault falls upon the driver of the automobile which hits the other car.

"That is a decision based on sane logic," said Mr. Justice Archambault.

In view of the circumstances proven, the accident was due to the fault, negligence and lack of foresight of the plaintiff, concluded His Lordship, in dismissing the action.

(Judgment No. 7944, District of Beauharnois).

Huntingdon, Wed., July 30th, 1941

Those who, in the confidence of superior capacities or attainments, neglect the common maxims of life, should be reminded that nothing will supply the want of prudence; but that negligence and irregularity, long continued, will make knowledge useless, with ridiculous, and genius contemptible.

Our War Effort

SOMETIMES it is not well to tell all you know, especially during war times. The telling of what might be almost idle talk is of importance to a "Fifth Columnist." We hear little of "Fifth Columnists" today, but that does not mean that they are not in our midst.

The Board of Censors have continually been on the alert and have kept the press of Canada well informed as to what might well be published and otherwise. Perhaps it was due to this carefulness that our American Cousins gained the impression that we in Canada were doing little in regards to war effort. Of course politicians tried to do what they could to lay the blame for any such inactivity as may have existed at the feet of the government in power at Ottawa, or at the provincial legislatures. So pronounced was this opinion in the United States that we were backward in our war effort, that a year ago a number of newspaper publishers paid a special visit to Canada to make personal observations. Another group, no doubt some representing the same papers or perhaps the same individuals, returned again this summer. They were amazed at what was being accomplished a year ago and were almost dumbfounded this year. As a matter of fact, few Canadians can really appreciate what is or has already been accomplished in the way of essential munition manufacturing in Canada. If the Board of Censors, or Department of Information as they wish to be called, had passed out the information a year ago that is now beginning to seep out, the public would not be so dubious about our War Effort.

Here in the Beauharnois District a few people realize what a gigantic industrial development has been built, yet they do not know just how much they are turning out in the way of ammunition or other war essentials. Some months ago it was the privilege of the writer to visit a plant in Ontario wheer anti-aircraft guns were being made. Only now have the Department of Munitions and Supply arranged for a news release re this industrial achievement. It is indeed gratifying to learn that at the great Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto this year there will be an exhibit of many war machines, shells and general army equipment on exhibit, all of which has been manufactured here in Canada. This is good publicity which will certainly impress thousands of people as to what Canada is doing in the way of War Effort.

The anti-aircraft gun made in Canada which we have referred to is known as the famous 40-MM. "Bofors." It was produced 2 months ahead of schedule. The plant where the gun was made, produced in ordinary peace times, elevators, has already turned out several thousand 40MM anti-aircraft gun barrels and has been tooling up for some months for production of the complete gun.

The Bofors gun is capable of firing 120 shells per minute, but is rarely operated at such a rate because an airplane travels so fast that it is in range for only a few seconds. Because of the high fire power, anti-aircraft gun barrels are worn out after a few hundred rounds. The worn barrels may be removed and new ones fitted in place in a matter of seconds, if the occasion demands. The Bofors is most effective against aircraft flying at altitudes of less than 10,000 feet, and the storm of steel hurled into the sky by hundreds of these guns in Britain has virtually eliminated low-altitude bombing by the enemy.

The Bofors gun is mounted on a special mobile carriage.

The machinists of Manchester and Birmingham, England, and the tool makers of Coventry, England, have long been noted for their precision tool workmanship. This same high grade workmanship has been displayed in all the machine shops of England, but such superior grade of workmanship was not anticipated from the industrial firms of Canada. To the amazement of the English engineers, they find the industrial plants in Canada making war machines, shells, guns, etc., and are turning them out away ahead of schedule, at a lower cost than was anticipated and of quality as high standard and quality as those produced by the tried and experienced mechanists of England.

Surely the Department of Information could be doing the people of Canada a good turn if they would publicize some of the accomplishments in this respect. Such is going to be done at the C.N.E. through exhibiting the products; then why not let the good news be spread through the use of the printed word? The press of Canada can spread the good news within 24 hours whilst it is impossible to expect all the people of Canada to go to the C.N.E., Toronto. As the people of Canada learn more of the War Effort accomplishments we feel certain they will be that much more willing to further extend such an effort. When we tell our remote friends of what Canada is doing, won't our American cousins also feel better, knowing that we are doing a whole lot more than they thought was the case.

Canada's Weekly Publishers Come to Quebec

THE Province of Quebec is to be the great hunting ground for the publishers of Canadian Weekly Newspapers throughout the Dominion of Canada. The annual convention of the Canadian Weekly Newspapers' Association is to be held on August 14-15-16 in Quebec City. Following it a two-day trip via Canada Steamships up the Saguenay River is to be enjoyed.

We say this is to be a hunting ground for the publishers, and that is just what it will be. New methods of farming were brought into practice in 1941 and livestock feeding is now being given more attention due to the fact that production must be increased and produce prices now warrant such feeding. Industrial expansion has taken place and production problems must be met that just did not exist before 1940.

In this changing world there can be no sitting at home and getting into a rut publishing a weekly newspaper the same old way year after year. No! The Gleaner and La Gazette de Valleyfield have never been regarded as newspapers that have been dormant. On the contrary, they are quite alive to their responsibilities of broadcasting the news of the Beauharnois District in the English and French languages. It is the intention of the editors of these two papers, with their wives, to attend this annual convention.

Some of the outstanding highlights of the convention business sessions will deal with Unemployment Insurance. This subject is to be the basis of an address by Mr. A. MacNamara, Acting Chief Commissioner, Ottawa. Unemployment Insurance is a subject that is uppermost in the minds of many Canadians, especially employers and employees. Perhaps Mr. MacNamara can clear up many of the contentious points to the satisfaction of the publishers. If he can't he will certainly receive combat in debate from the publishers, which, in the long run, may mean some revision to the act and, we hope, general improvement. It is quite an acknowledged fact that many publishers are averse to the Unemployment Insurance Act as it stands, including the Gleaner Editor.

Mr. H. H. Hannam, President of the Federation of Agriculture, is to give a practical and challenging address, and indicate ways in which he believes the press can co-operate to the mutual advantage and with profit to the farmers and Canadian citizens generally.

Premier Godbout, Provincial Treasurer Hon. J. Arthur Mathewson and the Hon. Hector Perrier will address the convention party on Thursday evening. During the course of Friday and Saturday addresses will be heard from outstanding men in the publishing business in Canada and the United States.

The membership of the Canadian Weekly Newspapers' Association represents 512 weekly newspapers. These members are divided into three groups, according to the circulation of the respective papers. These groups have problems to consider and solve and this they will accomplish in a very commendable manner when in convention. There are a great number of newspaper competitions for these several groups. The competitions have greatly increased in numbers during the past few years. As a result of these competitions it is acknowledged the weekly press of Canada has risen to a higher level in the realm of journalism than ever before. We welcome the Canadian Weekly Newspapers' Association publishers to Quebec Province. They will find the convention beneficial to them. It will prove equally beneficial to the readers of all the weekly newspapers for the press as a whole will be improved, due to the publishers attending this convention. The publishers from outside of Quebec Province will go home with a much more favourable impression of this section of Canada than they had when they started out for the convention. Quebec Province was a happy hunting ground for the Indians in the early days, it has been a fertile field for the "Coeur-de-Bois." It has been a home for the Habitant and the Scottish farmer alike. It has been an industrial province that has forged ahead. Its cosmopolitan cities are certainly different to many found elsewhere in Canada. We have every reason to believe this 22nd annual convention of the Canadian Weekly Newspapers' Association will accomplish much for the benefit of Quebec Province and a more harmonious feeling throughout the Dominion will be the result. Let us not become Provincial minded, but think of Canada as a whole and the Empire at large. Such a convention as this of weekly newspapers can create such a feeling throughout the rural populaces of Canada when the publishers return to their respective desks and tell a true story of their observations as they viewed Quebec Province in person when attending the annual convention.

Young War Workers

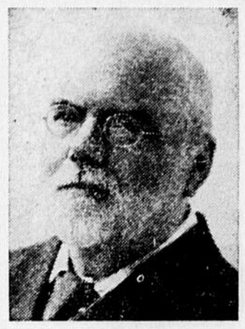

ELSEWHERE in this issue appear reports of accomplishments of youths working for the benefit of War Services. These young workers are raising dollars to provide comforts for people in England who have perhaps lost all their worldly belongings. We congratulate the girls and boys who have given of their time and effort to raise money for such services. May it be that as these youthful workers continue their efforts in this direction that an even greater number of adults will patronize them so that the financial returns may be handsomely increased.

The Garbage Question

DR. J. A. PATENAUDE, Health Officer of the Chateauguay-Huntingdon Health Unit, was in Huntingdon on Wednesday. He was investigating the case of diphtheria that was found in Huntingdon. Dr. Patenaude claimed that Huntingdon's milk and water supply was commendable but he was critical of the existing situation as to the disposal of garbage. Dr. Patenaude informed the Gleaner that he intended to write the Town Council on this subject. He intimated that at Chateauguay Basin a garbage disposal system is in operation and for such a service each taxpayer contributes $1.00 a year.

The Late ROBERT SELLAR

WILLIAM CUNNINGHAM (Plank Road)—Sailed from Londonderry on May 5, 1825, on the "Harrison," an old man-o'-war, a fast sailer but crazy with age. Had a very stormy passage with head winds, a few days over six weeks. There were 750 passengers, all Catholics except a score or so. They domineered over the Protestants, refusing them their share of water and keeping them from the caboose, until the Protestants clubbed together and attacked them. The "Harrison" sunk on her return voyage at Quebec the following year. Come up to Montreal on the "Lady Sherbrooke" and thence on Durham boat to Coteau. For fear of chest being stolen at Lachine, lugged it into forepart of Durham boat and slept beside it.

His intention was to go to Glengarry and cross over to Fort Covington, where his cousins, the Dunsmores, were. At Coteau, in Simpson's, he met a young woman from his section, who told him they had moved and his best way was to cross over to David Brown's and walk to them. She hired a canoe to row him across, but when they were half way a dreadful storm came on, and the boatman wanted to throw his chest overboard, which he resisted. Giving the woman, who was on the boat, the paddle, he seized one of the oars. He was accustomed to boating in Ireland, his father's farm being by the sea. Together they managed to control the boat, which drifted to an island near the north shore, where he stayed all night, his provisions being a pound of bread he had in his chest and some roasted eels the people of the shanty on the island had. Next day the wind was still too high for crossing, and on asking by signs he learned that the water between the island and the shore, which was studded with rushes, would reach to his waist. Getting a rope, he slung his chest, which was a large one, on his back and waded ashore. He hired a cart to take him back to Coteau, at which place he found the Durham boats still lying, being detained by the high wind. One he found was going direct to Fort Covington, commanded by Captain Lucas, whose wife made him his breakfast.

On arriving at the Fort he found it was true that the Dunsmores had left, having been unable to get land near it, and where they had rented a place for a year or so. Having received directions as to the road, he started to walk. There was a good road to the Lines, where he halted at John Riley's to enquire his way. By this time he was footsore. Riley told him to pull off his boots, and going in brought out a tumbler of gin, with which he bathed his feet and made him drink the rest. Much relieved, he resumed his journey along the Trout River.

It was July 4, and the Americans were celebrating it. Towards evening he reacher John Wallis', where he rested and enquired his way. He found there James Biggar, who told him his cousin, Sam Dunsmore, worked with him and he would show him the way. The road from Trout River to Hemmingford was a pathway along which oxen could go, but the road from Wallis' to the Ridge was merely a blazed track. He stayed all night at Biggar's and next morning walked down to Dunsmore's clearing. He found the three brothers in their shirts logging, the day being oppressively hot. John was the first to recognize him and running to him, flung his arms around him, knocked him down and rolled over him in his ecstasy of delight.

He stayed with them, writing to his parents describing the country and leaving it to them to decide whether they would follow. To post the letter he had to walk to Fort Covington (22 miles) that being the nearest post office. The answer came that they would be out in the spring. He squatted on a lot owned by the Seigniory, for which he afterwards paid $2.50 an acre. He made a clearance and put up a shanty. The rest of the family arrived in the spring. There being four brothers besides the father, they were strong in help and did an immense amount of work, chopping during the day and lopping in the evening, often working late into the night. His father had money, so they had a good start in oxen and cows, adding afterwards, sheep and pigs. In '27 they sowed 10 acres of fall wheat which turned out to be a remarkable crop —20 bushels to the acre—and from being early escaped the rust, which destroyed the crops generally that year.

I had a bee at the reaping of it, and met then my future wife. That winter I left for Montreal with 40 bushels to sell, which brought 95 cents a bushel. On my way back I completed the engagement and we were married in March 1829. I prepared for that by buying Hamilton's lot, paying $330, and building a good log house. Our first cow died and the next was drowned in a hole made by a fallen tree in the early spring. The land between my house and the village was a swale, and I have often carried two bushels of wheat on my back down by Major Whyte's and so up to the mill. Potash was my chief dependence, and brought $35 a barrel. Reeves took it in his canoes as far as his place and then it was forwarded by cart to the Basin, charging $2.00 for doing so.

Peter McFarlane had the only store when I came and there was no bridge. Recollect seeing a raft strike the posts of the mill Cameron started, and which knocked it down. Communication was had with the mill by canoe.

Cunninghams never had a bee, doing all their logging among themselves. His parents did not regret coming out, but his brother James did. On night of New Year's 1827 snow fell so as to cover the stumps, and he recollects his brother's lamentations over having come to such a country. That winter, when a tree was felled, it disappeared and oxen could hardly drag a small load.

The people all drank but he considers they were not given to excess.

It took from five to seven days to make the journey to Montreal and back. Potatoes grew abundantly, even when the soil was so hard and interwoven with roots that the seed had to be covered with a handful of leaves. His wife helped him in his work, leaving her first baby at one side of the clearing in a sap bucket. Sunday was a wearisome day with the settlers, many of whom did not observe it very well.

DR. SHIRRIFF—Arrived in this country, along with John Somerville, by way of New York in May of 1833. Went to Albany, stayed a week, and thence by the Erie canal to Niagara; from there to Toronto. Took a trip up to Lake Simcoe to see a Dr. Darling, whom they found on a lot near where Barrie is now built, but which was then standing woods, lots being sold for the future town while there. Darling had about an acre cleared. After staying a few days, they returned to Toronto and went on to Port Hope and back to Peterborough to see acquaintances. While there John Somerville got drunk and raised a dangerous fight. Coming to Montreal, they visited Huntingdon to see Gardner, who came out in ship with them, and also the Walkers (Bumbrae) and whom they knew in the Lothians, and to be with whom was his main inducement to settle here.

There was a Dr. Bell who had been in Huntingdon for some time and who lived in Castle Clouts along with Provencher. He had been an army surgeon and was a man of some ability, but a wreck from drink. One day Bell sent for Shirriff and said to him, "I see you are likely to settle here, and if you will give me £25 I will leave, for I have no money to take me away." Shirriff closed with the offer, when Bell left and resided a few miles below Durham, where he died shortly after.

Gasoline and Bacon Greatly Discussed—Capital Watching Developments in Orient With Interest—Recruiting Continues

THE EYES of the Capital are naturally set these days on the Orient, and everyone is wondering whether a new powder magazine is about to be ignited, whether the move into French Indo-China means the beginning of a campaign of aggression by the Japanese against Malaya, the fortress of Singapore and the Dutch East Indies with their rich resources in tin, oil and rubber, so vital to the prosecution of war, and what will be the full texture and substance of the attitude of the United States. The many powerful currents set in motion by the action of the Japanese might well create a maelstrom. In the meantime, while the book of the immediate future is still unopened, satisfaction is felt here at the knowledge that in recent weeks the defences of Singapore have been greatly strengthened and would be an extremely hard nut to crack and that the war effort of India is growing. The proximity of the eastern shores of Siberia to Japan, and the still far from decided war with China might well, in the opinion of observers, deter Japan from carrying too far its adventures in support of its obligations to the Axis powers and its own dreams of Asiatic overlordship, unless there was some sort of debacle in Russia. The most potent deterrent must be the danger to Japan of thoroughly rousing the United States. Not only because Canada is a partner in the fight for freedom but on account of her geographical position the Dominion of Canada takes a keen and vigilant interest in the shifting events in the South Pacific, but it is her commonwealth partners, Australia and New Zealand, who watch the ominous movements of Japan with gravest concern. It is comforting that the British and Americans were long forewarned of just such an emergency in the Far East, and have been preparing to meet it effectively.

Ministers Return from Britain

Air Minister Power and Pensions Minister Mackenzie are back at their posts in Ottawa, encouraged and spiritually fortified by their experiences in the front line in Britain. The Dominion is expecting a visit very shortly of the Duke of Kent, who will make a tour of some of the air training schools. As the air offensive from Britain over the continent grows daily stronger, there is rapidly increasing interest in Great Britain in the training scheme in Canada which helps to provide the air crews for fighters and bombers. The visit of the King's brother is an indication of this. The visit of another distinguished personage, the President of the United States, is still in the offing. There is no question the President will come to this country as soon as he can, but in these grave days he has difficulty in fitting the visit in with his schedule of affairs of state.

The younger people of the Capital have been greatly interested in the past fortnight in the "shooting" of the movie "Captains in the Clouds" at an air field near Ottawa. Just now some of the scenes are being taken near North Bay. Jimmy Cagney, one of the stars in this drama of the R.C.A.F., has of course been idolized by the children.

Gasoline and bacon are two commodities most discussed among officials in the past week. It is difficult as yet to see how completely people are co-operating with the government in curtailing the use of gasoline. E. E. Soubry, director of trade for the British Petroleum Board, explained here and in the United States the urgent need for all the ocean tankers available to keep the British Air Force and Navy in full working trim. "It requires 700,000 imperial gallons to fuel a battleship once," was one of his statements that struck home. Munitions Minister C. D. Howe and oil controller George Cottrelle, as well as provincial and municipal authorities have been urging Canadians to cut down on motor rides and take other means of conserving gasoline. Otherwise there will be rationing of gas and oil in this country.

The Bacon Board also decidedly has its problems. The board was already concerned about getting out the full balance of the British contract for 425 million pounds by the

OPINIONS OF OTHERS

DOOMED

("Our Dumb Animals," Boston, Mass.)

HITLER? Is he winning? Can anyone doubt it today? His forces move as does a giant glacier, crushing and grinding all before it. But Hitler is doomed, was doomed before he flew a plane or fired a gun or drove a tank. Why dare we say this? Because we live in a moral universe. Because all history testifies that no man has ever defied the moral order of this unseen world and not crushed before its inexorable reality.

The quotation is old, it's time-worn, but it's eternally true, "The mills of God grind slowly but they grind exceeding small." Sooner or later between these grinding millstones of righteousness, justice, truth, the ruthless tyrant must be caught. Triumphant Caesar fell that memorable day, the Ides of March. The seemingly invincible Napoleon, the would-be master of Europe, died a prisoner in exile on the guarded island of St. Helena.

It may not be today. It may not be tomorrow. Time alone tells the day, the year, the century when earth's real victorious hosts have won the battle they had seemed to lose.

"They went forth to battle but they always fell.
Their might was not the might of lifted spears.
Over the battle-clamor came a spell
Of troubling music, and they fought not well.
Their wreaths are willows and their tribute, tears.
Their names are old, sad stories in men's ears.
Yet they will scatter the red hordes of Hell,
Who went to battle forth and always fell."

"V" FOR VICTORY
(Northern News)

EVERYWHERE in the occupied countries of Europe the people, held ruthlessly under Nazi rule for months and years, are tapping out three dots and a dash; whistling or humming the significant Beethoven theme and marking the letter "V" in prominent places.

It is a program to unnerve the Nazis. The plan has stolen upon the people of this side in such a way that its purpose seems rather vague.

The people of Europe, however, know the German mentality better. They know that Germany has poured propaganda on other nations, instilling fear before they launch their mighty panzer forces on new fields of slaughter. The Germans play on the fears of others because they are susceptible to the same fears. The mere display of confidence in all the down-trodden nations that the hour of victory against Germany is coming will implant and nourish the seeds of fear in German hearts.

Proof is now furnished that this plan is working profoundly. The Germans, unable to cope with it, have made a pretence of launching the campaign themselves to signify their own victory. But victory, in German, is "seig," and the people know it. The Germans, however, have dug up an archaic word to fit it. This is quite a bit of trouble for Herr Goebbels to go to, unless the need is urgent.

There is an amusing sidelight which now occurs to us. Having adopted the campaign the Nazis can no longer successfully cope with the people who know in their own minds what "victory" they want. They have given the offenders their alibi. When one of these is brought before the bar of German injustice he can say he meant "victory" for Germany—and go away chuckling up his sleeve.

CROP REPORT

Province of Quebec—July

Eastern Townships and Ottawa Valley—Grains are ripening rapidly and a good yield is in prospect. Haying has been delayed by wet weather in some sections, but cutting generally is well advanced and the yield, while below average, is better than anticipated and is of good quality. Pastures show improvement. The yield of early peas was a good average. Tomatoes show satisfactory growth and root crops are doing well. Tobacco plants are progressing favorably. Apple orchards are promising. The berry crop is below average. Lower St. Lawrence and Lake St. John District—Grain crops are making satisfactory progress and the outlook is favorable. Haying is under way in many districts and a slightly below-average crop of good quality is indicated. Pastures are in good condition. Root crops are making good progress. The yield of small fruits is below average in most districts.

MAGIC ANGEL FOOD CAKE GIVES TOOTHSOME FINISH TO THE PICNIC

GIPSY DAYS are here with their call to hikes and picnics. Even if the sun plays hide and seek and there's no time for preparation, you can serve a luscious picnic lunch if you have supplies for the picnic basket on the pantry shelf, supplemented with fruit bought on the way and vacuum bottles of refreshing beverages, hot or cold.

For dessert you can make magic angel food cake with coconut frosting right over the campfire. Just tuck a can of sweetened condensed milk, some day-old bread and a little shredded coconut into the picnic basket. If you have so much as 15 minutes notice, you can mix and bake a batch of crunchy cookies. They'll be sure to provide a perfect ending to the picnic feast if you use this failure-proof recipe made with sweetened condensed milk.

Magic Angel Food Cake
(Coconut Strips)

Slice day-old white bread, ¾ inch thick. Trim off crusts. Cut into strips ¾x2 inches. Spread strips on all sides with sweetened condensed milk, covering well. Then roll in dry shredded coconut, broken fine. Brown under low flame, or toast on fork over coals. It'll taste like Angel Food Cake, coconut frosted.

Picnic Cocoa Drops

2/3 cup (7½ oz. can) sweetened condensed milk
3 tablespoons cocoa
1 cup chopped nut meats

Blend sweetened condensed milk and cocoa. Add nut meats, mixing well. Drop by spoonfuls on greased baking sheet. Bake in moderate oven (350 deg. F.) 15 minutes or until delicate brown. Remove from pan at once. Makes about 18.

Magic Fresh Fruit Refrigerator Cake

1 1/3 cups (15 oz. can) sweetened condensed milk
¼ cup lemon juice
1 cup quartered cherries, whole raspberries or sliced strawberries
24 vanilla or chocolate wafers

Blend sweetened condensed milk and lemon juice. Stir until mixture thickens. Add prepared fruit. Line narrow, oblong pan or spring form cake pan with wax paper. Cover with fruit mixture. Add layer of wafers, alternating in this way until fruit mixture is used; finishing with layer of wafers. Chill in refrigerator 6 hours or longer. To serve, turn out on small platter and carefully remove wax paper. Top may be decorated with fruit. Cut in slices and serve plain or with whipped cream. Serves 8.

Peanut Brittle Ice Cream

1 can vanilla liquid ice cream mix
½ cup (1 can) milk
1 cup cream, whipped
¼ cup crushed peanut brittle

Empty can of ice cream mix into a bowl. Fill can with milk and add gradually to mix, stirring until blended. Fold in cream, add candy. Turn into freezing tray of automatic refrigerator, setting control for coldest freezing temperature. Stir thoroughly once after first half hour of freezing. Freezing time: 2½ to 3 hours. Makes about 1½ pints ice cream.

THE CHILDREN'S COLUMN

A YOUNG SAMARITAN

THE other day we saw seven-year-old Beverly Diane Vitale feeding diluted evaporated milk from a toy doll milk bottle, with a little rubber nipple, to one of three kittens who were orphaned when only one week old by a careless motorist. Their owners, Bruce Vitale, aged ten, and his siser, Beverly, fed the kittens in this way until they could be taught to lap milk from a saucer.

As was the case with the mother cat, these kittens will be trained not to catch birds by having them associate with baby chicks at an early age on the farm. The kittens will be placed in a run with the chicks and cautioned if attempts are made by them to injure the poultry. This identical method of training worked wonders in the mother cat, upon whose back a bird could alight without being harmed.

And in return he gives, unstintingly,

For pettiness—he has no time for such—
He asks so little and he gives so much.

GAMES FOR CHILDREN
Malaga Raisins

The players sit in a circle and one who is acquainted with the trick takes a small stick in his right hand, makes some funny movements with it, and then, having taken it in his left hand, passes it to his neighbor, saying: "Malaga raisins are very good raisins, but I like Valencias better." He then tells his neighbor to do the same. Should any of the players pass on the stick with the right hand, they must pay a forfeit but of course they must not be told what mistake they have made until the stick has been passed right round the circle.

"Our Old Grannie Doesn't Like Tea"

All the players sit in a row, except one, who sits in front of them and says to each in turn: "Our old Grannie doesn't like T; what can you give her instead?"

Perhaps the first player will answer "Cocoa," and that will be correct; but if the second player should say "Chocolate," he will have to pay a forfeit, because there is a "T" in chocolate. This is really a catch, as at first everyone thinks that "tea" is meant instead of the letter "T." Even after the trick has been found out it is very easy to make a slip, as the players must answer before "five" is counted; if they cannot, or if they mention an article of food with the letter "T" in it, they must pay a forfeit.

Dahlia's Whatnots

Job, the Patient.—

At one time some of the wise men responsible for the course of study in the Montreal, Protestant schools, thought that more attention should be given to the Old Testament Scriptures. Before making such revision the opinion of the school principals was sought. One of the latter, a very fine woman, remarked that it was her belief that "The less the children knew about some of those old parties the better."

But she could not have been referring to Job, for he never did anything to forfeit respect. Poverty served only to prove his nobility, and he ended his career in the successful way which we wish for all our heroes. He is popular, for misery likes company.

People have shown their approval of, and interest in, Job by the number of proverbs connected with his name, as:
It would try the patience of Job.
He is a Job's comforter.
As poor as Job's turkey.

But I feel in duty bound to take exception to the last. Job's turkey was not a Biblical character and I am inclined to think that it belonged to some man called Job other than the patriarch, probably some person who lived at a comparatively modern period. Again, I think it a pity to deflect pity from Job to his turkey, supposing he was the owner thereof.

I did once pity a turkey I had which hatched the fourth time one summer. The last time she always outwitted me when I tried to find her eggs, suddenly disappearing into the brushwood where she had made her nest. Her feathers were bleached white by long exposure to sun and rain. Eventually a fox must have got her for she failed to come back to be fed. She must have been as poor as—Job's turkey.

But I prefer to think of a flock of turkeys spending the summer foraging for themselves in the woods and coming home in the fall in prime condition.

Job interests us not only by his faith and patience, but by his acquaintance with natural history, including zoology and astronomy.

Jonah, the Repentant Deserter.—

The interest with which we regard Jonah is largely based on the marvellous. Rev. Dr. W. D. Reid has had an article in "Bible Christianity" under the title "Is the Book of Jonah mythical, parabolical, or historical?" Dr. Reid maintains that it is historical, and reminds us that Christ quoted the incidents recorded in Jonah.

Critics have contended that both Jonah and the city of Mineveh were mythical. But about 60 years ago archaeologists began to dig into a tremendous mound and uncovered just such a city, with palaces, a temple, and numerous slabs with writings on them referring to authentic kings of Tyre, Syria, Israel, and Judah. It was also known that the mound went by a name which was the Assyrian equivalent of "Jonah."

As for the Bible statement that a great fish followed the ship. Even today, in the Mediterranean, sharks follow a ship for days.

We are used to speaking of the sea monster which attacked Jonah as a whale, but the Bible does not use the word "whale." Dr. Reid says that the Hebrew "dag" and the Greek "Ketos" of the New Testament both mean "sea monster." A great German zoologist says that a species of shark called sea dog has been taken from the Mediterranean weighing five tons, and a horse has been found whole in the stomach of one of these huge monsters. Hastings' Bible Dictionary states that a whale hunter, Jas. Bartley, was swallowed by a whale and when the whale was killed next day Bartley was taken out alive, although unconscious, and by careful nursing was restored to health.

The two points in the story of Jonah which seem hard to believe are the prompt repentance of a large population at the preaching of a despised foreigner and the sustaining of Jonah's life for three days and three nights.

Dr. Reid believes that God's design was not merely to bring Jonah into obedience but rather to make the most effective impression on the heathen Ninevites. Their principal deity was Dagan, the fish god. According to the inscriptions found they believed that Dagan had come up out of the sea and founded their city, that he had shown their ancestors how to build houses and make laws, taught them the meanings of the stars, agricultural methods, and other arts. This fish god was supposed to appear and warn of any approaching disaster, such as pestilence, earthquakes, or famine. The news of Jonah's having been cast up from the sea would influence their credulous minds and open up the way for his missionary preaching.

Thus the miraculous element in Jonah's history becomes narrowed down to his preservation alive inside the monster. But this marvel is no whit more unlikely than the advent of Jesus for the world's salvation.

That not only the king and people but their animals also were made to wear symbols of mourning appears exaggerated to our modern mentality, but ancient historians mention this as the usual thing at that epoch.

Do not be too hard on timorous Jonah. Imagine yourself sent to preach reformation to Hitler and his pople. Are you sure you wouldn't discover business reasons for refusing the mission?

Women's Hosiery is Changed By War; Use More Cotton

"What will the war-time stockings be like? Will they be rayon? How will they look? Are they wearable? Can we get them in all shades and sizes? How much will they cost? Wouldn't it help the war effort more if we wore cotton instead of silk?"

These and countless others were the questions fired at manufacturers of full-fashioned hosiery by a representative group of Canadian newspaperwomen, magazine editors and radio columnists at a luncheon in Toronto recently. The fashion writers, like all Canadian women, had been wondering what was happening to silk stockings now that silk imports had been reduced to conserve foreign exchange. All of them had noticed that stockings purchased recently had had other materials than silk in the tops and feet.

Knowing that their readers and listeners from coast to coast were waiting for the answers, the fashion writers and commentators were ready with their questions. And these are the facts they learned from the men who make the stockings.

Use Composite Yarn

The new Canadian wartime hosiery, according to present plans at least, is a mixture of real silk and rayon. These types of stockings are going into production in Canadian mills now, but it will be some months yet before they become the general hose item on the market. Lisle is also used and continues to play its part in the tops and feet. In the "Mixture" stockings fine filaments of real silk are twisted with filaments of the best available rayon to produce a "composite yarn" and this yarn is used for knitting the leg panels of the hose.

The new stockings are both attractive and serviceable, for Canadian manufacturers intend to uphold their reputation as the makers of the world's finest full-fashioned hosiery. To support their claims for the new "mixtures" the manufacturers at the luncheon in Toronto displayed various samples of all-silk and mixture hose and the fashion-wise writers and radio commentators had difficulty in telling them apart. So skillfully have the mixtures been knitted that no Canadian girl need worry about sacrificing her glamor hosiery!

One minor difference, it was pointed out, is to be seen in the washing of the mixtures. Some artificial fibres become weakened when wet, so extra care must be taken to avoid rough handling or wringing of the new types.

Still Make All Weights

Chemists have been applying all their laboratory experience to the new dyeing problems and the war-time stockings will appear in just the right shades for current fashions. They are being made in sheer "evening wear" weights and in the heavier service qualities as well. Women won't need to worry about prices going up—present indications at least are that they will continue to be available in the usual brands and sizes at the usual price.

As for sacrificing full-fashioned hosiery entirely—far from aiding the war effort it would mean increasing unemployment and the loss of millions of dollars to the government, not only from tax revenues paid by the 28 hosiery mills in the Dominion, but from the war savings that are being invested in by the 7,000 hosiery workers in these plants. The high precision machinery in these mills can be used for only one purpose—the manufacture of women's fine stockings—and causing them to stand idle would be a definite economic loss to the country.

This use of Canadian rayon to reduce silk consumption is an example of how an industry can co-operate with the government to help the war effort; cheerful acceptance of the new types of hose will be the Canadian woman's opportunity to help.

Household Hints

Use for Salt Cartons

Salt cartons seem so well made that it always went against my stern Scotch thrift to throw away the empty cartons with their handy pouring spouts. This spring, I found a use for them. I cut a small "door" in one side and filled the empty carton with plant food. (A small paper funnel made this the work of but a minute.) I fastened the opening together again with a piece of mending tissue and had, when completed, a very handy fertilizer distributor. Now I can "ring around" all my perrennials, house plants, etc., in half the time it used to take. For outdoor use, it is necessary to frequently refill the carton, but even this isn't as much bother as my old "pail and trowel" method. When a fairly large quantity of fertilizer is used, the hole in the carton may be made near the top and the "door" held in place with an elastic—then it isn't necessary to seal the carton each time it is used.

Good Taste Forecast in Fall Stockings

Luscious New Colors For War-time Stockings Made in Canada

The new fall shades for hosiery certainly have flavor. Names like "Brown Butter" and "Honeycomb" are typical of the animated shades of stockings which Canadian women will be wearing this season. And a double satisfaction will be found in the stockings this fall, for not only are they wearable and pleasing to the eye but they are part of the national war plan as well.

Continuing with the rationing plan adopted earlier this year, the manufacturers of fullfashioned hosiery in Canada are limiting themselves to a percentage of the former amount of raw silk used in their stockings in order to conserve foreign exchange and to benefit the Empire markets from which they obtain substitute materials. Ordinarily, their supply of silk would be purchased in U.S. funds, and this amount can now be utilized for war purchases instead. Meanwhile, the hosiery workers are turning out just as attracive stockings for Canadian women at the usual price, despite the change in methods.

New Colors

Brown Butter is a spirited light brown; a particularly light tone to wear with dark pineleaf green or timber green, as well as the yellower turtle green, which will be seen this fall. This Brown Butter shade of stocking is stunning with shoes in Golden Tobacco, Rice Brown or black.

Honeycomb is a flattering darkened beige, an animated shade with a soft glow which has new style appeal as an accent to fall costumes in light golden browns and tans, deep-water blue or greenish cast, bronzy or khaki greens, navy and lighter blues. This is an engaging color for evening wear with the brilliant Carribee colors, or with pastels. Honeycomb complements shoes in Golden Tobacco, Paniolo Tan Bluejacket or black.

Suncharm, a warm sun-baked tan; Cocobark, a smark brownish beige; Wineblush, a glamorous rosy-cast beige, and Smokehaze, a distinctive taupe-toned beige, are the other new shades for fall hosiery. It is a tribute to the ingenuity and skill of Canadian hosiery designers and producers that the war time mixtures of rayon and silk can be obtained in these atractive colors, for dyeing problems crop up when different types of thread are mixed in a single stocking. But Canadian women need not worry; the results are worthy of the hours of research and experimentation which hosiery workers have put in during the past few months.

As an example of what an entire industry can do in co-operation with the government, this changeover of 28 fullfashioned hosiery mills in Canada to the use of new materials in order to help save foreign exchange is an encouraging example to the women of Canada, whose cheerful acceptance of the new type of stocking will stamp the effort a successful one.

WEDDING

BLACK-McKIE

At the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James McKie, Bainsville, on Saturday afternoon, the marriage was solemnized of their younger daughter, Dorothy May, to George Arthur Black, son of Mr. Arthur and the late Mrs. Arthur Black. Rev. G. E. Evans officiated in the presence of a large number of guests. Red, pink and white peonies artistically arranged forming an arch in the living room was where the ceremony took place. The wedding music was rendered by Victor Gordon, of Ottawa.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was charmingly gowned in a street-length dress of clover rose sheer with hat and accessories to match. She carried a bouquet of Talisman roses.

Miss Beryl McGregor, as bridesmaid, was gowned in sky-blue sheer chiffon wearing a white crepe turban. She carried a bouquet of pink carnations. Little Miss Ivy Gardner acted as flower girl, dressed in a dainty frock of pale green taffeta with a Bo-Peep hat to match and carried a basket of summer flowers.

The groom was attended by his brother, Harold Black, of Cornwall.

Mrs. McKie, the bride's mother, wore a flowered sheer chiffon dress of white and rose with shoulder bouquet of roses.

After the signing of the register a dainty buffet luncheon was served. The bride's table was decorated with varied colored peonies and centred with the wedding cake.

Later Mr. and Mrs. Black left on a motor trip to Quebec City, the bride choosing for travelling a two-niece suit of Acadia blue, with lace bolero and hat to match.

The many beautiful gifts, as well as many cheques received, testified to the popularity of the young couple.

Guests attending from a distance were Miss Mary Sinton, St. Louis de Gonzague, Que.; Mrs. MacMillan, Alexandria; Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Barrington, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Whiteford, Ormstown; Mr. and Mrs. R. Abbott, Mr. and Mrs. C. Voseburg, Rochester, N.Y.; Mr. and Mrs. Len McEwen Mrs. E. MacRae Clouston is Awarded A Bronze Medal For Bravery

Huntingdon Youth Receives Medal From Royal Canadian Humane Association and Province of Quebec Safety League—Twenty Soldiers at Valleyfield Training Centre Also Receive Medals

MacRae Clouston of Huntingdon, Que., has been awarded the bronze medal of the Royal Canadian Humane Association for heroic action July 21, 1940.

The Humane Association report was as follows:

Clouston, a passenger in a car driven by Miss Evelyn Marie Delisle, of Malone, N.Y., saved her from drowning when the car dropped through a bridge approach guard on the Dundee road.

The car landed upside-down in the River Laguerre and the doors were crushed so that they could not be opened. Water was rising rapidly in the car as Clouston dragged the semi-conscious girl through the water under the top of the inverted front seat to the back seat of the car.

Clouston broke the safety glass of the rear compartment window with his foot and knee and brought Miss Delisle out of the car into about five feet of water and got her to shore.

Badly Cut

In breaking the glass Clouston received a severe cut in the knee and applied a tourniquet as the wound bled freely. He then assisted Miss Delisle for about two miles along the road until they were given assistance.

Parchment awards for bravery were made to 26 others, seven from Ontario and one from Quebec.

The Province of Quebec Safety League, through its vice-president, Mr. Perreault, awarded medals to the donors of blood at the Valleyfield Training Centre on Wednesday afternoon. Twenty soldiers from this training centre volunteered to offer blood to two employees who were severely burned in an explosion at the Quebec Distillers Plant in Valleyfield during the latter part of June. The Safety League also took advantage of the circumstances to present MacRae Clouston, of Huntingdon, with a medal for his bravery in saving a girl from drowning near St. Anicet following a car accident.

Among those present at the ceremony at the Valleyfield Training Centre were: Hon. Senator Léon Mercier Gouin, Mayor J. Armand Larin, of Valleyfield, Mayor Dan Faubert, of Huntingdon, City controller Raphael Belanger, of Valleyfield, Dr. H. R. Clouston, of Huntingdon, Dr. G. A. Amyot and Mrs. Amyot, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Malouin, Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Fortier, Mrs. Duhault, of Valleyfield, and others. Lt.-Col. J. R. J. Duhault, O.C., thanked the civil authorities on behalf of the soldiers.

The soldiers who received medals included:— Lieutenant Eugene Belle, Lance-Corporal A. Mellechamp, Lance-Corporal J. R. Dugas, Privates J. H. E. Legault, A. Giroux, Thomas Brulé, G. Lafrance, L. Roy, E. Sévigny, R. Grant, R. Moreau, E. Tanguay, F. Thibeault, I. Girard, F. Charette, A. Demers, O. Williamson, Y. Leclaire, J. P. Beauvais, W. Lebrun and J. A. Bédard.

Air Cadets League Formed in Quebec; W. B. Tingle Chairman

A Dominion-wide campaign for the enrollment of 25,000 boys between the ages of 12 and 18 in the Air Cadets of Canada was launched for the Province of Quebec, when the nucleus of a provincial committee met last week in Montreal. W. B. Tingle of Montreal was named chairman of the provincial committee and other officers elected included F. S. Auger, Montreal, secretary-treasurer; Paul Goulet, Montreal; E. C. Cumberland, Montreal; Col. A. A. Nunster, Sherbrooke; Henri Bray, Quebec City; W. Owen Lewis, Granby; H. P. Illsley, Montreal. Ft.-Lieut. Paul Gadbois, R.C.A.F. has been appointed liaison officer for the Province of Quebec. Earle W. Spafford, George R. Hodgson and Arthur L. Melling, members of the National Committee of the Air Cadets of Canada, were also present at the Quebec organization meeting.

Want 25,000 Young Men

The National Committee of the Air Cadets has set an immediate objective for an enrollment of 25,000 young men to commence training under the Air Cadets Plan by September of this year. It is proposed that a preliminary air training program will be established from which a constant supply of young men may be drawn for the British Commonwealth Air Training Plan.

"The desirability of providing organized elementary training in aviation for boys and young men was apparent to many people long before the war," stated W. B. Tingle, chairman of the Provincial Committee of the Air Cadets of Canada. "It has taken the present conflict, in all its seriousness, to focus attention, not only on the desirability, but the necessity of creating such an opportunity for the youth of our country. The organization of the Air Cadets of Canada is the response to the appeal from youth itself for this kind of training."

R.C.A.F. Officers to Assist

Royal Canadian Air Force Officers have been appointed at air force headquartres and at each of the six Royal Canadian Air Force Commands to act as liaison between the Service and properly established Air Cadet units. Through these channels, and through whatever local arrangements between Royal Canadian Air Force personnel and the Air Cadets may be found practicable from time to time, the department will endeavor to assist and guide the Air Cadet movement. Furthermore, the government has provided for a payment to units of an annual capitation grant, similar in amount to that now paid to military cadet corps, namely, one dollar for each efficient senior cadet.

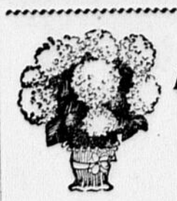

The Air Cadet League of Canada now comes into being to build on the foundation laid by the department and, with the recognition of the department, to act as the official organizing and administrative body. Fortunately, a tried and proven plan was before us as a guide—the Air Defence Cadet Corps of the United Kingdom, organized in 1938 by the Air League of the British Empire. The achievements of this Corps and its ever-increasing contribution to the war effort in the Mother Country is the inspiration for the Air Cadet League of Canada.

"BURNT EARTH" POLICY

Reports from neutral sources suggest that the advance of the Finnish forces into Russia have been stopped by forest fires. The inference is that the Russians deliberately set fire to the forest to halt the invading force. It may be that this is just a sample of what may be expected from the Russians in defence of their country. If the Russians follow any such policy—and they appear to have done so up to the present—all that invaders can hope for is peril.

IS IT FAIR?

Soldiers still have to pay part fares for trips home on leave. If the Government paid any attention to public opinion this would not long continue.

Happy Birthday To You

AN INCREASE OF 8,500,000 POUNDS OF BUTTER SINCE JAN. 1st

Canadian butter production in the first four months of the year totalled 67,350,000 lbs., an increase of 8,500,000 lbs., or 14.5 per cent, over the same four months of 1940. In the light of the current stock and production figures, the board on May 1, 1941, revoked the maximum price order respecting butter which had been made on December 27, 1940.

On May 10, 1941, an Order in Council was passed approving a schedule of minimum prices issued by the Dairy Products Board in the Department of Agriculture. In six provinces, British Columbia, Ontario, Quebec, New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island, the minimum price of creamery butter, first grade solids, delivered to purchasers was set at 29½ cents for May, 30 for June, 30½ for July, 31 for August, 31½ for September and 32 for October. Prices of first grade creamery prints or rolls delivered to purchasers were fixed at 1 cent per pound above solids in each month. In Alberta and Manitoba the price schedules are 2 cents lower and in Saskatchewan 3 cents lower in each month. Prices of butter of lower grades are to be determined proportionately in accordance with grades established under the Dairy Industry Act.

5,000 PARCELS WEEKLY TO AUSSIES PRISONERS OF WAR

Five thousand prisoners of war parcels, for Australians captured in the east by the enemy, will be packed in Montreal each week, according to an announcement made by Lt.-Col. William Leggat, M.C., President of the Quebec Provincial Division of the Canadian Red Cross Society.

The Canadian Red Cross Society, at the direct request of the Australian Red Cross in Melbourne, will pack and ship these five thousand parcels of food each week, for which the Australian society will pay all costs. The work has been turned over to the Canadian Red Cross because of the difficulties of shipping in the east.

With the additional 5,000 parcels for Australian prisoners, the Canadian Red Cross Society will then be shipping a total of 15,000 food parcels per week.

Col. Leggat pointed out that the 5,000 food parcels for Australian prisoners are no indication of the number of Australians taken prisoners of war, but the Australian Red Cross has set this figure until the exact number of prisoners can be established.

The Australian pracels will be shipped along with the 10,000 food parcels which the Canadian Red Cross sends to British prisoners of war in Germany each week.

"Why are you laughing at my gown?" demanded the annoyed blonde.

To which her escort snickered, "Because, honey, the brevity of it is the soul of my wit."

The Union Jack

Yonder waves Old England's Banner,
Still recalling bygone years
As it waved o'er famous Crecy
And the battle of Poitiers.
Since the days of Royal Alfred,
It hath humbled haughty foes:
Faced a thousand threatening dangers,
Dealt a thousand mortal blows.
Still the ship that has it hoisted
Can through any ocean track—
Give a shout for British freedom.
Raise aloft the Union Jack.

Mark its course upon the ocean,
Trace its path from land to land,—
Ever guided in its mission
By a Providential hand:
Over stormy oceans wafted,
Where huge icebergs rock and roll,
And the briny waves in fury
Dash around each deary pole:
And away in tropic climates,
Where our heroes bivouac,
While above them floats sublimely
England's Ancient Union Jack.

Raise aloft the Royal Standard,
Let it greet the passing breeze:
Still it braves the ocean's billows,
Stands secure on stormy seas;
As it waved above our Nelson,—
England's gallant, matchless tar
At the Nile's terrific combat,
And immortal Trafalgar,
To the mast he nailed his colors,
Signalled them for close attack;
'Midst a peal of British thunder
He displayed the Union Jack.

Wolfe displayed Old England's colors
On the plains of Abraham,
Where, in war's impassioned combat,
He encountered brave Montcalm:
Ere the din of battle ended,
Both the gallant heroes fell—
Loud above the roar of battle,
Rose the Highland Soldier's yell;
By a charge of British bayonets
Then the foe was driven back.
And the day was one of glory
To Old England's Union Jack.

Gallant Brock its folds expanded
On the field of Queenston Heights
Well that hero did his duty,
Putting Britain's foes to flight;
But, ere he reached the frowning summit,
Did this gallant hero fall,
For his bright career was ended
By a marksman's rifle-ball:
But his comrades, roused to vengeance,
Like a tempest swept the track,
And the day was one of glory
For the Ancient Union Jack.

Should the war-cry then be sounded
O'er Canadian soil again,
We will guard the hallowed precincts
Where our Wolfe and Brock were slain;
Where our Empire's flag's insulted,
Or a British hero bleeds,
There Canadians dare to follow,
And will emulate their deeds.
Dare to fight for British freedom,
We're no coward craven pack,
To disgrace Old England's Standard,
Or desert the Union Jack.

And old Scotland's sons are ready
For their places in the van,
To repel the fierce invaders,
As they did at Inkerman;
And the loyal men of Erin
Round the cross of red and blue,
Round that battle flag will rally
As they did at Waterloo.
England, Scotland and Old Erin,
Have in warfare ne'er been slack,
And now Canada is with them
To defend the Union Jack.

Lives there still a British subject
Who'd refuse his life, his all,
In defence of British freedom,
Who'd rejoice at Britain's fall?
If there be, then scorn the traitor,
Pass him by in dark disdain,
Let him bear, while life is left him,
On his brow the brand of Cain,
Let him die, the wretched coward.
Bury him by midnight black,
He deserves no home, no country,
Who'd desert the Union Jack.

NAME NEW TYPE PEONY FOR ACE CAMERAMAN

Edmonton.—Dmitri peony is the latest name in the gallery of beautiful blooms. When Ivan Dmitri, ace color cameraman, was passing through on his way East after a stay in Jasper National Park, a delegation of the Edmonton Garden Club, boarded the Continental Limited, of the Canadian National Railways, presented to the color expert three choice specimens of a new type peony and asked permission to name the bloom "Dmitri." This was promptly granted and the master color photographer told members of the Edmonton Garden Club "The beauty of this rare pale pink peony is matched only by the tones of sunset reflected from the snow-capped peak of Mount Edith Cavell."

Labor Pay Higher Than Physician's

The Journal of the American Medical Association says, "The highest rate of pay given appears to be that for a bricklayer who is a skilled foreman. He receives $1.79 an hour. Next comes an iron and steel worker, who gets $1.65 an hour and after that an ordinary bricklayer who gets $1.62 per hour.

There are still some other occupations which are more remunerative than that of the physician, such as marble setter and polisher at $1.60 an hour, and plasterer at $1.55 an hour.

In the next group come the doctors. Amongst those who are allowed $1.51 an hour are the air-compressor operator, the power-shovel operator, the pump and roller operator, the dredge operator, the architect, the statistician, the lawyer and the physician.

All the foregoing reminds us of a friend who worked in New York during the summer season as a carpenter to gain sufficient money to allow him to attend medical school in autumn and winter. He was no great carpenter but he drew $11.00 a day all through the season. Finally he was graduated, spent a year in Bellvue as interne and then put up his shingle. He was barely able to live on his income during the first year, so he went back to carpentering until he had saved enough money to enable him to carry on until practice improved.

Under present circumstances it takes six years of college and from three to five years more of post-graduate study before a young man or woman feels sufficiently qualified to begin the practice of medicine. Then he or she has to find a practice. Why not be a bricklayer foreman?

PAY PREMIUM TO U.S. VISITORS IN CANADA

Apart from the natural beauties that are an ever-present lure and attraction to tourists in Canada, the premium on United States dollars is the greatest possible aid to promotion of traffic from that country. In terms of dollars, it provides a bonus of ten per cent. One enterprising group has pictured it as "one day free in ten." To others, it is a pleasing novelty.

For any one of these conceptions to be effective, the premium must be paid by the Canadians catering to the tourist. It is not only a national service to pay the premium, paramount in wartime, but it is the law as well. It is an offence, punishable by severe penalties, to accept United States currency at anything other than the official rate.

Because Canada is in urgent need of United States dollars to buy aeroplanes and other vital war equipment in the U.S.A., this American currency should be turned in to the banks without undue delay. It is an offence to hold it for more than a reasonable period of a few days after it has been received.

No Canadian loses by payment of the premium. Merchants, hotelkeepers and others pay the current premium of ten per cent and the banks pay out a like premium in receiving the American currency. The premium is ten per cent, whether it be for U.S. paper currency, bank cheques, travellers' cheques or silver.

It is a national service and a patriotic duty—pay the tourist his premium!

MOSQUITOES HAVE SPOILT MANY A SUMMER OUTING

Many a summer outing or a pleasant week-end afternoon in the garden is spoiled by mosquitoes. While not ensuring complete control, measures may be taken to give at least some protection for short periods in limited areas. A spray may be prepared by thoroughly emusifying one gallon of kerosene containing the extract of one pound of pyrethrum powder (a standard pyrethrum fly spray would do) with one-half gallon of water in which four ounces of liquid soap (40 per cent) have been dissolved.

This concentrated emulsion, after being well shaken until thoroughly mixed, should be diluted with 10 parts of water and sprayed as a fine mist on lawns, shrubs, and other vegetation, by means of a pressure sprayer with a suitable nozzle, using about 55 gallons of spray per acre. The application should be made about half an hour before the picnic or the meeting takes place.

This spray may also be substituted for petroleum oil in treating ponds and other water bodies to kill mosquito larvae and pupae, using about 50 gallons to the acre of water surface.

However, in mosquito control, although individuals on their own property may assist greatly by preventing mosquitoes from breeding, best results are obtained only when the work of control is organized on a community scale, either by public-spirited citizens or by municipal or other authorities, and is carried out under competent direction and with adequate funds.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED

Mrs. Carrie E. Stark of Westville, New York, announces the engagement of her daughter, Mildred Esther, to Wallace M. Douglas, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry M. Douglas of Huntingdon, Que. The wedding will take place in September.

Obituary

The late Mrs. John McCartney

Death removed one of Brysonville's oldest and most respected residents in the person of Mrs. John McCartney, who passed away at her home on Saturday, July 26th.

Mrs. McCartney was born 81 years ago at North Georgetown, Que., and lived there 21 years, and was then married to the late John McCartney in 1882 and moved to Brysonville, and has resided there since.

Four children were born to this union, of whom all are living. They are: Mr. Percy McCartney of North Georgetown; Mr. W. J. McCartney of Huntingdon; Mrs. Stanley McNeil of Franklin, and Mr. Albert McCartney at home, and eight grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

The funeral was held at the home on Monday, with Rev. J. Hudson officiating. Interment was in the North Georgetown Cemetery.

The Late Wm. McNaughton

Born at Ormstown, Que., in April, 1858, to the late Wm. McNaughton and the late Agnes MacDougall. The late Mr. McNaughton moved to New Jersey about sixty years ago, there he joined his brothers, who had moved there a number of years previous and who were engaged in the carpentry business.

His late brothers Malcolm and John predeceased him in February 1941 and September 1940 respectively. The former being 92 years, while the latter was 88 years old.

William was the youngest member of the family and leaves to mourn his wife, who lives in Carstact, N.J.

Blind Man at Hemmingford Made Coffins For Self, Wife

James McDowell, Blind For Twelve Years, Made Coffins at Wife's Request and Due to Their High Cost—Started Work in September and Completed it About One Month Ago—Urges Young Men to Secure All Education Possible

Day after day, for more than three months, sightless James McDowell of Hemmingford has crossed the 75 feet from his home to his workshop—making a coffin for himself and one for his wife.

A carpenter and stonemason by trade before he was blinded about 12 years ago, Mr. McDowell has constructed the coffins and shells to go with them for a total of $28.

There is perhaps but one person who takes a greater pride in the fine craftsmanship that this Hemmingford resident has shown in the construction of the coffins and shells and that is his wife, who was responsible for his beginning the work.

Born in Mooers, New York, Mr. McDowell first moved to Hemmingford in 1882, at the age of nine. Shortly afterward he was apprenticed to his father, who was a stonemason and carpenter and had seen service in the American Civil War.

When James McDowell was 21 his father died. To this young carpenter—for he liked this branch of the work better—was left the task of supporting four brothers and his mother. The youngest brother was only a year old.

Education For His Brothers

To carpentry work of all types he turned his hand, even to casket-making, for he was determined that his brothers should have the education that he himself had not been able to obtain.

His stand on education was then as it is now. Interviewed recently, he said: "It is important that a young man secure all the education he can. It is a necessary thing in this world. I was not able to secure a great deal for myself, but I can see the need of it."

For the past dozen years James McDowell and his wife have made a living by "taking in boarders." Though times have not always been good the blind man of 68 and his wife a decade older put up a stern battle to make ends meet. Finally they had to let their home go, unable to meet the cost of living and of taxation.

Undaunted, however, was their cheerful spirit, and it was in this spirit that Mrs. McDowell urged her husband to turn his knowledge of carpentry to casket-making again after a lapse of many years. She urged him to turn a knowledge that for years had earned him a livelihood into the background for a hobby in his sightless years—a hobby that would be useful.

Started Work in September

Finally he agreed. Last year he started to work in the middle of September and completed the twin coffins about the middle of November, when cold weather began to make the workshop a little too chilly for a stay of any length. This June his wife was at him again. The caskets were not complete without shells. He began a month ago and now has finished them.

To the interested visitor, the sight of James McDowell exhibiting his handiwork is almost as interesting and moving as the fact that he has accomplished the work.

From the house to the workshop he guides himself by means of a wire stretched from the one building to the other. The wire is worn smooth where his hands have glided along it so many times.

He guides the interested visitor to the door of his workshop and then presses on a secret panel. This flies open and he inserts a hand. A turn of a catch and the lock on the workshop door is released. In the shop are the two coffins, made of California pine, and obviously the work of an expert. In no place are nails, screws or even seams visible. The wood is absolutely free of any damage that might have been caused by the false stroke of a plane, saw or hammer.

Cost Only $28

Beneath even coats of varnish the wood glistens in its natural beauty. "I made them—and the shells," he says in triumph, "for exactly $28."

The coffins are complete. They have modern metal handles and brass plates — awaiting but the names of McDowell and his wife.

Ask him why he made them? His wife's wishes and the high cost of caskets, he says, were the prime reasons. Of course in addition is the fact that he was looking for something to do with his spare time.

But James McDowell has other things to do. With the aid of his cane he gets around the entire village of Hemmingford and does the family shopping. It is impossible to short-change him, he says, as he knows the feel of every coin perfectly.

Mr. McDowell's years rest lightly on him. His wife, too, though 10 years older, is bright and active. She does all her own housework and looks after a great deal of the labor, in the house they now have, in connection with the boarders.

James McDowell has a philosophy of his own. It is "never lose your ambition."

"If I had my sight I would go to work in a carpentry shop tomorrow," he said in parting.

SCRAP METAL PILED UP IN WINDOW AT FORT COVINGTON

Last week was set aside in Franklin County, New York, for the collection of scrap aluminum, as part of a nation-wide effort to raise sufficient metal to be used in the manufacture of war implements.

Our American Cousins from Fort Covington, New York, are also doing their share in this struggle for the preservation of freedom in the Americas. Dick Cappiello, the town clerk in that town, who is well-known in Huntingdon and vicinity where he was actively engaged in sports prior to taking up residence in that Northern New York town, offered his office as the place to take all the aluminum for which people in that area have no further need. Dick piled up as much as possible of the collection in his front window. Fort Covington people are noteworthy for their generosity in all causes and in this very important one, local folks turned the task into an amusing one if not down right funny by filling Dick's window chocked full.

Suggests Pay Increase For Employees

Ald. Viau Claims Some City Employees Are Under Paid—Defense Industries Limited Houses Will be Built on Their Property

At the finance meeting of the Valleyfield Council on Wednesday evening, the members of the council asked the merchants of Valleyfield to reach an understanding between themselves in regards to closing the business establishments of the city during the months of June, July and August. It was disclosed at the council meeting that certain stores could not abide by the proposal, while some would take advantage of other stores which would be closed. The question, after being discussed at length, was tabled for consideration at a later date.

The city clerk read a letter from the Sisters of the Providence thanking the council for their cheque of $5,000.

In answer to a telegram from Mayor J. Armand Larin, the Wartime Housing Limited of Toronto, Ont., stated that they could not abide by the city's request to build 150 houses within the limits of the city. The company informed the council that these houses were being built at the request of the Defense Industries Limited and on their property. They will be occupied by employees working at the plant.

Voice Complaints

Some ratepayers complained that they had paid their water taxes for the current year and that the water was not connected at their homes. The city comptroller replied that with the present equipment it was impossible to proceed any faster with the routine work of the city. Ald. Bourdeau suggested that the question of building a market place be temporarily dropped in order to give the water question further study.

Ald. Horace Viau brought the council's attention to the fact that employees who are regularly on the city's payroll are not receiving a fair salary in some instances. He remarked that there were some employees with large families whose weekly income is not sufficient to meet the cost of living alone. Ald. Viau suggested that these men should be given an increase in salary which would amount to about 30 to 35 cents per hour, instead of the prevailing hour-rate. He intimated that he would give notice of motion to this effect at the next regular meeting of the Valleyfield Council.

Two Records are Shattered at Valleyfield's Annual Regattas

Hundreds Witness Annual Event From Park Sauvé—Frank Desmond Establishes New Canadian Record Driving His Outboard Boat Over the Course at 50.63 Miles Per Hour—Roy Straley Matches Desmond's Performance in Class "C" Competition

Frank Desmond, of Shorthill, N.Y., established a new Canadian record for Class "B" outboards over a five-mile course at a regatta approved by the American Power Boat Association at Valleyfield on Sunday.

Hundreds of amateur yachtmen watched the annual regatta from Park Sauvé on Saturday afternoon and Sunday. The programme was, as usual, varied and interesting. The threatening weather on Sunday did not diminish the enthusiasm of the participants nor the large attendance. At the conclusion of the races a vaudeville show, sponsored by the Valleyfield Boating Club, was held in the Valleyfield Arena; the distribution of prizes and awards also took place there.

The organizing committee reported that the event was successful financially and otherwise.

Desmond drove his boat over the course in five minutes, 53¾ seconds for an average speed of 50.63 miles per hour. Ted Arnstein, of White Plains, N.Y., was second with John Schoolcraft, of Schenectady, N.Y., third.

Matching his performance in Class C competition was Roy Straley, of Buffalo, who maintained an average speed of 53.349 miles an hour to cover the course in five minutes, 37 and 4/10 seconds. This is a new Canadian record.

In the second division race for Class "B" boats George Van Vooris, of Fishkill, N.Y., finished ahead of Charles Keough, of Saranac Lake, N.Y., and Wm. Fowler, of Bedford, Mass., who was third.

The provincial championship crown for 225 hydros went to Pops Cooper of Kansas City who drove his Pop's III over the course at an average speed of 63.76 miles per hour in 4:42 2/3 seconds. Jack O'Meary of Buffalo, N.Y., was second in "Voo Doo"; Al Brinkman of Buffalo third in "Sea Biscuit"; and I. Brunelle of St. Eutache, Que., fourth in "Aero."

Roy Straley, Buffalo, N.Y., took top honors in the first division race for Class "F" outboards. John Schoolcraft, Schenectady, N.Y., was second and Jim Landry, Larchmont, N.Y., third. The winning time was five minutes 47 seconds.

In the second division for class "F" outboards George Van Vooris of Fishkill, N.Y., won over John White and Joe White of Buffalo, N.Y. The time was six minutes, 26 seconds.

The results:

Outboard Class M, division 1—1, W. Fairchild, Lynn, Mass.; 2, J. McFadden, Montclair, N.J.; 3, Hank Boyd, Lynn, Mass. Time, 4.59:5.

Outboard Class A, division 1—1, Frank Desmond, Short Hills, N.J.; 2, Ted Arnstein, White Plains, N.Y.; 3, Gilbert Keely, Scotia, N.Y. Time, 7.20:9.

Outboard Class A, division 2—1, Marshall Eldrdige, Brigewater, Mass.; 2, V. Bieda, Buffalo; 3, Charles Keough, Saranac Lake, N.Y. Time, 5.13:2.

WEDDINGS

MIDDLEMISS-OVANS

A quiet wedding was solemnized at the Manse, Ormstown, Que., on Saturday, July 26, when Eleanor Elizabeth Martha, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Ovans, Huntingdon, was united in marriage to Robert Wallace, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Middlemiss of Huntingdon.

The bride was attired in a street-length dress of azure blue crepe with accessories to match. She carried a bouquet of sweet peas, sweet alyssum and baby's breath, and was attended by her sister, Florence, who was attired in pink organdie with white accessories and carried a bouquet of snapdragons and baby's breath. Mr. Earl Middlemiss, brother of the groom, acted as best man.

Following the ceremony supper was served to the immediate families at the bride's home. Later the happy couple left on a motor trip through the Eastern Townships. On their return they will reside in Huntingdon.

Sharpe-Duncan

In the Franklin United Church at three o'clock on Saturday, the twenty-sixth of July, the marriage took place of Margaret Elizabeth (Peggy), daughter of Rev. and Mrs. T. F. Duncan, of Franklin Centre, Que., to John Milton Stewart Sharpe, son of the late William A. Sharpe and of Mrs. Sharpe, also of Franklin Centre.

The ceremony was performed by the father of the bride. The wedding music was played by Mrs. Harold T. Brown, of Greenfield Park, Que., and during the signing of the register, a solo, "Because," was rendered by Mr. William A. Woolley, of Otterburn Park, Que.

A profusion of summer flowers formed the church decorations for the occasion.

The bride was attended by Miss Dorothy Sharpe, as maid of honour; Miss Donalda Waddell as bridesmaid, and by little Miss Mary Anna Smith, as flower girl.

The bride, given away by her uncle, Mr. W. A. Woolley, wore a triple sheer gown, with embroidered bodice, shirred waist and full skirt ending in a slight train. Her fingertip veil of tulle was held in place by a coronet of pearls and orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of pink roses. The maid of honour wore a gown of soft pink chantilly lace over taffeta, with a picture hat, and carried pink roses. The bridesmaid wore a gown of turquoise blue cantilly lace over taffeta and carried yellow roses.

The flower girl wore a gown of baby blue taffeta with matching bonnet and carried a basket of roses.

Mrs. Duncan, the bride's mother, wore an ensemble of jubilee rose crepe with navy blue accessories and a corsage of tea roses. Mrs. Sharpe, mother of the bridegroom, wore a gown of light blue sheer over taffeta with natural accessories and a corsage of red roses.

The reception was held in the church hall. The bridal couple left later on a motor trip, and on their return will take up their residence in Franklin Centre.

The out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Woolley and Mr. T. M. Duncan, of Otterburn Park, Que., Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Brown, of Greenfield Park, Que., Mr. H. W. Dick, of Woodstock, N.B., Mr. and Mrs. W. Sharpe and Mrs. Addie Sharpe, of Albany, N.Y., Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Carey and Miss Dorothy Carey; Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Dobson; Mr. and Mrs. E. McNiece; Mr. and Mrs. L. Waddell; Miss Annie Waddell; Mr. and Mrs. J. W. MacGillivray, all of Montreal, Que., and Mr. Leslie Crawford, of Toronto, Ont.

McCabe-Hawkins

The marriage of Jean, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hawkins, of Hemmingford, Que., to Hugh, son of Mr. and Mrs. John McCabe, of Calumet, Que., took place quietly at the home of the bride's parents, on Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The Rev. Mr. Swackhammer of Montreal, officiated.

The bride, who was unattended, wore a dress of blue sheer with a corsage of pink roses and baby's breath.

Later, Mr. and Mrs. McCabe left by motor for Niagara and Toronto. On their return they will reside in Montreal.

J. Harvey on War Effort of French Canada

Quebec "Shown in Entirely False Light," Says Noted Writer and Editor

Jean Harvey, French-Canadian writer from Montreal, last week told an Ottawa service club that the average French-Canadian now is more enthusiastic for a British victory than ever before.

Mr. Harvey said the Province of Quebec had been "shown in an entirely false light."

"The honor of French Canada is at stake and this wrong must be righted so that Canadian unity shall not suffer through animosity created by the indiscretion and thoughtlessness of a few," he declared.

Nine out of ten French language daily newspapers in Quebec province were whole-heartedly behind the war effort.

"The first regiment to reach full strength in Canada when war broke out was French-Canadian," he said. More than 55,000 French-Canadians were in the forces. There had not been a single strike called in Quebec's war industries since the outbreak of hostilities, and in the financing of the war French-Canadians were generously subscribing to loans and projects.

Mr. Harvey said that too much importance had been attached to speeches made by a small group of ultra-nationalists.

Changed Attitude

He compared the attitude of French-Canadians in 1914 and in 1941, concluding, "they are today informed on world events and they take just as much interest in them as any of their countrymen; their knowledge and viewpoint is the same as that of any other intelligent human being."

Mr. Harvey recalled there were several causes for French-Canadians to complain against some Anglo-Saxon elements, but called them "side-issues."

"There is too much to do for us to waste our time on idle recriminations," he said. "In spite of everything, we admire the British world because it is defending us, it is defending Canada, and of all known empires it is the one which has shown the most tolerance toward different races, religions and tongues."—Lachute Watchman.

"No Parking" Signs Erected

The road committee has erected "no parking" signs along Bridge and Lampton streets. This is in compliance with the new by-law which the village council adopted during the early part of the summer. In talking to Mayor D. A. Barrington recently he informed us that Constable Ruddock will be notified shortly to carry this new regulation into effect. Therefore this means that motorists will not be permitted to park along the south side of Lampton and on the east side of Bridge Street after 7 o'clock in the evening. The signs have been erected in such a manner that all can see them and Mayor Barrington warned that those who infringe upon this law will be forced to pay the penalty.

The Gleaner installed a Vertical Miehle automatic printing press a week ago. The press is capable of printing factory forms up to 13x18 inches at a rate of 3,000 or better per hour . This installation will tend to reduce the amount of labor required and at the same time increase production.

Mount Royals Win Twin Bill Over Royals

Montreal Aggregation Downs Huntingdon Girls In Exhibitions 28-8 and 9-1—Players Show More Steadiness in Second Event

The Mount Royal Girls team, members of the Montreal Senior Softball League, defeated the Huntingdon Royals in a double-header played at the Log Lodge diamond on Saturday afternoon. The visitors walked away with the first game when they piled up a 28-8 score. The nightcap ended also in favor of the Montreal team by 9-1.

This was the first visit of a Montreal aggregation to Huntingdon this season. Although the weather was exceedingly hot, a fair attendance witnessed the games.

It was evident from the very first inning of the initial game that the Montreal squad had some potential material on their line-up as they scored ten runs before Huntingdon had a chance to come to bat. They added six more markers in the first half of the third, three in the fourth, one in the sixth and eight in the seventh, to bring their total to 28. The locals tallied two in the first inning, one in the third, four in the fifth and their last counter was made in the last half of the sixth.

The second game was of a higher calibre than the first. The Huntingdon team, with Claire McCallum on the mound, seemed more steady and the players handled the ball with better control. Alice Rolfe, who replaced Helen Rugar, added more confidence to the team.

Marion Stark, who was one of the best hitters for Huntingdon on Saturday, scored the Royals' one and only run of the second game in the fourth inning. She crossed the plate on C. McCallum's single and a walk to Eileen McCallum. The Mount Royal Girls scored three times in the second, once in the fifth and five others in their last attempt at bat in the first half of the seventh inning.

The line-up in the first game:

Mount Royal—Worth, Dreyer, Chartrand, Williams, McBurney, Peters, Cloutier, Flemming, Groves.

Huntingdon—M. Stark, E. McCallum, C. McCallum, B. Rock, R. McCartney, M. McCartney, A. Henderson, E. Herdman, H. Rugar.

Score by innings:

Montreal ..... 10 06 301 8—28
Huntingdon ..... 201 041 0— 8

Batteries—Groves and Dreyer; Herdman and Henderson.

Second game:

Line-up:

Mount Royal — Worth, Bertrand, Dreyer, Chartrand, Peters, Cloutier, Lewis, Flemming, Williams, Vezina.

Huntingdon—M. Stark, E. McCallum, C. McCallum, B. Rock, R. McCartney, M. McCartney, A. Rolfe, E. Anderson, F. Leahy.

Score by innings:

Montreal ..... 030 010 5—9
Huntingdon ..... 000 100 0—1

Batteries—Vezina and Dreyer; C. McCallum and E. Anderson.

Umpires—S. D. Popeck and R. Senecal.

Royals Lose to Beaver Girls in Exhibition, 7-6

Miss Stewart Scored Winning Marker With One Runner Out in Last Half of Seventh—Closely Contested Game—N. Foers and C. McCallum Officiate on Mound

In an exhibition game played at Kensington on Thursday evening the Beaver Girls eked out a close victory over the Huntingdon Royals girls team by 7-6. The teams entered the seventh inning tied 6-6. The visiting aggregation was held scoreless in their last chance at bat while the Beaver Girls scored the winning marker with one runner out in their last attempt at bat. Miss Stewart started the march towards a victory in the last half of the seventh when she poled out a high and deep drive for a double. She advanced to third on a passed ball and scored on fielder's choice by N. Foers.

The Huntingdon clan was held scoreless in their first two chances at bat while the Beaver Girls scored two runs in the last half of the second when M. Tannahill and R. McIntyre crossed the plate. The visiting nine started a scoring spree in the first half of the third and they scored four runs before the Beaver Girls finally tightened down. The two other Huntingdon runs were registered by Marion Stark in the first half of the fifth and in the sixth.

The Beaver Girls scored two runs in the second, one in the third, two in the fifth, one in the sixth and seventh. The home team was managed by Spencer Gavin, aided by William Tannahill. The Huntingdon aggregation was under the direction of Manager J. A. "Pat" Ross, Jr.

The line-up:

Huntingdon—M. Stark, E. McCallum, C. McCallum, B. Rock, E. Herdman, A. Henderson, E. Anderson, F. Leahy, E. Marshall.

Beaver—G. Tannahill, Stewart, M. Elliott, N. Foers, M. Tannahill, McIntyre, C. Salter, M. McCartney, Donnelly.

Score by innings:

Huntingdon ..... 004 011 0—6
Beaver ..... 021 021 1—7

FARM NOTES

Ayrshires in R.O.P.

The secretary, Canadian Ayrshire Breeders' Association, reports that during the month of July he received the reports of 190 cows and heifers which have qualified in the R.O.P.—76 in the 365 day division and 114 in the Honor Roll or 305 day division.

Sixty-six of the 76 records in the 365 day division were made on two milkings-a-day. In the 3-year-old class was Burnside Estalla, owner, J. Earle Ness, Howick, Que., 11,165 lbs. milk, 469 lbs. fat, av. test 4.20% fat.

Boarder — You have wonderful rice pudding, Mrs. Webb.

Mrs. Webb—Indeed, yes. I won't use anything but rice thrown at the very best weddings.

ALUMINUM DRIVE WILL TURN PANS INTO AIRCRAFT

Ottawa is considering a nation-wide drive to gather aluminum. Housewives will be asked to donate their aluminum kitchenware to the Red Cross, which, in turn would benefit by selling it to manufacturers of airplane equipment. Metals Controller George C. Bateman has already stated that aluminum in any form must be sold to companies holding war contracts. The probability is that women will be asked next week, "please" give up your favorite utensils and go back to enamel and the old iron skillet, so that Canada can build more and better planes.

Britain has long since gathered in household aluminum, and the United States, not yet actively at war, has issued a similar call, and Canada, following the lead of the U.S.A. in the gasoline conservation, is doing the same in the matter of aluminum. Out of that "greatest of all storehouses," the American kitchen, has already come millions of pounds of aluminum in the form of pots and pans and their objective runs to 30 or 40 million pounds. Fortunate indeed is Canada in having a great big good neighbor to inspire enthusiasm, outline policy, and lead the way.

Ormstown Wins Honors In Final League Game of Season

Three of the finest games of bowling participated in by Ormstown and Huntingdon men bowlers took place in Huntingdon on Friday evening, when they played their final league game for 1941. The greens were in good condition. Both clubs had junior players filling in and they played good games. Throughout the playing of the evening the ends were keenly contested. The final score gave Ormstown the honors through winning by an aggregate score of 38 to 36.

The rinks and scores were:

WEEK AT OTTAWA

end of October, the time specified in the agreement. Now it is September 15 that is the time when the Food Ministry in England wants the balance delivered. Otherwise it will be difficult to keep up the regular ration of bacon in Britain. The next annual contract will likely be for 600 millions pounds. It is confidently predicted that lines will be laid in the fall to fill the new contract and leave over a sufficient supply for the domestic market, but in the meantime to meet the pressing needs of the hour there is no export on hogs except to Britain and British possessions, a reduction of 25 per cent in the deliveries of pork products by packers for domestic use and a further advance of $1 per hundredweight to packers for bacon for Britain. This brings the price of Grade A Wiltshires to $19.60 per hundredweight at seaboard. The Minister of Agriculture, J. G. Gardiner, and members of the Bacon Board have emphasized that as a war measure it is absolutely essential for Canadian farmers to increase their production of hogs to meet the needs of the British market.

A new stimulation to the recruiting of Poles in Canada for the fighting forces of our allies has been given by the arrival a few days ago from Britain of General Duch, who commanded a Polish division in France. A training centre is already in operation at Windsor, Ont., and a school for advanced training will shortly start at Owen Sound, Ont. Polish airmen have been doing fine work in Britain.

OBITUARY

The Late Thomas Savard

Thomas Savard, 76, a resident of Tupper Lake, N.Y., for more than a half-century, died on Wednesday at his home at 12 Cedar St., Faust.

He had been in failing health for nearly two months, and had been confined to bed for the past five weeks, suffering from a heart ailment.

He was born at Chicoutimi, P. Q., on Jan. 19, 1865, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Savard, and went to the United States 55 years ago. After a short residence at Brandon, he went to Tupper Lake during the boom lumbering days, in 1890, and erected one of the first homes in what is now Cedar St., Faust. Mr. Savard worked as a cook in the lumber camps and various hotels of the community until his retirement about 10 years ago.

He is survived by four children: one daughter, Mrs. G. H. (Amanda) St. Pierre of Montreal, and three sons, George and Ernest J. Savard, Faust, and Edgar Savard, Niagara Falls; and two sisters, Mrs. William Forkey and Mrs. Joseph Payment, both of Faust.

Funeral services were held Friday morning at Faust Holy Name Church, with the Rev. Father Finnegan, pastor, officiating. Burial was in the family plot at Holy Name Cemetery, Tupper Lake.

Valleyfield Hold Mixed Bowling 'Spiel

Green Narrowed to Provide For Extra Rink—64 Bowlers Take Part in Evening's Entertainment

For the first time in the history of district bowling, an evening mixed bonspiel was held in Valleyfield on Wednesday evening. So favored was the idea that it was found necessary to narrow up the greens so that an extra rink might be provided and permit eight more players to participate. Sixteen bowlers from Ormstown, 17 from Huntingdon, joined the Valleyfield bowlers, swelling the number participating in the evening's pleasure to 64. Two games were played by each rink. By 10.30 the winners of the evening were announced and received War Savings Stamps as prizes.

The teams were:

First, Mrs. Bartlett, W. Evans, Mrs. Goundrey, E. Arrandale, won 2 plus 16; Second, Mrs. Robson, E. C. Martin, Miss Allen, W. Baldwin, won 2 plus 12; Mrs. Fishwick, A. Spivey, Mrs. Mann, A. Fawcett; Mrs. S. Osmond, J. Presho, Mrs. Marshall, W. Grant; Mrs. P. Osmond, T. Owen, Miss Johnston, A. L. Sellar; Miss Hunter, J. Fox, Mrs. McAlpine, R. Fishwick; Mrs. MacFarlane, J. Rice, Mrs. Cooke, S. Cottingham; Mrs. Proctor, N. W. Sparrow, Mrs. McAdam, R. Greene; Mrs Hogle, Mr. Proctor, Mrs. McIntyre, William Finlayson; Mrs. Presho, A. Anderson, Mrs. Barrington, J. COTTRELLE BANS SALE OF GAS IN CANS TO MOTORISTS

G. R. Cottrelle, Federal Oil Controller, has made public an order directing that on and after July 31 all motor fuel and oil sold to pricate car owners must be on a cash basis and further directing that delivery of gasoline to a passenger motor vehicle must be made to the tank forming part of the vehicle.

The direction on cash purchases stated that the order exempts sales to licensed taxicab owners, and says dealers still may grant credit to operators of motor vehicles bearing commercial license plates.

Mr. Cottrelle's statement said that some motorists were seeking to evade the prohibited hours of sale by carrying cans and other separate receptacles in their cars. It adds "dealers are now expressly prohibited from delivering gasoline to cans or other receptacles which may be used to supply a private passenger vehicle during prohibited hours of sale.

"Delivery of gasoline must now be made to the tank forming part of the motor vehicle."

Thinking Back ... and ... Looking Ahead

The Allies Must First Win the Battle of the Atlantic And Then go on to Win the Battle of Germany—R.A.F. Bombs Effecting A Creeping Paralysis of German Transportation and Industries—Japan Within Striking Distance by Air of Singapore

By DONALD C. MACDONALD

THE incredible has happened. For close onto ten days, at week's end, the Russo-German war had been so stalemated that dispatches concerning it were almost being crowded off the front pages of the newspapers. That instrument of perfection, the German war machine, with its high precision, its skillful timing, its extraordinary coordination of air and land forces, was stalled along a 2,000-mile front. Indeed, as I discussed in hopeful anticipation a week or so ago, this is not a blitz—this is a battle, fought along a front which is becoming fixed, and in a manner for which the Germans never planned. For such a batle, fought more like those of the last war (Verdun for example, where 2,000,000 men clashed and 1,000,000 became casualties), demands sacrifices in both men and material. The first, Hitler promised would never happen; the second, it is doubtful whether Hitler has.

Fixed Front in Russia

The German masses, like all masses everywhere in the world, hate war—make no mistake about it. Hitler knew they did. And so, from the very outset he won their support through a succession of promises that there would never be a slaughter of their sons and husbands, their brothers and sweethearts. He promised them first that there would be no war—that everything would be accomplished by bloodless victories. Then he promised them that the tactics of blitzkrieg would mean very little bloodshed. He promised them that no air raids would devastate Germany. He promised them that there would be no war on two fronts. And now, comments Dorothy Thompson in a supreme example of the expression of contempt and scorn through the written word, "Now German youth are dying like flies in Minsk and Pinsk and other places where no German in his right mind ever wished to go, while German cities are being bombed."

So much for the sacrifice of men, now being made in contradiction of the Fuehrer's promises throughout the years—what of the resources needed to fight a war of such gigantic proportions? Well, did Hitler not invade Russia because he lacked the material resources for a long war, and hoped that there he could secure them? Certain it is that he has not got them yet, and meanwhile he has brought on what appears to be a long and costly war. Maybe we are exaggerating Hitler's need. Maybe he wasn't nearly as desperate as we hoped he was when he drove across the Russian border on the morning of June 22, in defiance of the lessons of history. We should not lull ourselves into believing that the German war machine is bogged down. Beyond a doubt, the Nazi High Command will be able to adapt itself to the new condition, perhaps even reach Moscow. But even if they do succeed, it is going to be at a cost, not only of men and materials, but of time, such that they will be taken into, or close to, winter.

Battle of Germany

Meanwhile the tide is turning in the west. To win this war, the Allies must first win the Battle of the Atlantic, and then go on to win the Battle of Germany. In the first, the drop in losses for the month of June shows that we may be on our way to meeting the Nazi menace, and with the United States now installed in Iceland, and patrolling the western portion of the North Atlantic, thus lessening Britain's burden, those losses should be due for another decline. As for the second, the Battle of Germany—that is just beginning. For six weeks now tons of bombs—which Hitler and Goering promised would not come—are slowly and systematically effecting a creeping paralysis of German transportation and industries. When we stop to think of it, less than a year ago Britain stood on the defensive, alone, after the shattering collapse of France, awaiting calmly the air onslaught which she turned back during the autumn months. Who then could ever have believed that within so few short months the tables would be completely turned, with the R.A.F. pouring in over Germany, dumping a greater tonnage of bombs per week than the Luftewaffe ever did.

Hitler's Plans for the West

Competent observers, among them Walter Lippman, are of the opinion that Hitler has planned a far-reaching western offensive to follow his Russian adventure (which was to be over in six weeks, five of which have already passed. In their opinion it will include the long-delayed assault on Gibraltar, with Spain playing the part of collaborator, or perhaps even active participant. At the same time, the work of Nazi technicians in North Africa through the past months would be capitalized on, and Germans would suddenly appear in great numbers at Dakar. Between Dakar and South America is the narrowest stretch of Atlantic, so happily called by Lord Halifax "The Straits of Dakar." Beyond them are the South American republics, honey-combed with Nazi intrigue.

This future line of policy they believe to be revealed most clearly by German propaganda at home, which has taken a bitterly anti-American and anti-Roosevelt trend (supposedly in an attempt to whip the hatred of the people to the point where they will accept the entry of the United States into the struggle), but even more outstandingly by last week's speech of General Franco. While singling out the United States for some nasty remarks, even more significant were his allusions to the South American republics, to whom (he expressed the opinion) Spain is in the best position to speak. "Nobody is more authorized than we to tell Americans that Europe has no ambitions over America. A struggle between the two continents is impossible. . . . To say that the outcome of the war can be changed by the entrance of a third country (the United States) is criminal madness . . ." General Franco argued. It all sounds very much as though Spain has become the mouthpiece of the Axis in their approach to America. If so, the Americas were not fooled. Nor Britain. For a few days afterwards, Foreign Minister Anthony Eden, in so many words, told General Franco to behave himself, or else . . . !

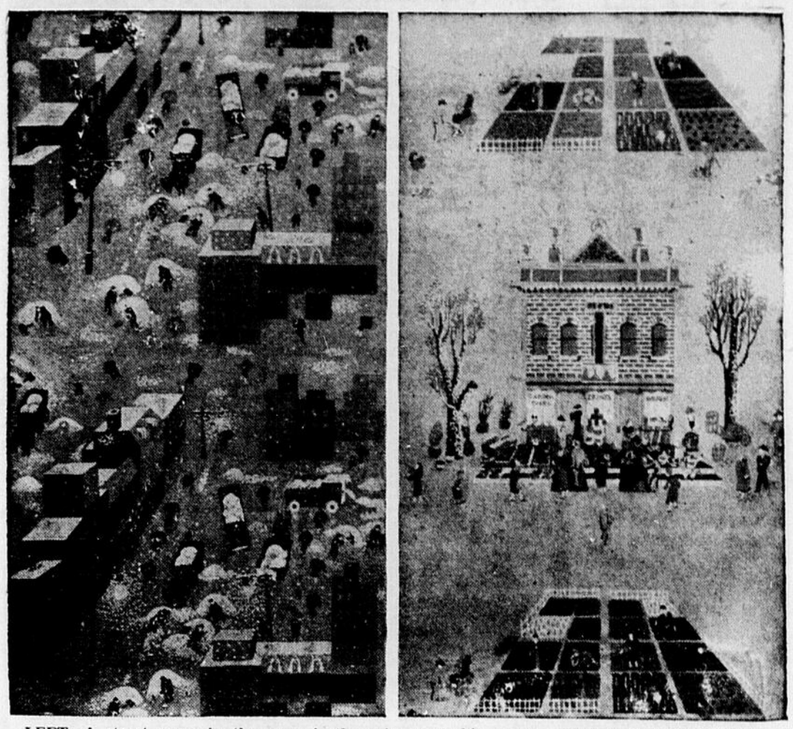

Southward Ho! for Japan

But if this be a correct interpretation of the future line of Nazi policy as laid out for the day when Russia will be subdued, another part of the world picture was made even clearer by developments in the Far East. For over a month Japan has been pre-occupied with cabinet reorganization while her leaders tried to make up their minds what action was best in light of Germany's attack on Russia. Now Japan seems to have decided. A reshuffle left Matsuoka out, so that old ties with both Russia and Germany, associated with his name, might be forgotten; and with Russia pre-occupied at home, obviating the danger of any attack upon her cities from Vladivostock, Japan has now set off anew to the south.

The French Government at Vichy has added further to its dishonor by an accord with Japan, giving her permission to come into Indo-China and help in that country's defence. It appears that France under Vichy leadership has become so used to taking orders from Axis heads that it has even picked up the other habit of Axis victims, and now invites the Axis in to give protection from some mythical foe. Established in Indo-China, with bases as far south as Saigon, Japan is within striking distance by air from Singapore, some 600 miles away. Likewise, the Philippines are only 800 miles to the east.

But Japan's pathway to Asiatic hegemony will not be an easy one. Dependent so much on world trade for her industrial and war supplies, by the end of the week she found her assets frozen in the United States and the British Empire. Further steps seem destined to lead inevitably to a total economic blockade, under which the experts believe Japan's industry will be crippled in six months.

Snow Scenes on Wallpaper ....

TRAVEL THEMES FOR WALL PAPER DESIGNS

The American Scene is the Subject of Many Stimulating New Wall Papers—"Seed Store" and "Clothes Line" Most Unusual

Travelling vicariously must be a favorite indoor sport to judge by this year's wall papers. For geography and topography, especially of the American scene, are the themes of many of the new wall paper patterns. In fact, it looks as though we'd put foreign ideas out of our heads entirely—for the duration at least.

For first attention, it's a toss-up between New York and the old South with the usual sprinkling of New England villages and an occasional adobe house for the southwest accent, and street scenes and back yards that could be anywhere.

This Would be Fun

"Clothes Line" is the most unusual and unexpected. It is a jaunty design of backyard clothes lines flapping in the breeze — just the view you see from any street car or bus. You'd be surprised how decorative it turns out to be. It would be fun for bathroom, game room, bar, hall, closet or kitchen. It's a design from the most original team of inovators in the wall paper world, Katzenback and Warren.

Another amusing town paper is called "Street Games," by Ilonka Karasz. It shows house fronts and typical street scenes with sections marked off for play—with hopscotch as the favorite activity. "Snowstorm" is the name of a paper whose motif is a modern verious of a city in a blizzard, while there's a topographical paper that's really a fanciful map of a loved park.

Though the country designs for wall paper aren't so impudent, they will strike a responsive chord in the affections of all those with nostalgic ideas about the rustic world. "Seed Store" is rural modern, a fantasy of gardening by Ilonka Karasz. While a farmyard paper in modern mood is called "Harvest," a design by the same artist.

For a Gracious Room

Beautifully decorative is a lovely flower-and-scenic paper called "Natchez," with medallions illustrating old Natchez houses, porticos, facades and river boats, all entwined with lovely trailing southern blossoms. This is a paper for a gracious room with polished mahogany furniture and glittering prism chandeliers. "Early Washington" is also a fine formal paper with medallions depicting old scenes in the capitol city. A scenic with middle western pioneer houses, stage coaches and river boats is an exciting revival. Miles away both in spirit and location, is a paper depicting a simple forthright crossroads New England village, "Bennington," designed by Scott Wilson. This is a pleasant liveable paper for maple furniture and a hearty unpretentious design for living. A California pueblo design with palm trees, old missions and donkeys is reminiscent of golden days.

In addition to these more newsworthy geographical papers, there are any number of those familiar usable scenic papers of Hudson River views, New England homes and villages, romantic southern scenes. A British castle design is one of the few foreign subjects that is attracting attention. These have an enduring quality about them on the style side, and they bear acquaintance well, don't distract and disturb the eye. Few types of papers are more satisfying backgrounds for many traditional rooms.

Other New Designs

Besides the geographical papers, new designs include some stunning draped stripes, a spectacular scale and ivy pattern, the ubiquitous eagle, several genial fruit motifs, a draped lace design, a red and white striped cornucopia spilling over with flowers, innumerable wonderful florals. Roulette and chess have contributed gaming designs for leisurely papers.

In addition to the many versatile papers for full walls, there are really exciting borders that make decorator-finishes for many rooms. Draped swags, cord laced into canvas, plaids, stylized florals, Greek frets, a school border of Latin and math. and map symbols, along with many novelties—these are but a few of the distinctive borders you'll see . . . to use with side papers or with plain walls.

The long and the short of it is that we'll probably all do a lot of our travelling right at home during the coming few years, what with the world so at odds with itself. So these wall papers will serve a double purpose of decorating our homes and reminding us of other pleasant places.

BOWLING

LADIES' SECTION

Valleyfield Lady Bowlers Retain District Trophy

On Thursday afternoon, July 17, the Ormstown lady bowlers and Valleyfield lady bowlers again competed for the District Trophy. After a most enjoyable afternoon spent in bowling, the trophy still remained in the hands of the Valleyfield bowlers. Following are the bowlers and scores:

Ormstown	Valleyfield
Mrs. McAdam	Mrs. L. Lemieux
Mrs. P. Osmond	Mrs. Colquhoun
Mrs. S. Osmond	Mrs. Hannah
Mrs. McIntyre	Miss M. Johnson
Score—14	Score—15
Mrs. Cassery	Mrs. Bartlett
Mrs. Mann	Mrs. J. Marshall
Miss Hunter	Mrs. Baldwin
Mrs. Barrington	Mrs. McAlpine
Score— 6	Score—21

Howick

Mr. and Mrs. J. I. Orr and Mrs. John Orr of Wayland, Mass., are spending a few days at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alex. MacGregor, also visited with other relatives. Mrs. John Orr is remaining for a few weeks.

The Georgetown Mission Band met at the home of Mrs. Hudson Friday afternoon, July 25th. Five members and one visitor were present. Collection 30c. Refreshments were served.

Mr. K. Nish, principal of Howick High School spent last week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Stewart.

Valleyfield Wins by 4-3 at Huntingdon

Knights of Columbus Tennis Team Takes Close Victory Over Chateau Aggregation—Huntingdon in Fourth Place

The Huntingdon Chateau Tennis Club lost another close encounter to the Valleyfield Knights of Columbus tennis aggregation in Huntingdon on Thursday evening. The final score was 4-3 in favor of the visiting squad.

Some excellent games were witnessed that evening by a large gathering. Miss Bernice McCartney of Huntingdon and Miss Rachel Huneau of Valleyfield stole the show with their brilliant performance in the ladies' singles. After losing the first set of this series, Miss McCartney rallied to win the last two. The scores were 3-6, 6-4, 6-2. In the men's singles the combination of Walter Sullivan and Tony Brault was outstanding. Sullivan, who wears the Huntingdon colors, also came from behind to win by a decisive margin.

The Knights of Columbus team won the mixed doubles series and one game in the men's doubles and singles. Rod Pierce lost his game in the singles when he bowed before the powerful drives of Gerry Cadieux.

This was the first visit of the Valleyfield Knights of Columbus team to Huntingdon and although they are reputed to be one of the most determined teams in the league, they were given quite a tussle by the Huntingdon clan before they could claim a victory. The Huntingdon team was under the direction of Leonard Lavallee.

Weather permitting, the Huntingdon team expected to play host to the Beauharnois Blue Birds on Tuesday evening. The Chateau team is in fourth position in the league standing.

Powerscourt

Mr. Willock from Montreal spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. John Koski.

A doctor informed his patient that he wasn't eating enough solid food, but the weary patient snapped, "Don't be silly. I eat my wife's biscuits every morning."

CHATEAU TENNIS TOURNEY WILL TAKE PLACE AUGUST 23rd

The Huntingdon Chateau Tennis Club will hold their annual invitation tournament on Saturday afternoon, August 23. Teams from Valleyfield, Beauharnois and Huntingdon will take part in this annual affair.

The games will start at 1 p.m. and the management expects the finals to start at about 8.30 p.m. (E.D.T.) Tennis teams wishing to take part in this gala event are asked to get in touch with the committee at the Huntingdon Chateau.

RECORD TEST DIVE AT 661 M.P.H.

Bob Fausel, test pilot for Curtiss-Wright Corporation, Dayton, Ohio, was disclosed last month to have made a vertical dive at a record 661 miles an hour in a United States Army plane.

Fausel made the dive April 7, 1940, in a ship since vastly improved in type. Details were not disclosed. Fausel flew a Curtiss P-40.

SMILES

Mrs. Blenkinsop's new 'at is enough to make a cat laugh. I know I laughed at it till I cried.

The editor stood at the pearly gate,
His face was worn and old;
He meekly asked of the man of fate
Admission to the fold.
"What have you done," St. Peter asked,
"To seek admission here?"
"Oh, I ran a country printing plant
On earth for many a year."
The gate swung open sharply
As Peter touched the bell;
"Come in," he said, "and take a harp;
You've had enough of hell."

Swimming is One of the Best Possible Exercises For Children

Water is Dangerous and Children Should Not be Made to Fear it by Tossing Them in—Soon be Swimming Like A Frog—Do Not Use Force Under Any Circumstances

Swimming is one of the best possible exercises, the finest of sports, apart from the security knowing how to swim affords. Every child should be taught to swim as a matter of caurse—the way he learns to walk. Many city schools now have pools, and there are many country schools that could have them if those in charge took hold of the matter and dammed a stream or cleaned a pond. The cost of swimming lessons for children is worth bearing, for the health and fun and security it offers children.

Years ago most fathers and mothers did not want the children to get into the water. The boys usually found a way to get there, however, and one day surprised their parents by their skill in the water. But few girls got the chance to learn. They could not join the boys under the dock, or in the river, or in the swimming hole in the brook, so they never learned. Today that is all changed and parents are willing to permit their children to learn to swim if they can do so in safety.

In schools this is easy enough The pool is safe; the teachers are trained in their subject and know how to set about teaching a beginner so that he is not shocked, frightened or overstrained. Those who must learn where and when they can, with whatever help they can get, are not so fortunate, and it is this group of children who must be guarded more carefully this year than in the years past.

The Wrong Beginning

Tossing a child into the water is not the way to teach him to swim, or condition him to want to swim. He is shocked, and the first reaction to that kind of treatment is anger towards the one who tossed him in, anger toward the idea of swimming, toward the whole group of associated incidents. Even if father learned that way, it is a bad way for his children.

The water is dangerous. That fact is not to be hidden any more than it is to be overaccented. Nobody is to take swimming, bathing, boating too lightly. Always there must be in the back of the swimmer's mind that it is possible to drown in water and it behooves one to be a bit on the careful side.

There is a big difference between caution and fear. Intelligent use of caution prevents accidents and makes fear unnecessary. Don't taunt a careful, cautious child by calling him "timid," "cowardly," "fraidy cat." Encourage him, praise his carefulness and help him to learn to swim so well that the action becomes second nature, like walking on land.

Don't Use Force

If a little child shrinks from the water, wails and holds tightly to the person trying to coax him into the water, don't force him. Hold him securely and assure him he is not going to be hurt. Keep back from the water's edge, sit down on the beach and play with him. Each day go closer to the water and gradually lead him to dabble in it. He must first learn that he is in control of himself, that the water will not hurt him, and that he can play in it or stay out of it. No child can resist water long. It is a child's natural playmate. Move slowly, use no force. Just let the child make friends with the new elements he is meeting and he will learn.

Begin to teach water sports as soon as a child is able to walk and understand directions like, "Stand up," "Lie flat," "Give me your hands," "Kick," "Splash," "Hold on." If he is not frightened he will soon be swimming like a frog.

Covey Hill

Wild rumors have been circulated to the effect that a man murdered a husband and wife on the blueberry rock south of here. As near as can be learned, the fact is that the crime was committed at West Chazy, N.Y., by one Duquette, a man with several previous charges against him, who shot and killed a Mr. and Mrs. Laberge, who leave five young children orphaned. Duquette was asked by Laberge why he was hanging about his premises, when the former shot him down. When Mrs. Laberge appeared she met the same fate. The officer who overpowered the murderer was a son of Mr. Henry Waddell, formerly of Covey Hill and now of Burke, N.Y.

Last week we made a comparison between the Gleaner and Ruth the Moabitess. Since then we have heard from a lady living here how, as a young girl, she gleaned wheat in her native place in Hertfordshire, England, which also happens to be the Queen's birthplace.

Miss Cole spent the past week with Mrs. Tefft at Cumberland Pt. near Plattsburg.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Stacey and daughter Mildred of Newark, N.J., and Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Allen of Aubrey were guests of their cousins, Mr. William and Miss Vickey Semple last Wednesday.

Mrs. Mitchell of Rosemount, was a recent guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Berry, and her son, Mr. Wm. Mitchell, in training at Chateauguay Camp, Huntingdon, also visited them recently. Mr. and Mrs. Berry, formerly of St. Lambert, are the present owners of the late Michael McDonald's farm.

Messrs. L. A. Waddell and H. C. Steele of Montreal, have been spending their vacation on the Hill.

Mr. and Mrs. D. E. Orr and Mrs. Shattuck of Methuen, Mass. visited Mr. and Mrs. Perry and Mrs. Gordon at "Greenlea."

Pleased to report Mrs. Thos. Waddell gaining in strength and that Mrs. H. Lowden has arranged to remain a second week with her mother.

Recent visitors at "Kebbaty" included Mrs. W. H. Schmidt, who motored up with Mr. and Miss Rodgers and spent a week. Mrs. Davis and son Jack and Allison Smith, R.C.A.F., were guests at the tea hour on Sunday and Mrs. Schmidt returned with them to St. Lambert.

NOT SO "SPORTY" NOW

The Royal Air Force is giving Germany these days a long-needed lesson in what it feels like to be bombed from the air. It will be recalled that Mussolini's son once told about what "sport" it was to bomb the Ethiopians from the air, but that son of a sawdust caesar found so little "sport" in flying against the British or the Greeks that he has not been heard from since the real war began.
