US To Keep Control Of Atom Bomb Here

The Queen Heads For The North

By DAVE MCINTOSH
VICTORIA (CP)—The Queen leaves today for the land where it's noon at midnight.
It will be the first journey by a monarch into the Canadian Arctic where Sam McGee was over-taken and Dan McGrew was shot because of a doll by the name of Lu.
The Queen is scheduled to leave here at 10 a.m. for Whitehorse, Yukon Territory with a brief stop en route at Terrace, B.C.
The Queen will stay at the RCAF station at Whitehorse, the capital of the Yukon, founded in 1898 at the height of the Klondike gold rush.
She will drive around Whitehorse in the afternoon and in the evening may appear at the annual Klondike Night if officials consider the celebration isn't too boisterous by that time.

FLY TO DAWSON
The Queen and Prince Philip will worship at Anglican Cathedral Sunday morning and after the service will fly 250 miles north to Dawson City, once the capital of the Yukon but now with a population of only 1,000, compared to its one-time 30,000.
At the old men's home, several elderly gold-diggers who came up the trail of '98 and never went "outside" again, will be presented to the Queen.
The Queen likely will visit the Nugget Dance Hall, last of the pleasure palaces where champagne once sold at $30 a pint, and a cabin of the late Robert W. Service, the bank clerk whose fictional Sam McGee and Dan McGrew still live in verse all over the world.
On Monday, the Queen will fly on to Yellowknife, in the Northwest Territories, a community of 3,500 founded 32 years ago on gold and later uranium. She will see a group of Eskimos who have journeyed south from the Arctic coast and 27 Indian chiefs. She also will see the pouring of a gold brick at the Con Mine.
The Queen will fly on to the Uranium City, Sask., and reach Edmonton Monday night.

Paper Truck Rolls Over, Child Hurt

BRIGHTON, Vt.—A five-year-old Island Pond youngster suffered bruises and minor injuries yesterday afternoon when he was involved in a freak accident in Island Pond, Vt.
The child, Dean Welsh, aged 5, was struck by a load of paper rolls when a Montreal truck went out of control and rolled over spilling its cargo.
According to Vermont State Trooper Cpl. William Green, the operator of the truck, Jean Paul Thibault, 29, of La Prairie, driver of a tractor-trailer belonging to Dominion Containers, of 6240 Park st., Montreal, lost control of the vehicle at about 12:15 p.m. yesterday. Police reports said that the driver was coming into a left-hand curve when the accident happened.
Troopers E. Hislop and P. Cummings, investigating the accident, said that there may have possibly been another person riding in the cab with Thibault.
The youngster was treated at the local railway station, but his condition was not considered serious. Damage, according to the police, was heavy to both the tractor and trailer.
Investigating the accident were Cpl. William Green, and Troopers Hislop and Cummings.

France Hits Tax Dodgers

PARIS (Reuters)—Big tax cuts for small wage-earners and storekeepers and a drive against tax-dodgers were announced Friday as part of a fiscal reform program to be submitted to Parliament next week.
Valéry Giscard d'Estaing, state secretary for finance, said France's complicated taxation system will be merged into three main groups — a single income tax, a single company tax and a simplified sales tax applied at the manufacturing and wholesale stage.

WASHINGTON (CP) — The United States has made clear it is ready to stockpile atomic weapons in Canada if Canada so desires, but full control and custody in Canada must rest with the U.S.

This was spelled out by Gen. Herbert Loper, an assistant to defence secretary Neil McElroy, in testimony before the joint congressional committee on atomic energy.

The committee last week gave its approval to new U.S. nuclear pacts with Canada and six other North Atlantic powers and then made public a censored report on hearings that took place in June and earlier this month.

Unless vetoed by a joint resolution of the House of Representatives and Senate, the agreement

Labor Tangles With PM

OTTAWA (CP) — Stanley Knowles, who in 1957 turned down an offer from Prime Minister Diefenbaker to become the $25,000-a-year speaker of the Commons, now cannot get a non-paying job on a government committee.

The cabinet's refusal to accept the Canadian Labor Congress' nomination of Mr. Knowles to the unemployment insurance advisory committee has stirred up the second big fight in recent months between the government and the 1,100,000-member Labor Congress.

The congress is charging the government with "breach of faith." The government is denying it.

On the sidelines, executive vice-president Knowles of the Canadian Labor Congress may be chuckling over a letter he got in August, 1957 from the man who had become prime minister a

Arrests Made In Shefford Holdups

Provincial Police of Granby announced yesterday that they had made one arrest in connection with the recent series of holdups in Shefford County.

Sergeant Leopold Dauphin of the Granby detachment stated yesterday that he was confident that the man arrested was one of four armed gunmen who staged bank robberies at Valcourt last fall, West Shefford, Valcourt and Roxton Pond this summer.

He said further that it was his belief that the gang operated out of Montreal.

The four holdups involved four men each time except the Roxton Pond robbery which was staged by a lone bandit.

with Canada will go into effect next Friday. Other agreements with Britain and France already are in effect. All the pacts are expected to be operational this month.

For most countries, the agreements will allow the U.S. to give them hitherto secret information and equipment which would help fire atomic weapons, but not the weapons themselves. These would remain under American control and custody.

Because she already knows how to make atomic bombs, Britain will be able to get a fairly full range of American nuclear materials from the U.S. France will only be able to get enriched uranium as atomic fuel for a prototype military reactor.

NO WEAPONS SECRETS

Canada is not considered capable of making atomic bombs and the agreements will not give her information on weapon-making, "inasmuch as Canada is not considered to have the capability of meeting the qualifications of the law to permit such transfer," Gen. Loper told the committee.
He said Canada did not request such information, being "quite aware of the fact they do not qualify."

"However, the agreement . . . does provide the intent that we may agree at some future time for such transfer but such agreement will, of course, take the form of an amendment to this proposed agreement."

Two Hurt As Cycle Hits Truck

Two youths were injured last night on Bourque Boulevard when the motorcycle on which they were riding crashed into a parked transport one mile before the Rock Forest Road turnoff.

The motorcycle, which was wrecked, was driven by Raymond Hebert, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rene Hebert of St. Catherine Road. Passenger on the rear of the motorcycle was David Ash, 16, of Queen Boulevard.

Hebert and Ash were taken to the St. Vincent de Paul Hospital. Hebert was admitted in a state of unconsciousness but hospital authorities reported this morning that he has regained consciousness. Ash's condition is not serious.

Maurice Lecours of the Sherbrooke Detachment of the Provincial Police investigated.

Triplet Calves By Insemination

CAMPBELLFORD, Ont. (CP)—A six-year-old Holstein cow gave birth this week to triplet male calves, produced by artificial insemination.
Experts say the chances of a Holstein bearing triplets are about one out of 300,000. The cow is owned by John M. Goodfellow of Brighton Township.

Steel, Geneva And Duplessis Make Headlines

By ROMAN MAGERA

Canadian Press Staff Writer

The steel strike in the United States, resumption of the Big Four foreign ministers talks in Geneva and Russian Premier Khrushchev's visit to Poland made newspaper headlines during the week.

The strike pulled 500,000 members of the United Steelworkers of America from steel mills.

Workers at iron ore mines, Great Lakes ore carriers and other steel operations were immediately affected. Allied industries such as the railways were forced to curtail their operations, putting many other men temporarily out of work.

The strike also was felt in Canada, which imports about 25 per cent of its finished steel needs. However, the country appears capable of standing the loss for at least six weeks.

More than 250 men employed in the iron-ore pits and smelter of the Marmora Mining Company at Marmora, Ont., a subsidiary of the Bethlehem Steel Corporation of America, joined the U.S. strike. Their contracts are arranged from the U.S.

There was no sign of an early strike settlement. At issue is the union's demand for a wage increase estimated at more than 15 cents an hour. The industry wants to freeze wages for a year. The pre-strike wage averaged $3.10 an hour.

FORWARD STEP

The foreign ministers resumed secret negotiations in Geneva for the Communists.

CASTRO STRATEGY

Fidel Castro, apparently upset by recent developments against his revolutionary government, has decided to resign as Cuban premier amid speculation that his absence from the office would be brief—that the people would rally to demand his return as premier.

He and others in his government have been accused of being Communists—charges they deny, and there has been evidence of armed opposition. Sugar and cattle interests have vigorously fought Castro's plan to break up large land holdings to provide the landless with small farms.

NEWSPAPER DEAL

Canadian millionaire publisher Roy Thomson has added the Kemley newspaper group in Britain to his chain.

Kemley directors accepted an offer to sell out to Thomson for $11,250,000 ($31,000,000).

The group, one of Britain's largest, includes four Sunday newspapers, 11 morning and evening papers outside London and eight provin-

Cuban President Kicked Out

HAVANA (AP)—Fidel Castro showed today that he is the undisputed power in Cuba by forcing out his hand-picked president.

The 32-year-old Castro accused President Manuel Urrutia of trying to betray the revolutionary regime by posing as "the champion of anti-Communism."

His voice quivering, Castro said:

"I have often said I am not a Communist and neither is the revolutionary movement Communist, but we do not have to say we are anti-Communists just to fawn on foreign powers."

Urrutia quit while watching Castro denounce him before a television audience after Castro announced his own resignation as prime minister to force a showdown.

CASTRO TO STAY?

Whether Castro would stick by his decision to give up the premiership wasn't clear. Weeping as he left the TV studio, he said he hadn't made up his mind.

The cabinet immediately elected Osvaldo Dorticos, a bookish-looking lawyer in his early 40s, and asked Castro to withdraw his resignation as premier.

Dorticos, in a short acceptance speech, appealed to the Cuban people to continue their "clamor for the return of Castro."

Dorticos is a political unknown in Cuba. He was brought into the government as minister of revolutionary laws in a cabinet shake-up last month. In a speech last February he came out against legalizing the Communist party.

STILL HOLDS POWER

Castro made plain he intends to guide the revolution—whether as prime minister or outside the government.

In announcing his resignation as premier, he emphasized: "Now understand me, I am resigning the job, but I am not resigning the struggle for the revolution."

In a four-hour TV speech, Castro declared he was resigning "to preserve the prestige with which I am serving Cuba; I do not want to be accused of any ambition."

WORST CRISIS

The crisis was the worst that has faced the revolutionary government since the overthrow of dictator Fulgencio Batista on New Year's Day.

Castro called on the people to be calm.

Urrutia, the 56-year-old former judge who once freed Castro from prison during the Batista regime, appealed for protection for himself and his family after resigning.

Additional guards were sent to the presidential palace to control a crowd of 1,400 shouting at Urrutia: "Go home, go away."

Behind The News

Castro's Still Boss Despite 'Resignation'

By HAROLD MORRISON

Canadian Press Staff Writer

Fidel Castro's Cuban leadership is unchallenged.

That's the heart of thinking among United States diplomats. The bearded leader may call himself premier or dogcatcher, but he still will rule Cuba.

And so American authorities feel his dramatic move to resign the premiership is aimed mainly at stirring up a great display of affection for him among the Cuban people.

The end result, they feel, is a greater build up of resentment in Cuba against the U.S., the country that granted a haven to Maj. Pedro Luis Diaz Lanz, former Cuban air force chief who called Castro a communist.

NO HELP

President Eisenhower didn't help to ease tense American-Cuban relations this week when he dealt negatively with a press conference question of whether Castro was indeed a Red by saying such charges "are not always easy to prove." He hastily added that the U.S. itself had made no such charges against Castro.

This appeared to be an odd way of making friends and influencing people. The U.S. in fact may be missing the boat in the Caribbean area where a stage of unrest is growing and where the Communists may be chuckling with glee.

There is a great deal of state department opinion that Castro is not a Communist, though there are doubts about his brother Raul. There also is a view that Castro is in some ways immature, idealistic and emotional and that the Communists are riding on his coattails.

HATES DICTATORS

Castro at one time accused the U.S. of aiding his predecessor, dictator Fulgencio Batista. He has in fact expressed hatred of all dictators.

Cubans have been involved in some peculiar and ill-fated invasions in Panama, Dominican Republic and Nicaragua. The U.S. has given its support to the calling of a conference of all Latin America foreign ministers in efforts to ease the unrest.

But among American state authorities there are some deep questions as to whether such a conference will resolve anything. In some quarters there is a state of apathy, a wishy-washy feeling that perhaps the whole thing will resolve itself given time.

Supply Agency 'In Case'

OTTAWA (CP) — Plans for a powerful, wide-ranging war supplies agency, capable of preserving "some degree of governmental and economic organization and continuity throughout the initial period of a nuclear war," were announced Friday night by Prime Minister Diefenbaker.

"This agency would have full responsibility and authority for all aspects of control over the production, distribution and pricing of both civil and military supplies other than production on farms and the catching and landing of fish, during the early part of a nuclear war at least," he told a sober Commons.

Facilities now were ready for a central core of the federal government to carry on outside Ottawa under nuclear war conditions, even with serious radioactive fallout in the Ottawa area.

NO INCREASE IN FEAR

But, he declared—in a statement that Opposition Leader Pearson supported strongly:

"I want to emphasize that the taking of this course of action is in no way to be construed as evidence of any increase in international tension or added fears in recent months but simply as a course of action in which care and caution must be exercised by those with responsibilities."

Mr. Diefenbaker made his announcement during brief study of the spending estimates for the privy council.

He also referred to action to decentralize civil defence—steps becoming effective Sept. 1—with federal civil defence responsibilities, now concentrated in the national health department, being spread over the national defence and health departments, the RCMP and other agencies.

In the last three days, the cabinet had decided on giving the defence production department the task of setting up the war supplies agency, working with the departments of agriculture and trade.

The agency's powers would combine most of the powers of the wartime prices and trade board and the munitions and supply department of the Second World War, Mr. Diefenbaker suggested.

Show Business

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—"I think the trend is to hour shows in TV," says George Burns, and the networks seem to think so, too. Recently Burns was observing the TV scene with me and remarking that he doesn't want to return to the weekly half-hour grind. He prefers doing an occasional show of an hour's duration.
"Most of the programming will eventually be hours," said the comedian. "It makes more sense. With an hour show, you can attract several sponsors instead of being beholden to one who wants to have his say on what goes into the show. And if you lose that one, you're usually dead. Besides, an hour show gives you a chance to get broader scope. It's almost impossible to develop any kind of a plot in a half hour."

A glance at the fall programming shows that regular weekly hour shows will be greatly increased on the networks.
NBC HAS 12
NBC jumps to 12 from seven in the 60-minute programs. Last season it had Steve Allen, Perry Como, Cavalcade of Sports, Wag on Train, Dinah Shore's Show, Cimarron City and Ellery Queen. The latter two were dropped, but the others will be back.

They'll be joined by four new filmed adventures: Riverboat, Laramie, Bonanza and Five Fingers; regular series of spectaculars on Tuesday and Friday nights, plus the new Sunday-at-8 live dramatic specials.
ABC, the pioneer of the filmed hours, adds six new ones in the fall: The Alaskans, Cheyenne (a new weekly series), Bourbon Street Beat, Adventures in Paradise, Hawaiian Eye and The Untouchables. These are added to the renewed 60-minute shows: Maverick, Bronco, Sugarfoot, Wednesday night fights, Walt Disney Presents, 77 Sunset Strip, Lawrence Welk and Jubilee USA. Total: 13.
CBS has many hour-long projects in the works, but most are not ready for the fall season. Lineup, the Dragnet of San Francisco, will be expanded into an hour next season. The Last Frontier, a filmed show about Alaska,

Mrs. L. Lacroix Feted At Shower In Rock Island

ROCK ISLAND — Prior to the marriage of the former Miss Pauline Goodsell to Mr. Leo Paul Lacroix her co-workers, relatives and friends honored her with a shower at the Spencer Supports cafeteria.
The bride was lured to the place under false pretences and on arriving was greatly surprised to find over 75 persons awaiting her.
After she had been escorted to a chair prettily decorated with pink and blue garlands and balloons filled with confetti, which were to burst as she opened the gifts, she was presented with a corsage of white roses. Similar corsages were presented to her mother, Mrs. James Goodsell and her mother-in-law, Mrs. Wilfred Lacroix, both of them assisted her in opening the gifts.

The lovely and useful gifts for her new home were passed around and admired, and the bride voiced her appreciation.
Games were played and winners awarded prizes. Refreshments were served and included a shower cake made and decorated by Mrs. Johnny Lacroix, with a bride and groom atop surrounded by tiny umbrellas.
The hostesses were Mrs. Harley Barlow and Mrs. Stanley Yetter, assisted by others.
The bride and groom were also prior to their wedding feted with a Jack and Jill shower at the Burroughs Fall dance hall, where a large number of relatives, neighbors and friends were on hand. Music for dancing was supplied by Gosselin's orchestra. The couple was presented with a gift of money with best wishes for their future happiness.

Barber Sent To Assizes For Criminal Negligence

Clifford A. Barber of Huntingville was ordered to stand trial at the 1960 Sessions of the St. Francis District Criminal Assizes by Judge Joseph Marier following his preliminary hearing yesterday on a charge of criminal negligence.

The charge followed the death of Mrs. Helen Magon, of Lennoxville, July 4, when the car Barber was driving overturned on the Hillcrest Road.

Among those testifying at the hearing was Lloyd Little, 29-year-old Lennoxville truck driver, who told the court that he arrived at the scene of the accident shortly after it happened only to notice Barber and a woman stretched out in the nearby ditch.

Nineteen-year-old Myrna Laroche, of North Hatley, who was with Little at the time, corroborated Little's testimony.

Walter Woodward, 46-year-old bar tender at the Connaught Inn in North Hatley, told the court that he saw Barber shortly before the accident occurred but that he did not see him order or have any beer.

"He ordered a beer" added Woodward, "But he was not served because the bar was closed."

Cecile Lemoine, 24-year-old waitress at the Hillcrest Lodge, said that she served Barber one beer before the accident.

"I did not even notice if he drank it himself," she said.

"He was sitting with a woman, and all he had was one drink that I know of," said the witness.

Provincial Policeman Gerard

Charest, of Coaticook, who investigated the accident, said that at the point where the accident occurred, three quarters of a mile on the Hillcrest road near the Stanstead highway, the road was 19 feet 8 inches wide.

"The car travelled for a distance of 74 feet in a nearby field before coming to a stop," he said.

"Barber smelled of liquor," added Charest, "But I could not say that he was drunk."

Sgt. Eugene Morin, of the Sherbrooke detachment of the provincial police, who saw Barber a few hours after the accident at the Sherbrooke Hospital, said that Barber seemed sober although he had an alcoholic smell on his breath.

Following this testimony, Judge Marier ordered Barber to stand trial.

Fined

Lionel Belanger of Magog, was ordered to pay a $100 fine and costs yesterday by Judge Joseph Marier in Court of Sessions after he pleaded guilty to a charge of impaired driving in Magog last April 15.

Council To Defer Move On Airport

The city council will wait the answer from the Treasury Board as to whether permission for the construction of a 6,000-foot runway instead of the scheduled 5,000 foot one will be given before deciding on its next move, said Mayor Armand Nadeau at his weekly press conference held yesterday.

"The federal government has changed its policy," said the mayor, "Why don't they come right out and say so instead of beating around the bush?"

"The government is now trying to appease various cities that have asked for the construction of airports by building small ones," added the mayor.

They should come out and say this directly. Then the people would not mind so much.

As far as the Three Rivers airport is concerned, it is strictly a publicity stunt, said Mr. Nadeau.

The government said that they would spend $3,000,000 to $4,000,000 when they will end up by spending less than one million.

All the government is doing is awarding contracts for the construction of small airports and no major ones, he said.

"Half of the project that was to be built in Sherbrooke has been given to Three Rivers" added Mr. Nadeau.

The mayor added that Sherbrooke was not against Three Rivers having an airport because it makes up part of the province of Quebec, but that the federal government should come right out and make their actions known.

In conclusion, Mr. Nadeau said that at no time whatsoever had Sherbrooke made a political issue of the project.

Ferland Hearing Delayed

The preliminary hearing of Lionel Ferland of Sherbrooke was postponed for the second time yesterday in Court of Sessions by Judge Joseph Marier. This time, the date set was August 21.

Ferland is charged with having in his possession and uttering American $10 bogus bills in Sherbrooke during a five months period in 1958.

New Agreement Completed With Paton Employees

A two-year labor agreement, retroactive to May 25, 1959, and effective until July 8, 1961, was signed yesterday between the Paton Manufacturing Co. Ltd., and the National Association of Employees of the Paton Mfg. Co. (N.A.E.P.C.).

The new agreement calls for a five-cent-an-hour wage increase retroactive to May 25 for hourly-rated employees and four cents for employees under the incentive plan. Similar increases would be granted next year.

The new contract provides that the sickness and accident insurance plan be made compulsory upon all employees and that some adjustments be made in seniority clauses.

The company also agrees to arbitration with the union as to whether new employees should have to pay union dues whether they joined the union or not.

Heavy Fine For Vagrancy Charge

A young twenty-odd year-old redhead was ordered to pay a $75 fine and court costs by Judge Joseph Marier yesterday morning in Court of Sessions when she pleaded guilty to a charge of vagrancy.

She received the heavy fine when the judge found out it was her first offence.

US View Of Sherbrooke

The following article is reprinted in its entirety from a recent issue of the Springfield (Mass.) Sunday Republican. The article was under the heading: Sherbrooke Fair Example of Civic Consciousness.

SHERBROOKE, P.Q.—It has often been said that Sherbrooke is the hub of the Eastern Townships, not only because of its geographic location, but because of its spirit which is a combination of industrial throbs and pulse, and an appreciation of the finer things in life.

Nowhere is this better reflected than at the Sherbrooke Fair, which takes place in late summer, at a time when Quebec weather is usually warm and comfortable during the day, and cool and crisp at night.

In the case of Sherbrooke the question of "Which came first?" might well be posed since it is a matter of frequent debate whether the fair was responsible for helping make Sherbrooke what it is today, or whether Sherbrooke was on its own so popular that the city officials decided to stake an annual fair in order to supplement the tourist attractions.

Any way you look at it, the fact remains that Sherbrooke today is one of the best examples of enterprising civic consciousness in incorporating the best qualities of showmanship to produce the perfect combination of civic spirit and enterprise, into top-grade tourist attractions. The fair is one of the big events of the year, and it is here that the pleasure traveler can enjoy and get to know a complete range of Quebec produce, manufactured items and handicrafts, while being able to bypass a trip for the purpose, that would have to take him to every nook and cranny of the province.

Naturally, the things that the Eastern Townships, and Sherbrooke, are most proud of, are the items that are given unusual prominence. But after that there is a splendid array of the best cattle, the best apples, the best maple products, the best woven rugs, the best in asbestos, and even the best in athletic contests.

Actually, the fair is merely the spark that gives you the incentive to go exploring in and around Sherbrooke, and this being the case, a little bit of the city's history and background is worth knowing since you are certain to encounter quite a few historical landmarks that will beg for further explanation.

Bourque Denies Advance Knowledge Of Proposed Transfer Of Gas System

The preliminary examination of Finance Minister J. S. Bourque in connection with his libel action against Le Devoir for certain articles published in the newspaper criticizing the sale of the Hydro-Quebec gas system to the Quebec Natural Gas Corp. Ltd. was heard yesterday in Practice Court.

The next step in the proceedings will be judgment in an inscription in law to be rendered in September.

Yesterday's proceedings dealt with the questioning of Mr. Bourque, formerly Minister of Hydro-Electric Resources.

When asked if he knew about the selling of the Hydro-Quebec gas system to the Quebec Natural Gas Corp. Ltd., he answered that he knew nothing of such transactions, although he was Minister in charge of the Hydro-Electric resources of the province, until $1,200,000 worth of stock had been marketed.

After learning of the dealings, Mr. Bourque did not find it compromising to buy 36 shares for himself.

"I knew of and participated in none of this," he said, "Mr. Duplessis, and not I, knew about it."

Le Devoir claimed in a series of articles that the sale of the publicly owned Natural Gas system had enabled provincial government members and others to profit by buying Quebec Natural Gas Stock.

Lowney Firm To Increase Land Buying

Mayor Armand Nadeau said at his weekly press conference yesterday that the latest step in the Lowney Chocolate Company deal was that the company has decided to buy 100 acres immediately instead of the originally-proposed 35.

Mayor Nadeau said that expropriation plans are still underway and that the city should become owners of the land very soon.

Two weeks ago, the city decided to buy the Graham farm by expropriation for the sum of $125,000.

No Tax Returns Men Given Fines

Joseph Komery and Paul-Emile Gingras, both of Sherbrooke, were ordered to pay $50 each and costs yesterday in Court of Sessions after they pleaded guilty to a charge of having neglected to file their income tax returns.

More Mines In Thetford Cut Output

THETFORD MINES, Que. (CP) Two mining companies operating in this rich asbestos belt have announced week-long shutdowns.

National Asbestos Ltd., said it will cease operations starting this week and will resume operations July 27. The number of employees affected was not disclosed.

King-Beaver Mines announced it is closing down between Aug. 31 and Sept. 4 because of present large stocks. The mines, which employ 600, were also idle between June 29 and July 3.

At nearby Black Lake British-Canadian mine, idle from March 28 last for two months, now is operating at full capacity.

What To Wear? Where To Park? Main Questions From Tourists

By FRASER BAILLIE
A new question has been added to the usual queries posed by tourists coming to Sherbrooke this year.

In addition to the stock questions, What to see? And What to do? tourists are asking this year: What to wear?

Most people who do business with tourists say that this season has been pretty good so far, but the lack of parking space has hit local merchants.

And it seems that despite the number of Americans coming through, the big spenders won't hit town until later in the season.

The place of interest asked about most often and visited by more tourists than any other is Beauvoir, the Roman Catholic shrine some four miles north of the city.

After that come the zoo, horse races, night clubs and the Quebec Liquor Commission.

Most American tourists at this time of year are from New England. However, for some merchants, the busy season comes after Labor Day when the children are packed off to school and their parents come to the Eastern Townships for a real rest.

But whether they come in the summer or in the autumn they are all looking for something different, something they haven't seen before.

One complaint heard frequently from tourists concerns shorts. They are told that short shorts are banned on city streets and wonder how they are supposed to know the acceptable length.

Other complaints include lack of parking and noise after dark.

The local tourist bureau hands out hundreds of maps of all kinds every day. A free service is marking out routes to different places.

"Scenery is what the tourists want most of all," says one city official. "The mileage is of secondary importance when the route is scenic."

Other questions tossed at tourist officials concern accommodation and eating spots. Most tourists want hotels or motels that offer reasonable rates, are clean and quiet, and are within easy distance of the shopping district.

The city itself is the object of considerable curiosity. Tourists want to know what the main industries are as well as facts about its history and population.

For the energetic tourists weekend excursions organized by the transportation companies are available to Montreal, Quebec and Ottawa. For the less ambitious, shorter outings in the district are available.

No Grounds For Disappointment

The delegation that went to Ottawa Thursday seeking a government commitment to build two 6,000-foot runways at Sherbrooke's airport instead of one 5,000-foot strip came home disappointed. But it has no reason to think it has been badly done by.

Sherbrooke will get its airport, even though it will not be as impressive as original plans showed. But Transport Minister George Hees, who has promised to take Sherbrooke's plea for a longer runway to the Treasury Board again, had some pertinent comments to make.

Mr. Hees pointed out that potential air traffic does not warrant two long runways. Two airlines have declined to establish regular schedules here. These are facts. The city argument that the airport should come first, and the traffic may follow, is hardly a business-like approach. With demands on the federal treasury as great as they are, immediate need must be a prior consideration.

When it was pointed out that the previous government agreed to a two-runway airport, Mr. Hees said a more thorough study of traffic potential should have been made.

Many in Sherbrooke will be disappointed that the airport is not going to be as large as originally planned. But the government has promised to extend it when traffic warrants enlargement.

An airport is long overdue in this city. The airport we are getting will do a great deal for civic development and will make the task of those interested in industrial promotion much easier. The time has come to stop the bickering and get to work to ensure that Sherbrooke develops to the stage where we will become a major air centre.

The CBC Report

The report of the Parliamentary committee examining the operations of the Canadian Broadcasting Commission has singled out some of the fundamental weaknesses of the organization, weaknesses which have been exposed to public view in recent weeks.

The committee states that the CBC's administration is "weak and in need of a thorough revision." This is undoubtedly the reason for such amazing incidents as the walkout of top talks department officials in protest at the suspension of a program and the subsequent reinstatement of the program. The strike of CBC French-network producers also revealed weakness at the top.

Another basic structural flaw is financing. The CBC received more than $51 million from the federal treasury in the last fiscal year. Costs rose last year about $12 million to more than $87 million. The committee's recommendation that a formula limiting federal contributions to the CBC be worked out is a variation of previous proposals that the CBC be given a grant fixed by statute.

The Fowler commission on broadcasting pointed out a basic weakness of the CBC over which it had no control. The corporation was set up without any capitalization, and therefore could not operate by normal business standards. Yet the committee has unearthed enough evidence to back its charge that there seems to be no intelligible formula or pattern in determining the CBC budget. This is a problem requiring urgent attention by Parliament.

The CBC needs a strong man at the top and the committee has recommended that the chairman hold no other executive post. At present, Alphonse Ouimet, who has been out of action through illness for months, holds down the chairmanship and presidency of the corporation. To restore public confidence and internal morale, a new man is needed at the top to carry out the necessary administrative shakeup.

The committee, almost as an afterthought, affirms its support of the principle of public broadcasting. This is welcome, for the CBC has an important role to play in a country such as Canada. Nevertheless, the public's faith has been shaken and, with the breaking of the television monopoly in larger cities, an overhauled CBC should get back to the basic job of providing a Canadian service for which the public is willing to pay — up to a point.

MANY CONVENTIONS FIX SLAM SOUP

The game was match point duplicate and North and South were experts playing together for the first time. Needless to say each was out to impress his partner and therefore North suspected a psychic when West was able to overcall his partner's opening bid.

In the heart of Germany, stretching for some 57 miles between the Weser and Elbe rivers, are the Harz Mountains, noted for their old castles and picturesque scenery and for the canary birds and hand-made lacquer which are exported from the region. Several peaks in this most northerly of German ranges rise to more than 2,000 feet, but the average is about 1,000 feet.

When South rebid to three hearts North knew that he had an opening bid and checked for aces by means of the Blackwood four no-trump. Once South showed that he held no aces North could have bid seven hearts right away but decided to check for kings first as an extra precaution.

Unfortunately, South had also played that the five no-trump check for kings guaranteed that the partnership possessed all four aces so South now went from seven hearts to seven no-trump. He wanted that extra 10 points for a top score.

Strangely enough he got a super top score. West doubled the slam and East decided that the bid called for an unusual lead. He chose the pack of diamonds as his unusual lead and the entire club suit went to sleep.

CHASED BY BEAR

"I'm Not That Kind of a Mountain Fighter"

Saturday's Sermon:

A Fishing Story

By Rev. B. S. Murray, M.A.

During these July days of the Sea I am thinking. Thoughts of happy hours spent as a lad on the beach listening to fishermen tell their stories course through my mind. And what dramatic, colorful, exciting, fascinating stories they were!

Of course this was to be expected for it is at night, with the light of the silver moon and stars shining, that these patient, resourceful, optimistic, enthusiastic workers in, and lovers of, the sea plough the deep to reap, and at times not to reap, the silver harvest of the sea.

FISH — THE WORD

Now there are but four letters in that word used to describe that cold-blooded animal that lives in the water — an animal which has a skull and a backbone, usually with fins and scales. Bound up with that word FISH is a story of adventure, sport and food. There is also a religious significance due to those clever Greeks who have a skill in the application of words. Now the letters for the Greek word fish, ICHTHYUS, when arranged vertically, make an acronym initials the words Jesus Christ, God's Son, Saviour. No wonder the fish as a symbol occupies an honoured place in religious art.

A TWO-PART STORY

Interesting, isn't it? Well, the Holy Bible has interesting stories too. Of Fish — stories which differ greatly from our fish-stories which are too oft lengthy and exaggerated, to say the least. The fishing story, really the fishing lesson, which leads all the rest is that recorded in the Gospel of St. John, chapter 21. Here is a story told with amazing clarity and astounding brevity. It is, you will observe, told in two parts with verses 1-3 telling of Fishing and Failure and verses 4-6 Fishing and Finding. I do hope that you will read, re-read, mark, learn and inwardly digest this fishing lesson. If you are young and beginning the adventure of life, you will find it both a guide and inspiration to radiant, successful living. If perchance you are "in the sere and yellow leaf" category, you will thrill to discover, as these early fisher folk did, Jesus standing on the shore. (4)

THE LAP AND LURE OF THE LAKE

And now the story. The place? The Galilean lake. The time? Their Master's death on the cross on Good Friday had disillusioned them so completely that there was nothing left to do but to go back a-fishing. They would fish all night and sell on the streets in the morning of the next day. They would barter their fish for bread and clothing, salt and sails. There would be the taunts and smiles of derision from neighbors — friends and enemies. Such easy marks for a visionary Carpenter! But never mind, they would be back on the sea and — never again.

NIGHT AND NOTHING

Well, they soon were back on the lake again, fishing. But something they sensed was wrong that night on Galilee. Peter hadn't forgotten his old trade of fishing. The Lake was just as well stocked with fish as ever. No fish at the first stopping place. Up with the anchor! Again they tried, with the same result. No fish. That night they took nothing. Thank God! Suppose they had! There is a success that is a failure and there is a failure that is a success. Other boats, I suppose, caught fish that night but I am glad the disciples did not. Fishing without Christ spells failure for them. Other organizations, social, fraternal, pat-rieotic may so succeed, but the Church needs the presence and power of her Lord. He says "Without ME, ye can do nothing".

MORNING — MASTER — MIRACLE

They turn homeward. There's a glint of light in the eastern sky. The shore line draws near. Landmarks are easily discernible. A Voice, strangely familiar, comes over the surf in the misty dawn — "Children, have ye any meat?" That is "Have you caught anything?" "No," answered Peter. Then the Voice bade them to set their nets "on the right side and you'll find".

In they draw the net. It is weighed down. One hundred and fifty-three fish. They could hardly believe it. Success on the instant. Peter, thrilled, stopping only to gird his fisher's coat about him, leaped into the sea. Gone his care for fish. Lost his interest in boat and sail. Let others, if they wished, land the catch.

To the others was left the task of dragging the net full of fish to land. With this completed, they heard the gracious invitation of Jesus to "come and break your fast". So around the fire on the beach, they gathered to eat of His fish and bread. And in the breaking of bread, like to the disciples of Emmaus, Jesus became known to them.

What a breakfast, that last breakfast with the Master on the beach must have been! How I would have liked being there. To chat with the disciples of love, John, would thrill me. Peter, too. That was his shining hour, wasn't it? For from henceforth he was to be a shepherd, specializing in the feeding of sheep and lambs. And all because he went a-fishing and found His Lord.

"JESUS ONLY"

There are many lessons one would draw from the foregoing fishing story. The one, however, I desire to spotlight just now is the importance of discovering and giving first place to Christ in all things, in all ways, always. Jesus Only — the indwelling Christ — makes the difference!

He did that night on the Galilean lake. Without Him, they toiled all night unsuccessfully.

With Him, in the morning, though they were on the same old lake in the same old boat using the same old net yet the miracle! So, no matter what problems beset you where you are, with the never failing sense of divine command and divine companionship you can triumph still! With "Jesus Only" we are equipped for the supreme effort in reverent trust, in god will toward all, with the honest desire to gain a success not necessarily spectacular nor even apparent but which the still small voice tells us is real beyond debate.

Possessed of that spirit, our enterprise cannot fail.

Failure, faith, fullness, these three, then, are God's sequence. Trust it and try again.

ALWAYS AND ALL WAYS

And do Thou, O Changeless One, abide with us and change the story of our lives from fishing and failure to fishing and finding!

With young people launching on the Sea of Life, do Thou, Who maketh the difference between failure and success, go with them, remaining, as Thou hast promised, ALWAYS in ALL WAYS!

Gerald Waring

REPORTING

OTTAWA —Historians report that Sir John A. used to complain that the most difficult of trades is that of cabinet maker. His titular legatee John G. might well agree.

Only the other day the prime minister was pressed on the matter of appointing a new minister of public works to succeed Howard Green who is now external affairs minister. "Can we" asked Liberal Jack Pickersgill "expect the announcement before the end of the session?"

"I seem to remember" the PM replied "that the same type of question was asked in 1941 and 1942 when for a period of many months no representative was appointed from the province of Quebec. We used to ask questions in that regard and the answer we received was that an announcement would be made in due course."

In marshalling material to support his case, old courtroom lawyer Diefenbaker has a habit of taking little liberties with the facts. A check of the Commons records for that period shows it was not the Conservatives who were pressing Mackenzie King to appoint French-Canadians to the cabinet. That is the last thing the Tories would have done in those days of the conscription plebiscite. The man who needed King was Ligouri Lacombe a fiery Quebec nationalist who sat as an independent MP.

Lacombe was a Duplessis man; eventually was rewarded by Duplessis with a judgeship. But perhaps it is not strange for the distinction between Lacombe and the Conservatives of that day to have faded from Diefenbaker's mind. Today Diefenbaker has four French-Canadians in his cabinet and all are in Parliament by courtesy of Premier Duplessis.

Moreover Diefenbaker is committed by a 1958 election promise to appoint a fifth French-Canadian cabinet minister to represent the lower St. Lawrence region. Implementation of that promise means the addition of another man to the cabinet who is indebted to the Union Nationale political machine for his election to Parliament.

There is considerable difference between indebtedness to the national Conservative Party organization and to the organization of a provincial premier. There is always the suspicion that the latter indebtedness compromises debitor.

Diefenbaker's cabinet problem is to take on a French-Canadian minister, but not in public works.

This presents some difficulties. Public works has long been considered a traditionally French-Canadian portfolio. Moreover, Quebec does not have any important cabinet posts. This rankles with Quebec.

Public works is now a top echelon job. It has become so under two English-Canadian ministers who were not content to be custodians of the political pork barrel and dispensers of party patronage. Howard Green made "no patronage" his guiding principle, to the anguish of many Tory MPs, and leaves the ministry with a determination that so far as he can influence events, public works will not revert to being a pork barrel.

The obvious answer is for Diefenbaker to appoint an English-Canadian of ability and integrity—some worthy successor to Green and his Liberal predecessor, Robert H. Winters. But that will not satisfy Quebec, where the Gallup Poll reports Tory popularity slipping, unless there is some satisfactory quid pro quo.

It will be interesting to see how the PM handles this one.

Children like to collect things. Start them at the first of the summer collecting seeds from fruits in season. Then when they have a lull in their play days because of bad weather, show them how to paste these to an old dish or cup. They make pretty designs and can be painted, if desired, and topped with shellac for more permanent displays.

Feel Old, Young? Depends On Who Asks You When

"How old do you think you are?" asks a magazine article. Well, Sir, if you're talking to us women the answer will vary from day to day.

We feel 10 years younger when someone we haven't seen in years says with artful flattery, "I can't get over it. You haven't changed a bit."

We feel 10 years older when we try on a dress and after one glance in the mirror feel compelled to say: "This is pretty but it's a little too girlish looking, don't you think?"

We feel 10 years younger when we've just had a new and becoming hairdo, bought a dress that "does something for us," or finally managed to shed a few excess pounds.

We feel 10 years older when a son or daughter innocently refers to someone we know is younger than we are as "pretty old."

We feel 10 years younger when we're dressed for a party and in the mood for a gay evening.

We feel older, much older, when we come across some old snapshots of ourselves and realize what changes the years have made.

We feel younger than we are when we are in a gay, happy mood no matter what has given us a lift.

We feel older than we are when we get discouraged or overworked or weighed down with too many conflicting responsibilities.

So what does the gentleman mean. How old do we feel? Is he talking about today, tomorrow, next week or a year from now when we might just happen to feel much younger than we do today?

MOTHER NATURE'S CLIPBOARD

So you think I am a nasty looking fellow, do you? Well, let me tell you that we iguanas are quite harmless, even if we are ugly. I am a Galapagos land iguana, but there are others in my family that are even uglier! All of us are members of the lizard family.

Most iguanas are green, but some protect themselves by changing color to suit their surroundings. Some have teeth like saws. Others have pointed crests along the back. The rhinoceros iguana of Spain has three horns on his nose!

Some of us live in trees, while others prefer holes dug in the earth. Our common food is found in leaves and grasses, but I prefer berries and cactus plants. Sometimes we are caught by man and cooked for supper.

How big am I? I am five feet long, and weigh almost 30 pounds!

TUMBLE TURTLE

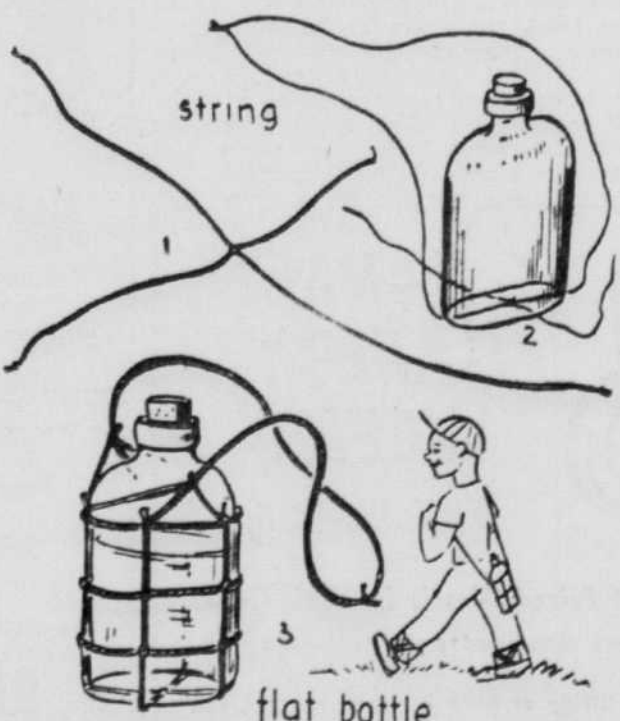

When Tumble took a dip today
He did a foolish thing—
With calls for help and shouts of fear
He made the lakeshore ring.
Yet he's safe as safe can be
As you and I can tell
—When danger REALLY threatens,
It's the proper time to yell.

Don't be a Tumble Turtle. Never call for help if you don't need it. Perhaps, when you really ARE in danger, your friends will not appear. They will think you are joking.

The Craft Shop

Not long ago we received a request for craft ideas from Gregory Bent, who is going on a camping trip. Here is our first idea, Greg. Watch for others each week.

Make a water canteen for your trip. Get a safety bottle that will hold almost a quart of water. Use strong white cord to make a knot as shown in the picture. Fasten a larger cord to the top of the knot, long enough to go over your shoulder. Now your canteen is ready for the trip.

ACORN ALLEY

Polly Porcupine moved slowly along Acorn Alley Path. She was almost asleep. As a matter of fact, she was trying to decide whether it would be better to lie down by the path for a nap, or to keep moving and doze while she walked!

All of a sudden she was made wide awake by a voice shouting near Big Tree. It was Foxy. Several Acorn Alley folk had already gathered around him.

"Step right up, ladies and gentlemen," shouted Foxy. "See the heavens for a 10-cent piece. Gaze into the wild blue yonder for only one-tenth of a dollar. Cast your eye upon the glorious sky for only one little dime. It's a chance of a lifetime, folks. With my wonderful telescope you can see the mountains of the moon, and see the twinkle of the farthest star! Step up folks! Only a dime!"

Polly listened as Mayor Rob spoke.

"Where did you get that contraption, Foxy?" he asked.

"Contraption?" snorted Foxy. "Why this is a telescope. I made it myself, and it's the best telescope in all Acorn Alley!"

"It's the ONLY telescope in Acorn Alley," laughed Scuff Squirrel.

Polly looked at the telescope. She really WOULD like to see the mountains of the moon, but she had only one dime, and she was saving it for a new quill cutter. Still—she made up her mind. Stepping up to Foxy, she offered her dime, and bent to look through the telescope.

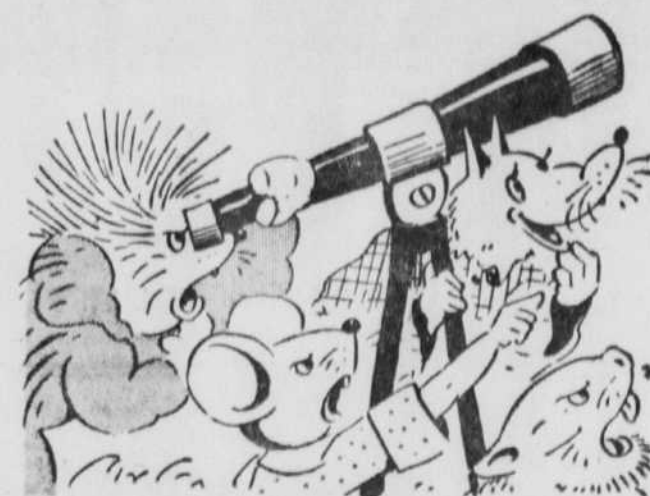

Suddenly her eyes grew wide, and she trembled with excitement. Turning to the others, she exclaimed, "I see a flying saucer!" Then she fainted.

One after the other, the Alley folk looked through the telescope. Sure enough, there was a strange light moving across the sky. No one else fainted as Polly had done, but everyone ran about in circles, shouting and clapping Foxy upon the back. He had, indeed, built a wonderful telescope. For hadn't they all seen the flying saucer with their own eyes?

No one stopped to look again. Instead, they dashed through the forest in every direction to tell everyone who would listen about the wonderful discovery. But Polly didn't run. When she woke up and looked about, her friends were gone. There stood the telescope, pointing at the sky. The poor porcupine became so frightened she ran away.

No one was there to see what the "flying saucer" really was. If anyone had looked, they would have seen Freddie the Firefly, slowly crawling across the end of the telescope!

To this day, no one knows that it was Freddie who caused the moving light—no one, that is, except you and me.

Canada Observes National Farm Safety Week, July 19 - 25

The following statement was prepared by Dr. H. Hannam, president and managing director of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture.

Canada's farmers are becoming more and more efficient, capable of greatly increased productivity, and output per man hour. The Royal Commission on Canada's Economic Prospects in its study "Output, Labour and Capital in the Canadian Economy," shows that from 1947 to 1955, man hour productivity, expressed in constant dollars, increases by 68 per cent in agriculture, and by 22 per cent in the rest of industry. This increase in output per man hour has been made possible by the increased use of machines and mechanized equipment. While these machines have increased the efficiency of the farm, they have, at the same time, brought a wider range of hazards to agriculture.

July 19 - 25th is National Farm Safety Week in Canada, and it is in the interests of all farm people to observe this period by not only preventing accidents, but by bringing about practices and methods that will safeguard human life all year round. There are thousands of ways that you can prevent accidents around the farm. On behalf of the Board of Directors of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture, I appeal to farmers from coast to coast to participate in the observation of National Farm Safety Week, July 19 to 25th, 1959.

Prepare Accident Statistics

Sometime this fall the results of Canada's first national survey on farm and farm home safety will be announced.

For the past two months various groups have been playing an active part in compiling these statistics including 73,000 enrolled in 4-H Clubs across Canada who have been reporting accidents on their home farms.

The survey, itself, was co-operatively organized and carried out by the Canadian Council on 4-H Clubs, the Provincial Departments of Agriculture, The Canadian Chamber of Commerce, the Canada Department of Agriculture and The Canadian Federation of Agriculture.

At its outset, C. A. Douglas, president of the Canadian Council on 4-H Clubs said, "There are no adequate national statistics at the present time on farm accidents. However, we do know that farm accidents, in addition to causing much suffering and hardship, are responsible for serious loss of time, production and income to the farm industry. It is hoped that up to date information on the kind, cause and incidence of farm accidents will facilitate the development of better farm safety programs in Canada."

Jack Whyte, chairman of the Agriculture Committee of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, said all those concerned with the survey appealed to the farm parents and local 4-H Club leaders for assistance and co-operation in supplying statistical data to 4-H members. Questionnaires, to be filled out, covered the period January 1 to December 31, 1958.

Agriculture and business have long been interested in such a survey, and are in agreement that a co-operative effort is needed to develop an effective program of national farm safety. Although some sectors of Canada have developed farm safety programs that have produced a lower frequency of deaths and accidents, much remains to be accomplished in this field.

Youthful Tractor Operators Pose Accident Problem

Should a boy be allowed to drive a tractor?

This is a problem which has been bothering farm safety experts for some time.

A report from the National Safety Council shows that each year more fatal tractor accidents occur in the 10-14 age group than in any other age category.

"This seems to point up the fact that young people who don't know how to handle tractors are being allowed to operate them," the Council said.

Safety Training

"If it is absolutely necessary for a youth to drive a tractor, he should be thoroughly trained in all phases of tractor safety before he takes over the wheel," the Council warned.

A teenager—or anyone who operates a tractor for that matter—should be aware of the need for regular safety inspections, should know the proper way to handle a tractor in any situation or on any terrain and should use extreme caution at all times," the Council added.

Ignorance and Chances
The Council said carelessness and ignorance are responsible for most tractor accidents.

"Too many chances are taken," it added.

The Council said one of the biggest chances is taken when more than one person rides a tractor. "This is just inviting trouble," a Council spokesman said.

Tractors are made for one person to operate—no more. But too often, someone hitches a ride. And that can lead to tragedy.

Children Killed Riding
The Council said the majority of children in the 4-9 year old group killed in tractor accidents last year were riding a tractor. Not operating one—just along for the ride.

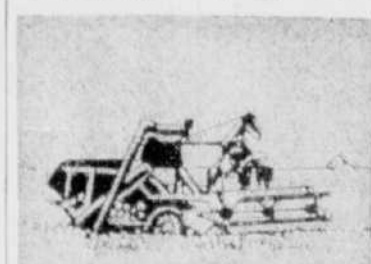

A farmer recently told a Council official, "I would rather hear a child cry because he was refused a tractor ride, than to hear him cry because he got hurt riding one."

In general, accidents with farm machinery are decreasing, the Council's report showed, but tractor accidents are on the upswing. "It is alarming," the Council said.

"And the only way farm persons can lick the rising tractor accident rate is to use every safety precaution available."

Operators of tractors, trucks, combines, and grain handling equipment should possess good judgment and experience. Beginners need careful instruction and supervision. Point out the hazards—tell them how to avoid dangers. Be certain that they can do the job—safely.

Harvest Hazards And How To Avoid Them

Combine operation requires good judgment. Know your machine. Shut off power before cleaning, adjusting, or lubricating. Walk around the machine before starting it. Be certain that everyone is clear before engaging the power. Keep shields in place.

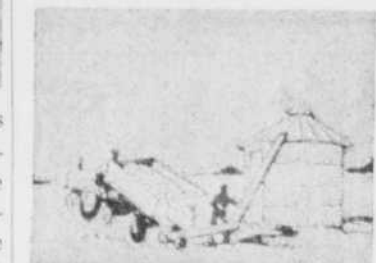

Moving machinery on public roads is a necessary but dangerous harvest job. Obey traffic laws. Warn motorists with flags by day, safety lights and reflective material by night. Post flagmen if visibility is limited by hills, curves, or obstructions.

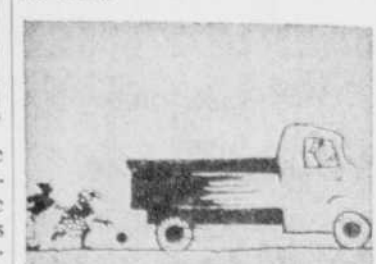

Sunstroke and heat exhaustion take a harvest season toll. Wear a hat and cool clothing to protect from the sun. Drink plenty of water. Take a salt tablet with each glass full, or add a tablespoon of salt to each gallon. Take a morning and afternoon break and avoid excessive fatigue.

Fire presents another danger. Carry extinguishers (FM or UL approved) on each truck, combine, and tractor. Well designed, properly located exhaust pipes reduce danger of field fires. Watch out for accumulation of straw and trash near exhaust pipes or manifolds. Watch your smoking habits.

Portable elevators and grain augers are leading harvest time labor savers. They are, however, involved in many accidents. Be certain that drive mechanisms and power shafts are shielded. Have adequate help in moving and positioning elevators. Always be alert.

Child victims of harvest accidents are often injured or killed in driveways or farm yard. Do not allow small children into work areas, unless accompanied by an adult who can give them full attention. If older children want to help, supervise them carefully.

Drive carefully while hauling grain. Tractor brakes are not very effective in stopping a loaded grain wagon. Keep hitches in good condition. Use a safety chain when hauling on public roads. Never work under a lifted dump box. No extra riders.

Make Certain Your Farm Is Safe For Your Children

Most Accidents Can Be Prevented

Accidents are the principal cause of death to children. In 1932, the latest year for which tabulations have been completed, 11,121 children between the ages of 1-14 years died as a result of accidents. Are your children safe from this threat? Are your home and farm safe places for your children? They can be, if you take the time to make them safe places.

You may say, "But that's impossible—accidents just happen."

Yes, accidents do happen. But there is a reason for every one of them. Accidents don't just happen; they are caused. Accept this fact and accept your responsibility to prevent accidents. Find out why accidents happen, how they can be prevented. Then you begin to build a safer life for your family.

First, consider your children. Does your toddler go unwatched as he explores his constantly expanding world? He needs your constant attention except when he is in a play-pen or fenced area where his activities are limited. Exploring is important for him, but you need to be sure that he isn't left free to explore animal pens, the farm pond or the highway. Small children need to be kept away from electricity, fires, ladders and other similar hazards. Children too young to protect themselves need to be protected by you.

Older children demand more freedom, but they need your help in recognizing dangers.

Do you know where they spend their time? Are they swimming in a creek filled with debris, rubbish and other hazardous objects? Do they play around the animals or farm machinery? You ought to know where they are. They need to know what is dangerous and why it is dangerous. Many children die from accidents resulting from unsupervised activity.

Look around you—at your home and farm. Many of the hazards of farm living can be removed with some thought and planning. Falls are one of the most common causes of death and injury. Remove the things that you trip over, slip on, or fall from and you have removed many potential accidents.

Good storage facilities are important. Farm chemicals should be kept in tightly-covered containers in a locked cupboard. Store fuels in sealed containers and keep them out of reach of children. Provide covered containers for broken glass, tin cans and other rubbish. Use these containers and teach your children to use them. Household medicines and poisons should be kept out of reach and labeled clearly. Guns should be left unloaded and stored in a locked cupboard. A convenient storage spot for children's toys is necessary. Provide storage area for hand tools, equipment and machinery.

Electricity Is Becoming New Safety Risk On Farm

Electrical accidents are becoming a major threat to the farm.

With more and more of the nation's farms being electrified, new problems are cropping up.

Improper installation of electrical equipment, careless use of electrical apparatus and defective power machines all add up to make electricity on the farm a hazard—if it is abused.

ELECTRICITY KILLS
National Safety Council figures show each year nearly 150 farm deaths are caused by electrical accidents in the United States. Canada also claims its toll.

The Council estimates an additional 5,000 rural residents are injured by accidental contact with electricity.

Unsafe practices are the leading cause of these accidents, according to the Council. Its studies show defective equipment and working under hazardous conditions also contribute to the increasing number of accidents.

YOU CAN HELP
The Council lists these suggestions for cutting down electrical accidents:

1. Have extinguishers for electrical fires handy and in working condition at all times.
2. Be sure all electrical equipment is installed by a trained electrician and properly maintained.
3. Be adequately protected in killed in a hunting accident may have learned careless use of the gun from his father. If you find yourself saying, "It can't happen to me," you need to examine your attitudes and habits of living. Your children will do as you do. Attitudes are caught, not taught. The example you set may mean the difference between life and death of your child.

Emotional upsets and fatigue create accident situations. When the husband and father storms out of the house with his wife shouting after him and the children either sullen or in tears, a dangerous day is likely for all the family. Good diet, adequate rest and happy family relationships contribute to family safety.

Children on farms die from accidents caused by unsupervised activity in hazardous situations. Supervise their activity. Remove the hazards. Teach your children safe habits by having them yourself. You'll find that your farm can be a safer place to live—because you have made it that way.

and shrubbery from the driveway entrance to your farm. Provide an enclosed area for your children playing. Do not allow small children to ride on or play near machinery. Do not allow youngsters to operate tractors. By removing the hazards you can save lives.

Now, take a careful look at yourself. Most important in the safety of your family is your attitude toward safety. The teenage driver often reflects his parent's driving habits. The boy

Forest Fire Prevention Is Everyone's Responsibility

Observe Province's Regulations

The following are the regulations governing travel in the forests in the Province of Quebec.

1. Travel permits are free of charge; they become void when the fire districts for which they are issued are closed to traffic.

2. The permittee must, upon request, show his permit and prove his identity to any fire-ranger, fish or game-warden, any Forest Service officer, constable, or any officer of the peace.

3. Unless otherwise provided for, it is lawful to light a fire in the forest or within one-half mile of the forest for warmth or cooking purposes. In this case, one must:

- select a suitable site, never under a tree, preferably near a lake or stream;
- clear up the place by removing from the soil, within a radius of four (4) feet, all vegetable matter, all dead wood, twigs, brush-wood and dry leaves;
- extinguish the fire totally before leaving the site;
- totally abstain from making

FIRE FIGHTING TASK FORCE — Variety of equipment used by the U.S. Forest Service in controlling forest fires is demonstrated at Shasta-Trinity National Forest, Calif., left, in a staged photo. In 1957, 83,392 forest fires were reported with 3,409,038 acres burned. About 5 1/2 per cent of the 39 million unprotected acres in the country was burned, compared with 0.28 per cent of the protected area. Similar equipment is in use in Canada.

such fires, when a heavy wind is blowing or when there is fear that fire may start a conflagration.

4. Smoking is forbidden while working or travelling on foot, on horse-back, or in a motor car or other vehicle. However, smoking is permitted while resting in a proper place, i.e. one free from combustible matter and care must be taken to extinguish completely any lighted material, before leaving the site or resuming work.

5. Fires for the driving away of flies or mosquitoes are prohibited, except in a metal container should be placed in a spot cleared of all vegetable matter; twigs and brushwood debris within a radius of four (4) feet. Such fires must be extinguished completely, before leaving the site.

6. When a fire district is closed to travel, it is forbidden to light fires in the open for any purpose whatsoever, or to smoke outside of camps.

7. It is forbidden to destroy.

damage or remove posters concerning the protection of forests from fire, telephone lines, buildings and equipment used in fire protection.

8. Any person discovering a fire in the forest should extinguish it immediately, and, if this is impossible, he should advise the nearest fire ranger and render every assistance.

9. Any infringement of these regulations, if there is no special penalty prescribed, renders the offender liable to the penalties prescribed by section 144 of the Lands and Forests Act.

10. Any person condemned for infringement of these regulations forfeits the right to enter or to remain in the forest for the balance of the year.

If you are careful, you can stop fires before they start!

Amid swirling smoke a firefighter shovels peat soil in an attempt to stem a forest fire. Every year in this country, fire destroys some two hundred million cubic feet of merchantable timber — enough wood to keep the average pulp and paper mill operating for nearly seven years. Human carelessness is directly responsible for many of them.

Guard Canada's Natural Beauty — Help Preserve Her Forests

Fire Is Desolation!

(The following article is reprinted from a Southern Canada Power Company publication, "A Forest For Every Municipality.")

Have you ever followed a well-kept woodland trail without thrilling to the alternating patches of shade and sunshine, the subtle scents, the mysterious sounds, the glimpses of wild life stirring in the forest? And then, again, have you struggled across a "burn," bruising your feet on the blackened rocks, tripping over charred roots, a thousand charcoal skeletons thwarting you and tearing at your clothes? If you work or play in the woods, or own a timbered lot, will you, each time you experience either of these two opposites of pleasure or misery, stop for a moment and remember that it is YOUR duty and privilege to help keep the woods in all their beauty, and within YOUR power to see that no thoughtless act of yours, no wilful negligence, is responsible for the black ruin which follows a bush fire?

We present this matter of bush fires from the standpoint of what is alive and beautiful, contrasted with what is dead and ugly. This is only because one wonders how to awaken and keep alive in everybody a determination to do all he can to cut down the appalling waste of our natural resources which goes on year by year as the result of bush fires.

Canada's forests are one of her chief assets. A fire which destroys growing trees destroys a part of our real wealth and wipes out some of the means of livelihood of present and future generations. Yet, it is said that 80 per cent of forest fires are man-made, through thoughtless, negligent or, even, criminal action. It seems a fact that wherever nature is most generous, man is apt to be most wasteful. Perhaps that is why we are not more alive to the seriousness of the situation. There always seems to be lots of timber around and we let it go at that. But ask the forestry expert — he will give you facts and figures which may startle you.

THE COST

Not long ago a disastrous fire occurred in timber limits in Ontario. Its exact cause was not determined, but incendiarism was suspected. From Government estimates of the timber destroyed we have drawn a few comparisons which we would like you to picture in your mind's eye — here they are:

Enough pulpwood was burnt to keep a fair-sized newsprint machine running for five years; enough potential lumber to build a wooden garage for every family in the cities of Ottawa and Quebec combined; enough cordwood to provide cooking and heating for all the homes in a small town for ten years; enough poles for a telephone line from Quebec to Toronto; fence posts for both sides of the highway from Quebec to Montreal.

These figures ought to alarm. The fire was a big one, but it was only one of many. All fires start from a small point, but may spread far. We may not feel the loss directly, but it is there just the same and everyone is the poorer for it. In woodlands such as we have in the Eastern Townships a fire may hit the community proportionally harder than a fire in the wilds of the north. The reason is that the well-being of rural districts is so closely tied to the preservation of timbered lots and tree growth.

The woods supply fuel, syrup, a variety of woods for commercial purposes; and properly disposed tree belts and timbered lots prevent drifting of soil by acting as wind-breaks and at the same time, by keeping the soil porous, they hold and regulate the run-off or moisture so necessary for our crops and for the operation of our water powers. In performing this useful function they arrest soil erosion and tend to prevent the violent and frequently destructive freshets which prevail in stream originating in barren lands denuded of trees. The continued existence of our rural communities depends, therefore, on the woods in the surrounding country.

So, let everyone say to himself, "I will NOT act in such a way as to risk setting a fire — I know only too well what the results may be." Say this, remember it, and live up to it. Campers, build your fires in safe places, keep them small as possible and, on leaving, douse them with water. Smokers, whenever conditions are at all hazardous, do not smoke when walking or at work in the woods.

If you must smoke, sit and smoke in a safe place during rest periods. Remember the old trick of breaking a match in two before throwing it away. Owners of wood lots, and contractors or others working in the bush, keep fire safety in the forefront of your minds. Clean up rubbish and slash, but consult the local fire ranger and comply with any regulations governing slash disposal. When in doubt avoid all risk.

This is no new appeal. If, however, it sticks in the mind of but one individual it may perhaps save the starting of one serious fire. Perhaps one man only knows how the big fire in Ontario began. Suppose that, at the crucial moment, some message had flashed into his mind, some picture — no matter what — to make him stop and think, would he have committed such an act of carelessness or crime? No, we venture to think that the match would have gone back into his pocket and he would have gone on his way with a smile on his face and a load off his mind.

CAMPFIRES

When a campfire is needed for cooking it should be built on a rocky shore, where possible, and drenched with water before moving on. In no case should any fire be kindled anywhere near inflammable litter. Smokers can cooperate by avoiding cigarettes or pipes while travelling along a forest trail and at all times should snuff out every sign of fire before discarding remnants of tobacco.

CARELESSNESS COSTS

Four in five of all forest conflagrations are due to personal carelessness and, in most instances, one minute devoted to common sense precautions would have avoided such catastrophes. Upwards to fifty years may be required to restore the timberlands gutted by public carelessness not counting the extensive damage done to stream-flow and the habitat of fish and game.

REMEMBER:

- 1 tree can make a million matches;
- 1 match can destroy a million trees —

The temperature of the burning end of a cigarette is 1325 Degrees F. — as hot as a firebomb and just as deadly. Enjoy your smoke but be careful how you put it out: one careless move may destroy thousands of acres of valuable timberland.

EASTERN TOWNSHIPS ATHLETES STEAL SPOTLIGHT

There should be no doubt in anyone's mind about local athletes being able to hold their own with the rest of Canada and no better proof did we get than this week when Bob Bedard, John Bassett and Francois Godbout were named to the 1959 Canadian Davis Cup squad.

Sweeping three out of four berths on the team is proof by itself. Bob Bedard's berth has been a certainty for a long time along with Don Fontana but the naming of John Bassett and Francois Godbout is something that the Townships can well be proud of. We believe it is a great boost for local tennis and should help to develop more great players.

Bob Bedard was the first to step into prominence and earn the respect of the tennis world but now come along two more in John Bassett and Francois Godbout. Both these youngsters commenced their tennis in Sherbrooke. Godbout took up the game while going to St. Charles Seminary, where Bob Bedard was the Physical Director a few years back, and like his teacher devoted plenty of hours and hard work to improve his game.

As for the other member, John Bassett, his family has lived in the Townships for years and he comes from a line of first-rate tennis players on both sides of the family. For years they have lived in North Hatley, during the summer, and in Toronto where John Bassett, known to his many friends around here as "J.B." is chairman and publisher of the Toronto Telegram as well as being President of the Sherbrooke Record.

Young John has worked hard at his tennis and Bob Bedard helped him along. During the summer they hooked up quite often at North Hatley where they put in long hours of practice.

We have always maintained that hard work with long hours of practice has its reward and we don't think that you can find a better example than the present one. Both these youngsters set their caps on making the Davis Cup team and they finally reached their objective.

The Selection Committee gathered some of the better youngsters across the country and staged a special tourney to find out just what they could do. Godbout and Bassett were picked from a field of nine after a round-robin competition in Montreal and Toronto.

Lorne Main, non-playing captain of the team, is highly pleased with the committee's choices. It is the first time in years that Canada has such a youthful team to represent her in the Cup matches and the experience they will gain will help them in the future.

To John Bassett and Francois Godbout we wish the best of luck on behalf of the sporting fans of the Townships. Congratulations for making the squad. You are a fine example for all youngsters and proof that with hard work you can reach the top. Keep up the good work.

Right after comes another great achievement in E. T. sporting circles when a youngster by the name of Andre Maltais, who hails from East Angus, surprised the golfing brass of Montreal with his fine display in the Provincial Junior Golf Tournament.

Maltais, who earned the title of "giantkiller" of the tournament, pulled off some terrific games before running into the rangy Gordie LeRiche of Montreal Hampstead Club. Andre during his march to the finals knocked over the highly favored Stan Clarke and then Richard Tombs, while in the semi-finals he continued his string by taking the measure of another favorite Dave Stotland of Hillsdale Club.

In the finals he ran into a little trouble, but before bowing out gave a good account of himself. He got into a little trouble and rallied a couple of times but in the long end he ran out of holes. Despite all this he has nothing to be ashamed of. In fact we think he covered himself with glory.

Hiltes Pickens, honorary secretary treasurer of the Province of Quebec Golf Association, called to tell us that the youngster did a terrific job and certainly made himself a personality to be reckoned with in the future.

So once again the people from the Eastern Townships made their presence felt in the "World of Sports" and let the Isle of Montreal know that the rest of the Province should be reckoned with when it comes to picking top athletes.

To Andre we wish to convey our sincere congratulations for a terrific performance and anytime one can get the top brass of Montreal to rave about one that is something to put in the record books. So boys keep up the good work. You are a credit to your communities and a wonderful example of work to achieve success.

See where Keith Peak of Lennoxville, who plays for Fuller in the Sherbrooke Junior Baseball League, is making quite a name for himself as a slugger. Keith is belting the ball at a terrific clip and Thursday evening set a league record by smashing his fourth round-tripper of the season.

Keith seems to be a natural athlete and in the junior hockey circuit last season was one of the outstanding stars. He joined Pat Murphy's Jr. Beavers after the start of the season and made his presence felt with his outstanding playing. We understand that he is hitting around .500, although we have no official figures. Keep up the good work Keith.

The annual O'Keefe Amateur Golf Tournament will be held over the Mont Orford Golf course on the weekend of August 8-9, announces Ernie Pouliot, O'Keefe agent for the Magog district. This year this event will be held only for amateurs but despite this it should be a real good tourney in keeping with the past years.

The local summer horse show which is usually staged around May 24th will be held tomorrow afternoon at Dufresne Park commencing at 1.00. It is being sponsored by the City of Sherbrooke along with the local club.

Entries have been received from Montreal, Foster, Granby, Kincardine and a couple from North Carolina, who are spending the summer in these parts. David Roberts of Hartford, Conn., will be the judge and from all reports it should be a real affair. So don't forget tomorrow afternoon at 1.00.

Congratulations are in line to Harry Fowles who registered a hole-in-one this week at North Hatley. Harry tells us that it has been a long time coming but he finally made the select group of "lucky golfers."

We still think to make one, you have to have a certain amount of luck along with your tee shot, to get the right roll, kick and several other things but just the same it is nice to get one. So Harry on behalf of all your golfing friends congratulations once again.

Coaticook To Visit Cards Sunday Afternoon; Fuller Plays Host To Kist, Redmen Meet Canucks At Night

Three games are scheduled for Sunday in the Sherbrooke Junior Baseball League. Coaticook will play the Cards at Windsor in the afternoon tilt while, in the evening, the Indians travel to Coaticook. The afternoon fixture is slated to start at 2:00 while the night games will commence at 7:30. The local tilt will be played at the Municipal Stadium.

The most unpredictable tussle in the lineup will be the Coaticook-Windsor game. Windsor went down to a 12-2 drubbing at the hands of the Canucks on Thursday night at Coaticook, however, the Cards will be on their home grounds and this should make a difference.

The Indians have not been playing good baseball and their many errors account for most of the opponent's victories. The strong men in Thursday's fixture were Pelletier, who hit two singles and a double in the recent tilt, Desrochers, who smashed an in-the-park homer, and Mathieu, who whiffed nine men.

The Kist-Fuller fixture at the local park is also an unpredictable tilt. Kist has displayed very good infielding in recent games although their hitting power is quite weak. This may be the break for Fuller.

Fuller has some of the heaviest hitters in the league and all of them may be depended upon. However, Peak will be missing from the lineup for two weeks due to vacations. The loss of the home-run king might not be disastrous but it will certainly be a blow to Fuller's hitting power.

Braves Lose Fourth Straight To Drop Into Third Position; Chicago's Wynn Leads Sox To 2-0 Win Over Yankees

Joe Jay lost one, then Carl Willey, then Lew Burdette. Now Warren Spahn. That's how the Milwaukee Braves, favored for their pitching, have lost four in a row for the first time this season and have skidded to third, three games behind in the National League race—their largest deficit in two years.

Friday night it was sixth-place St. Louis, usually a soft touch for Spahn, that beat the southpaw ace with a two-out rally in the eighth inning for a 4-3 victory.

San Francisco's first-place Giants picked up their largest lead of the year by rapping Pittsburgh 4-1 while second-place Los Angeles lost 3-2 at Philadelphia.

CUBS KEEP WINNING
The Chicago Cubs, fresh from a three-game sweep of the Braves, made it four in a row with a 1-0 decision over Cincinnati on a six-hitter by Art Cecere.

Spahn (11-10), who has won more games from St. Louis than any other club, gave up an unearned run on his own error in the third inning but still had a 3-2 lead until the eighth. Ken Boyer singled and scored the tying run on Joe Cunningham's double. Rookie Gene Oliver, singled home the winner. Lindy McDaniel (8-10) won it in relief.

San Francisco made it five out of eight since the all-star game behind the seven-hit pitching of Sam Jones, who walked just one and struck out seven for his 13th victory.

HOMER BREAKS TIE
The last-place Phillies had only four hits off Roger Craig, who put his first after winning four, putting it away on Harry Anderson's tie-breaking solo home run in the seventh inning. Jim Owens (5-8) gave up 10 hits and walked four, but left 11 on base.

Cecere, an American League castoff after losing his last seven decisions with Kansas City and Baltimore, won his second without defeat for the Cubs. The 29-year-old lefty also scored the run, coming across on a fielder's choice in the fifth against Bob Purkey (8-10).

At 39, Early Wynn is one of the winningest pitchers the majors have known. He's a hard-working, easy-to-talk-to guy off the mound—one who can laugh about his lean early years with Washington Senators.

Chicago White Sox got him from Cleveland last year as a Yankee beater. But in a poor season (14-16), Yankees were the only team he couldn't beat. The champs beat Wynn six-out-of-six, barring his 250th victory in their last meeting on Gil McDougald's eighth-inning home run.

Friday night, Wynn won his 261st, a Yankee beater once again. Backed by fine fielding, he knocked them off in a double two-hit duel with young Ralph Terry as White Sox, hitless for eight innings, won it 2-0 in the ninth and retained their one-game lead in the American League race.

Wynn, who started in organized baseball the year after Terry was born, had given up only a disputed, sixth-inning single by the Yankee right-hander until the ninth. Then, after Norm Siebern opened with a single, Wynn choked 'em off.

Second-place Cleveland nearly blew a seven-run lead before beating Boston 8-7. Third-place Baltimore handed Detroit a fifth straight loss 3-2 and Kansas City cooled Washington 7-4.

With the bases loaded in the ninth, Indians Jim Landis sliced a two-run single to right—after Yogi Berra had dropped his two-strike foul tip—and it was Wynn's victory to lock up. The loss left fourth-place Yanks 6½ games behind Sox.

Wynn, 12-6 and 2-0 against New York, broke a tie with Ted Lyons for the No. 20 berth among all-time winners while bagging his 12th two-hitter.

Provincial Canoe Race Slated For St. Jerome Sunday

The second Provincial Canoe Race on the North River between Mont-Rolland and St. Jerome will be held Sunday, July 19th, for the Molson trophy. This annual event is organized by L'Association de Chasse et Peche des Laurentides, and sponsored by Molson's Brewery Limited. Last year, the contest attracted 15,000 spectators.

This year the association plans to make the event more interesting by adding a closed regional race for the Rolland Sport Limited Trophy. The canoeists from the Laurentian region who finish highest in the standings will be awarded the regional championship, while the first place winners will be crowned provincial champions.

Still another contest will be included this year, which is in the nature of a special event. Contestants in this contest will have to set up camp after the race. They will have to pitch a tent, light a fire and prepare a meal, among other things. These innovations will give this year's classic more variety and make it more interesting to spectators.

Pitching — Johnny Antonelli, Giants, saved San Francisco's one-game lead with a three-hit, 1-0 victory over the Phillies, who had won the opener of the twin-night doubleheader 6-4.

British Golf Rulers Demand That Amateurs Develop Killer Instinct

LONDON (AP)—Britain's golf rulers, smarting under recent defeats by the United States, Friday called on the country's top amateurs to toughen up and develop the killer instinct of the Americans.

The call came in a memorandum from the Royal and Ancient Golf Club selection committee. It followed the 9-3 victory of the United States over Britain in the Walker Cup matches two months ago, and the victory of Deane Beman of Silver Spring, Md., in the British amateur championship.

The Walker Cup defeat was suffered despite four years of planning, coaching and training by the R. and A. Now Britain's golf bosses admit the gap with the United States had not been closed to "any marked degree."

The memorandum, circulated to all the country's top players, urged British golfers to make a point of starting well against an opponent and then adopting "the killer instinct" to finish the match quickly.

CHANGE TECHNIQUE
The R. and A. also said British golfers must change their putting style if they are going to match the Americans, and urged British golfers to make a radical change in technique.

The R. and A. committee pointed out that American golfers acquired "mental toughness" from 18-hole match play tournaments, and promised more tournaments of that type for British players.

It also called for more aggression and less "playing safe," adding that although British golfers had a lot of leeway to make up in chipping and putting, it was on the mental side that "we have the most to make up."

The American Walker Cup victory this year was the 16th in 17 tries. Beman's victory in the amateur when the Walker Cup is played in Britain.

Juno Stover Irwin, Mother Of Four Getting Back Into Shape For Diving Event At Chicago

REDDING, Calif. (AP)—Juno Stover Irwin has retired from diving on four occasions, each time to have a baby.

Now the attractive Glendale, Calif., mother is making her fourth comeback as she competes in the National AAU women's swimming and diving meet here.

If she does well here and in the Pan American games, Mrs. Irwin may try to win a place on her fourth Olympic team next year.

An Olympian in 1948, '52 and '56, Juno was 3½ months pregnant when she competed in the second.

A diver since 1948, cute, freckled Juno married Russ Irwin, head of the parts department for an aircraft company, in 1950. Their oldest son, Mike, is 8, Maurice 6½, Randy 5 and Cynthia 16 months.

Mom almost didn't get to come to this meet. Randy and Cynthia came down with tonsillitis. But they recovered fast enough that she felt safe to leave.

"I was anxious to get back into competition," she said. "I haven't competed in three years and that's the longest layoff I've had."

She's been training since May. Sometimes she had to take her brood with her to the Los Angeles athletic club. In the evening, husband Russ stayed home with the children.

She said being a housewife doesn't allow as much time for practice as other divers get. HOMEWORK ALL THE TIME
"Most of the girls either go to school and have the summer vacation or work in the winter and take the summer off for practice," she explains. "My homework goes on all the time."

Asked why she decided on a comeback, she replied: "Lack of divers."

Wimbledon runner-up, against Mario Llamas, 31-year-old veteran who seldom loses a match on home courts.

FRASER RECOVERED
The latest doctor's examination disclosed Fraser apparently has recovered from the mild appendicitis attack, which struck him earlier in the week. His blood count had returned to normal and he said he felt no more pain.

Now the big question is can Australia's southpaws harness their big game attack in the mile-high atmosphere of this city enough to thwart an upset plotted by the well conditioned and blade-sharp Mexicans.

Harry Hopman, Australian team captain, said the Aussies have restrung their rackets to make the gut looser and thus deadlier. The idea is to give the players better control. Some say this is a tactical error. Hopman himself, admitted he is not sure.

Pancho Contreras, member of the Mexican Davis Cup squad, said all Mexicans play with looser rackets and thus obtain better control. He said he thought the Aussies smart in making such a change.

Braves Recall Slugger Lee Maye
LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—The Milwaukee Braves Friday recalled Louisville outfielder Lee Maye, the American Association RBI leader with 80. The Negro star's 340 batting average is third in the league. He also has 17 homers, only one behind the leaders.

Classic Competition Expected From American And Russian Track Greats

Associated Press Sports Editor PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The United States and Russia clash today in a dual meet that brings together most of the world's best men and women in track and field.

America is favored to win in the men's events and Russia in the women's in the two-day competition which, with good weather should draw 40,000 both days to Franklin Field.

The forecast for the weekend is good. Rain has fallen off and on most of the week but stopped Friday.

The powerful Russian team includes such stars as Igor Kashkarov, who has high jumped 7 feet ¼ inch; Vasily Kuznetsov, who has bettered the world record in the decathlon; and Igor Ter-ovanyan, a 26-foot broad jumper.

The United States is counting on veteran ace Harold Connolly in the hammer, Al Oerter in the discus, Greg Bell in the broad jump, and Parry O'Brien in the shot — all Olympic champions — together with such sensational youngsters as Ray Norton in the sprints, Tom Murphy in the 800, and Al Cantello, who recently threw the javelin 282-3¼ to better the world record.

TOP WOMEN
In the women's events the United States is looking to Darlene Brown in the weights, Isabelle Daniels in the 200, and Wilma Rudolph in the 100 for points.

One of the blue ribbon events should be the pole vault. Russia has a 15-foot pole vaulter in Vladimir Bulatov, but the USA's Don Dragg, who set a world indoor record at 15-9½, should stop him.

The high jump brings together three men who have bettered the magic seven foot mark — Kashkarov and his team-mate, Yuri Stepanov, pitted against Charles Dumas of the United States.

The United States might surprise in the distances with Bill Dellinger in the 5,000; John Thomas, who set a world record in the high jump at 7-1¼; and Glenn Davis, world record holder in the 400 meter hurdles.

Opening ceremonies today are at 4 p.m. ADT, but competition starts in the broad jump at 3:40 p.m. in order to give Russia's Ter-ovanyan a chance to compete in both this event and the decathlon.

Coach Willis Casey of North Carolina state said he didn't think any of the quartet would be forced to miss the three-day meet with Japan's best starting Monday night.

Four Swimmers Sidelined In Japan Friday

TOKYO (AP)—Four of America's touring swim squad were sidelined Friday by injuries and sickness.

Coach Willis Casey of North Carolina state said he didn't think any of the quartet would be forced to miss the three-day meet with Japan's best starting Monday night.

LITTLE LEAGUE OOP

—By TED ANDERSON—

Teams in the Little League in Sherbrooke and Waterloo are all in stretch run now and who is going to walk off with the honors is the question of all concerned.

Bruce Smith has his Senators sitting in top spot at present but Al Savage's Red Sox are breathing down their necks. Red Sox have a game in hand and are at the moment two points behind the league leaders. Red Sox and Senators meet next Wednesday night and this game could be a deciding factor on who wins the league title.

We would say at this point the odds favor the Sox looking at the remainder of the schedule. Yankees and White Sox, though they might not win the league, will be dangerous in the playoffs. Any one of these two could upset the old applecart.

Yankees, in their away from home games, have quite a following. The interest by the parents who have sons in the league is very encouraging and it would be nice to see this example followed by other parents. Had an interesting talk with Mrs. Garard, Mrs. Sample and Mrs. Coates the other evening and it is really interesting to listen to their comments. Anyhow ladies it's nice to have you around.

Waterloo, visited the other night, have a nice league going there. They are looking forward to the first season for them to take part in the Provincial playoffs. It's a big venture for them and this corner wishes them all the luck in the world. Roger why not try and come up to the Parade Grounds in Sherbrooke next Wednesday evening when our two top teams meet. It would be nice if you could pay us a visit.

See where chief umpire Bill Webb is having quite a time down where the sea breezes blow and also that friend Al Savage has been away on a fishing trip. These fellows have been getting wonderful weather for their vacations.

Notice where the Wongs are still out in front in the P.O.N.Y. league. There's quite a sprinkling of Little Leaguers up there this season and the youngsters, are according to all reports, holding their own. Take in one of these P.O.N.Y. league games and you will see some good baseball.

Tony Kubek Hurt After Collision

NEW YORK (AP) — Yankee outfielder Tony Kubek was injured and carried off the field Thursday after he had collided with shortstop Gil McDougald in the eighth inning of the first game of a doubleheader with Cleveland.

Kubek was hurt but not unconscious in the hard collision. He and McDougald had gone after Rocky Colavito's high pop fly in left field. McDougald dropped the ball after they bumped heads and Vic Power came home from second with the run that tied the game 4-4.

VIEW OF THE SHERBROOKE COUNTRY CLUB AT THE E. T. OPEN

Eastern Townships Caters To Golfers

The Eastern Townships is well equipped for the golf fan who wishes to get away from the hub of city life, and relax on the links.

For instance the Sherbrooke Country Club, one of three eighteen hole courses in the E. T., offers a well laid out and difficult course for the golfer who thinks he would like to break par.

Another test for the expert, and average golfer along with the duffer is the nine hole Asbestos Golf and Country Club located near the civic centre in the mining town.

Fifteen miles this side of Asbestos overlooking Richmond and the St. Francis River is the Bellevue Golf, a nine hole layout. Comparatively easy, the courses offers relaxation to golf addicts in the area. A new club house has just been opened this year. Not too far from Sherbrooke is the Waterville course which has been growing more popular every year, and the Dufferin Heights has long been noted for its splendid panoramic view of the countryside.

Aside from the above mentioned clubs, one may find a golf course in nearly every major town throughout the Eastern Townships. To the south and not far from Newport, is the popular Orleans Country Club, with an 18-hole course and excellent facilities.

School Fair Fund Augmented By Tea Sale In Cookshire

COOKSHIRE — Trinity United Church Hall formed a perfect setting for the Women's Institute tea and sale in aid of the School Fair Fund, with its tables attractively centred with white mallow and gypsophila in red vases.

The tea was under the capable convensership of Mrs. Hamilton, with an efficient staff of helpers in the kitchen. They served squares and cookies with the usual cup of tea to friends from Bury, Sawyerville, East Angus, Lennoxville, Bulwer, Birchton and Leamington Plain.

The table of home cooking was quickly cleared and the others with sewing, plants and all sorts of novelties, tended by the W.I. members were well patronized and proceeds were most gratifying.

The School Fair committee takes this opportunity to express their appreciation to all who assisted in anyway, to make this annual affair so successful.

In September will be held the 9th consecutive School Fair, each year an outstanding venture, and with the continued co-operation of all concerned, as in the past years, the committee plans one bigger and better than heretofore.
