Community choir out to give quality music

by Michelle Tessier

Pontiac residents should be able to attend quality concerts presented by a new community choir.

Every second Monday the choir holds rehearsals at Shawville United Church. The choir has 16 members of all ages, 14 women and 2 men, and they come from all over the county, from Ladysmith to Quyon.

Sue Kline, a member of the choir and one of the prime movers, says that the choir is still growing. "It's very young right now and is basically forming." She says it needs more men to balance the group and has advertised for tenors and basses. However, Kline says the choir isn't looking for any ideal number of members. "It's a choir where anyone is welcome, everyone can try."

The choir performs songs in Latin, French and English. The director is Susan Spear and the accompanist is Ken Spear. Kline admits that the prospect of singing in different languages may scare some people off. "Three new members last week walked away quite shocked," she says.

However, Susan Spear says there is quite a wide range of people in the choir, both with musical knowledge and without. "I'm having to teach a lot to the choir: how to sing properly, music reading skills, just about everything. It's turning into a course at the moment."

Mrs Spear has a Bachelor of Music from Western Ontario and an Education Degree in Music from the University of Toronto. She has taken lessons since she was a child and has been teaching private voice lessons for about five years. She is working as a volunteer with the choir.

"It's hard for Susan to direct a group made up of some people who know a lot about music and those that don't," says Kline. "It's a real tricky thing." Spear admits it is a "challenge" for those who don't know how to read music and she adds that they are "going to have to work extra hard to keep up with the others." However, as Kline says, "As long as anyone is interested in learning, interested in working at it, fine and dandy." Spear adds there is a good time to be had as well. "It's fun for anyone who likes music," agrees Kline.

The choir is now preparing to do Christmas concerts at the Pontiac Community Hospital and at Home on the Hill. Kline says they also intend to give a concert in "either a Winterlude-type thing or a little later."

Members have to pay a $15 registration fee for music as well as having to purchase their own extra music.

Kline says she would like to see the choir become a permanent part of the community and have its own library of music. "I foresee a future in it; a definite, solid, permanent thing...that's what I'm trying to shoot for."

The choir, Kline adds, "can give the community quality music...more times a year than just Christmas or Easter or times like that."

The quality of English education

Members of the English community — both Catholic and Protestant — will get a chance to discuss the quality of education at a meeting this coming Thursday at Pontiac Protestant High School at 7:00 p.m.

All members of the anglophone education community, including parents, teachers, senior high school students, trustees, administrators and interested members of the public are invited to discuss anything pertaining to the quality of education and educational services and how these might be improved.

The ideas that come out at the meeting will be brought forward to the regional symposium to be held December 6th and 7th in Hull and later to the province-wide meetings to be held at the Montreal Congress Centre in April, 1986. The recommendations that come out of the April meeting will be forwarded to the Ministry of Education for action.

Information session on unemployment

The CLSC Pontiac, in collaboration with the Outaouais Unemployment Action Movement, is organizing an information session on the services and rights of the unemployed people.

We invite anyone concerned by unemployment to come and meet us to discuss their situation and to be informed of their rights.

This session will take place at the office of the CLSC Pontiac in Chapeau, on Monday November 25th, at 7:30 p.m.

For further information, call the CLSC Pontiac at 683-3000 or 689-5080.

Municipalities able to protect architecture

Municipalities will soon be able to act directly on the protection of their architectural heritage.

The 'Loi sur les bien culturels' (Law of cultural property) will allow, starting April 2, 1986, local municipal councils to autonomously identify, protect, and enhance architectural heritage on their territory.

The municipalities will be able to give a status to a historical monument or territory which adds to the aesthetic and historical nature of the area. The law states the municipal council will act on the advice of an advisory committee which it will set up to study the cultural value of the historical property.

Shawville Business Association meeting

The Shawville Business Association is holding a general meeting November 20th at seven p.m. at Bob Smith's Restaurant. Robert Middlemiss, Member of the National Assembly, and Mr Laporte of the LEAD Corporation will be speaking.

The meeting is to discuss Christmas hours and promotions. Cathy Nyveld has been hired by the Association to help with Christmas promotion. The Association is also waiting for news on a federal grant it has applied for through the Pontiac Business Association. This grant would be used to hire four workers: one for the Pontiac Business Association and one each for the Shawville, Fort Coulonge, and Campbell's Bay Business Associations.

Lions celebrate 36th

The Shawville Lions celebrated their 36th Charter Night Anniversary (1949-1985) with a dinner and dance at the Lions Community Centre in Shawville on Saturday, November 16th, 1985.

The program followed a delicious roast beef and mashed potato dinner prepared by Bob Smith and his staff.

The program began with the singing of O Canada and the toast to the Queen. Lion Lennis Dean did the invocation and Lion President, Art MacIntyre, who was M.C. for the evening welcomed those present, then called upon Lion Grant Rogers to introduce the head table.

The presence of two new mayors in the gathering was noted, mainly, Jack Graham, Mayor of Bristol and his wife, Charlene, and Gary and Margaret Hodgins of Clarendon, Former Mayor of Clarendon Bill and Doris Hanna, and Mayor of Shawville Allan and Eleanor Black were also regognized.

Also present were seven young people who had worked as students on Mill Dam Park: Derek Potvin, Janice Murray, Steven Meisner, Mike Hodgins, Shelly Hodgins, Judy Murray and Charlie Orr. Unable to attend were Peter Angus and Ken MacIntosh who also worked at Mill Dam. Derek Potvin, spokesman for the students, said that they had appreciated the job opportunity and hoped that the Lions would undertake more such projects in the future.

A special presentation was then made by the Shawville Council, represented by Allan Black and Sylvia Hodgins, to the Lions Club. The plaque expressed council's appreciation of all that the Lions had done for the town over the years and especially the Lion's annual organization of the Canada Day parade and celebrations. Sylvia called upon Lion John Musgrove, the driving force behind the Canada Day celebrations to come up and accept the award along with Art MacIntyre, this year's president of the Lions Club.

In another special presentation, Past President Basil Hodgins was awarded the 100% President's award from Lions International by Nelson Angus and Art MacIntyre.

Nelson Angus also presented 100% attendance pins to the following: one year, Martin Black, Marcel Filion; two years, Durrell Smith; four years, Oswald Way, Robert Lacourse, Art MacIntyre, Allan Merritt; six years, Ven Crisostomo; seven years, Grant Rogers, Basil Hodgins, Doug Fulford, John Carmichael, John Argue; nine years, Jerry Barber; ten years, Robert Smith; thirteen years, Hugh Young, John Musgrove; fourteen years, Fern Alarie; seventeen years, Mahlon Hayes, Robert Carswell; eighteen years, Barrie Murray; twenty years, Bill Orr; twenty-two years, Gerry Doughty. Thirty-six years perfect attendance pins were presented to charter members, Charlie Imison and Lennis Dean.

Art MacIntyre, President of Shawville Lions and Nelson Angus present Past President Basil Hodgins with the 100% President's Award from Lions International.

Carson Hodgins then introduced the special guests for the evening, Dr Robert Horner, M.P. for Mississauga North, Ontario, and his wife Elaine. Dr Horner had been occupied all day with the Conservative leadership convention in Toronto, but had arrived, in spite of decidedly inclement weather, in Shawville, in time for the banquet.

A doctor of veterinary medicine and a former member of the RCMP, Dr Horner grew up in Shawville with a number of those present at the Lions 36th. In his speech, he recalled what his colleagues were doing thirty-six years ago and came up with a number of amusing anecdotes much to the delight of those involved.

Dr Horner says that he does keep abreast of Shawville news by reading THE EQUITY - albeit about a month after it happens — and he is aware of the vital contribution that the Lions have made to the Pontiac Reception Centre, Mill Dam Park, and Pontiac Community Hospital. "The Lions have probably been associated with every worthwhile cause (in Shawville) for the past 36 years", he said.

Although he is not, himself, a Lion, Dr Horner said that as a Rotarian he is involved in the Leader Dog for the blind program, providing free veterinarian services for these dogs, two of which have been provided by his local Lions Club in Mississauga. He was glad to see the President of the Shawville Rotary Club, Ted Christie and his wife Dora, at the gathering.

Lion Cliff Campbell thanked Dr Horner for his speech and presented him with a gift as a token of appreciation. The formal part of the evening was followed by a dance to the music of the Denault Family Orchestra.

Dr Robert Horner, MLA for Mississauga North, Ontario, was guest speaker at the 36th charter night anniversary of the Shawville Lions Club.

Information meeting on proposed dump site

Residents of Bristol Municipality and other interested individuals are invited to attend an information meeting on the proposed Hilton Mine Dump Site. The meeting will be held at 8:00 p.m. on Monday, November 25th in the gymnasium of Dr S E McDowell Elementary School in Shawville.

As a result of a proposal put forward by the mine owner, Lamarche and McGuinty, the open pit mine is now being considered as a potential landfill site for the region of Ottawa-Carleton.

Before acquiring a dump license, however, Lamarche and McGuinty must meet the criteria set by the Ministry of the Environment. The first step in the process is to provide a hydrogeological study of the site to determine whether it is suitable for landfill. As this study has not yet been completed, it will not be possible for anyone, either from the Ministry of the Environment or elsewhere, to comment on the specific environmental advantages or risks of the site.

It will, however, provide an opportunity to question Mr Lamarche regarding his proposal and make him aware of local concerns. Representatives of the Bristol Council and the MRC will also be there in order to shed some light on their role in deciding whether Lamarche and McGuinty gets a dump licence or not.

The prospect of a dump at the mine has raised a number of concerns on the part of local people — contamination of wells and surface water, possible illegal use of the dump for toxic wastes, heavy traffic, noise, smells and bears, among others. This meeting will provide a chance to air these concerns to the people in a position to do something about them.

Hospital seeks candy striper volunteers

Pontiac Community Hospital is seeking about five more young volunteers for its Candy Striper program.

The program, begun last year, was a tremendous success and the hospital would like to see it continue. "The patients get so much out of it", says Roisin O'Neill, one of the organizers. "It's so good for everybody."

Candy Stripers are young volunteers averaging 13-14 years old but at least twelve, who come in for a couple of hours after school or on the weekend to provide the nurses with a helping hand and the patients with a bit of companionship. They are called candy stripers because of the pink-striped aprons that they wear.

Candy Stripers perform such tasks as reading cards and letters to patients, handing out ice water, passing out and collecting meal trays, preparing patients for meals and feeding them if necessary, watering flowers, tidying bedside tables, walking with patients in the corridor, and helping out in the nursery if requested.

They are not expected to answer bells, and out bed-pans, change linen, etc.

According to Joyce Hodgins, the single most important thing a Candy Striper does is provide companionship. "It's refreshing for the patient to have a young smiling face around...and someone who has the time to stop and chat. It's an area in which, without a whole lot of effort, a person can do a great deal of good."

The volunteers get a lot out of the program as well — a sense of responsibility toward the community, first-hand knowledge of the hospital and how it functions, and a realistic perspective on the nursing profession.

The organizers of the Candy Striper program are also seeking mature volunteers for the Children's Ward. These volunteers would help amuse and comfort children, who may be upset at being in unfamiliar surroundings or find the time long, when their parents can't be with them.

Those interested in volunteering for either program are urged to call Roisin O'Neill at 647-3824 or Jane Taylor at 647-2891.

Hockey. The Pontiacs' second game of the season was played in the New Silver Dart Arena at Camp Petawawa last Thursday night against the 4 RCHA. Despite their loss to the Army (4-1), the Pontiacs know there are better games ahead for them.

Canal. At a meeting of the County Publicity and Development Committee on Nov. 10th, under the chairmanship of Peter McConnachie, plans were made for a meeting with various Ottawa Valley groups to have full discussions about the Ottawa River and Georgian Bay Grand Canal System. There is an urgency about this meeting, as decisions must be made concerning the size of the locks at the Carillon Dam site. These locks should be wide enough and deep enough for large freightes if the whole Canal System is ever to come into being.

Bretzlaff's Store. On November 10th, a gathering was held in the Silver Maple Inn, Ladysmith, in honor of Mr and Mrs Vernor Bretzlaff, who have served the community as general merchant for about 40 years. The Bretzlaffs have passed the business over to their son Wallace, and are now retiring.

Remembrance Day. Veterans of the Pontiac assembled in several communities this past weekend to honor their fallen comrades. In Campbell's Bay on Friday, the Hull Regiment Band led the parade to the Legion Hall, and did so again on Sunday in Fort Coulonge. A ceremony was held at the Bristol Cenotaph on Friday, with the Renfrew Canadian Legion and members of the Renfrew Pipe Band present.

Ayrshires. At the Ottawa Winter Fair held last week, Burnholm Ayrshires, owned by G T Dagg and Son of Shawville, gave a good account of themselves, winning three top places, including the coveted Bryson Graham trophy on "Burnholm Stylish Alice" the oldest daughter of their imported herd sire "South Craig Glencoe".

Debate. The Sunday School room of the United Church was filled with young people on Monday for the special program, a debate on the subject, "Resolved that a Christian should not bear arms in war". The debaters for the affirmative were Walter Kilgour, Lorraine Fokes and Lee Hodgins, while the negative was ably supported by John Barton, Muriel Chamberlain and Brome Fokes. The judges committee consisting of W A Hodgins, Harold Young and Dr R E Dagg, decided that the affirmative had proven their position by a slight margin. Mr R P Eades acted as chairman, with a worship service led by Eleanor Beckett, Katie Elliott and Lottie Wright, and an enjoyable singsong led by Lindsay Judd, with Bert Schwartz, and Herbie McKnight. The meeting closed with the singing of "Taps".

Candidates. As a result of nominations held at Campbell's Bay on Monday last, there will be three candidates to contest the seat for Pontiac in the coming provincial election.

E.C. Lawn, Mayor of Campbell's Bay, will be the official Liberal; G A Howard of Shawville, Conservative; and P H McCann, Mayor of Quyon, as Independent Liberal.

Free Trade. A comprehensive trade agreement between Canada and the United States were signed at Washington on Nov. 15th, by the Rt Hon. MacKenzie King, Premier of Canada, and the Hon. Cordell Hull, Secretary of State for the U.S.

The agreement opens to Canada wider markets for some 60 commodities in all the main fields of our production. The concessions on forest products are of special value. On all lumber and timber, a cut of 50% has been provided in the existing customs duties and excise taxes.

Old Bear Shot. A very large and thin old bear was bagged at the farm of Robert Grant, North Clarendon, on Thursday of last week by Moses Murphy and Freeman Grant, of North Clarendon, forming a hunting party with William Sharpe and Harvey Ross, of Caldwell section, Bristol. Details concerning the killing, reaching this office, were that the old bear was preparing to hibernate when disturbed by a party of hunters from Campbell's Bay, whom he managed to evade. Later, when crossing a field, he was killed by bullets from the rifles of Murphy and Grant. We learn that these hunters were also successful in bagging a couple of very fine deer.

Local News. Mr G A Howard has installed a new steel weigh scales alongside his warerooms, for the accommodation of stock dealers and the farming community.

Snow fell almost unceasingly all day Thursday, rendering it possible for those so disposed to exchange wheels for runners, and enliven the cheerless aspect with the gingle of sleigh bells. Business in town has been enlivened considerably with the advent of sleighing, which, however, is considered rather early to continue.

A number of bush hands left here on Tuesday last, en route to the lumber camps up the line. They were engaged by Mr T A James.

Light Thief. During the past two weeks there has occurred a mysterious disappearance of electric light lamps, or bulbs, from the premises of private citizens, and also from the poles on which the street lights are suspended, making it appear as if someone is laying up a store of supplies for future use, or going into the electric lighting business on their own hook. Heavy penalties have been imposed for offences of this kind in other places, and if there is a recurrence of it here, the authorities will have to take steps to discover the thief.

Shooting incident. Bryson is reported to have had a shooting affair last week in which it is said rather drastic methods were used to capture an individual who was wanted for violation of the 9th Commandment. It seems the party referred to, who was chopping on the island, resisted arrest, at the hands of an officer of the law, and started at once to increase the distance between himself and the official, whereupon the latter directed his assistant to take a pot shot at him. The latter obeyed orders, and luckily for the fugitive from justice, he was not armed with Mike Murphy's gun, or the chase would have ended right there. As it was, the man escaped with a couple of shot holes in the back of his neck, and slight wounds in the arm and side. He made his way to Portage du Fort, and thence to Cobden, where he had the shot in his neck extracted. This story is given just as it came to THE EQUITY, and if it is not a correct summary of the facts in brief, we invite anyone who knows to furnish the true particulares. If the shooting occurred as stated above, it was certainly unwarrantable.

Born. At Shawville on Oct. 29th, to Mr and Mrs Wm J Dagg, a daughter. At Charteris on Nov. 8th to Mr and Mrs Thomas H Kelly, a daughter. Both well.

Married. At St Bridget's Church, North Onslow, on Nov. 2nd, Miss Annie Hickey married Mr John J Morrissey.

At Wesley Methodist Church, Charteris, on Nov. 9th, Miss Ella, youngest daughter of Mr and Mrs Alex Corrigan, married Archibald Greer of that place.

Free Trade. The Congressional election in the United States last Tuesday resulted in a complete turning of the tables in favor of the Democratic Party, shattering the power of Theodore Roosevelt, hitherto thought to be invincible. The Democratic sweep is taken to indicate that the people of the U.S. are in favor of a lower tariff, and it is possible the result may have some effect on the reciprocity negotiations that are in progress between members of the Canadian Cabinet and representatives of the U.S. Government.

In Full Bloom. On Friday last, Mr A McKenzie, of this village (Bryson), came into this office with a wild strawberry plant that was in bloom. The plant, which was found on the bank of the river, a short distance above the village, is remarkable considering the lateness of the season.

Not Denned Yet. A large bear took a daylight promenade through Mr Wm Wallace's field, Clarendon, a week ago last Sunday. A party of men followed him, but bruin was sharp enough to make good his escape.

The Execution of Riel. Louis Riel, the half breed leader, was hanged at Regina, N.W.T. at twenty-three minutes past eight last Monday morning. He made no speech on the scaffold, and died without a struggle. Contrary to anticipation, no trouble has arisen any place in this province as far as heard from at the time of going to press. The French papers in Montreal and Quebec are very indignant, some even claiming that the execution is nothing short of assassination.

Married. On the 4th inst., in Clarendon, Mr Wyman N. Thomas of Clarendon, to Miss Leanide Woolsey of Onslow.

Canada's first 'test-tube calf' born

By Carolyn Hoskins

A group of scientists at Laval University has become the second team in the world to successfully produce a 'test tube calf'. The birth of the healthy 36-kilogram female calf crowned seven years of research on bovine in vitro fertilization, pioneered in Canada by Dr. Raymond Lambert, Head of the Reproductive Unit at Laval University hospital.

The technique can be used to vastly increase the number of offspring from valuable cows, some of which might be unable to have calves themselves.

In vitro fertilization simply means that an egg and sperm are brought together, and fertilization occurs, in a laboratory dish or test tube "in vitro" or in fluid, as opposed to within the body. The fertilized embryo is then returned to the womb to grow until birth.

Although births of human babies conceived by this method are occurring more and more frequently, research groups trying to apply this technique to valuable cattle have been almost totally unsuccessful.

Dr. Lambert says the world's first test-tube calves were born in 1982 in Pennsylvania; but that research team ran into problems that prevented any further successes, he adds.

The chief obstacle seems to involve the stage at which the embryo must be implanted back into the cow's uterus in order to survive. In humans, as in other primates, the fertilized egg can be put back into the uterus almost immediately.

In cows and other mammals, however, the embryo must develop for about five days, time which it normally would spend in the tube from its mother's ovary to the womb. If the egg does not mature to this stage before implantation, the womb 'rejects' it, Dr. Lambert says.

The Laval team solved the problem of what to do with the embryo for those five days by placing it in a female rabbit.

When the egg has developed enough it is removed from the rabbit and inserted into a cow's uterus through a narrow tube, as is commonly done with human 'test-tube' babies.

Dr. Lambert says infertility due to blocked genital tracts is "rather frequent" in otherwise valuable cows. Formerly, these valuable animals were doomed to the slaughterhouse.

By taking eggs from an infertile mother, fertilizing them and transferring the embryos to substitute mothers, the Laval team's method can enable previously wasted valuable cattle to produce offspring. Dr. Lambert says the use of several eggs from the prized mother can result in multiple offspring, 'born' of various other cows, increasing the production of calves from the 'real' mother.

Dr. Lambert's work has been supported by Agriculture Canada and Agriculture Quebec.

Where's the beef in this election campaign?

Editorial

So far there seem to be very few distinguishing characteristics between the two principal political parties contesting this provincial election. Pierre-Marc Johnson with his daily poses and Robert Bourassa with his daily promises could probably exchange their positions as leaders of the Parti Quebecois and the Liberal Party of Quebec, and no-one would even notice.

Over the province the polls reflect this ambiguity. The Liberals generally seem to be slightly ahead, but not enough to guarantee winning the election. Perhaps it is a sign of the times that there is really so little substantive difference in the parties. The same situation existed during the federal election fifteen months ago.

The reason may be the tight corner our government has painted itself into, first with the Liberals in the early seventies and more recently with Parti Quebecois in power. Enormous debt, high unemployment, high emigration, and slow economic growth have severly restricted the range of policies available to any party wishing to govern Quebec.

As usual at the local level these larger problems are not being debated directly. The issues so far being addressed in Pontiac include the improvement of the road network, supported by the Liberals, the PQ, and the NDP, improvement of the Pontiac Community Hospital, supported by the NDP, the Liberals, and the PQ, and further agricultural incentives, supported by the PQ, the NDP and the Liberals.

It is difficult to believe any of their promises in detail: roads for example have so often been promised by candidates of all political persuasions over the generations and so seldom delivered in this region that few people take them seriously. Similarly, money has been promised before for improvement of the hospital, and never received. Agricultural support policies seem to be valuable to some farmers, but there are many instances where these policies have had effects opposite to the original intention.

Again, as usual, the decision between parties at the provincial level becomes a decision between candidates at the local level. Which one will be the best representative for Pontiac in Quebec City? Which one knows anything about the County?

During the next two weeks there may be an opportunity to distinguish the candidates by their positions on other local issues. Such issues include whether they support autonomy for Heritage College, the only English language CEGEP in West Quebec, whether they support bilingual public signs in businesses and public buildings, what they will do to increase the number of local English-speaking people in the provincial civil service, whether they support the universal entrance of English-speaking children to English schools, and what they will do to reduce the negative impact that the OCQ has had on construction and development in Pontiac.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Bryson, Quebec, November 6, 1985
Dear Editor:

Referring to your article "Small Business Awards this Saturday" of your October 30th edition, page 1, I would like to take this opportunity to congratulate those who deserved an award and to the members of the jury who respected the criteria established to hand out such awards.

Usually the winners at the local level are eligible to win at the regional level and those final winners are announced during the closing banquet for the Small Business Week which was held Sunday, October 27 at la Maison du Citoyen in Hull.

It seems to me that the Pontiac has missed the boat again since the Small Business Week was held from October 20 to the 27th meaning that the winners of Saturday, November 2nd were not eligible at the regional level. Each area of the Outaouais had activities planned except the Pontiac.

We are always complaining that the Pontiac is so far behind, that we are left out, well here is an example why!

It was mentioned several times during the evening, by the very distinguished speakers, that in order to get ahead we should stand together! Now is the time to do so and to start planning for next year. In 1984 the Pontiac received two awards at the regional level, let's try to beat that for 1986.

In closing, I would like to point out that this letter is not one of criticism but one of awareness. Our business community is important so let's get our act together AND be ready for next year.

Sincerely, Joan Brady

An open letter to Mr Bernard Angers, Président, Bureau du Président, Société d'Habitation du Québec [Quebec Housing Corporation]

We, the Citizens of the Municipality of Pontiac, support our Municipal Council in its request for Low-Rental Accommodation. This is a follow-up to Resolution No 3777-83, dated March 21, 1983, requesting 20 low-rental units for our senior citizens for the following reasons:

Whereas the Quebec Housing Corporation has not yet devoted itself to the request of this 1983 resolution, an inquiry has shown that there is a great need.

We have observed that a considerable number of elderly citizens of our area manage very well, however, 10% of this population, 55 years and older, would benefit greatly from low-rental accommodations.

By way of information, the population, 55 years and older, represents 615 people of 16.8% of the total population of our town (Quyon). The advantages of low-rental lodgings for senior citizens are as follows: new housing, therefore, less maintenance; close to neighbours, thus less stress due to isolation; companionship, group activities, etc.; and, in many cases the location would be closer to services such as churches, C.L.S.C., stores, etc.

The 50 requests for accommodtion by residents of our municipality total 2365 years lived, for an average of 47-½ years per petitioner.

We are confronted by a considerable number of farmers unable to continue farming and with no viable options.

The Municipality of Pontiac is the most important of all the rural municipalities of our County.

The Municipality has a site already available to the S.H.Q. (Quebec Housing Corporation) for the units in question.

It was moved to have our requests included in the current planning of the S.H.Q. so that construction could begin immediately.

The November 5, 1985 request of our Municipal Council of Pontiac is that these 20 units be included in the planning for 1985-86 which we've been awaiting since March 21, 1983.

We, the Citizens of Pontiac Municipality, request that these 20 units be granted in the new planning and that construction begin during 1986.

Julien Fortin, President
Pontiac Senior Citizens Low-Rental Units Committee

Rustic Rhetoric

by E.B.W. Mulligan

One hundred years ago the last spike of the CPR's cross Canada railway wasn't driven in but another was taken out of his pocket and it was driven in (he kept the last spike) by William Van Horner, later Lord Strathcona, at Eagle Pass, Craigellachie, British Columbia - Big Deal.

We in Pontiac had a railroad and the last spike was driven on April 27, 1847. The railroad started at Pontiac Village and ran three and a half miles to Union Village. I should tell you now that this railroad was horse powered.

A man by the name of Decauville invented, or was supposed to have invented, a railroad system in France to draw in the large grape crops from the hills. They (Decauville) had to bring the grapes out to the main roads to process them into wine. Each of those wineries that succeeded had a way to bring their crop to a central processing plant near a main road so they could market the wine to the cities or ports for export.

Decauville became famous for inventing a rail system to haul in the grapes in the valleys below the hills where the grapes grew.

Enough said, but one must try to imagine how this system would be profitable in Ireland. In Western and Central Ireland were situated the largest Peat Bogs in Europe. They had been scratching the edge of them for centuries, especially after the English had cleaned out all the good oak and other wood used to build the biggest marine fleet in the world, including their defence fleet of thousands of warships.

The Irish, some of them inventive, but one should add that some enterprising Englishman, absentee landlord, and businessman encouraged them to adopt the French railroad system to their peat bogs.

John Egan, while visiting Ireland in 1840, learned about the bog railroads and went to investigate in western Ireland near Castlebar. My grandfather's brother John worked at Westport 15 miles from Castlebar, Ireland. He was a shipwright and blacksmith and, when not busy with boats, spent time making steel top dressing and fish plates for the mule railroads in the peat bogs. The cars full of peat were either pushed by cheap labour or pulled by donkeys or mules.

John Egan invited John Mulligan to come with him to Aylmer. He and his new wife Mary Devine came and their first child was born in Aylmer in 1841.

In the summer of 1846 the "Lady Colburn" burned and John Egan and partners were quick to build the steel replacement, the "Emerald". At that time there was competition from other companies using shallow port, Fitzroy Harbour.

It was up to them to beat their competion and that was when they decided on the horse railway from Pontiac Bay to Union Village.

This history comes from reading, research, conversations with old timers and folklore bubbled up from my grandfather who had three brothers captains on the Ottawa. He became a captain before he settled on the Steele Line in 1886.

In case some readers never heard of Pontiac Village or Union Village, I should locate these ghost towns for you.

Pontiac Village was located at the northwest end of Lake Deschenes just west of Chats Falls. At one time it had a population of over 300; most of the boats that plyed Lake Deschenes stopped there as their northwest destination.

Union Village was at the south-western extremity of Chats Lake. I've read that at one time there were at least eleven buildings on the site. There was a warehouse, a wharf house, tollkeeper's cabin and his house beside it, two teamsters houses and their barns. One of the teamster's wife had a small store in the front room of her house and she sorted mail that came up by boat in the summer, a caretaker's house and a couple more squatters shacks. Union Village was 2½ miles from Pontiac Village as the crow flies.

I think anyone who has studied the history of Pontiac knows that John Egan who, in 1847, was one of the most progressive lumber barons, was the Member of Parliament for Pontiac.

There was no secret ballot in those days and everyone had to go to Aylmer to vote. One can imagine the lobbying that went on and then imagine all the people who could neither read nor write. They were completely oblivious to what was going on outside their farm, church parish and, above all, their township.

There were agitators for good or bad at that time, like today, so with their system we can agree or imagine to agree that John Egan was a Tommy Lefebvre or a Bob Middlemiss — in a way. Oh yeah! He could have been a Barry Moore too, in those days.

Mayors of Pontiac

Bristol Mayor Jack Graham

by Michelle Tessier

A few weeks ago a 44-year-old insurance agent was elected the new mayor of Bristol. Jack Graham's job as mayor is yet another role in his active lifestyle.

Graham was raised in the community of Bristol. He refers to his home as Wyman, Quebec, although Wyman officially no longer exists. Though his official address is RR 4, Quyon, Graham still has Wyman, Quebec, painted on his truck. "I'm very proud of that," he says.

He attended Onslow Intermediate School and then, in 1958, he became a junior clerk at the Toronto Dominion Bank in Ottawa. In 1960 he was transferred to Aylmer where he worked as a teller. In 1962 he was again transferred and worked in Montreal for the next 15 years. He held various positions with the bank including bank manager with two separate branches.

During this time, Graham also took Commerce courses at night school at McGill University. "I got a lot out of it because...now I was combining the practical experience with book knowledge. It was a tremendous asset.... I wasn't there to get the certificate; I was there to get the knowledge."

In 1977, after talking with his family, Graham decided to "get out of the rat race of the big city, not that I didn't enjoy Montreal and the people of Montreal, but I had some difficulty with the internal politics of a large corporation." He came back to the Pontiac and purchased the homestead farm where his father was raised as well as a service station in Quyon.

Bristol Mayor Jack Graham.

However, Graham "didn't feel comfortable with the situation" and this, coupled with the Quebec government's increase of the price of gasoline in Quebec in 1982, prompted his decision to get out of the service station business. At the same time, Mutual Life approached him to become an agent in the Pontiac.

Graham has been heavily involved in the community. When his son played hockey with Shawville District Minor Hockey, Graham became involved as second vice-president. He was also chairman of the Pontiac National Tournament for 3 years. In the meantime, he became president of Shawville District Minor Hockey, became involved with the Quyon Lions Club, was director of the Pontiac Businessmen's Association, was on the Board of Directors of Lead Corporation, and is a treasurer with the Pontiac Agricultural Society region A. "I wish I had about eight more hours in a day!" laughs Graham.

As a hobby, he raises and breeds purebred Hackney ponies. "I've been very successful with one pony in particular, a stallion, who has won the Roadster Pony Class at the Ottawa Winter Fair for three consecutive years." He presently has nine purebred registered hackney ponies.

Graham became involved in local politics when he first ran for councillor in the community of Bristol in 1982. He was subsequently defeated. However, he ran again in 1984 and this time was successful. Graham's knowledgeable background in administration and finance prompted him to run for mayor. He won the race by a majority of 75 votes.

As mayor of Bristol, the major issue which Graham faces is the proposed dump site. "I personally am against it," he says. "Based on the information that we have now, which is limited, we have no choice but to be against any so-called dump in Bristol.

"If the owners of the proposed dump site can prove to the residents of Bristol that it's to their good, well, that's a different story.... We're reasonable people up here but we're not naive enough to sit back and accept things lying down," emphasizes Graham. "We're pretty good fighters."

Graham is also involved in converting St Edward's School into a community centre for Bristol. "It's the first time Bristol has had a home," says Graham. "We now can have our own dances, our own parties, our own meetings against the dump," he laughs.

Graham is married to Charlene Mulligan and they have a 16-year-old son named Stuart who plays Triple A hockey for the Outaouais Frontalier in the Quebec League. His wife, a French specialist, is a teacher at Dr S E McDowell School in Shawville. "She has been a strong influence in my life", says Graham.

"I believe in people," continues Graham. "We're not dealing with radios or televisions or houses, we're living with people."

In 1984 a survey of all the residences in the Municipality of Bristol was carried out by the Wyman Women's Institute, the Bristol Women's Institute and a group of firemen's wives from North Bristol. The purpose of the survey was to determine which houses are occupied, and by how many, the location of bedrooms, where dangerous or combustible materials are stored, and the closest source of water. Much of the information collected has been transferred to card files by two summer students, and copies are kept at each of the two fire stations in Bristol.

WILFRED CAMPBELL: Selected Poems

To experience the cycle of the seasons in a country as vast as Canada is extremely interesting because each season has such unique and marked differences. However, it takes the poets to draw our attention to the beauties, and all the details of the minute and subtle changes that take place. One of Canada's five Confederation poets, so-called because they were all born during the 1860's, was Wilfred Campbell (1861-1919). After being a clergyman in the Episcopal Church for six years he resigned from the Ministry to devote himself to literature, and to work as a civil servant in the Dominion Archives in Ottawa where he remained until his death in 1919. Amongst his large and varied body of work are two poems about Autumn that portray his capacity to paint nature and to create effects of weirdness.

Everyone is familiar with Wilfred Campbell's simple spontaneous descriptive lyric "Indian Summer."

Indian Summer

Along the line of smoky hills
The crimson forest stands,
And all the day the blue-jay calls
Throughout the autumn lands.

Now by the brook the maple leans
With all his glory spread,
And all the sumachs on the hills
Have turned their green to red.

Now by great marshes wrapt in mist
Or past some river's mouth,
Throughout the long, still autumn day
Wild birds are flying south.

However, Canadians are not as familiar with his poem, "How One Winter Came in the Lake Region." As winter approaches, leaving autumn behind, where could one find words that express this transition more beautifully. It takes many many readings of this poem to appreciate all its details.

How One Winter Came In the Lake Region

For weeks and weeks the autumn world stood still,
Clothed in the shadow of a smoky haze;
The fields were dead, the wind had lost its will
And all the lands were hushed by wood and hill,
In those gray, withered days.

Behind a mist the clear sun rose and set,
At night the moon would nestle in a cloud;
The fisherman, a ghost, would cast his net;
The lake its shores forgot to chafe and fret,
And hushed its caverns loud.

Far in the smoky woods the birds were mute,
Save that from blackened tree a jay would scream,
Or far in swamps the lizard's lonesome lute
Would pipe in thirst, or by some gnarled root
The tree-toad trilled his dream.

From day to day still hushed the season's mood,
The streams stayed in their runnels shrunk and dry;
Suns rose aghast by wave and shore and wood,
And all the world, with ominous silence, stood
In weird expectancy:

When one strange night the sun like blood went down,
Flooding the heavens in a ruddy hue;
Red grew the lake, the sere fields parched and brown,
Red grew the marshes where the creeks stole down,
But never a wind-breath blew.

That night I felt the winter in my veins,
A joyous tremor in the icy glow;
And woke to hear the north's wild vibrant strains,
While far and wide, by withered woods and plains,
Fast fell the driving snow.

(Wilfred Campbell: Selected Poems is in the Shawville Clarendon Municipal Library. The poetry of Wilfred Campbell has long been neglected, and this REPRINT of some of his poems is intended for today's reader. The first section, "Lake Lyrics," includes the two poems printed above. The second section, "The Mind of Man," includes "Bereavement of the Fields," in memory of Archibald Lampman, and "Stella Flammarum," an Ode to Halley's Comet. This Autumn, Halley's Comet is circling the heavens.)

Road improvement of major importance to Liberals

Robert Middlemiss, MNA for Pontiac, recently outlined the Liberal Party's platform for Pontiac County. The occasion was a press conference in Fort Coulonge on November 15th.

According to Mr Middlemiss, improving the road network in the County will receive a high priority from the Liberal government. Highways 148 between Luskville and Aylmer, 303 between Ladysmith and Schwartz, and 301 between Otter Lake and Campbell's Bay were identified as needing immediate attention. He stated that he would like to proceed with the 1972 accord with the federal government to complete highway 148 from Luskville to Aylmer, although not necessarily building a four lane road.

"That was before the energy crisis" Mr Middlemiss explained when talking about the original plan for four lanes, "at that time there were twelve thousand vehicles on the road and a projected population increase, which did not occur." He said that it might be sufficient to simply widen the road, and improve the shoulders, ditching and pavement in order to provide easier access to the region for tourists and industrial workers.

Mr Middlemiss said that the Liberal Party would undertake a "cost-benefit analysis of the long awaited bridge project between Calumet Island and Fort-Coulonge." He reminded the audience that this bridge had been promised by the present provincial government in 1980.

Regarding employment, Mr Middlemiss says young people are having difficulty in entering the construction industry because of the number of hours required to qualify for an OCQ (Office de la Construction du Quebec) card. As there is not much construction going on in the area, it is very difficult for them to accumulate 1000 hours of work. Consequently, he believes that reducing the number of hours required to qualify for a card would increase the employment opportunities available in construction to local youth.

The Liberals also want to develop an on-the-job training program to give young people experience in the work place.

One of the Liberal party's priorities, says Mr Middlemiss, is the "completion of the renovation and expansion of Pontiac's Hospital." Mr Middlemiss feels that he is responsible for bringing the case of Pontiac Community Hospital to the attention of Minister of Health and Social Affairs and for getting the $1.6 million for renovations and upgrading.

Other important social issues involve senior citizens. The Liberals want to establish day care services in the County's Reception Centres, build low rent housing and homes, and "encourage projects which provide opportunities for senior citizens to enjoy life in their own communities."

As far as tourism is concerned, Mr Middlemiss believes that "the Rocher Fendu project will someday become a reality" and that the bridge linking Calumet Island, Fort Coulonge and Mansfield-Pontefract "will be a necessity."

The Liberals intend to foster the development of the forest industry through sylviculture and reforestation and to keep as many of the economic spin-offs as possible here in the Pontiac.

They would "encourage the creation of industrial agencies which could ensure the effective economic development of our region and will make (industries) feel at home in the region."

In the agricultural sector, the Liberals intend "to encourage the purchase of local beef by retailers and consumers." He also remarked that when the present government embarked on its policy of self-sufficiency in food production. "The beef produced here is as good as the beef produced in the West," said Mr Middlemiss.

The Liberals would maintain the crop and beef stabilization insurance programs now in place. They would also allow producers to sell their beef in Ontario and yet remain eligible for the subsidy when bottlenecks in the system (e.g. a strike at the slaughterhouse) prevent cattle from being slaughtered when they should be. Mr Middlemiss would also support "all or any projects concerning the construction of a slaughterhouse to meet local needs.

With respect to the environment, the Liberals would "Ensure a cleaner environment by making sure that new industries respect their surroundings and by encouraging the establishment of non-polluting industries.

When asked about the proposed dum site at Bristol Mines, Mr Middlemiss stated unequivocally that if the people of Bristol do not want it, his government will not force it on them. He added that his track record of supporting the Council and Mayor of Pontiac Municipality in their efforts to get out of the CRO (Communauté Regional de l'Outaouais) has shown a willingness to go with the wishes of the people. "I will not force it," he said.

If, on the other hand, the site can be proven 100% safe, so that there is no danger to the environment from the point of view of "air pollution, sight pollution, traffic, etc.", the local people might decide to go with it, to increase the tax base and employment. In that case Mr Middlemiss would support them as well.

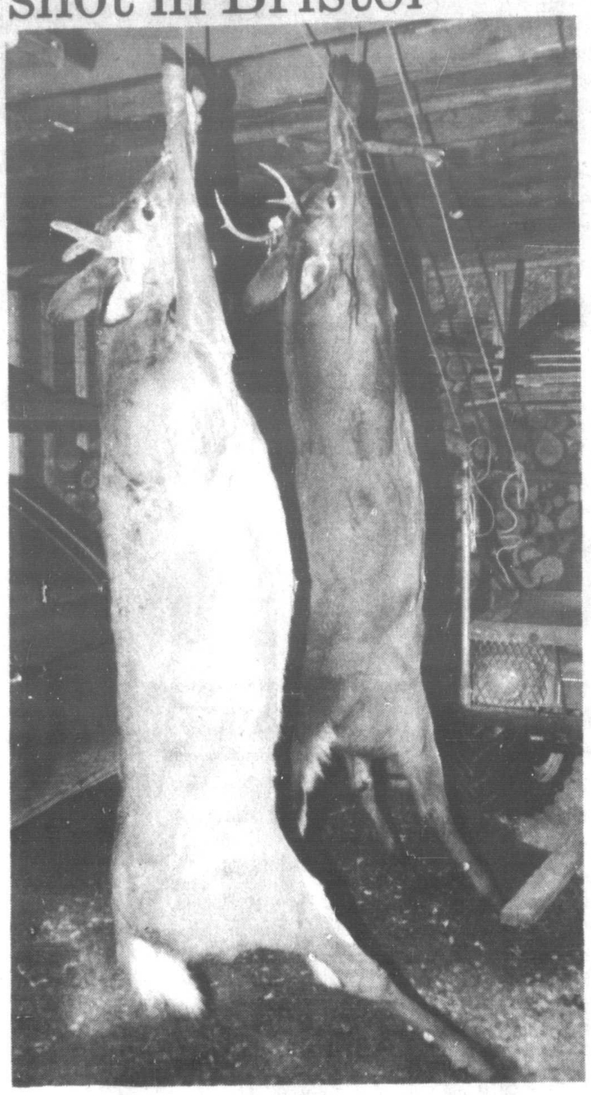
Antlered doe shot in Bristol



The deer in the foreground, shot by Doug MacHardy of Bristol Municipality near Ade's Bush, turned out to be a doe with antlers. The deer was registered with the MLCP, where it was considered an honest mistake and a biologist explained that although rare, antlered does do occur. Doug, a hunter of many years experience, says that this is the second time that he has seen a doe with antlers, the first being about twenty years ago in Ontario.

Stamp marks Royal Canadian Navy's 75th anniversary

Canada's senior military service, its history and traditions, will be recalled on a stamp being issued Nov. 8 to mark the Royal Canadian Navy's 75th anniversary.

Judge René J. Marin, Chairman of the Board of Canada Post Corporation, noted the stamp, to be unveiled at a special ceremony in Halifax, "pays tribute to the gallant men and women who have served at sea and ashore in times of peace and war."

The Royal Canadian Navy was formed in 1910 when the government brought in the Naval Service Act. On Oct. 21 of the same year, the RCN's first warship, the old British cruiser Niobe, entered Halifax Harbor.

The stamp design features naval personnel from three time periods: a gunner's mate from HMCS Niobe, a Second World War officer in duffle coat and an enlisted person in the new summer-white dress uniform.

The Canadian Bank Note Co. Ltd, of Ottawa, will print 18 million 34-cent stamps in five-color lithography. The stamp was designed by Toronto illustrator William Southern and graphic designer Ralph Tibbles.

Signals - your pass to safety

(Part 2)

I heard of another lost hunter since we ran last week's column. Here's part two — a few sight signals that will shorten your stay in the wilderness should you be unfortunate enough to become lost.

The traditional method of marking a trail is by blazes should you decide to leave your stranded means of transport and strike out for safety and help. A blazed trail is easy for someone to follow while searching for you.

Blazes can tell a story but you must know the proper blazes to use. A single blaze, centered on the trunk of a tree in your travel direction, marks your trail. In the traditional system, this single blaze also means that you are going away from your camp.

That blaze won't do any good coming back. So, you must blaze the other side of the tree as well, making certain that you can see any blaze for some distance ahead or behind you. On the far side of the tree you place two blazes, one directly above the other. This marks your trail back to camp. When you make a turn, make your regular "going away" blaze, then below and to the side of the trunk in the direction of your turn (left or right) make another blaze. When you do this, make a "going away" blaze in the new direction on a nearby tree, so that no one can miss exactly where you are headed.

In some cases there may be a shortage of trees to blaze. Then brush, broken or cut in sections and in plainly visible places, can point the way. Butt ends point the direction. If you make a right or left turn, lay one that way then break another nearby to emphasize the direction. Rocks can be used too. Small easily-visible piles mark the trail. A pile with a single rock on the right side means you turned that way and vice-versa.

Signal fires are also a means of alerting searchers or anyone in your vicinity. Many searchers, and other, may not know two signal fires sending up smoke quite close together were the original signal that someone was lost. Today a series of three — sounds, light flashes, fires — is more generally recognized as a plea. Perhaps you won't be able to handle that many fires. In a total wilderness, smoke even from one fire will certainly draw attention from anyone who is watching. But by all means be careful! If you start a forest fire, you may destroy thousands of acres of forest and possibly yourself.

There are few places left today that someone won't sight smoke, fire or other signals of a person in distress. But if you fail to make such signals, your stay with the hooting owls and crying wolves may be longer than expected. And then your time in the "great blue yonder" could become uncomfortable, mighty uncomfortable!

It's A Fact

The most amazing fishing lure ever devised — that's right — the "JIG". They are called the "do everything" lures.

Today's Tip

Marsh skis — no, they'll never work for downhill skiing next month! They are used for skiing across the mud, muck and weeds of marshes while duck hunting. What next?

Proper hockey shield important for protection

Attention hockey players. If you're still not wearing a facial protector, think about it.

La Régie de la sécurité dans les sports du Québec (Ministry of Safety in Sports) states that there are still eye injuries occurring in both organized and non-organized hockey games where facial protectors are not obligatory. These injuries are caused by hockey sticks in 50% of the cases and pucks or balls in 44% of the cases.

The majority of injured are men in their twenties playing in leagues where facial guards are not obligatory and young boys or adolescents playing for fun either on exterior ice rinks or on roads.

According to the Ministry, visors which protect only the upper section of the face are not sufficient in preventing injuries from sticks or pucks.

Facial protectors which cover the entire face not only protect the entire facial area, but also do not significantly diminish peripheral vision and the capacity to see and avoid the puck. There is also no significant heat increase caused by wearing the helmet and facial shield.

Nature's Note

During the fall shuffle of grouse for territories comes the "crazy flight" period of a grouse in the wild. They have been known to fly into buildings and crash through windows. The cause — well that's a good question. Just another of nature's mysteries!

These facial protectors offer adequate protection for the face.

Quarterhorse breeders futurity awards

A new executive was elected — chairman, Wayne Byrne; vice-chairman, Keith Overton; secretary, Dan Donahue; and treasurer, Arlene McLaughlin. Committee members are Ray McLaughlin, Gord White, Doug McDougall and Bernie More.

The futurity has grown each year since its beginning in 1981 with six horses registered. Now including the four counties of Pontiac, Renfrew, Lanark and Carleton, it is the largest in the Ottawa area. The event is held on Labour Day weekend, and on several occasions, winners have gone on and done very well in larger futurities such as Quarterama and the Empire State futurity in the United States.

Regulations wanted for all-terrain vehicles

The use of all-terrain three or four-wheeled vehicles may soon be regulated.

The Fédération Québécois des Club Motocyclistes Associés (Quebec Federation of Associated Motorcyclist Clubs) states that no legislation governing the use of these vehicles exists. It says there currently are very few designated areas in which to practice the sport. Because of the lack of regulations, anyone can drive the vehicles anywhere except on roads. Snowmobile regulation 72 forbids the use of these vehicles on snowmobile routes.

The Federation (FQCMA) claims the lack of regulation and structure in the sport leads to dissatisfaction, frustration, complaints, accidents, and even deaths. A survey conducted by the Departement de Santé Communautaire de l'Hôtel Dieu de St-Jérome (Community Health Department of l'Hôtel Dieu de St-Jérome) covering the period from May 1, 1985 to September 30, 1985 reports approximately 692 accidents were caused by all-terrain three or four-wheeled vehicles.

To permit development of the sport while assuring security for both people and environment, the FQCMA wants to make the government aware of the situation. It says it hopes to get the same kind of support for legislation and development that it received a few years ago with the snowmobile. With winter quickly approaching, the FQCMA points out the situation should be a priority.

Shawville and District R.A.

The October meeting of the Shawville and District Recreation Association was held on October 21st, with the following members present: Pat Ryan, Carson Ryan, Bill Murray, Brenda Murphy, Jim Hodgins, Peggy Cruickshank, Albert Armstrong, Ron Richardson, and Carolyn Meisner.

The September minutes were read and approved.

The freezer at the ball field was sold, as it was too small. Albert is to get prices on kitchen equipment for the ball booth. A playground for the ball field was discussed.

It was moved by Albert and seconded by Bill that the R.A. pay damages to the Lions Club for furniture broken at youth dances. Due to the lack of parental supervision at such dances, the R.A. have agreed to help the youth group in obtaining chaperones. Each member will be in charge for a month.

It was moved by Ron and seconded by Carolyn that another $100-a-month draw be held and drawn at New Year's.

Ron reported that the Boy Scouts of Canada Association is willing to buy the Shawville Scout property at Otter Lake.

The next meeting will be a dinner meeting, to be held at Kountry Kookin' on November 18th at 7 pm. The Annual general Meeting will be held on December 16th, 1985.

Wildlife toxicology projects underway

Environment Minister Tom McMillan and Monte Hummel, President of World Wildlife Fund Canada announced on October 28th the launching of the first two projects under the new Wildlife Toxicology Fund.

The toxicity of petroleum oils on seabirds will be the focus of a three-year research project being undertaken by Dr Frederick Leighton of the University of Saskatchewan.

In the second project, the link between acid rain and the health of wildlife will be explored by Dr Harold Harvey of the University of Toronto.

The Wildlife Toxicology Fund, established in June of this year, will direct $3 million over the next three years to high-calibre research projects in the area of wildlife toxicology. It is financed by Environment Canada and administered by World Wildlife Fund Canada. Grants are approved by the Wildlife Toxicology Fund's Research Advisory Board with successful applicants required to obtain one-half of their project budgets from other sources.

"These are excellent inaugural projects", said Mr McMillan. "I am pleased that the Research Advisory Board of the Wildlife Toxicology Fund has acted quickly to approve research in areas of concern to us all."

"The projects address important practical research priorities in the area of wildlife toxicology and are being carried out by extremely competent researchers," said Mr Hummel. "These will set the benchmark for the kind of pioneering research studies we intend to fund."

For Dr Leighton's project, the Wildlife Toxicology Fund has awarded $110,500 and matching funds will be forthcoming from the federal Department of Energy, Mines and Resources, the Medical Research Council and the University of Saskatchewan. Petroleum oils constitute environmental pollutants of major significance to Canada's Wildlife. By establishing a reliable system for ranking oils in terms of their potential toxicity, Dr Leighton will facilitate environment planning related to Canada's offshore oil developments.

Dr Harvey's project will focus on toxic metals mobilized by acid rain and the potential for their transfer from the aquatic environment through the food chain to animals, especially birds. A two-year grant of $52,450 has been approved for the project. Matching funds have been secured from the Ontario Ministries of Environment and Natural Resources.

The meeting closed with prayer followed by a social hour.

Mr and Mrs Merle Vossler of East Aurora, N.Y., spent the weekend here. They visited Clifford Robinson on Saturday in Eganville.

Mr and Mrs George Campbell, and Mrs Laurette Romain attended the Remembrance Day banquet in Pembroke on Monday, November 11.

Laurier Lamarche carried the Flag and others carried wreaths which were placed on a velvet covered dais at the front of the Altar. His Worship the Mayor, Gerald Dempsey read "Flanders Field" and asked for a moment's silence. The choir rendered appropriate singing for the occasion.

George Campbell and Laurier Lamarche took up the collection. Alonzo Libbey and C.M. Chaput took the offerings to the Altar. Mrs Lise Gauthier read the epistle and petitions. Larry Perry and his young son assisted the Celebrant.

A social hour followed the ceremony with refreshments served by C.W.L. members.

The Cornwall Ecumenical Choir with Judy Pentinga on oboe and Lynne Frances conducting.

Capacity crowd hears Cornwall Ecumenical Choir

A capacity crowd gathered at Shawville United Church Sunday evening to listen to the Cornwall Ecumenical Choir. The concert was part of the Church's 150th anniversary celebration.

To begin the event, Rev Gary Stokes invited the audience to join in with the choir in the singing of the hymn "Joyful, Joyful We Adore Thee". Rev Stokes explained that the choir has been together for nearly 13 or 14 years and was made up of "singers of all denominations who have a love of singing and wish to share that love".

The choir was conducted by Lynne Frances who is also the director and founder. Frances said the choir is "not an auditional group at all" and says there is a mixture of those who can and cannot read music. Rosemary Brown was the accompanist, alternating throughout the concert between the piano and the organ. Frances says she can "throw anything in front of her (Brown) and she doesn't bat an eye -- at least not when I'm looking!"

The choir began their concert with the "Prayer of St. Francis". It then went into "Somebody's Knocking At Your Door", "I Know The Lord", and "Little David". Talented oboist Judy Pentinga then accompanied the choir for "O Holy Spirit (Kyrieleis)". Tenor Wayne Moke performed an organ interlude consisting of "I Beheld Her" and "Lost Chord".

"Love Came Down at Christmas", "Break Forth, O Beauteous Heav'nly Light", "A Virgin Most Pure", and "Blessed Be That Maid Mary" were then performed by the choir. Judy Pentinga again accompanied the choir on "Noel, Noel". Frances explained that Pentinga has a degree in oboe playing and has performed in a professional orchestra.

Pentinga, with accompanist Rosemary Brown on the organ, performed an interlude consisting of "Three Old French Dances: L'agréable, La Provinçale, Le Basque". Finishing to loud applause, Frances remarked, "Now you know why I asked her (Pentinga) to do them!"

The choir finished its programme with "Whence Is That Goodly Fragrance", "Cradled in Hay", "Mary's Lullaby", the up-beat "Jesus Child", and Handel's "For Unto Us A Child Is Born". Rev Stokes asked for an encore but Frances joked, "Actually it wasn't an encore. It was one of those songs that if they were good enough they would sing it, if they weren't, they wouldn't!" The concert ended with "A Gaelic Blessing".

NDP to concentrate on women's problems

Michel Martin, candidate for the New Democratic Party of Québec in the riding of Pontiac, revealed today his principal concerns with respect to the special needs of women in Pontiac.

"During the remaining weeks of the campaign, I will be talking about the special problems of women in the riding and offering some possible solutions. I will talk about the need for transition houses for battered women, low-income housing for low-income people, too often women," Mr Martin promised the voters of Pontiac.

Recent tragic events in Aylmer demonstrate clearly the need for a transition house in Aylmer. Mr Martin supports the efforts of citizens of Aylmer to establish such a house.

"It is important that such a facility be more than just a safe home if we want women to re-begin their lives in a healthful and safe manner," Mr Martin said. According to NDP candidate, the house should include support services for the women such as a self-help group, a transportation service to retrieve the women, and it should involve itself in public education in the community.

"We also have to care for abused women in the rural parts of the riding and should therefore ensure access for them to the transition house in Aylmer, as well as establishing a facility in Shawville or Fort-Coulonge," Mr Martin continued.

Mr Martin noted that there is a shortage of low-income housing in Aylmer, a shortage that disproportionately affects poor women and their children. A large number of the people who suffer from the lack of affordable housing are single-parent families led by women.

"A single woman with children has a good chance of living below the poverty line, a fact which makes housing costs a considerable burden," Mr Martin declared. "We have to build low-income housing in Aylmer and I promise to work with the responsible governments and concerned citizens, including the future residents of low-income housing, to ensure its development as quickly as possible," promised Martin.

Mr Martin described the existence of waiting lists for the daycare facilities in Aylmer, as well as in the rural parts of the riding. "As a Member of the National Assembly, I will work with the citizens of the riding to increase the number of daycare spaces within existing facilities as well as establishing new daycare centers," Mr Martin promised.

Health care has an important impact on women since they and their children are most often the clients of the health care system. There is a need for a 24-hour emergency service in Aylmer and in the rural parts of Pontiac, and for a greater number of specialists in the Outaouais. Services must be assured in both languages at the Shawville and Hull hospitals. "Improving the health system in our region will enable us to reduce the flight of millions of dollars for health care that now goes to Ontario," Mr Martin stated, adding that this is not simply a financial question but a question of quality of services, and therefore, a social question.

"The NDP in Québec is a party in which women have real power. The party recognizes this in its structures where there is parity between the sexes on the executive of the party, as well as demonstrating this in its regional and national policies," Mr Martin concluded.

A message from the Public Curator (7)

Administration of assets by the Public Curator — organization of assets

During the Public Curator's administration of assets belonging to incapable persons under his protection, he may decide to carry out certain clearly advantageous transactions necessary to better their material welfare. The conditions under which financial transactions can take place are defined by specific laws.

For example, the sale of any real estate requires a recent expert appraisal before the property can be listed with the Multiple Listing Service and entrusted to a local real estate agent. Should the municipal evaluation exceed $10,000.00, judicial authorization is necessary for the Public Curator to sell.

For the sale of moveable effects exceeding a value of $6,000.00, the Public Curator must also obtain judicial authorization.

However, the Public Curator may effect transactions without such authorization when the value of the asset does not exceed $2,500.00. Above this sum, authorization is required.

This necessity to request judicial authorization (the consent a judge) and above all the Public Curator's obligation to administer the assets prudently and safely, constitute an effective guarantee to the incapable person.

To reinforce this guarantee, the legislature chose to hold the Public Curator personally responsible for the administration of the assets under his care.

The Public Curator encourages any requests for supplementary information to be addressed to "A MESSAGE FROM THE PUBLIC CURATOR", Le Curateur public du Québec, P.O. Box 51, Montreal (Quebec) H4Z 1J6.

FANCY THAT!

A tiny atom can make a world of difference in the lives of many people.

Just one atom makes PPA (phenylpropanolamine), the over-the-counter appetite suppressant, much safer than prescription products for the same purpose, used as directed. Yet PPA is not a stimulant and effectively suppresses appetite so the consumer can stick to a diet and lose weight.

Ingredients like PPA, found in appetite control diet aids, help you cut down your craving for excess food. Ask your pharmacist which appetite control product he would recommend. It'll make it easier for you to stick to your diet.

Bovine Brucellosis beaten

In a year when Canadian agriculture is facing many tough challenges, a quiet victory has been achieved. The war against bovine brucellosis has been won.

The beef and dairy industries, working with the federal and provincial departments of agriculture, have accomplished what many thought was impossible: the eradication of the disease from Canada's domestic cattle herd.

This claim can be made by only a few others, namely Switzerland and the Scandinavian countries.

Brucellosis is a contagious disease which causes abortions in cattle, reduces milk and calf yields, and decreases the value of infected animals. It can also cause a chronic disease in humans known as undulant fever.

Getting rid of brucellosis has required a thorough, reliable test program and the slaughter of all infected animals.

Although the cost has been high, more than $250 million, a recent study estimated a saving of $4.74 for every dollar spent.

The road to eradication in Canada has been a long one.

In 1914, research into the disease's symptoms was undertaken by the federal agriculture department. With the introduction of control and testing programs in the 1950s and '60s, the level of infection dropped from 10 per cent of Canadian cattle in 1950 to 0.2 per cent about 15 years later. During this period, about 191,000 infected cattle were slaughtered and $13 million paid in compensation to producers.

To uncover hidden pockets of infection, in the early 1970s Agriculture Canada de-emphasized calfhood vaccination. Because vaccination was no longer mandatory and the rate of infection was so low, some complacency developed within the industry. Predictably, the level of infection began to rise.

In 1977, industry, the federal and provincial governments, and the Canadian Veterinary Medical Association, determined to beat the disease, set up the Brucellosis Consultative Committee. Certification and testing were required to move cattle between provinces.

The stringent control measures paid off. From 1978 through 1984, eight provinces, the Yukon and the Northwest Territories were declared free of the disease. The final milestones were reached this year as Quebec and Ontario were declared brucellosis-free.

The eradication of brucellosis means that unrestricted movement of cattle throughout Canada is now possible. Production losses due to the disease have been eliminated and the entry of Canadian cattle into the international marketplace is enhanced. Producers, veterinarians and processing industry workers are free from the threat of undulant fever. In addition, a significant reduction in the expenditure of tax dollars should result.

Living with Arthritis

Immunosuppressive Drugs

Immunosupressive Drugs. These drugs are very powerful and fall into the "experimental" category. They are potentially hazardous.

The immune system, is the body's primary defence system. It helps to defend each of us from disease and infection by fighting off the invader cells that are the primary cause of the inflammation of arthritis. We also know, however, that these same cells can sometimes turn on the body's own healthy tissues and cause or aggravate disease activity.

Ill Disease Cells. When this happens, certain extremely strong drugs called "immunosuppressive" may be introduced by the doctor. The most common of these are Cyclophosphamide, Chlorambucil, Azathioprine and Amethopterin. They work by attacking and killing the rapidly dividing and multiplying disease cells.

The Danger. In a majority of cases this is good because the cells that do this are usually the ones causing the problem. The dangerous aspect of these drugs is that they don't always differentiate between the problem cells and others in the body, particularly the bone marrow cells which are quite naturally always rapidly dividing.

Bone Marrow Cells. Bone marrow cells are among the most important in your body. They are largely responsible for keeping you a living, functioning human being and are responsible for making the white blood cells that fight infection, the red blood cells which carry oxygen around your body and the platelets which stop bleeding.

Damage. Any of these blood cell types can be damaged by immunosuppressive drugs and, even if they don't reach the point where they no longer function, their effectiveness can be retarded to a critical level and dangerous infections may occur.

Side Effects. The side effects of these drugs can be dangerous and may include extensive hair loss (often reversible when the drug is stopped) and, in rare cases, cancer and leukemia. The latter two, however, only occur when the patient has been taking prolonged treatment.

Blood Tests. Blood tests are very important when any of the drugs in this category are being used. They are necessary in order to detect any early signs of blood cell damage or disruption and will usually be required every one or two weeks at first and no less often than monthly over the long term.

Very Cautious. Doctors are generally very cautious about prescribing these drugs and will normally only use them in the most serious of cases where all other therapies have not produced the desired results. They have been very successful upon occasion, but their potential for serious side effects makes them a drug of last resort nearly all the time.

OBITUARY

Theodor J Steinke

Theodor Johannes Steinke died on Monday, November 11, 1985, at the Pontiac Community Hospital, Shawville, Quebec, in his 80th year. He was born at Ladysmith on August 25, 1906, the youngest child of Fredrick Steinke and his wife Maria Rueckwald, one of the first families to settle in Thorne after emigrating from Germany. He took over his father's farm and in 1933 married Frieda Bretzlaff, daughter of Otto Bretzlaff and Ida Plager.

In 1947 he bought a gravel truck and worked on the construction of many of the roads that are travelled on in Pontiac County today.

The family moved to town following the death of his mother in 1954.

He worked on the construction of Consolidated Bathurst mill in Portage du Fort and after that with Norval and Lorne Wilson repairing farm machinery. His happiest years were those he spent working with the Wilsons and it was there that he got to know and enjoy the fellowship of the farmers in the Shawville area. He retired in 1971.

He lived all his life in Thorne except for a few years when his father moved the family to a farm in Bristol, Quebec. In 1974 he miraculously won a battle with cancer and had been in relatively good health ever since.

He was a lifelong member of St John's Lutheran Church and served as councillor for over 20 years in the Municipality of Thorne.

He will be sadly missed by his wife, Frieda, daughter Lorna and husband Robert Younge, grandchildren, Rick and wife Cheryl of Shawville, Wendy of Northern Alberta, Wanda of Kingston, Ontario, Roger of Montreal, great-grandchildren Rebecca and Benjamin and his sister Henrietta Chilcott of Oshawa, Ontario.

Also surviving are numerous nieces and nephews, grandnieces and grand-nephews, all of whom will remember Uncle Theo with fond memories.

He was predeceased by sisters, Martha, Louise, Mathilda, Hannah and brothers Arthur, Edward, Fredrick and Arnold.

Pallbearers were six nephews, Pat Brady, David Johns, Eddie Steinke, Ken Potter, Melvin Boese and Stan Headrick.

PQ candidate recommends new hospital

Pontiac Parti Quebecois candidate Normand Auclair sees the Pontiac Community Hospital as the major issue in the provincial election.

Auclair, a lawyer with Legal Aid in the Outaouais, says, "They need doctors, they need space, it's too small. They need a new hospital, that's the solution." He points out that $6 million is spent by the people of Quebec in Ontario for health services. For the moment, says Auclair, $1.6 million is needed for upgrading the present hospital.

Concerning stabilization insurance, Auclair says he believes there is no problem with the present program. However, he says the federal government want to change the rules and that angers the farmers.

The present program uses the cost of producing a beef in Quebec as a basis for the level of insurance. The federal government wants to use a national average of beef production. Auclair points out it costs less to produce beef in the West, therefore, by using the national average, Quebec farmers would lose value for their product.

The road system is another problem, admits Auclair. He says that in Aylmer, there is still the need to link Pink with St Raymond and McConnell with Laramee.

Concerning the separation issue, Auclair says, "Five years ago the people said 'no'. We are a democratic party and we respect the decision... If people don't want it, there's no question of independence."

Auclair would not elaborate on his ideas for Bill 101, the controversial sign law, but did admit that letters received from the provincial government should be bilingual instead of only in French.

Auclair says he hopes to bring provincial ministers Jean Garon and Guy Chevrette to the area to examine the problems of the County themselves.

BUDGET SPEECH
FOR THE MUNICIPALITY OF PONTIAC
PRESENTED BY
HIS WORSHIP THE MAYOR, MARCEL LAVIGNE
Dear Ratepayers,
Our auditor deposited her report for 1984 on April 23, 1985. This report is witness to revenues of $961,248.00 and expenses of $885,154.00 leaving a surplus of $76,094.00 These figures easily compare with those of 1983 and those foreseen for 1985.
In 1986 we plan to build a vault in the town hall as well as a 40 feet by 100 feet shed in Quyon for the volunteer firemen's equipment and to store municipal equipment.
Council also intends to acquire a grader and a brush cutter.
The above-mentionned items will entail an expenditure of approximately $160,000.00 to the Municipality in 1986.
The anticipated surplus in the 1985 budget will serve to defray immobilization costs foreseen for 1986.
Council proposes to reduce the operating costs for our municipal dump.
If there is an increase in the general tax it will be kept to a minimum.
Council will adopt its 1986 budget at a special public meeting at 8 p.m. on December 18, 1985 in the community centre in Luskville.
The Mayor,
Marcel Lavigne
