Fire guts downtown block

By ROBERT MACPHERSON
(Record Reporter)

SHERBROOKE — Firemen today are investigating the cause of a two-alarm fire Friday which gutted a downtown block and left about a dozen families homeless.

A Sherbrooke Fire Department spokesman said last night it is believed the blaze, which also hit businesses on the ground floor of the four-story apartment building, began in a top story wardrobe.

It took some 40 firemen and nine vehicles about an hour after the first alarm was sounded at 2:45 p.m. to bring the inferno under control, and another two before they returned to the stations.

No one was injured, as all persons inside the brick structure owned by Gaston Ginguets of Drummondville were safely evacuated.

Few open flames were visible from the street, where a crowd of hundreds gathered to watch. But thick smoke and moderate winds caused a large part of the East Ward to be clouded over during the first ninety minutes of the fire.

When firemen entered the building shortly after the fire was controlled, they found the top floor — where the origin is believed to be — devastated. Lower floors suffered from smoke and water damage.

Damage to the building has been estimated at around $50,000. But the figure is expected to mount as investigations get underway.

Heavy Friday afternoon traffic continued to flow, as police detoured it around the burning block.

Those businesses that were affected were the Chevaline Butchery, Leitner Ski Shop, and a furniture repair shop owned by Georges Anto.

Other establishments in the block, including the Capitol Theatre and the Albert Hotel, sustained minimal damage.

Most of the homeless stayed with relatives or friends in the city.

A sidelight to the incident occurred inside the crowd watching the fire, when police picked up a young man wanted for theft and traffic violations. He did not resist arrest.

Recovering

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — The Nixon family's optimism is rising with reports that Pat Nixon is out of the critical stage in her recovery from a stroke that might leave her partially paralyzed.

Former president Richard Nixon said late Sunday as he left Long Beach Memorial Hospital that he is encouraged by his wife's progress.

Nixon and daughters Tricia Cox and Julie Eisenhower spent more than four hours with Mrs. Nixon. It was the longest visit since she was admitted to hospital Thursday, the day after she was stricken.

Earlier Sunday, doctors said Mrs. Nixon is no longer in the critical stage, but he warned that the danger is not past.

"Due to the nature of the stroke, there is always a chance of a patient's condition suddenly deteriorating," said a hospital spokesman. "Mrs. Nixon's blood pressure is responding to treatment and remains within normal limits."

Mrs. Nixon has been listed in serious but stable condition since her arrival at the hospital Thursday. Doctors say they are still uncertain about the cause of the stroke, but a hemorrhage is mostly likely.

Taiwan situation

IOC bows to Ottawa

By ROBERT WINTERS
MONTREAL (CP) — The International Olympic Committee (IOC) executive board bowed Sunday to the Canadian government's demand that Taiwan athletes not be allowed to compete in the summer Games under the name of the Republic of China.

The executive recommended that the 75 members of the IOC, who are to meet Tuesday in general assembly here, accept a proposal that Taiwan athletes compete under the Olympic flag rather than their own in the Games, which begin Saturday.

But the Taiwanese have threatened to pull out of the Games if the recommendation is accepted.

IOC President Lord Killanin told a news conference that "this is an extremely unfortunate day in Olympic history and I'm sorry that it had to happen at the beginning of the Montreal Games."

Glen Shortliffe, special assistant to the external affairs minister, said in Ottawa Sunday night that "we are very pleased that the IOC executive board has found a solution to its aims and which is satisfactory to Canada."

SOME OPPOSED
However, some Olympic officials in Montreal expressed bitter feelings.

Harold Wright, president of the Canadian Olympic Association, said: "This is the blackest day in Canada's history."

"We welcome the youth of any country into the Olympic movement, but not the politicians."

Philip Krumm, president of the United States Olympic Association, said a "cold and calculating look" will be taken at whether his country's athletes will participate in the Montreal Games following the IOC board's decision.

Mr. Krumm was quoted last week as saying the U.S. would re-evaluate its position if Taiwan is not represented at the event.

He said no decision would be made until he had met with Taiwanese delegates to discuss the situation.

The nine-man IOC executive board's decision followed two days of meetings behind closed doors amid strict security in the downtown Queen Elizabeth Hotel.

Lord Killanin told reporters he had been in almost constant contact with Canadian government officials since his arrival, but the government had been adamant in its stand.

He defended the board's decision not to withdraw sponsorship of the Games by saying:

"If we withdrew our sponsorship of the Olympic Games, we would lose complete control forever."

HURT ATHLETES
Sponsorship was not withdrawn because this would have hurt the athletes who have been training for the Games, Lord Killanin said. The City of Montreal and the Canadian Olympic Association have also acted correctly, he added.

Lawrence Ting, vice-president of Taiwan's Olympic Committee, told a news conference that if the board's proposal is accepted by the IOC session Tuesday, the Taiwan team will pull out of the Olympics.

Lord Killanin said he could not remember a case in which a board decision was overturned by an IOC session.

He said he would discuss the issue of political intervention with representatives of the Soviet Union's Olympic Committee, which is responsible for the 1980 summer Games in Moscow. "We will have to have more effective guarantees in the future."

But the IOC executive board had not ruled out a change of heart by the Canadian government. A statement Sunday night said the board "appeals formally to the Canadian government to review its attitude in keeping its word, and holds it entirely responsible for any harm which the Olympic movement may suffer."

SEEKS CHANGE
The IOC has insisted that Canada changed its position on the Taiwan issue since 1970, when Games were awarded to Montreal. The IOC has said the government undertook to give free access to all committee-approved national Olympic committees and athletes at the time.

Canada has refused to allow Taiwan's athletes to enter the country unless they abandon any claim to representing the Republic of China.

Queen draws cheers

BOSTON (AP) — The Founding Fathers of the United States would have been surprised but pleased, said the Queen, as she heard the cheers of thousands at the spot where colonists first read a Declaration of Independence from Britain.

They would have liked the idea, she said, "that eventually we came together again as free peoples and friends and defended together the very ideals for which the American Revolution was fought."

Her reception was certainly different from anything King George III would have received when Massachusetts was a rebellious colony.

Spectators lined the route of her motorcade tour, stood on rooftops and looked from windows to catch a glimpse of the only reigning monarch ever to visit this city.

Banners saying "Welcome Liz" were strung from apartment buildings and cyclists pedaled furiously to keep pace with the royal limousine.

The Queen and Prince Philip stood and waved to well-wishers from the balcony of the Old State House, where the Declaration of Independence was read for the first time to the people of Boston.

WELCOMED BY MAYOR
"We could think of no one person who could do a bicentennial greater honor by their presence than the Queen," said Boston Mayor Kevin White as he welcomed her.

The Queen began her visit in the company of the 200-year-old frigate USS Constitution. Old Ironsides sailed alongside as the royal yacht Britannia glided into Boston Harbor, where rebellious colonists dumped British tea into the water 200 years ago.

The Queen toured the Constitution, and as she left, 16 crew members, resplendent in navy uniforms of 1812, jumped into the lower rigging and gave three cheers.

Then the Queen visited the Old North Church for a morning service.

The church is best known for its lanterns that dispatched Paul Revere on his midnight ride to warn the colonists that British troops were coming.

Democrats meet

NEW YORK (AP) — Jimmy Carter is wrapping up his vice-presidential interviews as he waits triumphantly in the wings for tonight's opening of the Democratic national convention.

The convention, staged at Madison Square Garden, is expected to nominate Carter for the presidency Wednesday night by an overwhelming vote amid a harmony that contrasts to divisive party fights in 1968 over the Vietnam war and 1972 over party reform.

Senators Frank Church of Idaho and Adlai Stevenson of Illinois, meeting Carter today, are the last of seven finalists for the vice-presidential nomination to be interviewed.

Carter said Sunday he has three names at the top of his list but said he is keeping an open mind until the interviews are over.

The peanut farmer and former Georgia governor who dazzled the political establishment with his long-shot run to the nomination said he will wait until after his own nomination before announcing his choice of a running mate.

HAS NEEDED DELEGATES

With 19 primary victories to his credit and The Associated Press delegate poll showing him with 1,653 votes, more than the 1,505 needed for nomination, Carter is wrapping up a campaign that is a sharp contrast to the close and bitter Republican nomination battle. A month ahead of the Republican convention, President Ford leads conservative challenger Ronald Reagan by only a handful of votes.

Seldom in recent political history has a potential presidential nominee had so much freedom of choice. "I've had a unique opportunity in not having to respond to the pressures of special-interest groups," Carter said Sunday. He was speaking of issues, but the implication extended throughout his campaign.

"I've gone directly to the people because the powerful political figures didn't have any confidence that I might win," he said on a television panel show.

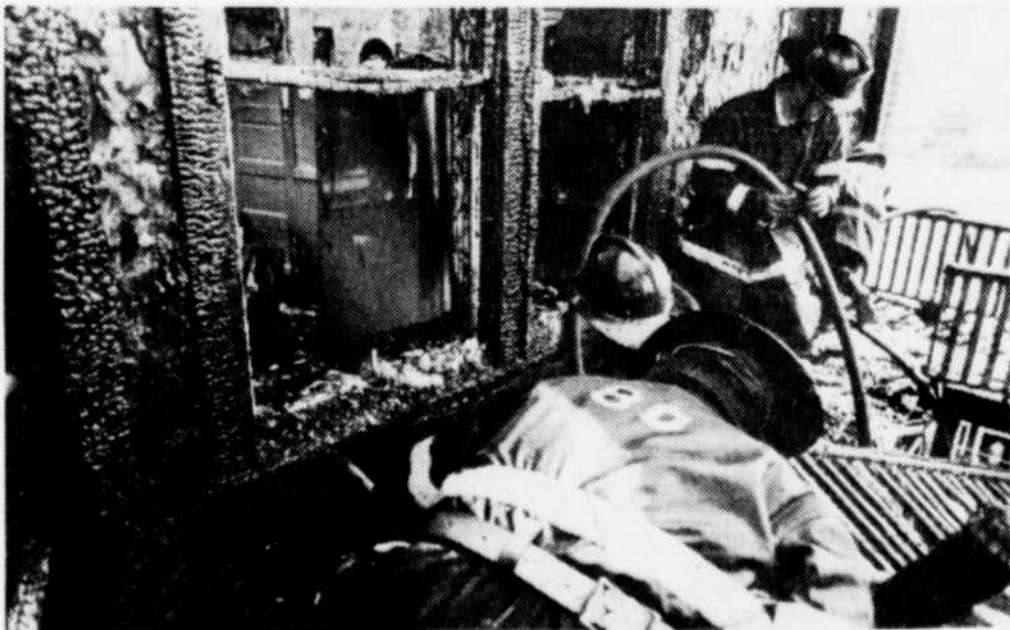

The vice-presidential selection has emerged as the major unresolved issue at the convention in the absence of a race for the top of the ticket and the calm of a party platform so secure that it's already printed and bound and in the hands of each delegate.

CHOICE NOT CRUCIAL

Carter's personal public opinion pollster, Patrick Caddell, has concluded that no particular vice-presidential prospect would appreciably help or hurt Carter's own chances of winning the fall election, campaign aides said.

The Carter staff said Caddell's polls show that the strength and diversity of Carter's own appeal make the No. 2 spot almost irrelevant. The only possible trouble spot, they say, is that he not make an especially bad choice which might develop into a major scandal or embarrassment.

Senator George McGovern of South Dakota, the party's 1972 nominee, suffered a setback when it was discovered that his running mate, Senator Thomas Eagleton of Missouri, had undergone electric-shock treatment for depression. Eagleton was dropped from the ticket after that disclosure.

THREE VILLAGES

Glenys Miller
876-7409

BIRTHDAY PARTY
Mrs. Marianna Carruthers of Rock Island entertained at the luncheon hour in honour of her younger son, David, on Tuesday June 29, his 8th birthday.

Eight of his friends and his brother, Brian, gathered to play games and watch a grateful and lovable boy open his birthday packages.

A delightful lunch was enjoyed, along with the traditional birthday cake, made by his mother.

About 2 p.m. a stuffed, but happy gang of almost big boys, could have been seen running home, each knowing that everyone loves a party.

STAN-ROCK CLUB

The Stan-Rock Christmas Club met at the home of Mrs. Mildred Rever in Rock Island on Wednesday evening, June 30.

With only seven members present, due to the stormy night, Bingo was played along with the usual talk and tell.

Marathon prizes were won by Mrs. Joyce Jarvis and Mrs. Ruby Simpson.

Members were happy to see Mrs. Wineta Miller present, who, due to her affliction, is unable to attend many meetings.

A delicious lunch was served by the hostess and it was noted that the next get-together will be on August 25 at Mrs. Edna Chamberlain's home in Rock Island.

CHIT-CHAT CLUB

Nine members gathered at the "Terrace", home of Mrs. Mable Crawford in Rock Island on Wednesday, June 30.

After a short business session, Bingo was enjoyed by the gang, with marathon prizes going to Mrs. Irma Lepitre, Mrs. Pearl Crawford, Mrs. Violet Ritcher and Mrs. Opal Johnston, who also won the door prize.

Fresh picked from Mrs. Crawford's garden, of which she takes a great deal of pride and enjoyment, a bowl of roses made a brilliant splash of pink on the center of the golden lace-covered table, from which Mable served lovely refreshments, assisted by Mrs. Pearl Crawford and Mrs. Antoinette Breault.

During the usual hour of friendly chit-chat, Mrs. Breault read a number of humorous selections to end a pleasant evening on a glad note.

Mrs. Opal Johnston hopes to entertain all the members when the Chit-Chatters get together again at her home in Beebe in July.

RICHMOND — A small but very enjoyable birthday party was held in June when Miss V. Miller, Mrs. M. Johnston, and Mrs. N. Fowler of the Melbourne Ridge W.I. were hostesses.

Simple but amusing games were played and several prizes given, after which a lovely lunch of homemade bread, cheese and cookies was served. Each guest received a small gift and a generous serving of the tasty birthday cake made by Miss Miller. Mrs. M. Armstrong was a guest and enjoyed pouring tea for her friends present. Mr. R. Malcolm voiced appreciation to the hostesses for the very pleasant afternoon provided for the guests of honor - Mrs. R. Morrison, Mrs. M. Blake, Mrs. E. Gillander, Mrs. G. Dawson, Mrs. N. Force, Mrs. A. Sterling, Mrs. A. Kenworthy, Miss D. Lewis, Mrs. G. Mastine, Mrs. J. Hancock, Mrs. J. Hutchison, Miss B. Page, Mrs. N. Frazer, and Mrs. A. Pollard.

Once again we are happy to report meetings being held by Church and other groups here in the Home, so that old time friends and former co-workers may attend and feel once more a part of the organization in which they were once active and vitally interested.

Recently, members of the Trinity-Plymouth Church of Sherbrooke served tea to their resident friends and their roommates and spent a very enjoyable time together. The same afternoon several Residents were driven by their friends to Melbourne Ridge U. Church where they too enjoyed fellowship with their former neighbours and friends. It is nice to be remembered by those now carrying the responsibilities in various groups.

The semi-annual meeting of the Wales Home Aux. was held on June 20 in St. Anne's Church parlour. There was a fair attendance and all important reports were heard. All were pleased to learn of the success of the weekly Wed. p.m. visiting in the infirmaries here and of the pleasant tea party for patients in the Norton Bldg. recently. Plans were made to make these teas a monthly affair as so many of those requiring infirm care are unable to attend the regular teas, sponsored by local ladies in the Rec. Room.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Knight, Mr. and Mrs. J. Pendleton, Miss E. Lanigan and Mrs. M. Armstrong were among the 43 persons who made the bus trip to Quebec City recently. The tour was under the direction of Richmond 50-Plus-Club and included lunch and a tour of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church and Manse, a visit to the Plains of Abraham and Lower Quebec and a short stop at St. Bridgette Senior Citizens' Home. The day was warm and the countryside beautiful.

Another trip, this time sponsored by the Home, was made the following day, when 46 happy residents travelled by bus and were guests of the Sher-Lenn Club in Sherbrooke. We were given a royal welcome and piped to our places at the table by Mr. I. Nutbrown, Mrs. S. Gaulin, co-ordinator and Canon J. Franklin, rector of St. Peter's Anglican Church, also spoke words of welcome. Every one enjoyed the box lunch prepared by the Home staff and served with a beverage prepared by the host group. A lovely programme was presented by the vocal and instrumental group which has recently been formed in their club. After a social time, afternoon tea was served, at which time Mrs. L. Farley voiced the appreciation of the group for the afternoon of good fellowship together.

The "Mackenzie Raiders", with Don Chamberlain as M.C. and song leader, Mrs. A. Clark with her auto-harp, H. Stevens, his violin and Wm. Lowry and V. Farrant, their guitars, furnished the residents with a full evening of entertainment of music and song. Mr. E. Clark Rinaly operated the projector as the songs were flashed on the screen and Miss E. Salway expressed appreciation to the entertainers and urged them to make a return visit soon; this was followed by loud applause, by the residents.

We were surprised and pleased to have members of the Salvation Army who are stationed in Sherbrooke for a 6 weeks period, visit the Home recently. After the visitors had enjoyed supper in the Staff D.R., all met in the Day Room where Capt. McNeilly, Lt. Pat Webber and Debbie Wilson and Cadets Mrs. N. Watt and Holly Gollert led in prayer and song for a short time. Although given short notice, a generous donation was made to Capt. McNeilly to further the work of the Army of which the Residents have always been keenly interested.

Mrs. A. Pollard and Miss D. Lewis were again feted on their birthdays when friends from Granby arrived with the makings of a birthday lunch for them and their friends. The refreshments included a lovely birthday cake and all enjoyed a social hour around the tea table.

Mrs. M. Clifford, a member of the staff who is a young mother-to-be, was guest of honor at a shower recently, when her friends and co-workers, Mrs. L. Beattie, Miss M. Muir and Mrs. H. Brown were hostesses. Many nice gifts were received and a pleasant evening spent, before light refreshments were served. Mary expressed thanks to the hostesses and guests for the pleasant surprise party in her honor.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Farley are spending a week's holiday in Toronto, guests of Mr. and Mrs. D. Bockus and Peter. They will also visit friends in Ottawa for a few days.

Friends are pleased to learn that Mr. Golden Henderson is gaining nicely in hospital after undergoing treatment for a serious heart condition. He is expected home shortly.

Shuffleboard is again creating considerable interest as 16 residents entered the tournament this week. There were 30 spectators in the first evening's match. When this tournament is completed, everyone will be looking towards the croquet matches, under the direction of Mrs. T. Michaud. A great way to spend a nice summer evening.

Sweetsburg Court

SWEETSBURG WARD (JM) — Francois Gasc, Sherbrooke, who earlier pleaded guilty to three counts of breaking and entering and theft in the District of Bedford, was handed a two year suspended sentence and placed on probation for the same period by Judge Guy Genest in sessions court here Monday. Gasc will have to report to a probation officer monthly as a condition of freedom.

Donald Sullivan, Arnprior, Ont., pleaded guilty to a charge of having been illegally at large from the Cowansville Penitentiary March 3, 1976. Crown prosecutor Claude Noisieux said: "It's another classic case of not returning from a pass," prior to asking one month additional.

Jean Riou, Legal Aid Office, told the bench his client was on a three day pass when he was stalled by a snow storm. "He telephoned the penitentiary authorities and explained the situation and they told him to stay put until he could return," Mr. Riou said. "He went to Pembroke where he was arrested on an outstanding charge and has been incarcerated since then. I feel the interests of justice would be amply served with two weeks additional as he has lost over a month and a half statutory remission."

Judge Genest determined the accused had only been free from custody one week prior to handing down the two week term suggested by the defence.

Paul Spic, Montreal, who earlier pleaded guilty to a charge of theft of automobile wheels valued at under $200 in Farnham earlier this year proved he had completed restitution to the owner. Crown attorney Noisieux then indicated he would be satisfied with a one year suspended sentence which was imposed by Judge Genest.

Alain Robitaille, no fixed address, pleaded not guilty to two counts of breaking and entering and theft, and to one of fraud, in Granby last week. He was remanded in custody pending trial before a magistrate alone, July 8.

Jean Paul Cadorette, Granby, changed his option and pleaded guilty to a charge of simple assault in Cowansville during October 1975. His lawyer explained Mr. Cadorette was the chief organizer for the confederation of National Trade Unions and the incident arose during the strike at Vilas Industries when his client threw an egg which hit one of the non-strikers on the chest. He suggested his client be given the benefit of an unconditional release under terms of article 662-1 as it was an isolated incident and his client had no prior record.

Crown attorney Noisieux agreed with the suggestion of the defence and Judge Genest handed down the suggested sentence.

Leo Thibault, 25, Granby, changed his option and pleaded guilty to a charge of having induced police in error by falsely reporting his automobile had been stolen. He was fined $50 and costs, in default eight days.

Real Lazure, Cowansville, was fined $200 and costs, in default 30 days, when he pleaded guilty to a count of impaired driving in Cowansville. Judge Genest imposed the heavy fine when Crown Prosecutor Noisieux told the court the accused had pleaded guilty to a similar charge on January 16.

Wilfrid Bachand, Adamsville, pleaded guilty to a charge of impaired driving when his blood-alcohol level was 200 milligrams. He was fined $125 and costs, in default 30 days.

Armand Choquette, Cowansville; Francois Bernier, St. Dominique; Jean Noel Marois, Waterloo; Maurice Vigneault, St. Amable; Real Ostiguy, Roxton Pond; and Raymond Braun, Sherbrooke; all pleaded guilty to charges of impaired driving in the District of Bedford. They were each fined $100 and costs, in default 30 days.

Marc Andre Gosselin, Rosaire Coutu, and Georges H. Brodeur, were found guilty, in-absentia, of impaired driving and were fined $100 and costs, in default 30 days.

Robert Marchand, Cowansville, was found guilty, in-absentia, of refusing to submit to a breathalyzer test. He was fined $50 and costs, in default eight days.

Trial in the case of Danielle Bachand was adjourned to August 23 when defence lawyer Robert Brisebois explained his client was in a detoxication clinic. Miss Bachand of Granby, is charged with 20 counts of fraud.

No weekend fatalities in Sherbrooke Region

SHERBROOKE (JB) — At least 67 persons died accidentally in Canada during the weekend.

A survey from 6 p.m. Friday to midnight Sunday showed 41 traffic fatalities, 17 drownings, four fire deaths, two electrocutions, two deaths by lightning and one death in a fall. Quebec had 12 traffic fatalities and nine drownings. No traffic fatalities were reported in the Sherbrooke area.

Four persons were injured, none seriously, in a two car collision, 3:05 a.m. Saturday at the corner of Chaveau and Leger Sts. The four were released from the Hotel Dieu Hospital after treatment. Both cars were heavily damaged.

One man was slightly injured when his 1974 Nova struck a lamp post on the Trans-Quebec Highway near Galt Street. The mishap occurred at 3:19 a.m. Saturday.

A two car collision at the corner of King and Belvedere streets at 2 p.m. yesterday resulted in two injuries. The injured were released from the Hotel Dieu after treatment.

At least 20 other minor accidents were reported.

Regional development grants awarded firms

MONTREAL (RM) — Three regional firms are among nine in the province which will share $553,275 of federal regional development incentives from the federal government.

Malabru Plastic Inc., of Magog has accepted $56,000 for a new facility to manufacture fiberglass products. The project is expected to create 14 jobs and generate investments of over $280,000.

Some 25 new jobs will come out of a $75,000 for the expansion of the Fontaine Body Ltd. plant in East Farnham. The Cowansville-based company's project is expected to create over $375,000 in investments.

Polybois Inc., of Thetford Mines will use its grant of $13,600 for expanding its plant where special institutional furniture is manufactured. Nine new jobs and over $68,000 in investments are expected.

The grants are subject to conditions specified under the Regional Development Incentives Act.

Summer theatre season underway

Fun and imagination prevail in Piggery Theatre production

Fun and imagination found a summer home last Thursday evening when Peter Shaffer's ingenious farce Black Comedy opened at the Piggery Theatre in North Hatley.

Sporting an unusually adept cast, Black Comedy is one act of well organized disorder. Using an effective comic device, the audience is made to believe by the intricacies of lighting, that they are watching a group of people stricken by a power failure. When the curtain rises the stage is in total darkness, and when the power goes off, the stage lights come on. Being in the light of darkness is a difficult mood for actors to sustain, nevertheless, with glazed eyes the cast carries us into their 'magic darkness' with ease.

The darkness breeds madness and hilarity. Watch Miss Furnival rape her virginal lover with alcohol and follow the roguish antics of Brindley Miller as he attempts to keep his two mistresses apart in the dark. The play is highlighted by neighbour Harold's unexpected return to the fold. In Harold's absence, Brindley had 'borrowed' all of his furniture, and now must somehow secretly replace it all in the dark. Frantic confusion spirals as Brindley makes attempts to conceal his peculiar behavior from Harold.

Leading the cast through a series of well executed physical acrobatics and mental gymnastics, director David Rittenhouse has captured the spark of human folly in darkness. Black Comedy has an incredibly fast pace, and as the action accelerates the play grows more comic.

As Harold, Jack Medley radiates a glow of excitable affectation. Suddenly realizing that he has been lazing in his 'borrowed' furniture in Brindley's flat, Harold flaunts his disapproval while professing admiration for Brindley's body.

A positive rhythm of confusion and merriment is kept constant throughout the play. As furniture is being rapidly removed and replaced, people are tripping over their own feet and stumbling into walls.

While the durable and realistic set weathered a storm of complete chaos, well executed lighting enhanced the characters dark plight.

Study planned for co-op abattoir

SHERBROOKE (NF) — At a news conference held Friday, Roland Guimond, president of the Bishopton Regional Council, announced that the provincial government has awarded the council a $19,300 subsidy to study the feasibility of establishing a co-operative abattoir in the Bishopton area.

The government subsidy represents 90 per cent of the cost of the study being presently conducted by the firm of Drouin and Paquin of Montreal. Local members of the Union des Producteurs Agricoles (UPA) contribute the final ten per cent of the cost.

"The beef producers in this area have been working for years towards establishing a co-operative abattoir," Mr. Guimond said. "We expect to receive the findings of the study by September and we are hoping that it will show the abattoir to be a financially sound proposition."

The abattoir will handle beef and veal animals only.

Guy Manseau, director of the Regional Beef Producers syndicate, said the study is only a first step. Should the recommendation of the study be favorable the next step would be to contact the individual beef producers and see if they favor the construction of a central abattoir.

Mr. Manseau continued, "If the study makes a negative recommendation we will consider other alternatives. We feel that a co-operative abattoir to handle the slaughter of locally grown beef is a must."

Mr. Guimond, who is also president of the E.T. Beef Producers Association, stated that producers must have control of their animals. "The study may consider the possibility of a retail beef outlet attached to the abattoir," he said.

A government spokesman pointed out that a few of the eight abattoirs located in the Bishopton area have already closed down. New government norms insist that an abattoir slaughter a minimum of 100 animals a week.

"The co-operative abattoir is a new idea and the government is treating it like a pilot project," he said.

Mr. Guimond has been working towards the establishment of a co-operative feedlot and abattoir, run by the local farmers, for almost five years now. The Bishopton area, because of its geography and topography, is ideally suited to the raising of beef.

Mr. Manseau pointed out that a large co-operative feedlot and abattoir would do much towards producing better quality beef for local consumption.

"It would also stimulate industry and create jobs for the young people in the area," he said.

Festival Lennoxville play pokes fun at the seventies

Festival Lennoxville opened its fifth season of Canadian repertoire Friday night with Betty Lambert's satiric comedy Sqrieux-de-Deux (Skroo-de-doo) under the direction of Richard Ouzounian.

Ms. Lambert offers the chance to step outside yourself and mock the contemporary conventions to which all men and women are bound. She pokes fun at society, taking into account the values, idiosyncracies and outdated laws of the seventies.

Sqrieux-de-Deux is not a complicated play to un-

Maggie Askey, Gramma steals the show. When she tells you in confidence of killing her husband with homemade jam you will applaud her charming madness.

Twice a week for the past five years, George Partridge has led a comfortable home life with his mistress, Gracie. At the domestic front is Brenda, whose continual crusade for new and improved sexual devices exhausts George. Robert Haley gives a convincing portrayal of George, as a man whose fantasy prefers macaroni and cheese to sweetbreads.

The set is built upon a revolving stage that smoothly ushers the audience from Gracie's plush apartment to Brenda's bizarre interior designs. The towering skyscraper is painted by set designer Michael Eagan.

Equipped with gadgets and gimmicks to make you blush or beam, Sqrieux-de-Deux is a rare find. Not only is it Canadian, but it is good Canadian comedy.

Bilrite taken back by discrimination allegation

SHERBROOKE (RM) — American Bilrite Rubber officials were taken back Friday by implications made that it discriminated against firms outside the province.

"We buy from everywhere," said plant manager Maurice Jackson when asked to comment on the allegations made Wednesday by Brian Harrison, controller for the Toronto suburb of Scarborough.

Mr. Harrison asked that the council not purchase 138 lengths of fire hose made by Bilrite and sold through an independent distributor.

Instead, he urged that Ontario-made hose be acquired. But the council finally decided to go with the Bilrite product, which was the lowest in cost at $13,600.

No details of what Mr. Harrison meant by discrimination were available. But Mr. Jackson said he had never heard of such allegations and regarded them as a "bombshell."

American Bilrite's plant here is only one of a number the multi-national company operates.

Every business leader has both the ability to envision an opportunity for investment and an irresistible desire to take a gamble, Rodrigue J. Bilodeau, President of The Canadian Manufacturers' Association, told members of the Canadian Institute of Management at their Annual Conference in the Skyline Hotel.

These basic traits, he said, work toward the goal of business profitability, which is "essential not only to the perpetuation of the enterprise but also to the continued quality of its contribution to the economic progress of the country."

Beyond these characteristics, "the leader carries within him a sense of idealism, a vision of what might be, but with all his visionary quality, he must still be able to differentiate readily between realistic and impossible expectations."

Mr. Bilodeau, who is Chairman of Honeywell Limited, Scarborough, said business leaders must also possess the capacity to assume specific responsibilities. One is to work together in a program to inform the public about industry's contribution to the social and economic well-being of Canadians, and its outstanding performance in meeting their needs.

He said the message must be expressed so that the average Canadian will understand and relate it to his own personal situation, interests and aspirations; for example, the tie-in between job security, job enrichment and productivity, the link between productivity and the purchasing value of salaries and wages, and the economic and social uses of corporate taxes.

The CMA president said business leaders must also broaden the scope of their interest and concern beyond their respective sectors and provide moral leadership, "particularly vis-a-vis the youth of this country, who want to find in us some source of hope and inspiration for the future."

An equally important responsibility is to develop leadership qualities in employees in order to ensure competent succession in leadership and to fill the new posts created by expansion. The object in a business enterprise, the CMA President said, is to provide an environment favorable to the cultivation of whatever latent leadership qualities individual employees may possess.

The development of leadership through formal training programs strives to teach not only technical competence, but also a variety of skills in human relations, communications and the supervision and guidance of others. The best programs combine "broad guidelines on policy, orientation and goals that proceed from the top downwards, with input from the bottom upwards in the development of detailed objectives."

Mr. Bilodeau listed the following characteristics of emerging leaders: an overwhelming desire to achieve; a sense of purpose; infectious enthusiasm; self motivation; genuine concern for others; willingness to take on additional responsibility; no fear of hard work; a concern with improving society through initiative and achievement.

Canada-United States Energy Relations

"The strong degree of economic interdependence between the United States and its major coal customers is such that outright coal embargoes are improbable. Even if U.S. domestic pressures to limit surges of coal exports became irresistible, one would expect regular Canadian buyers to be favoured." This is the main conclusion reached by Professor Richard L. Gordon in a new study, Coal and Canada-U.S. Energy Relations, released recently by the Canadian-American Committee. This study examines critically the long-term use of coal as an alternative energy source in the United States and the implications for Canadian consumers.

Much of the popular enthusiasm for coal as a potential source of energy rests on very poor information regarding the economic viability of coal deposits throughout North America. Professor Gordon believes that the official estimates of U.S. reserves do not rule out the prospects of a substantial move towards coal in the future, but they do suggest that known, low-cost supplies are inadequate to warrant such a development. Similarly, reserve estimates in Canada raise serious questions as to whether western reserves can contribute measurably to Canada's future energy requirements.

Commenting on the outlook for coal, Professor Gordon contends that "the long run prospects for coal in its existing markets, let alone in markets currently supplied by other fossil fuels, remain quite unclear at this time." Steam coal, traditionally used to generate electricity in Ontario and in the eastern United States, will face a growing challenge from nuclear power. Moreover, the conversion of coal into synthetic oil and gas does not appear to be economically viable at this time and will require much greater development before we can say anything about its long-term future. In addition, the author points out that technological developments in the production of steel may substantially reduce the demand for coking coal.

Until well into the 1980s, the United States will probably be using an increasing amount of coal, since other domestic alternatives cannot be developed readily and there will be resistance to any greater reliance on imported oil. Professor Gordon stresses, however, that there are a number of U.S. policy measures that are currently contributing to significant delays in developing new coal supplies.

Mine health and safety laws. Recent legislative changes affecting the operation of U.S. mines have contributed to a once-and-for-all drop in productivity in underground mining and to higher operating costs, thereby jeopardizing coal's long-term competitive cost position.

Strip-mining regulations. The controversy over the environmental impact of strip-mining is expected to intensify as the United States looks to the west for new coal; yet without some easing of current restrictions, the outlook for western production is very uncertain.

Land-leasing policies. The U.S. government, as principal owner of mineral rights, has not formulated a comprehensive leasing policy, and leases on substantial tracts of coal-bearing lands remain blocked.

Control of sulfur emissions. The pressures to implement, without delay, stringent air pollution standards are inconsistent with a policy to promote a substantial increase in coal-burning facilities.

As long as these issues, particularly those concerning the environment, remain unresolved, the author cannot accept the view that a substantial shift towards greater coal consumption will place in the United States in the medium to long term.

Turning to the Canadian situation, Professor Gordon observes that the economics of transporting western-based coal to central Canada has not been favourable to date. Accordingly, Canada has developed substantial export markets in Japan for coke, and has relied heavily on the closer and cheaper sources in the United States for requirements in Ontario. The author maintains that Ontario consumers will continue their heavy dependence on U.S. imports until such time as the cost of western coal becomes more competitive with that of U.S.

The reliance need not be a source of indefinite insecurity for Canada, however. For "every indication suggests that in the longer run developments in the U.S. coal market are unlikely to create unmanageable problems for Canada in securing U.S. coal," the author claims. "The anticipated opening of major new mines in the western part of the United States should reduce any supply pressures in the eastern producing regions, thus assuring Canadian consumers continued access to U.S. supplies."

The probability of some form of U.S. supply restrictions in the short run is more difficult to reject. Nonetheless, Professor Gordon contends that "the exports to Ontario Hydro by themselves are not a particularly likely threat for control, since Ontario Hydro is essentially absorbing only a small fraction of U.S. coal production and sequestering the coal for U.S. use would have no measurable impact on coal supplies."

Metallurgical coal exports to Canada, on the other hand, could be the object of an embargo, given that the best sources of U.S. coking coal have already been depleted. Professor Gordon discounts this prospect because he believes that there are significant benefits arising from U.S. coal exports that make it very unlikely that the United States would resort to supply cutbacks; for example:

U.S. electrical utilities rely heavily on interconnections with Canadian utilities in several provinces for extra power at peak demand periods; currently the U.S. imports more than it exports;

The U.S. steel companies would not support any form of supply restrictions for fear that Canada would do the same on its shipments of iron ore and nickel to the United States.

The study concludes by noting that it is highly unlikely that the United States would restrict coal exports purely on the basis of a tightening in the U.S. coal market. Rather, disruptions in coal supplies would occur only as part of the aftermath of a general breakdown in Canada-U.S. energy relations. The author believes, however, that both governments realize the mutual benefits of the present and potential exchange of energy and the great importance of preventing the occurrence of such a breakdown in relations.

The Canadian-American Committee, consisting of 100 leaders from business, labour, agriculture, and the professions from both countries, was founded in 1958 and carries on a program of studies and development of recommendations on policy issues between Canada and the United States, as well as issues faced jointly by the two countries. The current study is the Committee's 41st publication.

DONATO
TORONTO SUN

The Bolles Story — Part II

WASHINGTON — The loudest cries of outrage over the brutal murder of Don Bolles, investigative reporter for the Arizona Republic, have come from members of the Arizona political establishment.

Since his death last month, the state legislature has whittled away at the wrongs he had exposed, including the Funk-Emprise dog racing monopoly, and has come up with $100,000 for the murder investigation.

Yet during all the years Bolles was warning how hoodlums were robbing the taxpayers, Arizona officials squirmed a little but did nothing. Bolles would have condemned the hypocrisy.

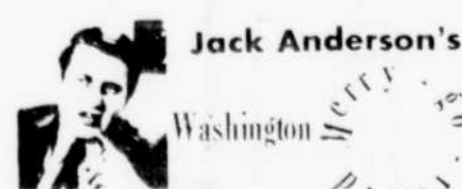

We sent one of our own investigative reporters, Larry Kraftowitz, to Phoenix to follow up the stories that Bolles never finished. Kraftowitz learned that Bolles had been in secret contact with a Phoenix businessman, named Fred Porter Jr., who was battling the Funk-Emprise dog racing interests.

In an earlier column, we reported that the two had worked together closely right up to the day Bolles was blown up in his car. Among the last words he gasped were: "Mafia... Emprise... They finally got me."

The frightened Porter sought protection from the Phoenix police who kept him under guard for three days. The same day the guard was withdrawn, Porter was slugged over the head twice with a pipe and left for dead on the ground.

Retracing Bolles' steps, Kraftowitz also learned that the Arizona Republic reporter was working on another story. Six days before he climbed into his bomb-rigged car, Bolles contacted Phillip E. Jones, who had helped to prepare a legislative staff report on land fraud.

We can now publish the story that Bolles probably would have uncovered if he had lived. We have learned that the land fraud report was mysteriously torn up. The research division, which drafted the report, was also disbanded as part of a staff reorganization. Several of the staff members were fired.

Jack Anderson's

Some powerful legislators apparently were unhappy over their investigative zeal. The suppressed report, according to sources who saw it before it was destroyed, accused certain regulatory agencies of failing to cooperate with land fraud investigations. The report also hinted that high state officials were aware of the land frauds but were treating them with massive indifference.

Two watered-down reports eventually were published. But the staff members who worked on them were harassed. When portions of the second report leaked to the press, the staff man who wrote it, Leon Beene, was chewed out by his supervisor, Harry Gutterman. At the time, Gutterman reported to the legislative leadership.

Tersely, Gutterman warned Beene never to make a move without first consulting him. Beene continued to meet secretly with police investigators, nevertheless, warning that he'd be fired if caught.

Footnote: Beene confirmed he had drafted the reports on land fraud but refused to discuss his reprimand. Gutterman had no comment.

Creeping Corruption: The corporations that do business in Washington seldom resort to anything so gross as bribing public officials. Rather, the corporate pleaders engage in creeping corruption so gentle that the officials often don't recognize that they have been corrupted.

By a series of small favors, the influence artists seek to instill in the officials a feeling of personal obligation. The favors range from theater tickets and imported liquors to French perfumes and free transportation. It is the accumulation, rather than any single gift, that gradually obligates the courted officials.

Throughout the process, the officials often persuade themselves that there is no connection between the favors they receive and the decisions they make. But they wind up losing their sense of dedication to the public and feeling a greater loyalty to their new corporate friends.

Aerojet-General, for example, wanted to sell about $2 million worth of rocket equipment to a Japanese firm. This required an export license from the State Dept., which consulted the National Aeronautics and Space Administration for advice on the Aerojet contract.

One of NASA's deputy assistant administrators, Steve Doyle, played an important role in providing the State Dept. with the answers about Aerojet. Suddenly, the corporation sought out and befriended this obscure official.

Doyle was wine and dined by Aerojet executives. One executive, Tony Piantes, took Doyle and his wife to dinner and the theater. Aerojet also offered Doyle some scarce Washington Redskins football tickets and invited him to a corporate Christmas party.

Footnote: Doyle acknowledged that he had been a luncheon and dinner guest of Aerojet. He was invited to the football game, he said, but did not attend. Doyle conceded that he had "participated" in reviewing cases involving Aerojet for the State Dept. But both Doyle and Piantes strongly denied any wrongful intent.

AIB retail food price
index moderates

OTTAWA — Food price increases moderated between mid May and mid June, the Anti-Inflation Board's food price index shows. The index at mid June was 117.2, which is 0.5 per cent higher than it was in mid May. This increase follows the 0.8 per cent increase that was registered during the previous four-week period up to mid May.

Despite these increases the AIB retail food price index is still only at its January 1976 level, and has advanced only four per cent during the last 12 months. In view of the fact that the Food-Consumer-at-Home component of the Consumers Price Index has not registered a yearly increase of less than five per cent since November 1971, this most recent annual increase must be viewed favorably.

Price Information, from which the AIB's index is composed, was obtained from surveys of prices in supermarkets in 12 major urban centres covering all ten provinces, up to the week ending Friday, June 18. The AIB food price index and Statistics Canada's Food-Consumer-at-Home component of the Consumer Price Index are calculated in the same manner and follow each other closely.

Any significant increases in food items that did occur during the month were either seasonal in nature as in the case of fresh fruit and vegetables, or a result of influences external to Canada as in the case of coffee. These price increases were partially offset by lower egg and sugar prices.

Retail beef prices have remained relatively stable during the month to June 18 and are now 4.1 per cent below a year ago. The AIB weekly monitoring of the spread between wholesale and retail prices indicates that spreads have not changed appreciably since mid-May. This halts a trend of narrowing spreads that occurred between mid-April and mid-May. Live cattle prices declined by about $1.00 per cwt. during the month of the survey. At current live cattle market prices, cattle raisers and feeders are incurring substantial losses.

Pork prices declined slightly during the month, but are nevertheless still 8.3 per cent above levels of a year ago. In contrast to 1975 when pork prices advanced sharply, no substantial rise in pork prices are anticipated by Agriculture Canada for this summer. As a consequence, price comparisons between 1975 and 1976 are likely to improve as the summer progresses.

The dairy products price index increased by 0.7 per cent during the month of the survey. Small advances in cheese prices, a consequence of recent changes in Canadian dairy policy, and higher ice cream prices in the Quebec market caused this increase. Currently, the dairy products index stands 2.7 per cent above the level of a year ago.

Retail egg prices declined 1.5 per cent during the month, from the relatively stable price levels which had prevailed since November 1975. The current decline in egg prices reflects competition at the retail level, primarily in the central provinces. Despite the decline of the last few weeks, the retail egg price index continues to average close to 30 per cent above year earlier levels.

Retail poultry prices are 0.4 per cent above month ago levels and 10.9 per cent above last year's level. Prices for principal cereal and bakery products showed little change over the month, and are currently 1.9 per cent above levels of a year ago.

The fats and oils price index increased by 0.4 per cent since mid May. This component of the food index has been relatively stable since April. It is now apparent that the impact of a sharp decline in crude edible vegetable oil prices, that occurred up to the beginning of 1976, has now been fully reflected in retail prices. Fats and oil prices are currently 12.7 per cent below year ago levels.

Fresh fruit prices advanced by 0.5 per cent during the month. Apples are more expensive in certain urban centres. Nevertheless fresh fruit prices are 4.1 per cent below levels of a year ago.

Prices for fresh vegetables advanced during the survey period by four per cent with increases for potatoes and tomatoes in most urban centres contributing to this advance in prices. Fresh vegetable prices are 24.3 per cent above year ago levels, with exceptionally high potato prices caused by a poor 1975 harvest contributing most of this increase. Vegetable prices are almost certain to decline in the early fall when product from 1976 crops, particularly potatoes, come to market.

The Other-Food component of the index declined 1.6 per cent over the period. Lower sugar prices were the principal reason for the decline. The Other-Food Index is currently 2.1 per cent below a year ago.

Substantial increases in coffee prices have again caused the beverage index to rise. The beverage index increased 4.1 per cent from mid May and stands 21.1 per cent above a year ago.

Retail egg prices declined

Forgrave-Ward Wedding

SAWYERVILLE — The marriage of Cynthia Joy (Cindy), daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Grant Forgrave of Norval, Ontario, to Bruce Sydney Ward of Bury, took place on Saturday, April 17, at the Sawyerville United Church with Rev. Gordon Simons officiating at a double ring ceremony.

Before the ceremony Miss Beverly Smith rendered two solos, accompanied by her of the bride, wore a floor length gown of pink and blue printed dacron and polyester with which she wore pink accessories and a corsage of pink carnations. The groom's mother, Mrs. S. Ward, chose a floor length blue polyester dress with white accessories and a corsage of yellow carnations. The bride's grandmother, Mrs. Sadie Lowd, wore a yellow print dress with a yellow corsage.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Ward

mother of the organ. During the singing of the register Scott Lowd, cousin of the bride played selections on the violin.

The bride, given by her father, wore a floor length gown of polyester satin ending in a long train. Her veil was held in place by a tiara and her bouquet consisted of a cascade of yellow roses and baby's breath. The matron of honour was the bride's sister, Mrs. Donna Suitor of Calgary, Alberta. She wore a floor length dress of yellow and green print with green accessories. The bridesmaids, Miss Susan Ward of Bury, sister of the groom, and Miss Sharon Hancock of Abercorn, friend of the bride, wore dresses similar to the matron of honour with yellow accessories. They all carried colonial bouquets of yellow and white daisies.

The two flower girls, Tina Laroche and Leslee Thompson, nieces of the bride, wore long dresses of the same material as the other attendants and wore Holly Hobby bonnets of the same material. The carried baskets of yellow and white daisies.

The best man was Rene Brus of Ayer's Cliff and the ushers were Lynn Forgrave of St. Anne de Bellevue, brother of the bride, and Larry Everett of Bury, friend of the groom.

Mrs. G. Forgrave, mother

Following the ceremony, the bride and groom visited Mr. E. Lammeren, grandfather of the groom, and Miss Marilyn Ward, sister of the groom, who were unable to attend the wedding.

The reception, held at the Sawyerville Elementary School, was spent dancing to Nugent's orchestra. Later lunch was served to about 350 guests. The bride's table was centered with the traditional wedding cake, made by the bride's mother and decorated by Mrs. Lynn Forgrave.

The guest book was in charge of Miss Penny Ward and Miss Lana Forgrave.

The bride's going away outfit was a pale blue pant-suit with white accessories. The couple have taken up residence at 126 Wellington St., Brantford, Ontario.

A rehearsal party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harley Laroche when the bride and groom presented their attendants with gifts and Mr. and Mrs. Laroche served refreshments.

Prior to the wedding the bride was entertained at showers given by Mrs. Ann Daniels and Mrs. Claudia Bjelan of Brantford.

Guests attended from Sherbrooke, Brantford, Ont., Foster, Abercorn, Lennoxville, Montreal, Bury, Ottawa, Bulwer, Calgary, Alberta, St. Anne de Bellevue and surrounding districts.

Stork Shower

BURY — On Thursday evening July 1st, Mrs. Robert Dougherty of Mississauga, Ont., was the guest of honour at a stork shower at the home of Mrs. Marjorie Dougherty with Mrs. Everett Davies (Evelyn) as co-hostess.

On Linda's arrival she was escorted to a chair beneath multi coloured streamers, a necklace with a rattle and soother was put around her neck and a basket of gifts placed in front of her.

She was assisted in opening the daintily wrapped gifts by Mrs. Stuart Dougherty and Mrs. Verna Hunting. As each gift was opened and passed around to be admired, Linda thanked the donor individually.

After all the gifts had been opened, Evelyn Davies brought in a tray loaded with 15 baby articles and passed it around. Each person was handed a paper and pencil to see how many of these articles they could remember. Mrs. Gordon Dougherty won the prize for having the most correct. Evelyn then gave the tray and its contents to Linda as her gift.

Delicious refreshments were served by the hostesses, including a daintily decorated shower cake, iced in white and paired with a miniature pair of pink booties, with pink roses on each side and tiny pink roses at each corner.

Those present besides the hostesses, were Mrs. Verna Hunting, Lena Herring, Lillian Olson, Jessie Herring, Violet Tarrant, Irene Fisher, Carolyn Tribble, Nina Rowell, Mavis and Tamara Quinn, Audrey Dougherty, Joyce Dougherty, Winnie Dougherty, Dora Dougherty, Betty Dougherty, Lena Dougherty and the guest of honour, Linda Dougherty and little daughter Angela.

As each guest left for home, Linda thanked them for coming and again for the gift.

25th Anniversary

STANBRIDGE EAST — Mr. and Mrs. Murray Blinn of Stanbridge East celebrated their 25th Wedding Anniversary June 30 when their friends and neighbours gave them a surprise party and presentation at the Memorial Hall. Over 200 guests attended.

Mr. and Mrs. Blinn were enticed from their home by some friends, to go to an ice cream social, that evening and one can imagine their surprise on being ushered into the large hall, amidst much cheering and hand-clapping. They had no inkling of what was in store for them until they arrived at the hall, it had been such a well kept secret.

Mrs. Blinn, having regained her composure, remarked "The people on my street are the biggest liars of anywhere in the country." Mr. Blinn, somewhat flabbergasted, said, "If I had had twenty minutes notice of what was going on, you would not have seen me in this hall tonight." From those remarks one can judge that it was a complete surprise to Murray and Inez. This secret, having been kept by several hundred people, makes one pause for thought.

After congratulations from the large crowd, Mrs. Blinn was presented with a corsage of roses by Donna Cook and Bridget Whelan before being escorted to the head table and seated in front of a lovely wedding cake made by Mrs. Moore, a neighbour. Across the front of the table was "25th Anniversary" in large silver letters.

After some welcoming remarks by Mr. Ken Darbyson, Mr. Roger Testu was asked to propose a toast which he did in a very hilarious manner which brought about much laughter.

After the toast, Mr. Blinn replied with some well chosen words, then turned the mike over to his wife for some last words, "as usual", so he said. Many pictures were taken of the happy couple cutting the cake. This having been accomplished, the guests were invited one table at a time to go to the long buffet table and fill their plates. Such an array of so many kinds of salads, platters of all kinds of cold cuts, dessert squares, cakes, celery, radishes and olives are rarely seen except on an occasion such as this. Liquid refreshments to suit everyone's pleasure were also provided during the evening.

The Murray Blinns were appropriately presented with a purse of silver dollars as each guest had been asked to bring one or more if they so wished. This nearly caused a run on the Bedford banks. Unfortunately, Mr. Blinn's mother, Mrs. Alice Blinn who had planned so much on being present was unable to do so, as she had just previously been taken to hospital.

Mrs. Ken Darbyson was the coordinator of this happy event, having been greatly assisted by many kind friends and neighbours.

Guests attended from Montreal, Cowansville, Knowlton, Bedford, Pigeon Hill, Farnham, Frelighsburg, Dunham Sutton and Richford, Vt.

Many more anniversaries are wished this happy couple.

Bridal Showers

ROCK ISLAND — Sunday morning, July 4, Miss Susan Bowen, home for a week from New Brunswick with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Bowen of Rock Island prior to her marriage on July 17, was the guest of honor for a shower held on the lawn of Mr. and Mrs. George Hatch, Customs Hill, Rock Island.

Susan, Mrs. Bowen and a sister, Miss Sheila Bowen came over to the Hatch's, their neighbours, to bring lawn chairs supposedly for a family dinner of the Hatch clan. Arriving, Susan was taken by complete surprise to find most of the Hill neighbours gathered and others from Granby, Ayer's Cliff, Lennoxville, Sherbrooke and Boundary Villages.

Mrs. W.B. Dustin and Mrs. Geoffrey Pyne, co-hostesses with Mrs. Hatch, presented corsages of yellow roses, orange blossoms and ribbons to Susan, Mrs. Bowen and Susan's maternal grandmother, Mrs. W.H. Davis. Then the trio were seated at a table piled with gaily wrapped and ribboned gifts. The decorations consisted of white shower covers, accented with daisy patterns, and complemented by arrangements of black eyed susans on the lawn. The guests in a circle viewed the lovely and useful gifts as they were circulated to be received by Susan's sisters, Mrs. Thomas Laming and Sheila who placed them on display.

Susan thanked everyone for the lovely items for her and Celest's new home in Halifax, N.S., and invited them to visit them if ever in Nova Scotia.

Sherry was served, then a buffet luncheon of salads, rolls and chips. Mrs. Pyne presided at the coffee time and a punch bowl filled with iced tea. Susan cut her shower cake, made and decorated by Mrs. Benoit Blais in the double bells design. It was iced in light green and decorated with orange, brown and yellow and "tied" with white tulle and lily of the valley.

After a chit-chat, the guests departed for their respective homes wishing Susan all good wishes for many years of happy

ROCK ISLAND — Miss Helene Boisvert and Mr. Rock Simard were invited to the home of Helene's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Denis Bouchard for a steak cook out at 5 p.m., June 29. On arrival, Helene was completely surprised to find some 45 relatives and friends gathered to shower her with gifts honoring their July 10 marriage.

Amid salutations, Helene was escorted to a chair reserved for her. The prettily wrapped and ribboned packages were arranged on a table. She was assisted by her mother, Mrs. Conrad Boisvert, and Mrs. Luc Simard, mother of the groom elect, the latter of Sherbrooke. The lovely gifts of linens, china and kitchen ware were circulated and admired by all.

Helene graciously voiced her appreciation for the lovely and useful gifts. Sherry was served and later a buffet supper of salads, sweet breads, assorted sandwiches, desserts, coffee and tea was served from the dining table enhanced with seasonal flowers which decorated the home.

The hostesses were Mrs. Bouchard and Mrs. Richard Boisvert.

Guests attended from Newport, Sherbrooke, Beebe and the Three Villages.

SUSAN LEILA, 11 month old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond McConnell of Sawyerville, granddaughter of Mr. Chilton Lowry of Eaton, Mr. and Mrs. Phillip McConnell of Ayer's Cliff, Great-granddaughter of Mrs. Ruth Wilson, Sawyerville.

Enamel kettle called black

By Polly Cramer

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY — How can I restore the inside of a white enamel kettle to its original color, after it has turned dark from use? — VIOLET.

DEAR VIOLET — Care must be taken not to chip the surface on enamelware, so remember steel wool could darken or scratch the surface of such a white pan. You might scour with a tough stain household cleaner with chlorinol in it. I have let a strong solution of bleach and water stand in such a pan until stains disappeared and noted no bad effects. — POLLY.

DEAR POLLY — Ruth wanted to know how to remove sticky glue left after labels are removed from many household items. For years I have taped adhesive tape, gummed plastic tape or masking tape directly on top of such a sticky mess and find it peels off with the tape. I have used this on scarves, dishes, appliances, plastic, etc. The stickier the better and if it does not feel sticky rub your finger over it until it does and then the tape will pull it off. Old smears might have to be treated several times but it has always worked like a miracle for me. Good luck! — DELORES.

Ann Landers says:

Hairy chests mean nothing

Dear Ann Landers: The letter to Elmer's wife was my laugh for the day. Why any woman would attach so much importance to the hair on a man's chest is a mystery to me.

My brother happened to have a very hairy chest and he was so proud of it he showed it off at every opportunity. He especially enjoyed displaying his bountiful growth in the presence of my husband who had very little hair on his chest.

One day I happened to run across a magazine article that surprised me. It said men with hairy chests were fooling themselves if they considered it a sign of manliness. The more hair on the chest (according to the person who wrote the article) the more female hormones the man had. He went on to say the hairy-chested male is more likely to produce female children while the less hairy-chested man is more apt to have sons. (My brother has four girls and one boy. We have three boys and one girl.)

After I showed that article to my brother he strutted a lot less and kept his shirt buttoned more. — Last Laugh

Dear I.L.: That article may have solved an irritating problem for you, dear, but according to Dr. Norbert Freinkel, Director of the Center for Endocrinology at North western University Medical School, there is no convincing evidence that links the quantity of chest hair with the level of female or male sex hormones. Also, it has nothing whatever to do with the ability to have either boy or girl babies.

Dear Ann Landers: I am getting fed to the gullet with your incessant, relentless harping on the evils of liquor. You are so hipped on the subject I wouldn't be surprised if you were a closet nipper yourself.

You are forever quoting physicians as your "authorities." Have you noticed, Ann, there are more old drunks around than old doctors? Print this one, if you can think of an answer. — Jim Beam

Dear Jim: Those old drunks you see around are a lot younger than they look. The booze is what aged 'em.

Planning a wedding? What's right? What's wrong? Ann Landers' completely new "The Bride's Guide" will relieve your anxiety. To receive a copy, send a dollar bill, plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope (24 cents postage) to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120.

Lee-Hastings Wedding

Janet Wendy Hastings and Gary Ray Lee were married on Saturday, June 26, at 7:30 p.m. in First Christian Church, College Park, Georgia. The Rev. Gary L. Boyd officiated at the double-ring ceremony. Miss Hastings is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy J. Hastings of Clearwater, Florida, former residents of Sherbrooke, and the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cedric J. Hastings of North Hatley, and of Mrs. Finlay J. Nixon of The Wales Home, Richmond, Quebec.

Mr. Lee is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas G. Lee of Lancaster, South Carolina.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length gown of white dotted swiss, with an Empire waistline, a three tiered skirt and long full sleeves. She carried a nosegay of white daisies and baby's breath and wore an arrangement of flowers in her hair.

Mrs. Richard Whitehead, as matron of honour, chose a floor-length gown of yellow dotted swiss, fashioned on similar lines to that of the bride's. She carried a nosegay of yellow daisies.

Mr. Michael Lee, brother of the groom, acted as best man. The guests were ushered by Mr. Rudy Stacks, brother-in-law of the groom.

The bride's mother chose a floor-length gown of aqua knitted crepe, complemented with a corsage of white carnations.

The mother of the groom wore a pink floor-length gown of silk organza, offset with a pink and white corsage of carnations.

The reception was held in the Fellowship Hall of the church. Miss Sally Farren presided at the punch bowl and the Misses Lori and Cheryl Welton were in charge of the guest book.

Following the reception, the bride and groom left on their wedding trip, the bride travelling in a yellow and blue dress with white accessories. Upon their return from a cruise to the Bahamas, Mr. and Mrs. Lee will reside at 4887 Embarcadero Lane, College Park, Georgia.

Mrs. Lee was graduated from Watertown High School, Watertown, Conn., and from Springfield College, Springfield, Mass., with a Bachelor of Science in Education, and from Emory University, Atlanta, Georgia, with a Master's Degree in Librarianship. She is a librarian at Cedar Grove School in Fulton County, Georgia.

Mr. Lee was graduated from Lakeshore High School in College Park, Georgia, and from the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers Apprenticeship Program. He is an electrician with the Tennessee Valley Authority in Athens, Alabama.

Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Roy Hastings of Clearwater, Fla.; Mr. and Mrs. Theomas Lee of Lancaster, South Carolina; Mr. and Mrs. Michael Lee and children Michael and Paula of Columbus, Mississippi; Mrs. Loyce Brown of Sanford, North Carolina and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Whitehead of Chatham, N.J.

Confirmation Service

SAND HILL - A Confirmation service was held in St. Luke's Church, Sand Hill, on June 26 at 7:30 o'clock, when nine candidates were presented to the Bishop by Rev. R. Jervis-Read. They were Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Thompson, Cynthia and Donald Thompson, Allen and Joan Blodgett, Heather Blodgett, Brian and Jeffrey Pegg.

Rev. M.C.M. Jones served as the Bishop's Chaplain and the Rev. Allan Fairbairn assisted throughout the service and Mrs. Aylmer Pickett presided at the organ.

There was a good attendance at this service.

Following the Communion service which was incorporated in the Confirmation service, all went to the hall for a social time when the Bishop mingled with the people.

It was a pleasure to have the Bishop back for a visit as he was a former rector of the church.

The ladies of the ACW served lunch.

It is to be noted that the Rev. M.C. Jones is co-pastor of religious books for the Anglican Diocese of Quebec and is now living in this region.

For Tuesday, July 13, 1976

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You tend to expect more today than conditions warrant. Building unrealistic hopes is foolish. View things with a jaundiced eye.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Don't rely solely on Lady Luck and your good looks to get you by today. You'll have to work for any rewards.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Don't let hunches or intuition take precedence over logic today. If it doesn't compute in your mind, chances are it won't work.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Normally you can't be mistaken where bargains are concerned. Today, you may be taken in by the glitter and overlook the value.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Friends are prone to tell you what you'd like to hear today rather than give you a frank opinion. Bear this in mind.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You're liable to make some lavish promises today in order to get others to do things. Remember, if they produce you'll have to pay.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) It could prove costly on a risky financial expenditure to take the word of someone who tends to exaggerate.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Look for ways to trim the family budget today. Remember, it's not made of rubber and has limits to its elasticity.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You're liable to make some lavish promises today in order to get others to do things. Remember, if they produce you'll have to pay.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) There is a strong possibility you won't make the best of your opportunities today, especially if they happen to be material ones.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Important matters must be guided by your own hand today. Otherwise, the results won't be what you desire.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Be businesslike, but fair, today. Don't leave it up to someone else to determine the size of your piece of the action.

Craft Market very successful

SUTTON—Canada Day at Sutton Saturday Market attracted its usual happy crowd eager to see and buy the fine handicrafts and other goodies for sale.

FIRST AID TIP

LOW VOLTAGE ELECTRICAL INJURIES

● Usually incurred around the home ● Moisture is a conductor of electricity. If the point of contact is wet, even low voltages may cause paralysis of the heart, a sudden stoppage of breathing or both ● Local effect is a burn which is deeper and more extreme than it appears ● With faulty switches, water may continue to carry the current even when turned off ● Avoid contact with the casualty. Break contact by switching the current, removing the plug or wrenching the cable free ● If impossible to do, stand on some dry insulating material and by means of dry wood, folded newspaper or rubber, attempt to break contact by pushing the casualty's limbs away from the electricity ● Treat by giving artificial respiration if necessary and cover burns with a sterile dressing ● Seek medical aid.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

Jim: "We haven't discussed the bridge proverb such as 'second hand low for some time'."

Oswald: "Most of these go way back to whist. The reason second hand usually plays low is that his higher cards can usually be effective later on in the play. Thus, he only plays high second hand when he has some really good reason to make the play."

Jim: "In today's hand South should play dummy's queen of hearts immediately. It won't have any value at all later on, but may just win that first trick."

Oswald: "This time it does and South is on easy street. If he takes a diamond finesse against East, he is sure of eleven tricks. If he tries it the other way, he will only score ten."

Jim: "If East produces the king of hearts, South can run five clubs and then go after diamonds. This time a wrong guess will cost him his contract."

ASK THE JACOBY'S

We have had several more questions about the bonus honors in rubber and party bridge.

The answer is that it is awarded to the side of the player who holds the honors whether he is declarer, dummy or a defender.

BURRO RACING THE HARD WAY is more of a workout for Joe Glavinick of Leadville, Colo., than for his trusty steed, Ringo. Already five-time winners, they're in training for the 28th annual running of the World's Championship Pack Burro Race in which participants may walk, run or carry burros but not ride. Glavinick pushed Ringo across the finish line for last year's victory. The July 25 race in Fairplay, Colo., is a featured event of Colorado's Centennial Summer.

Equestrian Sport more than just riding a horse

Early man first started making great strides on land when his primitive means of transportation improved to the extent that he was able to cover fairly large distances in relatively short times.

The taming and use of the horses was the greatest development in early land travel and that animal has played an integral role in the advance of civilization for thousands of years.

Together, man and horse made possible the big migrations across continents, the peaceful and warlike conquests of Asia and Europe and the western movement of the pioneers in the New World. Originally the traveling, fighting and hunting companion of man, the horse eventually became his sport partner as well.

Early equestrian sports were war games, ways of training man and steed for cavalry duty in combat.

The first academies to promote peaceful development of pure sporting instincts were the Italian riding schools founded near the end of the 16th century. The idea soon moved to France and the schools in these two countries concentrate on teaching the art of dressage and academic horsemanship.

Riding to the hounds, very popular in Great Britain, led to out-door competitive riding and was the forerunner of cross-country and open field riding.

During the 19th century, equestrian sports became more organized as clubs and associations were formed but, unfortunately, most held on to their regional character and there was little interaction.

The first jumping competitions were held in the 1890s. An outgrowth of riding to the hounds as the standard rider's uniform still attests, this event was organized and regulated slowly. Academic dressage was still being practised at this time and precise rules soon made it a competitive sport.

The three-day event, one of the most demanding and exciting events in equestrian competition, was developed at the turn of the century. It was originally designed for cavalry officers and intended to show their ability to deal with any possible situation and highlight the merits of their war horses by demonstrating their reliability on any kind of terrain, their obedience and their endurance.

After the First World War, international equestrian sports competitions took on a new dimension with the creation of the first national federations. In 1921 eight countries banded together to form the Federation Equestre Internationale.

The first Olympic Games competitions took place in 1900 but the sport did not return until 1912. Since then, however, it has played an integral role in the Games.

Few Canadians, even those who know nothing of the sport, can deny the thrill they received on the last day of the 1968 Games in Mexico City when Canada won the Grand Prix Jumping event in the main stadium in Mexico City and the last gold medal awarded during the Games of the XIX Olympiad. It also was Canada's only gold during the Mexico Games.

Through the years, the list of equestrian events in the Olympic Games has undergone many changes but the program became stabilized at the 1932 Games at Los Angeles and is the one in use today.

INDIVIDUAL JUMPING EVENTS

At first glance, individual jumping events appear to consist of horse and rider leaping over a number of obstacles and leaving them intact.

However, the competition really is a test of the rider's physical, intellectual and moral resources. To obtain results, the rider and horse must act as one. The rider must establish mastery over the mount while aiding its movements.

The number of obstacles varies relative to the nature and distance of the course. A few of the principal barriers are the brush and rails, the stone wall and the triple bars.

In Olympic Games competitions, riders must complete two separate courses. The first cannot be longer than 1,000 metres with 12 to 15 obstacles. The second has a maximum of 10 obstacles. The top 20 finishers from the first event qualify for the second.

Horses are penalized for knocking down or refusing to jump an obstacle and faults committed over the two courses are cumulative. The winner is the rider with the fewest penalty points. There are also time penalties involved in scoring as each horse and rider must complete the course within the allotted time limit.

First-round obstacles vary from 1.30 to 1.60 metres in height and the course must include a water jump at least 4.50 metres long. Second-round obstacles may vary from 1.40 to 1.70 metres in height.

TEAM JUMPING

Because of its dash and great spectator interest, team jumping has been linked traditionally to the Olympic Games closing ceremony. As a result, it is the only equestrian event staged in the Olympic Stadium with all others taking place at Bromont.

A team comprises four competitors from each team in the two required rounds. The second round is reserved for the eight top teams from the first round and the detailed system of classifying the winning team is similar to that of the individual jumping event.

Team jumping rules call for a course not exceeding 1,000 metres with obstacles similar to those used in the first round of the individual event. Horse and rider must average 400 metres a minute or risk time penalties.

DRESSAGE

The first equestrian event admitted to the Olympic Games, dressage is geared towards the harmonious development of the horse's physique and ability. Throughout the series of events, the horse must remain calm, obedient and alert, thus achieving perfect understanding with its rider.

These qualities are revealed by the freedom and regularity of the paces and the balance, lightness and ease of movement. They also are evident in the way the horse remains straight in any movement on a straight line and bends accordingly when moving on curved lines. The horse gives the impression of handling itself but, in reality, surrenders fully to the rider's control.

In dressage competitions, all movements — and certain transitions from one movement to another — are marked individually by a panel of five judges on a scale of 0 to 10. Collective marks are awarded, after the competitor has finished the performance, for: paces, impulsion, submission, and the rider's position, seat and use of aids.

Team classification is decided at the end of the Grand Prix event and the winning team is the one with the highest aggregate score of the three riders.

THREE-DAY EVENT

As its name implies, the three-day event is a grueling and demanding test of horse and rider. It almost seems irrelevant to point out that "three-day event" is a complete misnomer — the competition actually takes place over four days.

The three-day event takes in all aspects of horsemanship. The first two days are devoted to dressage, although it is a much simpler program than that in the proper dressage competition.

The second part of the over-all competition which takes up the third day of the event is the endurance section. It is divided into four distinct phases.

Phase A, road and tracks, consists of a warm-up at a trot or slow canter for the second phase.

Phase B, steeplechase over country roads and tracks, is a test of speed, combined with jumping brush fences and puts the horse's endurance and physical condition to the test.

Phase C, road and tracks, is similar to the first phase but it is twice as long and the rider usually allows his mount to regain its strength before advancing to the fourth and final phase. At the end of Phase C, a veterinary inspection is held to assure that the horse is capable of continuing into the final phase.

Phase D, cross-country, is the most important part of the entire three-day event. Having already been put to a stiff test in the first three phases, the horse and rider are required to gallop over natural country terrain, jumping solids and imposing obstacles of logs, stone walls, water, banks and ditches to test the strength, condition and courage of horse and rider.

The last and fourth day of the three-day event is set aside for stadium jumping, a test held over a course of obstacles, which, unlike the solid obstacles of cross-country, fall down when hit by the horse. This event is meant to test the recovery of the horse's strength from the punishing endurance of the third day as well as the obedience demonstrated during the first two days of dressage.

This, in a nutshell, is the equestrian sports program which will be staged this summer at Bromont and Montreal. Once spectators become familiar with the intricacies and peculiarities of the sport, they will have a new understanding of the relationship between man (and woman, of course) and horse.

GETTING TOGETHER — Horse and rider negotiate a jump in the riding segment of the Modern Pentathlon. Unlike riders in regular equestrian competitions, the Modern Pentathlon rider has only 20 minutes to acquaint himself with his mount.

IOC faces another dilemma with Africa

As senior officials of the International Olympic Committee IOC continued searching for a solution to the Taiwan dilemma Sunday, a boycott by African countries loomed larger with the withdrawal of a second country and hints that others may follow.

The African threat gained momentum with the announcement by Mauritius that it was joining Tanzania in refusing to send athletes to Montreal as long as New Zealand was allowed to compete.

The Africans are protesting a current tour of South Africa by a New Zealand rugby team.

Other African countries with teams already installed at the Olympic Village in Montreal indicated they were awaiting instructions from their governments on whether to pull out as well.

MEETING PROLONGED
At a downtown Montreal hotel, IOC president Lord Killanin led key officials of the Olympic committee into a marathon session behind closed doors Sunday which continued into the evening. The only news on the talks during the day came from Monique Berlioux, general secretary of the IOC general secretariat, who told reporters that any decision on the Taiwan issue would have to be submitted to the 75-member general committee of the IOC, which begins deliberations Tuesday in Montreal.

The IOC officials met for several hours Saturday with representatives of the Canadian external affairs department over the government's refusal to allow Taiwanese athletes to participate in the Games under the name Republic of China.

Mrs. Berlioux indicated the IOC officials were awaiting some "supplementary information" regarding Taiwan's participation, but did not say who would supply it.

NO NEWS OF CONTACT

A spokesman for the external affairs department in Ottawa said the officials did not return to Montreal Sunday and would not say whether they had been in contact with the IOC officials.

Glen Shortliffe, special assistant to the minister of external affairs, told reporters Saturday the government was not prepared "to have public proclamations in Canada of anyone purporting to represent the Republic of China."

However, Mr. Shortliffe and his colleagues described their talks with the IOC as positive and indicated they were optimistic that a settlement would be forthcoming.

A Finnish member of the IOC was quoted by a Helsinki newspaper as saying in an interview from Montreal a compromise seems likely in the dispute.

Erik von Frenckell said Taiwan may drop its insistence on competing as the Republic of China and instead take part as Formosa—the name it used at the Rome Games in 1960.

wins in LWBL

St. Isidore, Rand and Clark chalked up victories in the Lennoxville Women's Softball League.

On Tuesday St. Isidore ran over the Waterville squad 22-11 while the Clark team ran up an 18-7 verdict over the Rand.

In the Waterville-St. Isidore tilt it was a heavy hitting battle with N. Montigny belting out four singles for the winning squad along with L. Perron. For Waterville C. Montigny was the best with a triple, a double and a single for her night's work.

Nicole Beaudoin connected for a homer with two singles while L. Lescault helped her own cause with a triple and a single and S. Larkin had three singles. W. Graham had a homer and a single with Margaret Hall smashing a double and a single.

The Rand managed to pick up a win during the week when they posted 7-3 score over Nest Bar Salon. D. Taylor was the winning hurler while W. Clark was charged with the loss. C. Kerwin drove out two singles while C. Bolduc was the best for the losers with a triple and a single.

Fidrych faces Jones in All-Star tilt

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — If ABC, televising the all-star game, ever wants to add some zing to its coverage, it could hang a microphone around the neck of young Mark Fidrych and tune in on the rookie pitcher's conversation with the baseball.

Fidrych, 9-2 with Detroit Tigers, will open for the American League in Tuesday night's 47th clash with the National League, which will be telecast in Canada by the CBC, starting at 8 p.m. EDT.

He'll be opposed at the start by San Diego's Randy Jones, who reached the all-star break with a National League record 16 victories and only three losses.

Jones, 26, lost 22 games two years ago, but turned that around by winning 20 last season for the Padres. The fans are familiar with the frizzy-haired left-hander.

But Fidrych is a new act. A 21-year-old right-hander, he has captivated Detroit fans with his exuberance.

He thinks nothing of going down on all fours to smooth out the pitcher's mound to his specifications. He cheers for his fielders. And, before he delivers the pitch, Fidrych discusses direction and location with the baseball.

SECOND ROOKIE

Fidrych will be only the second rookie pitcher to start an all-star game. The other was Dave Stenhouse of Washington Senators, who pitched the first two innings in what developed into a 9-4 American League victory in 1962.

Those were the days when the Americans still held the upper hand in all-star competition. Since that 1962 victory, the Americans have won only once while the Nationals have taken a dozen games for an over-all 27-18-1 edge in the series.

Recent National League domination of the all-star series has been a growing source of embarrassment for the Americans.

"I am sick and tired of the National League beating us," said American League manager Derrell Johnson. "I think we have the pitchers who can do the job they're supposed to do—beat the other league."

Johnson's roster included one last-minute change. Oakland second baseman Phil Garner was added to the squad to replace rookie Willie Randolph of New York Yankees, who is nursing an injured knee.

Randolph will be on hand for a pre-game bow, but another casualty, Atlanta pitcher Andy Messersmith, won't be.

Messersmith, selected for the National League's squad by manager Sparky Anderson, begged off with a hamstring injury and was replaced by team-mate Dick Ruthven. But the injured Braves' ace was well enough to pitch eight innings Saturday night against New York Mets.

Quebec to keep control over Stadium after Games

MONTREAL (CP) — The Quebec government plans to retain control of the Olympic stadium for several years after the Games, until the facility is paid for, Municipal Affairs Minister Victor Goldbloom said during the weekend.

"Since the government is paying the greatest share, it does not seem out of line to administer what we are financially responsible for," he said in an interview on CJAQ radio.

The provincial government took control of the 72,000-seat stadium along with the adjoining swimming hall and velodrome last November when fears were raised that the City of Montreal, former owner, would not complete the facilities in time for the Games.

Mr. Goldbloom said Saturday the government would return the stadium to the city only after the province "is out of the financial woods" as far as the Games deficit is concerned.

Villeneuve wins Player's Quebec at St. Jovite

ST. JOVITE, Que. (CP) — Gilles Villeneuve of Wickham, Que., captured the Player's Quebec auto race Sunday, his third win in his last four starts in the challenge series.

Villeneuve, starting from the pole and driving a Skiroule Special, grabbed the lead at the first corner of the 100-mile race around the 2.65-mile Le Circuit course and then led the following 38 laps to take a commanding lead in the series to determine the 1976 Canadian driving champion.

"I had a problem with the engine oil pressure," said Villeneuve, who averaged just over 100 miles an hour during the race. "It started to drop a bit so I slowed down and held my lead at about 10 seconds. Then when the pressure came back to normal, I was able to go on again without worrying about it."

Phillies hold big lead at half-way mark

Save the wreaths. Hold the obituaries. That "body" in baseball's National League East is still kicking.

Take it from manager Danny Murtaugh—Pittsburgh Pirates aren't dead yet.

"We haven't given up yet," said Murtaugh on Sunday as the Pirates ended the first half of the season 10 games behind Philadelphia Phillies.

Pittsburgh had just swept two successive games from Cincinnati Reds for a split of a four-game series. The Pirates won 8-5 Sunday after taking their Saturday game 7-1.

In Sunday's other National League games, Atlanta Braves nipped New York Mets 9-8, Los Angeles Dodgers stopped St. Louis Cardinals 9-6, San Francisco Giants beat Chicago Cubs 2-0, Philadelphia Phillies blanked San Diego Padres 3-0 and Houston Astros shaded Montreal Expos 1-0.

PHILS SWEEP PADRES On Saturday, Chicago defeated San Francisco 8-6, Philadelphia swept San Diego 5-0 and 4-2, New York topped Atlanta 4-2, St. Louis dropped Los Angeles 6-3 and Houston stopped Montreal 4-2.

"Anytime you are 10 games back it's a big job, but it's still July," said Murtaugh.

"Anything can happen in two months," said Tommy Helms, who was hit by a bases-loaded pitch from Pedro Borbon to score the go-ahead run in Sunday's victory.

"This club does not panic," said Helms, an ex-Red who walked earlier to force in a run.

The Pirates cracked a 4-4 tie in the eighth inning with a three-run rally highlighted by Rennie Stennett's two-run bases-loaded double. Murtaugh then pressed starter Jerry Reuss into bullpen duty to preserve the victory.

TEKULVE IS WINNER Kent Tekulve, though he pitched to only one batter, was credited with the victory after relieving Jim Rooker. Borbon, 2-2, absorbed the loss.

Willie Montanez drove in six runs for the Braves, three of them with an eighth-inning double. Starters Jerry Koosman and Tom Seaver, with a three-day all-star rest in sight, made rare relief appearances for the Mets.

Reggie Smith's three-run homer highlighted a seven-run seventh inning for the Dodgers at St. Louis. It was Smith's third homer in the Dodgers' weekend series with former team-mates. Los Angeles starter Don Sutton picked up the victory in relief.

Jonathan Smith wins Quebec Tennis Open, Vicki Beggs of Florida wins ladies title

GRANBY, Que. (CP) — Jonathan Smith of Britain won the men's singles title at the Quebec open tennis championships Sunday by defeating Dale Power of Toronto 7-5, 1-6, 6-1.

Smith, who defeated Rejean Genois of Quebec City 6-0, 6-2 in Saturday's semi-final play, earned $1,500 for his win while Power took home $750. Power topped Lars Elvstrom of Denmark 6-4, 6-7, 7-5 in the other semi-final match.

The women's final lasted 70 minutes as Vicki Beggs of Florida defeated Susan Stone of Vancouver 6-3, 6-1. Miss Beggs, had an easy time taking Andree Martin of Montreal in Saturday's semi-final winning 6-0, 6-1 while Stone downed Kim Ruddell of Australia 6-3, 3-6, 7-6. Beggs won $800 while Stone earned $400.

Beggs and Ruddell combined to defeat Barbara Brankovska of Toronto and Dorte Ekner of Denmark 6-1, 6-3 in the women's doubles final while Smith and Elvstrom won the men's double by downing Jim Boyce of Toronto and Harry Fritz of the United States 6-4, 6-4.

Ed Halicki limited the Cubs to two hits and Gary Matthews hit a home run to spark the Giants. Halicki had a no-hitter until Jose Cardenal opened the seventh with a single.

"I was disappointed to lose the no-hitter, but it was just as important to me to win the game," Halicki said. "That's what I'm paid for." Greg Luzinski hit a three-run double in the sixth inning and Jim Kaat scattered nine hits to record his first National League shutout for the Phillies.

Houston rookie Joaquin Andujar scattered nine hits for his third shutout of the season.

Ballesleros falters, Miller moves in SOUTHPORT, England (AP) — Only one journalist from Spain was known to be at the British Open to see his young countryman Severiano Ballesteros leap into the international golfing spotlight.

And that sportswriter didn't write a word.

He told his boss earlier that he would be at the Open on vacation, and asked if his paper wanted a story. His boss said no.

That's the way it is in Spain, and even more so in the rest of Europe. Soccer is king, with sports such as cycling and rugby ahead of golf.

So while 19-year-old Severiano caught the imagination of golf fans in the United States, Britain and Japan, where the Open was televised, he probably remains a relative unknown in his own country, where it was not shown.

But his exciting performance—he led for three rounds against the best in the world before falling to Johnny Miller in the final round Saturday—is a swing in the right direction for golf on the continent.

Miller won the Open with a final-round 66 for 279 and the largest margin of victory, six strokes, in more than 40 years at this event.

Ballesteros, who shared the lead after the first round and held it alone after the second and third rounds, faded to a 74 and needed an eagle and birdie on the final two holes to get that.

He wound up tied for second with Jack Nicklaus who finished with a 69.

"He gave the biggest boost possible for European golf," said Gaetan Morgue D'Algue of France, publisher of a golf magazine and organizer of many European golf tournaments.

"I know the French got very excited about Ballesteros, and if he had won, there would have been 20 Spaniards trying to qualify for the Open next year."

New American-type courses are being built along the Costa Del Sol on the Mediterranean in southern Spain for tourists and this is helping produce more and better golfers.

Spanish pros generally do not leave the country to play because they can make good money teaching. They compete in the nine national opens on the abbreviated European circuit and the prize money only totals about $400,000 for all nine events, D'Algue said.

Ballesteros says he will try for the U.S. tour in 1978 after he serves his military duty.

The farmer's son held a two-shot lead over Miller starting the final round but slumped to a 74 to finish in a second-place tie with Jack Nicklaus at 285.

Aside from Miller, Ballesteros and Nicklaus, Ray Floyd was the only other golfer to break par at 286 over the 7,001-yard Royal Birkdale course.

Knudson rallies to win Canadian Open

WINNIPEG (CP) — George Knudson of Toronto steadied his game after an erratic front nine Sunday and held off Dave Barr of Kelowna, B.C., to capture the Canadian Professional Golfers' Association championship for the fourth time.

Knudson shot a final round three-under-par 69 to finish with a 275 total, 13 under par on the St. Charles Country Club course. He picked up $10,000 for the two-shot victory over Barr who had a final round 67 and won $7,500.

Third-round leader Adrienne Bigras of Rosemere, Que., shot a two-over-par 74 to finish third at 279 and win $5,000.

Mark Shushak of Thunder Bay, Ont., shot 69 Sunday to grab fourth place with 281. That earned him $4,000 and an exemption in the Canadian Open. The other Canadian Open berth available from the CPGA went to Bob Rose of Hamilton, who beat Michel Boyer of Montreal in a playoff for the berth.

The St. Charles course is where Knudson learned to play golf, and he readily admits his familiarity with the course was an advantage.

HAD SOME TROUBLE

But even this was not enough to keep him out of trouble on the first nine holes Sunday. The veteran touring pro had four birdies, three bogeys and only two pars and was tied with Bigras going into the final nine holes.

Knudson settled down on the back nine, with only one bogey, to go with three birdies and five pars.

Bigras, a veteran club pro, was playing one three-some behind and banded in seven pars but lost two strokes with bogeys on the 12th and 16th holes.

Playing in the same three-some as Knudson, Barr picked up birdies on the 14th, 15th and 17th holes to chase Knudson to the wire.

"I wasn't really aware of Dave until I three-putted on 16 for a bogey," Knudson said. "I had him well in hand all day until he hit that birdie stretch on the back nine."
