We Enter the New Year

HOW different is the weather at this time to what we experienced at the beginning of 1943. The terribly cold weather and the bad storms with the disruption of telephone and power services, will live long in the memory of most of us. At least 1944 is not starting off in the same way, the weather is a lot milder and so far we have not experienced any real bad storms, there is comparatively very little snow and as January passes, the days will begin to get longer and Spring will draw ever closer.

There are other brighter prospects to the year 1944 which should make our hearts lighter and make us feel happier that a new year has dawned. General Eisenhower, who was supreme commander of the United Nations' forces in the Mediterranean area, is to command the main invasion of Europe and General Montgomery is to command the British forces, under Eisenhower. In a press conference at Algiers, Eisenhower said "we will win the European war in 1944". Such a statement from one in command should give us all great confidence in the future as we enter the new year. This man must have all the facts at his command upon which to substantiate such a statement; he knows the strength of his own forces and he must have a very good idea of the strength of the enemy he is to attack.

It is reported that General Eisenhower has left the Middle East en route to England and perhaps has already arrived in England. It can therefore be estimated that no time will be lost in making the final preparations for the long awaited invasion of Europe. The various attacks on Europe would seem to indicate that a process of softening up is going on and that the invasion hour is near at hand. In a few short weeks Spring will begin making its appearance in England and other countries on that side of the world, and it is quite likely that the attack will be made when this occurs. Just what we are up against will not be known to the general public until the actual attack takes place. That it will be no small job is indicated by the recent announcement to the people of the United States to expect at least 500,000 casualties very shortly. The preparations for receiving casualties in this country should also serve as an indication what the authorities seem to be expecting.

No, it won't be easy. We must expect to hear large numbers of casualties which may appal us at the start, but it will be the final onslaught on an enemy who although still very powerful, is beginning to see the red light. Hitler has warned the people of Germany that 1944 will not be very bright for them, but he has declared his intention to fight on and there is to be no surrender.

General Eisenhower's statement on the end of the European war may be a little ambiguous in the light of foregoing events in this war, but we hope it is true. Even if the war was to end toward the end of 1944, his statement would still hold. We do not think anyone expects the war to end in the early part of the year, but that it may end in this present year is most encouraging.

But we have other things to think of as well. We must begin in earnest to prepare for the peace, the time seems to be getting ripe. Numbers of fighting men will be returned to this country to be taken into civilian life, they will not form the entire demobilization, as Japan will still have to be fought. They will form the men who are unfit for further service, those who may be disabled and require re-fitting for their role in civilian life. We must be prepared to see that these men are fitted into their proper new niche so that they may be able to take their places in the civilian world and be able to earn their livelihood in a position at least the equal of when they left to join the services. For those who are unable to do things for themselves proper provision must be made to see that they live decently and comfortably and that their disabilities do not become a burden to them and to their friends. These men left their vocations voluntarily and were willing to give their all for their country and the people at home; we should be willing to do all we can to try and make up to them for their losses. The families of those men who are killed in action or lose their lives in the service of their country should be well provided for until such times as they can provide for themselves. We are apt to forget these things once the fighting and the shouting has subsided, but the men mentioned do not forget, they cannot forget, nor can their families.

Yes, 1944 holds much of confidence for us, but it also holds much that we must be determined to do and see through. There must not be a repetition of the blunders made after the last war, there must not be a return of the forgetfulness. If we can raise money to equip and send men to war to protect us, we must also raise the money to protect these men when they return to us maimed and suffering, and to care for the families who have lost their breadwinner. We have bought Victory Bonds quite eagerly, we have purchased War Savings Certificates and Stamps with idea of not letting our fighting men down, we could not let them down. Then we must buy Peace Bonds and Peace Savings Certificates and Stamps to see that those who return are not let down. We must show these boys that we appreciate the hardships and sacrifices that they were willing to make. The fighting may perhaps cease, but the war will not be over for years to come if we do not do the right thing by the men who will return.

Projects of all kinds can be figured out for the fit and well, but we are going to have those who will not be fit and well, and they may number into the tens of thousands. They do not want to be separated from their families for the rest of their lives, they will want to be with them to see them and enjoy them. It will be part of our duty to see that this comes about. Rehabilitation means more than just bringing a man back to this side and putting him in a hospital, it means making him happy and comfortable, helping him to forget the horrors of war, helping him to forget his injuries and trying to make him believe he is a useful citizen. Too many returned men after the last war were forced to learn that they could not be used because of their terrible disfigurements and disabilities, some even took their own lives because of the disillusionment they experienced on their return.

We enter this new year with much food for thought and for action. A year with brighter prospects than any since the war began, but one filled with prospects of much planning and there must be much accomplishment along with the planning. What ever is arranged for those who will return from the European conflict, will serve as a basis for all who return after the whole war has been completed. Production will have to be kept up in the food line and if possible increased, as we shall have the job of feeding the peoples of the freed countries until they can once again supply some of their needs. 1944 will be a full year for all of us, one of the most exacting we have ever experienced. It will be one of both sorrow and joy, but we shall not be able to relax for either, our time will be too occupied. When the peace has been won we shall have time to take inventory.

It is easier to show up people, or to blow them up, than it is to build them up. But not nearly so effective.

Instead of having to get a different person for the job, you may find it possible to make the person different.

Good plans don't make people work. It takes good people to work a plan.

What of the Future?

IN the last issue of The Gleaner there appeared an article on the Helicopter and the intimation that a service would be inaugurated at an early date on the completion of the war. A company was incorporated in the summer of 1943 and will be known as the "Inter-City Airlines Company" and is connected with the Provincial Transport Company, which company operates the buses running between Huntingdon and Montreal and other points. This is the second company to apply for a charter to operate this new mode of transport, which bids fair to become a popular mode of travel in this Dominion. In this issue of The Gleaner will be found a picture which shows a proposed station in Montreal where the helicopters and buses will have their terminal.

The helicopter while not a common type of transport among the people of civil life, has been tried out by the armed forces with certain degrees of success, but will be new to the general public. This new type of machine might be known as a type of car and airplane, being able to lift into the air from a small space and land again in a small space. This fact is due to its ability to hover over a spot and lower itself or rise, much the same as a bird. It will be seen that there are great possibilities for such a machine in bringing passengers closer to the center of cities and towns. It is unlike the airplane, which requires landing fields and much space to land which must be remote from the city or town, and which then requires a taxi or bus service to bring the passengers into the city proper. The advantages of such a type of transport will be fast travel and easily accessible landing places. The helicopter is likened to the Ford of the future, because it is small and not too expensive. In fact it is said that types will be made that a person can land in his yard and house the machine in his garage.

However, the type proposed by the Inter-City Airlines Company will accommodate approximately 14 passengers and about 400 lbs. of freight and these will work between points within the Province much the same as buses do at the present time. Connections will no doubt be made with other lines where by a person may be able to travel right across the Dominion quickly and cheaply. Representatives were in Huntingdon, Valleyfield and other points recently, with the purpose of organizing in readiness for when the new service will be put into operation at the conclusion of the war.

There is no doubt that people are becoming more air-minded since this war began and airplanes have shown such marked advances and greater degrees of safety combined with the advantage of quick means of travel, that after the war, the airplane will become a common means of making trips all over the world. The helicopter will provide the means for short hops and connecting links between the points where the larger planes will start for longer journeys. Thus passengers will have the same advantage of travel as given by the railways of the country, through landing and leaving from the same terminal without the necessity of transferring to some other point.

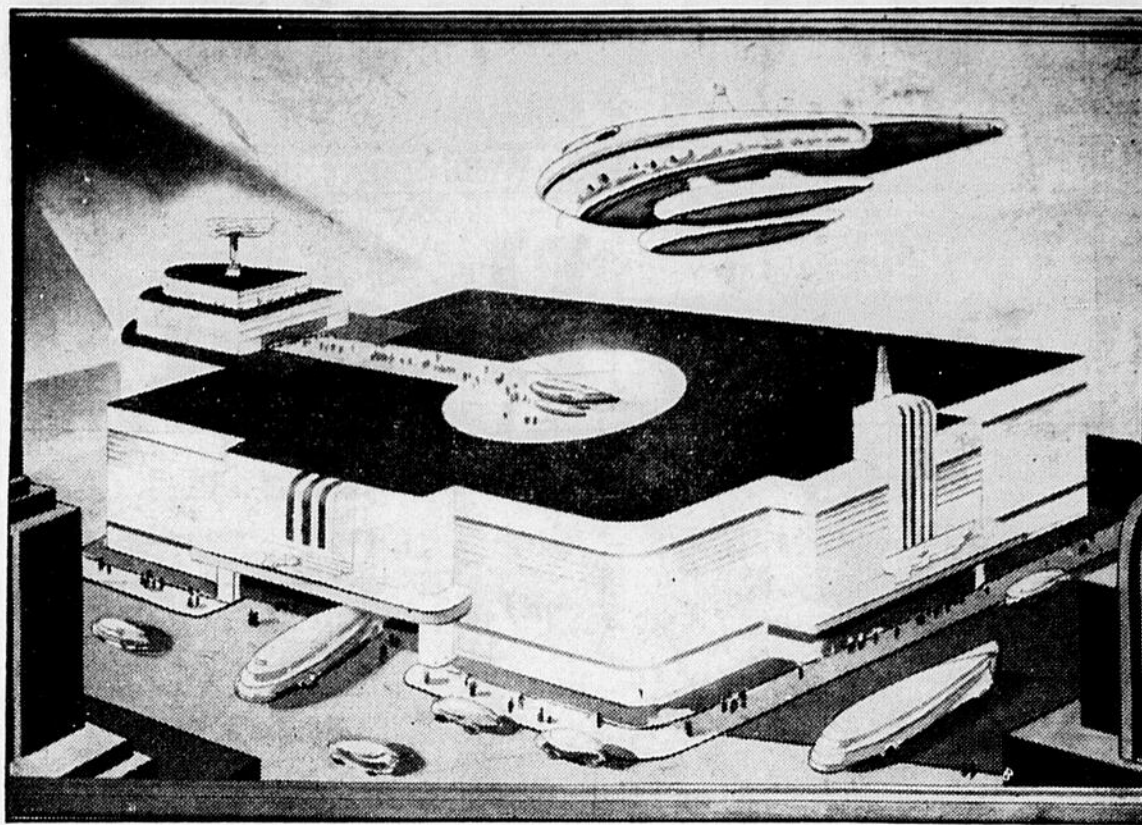

Fares for this type of travel will no doubt be brought in line with fares used by buses and other modes of ground or water travel, so that the public will make full use of the facilities offered. If high fares are charged, the popularity of the travel will not be very great as it may be too expensive for the average person to take advantage of. Should these things be properly taken care of, however, this mode of travel holds great possibilities for the future and this part of the Province will witness it if the present plans of the Inter-City Airlines Company can materialize. Production of helicopters cannot commence until war requirements have been satisfied and it will be some time after the war before a sufficient number will be able to be made to make a worthwhile service possible.

The company, however, is to be congratulated in keeping an eye on the future and planning ahead so as to keep pace with possible advancements for the after war period. It is certain that no time will be lost to put this new service into effect after the conclusion of the war.

When we don't talk for effect, we are more effective.

All the scrap that we've sent in Brings victory to our labours; But peace will mean that we must scrap Our scrapping with the neighbours.

Aerial Bus of the Future

The Province of Quebec will be provided, after the war, with an aerial bus service linking its various towns. Helicopters will be the outstanding equipment for this service. The sketch above shows the Motorcoach Terminal on Dorchester Street, Montreal, arranged for the future reception of aerial buses.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

To The Editor
 Huntingdon Gleaner.

Mr. Lewis, who is a young man, born in Russia, who came to this country early in life, and showed such brilliance at college that he was chosen as a Rhodes Scholar, is Secretary of the C.C.F. Party. Mr. Lewis, therefore, speaks officially for the C.C.F. Recently, Mr. Lewis has made speeches in which he has said, very definitely, that the C.C.F. platform and plans for the future, contain no thought of anything like a dictatorship or force.

On December 23rd, 1932, Mr. M. J. Coidwell, M.P., an Englishman who came to Canada, and has become the Leader of the C.C.F. and a Member of Parliament, said, as reported in the Regina Leader-Post, that "we must have a mental revolution or we shall have a physical revolution." If that means anything, it means that we must either accept socialism in Canada as a result of being converted to it, or expect a revolution by force.

On February first, 1933, the late Mr. J. S. Woodsworth, then Leader of the C.C.F. in the House of Commons, said that, "it may very well be that force may prove inevitable." Mr. Woodsworth is quoted to this effect, in the official record of the House of Commons.

WEEK AT OTTAWA

In the year that has just passed, the farmers of Canada have made a truly remarkable contribution to the cause of freedom. This is brought out clearly in the figures of production published in various reviews of the year and which stand out in true perspective when full consideration is given to the handicaps under which the agricultural industry has been operating during the war years. In the recent agricultural conference Arthur MacNamara, director of selective service, estimated that 400,000 men and 100,000 women had left the farms to join the armed forces or take jobs in war plants. In addition to this there has been difficulty about farm machinery. In March 1939, just before the war

In 1934, the Federal Campaign Committee of the C.C.F. in British Columbia, said "the C.C.F. does not propose to attempt to introduce socialism until it has achieved control of the armed forces and the machinery of government.... a degree of dictatorship may be necessary in inaugurating the new economic and social system".

On October 22nd 1943, Mr. B. E. Leavens, C.C.F. Member of the Ontario Legislature, said that "capitalists are a common group of exploiters. I would take their leaders and would dump them in the lake."

All these references are to physical force. Other forms of force are also recommended. In 1933, Mr. MacInnis, C.C.F., M.P., said, "we will have to force the farmers to the socialist view by the pressure of the economic situation". What the socialist view is about the farmers is, as Mr. Leavens says, that "Farmers can stay on their farms as long as they wish, but they cannot will the property on their death to anyone else."

It is not necessary to point out that Mr. Harold Winch, C.C.F. Leader in British Columbia, has explained how force will be used.

If Mr. David Lewis will now persuade Mr. Coidwell, Mr. Winch, Mr. Leavens and Mr. MacInnis to resign from the party, and if he will have the party platform repudiate the late Mr. J. S. Woodsworth, then we might be willing to believe that he means what he says.

If he cannot do this, then it strikes us as a good idea that the C.C.F. should get a Secretary who understands what the party stands for, as explained by its leaders.

R.G.E.

started, there was 1,365,000 male workers on Canadian farms, but this number had declined by 23 per cent to 1,020,000 in March 1943, while during the war years the volume of production has increased by 48 per cent.

Labour Shortage and Farm Equipment

Farm labour shortage is not something peculiar to Canada. From reports it is clear that all United Nations suffer from the same trouble. Word from Australia and New Zealand show that in these sister dominions the farms are very short-handed and being worked under continuous strain. There, as here, the demands on manpower from all branches of war activity are pressing and it is a matter of making the most effective use of the men available. In this country the manpower policy is becoming more cohesive and responsive to the relative urgency of needs on the farms and elsewhere in the war economy, and this will be in evidence during 1944. There will be an improvement in the farm equipment situation, as more steel will be released for the manufacture of farm machines. The amount of steel available for machine manufacture in 1943 was 35 per cent of 1940, but in 1944 it will increase to 80 per cent. The amount available for repairs in 1944 will be 156 per cent of the 1940-41 amount compared with 165 per cent in 1943. If steel for repairs is slightly down steel for new machines will be more than doubled.

Idea of Serving Nutritious Salads Regularly Dubbed Revolutionary Fifty Years Ago

Fifty years ago, the idea of serving salads regularly throughout the winter months would have seemed revolutionary. Now it is accepted as a matter of course.

This winter, more than ever before, the serving of raw vegetables is important. The reason for this is that the maximum food value is obtained from vegetables when they are served without cooking.

Cabbage takes the honoured place among winter salad vegetables but celery, carrots, turnips and beets, finely diced or grated, will all give better returns in vitamins and minerals when served raw than when cooked.

Here is the way the Consumer Section of the Dominion Department of Agriculture suggests making a simple cabbage salad, with a few popular variations.

Cabbage Salad
Shred crisp, green cabbage finely; add salad dressing and season to taste with salt and pepper. Cabbage salad should be made just before serving to keep it crisp and retain the vitamins.

Variations
1. Add grated onion, diced celery or pimiento strips.
2. Use equal parts shredded cabbage and chopped, unpeeled red apple, adding seedless raisins, if available.
3. Use equal amounts of shredded cabbage and grated, raw carrot.
4. Vary the dressing. French, cooked, mayonnaise, Russian or Thousand Island dressing.

Cabbage and Beet Salad
2 cups finely shredded cabbage
1 cup diced celery
1 cup diced, unpeeled, red apples
1-2 cup finely shredded, raw beets
1 tsp. horseradish
1-3 cup French dressing
Salt and pepper
Toss all ingredients, lightly together. Arrange on crisp lettuce leaves or outer cabbage leaves. Garnish with parsley and celery curls. Serves six.

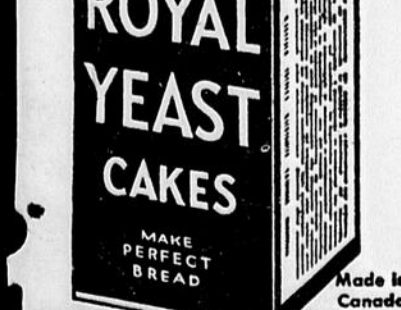

Moulded Salad
1-4 tsp. gelatin
1-4 cup cold water
1 cup cooked salad dressing
2 cups diced veal or flaked fish.
Salt and paprika
1-2 cup chopped cabbage
2 tsp. chopped parsley or celery tops
2 tsp. chopped pickles
Soak the gelatin in the cold water for 5 minutes, then dissolve over boiling water. Add salad dressing, then fold in meat or fish, seasonings and chopped cabbage, parsley and pickles. Turn into one large or individual moulds which have been greased or rinsed in cold water. Chill and allow to set. Unmould on crisp lettuce and garnish as desired. Eight servings.

Cooked Salad Dressing
2 cups milk
2 tsp. salt
2 tsp. mustard
4 tsp. flour
4 tsp. sugar
Few grains cayenne
2-3 cup vinegar
2 tsp. butter
Heat milk in the top of double boiler. Mix dry ingredients and slowly stir in the hot milk. Return

Women and Politics

"John Ruskin is credited with having said that woman has been guilty of all the crimes of history—not because she has committed them but because she has stood by and allowed them to happen, and it seems that woman, the child-bearer of the race, by showing little interest in political action has lost and is losing countless opportunities for ensuring the health and happiness of her children.

"Political action may not necessarily mean sitting in Parliament. Politics are not, as one might suppose, the science and art of achieving and retaining office, but the science of welding an ideal community. But the fact that there are no women in any legislative body of Manitoba and only two in the Dominion House of Commons is indicative not only of the fact that women have taken little interest in politics as the term is ordinarily understood, but also of the fact that they have paid strenuous attention to bridge and other essentially non-political activities to the exclusion of constructive community effort.

"The double standard of morals which stigmatizes only women and allows the men who purchases his pleasure to go free would be abolished over night if woman would only stand up for her rights as some of the early workers for woman's suffrage hoped. This alone would be an inestimable contribution toward the control of the most sinister of all menaces to health... the venereal diseases, because the equally hign standard of morals which would naturally insist would prevent the spread of disease. Here a public health principle and morality go hand in hand.

"Women in science, commerce and industry in the present war have proven, even in a man made world rampant with prejudice, that woman frequently do man's work better than man. This has been true even in manual occupations. It is likely that as the war ends woman, newly aware of her own capacities, may be unwilling to relinquish her right to work, and with this new hard earned right, to work should be a right for men and women alike... may come a new feeling of responsibility which will lead to her further political activity. Woman's emergence into the field of political action should be of great significance in the sphere of social welfare and public health, and as more women become doctors, lawyers and executives, so we may well have more women in our legislatures.

"Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, a great woman, who, in spite of her old age, is still precipitating political change—then enfranchisement of women—never got beyond a mere candidature for election to the British House of Commons, once said that the ideal Government would be a Government of women and children. There have been good men, doctors in Parliament and in cabinets—very few women so far. We need more women in office and it is no credit to the intelligence of our political parties that woman, who holds so great a stake in the future of our country in the lives of her children, should have little or no voice in the councils of the parties nor on the floors of our legislative assemblies. It is a wrong which men should right immediately. If it is not righted, women may well undertake to right it themselves.

DAHLIA'S WHATNOTS

At Christmas-time this year I was again impressed, and more strongly than ever before, by the depth of the organ music.

I can remember a time when an organ was to be seen in many farm homes, but when a piano was reckoned a treasure beyond the reach of ambitious dreams of many parents who were pleased to give their young folk the chance of a musical training. Tastes change, or, in this case, have they developed? More than one very gay, not to say frivolous, young person has expressed my herded preference for the music of the organ. Probably the ear has been cultivated by listening to better organs and better instruments, perhaps pipe organs. These young people were not apparently the solemn, not even the serious sort, but it seemed as if there was something in the music of the organ that struck a responsive chord in their own deeper nature. "Deep calleth unto deep." The music of the piano is like the rainfall, the music of the organ is like the sea. The first may tinkle on the pane, or go to swell the catenact it may be given by the claps, or we may hear "A robin singing in the rain." The second can lift our souls to heaven on its ocean waves of sound, or drown our earthly envy in The Dead March in Saul.

This Christmas, also, I was struck by an almost unanimously serious, or at least, thoughtful note in the radio programs, especially on Christmas Eve. Even the most farcical presentations generally closed with some reference to the real significance of the festival. Will the artists concerned take time to make New Year's resolutions? Will they not, it may be, make good resolutions but it requires a lot of resolution to carry them out.

In "Pitcairn's Island" written by Charles Nordhoff and James Norman Hall, we are given a picture of wisely directed resolutions, thus: "Then, sir, I went straight to where we'd hid our store of spirits. And I bashed in the two kegs, and I took the bottles and broke every one against the rocks. Then I took the copper coil from the still and I threw it as far as ever I could; when I saw it splash in the sea I said, 'God be thanked, there's an end of it!'"

"Well, sir, if ever you've been a toper and left off sudden, ye'll understand the torments I went through the next fortnight. I couldn't eat, and I feared I'd have taken myself before I was done. But I held fast, and little by little, things got easier. It was a rare thing to get back my self-respect.

Every Day A Bargain Day For Women Who Know Food Values

"Show me the woman who can resist a bargain and I'll prove to you that the world is flat."

What if that remark was made by one of the more cynical members of the opposite sex? We women do like bargains and most of us are pretty shrewd at recognizing them. Supposing you went to the grocer's tomorrow morning and saw a sign over the bread display that read—

SPECIAL TODAY!
Extra Vitamin B, Calcium, Iron and Protein—Free with Each Loaf! Could you resist a bargain like that? Yet that very bargain is offered, though unadvertised, every day in every store where whole grain bread is sold alongside white. The same bargain can be picked up among the cereals too, for whole grain cereals provide those same extra food elements.

Reunion of U.S. Soldier and W.A.C. In Naples Proves Surprise—and How!

They met at a Red Cross dance, but they did not dance. They just sat there looking at each other for a long time and holding hands.

He asked: "How did you find me?" She began telling him all the details of landing in Italy with a newly arrived WAC contingent and figuring out his army post office address and concluding that he was here too.

"Then I began asking if your unit was somewhere in this country," she said, "and when I found

Any woman who has kept house on a budget knows that a penny saved here and a nickel somewhere else make a real difference at the end of the week. In the same way, bargains in food value add up to a significant contribution of those protective foods which are so necessary for health.

"It's all in knowing something about relative food values," says Dr. L. B. Pett, director of Nutrition Services. "Whole grain bread and cereals cost no more than white bread or refined cereals, in fact, the whole grain cereals often cost less. Yet in respect to calcium alone, the use of whole grain cereals and bread can step up the family's supply of this important mineral by 6% which may make the difference between an adequate daily supply and a diet which is below par in this respect."

out that it was they couldn't keep me from finding you."

"Gee," he said, "You're swell. Still can't believe it."

She said: "It's been more than a year. Do you remember the day after Thanksgiving last year?"

"Sure," he replied, "We were sworn in at the same time in San Francisco—Pte. Alvin Bailey and Pte. Theresa Bailey."

One of his friends joined them just then and said: "Hello, Al. How about an introduction?"

"Sure," said the engineer, "This is my mother, Mrs. Theresa Bailey."

Women on Home Front Makes Her New Year's Resolutions

These are the New Year's resolutions of one kitchen front soldier; perhaps they will give you food for thought.

"I will remember to be thankful for what I still get the foods my family needs to keep them healthy, instead of grumbling because I can't get everything I would like to have."

"I will do my utmost to make the best use of what we have and to waste nothing."

"I will not be a hoarder or try to obtain more than my share of foods that are scarce. I will always remember that my selfishness will mean that my neighbour will have to go without. And if my neighbour hoards I will not go and do likewise, but will rather keep more firmly to my resolve."

"I will be ration-wise and take pride in keeping within the spirit as well as the letter of the law."

"I will serve my family well-balanced and appetizing meals and will plan these meals in advance, by plan and study the labels on cans and packages because they help me get best value for my money."

"I will not waste fats but will use left-over fats whenever I can and will turn in all surplus fats for salvage."

"I will use whole grain or Canada approved bread this year."

"I will plan our victory garden carefully this year so that we will not grow more food than we can use, share, can or store."

"I will can as much fruit and tomatoes as possible next summer."

"I will conserve food, energy, time and money and do my utmost to help the war effort. But above all..."

First Lady Glad She Knew How to Rub Noses

Childhood play with her father taught her "how to rub noses properly," Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt said in explanation of a recently published photograph of her rubbing noses with a Maori woman, in New Zealand.

Mrs. Roosevelt told press-conference questioners that Ragni, the woman who was head guide for the Maori, asked if she might greet Mrs. Roosevelt as "we greet all distinguished visitors."

"I was very glad my father had taught me how to rub noses properly," Mrs. Roosevelt said. "When I was a child he used to say 'let's have a Chinese kiss' and then we would rub noses."

Ragni, her visitor said, is a very witty, amusing, delightful person with a most interesting profile, very finely cut, and with her long black hair is a fine looking woman."

Russell Clyde Badly Hurt In Run-away Accident

An accident occurred on Lake Street on Tuesday afternoon about 5:30, when a horse with a small box sleigh driven by Russell Clyde, of Huntingdon, became frightened and ran away with the sleigh and its occupants. Some children at the end of Lake Street near the railway tracks threw snow at the horse and generally frightened the animal, causing it to gallop. The slippery nature of the road and the bad time the horse had to keep its footing, also helped to further frighten the animal. The driver, Mr. Clyde, did his best to check the horse, but it finally hit the ditch and a telephone pole throwing the two occupants out of the rig. In doing this Mr. Clyde was thrown close to the flying hoofs of the horse as he fell to the ground, and received nasty cuts around the eye and it is thought the eye may be damaged.

The injured man was taken into the home of Mr. A. A. Lunan and Dr. H. R. Clouston was called. The doctor rendered first aid to the injured face and eye and prepared Mr. Clyde for a trip into Montreal to see Dr. Ramsay, an eye specialist. The exact result of the extent of the injuries is not yet known.

Many drivers of horses have complained of children in this part of town frightening their horses and it is felt that something should be done to stop this practice on the part of the children. This man has injured through no fault of his own and it may prove to be quite serious. The other occupant with Mr. Clyde suffered from shock but was otherwise uninjured. The sleigh was proceeding toward town when the runaway occurred.

A Tribute to Canada

The following article is a letter from "John Bull" a British publication and pays great tribute to Canada's part in the war.

MR. MALCOLM MACDONALD

Dear Sir,—I am glad you stressed in a speech in London recently the growing importance of the Dominion of Canada.

Many of us Britons, reviewing the mighty effort of the United Nations, are apt to think in terms of Anglo-Soviet-American production and overlook the increasing power of the Dominions, especially Canada.

Canada has nearly half a million soldiers; 200,000 of her sons are in R.C.A.F. blue; her shipyards have turned out hundreds of vessels; and her munitions output for a nation of fewer than 12,000,000 people is staggering.

Without her food we would have had a lean time in these islands. Without the hundreds of thousands of vehicles, thousands of tanks and planes, scores of millions of shells and cartridges, the Allies could not have prosecuted the war so victoriously in the past twelve months.

The Canada place in the post-war world is assured. The links forged in the past four years will endure. And the way she helped us in our hour of need will go down in history as one of the greatest gestures in the annals of Empire.

JOHN BULL

SELECT GEN. MARSHALL AS "MAN OF THE YEAR"

New York—Gen. Marshall, chief of staff of the United States Army, was selected by Time Magazine as the 1943 "Man of the year."

The news magazine said Marshall, assuming on the day Germany invaded Poland the job of transforming "a worse-than-disarmed U.S. into the world's most effective military power," was the man "who more than any other could be said to have armed the Republic."

Restrictions On Printing To Save Paper

Some New Orders Already in Effect — Object is to Conserve Paper — Newspaper Advtg. Not Affected

Restrictions on commercial printing which will largely prohibit the manufacture of advertising posters, circulars and cards, and direct mail advertising, are now effective under an Order announced by John Atkins, Administrator of Publishing and Printing of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board.

Parallel restrictions prohibit the printing of return or business reply postcards and envelopes and printed blotters. Jumbo size and multi-leaf calendars are eliminated and greeting card manufacturers are cut to 50 per cent of the amount of paper which they used in 1942.

These new restrictions, according to the order, are made necessary by the reduced supplies of pulpwood and the increased demands for export shipment to the Armed Forces for use in their Army periodicals and in propaganda material being disseminated in enemy countries.

Printed matter for the exclusive use of religious, charitable, educational, political or labour organizations which does not contain paid advertising, and printed matter for personal use, such as wedding invitations, in memorial cards, election sale bills, etc., are exempt from the restrictions.

The Order also provides that after December 31 no person may display any printed poster, bill or card advertising any event for which an admission fee is charged except on the premises where that particular event is to take place or on a 24-sheet poster panel. This means that with the exception of charitable, religious and political posters, advertising bills and cards of this type will be prohibited. Newspaper advertising, however, is not affected.

The over-all use of paper by news-paper is, however, already restricted and cannot be increased.

Forms and records necessary to the operation of persons engaged in business such as books of account, sales slips, invoices, receipts, labels, tickets, etc., may continue to be printed, but none of these may contain advertising of the business of a person other than the person for whom they were printed. Publications, programs, directories, containing advertising may, however, continue to be printed, if permission is secured from the Administrator of Printing and Publishing. In addition to these permitted kinds of printing any person may use up to 25 pounds of paper in printing in any other kind of printing. This 25 pound maximum means that, except for posters and bills advertising entertainments for which an admission fee is charged, a person can buy sufficient paper, for example, to print approximately 12,000 circular letters, 3,000 9 by 12 inch circular letters on 16-pound letterhead paper.

Anyone who in 1942 bought, or in any 12-month period thereafter acquires printed matter, exclusive of newspaper advertising, costing more than $200, or more than 100 pounds in weight, is required by the Order to apply to the Administrator for a permit to purchase printed matter. Anyone who proposes to purchase printed matter of over $100 in value, if he has on hand more than 100 pounds of printed matter, is also required to apply for a permit.

Further details of this Order are available from the office of this newspaper.

Ottawa Youth, 15, "Youngest" Boy Doing a Man's Job

Fifteen-year-old William (Bill) Storey, who used to live with his aunt at 134 Primrose avenue, Ottawa, was a member of the American Merchant Seamen's Club, Ottawa, recently, the "youngest boy doing a man's job in a world at war" ever to put up at the institution, according to a special cable by Milton Bracken in the New York Times.

Bill, a handsome, brown-haired youngster with healthy cheeks and twinkling eyes, first signed on "to go to sea when he was 14; he was 15 last June 24. His father serves in the Royal Canadian Navy and Billy has had many adventures since he started hitchhiking across Canada when he was 10.

He was on a Norwegian ship that broke a propeller shaft in the North Atlantic and idled helplessly through a running submarine attack for several days, until the vessel tried to protect the vessel.

Billy said he wasn't too upset during all this excitement.

"I just chewed off all my fingernails," he said.

When Billy came to Algiers he missed his ship. Now he is awaiting another. Billy was smoking cigarettes as he told his story and it was obviously far from his first smoke. Many aspects of his career would cause conservative parents to share their heads but Billy is so fine-looking and speaks so intelligently and with apparent character that there isn't the slightest point in worrying about Billy.

Billy makes $123 a month as a messman. He sends $50 of it home. His mother, Mrs. Margaret Storey, and his sister Barbara, seven, live in Halifax. Billy lived with his aunt at the Ottawa address, but for years he hitch-hiked back and forth across Canada. And now he wants to remain at sea.

FASCIST OFFICIAL SHOT IN ITALY

New York—The Berlin radio said that Aldo Resega, whom it identified as the 47-year-old secretary of Mussolini's Republican Fascist party at Milan and a colonel in the Fascist militia, had been "murdered by anti-Fascists who shot him in the back." Resega's assassins escaped on bicycles, the broadcast said.

Around 50 scholars and their parents, with Mr. and Mrs. R. G. MacMillan and Mrs. Ann MacMillan, gathered at the Elgin Church Thursday evening for their Xmas Supper for the Sunday School, which was to have been held the week before but had to be postponed by bad weather. A hot supper was served by the ladies, after which Mr. MacMillan called the gathering to order for a short program of singing, recitations and dialogues which was very capably put on by the children. As it was the closing of Sunday School for the winter months, Mr. MacMillan had the pleasure of presenting to Ernest and David MacFarlane, for repeating memory work. The Superintendent, Miss Lillian Murdoch, handed out an orange and sack of candy to all scholars, other gifts from teachers and parents were presented.

The Canadian Legion - No. 81

Under date March 25th last, after extensive negotiations with the Canadian Pensions Committee, and with the very splendid support of the Canadian Tuberculosis Association, a very valuable concession was obtained. Ordinarily, all Disability Pensions awarded under the Canadian Pensions Act are determined by medical examination, and based upon the extent of disability found. In cases of "Pleurisy and Effusion" such an examination rarely reveals the true actual or potential disability, and usually pensions would be awarded at 20% or 30% except in very exceptional circumstances.

Our experience has shown that a very high percentage of these cases ultimately develop Pulmonary Tuberculosis; and, therefore, a very special effort was made to obtain adequate pension protection for them, following discharge from hospital treatment.

Effective March 1st last an amendment to the Table of Disabilities Providing Special Rates of Pension in respect to Pleurisy with Effusion (Instruction No. 26), provides an Arbitrary rate of Pension as follows:

From completion of treatment: 100% pension for 6 months. If condition unchanged at 6 months later: 80% pension for 6 months. If condition unchanged at 6 months later: 60% pension for 6 months. If condition unchanged at 6 months later: 40% pension for 6 months. If condition unchanged at 6 months later: 20% pension for 6 months.

It is felt that this very substantial pension over the most dangerous period will prevent many from developing Pulmonary Tuberculosis, and will give the individual an opportunity to re-establish himself in suitable employment. The total disability pension rate for a single man is $75.00 per month, $25.00 additional pension for a wife. If there are children, additional pension at $15.00 monthly for first child, $12.00 monthly for second child, and $10.00 monthly for each additional child.

The examinations cannot be carried out often than every six months, and will include X-ray and chest specialist's examination, but ensuring the detection of any such disease as Pulmonary Tuberculosis or other diseases, should they develop. Should any such disease as Pulmonary Tuberculosis be found, the party concerned will be entitled to pension for same forthwith.

Another great advantage is, that for a period of two years after treatment is completed, the rate of pension being more than 50%, the pensioner's dependent wife and children (if any) will be entitled to full rates of pension under Schedule "B" of the Pension Act, should he die of any cause whatsoever, as provided under section 32, subsection 2, and section 22 subsection 7, respectively of the Pension Act.

It might be added that there seem to be more cases of Pleurisy with Effusion developed amongst our air crew in the R.C.A.F. proportionately, than in other branches of the forces, and this great concession will be of particular interest to all our R.C.A.F. men.

The installation of the X-ray apparatus at the Huntingdon County Hospital, will prove of very great value in these cases, as it will be noted examination can only be made by the specialists once each six months, so that local men can get a thorough check up at the local hospital, and thus be armed against any attempt that might be made to prematurely clear him from this pension.

Parents will be well advised to cut this column out for future guidance. It might be as well to point out that the services of "The Legion" are at the disposal of our new veterans, and a letter to the Chairman of the Pensions Committee, Canadian Legion Branch 81, Huntingdon, will receive very careful and special attention. If any are in doubt about questions of pension or procedure they are advised to write as above.

Every man or woman discharged after service in the present war is entitled to receive free hospitalization for any condition up to one year from the date of such discharge, under the same conditions as class 2 pensioners of the last war.

They should be strongly urged to apply to the Department of Pensions and National Health for any disabling condition before the one year period expires, so as to obtain such treatment as may be needed.

Perhaps of greater importance is, that by so doing, medical examination will reveal any obscure, or inidious disease, which may have escaped detection earlier; thus ensuring title to disability pension if the condition is one reasonably related to service. Thousands of those who served in the last war failed to follow this procedure, thus making it impossible to prove their right to disability pensions when chronic disease was later found to exist.

Say Churchill Plans To Spend Winter On Portuguese Isle

A landing of British naval forces in the Madeira, Portuguese Islands in the Atlantic west of Morocco, was reported by the Berlin radio.

While it said: there is no concrete evidence yet that the report is true, the International Information Bureau, Berlin propaganda agency, added: "The main object of this occupation is to guard Churchill's future place of residence." It speculated that the Prime Minister, recovering from pneumonia, "intends to spend the Winter in Madeira to restore his health completely."

Britain has established naval and air bases in the Azores, also Portuguese-owned.

Progress Continues

Prime Minister Churchill "continues to make steady progress", a brief statement from his official residence, 10 Downing street, said. Mr. Churchill is recovering from an attack of pneumonia somewhere in the Middle East.

Over $2,000 Loss in Laundry Dept. of Ormstown Hospital

Fire of Unknown Origin on Friday Evening Damages Building and Contents

Fire of unknown origin occurred at the laundry building of the Barrie Memorial Hospital, Ormstown, on Friday evening at about 8:45. The fire was first discovered by Mr. and Mrs. Harold Kerr, who were visiting at a neighbours near the hospital, in the meantime other persons discovered the fire and Mrs. Stalker is credited with turning in the alarm at the Fire Hall. One of the firemen happened to be near his truck and immediately got out the fire engine, so that hardly any time was lost in getting the hose playing on the fire.

The fire, however, had gained considerable headway on the inside and the west end of the building was very badly damaged. A second stream of water was played on the fire from the nearby creek and was also used to keep the fire from Dr. Stalker's garage which was only separated by a narrow driveway. This was saved from any damage, but the contents of the laundry were a complete loss.

From completion of treatment: 100% pension for 6 months. If condition unchanged at 6 months later: 80% pension for 6 months. If condition unchanged at 6 months later: 60% pension for 6 months. If condition unchanged at 6 months later: 40% pension for 6 months. If condition unchanged at 6 months later: 20% pension for 6 months.

Problems and Probables --

Safe Keeping of Victory Bonds

A great many people have put their hard earned savings in Victory Loan Bonds, of which the Dominion Government has made five issues during the current war. Much publicity has been given to the reason why we should buy these bonds, but relatively little has been said about the various types of bonds issued and how they should be taken care of during the period that they are outstanding.

There are three types of bonds, namely, "Bearer bond, bond registered as to principal, and fully registered bond." The first type, "Bearer bond," is exactly the same as Canadian currency, in that it can be bought or sold without need of noting the serial number or the name of the vendor. The second, "Bond registered as to principal," is recorded in the purchaser's name. To these first two types, there are attached coupons bearing the interest, which can be clipped at the interest of their maturity and exchanged at any bank free of charge, for currency. However in respect to the "Bond registered as to full amount," there are no attached coupons. In place of this, the Dominion Government mails to the holders of these bonds the amount of interest due at the proper date. In all instances these bonds should be kept with some bank. One important reason for this is that should one be a holder of a "Bearer bond," and by some mishap the security be lost it is quite difficult to gain remuneration, due to no record being kept of the purchaser's name. This also applies to the other two types because although the owner's name is recorded much red tape has to be undergone before proper adjustments can be effected.

A second and equally as important consideration is that if the bond is kept in the safe keeping of the bank one is assured of a rightful price for his security should he choose to sell it. Too often the holder of a bond is tempted to sell in a large loss so that he can have immediate cash, not realizing that any bank will pay to the vendor the actual value of the bond less a small charge. Should one find it necessary to sell a bond, the most convenient method of doing so is through the bank. This is especially true of "Bonds registered as to principal and fully registered bonds," because a written declaration has to be made to the effect that you are the owner and that you authorize its conversion into a "Bearer bond," so that it might be marketed. Thus in every instance one can see that the advice and assistance of a bank is almost necessary for the practical handling of bonds and insurance of security for the owner. Annual fee for keeping these types of securities is very small in comparison with the amount of money involved.

School Teachers and Strikes
To me the C.C.F. is as close to my political thinking as anything I can think of at the moment," thus spoke Pat Conroy, secretary-treasurer of the C.C.L. (Canadian Congress of Labour) at the annual convention of the labour party at the Windsor Hotel, in mid-September of this year. At the same gathering a vote was cast in favour of endorsing the C.C.F. as the "political arm of labour in Canada and recommending that affiliate unions that they affiliate with the C.C.F." Last week it was the C.C.L. members of the Montreal police and fire department which caused the 14 hour strike and won recognition of their union. It is strange to note that recognition of the union which outwardly sponsors the C.C.F., was brought about as a result of direct orders from Premier Godbout. It would seem that the Premier has strengthened his own opponents.

Reactions to the strike have been widespread. Mayor Lewis of Ottawa considered that firemen and policemen of that city probably would be subject to a change in salary bracket, indications from New York are that certain changes will be made there in the police and fire departments, while Outremont police and firemen have declared that recognition of affiliation with the C.C.L. plus a raise in salary will have to be effected or a 100 per cent strike will result. Equally as interesting is the question of what bearing this will have on school teachers. Already the "Alliance Catholique des Professeurs de Montreal," have handed an ultimatum to the Montreal Catholic School Commission, setting January 14 as the deadline for a reply to a proposal for collective agreement and a raise in salary. In discussions which I had with one of Montreal's Protestant high school principals, one could sense that these teachers are keenly interested because they feel there are grievances in their profession which should have public sympathy and action. Undoubtedly the public would throw up their hands in horror at the thought of closed schools on account of a strike. Under present circumstances it would seem then that if no proper remedy is found for the teachers, they too might use the short cut to immediate attention which as the high school principal pointed out seemed to be a very effective weapon. But as always is the case, an ounce of prevention is much better and perhaps if applied before the eventual possibility of a crisis it would prevent a situation which now characterizes the position of the Montreal police and firemen. A situation which can only be interpreted in one term, "Political Affiliation."

SPAIN NOT RECOGNIZING MUSSOLINI'S PUPPETS
Madrid.—Authorized Spanish sources denied flatly that Spain has recognized Mussolini's new Fascist "Government" in Italy as claimed in a Berlin broadcast. These sources added that Gen. Franco's Government has no intention of recognizing the Italian puppet regime.

Huntingdon County Hospital Officially Opened

pectant people gathered around the door, Dr. J. R. McEwen, chairman of the Medical Board of the Hospital, handed the surgeon's scissors to Mr. Paul, who cut the ribbon and declared the hospital officially open.

From then on there was a steady stream of people going in and out of the Hospital building for the purpose of viewing it. Inside a decorated and lighted Christmas tree was placed, where the visitors left their gifts for the institution, and these were many and varied.

An unofficial estimate placed the number of people viewing the hospital during the afternoon session as around 500, while at the evening session there was possibly another 125. Everyone seemed keenly interested in all they saw and many exclaimed over the lovely blankets, vestments at a large loss so that he can have immediate cash, not realizing that any bank will pay to the vendor the actual value of the bond less a small charge. Should one find it necessary to sell a bond, the most convenient method of doing so is through the bank. This is especially true of "Bonds registered as to principal and fully registered bonds," because a written declaration has to be made to the effect that you are the owner and that you authorize its conversion into a "Bearer bond," so that it might be marketed. Thus in every instance one can see that the advice and assistance of a bank is almost necessary for the practical handling of bonds and insurance of security for the owner. Annual fee for keeping these types of securities is very small in comparison with the amount of money involved.

No one wanted to miss a single thing and all their questions were courteously answered by members of the Hospital Board and by the staff. Interest was shown by everyone and the exclamations of how nice everything was, would seem to speak well of the general opinion the public has of its new hospital and the Board of Management. Mrs. Irene MacDonald, the matron was on hand to greet the visitors as they wended their way through the building.

The equipment placed in the hospital is of the very best and Drs. Quintin and Stalker of the Barrie Memorial Hospital, Ormstown, and Dr. O. E. Caza, Valleyfield were very much impressed with everything. The general impression seemed to be that Huntingdon County had obtained a first class hospital for all purposes.

The Huntingdon County Hospital is now open for service to the people of the county and will no doubt be found to be one of the most useful and necessary institutions this county has ever had.

milk production to a total of 174 million pounds. Cheese export to Britain will not fully reach the 150 million pounds asked for by the end of March 1944. Keeping up the cheese export to the needs of the British people is one of the pressing aims of the coming year.

Bacon Export

The marketing of about 7,000,000 hogs and the export of 675,000,000 pounds of bacon to Britain, with the help of $2,000,000 pounds from 1942 production has been an outstanding achievement of the agricultural industry of this country. The contract for 900,000,000 pounds over the next two years at a price of $22.50 per hundredweight A1 Waltherside sides at seaboard is simply a basic amount, Canadian farmers having been urged to send at least 600,000,000 pounds in 1944.

Poultry and Eggs Not Meeting Demand

The poultry conference will be faced by the increasing demand for eggs and poultry. Egg production in 1943 reached the high point of 335,000,000 dozen, and the aim for 1944 is an increase of 10 per cent. The greater portion of the eggs are used domestically but the British Ministry of Food in 1943 asked for 9,000 long tons of dried egg powder the equivalent of 63,000,000 dozen shell eggs and the demand from Britain is certain to continue. Chicken and other fowl production reached a level of about 225,000,000 pounds in 1943, but the demand is higher than this figure. The price of export eggs for Britain was recently set for 1944, in carload lots at Halifax, Quebec and Montreal 35¢, Toronto 35¢, Winnipeg 34½¢, Regina 34¢, Calgary and Edmonton 33½¢ and Vancouver 33¢.

Vegetable Oils

The growth in the production of vegetable oils, which are essentially war products, has continued. Although the acreage of flaxseed is not to reach its 1943 level, it had advanced from an average of 321,650 acres in 1926-40 to 2,947,800 in 1943. Rape seed acreage, which was nothing whatever before the war, reached 4,051 acres in 1943 and the 1944 aim is 10,000. Rape seed is a valuable lubricant for naval equipment. There were 29,000 acres sown to sunflower seed in 1943 and the goal for 1944 is raised to 50,000, while the aim for soybeans next year is 55,100 acres, compared with 50,400 sown in 1943. The farmer does his work without winning the war as that of those fanfare, but his work is as essential in the armed services. He produces supplies as necessary as artillery pieces and bombs. His achievements up to now have been almost phenomenal.

Tom says -
"where's the money coming from?"

"YES, Mrs. Brown, if the Government takes the Light Company over, Tom says where's the money coming from to buy it?"

"There's just one place, says Tom, and that's the people. We'll pay for it, you and me, somehow."

There'll be higher rates or taxes, on something the Government forgot to tax, to get the money.

"They can't pull money out of a hat, says Tom. They'll have to make a 'touch' and we'll be it."

The term "public ownership" of course implies public purchase and that "we the people" supply the necessary funds. The payment of the purchase price may be collected from the public, by various methods, but let us not forget that in the final analysis the public must pay the cost.

Let us think, and think seriously before we decide to relinquish a well-operated, efficient public service to those who have had little or no experience in such things and in addition spend extra money to do it.

Tax Forms Simplified

New T-1 Special Returns Prepared

The man with 1943 income not exceeding $3,000 will find the job of filling out his income tax form a little simpler than he did this year. It was indicated on Wednesday, when copies of the new "T-1 special" form started coming out of the presses.

More complicated forms are required for persons with higher incomes.

The new "T-1 special" is of four pages as before, but the last two pages are devoted wholly to tables showing the tax payable on various incomes by persons having various numbers of dependents.

The essential blank spaces to be filled in by the taxpayer cover two pages whereas in the 1942 forms all went on the first page and a half, with part of the second page containing the first part of the tax tables.

The order of the questions is changed somewhat and they are broken down into greater detail this year. Where there were 14 main questions, each with a number of sub-questions, in last year's form there are 17 main questions this year.

No Remission

A factor which caused some taxpayers confusion this year—the remission of 50 per cent of the tax—as-yet-earned pay is not present this year. That in itself leads to simplification.

In the table of tax rates are 13 columns covering every situation from "single with no dependents" to "married with eight dependents."

The new form puts the classification in print at the top of the column of taxes payable whereas the old form simply used an identifying letter—"A," "B," "C" and so on—and referred the taxpayer to a key for interpretation.

Where the tax rates are unchanged, the Federal budget is unchanged from last year except for the 10 per cent remission. A single person with no dependents and the minimum taxable income of $600 to $670 pays $2 in fixed tax, and $2 addition in compulsory savings if he has no allowable deductions.

Where the tax columns last year listed the first total potential tax, the fixed tax and the compulsory savings together and later the compulsory savings the new form gives the fixed tax and the compulsory savings.

Another Change

Where this year's form gave in two columns the total potential tax payable (graduated tax and compulsory savings) but no total of the two.

Paypayers are allowed to credit premiums on life insurance policies and annuities and principal payments on mortgages on their homes as voluntary savings which is returnable after the war.

Towels

If the family is large and you wish to keep bath towels separate, attach each towel to a spring clothespin. They can be made to look attractive by enameling and initialing each pin.
