WESTMOUNT, FRIDAY, APRIL 29, 1938

PRICE: TWO CENTS

WORK ON $100,000 APARTMENT HOUSE STARTED

3-Storey Structure To Have 25 Suites: Ready By Sept. 15

Project On East Side of Clarke Avenue Between Western and Sherbrooke Streets Represents Last Word in Modern Design — Basement Houses 20 Autos — Extra Precaution Taken Against Fire Hazards

With the approach of warmer weather, building activity in Westmount promises to gain added impetus in the announcement of the construction of a $100,000 apartment house on the east side of Clarke avenue, between Western and Sherbrooke streets.

The building consisting of three stories and a large basement will represent the last word in modern design and beauty, special emphasis placed on safeguards against fire and explosion. All of the material to be placed in the building has undergone rigid inspection and every possible step will be taken to provide comfort and health to the tenants, according to Eliasoph and Greenspon, the architects of 1403 Bleury street.

Session Held By Business Executives

Association Reports Progress in Welfare of Merchants—Robson Stresses Aim of Group

Plans for the welfare of Westmount merchants were advanced another step with a meeting Monday night of the new formed executive of the Westmount Business Association.

The association reported considerable progress in a "Shop in Westmount First" campaign during a lengthy discussion on the welfare of the merchants of the city of Westmount. The association has been in existence only two months.

W. Boyd Robson, president, emphasized that the aim of the association is "a sincere effort on the part of the business people of Westmount to better business conditions in their own city." He again stressed the necessity of increasing the membership of the association and creating wider interest in Westmount merchandise.

Mr. Robson also announced that another meeting of the group will be held next Tuesday night and that every member of the association will shortly be given a place on one of the eight committees. Membership of the association has almost reached the 100 mark.

Members of the executive include: W. Boyd Robson, A. Ross Grafton, R. E. Parker, N. Clement, Eric Ohman, C. A. James, Charles Watson, Alex. Maitland, J. A. Gagnon, J. H. Bradner, sr., John Smithers and P. L. Golden.

Youth Problems Dr. Kerr's Subject

"Moral Vagaries in Modern Youth" will be the topic of Dr. F. W. Kerr, pastor of St. Andrew's Church on Sunday night.

"Are young folks justified today in casting aside the moral conventions that have stood the test of time?" Dr. Kerr asks. "Are they right in throwing jauntily overboard the ancient, outworn, puritanic traditions of right and wrong?"

Dr. Kerr will deal with such questions as asked by the young folks of today.

Mr. Cavey, who has just returned from an extensive tour of

The structure will contain 25 suites and is expected to be ready for occupancy by September 15. Excavation has been completed and work on the foundation and basement is rapidly taking form.

A feature of the structure will be two long bay windows consisting of glass brick extending from the top of the building to the ground, insuring additional light and beauty of design.

A cement slab to be placed over the ground floor will afford double protection against fire or any kind of explosion in the basement and prevent cracking of the building.

Two pent houses will be another outstanding feature of the structure, each containing ample room, equipped with the latest built-in features and so situated as to command a complete view of the country for miles distant. They will also be so constructed as to insure ample warmth in the winter.

A servant's staircase will be constructed inside of the building providing convenient entrance to each apartment.

The apartment house will have a dual color tone, light buff and dark chocolate. The entrance is to be constructed of artificial stone with the mouldings made of stainless steel. A large reception room and vestibule will also be an added attraction for tenants demanding beauty and comfort.

An iron staircase will afford easy entrance to the three floors. The basement doubly reinforced against dampness, will provide ample parking space for twenty autos.

The owner-builders are Kahan and Nathan, 810 Hartland avenue, Outremont and the associate architect is Maxwell M. Kalman, 630 Dorchester street west.

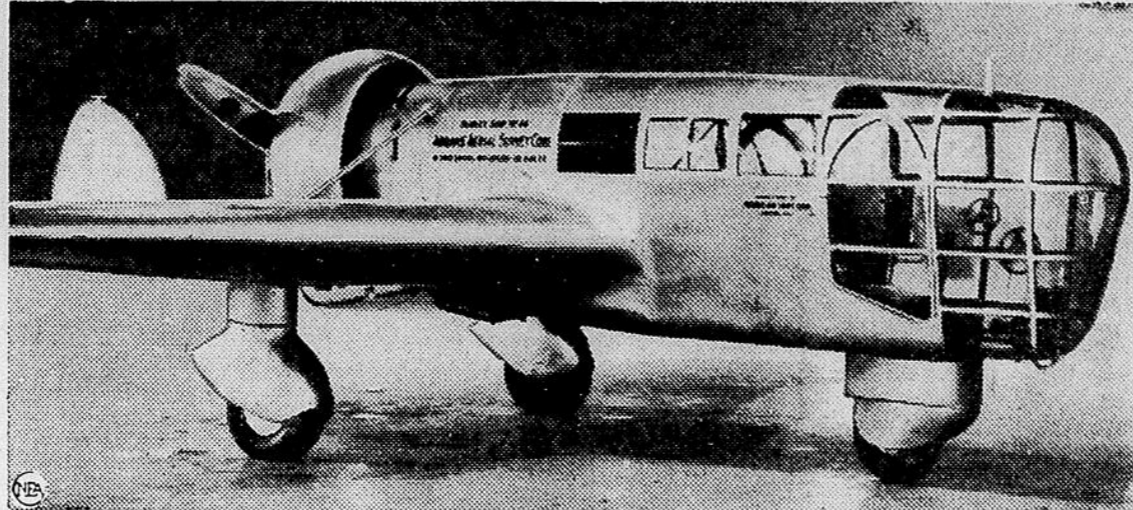

Wesley Termed Britain Saviour

The Rev. Dr. W. O. Mulligan, in his sermon at Melville Presbyterian Church, quoted historians to show that John Wesley, founder of Methodism, had saved England from revolution.

From the work of this one man arose in a century a body of Christians numbering 25,000,000. Dr. Mulligan explained, citing the tremendous obstacles which John Wesley overcame.

In an age when totalitarianism was rampant the importance of the individual brought out in the story of John Wesley was well worth noting in the year of the anniversary of the conversion of the great English leader, Dr. Mulligan concluded.

PROVIDING A BIRD'S-EYE VIEW FROM FOUR MILES UP

If there's anything to see up in the sub-stratosphere, the pilots of the unique strato-plane pictured above certainly should be able to get a good look. That glass-enclosed portion is in the nose of the plane, which is driven at 200-mile-an-hour speed by a pusher propeller mounted in the rear. The ship, exhibited at the International Air Show in Chicago, is designed to fly at about 21,000 feet, and is equipped with mechanism to maintain sea-level oxygen content in the cabin, even in rarified atmosphere.

Hospitals Get Stiff Edict On Accidents

Delay in Reporting Fatal Fall of Patient From Window Brings Warning From Coroner

Coroner Prince has warned officials of the Women's General Hospital that unless they report all fatalities promptly to the police and morgue in the future they would find themselves in trouble.

The coroner's warning followed the death of Mrs. Gerald Giroux, 32, 2024 Cabot street, who was fatally injured in a fall from a third storey window of the hospital at 9:10 o'clock last Friday night. Morgue officials only learned of the accident at 3 o'clock Saturday morning.

Captain Jones of the Westmount Police Department, in a written report presented at the inquest said that he learned of the accident from a newspaperman at 11:55 o'clock Friday night. He explained that when he inquired at the hospital for information they refused at first to give him any.

He learned that Mrs. Giroux was still alive. She succumbed at 1:10 o'clock Saturday morning and he succeeded in getting a complete report of the mishap at 3:45 a.m. A verdict of accidental death was rendered.

Coroner Prince reminded the hospital officials that they were not following the legal procedure of other hospitals in the city and that unless they did so serious consequences might result.

It was reported by nurses Taylor and Murray that Mrs. Giroux had been operated on for tonsillitis and that she was subject to fainting and hysterical spells. On Friday night she suffered an attack and they kept her under observation until 9:10 when she seemed to be resting. At 9:30 o'clock they learned Mrs. Giroux had fallen from the window of her room.

Lauds Police, Firemen At Annual Show

Armory Audience Accords High Praise For Physical Prowess of Departments — Long Training Ends

A demonstration of rhythm, grace and military perfection was exhibited to the citizens of Westmount Tuesday night by the police and fire departments at the Royal Montreal Regiment armory on St. Catherine Street, West.

The exhibition marked the end of eight months training of one hour daily, two days out of each week, and was presented before an enthusiastic throng.

The program with an inspection of policemen and firemen by Mayor John Jenkins and Alderman W. B. Scott, K.C., Commissioner of the Departments, followed by an intricate foot drill in which the policemen and firemen showed the results of long and careful training.

The armory was then darkened for the mass march of the policemen and firemen carrying red, white and blue electric torches. The white athletic shirts and white trousers worn by the men afforded a splendid contrast against the reflections of the torches and their snappy strides added increased interest to the demonstration.

The mass trot which followed brought repeated applause for in this exhibition the participants showed their almost endless supply of energy during the long period in which they performed one difficult feat after another.

The first aid demonstration under supervision of Sydney S. Bardsley, instructor, St. John Ambulance Association, represented the last word in perfection of health care.

An auto was parked in the center of the Armory and the exhibition (Continued on Page 3)

West Indies History Told

Magazine Editor Depicts Romance of Islands in Address to King's Home Association

"Romance and History of the West Indies," was the topic discussed by H. C. Collier, secretary and editor of the Canada West Indies magazine at the monthly meeting of the King's Home and School Association held at the school Tuesday night.

He outlined the history of Bermuda, the Bahamas, St. Kitts, Barbados and Jamaica. His description of them as modern islands of beauty was made even more alive by colored motion pictures.

Mrs. Lynn made an appeal for clothing to be sent to the school in Saskatchewan for which the bridge party was held in February. The teacher there has written that the people in the district are 100 per cent on relief.

The nominating committee composed of Mrs. E. B. Charters, Mrs. A. W. Lynn and Miss Dodds was appointed to present a slate of officers for the coming year at the annual meeting to be held in May.

At this time of spring moving, when householders are anxious to reach their new quarters, it is timely to offer a word of warning in connection with the movement of the family gas range.

Quite often it is the practice of householders to take upon themselves the task of disconnecting the gas range, entailing as it does the danger to themselves and neighbors. It should be pointed out that undertaking of this job by householders themselves is strictly against the law, and that a licensed plumber should be called.

Bulloch Assails Lax Government, Sees Tax Boost

M. L. A. For Westmount Tells Accountants "Multiple Levies Retard Growth of Country" — Opposes Control of Business—Believes Collective Labour Agreements Should be Watched to Safeguard Against Employment Lessening

One of the major problems facing Canada today is "Government Inefficiency" which means increased debt and higher taxes," W. Ross Bulloch, M.L.A., for Westmount, told members of the General Accountants Association, Montreal branch, and their guests at a dinner in the Queen's Hotel Monday night.

"There is no government, federal, provincial or municipal, which can conduct a business as economically or as efficiently as private enterprise can do it," Mr. Bulloch said in discussing the proposal that governments should take over certain private institutions.

He declared that in the depression of 1929 the debacle would have been far greater, had it not been for "big business" and the banks. "The strength and soundness of these institutions contributed in no small way to the fact that Canada came out of that depression as well as she did," Mr. Bulloch added.

Discussing collective labor agreements, Mr. Bulloch praised their objects but believed that their efforts "must be watched carefully to safeguard against any lessening in employment where the object is to increase it."

Mr. Bulloch attacked "multiple taxation which prevents the country from developing as it should" and "regulatory legislation which retards business." Free trade is retarded, mitigating against the provinces and the country, by those who would put "stone walls" around small areas to keep out business, yet seek to do business outside their own stone walls.

There is only room for democracy in Canada, he contended, in explaining that fascism, communism and all the other "isms" look alike to him.

Mr. Bulloch regretted the "friction" between the provincial governments and the federal authorities.

From the viewpoint of the businessman, Canada has developed "far in advance of what it should have done," considering its population, and this has been partly responsible for the unemployment situation.

The banquet marked the silver jubilee of the association which was attended by business and financial leaders of the city as well as executives of the Dominion association and of sister organizations.

The Rev. T. W. Jones, pastor of the church opened the banquet with the pronouncement of grace, followed by a supper prepared by the ladies of the church. A vote of appreciation was made by David Sargentto for his excellent work.

Eric Reid then led a sing song accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Hay Finlay. A toast to the King was proposed by Colin McClelland which was followed by the National Anthem. Lennox Craig then moved a toast to the church which was responded to by F. N. Stephen, Sunday School superintendent who remarked on the excellent work which the club had done in the church. A motion of thanks to the speaker of the evening was made by Norman Marshall on behalf of those present.

Among other guests present were Alex Hasley, A. H. Vallance, Norman Rowell, Thomas Kirk, president of the Montreal Presbytery and Don Burton, Boys' Work secretary of the R.E.C.

Kenneth Green, secretary, presented his annual report which covered all activities of the club under the various committees. The report showed the club enjoyed a very successful year. A vote of thanks was made by the Mentor, Hay Finlay on behalf of the members to the executive for their work during the past year.

The executive for the season 1937-38 are as follows: Hay Finlay, mentor; Victor G. Baker, president; Norman Marshall, vice-president; Kenneth Green, secretary; Harold Edwards, treasurer.

Hepburn's Sweepstakes Proposal Hit By Pastor

Bitterly assailing Premier Hepburn's policy to recognize the principle of sweepstakes, the Rev. Dr. F. W. Kerr, minister of St. Andrew's, on Sunday declared that his basic reason for opposing them is because they are morally wrong.

The Rev. Kerr said the men who would reap the biggest profit by the Premier's proposal would be the gambling syndicate which would gain control of the sweepstakes. He cited the results of the 20 Irish sweepstakes in which only 16 per cent of the money invested ever reached the hospitals. "The Premier would probably call in experienced racketeers who would know how to appeal to human weakness, to carry on sugar-coated propaganda through the newspapers, giving wide publicity to the winners but never alluding to the hundreds of thousands of suckers," the Rev. Kerr added.

The pastor made an urgent appeal for all Christian people to stand firm by the "moral landmarks" because any nation that trifles with moral foundations is headed for the abyss.

Have Gas Stove Disconnected By Plumber

At this time of spring moving, when householders are anxious to reach their new quarters, it is timely to offer a word of warning in connection with the movement of the family gas range.

Quite often it is the practice of householders to take upon themselves the task of disconnecting the gas range, entailing as it does the danger to themselves and neighbors. MASKS AND MIKES AND THINGS

By JACK HIRSCHBERG

C. B. S. GOES ON

Kilocycles will tingle with added zest these next few days as broadcasters throughout the world join members of associated entertainment crafts in paying tribute to C.B.S.—those three familiar letters which have come to symbolize the finest in radio service.

Almost ceaseless superlative-flinging by screen, stage and radio publicists has only naturally served to harden the listening public. "Terrific," "Sensational," "Gigantic," "Colossal" are today the common property of circus spielers and baseball fan, and have become little more than bromides—hackneyed terms well on their way to disuse.

Columbia is solely an organization for the creation and dissemination of broadcast entertainment. It does not manufacture sets or tubes; neither does it operate commercial telegraph or cable services. It does create programmes, discover talent, keep tab on world events for its listeners and foster research into the secrets of better transmission and better broadcasting.

Foreign departments in Europe and the Orient supervise transmission to America of history in the making—whether that history is made in Vienna, Austria or Szechow, China—and an alert department of education produces hundreds of especially-organized broadcasts yearly at absolutely no cost to any listener anywhere.

And Saturday Columbia inaugurates transmission from its fine new Hollywood home. Only two years ago the network erected elaborate broadcast studios and a chain of radio theatres throughout Los Angeles.

Fittingly enough, dedication of this latest addition to the worldwide network coincides almost exactly with the celebrations attendant upon the birthday of the late Guglielmo Marconi. After all, it is really not so many years ago that the young man, Marconi,

HUNTLEY MARKS SECOND YEAR

Networks Honor Normandie Roof Maestro Friday Evening

National networks will pay an unusual tribute to Lloyd Huntley Friday eve at the stroke of 12 when almost 100 stations across the continent broadcast a special program from the Normandie Roof honouring the popular maestro as he celebrates completion of his second full year at the Mount Royal Hotel. Eras in show business are measured in weeks—and it is indeed an unusual tribute to a dance conductor that after 104 weeks at the same spot his popularity should still be on the upgrade.

Huntley's music is unobtrusive—it grows on you. Extremely danceable, it is nevertheless reserved. Harsh, screeching discords are entirely absent, and yet Huntley harmonies are as modern and swinging as the latest tune from Tin Pan Alley.

Lloyd first leaned toward journalism, but turned his attention toward essays in rhythm while at Colgate University and became leader of the College band. While still an undergrad he organized the "Isle of Blues" orchestra, playing top sorority and fraternity dates on his own and neighbouring campuses. Slowly, journalistic studies faded into insignificance. Huntley majored in melody and organized his orchestra on a permanent basis.

Europe soon beckoned, and Lloyd waved his baton in London and on the Continent, returning to New York as star of the famous Magic Carpet programs for Lucky Strike. Subsequent tours took him through almost every state in the Union, and two years ago he followed Denny Dornberger and Bestor into the Mount Royal Hotel, opening the beautiful Normandie Roof only last June.

Huntley leads one of the most likeable orchestras ever heard locally. Bob Harrington writes most of the danceable arrangements; Larry Clark is assistant conductor; and Dana Brown has slapped the bass with Lloyd since their college days at Colgate. Mike Braegden, piano, and Eric Zimmerman, violin, are two of the most highly-rated men in the business, and Paul Agne plays sax or doubles on violin if necessary. Nate Simon, violin, Ken Thomson, trombone, and Lennox Gordon, guitar, are all keen students of music, and Charlie Parsons is widely-known for his versatility on the drums. A strong vocal team consists of lovely Ann Kincaide and Bill Owens, with added vocals by Johnny McCulloch, tenor sax, and novelty numbers by Don Turner, also a sax man.

MAKING CANADA A Better Place in Which to Live and Work

A Series of Letters from Distinguished Canadians on Vital Problems Affecting the Future Welfare of Canada
Specially Written for Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association

Dear Sir:

I have just received your letter. You are in a position to give a great service to Canada. I was raised on a farm and know the constructive work done by the rural weekly papers. I still read them. These publications, being rural, are read to a greater extent, for the number of copies issued, than any other class of papers.

You have asked me for suggestions, and without giving the matter careful thought, the suggestions that come first to my mind are as follows:

1. To encourage the highest regard for government, for law and the enforcement of law.
2. That you urge the election, to our different government bodies, men and women of the highest character and whose purpose will be to serve the people of this country unselfishly and to the best of their ability. And on the other hand endeavor to break down political organizations which seek to control government for a selfish purpose and not for the benefit of the people at large.
3. To encourage people to be self-supporting and to live within their means, and wherever possible, to accumulate. I see no reason for the extensive dole that seems to exist, not only in our country, but in other countries. There is as good an opportunity today to make a living in Canada as there has been any time in the past. As a matter of fact, I think present conditions are more favorable.

4. That we secure and maintain an export market. Canada is naturally an export country and our success depends largely on our efforts along these lines.
5. To build an export market we must compete in quality, price and service. To compete in price we must have competitive costs, therefore, low costs for the basis of our success.
6. That you encourage a better understanding between the rural and urban districts. Each of these districts are depending on the other. It is only through intelligent planning and close co-operation of rural and city people that we can achieve the best results.
7. That you use your best efforts to eliminate waste, which is ruining this country and has put it into a serious condition through unnecessary debt. The two major sources of waste are the Canadian National Railway and the multiplicity of governments and the un-

More Slang In Dictionary

You can no longer be accused of using slang when you peel off a $100 bill from that fat roll and say: "Here, cabbage head, is a C note."

C note and cabbage head were two expressions which today had found their way into the American English dictionary, being compiled at the University of Chicago by Sir William Craigie, co-editor of the Oxford English dictionary, and Prof. James R. Hulbert.

They said research disclosed the expression C note, derived from the Roman numeral C—100—had been popular in the United States since 1845.

The dictionary's fourth section, to be issued this spring, included these expressions:

In cahoots (in league with).
Take the cake (take the prize).
Cash in one's checks (to die).
On the carpet (to undergo a scolding).

To carry on (behave uproariously).
Cabbage head (A stupid person).

necessary number of people employed by these governments.

Canada must do a better job than she has done in the recent past if we are to meet our obligations and to reduce our taxes and get a greater stability among our people.

Yours very truly,
C. H. Carlisle,
President, Dominion Bank.

Manitoba Woman Lands Big Fish

All records for lake trout were broken when Miss Leone Hayes pulled a fish out of Lake Athapuskow in northern Manitoba. Her catch was 47½ inches long and weighed 63 pounds. The world's record for lake trout up to that time was a fish caught in Quebec. It weighed 48 pounds. The big fish was shown in the Canadian Wilderness Exhibit at the Boston Sportsmen's Show at Detroit before going back to the Manitoba Legislative Building.

TEMPERANCE WORKER DIES

Richard Luther Werry Active Church Worker Goes to Last Rest

In the presence of numerous friends and acquaintances, the funeral service for Richard Luther Werry, for many years identified with temperance work and the Christian brotherhood movement, was held at Tees Chapel Wednesday. He died Tuesday at the Royal Victoria hospital.

A native of Solina, Ont., where he was born in 1864, Mr. Werry went to Bowmanville High School and subsequently attended Victoria College where he studied theology.

Active in Salvation Army, church and temperance work, Mr. Werry was well known in local religious circles. He was closely associated with the old Sherbrooke street Methodist Church, the Royal Templars, the Anti-Alcoholic League, and the Quebec League Against Alcohol. During his residence in Montreal he had been secretary of the Builders' Exchange and Dominion Alliance.

The chief mourners are his widow, formerly Elizabeth Watson whom he married in 1889, and two sons, Royal E. C. Werry, K. C., and Wilfrid W. Werry, M.A., Professor of English at the Montreal Technical School.

Lifeguards Balk Tire Blow-Out Dangers

As summer approaches, blow-out occurrences increase, so Good-year Tire & Rubber Co., is offering to the motorist Goodyear Life-Guards.

The LifeGuard consists of a conventional tube with a reserve tire built of two plies of fabric. The tube and the inner tube are joined together at the base. Air passes from the reserve tire to the outer tube through a single tiny grommet vent. When a tire fails at high speed, air escapes instantly from the conventional tube but escapes from the fabric reserve tire slowly, like a slow leak. This allows the driver ample time to bring his car to a safe stop what speed he may have been traveling.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

"CANDID" BABY PICTURES

No camera-consciousness in this young maestro! Any parent will treasure an album of expressive snaps such as this one.

HAVE you ever thought of taking a series of "candid" or "off-guard" pictures of the baby in his lighter or more active moments, and saving them in a special album entitled "We Knew Him When"?

Any parent who owns a camera can build up a splendid collection of pictures such as this, and, if your baby is like most babies, the same pose or expression will never pop up twice.

A small baby is probably the world's ideal subject for "off-guard" pictures, because he is altogether lacking in camera consciousness. Once he learns that you won't let him chew the corners of the interesting black gadget, or pull the shiny piece of glass out of the front, he dismisses the matter and proceeds to more important things. Thereafter, you can shoot away to your heart's content.

You don't need a high-speed miniature camera to take "candid" pictures of this sort. A speedy lens is helpful, because then you can use higher shutter speeds and catch the youngster when he is trying his skill at somersaults or endeavoring to

Winnipeg Newspaper Pays Tribute To Mrs. A. Fraser

Tribute to Mrs. Arthur M. Fraser, who died at her home, Chequers Court, 3055 Sherbrooke street west, just one month after her diamond wedding anniversary, was paid in a recent article appearing in the Winnipeg Tribune.

Prior to coming to Westmount, about nine years ago, Mrs. Fraser was a resident of Winnipeg.

Mr. and Mrs. Fraser celebrated their diamond wedding anniversary at their Westmount home on March 19. Just one month later, on April 18, Mrs. Fraser passed away. Funeral services were held in Winnipeg on Friday of last week.

Mrs. Fraser is survived by her husband, one son, Capt. James Gordon Fraser, O.B.E., R.N., now on his way home to England from Malaya, and five daughters.

One daughter, Miss Blanche M. Fraser, arrived from England on the Duchess of Bedford, twenty-four hours before her mother's death.

Mr. and Mrs. Fraser were for thirty years resident of Winnipeg. Ten years ago they left the West and travelled to England, returning there for a year, and then coming to Westmount.

The article in the Winnipeg Tribune follows:
"A very elect lady passes, full of years and full of honor, in the person of Mrs. A. M. Fraser. For thirty or more years she was in Winnipeg and for the last ten in Montreal.

"A large circle of friends in both cities have lost a friend. Church, missions, temperance, the Y.W.C.A. and The Traveller's Aid were her deep interests, and the poor always found in her a friend indeed.

"I saw her last August the first, the day I landed in Montreal on my way home after a long visit to England, attending the coronation of our young King George VI and Queen Elizabeth. How keen was her interest in the great events and personalities? She looked so well and so young. It did not seem possible that she had passed well on the road of an octogenarian. How sweet she had kept, and what a wonderful spirit was hers. In parting we promised a longer visit next time. What a privilege it was to know Mrs. Fraser—gentle and quiet in spirit, yet strong and resolute. You instinctively felt the secret of her strength was her communion with higher power.

"What memories are recalled now? It seems but yesterday her keen interest in the great Yukon trek of '98, when men of all conditions and ages mushed through the unknown wastes of our country—in search of gold. How she rejoiced that the churches followed closely on their trail, send-

Pastor Praises England Laws

Legislative Relief and Religious Steps Reviewed by the Rev. T. W. Jones

England has set the pace with legislation governing old age pensions and jobless allowances, in the opinion of the Rev. T. W. Jones, D.D., who analyzed conditions in the Mother Country during his sermon late last week at Calvary United Church.

The occasion was a St. George's Day sermon in which Rev. Jones traced the debt owed England from a religious standpoint. He discussed at length the work performed by the great leaders of the Reformation and of the missions and their duties.

The fight against slavery occupied a considerable portion of the Rev. Jones' sermon when he discussed in full the causes sponsored by Wilberforce, Bernardo, Booth and Howard.

In this connection the Rev. Jones emphasized the spirit of the open fireplace with its peace and goodwill and its freedom which is found throughout England. He declared that the world would do well to copy this spirit during these troubled times of wars and business recessions.

In discussing the importance of St. George's Day, the Rev. Jones pointed out that it was proper that upon the occasion of the festival of England's patron saint the debt owed England should be remembered.

"We must then set ourselves to face the implication of that indebtedness in terms of loyal service for our race and for humanity," the Rev. Jones added.

He explained that since the barons of Old England wrested the Magna Charta from King John, the spirit of freedom had been held aloft, adding that possibly the richest heritage was the love of home life as typified by the cottages of England.

Lauds Police, Firemen

bition was carried out in every detail. It was a re-enactment of an accident which occurred on the streets of Montreal some months ago. A first aid team of four men were returning from a competition, carrying their complete equipment consisting of splints, bandages, dressing, stretcher, and blanket notice an auto skid on the slipper road at a street car stop. A lady who had just left the street car saw another auto approach and in trying to avoid being hit she slipped and fell under the auto. The first aid team then went through the process of administering treatment preparatory to her removal to a hospital.

The physical training exhibition which appeared next on the program included walking on the toes, skipping stiff legged and setting up exercise.

An unarmed attack and defence terminated by radio car demonstration was another highlight on the program. In this exhibition two police radio cars and a police motorcycle was used in addition to patrolmen. Four policemen and firemen assumed the roles of ruffians. They refused to move on at the order of a patrolman, but police ju-jitsu methods soon brought an end to their antagonistic attitude and they were bundled off to the police station.

An Indian club swinging exhibition also won the admiration of the audience. In the tug of war the policemen pitted their strength against the firemen with the Royal Montreal Regiment Cup as the stake. The policemen won in two straight pulls. The cup was presented by Lieut.-Colonel J. E. Slessor, E.D.

The program was brought to a close with remarks by Mayor Jenkins in which he expressed high praise for the efficiency of the policemen and firemen. Lieutenant A. Reubens, instructor for the departments also was accorded deep appreciation.

Hundreds Of Thousands Of Milk Bottles Lost Yearly

More than 100,000 milk bottles are lost in Montreal every year—they just disappear, and the cost to the dairies is tremendous.

It is known that thousands of milk bottles are thrown in the garbage and find their way to the city dump where they are destroyed.

Other thousands drift into regular domestic service, housewives using them to hold molasses, maple syrup, preserves, pickles, etc.

It is contravention of the Federal statutes for anyone to use milk bottles for any other purpose than as a milk container, but people go on using them for other purposes and will continue to do so until the milk dealers invoke the law and take action against offenders.

Many empty bottles are carelessly left lying around the house, in cupboards, in the cellar, and even in the garage. Thus they disappear from the milk round and the dairies are forced to replace them with new ones.

In an effort to wage war against this useless wastage the Hundred of milk dealers are launching a campaign to urge the householders of Montreal to search out all milk bottles and to get rid of them by putting them out at the front door, where their milkman can pick them up and return them to the rightful owners.

Memorial services were held in memory of the late Mrs. W. D. Reid, honorary president and past president of the Women's Missionary Society of Stanley Presbyterian church, on Tuesday afternoon in Franklin hall memorial.

Mrs. Owen R. Campbell was the speaker. Scripture readings and prayers were read by Miss C. E. the soloist. The resolution of sympathy was read by Mrs. W. J. Fowler.

All regular business was postponed for this service and will be taken up at the next meeting.

Are Organizing Singing Classes

New classes of singing are now being organized at the McGill Conservatorium of Music under the direction of Victor Brault, in connection with an "Hour of Opera" to be given during the summer session. The repertoire to be studied includes Gounod's "Faust," Ambrose Thomas' "Mignon," and Offenbach's "Tales of Hoffman."

To further encourage the studying of opera at the Conservatorium, Mr. Brault is offering, besides two vocal scholarships, a prize for opera singing, entitling the winner to one year's tuition at the Conservatorium.

FEMINA CAMPAIGN

Femina, the League for Women's Rights, is presently conducting its annual campaign for funds, with which educational work is to be carried on throughout the province during the coming year. The League, headed by Mrs. Pierre Casgrain, has for many years been working to obtain the franchise for women in Quebec, but without success. The Taschereau regime turned the proposition down repeatedly, holding that political equality was too advanced for the good of the province as a whole, and this is one point on which the Duplessis regime apparently agrees with the former government. The women of Quebec have a hard path ahead, with little in the way of encouragement other than the support of fair-minded, free-thinking citizens; but with the continuance of that support they intend to carry on; and eventually they will win. If you believe in better government; if you believe in better education for Quebec children; if you believe in better health laws, support the League for Women's Rights, for in every country where women have been given political and civil equality the educational and health laws have been improved and enforced, and government has been vastly cleaner. Full information relative to the present drive may be obtained at the League office, Room 22, Windsor Hotel.

THE SEASON OF HOPE

How come that people feel more courage in the spring of the year than at any other time? Somehow the time when birds are returning with their cheerful songs, when the trees are budding and spring flowers lift their colorful heads, conveys the thought that life is going to be brighter. The mountains to be crossed don't seem so high, the rivers to be forded so deep. The human spirit feels more buoyant, so that many new undertakings are attempted. Alfred Tennyson said that in the spring the young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of love. The popularity of June as a wedding month may be partly due to the hopeful feeling of spring. The young people who fall in love in the winter may see their courage grow as the spring months blossom out, so that they decide to test their fates on the treading sea of matrimony. The business man also feels more hope in the spring. In a period when things are growing it looks to him as if trade should expand. The world seems on the up-grade, and he feels that now is the time to attach himself to this movement and share its benefits. The season of hope is to be welcomed with a grand cheer. Fear makes no conquests and climbs no heights. Hope is sometimes too sanguine, but when tempered by judgment and experience, it is the force that carries us over all the deserts, through all the storms, and finally brings us to the quiet peace of achievement.

MAKING CANADA A BETTER PLACE

Last year, publishers of weekly newspapers across Canada honoured George W. James of The Bowmanville Statesman with the presidency of the Canadian Weekly Newspaper Association. In keeping with his desire to give constructive leadership to this organization and to be of service to it as well as Canada as a whole, he wrote to two score of the Dominion's leaders in government, religion, education, industry, finance, and business. In each case he sought their opinions as to Canada's greatest needs and the manner in which these needs should be met. To each he put just one question: "What can the editors of weekly newspapers do to make Canada a better place in which to live and work?" The replies of these distinguished gentlemen have been studied since by the editorial committee of the association. Journalists all over Canada have hailed these answers as a most constructive contribution toward the solution of many of the country's present day problems.

Commencing on this page this issue we are publishing each week one of these letters. We believe that our readers will see in these letters the tremendous value that others have seen in them. The Canadian Printer and Publisher, Toronto, a trade magazine, describes these letters as "valuable documents of authoritative observation." That, in truth is what they are, for they are written by men who are leaders in their own particular sphere of activity, successful men who have risen to the top by the force of their own ability and personality.

The subjects dealt with include the conduct of government, politics, religion, trade and commerce, social problems, unemployment, problems of the home, education, health, insurance and other matters of national and individual importance.

In presenting them to our readers, we do so with the thought in mind that every Canadian should be vitally interested in the solution of the great problems that confront us, and we feel that individually we might be better equipped to do our part in bringing about a solution after having perused the letters of these great leaders in the life of our Dominion. The editor will welcome comments from readers on these letters from week to week. Often by free, frank and open discussion many helpful points are brought to the surface not thought of at first, and from people who seldom appear in the limelight.

Westmount Baptist

THE FORUM

In Which Subjects of General Interest Are Discussed

Conducted by HOWARD S. ROSS, K.C.

NOTE:—The opinions expressed in these columns are not necessarily those of this newspaper and it does not accept responsibility for them. They are published for their general interest, variety and originality of treatment.

Dr. W. S. McCann, for the past fifteen years consulting geologist, of London, England, in an address to the members of the Ottawa branch of the Canadian Institute of Mining and Metallurgy said in part:—

"The world is interested in what is going on in Russia. Propaganda was very highly developed in Russia and visitors were confronted with it always, he added. He had been greatly interested in a trip through the Ural Mountains, the treasure house of Russia and the centre of the gold mining industry, but he saw very little gold mining. However, he said he was shown a great deal of iron mining, as well as coal and copper mining."

His impression was that Russia did not want visitors to see too much and visitors were shown only what Russia wanted to display. Apart from the iron industry, which was efficient, the other industries were not efficient and had little to compare in methods and conditions with Canada or other countries. There were no shareholders in mining industries and an industry not making a profit was subsidized by one which was.

"Figures of the gold mining industry in Russia, were subject to challenge. The actual production figures, were a state secret and he believed reports of production as published were falsified. In one district of alluvial mining the dredges were working the gravel, for the third time. This, he said, was very significant from the standpoint of future production. He dealt with other aspects as he saw them. Construction in Leningrad and other big cities, he said, had suddenly ceased and all workers seemed to be going to the building of the Trans-Siberian railway. He also said the asbestos industry in Russia was enormous. He also said there was a shortage of beef, poultry and dairy products in Russia."

Wellington, New Zealand, considers milk a public utility and handles it as such. In 20 years, the price was reduced from 17c to 10c per quart, the farmer was paid 15 percent more for his milk, distributors are paid 15 percent better wages and work shorter hours, and in Wellington a surplus of $38,865.42 was returned to the public treasury.

The U.S.A. Security and Exchange Commission told Congress that investment bankers have no interest in a small business man, whose inability to obtain capital was given as a reason for the failure of recovery to make greater headway.

L. C. Vass, expert on investment, in the commission's research division, made this charge at hearings on legislation sponsored by Senator Claude Pepper (democratic) of Florida, establishing a system of regional banks (it is proposed) would be under the direction of the government, operating with capital advanced by the Federal treasury.

Every day the U.S.A. Weather Bureau sends 27 airplanes up 18,000 feet into the skies to get temperatures, humidity, pressure, clouds measurement and ice formation data.

thou the Chastening of the Almighty." (Job 5:17).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Divine Science reveals the necessity of sufficient suffering, either before or after death, to quench the love of sin. To remit the penalty due for sin, would be for Truth to pardon error. Escape from punishment is not in accordance with God's government, since justice is the handmaid of mercy."

Mountain Spa Is New Attraction

Coincident with the opening of this playground for summer activity, June 15 next, the Canadian Government will start operation of its new development at Miette Hot Springs, forty miles east of Jasper Village. This new attraction is a huge, modern swimming pool and a number of individual bath houses utilizing the highly-mineralized waters which pour from the rocks high up in the mountains at Miette. The water does not originate from volcanic sources but secures its heat and curative qualities from its contact with chemicals in the rocks through which it gushes. There are five separate springs with an average temperature of 126 degrees F. Water in the pool will be maintained at a temperature of about 100 degrees F.

Although many people have visited and have been benefited by these waters, there were no adequate facilities to take care of visitors until the Government completed construction of the up-to-date swimming pool and bath houses last autumn. As yet, no hotel accommodation is available at the springs but the motor highway between the springs and Jasper Village makes them easy of access. Before construction of the pool was proceeded with by the Government, it had a series of thorough tests made of the water by its own chemists and they found it to be higher in quantity of curative properties than the waters of the leading European spas.

Imperial Airways
The greatest aerial system in the world today, as far as extent of routes is concerned, is the great British Company of Imperial Airways.

Imperial Airways, with air connections which cover the continent and span the seas that divide the British Empire, is now extending its great service to Canada and the United States. During the coming summer Canadians once again will see Britain's Empire flying boats but this time, it is expected, they will be carrying mail on scheduled flights.

Since Imperial Airways is due to play an increasingly large part in the development of aerial communication with the Old Country, I intend to record the history of Imperial Airways at the foot of this column each week, and anyone interested in this company is invited to subscribe to the "Imperial Airways Gazette", through this column. The "Gazette" is an interesting little magazine, complete with a very fine selection of photographs, which Imperial Airways issues to anyone interested in aviation and the Empire airway system. If you write don't be in too much of a hurry because some little time is necessary in adding names to the subscription list.

Favor Sunday Films In Britain

Polls throughout Great Britain to decide the question of Sunday movies show opinion is sharply divided with urban majorities in favor and rural majorities against. Most of London's boroughs have adopted Sunday movies and some have still to vote on the question. In the provinces, with the exception of the larger centres, the voting has gone against the idea.

Cardiff City Council refused a poll and decided against the suggestion. It went further and forbade movies on Christmas Day and Good Friday. One of the strongest opponents, Tom Llewellyn, declared there was all week to see a film since "Orphans of the Storm" in 1928.

WITHOUT FUNDS

Board of control today rejected the application of the London Times, England, to have the city advertise in a special edition of that newspaper which is to be prepared for the Canadian National Exhibition. "No Funds" was cited as the reason.

IT'S worthwhile to Shop In Westmount First, as no small number of local residents have found during the past few weeks. Since the inception of the "Shop In Westmount First" campaign of the Business Association of Westmount, local businesses have proved to an increasing clientele that they are conscientious in their efforts to be worthy of the support and patronage of local residents.

Shoppers have found that they can buy what they require right here in Westmount, at prices no higher than are asked in the more congested shopping areas, and in many cases even lower. Tiring trips to crowded metropolitan districts are not necessary; when everything you require is abundantly available right on your own doorstep, why seek in further fields for it?

The Business Association of Westmount is a non-profit, non-political organization with the interests of Westmount primarily at heart. By stimulating trade and commerce within the limits of Westmount, everyone in the city profits. Money spent elsewhere stays elsewhere, and is of little help to the taxpayers, business houses, or residents of Westmount.

Shop In Westmount First; it pays dividends.

Chic New Gloves Are Very Simple

The chic new gloves in the shops now are utterly simple. The buyers have apparently considered anything in the way of fancy decoration de trop this season. More gloves than ever have absolutely smooth backs, with no ribbing or stitching at the back of the palm. This smoothness makes them quite in keeping with the untrimmed handbags, and these two accessories harmonize particularly well.

Different leathers in contrasting colors make some of the new gloves dashing effective. One four-button length slip-on has a capskin palm and a suede back. It is made in rose suede with navy capskin, in dusty pink with stone blue, and in shocking pink with purple. A pull-on with a hand-stitched flare is made with a yellow suede back and a white capskin palm. Then there are short gloves of white kidskin held tight at the wrist with bands of kid in navy, red, London tan or other accessory colors. The forests of the gloves, the insets between the fingers, match the colored wristband. None of these gloves has any stitching at the back of the hand.

MOST NECKS HIGH

There are some open-neck dress lines, but most of them are built up to the throat and many have tiny standing collars. In the lower line, a squared effect is most used.

MAPLE ICE CREAM

One cup milk, two eggs, one cup maple syrup, one cup whipping cream, one teaspoon vanilla. Scald milk and pour slowly over beaten eggs. Return to stove and cook, stirring constantly, until mixture coats spoon. Then let cool and add syrup, vanilla and whipped cream. Pour into tray of electric refrigerator and freeze quickly, stirring twice while freezing. Serve with this tiny cup cakes iced with maple icing: Two tablespoons butter dissolved in half cup heated maple syrup, adding a pinch of salt and enough powdered sugar to thicken sufficiently. Chopped nuts may be added.

TULLE AND CHIFFON

Sheer evening frocks of tulle and chiffon are being shown in Paris with crepe and satin underskirts that are only knee length.

Bunny Writes Of Fashions To Betty

Dear Betty:

To be fashionable this season, ladies must show their ears and a little more of their legs. The majority of coiffure styles are showing a decided upward trend. Curis are making their appearance on the crown of the head, with rows of small ringlets behind the ear and around the nape of the neck. While these modes are all very well for the younger girls, the matron could not hope to look well with this type of hairdress.

Swirls, waves and soft curls just behind the ears make an ideal coiffure for the middle age woman. It is noticed that this style also shows a portion of the ear. For fads with long hair, stylists have designed many new and interesting coiffures to suit both young and middle aged.

Dame fashion decrees that skirts shall be worn several inches shorter this year. This style is quite a change from what mildly has been wearing. The shorter skirt really gives more freedom, and are better looking. The difference is noted particularly in the mannish suits that are so popular this season. There is not a great deal of difference noted in the dressy coats this year. Sport dresses and skirts will be in the shorter class, with the dresses made on the shirtwaist style again this season.

Well this is all for this week, more about sport's apparel next week.

Flats To Let

Moving time is here again, it's such a busy season. I'm tired of looking for a flat, I'm nearly out of reason.

There's flats to let where ere I go, But ne're a one to see. For people will not let me in From breakfast until tea.

They say to wait 'till May first, I don't see why I should But it's the law, so I'll abide As other people would

But even when I've got my house, The fun has just begun, For when the time to move arrives The truck forgets to come

I had my things all stacked outside, And waited, quite in vain, And then, just when the truck arrives If it doesn't start to rain.

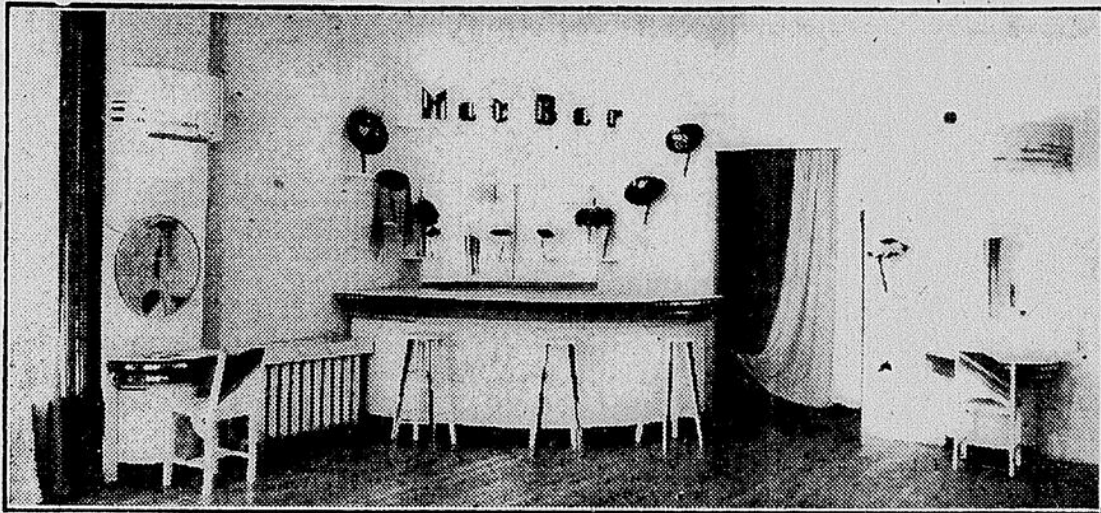

And when I finally got there, All tired and upset, I vowed I'd never move again, Or notice FLATS TO LET.

Paper Polishers For Silver Handy

It seems like a very bright idea to have a package of paper polishers at hand, and polish pots and pans and silver, as they are used. No messy cloths or runny cleaning fluid or pastes. Simply apply the soft polishing papers, which have been chemically treated, and rub. And when one is soiled it is thrown away. These papers do not contain acids, nor will they scratch the most delicate surfaces. They are also recommended for automobiles, and a supply might be kept in the pocket for the windshield and bright work.

MODERN HAT SALON

Something decidedly new and unusual is offered to the public of Notre Dame de Grace and Westmount by Juliette, Sherbrooke street west at the corner of Gray avenue. This modern hat salon, on Saturday last introduced the latest idea in the displaying of hats, a modern "hat bar." Principal of this idea is that the customer sits at the "bar" as she would at a "cocktail bar" to try on the latest Paris or New York creation.

The Family Druggist

By L. Sherwin, Ph.G.

Probably in no other field has the public been so misled by high pressure advertising, as in that of oral hygiene. The care of the mouth and teeth is so important to every one of us that articles on the care of the mouth and teeth are eagerly read by the buying public. Extravagant claims are made by the manufacturers of mouth washes and tooth pastes who promise complete immunity from tooth and mouth troubles to users of their product. Some even go so far as to state the exact number of germs that will be killed in a fixed time in the oral cavity by the use of their nostrums.

Certain tooth pastes are advocated for bleeding gums, and the prevention of pyorrhea thereby.

Inducing the user to waste valuable time when a dentist should be consulted. The choice of a good tooth brush to suit your individual requirements is of prime importance. For a child or youth a medium hard brush, small size with a double or triple row bristle is recommended by dental authorities. A young adult with firm healthy gums should use a small hard brush made by a reputable manufacturer. In later life or in the presence of soft or spongy gums a medium brush is preferable.

The use of cheap bargain brushes is as poor economy as the use of cheap oil in your car, since a loose bristle can cause infection to the gums besides the absence of cleansing and massaging properties so necessary. The paste or powder must be used on a dry brush and applied with the correct up and down movement to the teeth and gums. Two brushes are necessary in order to have one completely dry and well aired available at all times.

Powder dentifrices have certain advantages over pastes, although they are not quite so convenient to use. The chemical action of the powder is more pronounced and beneficial particularly those containing Sodium Perborate.

Removal of tartar by a competent dentist, to ensure clean tooth and gum surfaces is absolutely essential. The old adage of "see your dentist every 6 months is a very conservative estimate. The frequency of tartar accumulation depends entirely on the physical condition of the patient. Dental floss is a valuable accessory in teeth cleansing. Food particles which lodge between the teeth causing decay and bad odours are removable with floss, from crevices unreachable by a brush.

A point worth remembering is this, should the floss tear in operation between certain teeth, in all probability a cavity is present and should receive immediate dental attention. Other conditions such as acid mouth, Vincent's angina, trench mouth are problems for your physician and cannot be treated by tooth pastes of mouth washes in spite of advertised claims. Iodine should never be used on gums unless specific instructions are given by your dentist or physician, as it may mask some condition which requires urgent medical attention.

Winnipeg Pupils Prefer Music

Twenty public schools children of Winnipeg prefer music and physical training to mathematics. They staged a protest strike and remained outside Prince Edward School rather than attend a class in mathematics which supplanted the music period.

"Every time they can't think of anything else, they give us mathematics, and we're fed up with all this stringing along by the teachers," said the striking pupils.

Principal A. F. Goodridge told strikers they would not be permitted to resume lessons until they brought their parents with them.

Many Celebrities Give Patches For Huge Quilt

Probably one of the most remarkable pieces of needlework ever attempted has been completed by Mrs. Ethel Sampson of Evanston, Illinois, a huge patchwork quilt weighing seventy-five pounds, each piece of which represents a scrap of necktie, dress, coat or other apparel which has been worn by famous personages at the height of their careers.

The work represents more than six years of effort, hundreds of letters and many thousands of miles of travel, Mrs. Sampson has said. She was watching her granddaughter, Nancy Brown, then a 6-month-old baby, at play on a comforter one day about six years ago. Happening to pick up a magazine, her glance fell upon the words, "write to the White House," written by Mrs. Herbert Hoover.

"Right away," she said, "the idea came to me why not make a quilt which would be a real treasure, and when Nancy is old enough to appreciate it present it to her. So I began the work."

Contrary to the popular idea of such things, the first few hundred pieces needed for the quilt were not hard to acquire. She got ties once worn by Presidents Hoover and Franklin D. Roosevelt, and, along with these, ties from all the members of the Roosevelt Cabinet. Parts of the Dionne quintuplets apparel have a favored corner in the quilt.

"I was rather startled at the idea of General Pershing wearing a purple tie," Mrs. Sampson said, "but that's what arrived, with a personal note from him. He sent it in two or three years ago. But I got a good laugh from Charlie McCarthy. He 'signed' his 'personal' letter to me lamenting the bad taste in Edgar Bergen's yellow tie."

More than 10,000,000 stitches have gone into the quilt, Mrs. Sampson said. Two pieces alone, one showing the President and Mrs. Roosevelt, took a million each. The various samples are bordered with gold braid for the men, silver for the women and embellished with autographs traced in thread from letters accompanying the samples, with the date received.

Besides the memories of each bit in the quilt pattern, Mrs. Sampson has framed letters written to her by the donors. Thirteen have died since they offered their

Going To Church Was Compulsory

In gay and balmy Bermuda, life was once a sober business indeed during the reign of Cromwell. Stage plays, playing with dice, swearing and even the singing of merry songs were prohibited. Swearing cost one shilling per oath, however mild.

In these days Bermuda churchwardens, "upright, honest and sober in the carriage, were instructed to look into the lives and conversations of the people and to search the worst and most suspected places with a view to forcing people to attend divine service."

Today Bermuda is a land of liberty where thousands of tourists, make merry or live quietly, according to their inclinations.

including the Smithsonian Institute, to purchase her work.

"But this quilt was made for Nancy," she said, "not for a museum."

Myriad Colours In New Furniture

The colors of the rainbow will be brought into the home by the season's new furniture lines, reports the Modern Home Institute.

Designers of the new furniture are providing color in myriad ways—in woods, in finishes, in upholstery, in marquetry and inlay, in mirrors and hardware.

The trend is toward lighter, brighter hues, with such shades as "tweed," "tawny" and "Wheat." Knotty pine is appearing in a putty color. Transparent lacquer is being used on light-toned Philippine mahogany to accentuate the ribbon grain. "Tweed" finish is obtained by using a deep-toned filler on walnut. Hickory, long used in rustic furniture, is being modernized and is seen in drawing rooms.

In upholstery, tweeds and home-spuns are enjoying the spotlight with blue and reds continuing popular.

Colored marquetry and inlay are being adapted both for traditional and modern furniture.

Blue mirrors are to be found on many modern pieces, contrasting with highly-polished hardware.

Juliette Hat Salon In New Premises

An item of interest this week was the opening of the new Juliette Hat Salon, on Sherbrooke street west at the corner of Grey avenue, featuring the only hat bar of its kind in Montreal. The entire salon is decorated in cream and brown and trimmed with orange and chrome. The indirect lighting system completes the very restful atmosphere. One of the novel features of the salon is the drapes, made in a soft silk, and ranging in color from the palest shade of cream to a dark brown which lend their beauty in harmonizing with the rest of the shop. This modern store was designed in its entirety by Juliette.

While Juliette is noted for her daringly different and original styles, she also caters to the matron. There are ten competent milliners in attendance at all times, who will design any type of hat to suit the individual, in any head size.

To mark the opening of this most modern and up to date salon, Juliette has designed many beautiful models to suit ladies from the sub-deb to the matron age, all featuring the latest flower and veil trimmings. Another important feature is the sport models, made from imported felts. These sport models are just the thing to add color and appeal to your spring outfit. You will find it worthwhile to pay a visit to this unusual salon for your new hat, where you will get the type of millinery you want, in congenial surroundings.

European Tours Being Arranged

Now that the political situation in Europe is improving so nicely and conditions are much more favorable on the continent, those who wish to travel abroad this summer can be assured that there need be no apprehension as to trouble arising while they are away. Beverly Baxter, in his weekly broadcasts, has emphasized the improvement in conditions and says that the situation is decidedly more settled than for many months past.

One of the most interesting and worthwhile tours is being arranged by Mrs. H. B. Pope, 422 Metcalfe Ave., under the auspices of the Tobin Travel Bureau. The main tour, occupying a month will visit England, Scotland, Holland, Belgium and France, while for those who wish to remain longer, there are extension tours to Germany, Austria, Hungary, Italy and Switzerland, all by motor coach.

Mrs. Pope will be glad to furnish any further information as to rates or requirements. The party

COMEDY AND DRAMA

Mickey Rooney Started By Impersonating Midget

Just turned sixteen, Mickey Rooney, playing a featured role in "Thoroughbreds Don't Cry," now playing at the Seville United Theatre, opening at the Monkland United Theatre Sunday until Tuesday, is a veteran stage and screen player.

Mickey was born on September 23, in Brooklyn, New York, where his parents, Nell Brown and Joe Yule, dancer and comedian, respectively, were engaged in vaudeville.

When he was eleven months old, he made his stage debut with his mother and father, Mickey, or Joe Yule, Jr., as he was christened, satisfied himself for the next year playing around the back stages of theatres while his parents were performing.

He still remembers vividly how, as a baby of two, he crawled out on the stage and interrupted his parents by sneezing. His father picked him up, gave him a French harp to play, and he was a hit with the audience. From that day on he was a regular member of the act.

It was while he was appearing in Will Morrissey's Revue in New York that he was brought to the attention of a studio executive who signed him to play the role of the midget in "Not to be Trusted." He was four years old at the time.

Since that time Mickey has become a well-known figure in such widely varied productions as "Chained," "Manhattan Melodrama," "Mid-Summer Night's Dream," "Ah Wilderness," "Little Lord Fauntleroy," "The Devil Is a Sissy," "A Family Affair," "Captains Courageous" and "Slave Ship."

No Formula For Directing Love Scenes, Says Borzage

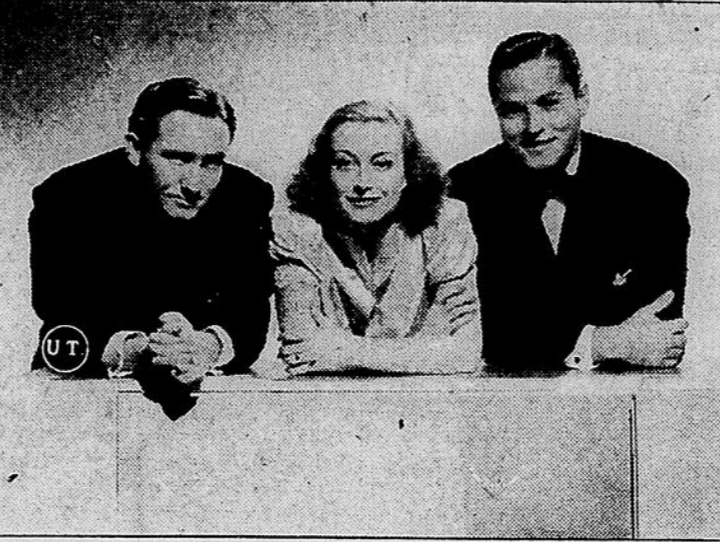

Love, like the spice of life, has endless variety, even in the movies.

"There is no formula for directing love scenes," said Frank Borzage, the distinguished director, "because no two people make love exactly the same way. The greatest love scenes are those that are acted simply, naturally, and with a minimum of dialogue. Love isn't made with words, but with gestures, the eyes, suppressed emotions.

Any girl can tell when a man is

FIFTEEN BANDS IN GALA BENEFIT

Fifteen major orchestras and more than a score of night club acts and floor productions will be featured this evening at the Windsor Hotel, when the Musicians Federation presents the gala Musicians Frolics, proceeds of which go to a special fund for unemployed musicians.

Virtually every major dance ensemble in the city will take its place on the platform as hour after hour of fine music and entertainment is presented. Tickets may be obtained from members of the Federation and at the hotel.

Entertainment of like calibre has been absent from this city for many years, and the gala revival of the Musicians Frolics, which was at one time an annual affair, promises to be the highlight of the spring entertainment season.

Supports of various government and organization officials has been given the Frolics and they have acclaimed it as an unusually worthy cause.

Romantic Drama Has Excellent Supporting Cast

Joan Bennett and Henry Fonda come to the Westmount United Theatre on Sunday for a three-day engagement until Tuesday in Walter Wanger's "I Met My Love Again," a thrilling romantic drama based on Allene Corlies' novel, "Summer Lightning."

Wanger has lined up a great supporting cast for the stars, headed by Dame May Whitty, Alan Marshal, Louise Platt, Alan Baxter and Tim Holt.

The story casts Joan as a headstrong maiden of the jazz and flapper era of 1927, and Fonda as the studious young New Englander to whom she is engaged.

The romantic girl meets adventure in the person of handsome Alan Marshal, playing an irresponsible Bohemian writer. Joan is swept off her feet by this worldly fellow and the pair clope to New York.

Joan finds their life in the Bohemian Colony of Paris very disillusioning, particularly when even the birth of their daughter fails to awaken her husband to his responsibilities. However, she is too proud to return to Vermont to face her kindly Aunt William and the boy she jilted, until Marshal is killed in a duel fought over the merits of a worthless painting.

Then she comes home, realizing she still loves Fonda, who has become a successful young Professor; but it is not until after a series of dramatic developments that she wins him back.

Low-cut bosoms and dropped shoulders lend an eighteenth century air of coquetry, romance and youth. When Chanel shows a bouffant model in rose or sky-blue net, the skirt spangled with glittering stars, a veil of the same material

Gangster's Day-off

Many of you will remember when Fredric March played death in "Death Takes A Holiday." Now Jack Holt will give you an idea of how "Crime Takes A Holiday." Production started this week with Marcia Ralston in the female lead.

Tom-Toms Beat Again

The first motion picture of the life, dangers and ecstatic rituals of the deep Belgian Congo, never before penetrated by a white man, will be released by Universal studios this summer. This vital record of the Armand Denis-Leila Roosevelt expedition is in the final stages of editing. Denis directed "Goono Goona" and "Wild Congo."

Kiss, and Make-up

"The director tells you to take the girl in your arms and kiss her," says Wayne Morris. "But it isn't as easy as that. The hairdresser stands by looking daggers at you if you muss the girl's hair. The tailor is waiting to see if your coat hikes up in the back when you arms are out in the embrace. And when you eventually kiss the girl, you can't kiss her square on the lips because your nose hides her beautiful eye. So with the help of the cameraman and director, you kiss her just off centre, and she smacks into the air in response."

Justice and Mercy

Warren William is cast as the district attorney in the Edmund Grainger production "Suspicion." Gail Patrick is the wife whose love gradually turns to hate as she sees her mate becoming more savage and merciless. Tragedy is averted however when the D.A. finally realizes that justice sometimes must be tempered with mercy.

British-Made

Kind Vidor, the famous director, is now enroute to London, England, where he will make plans for the filming of "The Citadel," current best-seller, a novel of medical life. This follows the recently completed "A Yank At Oxford," which is attaining such popularity.

Nothing Is Impossible

One of the screen credits for "The Adventures Of Robin Hood" is going to read: "Original Story by Norman Raine and Seton Miller." What the fans will want to know of course, is how a couple of fellows can write an original story about another fellow who has been written about, talked in love with her long before he tells her so.

Borzage should know. He has directed many of the screen's most famous love scenes in such pictures as "Seventh Heaven," "Street Angel," "Song of My Heart" and "Farewell to Arms." Most recently he directed Joan Crawford and Spencer Tracy in "Mannequin," which is now playing at the Westmount United Theatre, starting Sunday for a three-day engagement until Tuesday at the Seville United Theatre. Borzage rarely made a suggestion to Miss Crawford or Tracy during their love scenes for "Mannequin."

"Miss Crawford's love scenes have a realistic quality, he declared. "She is so emotionally pitched that her love-making before the camera looks genuine, and for the moment is genuine, as she makes no effort to control the mood. Tracy is always brilliant in a love scene because he never tries to act. He rings true."

The finest love scenes, according to Borzage, are those that are made in one "take."

"First scenes are always the best," he said. "The actors are more keyed up, more inclined to act on the impulse of the moment. I even avoid rehearsing love scenes, whenever possible."

Fourteen Year Olds Win Contest.

At the Good Humor Talent Quest held weekly at the Monkland theatre, and conducted by that genial master-of-ceremonies, Al Plunkett, the award last week was won by Patsy Merchant and Eddie Kirwan. They received a generous round of applause from an appreciative audience.

Together they sang "Broadway's Gone Hawaii" and followed the song with charming and original dance routine. As an encore they chose "Stop, You're Breaking My Heart." These young performers are both fourteen years old. Patsy attends the D'Arcy McGee High School, and Eddie is a pupil of Montreal West High School. They are both pupils of Miss Moira Sheehy.

John Littel, the bad man of "Alcatraz Island" is still wrestling with the law. He is now the D.A. in "The Amazing Dr. Clitterhouse."

Joel McCrea has been borrowed from Samuel Goldwyn to play the male lead in "Three Smart Girls Leave Town."

Miriam Hopkins will star in Warner's "We Are Not Alone," which will go into production this spring.

Having completed "Submarine Behave," the Three Stooges have started on another comedy. The large cast includes a girl's basketball team.

Errol Flynn can't take his tea straight. He has to doctor it up with honey and cream before he can drink it.

Jack Long and John Tyrrell were the additions made recently to the cast supporting Charles Starrett in "Hidden Trails," which Columbia is now shooting.

Currency Engraving Process Explained

In a large and imposing building on Wellington street, Ottawa, stands the home of the Canadian Bank Note Company, where Government bonds, postage stamps and bank notes are made. The building is burglar and fire proof, for within its walls are many millions of dollars' worth of securities, and daily are printed thousands of bank notes, bonds, stock certificates and stamps. The entrance is guarded day and night, and admittance may be obtained only by passport.

Months For Die

Writing in the Royal Bank Magazine, C. O. Goshorn explains how bank bills are produced. After the bank directors have decided on a general idea, the company artists submit designs, and when one has been accepted a facsimile is engraved on soft steel, which, when tempered, becomes the original die. All this has required many months.

The expert portrait engraver "belongs to one of the rarest classes of artists in the world. Examine the vignette or portrait of King George VI. on the face of the one-dollar Bank of Canada bill and note the perfect execution. When we realize how small the picture is, and that each fine line or dot has to be picked or chiselled out of steel by hand, do you wonder that the art of steel portrait engraving is so rare? Only a dozen artists in America can do this delicate work up to the high standard demanded. It often requires weeks, and even months, to engrave a portrait or a picture vignette."

Ruling Machine

Describing the use of pantograph and ruling machine, the writer says: "The operator traces over the design on a reduced scale. These machines will make lines, squares, circles, ovals, letters and numbers. They will repeat as often as required, and on the scale desired, but no line can cross another. Good specimen of pantograph work appears along the lower part of the face of a one-dollar bill. Notice printed in green tiny design: 'One Dollar,' closely interwoven, but the lines never touching one another."

Then there is the geometric lathe, "one of the most intricate and marvelous machines ever invented." Its work is shown on the large "One" in the lefthand corner of the dollar bill.

None Broken

"All the circles, squares, ovals and parallels which go to make the perfect network of finely engraved lines, and which cross each other at such angles, or approach each other at such distances, to produce this beautiful effect, are made by this machine. The lathe produces patterns of almost every conceivable variety in form and figure, but the same quality of lines clings to them in whatever form they appear. Under a powerful lens these fine lines can be traced throughout the figures, not a line being broken—not a line losing itself in another—and not a line showing any irregularity whatever in its course, in its uniformity of curve, in its degree of shading. The work is mathematically perfect, as the machine is set by geometric problems. Right here the counterfeiter falls down badly. He cannot produce this perfectly by hand."

Special Engraving

Bank note paper is made of linen and cotton. Before printing, the paper is dampened by passing through water and then put in damp canvas cloths to cure. Throughout all stages of printing the paper is damp, which makes it soft and pliable. A close record is kept of every sheet of paper as it comes from the mill, through each process a separate printing has to be made for each color on both sides of the bill. Usually it requires three to five printings, and, in case of multi-colors, many more. The inks are all specially made and tested to a standard.

From a process the bills are taken to a cool air drying room, the temperature and humidity of which are regulated by a thermostat. Forty-eight hours later they are passed through troughs of glue in the operation called sizing. This gives the nice, glossy finish and keeps the signature ink from spreading. Next they go into hydraulic presses, smoothing out the wavy surface of the paper and closing up the pores. Next, the bills go through numbering machines, and thence into the storage vault, which "contains many millions of dollars. Nothing can be seen but money, money, money, piled high up to the ceiling."

Low Fares To Western Canada

Responding to many inquiries in regard to low-fare excursions to Western Canada from the east of the Dominion, C. P. Riddell, chairman, Canadian Passenger Association, announces that such trips will be operated daily with a return limit of 45 days from May 17 to 28.

Fares will apply from territory including the Maritime Provinces, Quebec and points in Ontario, to destinations Port Arthur, Armstrong and all points west thereof as far as the Pacific Coast. Railway tickets will be good going daily as between above mentioned dates with the generous 45 day return limit from day of purchase. Different classes of accommodation will be provided for these special bargain excursions; tickets will be good to travel in coaches, also in tourist, parlor and standard sleeping cars on payment of slightly higher passage fares plus price of parlor or sleeping car accommodation. Stopovers will be permitted within the limit of ticket, both going and returning, at many points.

FALLS AT LAST

It had to happen some time. George J. Burke, of Green Bay, Wis., telegraph lineman without a mishap in 20 years, ran his car onto a service station greasing hoist. Then he opened the car door to step out—and fell nine feet. Burke suffered a sprained back and bruises.

AN EASY MARK

Citizen—I suppose a man of your prominence was taken out a lot while in the city. Small Town Mayor (soberly)—No but I was taken in several times.

An Emergency Freight Movement By Airplane

An urgent request was received at the head office of Canadian Airways in Winnipeg recently for the services of their large Junkers plane CF-ARM to move a large ball mill unit from railroad Pickle Lake for the Central Patricia Gold Mines, this aircraft being the only one in Canada capable of handling a unit of this size. Owing to the proximity of the break-up of ice period, it was necessary to have quick action as the failure of delivery would cut the mine capacity 50 per cent until such time as the unit could be moved by water route.

By use of Canadian Airways ground radio stations at Winnipeg, Prince Albert, Goldfields and Yellowknife, word was sent to Pilot Stewart McRorie and his crew, Rod Gratton and Dick Siebert, to proceed to Hudson Ontario, some 1500 miles away. The aircraft left Yellowknife on April 7 and arrived at Hudson Ontario at 3 p.m. on Saturday April 9th. The unit to be moved was the end of a ball mill, a circular disc six feet in diameter and about six inches thick with a large bearing on one side at the centre about 24 inches long. The unit weighed 2100 pounds.

The aircraft returned to Sioux Lookout the same afternoon, and will be flown to Winnipeg as soon as the ski undercarriage has been changed over to wheels, so that the ship can be landed at Stevenson Aerodrome.

FOREIGNERS

The elderly lady was talking over matters, and expressed her approval of the League of Nations.

"I think," said she, "it is a very good thing, but it seems a pity to have so many foreigners on it!"

'Moronic' Radio Programs' Called Peril To Children

Picturing the radio as a Frankenstein monster that has entered the home and usurped the leisure time of the school children, Dr. Jay B. Nash, chairman of the physical education department of New York University, urged parents to throw off the "strangling" influence of Tarzan, Buck Rogers and other "moronic" children's programs.

In an address before the Jewish Vacation Association, Professor Nash declared that Americans spent 150,000,000 hours before the radio every day. Of especial concern to educators and parents is the effect on the children, the speaker asserted. The quiet "children's hour" of Longfellow's day has been displaced by the "radio hour."

"It's the moronishness, the stupidity, the inactivity of it, rather than the badness, that gives us the greatest concern," Professor Nash told the 200 persons, representing seventy-five organizations,

COMPARE GOODYEAR WITH ANY TIRE ON EARTH

THERE ARE 34 DIFFERENT GOODYEAR TIRES. There is extra value in Goodyear's heavy duty tires. They provide 50% greater body thickness at only 25% higher cost than standard tires. Both Goodyear's famous C-3 (illustrated) and the lower priced B-1 are made in heavy duty type, as well as standard 4-ply.

THESE ARE GOODYEAR FEATURES: NO OTHER TIRE HAS THEM

● You can check any tire, point for point—check tire mileage records—anywhere—then go to your Goodyear 4-Square dealer and he will give you positive proof of Goodyear's superiority. He will show you how Goodyear's four-way traction is superior to any other. How the forward—backward—right—left grip resists skidding in any direction. He will prove to you that Goodyear's exclusive Supertwist cords are more elastic than any other cords—retain their strength longer—and provide greater protection against blowouts—extra life to Goodyear tires. He will show you how Goodyear tires have more contact with the road—which distributes the load and reduces tire wear. He will show you how Goodyear's 4-Square value and Goodyear's broad, heavy tread combine to give you longer, trouble-free mileage. Then remember this—Goodyears cost no more than standard tires! Why be satisfied with less than Goodyears? THE MONEY YOU SPEND ON A NEW CAR ENTITLES YOU TO THE BEST TIRES. SPECIFY GOODYEARS ON YOUR ORDER.

by HOWARD S. ROSS

The Folklore of Capitalism, by Thurman W. Arnold, formerly Professor at Yale University Law School and author of "The Symbols of Government." Publishers: The Ryerson Press, Toronto. Price, $3.50.

The author advances his analysis of the ways in which America thinks and acts. He finds that its dogmas—particularly those of its learned men—resemble closely the views of the University of Paris in the Middle Ages, which formally found that quinine could not cure fever, since its use controverted the principles of men of decency and erudition who all knew that fever was caused by humors in the blood. He spoke in a keen critic of such views as they appear in our own time. He is concerned with how things work rather than with the moral principles, people claim for them. The virtues of American capitalism, that have (he claims) replaced those of democracy in their power to move and excite people, exposed with clearness and a wit that is rare in discussing such questions.

In chapter 1 is explained how the thinking man, without whom there would be no group free will in modern society, after learning the proper lessons of history chooses wisely between Capitalism, and Fascism—provided always he doesn't let emotion sway his reason or listen to the blandishments of demagogues. In chapter 3 is explained how the great sciences of law and economics and the little imaginary people who are supposed to be guided by these sciences affect the daily lives of these who make, distribute and consume our goods.

In chapter 4 he shows how the scholar, seeking for universal truth in the light of reason, guides the stumbling feet of a great modern democracy, and in which the never-ending battle of these learned men against unsound theories and the selfish greed of politicians is also discussed. In chapter 7 the author discusses to explain how difficult it is to describe a culture of which you are a part and to point out the traps which lie in polar words.

In his last chapter he claims that the failure of respectable people with humanitarian values to be effective may be treated to their complete misunderstanding of the functions of public controversy. Unaware of the fact that it is not logic but organizations which rule an organized society they select logical principles as objects of their loyalties instead of organizations. He uses many striking illustrations, and the following will be of special interest to Canadians. "England seems to have a better understanding of the necessary inconsistencies of public ideals. It therefore on the whole is able to keep more humanitarian people in power because of its realization that government has two functions (1) to put on a public show; (2) to be exceedingly practical behind the scenes. To this ability—to believe in principles and at the same time to make them work for organizations, rather than compel organizations to work for principles—may be attributed a large part of the success of that small country in dominating a continent composed of nations far stronger in physical power."

The 400 pages are packed with clever, humorous suggestive material. Since the book (which has become so popular) was published the author has accepted an invitation from President Roosevelt to take a position at Washington as Assistant Attorney General of the Antitrust Division of the Department of Justice. In no many countries would such a book bring such a reward.

A Little Game of Thinking

"Have you ever played 'Thoughts?'" asked Uncle Harry. The children had been bathing most of the morning, and prowling around all the afternoon, and now they were really too tired to do anything but sit still in the shade.

"No," said Phyllis. "Is it a game?"

"Yes," said Uncle Harry, "and a good one. First of all we choose a subject to think about, and then we let our thoughts travel on from that subject for one minute, and then we tell each other where they have led us."

Sid looked puzzled.

"I'll give you an example," said Uncle Harry. "We'll say that the subject chosen to start from is the grasshopper over there. Now take my watch Sid, and tell me when a minute has passed."

Sid took his uncle's watch and kept his eyes glued to it.

"Time!" he called presently.

"Go ahead, uncle!" said Phil.

"The grasshopper made me think of the grass," said Uncle Harry. "And the grass made me think of laws. And laws made me think of tennis. And tennis made me think of the court at home. And home made me think of Boston. And Boston made me think of the State House. And the State House made me think of the sun shining on the dome. And that's as far as I got. So you see, the grasshopper took me a long way from this pleasant spot beside the bay."

"Now let us try," said Phyllis. "You choose the subject, uncle."

Uncle chose the fishing-boat out in the bay, and he took the watch. Phil's eyes were soon gazing, unseeing, across the water, while Sid flung himself on the grass, dug his elbows into the ground, and put his hands over his ears, as though in shutting out sound he were also shutting in thought.

"Time!" said Uncle. "We'll begin with Sid." So Sid began.

"The fishing-boat made me think of fishermen," he said. "And fishermen made me think of Old Jack. And Old Jack made me think of smugglers. And smugglers made me think of adventures. And adventures made me think of Treasure Island. And Treasure Island made me think of the Bermudas. And the Bermudas made me think of the lovely flowers that grow there. And the flowers made me think of Mother because she loves them so. And—and that's about as far as I got."

"Good, Sid!" You started from the fishing-boat and reached Mother.

"I think you will generally find in 'Thoughts' that, somehow or other, what you are thinking about most of the time will come creeping in when you are playing. That is why Sid, who thinks about Mother so often, found that the fishing-boat led him to her."

"It's a jolly game," said the children.

It is a jolly game. Try it and see. The more there are playing, the more interesting it is; it is surprising to notice the different roads different minds take. And it is amazing that in one minute so many thoughts can pass through even the small head of a child.

There was an old woman, and what do you think?

She lived upon nothing but victuals and drink; Victuals and drink were the chief of her diet; This tiresome old woman could never be quiet.

She went to the baker to buy her some bread, And when she came home her old husband was dead; She went to the clerk to toll the bell, And when she came back her old husband was well.

CAN A SPIDER'S WEB BE MADE INTO CLOTH?

Yes. There used to be a little factory at Languedoc, in France, where spiders were reared for their webs, which were spun into gloves and stockings. It failed, however, because of the very great expense of rearing the spiders. They are much more difficult to keep than silkworms, as they fight fiercely and eat one another unless kept in isolated pens. They are so active, too, that they need a great deal of room, and all this means increased expenditure for rent and labor. Each spider has to be fed separately and the yield of web is not enough to repay the outlay. To harvest the web is a much more elaborate and lengthy business than winding off the cocoon of a silkworm. The web is much finer than silk, being often only a thirty-thousandth of an inch in diameter.

About a century ago there was a good deal of experimenting to find some economical way of winding off the web from spiders. In 1830 the Society of Arts presented its silver medal to Mr. Daniel Rolt for having invented a winding spool attached to a little engine which in two hours wound off 18,000 feet of web from 24 spiders.

There is always a demand for spider's web by makers of surveying instruments, the web being used for the hair lines across the glasses of theodolites.

Drawing a Cat With the Aid of Two Coins

The four little pictures shown here prove to us how very simple a thing it is to make amusing drawings. We need a ten-cent and a five-cent piece on the paper and draw around it; then we place our five-cent piece to the right, overlapping slightly, and run our pencil around its edges, being careful not to cut into the first circle. The ears, eyes, nose, mouth, tail, and two curves for hip and elbow, are then inserted, and a few more strokes complete our pussy.

The Story of Johnny Applesed

There have been a great many boys named John, but only one called Johnny Applesed, because he travelled back and forth over the states of Ohio, Indiana and Illinois, through western Pennsylvania, New York and in southern Michigan, with one great purpose in his mind—the planting of apple-trees. He was one of those unique and deeply interesting characters who shine in the early history of a country because of some helpful service to others.

John Chapman was his real name, and he was born on his father's farm near Springfield, Massachusetts, in apple blossom time, May 11, 1768. He was a great lover of woods, fields, birds and animals. When he was about twenty years old he went West with his brother, Nathaniel, stopping on his journey at the home of his uncle at Olean, New York, and there the idea came to him of being "an apple missionary."

He started with seeds gathered from the cider mills in that region. From that time on he travelled for forty years, constantly planting nurseries wherever he found the soil was right and the water plentiful. He would build a log cabin, plant a small nursery of apple trees and then move to another place and do the same thing again. It is said when the tool of the day was over, the children, who loved him, would gather round to hear him play his violin, which he carried with him over one shoulder and his bag of seeds over the other. He would travel hundreds of miles through the wilderness to prune his orchards.

As a Government scout during the Indian wars Johnny had a great influence with the Indians, and they called him "great medicine man" because he planted healing herbs. In 1812 when the Indians were about to attack the town of Mansfield, Ohio, he ran sixty miles through the forest to get help from Captain Douglas, warning many settlers on the way.

Johnny Applesed, as he grew older, paid little attention to his clothes, neglected to shave and cut his hair, and no one would have known, to look at him, that he would always be remembered, when we see an orchard in full bloom, the most lovely sight of the spring. He planted good-will and scattered hours of happiness. He died at Fort Wayne, Indiana, on March 11, 1843.

Three wise men of Gotham Went to see in a wood; And if the wood had been stronger My song would have been longer.

To-Day In Sport

The bright sun of the past few days does not tend to conversation about hockey but as the National Hockey League convenes shortly for its annual Spring meeting it is safe to say that something really definite will be done regarding the Montreal Maroons.

Last weekend Tommy Gorman visited St. Louis and looked over the ground. In fact, it is understood he did quite a bit of preliminary work with St. Louis interest on a proposition to re-establish the puckchasing sport in that city on a major basis.

Back in 1934-35 the Ottawa franchise and players were transferred to St. Louis but the venture was anything but successful from the standpoint of patronage and finances.

The Eagles won only 11 games out of 48, tied six, lost 31 and finished deep in the cellar of the international section of the National League.

The experiences of 1934-35, however, have not destroyed the St. Louis desire for professional hockey on a major scale. Although St. Louis has had contending clubs in the American Association for several seasons, the venture has not produced any golden harvest for the operators. Moreover, St. Louis sportsmen have a "big league" complex and are anxious to link with the National League if the opportunity arises. The St. Louis rink is one of the finest in North America.

Last spring St. Louis representatives were present at the N.H.L. meeting in Detroit. Shifting of the Maroons to the Missouri city was discussed but nothing came of the matter. At the time Montreal interests and other N.H.L. managers were concentrating on a "sales talk" campaign, directed at Al Stuphlin, millionaire Cleveland hockey magnate.

A Quarter Million

Mike Jacobs, czar of boxing, expects the Barney Ross-Henry Armstrong match on May 26 to "do" $250,000 business, one of the biggest purses two little fellows have ever drawn.

The tubs already are beginning to thump for the battle. According to word from Jacobs' office, $30,000 in reservations have been received. Under the scale of prices which Jacobs has fixed, $16.50 for a ringside seat to $2.20 for a spot in the great out-of-doors, the match could draw $400,000 through the gates of Madison Square Garden's Bowl.

The outdoor record for little men is held by the Benny Leonard-Lew Tendler bout, which netted $400,000. Mike is casting no sheep eyes at this figure.

INTER-CHURCH SCHOOL MEET

Expect Many Local Entries For Meet At Molson Stadium

The tenth annual church school athletic meet will be held at the Molson Stadium, through the courtesy of McGill University on May 28th.

This meet is held simultaneously with other similar meets throughout Canada and emphasis is laid on group results rather than individual glory. This is thought to be more influential as a character builder.

The event is open to all boys under twenty-one years of age, connected with some Sunday School or related group and information as to ages and classes has been sent to all Sunday School Superintendents and group leaders. Anyone interested who has not received such information, can secure it by phoning the office of the Religious Education Council, Mr. Don Burton, PL. 5591.

Time passes quickly, so those boys who intend to compete, would do well to commence training at once, if they are not already at it.

Rookie Pitchers Start Well Looks Like 1938 Crop Good

At first blush, it looks like the big leagues have come up with a bumper crop of fine new pitchers. Four already have made their 1938 debut in the Big Time, and their showing has been extraordinary: two of them pitching shutouts and a third permitting only three hits.

The latest to hit the main show with a bang is Forest Pressnell, 31-year-old addition to the Brooklyn hill staff, who blanked the Phils 9 to 0. He gave nine hits, but was invulnerable when it counted. He had had a previous trial with the Browns.

Atley Donald, star of the Newark staff last season, started his career as a New York Yankee by limiting the Boston Red Sox to three hits until his wildness caused his removal in the seventh. The eight free passes he distributed enabled the Sox to make it three out of four from the champions by a score of 3-2, but such absence of control was to be forgiven under the circumstances and detracted little from the youngster's great showing.

Telescope Aid For Reflector

A 48-inch "scout" telescope will feel the way through space for the giant 200-inch reflector to be installed on Mt. Palomar by the California Institute of Technology in 1939.

The "scout," explained Dr. Fritz Zwicky despite its smaller size, can take in a much wider expanse of sky. Photographs will be made through its lens.

"From the photographs," Dr. Zwicky said, "we will determine what we want to study with the powerful 200-inch mirror. The 48-inch telescope will be used in other investigations, of course, but this will be one of its chief services."

Dr. Zwicky has discovered two super-novae or exploding stars with an 18-inch telescope.

"Stars or nebulae of a magnitude as dim as 20.5. The human eye, unaided, cannot see stars dimmer than the sixth magnitude." Still observing the exploding stars, one of which became 300,000,000,000 times as bright as the sun, Dr. Zwicky said they both decreased rapidly in brilliance until the past few months, when they "levelled out."

Some astronomers suggest the sun may one day explode like these novae and burn the earth to a crisp. They are interested in finding what causes stars to explode and what happens to them afterward. Dr. Zwicky has a theory that super-novae may be the source of the mysterious cosmic rays.

This suggests some of the work to be done at the new observatory, financed by the Rockefeller Foundation.

CAGE TROPHY IS CAPTURED BY 'Y' TEAM

Squad Becomes Second Holders of Sammett and Blair Award in Defeating Amicis, 30 to 29

Although the Y.M.C.A. was unsuccessful in its attempt to capture the M.B.L. title, it made no such mistake in the local basketball tournament, defeating Amicis on Monday night by the score of 30-29 in a sudden death game. Thus the "Y" became the second holders of the Sammett and Blair trophy, supplanting the Dominion Douglas church team, last year's winners.

The Y.M.C.A. squad was forced to win their honours the hard way. Undeclared in tournament play until Friday, it received an unexpected setback at the hands of the Amicis, suffering a 29-28 defeat, making the sudden death game on Monday necessary.

Johnnie Crombie was the spearhead of the 'Y's' offense and his individual scoring performance of twenty five points in the two game series meant the difference between a loss and a win for his team. The winners performance at the fifteen foot mark in the second game also helped them a lot, as they succeeded in converting eight of their free throws while the Amicis were successful in but three. Jack Wilkinson and Cliff McClary turned in the best performances for the losers.

CLOSE IN SHOTS. Mr. Sammett presented the captain of the winning team, Johnnie Eaves, with the Sammett and Blair trophy, emblematic of the basketball championship of the City of Westmount, immediately after Monday's game. The highlights of the tournaments were: the individual scoring performances of Ronnie Blackburn, Amicis and Ike Kert of the Football Club; Earl Carney's sensational last second check of Johnnie Crombie's "set up" shot which would have meant the tournament honours for the eventual winners on Friday. The number of closely fought games, the last three games of the tournament were played with the issue in doubt throughout the whole time. One was decided in overtime and in the other two, one point separated the winner from the loser. And so ends another long cage season, which while it may not have seen any great hours or championships for any of the local teams, proved capable of reviving some real interest in the game in this city as well as making innumerable new fans. Although a friendly rivalry existed between the local teams, the high calibre of sportsmanship shown by all the clubs throughout the season was a contributing factor towards the successful season.

Scores Of Net Players Join In Early Workout

The Westmount Athletic grounds got off to a swift start for the season last week-end when 74 tennis players reported for a workout.

Norman Smyth, Superintendent of Recreation, said he expected a membership of 300 in view of the many inquiries received. Teams will be placed in all sections of the P.Q.L.T.A., with the inter-club series starting next month. The courts are in fine shape, Mr. Smyth said.

Among the well known net stars who will again be seen in action this season are Miss Hermine Epstein, Alex Forsyth, Miss Marjorie Lewis, Hugh McKay, T. M. O'Keith, G. L. Rattee and L. M. Shetler.

Many of the other expert players have signified that they will be present, Mr. Smyth added. He recalled that last year the ladies team won the C Division.

The track opened last Saturday with 13 appearing for work. The Maroon's Ladies Club and the P.Q.'s Olympic Club reported. The Westmount schools are also to use the track, the Argyle school taking advantage of the track in the morning while the other schools will use it after 4 p.m. All school meets will be held on the grounds.

BRILLIANT DANCE RECITAL BY BETTY SPEIRS' PUPILS

Younger Children Score in Version of "Hi, Diddle Diddle" at Monday's Performance

Betty Speirs scored a brilliant success with her dance recital which was held in Victoria hall on Monday evening. The feature of the evening was "Hi Diddle Diddle" in which the younger children were given unlimited scope to display their talents. The scenery and lighting effects were spectacular. Peter Miller is to be congratulated on the staging of this presentation in which comedy and artistic ability were skillfully blended.

As soon as the first curtain was raised the tiny tots had the audience won over, and kept them so from then on, as each little Nursery Rhyme character wove herself in and out of the story. The natural and enjoyable manner in which the children performed conclusively proved that Miss Speirs deserves the great reputation which is hers.

The artistic Dickson sisters, Berenice and Phyllis, displayed their versatility as Clara the cow, and had the audience in an uproar with their clever antics, especially when the cow contributed a toe solo to the hillyary. Wynna Jacobs as Old Mother Hubbard was very effective. Shirley White, June Sidaway, Winifred MacDonald and Jean Fitzgerald danced their parts splendidly and Isobel Ann Rubenstein's acrobatic offering was well received as were toe solos by Joyce Lozinski and Peggy Jean Ross.

A recitation by Hazel Fitzgerald, with the aid of "Doctor" Ross Rubenstein received a lot of applause as did the work of dainty Nancy Telfer and her partner, Raymond David. There was quite a commotion when Clara the cow led on Snow White and the dwarfs, and there was a bigger commotion as each one performed. Ross Rubenstein, Gordon Williams, Leslie Fisher and Sol Aboud as the dwarfs, were exceptionally good for such small boys, while the song and dance of tiny Deltry Beacom stopped the show.

The baby bunnies who sang and danced to everyone's delight were Elaine Albert, Joan Sargent, Jean Thompson, Joy Harvey, Lois Llein, Pat Parham, Joan Regele, Mary Jean Morgan, Joan Lajoie, Patricia Evelyn Murphy and Joan Lumms. The butterflies who did a cute toe number were Patsy Morton, Marcia Dolgy, Diana Stanway, Dorothy Melville, Corine Lyman, Millicent Dillon, and the valentine, who were daintiness itself were Ann Dohan, Audrey Hurdman, June Sidaway, Heather

Williamson, Barbara Lubin, Lois Albert and Barbara Pettitt. Then we had a splendid tap routine by the juniors in which the precision was like clockwork in its regularity. This class consisted of Audrey Jones, Laura Ross, Valerie Beacom, Ann Graves, Jean Fitzgerald, Patsy Ogilvie, Hazel Fitzgerald and Norma Ogilvie.

In the supporting program variety was the keynote with the result that there was not a dull moment. Special mention must be made of a sensational adagio routine by Jean Barnes and Frank White and of the exceptionally clever acrobatic work of Eleanor Thompson and Denise Sydal. One of the highlights of the whole program was a superb performance of "The Dying Swan" by Berenice Dickson, Peggy Cooper, Margaret Turnbull, Doris Jackson, and Eleanor Thompson were well received for splendid tap solos, and the adagio offering of Jean Miller received great applause. Jean scored later with a peppy Spanish number. The junior tap soloists were Nancy Telfer, Patsy Ogilvie, Heather Williamson, Laura Ross and Audrey Jones. A Tyrolean folk dance was well done by Dorothy Fitzgerald as was a waltz clog "Bowery Belle" by Joyce Lozinski.

A comedy number "By the Sea" created a lot of fun. Dorothy Daum as Mama, and little Deltry Beacom as the baby were in a hilarious mood as were the other members of the family who were Laura Ross, Audrey Jones, Valerie Beacom, Ann Graves, Jean Fitzgerald, Patsy Ogilvie, Hazel Fitzgerald and Norma Ogilvie. Jean Barnes was seen to great advantage in "Blue Danube" a lovely toe solo and later teamed with Dorothy Daum and Shirley Hutt in a sprightly toe tap trio, "A wee bit o' Scotch".

The audience liked Shirley Hutt very much when she came back in a tap solo and a snappy toe tap routine. Jean Fitzgerald was warmly received in "Le Secret" as was Phyllis Dickson in an acrobatic novelty "Jack in the Box". A high hat tap routine was done very well by the junior class consisting of Alice Milne, Barbara Evelyn Dowling, Marjorie Melvin, Barbara Ann Layton, Janine Brown, Georgina MacLean, Ruth Gogo, Lorna Cunliffe and Noelle Carter.

The tiny tot class which did a novelty chair dance were Patsy Morton, Marcia Dolgy, Diana Stanway, Dorothy Melville, Corine Lyman, Millicent Dillon, Nancy Telfer. A "Swanee River" routine which was well received was given by Audrey Hurdman, June Sidaway, Ann Dohan, Heather Williamson, Barbara Lubin, Lois Albert and Barbara Pettitt.

The senior ballet ensemble gave two beautiful contributions to the program, "Dainty Mice" and "Valse des Fleurs" which were warmly applauded. Noticeable were Dorothy Fitzgerald, Shirley Hutt, Shirley Harris, Peggy Jean Ross, Isobel McLellan, Eleanor Thompson, Doris Jackson, Heidi Vasesha, Jean Barnes, Phyllis and Berenice Dickson.

Dorothy Daum was excruciatingly funny in "Take me out to the ball game". One of the decided hits of the evening was made by the combined senior groups teamed together in a precision tap routine. This was excellently done and was given great applause. Those in this number were Pat Graham, Barbara Jones, Martha Cochran, Betty Anderson, Margaret Landreville, Frances Reid, Joan Layton, Joan Melvin, Barbara Ferdon, Mary Ledoux,

Marion Rae, Mary MacLean, Joy Haire, Gene Dufty, Isobel Ann Rubenstein, Barbara Nuttall, Margaret Turnbull, Shirley Harris, Peggy Jean Ross, Isobel McLellan, Eleanor Thompson, Doris Jackson, Heidi Vasesha, Jean Barnes, Berenice and Phyllis Dickson and Dorothy Fitzgerald.

The concluding item on the evening's program was brilliant in the extreme, "Ballet de la Lune" was beautifully presented and provided Jean Barnes and Joyce Lozinski with the opportunity to display their artistic abilities. The scenic effects were very striking, a huge silver moon being in the background, from which Jean Barnes, as the Man in the Moon descended to win "Pierrette" Joyce Lozinski. The two soloists were ably supported by Nancy Telfer as Cupid and two of the junior classes whose work was very pleasing to the eye. The Stars were Alice Milne, Barbara Evelyn Dowling, Marjorie Melvin, Barbara Ann Layton, Janine Brown, Georgina MacLean, Ruth Gogo, Lorna Cunliffe, and Noelle Carter. The Moonbeams were Ann Graves, Valerie Beacom, Audrey Jones, Laura Ross, Norma Ogilvie, Patsy Ogilvie, Jean Fitzgerald and Hazel Fitzgerald. Florence Jenkins did a splendid evening's work at the piano and Mrs. Franklyn Hodgson was at the Organ for the Wedding March finale. Altogether it was a beautiful Recital.

The costumes were good and the elaborate scenery and lighting effects showed them off to advantage. Miss Speirs, Miss Daum and Mr. Miller should feel very gratified with their efforts. Miss Speirs announced over the footlights that the senior Recital will take place Friday of this week at Victoria Hall and will feature "On Parade", "Wigwag" and a repeat of "Ballet de la Lune".

A GOOD NAME
No better heritage can a father bequeath to his children than a good name; nor is there in a family any richer heirloom than the memory of a noble ancestor.—J. Hamilton.

Westmount Resident to Take Helm of Montreal Club in July — Quebec Reforms Urged

William Harrison, of 29 Renfrew avenue, who was elected president of the Rotary Club of Montreal at the weekly luncheon meeting at the Windsor Hotel, Tuesday, will take office in July.

Other officers include William S. Emery, vice-president; Fred Lydon, honorary secretary; Jas. Carson, honorary treasurer; De Gaspe Beaubien, Harry Hyman, J. Edward Davis, William S. Emery and Cyril H. Lander, directors for two years.

The Club adopted a resolution "asking the Attorney General to request the Honourable the Minister of Justice of the Dominion of Canada to introduce legislation to effect the necessary amendments in the Juvenile Delinquents' Act and in the Criminal Code to bring into effect reforms in the Province of Quebec."

As anticipated, one of the early acts of Hitler in assuming control of Austria was to disband and prohibit the Austrian Boy Scouts Association, the Oesterreichischer Pfadfinderbund. In the past Austrian Boy Scouts and leaders have figured prominently in international Scout gatherings.

Is Expensive

Last of the 12 volumes of the Australian War History, edited by Dr. C. E. V. Bean, is to be published this year. It deals with operations of the Australian Imperial forces during the last six months of the campaign of the Western Front.

The history cost $104,692 ($418,768) to produce, and sales and subscriptions have so far produced a revenue of $30,004 ($120,016) making a net cost to the government of $74,688 ($298,752).

A small boy sat at the side of the road, sobbing pitifully. An old gentleman who came along was very touched by the tears.

"What's the matter, little man? he asked.

"I—I'm afraid to go to school," the youngster replied.

"But why?" asked the old fellow. "Haven't you been a good boy?"

"Oh, it isn't that," said the youngster. "You see, my sister jilted the schoolmaster yesterday."

"Never again! I stopped on the road to mend a woman's tire and she gave me a tongue-lashing because I didn't hurry."

"Oh, that's just her idea of reciprocity—tire for tire-aid, you know."

Driver of ramshackle old car: "Can you tell me the quickest way to Eleventh avenue, my boy?" Boy, after looking at the car over: "Sure, take a street car."
