It's Poppy Day, Nov. 4th In Huntingdon — Wear One

"Wear a Poppy. Your Badge of Remembrance", will be the slogan of a Band of Volunteers who will make house to house calls in the Town and County of Huntingdon during the evening of Friday, November 4th.

Under the auspices of Huntingdon Branch No. 81, Canadian Legion the volunteers will not only sell Poppies but will also gladly accept donations to the Poppy Benevolent Fund of Huntingdon Branch No. 81.

Armistice Day to Veterans of World War I and other people of that age, Remembrance Day to Veterans of World War II and Korea, and other people of their age, November 11 has long been established as Remembrance Day for the more than 100,000 brave Canadians who gave their lives in the interest of freedom. Linked with that day is the wearing of a Poppy and it is hoped that, as heretofore, each of those solicited at the time of the advance poppy sale on November 4, will not only purchase a poppy but also make a donation on behalf of the Poppy Benevolent Fund; Wear a Poppy at the time of the Memorial Service to be held at the Cenotaph, Sunday afternoon, November 6.

The sale of poppies serve a three-fold purpose. First, of course, as "Your Badge of Remembrance"; secondly, in payment to "Vetcraft", a disabled Veteran's Organization which makes the poppies; thirdly, the balance after payments to "Vetcraft", together with donations, is deposited to the credit of the "Poppy Benevolent Fund" of Huntingdon Branch No. 81. That fund is administered by a Board of Trustees comprised of two non-members of the Branch (presently Messrs. Robert Rolfe and R. C. Morrison) and the President of the Branch. Payments from the Fund are made, insofar as funds permit, by the Trustees on advice of the Executive Committee towards the temporary relief of needy or indigent veterans and their dependants residing in the area covered by Huntingdon Branch No. 81.

It might be added that, as heretofore, a considerable number of sympathetic people in this area have already forwarded their annual donations to the Poppy Benevolent Fund. Donations made to date total $153.00 as follows:

Plenty of Treats But No Tricks

Hallowe'en insofar as Huntingdon was concerned passed off quietly. Police report only a few little tricks, but nothing of a serious nature.

For the most part the children went their rounds for treats and attended parties and they were treater well. In a number of communities collection for UNICEF was carried out with very good results.

This kept the children busy and doing something worthwhile.

W. C. T. U. Members Hear Report Of National Convention

The Chateauguay-Huntingdon County W.C.T.U. Rally met on Oct. 26, at the home of Miss Elsie Elder, Huntingdon, with Mrs. Marion Reese, County President, in the chair. Mrs. Cora Grass of Montreal, Provincial Treasurer, was present as guest speaker. The devitional exercises were taken by Mrs. Dora Levers, Evangelistic Superintendent, who opened with the hymn, "A charge to keep I have," followed by scripture reading from Mark, 1,21-31, and prayer. She then gave an informal talk on the subject, "A cup of tea," this being the symbol of womanly hospitality, service, and good influence. Many important decisions had been made over a cup of tea.

On motion of Mrs. Pearl Beattie, seconded by Mrs. Emily Surette, members were resolved into a body to do business. Regret was expressed over the illness of Mrs. Roy Blair, and it was agreed that a permanent Press Superintendent be appointed to take her place. It was moved and seconded that Mrs. Ada McCartney as appointed Press Supt. for the county. A report of the executive held on May 27, 1960 at the home of Mrs. Surette was read and discussed. In memory of three members of the Huntingdon Union who had passed on lately, all stood for a minute's silence, with a short prayer by Mrs. Reese. The three members lost were Mrs. E. C. McCoy, Mrs. John Reid and Mrs. John Antoine.

Reports were given by the treasurer, Miss Elder and the Corresponding sec. Mrs. Surette. Mrs. Beattie reported that a successful fair booth had been held at the Huntingdon Fair last year. The National Temperance Study Course is being taken up again this year by the pupils of the High School, two letters were read by Mrs. Reese from the National Cor. Sec., Mrs. Ambrose, and from the former National Vice-pres. An invitation to have the next County Convention was asked for, but this was left till a later date.

Reports of the recent National W.C.T.U. Convention held in St. James Church, Montreal, last month were given in part by Mrs. Beattie, Mrs. Middlemiss and Miss Irene Holiday. Mrs. Grass gave a vivid account of the programme on Quebec night, when a pageant was put on under the direction of Mrs. Moore, Quebec Provincial President, depicting the outstanding years in the history of Quebec W.C.T.U. The narrator was Mrs. Alfred Rubens of Cowansville. The pageant was called, "Turning the pages," and as the pages of history were turned, women dressed in the costume of each period came forward and told of their work, thus showing the progress up to the present time.

On the tea-table was a huge cake made in the form of an open book, and beautifully decorated, and with these words printed on it: "Loving Greetings, Canadian W.C.T.U., 1877-1960. For God and Home and Native Land." Also the verse "May we follow closely, Where pionneers have trod, Faithful to our duty, To our homes and God." At the close the cake was cut and served to all with a cup of tea. A lighted candle for each year of W.C.T.U. work made a stricking picture. Candles were also lighted in memory of each provincial president who had passed on during the years. The first meeting was held in Rock Island, Que., in 1877, and the first provincial convention in Stanstead, Que. Among the speakers at convention were Rev. N. Rawson, Miss Edna Grant, Rev. Dr. Bailey, Mayor Fournier and others. On Thursday, the City of Montreal was host to the delegates. Chartered buses took all to St. Helen's Island where a beautiful luncheon was served to the ladies. Afterward, a ride through the city and a visit to the Botanical Gardens delighted all.

Mrs. Reese thanked Mrs. Grass for her interesting report. She then read some extracts from the speech of Mrs. Fretwell, Alberta, as follows: "Alcohol concerns women; there are 35,000 women in Canada who are serious drinkers. Why should the fact that women drink be of special concern to us and our nation? Women are the guardians of the home. As such they are the creators of the cultural pattern and standards of conduct of the home. They are the conservers of the moral and spiritual values of the home. If a nation's homes disintegrate, nothing can be right. One of the major problems of our W.C.T.U. is the decline of interest. What can we do to remedy this? First, let us strengthen the local unions. We need to make known to a greater degree our policy, the fact that our work covers all ages. We must point out the help the W.C.T.U. programmes are givings young people and children. Parents must be made to see that our programmes offer help in the problems of raising their children. Lastly we must have faith that our work is having results. This is proved by the fact that recently 7000 signed the pledge with the Associated Temperance Forces of Alberta. We must keep our work going year after year, line upon line, precept upon precept."

Before closing with the hymn, "Blest be the tie that binds," Mrs. Reese thanked Miss Elder for the use of her home for the Rally, and for her hospitality.

Government Still Holds Town Responsible For Bridge

An adjourned meeting of the Huntingdon Town Council was held on Monday evening, with all members present except Alderman Tremblay.

In the correspondence, the secretary read a letter from the engineer of the Quebec Roads Dept. in regard to the Lower Bridge. The letter stated that an engineer from the Dept. would be sent to inspect the bridge and to advise the council just how sound it is. It also pointed out again that the responsibility remains with the Town of Huntingdon and they must protect their interests.

Council felt that this being the termination of a Government Highway, the responsibility is with the Government Roads and Bridges Dept. and that this Dept. should keep it in good condition and repair.

A letter was also read from the Provincial Police that it had been noted the town had passed a resolution with regard to slot machines at a recent meeting. It stated that all pinball machines are illegal and that none will be permitted in the Town of Huntingdon.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Goodfellow, Coaticook, were Saturday callers at the same home.

Rally Day was observed at Riverfield Church, Sunday afternoon. Several of the children conducted the order of Service and Rev. Brown gave the address. At the close of the service, the prizes were presented, books, testaments, or psalm books were awarded to those who had perfect or regular attendance and certificates to those who had completed the memory courses.

Messrs McConville and Leblanc of Lorne Avenue, waited on the Council with regard to the sewer on that street. They were told that work was proceeding in this matter but it would take a little time until the legal matters had been settled.

Mr. F. Lalonde appeared again with regard to sewer and water for his proposed subdivision near Bouchette Street. He said the plan should be in the hands of the council at an early date and he wanted to be assured he could get a water connection. He said he wished to start work on a house already erected, but wanted to be sure he would have water. Council said this could not be granted at once as the plan would have to be approved by Quebec before they could go ahead with any work. It was promised that he would receive water as soon as it is possible. Mr. Lalonde was satisfied with this assurance and will proceed with work on the house.

A committee of the Council is to check on a snow plow which is for sale in an adjacent municipality and to make an offer if a satisfactory deal can be made.

W. E. Lefebvre Reg'd. have transferred to the Town a strip of land for a street from Cemetery Street to East Street, about 50 feet wide by approximately 750 feet long which can be opened up as a street at some future time.

Alderman Picard gave Notice of Motion that he would at the next meeting of the Council ask that a bylaw be prepared to enable the Town to raise a fund for industrial purposes.

Separate tenders are being called to be in by the next meeting of the Council for clearing th sidewalks of snow during the winter months, and one for the use of a blower for loading trucks.

Considerable discussion ensued on the recent demand of the Works Employees for an understanding as to hours of employment, requirements and salaries to be paid. It would appear that some proposals have been made and that some of the workmen who had resigned at a previous meeting have decided to carry on with the same arrangement as previously. The Council did not feel that any changes could be made and it was decided that matters would remain as they are.

Robson

Surprise Party

From the time of it's formation around 1831, the singing of the congregation at Wesley-Knox Church on Robson St. had been led by a Precentor who used a tuning-fork to strike the note.

The first was William Robson and the task was handed down from father to son, passed to brothers, until in Oct. 1910, it was decided to purchase an organ. The daughter of a Robson, a young lady with an excellent voice, had been studying music for several years and had recently married a son of another local well-known family, namely Emmett Cleland.

The congregation invited the young Mrs. Cleland to become their organist and at a surprise party held in the United Church Hall Hemmingford, on Tuesday, October 24th, the members of this congregation with their children said "Thank You" to Mrs. Cleland for 50 years of devoted service.

Their gratitude took the form of a very comfortable Kroehler Relaxer Chair and the presentation was made by the minister Rev. K. Murray. The Sunday School also said thank you for the times Mrs. Cleland stayed behind to play hymns for them. Their leader, Mrs. Jim Curran, pinned on a lovely sorsage and then presented Mrs. Cleland with a beautiful jewelled brooch and ear-ring set.

Another member of the congregation made an anniversary cake, iced to form a hymn book complete with the notes of music on one page and appropriate words on the other.

Games were played, slides of Mr. and Mrs. Cleland's golden wedding anniversary party celebrated in June, were shown. Mr. Aaron Stewart, accompanied by Mrs. Fergus Moore, sang old Scotch songs.

The ladies of the church served their usual delicious refreshments and the party was a great success.

What a wonderful record, 50 years summer and winter, with very few Sundays off. Can it be equalled elsewhere in the County?

Late Mrs. Margaret Stratton

We were sorry to hear of the sudden death of Mrs. Margaret Stratton during the early hours of Monday, October 24th. Mrs. Stratton, née Ruddock, was born on the Boyd Settlement, Huntingdon, on 12th August, 1867, and came to live in her late residence 71 years ago soon after her marriage to Stephen S. Stratton. She had three daughters and one son. Her husband died some twenty years ago, and two daughters and her son have also passed away. Her surviving daughter, Mrs. Luee Bowes lived with her. She leaves, also, one brother, William Ruddock of Huntingdon, ten grandchildren and several great-grandchildren. Mrs Stratton was particularly well-known to the residents south of the village as her house was used as the official polling station on election day.

She always cultivated a fine vegetable and flower garden and just two days before her death was harvesting the last of the potatoes. Her memory remained clear and active to the end.

Dr. Allan Reid, Rockburn, conducted the service at the Presbyterian Church, Hemmingford, the interment was in the local cemetery. Beautiful floral tributes covered the coffin and the pallbearers were Malcolm Brown, Arthur English, Malcolm Ruddock, Huntingdon, Kenneth Campbell, Tatehurst, with Mr. Freddie Poissant as honorary pall-bearer.

Congratulations to Mrs. Fergus Moore on her birthday. The family and neighbours gave her a surprise birthday party with lots of gifts and a lovely cake. They played crokinole and had 4 tables of cards.

Mrs. Walter Barr had a surprise birthday party on the 24th October when all her family arrived bearing gifts and a birthday cake.

Mr. George Hebert had his car stolen from outside the restaurant in the village on Sunday night. It was later found, badly wrecked, out on the Fort Road. Police are investigating.

Mrs. Nellie Tolhurst and Mrs. Hazel Bradley visited Mrs. Emmett Cleland on 28th October, then the three ladies together with Mrs. Tom Cleland went on to Lacolle to visit Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Robinson. Mrs. Tom Cleland took the opportunity to visit her mother, Mrs. Jones, who is now out of hospital and making a slow but sure recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Cere and Brother Marcel Cere visited neighbours on Robson St., Sunday, October 30th.

Gore

GORE — Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Graham have returned from a two week vacation spent in Princeton, New Jersey. While there they were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Major and their son and daughter-in-law Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Major, John Major is the son of the late Mary Graham Major, who was a sister of the late Jos. Graham, Wm. Graham's father, and visited with Mrs. Ella Johnston another cousin. They spent a weekend at an ocean resort, Seaside Heights, which is a really enjoyable event to people who have lived their lives so far from the sea. An afternoon spent at McGuire Naval Base proved very interesting. The Majors own and operate a large farm, so Mr. and Mrs. Graham were very interested to see corn and beans harvested by combines, to see beans, picked and shelled and to see corn picked, husked and shelled, almost literally in one motion. Certainly machines like this eliminate much of the heavy labor from the work, but it also makes one reminisce of the good old corn husking bees and to wonder if modern machinery hasn't taken a lot of good old time enjoyment out of life?

Recent guests at the Neely home have been Mr. and Mrs. Warren Neely, of Ottawa.

Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Graham were Mr. and Mrs. Walter Graham, Walter Jr. and Howard of Chateauguay Village, Mr. and Mrs. Mort Manson of Malone N.Y., Mr. Robt. Anderson.

A beautiful basket of flowers was placed in the Gore Church, Sunday afternoon, by Mrs. Kenneth Stevenson and family, in memory of the late Kenneth Stevenson who was taken so tragically, a year ago.

Powerscourt

POWERSCOURT — Glad to report Mr. Albert Rosevear is now home from hospital. Best wishes for a continued improvement in health.

Sunday guests at the Rosevear home were Mr. Dave Fall, Mrs. Margt. Sargeant, Mrs. Howard Harrica and Marlyn, all of Dannemora, N.Y.

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. K. Millen, who have spent the past 10 days with Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Wood left for their home in Winnipeg, on Monday. Week-end guest at the Wood home was Mrs. Wood's brother, Mr. Frank Hay of Toronto. A family gathering was enjoyed on Saturday, when Mr. A. L. Hay of Montreal and Mr. and Ronald Wood and family were among the guests.

Mrs. E. M. Wood and Mr. Ronald Wood motored their guests to Montreal, on Monday.

Week-end guest at the Koski home was Mrs. Wm. Willock of Montreal.

Glenelm

HEATING — OIL CONSUMERS...

WATCH OUT

Yes, Watch Out For Those Oil Distributors Who Sell Their Oil At Low Prices!

WHY?...

1—IS THE AMOUNT SHOWN ON THEIR BILLS REALLY PRINTED BY THEIR OWN METERS?
2—IS THEIR DISTILLED OIL MIXED WITH AN INFERIOR QUALITY OIL CALLED LIGHT OIL AT .025c CHEAPER PER GALLON?
3—DO NOT BE SURPRISED IF THE COST OF YOUR HEATING IS HIGHER THAN IT SHOULD BE.
a) Either by the number of gallons paid (and perhaps not received)
b) By the money spent on cleaning the burners (always expensive) more often than normally necessary and also the many annoyances caused by this type of work.

Advance Ticket Sale Augurs Well for Cooking Demonstration

Dave Zabitsky, President of Branch 81 of the Canadian Legion, reports that the advance sale of tickets for the Electrical Cooking Demonstration to be held at Grove Hall, on November 4th, has been most satisfactory. Over the week-end, more than half the tickets available for the event were sold. The demonstration will be presented by The Canadian General Electric and Shawinigan Water and Power Companies and is being sponsored by the Huntingdon Branch of the Canadian Legion.

A special attraction will be the 1961 line of General Electric appliances that will be on display in the newly-renovated Braithwaite Bros. store. Like the new models of automobiles that are being introduced for 1961, G-E's new line of ranges, dishwashers, clothes washers and dryers, refrigerators, freezers, etc., have been slimmed down in size and present a complete new appearance, yet at the same time interior dimensions have been revamped and improved. 1961 G-E televisions, besides being slimmer and more attractive, feature "Daylight Blue" which results in a better picture that is actually restful for one's eyes. Reaction to G-E's 1961 line in family discussions rivals that heralded by milady's fall dress styles or the probable results in the presidential race south of the border.

People from out-of-town who have not visited Braithwaite Bros. store since it was renovated will probably do so at the November 4 electrical cooking demonstration. The changes are amazing. Braithwaite Bros. have discontinued certain outmoded hardware lines and even removed the old showcases that carried some lines of smallwares. In addition to G-E, such well known trade names as Remington, Sparton Hi-Fi and Stereo, Browning, Tri-ang, Dinky Toy and many more may be seen.

Everyone attending the Electrical Cooking Demonstration will be eligible to be awarded one or more of numerous door prizes, attendance prizes, etc. A limited number of tickets are still available from Legion members and Braithwaite Bros. If you have not already obtained one, do it now and avoid disappointment.

Bridge Not Entirely Unsafe

Some parents have called up The Gleaner this week to ask about school buses passing over the Lower Bridge in Huntingdon. They said they were alarmed that this should be allowed if the bridge is not safe. In checking on this matter, the Gleaner learns that repairs are being made as required on the bridge and a sign will soon be posted limiting the weight to be carried by the bridge, pending the time when a Quebec Dept. Engineer will inspect the bridge and make a report. It is considered that loads up to 12 tons might be considered safe, but that nothing over that should be allowed to use the bridge. It is the flooring that is principally in poor condition.

Hog Cholera Now Reported At Several Points

An outbreak of hog cholera has been diagnosed in Quebec it is announced by the Hon. Alvin Hamilton, Minister of Agriculture.

The infection was first detected on October 4 on a farm in Shefford County, near Granby, and the 42 swine on the premises were slaughtered immediately.

On October 17 hog cholera was confirmed in a piggery in Terrebonne County, in which 1,100 swine were involved. The swine on this premises were slaughtered on October 18 and 19.

A third infected premises, with 800 swine, was detected today in Laval County. These swine are being slaughtered immediately.

The source of the infection and the cause of possible spread between the infected premises have not yet been determined, but a full investigation is being conducted by departmental veterinarians in an endeavour to check the spread of the infection. All veterinary practitioners in the Province of Quebec have been alerted to report any suspicions of the disease to the Department.

Mr. Hamilton stated that it is important that every farmer should report immediately to his veterinarian any sign of illness in his swine. All pigs in infected premises are slaughtered and the owners compensated.

Close scrutiny and examination of swine delivered to packing plants under Federal inspection and swine moved through stockyards and livestock markets are being conducted by inspectors.

In addition to slaughtering infected herds and tracing and investigating all reported suspected cases, more rigid control measures are being considered by the department to confine and eradicate the disease as quickly as possible.

Last case of hog cholera in Quebec was in 1941, and the last case in Canada was in Newfoundland in 1959, when 299 pigs had to be slaughtered.

For 60 years Aluminum has turned waterpower into trade, employment and national wealth

For ages the ceaseless roar of waterpower—one of Canada's mighty resources—had recounted to wilderness and mountains the coming greatness of a nation.

But to change this incredible heritage into national wealth took more than prophetic vision and pioneering enterprise... more than astounding feats of engineering... more than investments in buildings and machinery and powerhouses. It took a unique new product—aluminum—as young as the nation itself. The aluminum industry has poured into Canada billions in national wealth, using waterpower which is never depleted but constantly renewed. It has made Canada the great world exporter of an ever more useful metal.

ALCAN and Canada have grown together

Symbol of Today and Tomorrow
You'll be seeing a lot of our new ALCAN symbol. It is rapidly becoming a familiar sight on Alcan plants, on Alcan trucks, and on your grocers' shelves where it identifies the new ALCAN Household Foil. It is the symbol of Canada's oldest aluminum producer—a company that employs some 19,500 Canadians and pays them wages in excess of $118,000,000 a year.

Change of residence

We are pleased to welcome as residents in the village of Hemmingford Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Cookman. They are both very well known here and in surrounding districts as Mr. Cookman has farmed, just north of the village for the past 60 years, the farm on which his grandfather settled when he came from England 150 years ago.

Mr. Cookman has always had the interests of the community very much in mind, he was for many years a member of the Lacolle School Board, for 8 years a councillor and the past 4 years Mayor of the Municipality of St. Bernard de Lacolle. He retired recently after 25 years, as President of the local branch of the Montreal Milk Producers Association, when he was appointed a permanent member of the five-man Quebec Dairy Commission.

This spring he sold his farm to Mr. Dick Anderson (who just two weeks ago married Miss Mary Orr) and purchased a lot at the south end of the village from Malcolm Brown. Here he has built an attractive bungalow finished with all the labour-saving devices, much to the delight of Mrs. Cookman. We sincerely hope Mr. and Mrs. Cookman will be as happy among the friends and neighbours here as they were on the farm. The little surprise party which took place on Sunday evening, October 30th, is an indication of the affection and high esteem in which they were held by the people of St. Bernard de Lacolle. Mr. and Mrs. Cookman were enjoying the company of their three daughters with their husbands, when a small group of people arrived as representatives from the municipality of St. Bernard. They presented Mr. Cookman with a well-filled wallet and Mrs. Cookman with a beautiful bouquet of flowers. They were both very deeply touched by the generous and most unexpected gesture.

Mr. Jean Herbert is also building at the south end of the village opposite Mr. Cookman. Mr. Herbert has bought a lot from Mr. Walter Smith and this beautiful fall weather has enabled him to proceed rapidly with the erection of his house which will be set most attractively in front of Mr. Smith's orchard.

Fall Convention

One reads so often these days of juvenile deliquency, of the unwillingness of young people to do anything in their spare time but watch T.V. or listen to rock-n-roll records that it is with the greatest pleasure this time of news is forwarded. It paints an entirely different picture of today's youth.

On Saturday, October 29th, at the Dundee School there was held the Fall Convention of the Council for Christian Education. The name is self-explanatory. Emphasis is placed on the training of workers in the Sunday Schools. After the opening service a film, with a speaker stressed the use of language in the Sunday School which could be clearly understood by the young members. A missionary from India spoke. After lunch the business meeting, then Rev. K. Murray of Hemmingford spoke on "The requirements of a Sunday School Teacher."

There were panel discussions. From Hemmingford went two carloads of people, the senior delegates were Rev. K. Murray, Mrs. Florence Barr, Mrs. J. Robertson. The young people were Miss A. Northrup, Miss Warner, Mrs. Douglas Kyle, Margaret Brown, Doreen Kyle, Linda Merlin, Danny Boone, Sandra Greer, Isabel Wallace. These young people are in their teens and early twenties. What a worthwhile way to spend a Saturday. And upon enquiring it was found there are many more young people in and around the village who are cheerfully taking their share in the work of the Church. Makes pleasant reading doesn't it!

Varia

The third polio Clinic was held Friday in the Parish Hall under the ausnices of the W.I. with help from the Cercle des Fermières. Dr. Paul Belanger gave the injection assisted by the nurses from the March of Dimes Polio Foundation.

The Hemmingford Fire Brigade was called out on Tuesday evening, October 25th around 6.30 p.m., but fortunately it was not too serious a matter. The friction of a high-tension wire at the top of a pole caused it to catch fire. The Power Company were notified and soon had everything under control. As the pole is on the edge of a thick bush south of the village it is fortunate it was noticed in time.

The Women's Auxiliary of St. Luke's Anglican Church met Wednesday, 26th October. The main item on the agenda was the organizing of the tables for the Christmas Bazaar to be held on 12th November at 3 p.m. Much work has been done these past months to provide a choice selection of articles for the Xmas Gift Table and the Variety Table: the "Home-bake" Table will, of course, be well-furnished and it is hoped a record crowd will come for tea.

Mrs. David Littlefield and sister Miss Alice Fisher from Massachusetts have been visiting the Misses Susie and Maria Brown and friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Alec Dewar and son Robert spent the week-end in Springfield, Mass.

Mrs. Elmer Greer, Robert, Elsie and May visited relatives in Three Rivers over the week-end. On their return Mrs. Elmer Greer with Mrs. E. Barr, Mrs. F. Orr and Mrs. Allan Fisher spent Friday visiting friends and relatives in Montreal.

Happy birthday to Mrs. Ed. Ellerton on October 24th. Mrs. Ellerton was invited by the Misses Lilian and Evelyn Elliott to visit them on the Sunday and was agreeably surprised to find this had been arranged as a joint party for herself, her son Bruce and Evelyn whose birthdays almost coincide with hers.

Mr. and Mrs. James H. Smith of Passaic, New Jersey, recently visited at the home of Donald McNaughton. They were also guests of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Lummis of La Salle, Que.

Mr. Leslie Lummis is at present a patient in the Queen Mary Veteran's Hospital. We wish him a speedy recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hadley and Mrs. Jessie Hadley motored to Macdonald College on Saturday, 29th Oct., to visit son Glen who is a student there.

Meeting of Catholic School Board

A meeting of the Hemmingford Catholic School Board was held in the High School, on Thursday, 27th October. Chairman Mr. R. L. Bouchard presided over the meeting, also present were Secretary Mr. J. P. Galibeau, Commissioners L. Charbonneau and M. Boileau.

The Chairman reported on the Convention of Catholic School Boards of the diocese of Valleyfield which he attended in Valleyfield on 16th October.

The Secretary announced he had received a generous grant from the Provincial Government towards the cost of asphalting the grounds around the School.

Principal Mr. G. Girard spoke of the newly-formed Students Council. The chairman is Rejean Giroux and the Secretary Pauline Girard. Several meetings have been held and the purchase of sports equipment discussed. In order to raise money for these projects the Students Council are organizing a Card Party and Bingo to take place at the School on November 10th, 8 p.m.

The merchants of the town and other well-wishers are donating prizes. It is hoped many will attend and please bring your own cards.

The Chairman reported on an idea which was started late last school year, and which it is hoped to continue this year. At the end of each month when the report cards are completed it is proposed that one or more of the Commissioners will attend at the School and distribute the cards to the children.

It is felt this will lead to closer co-operation between Staff, School-Board and Children.

The Secretary reported it had been found necessary to close Grade 1 French and English for one week owing to the large number of children sick with the measles.

The weather on Saturday seemed to turn the calendar back a few months and many took advantage of the balmy weather. Strolling in the sunshine or tidying up the garden was a real pleasure under the beaming smile of Mr. Sun.

Probably several people as usual forgot to turn their clocks back an hour Saturday night, and as a result were a little confused Sunday morning. Every year we are informed that we gain an hour's sleep. Whoever heard of gaining sleep when you have wee ones in your home? Haven't yet heard of any magic formula to get the little ones to sleep in that extra hour when the clocks change. Any suggestions?

Don't forget West End Fall Dance which is scheduled for Saturday, Nov. 12th at 8.30 p.m. This dance will be held in Chateauguay Heights Recreation Hall with floor show, orchestra, and to top it all off Barbecue Chicken will be served. Anyone wishing to purchase tickets may get in touch with Pat Wilkins — also your correspondent has several on hand.

The Ladies' Division of the Home Owners' Association will hold their regular monthly meeting on Monday, Nov. 7th, at 8.30 p.m.

Bowling scores for Friday, Oct. 21st: High single, Jean Penney, 132; High single, Carl Cotton, 169; High triple, Dorothy Moore, 294; High triple, Fred Jones, 449.

A few lucky people have already received word from the Agricultural Credit Bureau that they have been accepted and are eligible for the 3% provincial rebate. No wonder there are so many sunny smiles around these days.

Chateauguay Gleanings

BY SANDY DAVIDSON

Mayor Maurice Laberge of Chateauguay Centre this week stated that the new Town Hall project would have to be shelved until next winter. By the time the necessary vote could be held to approve the building, it would be too late to benefit by the Winter Works scheme. Without this financial aid, says the Mayor, the project would cost too much. Mr. Laberge again stated that the cost of the proposed hall would not exceed $40,000. He said that certain elements in the town were spreading the word that the cost of a hall would be in the hundreds of thousands of dollars.

When asked, Mr. Laberge said that he favoured the amalgamation of the three municipalities of Chateauguay Heights, Town of Chateauguay Heights and Chateauguay Center. The only large stumbling block in the way is the fact that the Town of Chateauguay is in debt close to 3½ million dollars while Chateauguay Center has a debt of only 1½ million.

The thought that comes to mind is that any town hall built now, is going to prove inadequate as soon as any amalgamation takes place. This is a problem that should be looked into seriously before any steps are taken.

The tax rate this year will be raised 5 c. per hundred. This is due to the water just being put in.

Asked if he would run for Mayor again next year, Mr. Laberge said that he wouldn't run unless he felt that any other candidates in the running were not good for the people.

A fact came out which many people probably were not aware of. The Mayor and Councillors for Chateauguay Centre receive no salary whatsoever for their services.

Goof-Balls have turned up in Chateauguay in the past week. Police Chief Rousseau has found three boys aged 14 to 17 with the dope on them and is investigating to find who is supplying the boys. Price for the Goof-Balls has been quoted at 25c Goof-Balls are the first form of dope sold to users and when the kick obtained from these is no longer big enough, they graduate to marijuana and so on. Parents should caution their children on the danger of these drugs.

Interior work on stores at the soon to open Beauchateau Shopping Center is fast nearing completion. The I.G.A. Shop and Save Store is already filling it's shelves in preparation for the opening around the middle of the month.

The manager of the new I.G.A. Store will be Mr. Maurice Breton, who has been in the Grocery business for 8 years, starting with the Dominion Chain. His last store was the I.G.A. store at Ste. Therese. The exact number of people to be employed at the store is not known but at least 25 will be employed for the opening.

Jassar's Departmental Store is another very close to completion, at the Beauchateau Shopping Center. Mr. Jean Carriere, manager at the new branch, says that 25 girls will be employed at the opening of the store, and probably 15 will be kept full time. There are 6 Jassars stores in Quebec, situated at Drummondville, Magog, St. Lambert, Longeuil, Candiac and Chateauguay. The first store was opened 31 years ago in Longueuil.

Chateauguay Ramblers Defeat U. of Montreal 18-6

Chateauguay Ramblers came from behind to defeat University of Montreal 18-6, Sunday, in Chateauguay. It was the second exhibition meeting of the two teams in two weeks and Chateauguay came out on top on both occasions.

U. of Montreal scored first, in the first quarter with Leo Hebert carrying for the touchdown. The convert missed and U. of M. lead 6-0.

Later in the first quarter, when Montreal was forced to kick deep in their own end, the kick was blocked and Don Hamilton fell on the ball in the end-zone tying the count at 6-6, the convert being missed.

Then in the second quarter, Bruce MacDonald took a pitch-out on the University 45 yard line and behind fine blocking by Bill Butler and Dan Pridham, ran the whole way for a touchdown. The convert missed again and Chateauguay led 12-6.

Chateauguay closed out the scoring in the third quarter when Vince Petrilli skirted left end from 15 yards out and scored standing up. The convert missed.

Chateauguay was again coached by John Dempter in the absence of Moe Bremner who coaches the University of Montreal team as well as helping out with Chateauguay.

Chateauguay dressed only eighteen players and considerable juggling of the lineup was necessary to keep fresh players on the field.

John Rock, one of Chateauguay's fine linemen was kicked in the leg and it was feared that cartilages were broken. Doctors have dispelled this idea, but the exact extent of John's injury is not known.

Carol Lane to Address C.P.O.A. Ladies Auxiliary

Mrs. Betty Blenkhorn of the C.P.O.A. Ladies Auxiliary has announced that Miss Carol Lane, a leading Canadian travel authority, will address the organization on November, 8th.

Miss Lane, Women's Travel Director for Shell Oil Company of Canada, Limited, travels thousands of miles across Canada each year looking for new ideas to make touring by car a relaxing, carefree and worthwhile adventure for the whole family.

In her presentation, "Adventure a la Car", Miss Lane will tell how her personal approach to planning trips, budgeting problems and travelling with children can help make motoring holidays the delight they should be. One of the highlights of Miss Lane's presentation will be a visual demonstration of how to pack a colour co-ordinated travel wardrobe in a 24"-suitcase. Her many new ideas will help women feel and look their best while travelling.

She will also discuss the Carol Lane Awards for Traffic Safety which are administered by the Canadian Highway Safety Council through grant of Shell. The annual awards are designed to recognize and reward women's achievements in traffic safety. They are open to any Canadian women's volunteer organization.

Miss Lane's knowledge and experiences have earned her the little of the "First Lady of Touring". The information and ideas she gathers are shared through lectures, articles, booklets, interviews and her own national newspaper and radio-TV column.

Here and There in Sports

The Chateauguay Ramblers are holding their first annual dance at the Plaza Hotel, Chateauguay Basin, November 25th. Everybody is welcome and a good turnout by those interested in keeping football alive in Chateauguay will insure just that. The proceeds will serve as a beginning in building next year's team.

The team is also holding a draw with the winners announced at the dance, although one needn't be there to collect the prize. The prizes are of a liquid variety and of a quantity to cheer anybody lucky enough to win. Members of the football team and others associated with the team have tickets for sale.

The basketball season got off to a start Friday night with Maple School of Chateauguay dropping a double header to Huntingdon High School, at Julius Richardson School. Maple's girls made it close, leading by 2 points at half time but were worn down in the last half by a larger and more experienced team, finally losing 56-42.

The boys were completely outclassed by the Huntingdon team, 85-12 which had beaten Valleyfield's Gault Institute 34-23 the week before and are favoured to capture the league title. The fact that Huntingdon and all other schools in the league with the exception of Maple, go to grade 11 is a great disadvantage to the local boys. Basketball is the big sport in most schools in the Chateauguay valley and it will be a few years before Maple can expect to be a consistant winner. The High School next year will keep those boys together who are on this years team and the next year should see a really good team.

Julie Kaiser was top scorer in the girls game with 29 points. The girls could be a winner even this year. This was their first league game and they nearly pulled it out.

Huntingdon's Boys are a well coached outfit and know each others moves like a book. Their defence was solid against the shorter Maple team and they broke fast, giving their opponents little time to get set. Experience will tell every time as the 85-12 score tells.

For Maple School, Terry Tinkler set the pace with 6 points, and was the only sure player on the team. His size was against him though. Terry is about 5 feet 2 inches. Huntingdon has players six feet tall.

Sox Hop

The Sox Hop held last Friday night, October 28th, drew a very large crowd with well over a hundred teen-agers attending. It was very disappointing to see how very few out of the record number that attended, who wore costumes. There were approximately 15 in costume and they should be commended on their good sportsmanship and the unique costumes some of them wore.

The costume prize winners were as follows: Lynn Osborne, a pair of slippers. Lynn was a sensation in a Charleston outfit. Jerry Tremblay won a Northrite Ball Point Pen, dressing as a girl. Did you make a hit with the boys, Jerry. Bobby Brown was a real character, dressed completely in potato sacks (minus the potatoes). He won a Hug-A-Bug Doll. Another Hug-A-Bug Doll was won by Carol Nardon, looking very delightful in a Gypsy costume.

The winners for the spot dance were Coleen Walsh and Jerry Aucoin. They won a record each.

The next Sox Hop will be this Friday, October 4th. This is a dress-up affair. No slim Jims or heavy boots.

Mr. and Mrs. Ken MacKenzie, two of the Sox-Hop organizers, are the proud parents of another bouncing baby boy, born Monday, October 24th, at St. Mary's Hospital, Montreal. Congratulations folks.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Tom Guthrie, who celebrated their 7th wedding anniversary, Monday, October 31st. Who picked Hallowe'en for your wedding, Madelaine, You or Tom?

Historical Notes Gleaned From "Sellar's" History

I have got beyond the date of which I was treating, however, and will return to the settler during his first years in the backwoods. Every fall and spring he would turn to the stumps, endeavoring to reduce them in size by burning, and tearing up their roots, but years would pass before their hold on the soil loosened sufficiently to be pulled out by a yoke of oxen and hauled into piles to be burned or to form a fence round the rude fields. The toil was unceasing and exhausting. Not only had the clearing to be labored but it had to be enlarged, and every yard gained on the bush told on the constitution of the settler, a majority of whom became brokendown and aged before their time. But the life had its compensations. There was the sense of satisfaction, inexpressibly sweet to men who had been laborers or tenants in the Old World, that they were landowners and that they were working for themselves — that, for the first time in their lives, they were lords of a portion of God's footstool and their own masters. This feeling of independence was strengthened by their being free from all the restraints of organized society and almost totally exempt from taxation. All the paraphernalia of law was unknown in the backwoods and the only taxes they paid they did not feel, being the custom duties, then only 10 per cent on whatever little imported goods they bought. To people who had been ground down by taxation, to whom the rate-collector, the sheriff's officer, the poorhouse master, the factor the magistrate, the county gentry, had been objects of terror, the relief in being placed where no one domineered over them and no one exacted a portion of their earnings, was a solace for the pinching cold, the coarse food, the exhausting toil of the Canadian bush. Such an Arcadian state of matters could not last long, yet in Huntingdon it continued until 1845 when the adoption of a municipal system involved taxes, and the increase of wealth necessitated the establishment of a simple system of administering justice. The burdens were nominal, however, for another quarter of a century, and it was not until Confederation was adopted that the Canadian farmer felt that a portion of his earnings were going to pay taxes. Again, there was the gratification that came to the settlers from a sense of continued progress; every week saw some improvement effected or the bush rolled farther away. The sunlight no longer struggled through interlacing branches, but fell in one golden volume upon the clearing hollowed out of the woods. The prospect widened. The day came when the leafy curtain was so far lifted, that the inmates of one shanty could see their neighbor's and in time the hills to the southward stood revealed, and the sense of loneliness that had so long oppressed the family passed away. By this time the settler felt he could afford a better house, and a block-house—one of logs hewn flat on the face—would rise, with pitched roof and an attic room, and when the family entered it they thought it a palace, while the shanty was used as a pighouse or stable. With improved circumstances, however, there came no increase of happiness — rather the reverse — for as hope merged into its realization it was found that the joy of expectation was greater than that of possession. A community of settlers struggling in making their first clearances were bound together by the strongest ties of mutual helplessness, and the knowledge that they could not exist without the aid of their neighbors, broke down all feeling of exclusiveness, and their hearts warmed to one another just as their hands were extended to held one another. No democracy is so perfect as that of the backwoods; no scheme of socialism can ever approach it. If a settler was in want, he had but to ask if his neighbor had to give him; if one was sick, his crops would be put in or reaped as the case might be. If there was a widow, there would be bees to help her; if orphans they would be adopted Of the hundreds with whom the writer conversed in preparing this book, all save one, a woman, admitted, that, despite its privations and excessive toil, the happiest period of their lives was when they were struggling for existence in the bush, and many spoke with bitterness of the exclusiveness, the ostentation, and other forms of selfishness which came with increasing wealth.

Living as one family, the settlers of a concession shared the advantages of any superior capacity they individually possessed. One would have an aptitude for making ox-sleds and the like, another for framing buildings, a third skill in treating sick animals, and in every settlement was one man the tacitly recognized leader and spokesman. Thrown upon their own resources, almost as much as if wrecked on a desert island, the settlers developed in themselves unsuspected capabilities. Extraordinary expertness with the ax came from daily use, but necessity forced them to be carpenters and wagon-makers, shoemakers and harnessmakers, and even to try tinkering and blacksmithing. From the small tanneries that sprang up all over the district, where they sold their hides, they took in exchange sides of leather, which were made into boots by shoemakers who passed from house to house, and the boots so made the settlers made a shift to patch themselves. Clothing was commonly made by women, except the coats, which were cut if not also sown by itinerant tailors. Until their clearings were large enough to raise sufficient food, their struggle for existence was a hard one, all the potash they could make going in exchange for provisions. There was no other mode of earning money. Labor was cheap yet it was rare to find a settler able to pay for it. An able-bodied man counted himself fortunate to get $7 to $8 a month and board, and in harvest the highest that was paid was 50 cents in cash or a bushel of wheat for a day's work that lasted from sunrise to sunset. A tradesman, a carpenter for instance, would be paid 75 cents a day, and in no case more that a dollar. During the winter, expert axmen got $15 a month in the lumbering-shanties and in the spring $1 a day was offered to men for running rafts and the pilot got no more than $1.25. Modes, therefore, of the settlers earning money apart from making potash, could hardly be said to exist, and pinching economy was requisite. It was not strange that, under such circumstances, they came to place an undue value upon money, and that, when better days came, and the necessity to save and deny no longer existed there was a tightening rather than a loosening in the hold upon the world's substance, and that the old age of too many was made odious by a miserly and covetous disposition, which gave tone to these of their descendants.

What Would You Do?

The following is a letter submitted to The Montreal Daily Star, for publication, by Gordon H. Pollard of Vetville, Chateauguay, and it makes one think. According to the figures supplied in the letter, it allows only about $7.00 per week for food, clothing, medicines and other absolute necessities. In this day, we all know that such a sum does not go very far, certainly there is nothing for luxurious living, even the cheapest meat would be hard to buy very often. We believe the letter is well worth reading and sets forth a very convincing argument. — Editor.

THE WING OF A CHICKEN

Dear Sir:

Last Sunday, 9th inst., I had the pleasure of attending The Thanksgiving Sunday Service held here in the Community Hall, Vetville, Chateauguay at 9.00 a.m. It was held by a Presbyterian Minister, the Rev. John F. Allen, a young man not very long ordained by the Presbyterian Church. The congregation of around 40 people in all were almost without exception elderly people in or near their 70th year, some even in their 80th year. A couple of exceptions were the Pianist, Mrs. M. Griffiths from Chateauguay Park, a Mr. Blenkhorn of Colonia, an adjoining community and a little girl about 10 yrs. old, who was visiting her Grandmother here and sat next to me. It was a mixed congregation; some were Anglicans, some United Church, Pentecostal, Salvationists, etc., as well as Presbyterian, all gathered together to give thanks to Almighty God for the many bessings he has bestowed on us all. It was a simple service enjoyed by us all and I am sure was as acceptable to our Saviour as if we were in the finest Cathedral ever erected by man. The Minister, during his address, jocularly remarked about the Thanksgiving Turkey. After the service was over I spoke jokingly to the little girl who had sat quietly all through the service. I said to her, "Did you hear what the Minister said? You are not to eat all the Thanksgiving Turkey, but to save a little for me." She looked at me, wondering what I was going to say next. Her Grandmother turned to me and said "We can't even afford the wing of a chicken, let alone a Turkey!" How come? — Here's how: —

Veteran's Widow Monthly Allowance, $90.00 Income; Rent of Apt. at Vetville (Single) $43.75 month; Electric Power (about) $4.25 month; Phone (must, for cases of illness) $6.48 month. Total $54.48. Balance $35.52.

From this balance a Veteran's Widow has to provide for food, clothes, medications, hospitalization, transportation and all other absolute necessities required by a widow woman. How can it be done on $35.52 per month? The fault does not lay with the landlord, as for this $43.75 water and heat are supplied, as well as hot water all the year round. It seems to me the fault lies with the Dominion Government whose allowance to Veteran's Widows of $1,080. per year is insufficient; as likewise the amount of $1,740. for the Veteran and his wife is insufficient for a married couple, for at our present age we are practically all disabled — and whereas the Federal Government maintain a prisoner in jail at a cost of $2,500. per annum, whilst law abiding Veterans and their widows are practically left to shift for themselves.

I do hope that Mr. Diefenbaker and the other Members of his Cabinet (there's a woman amongst them) get to see this letter and that they will do something for the future keep of all Veterans and their Widows.

Yours truly

Gordon H. Pollard
South African & World War I Veteran.

FOR THE PROTECTION OF THE TRAVELLER

Just recently, a truck driver was sentenced to a heavy fine by a Quebec province judge because he had failed to leave his parking lights on after stopping on the side of the road. The result was a serious accident. The Provincial Highway Safety Committee, (Prudentia), reminds motorists, truck drivers and everyone driving, that parking lights are obligatory at night when one is stopped. Remember the laws were made to be observed so that the traveller is protected.

Pollution Is Unnecessary

Most citizens of the Lakeshore have probably, by now, asked themselves why Lake St. Louis has been so thoroughly polluted so as to make it unfit to recreational use and a possible menace to our health.

The answer to this question is not too difficult to find, but first we will briefly go over what has been written on the subject and what action has been taken to combat his pollution.

In 1955 a pollution survey was made of Lake St. Louis. This survey showed that the North Shore water was contaminated by bacteria to a degree of ten times over and above the danger line. This survey concluded that it was urgent to construct sewage treatment plants so as to improve the quality of the water.

Since then many complaints have been made on the subject, but it seems that no amount of complaining will solve this problem. Our past Provincial Administration set up an Anti-Pollution Committee which, now six years later, can only be described as a "phoney."

What it all amounts to is that we Lakeshore Citizens have not, as yet, shown enough determination in this mater. We have been harping at the Provincial and Federal Government to clean up our mess instead of pitching in and doing it ourselves.

It is all very simple. Our Lake is polluted because we dump our sewage into it and as long as we continue to do this we will not be able to enjoy our Lake. The only solution is to build sewage treatment plants.

Why delay? To postpone the necessary corrective measures is to worsen an already bad situation. The longer we wait the more it will cost. If we wait for Quebec to order a clean up we will gain nothing, for with their order will come a bill and that bill will be paid by us — not the Provincial Government.

We need not study the matter any further. If the state of our Lake is to be prevented from aggrevating substantially, and if, further, it is desired to remedy the present situation we have only to initiate the required corrective measures. These measures are prescribed by the standarized codes of sanitary engineering and we need only observe the satisfaction they are giving in other places to be heartened to tackle our own ill.

In other words, all we have to do is request that our Municipal Councils of Dorval, Pointe Claire and Ste. Annes take the measures required to build the needed sewage treatment plants. The result will be a clean lake that we can use and enjoy.

Write or telephone your Mayor or Alderman and tell him that you want action. Do it now, for pollution will not go away by itself.

W. G. McHugh,
Chairman of the Anti-Pollution Committee.

Contrary to some reports, the Chatteen Club has far from folded. The teenagers held a combination club and birthday party at the home of Paul Downing on St. Francis Blvd. Three of the members were celebrating their birthdays, Glen Grant, Jimmy Lauder and Paul Downing. It was a costume party and the costumes were really smart as most of the gang had made their own. There were about twenty who attended. Mrs. T. Grant, mother of Glen and Ross, was the co-hostess with yours truly, Mildred Downing.

The party next week will be held at the home of Ricky Thornbury.

Many motorists, fed up with the deplorable situation, have decided not to swerve out of the way of these dogs, but instead to plow straight ahead and let the dogs fall where they may.

Take Heed:

Apparently someone has been selling fire-crackers to the children. This has resulted in many people and animals in the St. Michael area being frightened out of their wits. It would be a good idea if parents warned their children not to throw the fire-crackers at anyone. They might just chose someone with heart trouble, then parents, look out!

—o—

Tickets are now being sold at a dollar each, the proceeds to go to the buildings of two hockey rinks and a skating rink in the Prudential-Parkview area.

The Provincial rebate will be retroactive from March 8th. C.M.H.I. hasn't sufficient forms for everyone. It would be a good thing if Mr. Knapp, Bank of Montreal, could get some definite answers regarding the 3% rebate and other pertinent information.

Our own San Salvatore has done it again! The fabulous success that San Salvatore and his orchestra enjoyed at the Kinsmen's party, Friday, Oct. 28th, at the Rustic Motel, is something people were talking about all week-end.

The social committee of the Prudential Home Owners' Association would like to express their thanks to the many people who generously contributed to wards the prizes. A special vote of thanks to the management and staff of the Chateau-Gai Motel for their splendid co-operation and the free use of their hall.

The Well Baby Clinic will be held at the Catholic Church on Route 4, near Prudential on Nov. 3rd at 11 a.m. to noon.

Successful Event:

The Hallowe'en dance sponsored by the social committee of the Prudential Home Owners' Association was an enormous success. Jack Innes and his orchestra pleased the dancing tastes of everyone with his wide and varied repetoire. The fantastic number of prizes was due to the hard work of Graham McCullock. Door prize of a beautiful radio was won by Danny Leposidevin. Mrs. Jean Paul Pitre won the travel alarm clock. Everyone was quite delighted to have among the guests, councilman Pitre and his wife. The Pitre couple seemed to be enjoying themselves and it was learned on good authority that Mrs. Pitre is an excellent dancer.

"Municipal building" is the topic of conversation these days, around this area. At the Oct. 25th meeting of the town council, it was voted to the referendum, thereby defeating Mayor Laberge's proposal to pass the Municipal building through immediately.

It appears that it's now too late to have anything done on the municipal building this year. The day after the meeting, the lawyer for the municipality informed the Mayor that everything should have been finalized the night of the meeting and that the council will have to wait until next summer to bring up the question of a municipal hall. It would appear that higher politics have won a victory in a municipal affair.

There is a house near Bourcier Bakery which belongs to the city and is in the process of renovation. In two or three weeks, town council meetings will be held there. At least the council will have the house in which to hold meetings. It would be somewhat undignified for the council to have had to move to the garage.

—o—

September's meeting of the Prudential Home Owners' Association was highlighted by the resignation of the Vice-President. — October's meeting saw the resignation of the sports' committee chairman. — Question is who has decided to get into the act for November's meeting?

Friends of Mrs. Jack Innes, wife of the orchestra leader, will be sorry to hear that she is very ill and is now hospitalized at the Herbert Reddy.

Mr. and Mrs. Bernie Maitre, Jack Circle, were blessed with the birth of a 7 lb. 11 oz. baby boy, on Monday, Oct. 24th, at the Montreal General.

Oct. 27th, Teresa Mayes, St. Michael, celebrated her 4th birthday at a party given in her honour.

On Laurier, between St. Eugene and Parkview Blvd., there is what would appear to be a pack of wild dogs. Now, these wild-eyed, ferocious looking animals that dart out snarling and barking at anything that moves, are a menace to the peace and safety of the community. Like any other wild and dangerous animal there should be a bounty on their heads, in the opinion of the writer.

TRAFFIC SAFETY

What does it mean? — A traffic light? A prison term for the offender? A street or road divided by a white line? — No, traffic safety simply consists of a certain frame of mind that makes every man and woman conscious of the hazards inherent in modern traffic and the grave consequences of accidents. It implies a complete and voluntary acceptance of one's responsibility and willingness to obey all safety rules in order to avoid dangerous situations. That is the kind of safety urged by the Provincial Highway Safety Committee "PRUDENTIA".

Salvation Army Campaign

IF there is one campaign in which the majority of the general public believe in, it is the annual drive for funds put on by the Salvation Army. For one thing it needs no explanation when the canvasser calls, in other words, it does not need selling. When a person is asked to give to the Salvation Army, they usually decide right away and give whatever they feel they can afford. There is usually a few words of praise as to what the Salvation Army is doing, which goes along with the contribution. This shows a genuine feeling of confidence in the Salvation Army.

The Salvation Army Campaign is now on in Huntingdon and no doubt a canvasser will be calling on you in the near future, if one has not already called. There is no other organization just like the Salvation Army. It is not a warlike army, but a peaceful army, fighting to make people believe in God. Its work is mostly with the down and outers and it has succeeded in converting them to a way of God and making them firm believers, when they were about to give up all hope. To coin a phrase — The Army goes where angels fear to tread — In the most squalid quarters you will find the army courageously carrying out its work of redeeming. Over the years its members have suffered insults and jeers for the part they were playing, but dauntless they carried on ignoring the taunts.

Today, the Army commands the respect of most people and even in those slum areas, the Army people are looked upon as beneficiaries from whom help is forthcoming. Many a lonely person has found comfort through the Army Hostel — a bed for the night, a hot meal, some clothing and perhaps a little cash to send them on their way. Many an immigrant has been aided in settling in Canada and beginning a new life, through assistance afforded by the Salvation Army. For this reason, the Salvation Army has proved itself, and most people feel that if ever they are in need there is one group to which they can turn and be accepted without question.

For this reason, if for no other, the public feels it is duty bound to support the annual campaign when it comes around each year. There is no need to ask, we know you will give as generously as possible when you are approached.

Who Will Be Next President of U.S.A.?

THIS is a question which will be answered next Tuesday, November 8th, when the Presidential election is held in the United States. The campaign has been an interesting one so far and an innovation has been the appearance of both candidates on T.V. on the same platform and giving their views.

Senator John F. Kennedy seems to have the followers with him all through the campaign. Vice President Richard M. Nixon has also gained a reputation, but it has not seemed as boisterous as that of Kennedy. However, wherever these two men have appeared, they have received great welcomes. Kennedy holds the view that in the last period of time, The U.S.A. has suffered a loss of prestige in the world affairs. Nixon does not follow this view and believes that the U.S. has been and still will be very active in world affairs and that there will be a betterment in the future. Both men have very strong platforms, but it would seem that Kennedy is commanding the situation to a greater extent.

In the case of elections of this kind, it is very hard to say that any one man has the edge on the other until the final vote has been counted. There is no doubt, however that the eyes of the whole world will be on the election results when they are forthcoming on November 8th. Much will hinge on the policies that the party and President who may be elected will bring with them. There is no doubt that the U.S. has received some setbacks, but not much could be done during the uncertain period of an election campaign. When this has been settled and the new man is installed, we look for some fast action on a number of matters that have been hanging fire.

The Unemployment Situation

THE big question in Canada at the moment is the growing rate of our unemployment. The strange part of the matter is that our general economy is at a high level, there is no slump, as one might suppose would prevail and cause high unemployment. There are a number of reasons for this condition.

Tariffs could be given as one reason for unemployment and our imbalance of trade is closely associated with this. Today, we are importing a large number of goods from other countries which undersell our domestic goods, which in turn lowers the sale of our own products. To offset this, manufacturers of the goods affected say that higher duties should be imposed on goods from lower priced countries. Naturally when sales drop in any one line, the subordinate manufacturers are affected also. Thus all down the line a slump occurs.

If we impose higher tariffs against the goods of another country, they probably will do likewise to our goods which are entering their country. If this takes place, a slump is perhaps caused in another direction.

Presently, the manufacture and sales of automobiles is being affected by the import of lower priced cars from a number of European countries. These cars are smaller than our own manufacture and it is said they are produced by cheap labor. This latter definition hints at sweatshop conditions, which is not true. Actually according to the standards of manufacture in each country, the workers are as well paid as workers in this country. Our standard of living is higher than in most countries and this is what increases our costs.

At this time Canada needs markets. By importing from other countries, Canada can gain a share for her own goods to be exported to these countries. Each country tries to do business with the one that will reciprocate.

Canada today is a trading or industrial country and therefore is affected by world competition and must be prepared to meet this competition. Our wheat which was at one time our best selling commodity has met competition and has had a hard time on the markets of the world. Were it not for its excellent milling qualities, it is possible it would have experienced its worst slump long before this. Constantly more avenues have been explored to keep our wheat sales on an even keel. It is thus that in other lines new experiments must constantly be made.

In the case of cars, the manufacturers should abandon their present mode and go into making a car which will compete with the imports and thus bring price into line. It could be their contribution toward attempting to solve the unemployment situation. They would be meeting world competition, which would be of far greater help than having tariffs imposed and thus shutting out some other goods which Canada may sell.

The textile trade is in a similar position. Japanese textile goods are coming into this country which are underselling those manufactured here. In other lines also, the Japanese are competing with such lines manufactured here. Here again, lower labor costs are given as the reason for selling at lower prices. Were it not for such competition, it is said the Textile Mills in this country could employ a great many more workers.

Thus it is seen that these factors are blamed as being the main causes for our rise in number of unemployed. With the winter season upon us, there will be still higher figures on account of the seasonal trades coming into the picture. All this and our economy on a high scale is a condition that is hard to reconcile with our economic state.

What can we do to remedy the situation? More production is needed from all workers in order to reduce prices. More effort must be put into finding markets for our products, so that we can compete in world market and not have to rely upon our own domestic market for all sales. We should consider ourselves under austerity conditions and instead of strikes for higher pay, there should be urgings to produce more for the same pay and thus help meet the competition that we are being faced with. This unemployment situation can be met if we are ready to co-operate and go in one direction.

The Week In Quebec

QUEBEC (CP) — Actions of Quebec's Government Leaders and publication of a bilingual book by leading thinkers in both English and French Canada this week have given increased emphasis to the fast growing rapprochement between Quebec and the rest of the country.

Premier Lesage on Tuesday announced Quebec would join the Trans-Canada Highway Program, which she had stayed out of since it was started in 1949.

Thursday, plans for a meeting at Quebec of all Canadian Premiers were announced in Ottawa where Mr. Lesage was attending the Federal-Provincial Fiscal Conference.

The same day, Health Minister Dr. Alphonse Couturier announced some details of Quebec's Long-Mooted Hospital Plan. Although he did not say so, the plan probably will be under the Federal-Provincial Hospital Insurance Scheme.

And in Quebec, a 418 page book — A study of how Canada's two largest ethnic groups get along together — was launched jointly by Presses Universitaires Laval and University of Toronto Press.

The book is Canadian Dualism — "La Dualite Canadienne" — A collection of essays by both French and English authors. Both French and English contributors wrote on each of the subjects covered in the book — Religion, Philosophy, Law, Politics, Economics and General Social Outlook.

Two of the book's main conclusions are that the groups are different and will remain so. Despite differences, however, there has been "a rapid growth of a common Canadianism."

"There is new confidence between the two groups," wrote Mason Wade, editor of the book and director of the Canadian studies program at the University of Rochester, Rochester, N.Y.

Before heading for the Federal-Provincial Conference, Premier Lesage announced that Quebec would join the Trans-Canada Highway Plan. Roads Minister Bernard Pinard signed for Quebec and Works Minister Walker for the Federal Government on Thursday.

Under the plan Quebec — last province to join — will receive $153,000,000 towards a $240,000,000 highway stretching 400 miles from New Brunswick to Ontario. Much of the highway is already in existence and will only need widening and other improvements.

There will be further negotiations on whether Quebec will receive $57,000,000 it would have got had it signed earlier.

Premier Lesage suggested last July that a conference of Premiers be held to decide whether there would be a means "to establish interprovincial relations on a permanent basis." The last such conference was late in the 19th Century under Honore Mercier. The late Premier Duplessis refused to call one, saying it would be an insult to Federal Authorities.

Date of the Conference has not been definitely set, but observers forecast it would start Dec. 1 or 2.

Quebec's Hospital Insurance Plan, which Mr. Lesage had said would start Jan. 1, will be carried out without any increase in taxes or special levy, Health Minister Dr. Alphonse Couturier said. Costs would be met out of general revenues.

All residents of the Province will be entitled to payment at public ward rates, Dr. Couturier said. Private and semi-private patients would pay the difference themselves.

He gave no indication whether the plan would be under the Federal-Provincial Scheme. But Quebec and Ottawa experts have been negotiating quietly on the matter.

And the Liberal Party in its election platform, said it would seek admittance to the plan and would seek some $55,000,000 from Ottawa which it said Quebec had not received by staying out.

Election In States Is Drawing Near — Voting On Nov. 8

Tense relations between The Congo's army strong man, Col. Joseph Mobutu, and the UN command there culminated in Mobutu's announcement at Leopoldville that he is coming to New York this week to seek support from the UN and the United States for his tottering pro-Western military regime.

Mobutu refused to deal further with the UN chief in The Congo, Rajeshawar Dayal of India, and said he wants to disclose Dayal's attitude personally to UN Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold. Mobutu accused Dayal of "treating me like a child."

Mobutu's political enemies in The Congo immediately launched a drive to bring the deposed premier, Patrice Lumumba, back to power.

Mobutu said he intended to do "all in my power" to keep his regime of technical commissioners from collapsing. He openly accused the United Nations' Congo operation of supporting a return to power by Lumumba, now living under guard in the official premier's residence.

Constant Pressure

Although Mobutu has been virtually running things in Leopoldville for more than a month, Lumumba and his supporters have never let up on the pressure.

The UN's official policy in The Congo has been to keep out of the newly-independent country's involved and turbulent political struggle. But in recent days high UN officals there have been describing Mobutu and his commissioners as "schoolboys," and made it clear they did not intend to take them seriously.

In his struggle to cling to power, Mobutu demanded a written accord with the United Nations which would in fact represent recognition of his regime. He claimed this accord "was on the verge of being signed" when it was thwarted at the last minute by UN officials.

In another Congo complication, Premier Moise Tshombe of the breakaway Katanga province demanded that the senior UN official in that area—Ian Berendsen of Sweden—and part of his military staff should clear out.

Tshombe's demand came after Berendsen rejected as "almost entirely untrue" charges by Tshombe that UN Ethiopian troops were aiding rebel Baluba tribesmen in the northern part of the province.

UN Troubles

At United Nations headquarters in New York the Russians made it clear they intend to keep harassing Dag Hammarskjold in the apparent hope of forcing him to quit as secretary-general.

Hammarskjold was due to present this week an estimated bill of $150,000,000 to $200,000,000 to cover the cost of the UN Conge operation through 1961.

The Soviet bloc served notice in the 99-nation financial committee that they will not pay any part of the Congo bill. The Czechoslovak delegate charged Hammarskjold with hypocrisy and partiality to the West. Albert Bender, U.S. delegate, declared: "Our organization is built on good faith. I suggest that whoever attempts to destroy that good faith ... may well be considered to have as his goal the total destruction of the United Nations itself by sowing the seeds of distrust."

Putting Their Roots Down

The farm has been in the family for generations, ever since a pioneering ancestor got it from the Crown. Adjoining land has been acquired as farming pratices changed and somewhere along the way a wing was added to the house. It is a big, old house, modernized with electricity and running water, but here and there the owner can point out a part built over a hundred years ago, and these parts seem solid enough to stand for another century, whatever may happen to the later construction.

There are three sons in the family, all in high school, all intending to farm. The father knows where he can buy the extra land they will need—his brother hasn't a son to carry on and to have a nephew take over the farm seems a little like keeping it in the family.

Have the boys never thought of going farther from home? "No," their mother says "We seem to have put our roots down here." She herself is not a native of the locality. A town girl coming to teach school in the community, she married a farmer, and his people became her people. She found their well-kept history fascinating; she felt a security in their calm spirit; and she firmly took root.

The grandmother, now over ninety, a frail, intelligent, charming woman came back to live in the old homestead after her husband died. Her roots were down there too, and to be back in the familiar rooms with her family around her, especially her small grandchildren, helped to ease her loneliness. Her daughter-in-law, commenting on the old woman's devotion to the children, added, "We all just love her." It was easy to believe this, seeing the way the boys listened when their grandmother spoke, the way the granddaughter, a student nurse, home on her afternoon off, settled right down to tell her grandmother about the strange things that happen in a hospital. And it was easy to believe that these young people known more than most about their family traditions, because of their grandmother's stories

The family have their roots in the community too. For generations back the children have gone to the same country school. A great-great uncle, a stone mason, built the church on land given from a corner of his farm; and in the churchyard, kept trim and green and shady, are the graves of the clan's departed. The road running past the farm is lined with trees planted by a great-great grandfather. It seems no wonder that through the years the sons have not wanted to go away; no wonder that the few who felt called to vocations that took them far from home never fail to come back to a family reunion.

To the solitary who have not been set in families or whose families have been lost or scattered or who feel no response to family ties, an inheritance of roots in a family or a place may seem a rich inheritance indeed. For such roots are, to a great extent, inherited; all the individual can do is to nurture them in his own time. It may be a far greater thing for the lonely or unnoticed or rejected with no rich soil of a family past to draw from, to start roots of their own growing and, with little thought of what may come to them personally, still to make a place for themselves as many of our countrymen have done. They have their story too.

A Ditty For Drivers

IT ISN'T THE CAR

by Charlie Ahlf in the Sohio Transportation News

It isn't the car that begins to whine
When forced to stop for an old stop sign—
It's the driver.

It isn't the car that will take a drink
Then quickly lose its power to think —
It's the driver.

It isn't the car that fails to heed
The dangers of reckless, discourteous speed —
It's the driver.

It isn't the car that steps on the gas
And causes an accident trying to pass —
It's the driver.

A car may be bent and twisted awry
But it isn't the car that will have to die —
It's the driver.

The Week At Ottawa

OTTAWA, (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker announced the fourth session of the 24th Parliament will open Thursday, Nov. 17 ...

Premiers of the 10 provinces met with the prime minister in a fiscal conference, and were surprised ...

A one-man royal commission heard about the "Beaver" car ... The CPR foreshadowed the gradual ending of passenger trains in Canada ... Top officials of government and national organizations met to find a solution to unemployment ...

That was the week in Ottawa, packed with activity and important announcements.

Unemployment Issue

Unemployment will be the hottest issue of the new pre-Christmas Parliamentary session. The government has promised to make its plans on the question known when the House reconvenes. Prime Minister Diefenbaker has said they will be based on "a current and realistic appraisal" of the situation.

Legislation to establish a national productivity council will be placed before the session by Mr. Diefenbaker.

He won support for such a council from a cross-section of the community at the giant conference on unemployment. The council, an advisory body, is to make special efforts to promote productivity in special industries and areas.

It would represent business, labor, farm, universities, the Canadian Legion and other sectors of the community.

"The objective," said Mr. Diefenbaker," would be greater industrial efficiency through more effective use of manpower, plant, materials and other resources, to strengthen the competitive position of Canadian industry at home and abroad and to increase real income."

Many Ideas

The 21 representatives of business, labor, farmers and other groups that attended the conference gave many versions of what could be done to solve unemployment. They left confident that the government will act in the expansion of trades training of the unemployed and greater use of depreciation allowances to stimulate industry to build new plant and production facilities.

Unemployment was also discussed at the federal-provincial meeting, but there was no agreement.

Provincial spokesmen bombarded Prime Minister Diefenbaker last Friday, the final day, with proposals for federal aid to combat the dark unemployment situation. Labor Minister Starr dismissed their ideas as local axe-grinding appeals for more federal money.

For their part, the provinces did not accept Mr. Diefenbaker's plan for a new committee to study the problem; three premiers termed it a needless duplication of effort.

Surprise Move

Prime Minister Diefenbaker solved neatly — for him — the question of tax collections. He proposed to the 10 premiers as they gathered here that the provinces take back the unpopular job of levying their own share of income taxes and succession duties.

The proposal did not offer the provinces any greater share. To get more money they would have to increase the taxes themselves.

Mr. Diefenbaker also proposed freezing of the federal equalization payments to the less-wealthy provinces at their present level — $220,000,000 annually — for the five years 1962-67.

The premiers were obviously against all the suggestions.

Under the present tax-rental system the federal government, in most provinces, collects all the personal and corporation income taxes and succession duties and turns over an agreed share to the provinces.

Premier Smallwood of Newfoundland told reporters that eight provinces clearly wanted to continue this system and the other two are not opposed to it.

Mr. Diefenbaker said the goal is to reach a decision well in advance of the expiry of present tax-sharing arrangements on March 31, 1962.

Most of the provinces called for a continuation of that sharing system, but with a larger share for the provinces. The federal proposal would have them levying taxes themselves to collect the existing share, worth some $300,000,000 a year.

After the talks concluded, Mr. Diefenbaker said the conference agreed to use the mails to try to narrow divergent tax viewpoints by means of correspondence between him and the premiers.

Auto Industry

The "beaver" car, "bread-and-butter" cars and a mythical "car called desire" cruised at one time before the royal commission on the automotive industry.

Prof. Vincent Bladen of Toronto, the one-man commission, questioned union, farm, unemployed groups, and heads of Canadian, U.S. and overseas auto manufacturers as he held the hearing in Ottawa.

He is seeking to find what can be done for the industry, assaulted by growing competition from foreign imports.

Representative of a Saskatchewan farm union suggested at one point that Canada turn out its own economy car — through a public utility monopoly if necessary.

Mr. Bladen dubbed the product of such an idea as the "utility, austerity Canadian Beaver."

Premier Frost of Ontario, where the Canadian auto manufacturers are all based, said the industry should take a "massive look" at itself because it seems to be pricing and styling itself out of the market.

The "bread and butter car," it was contended, was the lowest-priced car in every maker's list.

Rail Forecast

The Canadian Pacific Railway's brief to the MacPherson royal commission on transportation said Canada and its rail transport industry "cannot afford the luxury of providing costly and unnecessary passenger services."

Over the next 20 years the CPR plans to scrap about $64,000,000 worth of passenger equipment and abandon many unprofitable passenger runs, to concentrate on fast inter-city routes and fight for more freight traffic.

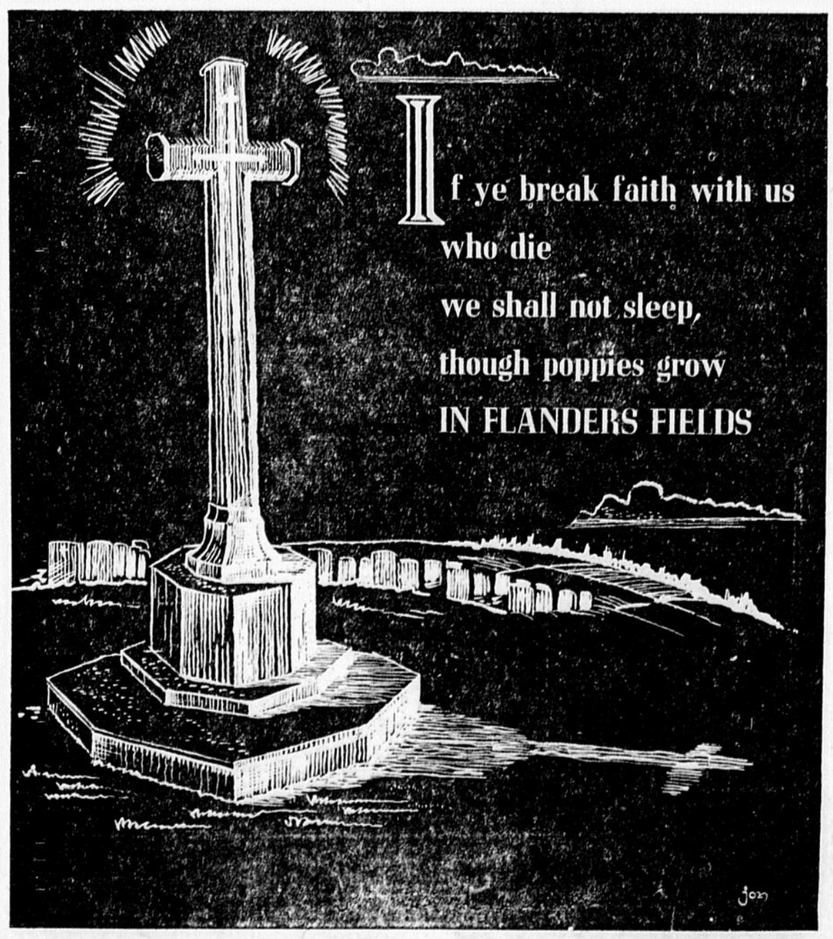

LOOK TWICE BEFORE

When backing out from a garage or private lane, be wise and cautious; don't rely on your rearview-mirror, urges the Provincial Highway Safety Committee "Prudentia". Particularly this season, when coated windows cut down visibility extra caution is necessary. Many children at their play have been killed or critically injured by backing vehicles. Increased vigilance is essential if you want to avoid such tragic events. Remember that pedestrians - young or old - may be walking in a snow storm head down - and it is your responsibility to avoid hitting them.

RUNAWAY BOYS

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Three small Indian boys told police here they had run away from a Brantford institution because they did not get enough to eat. They had hitch-hiked, eating apples on the way.

Maple Leaf Grange

Maple Leaf Members have every reason to be proud of the talent from our Grange which was presented on the various programs at the New York State Grange Convention at Watertown, N.Y., last week. We were well represented, for on Monday evening's State Lecturer's Program Gerald and Anita Smith accompanied by Bill Murray performed their ballroom dance very gracefully and after a hearty ovation did an encore number. Along with Mrs. Murray and Queen Shirley, they buffeted the freak snowstorm which started at Potsdam and turned into a minor blizzard before they arrived at Watertown. Brother "Bill" gave several pianoforte selections also.

Tuesday evening the State Youth held a banquet and Youth Program when the Maple Leaf Youth Group exemplified a "Hesitation" Drill by Candlelight. Forming the Grange letters P of H and a Sickle which was very effective and beautifully done by the Misses Rosetta and Dorothy Cosgrove, Gale Hawley and Susan Pease and Messrs. Peter Tully, Cecil O'Connor, Kenneth Hunter and Grant Hawley with David Rankin accompaning at the piano. They also were given a hearty ovation. David Rankin was presented to the assembly as Regional State King.

Miss Pat Emerson the Youth Director for the State introduced Queen Shirley Mae Grant, who spoke to the assembly on her trip to the N. Y. State Fair at Syracuse last September, giving the highlights and what is expected of her as Queen of the Grange. Queen Shirley was very well received wherever she appeared at the State Sessions and had the privilege of meeting the High Priest of Demeter, Mr. Carroll Bean of Winterport, Maine, as well as the Special Assistant to the National Master by name Seward Foote and Mrs. Foote from Washington.

The Pomona Lecturers Association Banquet was also held on Tuesday evening when the State Master Leland D. Smith and Mrs. Smith were the honoured guests. The tables were decorated with the 1961 Theme "Neighbourliness" the launching of the S.S. Grange Liner :Friendship" in the Grange, the Community and the World." There were ships holding candy mints and ships place cards centered with blue and gold lace doilies holding blue and gold candles with a "Hi Neighbour" Pennant. These candles were all made by Mrs. Donald (Janet) Grant of our Grange and everyone expressed their thanks for Janet's kindness in making so many. Kay Williams sang three songs.

The Canadian Ensign was presented along with the American Flag at the request of each Grange Association body every morning throughout the week and at the Sixth Degree Session when 475 candidates had the honour of hearing Carroll Bean, of the Court of Demeter speak. There was an attendance of over two thousand Grangers at this meeting in the Watertown Armoury on Wednesday evening. Again Seward Foote and Mrs. Foote were present. A number of members of Maple Leaf, Malone and other County Granges took the Degree.

Awards: Mrs. Allan Hunter was presented with the 6th place Ribbon in the Home Economic (S & H) Knitting Contest in the State. At the same time Mrs. Kay Williams received the 5th Place Ribbon for the S & H Recognition Book and a First place Ribbon and Necklace for her S & H Report on the year's work in the Subordinate Grange. The Service and Hospitality Luncheon was well attended and the Guest Speaker gave a very fine talk on the 1961 Major Project in the S & H Division; namely "Dedicated hands build international understanding through the home economic Grange care project." (In the Philippines) N.B. (Those in the Community interested in this venture who would like to glean further information can have same by contacting Kay Williams).

Community Service Award was presented to Maple Leaf Grange by the State Master for Achievements during the past year. The award consisted of a further Gold Bar for the Placque which now hangs in Grange Hall and a substantial cheque.

Malone Grange also won a Blue Ribbon for their S & H Report and Mr. Don Davis of Bangor Grange took the Second Place Ribbon in the State for his Landscape in oils "Fall 1960"

Mrs. Roy Goodfellow received the Gold Star Lecturers Award in the Subordinate Class and Mrs. Kay Williams received the same award in the Pomona Lecturers Division.

Those attending the Sessions were Mrs. Marguerite Johnston, Mr. and Mrs. B. A. Rankin, Miss Shirley Grane, Mr. David Rankin, Mr. and Mrs. Allan Hunter, the Misses Rosetta and Dorothy Cosgrove, Gale Hawley, Susan Pease and Messrs. Cecil O'Connor, Peter Tully, Kenneth Hunter, Grant Hawley, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Murray, Mrs. Kay Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Smith.

Franklin Centre

FRANKLIN CENTRE — Mr. Stanly Currie had a pleasant surprise, the past week in opening an average sized egg he found 3 yokes instead of one. He took a snap-shot of it.

Mr. Ross Goldie had the pleasure of a visit with one of his Franklin neighbours in Sacremento, Calf., recently, Miss Irene Lussier, R.N., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Lussier, and her companion, Miss A. Moore, R.N., who are stationed there at present.

Mrs. James Manning and Rev. A. Barnes, were the only two present at the S. S. Convention at Dundee, on Saturday, from this Church. A good attendance and a spendid meeting were reported.

Standard Time was welcomed back into force by most people after the past month of cold and dark mornings. So the S. S. and Church Time is again back to its Fall Time viz 9:45 and 10:30.

Mr. and Mrs. Parkinson of Chateauguay, were week-end visitors with Mr. and Mrs. Martin Brooks and Russell.

THE CHILDREN'S CORNER

BY

"Mistress Merry"

Preparing for a Party

All was not as usual in the home of the three bears today. To be sure it was a lovely fall day, the sun was shining, the light breezes fanning the little brook but Robby had missed every time he had tried to catch a fish. Betty had found it hard to get her house clean and neat and the dinner on to cook, her mind just wasn't on such things. Billy, carrying the weight of having made the suggestion, now wondered just how were they going to carry it off. Should it prove to be a fool thing to do Betty would be the one who would suffer the most he knew.

All at once Betty made up all of their minds when she burst out of the house and called over her shoulder that she was on her way to ask "Old Granny Owl", she should known if Billy's idea really would work.

Old Granny Owl was not too easy to find. She was having her nap for it was still daylight. With her head tucked under her wing, she was far away in dreamland when to her annoyance she heard a soft voice calling her name.

"Why couldn't those woodland creatures mind their own business or else if they must come why must they come just when one is sleeping?" She thought. But there was no denying that whoever it was, they were not leaving until she had wakened up and talked to them. Finally, with a stretch and flap of her wings she said rather tartly, "Well, Whooooo is it?".

"It is I, Betty Bear", called her visitor, and something about the soft voice made Granny Owl open first one round black eye and then the other. Staring down at her golden paw she decided to swoop down and take a better look at Betty. From a much lower branch she could look right into Betty's worried little face and she knew that there was really a problem here.

"Who-oooo-se troubling you? asked Granny, not a bit sharply as sometimes she was known to speak.

"Oh no one", admitted Betty," it's just I am not sure what to do and I — we, were sure you would know.

"Well, let's hear your whole story then".

"It's this way. I — We, have been invited to the midnight frolic that all the woodland creatures are going to, and I haven't a thing to wear."

At this Granny Owl stroked her breast with her beak to hide the twinkle that came to those wise brown eyes of hers. "Why try to hide that lovely sleek fur?" she thought. But before she could say anything Betty went on.

"You see everyone will no doubt be in costume and I — We, thought perhaps I could make a nice costume of autumn leaves."

"Just how did you propose to hold those leaves together?" asked Granny.

"That's just it. Can those leaves be held together if Spinner, the Spider makes a web for me?"

"Hmm! That's only half strong enough I'm thinking. Let's see now. Why could you not lace those leaves together with their own stems?"

"But how? Granny?"

"You have two sharp teeth in front haven't you? Just put the tip of the first leaf over the top of the second leaf, after you have first carefully taken off their stems. Bite a hole, either side of the leaf and weave the stem through the two holes."

"Oh Granny! I just knew you would know what to do. Thank you, thank you so much. I have been so worried."

"Mind now, I have never tried to make a whole costume but I do know that I have seen maple leaves that the children have joined together this way. Perhaps you had better get Spinner to weave you a web to fasten the leaves on once you have joined them together. I think it is worth a try and if it does not work as you think you could go just as you are, I would think."

Betty was going to hurry away when Granny called again.

"Wait! Had you thought of gathering rose seed pods? They can be joined together and hung about your neck. They would be pretty if you choose the very red ones."

"Granny Owl you are just wonderful you are so smart!" and Betty Bear was so happy and excited she almost fell over her front feet as she tried to hurry back home to tell Billy and Bobby. It was going to be so different now that she knew just what she was going to do. That was the way to get something done, plan ahead, not just jump in and make a proper mess of things.

Rally Day at Georgetown Church

HOWICK — Rally Day was observed in Georgetown Presbyterian Church, on Sunday, Oct. 30th, with the Junior Bible Class in charge of the entire service. Kenneth McFarlane opened the service with the Call to Worship followed by Responsive Scripture reading led by Wendell Holmes.

Others who led in prayer and Scripture reading were Jimmy Kyle, Eleanor Wilson, Ann Reddick, Ann Brown, Barrie Cullen and Donald Morrison. The children's Story entitled "Be The Best" was given by Sherrill Cullen.

During the Offering the choir rendered the Anthem "Constantly Abiding."

The Sermon period consisted of a resume of the summer study sessions, taken in turn by James Cullen, David McArthur, Donna Cullen, Lorna Anderson, Betty Cairncross, Gary Barrington, Sandra McFarlane, Heather McCartney, Jackie Peddie and Alvin McArthur.

This was followed by the Apostles Creed repeated in unison with the congregation joining in.

The able manner in which the service was carried through reflects great credit on these young people and especially on their leader Mrs. John Holmes, whose devoted leadership has been such an inspiration to the group.

Home and School Association

The monthly meeting of the Howick Home and School Association took place in the High School auditorium, on October 25th, with a large attendance.

On behalf of the School Health Service Committee the Recording Secretary reported that contact had been made with Dr. Langis, head of the County Health Unit, who stated that a County nurse would again visit the school shortly for pupil check-up and also that Patch Tests would be given in the Spring. The action of the executive in selecting Class Mothers was endorsed. The president reported correspondence regarding the advisability of setting up a Regional Council of Home and School for the Chateauguay Valley and he and Mr. D. R. Lambie were appointed delegates to attend a meeting of an exploratory nature to be held in Valleyfield.

The UNICEF Committee reported that all arrangements had been completed for the annual house to house collection for this worthy fund by the children on Hallow'een. Mrs. R. W. McFarlane reported that the school calendars had arrived and would be on sale at the close of the meeting. A Traffic Safety Committee was appointed to consult with similar committees from other organizations with the object of securing more rigid enforcement of the law requiring traffic stop when a school bus is stationary on the highway to take on or discharge passengers. This committee is to consist of Mrs. R. B. MacFarlane, Mr. Ralph Reddick and Mr. Douglas Templeton . It was announced that the November meeting would take the form of a panel discussion on the subject of Curriculum, with particular reference to the High School grades.

The guest speaker was Mr. H. Gordon Green, Magazine Editor of the Family Herald and Immediate Past President of the Canadian Authors Association, who in a very entertaining manner described some of the highlights of his recent trip to Russia. He criticized the hostile attitude of the American press toward everything Russian and stated that in his contacts with the Russian people he had encountered nothing to lead him to consider this attitude justified. He described his ocean voyage, his visit to cities such as Leningrad and Moscow, and particularly to the collective farms. Everywhere he went he was treated with cordiality and was not restricted as to what he could see. He was allowed to take photographs and exhibited a large collection of them during the social period at the close of the meeting.

The winners of the class pennants for parent attendance were Grades IV and XI.

Valleyfield

Opening of the Valleyfield Ladies' Curling Club

The opening meeting of the Valleyfield Ladies Curling Club for the 1960-61 season took place at the Montreal Cottons Club on Monday, October 24th., in the form of a Dessert Bridge made up of some twenty tables, by which it will be noted that a goodly attendance was on hand.

Visiting curlers and guests were welcomed by the Club's President, Mrs. Harold Dando, who in the course of her remarks, made the happy surprise announcement that Mrs. W. Colquhoun, a member of the Valleyfield Ladies Curling Club, had been selected by the Ladies Curling Association of Canada, as one of the three members from Quebec to represent Canada at the Royal Caledonia Curling Club in Scotland early next year. These ladies, twenty in all, will leave by chartered plane from Toronto on the 21st of January, and will be guests of the Scottish Ladies Curling Association for the next four weeks, returning to Canada on or about the 18th of February; the Valleyfield Ladies Curling Club are justifiably proud of the fact that one of their members was chosen for this signal honor and Mrs. Colquhoun was the recipient of congratulations and good wishes from all present.

Mrs. Dando then brought another message to those present that was not so happily received; this was the announcement that the Club was losing one of the original fourteen Charter Members in the person of Mrs. John Cluff who is leaving Valleyfield to take up residence in Huntingdon. Mrs. Cluff became associated with the Valleyfield Ladies Curling Club in 1932 and, as outlined by Mrs. O. E. Caza another senior member, it was largely due to her continued interest and untiring efforts that the Club was able to maintain it's existance, particularly during the war years, when membership dwindled for a time to five.

At the request of the President, Mrs. H. Dando, Mrs. Caza, President of the Ladies Curling, then presented Mrs. Cluff with a handsome piece of jewelry from the Club members, and a scroll conferring on her Honorary Life Membership in the Valleyfield Ladies Curling Club.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Carr, Michael, Marilyn and Stephen left on Friday for their new home at Deep River, Ontario.

Sympathy is extended to Mr. and Mrs. C. Christie on the death of Mrs. Christie's mother, Mrs. E. Taylor.

Joint parties were held during the past week in honour of Mrs. M. Cronshaw and Mrs. J. Carr who have since left Valleyfield to take up residence in Pte. aux Trembles and Deep River, Ontario, respectively.

Monday evening, Mrs. T. Hargrave, Mrs. R. Tremaine and Mrs. R. McEachern entertained at four tables of bridge at the latter's home. Both ladies were presented with carnation corsages and at the close of the evening they received identical gifts of an ecru hand-made bridge set, cloth and matching serviettes.

Wednesday evening they were entertained by Mrs. D. W. Montgomery Jr. at a Dessert Party where some twelve friends bade them farewell.

All their friends wish them and their husbands and families every success and happiness in their new homes.
