EXERCISING — With spring showing definite signs of coming on strong with only a few days left before its official opening, many people in the ET are being rejuvenated with their first bursts of energy, after a long and dreary winter. QUEBEC IN FOCUS

Bourassa, Lindsay meet

NEW YORK (CP) — Quebec Premier Robert Bourassa said he and Mayor John Lindsay of New York discussed unemployment and other economic topics during a half-hour meeting Tuesday.

Mr. Bourassa, who arrived in New York Monday night, is to officiate today at the opening of the Quebec exhibit at a conference of institutional investors.

He also is to address industrialists and investors tonight at a private dinner.

The Quebec premier presented Mr. Lindsay with a copy of Michel Reguler's book Quebec, Un Autre Amerique — Quebec, Another America — and the mayor gave Mr. Bourassa a gold key copied from the original made in 1812 for New York's city hall.

Move toward petroleum

QUEBEC (CP) — Quebec's government-owned oil company is moving "inevitably" towards sale and distribution of petroleum products, Bernard Cloutier, president of the Societe Quebecoise d'Initiative Petroliere (SQIP), said Tuesday.

But the progressive steps necessary before selling are exploration, production, transport, refining and distribution, he added in an interview.

"We plan to enter progressively into retail markets for petroleum products such as gasoline and heating oil."

The society was created by law Nov. 27, 1969, and opened its Quebec City offices in February.

Municipalities withdraw?

CARLETON, Que. (CP) — Maurice Tessier, Quebec minister of municipal affairs, says legislation may be adopted enabling a municipality to withdraw from an urban community after a certain period of time.

Mr. Tessier, participating in a discussion Monday on municipal reform legislation now before the national assembly, said that no "divorce procedure" was contained in the bill but added that there should be one.

He cited the protests of 12 municipalities forced to amalgamate to form the city of Gaspé.

The minister said that as far as he is concerned, the regroupment was forced by the federal government "because it was the only way to fully develop this area." It was one of the conditions stipulated in the federal-provincial agreement signed recently for the establishment of a new national park at Forillon.

Bregg acquittal challenged

MONTREAL (CP) — The acquittal of photographer Peter Bregg of an assault charge arising from a 1969 street demonstration was challenged by the Crown Tuesday in Quebec Court of Appeal.

The appeal was taken under advisement by Chief Justice Lucien Tremblay, Mr. Justice G. Miller Hyde and Mr. Justice G. R. W. Owen.

Gregg, 21, a Canadian Press photographer from Ottawa, was arrested Nov. 28, 1969, while taking photographs of a group of women demonstrating against Montreal's anti-demonstration bylaw.

During the demonstration a policeman was struck on the forehead by a camera that Bregg was carrying on a shoulder strap.

The photographer was acquitted of the assault charge last Dec. 7 by Judge Roger Savard of Sessions Court, who said he found no evidence that the blow was struck intentionally.

275 workers walk off jobs

SEPT-ILES, Que. (CP) — Some 275 construction workers walked off the job here Tuesday and another 125 were expected to join them today in closing down all major construction sites in this community, 250 miles northeast of Quebec City.

The workers, affiliated with the Confederation of National Trade Unions, are demanding an additional 30 cents an hour as provided for in the Quebec government order which established wage rates in the construction industry as of Jan. 1, 1971.

Ambrose Picard, president of the Sept-iles union, said the walkout could spread if the men do not receive the increase.

Student job-making, travel aid program unveiled for summer

OTTAWA (CP) — A $57.8 million job-making and travellers-aid program for students this summer was announced Tuesday by Prime Minister Trudeau.

But cabinet ministers declined repeatedly at a news conference to give any estimate of the number of summer jobs to be provided.

A similar program last year provided 34,000 jobs, including militia training.

State Secretary Gerard Pelletier, responsible for co-ordination of the nine separate programs to help students, said about twice the effort will go into this year's plans.

But he declined to say whether twice the number of jobs would be provided. He did say the federal civil service will provide 23,500 jobs. The figure last year as given by Manpower Minister Otto Lang was 23,000.

Mr. Lang was asked why students were not given the 48,000 temporary jobs involved in the taking of the census this year.

He said it would not be fair to restrict the census-taking jobs to students.

Asked whether these jobs were being kept for political party workers, the minister said students would be considered along with everybody else for such jobs.

Defence Minister Donald Macdonald said armories will not be used this year as youth hostels for the some 400,000 persons expected to be hitch-hiking across the country.

Instead, public and high schools will be used, he said.

Mr. Pelletier said $1,153,000 will be provided for transient youth services, including 50 information kiosks along the Trans-Canada Highway.

Mr. Lang said jobs would be open to students whether they needed the money to continue their schooling or not.

The minister said it would be extremely difficult to apply a means test in the circumstances.

Mr. Trudeau said in the Commons that more than 1,800,000 university and high school students will be free from studies this summer, an increase of nearly 100,000 over the 1970 figure.

Some $15 million will be provided to voluntary organizations for student-employment projects such as pollution clean-ups.

Federal minimum wage laws will not apply, Mr. Lang said.

Mr. Pelletier said he is still discussing with the provinces the possibility of universities staying in operation the yearround.

Mr. Pelletier also said the government is considering assistance for adult travel by Canadian citizens. A big problem was finding the money.

AVOID CLASH

Mr. Trudeau said every effort will be made to avoid competition for jobs between students and permanent members of the labor force.

The government would provide as many temporary jobs as possible for students in the public service and encourage business to do the same.

More than 100 student employment centres would be in operation across the country.

Assistance would be provided to communities that organized and operated hostels for travelling youth. Roadside service kiosks would provide travellers with information.

An "opportunities-for-youth" program would test student resourcefulness to set up worthwhile projects such as combating pollution and helping poor people.

DESCRIPTS PROGRAMS

Mr. Pelletier said in a statement that four programs in his department will cost an estimated $21 million and provide jobs, travel and other activities for as many as 500,000 students.

Of this fund, $15 million would be made available to voluntary organizations for the "opportunities-for-youth" program. The remainder of the money would be for travel, hostels, language training and other activities.

The defence department will provide militia training and works projects for up to 12,000 students.

The health department said it will employ some 2,000 students including 600 athletes who would be awarded up to $2,000 each in "educational grants."

Some 700 students would be employed in a drug abuse survey.

35,000 GOVERNMENT JOBS

The manpower department said the private business sector provided 713,000 student jobs last year. The federal government provided about 35,000.

The department said it will help 3,200 university students to work in Europe during the summer under an international exchange program.

Opposition Leader Robert Stanfield said it is "absurd puffery of the worst sort" for the government to offer the programs as a solution to the student employment problem.

Danville man to face Ont. bank robbery charge

SUDBURY, Ont. (CP) — Paul Arthur James Lavigne, 27, of Danville, was remanded to March 24 when he appeared in provincial court today to face a charge of robbing a Sudbury bank by threat of violence.

The robbery Monday morning involved a bizarre bomb threat that turned out to be a hoax at a Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce branch.

Police said two detectives arrested a man late Monday night after stopping a bus en route to North Bay from Sudbury and recovered more than $5,000 in large bills.

At 11 a.m. Monday, bank manager C. R. Gagnon received a telephone call from a man who said a bomb in a suitcase left in the bank would be detonated by remote control unless money was left in the lobby of a nearby hotel.

The money was delivered and bomb-demolition experts from Canadian Forces Base North Bay later opened a grey canvas bag found in the bank. It contained two cement blocks, but no bomb.

When the forces men arrived, the suitcase was pulled out of the bank on a cord and loaded into a truck filled with sandbags.

Escorted by two ambulances, the truck was driven slowly two miles to a city dump, with police cordoning off intersecting streets.

At the dump, a fuse and a blasting cap were detonated on the suitcase but there was no explosion. The suitcase was then opened and the two cement bricks were found.

Should define salary policy says CNTU

MONTREAL (CP) — The Confederation of National Trade Unions says the Quebec government should define its salary policy for civil servants and pay salaries equivalent to the highest paid by private employees.

In a 79-page booklet released Tuesday, the CNTU says its 100,000 members employed by the government and state institutions are currently paid salaries somewhere between the highest and the lowest paid by private businesses.

The booklet comes as government labor contracts come due this spring with about 250,000 civil servants, hospital employees, teachers and employees of such organizations as Hydro-Quebec and the Quebec Liquor Board.

The CNTU, the Quebec Teachers Corporation and the Quebec Federation of Labor are adopting a common front during coming negotiations.

The CNTU calls for equal salaries for equal job categories, comparison with the highest paid in business or in other governments, a reduction of the difference between pay for specialized and non-specialized employees, equal pay for men and women doing the same work, equalization of pay in different parts of Quebec and equal social benefits for all government employees.

Tax returns out faster this year

OTTAWA (CP) — After a faltering start earlier this year, the tax department's computers now are clearing income tax returns faster.

The department reported Tuesday night that up to Monday night refund cheques totalling $87 million were prepared for 703,264 taxpayers. Comparable figures for a year ago were cheques totalling $58 million for 526,983 taxpayers.

The revenue department has received an estimated 2.9 million 1970 tax returns, compared with 2.8 million by the same date last year. This year, 796,157 returns have been assessed, compared with 603,831 last year.

The deadline for filing completed income tax returns is April 30.

The department's computers, which check each taxpayer's new return for errors as well as comparing it with previous year's returns, developed a fault a month ago when new duties were assigned to it. It has been overcome, a revenue department source said.

erín 60 BRAGH

SHERBROOKE (CJ) — March 17 is the day on which all true Irishmen, whether of the genuine or synthetic variety, insist upon wearing the shamrock. But the trouble is that no one, least of all the Irish, can decide which plant should bear the honored name.

Eight varieties of three-leaved plants are commonly and dogmatically called the "true" shamrock — "chosen leaf of bard and chief."

History says that Nathaniel Colgan, a member of the Royal Irish Academy, tried to settle the question in 1891 by appealing to all of Ireland's 32 counties for specimens of the one and only shamrock.

From 21 counties Colgan turned up four distinct specimens: white clover, small yellow hop clover, red clover and black medic.

Other strong contenders in Colgan's studies were the zig-zag clover, wood sorrel, bird's-foot, trefoil and a currently-popular yellow-flowered clover.

Botanists hedge by listing two or three of the eight as probably shamrocks. But in 1952, a publication called The Official Flora of the British Isles avoided the controversy like poison ivy.

Irish growers, showing no favoritism, ship several varieties of the shamrock to North America for St. Patrick's Day.

Despite the arguments, almost everyone agrees that St. Patrick himself made the shamrock immortal. Ireland's saint, the story goes, picked a shamrock to illustrate to a pagan audience the doctrine of the Trinity. He converted the tribal chief on the spot.

Eating instead of wearing the green was an Irish custom after St. Patrick. In his 16th century history of Ireland, Edmund Campion wrote: "Shamrocks, watercresses and other herbs the feed upon; oatmeal and butter they cramme together."

The authorities even disagreed on which was the edible shamrock.

A few years ago a light-headed botanist bravely urged replacing the shamrock with St. Patrick's cabbage, since it offered the added virtue of not growing in England.

Somehow the idea never caught on.

Canada chalks up surplus

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's booming $1,297 million surplus in its international balance of payments last year was accompanied by a sharply reduced inflow of foreign capital, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported Tuesday.

The 1970 surplus in Canada's transactions with other countries in goods and services compared with a deficit of $751 million in 1969, and it was the first surplus chalked up since 1952.

The bureau said that taking seasonal conditions into account, the surplus was particularly strong in the first and final quarters of the year, after a slump in the second and third three-month periods.

While the United States continued to be the main investor in foreign-controlled enterprises in Canada, there was a sharp increase in investment from Western Europe, which more than doubled its 1969 volume, and accounted for about one fifth of 1970's total.

The bureau gave this picture of Canada's international payments position: Merchandise exports rose to $16,841 million from $14,874 million in 1969, and imports declined to $13,839 million from $14,014 million.

surplus in Canada's favor of $3,002 million last year, compared with one of $860 million in 1969.

But Canada again ran a deficit on non-merchandise trade in such things as insurance, freight, and travel services. This cut the commodity trade balance to the net surplus of $1,297 million in Canada's balance of international payments for last year.

The bureau earlier reported a preliminary balance-of-payments surplus of $1,279 million. Tuesday's report gave more definitive figures and greater detail on capital movements.

Another lucky Loto winner!

MONTREAL (CP) — Robert Labbe of Ste. Petronille, Que., an administrative adviser with the department of education, received the birthday present of his life on his 37th birthday — the $125,000 winning ticket in Quebec's February monthly lottery.

The ticket, bought by his wife, was given to him at his birthday party last Friday.

Marthe Mongrain, a Montreal school teacher, won the $50,000 second prize, while the third prize of $25,000 went to Benoit Hubert, a mechanic from Arvida, Que.

Study of advertising effects on children favored

OTTAWA (CP) — Consumer Affairs Minister Ron Basford said Tuesday he favors an in-depth study on advertising directed at children.

He was replying in the Commons health committee to James McGrath PC-St. John's East who suggested the consumer affairs department and the Canadian Radio-Television Commission do one.

Mr. McGrath was supported by Grace MacInnis NDP-Vancouver-Kingsway.

Mr. McGrath said complaints he made at a committee hearing last week about the effects of "hard-sell" television advertising aimed at children had produced a response from across the country.

He said the advice of child psychologists should be sought about the effect of high-pressure sales methods on children.

The minister, a witness before the committee where his department's estimates are being examined, said there has been a great deal of concern especially about food and toy advertising directed at children. This had been getting attention from both his department and the CRTC.

Under the Combines Investigation Act, the consumer affairs department can take action against misleading or deceptive advertising. Mr. Basford said the CRTC has a strong authority to determine the kind of advertising done through the media.

A study by the two bodies might determine how and to what extent advertising directed at children should be regulated.

Mr. McGrath also complained that the department is not sufficiently advertising its services and information about consumer protection laws.

"There's not much point in having consumer protection legislation if the consumer doesn't know about it."

Mr. Basford said consumer information under his department had a 1970-71 budget of $177,000, he said. The proposed figure for 1971-72 was $618,000.

"No doubt we should be advertising on TV and radio on prime time to reach people," he said. But this cost thousands of dollars.

Mrs. MacInnis said no real representatives of low-income consumers have been appointed yet to the Canadian Consumer Council and pressed the minister to rectify this. The council was set up in 1968 to advise the minister on consumer matters.

GUY NOEL

Miles for Millions on May 8

SHERBROOKE — The general committee of Miles for Millions in Sherbrooke has already chosen its executive for 1971.

Guy Noel, director of personnel at the St. Vincent e Paul Hospital, was elected president. Last year, Mr. Noel brought in $2,386 by walking 25 miles last May. This year's project is scheduled for May 8.

Mr. Noel will be assisted by Dr. Julien Rochefort, vice-president; Miss Denise Bergeron, secretary; Mr. Gilles Duquette, treasurer; M. Georges "Neil, M. Lionel Bureau, Miss Henriette Poulin, Mr. James Allard and Mr. Andre Lemay are also members of the executive committee.

This board of directors works with a general committee of about twenty other members. Every week, the executive committee meets to establish the structure of the 17 various committees such as routing, refreshments, security of marchers, transport, recruiting of marchers and many volunteers to help out for the different tasks.

Georges O'Neil, responsible for the routing, has not yet officially determined the road map but it is possible that the stretch this year will also amount to 25 miles with many control stations.

Students call for abolition of college fees

SHERBROOKE (LW) — Students at the University of Sherbrooke have decided that university and CEGEP fees should be abolished.

A proposal stating this was presented by a student to the special assembly of 200 students held yesterday at the university and was ratified by the assembly. The approval of the proposal was almost unanimous. The abolition of fees is a long-term goal and two other proposals concerning the means of achieving this goal accepted as well.

The second proposal stated that until the first is realized students would oppose all changes of the status quo. Also, it calls for the U. of S. administration to make known their position on the issue by March 25, 1971.

The third proposal was to the effect that the Federation des Etudiants de l'Universite de Sherbrooke (FEUS) should initiate the forming of a common front of all Quebec CEGEP and university students to support the abolition of fees.

If the administration has not taken a stand by March 25, the students have agreed to utilize other means to achieve their goals.

No official mention was made of what exactly would be done if the administration refused the ultimatum, but the general feeling at the university is that some sort of demonstration would be held.

Game wardens concerned with dog-like marauders

THREE VILLAGES (IH) — Game wardens have asked that people stay away from deer herds and their feeding areas and that they refrain from feeding the animals. The wrong kind of food such as hay, says the wardens, can injure or even kill deer.

The wardens have been making aerial surveys of the herds and they report that the deer have wintered well.

Food shortage will no longer pose a problem as plants and buds which form their staple diet are beginning to sprout.

Dog owners are asked to know the whereabouts of their pets at all times until all the snow has melted.

Wardens and conservationists are deeply concerned with the presence of packs of so-called coydogs in deer areas. These crafty, dog-like animals eat the hearts and livers and leave the rest. Many various ways of trapping or killing them have been tried, but to no avail. Guns seem to be the only answer, but to shoot the marauders one must see them. This is virtually impossible as they are extremely elusive.

The public is asked to co-operate and leave the deer herds alone. They will be well protected by the wardens.

To consult mediator in Coaticook police issue

COATICOOK — The Coaticook municipal council decided in a special meeting held Monday to consult a mediator before acting on the issue of the permanent hiring of two town policemen.

This decision came as a result of a complaint from the Coaticook Policemen's Association that the council was being unfair to two police constables.

To become a "permanent employee" of the Coaticook police department, each constable must undergo a six-month trial period as a "temporary employee", after which he is either accepted or rejected by the council and the policemen's association.

Constable Richard Quimette joined the force April 13, 1970, and completed his trial period on October 13 of the same year.

Constable Marc Guimond joined on June 29, 1970, and his trial time expired last December 29.

Both policemen are requesting permanent status because of the financial security it involves and the numerous fringe benefits which are available only to "permanent" employees.

The council, however, wishes to extend their trial period another six months.

Both parties are awaiting the decision of mediator Reynald Frechette.

Quebec autoroute fatalities lower

MONTREAL — Quebec's toll autoroutes set an all-time low in terms of fatalities last year.

The autoroute authorities announced that the fatality rate per 100 million vehicle miles travelled in 1970 was 2.2, the lowest achieved in the short history of Quebec's autoroute.

This mortality rate is exactly the same as that of the American turnpikes for last year, according to statistics published by the American authorities.

In 1969, far less vehicle miles were travelled on the province's autoroutes than in 1970, but the fatality rate was 2.6 per 100 million.

There were 22 fatalities on Quebec's three autoroutes last year, divided as follows:

Laurentian Autoroute: 12 deaths in 622,718,662 miles, or 1.9 per 100 million miles.

Eastern Townships Autoroute: 6 fatalities in 229,884,996 miles, or 2.6 per million miles.

North Shore Autoroute: 4 fatalities in 148,670,511 miles, or 2.7 per 100 million miles.

Joint council agrees on dump, police issues

Ireland's problems economic

SHERBROOKE (LW) — "The main reason for Ireland's present problems is not religious but economic," Andrew Sheeran told last night's meeting of the Sherbrooke Rotary Club.

Mr. Sheeran's topic was, fittingly, Ireland: Fact and Fable. In his address he traced the origins and history of the Irish from the third century B.C. to the present time.

"Originally the nomadic Celts, forefathers of the Irish, were pagan. When St. Patrick came to the island in the fifth century A.D., he succeeded in converting most tribes in the south and this eventually spread to the north," he explained. "The demi-gods were replaced by saints."

take full charge of the dump. This arrangement will terminate the use of Stanstead's present dump in the east section of the municipality.

The police situation was thoroughly discussed and step-by-step items for a contract were drawn up after both councils agreed to continue jointly.

Owing to the previous resignation of the joint police councils committee, a new one was formed to consist of the chairmen of the police committee of each council, Peter Beasse for Stanstead and Gerard Surprenant for Rock Island, plus Mayor Struthers for Stanstead and Mayor Girard for Rock Island. They will meet the last week of each month prior to the Councils meeting the first Monday of the next month.

Any problems of the committee will be brought back to their councils in a joint meeting for decision.

The payment of the department will remain as the past two years, 46 per cent for Stanstead and 54 per cent for Rock Island. The matter of department costs is to be reviewed each year. In case of a split of the department each town will claim the assets on 46 per cent and 54 per cent of the depreciated value. Employing and dismissal of the department officers came up for discussion and it was decided the recommendations will come from the committee and decision by the two councils.

The paper work will be done by Mrs. Marielle Masse, secretary for the Town of Rock Island, using the Rock Island office. The salaries of the police will also be recommended by the committee to the councils. The committee was given authority to spend up to $200 for emergency purposes, after which all report must be submitted to the councils. Any amount over this figure must be approved by the councils.

The two councils reported approval of these measures. The contract will be drawn up by the Councils' lawyer and sent to Quebec for approval.

Salt still ice fighter

Everything is environmentally suspect these days. An example is deicing salt which most Canadian communities subject to winter snow and ice has come to depend upon to keep its streets and highways clean.

Basically the same chemical as the indispensable kitchen item, deicing salt came into extensive use in the late 1940s and during the past winter it is estimated that Canadian highway maintainers will have used 1.5 million tons.

This is what has worried environmentalists — that such vast quantities of salt may be killing roadside vegetation and contaminating water supplies.

Fortunately, this is one aspect of the overall problem where the facts have proven the fears to be exaggerated.

In the most exhaustive study ever done on the subject, conducted by the Highway Research Board last year for the National Academy of Sciences, no evidence was found that major waterways were contaminated by deicing salt.

There is some pollution, but it is limited to shallow wells and ponds near roadways. Most problems of this type can be corrected by altering drainage and by placing wells further back from roads. Another necessity is for salt to be properly stored so that it is not carried by winds or rains.

As for vegetation, the greatest damage occurs within about 30 feet on either side of a road. This situation can be helped by landscaping with more salt-resistant types of shrubs and trees or "hardening" others by spraying or by treating the seeds with certain solutions.

According to the U.S. Environmental Service, however, not salt but "gaseous pollutants (from internal combustion engines) account for the most widespread injury to plant life."

Nothing has been found as effective as salt in removing ice from road surfaces. The amount contained in an ordinary salt shaker could clear a highway lane 25 feet long. Sand and cinders do not melt ice and present monumental problems.

Salt can cause trouble, but when it is weighed against the cost of not using it — serious inconveniences to an increasingly mobile population, economic dislocation and most important of all, increased accident rates — the trade-off in human benefits with possible environmental damage is heavily on the side of salt.

Until something better comes along, salt hath not lost its savor.

Shoutdown that quake

When in doubt, scream and shout.

To be specific, a Los Angeles psychologist recommends that the next time you're caught in an earthquake, don't be frightened, be angry. Shout, curse, clench your jaws, shake your fist, stomp your feet and order the earth to stop shaking.

For, amazingly enough, it will stop and you will experience an exhilarating feeling of mastery over primeval forces like that of an Indian rain dancer.

But more important, says Dr. Donald F. Cowan, you will have mastered the feeling of helplessness, hopelessness and fear that filled people during the February 9 earthquake in California, an experience that still gives many of them the jitters.

He calls it the "angry assertion method."

Shout, curse, shake your fist — we do it every time we read the headlines about the latest world or domestic crisis and it does not seem to help.

But maybe earthquakes are different.

Over regulation features committee report

Record Publisher Conrad Black continues his analysis of the Davey committee report on Canadian news media.

The Committee's treatment of weekly newspapers is generally fair and useful. Its criticism of the Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association for being largely opposed to socialism (p. 144), will no doubt be taken as a compliment by most C.W.N.A. members, and its objection to the sponsorship of the last C.W.N.A. annual meeting by I.B.M. is another example of the anti-business prejudices of the Report.

MAGAZINES

The section on magazines is uneven. We question that Saturday Night's "editorial direction is brilliant." (p. 153) Being left-wing and frequently well-written, does not make it brilliant. Nor does the ability to compress James Eayrs, Mordecai Richler, Robert Fulford, and the other mainstays of English Canada's one-note crypto-left elite between the covers of every issue. MacLean-Hunter is justly praised for its persistence in producing Macleans and Chatelaine, and the examples of Miss Chatelaine and Toronto Calendar are interesting and outstanding cases of entrepreneurial skill in this industry so in need of such talents. The handling of the controversial situation of Time and Reader's Digest and the associated problem of massive penetration of the Canadian market by American publications is dealt with competently. In this section of the Report the Senators use testimony before their Committee skillfully. The comments of Floyd Chalmers, Chairman of Maclean-Hunter, are accorded the scepticism merited by his denunciation of his principal competitors as "parasite." (p. 159) At this point the Report records what is here claimed to be the only dissenting view in the whole document, which the Senators are "anxious" to publish, that of Senator Beaubien concerning Time and Reader's Digest. The Report thus ignores the dissent, recorded on page 90, of Senators Welch and Macdonald over the slandering given the Halifax newspapers. Of Mr. Beaubien's dissent we are told: "the only one in our entire report. On every other point we were unanimous; the only issue on which the Committee was divided was its recommendation with regard to Time and Reader's Digest." (p. 168) This sort of contradiction, not uncommon in the Report, reduces somewhat the credibility of the Committee.

Unfortunately, the compulsory stock-sale provisions (75 per cent of the Canadian editions of Time and Reader's Digest to be sold in Canada), are overly stringent and the example of the CRTC regulation of broadcasting-media owners is not a very comforting one. The Committee is uncharacteristically modest in branding its suggestions in this respect as "imperfect" (p. 168) But its continuous invocation of the CRTC presupposes that this is an organization unfailingly serving the best interests of the country, a presumption the Senators at no place attempt to prove, and one to which we do not subscribe.

BUSINESS, FARM, ETHNIC, STUDENT, AND UNDERGROUND PRESS

The treatment of the business and farm press is incisive and informative. The Committee perhaps underestimates somewhat the ability of the church press to be irrelevant and irresponsible, the United Church newsletter and the Dominican publication, Maintenant, being two of many cases in point.

The ethnic press is given excellent coverage and the praise accorded Canadian Scene and Corriere Canadese is well-warranted.

The student press profits from a perhaps over-indulgent "they're just kids" attitude on the part of the Senators. It isn't enough said to point out that the student press has always been "unprofessional, shrill, scurrilous, radical, tasteless, inaccurate, obscene, and wildly unrepresentative." (p. 185) as education budgets and university enrollments haven't always been as inflated as they presently are. The Senators believe that the press in general has improved over the last five and ten years. Given the attention lavished upon it, no segment of the press should have improved more than that of the university students, but the Senators are apparently consoled about its failure to do so, even to the point of fond reminiscences (those of them who attended university), by the fact that the student press is as outrageous as ever. There should be no regime of exception for the students. If the Senators can become irritated by the financial assistance given the C.W.N.A. by IBM, they should at least urge the student press-lords to attempt to grow up quickly, rather than felicitating them on their consistent irresponsibility. The remarks of David Chenoweth, then of the McGill Daily, are well-chosen and constitute the Report's principal adverse criticism of the student press.

The usefulness of the underground press is grossly exaggerated although the Senators demonstrate an awareness of the limitations of this part of the press from the informational stand-point. This is clear in their wistful request that more attention be paid to Canadian issues and less to "automatic reprinting of the latest manifesto from Chicago or San Francisco." (p. 189).

BROADCASTING

In broadcasting, the Senators show a continuing obsession with soap advertising, as this lugubrious example of telecasting is alluded to several times. The CBC's performance is accorded a massive whitewashing. We agree with the Committee that the CBC should not remove itself altogether from its present lethargic effort to sell commercial air-time, and that it should adopt as resolute a policy toward collective bargaining as that of the private broadcasters. We are not qualified to say whether the CBC undercharges its customers for advertising spots, but if so, this obviously should be remedied.

The recommendation that the Corporation be accorded five year money grants is quite preposterous. Volume 11 of the Report carries a table illustrating how the CBC deftly managed to increase its deficit from 55 to 155 million dollars in the last ten years and (p. 202) even the Senators feel that "some economies might well be considered." They go so far as to report that "we wonder about the cost efficiency of a broadcasting organization which needs a dollar of input to produce 54 cents worth of programme." The generally favourable comments on the CBC radio service are probably well-earned, and the recommendation that the service be promoted on television has already been put into practice.

Having quoted Dr. George Davidson, the CBC's president, to the effect that the network might carry less American programming (p. 200), the Senators are being highly irresponsible in attributing the present high level of US content on the CBC to the demands of advertisers. Since the CBC doesn't make a very determined effort to attract advertising and since there is no evidence from Dr. Davidson in fact professes some criticism of his own corporation on this respect, the Senators are here taking considerably liberties with the truth.

The corresponding treatment given the private broadcasters is outrageous: their attitude was described by the Senators as "neanderthal." (p. 204) After giving the CBC a mild reproof for carrying too much US content, the Committee administers a severe wiggling to the private broadcasters on the same point. The lofty dismissal of the incessant, picaresque, and sanctimonious intrusions of the CRTC is illustrative of the Report's biased and ignorant treatment of the private sector wherever it has the temerity to survive.

We agree with the Committee's rejection of the somewhat suspect theory that the CBC should get out of commercial activities altogether. Our position is that the CBC should either attempt to be commercially competitive or should cease entirely to exist, leaving behind as an alluvial remnant of state interference in news and opinion dissemination a regulatory agency more serious, responsible and circumspect than the CRTC.

The Senators in effect call the president of the Canadian Association of Broadcasters (W.D. McGregor) a liar over his assertions concerning the impact of commercials on the public. (p. 206) The Senators seem to cleave to the view that as commercials are an irritating interruption, they should be disposed of. (p. 207) The suggestion (p. 208) that the amount of time allocated to advertising be restricted by law is preposterous. We agree that the basic regulations concerning licensing, ethics, and content are useful. But the imposition by an anonymous state mandarin of time distribution and commercial content regulations would be a negation of a free broadcasting system and would introduce a dangerous degree of state interference.

We agree with the Committee's recommendations that section 12A of the Income Tax Act be extended to broadcasters to disallow write-off of advertising expenses by Canadian companies in foreign broadcasting outlets.

"Not THOSE comments, Miss Lushbod!"

MATTER OF FACT JOSEPH ALSOP

WASHINGTON — The prevailing official view is that Chou En-lai's visit to Hanoi did not portend Chinese military action in Southeast Asia. The Chinese army, after all, is China's sole remaining instrument of internal administration; and the great majority of what remains of the army's strategic reserve was long since redeployed northward, to face the threat on the Sino-Soviet border.

If the Chinese mean business, furthermore, there are only two courses they can take. They can make a demonstration in Northern Laos — which would be just a demonstration, unless very, very large resources are invested. Or they can help out the hard-pressed North Vietnamese inside North Vietnam.

There is need for help in North Vietnam, providing the members of the Hanoi Politburo are willing to have Chinese troops in their midst once again. In the first years of the war, they were aided by 90,000 Chinese in North Vietnam, mainly on anti-aircraft and communications assignments. These troops were withdrawn long ago, but a new situation has now been created by the heavy fighting in Laos.

In brief, all the North Vietnamese division immediately available have been hurled into Laos to fight the big battle for the Laos trails. Between the division-equivalent guarding the DMZ and the actual Red River Delta — the area around Hanoi and Haiphong — there is therefore a military vacuum extending through several coastal provinces in the southern part of North Vietnam.

Hence it may be that the three North Vietnamese divisions remaining in the Hanoi-Haiphong area will be moved south to fill the military vacuum in these jaybird-naked coastal provinces. Chinese units from Yunnan Province could then move in behind to form a garrison in the crucial region of the Red River Delta.

Because of the military vacuum, the talk in Saigon about "invading" the North must have made the Hanoi leaders exceedingly nervous. The kind of arrangement above described, to safeguard "the integrity of North Vietnam," might therefore be considered to make sense. But it would not make a great deal of difference outside North Vietnam.

It would also be the most signal possible proof of the potentially fatal meaning of the battle for the Laos trails, at least with respect to Hanoi's wider aspirations in Southeast Asia. That is also proved by the simple fact that Hanoi has already engaged close to half of the North Vietnamese divisions that always used to be kept on home guard duty.

The North Vietnamese divisions now in action in Laos are the 304th, 308th and 320th, all taken from home guard duty, plus the 324B Division, long stationed in the area of the present battle, plus elements of the 2nd Division brought north up the trail to the southern flank of the South Vietnamese forces in Laos. Add the odd extra regiment, and you have a total of five enemy divisions plus.

The South Vietnamese, meanwhile, are as yet employing in Laos rather less than three divisions, namely, most of their First, their Airborne, and their First Marine Division. Furthermore, they are fighting in the North Vietnamese back yard, as it were.

Every factor, such as the huge logistical system already in place, in truth favors the North Vietnamese — except one. The Southern troops have the vital advantage of the superior mobility and firepower, conferred by airplanes and helicopters.

But everyone seems to forget that ARVN has always had this vital advantage, from 1965 onward. It is a dramatic turnaround, in fact, that three ARVN divisions can confront five divisions plus of the enemy, in the enemy's own back yard, and by a penetration of Laos that necessarily leaves two long flanks open to enemy attack.

About the eventual result, it is early days, as yet, to say more than three things. As compared with the Cambodian venture, to begin with, this attack on the Laos trails is like stabbing a man in the liver after breaking both of his legs. Bitter resistance had to be expected. It was encountered and thus far it has been overcome by the courage and proficiency of the South Vietnamese.

Second, the logistical effects of the operation, even in its present stage, are being vastly underrated. If the thing goes well, these effects could be fatal to the North Vietnamese units south of the cut in the Laos trails. Finally, if the thing goes well, the Hanoi war planners are going to have to take the hardest kind of new look at the real meaning of Vietnamization.

"If the thing goes well" — that is the key phrase. In the Pentagon at the moment, they are somewhat superstitiously saying that it is going almost too well.

Couple celebrates 40th anniversary

IVES HILL — Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Cairns were guests of honor at a reception at the Rifle Range Hall, Lennoxville on March 6, on their 40th wedding anniversary.

The party was planned for Friday eve but due to the severe snow storm it was postponed.

Nearly 300 friends and relatives attended. On arriving at the hall with Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Johnson, brother of Mrs. Cairns, they were met by Mrs. William Sutor who pinned a pink and white carnation corsage on her mother. Their son, Albert, pinned a white carnation boutonniere on his father.

The bridesmaid of 40 years ago, Mrs. Tom Beattie, had a similar corsage presented by Mrs. Donald Little. Mr. Johnson, best man, had a white boutonniere.

They were escorted to the front of the hall by their attendants where they received "Congratulations" and then led in the grand march. Music was supplied by "The Country Kings" with Mr. Sam Hopper helping out.

The hall was prettily decorated with streamers and 40's. On the wall by the head table "Happy 40th Anniversary" was designed with over 100 pink and white paper roses. Long tables were set up in the lower hall for lunch.

The head table was centered with a beautiful 4 tiered wedding cake made and decorated by Mrs. William Sutor. It was iced in white with pink roses under little glass goblets which were between each layer, topped with bells, forget-me-nots and ribbons with 40th on. White candles and pink flowers completed the table decorations.

Seated at the table with Mr. and Mrs. Cairns were Mr. and Mrs. Tom Beattie, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Johnson and Mr. A. H. Cairns. Their family, Mr. and Mrs. William Sutor and family; Mr. and Mrs. Albert E. Cairns and family and Mr. and Mrs. Donald Little were at tables near by. The two little boys were absent.

Members of the Ives Hill Community Club and other friends served at lunch time.

Before going to the lower hall for lunch, Mr. Eugene Naylor, emcee for the evening, called Mr. and Mrs. Cairns to the platform. He presented them with a purse of money from those present and some who could not attend. A set of luggage was received from their children and anniversary cups and saucers from the grandchildren.

Mrs. Donald Coates, on behalf of the Milby Women's Institute presented Mrs. Cairns with a two tiered cake plate.

Mr. Cairns thanked everyone for the wonderful party and gifts and Mrs. Cairns added her thanks.

Citizens reward years of community service

BEDFORD — Over two hundred and fifty people attended a dinner at the Riverview Hotel sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce to honor Police Chief George Perron chosen as man of the year.

Among the guests at the head table were Chief Perron, Mrs. Perron, his daughter Miss Perron RN of Montreal and their son on the staff of the Bedford Post Office, Councillor and Mrs. A. Marzalli, Councillor and Mrs. J. Bedard, Mayor and Mrs. R. W. Craighead, Miss Danielle Remillard, Miss Chamber of Commerce and Rev. Father Belisle of Notre Dame de Lourdes Church at St. Armand.

In the absence of the president of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, Pierre Paul Ravenell, in hospital following an accident, Roland Coderre, vice-president, presided and read the scroll. The chairman of the committee who arranged the dinner was Andre Maurice.

On behalf of the town, Mr. and Mrs. Perron were each presented with a gold watch. Mr. Perron's was presented by Councillor Marc Morin while Mrs. Perron received hers from Councillor Gerard Fontaine.

Mrs. Perron was also presented with flowers by Miss Danielle Remillard. A plaque was given by the Daughters of Isabella, the presentation being made by the regent, Mrs. A. Marzalli. A gift was also received from the town of Farnham fire and police departments in recognition of the many instances of co-operation and help extended by Mr. Perron. From the Junior Chamber of Commerce an engraved plaque with a picture of Mr. Perron, while from the police and fire departments of Bedford an ice drill for ice fishing which was presented by Albert Tremblay.

Mayor Craighead, in his address, spoke of the close co-operation which existed between Mr. Perron and the town, especially with the youth of the district, his unfailing tact and patience, his unfailing courtesy and interest in the welfare of all.

Mr. Perron was born in Bedford on June 3, 1912, where he completed his elementary studies. He completed his secondary studies at Farnham and St. Jean taking a commercial course. He spent some time in Ontario and returned to Bedford to work at the Torrington Co. Ltd., where he spent 17 years. During that time Mr. Perron occupied the post of Secretary and then President of the United Auto Workers Union. In August 1954, he became Police and Fire Chief of the Town of Bedford. During the first year in that post he assumed the duty of Director of Public Works. Mr. Perron is the father of two children. The Junior Chamber of Commerce gives this honour to a person who during the year has devoted himself in a special way.

His availability, his joviality, and his reputed greeting accompanied by his always present smile are the main reason for the choice of Man of the Year. Early in the morning, the citizens of Bedford are accustomed to seeing him patrolling the city streets and his greetings have become a tradition dear to the residents of this small municipality.

Police Chief Perron expressed his appreciation of the honor, the testimonial dinner and for the many gifts. He said he would treasure the memory of this evening and the expression of good will from his many friends in Bedford and the district.

Duguid meets no trouble, tied for top with two wins

MEGEVE, France (CP) — Canada and Scotland remain the only two unbeaten rinks entering today's third round of the world curling championship.

Don Duguid of Winnipeg, defending world champion, scored his second straight victory in Tuesday night's second round, as he led his rink to an easy 9-5 win over the United States, represented by Dale Dalziel's rink from Edmore, N.D.

Scotland, meanwhile scored a surprisingly easy win against Sweden when Jimm Sanderson led his Edinburgh foursome through a game that included a pair of four-ends.

Sanderson's 11-3 win came at the expense of Kjell Grenmark of Karlstad.

In other second-round games, Switzerland's Cesare Canepa led his Zug rink to a 9-6 win against Knut Bjaanans of Stabekk, Norway, while France's Pierre Boan defeated Manfred Raederer of Oberstdorf, West Germany, by an 11-9 margin.

Tuesday night's results left Sweden, Norway, France and Switzerland grouped behind the Canadian and Scottish foursomes with one win and one defeat, while the German and United States crews had 0-2 marks.

Today's afternoon round, scheduled for 8:30 a.m. EST has the Swiss and U.S. rinks meeting in one game, while the Swiss and Germans meet in a second, the French take on the unbeaten Scots and Canada tests Norway.

In first-round games Tuesday afternoon, Canada handled Switzerland 9-5, Scotland edged Germany, 7-6, Sweden handed France a 13-3 pasting, and Norway defeated the U.S. 6-5 in a game that went two extra ends.

The 14-end contest was the first of its kind since the world event went into its current sponsored format in 1968.

Duguid was never in trouble in either of his games and his experienced crew that includes lead, Bryan Wood, second Jim Pettapiece and third Rod Hunter, apparently went only as hard as was necessary to win both games.

LIKES KEEN ICE

Sanderson, the 24-year-old Scottish farmer, said he found the keen ice, which threw some of the other rinks for a loss, to his liking in his second-round victory against the Swedes.

"We got our draw game going early in the evening round," Sanderson, a left-hander, said. "We were loosened up considerably after being tensed up in the afternoon."

Sanderson broke a tight 1-1 game wide open in the fifth when he counted four and repeated with the same count in the ninth end.

Duguid took advantage of an early lapse by the Americans to jump into a 3-0 lead after one end.

After his first-end three, the Winnipeg skip added singles in the fourth and seventh, before counting two in each of the ninth and 11th ends.

Neither the Canada-U.S. nor the Scotland-Sweden games have played through 12 ends.

Dalziel's crew found itself handicapped throughout the contest by its inability to complete takeout shots and on other occasions failed to make key draws that would have kept it in the game.

Bantams complete AGRHS sweep

STANDINGS

SHERBROOKE (SA) — Alexander Galt Regional High School Bantam Pipers made it a clean sweep for the Lennoxville school in Eastern Townships Interscholastic Athletic Conference basketball play for 1970-71 by winning their division crown yesterday.

The Bantam Pipers downed

Mont Ste Anne 31-23 in the second game of a two-game total-point final series at MSA after winning the opener at home Monday 39-33 for a 70-56 combined count.

MSA, which had stayed close to the AGRHS squad throughout Monday's game, held a 14-11 halftime lead yesterday before the Pipers staged a second consecutive strong second half. Brandon Naeve paced the winners' scoring with 13 points, while Pierre Goupil added eight.

Terry Bailey and centre Eugene Duguay each hit for four points and Vic Ramage rounded out the scoring with two.

"Duguay played the game of his life," said Piper coach Ridley. "He didn't score all that many points, but he contributed the most with at least 15 rebounds under both baskets."

Serge Boivin failed to hit the scoresheet in the half he played but "was great defensively."

"Every single player played the way he's been taught to play all year," said Ridley of his club's effort. "We sagged a little in the second quarter when we scored only two points, but we had 31 shots in the second half and controlled the game."

The Bantam Pipers won the ETIAC title without the services of the other half of the star Boivin brother duo, Richard, who had an appendix removed and is in hospital. "We missed him," said Ridley, "but everybody filled in well."

Coach Wayne Nugent's Pipers won the senior ETIAC crown over Seminaire de Sherbrooke Monday, and Junior Piper coach Don Caldwell's charges took their section title last week in play against Seminaire.

Today, Nugent's Pipers will take part in a controlled scrimmage against Bishop's University players in a prep for the Visser Trophy competition which will be contested at the University and Alexander Galt by seven schools this weekend.

The AGRHS squad is defending the championship they won last year.

Sherbrooke Beavers played true to form and dropped two road games in Quebec Junior "A" Hockey League competition last weekend and now come down the final week stretch virtually neck-and-neck with Verdun Maple Leafs. The Leafs committed the impardonable sin of losing not two but three games on the weekend — and not on the road but at home. If the Leafs miss fourth place by a point or two — and they may well do just that — the season's second-last weekend will have made the difference. If the Beavers miss the fourth place position they're also after, their dismal road record all year long will have been the cause. This week will tell all.

Michel Renaud, Michel Ruest and Bob Murphy constitute the hot line right now for Cornwall Royals. Meanwhile, Claude St-Sauveur is still playing heads-up hockey for the Beavers and is usually the man the opposition put their main checker against. In Quebec City — and elsewhere around the QJHL — Guy Lafleur continues to pile up the goals and assists. The records he has compiled in his Junior "A" career will stand for years.

After watching the Canadian Intercollegiate Championship Tournament final game on television from Sudbury last Saturday, one had to be impressed with the quality of hockey on display. University of Toronto Blues took a long time to get untracked but demonstrated their potency in the third period when they scored four times to beat St. Mary's University Huskies 5-4. The Blues are Ontario-Quebec Athletic Association titlists, while the Huskies, boasting a sizable number of former professionals on their squad, are the best in the Atlantic Intercollegiate Athletic Association. The St. Mary's team could have won with a tighter defence in front of former Minnesota North Star goalie Chuck Goddard. College hockey promises a lot for next season, too.

Montreal Canadiens looked like anything but the team that had won 12 of its last 13 National Hockey League games Saturday night in dropping a 4-1 decision to Chicago Black Hawks. The Hab defence was overworked throughout the contest but was not to blame for the loss as the forwards forsook their backchecking responsibilities. The team bounced back Sunday to club Pittsburgh Penguins 5-1 and appeared to be solidly entrenched in third place. Then they lost 6-2 to the Blues in St. Louis last night — their first loss ever at the Arena in the Missouri city — and cast more doubts about themselves. Lapses can still hurt them dearly.

Toronto Maple Leafs may have a trophy winner this season in Dave Keon, who is a contender for the Lady Byng prize which goes annually to the player demonstrating the best combination of ability and sportsmanship. Keon won the award in 1961-62 and 1962-63, being assessed only a single minor penalty in each season. Keon's biggest obstacle to the Lady Byng this year is Boston Bruins Johnny Bucyk. Voters will have to choose between Bucyk's superb powerplay work and Keon's respected penalty killing as well as the excellence both players have shown at regular assignments at their left wing and centre posts respectively.

Johnny Black Cat Gagnon will be honored Friday evening, March 26, at a testimonial dinner in Lincoln, R.I. His many feats on the ice lanes are legendary, especially those performed during the years he teamed on a line with Howie Morenz and Aurel Joliat. Gagnon was the first player inducted into Rhode Island Reds' Hall of Fame.

Take it from the following hockey personalities:
Pete Mahovlich: "Everybody who plays this game likes it and I guess I've been a little too pleasant. But I can't be that any more. The Canadiens want me to hit hard, so that's the attitude I'm going to take on the ice."

Al McNeil: "I'm not afraid to yell. I do most of my yelling within myself, but I can be heard if I think it's necessary and if I think somebody isn't playing up to his potential."

Keith Magnuson: "My job isn't to score goals but to keep the opposition from scoring. After all, you're never going to get beat if the other team doesn't score, so I do my best to keep them from scoring and let Bobby and Dennis Hull and Stan Mikita look after the scoring for us."

There are a lot of players in the running for NHL rookie-of-the-year honors, but the one to beat is Buffalo Sabres Gilbert Perreault. His competition includes Detroit Red Wings Serge Lajeunesse and Tom Webster, St. Louis' George Morrison, Philadelphia Flyers Barry Ashbee and Bill Lesuk and Toronto's Bill McMillan.

Did you know?

Bronco Horvath was the first player to play for as many as six different National Hockey League teams.

Horvath broke into the NHL with New York Rangers in 1955-56 and played with Montreal Canadiens — one game in 1956-57 — Boston Bruins, Chicago Black Hawks and Toronto Maple Leafs before joining Minnesota North Stars, his sixth NHL club, in 1967-68.

Ab McDonald went to St. Louis Blues, his sixth team, in 1968-69, after performing with the Canadiens, Chicago, Boston, Detroit Red Wings and Pittsburgh Penguins.

Phillips, Fairey both came to play

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (CP) — Adolfo Phillips and Jim Fairey are a couple of Montreal Expos outfielders who would like to see manager Gene Mauch's platoon system go away and hide.

But neither player will argue with Mauch's shrewdness in playing the percentages.

"It looks like the platoon again for me," said Phillips a bit wistfully. "I would rather play regularly of course. With steady play, maybe my hitting would be better. But if the club wants to platoon me, then platoon it is."

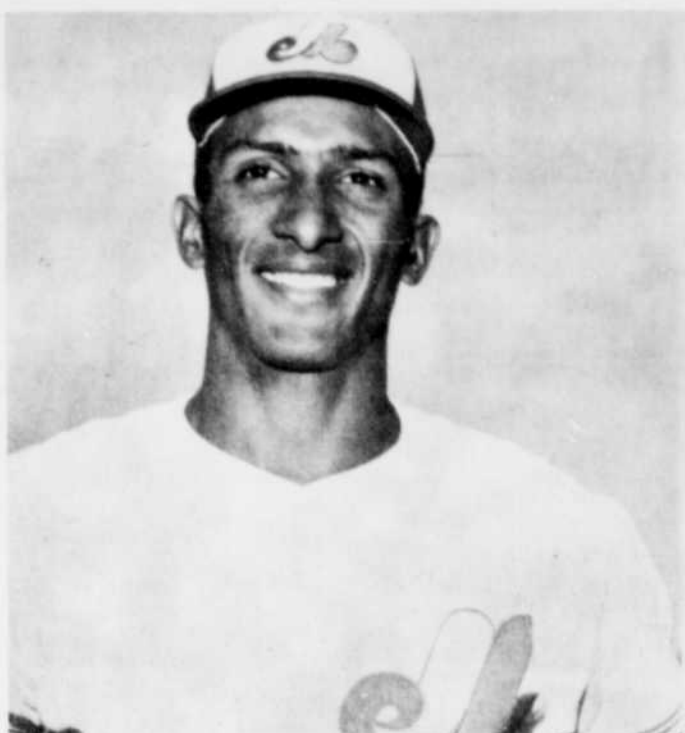

"There is one thing—no more worry like I used to. I'm too old. I'm 28."

Phillips, a native of Panama, has played with two other big-league clubs. He came to the National League Expos from Chicago Cubs in a trade for Paul Popovich in June, 1969. Last season, he played in 92 games, almost exclusively against left-handers, and hit .238.

"That's not good enough for me," said Phillips. "I want to hit .280 or .285."

"I think I'm having a good training camp, but I can't really tell much about my hitting because so far, I have been in only one exhibition game."

Fairey has been used against both right-handed and left-handed pitching during the exhibition schedule and hopes the process will keep up when the regular season gets going.

ADOLFO PHILLIPS... NO MORE WORRYING

He had to undergo surgery on his left knee during spring training last year and was on the disabled list until April 16.

"When I started playing I was used regularly at first. Then perhaps it was thought I needed to rest my leg more and I played only part time."

"I am feeling fine this year, hitting well too. And my weight

JIM FAIREY... FEELING FINE

is down."

Fairey, 26, is a native of Orangeburg, S.C. He has been in pro ball only since 1965. After three seasons in the minors, he moved up to Los Angeles Dodgers.

He was then drafted by the Expos in the expansion draft in 1968.

He played most of the 1969 season with Vancouver Mounties, then the Expos class AAA farm team in the Pacific Coast League.

The compact Fairey, who stands five feet 10 inches and weighs 179 pounds, managed to stick with the Expos last season.

He was particularly effective as a pinch hitter, getting 14 hits in 37 pinch-hit appearances for a .378 average.

What a difference a Guy Lafleur makes

By GLENN COLE

QUEBEC (CP) — There was a time when junior hockey in this city was dying a slow, painful death.

The team—Quebec Aces—was at or near the bottom of the Quebec Junior A Hockey League. During a 10-year period, the crowds were low and the team lost an average of $25,000 a year.

Last season, the Quebec junior team was purchased for $1 by a group of Quebec businessmen from the sponsoring Philadelphia Flyers of the National Hockey League, who also own Quebec Aces of the American League.

The team name was changed to the Ramparts and the new owners were blessed with a star-right winger, Guy Lafleur.

Now, it is often difficult to get good tickets for Quebec home games. In 28 home dates, the Ramparts have drawn about 275,000 fans and most of this success can be attributed to Lafleur, one of the most exciting players ever to participate in junior hockey.

SOME SAY HE'S BEST

The 19-year-old, Thurso, Que., native is rated by most NHL scouts as the best junior hockey player in Canada, although there are some who feel Marcel Dionne of St. Catharines Black Hawks of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series is just as good.

Lafleur and Dionne are expected to be the top junior draft picks of the NHL this year.

Lafleur, who stands six feet and weighs 175 pounds, is a bonus the Ramparts picked up from the 1963 Quebec international pee-wee hockey tournament. That year, he led his Thurso team-mates to the class C championship in the tourney.

Two years later, at the age of 14, Lafleur was brought to Quebec and played with Quebec Aces' junior B affiliate.

The next year, he was elevated to the junior A team for eight games during the season and scored the first of his junior career goals Nov. 24, 1966, against goalie Raynald Fournier of Drummondville.

The following year, he notched 30 goals and 19 assists in 43 games and in 1968-69 he had 50 goals and 60 assists in 49 games, but the best was yet to come.

SET RECORD

Last season, Lafleur won the Quebec junior hockey scoring championship with a record-setting 103 goals and 67 assists in 56 games. The Ramparts won the league title and went on to play in the Memorial Cup Eastern finals, losing out to powerful Montreal Junior Canadiens of the OHA in three straight games.

With all the scoring he has done, his defensive play has naturally been questioned. His coach Maurice Filion scorns any critics of Lafleur's backchecking abilities.

"Some people say Guy is a one-way player," said Filion in an interview. "It's a lot of nonsense."

"He never quits, he is working all the time. He is not only a scorer, but he backchecks and plays well defensively. He can dig the puck out of the corner, he can go to the net and he can shift either way."

HOCKEY COMES FIRST

Lafleur is completely dedicated to his professional hockey future. He dropped out of school last season to devote himself completely to the sport.

Before many home games, he will drop into the Coliseum about two hours before the game just to sit and stare at the ice.

Last Tuesday night he scored the 300th goal of his junior career and was so intent on thinking about reaching the milestone, he didn't eat all day.

"When I got up Tuesday morning there was only one thing that was important to me—scoring my 300th goal," Lafleur told reporters after the game. "I wanted it badly. I decided not to eat all day just to make myself more hungry for that goal."

ENGLISH A PROBLEM

Lafleur speaks very little English but knows that he has to learn the language.

Filion said: "He wants to be the No. 1 draft choice and he knows he has to learn English. Even with Montreal Canadiens you must speak some English."

Lafleur has not expressed preference for any NHL club, although he would not like to play in Los Angeles.

"I know he would like to play with Buffalo," Filion said in a recent television interview. "It would be great to see Guy and Gilbert Perreault playing together."

Perreault, a contender for the NHL's Rookie-of-the-Year award, was the No. 1 choice in last year's NHL draft of amateur players.

The 20-year-old centre, who was captain last season of Montreal Junior Canadiens of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series, has scored 34 goals so far this season for Buffalo Sabres, equalling the record for rookies set by Nels Stewart of the old Montreal Maroons in 1925-26 and equalled in 1968-69 by Danny Grant of Minnesota North Stars and Norm Ferguson of California Golden Seals.

Leafs had them down on the farm all along

TORONTO (CP) — The recent arrival on the National Hockey League scene of two young Toronto Maple Leaf left wingers has cast some suspicion on that team's claim that its farm system was run down.

Brian Spencer and Denis Durepé both came up from Tulsa in the Central Hockey League this season and both look capable of staying in the big league.

This punches a hole in the smoke screen created by Leaf president Stafford Smythe who claimed recently that former general manager-coach Punch Imlach depleted the farm system with various deals before being fired two years ago.

Perhaps Smythe's statements were not intended to hide any talent that might be developing in Tulsa or Phoenix in the Western League but neither he nor others in his organization have said much to dispel the impression he gave that Toronto had few reserves to call upon.

HE'LL STAY UP
Perhaps, too, the Leaf executives themselves didn't think there was much down on the farm until the likes of Spencer and Durepé came along to show them different.

"We brought Durepé up as an emergency replacement for Darryl Sittler," says coach Johnny McLean. "but there's no way he's going to go back when Sittler can play."

"I like the cool, no-nonsense way he goes about his business. And he has the size to stay with his check and win the puck."

Tulsa coach Marcel Pronovost told McLean he used Durepé as a penalty killer.

"But up here I didn't get a chance to give him a real shot until we were in trouble in Boston. He went out with The Chief, George Armstrong, and handled himself so well he rated steady employment."

HANDLES TOUGH GUYS

Durepé, a 22-year-old native of Jonquière, Que., joined Leafs with little fanfare when Sittler suffered a broken wrist in mid-January. Spencer, 21, arrived earlier as a potential policeman who was supposed to soften up the opposition with his body checking.

Spencer proved he was willing and able to take on the roughest in the league and play sound, aggressive hockey at the same time, thus winning a regular spot in the Leaf lineup.

And while two left wingers have been promoted in one season, coach Pronovost still has another promising prospect in Bob Liddington, 22-year-old Calgary native.

A hefty right winger at Tulsa is 22-year-old Brian Marchinko, six-foot and 180 pounds, and defence prospects include Larry McIntyre, Ken Murray and Errol Thompson, all three of them 23 or younger.

At least some of the future players Leafs will need are in the development stages. All that remains is for them to impress McLean when they get their next chance.

Beauty wins over business for the moment

By ARNIE HAKALA
TERRA COTTA, Ont. (CP)
— It's just a narrow, winding road in a valley beside the slopes of the Caledon Hills. The hills are studded with maple trees and the banks along the waters of the Credit River are overhung with big cedars.

In the winter there's a smell of burning apple and pine wood from the fireplaces of the town and along the river and under the big trees there are little tracks of mice and chipmunks.

It's a sleepy sort of place and if you drive through the town you have to travel slowly because the road is narrow and winds a lot. Some people like roads that are narrow and wind a lot; others do not.

The road from outskirts to outskirts of this community about 40 miles northwest of Toronto is 2½ miles long. At either end it is joined by a modern, wide road.

If the stretch in between reminds one of an old wagon trail, then that thought from Canada's past is correct for that is what the road was when it was built in 1859.

It has been surfaced and patched since then but its shape is basically the same. And Peel County's engineer, Bob Knight, says that is how it will stay.

The first indication that the county had plans to reconstruct the road came in 1969 when it purchased an old forge, perched about 10 feet from the road bed, from Rebecca Sisler, a sculptor, for about $35,000.

Several of the town's 350 population wondered why the county wanted the forge.

After some initial investigation, men like Cedric Greenhill, owner of the Terra Cotta Inn; Bill Doole, a journalist, and John Agg, an artist with a gallery in the town, found out that the forge was to be torn down to make room for a better road.

The men formed the Terra Cotta and District Preservation Committee and began lobbying at county council meetings, demanding that the road be preserved as a historic and scenic route through one of Ontario's oldest and quaintest communities.

They dreaded the thought of bulldozers gouging out the countryside and a modern, straight highway taking the place of the narrow, winding road.

SHOULD BE FIXED

For the meantime, they are winners and Tony Zilio is one of the losers.

Mr. Zilio, who has a stone quarry, is one of the men who originally asked that the road be fixed.

"In the fall you can't move around here," he said. "There are cars parked all over and the people walk down the middle of the road almost daring you to run over them."

"They may have shelved the project but I've seen surveys around and I'm sure they'll fix that road soon."

Mr. Zilio, who grew up in Terra Cotta, said the majority of people in the town want the road fixed.

"This place used to be beautiful but it isn't any more. The people have ruined it. You can't swim in the water of the Credit and it stinks in the summer. The elms are all dead. Why didn't somebody do something about the pollution and elms?"

Government departments had different views on the road.

GAVE MORAL SUPPORT

A. F. Bray, deputy minister of the Ontario department of tourism and recreation, said his department had lent moral support to the people who wanted to keep the road as it is.

"You only have to drive that road in the fall when the maples are red to see how important it is to the people of Ontario," he said.

However, he would not say if his department had any direct hand in the shelving of the county's plans to change the road.

A. T. C. McNab, deputy minister of the department of highways, had more to say.

"We're well aware of the situation in Terra Cotta because it points out the prime responsibility of this department."

"We are economists. We have responsibility for the King's Highways but after that it is up to the municipalities."

"The main point here is that the quality of life—the esthetics of an area—is the responsibility of the elected officials in the area concerned."

It's not our responsibility."

RIFT WIDENS

Meanwhile, the rift between the opposing groups in the community gets wider.

Mr. Zilio says one must go farther north now to find the beauty of nature.

Mr. Agg says:

"It is completely inhuman to design all roads by means of traffic counts and slide rules."

He says Ontario must preserve its greenland and historic sites in the face of encroaching civilization—or as others put it, urban sprawl.

And Mr. Greenhill, who has thousands of visitors each year, people like Seiji Ozawa, former conductor of the Toronto Symphony, Pierre Berton, and British royalty, says a more modern road would probably bring him more business.

"But it's more important to me that the beauty of this land be preserved," he says.

Four hearts makes also but there is a trap in the play by South at that contract. West opens the nine of clubs. East rises with the ace and leads back the queen. If South covers with the king, West will collect two more club tricks to set the contract.

Can South make the heart game against this defense? Yes! He must let East hold the second club. East will lead a third club for his partner to ruff but that will end the party. If East leads the jack North's 10 becomes good. If East leads the eight, South plays low. It would cost South a trick if clubs divided 3-2 but it wouldn't cost him the contract.

Ladies Aid

HUNTINGVILLE — The Huntingville Ladies' Aid finally held their February meeting on the 24th, at the home of Mrs. Lee Langlois. It had been postponed twice, firstly because of illness and secondly because of the snow. Eight members attended. Devotions were conducted by Mrs. Langlois.

The reports were read and accepted. The Sunshine Committee reported sending out five get-well cards and a gift.

Mrs. Lyonnais said she had purchased the stainless steel flatware needed for the Hall.

Mrs. Langlois reported that a card party had been held on February 10 with only eight tables participating. It was decided to wait for better weather before having any more.

After the Mizpah benediction, a contest was held. This was conducted by Mrs. Chute, and won by Mrs. Lyonnais. Mrs. Langlois then served refreshments.

What to look for in a nursery school

By JEAN SHARP
CP Women's Editor

TORONTO (CP) — Ideally, a nursery school should be a lot more than a place to keep a child away from the house for a few hours.

It should be chosen carefully. It should offer a child the materials and encouragement to stimulate his imagination and satisfy his urge to explore and discover.

The day nurseries branch of the Ontario department of social and family services has some tips for parents who are choosing a nursery.

What the tips add up to is: Don't be slow to ask questions or to visit the nursery. A well-run nursery should welcome your interest.

Find out first if the nursery meets the standards set by your community or province, if it is licensed where a licence is required. Does it meet safety and health standards? Have the staff and other children had medical checkups?

There should be at least one adult to every eight or 10 children in the nursery, depending on the age of the children. At least two adults should be in the building, even for a small group of children.

If the school is large, it should be divided by age groups so that a child returning for a second year can "graduate" to an older group and more-advanced experiences.

When you visit the school, watch the staff. Is there a good feeling between adult and child? Do the adults appear to understand the children and accept them as they are?

At least the supervisor of the school should have training in child care and be able to help the children by guiding rather than correcting them.

Look at the equipment at the school. There should be a variety of attractive toys in good condition — toys that can be used in a number of ways.

A housekeeping centre where children can play out family living and experiences they know should have plenty of space and adequate equipment.

The toy collection should include blocks, clay, paint, and finger paint, and they should all be used often.

SHOULD MOVE FREELY

What happens when weather keeps the children indoors? Is there enough room for active play?

Are there books, musical instruments?

Watch the children. They should be moving about freely, genuinely absorbed in their activities.

Find out about transportation. Your child should not be en route from home to nursery for more than half an hour.

Find out what the nursery's parent program is — whether there are meetings, visits, parent participation as teacher helpers.

Be sure you understand the fee policy in terms of payment, absence because of illness, dates of holidays. The nursery may have a brochure for you to study.

Prayer service—UCW

COOKSHIRE — The World Day of Prayer service was held in Trinity United Church Hall on Friday afternoon, March 12, at 2:30 p.m. It was the largest attended service of its kind for a number of years, and the Catholic, Anglican and United Church ladies were well represented.

Mrs. Parry welcomed the guests, and a few minutes of silence were observed in memory of those who had died during the past year.

The secretary, Mrs. Vogell, read the minutes of the previous meeting, and the service of worship was then commenced.

The theme for the service was, A new People for a New Age. You are now the people of God. (1 Peter 2:10).

Four hymns were interspersed among the prayers and readings for aspiration, intercession and commitment. Those participating were Mrs. Parry, Mrs. D. Standish, Mrs. Vogell, Mrs. Gaudine, Miss Laroche, Mrs. Darker, Mrs. Heatherington was pianist for the service, and played appropriate music for the prelude, offertory and postlude.

Mrs. Parry gave a very fine meditation, and maintained that each and every one should fervently pray for peace and goodwill among their neighbors.

Guest speaker

STANSTEAD — The March meeting of Christ Church Guild was held on Wednesday evening, March 10 in the Parish hall, following the mid-week Lenten service in the church.

Edward Hyatt was the guest speaker and gave an excellent talk illustrated by slides of the General Anglican Synod held at Niagara Falls in January. His talk highlighted the election of a new Primate and on several subjects of the Anglican faith as well as church union with the United Church.

The Guild president, Mrs. R. W. Wells thanked Mr. Hyatt for his informative talk.

The business included reports and communications. The requisition of the Diocesan ACW was accepted. This is for eight baby quilts, six packs of playing cards and other items for St. Luke's Hospital. The items should be brought to the May meeting, Mrs. Wells said.

The April 14 meeting will be in the Parish hall where Mrs. Nellie Kezar and Mrs. Sally Perrault will be the hostesses. The program will be a discussion on the Middle East situation from the Living Message. Members will be bringing in their Lenten talent money to the treasurer, Mrs. Alfred Middleton.

friends and the various nations around the world.

Mrs. Osgood and Mrs. Stevenson received the offerings, and these will be sent to the Women's Inter-Church Council of Canada in Toronto, for dispersal in their various avenues of relief and religious education projects around the world.

At the close of the service light refreshments were served to the guests.

A very successful food sale was then held, with Mrs. Earl Parker and Mrs. S. McVetty in charge.

Following the food sale, a short business meeting of the UCW was held, with Mrs. Vogell in the chair.

Mrs. Stevenson acted as secretary pro tem, and read the minutes of the February meeting. A note of thanks was received from Mrs. O. C. Farnsworth thanking the ladies for serving refreshments after her husband's funeral, and for their donation to the In Memoriam Fund of the church in his memory.

Men gear for spring buying

By JAMIE UNDERHILL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Well, men, it's almost spring time again — time to dust off the golf clubs, figure out the income tax return and decide what to do about the contents of your wardrobe.

Will it be the blazer and bell-bottoms, the boots and the double-breasted suit, or will that baggy grey suit hanging in the corner have to do for just a little while longer?

Whatever your choice may be, a Cross-Canada Survey by The Canadian Press shows that men's outfitters across the country are gearing up to meet it.

Trend-setters forecast the big sellers this year will be the sleeveless vest suit, the Norfolk look and double-knits in everything from jackets to slacks.

A big breakthrough in the shirt market could be the return of the almost-forgotten white shirt — a reaction against the bold colors of previous years.

Colors in the knits will be muted too, featuring unusual checks and geometric designs, while vest suits will tend towards either solid grey, light blue, fawn or tan.

HUES MORE SUBDUED

The Norfolk look, already proving a big draw in Edmonton, has a yoke front and back, is single-breasted with three or four buttons and has a box pleat in the pockets.

Suits and slacks in knit material are new and popular in Winnipeg.

In regular suits, there's a tendency to turn away from the brighter colors to blacks, browns and greys in large checks, hound's-tooth checks or diamond patterns.

They will continue to be closely fitted with one long vent or two high vents on the side.

Flared pants with stripes and checks are expected to be in big demand in Halifax.

One Toronto salesman said that the stores are bringing in more-regular suits to "restore customers' confidence" by providing something that wouldn't be out of style in three months.

Ties — the wider the better last year — have settled down to an average four inches in most centres across the country.

In Toronto the big sellers are expected to be stripes and mixed colors.

One buyer said solid colors, unless co-ordinated with shirts and suits, have not been proving as popular as anticipated.

WHITE SHIRT REVIVED

Shirts are expected to remain colorful with clear, vivid shades the order of the day although some areas, including Montreal, predict that white could be the coming thing.

Favored color in Halifax should be mulberry while in Saint John, N.B., the big color is lilac.

Vancouver has seen a big upsurge of interest in the Tom Jones-style shirt with long pointed collars and puffed sleeves.

In St. John's, Nfld., colored dress shirts with matching ties continue in demand.

Toronto experts call for stripes and say that two-button cuffs are showing signs of growing popularity.

Shoes are also receiving a good deal of attention from designers this year.

Boots are again the big item, with Toronto featuring two-tone styles in a variety of colors. Burgundy and black are expected to be the chief attractions.

Boots, especially cowboy boots, are popular in Vancouver. Brogue-style shoes are also expected to be two-toned but in this instance the colors will be more closely matched and heels are going to be just a little bit higher in some areas.

And if the weather doesn't stay as warm as it should, then there will be some equally fashionable overcoats to help keep the chill winds at bay — trench and half-belted military styles are expected to be the most popular.

DR. LAWRENCE E. LAMB

Think Young, Don't Dwell on Ailments

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb—Would thinking about getting old and wrinkles and varicose veins cause these things to happen?

Dear Reader—If you think about them long enough.

Dear Dr. Lamb—I have angina of the heart and wondered if any one ever gets over this or is it something I will have to learn to live with? I am nervous and in my 40s and female. Would you say something about angina of the heart in your column?

Dear Reader—The most common cause of anginal chest pain is atherosclerosis, fatty deposits in the arteries. It is fairly uncommon in women of your age and quite common in older women. Men can have it, too, particularly after a heart attack.

Emotional tension or excitement can cause the pain. That is why the doctor tries to eliminate excitement or stress for a heart patient.

Often an overweight person can help himself by losing a lot of weight. This decreases the amount of work the heart needs to do. I can't emphasize too strongly that even if a person has a minimal amount of extra fat, the loss of fat can greatly increase the amount of work a person can do without having heart pain.

Of course, coffee, particularly in nervous people, should be stopped and cigarettes eliminated. After weight reduction some people benefit from a walking program. But before you start you should check with your doctor to be certain an exercise program won't be too much for you. Incidentally, life's situations—like getting excited watching television—often cause the heart to work harder than a good normal walk. A person has to have rather severe heart disease before he can't walk in good weather.

Dear Dr. Lamb—Is chicken fat high in cholesterol?

Dear Reader—No. However the American Heart Association believes that a diet high in fat leads to elevation of the blood cholesterol in the body even if the food is low in cholesterol. This is particularly true of saturated fat, (usually animal fat). Fryer chickens and young turkeys are the best poultry source of meat with limited amounts of fat.

Rebekah Lodge

RICHMOND — Olive Branch Rebekah Lodge No. 9 held their regular monthly meeting in the Masonic Hall on Wednesday evening, March 10, with Noble Grand Sister Kathleen Patrick in the chair. The meeting was opened in usual form.

The Noble Grand reported that the members of the Lodge who are residents at the Wales Home are at present quite well. The members were sorry to hear that Sister Viola Noble and Ethel Hayward are still on the sick list and all wish them a speedy recovery.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved.

Final plans were made for the rummage sale to take place at the United Church hall on Friday, March 19, at 7:00 p.m. Plans were also made by the Pioneer Lodge No. 7, assisted by Olive Branch Rebekah Lodge

No. 9 to celebrate the 90th birthday of Brother MacLean Miller, a resident at the Wales Home who has been a member of Pioneer Lodge for 63 years and 47 years a member of Olive Branch. A birthday party will be held at the Masonic Hall on Wednesday evening March 17.

Two cutlery holders were made by Bro. Amps Ward who presented them to Olive Branch Lodge, for which the Noble Grand on behalf of the members extended thanks to Bro. Ward.

Lodge was then closed in ritual form, refreshments served and a social hour enjoyed.

Spring First Aid for Your House

By MR. FIX

Weather is rougher on a house than people. Living in a house doesn't wear it out but a bad winter will age it considerably.

Inspect your house and plan for repairs as soon as you can in the spring. Look the place over as soon as the snow is gone and start whatever work you can as the weather allows. If repairs are made quickly you can prevent greater damage and more costly repairs later on.

Sidewalks, driveways, foundations and mortar joints take a beating from bad weather. Hairline cracks in masonry last fall are much larger now. This is due to the cracks filling with moisture which then froze and expanded.

Clean away all loose material. Dig out cracks so that they are wider on the bottom than at the surface. Moisten the inside of the crack and the surface to be repaired. Fill with concrete patch (use a mix to which you add water) and keep moist for several days. After you have the crack filled, finish with a wood float for a rough surface, a metal trowel for a smooth surface. Do not attempt masonry repairs if temperatures are still dipping into the freezing zone.

Examine mortar joints in brick work carefully. Clean out loose mortar, soak the area, fill with fresh mortar, then smooth out the mortar with a pointing tool.

Gutters and downspouts are often in bad shape in the spring just when you need them most. This interferes with the pitch of the gutter, causing water to stand instead of flowing.

Tighten the metal straps that hold the gutters in place. If spikes were used, remove and re nail where necessary.

Clean out the dirt that has accumulated during the winter. Sand, prime and paint rust spots as soon as weather is warm enough. Damaged areas should be repaired with the same kind of metal or fiberglass. Coat the patch with roof cement.

Take a good look at the roof. You may find that shingles are loose, torn or even missing. If the pitch of the roof is steep or you are not sure-footed, call in a roofing contractor.

Those broken shingles that are low down or on a garage roof you may want to tackle yourself. Cover nail heads with roof coating as you go along.

Even if you calked in the fall, check around door and window frames for bad spots in the calking. Repair these before heavy spring rains.

Check the trees around your house for broken limbs. Cut away those you can reach. Call in an expert for the others.

Fences may be sagging due to posts that have rotted or which have heaved because they were not properly set. Rotten posts have to be replaced. Treat the ends with wood preservative.

Posts will not remain firm if not set deeply enough. Figure 18 to 24 inches deep or one-third the height of the post if it is not to be affected by wind and weather. Set posts about six feet apart. If the soil is clay or fairly firm just compact the earth around the base. In loose soil, set in concrete, building it up so that it is above grade so water will run off.

Conveners present reports at WI

DENISON MILLS — The annual meeting of the WI was held at the home of Mrs. Arthur Stevens on Wednesday, March 10.

Ten members answered the roll call payment of dues and four absent sent their fees. All numbers have rejoined for the coming year.

The Treasurer's report showed a balance of $26.00 after all expenses were paid including the annual county fees. Thank you cards were read and all correspondence dealt with.

The annual conveners report showed another successful year. The president Mrs. Carson thanked the members for their co-operation and help and suggested all conveners bring in some news on items at each meeting to make the coming year even more interesting and helpful.

Mrs. Carson gave the county report and it was noted that the annual meeting is to be held on May 18 at the St. Francis School and a chicken pie dinner is planned.

After all reports were dealt with, the election of officers took place and all agreed to carry on the same as last year.

President: Mrs. C. Carson, 1st vice-president: Mrs. Margaret Stalker, 2nd vice-president, Mrs. Alden Boreham; Secretary: Mrs. Catherine Brock; Treasurer: Mrs. Duncan Rief; Agriculture Conventor: Mrs. Harold Beard; Citizenship Conventor: Mrs. Leslie Patrick; Home Ec.: Mrs. Cecil Hannan; Education: Mrs. C. Carson; Welfare and Health: Mrs. M.

Stalker; Publicity: Mrs. A. Boreham. Quilt blocks were given out for a mauve appliqued quilt. The members were asked to bring these completed to the next meeting.

It was decided to have a ditty bag contest again this year and all members were asked to bring these to the May meeting to be judged.

The mystery prize was won by Mrs. A. Boreham and $2.00 was added to the Sunshine Fund.

At the close of the meeting a delicious supper of casseroles, salads, homemade bread and pies was served with all members as hostesses.

Visitors to Ireland this spring are in for a surprise. The Irish have done a switch. From being a stay-at-home holiday they have made St. Patrick's Day (March 17) the center of their Spring Festival. This year there will be parades in major cities like Dublin, Cork, Galway, Limerick — which, while not necessarily trying to rival New York, Boston and Chicago, will nonetheless have strong U.S. representation.

Irish International Airlines
reports that twelve bands will fly over to take part in parades in Ireland. They come from New York, Connecticut and Washington, D.C.

As part of the national day attractions, the Irish have also changed around the social calendar. This year the Dublin Theatre Festival — generally a Fall event — goes on between March 8th and 20th; and affords the visitor the chance to premiere some works that sooner or later end up on or off
Broadway, except that in Dublin
the best theatre seats start at less than three dollars!

This year's program has a varied fare which includes works
by Albert Camus, Shaw, Conor Cruise O'Brien's "Murderous Angels" (due for New York this Fall) and a new work by Irish writer Tom Gallagher on James Joyce.

And after the show is over you can retire to Dublin's Festival Club — focal point for celebrities and visiting firemen — to join in the general conversation, which in Ireland can rival any stage performance.

Spring in Ireland in fact is an ideal way to get in that extra winter vacation and whether you arrive in time for St. Patrick's Day or not, the Irish will roll out the green carpet. Only these days it may not be made of shamrock, but can come in the shape of bigger savings and a wider choice of things to do for visitors.

"For one thing fares are lower in spring," an Irish International Airlines spokesman pointed out,
"castle suites come at motel
prices, and for the free-wheeling rover, there is a whole new range of seven-dollar a night hotels spread across the country."

Though small in size — Ireland can be tidily fitted in to a corner of New York State — the country offers a wonderful variety in scenic beauty. Best way to see this land is by car. Roads are excellent and you are never far from small towns and villages with good restaurants where a fillet mignon with a glass of Bordeaux comes at around $2.50;
or you can pull up at a roadside singing pub — only don't get too far into the festivities or you may never leave.

For though the Irish have made almost all other concessions to modernity —
their time remains their own,
which is one reason the country is the best antidote to the rush and rattle of modern life.

"Ireland can be enjoyed in a few days or a few weeks, but should never be excluded from a European vacation," says
Brendan O'Kelly, Vice President-Sales in the Americas for the Irish carrier. "It has all the modern outdoor attractions
such as fishing, sailing, cruising, hunting and horse racing with enough of the past to satisfy the nostalgic of visitors. And for visitors going to London," O'Kelly adds, "did you realize that when you do, you have

A touch of Irish at mealtime

When 'tis the great day for wearing of the green, just about everyone wants to share the Irish sentiment. So plan on a shamrock celebration and a special menu that offers a salute to St. Patrick's Day.

For accent, try a Kelly green tablecloth or shamrock place mats.

A festive dinner for St.
Patrick's Day must have eye
appeal as well as taste appeal.
Marjorie Elwood, home
economist for the New Zealand Lamb Information Centre, has devised a menu that's calculated to please both counts.

What's more appropriate, to start, than Mrs. Murphy's Asparagus Soup? You'll like this quick-trick, delectable dish so well it's bound to become a favorite. For the entree, serve up Emerald Isle Mint-Glazed Lamb — accompanied by a spring bouquet of shredded cabbage cooked quickly for crispness. Whipped potatoes make a pace-setting contrast in texture and colour. Shamrock rolls, of course, are a must.

To complete the meal, creme

du menthe parfait makes a perfect dessert, and Irish Coffee
— what else? — to sip leisurely will win compliments for the cook. So go ahead and have yourself a St. Patrick's splurge.

"Frenchman" in Dublin finds Irish Honest

The following story is from Dublin:

On Decimal Day a French
tourist took a taxi from Dublin Airport and visited most of the regular tourist spots in the city of Dublin. During his one-day visit he made several purchases typical of those usually bought by French tourists, such as Irish souvenirs, a glass of Cognac
brandy, a Pernod or two, a copy of Le Monde. When making these purchases at the various shops
he explained that being a Frenchman he was at some disadvantage with the decimal change-over and certain language difficulties.

By coincidence, on the same day, the British newspaper, the Guardian, sent out a reporter posing as a Frenchman to do a similar shopping experiment in London, but sad to relate, he was
according to the report.

The Dublin "Frenchman" was in fact also a reporter carrying out a similar experiment for the Dublin Sunday Independent. His day's shopping revealed, once again, the inherent honesty of the tourist-conscious Dublin shopkeepers and their sincere

1 teaspoon crushed rosemary
1 teaspoon garlic salt
Freshly ground pepper
1/2 cup mint jelly
1/4 cup lemon juice
1/4 cup finely chopped parsley
Canned pineapple slices or

Rub rosemary all over leg of (thawed or frozen) on a rack in a shallow, foil-lined roasting pan.

If meat is thawed, insert meat thermometer in roast so tip rests in centre of thickest muscle and not in fat or touching bone. If meat is frozen, insert
thermometer halfway through roasting. Roast uncovered, in 325 degrees oven for about 2 1/2 hours, or 3 1-3 hours if meat is not thawed before roasting. Sprinkle with salt and pepper, halfway through roasting. During last half-hour, brush leg with combined mint jelly and lemon juice and sprinkle with parsley.

Thermometer will register 175
degrees for medium done and 180 degrees for well done. Place roast on a large heated platter and surround with pineapple or peaches topped with mint jelly.
