No raises

SHERBROOKE — Mayor Armand Nadeau said at a press conference yesterday he does not intend to press for a bylaw which would give himself and members of the city council a raise in pay and expense allowances.

A request for the raises presented to the Private Bills Committee of the Quebec legislature Wednesday was turned down on the grounds that it would have to be presented in the form of a bylaw for proprietors' approval.

Teamsters sign

MONTREAL (CP)—An 83-day strike of 1,400 truck drivers that has cost an estimated $10,000,000 to $12,000,000 officially ended Friday night when representatives of the strike-bound companies and the International Teamsters Union (Ind.) formally signed a new contract.

The signing came a few hours after about 600 shirt-sleeved strikers approved the terms almost unanimously—although not without complaint.

A search plane pilot radioed he had sighted the wreck of a plane near Aurangabad, but was unable to say if it was the missing jetliner or an Indian Air Force bomber also reported missing.

The airliner was over Aurangabad when its last radio report was received shortly before it was due to land here at midnight on a flight from Australia to Europe.

Softening

REGINA (CP) — There were slight indications of a softening approach Friday on both sides of the bitter Saskatchewan medical care dispute.

But opposition stiffened in some quarters as the doctors' strike against the CCF government's compulsory, prepaid medical care insurance plan ended its first week.

A second court action was launched Friday with leave granted to three residents to seek an injunction which would, in effect, suspend the operation of the Medical Care Insurance Act.

Adenauer resumes France tour

BORDEAUX, France (Reuters)—Chancellor Adenauer continued his official visit to France today as his political troubles, mounted at home. The West German leader was scheduled to visit the famous Chateau Margaux vineyards here before flying to Reims, where he and President de Gaulle will attend mass Sunday at the cathedral.

Crowds shouting "No Nazis in Bordeaux" greeted the 86-year-old chancellor when he arrived here Friday—fifth day of his week-long official visit to France.

Other demonstrators shouted "Ouradour," the name of a village 60 miles from here where the population was massacred by German troops during the Second World War.

But Adenauer was facing more serious trouble in West Germany, where the junior partners in his coalition government threatened to withdraw support.

Erich Mende, leader of the minority Free Democratic Party, told a press conference Friday that a deep crisis is

Asbestos industry aims high

Canada's asbestos industry has got the world on a string—and as the song goes—a big rainbow round its shoulder. Vibrant state of the industry is reflected in its five-way drive to—

"Integrate with foreign consumers."
"Create new markets."
"Develop new products."
"Build manufacturing facilities."
"Boost output, open new mines."

The industry which had a record production year in 1961—1,175,615 tons valued at $123 million—appears headed for another.

Shipments in the January-April period—85 percent, is exported—leaped a head 10.7 percent to 288,268 tons.

Half of Canada's exports go to the U.S., about 30 percent to Europe.

Johns-Manville, parent of Canadian J-M has spearheaded the expansion movement.

NEW PIPE PLANT

Last year the Canadian company opened a modern "transite" water and sewer pipe plant at Port Union. It is now exporting to the U.S.

At Asbestos, Quebec, its Jeffrey mine, the world's largest has been switched to open pit operation to effect economies.

In northeastern Newfoundland, Canadian J-M has put up close to 50 percent of the capital for a new mine, Advocate, scheduled for production in July next year.

Three other firms, Patino of Canada, Amet Corp. and Financier Belge de L'Asbeste Ciment share in the financing.

The parent J-M company is building up its world-wide sales and manufacturing organization.

Says president Clinton Burnett in the annual report, "Strategy to meet such challenges as the European Common Market and other overseas realities was developed several years ago."

Additional manufacturing sites in Europe, he said were being purchased.

Asbestos Corp., Canada's second largest producer has taken a big plunge to expand—and integrate in Europe.

Last year it sold 200,000 shares, a 10 percent interest, to one of its major European customers. On the basis of share value, the deal was worth $6.8 million.

plants in France, Spain, Belgium, Italy, Switzerland and other parts of the world.

There's a good chance, Asbestos Corp. may link with Montreal-based St. Lawrence Cement, controlled by a Belgian member of the group, to produce a asbestos cement products in Canada.

OPTIONS PROPERTY

With new backing, Asbestos Corp. concluded an agreement to option, and possibly acquire Murray Mining Corp's huge asbestos property in Ungava.

"The biggest market for asbestos, says A. B. Davidson, president of United Asbestos, is in production of cement pipe. We can't produce enough medium-grade fibre to meet the demand," he said.

United Asbestos, managed by giant American Smelting and Refining Co., exports to about 30 countries.

The company moved to consolidate and expand business at home. Late last year five Toronto area cement companies were acquired and merged into one, General Concrete Ltd., under management of Thorold Concrete Products, which United Asbestos controls.

Biggest foreign threat to the Canadian industry is Russia.

Soviet production has advanced rapidly, and is now reported equal to Canada's.

The Russians, by 1965 have promised to double Canada's output. Russia is claiming to have the world's largest reserves, produced only 550,000 tons of fibre in 1955.

The Soviet Union is shipping a large portion of the expanded production to its satellites.

But Russia's need for foreign exchange, has also prompted her to invade world markets.

Early vote talk subsides

By CUTHBERT JONES
(Record staff writer)

Significantly, talk of an early federal election appears to have subsided during the past few days—probably for two important reasons.

Firstly, Prime Minister Diefenbaker has declared that Parliament will not be called into session until late in September. In all probability the Government will be able to present a legislative program comprising individual items that will appeal to one or other of the opposition parties. By playing the three groups against each other, the administration might be able to avoid defeat on a no-confidence vote for several months.

Secondly, it is doubtful if any of the parties really want an early election—for a variety of reasons.

One important factor is finance.

None of the central party organizations appeared to be well fixed during the June election campaign and it is unlikely their exchequers have been replenished to any degree since June 18.

Many of the newly-elected members had to meet the major portion of their campaign expenditures from their own pockets or from local donations. The only way of recouping themselves is through their sessional indemnities, which look unusually sweet at present.

Each party has its own reasons for wishing to avoid an early appeal to the public.

Progressive Conservatives realize that their position with the voters is none too strong and that the austerity program has done little to enhance their standing in the popular mind—for the time being at least.

Their best hope is to carry on as long as possible, hoping the belt-tightening measures will result in a substantial improvement in the general economy and an expansion in employment.

Thus the Government must play for time.

And despite their loud cries of victory, the Liberals see several dark spots in the near-range forecasts.

One is the surprising strength shown by the Social Credit forces in Quebec.

The major opposition party is fearful that the Sacred tide is still flowing in this province and that the Caouette forces may pick up another 30 seats in Quebec—at the expense of both older parties.

And it is possible the tide may flood over into the predominantly French-populated ridings of eastern Ontario and northern New Brunswick, where the Social Credit movement is strong.

These seats are held at present by Liberals.

Following the next vote it is conceivable the Liberals would have a substantially smaller representation in the Commons than they have at present.

For the long-range program, probably the Liberals are none-too-anxious to take office at the present time—if they could.

The uncertainties of the economic situation may compel further unpopular moves

KREMLIN GOES GUNNING FOR CUPID

By LEON DENNEN
Newspaper Enterprise Analyst

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Love, romantic love is raising its satanic head to subvert the materialistic purity of Red society. As if Khrushchev hasn't enough troubles.

An angry editorial in Literaturnaya Gazetta, Moscow's authoritative literary journal, voices alarm at the unprecedented rise in popularity of "feminine fiction" concerned only with love. The editorial is entitled, appropriately enough, "Eve Who Ate From the Apple."

Until Benny Goodman's triumphant tour of Russia it was the "degenerating influence" of American jazz that caused journal worry and anguish. Since Khrushchev's Marxist-Leninist faith remained untarnished even after he had been exposed to Benny's beat, jazz has acquired an artistic semi-respectability in Russia.

But not yet, alas, that other dangerous symbol of capitalist subversion—romantic love.

The new target of the literary gazette's normal wrath is a lady comrade named Vera Chubakova who was rash enough to write a novelette called "I Want to Be Happy." The very title of the story smacks with counter-revolution. Everyone in the Socialist Fatherland is already happy, the gazette hints.

Indeed, the whole problem, as Literaturnaya Gazetta sees it, is one of "basic principles." It has nothing to do with the fact that the author of this particular piece of fiction happens to be a woman. Not at all.

For "such stories are also frequently written by men." Their heroes and heroines are usually given such romantic and highly unproletarian names as Lera, Julia, Vadim and Leonid. "They speak a great deal about their feelings," they sigh, kiss passionately and get slapped in the face.

Love in this type of fiction compensates for the here's (or heroine's) lack of productive zeal in the factory, collective farm or in the scientific laboratory, the gazette complains. Even more ominous is the fact that the Leras, Julias, Vadims and Leonids keep "symbolic" love souvenirs" close to their heart or carefully hidden in the drawers of their writing desks.

But it is the style of the "feminine stories" that brings the gazette to a pitch of indignation. The tales describe "in their more lyrical passages" rivals who fight for the heart of the maiden and lovers who whisper tenderly of "falling leaves." When the heroes and heroines kiss the author usually envelops them "in a blue haze."

According to the Kremlin's literary mouthpiece, Chubakova's "I Want to Be Happy" is, unfortunately, not an exception.

Rural population supports MDs

KINDERSLEY, SASK.—In the turmoil and tension of the Saskatchewan doctor's strike, one solid fact stands out: More than 90 per cent of the rural population is behind the doctors in their battle against compulsory medicare.

This is no snap judgment. It is based on countless interviews during a two-day, 700-mile motor trip from one end of the province to the other.

I talked with Peter Derhousoff, father of the baby who died on the way to Yorkton Hospital from his home 75 miles away at Usherville.

The boy has become a symbol to Saskatchewan people, who see him as the first, but not last, victim of the compulsory medical scheme.

"I want the world to know what we went through so that it can be a lesson to everyone involved," said Mr. Derhousoff.

"I said I might take legal action against the government, but I realize now that nothing can bring our little Sandy back again.

"Our child died because two groups couldn't get together."

On the west side of the province, just 50 miles from the Alberta border, Dr. Leonard U. Penner, 49, is caring for the patients in the 40-bed Kindersley Union Hospital.

He is looking after emergency medical needs of this town of 5,500 people, and of a similar number of people in the large surrounding farm

New Strike Hits Algeria
Fatal Riots Flare in Rio

Saskatchewan's 928,000 citizens found themselves in a situation without precedent in North America when a conflict between government and doctors stopped all but emergency medical care.

Painfully-growing tension—climaxing a 2½-year battle—came to a head early last Saturday when CCF Premier Woodrow Lloyd and the Saskatchewan College of Physicians and Surgeons announced that 11th-hour negotiations left them as divided as ever on a compulsory, prepaid, medical insurance plan.

Only hours remained before the July implementation of the plan and the college asked the government to withdraw the deadline and continue discussions.

Lloyd said the doctors should accept the government's offer that they could practise outside the insurance act. As to concern about loss of professional rights, an independent commission could act as watchdog.

College President Dr. H. D. Dalgleish issued a statement saying the government would have to accept responsibility for any "disastrous consequences."

"We are free citizens and we do not intend to practise teers from among Saskatchewan's 700 practising physicians were remaining on duty to provide emergency care at 35 strategically-located hospitals.

A 10-month-old child died, apparently from meningitis, and his parents protested they had to drive more than 175 miles to Yorkton to find a doctor.

July 2—The physicians college demanded repeal of the legislation. Lloyd offered negotiation, and recommended conciliation by a third party.

Assurances were exchanged between Lloyd and Dr. A. D. Kelly of Toronto, general secretary of the Canadian Medical Association, that doctors involved in the dispute one way or the other would not be penalized. Five British doctors were flown to Saskatchewan by the government.

July 3—Two doctors asked four court actions declaring the medical plan beyond the powers of the provincial government.

July 4—An ominous element entered with reports that some doctors were receiving threatening letters.

TEN OF SPADES PROMOTES SELF

It is not easy to decide when to violate the second hand rule and play a high card from dummy, but you should consider doing this any time dummy holds a doubleton or tripleton honor. If you find that the honor will be of no value if you don't play it right away, you should play it and hope for the best.

Usually that honor will be the king, queen or jack, but on occasion you should risk with a ten spot.

With 13 high card points and two apparent stoppers in the unbid suit, South had a sound jump to two no-trump and, needless to say, North's raise to game was correct.

He also noted that dummy's ten spot might prove of great value to him if used right away and he played second hand high. When the ten spot held the trick, South was back to two stoppers. He came to his hand with a diamond and tried the club finesse. It lost but the loss did not hurt South. He was sure of 10 tricks.

Show Business

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Next season will see television continuing a trend of recent years—retreads of old movie hits.

Whenever producers are stuck for a new series idea, they search the vaults. The 1962-63 season will see three new shows based on movie classics.

Gene Kelly will be starring in Bing Crosby's old caskock with an hour-long Going My Way. Fess Parker subs for James Stewart in a half-hour Mr. Smith Goes to Washington. The Virginian shapes up as a 90-minute western based on the Owen Wister book. The Virginian, which was filmed at least thrice.

They will join four other series that resulted from films: Dr. Kildare, Cheyenne, Lassic and Dobie Gillis. Few recall that the latter was once a feature starring Bobby Van and a youngster named Debbie Reynolds.

FIELD LITTERED

This sort of thing has been going on for years, with the odds heavy against movie adaptations. Last season saw the demise of five such series: Marie, Father of the Bride, Birds, Stop, National Velvet and Room for One More.

In the earlier days of television, Mama ran up a long stand with Peggy Wood playing the role that Irene Dunne created in I Remember Mama.

Otherwise the syndication field is littered with the remains of movie adaptations that tried with scant success to make the transition to the new medium.

SERMON ON THE MOUNT SCENE LARGEST EVER FILMED ON LOCATION IN SPAIN

The three chapters of the Gospel of Matthew, which provide the only written record of Jesus' Sermon on the Mount, have been described as the most important contribution ever made to morality. Never before or since in the history of mankind has so much been said in such a little time.

Director Nicholas Ray spent more than an entire month on preparation and filming of the Sermon on the Mount sequence of Samuel Bronston's spectacular production of "King of Kings," presented by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer. Comprising 81 individual camera setups and 21 days of actual shooting, it is the largest action scene ever filmed in Spain.

Ray and his crew drove more than 500 miles through the Spanish countryside in search of the location site in which to stage this majestic sequence. Finally, he chose a site in the gentle, rolling hills near Venta de Frascuela, 50 kilometers southeast of Madrid.

Once the location was decided upon, Production Manager Stanley Goldsmith and his staff undertook the monumental job of recruiting more than 7,000 extras to appear as the multitude. He was able to find them in groups of 150 to 350 persons in the 24 villages surrounding the location area. After selecting a group from each village, Goldsmith made arrangements for buses to pick them up at approximately six a.m. each day, in time for costuming and make-up on the set.

Normally, the hiring and basic training of such a large group of extras for a big crowd scene takes at least two weeks. Goldsmith was able to cut this to less than three days by assigning 24 different section leaders to convey camera directions to their individual units on the slopes. Although none of the Spanish

Thetford Mines pastor tendered farewell party

THETFORD MINES — On Monday evening, June 25, with over 65 in attendance, members of the Thetford Mines - Kinneair's Mills United Church congregations gathered in the Church Hall here to bid farewell to their pastor and wife, Rev. and Mrs. E. R. Hay, prior to their departure. Toward the middle of July Rev. Mr. Hay will assume his duties as lecturer and part-time chaplain at Mount Allison University, Sackville, N.B.

Led by Dick Hall, the evening's program began with a singing. A men's quartette comprised of Don Worth, Dick Hall, Rod Macdonald and Eldon Hay, rendered several selections. S. L. Hodge spoke briefly after which U. A. Vaudry presented Mrs. Hay with a crystal rose bowl, and Mr. Hay with a pen and pencil set as well as a purse of money from the parishioners. A fine address accompanied the presentation. Mr. Hay expressed his appreciation for the lovely gifts and for the generosity and kindness of his parishioners. His words of farewell were along a humorous vein, mentioning incidents involving members of the churches.

Following the presentation, lunch was served by the ladies of both congregations after which a social hour was enjoyed. Mr. Hay came to Thetford, following graduation from a university in Basle, Switzerland, where he obtained his Ph.D. degree in June, 1960. Early in July he was inducted as minister of the Thetford Mines - Kinneair's Mills pastoral charge. In addition to it being a first full-time pastoral charge for him, it also marked the first time an induction service had been held in the Thetford Mines United Church.

In spite of the couple's short stay in this region, it was with a feeling of real regret that their parishioners bade them farewell.

CALF CLUB CORNER

By SANDRA PICKFORD

Here is the report on the Lennoxville and Hatley Calf Club's bus trip to Burlington New Hampshire June 28, written by Dan Parkinson, member of the Lennoxville Calf Club who made the trip with fellow members:

"On Thursday, June 28, the group making the trip to Burlington left Lennoxville at 6:45. Four more stops were made along the Stantstead Highway to pick up members. On the bus were twenty-one Hatley members and parents and nineteen from Lennoxville. Two cars from Lennoxville brought the total to about fifty-five.

"We arrived at the Agricultural College of the University of Vermont at about 10 a.m. After being treated to chocolate milk from the college dairy, Professor Fitzsimons conducted a judging demonstration and competition. Four classes of cows were judged, Holsteins, Jerseys, Ayrshires and Guernseys.

"Mr. Bruce Craig, assistant county agent of Chittenden County, who conducted the rest of the tour then led the way to the college cafeteria where we enjoyed an excellent lunch.

"After lunch we toured Shelburne Farm and Southern Acres Farm. These are both immense farms operating on a large scale, together they form 2500 acres. Both were formerly part of a single estate of about 4500 acres. Brown Swiss cattle in complete loose housing were kept at the former while at the latter Herefords, feeder cattle and sheep were kept.

"We then returned to Simpson Hall for supper in the cafeteria. Six thirty marked departure time with everyone in agreement that it had been a most pleasant and instructive day."

JAPANESE PENPAL — The Record has once again received a letter from a youth in Japan asking for a pen pal from Canada to correspond with. Several readers of Calf Club corner probably have pen pals in other countries and here is a chance to learn a bit about Japan. Enclosed with the letter was a picture of Masako, a fifteen year-old girl attending first grade high school which is shown with this article. Masako also sends along a post card of a landmark in Japan. Should one of you like to correspond with her write me and I will send you her letter, picture and postcard. The following is the contents of her letter:

Signed: Masako Kanda,

"I am a Japanese girl looking for a pen friend in your country. I couldn't get any pen friend in your country because I didn't know how to but recently I was told by the Youth Council for International Contact to write to you asking for a pen friend. Would you please publish this or hand it to a school principal or a club. I am a Japanese girl, aged fifteen years old and I attend the first grade at high school.

Experimental Farm report

June 1962 is warmer but sets no records

It is now official! Last June was definitely warmer and less rainy than was the month of June last year.

This data was released today by the Experimental Farm in Lennoxville.

In fact there was only about half as much rain in June this year as last: 3.22 inches as compared with 6.13. As for temperature June's average this year was 63.55 degrees while last year it was 62.60.

For those who remember the good old times and bet that this year was not as hot as the "Junes-gone-by," chalk up another win: as the average for the past 48 years was 63.95 degrees.

The good old days also surpassed this June in making records. The hottest day in 1948 was a full ten degrees warmer than the hottest day this June, 95 to 85 degrees. Also the coldest day in 1934 was a full ten degrees colder than the coldest day this June: 25 to 35 degrees.

As for sunshine, this past June outshone last year's by a full 32 hours but still was eight hours off the record year, 1960. The rainfall was also less than the 48 year average by 87 inches.

All in all this past June was like the economy — better than last year's but still not as good as it used to be.

Dog to help police university campus

By BERNARD BROWNIGG
(Record staff reporter)

A female German shepherd will graduate shortly at the University of Sherbrooke where she is taking specialized training.

Finn is a 100 pound dog from a family of well-known canine crime busters. Her father is a champion police dog in the United States while her mother has won many Canadian show prizes.

The dog was bought in Montreal a month ago for $200 and is expected to be fully trained within 14 months.

The dog's trainer, Denis Belanger, special police constable for the university, says the dog should be trained enough by the end of six months to follow him around the campus and obey his orders.

In 14-months time, Const. Belanger said the dog should be trained not to accept any food from anyone but her master and not let herself be petted by anyone, "but at the same time, she wouldn't attack anyone without my orders."

The dog will remain outdoors year-round and by the end of the training course she should always follow Const. Belanger two feet behind on the left hand side.

When the dog is old enough, Const. Belanger said, it will be bred and its pups will be trained to do the same work at the university.

The dog, will accompany Const. Belanger on his rounds of the university buildings.

Const. Belanger said the dog was bought to keep people away from campus buildings.

"We also bought the dog because I can't be in all buildings at the same time and the dog has very sensitive ears and can hear things we can't," Const. Belanger said.

"For example," Const. Belanger noted "the dog barks at night when he hears the noise of the wind going through the tarpaulins on the new buildings that are being constructed."

Const. Belanger described the dog as his "right hand man."

The constable got the idea of training a police dog from stories he read about policing big stores in New York and other parts of the United States where dogs are trained to discourage night break-ins.

"The owners of the stores reported they were very pleased with the results of the police dogs, and I am sure we will be when our dog is finished training," Const. Belanger said.

Const. Belanger was bit on the hand a few days ago by the dog while playing with him but he claims he is not worried.

"I told her not to do it again—and she's supposed to listen to me," he added.

Sherbrooke court

Helps widow, electrician fined

A 57-year-old Wotton man who was doing electrical work in "good faith" for a widow woman, was fined $50 in cash in Sherbrooke Court of Sessions Friday morning after he pleaded guilty to working without an electrician's membership card.

Richard Plourde, told the court he was asked by the Wotton parish priest if he would help out Mrs. Denis Pelletier, who had her barn burned, by doing a little electrical work around her farm.

Plourde told the court since he had nothing to do he went to see the woman and did the work for nothing.

Judge Evender Veilleux told the accused who has worked 40-years in electrical work, the sentence he was imposing was not deserved but it was the minimum fine he could give according to law.

Jacques Labonte, 20, of Sherbrooke was charged $100 and costs in Sherbrooke Court of Sessions Friday morning after he pleaded guilty of giving a false age to obtain his driver's license.

Labonte, gave his age as 21 instead of 20, when applying for his license at the provincial license bureau.

A 23-year-old Gould man was fined $50 and costs in Sherbrooke Court of Sessions Friday morning and ordered to post $200 bond to keep the peace for 12 months after he was found guilty of an assault charge.

Four witnesses testified that the accused, Benoit Bouffard, struck Yvon Duchesne, a 34-year-old bar tender, with a quart of beer.

Duchesne received a fractured nose and cuts to the right eye.

Witnesses said Duchesne jumped Bouffard after he was hit by the bottle and that a cigarette machine was overturned during the fight.

Bouffard told the court, if he threw the full bottle of beer at Duchesne, it was to defend himself.

When asked by Judge Evender Veilleux if he had thrown the bottle or not, Bouffard answered, "maybe I did but I don't remember."

The accused admitted having about five bottles of beer before entering the Rex Hotel in Marlinton.

Duchesne told the court the accused entered the tavern swearing and in an angry mood. He said "he told me to bring some beer for him and his three friends, then went to the washroom."

"When he came out of the washroom he came to the bar swearing again and telling me he wanted large bottles, not small."

"Then, he hit the bar tender with his fists, and after I gave him his beer, he said that he would give me the money for the beer when he wanted to do so," Duchesne said.

Duchesne told the court he then went to the front of the counter and put his hand on the accused shoulder. It was then he was struck in the face with the bottle.

Judge Evender Veilleux told the accused he was giving him a light sentence because he was drunk at the time and he had no previous record.

Red Cross drive exceeds objective

The contributions to the annual Red Cross financial campaign of the Lennoxville district have exceeded the $2,500 objective by $109.10. J. S. Hamilton, campaign chairman, announced Friday.

Mr. Hamilton expressed his thanks to Mrs. H. Littlejohn, and Mrs. Harold Loomis, of Waterville, for their cooperation in making the drive, which netted $2,609.10, a success. The campaign also included Waterville which is classified with the Lennoxville district.

WATERVILLE
Strawberry ice cream social at the Jubilee Hall, on Saturday, July 7th, from 6:30 to 9 p.m., sponsored by the St. John's Guild. Tickets 50c.

SUTTON
Mrs. P. L. Rioux has left to spend six weeks in Germany. On her return she will be accompanied by her daughter, Claude, who has spent several months there with relatives.

The annual auction sale, sponsored by Grace Anglican Church and which is becoming an institution in this district, was crowd. Proceeds were most satisfactory.

Mrs. Cecil Carr has word that her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Gibbon and family, of Senneville, are on a camping trip to the west coast and will visit Seattle, Wash., and the World Fair.

The city council also heard a report from the provincial bridge and highway engineers specifying that the Main Street East bridge, spanning the Magog river, is in satisfactory condition.

The council will again appeal to the provincial authorities for improvements to the bridge as being too narrow and having two sharp curves which are regarded as extremely dangerous.

Plans submitted for the city's approval specify that Magog's official recreational area and arena will be constructed south on the Magog River in the district commonly referred to as Michigan.

This means that the present state of the Main Street Bridge would be far from adequate to accommodate the expected increase in traffic.

Photography abroad

Ancient Chinese had knowledge of optics

Photography has an international appeal, both as a pastime and for its value in science and industry. Perhaps, some of us haven't given much thought to what other people in foreign countries are doing in photography.

A book entitled Hwei Nan Tzu published in the Chin dynasty 2,100 years ago contained the following extract: "Cut a ball of ice, lift it to the face of the sun, put some dry grass under its shadow and fire will be created."

This is a clear description of how light can be focused to a point through a convex lens.

Another interesting note, a Chinese lecturer at the University of Hong Kong claims to have found traces of china plates made sensitive to light by a chemical process 2,000 years ago. These plates, he says, might have been turned graphy. So from time to time, a review on photography interest outside North America may be helpful and interesting.

For instance, China would be a good place to start. As early as 2,350 years ago, the ancient Chinese scientists already had some optical knowledge and an understanding of the principles of light sensitivity.

In the 5th century B.C., the Chinese scientist and philosopher Mo-Tzu had practically made a pinhole camera because he realized the light coming through the pinhole reflected an image on a flat, concave or convex polished metal surface.

In the 4th century B.C., a book entitled Lord Chou's Notes on technology recorded the method of making fire by concentrating sunlight on a convex mirror. This is all part of a beginning of the understanding of optics.

Scouting and Cubbing

BY DIANE DURRANT

Six Patrols from First and Seventh Sherbrooke Troops have been camping at Lake Lovering under Scout Masters R. Turgeon and R. Henry. Undaunted by the cold nights, the boys take a frigid dip in the morning and have two regular swim periods during the day. Boating and canoeing are enjoyed in the evening by the boys who qualify.

The first camp project was to erect a much-needed new flagpole. Other projects include building a lifeguard tower and permanent serviceable benches around the campfire area.

Each Patrol has set up his own campsite, preparing their cooking areas, making basin stands, shoe racks and other gadgets. These projects are necessary requirements towards the Pioneering Badge. The Wolf Patrol, under First Class Scout David Edmond, built an interesting fireplace, raising it approximately two feet above the ground, thus eliminating the discomfort of leaning over the fire.

Tracking rambles, nature hunts, and evening campfires were on the activity program. A group march was held one evening for a night exercise, and the boys walked a mile and half running all the way back. It was a scheme on the part of the leaders to make the boys sleep more readily. Unfortunately, it didn't work on the boys, but the leaders slept soundly.

Badges earned by the First Sherbrooke Scouts were as follows: Kenny Lavalliere received his Swimmer's and his Master-at-Arms, which is a gymnastics award; David Turgeon, after making three hikes of fourteen miles each, received his Hiker's Badge; and Terry Peasley was presented with his Swimmers Badge.

There is no summer recess in the Bulwer Birchton Cub Pack. A nature study hike recently gave the boys an interesting outing, and a trip to a beaver dam was an unusual experience for most of the Cubs.

Michael Stowe received his artist badge, having done some excellent drawings, displaying definite abilities in this direction.

The Seventh Sherbrooke Troop recently had four presentations of the First Class Award. Richard Silas, Peter Maher, Peter Smith, and Robert Henry each completed the requirements and received their badges.

Wanted: a better forest fire cure

As rampaging forest fires ravage square mile upon square mile of valuable timber land north of the Roberval area in Quebec, the appalling loss to the country caused by this kind of natural disaster is once again brought home to Canadians.

The lesson is a grim, annual one. Last year, Newfoundland fell victim to widespread forest fires. British Columbia knows the scourge only too well. And so far this year, Quebec is being dealt the harshest blow.

The campaign against forest fires is now a largely educational one. Extensive literature on the dangers of careless camping and throwing lighted matches into woods is issued and published month after month.

But many are caused by uncontrollable causes, too, such as lightning. Fires that start in this way can be no less devastating than fires started by a unthinking smoker.

More research, therefore into cures for forest fires that have already started is needed.

In recent years, the large scale introduction of water-carrying airplanes in fighting forest fires in this country has been hailed as an important aid in restricting forest blaze havoc.

And it is dangerous. In 1961, aerial water bombing cost the lives of seven pilots and foresters.

For these reasons, it is heartening to note that according to reports from Washington, the U.S. Forestry Service believes it is close to a break-through with a radio-controlled glide bomb bearing fire-fighting chemicals.

The promising missile will be tested in actual forest fires this year. More experiments will follow if the first proves out.

The new technique is a direct by-product of advances in military and space rocketry. If the new device is effective, it could play a major role in cutting down the terrible toll claimed by forest fires every year and could be of major significance to the Canadian forest industry.

In lots of gardens too many weeds are going to keep lettuce and cabbage from getting ahead.

Happy swatting time is here again

Man's most feared enemies as the vacation season gets underway in earnest are not the fanged monsters of the animal kingdom, but the tiny members of the raging insect world.

Those blackflies, mosquitoes, ants and other bothersome pests are beginning to show their stinging colors. Holidaymakers everywhere find themselves easy prey for the bites of the tiny nuisances, and a favorite subject of mastication by nearly everything from mites up.

In these climes, it is seldom that insect bites amount to anything more than a constant irritation. And many are the oils, balms, potions, nets and other tricks that are attempted to try and keep clear of the hungry insects' jaws.

Usually, it is all to no avail. Even the most thorough bundling up doesn't stop the buzzing, whirring hordes. One or two are always sure to find a bare, juicy spot between sock and pant leg, or between wrist and sleeve.

Usually, a few ill-tempered slaps and much scratching afterwards are man's only defence against the insect world. But, as the Health League of Canada notes, it is wise to remember that insect bites can have more serious effects than a temporary itching.

It cites the wave of sleeping sickness caused by a rare variety of New Jersey's famous mosquito in 1959. In that year, 2,437 people were reported stricken by the disease.

And the sting of bees, hornets and wasps does not always result in mere pain and swelling. The League points out that for some people, a bee sting can have serious consequences. It is not the poisoning that does the harm in these cases, but rather the proteins contained in the venom which set up an allergic reaction.

In other words, while there is certainly no need to panic in these climes over insect bites, it is wise to view them with caution and treat them accordingly. Happy swatting!

The more hours spent at work, play and sleep the fewer hours you have to worry.

Other papers say:

Macmillan not one of best-dressed

Mr. Macmillan has earned a good mark at last—from the Clothing Manufacturers' Federation, for showing by his purchase of a tie during the Stockton byelection "that when in a crisis a man, just as much as a woman, can obtain a moment of relief by buying an article of clothing."

It was certainly an innovation. Hard-pressed politicians—as the Liberals are always complaining—usually extricate themselves by stealing clothes rather than buying them.

The Premier's gratification must be tempered by his failure to obtain a place on the federation's annual list of ten well-dressed men; and by the appearance on this list of Lord Ritchie, chairman of the Stock Exchange, who was so rude about the Budget, and Mr. Leo Abse, Labour MP for Pontypool, whose dress sense has been described as "outrageous in the nicest sense."

Reading between the lines of the federation's report, it is possible to see where Mr. Macmillan must have fallen down. "Many illustrious names examined by our committee often fell very short of the required standard when they felt they were out of the public view."

One doesn't really need a hummingbird or a rose or a heavenly blue morning glory or a peacock but, like the unnecessary and expensive trinkets we purchase for our loved ones, the great Father supplied these unnecessary things to satisfy our esthetic

Adventures with God

Too many absorbed in own sphere don't notice changes all around

I sat on the back steps early on Dominion Day lost in wonder, love and praise. It was the first unburied morning in many months. The street was quieter than usual for many children have gone to summer cottage or camp.

There was still some activity but it was subdued and one could hear the chirp of birds and the snip of clippers in the industrious hands of a New Canadian neighbor. The little patches of backyard standing shoulder to friendly shoulder were at their best.

It was a perfect day for just sitting and appreciating the people and the simple things that so often are unnoticed in the rush of modern living.

The majority of us are so absorbed in our own little sphere that we fail to note the changes for better or worse taking place around us. Old streets are peopled with New Canadians and new streets are peopled with Old Canadians who are looking for new adventure and fewer repairs bills.

A dozen years on our little street has brought many changes and not the least of the blessings are our new neighbors whose ingenuity has made great improvement in some old properties.

Many of them have a knack for coaxing beauty and bounty from a small patch of ground. They can take a few bricks, a few packages of grass and flower seeds and a load of earth and make miniature gardens, which are masterpieces of symmetry and grace.

But not only did I feel an affinity with my garden-loving neighbor as we viewed our plots without speaking, but I felt an affinity with the great Creator who has put at our disposal all the things we need to bring beauty from ashes and bounty from the soil.

Truly "The Lord God planted a garden eastward in Eden" and westward in Canada. And he made man to till the ground and this before man disobeyed. At the ground level we may become workers together with God in the production of food and loveliness.

As I pondered I recalled a wonderful book by Archibald Rutledge. I think it was entitled Peace in the Heart, and was a prize-winner back in the late 1920s.

In it he wrote of "the extra things" that God put in the world to interest and assuage man's thirst for beauty. God himself indulged His children with many unnecessary things.

One doesn't really need a hummingbird or a rose or a heavenly blue morning glory or a peacock but, like the unnecessary and expensive trinkets we purchase for our loved ones, the great Father supplied these unnecessary things to satisfy our esthetic nature. And oh, how they thrill and satisfy some of us!

Like all God's extra gifts, the beauty of nature is often not appreciated by His children. Having eyes they see not and having ears they hear not the birds and the bees or the soft whispering of the wind in the trees.

But the man or woman who is awakened by the resurrecting power of God through a new experience or rebirth by faith in Jesus Christ as Lord and Saviour suddenly develops a new appreciation of the world about him, the God who created it and the Saviour who died to redeem the creatures in it.

Paul writes of this awakening in this way: "You hath he quickened who were dead in trespasses and sin." Ephesians 2:1. This "quickening" not only affects our reactions to God but to the world about us. Like the poet we begin to appreciate more fully our

MPs publish booklet

Urge Britain reject ECM entry

LONDON (CP) — Two Conservative members of Parliament have published a booklet designed to persuade Commonwealth leaders to put pressure on Britain to stay out of the European Common Market.

Sir Derek Walker-Smith and Peter Walker described "a call to the Commonwealth" as a "positive approach, of which there have been all too few."

Several vigorously anti-Common Market pamphlets have been published here. Both Sir Derek and Walker contributed articles to "Britain, not Europe," one of the most recent of these.

"People shrugged their shoulders when they read 'Britain, not Europe,'" Sir Derek said at a press conference. "They wanted something positive."

The authors said copies of the booklet have been sent to Commonwealth prime ministers and opposition leaders. Walker will follow up the pamphlet's arguments when he visits Nigeria, India, Australia, New Zealand and Canada in August and September.

"I will try to see the prime ministers, but governments talk to governments, and I'm going as a private citizen," he said. "I can only hope they want to see me."

Sir Derek said the ECM is a "rigid, tightly institutionalized affair" and that the partnership within the Commonwealth is more useful as a trade group.

"The time is ripe for a Commonwealth trade initiative," he said. The Ottawa agreements in 1952, the booklet says, there has been no major effort to stimulate trade within the Commonwealth. The General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT), had an "inhibiting effect" on trade because it provided for a customs union and a free trade area, which the booklet says are impossible within the Commonwealth of diverse communities.

To let trade preferences die within the Commonwealth, which the authors feel would be inevitable if Britain joined the ECM, "is to gamble with the continuance of the Commonwealth as a whole."

"The weakening of the Commonwealth which would follow from a deviation of British interests into Europe, and a failure to strengthen the ties of the Commonwealth, would be a great gain for Communism and a serious defeat for the prospects of freedom in the world.

Sir Derek said he is not advocating withdrawal from GATT. He said its agreements should be amended, and that a Commonwealth economic conference — "a second Ottawa" — should rewrite all trade agreements between Commonwealth countries.

FACTIONS FIGHT
Algerian Moslems voted overwhelmingly Sunday for independence, ending 132 years of French rule, and President de Gaulle acted quickly, turning over sovereignty by Wednesday.

But Algeria's troubles appeared far from over as a struggle broke out between Premier Ben Khedda and his supporters, who have agreed to fairly close associations with France, and more extreme elements. At least 60 persons, including some Europeans, were killed when fighting broke out in independence celebration in Oran Thursday.

BRAZIL'S TROUBLES
Political unrest and inflation resulted in hunger riots in three Rio de Janeiro suburbs, in which 17 persons were killed in the midst of cries of "we want food." More than 100 stores were plundered in the upsurge Thursday.

The army quelled the riots which erupted during a general strike called by union leaders demanding the formation of a "popular nationalist government" to settle the governmental stalemate between leftist President Joao Goulart and the Conservative-dominated parliament.

LEADERS MEET
Chancellor Adenauer of West Germany and President de Gaulle ended three days of meetings in Paris with an announcement that they agreed to press toward a European political union.

They called for a meeting of the six countries of the Common Market on the question and expressed hope that Britain's application for membership in that club would be solved in a way that would "strengthen Europe."

MARINE WARFARE
A long and bloody battle between two marine unions resulted Thursday in the blocking of the Welland Canal, which joins Lake Erie and Lake Ontario around Niagara Falls and is a vital link in the 2,200-mile St. Lawrence Seaway.

The struggle is between the Canadian Maritime Union (CMU) and the Seafarers International Union, thrown out of the Canadian Labor Congress two years ago.

On Thursday, canal workers, who also belong to a CMU-affiliated union, showed their sympathy for the CMU by boycotting SIU-manned ships.

This slowed traffic to a trickle, but it was cut off altogether when two SIU-manned vessels blocked both ends of the canal.

The federal government Friday sought court injunctions to halt the boycott and announced it will appoint a commission to investigate the "operation and activities" of the SIU.

Almost as the injunctions were granted, the seaway workers were ordered by their union to stop their boycott "in view of the government statement announcing a full inquiry."

World Briefs: Sir Winston Churchill, 87, recovering from a thigh fracture, was reported developing an irregular pulse Thursday, but by Friday was comfortable again. . . . Forest fires continued playing havoc in Quebec's great wood land this week. The worst fires were in the Lake St. John and Abitibi regions. As the week neared an end a huge fire in the Tremche River area west of Roberval was marching steadily ahead. It doubled in size to more than 50 square miles in two days. Rain was badly needed as 600 lumberjacks and seven tanker aircraft fought the blaze.

Largest fire in the Abitibi district was 40 miles west of Parent on the Blueberry River. An RCAF helicopter helped ferry 400 men to the outbreak.

There were half a dozen other major fires in the province.

Musicologist to lecture at Mount Orford camp

The distinguished French musicologist Norbert Dufourcq, from the Paris Conservatoire, will give two lectures next week on July 10 and 12 in the evening in the Jeuneuses Musicales concert hall on the subject of Bach.

The first lecture is entitled Les sources esthetiques et techniques du langage de Bach and the second La descendance spirituelle de Bach.

Mr. Dufourcq is spending the month of July at the J.M.C. Musical Camp, to direct special chamber music classes (ancient music) and to present a series of five public lectures on Bach, Debussy and Ravel. Mr. Dufourcq is on special leave of absence from his duties as music editor for the Editions Larousse in Paris.

The Quatuor Vocal J.M.C. under the direction of Marcel Laurencelle will offer a program of motets and madrigals on July 11 at 8:30 p.m. The members of the quartet are: Josephe Colle, soprano — Fernande Chiochio, Mezzo-soprano — Paul-Emile Smith, tenor and Roland Gosselin, bass.

The program is: Dieu soit en cette maison, A. De La Halle; O magnum mysterium, T. da Vittoria; Deux Noels, M. C. Alain; Je vous des glissantes eaux, G. Costeley; Mignonne ception to the rule. In her perfidious story, too, "love and only love" is the chief literary ingredient. "Love is the main, if not only propeller that spins the yarn. Of all the types of human love, she is interested, above all, in the delights of passionate love—in the kiss not as a symbol but just as a kiss."

Literaturna Gazetta is clearly disturbed by the sortie of sinister romantic love 45 years after the Russian Revolution. Belatedly, the Kremlin's leaders are discovering that young Vadim, born and reared under communism, retains many traits of capitalist Johnny; that the dreams and urges of Red-bred Lera or Julia are, after all, not so different from their sisters in the decadent West.

What has happened to Lenin and Khrushchev's "new Soviet man and woman? After more than four decades of Marxist-Leninist gibberish and austerity they want to swing with Benny Goodman and whisper sweet romantic nothings about "falling autumn leaves" into each other's ears.

on the part of any government in the months ahead and it is difficult to see why any party looking to the future would voluntarily risk this public indignation.

And the exact position of the Sorecs is dubious.

Dr. Thompson and Mr. Caouette jubilantly claim their party is on the march and that in an early election it would gain many seats, perhaps even becoming the largest individual group.

By their reasoning, in an early vote they would take 65 Quebec seats, 15 in Ontario and New Brunswick and at least ten in the West for a total of 90. This would leave 175 seats to be divided among the other parties, possibly on a 75-70-30 basis among the Progressive Conservatives, Liberals and NDP's.

But a survey of the rural Quebec areas where the Sorecs registered their greatest strength indicates a substantial portion of their support was in the nature of a protest vote.

Hundreds of admitted Sorec voters admit they did not accept the party theories but were fed up with the older regimes.

So they voted Social Credit to throw a scare into the PC's and the Liberals.

And, as one Compton county farmer admitted: "We did the job too well."

Whether this disgruntled element will return to the older parties at the next election is a question only time will answer.

The NDP's, now a strictly labor union party, have no desire to force a vote until a number of problems—the medicare argument in Saskatchewan and several labor disputes in Eastern Canada and British Columbia—are settled and their ill-effects forgotten.

So the prospects are: Parliament will meet but their will be no coalition between the PC's and any other party. Nor will their be formal cooperation.

Each Government bill will be considered "on its merits" with the Opposition parties taking good care to see that the PC's are always left with a majority on members actually in the House when a division is taken.

causing a rift in his party's seven-month-long coalition with Adenauer's Christian Democrats.

Mende said he will have talks Wednesday with Adenauer on his return from France and these will decide whether the coalition will continue.

Mende said the Free Democrats want a "better partnership and better cooperation in the coalition on budget matters, in social and economic policies, and on the question of the stability of the currency."

Questions of foreign policy played no part in the discussion, he said.

Mende said his party has learned that the left wing of the Christian Democrats has made contacts with the opposition Social Democrats recently to sound them out on a "great coalition" of the two parties.

The Christian Democrats lost their absolute majority in parliament in last September's general elections and had to enter into coalition with the Free Democrats, a party with support from West German industry.

Mende declined to accept any post in Adenauer's cabinet.

Bride elect feted at surprise shower

Miss Lorna Foucault, a popular bride-elect was feted at a miscellaneous shower at the home of her aunt, Mrs. N. Lefebvre, Westmont Street, recently.

The guest of honor was met at the door by her hostess and was presented with a corsage of pink carnations.

The gifts arranged in a basket were opened by the bride-elect, assisted by Mrs. John Brun, her matron of honor-to-be.

After the guest of honor had graciously thanked all those for a most delightful surprise, games of bingo were played. Later refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Ralph Cote and Miss Wanda Anderson.

Guests attended from Waterville, Lennoxville, Ayer's Cliff and Sherbrooke.

Shower held for bride elect

A miscellaneous shower was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Salem Elkas, Stanley Avenue, in honor of Miss Helene Daigneault, a July bride-to-be.

Upon arrival the guest of honor was escorted to a seat of honor, which was gaily decorated by her hostesses the Misses Ruth Elkas and Barbara Blanchette.

She was presented with a beautifully trimmed basket of gifts and was assisted in opening and displaying the many lovely articles by her mother, Mrs. Oscar Daigneault.

Later a buffet lunch was served, with Mrs. Elkas and Miss Gladys Elkas assisting.

Miss Daigneault who will become the bride of Charles Willey, of Santa Barbara, California, on July 28, graciously thanked all those present for their kindness and a most enjoyable evening.

Great variety of toe shapes for shoe fashions

More important than anything else in fall shoe fashions, or lower heights, curved or wine glass shape. There is, of course always a place for high slim heels for cocktail and after seven wear.

The materials, calfskin—smooth, matte finished or finely grained—is the leader. Suede looks to be more important than in several seasons past. After that comes patent leather, frequently combined with smooth or suede, a little reptile used most often in trims. Fabrics are rich with a luxury look—brocades, satins, silks, metallics and embroidered mesh. There will be continued use of gold.

It appears now that Black will be responsible for the greatest percentage of all fall shoes, but not what we normally think of as Black shoe. This will have great elegance and personality. Next are the Browns, many of them deeply, richly dark followed by a little Red. Antiquing treatments—color on color effects, will still be seen for suit and tailored shoes.

One thing is sure—women will find pretty shoes in pretty toe shapes this Fall. Light, soft, more closely related than ever before to the wearing apparel picture. In the latter connection, it's very gratifying to now have top name couturiers and ready-to-wear designers on both sides of the Atlantic, acknowledging that shoes can make or break their collections when shown to buyers and fashion press.

Footwear styling today is so important to the total look of fashion that women are beginning to think of shoes, not as accessories, but as part of the costume itself. There's greater awareness that the right shoe makes the budget-priced garment seem more costly and more becoming, while the wrong one ruins the effect of the most expensive couture creation.

The marriage has been arranged to take place on July 14 at St. John the Divine Church, Thetford Mines. Miss Hodge is a graduate of Macdonald College and Bishop's University. Dr. Tarassoff is a graduate of McGill University and Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Study to shed new light on role of minister's wife

What is a minister's wife really like? That is the question that the Boston University School of Theology is going to find out by a research program of mass interviewing that will take three years.

When the facts are all in and the school will publish a booklet in the hope that the young wives of ministers will have a clearer idea of what their life will be like and what will be expected of them and that church congregations will stop expecting the minister's wife to be too perfect to be human.

The latter bit of education is, of course, the most important. For even in this free and easy age, most congregations are still pretty critical of their minister's wife.

Her clothes are expected to be more conservative than those of other members of the church. She can't try out an exotic hairdo, no matter how much she needs a lift.

And she certainly can't dye her hair, even though half the women of the church may dye theirs.

In addition to that she is expected to rear perfect children who never get into trouble, never get dirty and who lead more restricted lives than most of the other children in the church.

The minister's wife is also supposed to think more than twice before she speaks and never to offend anyone, however justified she might be in speaking her mind if she weren't the wife of the minister.

That's how it is today, but with an effort being made to show the minister's wife as she is and as she feels and as she wishes she could be, perhaps in the future she will be allowed to be a bit more human.

Polly's Quiz by polly cramer

Use of accessories can make --- or break --- room's appearance

Color is a magician, but don't think every decorating trick can be pulled out of a paint bucket. A sparkling color scheme can bring new life to a room, true. But there are other things that can cause trouble. Too many, too few or too-commonplace accessories can be conflicting elements. Often these are the worst offenders, as they look like an odd assembly of Christmas and birthday gifts that were just popped down any old place.

The burning desire for a new color scheme is fine, but look further at the room in question. It may only partially solve the problem. Rearrange the furniture. Take out the accessories and bring back only those that contribute to the room's beauty and usefulness. These changes, in company with new colors, should really work magic.

Dear Polly: We want to paint our living room, dining room and hall. All can be seen from the hall, as well as a lemon yellow bedroom, pink and maroon bath and peacock blue and white kitchen.

Dark furniture, gray rugs and white curtains. The mantel is now Grecian pink like all of our woodwork. I do not tire of it and want to keep the mantel that color—A constant reader.

Dear Constant Reader: You failed to mention the colors in your furniture upholstery, so I'll have to be as vague as your letter. I cannot be too positive about what you should do, except that I am very sure you would do well to change the pink woodwork and mantel in your living room. Off-white walls and woodwork might be a safe choice for all rooms.

Dear Polly: We are redecorating the bedrooms. Ours is being painted lavender and I would like to know what colors for bedspread, curtains and rugs. Also, what color would be nice for a room for a 7-year-old boy and a nursery for a baby?—F. R.

Dear F. R.: Shop for a well-colored floral print in blues, lavender, bright pink and greens to use for curtains and dust ruffle. The bedspread and rugs could then be a soft blue.

Flag red, deep blue and white offer many possibilities for an attractive room for the 7-year-old. Yellow and white would be delightful in baby's nursery.

Dear Polly: I want your advice on the color scheme in my living room. Furniture is a three-piece dark brown sectional pink swivel rocker, you think my scheme is right? What kind of knick-knacks do you suggest?—Mrs. C. V. G.

Away with the clutter!

Dear Mrs. C. V. G.: Knick-knacks or accessories are very personal and should be carefully selected for beauty, usefulness and general personal appeal. It would be impossible to suggest the right ones for your room.

Think before you choose a pink swivel rocker for your living room. Use the pink in smaller doses. How about aqua and white tweed mixture? I would prefer draperies with an aqua or white ground.

Quebec

A SALUTE

From the Indian trading centre of Les Grandes Fourches, the vital City of Sherbrooke has grown to become the commercial and industrial metropolis of Quebec's Eastern Townships. And it was just seven years after Sherbrooke's first birthday that Canada's first cotton textile mill was established within the city limits.

In those days the textile industry was as homespun as its products — with distribution made by salesmen who went from farm to farm trading their goods for grain and other farm produce.

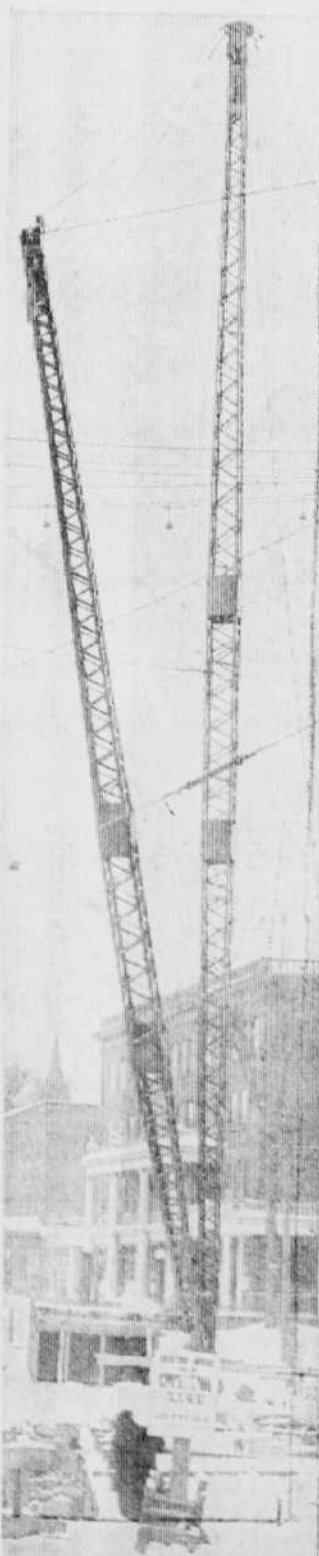

Both Sherbrooke and its textile industry have come a long way since — with textiles in Quebec now providing annual production value of $506 million, and employment for approximately 43,000 persons.

Dominion Textile Company Limited is proud of the part it has played in the development of both Sherbrooke and its industry. On this 125th anniversary we salute the City, its people, and their heritage.

Paton Manufacturing Company, Limited is proud to be among those industries which have contributed to the city's development and prosperity. Founded in 1866, this Sherbrooke mill was one of the first in Canada. Today, it is the leading manufacturer of fine quality woollens and worsteds.

In congratulating the city on its 125th anniversary, Paton is confident that the future for both the city and the company will be as auspicious as the past.

Domil geared to meet foreign competition

In the latter part of 1945, the company Dominion Burlington Mills Limited now known as Domil Limited, was established.

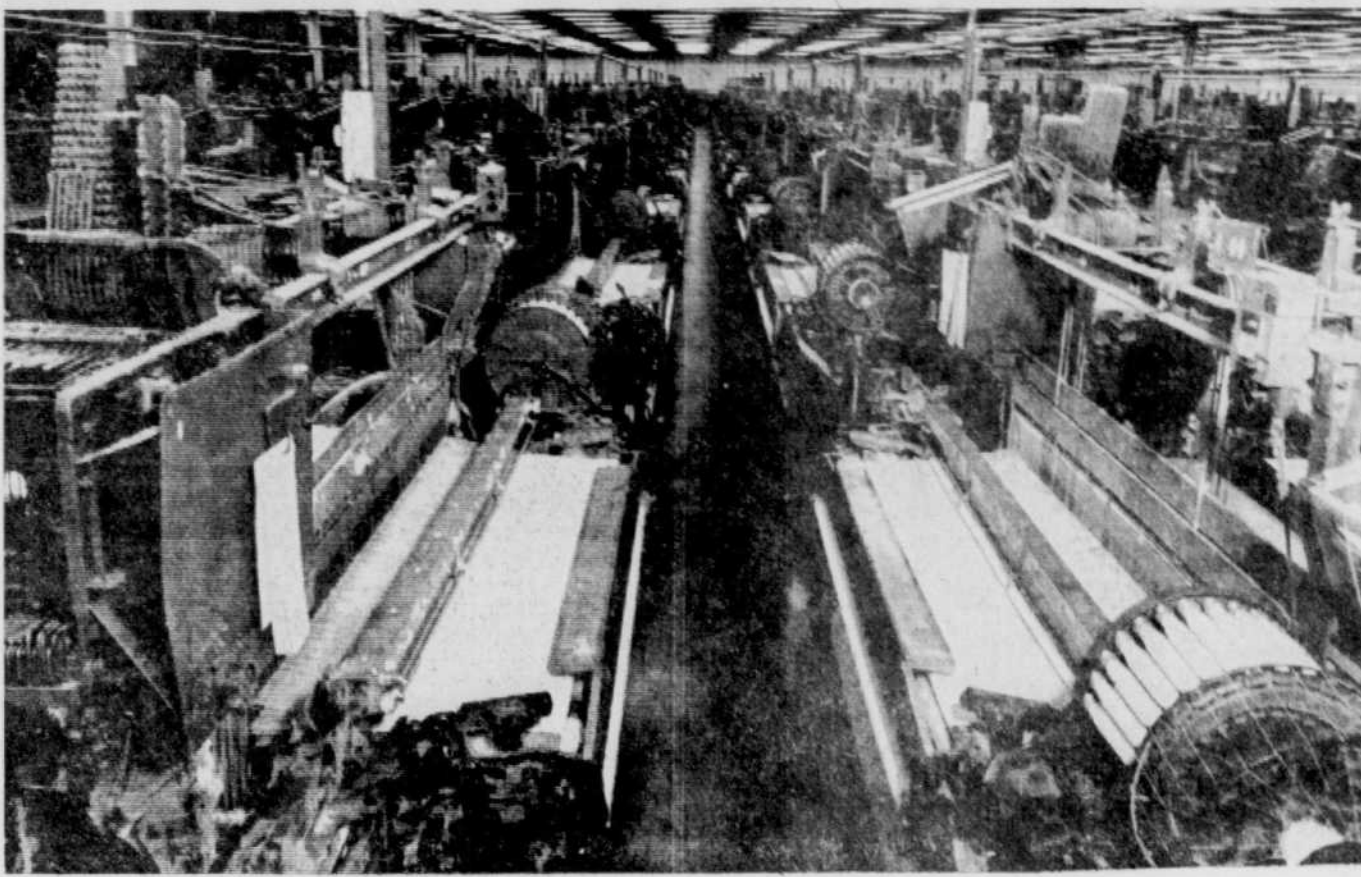

At that time, Dominion Textile Company Limited, Montreal, Quebec, and Burlington Mills Corp. of Greensboro, N.C., and New York (one of the largest U.S. synthetic fabrics producers) decided to establish a firm in Canada for the manufacturing of cloth from man-made fibres.

It was decided that a substantial portion of viscose lines produced and sold in the past by Dominion Textile Company Limited and by its subsidiary, The Montreal Cottons Limited, would be handled by the new company. Plants of these two companies had been producing a wide range of viscose fabrics for various purposes for many years.

The Spinning and Weaving operations were located in what is now Domil's Spinning Division in Sherbrooke. The four storey building, first erected in 1915 and consisting of about 180,000 square feet of floor space, was renovated to conform to modern manufacturing requirements.

Approximately 125 persons were employed in the Sherbrooke Divisions which then housed 6,800 spindles. By 1947, there were 400 employees working on a two shift basis and in Montreal a separate Converting Division for the dyeing and finishing of fabrics was established.

In the early part of 1952, the company was purchased outright by Dominion Textile Company Limited, and in April of that year, the name of the company was changed from Dominion Burlington Mills Limited to Domil Limited. Although Domil is owned by Dominion Textile Company Limited it operates as an independent unit. At this time Domil's Spinning Division housed 22,000 spindles while the company's Weaving Division housing 350 looms was operating in a completely new plant. This plant, first occupied on July 1st, 1951 and located at Burlington Street and Montreal Road in Sherbrooke provides 115,000 square feet of floor space and is one of the most modern plants of its kind in existence.

Today, Domil Limited is one of the country's leading producers of woven synthetic fabrics with three large mills operating to capacity and 1,200 people employed in the various plants and offices. The Spinning Division, presently housing about 26,000 spindles, is unique for its flexibility in the handling of the many fibres available today. It is divided into four separate spinning units within the master unit to allow for maximum serviceability of the variety of modern yarn blends now produced including synthetic fibres of acetate, Nylon, Orlon, Terylene and viscose blended with natural fibres of wool and cotton and wholly synthetic blends. At the company's Weaving Division, 400 modern looms weave a variety of fabrics for the men's, women's and children's wear fields and industrial end uses.

Domil is fully geared to meet changing market conditions and foreign competition through intensified specialization in the field of spun fabrics.

The president of the company is E. F. King, W. J. Veitch is vice-president and general manager. The general sales manager is T. R. Bell, F. D. Wallace is general superintendent in charge of Converting operations and C. E. Gobeille is general superintendent in charge of Spinning and Weaving operations.

The company's sales and administrative offices are located in the Gordon

Brown Building, Montreal with sales offices in Toronto, Winnipeg and Vancouver.

Nothing makes better reading — at this vacation-conscious time of the year — than travel brochures.

And in no type of writing — it seems to me as I eagerly peruse these colorful pamphlets — does the writer "let himself go", as he does in composing "tourist-bait." Take, for example, these excerpts from a booklet entitled INVITATION TO CANADA put out by the Canadian Government Travel Bureau.

"Today's visitor to Newfoundland will be captivated by the grandeur of its scenery, by picturesque fishing villages clinging precariously to the rugged shoreline."

"Jacques Cartier described Prince Edward Island as 'the fairest land it may be possible to see... with its distinctive red soil and lush green meadows set in the blue waters of the Gulf of St. Lawrence.'"

"Seen in any season or from any vantage, Quebec is one of Canada's most unique and delightful provinces."

"Fast and varied Ontario, more than half again as large as Texas, fronts on four of the five Great Lakes, contains a quarter of a million more lakes within her borders."

"Alberta boasts the spectacular Calgary Stampede and the abundant hospitality of Alberta's guest ranches."

"The beautiful, beautiful province of British Columbia..."

"The Yukon has unmatched scenery ranging from beautiful snow-capped mountains to delightful rolling, wooded country; glaciers, crystal-clear lakes and waterways running for hundreds of miles."

"Arctic and sub-Arctic are magic words for vacationers in search of adventure, for they open the door to that vast developing region that is Canada's Northwest Territories, where the scenery is on a grand scale, and the fishing is always measured in superlatives."

At least one-third of the words used in the above excerpts are adjectives — and most of them man-size adjectives! It would look as though even the press agents for Marilyn or Brigitte must look to their laurels once the Canadian press boys start extolling Canada's "curves."

But while we have only to go to the movies to see whether the press boys have oversold Monroe or Bardot, it takes a lot of holidaying to prove or disprove what the boosters say about Canada's scenery.

Still, checking up on all those adjectives could be a lot of fun. So much fun in fact that maybe I'll spend part of this summer visiting some of those brochure-boasted spots just to see if the drum-beaters know what they are drum-beating about.

Why don't you do the same — and we could compare notes.

After all we can't let the press boys throw around all those high-powered words without doing a little checking.

Notable and extensive research

The stories and experiences of four Nobel Prize winners

THE PRIZE by Irving Wallace — MUSSON BOOK COMPANY... $6.55

This is a novel of formidable length, on a rather ingenious theme. The author takes as his subject — or rather subjects, as only occasionally do they weld into one coherent tale — the winners of the four Nobel prizes in one particular year. He begins by giving the background and conditions of each winner, or pair of winners, at the time he is notified of his prize. He proceeds to bring them together, converging on Stockholm by various routes, for the very busy Nobel week, culminating in the actual presentations by the King of Sweden.

So far the plan of the book is interesting, but the writer fails to mold the various threads into one story. Instead, he carries each story forward separately, jumping from one to another at each chapter break, so that in most cases the only thing they have in common is the setting of Stockholm and the Nobel Week ceremonies. Thus we have the husband and wife team of French scientists, whose marriage is on the verge of breaking up, due to the husband's affair with a glamorous Balenciaga model.

We have the American doctor, who has developed a procedure for transplanting an animal heart to a human, but who can derive no satisfaction from the distinction because it must be shared with another.

We have the American author, who has become an alcoholic in the mistaken belief, fostered by a repressed sister-in-law, that he was responsible for his wife's death. And we have the German Jewish physicist, a refugee from Nazi Germany, and his niece, a survivor of a concentration camp. There develops an attempt by a Communist country to abduct this girl, to force her uncle to come over to the other side. This is climaxed by a spy chase across Stockholm, in which the alcoholic author, now well on the road to being cured, rescues the unfortunate damsel, all in the best B-movie tradition. And all four stories have happy endings!

However, despite its obvious weaknesses, there is something to recommend this book. The author has obviously done a great deal of research and gives a very interesting picture of the machinery behind the selection of Nobel Prize winners. He has apparently also done research on the horrors of concentration camps, and on Freudian theories. His main mistake is in attempting to include all this wide knowledge in one novel, instead of in four into which it tends to break down.

Illustrated new series of books

THE COMPLETE LIBRARY OF WORD ART — a new series of compact art and art reference books in which a plate (in black and white and occasionally in color) of every known and attributed work of a particular master can be found as well as notes on the artist's life and influence, comments on each individual work, selected criticism, and a record of the present location of his works.

ALL THE PAINTINGS OF GIORGIONE — Vol. III — The Complete Library of World Art — edited by Luigi Coletti McClelland and Stewart — pp. 80 — plates 124 — $3.95.

The text, the selected criticisms, and the plates combine to kindle the interest and challenge the inquiring spirit of the non-expert to make his own decisions about this controversial and dynamic artist whose untimely death in his early thirties deprived the world of one of its greatest independent spirits and talents.

A disconcerting variety of opinions are held by the critics concerning the life and works of Giorgione, whose impact and influence on Venetian High Renaissance painting was tremendous. Luigi Coletti adds to this variety as he intelligently and enthusiastically presents his own reasons for definitely attributing certain disputed works to him. (Approximately 80 extant works have been attributed to Giorgione, but only 16 are indisputably his own.)

In his text Coletti gives an exegesis of the differences between the Florentine and Venetian schools as illustrated in the works of Da Vinci and Giorgione; he discusses Giorgione's technique and style, his method of seeing, perceiving and drawing a subject, his use of color and the importance he placed upon the part color plays in a work of art.

This reviewer suspects that this text contains material which will not only amuse and exasperate the experts, but will tantalize and possibly even enlighten them.

MUSIC ON RECORDS

By HUGH DOHERTY

TORROBA: Concierto de Castilla for guitar and orchestra (first recording), Orquesta de Conciertos de Madrid, Jesus Arambarri, cond., Renata Tarrago, soloist; plus a Tarrago guitar recital. — (COLUMBIA stereo MS 6322) — The concerto by contemporary Spanish composer Torroba is a pleasant Castilian interlude, a little too even and restful for the most part to be very exciting. The engineering that placed the string section of the orchestration far from any microphone tends to emphasize the dream-like quality of the work and the performance. But on the reverse side, Miss Tarrago's delicate artistry is shown to best advantage in a number of familiar showcase pieces.

SWEELINCK: Variations on popular songs; E. Power Biggs playing the organ of the Busch-Reisinger Museum of Harvard University (COLUMBIA stereo) — In a light and melodic mood, organist extraordinary Biggs plays popular tunes of 17th century Holland on an organ with some unusual musical powers. The instrument, built in 1958 by Dutch craftsman D. A. Flentrop is a modern reproduction in the classical European tradition. It has full-throated majesty, but its agility in the upper ranges is most remarkable. The quality of the high notes is very close to the notes produced by a xylophone. This is especially noticeable in Under the Lime Tree, taken from an English folk tune.

LOCATELLI: L'Arte del Violino, violin concertos Op. 3, Nos. 1, 8 and 9; Roberto Michelucci, violinist, "I Musici (EPIC stereo BC 1155) — There is no more delightful violin music in the baroque repertoire than that composed by Italian virtuoso Pietro Locatelli. And it would be difficult to find a more delightful performance than this one by the I Musici, a group of 12 Italian musicians who play without a conductor. The sound is superb, the playing sweet and lively. This record is a worthy addition to the fast-growing collection of baroque music.

VIOLINIST HENRYK SZERYNG plays Beethoven and a number of the virtuoso violinist's showcase pieces on two records from RCA Victor (LM 2377, Beethoven's Kreutzer and Spring sonatas, with Arthur Rubinstein at the piano; LM 2421, with Charles Reiner at the piano, Szeryng plays works by Kreisler, Wieniawski, Tartini, Schumann, Vivaldi, Gluck and Halffter). The recordings are of current interest since Mr. Szeryng gives a concert tonight at the musical camp of the Les Jeunes Musicales de Canada at Mount Orford. Mr. Reiner will be accompanying him. The concert begins at 8.30 p.m.

Makes plea for peace

MAN'S MEANS TO HIS END—By Sir Robert Watson-Watt; McClelland & Stewart Ltd., Toronto; 221 pages; $6.50.

"The father of radar" makes a highly personal plea for peace and for the survival of civilization. His indignation at man's warring instincts is sometimes marred by heavy irony. His writing is often coy and redundant. And his faith in the marvels of science is excessive at times.

Sir Robert would not only ban-the-bomb, but the baby as well. Next to nuclear explosion he, as many other people today, sees the population increase as the world's second greatest threat.

But Sir Robert, avowed agnostic, is provocative. He is sincerely concerned about humanity's future. His credo: "Man's Chief End, then, is to glorify Man and to enjoy him forever."

"This stimulating and exacting — but literally infinite — task is, by the theologian's image of a God, perfect in all his attributes, made much more difficult than that of glorifying God."

If that statement, and many similar ones in the book, is not a good way to start an argument, then few things are.

Leading non-fiction

The top selling non-fiction book of the past week was Herman Toller's How to Lose Weight by Eating Fats. The Rothchild's by Morton was second.

Opposite sides of coin are realistically shown

THE TWO LIVES OF BABY DOE, by Gordon Langley Hall. 252 pgs. Macrae Smith Company, Philadelphia. $4.95.

From genteel poverty to a life of fabulous wealth and a parachute fall to absolute penury; from the loveliest woman in Denver to an old woman with thin plucking hands and sad, faded eyes; from a gay divorcee to a cherished wife and a swift descent to bereft widowhood — this, in part, is the story of Baby Doe who crashed the gates of the mighty in Denver and Washington in the last half of the nineteenth century.

Baby Doe would have made a name for herself under any circumstances for she was unusually beautiful and combined a great many surprising and often contradictory characteristics behind her lovely facade; but she had the misfortune — or fortune — to fall in love with Horace Austin Warner Tabor whose plain, grim wife Augusta had helped him to his position of prominence in financial, political and social circles. Tabor loved Baby enough to defy the rigid moral codes of Denver; he divorced his wife Augusta to marry a young woman twenty-five years his junior and herself a divorcee.

Against a colourful historical background, Gordon Langley Hall presents Baby Doe, H. A. W. Tabor, Augusta Tabor's son by Augusta and his daughters by Baby, the rough life of Leadville and the glittering society of Denver, all in bold relief. THE TWO LIVES OF BABY DOE — an unfortunate title that does not do justice to the book — is interesting, lively and informative.

Sets straight the 'Far East' and a missionary's life

THE CHINESE GINGER JARS — Myra Scovel, Harper & Bros. New York — 189 pages — $3.75.

For those who have a tendency to shy away from anything pertaining to missionaries, this book will be quite a revelation. The Chinese Ginger Jars is the warm, light-hearted, and refreshing story of people and events surrounding the family of a young American Missionary sent to China by the Presbyterian Church, U.S.A., in the 1930's.

Over the years many unfavourable impressions have been given of life in China and of the Japanese during the Occupation. This book does much to change this impression because the author shows a genuine feeling for the Oriental which moves her readers to think kindly of them.

The book is not without humour, nor does it lack some of the more intimate touches. The writer, for instance, did not "see eye-to-eye" with her mother-in-law, but they did see heart-to-heart!

Myra Scovel makes it seem that problems solve themselves, because she has a patience and calmness about her. She did not go to pieces when she was told that her husband had been shot and killed. She was taken to him and learned that he was wounded and alive.

The children are lovable. I wish more had been written about them. Their privation had made them food-conscious. When the Brown-Eyed One saw a man in a New York restaurant complain about his bacon and eggs, she pushed his plate back to him saying: "Eat it. Its food!"

The Chinese Ginger Jars could do much to encourage our children to be more appreciative. Read it as a family. You'll enjoy it.

New, better, books produced

EDMONTON — More and better books are being produced by Canadian authors than ever before, Don W. Thomson of Ottawa, president of the Canadian Authors Association said here Tuesday.

In 1961 the output outweighed in volume and merit the books written and published in any decade prior to 1930, he told the association's annual meeting.

"Let us not deceive ourselves about the so-called 'good old days' in this connection. The good news days are exciting, fertile in ideas and full of literary accomplishments and promise."

Literature, Mr. Thomson told the delegates, has been "queen and mother of all the arts" throughout western civilization. Yet in the development of Canadian arts fiscal support in recent years has been chiefly to the performing arts such as ballet, theatre and symphony orchestras.

"We, as authors, rejoice in this financial stimulation of performers in these particular fields. . . . Yet we cannot but deplore the lack of anything approaching balanced attention or aid for the arts, having in mind the special needs of creative literary artists in Canada."

Collecting

Townships

Stamp collectors will not have as many new issues to contend with during the coming two months, although the wise collectors will have made arrangements with their dealers for the stamps that are issued. The policy of having standing orders for the new stamps from your favourite countries is a must if you want to keep your collection up to date. Some stamps are issued in limited quantities and others have a wider appeal than anticipated, some examples would be certain topical issues from popular countries. Many collectors will, of course, be away from home for the summer, if this is the case you can ask your dealer to forward the stamps in September, or later. It is noted that Togo will try for large sales with the first stamps to feature President John F. Kennedy. This set appeared on July 4th and consisted of six values to commemorate President Sylvanus Olympio's visit to the U.S.A. in March of this year. Each stamp shows President Kennedy facing President Olympio as well as the U.S. Capital Building in Washington. There will also be a souvenir sheet for the 100F value, this sheet will show the Whitehouse in Washington and the Togolese Residence of the President in Lome. Below the stamp on the sheet will be the U.S. and Togo flags in full colour.

Uganda will commemorate the centenary of the discovery of the source of the Nile on July 28th with a set of four stamps. The design will be common to all values and shows a view of the Ripon Falls discovered by Speke, and will include a portrait of Her Majesty, Queen Elizabeth II. John Hanning Speke discovered the source of the Nile at Jinja on the 28th of July, 1862. In doing so, he not only solved a mystery that had worried the ancients of the pre-Christian era, but he at last opened up the interior of Africa to civilisation and progress in a fast advancing world. His discovery led to later explorers mapping the area and these were followed by able administrators who have brought Uganda to the threshold of independence. The only outlet for the vast waters of Lake Victoria, which is 26,828 square miles in extent, is the Nile and its actual source is where the Lake waters fall over a drop of fifteen feet to form the river. Like all early explorers, Speke named these falls to commemorate those who were responsible for the organisation of the expedition. He chose the name Ripon Falls after the President of the Royal Geographical Society, who had done so much to enable him to undertake the journey for the express purpose of solving the mystery of that mighty river, the Nile. The construction downstream of the Owen Falls Dam, a large hydro-electric project, has considerably raised the level of the river and completely submerged the Ripon Falls which are now commemorated by the Speke Memorial.

Mint condition has a great bearing on the actual value of old coins

Among the many inquiries received as to the worth of coins there have been several dealing with silver dollars, half-dollars and half-dimes. Typical are these answered below which once again point out that condition of the coins is a most important factor as is the mint mark on U.S. coins which shows where they were made.

SILVER DOLLARS, OLD AND NEW

Could you tell me whether either of two U.S. silver dollars which I have are worth more than face value at this time? One appears to have been used quite a bit and is dated 1887 and the other looks like a new silver dollar and is dated 1889.

The date 1887 is not a scarce one and unless it is in uncirculated condition it has no premium value. If the 1889 has no perceptible wear it would be worth from $2.50 up, depending on the mint mark. This issue was struck at four different mints and the most scarce is the one minted at Carson City, and has a CC mint mark below the eagle. In Extremely Fine condition the Carson City 1889 dollar catalogues at $85.00.

CANADIAN HALF-DOLLAR, 1870

Would an 1870 Canadian 50-cent piece in very good condition have any value above face?

If the coin is not too badly worn it might be worth slightly more than $5.00. If there is no wear apparent, it could be worth over $40.00.

In my collection of coins I have a U.S. half-dime dated 1850, also 1927 and 1936 Lincoln head pennies. Have these any value?

The 1927 and 1936 Lincoln pennies have no premium value. The 1850 half-dime has some value above face depending on condition and the mint mark. If there is no mint mark (which means it was struck at the Philadelphia Mint) it would be worth $1.50 up, and if there is an O mint mark, either within the wreath or under it, it might be worth $2.50 or more.

ALS SET FOR ST. JOHNS HERE TOMORROW EVENING

Sherbrooke Alouettes, who have been idle for the past week, will be out to gain some ground in their battle for a higher berth in the Provincial League when they meet St. Johns here tomorrow evening.

The Als are entrenched in fourth spot and with Acton Vale taking Drummondville twice, the locals could pick up some ground if they come up with a victory.

The race for honors in the circuit are close, only five and a half games separate the top five clubs.

The Als seem to have found themselves and if they can continue the pace they showed last Sunday they should be in the thick of the fight for the honors.

Tomorrow evening the fans will be for a treat with close to $500 being given away as door prizes.

The 1962 British Empire Games Trials and National Boxing Championships will be held in Toronto at the CNE Coliseum on Sept. 1st and 2nd.

The competition is expected to run high as a berth on the team to represent Canada in the Commonwealth Games in Perth, Australia, in November 1962 is up for grabs.

The 24th annual battle for the Coogan Trophy for mixed contestants will be staged at the Lennoxville Golf Club tomorrow.

President Grattan Crosby hopes that all local duos will turn up early in order the field may be left clear for players from outside points.

The first sailing races of the season were held last Sunday at Little Lake Magog and the Lathrop brothers, Ashford and Nelson, emerged the winners to retain the La Tribune Trophy.

Softball fans have a real treat in store for them tomorrow afternoon when Molson's four-man team will tangle with a squad of local All-Stars at the Park Avenue Stadium.

The team is recognized as one of the best in the country and their hurler, Jos Louis Abney, was rated as the second best in the sport.

We don't think our All-Stars will collect many hits but anyway it will be something to see them face Abney.

The Lake Memphremagog Conservation Club is setting a merry pace in Molson's Fishing Tournament.

A total of 172 associations have already entered the 8th annual Provincial Fishing tourney.

The third annual Conservation contest is also underway with $2,000 in prize money at stake.

We just received an advance copy of "Hockey Canada" the new magazine which will be published in the interest of amateur hockey in Canada.

It has one of the best editorial teams in sport and includes all the top writers, English and French.

Football has barely commenced and already injuries are beginning to take their toll.

The Alouettes seem to be doing fine at their new training quarters in Joliette.

Als play host to St. Johns Sunday night

Gilles Bernier faces Pirates in his first start of the season, over $500 in prizes to be drawn Sherbrooke Alouettes receive the St. Johns Pirates Sunday night at the Park Avenue Stadium.

A Sherbrooke win, and two Acton Vale losses against Drummondville, would give the Alouettes sole possession of third place and possibly a tie for second in the league standings.

The game will be marked by drawing of over $500 in prizes. The prizes have been donated by Molson's Brewery Ltd.

The player's records, issued yesterday by Gaby Meunier, the league statistician shows that four Alouettes are hitting over the 300 mark.

Jacques Monette, who leads the league in home-run hitters occupies the third position with an average of .351.

Mendella, Sherbrooke's left fielder, leads the league in stolen bases with nine.

Three Milwaukee home runs powered the Braves to 5-2 victory over Cubs

Three Milwaukee home runs powered the Braves to a 5-2 10-inning victory over the Cubs at Chicago Friday in a game marked by a Milwaukeee batting-out-of-turn incident in the second inning.

Eddie Mathews' 16th homer, a tremendous blast over the right field bleachers, accounted for the winning runs—both unearned off loser Don Cardwell, who suffered his 10th defeat.

With two out in the first over-time inning first baseman Ernie Banks dropped Ron Santo's throw on Ken Aspromonte's grounder before Mathews connected.

Earlier Hank Aaron, who left the game in the ninth inning with an ankle injury, hit his 20th homer.

Actually the only loser of the batting out of turn furore was outfielder Mack Jones, who lost credit for a single.

Eugeniusk Kubiak disqualified, Poles quit Henley Regatta race

HENLEY, England (CP) — A mighty dispute rocked the Henley Regatta Friday, resulting in the withdrawal of the Polish team.

The Poles quit in protest against the disqualification of Eugeniusk Kubiak, their diomond sculls hopeful, for going off course in his head-on semifinal race against Australia's Stuart MacKenzie, the defending champion.

Kubiak flashed across the finish line a clear three lengths ahead of the 26-year-old MacKenzie.

MacKenzie appears clearly superior to the Briton he will meet in the final today.

LITTLE LEAGUE OOP

The All Star game, mentioned in this column a few weeks ago, which was slated for July 9th will not take place because the Montreal team which was to be the opposition to the Sher-Lenn Little League is unable to appear.

The Quebec Little League Tournament will be getting underway about the middle of this month and Manager Don Kelly and Coach 'Moom' Mullin are at the moment lining up the team that will represent the Sher-Lenn Little League this season.

Listed among the players chosen so far and who will probably make the nucleus of the team are Ricky Raban, Senators; Bruno Bernier, Senators; Danny Greenland, Senators; David Laforge, White Sox; Jacques Guay, Tigers; Robin Neil, Senators; Francois Salois, Tigers; Jacques Pepin, Indians and possibly George Meissner, White Sox; Pierre Payette, Indians; Ricky Walker, Senators; Roland Desjardins, Yankees, and Mike Bacon, Tigers.

Since Coach Mullin has the final say in players chosen, there is the possibility of other men being named.

Five points is the difference in the first four teams in the league.

Looking over past season's winners we notice that 1955 saw Red Sox win the league.

Windsor, Magog meet twice

WINDSOR—(Staff) —Windsor Cardinals, in fourth place and on the way up in the Eastern Townships Junior Baseball League, throw a fireballing righthander at the Magog Aces this Sunday in the first game of a scheduled doubleheader.

Maurice Leclerc, a 20-year-old 6 foot-2 inch 180 lb pitcher, is a new acquisition on the team and will face the Aces in his first start tomorrow.

In their last start, Windsor won a 2-1 squeaker from the second-place Asbestos Club.

In two games against the Aces this year, the Cards have won one and lost the other via their 14-3 in their first game.

The executive managers, coaches, umpires and players of the Little League extend to Umpire Bill Gorham their deepest sympathy on his recent bereavement.

This week's stars in Little League ball are Jacques Pepin, David Laforge, and Wayne Hussey.

Japan wins gymnastics championship

PRAGUE (AP) — Japan won the world gymnastics championship in the men's team division Friday by defeating the Soviet Union.

Canada was far down in the list of 20 competing countries. After three of Friday's six free exercises Canada was 18th, with 375.45 points.

Unofficial results gave the Japanese an overall score of 574.65 points against the Russians' 573.15.

Denny Moyer out to make amends against Wright

NEW YORK (AP)—Although he upset Denny Moyer a month ago, aggressive Teddy Wright of Detroit was rated a 2-1 under dog for the return middleweight bout at Madison Square Garden tonight.

Within a two-week span, the 25-year-old Wright knocked off the two Moyers of Portland, Ore. First he outpointed Phil Moyer, which was not a great shock. But on June 9, he got off to a big lead against Denny, then the third-ranked 160-pound contender, and barely held on for a split decision.

As a result the 22-year-old Denny was demoted to No. 6 and Wright was promoted into the top 10 with a No. 8 rating.

Denny, a sturdy youngster with plenty of stamina, claimed he wasn't in top shape for his first fight with Wright. He took the bout on four days' notice when the Garden needed a substitute. Wright, of course, had only short notice himself but he had the fight with Phil Moyer two weeks before and was in good condition.

Moyer has a 31 - 7 record including eight knockouts. Wright's record is 40-7-4, including 18 kayos.

Scoring of the 10-round bout will be by the rounds system.

PROBABLE STARTERS American League New York (Stafford 7 - 5) at Minnesota (Kralick 6-7). Baltimore (Estrada 4 - 10) at Detroit (Jones 1-2).

43 --- Trouble

Golf architects, whose main function in life seems to be to lure the player into difficulties, spend a lot of time devising ways and means of getting us off the straight and narrow.

Regardless of what kind of trouble you fall into, the big thing is to get out of it with as few strokes as possible.
