trip around the world in 73 days, 6 hours and 11 minutes. Early in the evening people began gathering at the station in Jersey City, and by 8:30 the crowd was beyond control of the police. It was a perfect jam inside the depot as well as outside; the largest crowd, so the railway people say, ever gathered in the city.

Traveler Miss Bly stepped to the platform and was promptly timed. Mayor Cleveland attempted to make an address and was completely prevented from doing so. It was impossible on account of the crush of people. Finally the police formed a circle around Miss Bly and two of her escorts carried her to the platform.

At the office Miss Bly was conducted to the manager's room where, after receiving the congratulations of the officials, she held a short reception. When she returned to the platform, and Miss Bly waved her traveling bag over the window at it.
