'Consummate artistry'

Pianist Art Rowe comes to Bishop's

LENNOXVILLE (LS) — The Musique Chez Nous series offered at the Centennial Theatre by the Bishop's University Department of Music starts off the New Year with pianist Arthur Rowe tonight at 8:30.

Rowe was semi-finalist at the 1984 International Bach Competition in Toronto, and the first winner of a $15,000 St. Lawrence Prize for Music in 1982.

"Rowe has a special presence in performance, enhanced by a meaningful inner musicality that is heightened by a seemingly effortless technique," says a London Free Press critic. The Oshawa Times said he displayed "brilliant technique", "sensitive playing" and "consummate artistry" and the Winnipeg Free Press described him as having a "fine technique, never used for its own sake, but always in the service of music."

A native Albertan, Rowe has performed with the National Arts Centre Orchestra, the Winnipeg CBC Symphony and Orchestra London, Canada, conducted by Arthur Fiedler, among others.

Rowe's programme tonight will be a balance of classical and modern, including Mozart's Sonata in D major K. 284, Schubert's Wanderer Fantasy, Bartok's Dance Suite and Six Aphorisms by Canadian composer Alfred Fisher.

Rowe is presently teaching at the University of Western Ontario, and performances this year include concertos with the Vancouver CBC Orchestra and Orchestra London, recitals in Victoria and New York, performances with the Minneapolis Artists Ensemble and HART piano quartet, and duo recitals in England and France with cellist Janet Horvath.

Tickets for the concert tonight in Lennoxville are $3, $2 for students and seniors, and may be reserved by calling (819) 563-4966.

Penguin Book of Wines is perfect starting point

One of the first books on wine to come my way was The Penguin Book of Wines by Allan Sichel. As an introduction to the business of wine appreciation it was perfect.

Allan Sichel was a noted expert in the field of oenology, head of the family firm and owner or part owner of both Chateau Angludet and Chateau Palmer. Through his enthusiasm and common sense approach to wine I not only developed a life-long interest myself but I managed to shed my fear of what at first appeared to be a mysterious cult reserved for the initiated alone.

Thus, in a certain sense, I have much in common with Pamela Vandyke Price the author of the more recent The Penguin Wine Book. Price, as a young woman, not only came to know Allan Sichel but became a close and valued friend helping to edit and research Sichel's own volume. And, as she points out in her introductory comments, she too came to both an appreciation and understanding of wine through his careful instruction.

Unlike its predecessor, The Penguin Wine Book does not attempt to give a detailed account of the wines of the world. There is no comprehensive list of Chateau, no mention of the best German wines and no attempt at listing the wines of Italy region by region.

There is however, an excellent summary of all the important aspects of the wine trade from a discussion of grape growing to vinification techniques. There is a chapter on basic wine types and a section on wine and food. There is also a glossary of terms used in the wine industry and, more importantly, a suggested reading list for further study.

It is definitely a book for beginners and one that even the most ignorant of students will soon tire of. But it is a worthwhile starting point written by a knowledgeable and understanding expert. Cheers!

LIVERPOOL, England (AP) — Beatles fans in Britain have decided to immortalize Boomtown Rats singer Bob Geldof in three bronze statues to honor him for his African famine relief campaign.

The Beatles Appreciation Society said Tuesday it has chosen British sculptor Roger Pearson to carve the model for the 2.5-metre-high statues, which cost the equivalent of about $20,150 Canadian each and will be erected in London, the Beatles' hometown of Liverpool and Geldof's hometown of Dublin, Ireland.

Geldof organized the Live Aid transatlantic rock concert last July that raised more than $98.5 million.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Howard Keel, who stars as Clayton Farlow on CBS-TV's Dallas, has been released from hospital after elective heart surgery and is recuperating at home, a spokesman said.

The 66-year-old Keel, who underwent double bypass surgery last Wednesday at an undisclosed Los Angeles hospital, was discharged Monday, Larry Youngsteadt of Lorimar Productions, which produces the TV series, said Tuesday. It's expected that Keel will return to work on the soap opera Feb. 3.

NEW YORK (AP) — Movies such as Rambo and Porky's are "made by idiots for idiots," says actor Walter Matthau.

When he compares those movies to earlier films, Matthau said, he feels "as though I've been in a time capsule that's suddenly shot back to Earth."

"When I look around," he added, "I don't recognize the terrain anymore."

"Porky II, Rambo IV, Mishagass VIII — pictures made by idiots for idiots," Matthau said in an interview published in February's McCall's magazine. Mishagass is Yiddish for craziness.

Matthau professed a love for the classics, saying: "I feel so good whenever I hear Shakespeare done well that I don't care if I die in the middle of it."

Matthau is to be host of a 15-week series of Shakespeare plays to be broadcast on public television beginning Jan. 19.

More on railway post offices

In a previous column, I wrote of Railway Post Offices (R.P.O.) in a rather brief manner. This form of stamp collecting is just now coming into its own. Therefore, I feel that a deeper look into the subject is warranted.

An R.P.O. was a mail car in a passenger train which was manned by postal clerks. Their duties were to sort, cancel and deliver mail to the appropriate stations. A circular cancellation mark indicating the first and last stations of a route were used. In some cases, cancellations using the postal clerk's name was used.

One of the first R.P.O.s to be put into service was on the St. Lawrence and Atlantic Railway late in 1853. This line ran from Montreal to Island Pond, where is connected with the Atlantic and St. Lawrence Railway which ran from Portland Maine to Island Pond. In 1854, both lines amalgamated with the Grand Trunk Railway.

USED 100 YEARS

New postmarks were then brought into use. They read Montreal & Island Pond R.P.O. or abbreviations thereof. Examples of these postmarks are shown below. They remained in use for almost one hundred years.

Local R.P.O.s also existed on this line. They were, Island Pond & Sherbrooke, Richmond & Island Pond, Sherbrooke Richmond & Montreal, so named to distinguish it from the Sherbrooke & Montreal R.P.O. which operated on the C.P.R. lines.

In 1950-1951, the Island Pond & Montreal R.P.O. was replaced by the Coaticook & Montreal R.P.O. This remained in effect until 1958 when the R.P.O. service on this line was suspended.

Sherbrooke had the luxury of two R.P.O.s As mentioned above, R.P.O. services were also operated on the C.P.R. lines between Montreal and St. John, N.B.

The first R.P.O. operated on the St. Francis and Megantic Railroad which was completed in 1875. In 1877, the name of the railway was changed to that of the International Railway, which was sold to the Atlantic and North West Railway along with its American counterpart. This was then leased to the C.P.R.

The following are some of the postmarks which appear to have been used on the C.P.R. lines. International Railways, Lake Megantic & Montreal, Montreal & St. John, Montreal & Sherbrooke, Sherbrooke & Agnes.

BOOK AVAILABLE

This is by no means a complete history of these R.P.O.s. Space just won't allow it. However, there is a book available called A History of Canadian R.P.O.s by L.F. Gillam. It may be purchased through the American Philatelic Society, P.O. Box 8000, State College, Pa., 16803, U.S.A. at a cost of $11.00 U.S.

Should you be interested in collecting these cancellations, you can start with the 1954 Queen Elizabeth II definitive issues and work back to the small Queens. Some cancellations will have M.C. instead of R.P.O. or, just the name of the railway. M.C. stands for Mail Car.

Those having a keen interest, should purchase the Catalogue of Canadian Railway Cancellations by Lewis M. Ludlow. This is available through the British North American Philatelic Society at a cost of $34.95. The address is: Wm. G. Robinson, 5830 Cartier St., Vancouver, B.C., V6M 3A7.

The examples below will give you an idea of what to look for. If you need help in identifying the cancellation, you may send the stamp to me or the exact lettering and I will do my best to identify it for you. The address is, P.O. Box 688, Richmond, Que., J0B 2H0.

Historical display in Sherbrooke

"Townships of the St. Francis"

SHERBROOKE (LS) — "The waterways of the Eastern Townships were the lifelines which bound together the web of human activity in the early nineteenth century. They were the veins and arteries which penetrated every corner of the wilderness that was southern Quebec; they were a dynamic element in an often hostile environment; they were axes of communication, sources of power, corridors of settlement and the threads upon which was strung a necklace of towns and villages."

So writes J. Derek Booth in the introduction to a monograph accompanying an exhibition opening today at the Centre d'exposition Léon Marcotte in Sherbrooke.

It is the unifying force of one particular river system, that of St. Francis river, that forms the focus of this exhibition. This system extends from Northern Vermont and the uplands of Megantic County to the plains of the St. Lawrence River, covering the central portion of the Eastern Townships.

Townships of the St. Francis is an historical exhibition which was originally presented by the McCord Museum in Montreal in 1984. Through maps, photographs from the Notman photographic archives, steel engravings by William-Henry Bartlett, paintings and artifacts, the exhibition illustrates the settlement and industrialization of the region, and in particular, the major role played by the waterways in this process.

For the exhibition at the Centre d'exposition Léon Marcotte, various artifacts have been added to make it even more relevant to the region, explains Colette Dufresne, one of the organizers.

There are pieces from the collection of Sherbrooke resident Maurice Lemay; for example, an intricately stitched crazy quilt with "Sherbrooke" and "1885" embroidered on it.

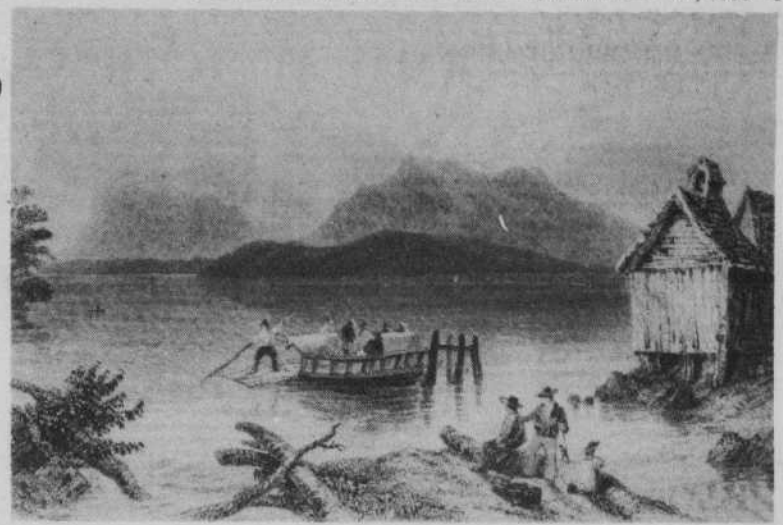

Photographs of familiar spots in Lennoxville during floods in 1906 and 1928, show us just how much a place can change over the years.

A piece of wood, from the trunk of a pine tree, has a story behind it that is integrally linked to the waterways. When the Abenakis and Iroquois were warring across the St. Francis River, near where the Terrill bridge in Sherbrooke is now, a young brave and his true love were stranded on a small rock island. The woman died of exhaustion before they could be rescued, and the man planted a pine tree in her memory. When the tree fell, someone was sentimental enough to save a piece. A cross now stands in its place.

These are only a few examples in Museum employee Colette Dufresne demonstrates how a wooden windmill from the early part of this century makes carved human figures saw, churn, and spin when the wind blows.

Steel engravings of river and lakeside scenes by William-Henry Bartlett form a large part of the exhibition, chronicling the struggles of pioneers to tame and carve a living out of the frontier. This one depicts Copp's Ferry near Georgeville around 1839.

an exhibit which is comprehensively laid out by thematic groups such as Settlement, Hydraulic Power, Steam Navigation and Forest Industries, providing an interesting and thorough look into the region's history.

The exhibition can be seen between 12:30 and 5 p.m. every day except Monday. The Centre d'exposition is located at 222 Frontenac.

Broadway hit comes to Centennial stage

LENNOXVILLE — Next Monday, Jan. 20, the hit Broadway musical Ain't Misbehavin' comes to Lennoxville's Centennial Theatre.

Applauded and acclaimed by critics and the public throughout its four-year New York run, Ain't Misbehavin' garnered eight major theatre awards. These included a 1978 Tony Award for Best Production, merited by its portrayal of the life and times of musician Thomas 'Fats' Waller.

During Waller's short 39 years, ending in 1943, he established himself as one of the first black musical superstars. A talented recording artist and entertainer, Waller's compositions 'Honeysuckle Rose' and 'The Joint is Jumpin'' quickly became classics.

Reflecting a boundless good humor and vitality, Waller's songs lend themselves well to a musical revue. In Ain't Misbehavin' some 30 of his songs are performed by a cast of five and help recreate the raucous and exciting atmosphere of a Harlem nightclub in the 30s.

New York's most exacting critics have described Ain't Misbehavin' as "heartstopping" and a "powerhouse of a show".

The touring version of the show is produced by Daedalus Productions of New York.

Tickets to the revue are on sale at the Centennial Theatre Box Office for $12 and $10, with a 50 per cent discount for full-time students and seniors. Reservations can be made by calling (819) 563-4966.

Kevin Neil Chatham sings Your Feet's Too Big, the show-stopping number from the Broadway musical Ain't Misbehavin'.

"SENSATIONAL. A FILM OF DAZZLING INVENTIVENESS, STYLISH CONCEPTS AND NAIL-BITING SUSPENSE. YOU'LL GO AWAY SOARING. DON'T MISS IT."

Novel about madness has echoes of "Cuckoo's Nest"

The SquirrelCage by Arnold Peyser (FITZHENRY & WHITE-SIDE): $24.50, 232 pp.

If Ken Kesey's remarkable descent into the maelstrom of madness, One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest had not been written over two decades ago, Arnold Peyser's The SquirrelCage might have had a far different effect on readers today. Peyser's novel about a youth's coming of age in a mental institution is a juvenile version of Kesey's story, but with none of the memorable characters or triumphant struggles against arbitrary power that made the earlier book a classic.

Paul Martin is a fourteen-year-old, quite average teenager, who is committed to the Crisis Ward of the psychiatric unit of a county hospital near San Francisco, when his latent hostility about his mother's devotion to an unlikeable stepfather bubbles over into unsociable behaviour. Paul is accused of placing glass in cupcakes, setting the house on fire and gulping down an entire bottle of aspirins in shows of outrageous behaviour linked to his dislike of his mother's chosen partner, Harry.

Kaleidoscope

By RICHARD LONEY

Once in the squirrel cage, Paul meets with a cross-section of contemporary youths who have been culled from the pages of today's newspapers. Most of them are rather sketchily drawn, and none of the players in this drama has the magnetic spark of a Randle P. McMurphy, Kesey's memorable rogue.

The first-person narration chosen by Peyser has the tendency to be under-written as the veteran screenwriter attempts to catch the rhythms and locutions of teenage speech. Unfortunately the attempt often results in very wooden, think-and-do-type, prime sentences meant to correspond to the limited, but exact, vocabulary of youth. These kids, for all of their casual attitude to sex, their John Travolta posters and select cliques, never really come off the pages as real teenagers, and this is only part of Peyser's problem.

Even more damage is done to the spirit of this book in that there is no real villain for the young maligned, institutionalized boy to oppose — no Big Nurse on which to focus. The squirrel cage never approximates the random evil that locked in the dwellers in Kesey's cuckoo's nest, and the only significant character is Ruth, a social worker with whom Paul has a rapport that leads to friendship. The SquirrelCage, for all of its easy readability, is too haunted by Kesey's early sixties classic for readers to be able to accept the book on its own limited merits.

Murder At The Met by David Black (AVON): $4.50, 262 pp.

In a non-fictional twist to the genre of crime fiction now commonly referred to as a "police procedural", Murder At The Met reads like a conventional thriller with the added wrinkle of behind-the-scenes jockeying for courtroom prestige revealed.

David Black writes a taut, gripping account of the celebrated murder case of a young violinist in the backstage area of New York's Metropolitan Opera House. Helen Hagnes Mintik's naked, bound, badly brutalized and raped body was found eleven hours after she left the orchestra pit following a performance on Wednesday July 23, 1980. An investigation comprised of thousands of police interviews finally resulted in a confession on videotape by Craig Crimmins, a backstage worker at the Met.

Ironically, the courtroom drama inspired by this sad case focused more on the thwarted "rights" of the angelic looking Crimmins, while principals in the case, media and the citizens of New York seemed to completely lose sight of the absolute horror of the original crime. Detectives Mike Struk and Jerry Giorgio recounted the notorious case of author David Black, who performs an admirable journalistic task in having Murder At The Met read with most of the attributes of the best crime fiction firmly intact.

RECORD REVIEWS

Split Enz THE LIVING ENZ (A&M)

A live album from the Australian group that doesn't suffer from the flattering comparisons with the Beatles, is sure to be a revelation about their crowd appeal and the transference of their superb material from disc to stage. Split Enz, with their magnetic brother act of Tim and Neil Finn, respectively reinforcing the John and Paul echoes — Tim, the crusty, outspoken lead voice of the Enz, while cute Neil off to the side is the embodiment of Paulie — make it onto a four-sided, energetic live album just fine, thank you very much!

Recorded at three venues — Festival Hall in Melbourne, in November of 1984, and the Capital Theatre, Sydney, some four months earlier, and three tracks captured at the Logan Campbell Centre, Auckland, New Zealand, December of 1984 — this recording is clear testament to Split Enz's appeal visually and musically. The echoes of shrieking females have the Beatlemania fervor, toned down considerably, but the tracks from "One Step Ahead" to "I See Red" and "Six Months In A Leaky Boat" are impeccable slices of Split Enz's spirited musical gift from Down Under.

Not very far into this 19-track live trip the listener is aware that the keyboards of Split Enz's Eddie Rayner represent some of the classiest work in or out of a studio. Rayner's keyboard artistry shines everywhere on THE LIVING ENZ, with these tracks lifted off albums that stretch from 1975's MENTAL NOTES to 1984's SEE YA ROUND. Their ten year career on vinyl is documented in one memorable song after another, with the consistent quality of the music pointing out that Split Enz, like Canada's other favourites Supertramp before them, have a special niche in pop fans' hearts.

MOUNT HOLLY, N.J. (AP) — A judge wasn't entranced by claims of a hypnotist and dismissed her case against the Amazing Kreskin, who had promised to pay $50,000 to anyone who could prove the existence of a hypnotic trance.

Marianne Waylock of Cinnaminson sued Kreskin in 1983, claiming the mentalist had not made good on The Kreskin Challenge, a long-standing offer the entertainer first proposed in the late 1960s.

Burlington County Superior Court Judge J. Gilbert Van Sciver threw out the case because Kreskin's lawyer had withdrawn the original challenge last April and substituted another, but the plaintiff had failed to present her proofs before the first offer was withdrawn.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Comedians Billy Crystal, Whoopi

The show will be broadcast live March 29 to Home Box Office subscribers, said officials of Comic Relief, a non-profit corporation made up of comedians and others in the entertainment industry concerned with the plight of the poor and homeless.

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — Oscar-winning actress Jane Wyman, star of TV's Falcon Crest, has returned home after her almost two-week stay in hospital for abdominal surgery, a spokesman said.

Wyman left St. John's Hospital on Monday, said spokesman Robert Crutchfield of Lorimar Productions, which produces the CBS-TV show.

James Duff hits the airwaves on CBC's Daybreak

Editor's Note:

This is another of those occasions when a journalist writes about a friend. When he was editor of the RECORD, James Duff gave the writer his first opportunity in daily journalism. The two have shared many experiences over the years — both in and out of the newsrooms.

By Charles Bury

MONTREAL — James Duff has finally moved upstairs — for at least part of each working day.

Duff has a new office high in the CBC-Montreal skyscraper La Maison Radio-Canada on Dorchester Blvd. east. It came with his new job as host of the network's Montreal-area morning radio show, Daybreak. That began this Monday.

The Duff pedigree:

- Born, Edmonton, 1949;
- Married to Genevieve ('Genny'), daughter of well-known Sherbrooke businessman and military figure Jean-Prospere and Mme Suzanne Gauthier;
- Father of Kayll (Gaelic for Charles), 10, and Suzanne, 6;
- Who all live in a modest bungalow in Beaconsfield;
- When they are not sailing on their yacht, which is otherwise moored at the Baie d'Urfé yacht club;
- or watching their father ski, cycle or windsurf (but not all at once, even Duff).

Daybreak's day — and Duff's — begin far before morning starts breaking. He's up at 3 a.m. and in the office before 4, reading the overnight papers and the latest wire-service dispatches, making final arrangements for the show's interviews and spots, talking out the last-minute details with other members of the program staff.

At 13 minutes after 6, Duff goes on the air. At 4 seconds before 9, he's off. In between, he's in the hot seat, the swivel chair in front of the mike at Studio 23, deep in the basement of the massive building, which almost — but not quite — casts a shadow over Molson's historic brewery across the street.

PRETTY VOICES

Most of Quebec's airwaves are in the hands of the pretty voices. Daybreak is one of the few radio shows in the province — and the only one produced in English — which uses an experienced journalist as host. Duff replaces Dennis Trudeau, the former host who now anchors the network's flagship As it Happens in Toronto.

Contrary to some published remarks, Duff has no bone to pick with his predecessor. "I really wish they hadn't printed that," he said of negative comments attributed to him in an earlier article. "I am a big fan of Dennis Trudeau, and I always have been. He's one of the best."

So is Jamie Duff.

Duff was born in Edmonton and grew up variously there, in Calgary and Three Hills, Alberta, Vancouver, Montreal and Hudson Heights. There are those who say his growing up continued at New Brunswick's Rothesay College and Bishop's College School in Lennoxville, then at Mount Allison University in Sackville, N.B. On the other hand, of course, there are those who say his growing up never did continue, and still others who say it goes on today, unfinished.

THE HARD WAY

Duff began his career in journalism the hard, old-fashioned way, in 1967, as a copy boy at Montreal's Gazette. After a few months there he went to the Quebec City Chronicle-Telegraph, which was also a daily then. He began as a junior reporter. Soon it was back to the 'Gaz' as a police reporter, general assignment reporter, then special assignment reporter, then working round the 'rim' where the finished stories came for checking, corrections and layout.

"In 1976, I had a difference of opinion with the boss (Lindsay Chrysler, now head of journalism at Concordia University)."

"Let's just say we weren't seeing things the same way."

After about six months at the Montreal Star, Duff's luck took a turn for the better and he left for Sherbrooke just in time.

SPRUCE UP

It was 1967. Sherbrooke lawyer George MacLaren had recently bought the Sherbrooke Record and wanted an experienced journalist around to spruce it up after the dog days of Conrad Black and Company. Spruce it up Duff did, improving the content and appearance, and boosting sagging circulation in the bargain. Among Duff's many lasting contributions to the Record is the creation of Townships Week, the weekend entertainment section you're holding in your hands. Then the Star folded, and Duff couldn't have gone back if he'd wanted to. But he didn't want to.

Duff stayed at the Record until 1981, when he first moved to the Dorchester Street tower. There he joined the crew of Newswatch, the CBC-TV supper-hour news show, as reporter, then assignment editor (the one who tells the others what to do), then, frustrated with that, back out on the road as a reporter. That lasted until last month, when CBC executives in Montreal and Toronto began whispering to friends on the phone (that's how they communicate) that they had landed "a big one" for Daybreak. "He's a diamond in the rough," said Quebec radio boss Ron Laplante.

GOTTA BE SHOWMAN

"TV's enormous," Diamond Jim Duff said in an interview-reunion this week. "I wanted to get to something a little smaller, where I could focus more on the news and less on showmanship. You've gotta be a showman on TV."

I don't like live TV and that was the next step. I have to figure out how to do it; I think I will learn a lot of that in radio."

"It takes a long time to become a good journalist. I've been at it 20 years, and I'm not there yet. I'll be at my best in my later years."

So now that you've got the job, how does one work in radio, a friend asks.

Between 13 minutes after 6 and 4 seconds before 9 former Record editor James Duff is in the hot seat, the swivel chair in front of the mike at Studio 23.

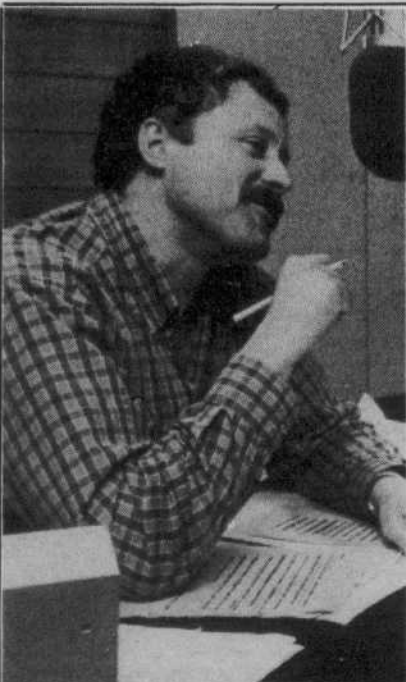

"I read every newspaper I can get my hands on," Duff replies. "Sometimes it seems like I read every one there is. You have to read constantly, to keep up with everything that's going on. And I love that."

But is Daybreak news or entertainment, the friend continues.

Still a bit jittery in his first week on the job, Duff has the answer ready. "Most of it is news," he says.

"Entertainment? There's plenty of it if you're the type who likes listening to a guy fall apart on the air once in a while."

Duff's radio signal reaches well into the Townships.

Yes, YOU can hear him too

MONTREAL — James Duff on Daybreak vs. Jennifer Frye on Quebec A.M.

As new host of CBC-Montreal's morning show Daybreak, Jamie Duff has been told to "concentrate on the guy in Ville St-Laurent. The city. He's our audience, he's the guy we're after."

Jennifer Frye and friends send their rural message to listeners on 44 CBC transmitters in outlying regions of the province, from Abitibi to the Magdalen Islands and from Blanc Sablon to Fleurimont.

But Duff has more than his share of experience in smaller centres, after five years at the Record and another five as a 'regional' reporter on TV. Will it be wasted? Probably not.

The CBM-radio signal carrying Duff on Daybreak at 940 AM reaches well beyond the city. And happily for the listeners, it carries into many of the regions where the 44 transmitters don't go.

For example, Frye's Quebec Community Network show and its afternoon counterpart Breakaway, with Jeannette Kelly, don't reach such anglo bastions as Ormstown, Huntingdon and the rest of the Chateauguay Valley, Bedford, Cowansville, Sutton, Knowlton, Mansonville and Highwater. Duff and Daybreak do. CBM also beams north into the lower Laurentians and down the St. Lawrence Valley to Drummondville, other locations where the 44 transmitters don't go.

Sherbrooke area listeners are spoiled; they can choose from both.

So if the CBC wants to fulfill its famous mandate, it will have to listen, just a bit. When Jamie Duff says country, he means it.

A rational response to double parked policeman

CBC's Frantics, who write, star in and otherwise govern Frantic Time, have come up with a brilliant idea for a new program — The 24-hour Peter Gzowski Show. Gzowski, in yet another attempt to break into television, will introduce former Ontario premier Bill Davis and Davis will talk on and on and on . . .

Good news! Social Services Minister Therese Lavoie-Roux is going to strike a blow for male liberation by making vasectomies coverable under the Quebec health insurance plan. Getting right to the 'crux' of the matter, Lavoie-Roux plans to make even unnecessary vasectomies — those where birth control is the prime reason — part of the insurance program. I wonder if this foreshadows other changes? What about face lifts? What about breast reduction? Breast expansion? And while the doc is tinkering down there, what about. . . The possibilities are endless! The only sure thing is that an already overworked health system gets one more straw on its back.

A small note for the 'free traders' of the world. General Motors broke the news to workers at its Ste-Thérèse plant this week that all 4,000 of them might be out of a job in two years. Citing productivity and labor problems (they didn't mention that GM saddled Ste-Thérèse with the car industry's version of the dinosaur — rear-wheel drive mid-sized pontiacs), the company's management says it just isn't worth pumping in new money. It was also pointed out that things are so much better in Georgia — where workers take lower wages, fewer holidays and still produce for GM. The bottom, and hidden line, in all this, is the fact that in times of economic restraint GM isn't going to close factories back home and put any 'good old' boys out of work.

I couldn't help but notice both Bobby Fisher's editorial concerning the nicities of police brutality and the reply to it by Record reader Wilfred M. Simms. As usual, that bleeding heart Fisher, complained that officer Parent of the Montreal municipal police department acted unjustly when he arrested Brian O'Carroll in a much-publicized incident awhile back. Simms set him straight however, pointing out that O'Carroll was both obnoxious and foolish in demanding to see Parent's badge number. And, as Simms points out, Parent was just doing his job by twisting O'Carroll's arm, banging his head off the counter and having two other officers do more or less the same thing. After all, "Ask a silly question and . . .

Anyway, Simms further points out that the rational and Canadian response to finding a policeman abusing the right to double park is to show him your driver's licence immediately and explain why he or she had the temerity to complain in the first place. I would go even farther and suggest that all Canadian citizens should carry identification cards prominently displayed on their person at all times so the police would know who they were assaulting without the trouble of dragging them down to the station house. Further, concerned citizens should be required by law to divert traffic around all double-parked police cars and aid the officer in carrying his groceries from the dépanneur, if only as an act of solidarity with these selfless individuals.

This column unfortunately will be a little briefer than usual since I have to catch a bus to Ste-Marthe-sur-le-lac to get a look at the weeping Virgin. Lord knows, looking at the state of the world today, I can see why she's crying.

Quirky, bright, original humor makes Frantics stand out

By Bill Anderson

TORONTO (CP) — Star-nosed moles who buy cars, detectives with canoes welded to their heads, farmers who do the work of bees with their bums — such is the stuff of The Frantics, the comedy troupe of radio fame who launch their own television series on Thursday on the full CBC network.

The Frantics — Paul Chato, Rick Green, Peter Wildman and Dan Redican — have big shoes to fill in Canadian comedy, especially with the standards set by SCTV. But their humor is just quirky, bright and original enough to make them stand out on their own.

The first episode of their 13-week series, called 4 on the Floor, starts off well enough with the skit How Not to Answer a Porcupine: Chato, seated at a desk, reaches for an unseen "ringing," then pushes the bristling rodent into his ear.

But the group starts to hit its stride a few skits later when Marvin the Mole shops for a car, "a brown car — the same color as dirt."

Stupid as it sounds, the skit is a riot. The salesman asks for a down payment, and the cheesy Marvin replies: "Moles don't have bank accounts — they burrow in the ground and eat worms and dirt."

And they also carry American Express gold cards, thus solving the problem of financing.

The show hums along briskly, with skits bridged by the herky-jerky cartoon style identified with Britain's Monty Python, and hits its high point near the end with You Go Slavia, a parody of music videos and the leather-and-vanity style of Canadian rocker Carole Pope.

The skit works partly because of the money that was obviously put into it. The Frantics received strong support from key network executives, who saw that Painless Productions, the show's independent producer, got the cash it needed despite austerity measures throughout the network.

HAS OWN LOOK

The money also helped lubricate producers David Acomba and Morgan Earl, who filmed in a way that actually gives the show its own "look."

Using cinema-style camera technique in the streets of Toronto and rarely used tricks in the studio — such as erecting ceilings on sets — the film crew has put a special slant on The Frantic's world.

"We shot ceilings and mouldings, we shot into corners, we shot diagonally across the set to see the deepest part, to increase the depth of space," says production designer Cameron Porteous. "We had to choose exterior locations that were studio-like: uncluttered, grey walls, empty roads.

"Then a heightened reality begins to take place: the exteriors don't look real, the interiors don't look real, but they all look like they're part of the same world."

The Frantics have high hopes for Mr. Canoehead, the crime fighter struck by lightning while carrying his aluminum canoe on a portage in Algonquin Park, but a better figure might be Mr. Interesting, who first appears on a beach wearing the traditional costume of a Tyrolean bird-watcher.

"Here's something I find very interesting," he says. "If you took every grain of sand in the world, and laid them end to end . . . you would be working for the government."

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A judge has rejected a request for a new trial of a suit that contended entertainer Dolly Parton stole parts of the hit song 9 to 5. U.S. District Judge Terry Hatter also said Monday he would award lawyer's fees to Parton's lawyers when motions were submitted.

Jurors took just 35 minutes in December to return a verdict in favor of Parton, who played guitar and sang for them from the witness stand.

Songwriters Neil and Jan Gol- dbert filed the copyright infringement suit against the 39-year-old country singer, claiming parts of Parton's 9 to 5, were lifted from their composition called Money World.

The Goldbergs' lawyer, Terran Steinhart, had said a new trial was needed because the jury was overcome by Parton's charm.

"She's a great star," Steinhart said after the verdict was announced. "I love her. They (jurors) loved her too. She did a little personal concert for them. They were star-struck."

Cultural centre set up by Christmas?

Town grant gives Uplands project a major boost

By Laurel Sherrer

LENNOXVILLE — A $10,000 grant from the town of Lennoxville has brought the Lennoxville-Ascot Historical and Museum Society close to the one-third mark in its campaign to raise funds for a cultural centre.

"Considering we've only been at it four months we've done all right," said Muriel Brand, Society president, at the group's monthly meeting Monday.

The Society's plan is to purchase Uplands, a property on Park Street belonging to the Speid family, and with a few renovations make it suitable for a museum, archives, art gallery, and a meeting place.

The campaign goal is $150,000, which will cover the cost of purchasing the property and some initial renovations.

PRESERVE HISTORY

By buying the property, the historical society will not only have space to expand, but will also preserve a part of the area's history. The 14-room, Georgian-style house was built in 1862 by John Paddon, who moved to Lennoxville from Compton. Later it was passed on to his daughter, Julia Agnes, and her husband Canon A.C. Scarth, rector of St. George's Church. Arthur Speid, a friend of the family, bought the property in 1918 and it has remained in the Speid family since then.

The barn on the property also holds considerable interest for the historical society. The loft could be used for children's theatre, Brand says, and Arthur Speid's woodworking shop, with most of the tools from the 1920s still intact, is a museum in itself.

The society launched the funding drive in early September, and some of the fund-raising activities to date have included:

— a garden party and band concert on the property at which apple pie, ice-cream and coffee were sold;

— a musical evening at the Centennial Theatre entitled An Evening With Miss Bowen, where students in the department of music used period costumes, furnishings and original sheet music to recreate a late 19th century gathering around the piano;

— a garage sale;

— a concert called Memories, organized by a group of volunteers and featuring local musicians and dancers;

— a clothing raffle.

EFFORTS DELAYED

Those involved in the fund-raising efforts had originally planned on having one-third of the goal by December, but a few things got in their way.

One was the provincial government change.

"We had a bit of a setback with the change of government," said Joe McKercher, co-chairman of the financial campaign, and alderman in charge of parks and recreation for Lennoxville. "The funds that might have been available to us before are sort of up in the air at this point in time."

With the town's support, however, prospects are better, said Brand.

"This $10,000 grant from the Town of Lennoxville was mandatory for us being able to get government and foundations to participate in our project," she said. "It was made very clear to us that the Quebec government, through the department of Cultural Affairs, would be more willing to finance a project already supported by the town and by private citizens. And this is now the case with our project."

Just a week ago, the new member of the National Assembly for St-François, Monique Gagnon-Tremblay, visited the property, said Brand, and "showed a real interest in the project."

The door-to-door canvassing, intended to reach virtually all Lennoxville residents, also didn't get under way as early as expected.

BUSY FALL

"We really had a busy fall and we discovered there's only so much you can do," said Brand. "Our canvass ran dangerously close to Christmas, so we decided we should pull back for the better part of December and January" — until people have recovered from the sting of Christmas bills.

Community support has been good right from the beginning, said McKercher, and an encouraging recent development is the involvement of the francophone community.

"It was probably perceived (at first) as an anglophone effort," he said. "Now they see that it's a cultural centre that will involve them."

Historical society president Muriel Brand accepts a $10,000 cheque from Joe McKercher, alderman responsible for parks and recreation, for the Society's project to buy property for a cultural centre.

The next activity, in fact, is a bingo organized by the francophone community, under the leadership of Henri Ruel, a former town alderman. The bingo will be held Feb. 2 at 7:30 p.m. at the Saint-Antoine's Church hall.

There will be at least one major activity per month for the rest of the year, said Brand. Others coming up include a magic show featuring Brent Cairns April 6 at Alexander Galt High School, and a luncheon put on by the Women's Institute in March. Other possibilities are a fashion show, chicken pie supper and a sugaring off.

"As I told you last month," said Brand to those gathered for the meeting, "we're going to have a Victorian Christmas on the Speid property next year."

Youth Year closing event Saturday

SHERBROOKE (LS) — The much publicized International Youth Year has come and gone, but regional youth organizations are going to give one last hurrah for youth at a special event in Sherbrooke this weekend.

The event Saturday combines two major elements: celebration, and a summing up of the year's achievements.

Early in the afternoon, about 60 young representatives of Youth

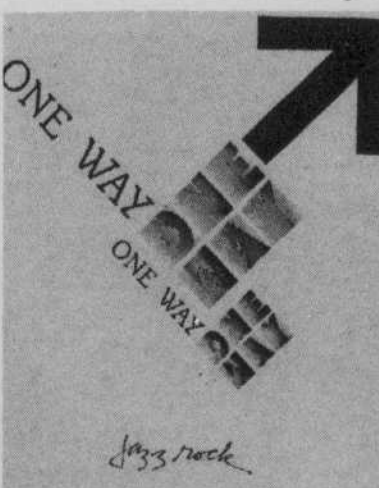

Year projects will hold a forum at the University of Sherbrooke to discuss and outline the year's achievements.

Then at 3:30 the general public is invited to attend, at no charge, an improvisation tournament, where young people will deal theatrically, ad lib, with subjects having to do with International Youth Year. This event takes place at the Salle Maurice O'Bready.

To draw the activities to an energetic close, two musical groups will perform in the Salle Maurice O'Bready. One Way, a jazz rock group which was a finalist in this year's Montreal Jazz Festival, will start off the evening at 7:30. They will be followed by local singer Micheline Goulet with her musicians and show entitled Intense, Intimiste et plein de chaleur.

The evening entertainment is also free of charge.

"We hope, by these activities and this special day, to point out what International Youth Year has done for the Townships, but also, as much as possible, to provide a springboard for the youth population and the organizations that represent them," said Paul Désilets, co-ordinator of the event.

"It's a unique occasion, not to be missed," he added.

The forum will be videotaped in its entirety, along with parts of the improvisation tournament and the evening shows, in order to have a permanent record of the event.

WHAT'S ON

Music

The Bishop's University Department of Music is presenting the highly acclaimed pianist Art Rowe in concert tonight at 8:30 in the Centennial Theatre as the first 1986 event in its Musique Chez Nous series. Rowe was a finalist in last year's International Bach Competition in Toronto and winner of the $15,000 St. Lawrence Prize for Music in 1982. Tickets are $3, $2 for students and seniors and can be reserved by calling the box office at (819) 563-4966.

Another major event coming up for devotees of classical music is a concert in Burlington, Vt., Monday by the Cracow Philharmonic Orchestra featuring the highly acclaimed cellist Yo Yo Ma. Guest conductor Krzysztof Penderecki will lead the orchestra and Ma in an evening of 20th century works including Penderecki's own Awakening of Jacob and the Cello Concerto No. 2 along with Shostakovich's Symphony No. 6, Op. 54 in B minor. The concert takes place in Burlington's Memorial Auditorium at 8 p.m. Monday. Tickets, are $5 and up, and can be reserved by calling (802) 656-3085.

Toronto nightclub singer Diane Hodson is now appearing at La Maltonière on Wellington St. in Sherbrooke and will be there until Monday. Songs on her Quebec tour include some by Cyndi Lauper, Tina Turner, Bryan Adams, Sheena Easton, The Pointer Sisters, and Madonna. Hodson is accompanied by the rock quartet BIKO, originally from Montreal. Call (819) 562-3919 for show times.

Chez René in Sherbrooke won't be having bands for awhile, but every Thursday night they have lip-sync performances.

The country band Bourbon and Lace, featuring Debbie Drummond, appears at the Army, Navy, Air Force Hut in Lennoxville this Saturday and next, playing from 9:30 until 1:30 a.m.

The Kevin Groves Band, also known as KGB plays rock 'n' roll at the F.L. Hideaway in Lennoxville tonight and Saturday night starting around 10:30.

Tonight, tomorrow and Sunday night, Idle Hands will be playing at the Georgian in Lennoxville. This band plays about 20 per cent original music and the rest is popular music, both old and new. According to band member Shawn, they have a "wicked good guitar player" named Bob Boisclair that everyone should come to hear. They'll be at the Georgian at least two more weeks, playing Thursday through Sunday nights.

The Golden Lion Pub in Lennoxville features Ted Hall Monday night starting at 9 and the following Monday it's Jeff Coates. Both sing and play acoustic guitar.

The fellas at Hee Haw Country (470 Main West in Magog) are inviting you to "Come on down!" particularly on Saturday nights when the new Ramblin Fever is playing. The band now includes a couple of members of the former Bigfoot, so it might sound a bit different to devoted Ramblin Fever fans. Tom Wheeler provides the music Sunday from 8 p.m. to 1 a.m. Stay tuned for Whiteline at Hee Haw next month and — for something a little different — log-sawing contests Sunday afternoons.

The Sunset Boys play country and western music over at Station 88 in South Stukely this weekend, from 9 p.m. until 2 a.m. tonight and tomorrow night.

This weekend the Burning Log Bistro, found by heading out of Mansonville toward Vale Perkins, features Ron Phendler of Magog and Phil Sheppard of Knowlton playing a variety of musical styles on guitar, fiddle, mandolin and flute. That's Saturday night only.

At the Del Monty in Rock Island, where rock and roll reigns, the band this weekend is Passion Play, performing tonight and Saturday night starting at 10:30.

Whiteline continues to play Friday and Saturday nights at the Maples in Stanstead, and will continue to do so for the rest of January. The music starts around 9:30.

All month long at the Shady Crest in Ayer's Cliff it's Mike Goodsell playing Friday and Saturday starting at 9:30 and Sunday afternoon at 3:30.

Exhibitions/Events

A travelling exhibition from the Institut québécois de recherche sur la culture on the history of radio in Quebec is being shown at the museum of the Eastern Townships Historical Society until Jan. 31. Through the use of about 50 photographs with accompanying text, the exhibition points out some of the more memorable moments in Quebec radio history. From the first transmission of the human voice over electromagnetic waves in the 1900s by East Bolton native Reginald Aubrey Fessenden, through the first experimental radio station in the province, XWA of Montreal founded by Guglielmo Marconi, to Les Joyeux Troubadours (the French version of The Happy Gang), the exhibition gives a comprehensive sketch of Quebec radio history. The historical society has localized the show somewhat by adding a bit of information about Sherbrooke's first station, CHLT, which was founded as a bilingual station in 1937. The museum is in pavillion 3 of the Domaine Howard in Sherbrooke and it's open weekdays 9 a.m. to 12 and 1:30 to 5 p.m.

Photographic portraits of children from 1860 to 1900 involved in such activities as music, sports, nursery games and pony riding form Victorian Childhood, an exhibition now on at the Bishops-Champlain Art Gallery. See Exhibitions/Events column.

The Craven "A" Special Moments fashion show continues today at 4 and 7 p.m. and tomorrow at 2 p.m. at the Carrefour de l'Estrie shopping centre. This features spring and summer fashions by seven of Canada's top designers: Stephan Caras, Tom D'Auria, Roger Edwards, Kentsou, Ruark Roswell Smith, and the design team of Nicola Pelly and Harry Parnass.

The Horace Gallery in Sherbrooke features the work of John Mingolla in an exhibition titled Simply Savage continuing until the 31st. Mingolla is a Montreal artist who has participated in numerous solo and group exhibitions both in Canada and Europe. His style has been defined as "neo-pop" and his combination painting-sculptures have been said to show a preoccupation with the environment and evoke elements of the collective memory. The gallery, at 906 King West, is open Wednesday through Friday from noon to 5 p.m. and from 1 to 5 p.m. Saturday and Sunday.

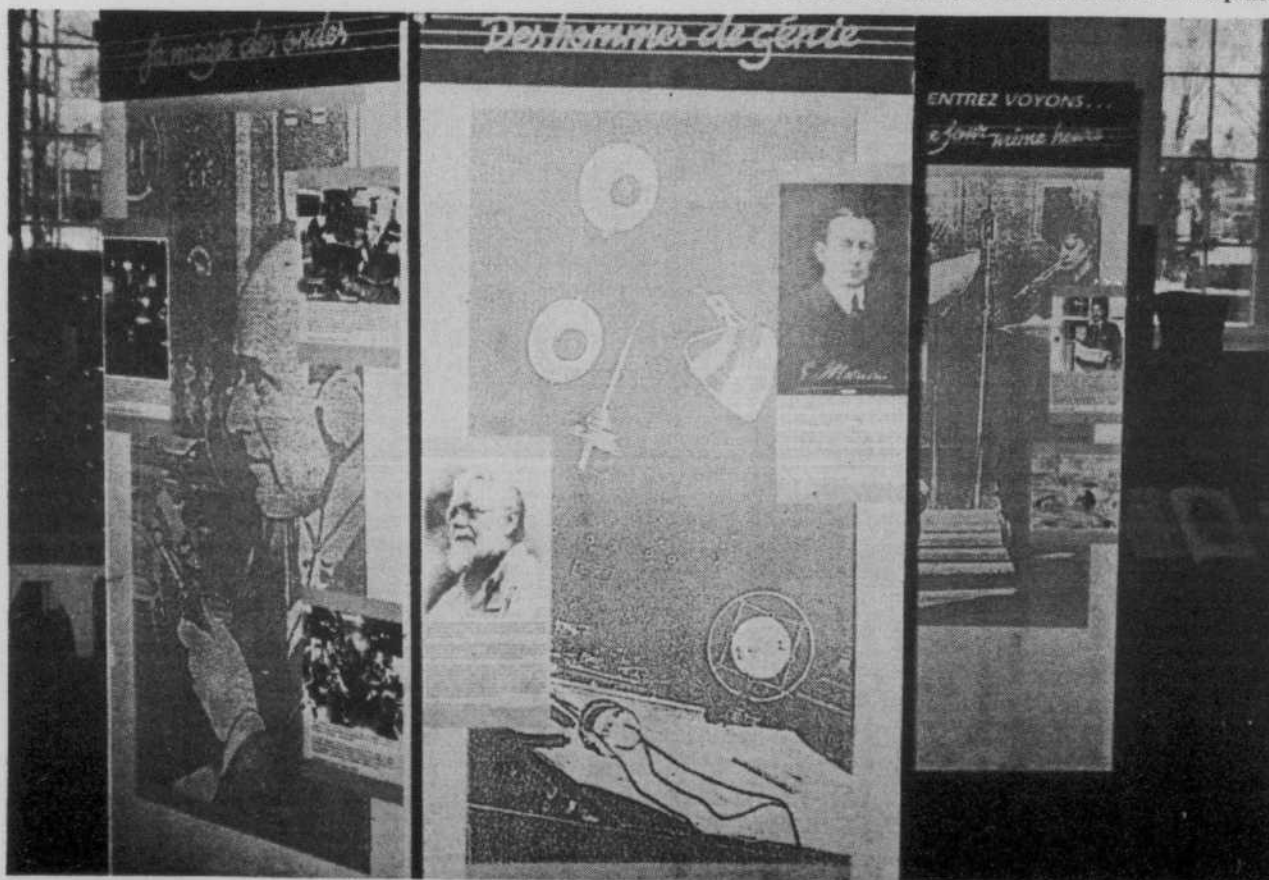

Jeux de reflets, an exhibition of work by Sherbrooke native Yvan Lafontaine is also featured at the Horace Gallery until Jan. 31.

The Marsil Museum of St-Lambert is celebrating its sixth year of existence with a display of costumes and textiles from around 1860 until 1930. Silhouettes will continue until March 2. In addition to the display, there will be a lecture on Feminist Movements and Fashion, 1900-1940 by Danièle Archambault at 2 p.m. Feb. 6 (in French). The museum is located at 349 Riverside Drive in St-Lambert.

Townships native Gerald Tousignant has his landscapes of the region on display at the Galerie d'Art de la Caisse Populaire Sherbrooke-Est until Jan. 31 and they can be seen during regular banking hours.

An exhibition put on jointly by the McCord Museum and the Musée du Séminaire de Sherbrooke examines the development of the townships surrounding the St. Francis River. Opening today and continuing until March 9, Townships of the St. Francis, uses engravings, photographs, maps and artifacts collected locally to illustrate the history of the area and the unifying force of the river. The Museum is open every day except Monday from 12:30 to 5 p.m. and it only costs $1 for adults, 50¢ for children. Groups can reserve by calling (819) 563-2050. For more information, see story p.3.

The gallery of the University of Sherbrooke's Cultural Centre features recent work by Quebec City artist Lucienne Cornet until Feb. 9. The mythical figure of the wolf recurring in Cornet's work is said to suggest the taming of the subjective, passionate aspirations in the face of the cold rationality of the so-called civilized world. The gallery is open weekdays from 12:30 to 5 p.m., Tuesday, Wednesday and Saturday from 7 to 10 p.m. and Sunday from 1 to 4 p.m.

Danielle April explores new combinations of painting and sculpture in an exhibition in the Grand Hall of the University of Sherbrooke's Cultural Centre. This display is on until Feb. 16.

Photography by Susan McEachern is displayed in the foyer of the Salle Maurice O'Bready at the University of Sherbrooke until Feb. 16. In this collection, McEachern used black and white, color and colored photos to compare the creative action of photography to theatre, where a reality foreseen becomes "real" upon the stage.

Eighty photographic portraits of children, taken by the Notman Studio in Toronto between 1861 and 1900, are displayed at the Bishop's-Champlain Art Gallery on the Bishop's University campus in Lennoxville. The exhibition, entitled Victorian Childhood, is organized by the Notman Photographic Archives and continues until Jan. 31. The gallery, located in the Marjorie Donald building, is open Monday to Friday, 11 a.m. to 3 p.m.

The Arts Sutton gallery at 8 Main St. South in Sutton will feature etchings and lithographs by Montrealer Sue Rusk and etchings, woodcuts and photos by fellow Montrealer Evelyn Dufour starting Jan. 31. The gallery is open Friday through Sunday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The McGill Cancer Centre is currently offering a six-part public lecture series on the disease with lectures approximately once a month. The third lecture, Methods of Detection of Cancer: The Modern X-Ray and The Biopsy, takes place at 8 p.m. next Wednesday, Jan. 22 on the 6th floor, 1200 Pine Avenue West in Montreal. For more information you may call Kate Williams at the University Relations Office (514) 392-5308.

Theatre

The main theatrical event for English-speaking Townshippers in the coming week has to be the Broadway musical revue Ain't Misbehavin', chronicling the life and times of blues musician Thomas 'Fats' Waller, coming to the Centennial Theatre in Lennoxville next Monday, the 20th. About 30 of his songs will be performed during the performance, including the classic 'Honeysuckle Rose' and 'The Joint is Jumpin'. Tickets are on sale at the Centennial box office for $12 (centre section) and $10 (side sections). Full-time students and seniors can get a 50 per cent discount. Call (819) 563-4966 for information or reservations. The play starts at 8:30 p.m.

Movies

I think it may be time for me to go see a movie. It may sometimes sound like I spend a good bit of time elbow-deep in popcorn before the big screen, but for the longest time I've been relying on what I've heard and read. Word does get around, and eventually, you even get to thinking you've seen the movie. In any case, this week's column will again have to be a collection of borrowed information.

White Nights goes into its fifth and final week at the Capitol Cinema, showing nightly at 7:30 with Sunday matinees at 1:30. This stars Mikhail Baryshnikov as a Russian ballet dancer who defects (ludicrous concept!), and Gregory Hines as a tap dancer, and the two, apparently get caught up in some kind of intrigue in the Soviet Union. What I've heard about this one is mostly favorable, although there has been some talk of overly negative portrayal of the Soviets, much as was featured in the abominable Rocky IV.

Which, since your curiosity has probably been piqued, is now playing at the Merrill's Showplace Cinemas in Newport, Vt., Friday to Sunday at 7:10 and 9:15, Saturday and Sunday at 1:55 and Monday and Tuesday at 7:25 as well. In case you haven't heard the story yet, in this one boxer Rocky Balboa, having conquered all possible opponents in his own country takes on a genetically perfect Soviet monster, scientifically trained to kill in the boxing ring. Charming.

Also at Merrill's is Clue, showing Friday to Sunday at 7:20 and 9:20, Saturday and Sunday at 2 and Monday and Tuesday at 7:30. If I remember right, this is based on the game in which players have to solve a murder and in some theatres, I've heard, it is shown at different times, with three totally plausible, but different endings. Sounds intriguing.

Back to the Future, the very enjoyable and funny hit from the summer starring Michael J. Fox, is back at Merrill's playing Friday through Sunday at 7, Saturday and Sunday at 1:45 and Monday and Tuesday at 7:20.

The comedy Spies Like Us, with Chevy Chase and Dan Akroyd, also plays at Merrill's Friday, Saturday and Sunday at 9:10.

The Cinemas Carrefour has no English movie for the coming week, now that The Jewel of the Nile has completed its third week. Now this sequel to Romancing the Stone seems to have been a flop as far as the critics are concerned — it fails, among other things, to make full use of Kathleen Turner's talents, was one analysis I heard — but the audiences haven't been that hard on it. If you want to see it now, you'll have to wait until next Friday, the 24th, when it starts at the Cinéma Princess in Cowansville.

Until then at the Princess, it's Darryl at 7:15 and Young Sherlock Holmes at 9:05.

Next Tuesday, the 21st, the National Film Board Theatre at 311 King West in Sherbrooke is showing two films on the topic of peace. The Big Snit is an animated film that looks at two simultaneous conflicts, the macrocosm of global nuclear war and the microcosm of a domestic quarrel and how each conflict is resolved. Speaking Our Peace is a documentary in which well-known women peace activists express their views on the concept of peace as more than the absence of war. The film features a visit to the U.S.S.R. where two Canadian women discuss peace initiatives with their Soviet counterparts. The 70-minute program, comprising the two films, will be shown at 2 p.m. and again at 8 p.m. Admission is free and coffee will be served.

Television

The title has always fascinated me, so I must watch it this time: tonight at 11 on Vermont ETV, Tippi Hendron and Rod Taylor star in Alfred Hitchcock's thriller The Birds. This 1963 movie is about a small town attacked by birds.

Saturday at 8:30 p.m., CTV Television presents Ticket to Heaven, the 1981 social thriller about cult religions in California. Starring Nick Mancuso, Saul Rubinek, Meg Foster and Kim Cattrall, this story centres on a Toronto school teacher who visits friends in San Francisco and gets involved in a religious order.

Then at 9 p.m. there's another Alfred Hitchcock movie on Vermont ETV. Psycho is about a man who appears to be protecting his mother in the murders of a woman and a private detective. This 1960 classic stars Anthony Perkins and Janet Leigh.

CTV's Sunday Cinema feature, at 1 p.m., is the modern-day Romeo and Juliet, West Side Story. This 1961 musical is about a West Side New York boy who tries and fails to stop the war between his gang and their Puerto Rican neighbors when he falls in love with a Puerto Rican girl.

Sunday at 8 p.m. CBC Television begins telecasting a new BBC six-hour miniseries which will continue the next two nights. Tender is the Night, based on F. Scott Fitzgerald's autobiographical novel, is set in the 1920s European playground of wealthy Americans — the French Riviera, Switzerland and Paris. Peter Strauss stars as Dick Diver, a brilliant young American psychiatrist who falls in love with his wealthy patient Nicole Warren (played by Mary Steenburgen) whose mental illness has been brought on by incest with her father, multi-millionaire Devereux Warren (played by Edward Asner).

Vermont ETV's American Playhouse, Monday at 9 p.m., features Tom Hulce (winner of an academy award for his portrayal of Mozart in the film Amadeus) as Daniel Rocket, a young man who believes he can fly, in a 90-minute television adaptation of Peter Parnell's Off-Broadway fantasy/drama The Rise and Rise of Daniel Rocket.

Comic book fanatics might like to tune in to Vermont ETV's Crossroads program next Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. for a visit to the second annual Comic Book Convention. You'll meet the founder, 15-year-old Jeff Galper of Burlington who has been collecting comic books for most of his young life, and get some tips on the finer points of collecting.

CBC Television's Man Alive program Wednesday at 9:30 features a group of doctors, psychiatrists and volunteer agencies who have dedicated themselves to torture survivors. Political torture is officially carried out by half the countries in the world and thousands of victims disappear, never to tell their story. But each year thousands of political refugees settle in Canada, many of them victims of torture which haunts them long afterwards.

Wednesday at 10 p.m. on Vermont ETV, AIDS: Profile of an Epidemic takes a comprehensive look at this incurable disease of mounting global concern.

CBC Thursday Night next week, from 8 to 9:30 p.m. is entitled Karsh: The Searching Eye. This is a portrait of one of the world's best photographers, covering 50 years of Yusef Karsh's creative output. Hundreds of photographs will be seen, including Sir Winston Churchill, Ernest Hemingway, Humphrey Bogart, Jackie Kennedy Onassis, and Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth. The profile will also show Karsh at work in a photographic session with Leonard Bernstein as well as other subjects.

Radio

Two Ideas series on CBC Radio, currently in progress, deserve another mention, I think. In the three-part series Other Worlds, Other Minds: A Science Fiction Odyssey, freelance writer Robert J. Sawyer looks at the roots and themes of science fiction. The third and final part of the series, to be broadcast at 9:05 p.m. Jan. 20, is called Stars in Our Eyes and it explores how science fiction has treated the human condition and provided a unique perspective on it.

Return of the Goddess: From Ancient Belief to Modern Attitudes is into the third of its four parts next week. In this program Merlin Stone describes the effect of newly emerging information about ancient Goddess images and beliefs on women working in the arts, music and social sciences. The third part, at 9:05 p.m. Jan. 22, looks at new ideas in theology, psychology and sociology.

Tom Hulce, who won an Oscar for his portrayal of Mozart in the film Amadeus, plays the role of Daniel Rocket, a young man who believes he can fly in The Rise and Rise of Daniel Rocket on Vermont ETV Monday night. See Television column.

In Turkey's Cappadocia region...

Underground dwellings in danger

By Paul Bolding

URGUP, Turkey (Reuter) — The ancient labyrinthine dwellings of Turkey's Cappadocia region and their unique Byzantine art treasures are in danger of crumbling to dust.

The dwellings, carved out of rock in a pink and grey volcanic landscape sculpted by wind and rain, are more than 1,000 years old. Many are underground.

The United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization (UNESCO) has set up a fund to save them from the effects of time and water, but so far with little success.

The rock is called "tuff," formed centuries ago from mud and ash from two long-dormant volcanoes. Today, a visitor can rub it off with his hands.

DID FRESCOS

Monastic communities fleeing Arab invaders grouped here a millennium ago and dug into the tuff to build homes and places of worship, which they decorated with rare and beautiful frescoes, some of which are now peeling away.

They created vast, labyrinthine cities underground, stacked 10 storeys high, with built-in defences against possible attack.

Some of these hidden cities may date back even further, to a pre-Christian age.

Dotting the above-ground landscape above are what contemporary Turks of the area call "fairy chimneys" — grotesque columns of tuff topped by great chunks of basalt as if placed there by a huge, unseen hand.

The hard basalt protected the tuff from rain, wind and extreme temperature changes and helped create the bizarre rock pillars.

CARVED CHAMBERS

Homes, monasteries and churches — mostly barrel-vaulted single chambers — are carved into the chimneys as well as in steep canyons gouged out by erosion.

UNESCO is now completing a five-year study on how to save this ancient subterranean world, which is about 225 kilometres southeast of Ankara.

But UN and Turkish officials say the issue has low priority. The study is limited to one area, the Goreme Valley. So far, only a few thousand dollars has been raised, and little work has been completed.

Olca Kabar of the Turkish government's Museums and Antiquities Department said the UNESCO study was trying to find the best way of preserving the rock cities.

"Infiltration of water is a great danger to the frescoes," she said. "Experts are testing materials for tackling erosion."

They must also find ways of preserving the unusual Byzantine art.

ART IN CHURCHES

The challenge is considerable. There are believed to be roughly 150 rock churches, dozens of them with breath-taking frescoes more than 1,100 years old.

Experts say the wall paintings are unique examples of late Byzantine art, inscribed in Greek and showing biblical scenes.

Many frescoes have peeled away, revealing red crosses and other symbols of an earlier period.

Ethnic Greeks who lived here in the 1920s scrawled across many of the paintings and superstitious locals also gouged the eyes out of some of the figures portrayed.

Conservation experts are testing special cements, resins and a type of volcanic ash called pozzolana to find the right "glue" to preserve the art.

"Fairy chimneys" dot the landscape above the hidden, labyrinthine cities that may date back to pre-Christian times.

Welsh want visitors to linger in 58-letter village

By Greg Hutchinson

LLANFAIRPWLLGWYNGYLLGOGERYCHWYRNDROBWLILLANTYSILIOGOGOGOCH, Wales (Reuter) — No, this is not a typing error — it's a Welsh village name that is worth its weight in syllables.

But local people would like the thousands of visitors who make the pilgrimage to this curious outpost to stay a while, learn the pronunciation and spend some money — rather than just photograph the famous railway station sign and move on.

"It's like a milking parlor — we've got the power to bring the cow in but we can't keep it there long enough," said residents' spokesman Alun Mummery.

The Anglesey island township off the Welsh coast grew from a 19-letter name to one of 58 letters in the early 19th century. It draws 250,000 tourists a year, but most leave the village no wiser about how to pronounce its name than when they arrive.

SNAP AND GO

They take photos of its railway station and its eccentricity long signposts, then leave the township of 3,000 people.

Anglesey, linked by a bridge to north Wales, is about 400 kilometres northwest of London.

About three quarters of the island's 60,000 people speak Welsh, a Celtic language totally unlike modern English.

The name of the village dates from the early 1800s, when a tailor expanded the name of Llanfairpwllgwyngyll (the "Ll" at the start is a Welsh sound that English speakers approximate by pronouncing "Cl") to what it is today to distinguish it from a score of nearby towns also starting Llanfair (meaning, St. Mary's church).

One village resident, who did not want to be named and who has studied the region's history, says the 58-letter name is a hoax.

But John Smith, the villagers' representative on Anglesey council, defends the tongue-twister because, translated, it tells the visitor the exact position of the village — at St. Mary's church in the hollow of the white hazel near to the rapid whirlpool of (Saint) Llantysilio of the red cave.

SHIFTING GEARS — Susan Lucci has been a major star among daytime fans for years, and she's beginning to make her nighttime mark as well. She plays Antoinette Giancana in "Mafia Princess," a role that has little in common with Erica Kane on "All My Children." "I almost think people won't recognize me," she says. "Mafia Princess" will air Sunday, Jan. 19 on NBC.

Our Strength: The Determination of Our Youth

I'm now a soldering inspector at TIE Communications, where I've been working for the last 18 months. Working in a telephone systems assembly/production plant has opened new horizons for my career, while, on a more personal level, living in Sherbrooke has encouraged me to meet greater challenges.

Like many people my age, constantly perfecting my skills and furthering my knowledge is important to me. All the younger employees at TIE Communications realize that what we are doing is important to the region's economy. We tackle our jobs with a lot of determination and energy because we think that's how we can make Sherbrooke more than a city.
