INTRODUCTION

This report presents an overview of secondary school graduation and qualification rates, by administrative region and school board. Graduation and qualification rates (the indicator) are provided for four cohorts according to the duration of studies (observation period) and sex. The additional information found in the appendix should foster a better understanding of the results.

This information document is intended for educational institutions and the general public with a view to enabling:

- public and private educational institutions to have access to information for evaluating their educational practices, comparing their effectiveness over time and comparing their performance with that of other educational institutions
- the general public to have access to official information of the Ministère de l'Éducation, du Loisir et du Sport (MELS)

When the graduation and qualification rates of a specific school are compared to the rates in Québec as a whole, the different contexts and characteristics of that school must be considered as certain factors may affect the student results recorded. Such factors include:

- Family situation: The support and availability of parents, their financial situation and the family's standard of living in general are among the factors that may affect a student's academic achievement and whether the student pursues his or her studies until a diploma is earned. For example, studies have shown that the academic achievement of students from socioeconomic disadvantaged areas is generally lower. School boards have access to socioeconomic indicators for each of their schools and they should take these into consideration when reviewing results.
- Mother tongue: The proportion of students whose mother tongue is not the language of instruction may have an impact on academic results and on the graduation and qualification rate of an educational institution.
- Academic path and admission requirements: The path followed by students during their studies and the different admission requirements may help explain results.

1. GRADUATION AND QUALIFICATION RATES

1.1 Definition

This report presents the graduation and qualification rates for students under the age of 20 who obtained their first diploma 7 years after starting secondary school in the youth or adult sector or in vocational training.

1.2 Methodology

To calculate the graduation and qualification rate, a cohort of students first enrolled in Secondary I at the beginning of the observation period is followed for seven years. The graduation and qualification rate is calculated after 5, 6 and 7 years of study. For example, the rate of the 2003 cohort was based on the proportion of students who had first enrolled in Secondary I at the beginning of the 2003-2004 school year and who were awarded their first diploma in 2009-2010. Thus, among the 98 061 students of this cohort:

- 60.7% received their first diploma in 2007-2008, after 5 years
- 7.9% received their first diploma in 2008-2009, after 6 years
- 3.7% received their first diploma in 2009-2010, after 7 years

In sum, the graduation and qualification rate of the 2003 cohort is 72.3% after 7 years of secondary studies.

1.3 The diplomas considered

The following diplomas are considered for the purposes of calculating graduation and qualification rates: the Secondary School Diploma (SSD), the Diploma of Vocational Studies (DVS), the Attestation of Vocational Specialization (AVS), the Attestation of Vocational Education (AVE), the Certificate in Life Skills and Work Skills Education, the Certificate in On-the-Job Training in a Recycling Facility, the Prework Training Certificate (PTC) and the Training Certificate for a Semiskilled Trade (TCST).

Only the first diploma obtained by the student is used to calculate the graduation and qualification rate.

1.4 MELS calculation of graduation and qualification rates

MELS currently uses two measures for graduation rates: the proportion of the general population that earns a first secondary school diploma and the graduation rate by cohort. These two measures provide the same type of information, but they are not intended to answer the same questions or needs.

The graduation rate by cohort, covered in this document, makes it possible to follow students who enroll in secondary school for the first time. Students who transfer during their secondary studies (e.g. in Secondary II) and enroll in another institution are not taken into account. This method of calculation was developed in 1991 to allow for school board reporting and comparisons. The graduation and qualification rate per cohort before the age of 20 allows school boards to assess student retention and academic success as well as measure the degree to which they have attained the objectives set in their partnership agreements. This indicator, which other Canadian bodies do not provide, is specific to MELS. It can not therefore be used for Canadian or international comparison purposes.

To measure the overall performance of the education system and allow comparisons with other provinces and with OECD countries, the indicator published in Section 5.2 of the Education Indicators (published since 1986) is used. This rate corresponds to the proportion of the population that obtains a first secondary diploma or qualification. It is calculated by comparing the number of graduates to the population and can be presented by sex and age (before the age of 20 and after); it cannot, however, be calculated by school board,¹ which is why the cohort method is also used.

¹ It is not possible to establish a given population per school board based on census data. For example, a student living in Montréal-Nord may fall under the Commission scolaire de la Pointe-de-l'Île or the English-Montréal School Board.

2. RESULTS

2.1 Overview

Table 1 presents the graduation and qualification rates of four cohorts: those of 2002, 2003, 2004 and 2005. For each one, the rate is given by observation period and sex.

In Table 1 only, the graduation and qualification rates for all of Québec, found at the beginning of the table, also specify the rates for students from public schools and private schools. The method used to calculate the rates cannot be applied to individual schools because of their limited number of enrollments, which would yield results of little statistical significance.

The graduation and qualification rates for an administrative region include only the students in the school boards of that region. The rates of English school boards are given in the region of the board's head office, even though some schools are located in another region. In fact, regardless of where students received their first diploma, they are recorded as having graduated from the school board where they first enrolled in Secondary I.

2.2 Findings

The graduation and qualification rates of the four cohorts progressed steadily throughout the observation period. After 7 years of study, the graduation and qualification rates of the 2002 and 2003 cohorts were 71.9% and 72.3%, respectively. After 6 years of study, the rates were 68.4% for the 2002 cohort and 69.8% for the 2004 cohort. After 5 years of study, the 2002 cohort had a graduation and qualification rate of 59.4% and the 2005 cohort, 62.9%.

Table 1 clearly demonstrates that the graduation and qualification rates increase if one or two additional years of study are taken into account. The 2002 cohort, which had a graduation and qualification rate of 59.4% after 5 years of study, showed an increase of 9 percentage points after 6 years, and an additional 3.5 points after 7 years. Similarly, the graduation and qualification rate after 5 years of study for the 2003 cohort rose by 7.9 percentage points after 6 years and by 3.7 points after 7 years.

The gap between the graduation and qualification rates of girls and boys remains: after 7 years of study, the rates for boys from the 2002 and 2003 cohorts were 65.6% and 66.0%, respectively, compared with 78.3% and 78.8% for the girls.

1. The calculation of graduation and qualification rates takes into consideration students who leave school because they are emigrating from Québec. Estimates of these school leavers are based on observations in elementary school. Newly available data indicate that students re-enrolling in school after having interrupted their studies for at least one year have been included in these estimates.
2. The graduation and qualification rates by administrative region correspond to the weighted sum of the data of school boards falling under a given region. Only the graduation and qualification rates for the public school system are considered.
3. The results by school board are calculated on the basis of the school where the student first enrolled in Secondary I.
4. The results for all of Québec also include those for private schools and government schools. It should be noted that the school board method cannot be used with each private school because of their limited number of enrollments, which would yield results of little statistical significance.
5. The territory of these school boards extends into more than one administrative region. The graduation and qualification rates for these school boards are included in the administrative region under which the school boards fall.

1. The graduation and qualification rates by administrative region correspond to the weighted sum of the data of school boards falling under a given region. Only the graduation and qualification rates for the public school system are considered.
2. The results by school board are calculated on the basis of the school in which the student is enrolled.
3. The results for all of Québec are from the public sector and the private sector.
4. The territory of these school boards extends into more than one administrative region. The graduation and qualification rates for these school boards are included in the administrative regions under which the school boards fall.
