QUEBEC, MONDAY, OCT. 27, 1890.

WELCOME TO THE COUNT OF PARIS.

To-day the COMTE DE PARIS, the Duc d'Orleans, his son, the MARQUIS DE LAS-TEYRIE, the Duc d'UZZE, the Count d'HAUSONVILLE, Col. de PAREVAL, Captain MORHAIN and Dr. ROCHAMBER will arrive in town by the C. P. R. train from Montreal. They will be received at the station by the Mayor of Quebec, a committee of prominent citizens, a delegation from the St. Jean Baptiste Society, and members of the Pontifical Zouaves. After an address from the citizens, which will be read by Mayor FREMONT, and the reply by His Royal Highness, the whole party will embark in carriages and drive to the St. Louis Hotel, where a suite of 16 rooms has been taken for the distinguished guests.
During their stay here, the COMTE DE PARIS and his friends, will find their time pretty well occupied. The programme includes a drive around the city and its environs, a visit to Laval University, a trip to Montmorency Falls, and a peep at the Citadel. The Count will also accept of an address from the Pontifical Zouaves, in whose fortunes, through Gen. CHABRETTE, he has always manifested a friendly and absorbing interest. The President and members of the Garrison Club of this city, recognizing in the Prince of the House of Orleans, a distinguished and chivalrous soldier, promptly tendered him a banquet in their rooms, for this evening. The Lieutenant-Governor, however, rather forestalled the Club in this instance, and the Count and his suite, were reluctantly con-pelled to decline the Club's hospitality.

They have accepted Mr. Aube's invitation, and will dine with the Chief Magistrate of the Province, this evening at 8 o'clock. To meet our visitors, His Honor has invited quite a number of gentlemen, including members of the Government in town, Judges, military men and others.
To-morrow, the Count's time will be fully taken up in driving and in visiting various institutions. In the evening, he will attend the banquet, tendered him by the citizens of Quebec, at the St. Louis Hotel. It is expected that fully one hundred and fifty gentlemen will be present. The dinner will be given in Mr. RUSSELL's best style, and the Dinner Committee report that the cards are selling rapidly. The Mayor, who presides, will propose the health of "THE QUEEN," and that of "Our Guest." After the Count has replied to the sentiment, Mr. Justice ROUTHIER will propose "La France," which will be responded to by one of His Royal Highness's suite, who, in turn, we understand, will propose "Canada," to be answered by Mr.
CHAPUIS and Dr. STEWART. That will comprise the list of official toasts. There may be a voluntary toast or two afterwards. The general wish is, that ladies may be able to attend after dinner, to hear the speeches, and, of course, to see the honored guests of the evening. If Mr.
RUSSELL has the room, we feel sure that he will make an effort to accommodate the fair sex in this regard.

Everyone, irrespective of race or political opinion, will be proud to welcome to the Ancient Capital, a man who has played so important, and so conspicuous a role, in the history of Europe. The COMTE DE PARIS comes to us as the head of a great historic and royal house. He comes to us as a soldier who has served his apprenticeship on the field of battle. He comes to us as an author of high repute, the faithful historian of one of the most marvellous wars of modern times, and an essayist of brilliant and scholarly attainments. He comes to us as a man, who is worthy in every way of the highest honours that we may pay to one who has made his mark in the world of politics, of statecraft, of letters and of war.

WANTED, A STEAM CRUISER.

Smuggling, under our very eyes, seems to be prosecuted with great vigor here, nowadays. Hardly a week passes without our hearing of the seizure of hundreds of packages of whiskey and other liquors, by the Customs officers. In view of this, would it not be a good plan for the Government to call in the services of a fast steam cruiser?

LOTTERIES.

The Montreal lottery concern is flooding in defiance of the postal law, all parts of this Province with their circulars. These are sent through the mails to addresses which, we presume, are ascertained from the directories. It is a pity that the lottery managers could not be reached and punished. Only the other day, they had the nerve to ask the CHRONICLE its rates for advertising. Of course, we informed them that we do not, on any account, insert advertisements of that character in our columns.

the Comte de Paris yesterday upon his arrival at Three Rivers. He was met, at the station, by three snow-shoe clubs with bands of music, and was accorded an enthusiastic reception.

Swimmers at Bridgeport.

EX-CONSUL AND MRS. DOWNS ENTERTAIN QUEBEC VISITORS AT THEIR HOME.

We take the following from the Bridgeport, Connecticut, new column in the New York World of Sunday last:—

"Monday evening Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Downs gave a 'progressive' supper party at the residence of Mr. J. M. Stocking, wife of the Vice-Consul at Quebec, and Mrs. Rinfret, wife of Dr. Rinfret, of Quebec. Both ladies were very charming. The house was prettily decorated with flowers, the prizes valuable and the supper included a number of Canadian delicacies. It was an epicurean dinner, such as might be expected from such a noble-hearted and genial-tempered host, used as he has been of late years to entertain as the United States Consul at Quebec.

The appointments of the ladies are luxurious, and the becoming toilets of the guests made this first card party of the season a notable affair. A large number of invitations were extended. Among the guests were Col. and Mrs. William H. Stevenson, Dr. and Mrs. Russell T. Bishop, Mr. and Mrs. James Anger, Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Calhoun, Mr. and Mrs. John D. Whitney, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Lyon, Dr. and Mrs. Clinton Hoag, Mr. and Mrs. George Noble, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Shaw, Mr. and Mrs. E. Carmley, George Baldwin, Judge and Mrs. Morris Beardley, Miss Benedict, of New York; Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Bartram, Mr. and Mrs.
William E. Seelye, Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Perry, Mr. and Mrs. George Latham, Mrs. Bourke, Brooklyn; Mrs. Daniel Davenport, Mr. and Mrs. Frank M. Wilson and Mr. and Mrs. J. H.
Sterling.

More Liberal Suits.

It is reported that Senator Lacoste and Mr. T. C. Casgrain are instituting civil actions of damages against L'Eclateur for an article published in its issue of Saturday last, commenting upon the cross-examination of the witness of the Hospital of the Sacred Cross against the Herault estate. L'Eclateur's article relates that Mr. Casgrain insisted upon the Cardinal replying to the question whether he had compelled the Nuns to institute the present proceedings, and after a consultation with Messrs. Lacoste and Irvine, applied to the Court to compel His Emminence to answer. L'Eclateur goes on to say that only for the decision of the Court that His Eminence was not compelled to answer, the decision of Messrs.

Casgrain and Lacoste could have had but one issue, namely the condemnation of the Cardinal to a fine or to imprisonment, for contempt of Court. "And thus," continues the article in question, "we would have had the extraordinary spectacle of a prince of the Church sent to prison, or even to the gallows, for the sake of chiefly: Messrs. Lacoste and Casgrain." The article concludes by the statement that for thirty years past, the party of which Messrs.
Lacoste and Casgrain are chiefs, has traded on religious prejudices, and has accused its political critics of being the enemies of the Church and the clergy. "Now that it can no longer continue to trade upon the influence of the clergy and the religious sentiments of the population, says L'Eclateur, this party throws off the mask and exposes the shallowness of its sentiments of respect towards the clergy by attempting to send to prison a prince of the Church.

The above are the salient points of the article upon which action is threatened by Messrs. Lacoste and Casgrain.

Mr. Justice Andrews and "L'Eclateur."

On Saturday morning, the "L'Eclateur" under the heading "A remarkable judicial interference," Counsel endeavor to send Tachereau to jail—Great sensation in the City," accused the attorneys for the defendants in the case of the Sacred Heart Hospital of M. de Renard, of threatening Cardinal Tachereau, a witness in the case, with imprisonment if he refused to answer a question which was put to him.

When the Court opened on Saturday morning, Messrs. Irvine, Lacoste and Casgrain called the Judge's attention to the contents of the article in question, and the other side, Hon. F. Langellier and Mr.
Bedard to disown any complicity in the publication of the article. Mr. Bedard said he was not the author of the article and for the present would not say whether he approved or disapproved of it. It was not made quite clear from Hon. Mr. Langellier's remarks whether he approved or disapproved either.

Mr. Justice Andrews then expressed himself as follows:—

"After hearing what has been said I have nothing further to add in this matter than to express my extreme disapprobation, not only of this article in L'Eclateur, but also of the article which appeared in the Canadian and of all articles which in any way touch the proceedings in a case pending before a Court of Justice.

Having said so much, I am extremely sorry to have also to express my entire disapprobation of the course taken by the counsel for the plaintiffs, in not at once stating frankly that they are not the authors of the article in L'Eclateur and in not at once repudi-ating and disavowing of it. How any man wearing the gown which we are all proud to wear, can say that the publication of such an article is not a thing tending to the destruction of that which is the glory of our profession, and which was the glory of it when men lost their heads in the revolution of France, how any man can say that an article which tends to destroy the independence of the Bar, is an article with regard to which it may be said, as a member of the Bar, nothing approves or disapproves, I cannot understand.

"This article is reprehensible to the last degree. The article desires to make political capital, the prejudice of the gentlemen, well, I am glad to say, are able to do their duty, and have done nothing but their duty.
I can say that they have done it in an extremely delicate manner, and they would have been recent to their profession if they had not done it.

"There is no right to assume that His Eminence if he had ordered him to answer would not have acquiesced in that decision and given an answer, or perhaps he would have given further reasons that the order would not be given. I, for my part, if I had thought the order should have been given, no matter who was before me, whether it was the Governor-General or His Eminence, I would have given the order.
If I had thought the order required it, and I myself would have been recent to the gown, I would have given the order.
It was because I thought that it was an order, which, if I gave, there would be great doubts that I would be giving an order which law and justice would have sanctioned. I therefore declined.

"I do not know whether this matter will go further, but I have expressed the sentiments which I feel and feel to the utmost extent of what I expressed them.

Seal Fishing in Behring Sea.

VICTORIA, B. C., Oct. 25.—The total catch of the twenty-seven schooners that left Victoria this year for Behring Sea and Northwest coast was 39,516, making about a value of $404,000. This amount exceeds that of last year, though the conditions are the same, on account of the rise in the price of skins.
The reason for the advance is the competition of the New Alaska Fur Company, which naturally wishes to get the monopoly of trade.
This, however, the numerous private and wealthy dealers will not allow them to do, and they quote the price as follows:— The captains of the vessels affirm that the seals were more numerous this season than ever before, and that the rumors about the depletion of the seal industry are entirely malicious lies promulgated by hirelings of the Alaska Company in order to force on the American Government some strong reason for excluding the small vessels from the sea.
It is quite true that this year seals were found in different localities from those of last year, but they also shifted their position in 1884 and 1887. This is owing to depositions made among fish by the seals, which have continually to change their feeding grounds.
The seal follow immense shoals of cod and halibut, which they ferret out of favorite spots.

Sealing men say the position of affairs remains unchanged. No boats have been molested this season.

"We engaged in the trade," said Captain Cox, a well known sealer, "have satisfied the British Government thoroughly that every statement made by us is true, and in the manner which we kill seals is utterly false. We have proved the American statistics on the subject to be unreliable.

"Finally, the American authority, puts the increase of seals every year at 5,500,000, and claims that one seal out of every ten shot by sealers is lost. The total catch of all sealers this year, American and English, was under seventy thousand.

"Giving him his one in every ten will bring the total killing up to under eighty thousand exclusive of the Alaska Company's hundred thousand, which are all killed on shore, and in the face of his own statement there remains an increase after all the killing of over five million seals every year."

Soldiers Must Learn to Swim.

Swimming exercises, it is believed to have been decided, are in future to form part of the army training, a step taken as a result of a few exhibitions of swimming made during the recent cavalry manoeuvres in Berkshire.
When the manoeuvres were originally arranged it was decided that swimming should be an optional feature of them, but this portion of the programme was abandoned. However, a few troopers and several officers attempted to cross the Thames at Moulford, a few miles from the Churn Camp, but it was found that but a small minority were able to sustain themselves in a tolerable swift current, and the horses were almost panic-stricken by the sight of the men in the water.
The sequel, it is trusted, will be the establishment of swimming schools in the army, both for horses and men. The Commander-in-Chief is known to greatly value the idea of training the people in swimming, and the only wonder is that such a necessary portion of a soldier's education should have been so long neglected, and that army horses should not also have been properly trained in this respect.—United Service Gazette.

The Deadly Cold Bed.

If trustworthy statistics could be had of the number of persons who die every year or become permanently diseased from sleeping in damp or cold beds, they would probably be as startling as the statistics of the pestilence that constantly besets travelling men, and if they are wise they will invariably insist on having their beds aired and dried, even at the risk of losing the money they have paid for the beds, and the people living in landlords. But the peril resides in the home, and the cold spare room has slain its thousands of hapless guests, and will go on with its slaughter till people learn wisdom.
Not only the guests, but the family, often suffer the penalty of sleeping in cold rooms, and chilling their bodies by getting between cold sheets. Even in warm summer weather a cold, damp bed will get in its deadly work.

LISTS REJECTED.Commencement of the Simard into the Court, so that he might be able to call the lists were in force in the event of the new lists being irregular.Judge Boase said the difficulty was for-sented by the all the judges of the Queen's Bench, who agreed that the old lists were good.Mr. Fitzpatrick, after consultation with Messrs. Bell, O. and L. L. L., moved that who are with him for the defence, argued that it was of the utmost importance that the lists should be brought into Court, and them at once.Counsel for the accused asked till two o'clock to examine the lists, which, not being out of the Court, was granted.

of the Court, Judge Boase discharged the motion of Mr. Fitzpatrick respecting the jury lists.The case of Simard, in favor of La Bonne
