Pickets at Valleyfield Stop Tradesmen Carrying Food to Employees in Cotton Mill

Strike Affects 2,832 Workers, No Violence Reported; Police on Hand Watching Pickets; Company Settlement Refused

Valleyfield tradesmen were turned back by pickets when they attempted to take food to 12 office workers remaining in the plant of Montreal Cottons, Limited, on the first day of the textile operatives strike at Valleyfield Monday. No violence was used, however, the pickets succeeding by peaceful methods in inducing the tradesmen to refrain from breaking through the picket line.

The strike affects four Montreal divisions of the Dominion Textile Company, one in Sherbrooke, one in Drummondville, one in Magog and another in St. Germaine de Montmorency besides the Montreal Cottons plant in Valleyfield. It was called on refusal of the company to enter into a collective labor agreement with the federation to be extended provincially under the Tremblay measure respecting such pacts. The union demanded a 48-hour week and wage increases claimed by the textile concern to average 40 per cent. and "amounting to more than $2,000,000, or twice the net profit we made last year," company officials declared. It affects 7,000 workers in the Province of Quebec.

Missionary To Indians Gave Address

Miss Dorothy M. Ellerton Tells of Church Work in Arizona

A most delightful evening was spent in the Fertile Creek Community Hall, on Saturday evening, when the Fertile Creek group of the Georgetown W.M.S. entertained at a social and a program of the guest speaker, Miss Dorothy M. Ellerton, formerly of Hemmingford. She is a missionary to Navajo Indians at Ganado, Arizona, maintained by the Presbyterian Church of U.S.A.

Miss Ellerton, dressed in the native costume of the Navajo Indians, gave an interesting and instructive address on the home life, hospital work and church work in which she has spent the past 13 years. Music is one of the greatest avenues in which to reach the hearts of the people. Curious, costumes and pictures were exhibited, while Miss Ellerton sang a few hymns in Indian tongue, also several sacred songs, which were much appreciated by all.

Don George, Mat Veteran, Visitor At Local Hotel

Ed Don George, mat veteran, was a visitor at the Chateau on Sunday evening. Mr. George was en route to Montreal where he is scheduled to meet Yvon Robert at the Forum this evening in a title bout for the heavyweight wrestling championship of the world. He was accompanied by Mrs. George and left immediately after dinner to attend to last minute details in connection with his coming bout.

A large crowd attended the dance held at the Huntingdon Chateau on Saturday evening. The music for the occasion was furnished by I. Braustein and his six-piece orchestra which band will supply the musical entertainment during the remainder of this week.

Messrs. Eddy Masuret and Ross Copland, formerly with Bonnie Hart's band were visitors at the Chateau on Sunday.

Following this demonstration four high class Ayshire cows were selected from the well-known purebred herd of Mr. W. W. Barr, and after Prof. Ness had outlined the work the members of the club were given twenty minutes in which to judge and write reasons for their placing of these animals. This class proved both interesting and instructive to the members who are preparing for the district field-day to be held at Oka Agricultural College.

After this class many of the party enjoyed a swim in the English river before having lunch.

Following the lunch, the vice-president of the club, Miss Peggy Hawkins, called the meeting to order and then asked the guest speaker, Prof. Ness, to address the members on the subject of judging competition. This part of the programme proved most instructive as it gave the members an opportunity to see where they gained their points, also where they lost them.

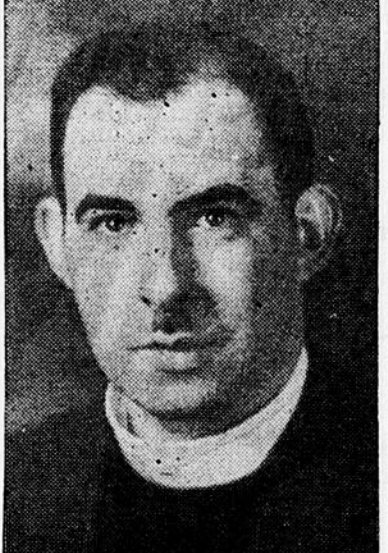

The chairman then called on Mr. W. Barr, who welcomed the club and friends and referred to his long association with Prof. Ness and the Ayshire business.

Mr. Gordon estimated that 6,500 of the company's 7,000 odd employees had not entered the mills Monday.

Monday's developments saw no overtures for negotiations by either side.

Well Staged Variety Program Given at Rockburn Social

Owing to unfavorable weather the social advertised for the home of W. G. Gibson, Rockburn, was held in the Church Hall.

The audience was greatly favored by the presence of Miss Jean Williamson of radio fame, who delighted her hearers with two selections. Vocal duets by Mr. and Mrs. Weale, reading by Mr. Alan Hooker, and tap dancing by Miss Mamie McNeil were much enjoyed.

The opening numbers consisted of violin selections by Mrs. Gibson and her class of pupils, accompanied by Mrs. G. Williams and Miss Alice Sloan at the piano.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Whyte and children, Marjorie, Mabel and Elliot, also Mr. Wm. True of Henrysburg were Sunday guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Whyte. Miss Dorothy Ellerton of Arizona was also a week-end guest.

Macdonald College Professor Gives Hemmingford Calf Club Members Useful Information

Cattle Judging and Type Demonstration Conducted at Field-day Held on Farm of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Barr, Thursday

A very successful field-day was held by the Hemmingford Calf Club on Thursday, July 29th, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Barr, who very kindly entertained the members and friends.

The Club was fortunate in having as their guest speaker Prof. A. R. Ness, from Macdonald College. Prof. Ness also took charge of the judging classes and was ably supported by Mr. J. P. Fleury, Calf Club fieldman for the district of Montreal, and R. J. M. Reid, acting club leader.

Prof. Ness gave the members a very instructive talk on the reasons for carrying on this type of work with the young people. Then he demonstrated the proper methods of procedure when judging a class of cattle.

Brand Edwards spoke briefly on the work in his raspberry patch which earned first prize last year. He also spoke on the work of the best Boys' Club berry patch in the district of Montreal.

It is hoped that the members of the Hemmingford Calf Club will be encouraged in this worthwhile organization and that an increased interest will be manifested as a result of the holding of this field-day.

The Week at Ottawa

Unemployed Youth "Soured" Through Years of Enforced Idleness Need Course of Training And General Re-habilitation

In a modest, experimental way, the Canadian government is attempting to cope with the tragic problem of unemployed youth.

Many observers think this is the most deplorable after-effect of the depression. No less than 200,000 young people came to the age of responsibility during the depression era without finding steady work.

Though the improvement in business in the past two or three years has been a fair percentage of these young people, there are still large numbers idle. Some of them only need the offer of a job to get back on their feet. Others have become "soured" and slackened their interest in the world.

Last session the Dominion Government voted a million dollars as a start toward meeting this problem. Hard times were pleaded by the treasury board, but this sum was originally considered.

It is an arguable point whether the state should take over the full responsibility for the problem. Many people argue that the indirect way is best: stimulate private industry by wise fiscal policy, and it will find openings for the young people, they say.

There is, however, a good example close at hand for state assistance. The United States has poured out millions on this work.

Badminton Club Held Treasure Hunt Thursday Evening

A very successful Treasure Hunt sponsored by the Huntingdon Badminton Club was held on Thursday evening at Port Lewis when approximately forty members and friends joined in the chase.

The hunt extended over a wide area around Huntingdon and the Lakeshore and after a thrilling hour search the treasure was discovered at the Lunan wharf at Port Lewis.

Mr. Reid was then called upon to address the meeting and lead in further competition, first place being secured by Miss Muriel Robinson.

Several of the members were then asked to discuss the problems of the Club and their work, and the secretary-treasurer, B. Barr, gave the financial report of the Club.

Brand Edwards spoke briefly on the work in his raspberry patch which earned first prize last year.

It is hoped that the members of the Hemmingford Calf Club will be encouraged in this worthwhile organization and that an increased interest will be manifested as a result of the holding of this field-day.

With flags waving in the breeze and a band playing and robed clergy members were very much in evidence, the 100th anniversary of St. Mary's Church in Port Covington, N.Y., was celebrated Thursday with solemn religious rituals, a program of sports, and what amounted to a town holiday.

Northern New York State Farmers Now on Strike as Protest Against Milk Prices

Strike Has Progressed Through Three Days With Very Little Evidence of Violence; Crowds Are Picketing Plants

Northern New York State Sheffield producers, striking against what they described as "starvation prices" for their milk, have expressed confidence that their milk holiday affecting 12 northern plants of the Sheffield Condensed Milk Company would be complete today.

At Malone, where the largest quantity of milk was received, with others receiving only a small percentage of their normal intake.

The strike, however, progressed through its first three days with little evidence of violence.

Five of the 12 Sheffield plants with others receiving only a small percentage of their normal intake.

Throughout the strike area, covering Franklin, Clinton and St. Lawrence counties, strikers said that none of the withheld milk was lost to the farmers. Cheese and butter plants augmented their staffs and put on night shifts to increase their capacity to take care of the influx from the striking producers.

In other cases farmers set up separators in their own milk houses to prepare cream for shipment to the Fairmont Creamery at Buffalo which has agreed to take all surplus cream from this section.

At Chateaugay strikers fell upon Patrick Connors when he approached the Sheffield plant this morning with a shot gun lying across his lap, its muzzle protruding over the door of his truck. They broke the gun, slugged Connors and smashed the windows of his truck. Parts of the gun were taken to the Malone headquarters.

Several meetings were held by producers in a last minute effort to avert the strike but the company would not listen to their demands.

Following are the Union demands: 1.—That no contract or agreement be required of producers.

2.—That no deductions for support of the Sheffield Producers' Co-operative Association, Inc.

3.—That the milk of any producer in compliance with the usual sanitary regulations, be accepted as offered to the limit of plant capacity.

4.—That producers during the month of August be paid a minimum of $1.55 per cwt. net POP plant for three percent milk together with the usual butterfat differential of four cents per point.

Sheffield's reply, dated July 28, stated that no contracts had been asked for, that the second demand embodied a matter which was up to the producers themselves, that they would continue to offer a market to

Leach Girls Downed By Huntingdon

Win First Game Over Local Rivals After Hard Fought Battle

After losing three consecutive games in the District Girls League, the Huntingdon girls easily won their second inter-town game on Tuesday night from Leach Textile by the score of 19-6.

Abley pitched by her team mates, Alice Rolfe selected a first class brand of ball for the victors while her opponent, the mound King, Leach, did exceptionally well.

Both teams took the field confident of winning and only after the third inning did the Huntingdon girls start hitting hard enough to augment their lead and come out on top.

In the last half of the fifth and sixth inning it looked as if Leach were again going to stage one of their great rallies but they failed to do so and the local girls continued to add more runs.

Germaine Lalonde, Eleanor Miller and E. Hunter were standouts for the winners while R. Arthur, E. Marshall and C. Cappiello were always dangerous at bat. M. Rennie made some great plays at second and picked up everything that came in her direction. Bertha Taylor and Jessie Taylor also made some nice catches.

This win placed Huntingdon girls in second position in the league with four points, trailing the Dundee girls by six points.

Dundee also won their contest in Dundee the same evening from Ormstown in a regular league game by the score of 13-1.

Score by innings:
Leach 001 004 1-6

Your Opportunity to Lend Assistance

An opportunity is now being afforded people interested in the welfare of sporting activities to do their bit. Two weeks ago appeared in the Gleaner a long list of names of people who had subscribed sums of money towards the building of the Huntingdon Skating Rink and Curling Rink. When these rinks were built, mortgages had to be arranged, and since then much money has been spent on renovating the skating rink.

To ask people who have already subscribed generously, for further contributions, is not exactly fair play. We have many people here with savings, who have members of their family now enjoying the sporting facilities provided by others. These people might well now contribute towards the upkeep of the rink. Every man who participates in curling ought to have at least $50 invested in that rink. As far as the skating rink is concerned, its upkeep is of importance to everyone.

Mr. C. W. McClatchie has voluntarily consented to solicit subscriptions for the benefit of these two sporting institutions. It is to be hoped many will deem it their pleasure and duty to uphold these two rinks by making as generous a contribution as is within their power to do.

Burnside Farm Ayrshire Pioneers

At the present time our thoughts turn to many "old time" local happenings. According to an 1887 almanac of the late Robert Sellar, fifty years ago today, we note that Robert Ness arrived from Scotland with thirteen Clydesdale horses. This was not Mr. Ness's first importation, for the year previous, on August 18th, he imported 10 Clydesdales. The popularity of the Clydesdale in the Chateauguy Valley can undoubtedly be largely credited to the late Robert Ness, who made many such importations.

R. R. Ness, son of the late Robert Ness, and present Laird of Burnside Farm, Howick, not only continued to import Clydesdale horses, but imported fine herds of Ayrshire cattle. The cattle importations were always of superior quality, and accordingly these animals were shown at livestock exhibitions across Canada and in the United States. The showing of Ness's Ayrshire cattle and Clydesdale horses has indeed done much towards popularizing the Chateauguy Valley as a great livestock centre.

The animal population of this community was not great fifty years ago, when compared with today. The increase, to approximately 70,000 head which we have today, can largely be attributed to Mr. Ness. Not only have the Ness families promoted the breeding of fine horses and cattle but credit is due them for popularizing the marketing of fluid milk in Montreal.

No matter what angle of farming you wish to view, you will find that R. R. Ness and Sons have given guidance and counsel in directing it along the avenue of sane judgment, and for the benefit of livestock men. Undoubtedly the crowning achievement for the Ness family has been that of the Ormstown Livestock Exhibition. Ness exhibits in the early days of the show formed the sound foundation for the standard of quality that has always been maintained.

On Saturday of this week Burnside Farm is to be the scene of a great livestock sale of Ayrshire cattle. These livestock sales are events of considerable interest to our readers whether they are breeders of purebred cattle or otherwise. The price of cattle is not as high as was the case when Mr. Gilbert McMillan held his $24,000 sale of Ayrshires, yet the Ness sale will probably draw many buyers who are prepared to pay the 1937 price for prize stock.

The Burnside Farm was credited as a "Gold Medal" farm not so very many years ago. We feel the Ness family will appreciate an attendance of visitors, of the Chateauguy Valley for the "Old Home Week" in addition to the prospective buyers of cattle.

Watching a Newspaper Reader

WATCH in your home how The Gleaner—or any other newspaper—is read. Possibly the main headlines on the front page are first scanned; but it is pretty safe thing to say that women readers will turn very early to the advertisements of local firms which advertise fashion items, food prices, and other offerings related intimately to current needs and desires.

Every woman knows what she wants—not perhaps in the precise form or color or variety or manner, but certainly in the main matters of her desire or need. This applies to clothes, hats, shoes, food items, beauty preparations and many items pertaining to home furnishing.

And so women are eternally on the watch for information—and for temptation! They are swiftly perceptive of the advertisements which present and propose the things of their desire or need. And obviously it is those retailers who advertise to them who stand the best chance of their custom.

It is the same in the case of men. Few men buy impulsively. When they leave home each day for their place of employment, it is not just to get rid of their money. What they buy is, mainly, something whose purchase has been planned—clothes or other forms of apparel, hardware items, motorizing sundries, shaving and other bath-room needs, plants, books and so on.

Men, like women, have been reading the advertisements in line with their ripening desires and intentions, and of course they go in largest numbers to those retailers who have been informing them and soliciting their custom.

All of us, instinctively, go where the light is, not where the darkness is. Advertisements are light, so they attract the buyers to those stores which they illumine.

The way to get business is to ask for it. Can the truth of this statement be successfully disputed? And here is another equally true statement: The public buys from those who invite its custom.

Canada Ruled by Dead Men

An ironical paradox if there ever was one. Canada is being ruled by a group of men who have been in their graves for years. And these men, the Fathers of Confederation, who struggled and fought to make the country great are now the great stumbling block towards its recovery and progress.

These men ruled wisely in 1867 and they have the B. N. A. Act to show for it. But an Act that fitted conditions in a young country like Canada in 1867 couldn't possibly be suited for 1937. That's logical, isn't it?

Most people don't understand the British North America Act. They think it has something to do with drought control or income tax returns. They never stop to realize that it is stifling Canada's progress and affects every Canadian personally. It paralyzes reform and cripples legislation. It is the big, bad wolf on the road to a higher standard of living in Canada.

It divides Canada into nine separate states each with its own laws that overlap and tangle with the laws of the neighbouring provinces. It's the biggest thorn in the side of Canadian unification.

It strangles all attempts to get national legislation relating to unemployment insurance, contributory pensions, national housing, financial relief to Provinces, labor laws, marketing acts, traffic control, jurisdiction over insurance and company charters.

National unemployment insurance is out because the Dominion can't make bosses and employees pay contributions. That is a provincial duty. Only a few provinces could afford it, labour would flock there. Unemployment insurance is working out well in the old country, and it is needed here but the B. N. A. Act says, No!

Contributory pension schemes in force in the Old Country and the United States should be introduced here but the Dominion under the B. N. A. Act lacks power to exact contributions. In these schemes all persons, who are able to, pay so much out of their wages towards a pension in their older years.

People say why not a national housing scheme—a grand coast to coast building programme to give the unemployed work instead of relief. But that can't be done—under the B. N. A. Act. The Dominion can lend the provinces money to do their own building but no national co-operation or central pressure can be brought to bear to ensure the venture of success.

In labour legislation, financial relief to the provinces, marketing, etc., no central and National authority which is vital to the success of such large sized undertakings can be secured. The B. N. A. Act says so.

It's time the Act was changed to suit present conditions. The country needs it.

$125. For Your Family

WITH over 2500 more cars passing through the Trout River Customs port to date this year than last year tourism in this province is keeping pace with record figures being made at other centres.

Answering the call of summer, the annual parade of vacation-minded motorists from the United States to Canada is under way again. Last year more than sixteen million people and over four million automobiles entered Canada from the United States, and reports from the three leading ports of entry—Windsor, Fort Erie and Niagara Falls—indicate that this year's traffic will be much heavier than in 1936.

Travel by automobile at all ports of entry during the first four months of the present year show an increase of an average of twenty-five per cent in both Canadian and United States cars, inward and outward, with a corresponding increase in passengers. An interesting feature of the traffic during the month of April is that every state, with the exception of New Mexico and South Carolina was represented, and included cars from Cuba, Mexico, Hawaii, and Honolulu.

The tourist trade last year meant an additional revenue to Canada of $25 for every man, woman and child in the Dominion, or about $125 per family. This year it will mean more.

Protect the Forests

ACCORDING to the Canada Year Book no accurate summing up for forest fire losses in Canada's forests has ever been made, but it has been estimated that sixty per cent of the original forest has been burned, thirteen per cent has been cut for use and twenty-seven per cent remains. Though the loss of merchantable timber from fire has been greatly reduced in recent years by forest protective services and the education of the public, it still continues a serious drain on our resources. A low estimate is that fire destroys annually 230,000,000 cubic feet of merchantable timber and the young growth of 550,000 acres.

Since the historic Miramichi fire of 1825, generally regarded as the most disastrous on record, there have been many other forest conflagrations. About the year 1845 vast areas west of Lake Superior were burned over. Some years later a very extensive fire went over the height of land from Lake Temiskaming to Michipicoten in Northern Quebec and Ontario.

In 1871 a fierce fire, a veritable inferno, swept over more than 2000 square miles of forest from Lake Nipissing westward, along the north shore of Georgian Bay in Ontario. About the same time the greater part of the Saguenay and Lake St. John district in Quebec was swept by one of the most disastrous fires on record. Two other fires in 1891 and 1896 devastated more than 2000 square miles of country in the Algoma district. In more recent times forest fires have swept over sections of Northern Ontario, including one in the Porcupine district in 1911, which caused the loss of 72 lives and property damage estimated at over $3,000,000. In 1922 fires in the same region were responsible for the deaths of at least 224 people. In 1908 a forest fire was responsible for the destruction of the town of Fernie, B.C., and in 1922 fire wiped out the town of Haileybury, Ont. In 1923, forest fires, principally in Eastern Canada, destroyed an area of six million acres, causing a property loss of approximately $466,666,666.

Coming nearer home, nobody has forgotten the fires which burned over large tracts of forest lands in the Counties of Gloucester, Queens and Sunbury in the summer of 1935. In Gloucester County many settlers were driven from their homes and suffered the loss of their household belongings and the government had to assist them in getting re-established. It cost the taxpayers of the province the substantial sum of $55,070 in the year 1935 to suppress forest fires, which were no doubt the result of human carelessness. In 1936 the cost of fighting fires was reduced to $1,459. It is to be sincerely hoped that this very creditable record will be maintained during the present year.

Chroniced News Bits

FOUND MONEY

Six years ago, a motorcycle was stolen from M. E. Harding, of Topeka. Months later, the machine was found in a vacant lot in Los Angeles, Calif. A local dealer repaired and sold the machine for Harding. A few weeks ago Harding received an unsigned letter asking him to place a classified advertisement in a San Francisco paper stating the amount of loss caused him by the theft of the motorcycle. Harding did so, giving $100 as the damages he had suffered. A few days later, back came a letter from San Francisco to Harding enclosing five twenties and two dollar bills. A note explained the extra $2 was for the advertising bill paid by Harding whose faith in humanity has gone up a notch since then.

NUDE GHOST MAKES HAUL

By pretending to be a ghost, a beautiful young woman appeared naked at night in the house of a priest at Istanbul, Turkey, and danced before him, made a valuable haul of money and other valuables. When he first saw what he described as a ghostly apparition, the priest at once began to pray, thinking this would banish the phantom. It had the opposite effect, for the ghost's movements became so diabolic, he said, that he fainted. While he was unconscious, the "ghost" led a band of thieves into the house, from which they made their escape with the owner's savings, treasures and valuable rugs and carpets.

ROCK VISITING CARDS

In Tacoma, Wash., Walter Sutter created a rock garden which attracted sightseers from far and wide. It was built of 300 rocks and included a waterfall. As the number of visitors grew, Sutter got an idea. He required every one who came to see his garden to bring a rock of some kind. That was months ago. Since that time, more than 800 tons of rocks of all sizes and descriptions have accumulated on the Sutter place, brought by tourists, sent by mail and even freight and express.

BIRD WAR HERO

One of the last remaining bird heroes of the Great War has died at Fort Monmouth, N.J. It was Mocker, of the carrier pigeons that served with the American expeditionary forces. It was twenty years old. Mocker carried official messages for his division, and lost an eye on one of its most important errands.

German guns had been pounding the American lines at Beaumont when Mocker was shot. He was hit in the front lines with a message fastened to his leg, stating the position of the enemy battery. Less than half an hour later it arrived at his home station, its head a mass of clotted blood and one eye blown from its socket.

Shortly after, the German battery was silenced by the American gunners who received the message.

DAWN VARIETY SHOW

An alarm clock that will wake its owner with twenty different sounds on twenty consecutive days is claimed to have been invented by Mario Piretti, a Venice watchmaker. On the first day the sleeper is awakened by an ordinary bell. Among the other nineteen alarms are a motor horn, a fox trot melody and a revolver shot.

SIN FINDS HIM OUT

A jury was being selected for a case in a Los Angeles court. Prospective Juror L. Wilden was being questioned as to his fitness. His record appeared good until he was asked if he had ever been arrested for anything. By way of answer, Wilden hung his head and squirmed uncomfortably. The court insisted that he give the details of the crime for which he was arrested. "Your Honor," Wilden said shamefacedly, "it was for speeding on a bicycle back in 1906."

In 1926, twins, a boy and a girl, were born to Mr. and Mrs. Harry Fifield, East Thompson, Conn. Approximately every two years since then, the stork has brought this family twins, the sixth set arriving a few days ago. If this is not a record for twins in one family, the Fifields would like to hear of a better one.

SPINACH EATERS

In the four years 1933-36 inclusive Canadians have consumed 23,904,992 pounds of imported spinach in addition to the domestic supplies. The imports are also increasing, the amount imported during the fiscal year ended March 31, 1937, being 7,630,993 pounds as against 5,840,109 pounds in the former year. Practically the entire bulk of the spinach importations comes from the United States, the supplies from Bermuda, the other spinach exporter, being comparatively small.

GAS WELL WATERED

Near Alva, Okla., Clarence Annis, a farmer, has a well which provides him with both water and motor fuel. He pumps the fluid from the ground, then lets it settle. Within a few hours the gasoline comes to the top, a yellow liquid, and Annis skims it off. He gets one 100 gallons of this fuel daily, paying the regular gasoline tax, and also uses the fuel in his car and tractor. After taking off the fuel he uses the water for his stock.

MONEYED MICE

Four $5 bills and a $25 in stamps were missed from a desk drawer in the Knoxville, Tenn., post office. A search of the desk finally revealed a small hole in one corner of the drawer. Underneath was found a mouse nest containing a family of red, little, wriggling baby mice. The nest was made of the $5 bills and missing stamps chewed into bits by Mother Mouse.

SHIVERING SKELETON

Terrified visitors in New York's state museum at Albany insisted that an Indian skeleton named "Pete" was shivering and acting strangely otherwise. The story soon spread and the skeleton began to attract more visitors than any other exhibit. It remained for a guard, Bert Van Loon, to spoil the whole story by explaining the skeleton's strange shivering was caused by ventilating fans just installed. Pete's ancient joints are hung in such a neat balance that the vibration of the fans made him do stunts that terrified visitors.

PICKET THREE YEARS

Three years ago, waiters and cooks in a Chicago lake front hotel went on a strike. Other help was hired to replace the strike who did not return to work but two members of the striking union have picked the hotel ever since, Conrad Frisch, 55, and Albert Webber, 64. They estimate they have walked 3,000 miles in their picketing. Have worn 10 pairs of shoes each, and will continue picketing until the union, which is supporting them, calls them off. Both declare they are much healthier walking up and down in the open air than when working inside the hotel, so everybody seems satisfied.

BOYS GET BREAK

Years ago, when Mrs. Emily Colwell taught a school in East Gloucester, R. I., one of her chief problems was to keep boys from playing hockey and going swimming in a nearby stream. She had to be stern about it but could sympathize with the boys. Recently the old school building, long unused for a school, was sold at auction. Mrs. Colwell bought it for $25. She is having it remodelled to serve as a shelter house for a boys' camp from which youngsters of this generation may be swimming in the hearts' content without breaking any rules.

SHORT WAVE WOOLING

A short wave courtship between the owners of two private radio stations has resulted in marriage at Hampton, New Brunswick. A year and a half ago, Doris M. Fenwick, of Hampton, picked up call signals sent by Clarence L. Stone, of Corinna, Maine, and he heard her signals. Their short wave wooing lasted 18 months, then Mr. Stone decided to visit his radio sweetheart. Falling in love afresh with her charming manner, he proposed and was accepted.

PENSION REPAID

On the old age pension rolls of New York state since 1931, Mrs. Elizabeth Donahue, 80, widow of Tuckahoe, N. Y., received a total of $2,382. Recently, she inherited $3,000 from the estate of her sister. The question came up as to whether the pension money Mrs. Donahue had received was to be repaid. To the county public welfare commissioner asked the state supreme court for a ruling. As a result, Mrs. Donahue has been ordered to repay the state all she received in pensions on the grounds this is stipulated by the law in cases of this kind.

GREEN MILLIONS GO

The city of Boston has levied a tax of 232,000 on the jewelry of the late Col. Edward H. R. Green, stored in a bank vault and appraised at $6,000,000 by assessors. That should be enough to make his mother, Hetty Green, eccentric millionaire, turn over in her grave. In her day Hetty Green wore patched dresses, walked miles to save carfare, and once asked permission to ride in the cab of a locomotive to save railroad coach fare.

BAN BARE BACKS

There is to be no more sun-bathing in the forest of Fontainebleau, France, the mayor having decided legs must be covered to the knees and there are to be no more bare backs. Campers, says the mayor, are the worst offenders. They insist on washing in the morning in their bathing suits outside their tents, and drying themselves in the sun. Now no one is allowed to wear a bathing suit as the whole of their costume on pain of prosecution.

CHEAP WRECKED

Owners of the ill-fated German dirigible, the Hindenburg, are advertising the wreckage to salvage companies and junkmen. Highest bid received for the wrecked ship, which cost $4,000,000, is $12,000. The principal item of value in the debris is the aluminum, 35 tons of, of which the girders were made.

JUST HOW IT FELT

Facing Judge Hatch in the Tulsa, Oklahoma court, Tom Bailey, charged with drunkenness, said he did not know whether he had been intoxicated or not. "I have never been drunk before," he explained. "Did everything sort of wobble up and down like this?" asked the judge helpfully, waving his hands slowly. "Yeah," whispered Bailey. "And did you feel mighty happy and grand and love everyone the whole world dearly?" "Yeah!" "And did you also feel like you could just whip the pants off any mother's son alive?" "Yeah; that's it!" Judge Hatch sat back, grabbed his pen, and wrote down the pronouncement. "Five dollars and costs."

CYCLING AT 84

At 84, William C. Bailey, a farmer near Underhill, Vt., is on his way to visit relatives in Illinois, riding a bicycle. So far he has made 60 to 70 miles a day and predicts he will reach Chicago in 10 days to two weeks—"if my wind holds out."

QUADS TWICE

Quadruplets are reported to have been born to two mothers at the same time in the same district of Leicestershire, Kansas province, China. One mother had four girls and the other three boys and a girl. All ten are 10 days of being well.

Profit by Successful Business Man's Experience

A business man recently attributed his failure to having abandoned newspaper advertising. He stopped advertising because he thought the rate too high. Handbills, circulars, fac-simile letters, sign-boards were used in vain. It was bad judgment. He recognized his folly too late. Today he is out of business—a failure.

If you do not advertise your business, the sheriff will.

If you want to sell things to the public, learn to originate ideas and to put them into attractive form.

You will find it of practical advantage to keep a record of such ideas as they occur to you, either by writing them in a notebook, or on cards to be duly filed for ready reference.

Good advertising is crisp, graphic, convincing. It should be based on sound, common sense.

When the depression was at its worst—when business men were panic-stricken and fearful of the direct calamities—a well-known publishing house promptly doubled its newspaper advertising and reaped a profitable business in consequence.

A man wrote to a local newspaper:

"Thursday I lost a gold watch I valued highly. I immediately advertised in your lost and found column and patiently waited. Yesterday I went home and found the watch in the pocket of another suit. It certainly pays to advertise."

But here I am urging the serious side of advertising, the publicity that pays profits.

A merchant recently handed to a newspaper "copy" in which the first item advertised was ice-cream freezers.

"Are you crazy?" the Editor asked. "Ice-cream freezers in February! You can sell 'em in July and August, but not now."

"But," said the merchant, "you said to advertise what people want and are buying."

"They're not buying freezers now."

"They are."

The newspaper reluctantly inserted the advertisement and the merchant sold over 100 ice-cream freezers that week-end.

 Moral: It pays to advertise when you advertise what people want to buy.

The Butter Situation

Within the past forty-eight hours we have had the opportunity of further discussing the butter situation with informed and experienced men actively engaged in the business, and who are giving to the situation the closest possible study. The impression which I have gained is that while these men do not look for a "runaway" market, and do not feel that such, for a variety of reasons, would be to the advantage of the industry, they nevertheless are convinced that the market is going to be quite firm for the balance of the season, and that under certain circumstances it may be better.

They seem to feel that even with good normal production this Autumn and Winter, butter has no more than sufficient butter for our domestic requirements, and that we shall have less than we require, and possibly be under the necessity of importing some butter if we experience an early freeze-up and rough or severe Autumn and Winter weather. This would appear to be logical reasoning, and the information is passed on to you for what it may be worth.

ELECTRIC COOKING is SIMPLE

... Electric Cooking is the simplest method of cooking known. You just turn a switch and even, controlled heat is produced which results in perfectly cooked food. No longer will you need to wonder whether the oven is too hot or too cold. You won't have to be constantly looking to see if the cake is burning, for the electric stove is so controlled that variations in temperature cannot happen. The wonderful thermostat looks after that.

The time clock control, which may be obtained for a small extra payment, makes electric cooking even simpler. You can set the oven to start and stop itself automatically at any time you wish to suit your convenience. Think of the freedom this gives you.

FARM CHEMURGY

I noticed a mild comment by a correspondent in last week's Gleaner in regard to reduction of School Tax Rate in a nine month school area where extremely low salaries for teachers prevail.

There is a blight on the community and the profession. A Jack Applied to Farm Incomes Getting right into the heart of the matter and boring from underneath is the latest method of the Division of Milk Control of New York State.

Chemistry to the Rescue

Many people now believe that chemistry will solve the farm problem. In Florida last February they had a Chemurgic Conference to study the application of chemical discoveries in their State.

W. R. Ogg of American Farm Bureau states: "There is an appalling lack of adequate educational facilities in rural communities—adequate equipment, inadequate teaching staffs, under-paid and poorly-trained."

Mr. Ogg suggests that administrators of public schools seek aid and co-operation of other organized groups of citizens in providing a coordinated, adequate system. Finally—"We need to recapture the ancient ideal in education—the emphasis upon personal relationship between the teacher and the master and his pupil as a molding influence in the training of our youth."

Many in Attendance at Beauharnois Races

The International Beauharnois Regatta which was held at Beauharnois Saturday and Sunday afternoons, July 24th and 25th, attracted more than ten thousand persons from the surrounding district and cities.

Mr. Ernest Loiselle, popular Montreal sportsman, was the official starter for the races. The yacht, "Kamary", owned by Mr. F. S. Molson, built by Mr. E. Poirier and driven by L. Mongrain, kept its title of provincial champion in the Free-For-All which brought out some of the best racing yachtsmen of the province and the United States.

"Miss Valleyfield", owned by Lucien Faubert of that City did not come up to expectations but Mr. Faubert stated that he would have a winner for next year's event. Official regatta opening took place between 1:30 and 2 p.m. Sunday afternoon on the judges' and officials' raft, tied in the bay.

Judges were: Messrs. G. W. Olive, C. O. Dupuis, E. Poirier, E. Harvey, D. B. Philibert, A. Gaboury, O. Dorais, L. Miron, J. A. Larose, E. Marchand and L. Leduc. Among the officials were: Mayor H. Roy of Beauharnois, Mayor R. Cardinal of Malone, N. Y., Comodore F. S. Molson, Dr. O. E. Caza of Valleyfield, Arthur Caron, Pierre Trudeau, René Leduc, Walter Renaud, Emery Poirier, L. Gillis, S. H. Crownless Hats

The crownless hat this summer rivals the toeless sandal in popularity, and the two ensure coolness to a degree never before achieved. Crowns are really not necessary in hats in the summer time. The crownless models keep hair trim from flying winds, shade the eyes from bright sunlight, and lend a graceful line to the head.

The younger generation is going one better than crownless hats, wearing turbans, braids and haloes which have even less body. In the directions that follow, we present turbans to be braided at home from crepe paper at a slight cost of money and time. Even if you devised as many such turbans as your wardrobe possessed of informal summer frocks, they would not necessarily be monotonous. They can be greatly varied in shape and the color combinations are countless.

A color known in crepe paper as leaf-green is a cool tone with white. Two or three shades of any hue chosen make attractive effects. Black or navy with beige are smart, as are combinations of the cereal colors. Then there are such exciting contrasts as fuchsia and blue, turquoise and brown, yellow and rose, scarlet or bright green with pale lilac.

Making Braided Bandeau To make a Braided Bandeau you will need 1 fold of crepe paper, paste or spool wire.

Step 1: Cut the crepe paper into three 1-yard lengths. Step 2: Fold each 1-yard piece lengthwise till it is about 2 inches wide. Step 3: Cut the 1-yard folded

Valleyfield Council

Valleyfield laborers will have the opportunity to visit the Valleyfield Fair August 18th as this day was fixed by the Valleyfield Council as a civic holiday at a regular meeting of the council on Wednesday, May 19. Billette presided over the meeting. This resolution was moved by Ald. Dr. Laroche and was unanimously adopted so that every one would have the same opportunity. During this meeting Ald. Raoul Miron declared, concerning the Shawnee Water & Power, that the Proprietors' League, seconded by a local newspaper and a financier, was stirring up propaganda in favor of the company. A petition by the Montreal Cottons for the exemption of taxes for their athletic grounds was rejected because this company must pay its taxes like others, council stated. The discussion of the price of stone to Mr. Z. Perron was interrupted by the mayor who stated that the question had been settled at a finance meeting. The price for the construction of an asphalt sidewalk on Boulevard du Havre, from Caroline Street, to Mr. Marcel Benoit's residence would amount to approximately $150.00 according to a report furnished by the city engineer. A letter from the Proprietors' League declined the Council's invitation to assemble for the purpose of discussing electricity. A letter from the Minister of Transport advised the Council that the contract for the transport of the bridge would be ready within the next ten days.

Employment Up

Employment at the beginning of July was at a higher level than any July 1 on record except 1929, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics said Saturday. For Quebec province the report indicated that manufacturing, on the whole, showed further improvement, there being increases in lumber, pulp and paper, electric light and power, iron and steel, non-ferrous metal and electrical apparatus factories. Leather and textile plants, however, showed seasonal curtailment. In the non-manufacturing industries, services, logging, transportation and construction reported considerably heightened activity. In the last-named, the greatest gains were in work on the highways, although building and railway construction were also much busier. The general advance during the month exceeded that indicated at July 1 in any other year of the record, except 1933, when the percentage gain was larger, although the number obtaining work was smaller. The forces of 2,444 employers aggregated 328,614 persons, compared with 316,196 at June 1, or an addition of 12,418. Employment at the beginning of July was more active than in any other month since December 1, 1929. Standing at 118.0 at the latest date, the index was over 16 points higher than at July 1, 1936, when the 2,298 firms making returns had employed 281,041 persons, or some 5,000 more than in the preceding month.

Farm Life In 1827

The following is a copy of a letter written 110 years ago by John Caldwell, great grandfather of Mr. John J. Tannahill of Huntingdon.

Oak Creek, Hinchinbrooke, June 27th, 1827 Dear Friend:— I received yours dated Aug. 22nd on the 13th of Nov. and I am certainly much obliged to you for the information it contains.

I received yours dated Aug. 22nd on the 13th of Nov. and I am certainly much obliged to you for the information it contains. I have often thought on the state of the poor weavers, since I got your letter, and think myself happy that I am now clear of the loom and can tell you the truth I have not the smallest material belonging to the loom.

Four of Jan 2nd and April 3rd came to hand on the 25th of May, and I am truly glad to hear that all our friends and acquaintances are well, and that you have a good opinion of my son John. I got a letter from him, but it was only a line and I assure you I am very proud of him—and to tell you the truth, James, God has blessed me with good children, as they are all of very amiable disposition and a great help to me. Willie is a tall young man. He is sober and religious, and is liked by all who know him.

When I look back on the time I have spent in the world I see many a blank in our old acquaintance. Many who were much stronger and more robust than either you or I, have gone to their long homes, while you are left to the intricacies of business and I am left to combat with forests of North America, so unstable is all earthly things.

My wife appears to be reconciled to the country, and so she may be, for if she was in Scotland she would not fare so well as she does here. But still there are many things awaiting here, but with me, which is a great comfort to us. We have sowed 6 bushels of wheat this year (our bushel contains 40 quarters) which looks very well, we likewise sowed 4 bushels of buckwheat, and 2 bushels of peas, but I am sorry to say we have but small prospects of a potato crop.

You wish me to write all about my farm and live stock. We have about 15 acres in crops this year, and had not our crop been damaged it would have set us upon very good ground. Our live stock thrive well, our oxen growing well and in the course of a year and a half from this time, they will be worth £20. We have two milch cows, one calf and a grey heifer a year old, 3 big pigs and four little pigs.

MOTHER HELPED BY KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN

"I have suffered from terrible constipation since the birth of my first child. I tried everything. Very reluctantly, I tried your ALL-BRAN with no faith in it at all.

"Much to my surprise, I have not had to take any medicine since starting to use ALL-BRAN."—Mrs. Doris Eyre King (address on request).

Common constipation is usually due to meagre low in "bulk." Kellogg's ALL-BRAN supplies this needed "bulk." Within the body, this cereal absorbs twice its weight in water, forms a soft, moist, gently spongy outer system. ALL-BRAN also furnishes vitamin B to tone up the intestines, and iron for the blood.

Enjoy this food instead of taking weakening pills and drugs. Serve as a cereal, with milk or fruit, or cook into recipes. ALL-BRAN is sold by your grocer. Made and guaranteed by Kellogg in London.

No Election In Quebec Until 1940

Duplessis Says Premier Duplessis said last week there would be no election in Quebec before the full four-year term of his administration expired.

The Premier's declaration came in an address in connection with the re-opening of the long-closed sulphite mill at Chandler, Que. He declared he was answering Liberal Leader Adolphe Godbout's recent assertion that the opposition party was ready for election any time. His Government, Duplessis said, stands for harmony and co-operation. It intends to respect the rights of the English-speaking minority in this province, he added.

Declaring there was an agitation on the part of certain persons to establish a French-Canadian State in Quebec, the Premier termed this move "stupid nationalism." It was giving the province a bad reputation, he said, as he called on "all men of good-will" to co-operate in bringing prosperity back.

District Sports Activities

Dundee Takes First Place By Winning 15-0

Take Huntingdon Girls Into Camp On Home Field Saturday

The Dundee girls chalked up their fourth consecutive victory in as many starts when they defeated the Huntingdon Girls in Ste-Agnes Saturday afternoon in a regular league game by the score of 15-0.

The home team, behind the masterful pitching of Janet Fraser, played class A ball and only in the fifth inning were the visiting girls able to get as far as third base and this on two singles with no runners retired.

Timing their hits to perfection and making some brilliant plays in the field, the Dundee girls scored in every inning of the game. Their Huntingdon foes were somewhat upset in the first inning, playing their first game out of town, but they came back to make some smart catches. Dundee, however, did not let Dundee drop gradually augmenting their lead.

Dundee has, to date, defeated all the teams in the league and are now resting comfortably in first position with eight points.

Jessie Taylor who was pitching for her first game for the Huntingdon team on Saturday showed up to expectations but her teammates failed her at intervals. The two McCarty sisters, playing first and third on the winning team, hit hard each time they came to bat and their fielding left nothing to be desired.

By this victory Dundee made sure of the first position in the league and their opponents cannot overtake them now as each team has already lost at least one of their contests.

Dundee

The Soft-Ball game between the Dundee girls and the Huntingdon Club team had to be postponed on Friday evening on account of poor weather. However, the game was played the following afternoon on the local diamond.

BLACK HORIZON

BY JOSEPH LEWIS CHADWICK

Chapter III

Maya Jack's words had been more of warning than a threat. Obviously, he did not want trouble with Rand Kirby.

For the space of perhaps a minute the two men faced each other. They were big men, strong men to whom force was of necessity the principal law. Maya Jack was perfectly cool. There was no anger in his manner. He stood firmly planted on the deck, his rifle in his big hands and leveled at Rand's stomach.

Rand, however, was tense, his hands hard fists. His lean face was hard bronzed, and out of it his large eyes were glaring cold and steady.

He forced calmness upon himself, and tried desperately to think rationally. He didn't want to quarrel with Maya Jack, friends though they had never been, over a woman as Sonya Duraud.

Rand shifted his glance to the girl's frightened face. She was lovely even in fear. Her dark eyes were wide, terrorized. Her rich full lips were trembling. Pudgy-faced, red-nosed Kelly Burk was still gripping one slim arm. Sonya was staring at Maya Jack Cannaghan.

No, he wouldn't risk a shot from Maya Jack's rifle for this woman. But Rand didn't want to be in the affair, desired no part of it. He knew Maya Jack wouldn't permit him to hedge out of the scheme. He needed the schooner, and if he permitted Rand to go ashore he would have one more man on his trail. No, it wouldn't do not to string ward fashion. Any other man perhaps, she would have defied. But not Maya Jack.

Rand took Sonya Duraud to the little cabin beside his own. It was a crudely furnished room, so small that it seemed all walls. There was but a bunk, a table and two chairs. "Well, make yourself at home," Rand said bitterly. "And remember, I warned you."

The girl surprised him by walking quickly into the room. She stood in the center of the floor and critically surveyed the place.

"It isn't exactly ultra-modern, is it?" she said, almost lightly.

"It's the suite usually reserved for royalty," he told her.

He heard Kelly coming with the girl's bags, so he left the cabin and met the man. Kelly's blue eyes were glassy; he had been drinking already.

Rand took the bags, sent Kelly off. Sonya was still standing by the table when he re-entered the cabin.

"I suppose," Rand said, "you've noticed that the tropics aren't Park Avenue."

"Kidnappings happen in the best places," she replied.

"Kidding yourself, aren't you?" "Kidding myself?"

"That there is no danger, I mean." She moved to the bunk and sank on to it. "No," she said, her eyes frightened again. "I'm not underestimating my danger. I—I'm in far worse danger than you can know."

Rand looked at her wonderingly. "What do you mean?"

She gave him a faint, tremulous smile. "You'll probably find that did it viciously. "I think," he said, "I've asked for a lot of grief."

The chart-room deck was vibrating underfoot in time to the throbbing of the engines. The schooner was heading out to sea. Rand glanced out through the porthole. Maglaya was a black patch in the moonlit sea, receding rapidly.

Rand's glance came back to the chart room, to the gun rack on the opposite wall. It was empty. Maya Jack saw his glance and chuckled.

"I removed all the guns and locking them up in the cabin I'm occupying," he understood. "Maya Jack laughed again. "I was afraid the girl might take a notion to be melodramatic."

Rand knew Maya Jack didn't fear that Sonya would try to use a heavy rifle. He was afraid Rand would attempt to overthrow his scheme.

"I've taken other precautions," Maya Jack said. "I've fixed the radio—so there can be no SOS messages broadcast. You understand that necessity?"

"Of course," muttered Rand, puffing at his pipe. Then: "What's our course?"

"Due east until I get a notion to change it."

Rand went out onto deck for a tour of inspection. His native seamen were at their posts. He found Pete Barker aft, looking out across the silvery capped water.

"Well, Pete, what have you to say for yourself?"

Pete seemed to jump a foot. He was always jittery and was worse tonight. He could not meet Rand's steady glance.

"I had to side with Maya," he said, groveling. "I—I owned him something and he reminded me of it. But I don't like it. I'm scared."

"You'll be far more scared later on," Rand said. "This is only the beginning."

"I wish I was out of it!" Pete said, his voice breaking. He was a subject in his fear.

Rand said, "Where's that punk, Kelly?"

"He's in the forecastle getting drunk," Pete said.

Rand hopped down there and take his liquor from him," Rand said. "I won't have him drinking aboard my ship. Get going!"

He saw Pete shuffle off, then went to his own cabin. He made a hasty examination of the room.

He had a revolver and some cartridges hidden among his effects. It was still there. He left it there, pending further developments. He thought of Sonya's request for a weapon, but considered the 38 apt to be more effective in his hands.

There was a formidable long-bladed pocket knife among his things. This he decided Sonya should have. It was easily concealed and could be deadly if the need arose.

He left his cabin and stepped down the passageway to Sonya's room. She said, "Come in," in reply to his knock.

She was stretched out on the bunk, her dark head cradled in her arms. She stared ceilingward at the frosted glass of the skylight. She did not look at him, but he was aware that she knew who it was who had entered.

"Well?" she asked.

Rand started, conscious that he had been standing just inside the closed door staring at her. He felt suddenly like a fool, but told himself that Sonya Duraud was incredibly lovely and he but human.

"I've brought you a knife," he said, his voice growled.

She looked at him now, her eyes again alarmed. She sat up, swung her feet to the floor. Rand stepped across the cabin and held out the knife.

"Press the button on the handle," he said, "and the blade will spring out. I hope you may never need to use it."

Her glance was grateful, but her voice tragic. "I shall," she said, holding it. "I shall need it."

Morning came, with the sun coming up suddenly and hot and bright. The scorching air had just begun to cool when the molten ball rose above the eastern horizon to heat it again. It glared on the emerald water, and the tropic day had begun.

The Ventura had kept on the easterly course all through the night. It was still on that course, driving swift-paced ahead.

Rand was on deck when Sonya Duraud appeared. He watched her from the shade of the forward cabin. She wore a white linen dress that accentuated her slenderness and the perfection of her body. She stood at the rail and stared out across the restless water.

Rand was about to approach her when he saw Maya Jack come from the chart room. That morning Rand didn't care a hang about Maya Jack, but something in the man's manner made him hesitate.

Maya Jack was walking slowly toward Sonya Duraud. His strong, handsome face had a queer expression upon it. Rand thought he must be wrong, but he would have sworn there was something of tenderness in Maya Jack's blue eyes. And a curious softness about the set of his usually stern lips.

Then suddenly, with the jolting force of a blow between the eyes, Rand knew. He realized that there was something more behind Maya Jack's kidnapping of Sonya Duraud than a mere desire to force Henri Duraud to sign the island of Maglaya over to him.

And the realization frightened Rand Kirby more than anything that had yet occurred.

"Maya Jack Cannaghan," he told himself, "is in love with Sonya Duraud!"

along with Maya Jack. The big blond man had said he'd feed Rand to the barracuda, and he meant it.

Rand knew what barracuda were. They sometimes came in close to shore, wolves of the sea, worse than sharks. His only out then was to pretend to string along with Maya Jack—and await his chance to get out of the mess.

Rand let the tenseness go out of his body. He shrugged broad shoulders and nodded his head affirmatively.

"All right, Maya," he said. "But I still think you are a fool!"

"Fool or not, I'm going through with this. So are Kelly and Pete. We're going through with you or without you."

"I'll go along with you," Rand said, and he saw Sonya Duraud's body shudder. Perhaps she had held out a hope that would champion her.

"Good," muttered Maya Jack. "You take the girl to a room, Kelly, you bring her bags aboard from the small boat. Pete, you get the crew at their places and start the engines."

Rand fought a desire to slug Maya Jack. He didn't like another man giving orders aboard his ship. He stifled the desire, however, and nodded to Sonya Duraud. "Come with me," he said.

Sonya stood free now, for Kelly Burk had moved to the rail. She looked at Rand, pleadingly.

It was evident that Sonya Duraud feared Maya Jack. It was in her eyes. She looked at the man as if her soul were frightened. Rand wondered at that. The girl couldn't have reason to fear Maya Jack more than the others—or had she?

Sonya accompanied Rand willingly enough after Maya Jack had instructed her to in his straightforward

Nine Big Days For Ottawa Exhibition

Nothing Left Undone To Make 50th Anniversary Memorable Event

The live stock departments at Ottawa Exhibition will not open until Monday, August 23rd, but all other buildings will be in readiness and the big midway will be in operation when the exhibition is formally opened at noon on Thursday, August 19th, by Prime Minister Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King. There will be a complete change in the grandstand program after the first three nights. The opening attractions will include Chaudiere, an elaborate historical pageant with a cast of 800 persons; Lucky Teter and his Hell Drivers in amazing stunts with automobiles and motorcycles; Cavalcade, historic riders of the ages, and fireworks.

On Monday and for six days, Goldman and his band will be heard in two concerts daily. Last year this famed organization under the distinguished leader was given so enthusiastic a reception that it again was booked. In front of the grandstand for the last six days will be presented The Revue of Tomorrow. This will set the standard for outdoor entertainment with a cast largely of beautiful and talented girls, artists, whose names have flashed on Broadway, Vaudeville of the very best obtainable, horse races and other entertainment features will appeal to old and young. In the evenings, in the Coliseum, for five days will be staged a horse show with a strong program of jumping and harness driving events. The dog show will be on for three days.

Among the hundred and one free attractions will be the automobile show, wild animals, live fish and game birds shown by the Ontario government; pure food show, fruit, and flowers, hobby show, school exhibits, displays by merchants and manufacturers, baby show, child welfare, junior agriculture demonstrations, women's institutes, live stock, poultry and pets, Highland dancing, band concerts, etc. Nothing has been left undone to make the nine days memorable and to eclipse all the splendid records of half a century of progress.

British Butter and Cheese Tariffs Stay The Same

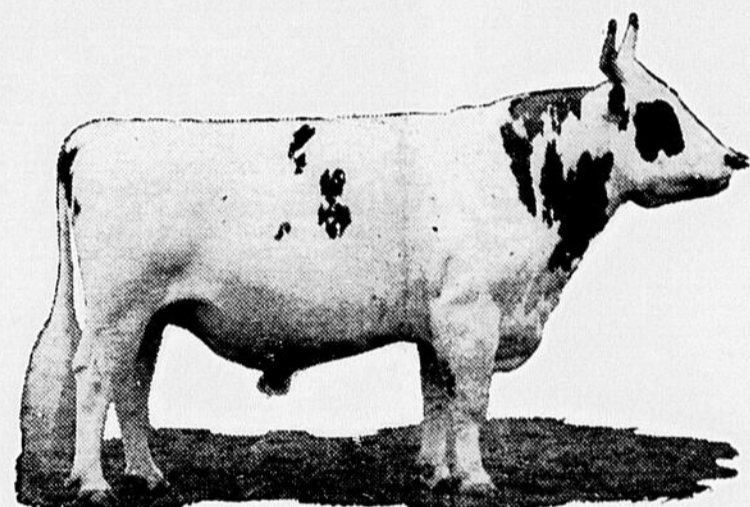

This is the caption of a press dispatch appearing in Eastern papers at least, this week, and it indicates that Lieut. Colonel John Colville, Financial Secretary to the Treasury, announced in the House of Commons (British) that the Import Duties Advisory Committee had turned down a request for increased duties on butter and cheese by organized producers in the United Kingdom. Colville said it had been decided that no material assistance would be given to producers by this method of restricting imports.

Our subscribers may have seen this dispatch, although it is not prominently displayed, and for that reason the information is passed on to you.

In Place of Failure

"No merchant ever failed because of the money he spent for advertising, but the business history of this country is filled with instances of men who have made brilliant successes in business by means of advertising. A well-written advertisement in the columns of the local newspaper is an invitation to every reader of the paper to visit the store and see the merchandise displayed there. A well-written advertisement attracts attention, interest and creates desire. Desire once created it is but a step until the purchase is made. A well-written advertisement is the best employee any merchant can put on his pay roll. An advertisement to be effective, must be backed by good merchandise, an attractive store, the right price, good service and modern merchandising methods. This combination will build business for any merchant who undertakes it seriously and gives it intelligent thought and effort."

Keeping Horse Mangers Clean
At this season of the year when horses are not kept regularly to stall feeding, much refuse gathers in the manger and it becomes a source of danger to horses where hay and roughage are allowed thus to collect. Some days a little green feed is laid on the top of the hay and this, if not cleaned up, will soon mould and heat when hay is laid on top of it next day. There is sure to come a day when someone else's hungry horse to the manger and he may decide, however unpalatable, to eat the last particle of the moulded roughage, and the result will be a sick horse. We are well aware that some horses are more subject to colic and indigestion than others and that other things than unclean mangers may cause trouble, but this factor is important all the same. Watch the mangers for refuse.
Wife: "Henry, you were talking in your sleep last night."
Henry: "Was I? Sorry to have interrupted you."

Williams and Albert Ureanu re the Smith Discharge, and to have same cleaned up according to P.V. if found necessary, apportioning the cost to the interested parties.
Moved by Coun. McNeil, seconded by Coun. Bryson, that gravel be put on the upper end of the 4th range of Jamestown road under instructions from the Mayor and Coun. Beauchamp.

ters, but none came. A Sheffield employee at the Malone plant said that no communication regarding the strike had been received at the plant.
The Chateaugay strikers found the greatest hardship in disposing of their milk. Much of it was trucked to creameries at Hogansburgh, Westville and Dickinson. The strike movement was precipitated a month ago with the announcement by Sheffield Farms that, effective August 1, its 12 Northern New York plants would be leased as condensaries by the Sheffield Condensed Milk Company, with a consequent lower price to producers.
