

Over Capacity House For Somerville At First Meeting Of His Campaign

The first gun in the election campaign of Mr. H. A. D. Somerville, Union Nationale candidate for Huntingdon County, was fired on Wednesday evening. The Parochial Hall in Huntingdon. The hall was filled to capacity and overflowing and the meeting was advertised as a Mass Rally and it certainly was just that. It has been several elections since a political meeting was as well advertised.

Huntingdon Citizens' Band under the leadership of Don Moore, Bandmaster, was in attendance and played outside in the school grounds. They played several selections that were well received and much of the music could be heard after the band had entered the hall. The playing of "O Canada" and "God Save The Queen" was heard quite plainly and this opened the meeting.

On the platform were the Mayors of several surrounding municipalities and their wives; Henri Turcot, Mayor of the County of Huntingdon; Hon. Daniel Johnson, Minister of Hydraulic Resources; Hon. Ernest Benoit, Member of the Legislative Council; Mr. Douglas Montgomery, Alister Somerville, M.P.P. Mayor Paul Lefebvre of Huntingdon, welcomed the guests and all attending the meeting, he also acted as chairman for the evening.

In giving his remarks of welcome, Mayor Lefebvre also stated that Mr. Somerville had given a cheque to Mr. E. C. Martin, Secretary of the Town for the sum of $2,333.00, the first instalment of 50% toward the cost of an auxiliary pump installed at the Filter Plant. He thanked Mr. Somerville for his efforts in behalf of the Town in this matter. He then called upon Mr. Montgomery to address the meeting.

Mr. Montgomery started out by saying that the Liberal Party in Quebec is campaigning on a platform of Reform, whereas the National Union Party is campaigning on its record. During the term of its office as the Government of the Province of Quebec, it was quite possible that what had been done was not always right. Where possible, mistakes had been rectified and changes made. He said the Liberals had made contributions in a number of ways and he gave credit for this. However, he felt that more reform was required in the Liberal Party itself, than in the Province.

The speaker then went on to outline what the Union Nationale Government had done during its tenure of office. They had offered greater inducements to the farmer in the way of help through loans and the improvements of farms and buildings. This had also been extended to the farmers' sons to help them establish on farms of their own, or to improve such farms. Sixty percent of the money expended on the road program was for the maintenance of rural roads. Quebec ranks first in Canada for the electrification of farms. The course of the National Union has always been upward and progressive. He urged the support of Alister Somerville and through him of Mr. Barrette, that the National Union Progressive program would be continued both in Huntingdon County and in the Province.

Mr. Benoit addressed the gathering in French and throughout his discourse received much applause. He said that the National Union Progressive program would be continued both in Huntingdon County and in the Province. He started out by giving some of the history of his period of office. He said that the National Union had been accomplished in the County since the time he was elected. He introduced a newspaper published in the interests of the Liberal Party, in which there was an account of a meeting held by that Party in Huntingdon, in 1959. In this account was the speech made by Glen Brown, a Liberal M.P.P. Mr. Brown made comparisons of various grants, etc., that had been made to Huntingdon County and to another nearby constituency in Quebec. Mr. Benoit showed that the comparisons were out of line both as to the size of the area of the two places and to the amount of population. In Huntingdon County there was considerably less population and area.

In the matter of pollution, of which much has been heard these days, Mr. Somerville said that not all the pollution in the Chateauguay River comes from the Huntingdon Area. Much of it comes from across the border where the river has its source. However, this was receiving attention and it is possible that something more would be said about this in a few weeks. He then went on to explain about the grants made to schools for maintenance of teachers' salaries, transportation, libraries, text books, etc. All of these meant that the taxpayer was relieved of a tremendous amount of taxation. 131.2 miles of new road had been built in the County since he was elected. Winter road maintenance was kept up so that the citizens could travel in the winter-time. Summer road maintenance was also an important part of the roads program. A provincial police office had been established, thereby giving the people the benefit of immediate services of the police when required. As announced recently, there would shortly be a resident forestry engineer to advise on woodlots and forestry matters.

Mr. Somerville addressed the meeting in both French and English and in closing appealed for the support of the voters on June 22nd. He said that he had given much of his time to the people of the County of Huntingdon and no one had ever been turned away. He would continue to follow this line of service and hoped that he would be given further opportunity to do so.

Hon. Daniel Johnson gave most of his talk in French and was continually stopped by the applause at various points. In English, he said that he offered congratulations to Alister Somerville as this day was the anniversary of his birthday. He left the audience to judge how young or how old Mr. Somerville is. There was much applause at this, as the audience joined in the congratulations. He said Premier Barrette was proving to be good at public relations and he was the first Quebec premier to speak outside his Province and in the Ontario Legislature. This sort of thing was doing much to help public relations for the Province of Quebec.

He complimented the people of Huntingdon County for the way they had learned to live together and he knew Alister Somerville to be a broadminded man who could work with all people. When Alister comes to Quebec to ask for something, he usually gets what he is after. We at Quebec respect him and try to see that he does get what he wants. He urged a good vote on June 22nd for Mr. Somerville, much better than the majority at the last election, and a return of the Union National Party as the Government.

Cattle In Pasture Found Dead Under Mysterious Circumstances

A consternation is being caused to the farmers in the St. Agnes area where they have had young cattle killed in a rented pasture near Arnold's Corners. About fifty head were placed on the Honsinger farm, which stretches from the Ridge Road South to the next concession, on or about the 15th of May. A few days afterwards one animal, a two year old fall feller, was found dead near the Ridge Road with the lower part of its skull badly fractured. This particular animal belonged to Romuald Quenneville. The men came to bury the dead animal and afterwards searched the pasture. They found two more belonging to Louis Plante. Both had been killed in the same manner with the lower part of their skull smashed in. Two more belonging to E. L. Gazeau had also been injured in the same way but not so serious. These two were taken home and will recover. Lesser injuries to other cattle in the vicinity of the same place have also been reported. Veterinary J. S. Gave was called and took the heads of the Plante animals away for examination by the Health of Animals Branch of the Department of Agriculture. The Federal Veterinary from Huntingdon, also came to the scene to look over the matter. The examination of the animals seemed to indicate that the wounds could have been caused by a heavy blast from a shotgun or other weapons at close range but no pellets of shot were found to prove it.

The police, according to reports were supposed to investigate the affair over the week-end but no development has been reported. The farmers in the vicinity and those who have cattle pasturing there formed posses at night during the week to watch the pasture, but never saw anything of man or large wild animal, which was reported to have been on the prowl in the nearby woods. Hunters on Sunday, spotting woodchuck in the sandhills at the South end of the property, flushed out a couple of small wolves about the same place where six wolf cubs were found three years ago. Further than this the farmers in a quandary to know what was the exact cause of the death and injuries to their animals.

Georgetown Sunday School Picnic An Enjoyable Event

Georgetown Sunday School Picnic took place on Saturday, May 28th, with a full attendance of parents and children. The location was the spacious lawn at the Manse, with the back porch of the manse serving as an ideal "Tuck Shop" where the ice-cream, soft-drink, candy-bar business was heavy.

The weather was perfect and the multi-colored balloons hanging from the trees around the lawn gave a gala effect to the occasion. Mr. Wilburn Anderson, Superintendent, and his helpers, had benches and chairs around the field, and tables set up for ladies preparing the "cats". Mr. Alister McArthur and Mr. Anderson provided delicious chocolate milk for everybody, and gallons of it were consumed. The sports programme was arranged by Miss Lois Elliot, Mrs. W.M. Brown and Mrs. John Holmes. There was great fun and games in all of the races, and the ball game arranged for the senior girls and boys by Mrs. Holmes was a lively affair.

Mr. Hume, son-in-law of Mrs. John Cullen, from Montreal, provided the balloons, which were a great attraction for the younger children, and there were a few "bangs" now and then. The picnic proved itself a very happy event for all attending. The following is the list of prize-winners in the racing events:

News from Ormstown

COVERING THE ACTIVITIES OF THE "LITTLE ROYAL" EXHIBITION CENTRE

The following donations have been received by the Barrie Memorial Hospital from: Mrs. George Spinney, Westmount, $25.00; Mrs. Elliott G. Florence, Ormstown, $10.00.

Ormstown Presbyterian Young People presented a delightful three-act comedy on Friday and Saturday evenings in the Church Hall.

As the name suggests, the action involves considerably two teenagers—Patsy Stetson (Alexa Thompson) and Woody Dodge (Douglas Marshall).

Faith Stetson (Edna Forrester)

twenty years old, supported by Norby Woodruff (John Rember), her admirer, is really responsible for the continuity of the play, while the widowed mother, Mrs. Helen Stetson (Betty Hope), leaves to pay a visit to her mother.

During Mrs. Stetson's absence, Ronald Fischer (Merrill Tannahill), who considers himself a genius, comes to make a business call, and Veronica Stetson (Shirley Bott), a domineering sister-in-law, and Stella Stetson (Shirley Greer), the weak sister, came to stay.

Marion Eagen (Marilyn Gruer)

also a teen-ager, comes to work for the Stetsons and becomes entangled with bossy Veronica.

Dr. James Wyndham (David Barrington), a friend of the family, is unconsciously involved in one of the teen-age antics.

The play was very entertaining and each actor and actress did a splendid job. Mrs. Margaret Campbell directed the play and Mrs. Harold Merson did the prompting. Rev. J. C. Hood was the chairman at both performances.

On Friday evening, the cast was entertained by the Young People's Society and on Saturday evening, Mr. and Mrs. Merrill Tannahill entertained the cast at their home following the performance. On this occasion the Y.P.S. president, David Barrington, presented Mrs. Campbell with a cut glass vase.

About $100 was raised through this effort.

a challenge down the ages... and one that has been met in Quebec by the National Union since 1944 with mounting success and achievement.

At the unbelievable rate of 6 new schools a week for 10 years the need has been met... more than 20,000 modern classrooms in which to train the minds of the coming generations in the new techniques of the 20th century.

And at the level of higher education, after planning and travail against seemingly insurmountable odds... a formula for aid to higher education that is already being lauded across the country as 'the only way' to more and better educational opportunities for more young men and women... The problem of university grants has been settled to the satisfaction of all, a solution proposed by Hon. Paul Sauvé and finalized by Premier Antonio Barrette. PLUS — a trade and specialized school setup of over 90 institutions that is the envy of every other province, and is fitting thousands of Quebec youth for their place in the modern world... a place in which they can make their way... through the skills at their command.

4-Year-Old Aubrey Boy Dies After Car Accident

In the last issue of The Gleaner we had the meagre announcement of a little boy's death by accident at Aubrey. More details are to hand at this time.
Royal Rocheforte, 4 years old, son of Rene Rocheforte of Aubrey, was playing near his home on the Aubrey to St. Chrysostome road, when he suddenly darted across the road in front of a car. The car was driven by Harry Gregory Kassicik of L'Epiphanie, Que. and was unable to stop. The child was hit and seriously injured. Taken to Barrie Memorial Hospital, Ormstown, he died shortly after arrival.
A coroner's inquest was held at St. Chrysostome and a verdict of accidental death was rendered. Traffic Officer Real Dagenais was first on the scene and Sgt. Det. P. Wilnot took over charge of the investigation.

Annual Report Lord's Day Alliance of Canada

The annual report of the Lord's Day Alliance of Canada has just appeared, and in its title, "What's Happening to Sunday?" raises a question on which it makes some pertinent and interesting observations.
The report deals with at least two new intrusions on the kind of Sunday that the Alliance seeks, within the law, to preserve. One is the problem of Sunday trucking. The report says that an Alberta magistrate in dismissing charges declared he could see no difference between a train carrying goods on Sunday and trucks doing the same thing on a parallel highway. The Lord's Day Alliance believes that any safety organization would have an immediate and convincing answer — Sunday trucking is a special danger to the additional thousands who use the highways for pleasure driving.
Another new incursion is that of automatic coin-operated laundries all across Canada. Cleanliness has always been regarded to close to godliness, but within the terms of the Lord's Day Act, as far as laundromats are concerned, there is room for doubt. It appears that the laundering of father's shirts on Sunday creates a problem that several courts have been attempting to iron out.
Proposals for sports in Manitoba, cultural concerts in Ontario, and other aspects of a thorny problem are noted in the annual report of the Alliance. Readers of the report might find themselves better informed not only about some legal aspects of Sunday observance, but also about efforts of the Lord's Day Alliance, an often misunderstood institution which, in reality, is serving the best interests of Canadians by seeking that one day in seven shall be preserved from the tidal wave of business, and kept free for rest, recreation and worship.

Khrushchev Proposes Another Summit Meeting In "Six To Eight Months' Time"

Shortages of food and water touched off fears of epidemics last week-end in quake-shattered southern Chile. Hungry disaster victims were trying to raid emergency supplies of food set up for rationing in Valdivia.
The known death toll in the worst-hit areas stood close to 3,000, but an accurate count may not be possible for weeks. Two more earth-quakes shook the troubled land last Friday in the sixth day of tremors. Hundreds of people, many of them fishermen, were still missing.
New volcanoes and new mountains sprang up, new islands appeared off the Chilean coast and new lakes were formed in the nightmare week which remade much of the topographical map of Chile.
Hundreds more lives were lost in Japan and Hawaii as tidal waves set rolling by the earthquakes on the west coast of South America raced across the Pacific. Australia, New Zealand, the western coast of the U.S. and British Columbia also experienced the surging tides, but no loss of lives occurred there.
At Manila in the Philippines 71 persons were counted dead and thousands were made homeless as floods triggered by monsoon rains left half the capital city under water last Saturday. Manila, a city of 2,000,000, was virtually paralysed.
Menders Ousted
Turkey's new ruling military man was dismissed, and charges against the others subsequently dropped.

The new charges have been laid under a different section of the Criminal Code, which deals with "everyone whose duty it is to collect the fare, toll, ticket or admission," and who "wilfully fails to collect." It also covers collections of less than the proper amount.
The new warrants allege frauds on the bridge spanning Montreal harbor during the past decade. The United Nations Security Council now has a post-summit resolution for new Big Four negotiations on its books — but there was no sign that any such negotiations would be starting soon.

"Year by year my retirement income plan is growing too ... and that means a lot to my family's future — and my own peace of mind."

He is one of 14,082 employee-members of the Aluminium Limited Retirement Income and Life Assurance Plan who, around this time each year, receive a statement showing the Retirement Income building up to their individual credit in the Plan. And he knows that it will keep right on growing all through his working years until he retires.
Both he and his company share in the cost of providing this planned security for himself and his family. He contributes an amount based on his earnings, and the Company's share increases steadily as he advances in age toward retirement. In the 20 years since the plan was started, the amount of employees contributions has reached $23,829,000 and the value of Company contributions $41,470,000. Since 1940, retirement income benefits in the amount of $4,229,000 have been paid to retired employees.
Insurance Coverage
Members of the Plan also enjoy the option of life assurance protection equal to either one or two year's earnings. The premium is very low because the company also contributes.
In these and other ways—assistance in the event of sickness and accident, opportunity to purchase shares in the company by installments through payroll deductions, care for employee health and safety—the Company does its utmost to guard the present and future welfare of the people on whom the industry's own welfare depends.

FARM PROPERTY WANTED

No rush to buy. Simply looking around for eventual purchase of quiet spot in farm country. Mostly for week-end use. Not stupid enough to pretend that city folk could learn to run a farm. High in our books are wooded areas, especially with some fruit and a brook that makes a noise all through the summer. Some sort of a barn would be nice. So would facilities like plumbing, water and electric power. Wouldn't want the house to fall down the moment we had bought it.

Frankly, price is a factor, and size is not. So perhaps you could sell the best part of your farm to the next door and let us have the scruffy five or ten acres with the rocks, trees, some buildings and the noisy brook. Individual letters or even lists from agents would be welcomed by the advertiser. P. O. Box 127, Westmount, Que.

Togetherness — The Theme Of The Modern Day Circus

by CHARLES R. MASON

The true Circus performance is pointed to the happiness of the "Kids." That of course covers the young in heart from 2 to 102. Because the Circus draws its fans from the younger set and the "Big Ones," who refuse to let the years dim the happiness of youth, it is always clean entertainment. Other forms of public entertainment may lower their standards in a frantic hope of luring additional customers, through so-called "sophisticated shows." But the great showmen of the Circus, management and performers alike, continue to present entertainment that every member of the family can see and love.

Glamour? Yes, in the form of beautiful costumes and beautiful girls. Thrills? Yes, in presenting athletic feats and death defying acts found nowhere else. Fun? Yes, no one in the great realm of show business has that special place in the heart of the young and old that's reserved for the Circus Clown. Never does the Clown depend on sex or smut for patronage, thrills or laughs.

You've heard the cynics say "Every Circus is alike. When you've seen one, you've seen them all." Of course, this isn't true. New acts are constantly being introduced from talent coming from the far reaches of the world. Each performance is different from the one just finished, or the one to come. But, suppose the Circus is basically the same. So is apple pie. So is eating turkey dinner with relatives on Thanksgiving. So are the candles around the Christmas tree. So is attending the church of your choice. But they're all clean, wholesome, American Traditions our fathers before us have loved, and generations to come will continue to cherish. And, too, the Circus has its special place, with these traditions, by lightening the care of the oldsters and bringing never forgotten smiles and thrills to our young America.

Garden Bros. Circus will be in HUNTINGDON on SUNDAY, June 12

The original name of the R.C.M.P. was the North West Mounted Rifles, but as the U.S. thought that implied an army along their border the name was changed to North West Mounted Police.

Marionette Theatre To Be Feature Of Ormstown Exhibition

This year, for the first time, the Shell Marionette Theatre will be seen in Ormstown, Quebec. The occasion will be the Ormstown Fair (June 8 - 11, 1960). The Show, sponsored by the Shell Oil Company of Canada, Limited, is operated by professionals who, during the past few years have thrilled thousands from all walks of life from Quebec City to Vancouver.

The theme of this year's Show is a lighthearted Western featuring such 'likely sounding' names as Curly, Chief Bottle Washer, The Great Tex Terrific and a host of others comprising a cast of sixteen, including a ferocious bull.

All the Marionettes are made by John and Linda Keogh who also perform several television shows including Maggie Muggins, Ross the Bulder, Mr. "O" and the Friendly Giant.

Performing the show in Ormstown will be two of Keogh's television associates, Paul Robin and Gustave Harsfal. Gustave Harsfal comes from a long chain of puppeteers dating back to 1711. Since that early date the Harsfal family made a living operating the family Marionette Theatre in Budapest, Hungary.

Recent political events resulted in the Harsfal Theatre having to close down and Gustave, who started in the Theatre at the age of six, left for Canada without ever imagining that he would be able to continue his profession.

In Toronto with little knowledge of English he one day spotted a Keogh Marionette television production which gave him an idea. Several weeks later he was performing with John Keogh on Television. Since that day Gustave has performed throughout most of Canada.

The Marionettes used by the Shell Theatre are made of latex rubber and wood. They are then dressed and the faces are painted.

Considerable time is required to manufacture one of these little "beings" because a lot of detail is necessary to make them look realistic and alive. The operators need a lot of training, good rythm and must study each new show just as a Theatre performer must rehearse his part.

The finished product operates to recorded voices, and music and is a fascinating art that has entertained man for over two thousand years.

The Shell Marionette Theatre is absolutely free and will perform afternoon and evening during the fair.

DEWITTVILLE — The May meeting of the Dewittville W.C.T.U. met at the home of Mrs. F. W. Martin in Ormstown on Thursday afternoon the 26th with the Pres. Mrs. Beattie, presiding.

Plans were made for the Annual Little White Ribboners meeting to be held at the home of Mrs. Allan Ritchie, on Thursday, June 30th. The Clip Sheet studied was entitled "What Cocktails are Doing to Women" — They are making a great many more alcoholics. The meeting closed with the Pledge and Aromatic Benediction. A delicious Salad Tea was served by the hostess and a social time enjoyed.

Alister Somerville Is Devoted To The Cause Of Electors Of Huntingdon County

In Alister Somerville, your member of the Quebec Legislature for the past 8 years, you have a man who has given you the very best in service during that time. He has maintained an office in Huntingdon during all of this time and also one at his home in Hemmingford. Besides this he has been ever ready to visit the homes of constituents desiring to meet with him, at all times. This has meant that he has been available to all the electors at all times and has thus devoted a great deal of each year to this service alone.

More of his time has been extended to discussing problems with municipal councils and school boards, looking over roads sites for bridges, culverts and the like looking over sites for new schools and additions to existing schools. Holding meetings to discuss and view plans, meetings with architects and builders and so forth. He has met with farmers to discuss problems of assistance in obtaining farm loans, improvement of farms and the many matters to deal with the vast business of agriculture. He has visited persons in need of assistance such as supplementary pensions and other family aids or other social welfare needs. In order to obtain this assistance it has been further necessary for him to meet with the heads of the various departments in Quebec and to urge in behalf of the requirements. Increased grants have been obtained for the Huntingdon County Hospital, Huntingdon Fair and Havelock Fair. Playgrounds have been made possible for the children in a number of areas throughout the county and grants have been secured for the equipping of these playgrounds. Grants have been secured for the assistance of students in obtaining higher education. In every instance this had taken up the time of Mr. Somerville and he has willingly and cheerfully undertaken these tasks for the benefit of all who have approached him.

A look around in any part of this County of Huntingdon will give proof of what has been forthcoming through the efforts of this untiring man. There are still many matters which he has in hand for this county and no doubt the people would like to see them all fulfilled. They will, if they put their trust in Somerville.

Premier Barrette's Personal Gift of $500 to 4-H Clubs

We have just been officially informed that the Prime Minister of the Province of Quebec grants a scholarship of $500.00 to the most deserving members of the 4-H movement. These magnificent rewards will be remitted to the winners on the occasion of the next provincial convention of the clubs which will take place in Montreal at the end of June. In granting these scholarships, it is the intention of the Prime Minister to give a public appreciation of the good work achieved by the 4-Hers, with regard to the conservation of the natural resources.

The 11,000 members of that youth movement, who have recently taken an active part in the celebration of the "Conservation week" and have themselves organized public demonstrations in honour of trees are very proud to receive such an appraisal of their work by the Prime Minister of the Province of Quebec and express him their gratitude.

Hon. Jean Lesage Makes Whirlwind Visit To Huntingdon County

The Hon. Jean Lesage, leader of the Liberal Party in Quebec, paid a whirlwind visit to Huntingdon County yesterday in support of the Liberal candidate Ken Fraser. During the course of the day Mr. Lesage spent time in the counties of Soulanges, Chateauguay, Huntingdon and in the evening addressed a large gathering in Valleyfield arena.

During the late afternoon the Hon. Mr. Lesage and Mr. Ken Fraser visited the Gleaner and the several textile plants to at least shake hands with the industrially employed of Huntingdon. In the early evening the public at large gathered in the Huntingdon County War Memorial Arena when Mr. Fraser publicly welcomed the Hon. Mr. and Mrs. Lesage. Flowers were presented Mrs. Lesage.

An ovation greeted Mr. Lesage as he arose to address the gathering. He extended thanks for the courtesies accorded Mrs. Lesage and himself and especially for the bouquet of flowers to Mrs. Lesage.

Mr. Lesage made a few statements of policy that were of local character and were greeted with rounds of applause.

Mr. Lesage had the following to say in his brief remarks which he delivered in English and French.

Huntingdon is basically a rural area. A great number of farmers here can trace their family tree back to more than a century when their forefathers first settled in this area. Your Liberal candidate's family first came and settled in the Dundee area somewhere around 1820. One has only to look at these well-established and solid citizens and you can easily explain why the County of Huntingdon has produced such men as the Hon. James A. Robb who served in Canada's Federal Government and, at the time of his death, was Minister of Finance. The Hon. Martin B. Fisher who was Provincial Treasurer in Mr. Duplessis's first Government. You have had other famous sons and in this group you can consider Mr. Watson Selar, that devoted servant of the Government at Ottawa who served with distinction as Auditor General of Canada. There are many more that should be mentioned such as the late Mr. Justice Brown of the Saskatchewan Court of Appeals.

Your Liberal candidate is a true son of Huntingdon County. He was born in Dundee, graduated from the Dundee High School and he speaks French fluently. He is married and has a lovely family of four daughters and he is maintaining the tradition of his forefathers and has taken over the responsibility of the family farm. I commend this man to you and I ask you to give Ken Fraser your whole-hearted support. When I form the Liberal Government after June 22nd at Quebec, I will look to Ken Fraser for practical advice and suggestions when we tackle the many problems confronting the farmers of our Province.

Today I saw a large sign in Chateauguay County intimating that Highway 4 was promised to be completed by 1964. The Liberal Government will see to it that this Highway No. 4 is completed in 1961. Dust is not a charm of the Province of Quebec (cheers).

This is a beautiful and historic County. Over the past 25 years, the town of Huntingdon has become known as a prosperous and important industrial community in this area. The working conditions in your textile mills are good and I am delighted to be able to comment that you have never had a serious management labour dispute.

There is, however, a weakness in your present set up and that is the Quebec Government has not given you proper assistance in bringing other industries to your community other than those of the textile family. When I become Prime Minister, my government with the general co-operation of the citizens of this town will assist you in establishing industries in this area so that you may have a diversified employment market. (cheers)

Two years ago when I visited your county, I gave a promise to the apple growers of Hemmingford, Havelock, and Franklin that my Government would make a study of the apple cider issue and, after the technical problems were cleared, we would legalize the sale of apple cider by the Quebec Liquor Commission. In other words, if a citizen of our Province wishes to purchase apple cider that he should be able to buy the product of his own province rather than to be forced to buy the apple cider imported from a foreign country.

I repeat that pledge to the apple growers of Hemmingford, Havelock and Franklin. For the past 16 years, I understand that the apple growers of this community have been pressing this issue and each time the Union Nationale Government and its supporters of this County have ignored its demands.

Mr. Fraser thanked Mr. Lesage for his visit in his support and with the Huntingdon Band playing "O Canada" and "God Save the Queen" the party adjourned to the meeting being held in Valleyfield arena. A goodly number of cars joined the procession to Valleyfield.

Named to Sales Promotion Post

Jean-Claude "Tod" Campeau, one of the province's most popular hockey players, and an ex-hockey star of the Valleyfield Braves, has joined Gaspard Crepin Ltd., distributor of D o w Brewery products in the Valleyfield region, to handle sales promotion. "Tod" is well known in local sports circles for his activities with various sports organizations and with youth.

Mr. Eudore Pilon, vice-president general manager of Gaspard Crepin Ltd., said the appointment was made necessary by the progress of the sale of Dow Brewery products in the Valleyfield region.

7,461 Voters On Voters List For Huntingdon

Candidates in Huntingdon County who are competing in the Provincial Election will not have to expect too many extra votes than were cast in the last election of 1956. This is insofar as the total number on the voter list is concerned, as there are only 65 additional names in the 1960 edition. In 1956, the total number of voters for this county was given as 7,396, while the total given for the 1960 list is 7,461.

It is very seldom, if ever, that there is a total vote in any election. For a number of reasons not all the voters get to the polls to mark a ballot. Under those circumstances it may be possible, if more voters turn out to the polls, for the candidates to pick up a few extra votes. It is therefore urged that those who can vote, make it a point to get out and do so on election day, June 22nd.

If you want your particular man to win the election, it is up to you to mark a ballot in his favor. The more who do so, the greater the chances are.

Editorial Notes

It's Time For Ormstown Exhibition

A WEEK from this Wednesday, Ormstown Exhibition will open for its annual livestock Show and there will be the influx of many people and much activity in and around Ormstown.

Ormstown Exhibition means more to this area than perhaps people fully realize, even those who actually live here. The name of Ormstown is known far and near on account of this one annual event alone. At Fairs like the Royal, the name of Ormstown comes up from time to time due to the fact that a cattle exhibit has won a prize at Ormstown Exhibition. This may seem insignificant, it may seem insignificant when on reading of sales of cattle, in the descriptions there appears something about Ormstown. It is not so however, for when the name of Ormstown appears anywhere, it means that it is receiving publicity. It means that people in other parts are being made aware that Ormstown exists. The Ormstown Exhibition over the many years that it has been carried on, has been doing just this all the time. It is not surprising then that people from many places far removed, attend Ormstown Exhibition every year and are even consistent exhibitors. So well known has Ormstown Exhibition become, that it is often referred to as "The Little Royal."

Actually this is a great compliment to the Exhibition and to the village of Ormstown, which is its home. It is something to which the people of Ormstown can point with pride. The grounds and the buildings for this exhibition provide a landmark all the year round, for truly there are not many small towns anywhere that can boast of so much.

The officials of the Ormstown Exhibition have pointed this fact out from time to time and they have felt that more support should be forthcoming from the citizens in the surrounding area as well as from those in the immediate area. Help is needed in many ways both during the period of the exhibition and for some weeks before. With full co-operation of this kind, Ormstown Exhibition can be made even more successful than it is. The next important factor, of course, is a good attendance of people from all surrounding areas and this is what makes for the financial success.

The past few years there has been a better attendance and the officials are ever striving to improve the programs with a view to making the fair more attractive to everyone. Several new attractions have been added to this year's show and it is hoped that citizens will plan to attend as often as possible.

The Exhibition has a new president this year, in A. A. McCormick, a business man of Ormstown and one well known. Carlyle Dickson is the Secretary-Manager and he has been doing an excellent job for a number of years. The various officials work together and meet from time to time throughout all the year to plan this annual event. It is one of those jobs that is a gift to the organization and to the people and this is a fact that should be taken into consideration by all the general public. All that is asked by these officials is that the Exhibition is a success in all ways and they are quite pleased that their efforts have been rewarded. Therefore, let us all see that the 1960 Exhibition is at least one better than ever before.

A group which is deserving of much credit and especially in view of the time of year for them, is Ormstown High School. Every year, pupils and staff devote much time and much effort to create an opening number for Ormstown Exhibition. For the past two or three years, the floats and theme followed, have been outstanding. Such has not been created in a few hours, it has required much time, patience and effort on the part of all responsible. Coming as this does on the eve of the annual examinations throughout the entire school, must present an extra burden upon all taking part. This group therefore is deserving of far greater consideration than appears to be evident. Again this year, the school is planning a parade of floats for opening night, Wednesday, June 8th. When attending, see that they get an additional cheer of encouragement for the part they play.

The National Canadian Ayrshire Sale

THE Officials of the Town of Huntingdon and the people of the Town should have a feeling of pride that this town was selected for the annual National Canadian Ayrshire Sale. A further feeling of pride should come from the fact that the results of the sale created a record for these sales anywhere in Canada to date.

The sale was well set up in the Huntingdon County War Memorial Arena and there was plenty of space for animals and the very large attendance. Bidding was quite brisk and good prices were obtained. Being on a holiday, provided many people an opportunity to see how these large sales are conducted, even though they were not among the buyers. It was an education for such people and should have beneficial effects on the future. It was an education for Huntingdon, even though it is situated in a centre where good stock is known. It is nice to know that some of these animals were sold to breeders in this area. Such will add to the further pride in our community as one of the best dairy farming districts in Canada.

We feel that it may be a nice gesture if the Town Council would have a letter sent to the organizers of the sale, thanking them for having made Huntingdon their selection for the event and extending an invitation for any other future occasion. In the matter of good public relations this should be done and should bear fruit for future occasions. While there do not appear to be any direct results at the moment, there is no telling what may come as result of having had this sale held here. People were here from many points as the bidding and the sale of the animals showed. We do not know what opinions these people formed of our community, we hope they were favorable and if they were, that they will make other visits for purely personal reasons. At this time Huntingdon is presenting one of its spurts of progressiveness, which was all to the good. The time of year is good, although the wet weather did spoil the fair grounds.

This is a matter that the Fair Board could look into and perhaps have improvements made.

Maple Leaf Grange did an excellent job of looking after refreshments for the large attendance and this was so handy for all concerned. All in all, it would appear that the selection of Huntingdon for this noted sale was a good one and generally speaking, proved as convenient as is probably found anywhere. The fact that the sale was such a success, should make those responsible very happy indeed.

What Of The World Situation?

WORD last week from Russia was to the effect that the collapse of the Summit Conference due to the alleged spy incident, had brought the world to the brink of a nuclear war. We are afraid that this is all too clear and required no assurance from Russia on the point. What we hope is that it proceeds no further than the brink. The question is, if a nuclear war should break out, who would start it?

We feel certain that none of the Western Allies will want the responsibility of starting such a war. Like the plane incident, however, it could start from such a miscalculation and the impulsiveness of the moment. It is therefore very important that none of the Western Allies permit any more such incidents to occur. They must alert all their personnel against such mishaps and the danger of such.

A great chasm has been formed between Russia and the United States on account of the spy episode, just when the wound was healing to some extent. The visit of President Eisenhower to Russia looks as if it will not take place now. It is hard to see how it could under the circumstances and would likely prove a very dangerous mission for the U.S. President.

The world is once more placed in a period of tenseness, of not knowing where it is going, of the outcome of all the events that are happening in rapid succession. It is possible that the summit conference may be resumed at a later date, but nothing is sure. Russia will try its dictatorial powers if a summit meeting is held and this very fact alone could have the result of no meeting being held. We have had experience of Russia will try its dictatorial powers if a do not have much confidence in the Summit Conference ever being resumed. It is our fear that we shall just drift along in the continued cold war, with a hot war ever in the offing and a continual threat to all in the world. A nuclear war is just too terrible for any nation to take the responsibility for, even Russia.

The Week At Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP) — How should Canada prepare for its 100th birthday in 1967?

By building a model city on the St. Lawrence Seaway? By establishing universities, welfare institutions?

These and many other suggestions have been advanced in the last several months, and hundreds more will be forthcoming in the months and years ahead before the centenary of Confederation.

Senator Cyrille Vaillancourt (L-Quebec) has an idea different from all the rest: Why not prepare for 1967 by lifting the "iron curtain" between Quebec and other parts of the country? Urges Solidarity

"It seems to me we're forgetting something," he told the Upper House last week. "We want big feasts, we want to build universities in each province, give scholarships and countess other things, but the purpose of all this serve if there is no sense of co-operation at the heart of our nation?"

"National solidarity would be infinitely better than all the cold monuments we might erect." Talk of co-operation, Senator Vaillancourt said, should be backed up with action. He urged that all information media try to promote national unity rather than hamper its progress.

In the last 10 years, about 21,000 Chinese immigrants have been admitted to Canada. Almost all came from Hong Kong, which is over-flowing with refugees from the China mainland. A few came from Portuguese Macao, a tiny enclave on the Chinese coast about 80 miles from Hong Kong.

It was revealed last week that perhaps 11,000 of the 21,000 had entered Canada illegally. They came under cover of an immense racket — involving blackmail, forged documents and slave labor — estimated to have lined the pockets of operators with a cool $4,000,000.

The full extent of the racket — which has been under investigation for many months — was revealed by Commissioner C. W. Harrison of the RCMP and Immigration Minister Fairclough following RCMP raids in nine Canadian cities.

The object of the raids was to obtain evidence against ring-leaders. Cities where the raids took place were Vancouver, Edmonton, Regina, Brandon, Winnipeg, Sarnia, Peterborough, Toronto and Montreal.

No arrests were made. The ring-leaders were understood to include both whites and Chinese. The migrants entered Canada on forged documents which they purchased for $5,000.

Many paid off by working for low wages for specific employers in Canada, on what amounted to a slave labor basis.

Mrs. Fairclough said the government would take a "humanitarian approach" to those of the immigrants who came forward and asked for help in having their entry into Canada legalized.

Unemployment Total Unemployment in mid-April was down by 49,000 from mid-March, but higher by 72,000 than a year earlier.

Figures released by the government showed that Canada's jobless rolls at the middle of April stood at 517,000 — only 5,000 short of the postwar record for the month. A lagging spring pickup in industrial activity was blamed for the relatively large number of unemployed.

In the period from mid-March to mid-April in 1959 the decline in unemployment totalled 80,000. In the same period in 1958 it dropped by 75,000.

The report showed an increase of 74,000 in the number of persons with jobs in April, compared with March. The total at April was 742,000.

No Defence? A recently retired army major, writer on military affairs, had some chilling words last week for those who take civil defence seriously. His advice, in a nutshell: forget it.

All defensive preparations for a nuclear war and a waste of time, energy and money, because there is no defence against nuclear weapons, said W. H. Pope, president of the Social Democratic party of Quebec.

Mr. Pope, addressing the Club Progress de Hull, said the Russian air force is capable of landing its latest hydrogen bombs on North America in a single raid — even assuming that continental air defences had succeeded in destroying half the attacking force. Six H-bombs, he said, would destroy Canada "for all practical purposes."

Mr. Pope said the North American air defence command is useless and Canada must withdraw from it.

Indian Problem The Federation of Saskatchewan Indians wants the United Nations, experienced in problems of minority groups, to coach the federal government in dealing with the question of Canada's Indians.

A resolution adopted by the federation, calling for this assistance, was sent to the UN which replied that it would be considered by a subcommittee of the UN human rights commission. The reply made clear, however, that the subcommittee could not advise the Canadian government.

W. I. (Bill) Wutteneuf of Regina, counsel for the federation told of the exchange with the UN when the federation presented a brief to the parliamentary committee on Indian affairs. Main theme of the brief was that Indians should have more say in their own affairs.

This Week In Quebec

Quebec (CP) — A book on the behavior of Quebec Province voters came out this week. It says the rural vote is the key of political power in Quebec.

Meanwhile the Premier of the Province and the Opposition Party Leader continued their election campaigning, the first moving to rural areas from urban centres and the second to urban from rural.

The book, out in magazine form until a general printing, was written by Jean Hamelin, Jacques Letarte and Marcel Hamelin professors at Laval University's Institute of Geography. The Quebec Historical Research Centre and a few experts assisted the authors.

The Study is based on statistics covering 24 provincial elections. Results of every provincial election since Confederation are examined on the basis of issues involved, fundamental party alliances of the bulk of voters and the behavior of a key group of voters whose fluctuating opinions make and break governments in this province. Even the foggy abstention factor in each election is minutely observed.

The authors, while making clear they cannot give a series of absolute conclusions, draw a number of points:

1. There are three categories of voters — die-hards who form the indestructible core of each of the two main political parties; cyclical voters who form the core of stability any party which hopes to gain power must win over; voters who change their minds with every election and who make up the nebulous thing called "the floating vote."

2. The two main parties in Quebec, the Union Nationale and Liberals, each have a solid core of voters equal to 30 per cent of eligible voters. That means that 60 per cent of the entire force of voters cast their ballots purely on a party basis—regardless of issues. These are the die-hards.

3. Cyclical voters hold the balance of power. They are located chiefly in rural ridings. To be in power, a party must have at least 12 per cent of the rural cyclical vote.

4. The floating vote is showing definite signs of growing in volume and importance. The authors estimate the Union Nationale and Liberal Parties have each lost five per cent of their steady supporters in recent years bringing the percentage of the floating vote to 21 per cent of the eligible voters in rural constituencies.

5. Because of the existing division of ridings "to command the rural vote is to command the province." Premier Antonio Barrette moved from Montreal to the Magdalen Islands and the lower St. Lawrence carrying his campaign for re-election of the Union Nationale Party deep into the grass roots. Liberal Leader Jean Lesage did the opposite, moving from small towns and villages of southern Quebec to the populous area of Montreal.

The Liberal Chief shook hands, rode in a motorcade and made a major speech at L'Abord a Plouffe in which he charged the Union Nationale Government with grabbing all sources of revenue and leaving nothing for municipalities and school boards. His party, if elected June 22, will assume responsibility for the payment of all school board debts, he said.

Earlier, at Montmagny, Mr. Lesage called on the Government to cancel an iron mining concession granted in the Ungava district to American industrialist Cyrus Eaton. He suggested the concession to Mr. Eaton might result in Quebec ore going to Krupp plants in Communist East Germany.

Premier Barrette at Etang du Nord said he is proud to be one of the huge army of workers. He is also Labor Minister and still holds a union card.

He said the Union Nationale did more during the last session of the legislature to help Quebecers than the Liberals were promising in their present campaign speeches. Liberal programs would necessitate higher taxes whereas his government had provided aid for everyone without increasing taxes, Mr. Barrette said.

Chief Returning Officer, Francois Drapeau, announced preliminary figures in the enumeration of voters for the election. There will be 2,593,168 eligible voters, 199,818 higher than the total for the last election in 1956.

Canada's New Pattern For Survival

The Department of National Defence now has complete national attack warning network in operation 24 hours a day throughout Canada. F.F. Worthington, retired Civil Defense Coordinator, reports in the May 28th issue of Saturday Night. Previous to this the warning system was based on the existing commercial wire lines.

Plans are also in progress to establish a network of monitoring stations across the nation, spaced not more than 45 miles apart, east and west, and 15 miles north and south, for the measurement of fallout after a nuclear attack. The army will organize both systems, provide the instruments and give the necessary instructions.

For rescue and re-entry work the regular army has 22 mobile

The Story Of

The Coming Of Electric Light And Power To Huntingdon

EXCERPTS TAKEN FROM HUNTINGDON GLEANER FILES

September 25, 1913 — Electric light bylaw given first reading. The main clauses being: 1. J. G. Dunn is granted a franchise for 20 years, commencing January 1st, 1915. 2. The light contractor is to pump the water for the village for $1800 a year. In case of increase of revenue he is to be allowed 30% of it. The pumping contract to come into force January 1, 1916, and is to be for 19 years. 3. He is to have the use of the power house and lot and to pay for same the rental of $5.00 a year. The corporation gives the right to install an electric motor and pump, also the right to use the corporation steam plant, which is to be kept in good state of repair, and ready for use at any time. 4. Water is to be in the mains at all times during the term of contract. 5. Mr. Dunn is to buy out the corporation electric lines for $2,250. He is given exclusive right of running an electric light line through the village and of selling power up to the capacity of his plant. At the expiration of the contract, the village may buy back the lines on giving three months' notice. In case of disagreement as to price, it is to be settled by arbitration. 6. The charge for light is to be $3.60 a year for a 16 candle power carbon light, or a 40 watt Tungsten or $1.80 for lights of half the power. Churches to be supplied at half price. 7. In the case of breakdown the contractor is allowed 8 days a year for repairs, and whenever he exceeds that time, he must allow a proportionate reduction to the consumers. In case of his exceeding the allotted time, the village may charge him $10 a day for 10 days and then declare the contract cancelled. 8. The contractor may sell his plant and franchise only with the consent of the council. 9. No person is bound to take electric light, but the contractor must supply any one providing he takes at least two lights. 10. The corporation is to use 55 street lamps and to pay $10 a light. These lights are to be 32 candle power carbon lights, and are to be kept in repair by the contractor. The contractor is to supply the village with 9 lights free of charge.

October 23rd, 1913 — The vote on the bylaw for a contract with J. G. Dunn resulted in it being defeated and Mayor and Council members were bitterly disappointed that the matter be treated so lightly. Those responsible for its defeat assumed the responsibility of securing something better for the village. It was pointed out that they had no time to lose.

Those responsible for its defeat assumed the responsibility of securing something better for the village. It was pointed out that they had no time to lose.

November 6, 1913 — A petition was read from a number of ratepayers asking the council in receipt of the setback they received in the last vote, to continue their efforts to improve the lighting of the town and to lessen the expense of pumping the water. The council took up the rejected bylaw and after considering the clauses objected to and what changes they thought necessary, they authorized the Mayor and the light committee to open negotiations with Mr. Dunn again.

November 20, 1913 — Dr. Walsh appeared at council in behalf of George Munroe and asked a delay of 2 weeks to allow him to submit a proposition for a 24 hour service for light and power.

The council decided to allow a delay and after some discussion it was decided to call for tenders for a 24 hour service with tenders to be in by December 12.

December 18, 1913 — No tenders were received for the light and power. After some discussion Dr. Walsh said he would submit a proposition in about 10 days and stated he had the power already contracted for. (To Be Continued)

Matter of fact — it probably all started with a date made by a phone call. And when it comes to detailed arrangements, planning, orders, and the inevitable last-minute changes — then your telephone really becomes completely indispensable. Actually, that is true for so many things we do: the telephone is always there, always ready to help and to serve. We take it for granted, it's so handy and so inexpensive.

Camping Cruise
One of the joys of boating is the experience of camping out on a cruise. Canada offers countless miles of undeveloped shoreline on which you can pitch your tent. Even more romantic, and more private, is to choose a wooded island on one of the lovely lakes in your boating area.

A good campsite has good drainage, a ready wood supply, and should be safe. Don't pitch your tent under that lonesome pine, for it could act as a dandy lightning conductor.

Keep the prevailing wind direction in mind when you pitch your tent, with the entrance placed so that you can build a fire at the entrance without the smoke blowing inside. Before you build a fire, clear the ground very carefully, removing sticks, grass, leaves and pine needles that might spread a campfire out of control. Don't build a fire on spongy, humus ground, or let it smoulder for days beneath the surface. Find an earth floor, if you can, then build a rock or green wood fireplace and cover it with sand.

The best way to start a fire is with a match and some paper unless you're trying to prove that you haven't forgotten your boy scout training. And the best way to put out a fire when you're finished is to pour water on it — then pour more water on it!

Always leave a campsite neat and clean. Flatten the cane before you bury them. You can get a lot more in a small hole that way. Another good tip is to throw them into the fire to burn off the tin plating before you bury them. With this protective coating removed, a can rusts quickly and corrodes away to dust.

Unless you plan to sleep aboard your boat, the most essential item on a camping cruise is a tent. There are many types of tents, ranging from the tiny pup tent to large, wall-type varieties. A large tent is well worth the investment.

Aim for about 100 square feet of floor space, a tent that can be erected in less than 10 minutes, and one with a sewn-in floor for protection against insects and damp ground. Plastic screens on the entrance and windows are also important, especially during the mosquito season.

Add to this a good air mattress, the heavy rubberized fabric type, and a high-weight sleeping bag, and you're all set to sleep in comfort on that lovely, lovely lake shore.

Garden Notes
Be Generous with flowers — One of the very special pleasures of gardening is the thrill that comes from handing a departing visitor a big bunch of flowers to take home. And we can do this again and again and also have plenty of bouquets for our own homes if we plant a few extra rows of cutting flowers right in the vegetable garden.

Here we can clip blooms anytime we like and without detracting one bit from the decorative flower gardens around the lawn. In these too, it is well to plant those flowers whose foliage is not particularly ornamental, things like gladioli and sweet peas which we prize mainly for their bloom.

Plant in a special cutting garden or in rows in front of the vegetables they are much more easily grown and handled and there is no hesitation about cutting a bouquet whenever we take the notion.

Only one way for freshness — The gardener who is also a gourmet, knows that for top quality certain vegetables must be grown almost within reach. They simply cannot be picked one day to be eaten the next. Their fresh quality is highly perishable, lasting only a matter of an hour or so after they are harvested.

Garden peas are in this category and so is garden corn. Some of the delicate leaf lettuces are almost as tender, and so are radishes, baby carrots and beets. And for the finest, crispest, freshest salad, radish, tomatoes, and cucumbers picked in one's own garden just a few minutes before, are definitely better than those purchased in the ordinary way.

In fact there is so much difference between really fresh vegetables out of the kitchen garden right at the door, and those purchased at the corner store, that many people simply refuse to believe that they are the same kinds at all. Take peas and corn again. It is a well known fact that the sugars in these begin to change to starch in a matter of hours after picking, and while starch may be nourishing enough in its way it certainly does not taste like sugar. Even where the garden is tiny, the person who values really top quality will try and grow a few rows of corn and peas even if he has to buy all his other vegetables.

Odds and ends — Don't burn the brush from the spring pruning. This makes excellent support for climbing and tall flowers and if placed fairly early it is soon hidden by new growth.

A few minutes with an old file taking the rough edges off hoes and cultivators will be repaid over and over again in quicker and cleaner cultivation. A little oil rubbed into wooden handles of rakes, hoes and spades too, will make them easier and safer on the hands.

Hemmingford
HEMMINGFORD — St. Andrew's United Explorer Group held their closing expedition on Tuesday, May 24. The Mission Study the past year being on Africa, the girls had constructed a very complete village and this along with nature study work, handicrafts, scrap books and other work was on display. Under the direction of their counsellors Mrs. G. J. Brown and Mrs. C. Winter a skit on some of the African customs was carried out by Jeannette Robertson, Margaret Cleaver and Gisela Kramell. The Explorer hymn was then sung and the Emblem explained to the visitors. The Affiliation Service with the W.M.S. was exemplified with the Pres. Mrs. Harry Warner and Explorers Linda Winter, Heather Brown, Marguerite Latour, Loretta Napper and Jorja Ross assisting. A gift to the local W.M.S. was presented to Mrs. Warner by Susan Deery. Mrs. G. J. Brown then presented the E pins and second gold stars to Linda Winter, Susan Deery, Loretta Napper, Marguerite Latour, Barbara Dey and Heather Brown. Perfect attendance gifts went to Susan Deery, Linda Winter and Joanne Simpson. Mrs. C. Winter gave Jeannette Robertson her second red star and second blue stars to Hilda Orr, Marjorie English, Margaret Cleaver, Gisela Kramell, Jo-Anne Simpson and Jorja Ross. A Bible Story "If I live next door to Jesus" was told by Marjorie English and Judy Chapattes. A piano solo by Jo-Anne Simpson was enjoyed by all. The meeting was then brought to a close and delicious refreshments were served.

THIS HOBBY OF MINE

HOW IT BEGAN WHERE IT HAS LED

by ARNOLD McNAUGHTON

PART XI
The grandchildren of Queen Victoria numbered 40 persons. It was this generation which held Europe and for that matter the fate of much of the civilized world in its hands. Britain, Germany and Russia were the major powers at the turn of the 20th Century and in each of these huge Empires there ruled a descendant of Queen Victoria. The tragedy is that these same rulers allowed themselves to be implicated in a World War with the result that they lost their power, popularity and influence. As if by a miracle the Royal House of Britain managed to survive while the majority of the others faded into the pages of history. In 1918 few could have ever imagined that there would be a Hitler or that Russia would prove a threat to the existence of the whole of the civilized world. Sir Winston Churchill, in his war memoirs, regrets in many ways that the ruling houses of Germany and Russia should have been exiled. The vacuum left in those countries after their old monarchial systems disappeared left the way clear for men like Hitler and the Nazis and for Lenin and Stalin and the spread of Communism.

None of Queen Victoria's 18 grandsons survive, the last one having died on Feb. 23, 1960 in London. Only four granddaughters survive out of the original 22 with two in England, two in Spain and another in Switzerland.

The following are the grandchildren of Queen Victoria:
1. WILLIAM II, Last Emperor of Germany, better known as "The Kaiser" (1859-1941) m. first Princess Augusta Victoria of Schleswig-Holstein-Sonderburg - Augustenburg who died in Holland in 1921; He m. secondly Princess Hermine of Reuss, the widowed Princess John George of Schonau-Carolath. She died in Communist East Germany in August 1947 at Frankfurt-on-Oder. William II was Queen Victoria's favorite grandson. He lies buried in the park of Castle Doorn in Holland.

2. CHARLOTTE, Princess of Prussia (1860-1919) died of cancer of the throat; m. Prince Bernhard, last reigning Duke of Saxe-Meiningen.
3. HENRI, Prince of Prussia (1862-1929) m. Princess Irene of Hesse and the Rhine, a granddaughter of Victoria. Henry was Grand Admiral of the German Navy until 1918. In 1918 he was compelled to give up this post and retired to this estate near Kiel where he died.

4. SIGISMUND, Prince of Prussia (1864-1866) d. of scarlet fever.

5. VICTORIA, Princess (1866-1929) m. first Prince Adolph of Schaumburg-Lippe and m. secondly Alexander Zoubkoff, a Russian refugee. The marriage proved unhappy and they lived apart from each other. She died of pneumonia at Bonn.

6. WALDEMAR, Prince of Prussia (1868-1879) died of black diphtheria.

7. SOPHIE, Queen of Greece (1870-1932) d. of cancer; m. King Constantine I of Greece who was uncle of Prince Philip, Duke of Edinburgh.

8. MARGARET, Princess (1872-1954) m. Prince Karl Friedrich Landgrave of Hesse. She was the last of the Kaiser's sisters to survive.

9. ALBERT, Duke of Clarence (1864-1893) d. of typhoid fever; was engaged to Princess May of Teck, afterwards Queen Mary.

10. GEORGE V, King of England; Emperor of India (1865-1936) m. Princess May of Teck whom we knew as Queen Mary. George V was the only British Emperor of India to actually be crowned in India. In July 1917 George V, because of anti-German feeling in Britain had the Royal Family surname changed from the German Saxe-Coburg and Gotha to the pro-English Windsor after Windsor Castle which name it remains to this day. He is the paternal grandfather of Queen Elizabeth II.

11. LOUISE, The Princess Royal, Duchess of Fife (1867-1931) d. of heart trouble. m. Alexander Duff, First Duke of Fife who died at Assuan, Egypt in 1912. The interesting fact about the Duke is that he was a grandson of one of the illegitimate children of King William IV of England and he had 10 of them.

12. VICTORIA, Princess (1868-1935) d. of heart trouble.

13. MAUD, Queen of Norway (1869-1938) d. of heart trouble; m. Prince Charles of Denmark who was her own mother's nephew. In 1905 Charles was elected King of Norway under the title of King Haakon VII. He died Sept. 21, 1957.

14. ALEXANDER, Prince of Great Britain (1871), lived but one day.

15. VICTORIA, Princess of Hesse; Marchioness of Milford-Haven (1863-1950) m. Prince Louis of Battenberg (maternal grandparents of Prince Philip). In July 1917, at the request of the Battenberg family in England, King George V authorized the family to be known by the name MOUNTBATTEN. Prince Louis was titled First Marquess of Milford-Haven, the name of which came from the harbour of the same name on Britain's west coast. Mountbatten was taken from the island fortress of the same name in Plymouth Sound. Prince Louis was Britain's First Sea Lord 1913-1914 and retired as Admiral of the Fleet after the war.

16. ELIZABETH, called Ella, Princess of Hesse (1864-1918) m. Grand Duke Sergius of Russia, uncle of Emperor Nicholas II. Sergius was Governor-General of Moscow after 1891 and was killed by a bomb in 1905 as he was driving in his carriage toward the Kremlin. The Grand Duchess Ella retired as a nun founding the first nursing Order of its kind in Russia in 1907 and named it the Order of Martha and Mary. The Order was established in Moscow of which she became Mother Superior. Her niece, Princess Alice of Greece, mother of Prince Philip, now heads a Greek Nursing Order of the same name in Athens. The Grand Duchess was killed by the Bolsheviks when she, her companion nun and 5 Russian Grand Dukes were tossed alive down into an unused iron mine shaft near Perm, Siberia. Their bodies were rescued in October 1918 and by degrees taken east into China. The Grand Duchess and her nun companion's body were transferred by ship to the Holy Land and 1921 finally buried in the Garden of Gethsemane in the Russian Orthodox Cathedral of Mary Magdalene.

17. IRENE, Princess of Hesse (1866-1953) m. Prince Henry of Prussia (See No. 3).

18. ERNEST LOUIS, Last Reigning Grand Duke of Hesse and the Rhine (1868-1937) m. Victoria Melita of Great Britain from whom he was divorced in 1901; m. secondly Princess Eleanor of Solms-Hohensolms-Lich who died in a plane crash in 1937 with her son, daughter-in-law and two grandsons.

19. FREDERICK, Prince of Hesse (1870-1937) from a fall out of a window. He suffered haemophilia, the bleeding disease.

20. ALIX (ALEXANDRA FEODOROVNA) The Last Empress of Russia, nee Princess of Hesse (1872-1918) m. Tsar Nicholas II of Russia and was killed with him and their 5 children by the Bolsheviks at Ekaterinburg, Siberia. Perhaps one of the most hated and misunderstood women in history. She has been blamed to a great extent for the Russian Revolution of 1917 because of the part she is believed to have played in Russian politics during the reign of her husband.

War Against Weeds

Why should we declare war on weeds? The Quebec Department of Agriculture gives the following reasons:

- 1) Weeds are either useless, troublesome, or injurious on a farm.
- 2) Weeds do much harm to Quebec Agriculture.

A glance at the reports which have been published by qualified investigators is all that one needs to form an idea of the losses which are attributable to the presence of weeds in crops; these losses have been estimated at an average of $450 a year for each American farm. The comparable figure of about $300. for Quebec farms, although a little more reasonable is still disturbing and it represents a slice out of the profits which our farmers cannot well afford to permit. Moreover, it must be remembered that these losses due to weeds are increasing from year to year. It is high time to put a stop to them.

The harm done by weeds in the farmer's fields are manifold:

- a) They absorb from the soil the moisture required by the crops.
 - b) They rob the crops of the nutrient elements which they need in order to grow, and thus diminish their yield.
 - c) They grow together in clumps and patches, shading and crowding out desirable plants.
 - d) They add considerably to the operating costs of tillage and harvesting.
 - e) They may impart a bad flavour to milk and in some cases poison livestock.
 - f) The presence of weed seed in seed grain and other seed reduces its market value.
 - g) Weeds harbour a number of insects and diseases which ravage crops.
 - h) What about the value of agricultural property which is covered with weeds?
- In the face of these facts and many others which there is no need to mention, there seems to be good reason to state that weeds are the worst enemies of our crops. In seeking to combat a hostile horde such as this, the farmer should rely on the help of the powerful allies which are at his disposal. Of these allies, clean seed and suitable methods of tillage have ever been first and foremost. These tried and trusted champions have lately been supported by modern weapons (the fruits of intensive research) in the form of chemicals widely known as selective herbicides.

How to make your tractor last longer

In view of these modern facilities, now available to the general public for the control of the ever increasing ravages of weeds, it is perhaps worthwhile to recall the words spoken thirty years ago by Dr. E.S. Archibald, at that time the director of the Dominion Experimental Farms service: The inertia of too many, and the manifest indifference, are the cause of the increasing losses due to weeds in crops and of the rise of the costs of production amongst those farmers who do practice weed control. Diligence is the only sure remedy.

Now surely, considering all the advantages and conveniences at our disposal, is the time for us to undertake a decisive onslaught against weeds. It is not a question of money; it is a question of determination. For who, after all, cannot afford a dollar or so an acre to wipe out this dreadful and perpetual menace. With a concerted effort, the rewards of victory would be ours in the shape of undiminished harvests.

Edgar Hebert Believes In Equal Treatment For All

Mr. Edgar Hebert, Union National Party candidate for the County of Beauharnois and member of the Provincial Parliament since 1948 is surely justified in saying that his record during that period is proof that he has the welfare of his constituency and the population at heart. The Provincial Government also recognized Mr. Hebert's abilities by appointing him Parliamentary Assistant to the Minister of Hydraulic Resources, the Hon. Daniel Johnson, in 1958. As far as the English speaking population of the county of Beauharnois is concerned, situated mainly in Valleyfield, Beauharnois and Nitro, Mr. Hebert has especially earned laurels in the field of education. Since he has been a member of the Provincial Parliament he has been instrumental in obtaining $502,230.00 for Protestant education in Valleyfield and $221,300.00 for Beauharnois. In Valleyfield this money has been spent on the construction of the new section of the Gault Institute, improvements in the old building and the construction of a complete new elementary school for English speaking Protestant children on St. Charles Street. In general it can be said that Mr. Hebert has made it his business to see that requests for improvements in the field of education received the government's fullest attention. He never made any distinction between French or English, Protestant or Catholic. The new English Catholic school in Valleyfield, and the shortly expected approval for a further addition to this school, are adequate proof that, although The St. Ignace School comes under the Catholic Commission's jurisdiction, Mr. Hebert gives them just as much of his attention as the other schools and school boards.

In Beauharnois, where several years ago a large addition was built to the existing school, and which provides intermediate and elementary education for English Protestant children from Beauharnois, Maple Grove, Melocheville, Bellevue and Woodlands, the school board has always received Mr. Hebert's fullest understanding and cooperation.

Mr. Hebert was also instrumental in bringing about the annexation of the Nitro Protestant school to the Gault Institute in Valleyfield, thus giving the Nitro pupils much better educational facilities. Free transportation was provided for and parents had no longer the expense of monthly school fees.

A Provincial level, the Union National government has given $6,107,000.00 in grants to McGill University since the year 1958 of which $3,105,000.00 will be given this year alone. Also, under the new law McGill is receiving $1.75 per capita in the Province of Quebec which made it possible for the University to lower its cost per pupil.

In other fields, Mr. Hebert has been most generous in his assistance to social and other organizations in Valleyfield. For instance, with the help of a provincial grant of $1500.00 so far this year, The Club Nautique now has a wonderful and most progressive swimming instruction program for young children. The enormous attendance of last year is ample proof how much this program is appreciated by parents and children alike. Included in this sum is $500.00 for regatta publicity.

The Valleyfield Golf and Country Club is also most appreciative for the assistance Mr. Hebert has given them. He was instrumental in obtaining from the Hydro Quebec, at a very reasonable price indeed, the land on which the Club is now situated. He then saw to it that roads leading to the Club were paved and maintained. Also part of the parking area was paved and Mr. Hebert will see to it that the remainder of the parking area will be paved this year. In Nitro, Mr. Hebert interceded on behalf of the traffic harassed citizens who had to cross highway number 3 to do their shopping and visit the post office. Parents in Nitro are more than grateful to Mr. Hebert for making it safe to cross the highway both for them and their children. Mr. Hebert prides himself in being able to say that his office at 2 Nicholson Street has been open to both English and French speaking residents of his constituency alike and he is always ready to listen with an open mind to any problem his visitors wish

West-End Home Owners Elect New Officers

(By Mrs. K. Smeal)

The West End Home Owners' Association held their meeting on Thursday, May 26th at 8:30 p.m. in the Verville Community Hall. Over fifty residents from West End attended this meeting and it was quite surprising to see so many new-comers. First and foremost was the nomination of a new slate of officers. These were voted in by secret ballot and the following list shows the executive for the coming year.

Mr. W. Roy. The chairman of these committees are to form their own group of helpers and these to be presented at the next meeting. The Board of Trustees is comprised of three members, P. Muir, R. Walker and F. Jones. Much interest was shown in the selection of officers and in some cases the votes were fairly close. Let's hope this interest shall continue in the coming year so that our association may expand and be of benefit to everyone in this community. Mr. W. Hulshoff thanked the executive of last year's Home Owners' Association for all their efforts in our behalf.

Shopping Plaza Announced For Chateauguy Area

(By Mrs. Guthrie)

A large advertising sign appears on Highway No. 3 announcing the new Chateauguy Shopping Plaza. When this becomes a fact, it is said it will include 35 stores and parking spaces for 1,400 cars. There is no doubt such would be a great attraction and a needed improvement when it comes about.

There are possibilities of several new business premises opening in Chateauguy as times goes on and with such a large and growing area there will be increasing need for more facilities of this kind. In addition there is the great possibility that people from other points will be attracted here to do business. This could be especially so if there is adequate parking facilities.

Mr. Mansfield, who is sponsored by the Canadian Lawn Tennis Assoc. and Coca-Cola to instruct tennis players across Canada this season, did a marvelous job with our local talent. He is very gifted in teaching the all important fundamentals of the game, and the two hours he spent instructing did more good for the juniors than years of playing on their own.

The Truck In Which 1 Person Was Killed and Five Were Injured

The truck in which nine Chateauguy youths were riding when it overturned shortly after midnight on Friday. The picture on the left shows the pipes used by plumbers on their trucks in order that loads may be handled conveniently. One of these pipes caused the death of Benny Rock, but it is believed the same pipes probably saved the lives of some of the other passengers. The centre picture shows the front of the truck and as can be seen little damage was caused to it: the right front fender is slightly damaged; the left one has a small dent; the roof is slightly flattened; the windshield was ejected when the car rolled on its roof. The right picture was taken looking up to the undercarriage of the 1960 International truck and shows the broken shock absorber. There is speculation that this shock absorber broke before the accident and that was the cause, but this has not been officially confirmed.

Everyone enjoyed a very delicious dinner served by the ladies of St. Andrew's United Church. The guest speaker, Dr. D. J. Wilson, gave a most enjoyable talk entitled "Random Thoughts". A highlight of the evening was the presentation of an Easy Chair to Mr. W. H. Brady, who is retiring after serving 33 years as Inspector of Schools. He is being succeeded by Mr. Lessard.

Chateauguy Annual Regatta To Be Held June 18th

by W. B. MacDonald

Chateauguy Aquatic Club located on Salaberry Road on the eastern shore of the Chateauguy will hold its 53rd annual regatta on Saturday, June 18th. Clubs competing will be Cartierville, Grand Trunk, Lachine, Otterburn and Radisson from Three Rivers. This season as those previous, Mayor Dave M. Currie and Council from Chateauguy will direct the club's affairs. Mr. Maurice Laberge, local Member of Parliament, will assume not only the Honorary Commodore's position, but also he will sell soft drinks at the Annual Regatta as he has done for many years. Mr. E. R. Richardson and Mr. W. D. Cainin, acting as Advisors of the club, will oversee the season's activities.

The first university fraternity established in Canada was a chapter of Zeta Psi, at Toronto, about 80 years ago. Above are some of the dignitaries of the Presbyterian Church, who took part in the service of Recognition for the Rev. John Allan, B.A., B.D., at Maple School, on Thursday evening, May 26th. Reading from left to right they are: Rev. F. Miller, Rev. J.B. Inglis, Rev. J. Allan, Rev. P.A. Allan, Rev. P.A. Ferguson, Dr. C. Ritchie Bell, Rev. G.C. Dalzell and Rev. C. Hood.

Accident Victim

BENNY ROCK Benny Rock, 17-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Leopold Rock, who lost his life early Saturday morning near Beauharnois.

Benny, one of the six in the back of the truck, had held on to the plumber-type racks when the vehicle overturned. One of the racks, made from piping, caused his death when he was impaled by his stomach. His death is said to have been instantaneous.

Badly injured are Richard Laurendeau, age 18, one of four sons of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Laurendeau of 127 Riverside Drive, Chateauguy, and Earl Dorais, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Dorais of 70 Primeau St., Chateauguy. The Rocks have four other sons: Frank, 26; George Edward, 25; Henry, 23 and Victor, 16, who is a Chateauguy Gleaner route boy. Brian Bailey is 19 years old and normally he too is full of fun and like his other brothers enjoys having his friends around. In fact, one seldom passes the Bailey house without seeing at least a couple of teenagers at the hospitable Bailey home. Since the accident, Brian has spent all his time at the hospital with his buddies or at the Reid Funeral Home with the Rock family.

Brian has had little to say about the accident. He was questioned by the police following the tragedy and released. He told this writer he was driving along with the windows open; two others were with him in the cab and he had one arm on the window sill. The truck suddenly lurched to the left. Brian said the truck was travelling slowly and this statement seems well justified when one has seen the very small amount of damage done to it. One shock absorber on the left front wheel is broken off and Mr. Bailey is of the opinion that this broke, causing the truck to buckle and overturn. One thing is certain: whatever happened, it was accidental.

Currie was also present and picked the winner for one of the beautiful prizes given away that night.

Editorial Notes

Too Many Accidents At Chateaugay

We are not going to say that Chateaugay should be more immune from traffic accidents than any other centre, but we do say there are far too many accidents. In the past few weeks readers of the Chateaugay Gleaner must have noticed the large number of reports of accidents which have been occurring near this progressive and thriving area. It is perhaps a disadvantage that a well travelled highway traverses a large part of this area because we are situated on the route to a large metropolitan centre, but this does not mean that due precautions cannot be taken.

In neighboring Nitro, they had a similar problem, but something was done about it and at least there is an improvement. The law requires a reduction of speed of vehicles whenever they travel through a built up area and there is no reason why a start should not be made to have a speed limit enforced through the Chateaugay areas. This may mean the establishment of a permanent traffic constable in Chateaugay and of the erection of a system of warning signals, but if this is the means of at least cutting down the number of accidents in this area, it will be worth it.

It would seem that at some point before actually coming into the area of the Chateaugays in either direction on Route 4 and on Route 3 there should be a system of warning lights and a reduced speed requirement.

No doubt when the new route which will link up Route 3 and which goes over the new bridge now being built behind Chateaugay, is completed and ready for use, there will be an improvement on Route 4. Traffic going in the direction of Valleyfield will turn off on this new route and relieve some of the traffic that is now proceeding through Chateaugay to Chateaugay Corners where it turns onto Route 3. However, there are hazards for those who have to enter Route 4 from side routes out of Chateaugay Centre. It is this area of Route 4 that presently the most accidents are occurring. Some method of control is necessary in this stretch of Route 4 and warning signals may be the answer.

An appeal by the citizens' organization to Mr. Maurice Laberge, M.P.P. will we feel sure, enlist his earnest support in having this matter checked upon and if possible have something done to remedy the situation. As the reports of the accidents show, it is positively dangerous for anyone to walk on the highways. Yet in a large number of instances, this is the only thing they can do. A constable on duty would do much to control the speed and actions of motorists who persist in driving too fast through this built up area and in having them exercise due caution in all parts of the area. It would not be long before it was known that care must be taken while driving cars and trucks through this section.

In the interests of safety for all something should be done, and done quickly. Action must be taken however and that action must first be taken by the residents of the area. Why not give the matter the consideration that is due.

Merino Started in Spain
The Merino sheep, considered the world's finest type for wool clothing, originated in Spain. The Book of Knowledge states that the eighth century the conquering Moors in Spain made the wool into cloth and the country became wealthy from the export of merino fleeces to other parts of Europe.

COSTS OF LIME

There has not been much news around this area this week. We are all happy to see Claudine Leblanc back home from the hospital after her recent accident. Hope you're feeling better Claudine and we're very glad it wasn't too serious.

We're also glad to see Jack Abbott back home from his recent business trip to Chicago. Just arrived in time to enjoy the warm (pleasant??) weather.

While on the subject of weather many of us took advantage this week-end to trim and clear away weeds that were such a hindrance to our bushes, shrubs, flowers, etc. Nice going Eric, your hedge looks lovely!

Kinsmen News
Elections for the forthcoming year were held recently. The following were elected: Mr. Dick Noonan, president; Russell Grif-fith, 1st vice-president; Stan Cahill, 2nd vice-president; Bas Swan, secretary; Tom Guthrie, treasurer.

That is about all for now. Should anyone be interested in replacing your correspondent for a few weeks, kindly call OX. 2-6777. Any birthday, anniversaries, births, deaths, engagements, etc., this month? Please call before Friday this week.

What a perfect week-end for a sunburn. Guess there are quite a few who now wish old man sol hadn't beamed quite so brightly on them when they were busy in their gardens.

Once again our dance proved a huge success, thanks to the unstinting efforts of Bob Sylvestre and his committee. Many were lucky enough to go home with and his committee. Many were lovely door prizes donated by various companies, included in which was a ten dollar bill donated by Mr. H. Mercier and a cut glass bowl given by Mrs. Maurice Laberge. The air-conditioning in the Chateau Gai Motel all added to the enjoyment of the evening.

A cold buffet lunch was served at midnight, after which there was more dancing till 2 a.m. A brief impromptu sing-song ended the festivities and everyone left feeling they had spent an enjoyable evening.

Anyone believe in mental telepathy? After writing about the Kinsmen Club and their sale of mailboxes in last week's column, it was quite a surprise to have them canvass West End last week. They have a nice assortment of mailboxes to offer anyone and all proceeded are going to a very worthwhile cause.

Just to keep the records straight there is definitely a mixed bowling league to be formed this fall. It will be on a Tuesday night, between 9.30 and 11.30 p.m. Anyone interested may call the new committee.

Maple School came out on top in their Field Day which was held last Saturday. Children from Grades IV up participated and competition was keen among the pupils from Maple, Beauharnois, Julius Richardson and Franklin Centre.

Seems the upper part of St. Louis Street, Laporte Street and Manor Drive are having real trouble with their water supply these days. For hours at a stretch they don't even get a trickle out of their taps. On looking into the matter they were informed that within a month's time the pipes will be laid and they can be assured of a sufficient water supply. However it must be rather grim at times, especially if there are a few children in the family. Pretty hard to explain to wee one why they can't have their outdoor pools filled or have a nice refreshing bath before bedtime.

At the Home Owners meeting the other evening, Mrs. W. Roy was voted chairman of the Ladies' Division. Mrs. Roy will probably be contacting several ladies to form a committee. So please do your best to co-operate. It's only by everyone doing their "bit" that we can have a strong and united organization.

Mr. Pat Wilkins, our new chairman for the Social Committee seems to have a few new ideas up his sleeve for the forthcoming year. So watch this column for any further announcements so we can all join in the fun.

In passing, thought I might let everyone know that Hr. Maurice Laberge kindly donated $100.00 to the West End Home Owners' Association.

What happened to the 5c ice cream cone? Like the five cent cigar it seems to have faded into the past. That is, as far as our ice cream man is concerned. The children were looking forward to his arrival only to be disappointed to find it took two nickels from their allowance to buy a cone this year. Maybe a nickel doesn't

Historical Notes Gleaned From "Sellar's" History

The Late ROBERT SELLAR
Founder of The Gleaner in 1863

With the return of the men of his advance companies, who brought exaggerated reports of the strength of the foe and the difficulties of the country to justify their ignominious rout, Colonel Purdy gave up all intention of further aggressive movement. It was true that his force was practically intact, but they were exhausted and dispirited and filled with nervous apprehensions of the Indians, whom they believed to be watching behind every tree. The design had been that he should surprise the guard and carry the ford with a rush at daybreak, and here it was wearing on to the afternoon, and he still two miles distant from the ford, the British fully apprised of his presence and intent, and filling the woods in front of him. He resolved to await where he was until he received further orders, and proceeded to post his men on the angle of land that lies between Round Point and lot 46, he covering the two river-faces with lines of men, while his eastern and southern approaches were protected by impassable swamps.

Leaving him in this strong position, we turn to see what Gen. Hampton with the main army has been doing. Preparatory to his proposed advance, when Purdy left, he threw forward a strong scouting party to clear the route along which he would move. A body of Indians, who had hung round Hampton's camp all day, proceeded at night fall to a hollow by the river on lot 19, and then, unconscious of the contemplated movement, lay down to sleep. As the Americans advanced, they came upon the hollow; and saw the redmen stretched in slumber around a small fire. They to reinforce the Voltigeurs and militia. When he arrived the American skirmishers had ceased firing and fallen back upon their supports.

Satisfied that an attack in force was to be made, deSalaberry prepared for it. The abatis or timber-slash, began at the point of Bryson's creek where the clearance ended, and then bent westward and southward, following the windings of the creek, and describing a quarter circle, until the other end rested on the small blockhouse on the river-bank. At the upper end of the abatis deSalaberry posted 22 Indians, while the Voltigeurs and the companies of the regiment Canadien occupied the rest of the line, and waited in silence for the approach of the foe. In order to see him, deSalaberry went a short distance in front of the abatis, to where a large hemlock lay that had been overturned by the wind (about a rod west of the existing church), and mounting it, concealed by a couple of trees in front, he rapidly took in the situation. He could see the Americans slowly moving along the road until they came to a clearing on lot 42, where they halted, and where a temporary camp had been formed, and preparations made to give the men something to eat. After a short interval, the roll of drums was heard and a brigade fell in for the attack, the main-body awaiting the result. This brigade was commanded by Gen. Izard, and consisted of 1500 men, covered on the left flank by a troop of cavalry, who, however, from the soft nature of the ground, could not help him. The American column advanced along the road with the precision of well-drilled soldiers, and on coming within range of the abatis, the French Canadians engaged upon this work and guarded by 20 men, whom deSalaberry speaks contemptuously of as "habitant chasseurs." The guards discharging their muskets at random, promptly ran with the axemen, and did not draw breath until they passed the line of defense on lot 34. At sight of the fleeing men, the Americans cheered, and pushed on faster, but were speedily brought to a halt, for which they came up to the abatis at Allan's Corners, which was flanked on the river's bank by a small blockhouse, the guard, composed of Voltigeurs under command of Lieut. Johnson turned out and opened fire, which the Americans returned, and skirmishing was kept up for over half an hour.

DeSalaberry, unconscious of the approach of the Americans in front, had gone a short distance down the river, but, on hearing the shots hurried to his post, accompanied by Capt. Ferguson with a company of the Glangarry Fencibles, and 3 com-

"Had the Americans proved successful, deSalaberry would have had to justify his absence before a court-martial. An official report, dated May 13, 1814, states Lt.-Col. deSalaberry "was culpable in a high degree in neglecting to report to his commanding officer (Maj.-Gen. DeWatteville) the approach of the enemy, which must have originated either in being surprised or from a wilful neglect, in either case highly censurable." In order to halt was given, when a fall officer rode forward a few yards and cried out in French, "Brave Canadiens, surrender yourselves: we wish you no harm." Before he could say more, deSalaberry fired point-blank, when he dropped from his horse. DeSalaberry shouted to the bullet, standing behind him, to sound the call to begin firing, and instantly puffs of smoke from discharged muskets issued from the circle of fallen trees, while the veils of the Indians, who filled the woods to the north, mingled with their reports. As if undecided which part of the line to assail, the Americans held their fire, and silently the column wheeled on to the clearance into line, when the order of fire was given, and several volleys belched forth. At this the skirmishers were thrown by deSalaberry along the road, jumped up and ran for cover, causing the Americans to burst into cheering, under the idea that the British were giving way. Their shouts were returned with interest, and as the Americans pressed forward to improve their supposed advantage, were checked by the increasingly rapid fire of a foe they could not see. Halting within musket-range, the Americans poured in volley after volley. The rattle of musketry was now incessant. The fire of the companies behind the fallen trees was that of half-disciplined men, spluttering and irregular, while that of the Americans was delivered in the form of regular volleys, their firing by battalion. The parties kept blazing at one another for fully an hour, and with slight result. The British force were bad shots under the best of circumstances, and at long range, as now, were mere wasters of ammunition, for only 1 American fell under their fire and 4 were wounded. On the other hand the American volleys were almost as ineffective. At first they supposed their antagonists were posted in the woods to the north of them, and blazed in that direction until they discovered their error. Their bullets were harmless to those behind the abatis, the greater proportion lodging in the tree-tops that rose behind it.

With the sound of this noisy but harmless contest in his ears, Colonel Purdy resolved to cooperate with the column, whose movements he could partially trace from where he was entrenched. Encouraged by his success in the morning, Capt. Daly had proceeded to feel his way cautiously forward, until he ascertained where the American mainbody was posted, when he halted on lot 42 to watch the movements. Colonel Purdy was aware of Daly's proximity, and he resolved to capture him, and after that, it might be, to advance even yet on the ford. Daly's south-flank being unapproachable from the swampy nature of the ground, Purdy detached a body of his troops to move down the river-bank and hem him in from the north. The Americans advanced so quickly that Daly had not time to extricate himself from his dangerous position, and ordered his men to defend it. The exchange of shots was lively for a minute or so, resulting in the wounding of both Daly and Bruyere. To find solid ground, in their effort to get round to where the beset British stood, the Americans, who were cheering lustily in anticipation of routing

Mr. Harry Holly and Mr. John Ross of the Heights with Mrs. Rose McLennan, aged 85, of Victoria, B.C., at the 60th Anniversary of Canadian Boer War Veterans held in Toronto, Ontario, last week. Mrs. McLennan was the only nurse present who served in Africa.

Veterans Of Boer War Enjoy Toronto Reunion

Toronto newspapers headlined as follows: "Nate Takes a Brew". Mayor Nathan Phillips had his first drink of beer in more than 25 years when he drank a slip of beer at the 60th Reunion. His first drink in 25 years was a toast to the next celebration — the 75th. Some of the veterans were in wheelchairs, some walked with canes or a kindly arm. Some were as sprightly as men of 50 and all were "Soldiers of the Queen, My Lad". The oldest veteran present was 93 year old Tom Burand. Mrs. Rose McLennan, 85, a nurse who knew Florence Nightingale, was a guest at the Head Table. Mr. John Ross and Mr. Harry Holly had the honour of escorting Nurse McLennan to St. Paul's Church for Sunday Services. The Rector of St. Paul's Church issued a letter to his parishioners which was as follows: "My Dear Friends: We are honoured by the presence of some great veterans. His Honour the Lieutenant Governor, Bishop G. A. Wells, Major McCormick and the Veterans of the Boer War. Not too many of us will remember those far-off days, but to those who lived in them, names like Mafeking, Ladysmith, Stellensbosch, Majuba as places, and White, Buller, Baden-Powell, Lord Roberts bring back memories. I saw the return of the C.L.V.'s the City of London Volunteers to London and perhaps some of you will remember Canada's troops going off to their first taste of foreign war. Today's events in South Africa provide a commentary on that war and its outcome." Following a silent remembrance of Old Comrades the Last Post and Reveille was sounded.

Veterans from all over Canada and the United States and a few from England attended the Reunion. Mr. Harry Holly and Mr. John Ross of the Heights are seen in the photograph. (by Mrs. Mildred McCutcheon)

A Further Crop Of Traffic Accidents Reported This Week

On May 24th at 1:45 p.m. a 1960 Fargo truck owned by the Singer Manufacturing Co. Ltd., of St. Johns, Que., driven by Raoul Sirote, 40 years old of 172 Talon St., St. Johns, was damaged to the extent of $300, when it was involved in an accident on Route 4 near Caughnawaga with another truck. The second truck, a 1957 G.M.C., was owned and driven by Leo Primeau of 86 St. Joseph St., Ste. Martine, and some $600, damage was done to the truck. Officer Valliere of the Provincial Police made the investigation.

At 7:10 a.m. on Wednesday of the past week an accident involving a private automobile and a bus resulted in three people being injured. Roland Joseph Beauséjour, age 49, whose address is 2 Archambault St., St. Timothee, attempted to pass a bus owned by Monette & Fils of Delson on Route 4 near Caughnawaga, and in doing so the bus and car came into collision. The driver and two passengers, André Wileneuve, age 23, of 74 Pie XII Blvd. and Luc Beauséjour, age 18, were all taken to Verdun General Hospital by Woodlands ambulance. The car, a 1958 Cadillac sedan, was completely demolished, a loss of approximately $4,000. The bus was driven by Henri Tanne, age 25, of Caughnawaga.

them, had to come out close to the edge of the river. The moment they left cover, the British on the opposite bank (lot 38), which is higher, opened fire, which so disconcerted the Americans that they gave up their project, at the very moment Daly's men were hurrying away, bearing him and his wounded brother-officer. This failure, coupled with the fact that the firing in front showed that Macdonnell held the woods with a strong skirmish line on lot 43, caused Colonel Purdy to conclude that it would not be prudent to push farther, and he gave the order to retire, when the men whom he had detached moved back to the position they had left near the river on lot 47, and there he awaited instructions from General Hampton.

Officers Valliere and Cyr of the Provincial Police investigated.

About 6:30 p.m. on Thursday a Provincial Transport bus driven by Eugene Boucher, age 30, of 1122 Gentilly Road, Ville Jacques-Cartier, was deliberately driven into a pole alongside St. Louis Road in order to avoid hitting a car allegedly being driven on the wrong side of the road. About $200, damage was done to the bus. The car involved, a 1958 Studebaker sedan, owned and driven by Bernard Young, age 47, of 106 Lake St. Louis Road, was not damaged. Officers Bonhomme and Rousseau of the Provincial Police investigated.

At 1:55 a.m. on Saturday, a 1956 Ford truck, owned and driven by William Walsh, age 24, of 709 Melrose, Verdun, rolled over at the Caughnawaga traffic circle. Walsh was taken to the Royal Victoria Hospital, Montreal, by Brisson ambulance of Lachine. He suffered a possible skull fracture. The car was a total loss and was taken to Vincent Garage at Ville St. Pierre. Officers De Rail and Cyr of the Provincial Police investigated.

On Monday at 6:50 p.m. a 1957 Chrysler sedan and a 1953 Vauxhall sedan were involved in an accident near the Chateaugay Motel, Route 4, when the second vehicle went out of control. About $350, damage was done to the Chrysler, owned by Armand Beausoleil, age 46, of 69 Maréchal St., Chateaugay. The Vauxhall, owned and driven by Sidney Collins, age 29, of 965 St. Laurent St., Laprairie, was damaged to the extent of $450. Officer Carreau of the Provincial Police investigated.

An accident occurred on Montee St. Jean-Baptiste in Chateaugay shortly after midnight, the same evening involving a 1959 Plymouth sedan owned by Roland Tardif, of 44 Montee St. Jean-Baptiste, driven by Rene Cyr, age 32, of 28 Cesaire St., Chateaugay, and a 1958 Mercury owned by Miss Rachelle Codere, 3553 Wellington St., Verdun, driven by Germaine Viau, age 39, of 21 Principal St., Chateaugay. The cars sideswiped while passing. Damage amounted to $500. On each vehicle. Officers De Rail and Cyr investigated.

Lake St. Louis Anglers' News

Report on Lake St. Louis Fishing
As of Saturday, May 14th, all species except bass can be legally taken. The cat-fish started fifty or more of these tasty fish (Dew worms) around the 23rd of April. I was told of catches of up to 100 of these fish and two weeks ago, Albert Cherrier and his son caught around 80 good sized ones, at the mouth of the Valois creek.

The May 1st run in Aunais Bay at Isle Perrot was as usual the time and the place for some good early-spring fishing. It was here that Reg. Grigg of Pine Beach and his friends recently caught fifty or more of these tasty fish. Past experience has shown, when perch fishing in early spring, that by casting out a lightly-weighted line baited with a bit of night crawlers and retrieved in 2 or 3 fast movements, with a slight pause between for more fish will be caught than by a bait that sits motionless on the bottom. Good perch fishing is to be had for the next month or so, but one has to look around a bit of fishing from a boat, try about 100 yards upstream from Isle St. Bernard locally called Nuns Island.)

The dore season opened on May 14th and Louis Paquin, our club's 2nd Vice President, was one of the first to bring in good string of these fish. The water level in St. Louis is very high and it seems as if the dore are not to be found in their usual offshore spots. However, about a fortnight ago, Bill McHugh, Albert Cherrier and Howard Miles went out to fish a hole that Bill had discovered the day before and came back with eighteen good-sized ones. In the evening, the dore are feeding right up to shoreline, so by casting or trolling a red and white sinker plug at about 3 to 10 feet from shore, it is just a matter of time before one hooks into a dore. Troll where the current is fast and go with the current. The shore-line dore fishing should last for another 2 to 3 weeks. So far there has been no report of musky having been caught in Lake St. Louis by our members. Anyone who catches a musky in Lake St. Louis or elsewhere is requested to notify the Lachine Musky Hatchery (Tel. ME 7-0842) so that by examining the fish the biologists can determine the results of the musky plantings, information on feeding habits, etc.

Timely Topics
To keep your worms lively, put them in a container that has rich earth and burlap on the bottom. The worms will extract food from the earth. Periodically feed with bread crumbs or corn meal also helps. But don't allow the earth to become too damp.

Best line-weight for spinning depends on the fish you want and the type of line you use. For trout 3 to 4 lb. test should be used with 7 to 8 lb. test for bass. Bore minnows are irresistible to bass and sucker minnows for pike.

Before going on that fishing trip don't forget to include a few first-aid supplies and a good insect repellent. A flashlight can be very useful if you expect to return after dark.

Migratory Bird Committee
A meeting to be held June 2 in Salon D 7, Sheraton Mount Royal Hotel at 8 P.M. to discuss any changes in regulations, bag limits, etc. regarding water fowl. Any member who has any suggestion regarding this matter should notify the club in writing and the delegation from Lake St. Louis Anglers will take it up at this meeting.

Joys and Sorrows Of Spring on the Farm

The return of spring gladdens the heart of the farmer and it is little wonder, for at one stroke he finds himself relieved of the drudgery of cleaning out the barn and most of the work of feeding and grooming his animals. After several long months during which he has had to spend considerable sums of money for hay, feed and other products without seeing much profit, he can at last look forward to a period of grazing when his expenses will be reduced to a minimum and his returns appreciably increased.

However, if he does not want to be bitterly disillusioned about this happy prospect, he should beware of and guard against the most serious, at least, of the dangers to which his herd may be exposed at this time of the year. Dr. J. Lafortune of the School of Veterinary Medicine at Saint-Hyacinthe briefly recalls some of these hazards.

When cows have been subjected to a long spell of inactivity coupled with a dry diet, the dairyman must take great care not to expose them to the various forms of indigestion to which cattle are susceptible. With this end in view he will be wise to introduce them gradually to the grazing regime and even, if the grass is plentiful, give them a feed in the morning before turning them out on pasture, for the first few days, in order to prevent them from bloating themselves. Later, if the herd is being transferred from an almost bare pasture to a field which has been sown to clover or other succulent plants, the same caution should be observed. If the animals have been used to drinking water which has stood for a while in a tank or cistern so that the chill has been taken off it, they must not be allowed to drink from a stream or river where the water is still too cold.

Congestion of the udder, which is most commonly met with in a herd if care is taken to feed a heifer or cow on a rich diet, is less rich diet as soon as the first symptoms appear and if, in addition to frequent bathing of the udder, diuretic is administered to the animal. As long as mastitis has not appeared, it is most inadvisable to infuse penicillin into the udder.

The coming of the first rains which soak and soften the oily land, often provokes outbreaks of foot-rot or hoof-abscess. As far as possible, animals should not be allowed to remain in such places. If it is not possible to keep them away from them and there has already been trouble from this complaint, the places should be ploughed and treated with lime to destroy the germs of the disease. A box of lime placed at the door of the barn so that the animals have to walk through it, will disinfect their feet and prevent many cases of foot-rot. Simple but timely precautions such as these will often prevent troubles which may prove in the long run to be serious.
